Louis Hayward is a wealthy unpublished author who lives with his wife (Jane Wyatt) in an old mansion by a river. He accidentally kills the maid (Dorothy Patrick) while making unwanted sexual advances, throws the body into the river, and implicates his crippled brother, an accountant (Lee Bowman), in the maid's disappearance. The corpse resurfaces, and he imagines that his victim is in the house strangling him. One very contemporary touch has the killer capitalizing on the tragedy by writing a bestseller about it! This low-budget Republic release was based on a 1921 novel and is one of Lang's forgotten gems. The music is by George Antheil. Lang next made a Technicolor war movie, American Guerrilla in the Philippines (1950), the classic Technicolor western Rancho Notorious (1952), and the disturbing drama Clash by Night (1952).

HOUSEGEIST: See BOARDING HOUSE

THE HOUSE IN MARSH ROAD

(Sinister, 1960) D: Montgomery Tully S/P: Maurice J. Wilson UK (The Invisible Creature)

A poltergeist in an old house interferes when a man (Tony Wright) decides to murder his wife (Patricia Dainton).

HOUSE IN NIGHTMARE PARK = NIGHT OF THE LAUGHING DEAD

A HOUSE IN THE HILLS

(Live, 1993) D/S/P/A: Ken Wiederhorn
S: Miguel Tejada-Flores P: Patricia Foulkrod

A would-be actress (Helen Slater) practices role-playing while house-sitting in Hollywood. A man pretending to be an exterminator (Michael Madsen) shows up for revenge and ties her up. Nobody is who they claim to be in this interesting film. It could have been a five-character play but is filled with clever plot twists, good acting, and some comic moments. With Jeffrey Tambor, Elyssa Davalos, and James Laurenson. Incredibly, most of this was shot in Luxemburg! It's by the director of Shock Waves and Eyes of a Stranger.

THE HOUSEKEEPER

(Warner, 1987) D: Ousama Rawi
S: Elaine Waisglass P: Harve Sherman
UK/Canada (A Judgement in Stone)

Rita Tushingham (from Liverpool) is an illiterate British psycho housekeeper working for a New England family. Her friendship with a religious fanatic (Jackie Burroughs) leads her to use a shotgun on them. It's based on A Judgement in Stone, a novel by Ruth Rendell.

HOUSE NEAR THE PRADO

(1969) D/S/P: J. Van Hearn

Charles Napier and Marsha Jordan star in a tale of sex and assassination in South America. He's an American businessman who spends time in a whorehouse. It's adults-only.

HOUSE OF DARKNESS

(Sinister, 1947) D: Oswald Mitchell
S: John Gilling P: Harry Reynolds UK

A ghost seeks vengeance on the stepbrother who killed him. With Laurence Harvey (in his first movie) and Leslie Osmond.

HOUSE OF DEATH

(Virgin Vision, 1981) D: David Nelson S: Paul C. Elliot P: Chuck Ison (Death Screams)

A psycho with a machete kills coeds at a party. Susan Lynn Kiger (from the pages of Playboy) stars. David Nelson (Ricky's brother) made and appeared in a 1984 Christian anti-porno TV special featuring President Reagan.

HOUSE OF DREAMS

(LS Video, 1964) D/S/P/A: Robert Berry

Berry is a writer who suffers from headaches and has nightmares. This 16mm b/w obscurity was made in Indiana and features some Carnival of Souls–type scenes. With Pauline Elliott as the alcoholic wife, Charlene Bradley, Lance Bird, and David Goodnow (later a CNN anchor).

HOUSE OF EVIL = THE EVIL

THE HOUSE OF HORROR

(1929) D: Benjamin Christensen
S: Richard Bee P: Richard A. Rowland

A bachelor (former silent comic Chester Conklin) and his sister from Ohio (Louise Frazenda) go to see an uncle. Various characters are after diamonds, in this haunted-house comedy. The cast includes Thelma Todd and William V. Mong. Cornell Woolrich wrote the intertitles for this 65-minute First National silent film with sound effects and music. Much of the same cast had appeared in Christensen's The Haunted House (1928). Both movies are lost. House of Horrors is a 1946 movie with deformed actor Rondo Hatton.

HOUSE OF MYSTERY

(1934) D: William Nigh S: Albert De Mond P: Paul Malvern

A group of people are summoned to an old English country house owned by a man who was cursed in India. A gorilla starts killing them off. Ed Lowry stars in this Monogram movie, which is just over an hour. With Verna Hillie, George "Gabby" Hayes, Irving Bacon, and Brandon Hurst as a Hindu priest. It's by the director of The Ape (1940) and Black Dragons (1942). The same title was used for two British films (1941, 1961).

HOUSE OF 1000 DOLLS

(Orion, 1967) D: Jeremy Summers
S/P: Harry Alan Towers W. Germany/Spain
(Das Haus der Tausend Freuden)

I never expected this forgotten Vincent Price movie to have a major release, but here it is, from Orion. He does a telepathic stage act with Martha Hyer in Tangiers. The confused plot is about an international slave ring. Price makes the wife of a criminal pathologist (George Nader) vanish onstage, and she really disappears. An evil woman runs a whorehouse with a torture chamber. There are women in coffins, women wrestling in mud, women in underwear being flogged, and a surprise (!) ending. The cast includes Maria Rohm and Herbert Fux. It was filmed in Spain and played on an AIP double bill with Mary Jane (!). Summers directed The Face of Evil and The Vengeance of Fu Manchu for Towers too.

HOUSE OF SHADOWS

(Media, 1976) D: Richard Wulicher S/P: Ricky T. Tudela Argentina (La Casa de los Sombras)

Yvonne De Carlo stars as a rich woman whose hired companion has nightmares about murders committed years before. The cast includes John Gavin (soon to become US ambassador to Mexico) and Leonor Manso.

HOUSE OF TERROR (1972): See KIDNAPPED CO-ED

HOUSE OF TERROR

(TWE, 1972) D: Sergei Goncharoff S: Tony Crecharles P: George J. Gade (The Five at the Funeral)

A nurse (Jennifer Bishop) is hired to care for a rich, neurotic woman. Blackmail and murder result. Bishop was also in Jaws of Death and Impulse. The director was an editor for Al Adamson. John Bud Cardos was the second-unit director. With Arell Blanton and Mitchell Gregg. It's PG.

HOUSE OF THE BLACK DEATH

(Loonic, 1965) D: Harold Daniels, Reginald Le Borg, Jerry Warren S: Richard Mahoney
P: William White, Richard Shotwell

John Carradine is André de Sade ("The word insanity does not apply to the de Sades!") in this talky b/w witch movie. His brother, Belial de Sade (a confused-looking Lon Chaney Jr.), has cloven feet and horns hidden by a hood. Belial leads a local group of witches who want André's power. Dolores Faith (The Human Duplicators) is their sister. A younger brother is a werewolf. In his one and only brief monster scene he wears a gorilla mask! Scenes with Katherine Victor as the witch Lila were added by Jerry Warren. Doctors, played by Andrea King (The Beast with Five Fingers) and Tom Drake (The Cyclops), spend the night. Two women fight over who killed a dog. Carradine and Chaney have no scenes together, but John eventually turns Lon into a skull. The most striking thing about this mess is that the story stops five times while women in revealing costumes do slow, sexy dances in a graveyard set complete with headstones and an altar!—in front of the Chaney Devil! Did Ed Wood see this before he wrote Orgy of the Dead?! The video copy has bad sound and is way too dark. This may also have been known as Blood of the Man Devil, Night of the Beast, and Blood of the Man Beast.

HOUSE OF THE DAMNED

(1963) D/P: Maury Dexter S: Harry Spaulding

This odd little haunted-house movie takes a while to get interesting, but there is a bizarre payoff. An architect (Ronald Foster) and his wife (Merry Anders) go to an empty California castle and are joined by a lawyer (Richard Crane) and his unhappy wife (Erica Peters). They all get spooked after a (real) half-man steals the keys and a headless woman is seen. Eventually a group of (real) carnival freaks (including a fat lady and giant Richard Kiel) are discovered living in the basement. This b/w 20th Century–Fox movie is by the maker of The Day Mars Invaded Earth.

HOUSE OF THE LONG SHADOWS

(MGM, 1982) D: Peter Walker S: Mitchell Armstrong P: Menahem Golan UK

Every review seemed to condemn this all-star horror/mystery for being clichéd and old-fashioned. It's based on the novel Seven Keys to Bald- pate, by Charlie Chan–creator Earl Derr Biggers, and the Broadway play by George M. Cohan, filmed under the original title in 1917 and 1925 and three times by RKO (in 1930, 1935, and 1947). I never saw any of these movies and had never even heard of them, but I was pleasantly surprised to finally see the only movie that will ever be made with Christopher Lee, Peter Cushing, Vincent Price, and John Carradine. A successful writer (Desi Arnaz Jr.) bets his agent (Richard Todd) that he can write a gothic horror novel in 24 hours in an old Welsh house, Baldpate Manor. The caretakers are Carradine ("What are you doing he-ah!?") and his daughter (!) (Sheila Keith), a regular in Peter Walker's movies, who sings. Cushing arrives "seeking shelter." He sounds very strange because of a speech impediment. Price has the best dramatic entrance: "I have returned!" Lee shows up to purchase the house, empty since 1939. People are killed as the always-changing plot about the murderous, missing brother Roderick (who ate rats) unfolds. Cushing says, "We were going to fwee him!" Nothing is what it seems. On the negative side, the movie has too many false scares and Desi Jr. All the horror stars are great and in top form, the music is good, some parts are funny, and Lee and Price have a memorable axe fight.

THE HOUSE OF USHER

(RCA, 1988) D: Alan Birkinshaw S: Michael J. Murray P: Harry Alan Towers S. Africa

This version has more going on than Roger Corman's 1960 movie, but that doesn't make it any good. Oliver Reed whispers and gets nauseated a lot as the modern-day Roderick Usher, living in his castle in England. Donald Pleasence plays his crazy, scene-stealing, decrepit, hunchbacked sculptor brother. Usher wants American Romy Windsor (The Howling IV), to help him carry on the Usher line, so he drugs her, rapes her, and marries her (in slow motion), surrounded by severed body parts. A butler (who resembles Timothy Leary) ties up a naked man and puts a hungry rat on his dick. When the castle crumbles you can see the wires as obvious doubles for Reed and Pleasence fight. Towers and Birkinshaw made their version of The Masque of the Red Death around the same time.

HOUSE OF WOMEN

(1961) D: Walter Doniger D/S: Crane Wilbur P: Bryan Foy

Shirley Knight is a pregnant woman sent to prison, in this unofficial remake of the famous Caged (1950). Andrew Duggan is the sadistic warden. With Constance Ford, Jeanne Cooper, Barbara Nichols as stripper Candy Kane, Virginia Gregg, and Jason Evers as a doctor. Wilbur codirected (uncredited). It's from Warner Brothers.

THE HOUSE ON BARE MOUNTAIN

(SW, 1962) D: R. L. Frost S: Denver Scott P/A: Bob Cresse

Granny Good (Cresse in old-lady drag, imitating Jonathan Winters) narrates this color "adult" comedy (about an hour long) set in a girls' school. A giant wolf man (with makeup by Harry Thomas) runs a still in the basement, and people dressed as Dracula and the Frankenstein monster spike the punch at a costume party. There are a few laughs and plenty of topless or naked women. They undress, shower, sunbathe, exercise, and run up and down stairs one by one. I like the opening collage set to rock music, the trailer at the end, and the fact that the whole cast gets drunk. As far as nudie horror movies go, this rates after Orgy of the Dead and Kiss Me Quick, but it was first. It's a Frank Henenlotter Sexy Shocker release.

THE HOUSE ON SORORITY ROW

(UAV, 1982) D/S/P: Mark Rosman P: John G. Clark (House of Evil)

A girl has a mutant baby. Then, 20 years later, she opens a sorority house and (surprise) there's a slasher in the attic! Lots of poles and other things go through victims. With Eileen Davidson, Harley Jane Kozak, and Kate McNeil. The director worked with De Palma. Richard Band wrote the score.

THE HOUSE ON STRAW HILL

(New World, 1975) D/S: James Kenneth Clarke P: Brian Smedley-Aston UK (Trauma; Exposé)

If you liked blond starlet Linda Hayden in The Blood on Satan's Claw, Taste the Blood of Dracula, or other movies, this is her ultimate starring role. It's an erotic horror/mystery with Udu Kier (fresh from his Morrissey Dracula and Frankenstein movies) as Paul Martin, a rich, stuffy, emotionless writer with a nice country house (and a great red typewriter). He occasionally freaks out while having bloody flashbacks (and flashforwards) and wears rubber gloves during sex. Hayden arrives as a typist for his new sex novel and spends a lot of time masturbating (in her room, in a field). She has a lesbian scene with Martin's visiting girlfriend (Fiona Richmond), kills the housekeeper, and blows away two rapists with a shotgun. The blood is unconvincing, and after a violent thunderstorm everything is suddenly sunny and dry, but the ending is a surprise, and the video print is excellent. Smedley-Aston produced Vampyres (1974), also with lots of nudity and blood. This was originally 117 minutes.

HOUSE ON THE EDGE OF THE PARK

(Vestron, 1979) D: "Roger D. Franklin"/Ruggiero Deodato S: Gianfranco Clerici, Vincenzo Mannino Italy (La Casa Sperduta nel Parco)

This is one sick movie. Psycho mechanics (David Hess from Last House on the Left, and John Morghen) go to a fancy party. Some of the rich people make fun of them, so they terrorize everyone (with rape, pissing, castration). Anne Belle costars.

THE HOUSE ON TOMBSTONE HILL

(AIP, 1987) D/S/P: James Riffel P: Melisse Lewis (The Dead Come Home; Dead Dudes in the House)

Young people trapped in an isolated old house are attacked by a laughing-old-woman ghost (Douglas E. Gibson) with scissors. Some of them become zombies. There's also a little-girl ghost and a whistling zombie. A hand is cut off, and one guy is cut in half. Ed French did the FX. This creepy 16mm Evil Dead–inspired Troma release was shot in Cherry Valley, New York, by a 28-year-old NYU graduate.

HOUSE PARTY

(RCA, 1990) D/S: Reginald Hudlin P: Warrington Hudlin

Rappers Kid (Christopher Reid) 'n' Play (Christopher Martin) star in their first movie. Kid (who has Eraserhead hair) tries to attend Play's all-night party and has problems with Full Force as bad guys, the late Robin Harris as his father, dogs, and cops. The cast includes Tisha Campbell, Martin Lawrence, and George Clinton. Motown released the soundtrack. New Line made millions on this low-budget hit, so two lesser sequels and a Saturday-morning cartoon series followed. Kid 'n' Play also starred in Class Act (1992).

THE HOUSE THAT BLED TO DEATH

(Thriller, 1980) D: Tom Clegg S: David Lloyd UK

Elvira hosts this hour-long Hammer TV movie. Nicholas Ball and Rachel Davies star.

THE HOUSE THAT CRIED MURDER

(Creature Features, 1973) D/S: Jean-Marie Pelissie S/P: John Grissmer (The Bride)

The bride (soap opera star Robin Strasser) runs away after a violent fight with her cheating new husband (Arthur Roberts) during their elaborate wedding. He and his live-in girlfriend have nightmares. She sees a skull with a wedding dress and discovers a chicken head in bed. John Beal (star of The Vampire) has a good role as the bride's father. The disorienting, multi-surprise ending involves an axe and ghosts and the soundtrack features loud guitar blasts. It's a pretty interesting obscurity. Grissmer also made Scalpel (1977).

THE HOUSE WHERE DEATH LIVES

(1980) D/P: Alan Beattie S: Jack Viertel P: Peter Shanaberg (Delusion)

A nurse (red-haired Patricia Pearcy) goes to a house to care for a crippled old man named Ivar (Joseph Cotten, in his last role). People are killed by being smashed in the head with table legs. It's all told in flashback. Simone Griffeth is also in the cast.

HOUSEWIFE

(New World, 1972) D/S/P: Larry Cohen (Bone; Dial Rat for Terror; Beverly Hills Nightmare)

Cohen's first movie is a talk-filled black comedy. It was fraudulently promoted as an action-and-sex movie by Jack Harris. Yaphet Kotto is a thief who invades the Beverly Hills home of a white couple who are unhappily married and in debt. He holds the wife (Joyce Van Patten) hostage while the husband (Andrew Duggan) goes to the bank for money, but the husband has sex with a hippie (Jeannie Berlin) instead. Cohen (who made this in his own house) directed Black Caesar next. Rick Baker did the FX for both.

HOUSEWIFE FROM HELL

(Triboro, 1993) D/S/P/M: James Lane D/S/P/E: Donald Jones

This "erotic comedy" is a like a cheap 60s nudie movie. If it had been made in the 60s I'd be impressed. A man (Gregg Bullock, who narrates) kills his wife (Lisa Comshaw) by throwing a hair dryer in the tub and immediately has sex with a neighbor. Then he has a series of sexual encounters with some pretty good-looking women. The wife, now a ghost, watches and a police detective (Ron Jeremy, imitating Peter Falk in Columbo) keeps showing up. Strippers with chainsaws say, "Time to die," some serious silicone strippers dance at a pool party, and it all ends in Heaven. With Marcia Gray, Jacqueline St. Clare, and Jennifer Peace (aka porno star Devon Shire), a girlfriend of O. J. Simpson. From Crown International.

HOWARD THE DUCK

(MCA, 1986) D/S: Willard Huyck S/P: Gloria Katz

One of the most hated films of the 80s was based on a short-lived (1976–79) cult Marvel comic book set in Cleveland. It was obviously made in LA and suffers from long, boring chase scenes. Howard, who lives in a parallel world, finds himself in Cleveland, where he stays with Lea Thompson, who has a rock band called the Cherry Bombs. The reactions to the duck man are inconsistent. Some laugh, some scream, some think he's a short person, and others attack him. Jeffrey Jones is a doctor possessed by "the Dark Overlords." Fireballs form in his eyes, a snake emerges from his mouth, and he beams down a scary, giant animated scorpion/lobster monster. The ILM FX in these sequences are great. Howard works in a sex club and also encounters punk rockers and bikers. The cast includes Holly Robinson, Tim Robbins, and eight people credited as Howard. Thomas Dolby is on the MCA soundtrack. It was a major flop from executive producer George Lucas.

HOW I WON THE WAR

(MGM, 1967) D/P: Richard Lester S: Charles Wood UK

Michael Crawford stars and narrates as Goodbody, an inept British officer who survives while all his men are killed off in North Africa during WWII. John Lennon (in his first and only solo acting role) costars as Gripweed, a Cockney soldier who once belonged to the British Union of Fascists. This antiwar satire uses real tinted newsreel footage and manages to refer to Vietnam. Dead soldiers return as different-colored ghosts and continue to fight. The accents are too thick for most Americans to understand, and even Lennon couldn't bring many people into the theaters. The cast includes Roy Kinnear, Jack MacGowran, Ronald Lacey, Alexander Knox, and Michael Hordern. It was released by United Artists.

HOWLING II: YOUR SISTER IS A WEREWOLF

(HBO, 1984) D: Philippe Mora S: Robert Sarno, Gary Brandner P: Steven Lane

This was the first of a series of inferior "sequels" to the 1981 hit. They all were based on novels by Gary Brandner and were made in different countries (this was filmed in Czechoslovakia). Christopher Lee stars as an occult investigator helping a cop (Reb Brown) investigate his sister's death. Sybil Danning is Stirba, the wolf queen (her topless scene is repeated many times). The cast includes Marsha A. Hunt (who had a baby with Mick Jagger in real life), Annie McEnroe, Ferdinand Mayne, midgets, and a punk group called Babel. The cable and syndicated TV versions are different from the video. Steve Johnson did the FX. The Steve Parsons score is on Filmtrax. The original Joe Dante movie is available too, of course (from Nelson).

HOWLING III: THE MARSUPIALS

(Vista, 1987) D/S/P: Philippe Mora P: Charles Waterstreet Australia

Sympathetic werewolves live in a commune. An outcast wolf woman (Imogen Annesley) goes to Sydney and lands a job in a horror movie (Shape-Shifters, Part 8). Werewolves dressed as nuns come after her. With Barry Otto as a professor and Michael Pate. It's different. Steve Johnson did the FX.

HOWLING IV: THE ORIGINAL NIGHTMARE

(IVE, 1988) D: John Hough S: Clive Trevor, Freddie Rowles P: Harry Alan Towers S.Africa

Romy Windsor as a bestselling novelist has disturbing visions. She goes on vacation in California and encounters a female werewolf (Lamya Der-val). Susanne Severeid, Michael T. Weiss, and Antony Hamilton are also in the cast. There's too much talking. Steve Johnson did the FX.

HOWLING V: THE REBIRTH

(IVE, 1989) D: Neil Sundstrom
S: Freddie Rose S/P: Clive Turner

A count summons eight people to his castle in Budapest. The plot is just like the plot of The Beast Must Die, which was another ripoff of Ten Little Indians. Philip Davis, Elisabeth Shue, and Mary Stavin are in the cast. It was filmed in Hungary.

HOWLING VI: THE FREAKS

(IVE, 1991) D: Hope Perello
S: Kevin Rock P: Robert Pringle

Brendan Hughes (To Die For) is a nice young British (?) drifter/werewolf who's staying with a preacher in a small town. Harker (Bruce Martyn Payne), who owns a traveling freak show, is really an evil, demon-faced vampire. Antonio Fargas plays a mean clown/geek, and there's an alligator boy, an East Indian dwarf with three arms, and a half-man, half-woman. Carol Lynley has a bit part. The werewolf transformations (the FX are by Steve Johnson) are long and painful. The Howling: New Moon Rising followed.

HOWL OF THE DEVIL

(Video Search, 1988) D/S/A: "Jacinto Molino"/ Paul Naschy S: Salvador Sainz (uncredited)
Spain (El Aullido del Diablo)

Alex (Paul Naschy), a rich, reclusive horror star, died (a suicide) in 1981. His lonely son (Naschy's son, Sergio) now lives with Hector, Alex's nasty twin, an unsuccessful actor (Naschy), a servant, Eric (Howard Vernon), and a cook, Carmen (Caroline Munro, but sometimes a double). Hector dresses up as Rasputin, Fu Manchu, or Bluebeard and fools around with hookers, who are later found dead. The son watches his father's movies on TV, and various characters show up in real life. A friendly Frankenstein monster, Mr. Hyde, the Wolf Man, Quasimodo, and the Phantom (all Naschy) appear. Meanwhile, Hector and a local priest lust after Carmen. This nutty Naschy-overkill movie has nudity, some gore, a zombie, and the Devil himself! As Eric says, "He was a great actor!" The print (from Spanish TV) has been subtitled in English.

HOW TO GET AHEAD IN ADVERTISING

(1988) D/S: Bruce Robinson P: George Harrison, Dennis O'Brien UK

Richard E. Grant stars as an ad man working on a campaign for pimple cream. He gets a boil on his neck, which develops (Manster-like) into an entire head that talks and starts taking over. This satire also stars Rachel Ward and Richard Wilson. Robinson later made Jennifer 8 in the US.

HOW TO GET REVENGE

(Starmaster, 1989) D: Bob Logan

Hostess Linda Blair interviews real "top professionals in the revenge field" (cops and detectives), who tell us how to harass people on the phone and through the mail, and even how to wreck somebody's marriage. They explain things like putting sugar in gas tanks, running a hose through a mail slot, and putting a man's name into gay ads. Another helpful tip is to report members of minorities to the immigration authorities. Linda makes wisecracks and quotes the Bible. A warning says that this 45-minute $10 video is "for entertainment purposes only!" I think enough people know how to do those things already. It's by the director of Up Your Alley and Repossessed, both with Blair.

HOW TO MAKE A DOLL

(SW, 1968) D/S/P: Herschell Gordon Lewis
S: Bert Ray

This was made primarily in a Miami theater and seems like a bad, overlong, talk-filled local-TV comedy skit. It's pretty unwatchable. After a serious voice-over intro, we meet Dr. Percy Corly (Robert Wood), a virgin sex-education teacher who lives with his mom, and a professor with a supercomputer that laughs and snorts. The professor makes a rabbit appear, then accidentally creates a gay man. After some more work he makes a blonde in a bikini and high heels: "I—am—programmed—to—love—only—Dr.—Corly." The professor also makes another woman for himself. He and the women disappear, and the computer talks with his voice. Corly puts on a hair-dryer dream machine (kinda like in Total Recall) and imagines being a playboy surrounded by bikini babes at the beach. Then zombie-like women say, "Per—cy—we—love—you" before vanishing. He falls for a shy egghead wearing glasses, and she turns into the first blonde, now with bunny ears. With Brad Grinter.

HOW TO SUCCEED WITH GIRLS

(SW, 1964) D: Edward A. Biery
S/P: William Norton P/A: Paul Leder

A narrator contrasts Pete, an asshole poet (Paul Leder), to Harvey, a timid daydreamer. Color dream sequences (the rest is b/w) are set in a mad lab (with monster masks) and a harem. The acting is awful, there's no nudity, and the silent-movie-style gags aren't funny. There is an "Ahab the A-rab" in-joke, though. With Marissa Mathes (Blood Bath), Rue McClanahan (also in Leder's Five Minutes to Love), and Cathy Crowfoot. Beach Dickerson was the production manager. Norton later wrote I Dismember Mama for Leder. He also wrote John Wayne and Burt Reynolds movies!

HUDSON HAWK

(RCA, 1991) D: Michael Lehman
S: Steven E. de Souza P: Joel Silver

Critics compared this much-hated, overexpensive parody to Heaven's Gate, even Howard the Duck. It's a buddy/musical-comedy/action/fantasy movie with Bruce Willis as a cat burglar and Danny Aiello as his partner. They both sing, which is the main problem. Sandra Bernhard and Richard E. Grant blackmail Willis and make him steal priceless Da Vinci artifacts in Italy in order to rebuild an alchemy machine and turn water into gold (impressive ILM FX are used). The Vatican seems like a pretty evil place in this movie. With Andie MacDowell as a nun, James Coburn, David Caruso, and Frank Stallone. William Conrad narrates. De Souza also wrote the Die Hard movies. The score is by Michael Kamen.

HUGHES AND HARLOW: ANGELS IN HELL

(Monterey, 1977) D/S/P: Larry Buchanan
S: Lynn Schubert

Howard Hughes (Victor Holchak) comes to Hollywood from Texas and meets Jean Harlow (Lindsay Bloom), a taxi dancer, on the set of a Laurel and Hardy short. They swear a lot, call each other a lot of nicknames, and have sex in a plane. A lot of this movie (told in flashbacks) consists of film screenings, old footage, and b/w re-creations of flying scenes. It's not as interesting as Buchanan's bios of Monroe and some rock stars. Adam Roarke is Howard Hawks, and the late Royal Dano is Will Hays.

HUGH HEFNER: ONCE UPON A TIME

(Uni, 1992) D/S/P: Robert Heath
S/P: Gary H. Grossman S: Michael Gross

Hefner (raised as a Methodist in Chicago) cooperated in the making of this documentary about his life and Playboy magazine. This is not a movie with Playmates. It shows scenes from Return of the Dead, a horror movie Hefner made and starred in at 16, and the original Flash Gordon serial, which he says was an early influence. It explores his one-time Dexedrene problem, the suicide of his longtime secretary, the Dorothy Stratten murder, the making of Polanski's Macbeth, the fall of the Playboy clubs, and Hefner's claims of being set up and persecuted by the government. James Coburn narrates. The executive producers of this IRS release were Mark Frost and David Lynch.

HUMAN BEASTS

(All Seasons, 1980) D/S/P/A: Paul Naschy
Spain/Japan (El Carnaval de las Bestias)

In Naschy's first Japanese film, he plays Bruno, a mercenary fighter. In Japan he double-crosses his lover (Eiko Nagashima) for some jewels, then kills her gangster brother and all of his henchmen. Back in Spain the wounded killer hides out in a home where two beautiful daughters fight over him. He has sex with both of them while their father whips the black maid (she likes it). Meanwhile, Eiko hires local crooks to spy on him. This crazed film has flashbacks, dream sequences, a ghost, religious (and fart) humor, nudity, drugs, S&M, slaughtered pigs, Italian-western music, big guns, cannibalism, and Naschy dressed as Napoleon.

HUMAN GORILLA

(Rhino, 1948) D: Budd Boetticher S/P: Eugene Ling S: Malvin Wald (Behind Locked Doors)

Richard Carlson stars as a private eye who has himself committed to a private sanitarium to investigate a crooked judge. This is considered a film noir mystery, not a horror movie. In one scene, though, the hero is thrown into a padded cell with a crazed wrestler (Tor Johnson!). Lucille Bremer

(in her last film) is a newspaperwoman, and Douglas Fowley is a sadistic guard. Made by Eagle Lion, a "Poverty Row" studio. The retitled Rhino tape also includes Man Beast (1956).

HUMAN HIGHWAY

(Warner, 1982) D/S/A: Dean Stockwell
D/A: "Bernard Shakey"/Neil Young P: L. A. Johnson

Neil Young and Russ Tamblyn are Lionel and Fred, a comic team of likable idiots working at a gas station near a nuclear plant during some indefinite 50s/60s time period. Their new boss (Stockwell) also owns the truck-stop restaurant next door where Dennis Hopper is the cook, and Sally Kirkland and Charlotte Stewart are waitresses. Devo appear in glowing red suits, singing while they haul radioactive material. In the most incredible part, Lionel has a dream (within a dream) that he's a famous rock star, "Frank Fontaine," on tour. Neil/Lionel/Frank and Devo do "Hey Hey My My" (!), and Devo do "Come Back, Jonee." At the end the whole cast sings "It Takes a Worried Man" (this was also a video), then climb stairs to Heaven (Stockwell is God) as the Earth blows up. Only Boojie Boy (Mark Mothersbaugh) is left to sing "Blowin' in the Wind" ! A strange version of "Mr. Soul" and Skeeter Davis are also heard. Obvious models of reactors and trains are featured (Reactor and Trains were Young's latest LPs). This would make a great double bill with Head.

HUMANOIDS FROM ATLANTIS

(Tempe, 1992) D/P/A/E: J. R. Bookwalter
S: Lloyd Turner

This made-in-small-town-Ohio spoof goes out of its way to resemble one of the Larry Buchanan AIP-TV movies and is overloaded with self-promoting in-jokes and references. A would-be filmmaker (James L. Edwards) and his girlfriend find a man-in-a-suit sea monster. Although it seems even cheaper than Bookwalter's "serious" shot-on-video releases, the characters are likeable and I actually sorta enjoyed watching it. David DeCoteau was the executive producer.

THE HUMAN SHIELD

(Cannon, 1992) D: Ted Post S: Mann Rubin
P: Christopher Pearce, Elie Cohn

Michael Dudikoff stars as a former US Marine who helped train Iraqi soldiers to fight Iran. Now with the CIA, the Ramboesque kickboxer hero returns to Iraq after the Gulf War to rescue his diabetic brother (Tommy Hinkley) from a Nazi-like general (Steve Inwood) who resembles Saddam Hussein. Hana Azulay-Hasfari is the love interest. This Cannon release was filmed in Israel.

HUMAN TARGET

(1992) D: Max Tash S: Danny Bislon, Paul De Meo P: Michael O. Gallant

In this ABC-TV series pilot Rick Springfield stars as the DC Comics hero Christopher Chance, a Nam vet in a plane with a team of helpers. He takes on the identities of people in danger. Scott Paulin costars. The series aired on Saturday mornings.

THE HUMAN TORNADO

(Xenon, 1976) D: Cliff Roquemore
S/A: Jerry Jones (Dolemite II)

Dolemite (Rudy Ray Moore) does his comedy act onstage. Then the plot begins. When he's caught in bed with the wife of a redneck Alabama sheriff, he jumps out of the window and rolls down a hill naked. Later he and nightclub owner Queen Bee (Lady Reed) fight white gangsters who run a massage parlor in California by training hookers to be karate fighters. The gangsters kidnap women and have an old lady in a basement who torments them with snakes, rats, hand grenades, and spikes over their heads. A gangster's mistress has a sex-dream sequence with naked musclemen going down a playground slide. There are also musical numbers, car chases, and speeded-up fight scenes. The cast includes Jimmy Lynch as Mr. Motion, Ernie Hudson (Ghostbusters), and drag queen Lord Java. Moore was also the executive producer of this cartoonish Dimension release.

Rudy Ray Moore stars in The Human Tornado.

HUNCHBACK = THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME

THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME

(Republic, Vestron, Sinister, 1923) D: Wallace Worsley S: Perely Poore Sheehan

Lon Chaney stars in one of his greatest roles, as Quasimodo, a bell-ringer in 15th-century Paris. Universal spent over a million dollars filming this adaptation of Victor Hugo's novel, and the role made Chaney a real star (after ten years of film acting). Patsy Ruth Miller costars as Esmeralda, with Brandon Hurst as the villain, Norman Kerry as the hero, Raymond Hatton, Ernest Torrence, Tully Marshall, Nigel De Brulier, and Joe Bonomo (stunts). William Wyler was one of the assistant directors. The 94-minute tape includes a musical score. The Republic video version is tinted. The first remakes include the wonderful RKO version, with Charles Laughton (1939), now colorized on tape (Turner), the mostly forgotten French version, with Anthony Quinn (1959), and the British TV version, with Anthony Hopkins (1982).

HUNDRA

(Media, 1983) D/S/P: "Matteo Ottaviano"/Matt Cimber M: Ennio Morricone US/Spain

After two Pia Zadora movies Cimber made two Laureen Landon movies. Here she stars as the blond survivor of a raid by evil Vikings. It has nudity and decapitations. The score was issued by Macola. Landon was Christian Brando's girlfriend for many years. Film Ventures released this. Cimber made it in Spain, back to back with Yellow Hair and the Fortress of Gold.

THE HUNGER

(MGM, 1983) D: Tony Scott S: Ivan Davis, Michael Thomas P: Richard A. Shepard

Catherine Deneuve and David Bowie play ageless vampires in New York City. She keeps her dead lovers in the attic, and he's ill after 300 years and aging fast. It's based on a novel by Whitley Strieber. Susan Sarandon costars as the scientist they make help them, and she has a love scene with Deneuve. With Cliff De Young, Ann Magnuson, Dan Hedaya, Bessie Love, John Pankow, Beth Ehlers, and Willem Dafoe (in a phone booth). Bauhaus perform "Bela Lugosi's Dead" in a disco. The FX are by Dick Smith and Carl Fullerton. Varèse Sarabande released the score by Michel Rubini and Denny Jaeger. Scott was known as a director of Pepsi commercials at the time.

HUNK

(RCA, 1987) D/S: Lawrence Bassoff P: Marilyn Tenser

A computer nerd (John Allen Nelson) gets a new body from the Devil/Mr. D (James Coco). Robert Morse, Deborah Shelton, and Avery Schreiber are also in this Crown International comedy.

THE HUNTED

(MCA, 1995) D/S: J. F. Lawton
P: John Davis, Gary W. Goldstein

Christopher Lambert (Highlander) is an American businessman in Japan who must become a modern warrior when he becomes the prime target of a group of ninja assassins led by John Lone. Many people die while a centuries-old feud continues. Joan Chen is the love interest who dies early but shows up in flashbacks, Yoshido Harada is a samurai, and Yoko Shimada (from Shogun) is his wife. Director Lawton also wrote Under Siege. The Universal release was shot in Vancouver.

HUNTER'S BLOOD

(Embassy, 1987) D: Robert C. Hughes
S: Emmett Alston P: Myrl A. Schriebman

Deer hunters from the city (including Sam Bottoms, Clu Gulager, Joey Travolta, and Ken Swofford) go to the Arkansas woods. Crazed cannibal hillbilly poachers named Bubba, Snake, and Woody attack. Characters are decapitated and gutted and have their heads blown off. Billy Drago and Bruce Glover are the main redneck psychos. Also with Kim Delaney. Concorde/Corman released this obvious Deliverance copy, and it was on tape days after playing in theaters.

HUNTERS OF THE GOLDEN COBRA

(Vestron, 1982) D: "Anthony M. Dawson"/ Antonio Margheretti S: Tito Carpi P: Gianfranco Couyoumdjian Italy (I Cacciatori del Cobra d'Oro; Raiders of the Golden Cobra)

This WWII jungle adventure with evil Japanese, snakes, and a white jungle queen was made in the Philippines. David Warbeck stars, with John Steiner and Alan Collins. The same cast was also in Ark of the Sun God, by the the same director.

THE HUNT FOR RED OCTOBER

(Paramount, 1990) D: John McTiernan S: Larry Ferguson, Donald Stewart P: Mace Neufeld

Alec Baldwin stars as former CIA man Jack Ryan in this pre-glasnost thriller based on the novel by Tom Clancy. Sean Connery is a Soviet submarine commander, and Scott Glenn is a US captain. With Sam Neill, Richard Jordan, James Earl Jones, Joss Ackland, Peter Firth, Tim Curry, future Tennessee Senator Fred Thompson, and Jeffrey Jones. ILM provided the FX. It's by the director of Predator and Die Hard. This was a big hit. Patriot Games (1992) and Clear and Present Danger (1994) were follow-ups starring Harrison Ford as Ryan.

THE HUNTING PARTY

(1971) D: Don Medford S: Gilbert Alexander, William Norton S/P: Lou Morheim

A sadistic 19th-century Texas cattle baron (Gene Hackman) takes a hunting trip on his private train (with a bordello car). Outlaw Oliver Reed kidnaps his schoolteacher wife (Candice Bergen) because he wants to learn to read. She's raped (this was just after she starred in Soldier Blue), and the hunters go after Reed and his gang. This violent, hateful Peckinpah ripoff features L. Q. Jones, Simon Oakland, G. D. Spradlin, and Mitchell Ryan. The UA release was filmed in Spain.

LAS HURDES

(1932) D/S/E: Luis Buñuel S: Pierre Unik P: Ramón Acín Spain (Terre sans Pain; Land Without Bread)

People suffer from hunger, disease, poverty, and superstition. The Catholic Church asks them for money. Disturbing images are shown while a matter-of-fact narration and Brahms' music are heard on the soundtrack. This 27-minute documentary about the poorest region in Spain was banned by the Spanish government. Buñuel dubbed American films in France and Spain; was the executive producer of four Spanish films; contributed to a documentary in Spain and one in France; went to America, where he worked for the Film Department of the Museum of Modern Art and then supervised foreign versions of Warner Brothers films; and in 1947 went to Mexico, where he began directing films again.

HURRICANE

(1937) D: John Ford S: Dudley Nichols, Oliver H. P. Garrett P: Samuel Goldwyn M: Alfred Newman

Dorothy Lamour (in her sarong) and Jon Hall are Polynesian lovers separated when she's jailed for hitting a white man. Raymond Massey is the cruel governor, Mary Astor is his wife, John Carradine is a sadistic guard, and Thomas Mitchell is a drunken doctor (he was nominated for an Oscar). With C. Aubrey Smith and Jerome Cowan. It all ends with a spectacular typhoon. Stuart Heisler was the second-unit director. This UA hit was remade in 1979.

HURRICANE

(Paramount, 1979) D: Jan Troell S: Lorenzo Temple Jr. P: Dino De Laurentiis

Roman Polanski was set to direct this absurd, big-flop remake of the 1937 movie, until he was charged with rape. Mia Farrow (after the flop Avalanche) and Dayton Kane star. With Jason Robards as her military father, Max von Sydow, Trevor Howard as a priest, Timothy Bottoms, and James Keach. Sven Nykvist was the cinematographer. Elektra released the Nino Rota soundtrack.

HURRICANE SMITH

(Warner, 1990) D: Colin Budds S: Peter Klinoch P: Stanley O'Toole Australia

Carl Weathers is a Texas tough guy looking for his missing sister on the Australian coast. With Jürgen Prochnow as a gangster dealing in drugs and women, Cassandra Delaney, and Tony Bonner.

THE HUSTLER OF MUSCLE BEACH

(1980) D: Jonathan Kaplan S: David S. Milow P: Neil T. Maffeo

Richard Hatch stars as a promoter in this ABC-TV movie about bodybuilding in Venice, California. Kay Lenz costars, and the cast includes Jeannette Nolan, Kenneth McMillan, Jack Carter, Paul Bartel, Bobby Van, Kames Hong, and bodybuilders Franco Columbo, Lisa Lyons (subject of the Robert Mapplethorpe photo book Lady), and others who went on to acting careers.

HYDRA = BLOOD WATERS OF DR. Z

HYPER SAPIEN: PEOPLE FROM ANOTHER STAR

(Warner, 1985) D: Peter Hunt S: Christopher Adcock, Christopher Blue, Marnie Page
P: Jack Schwartzman, Ariel Levy Canada

Three "cute," hairy aliens with three eyes and three legs appear in Wyoming. Ricky Paull Goldin stars as a farm boy called Dirt, with Keenan Wynn (in his last role), Gail Strickland, Sydney Penny, Peter Jason, Talia Shire, and Army Archerd. It's from Shire's production company, Taliafilm (she did Rad next), is PG, and was originally to be directed by Michael Wadleigh (Wolfen).

HYSTERICAL

(Magnum, 1982) D: Chris Bearde S/A: William and Mark Hudson S: Trace Johnson P: Gene Levy

The Hudson brothers, William, Mark, and Brett (who borrow from the Three Stooges), are not funny, but they starred in this PG horror comedy anyway. It spoofs The Shining, Jaws, The Exorcist, Taxi Driver . . . and (badly) copies a zombie scene from Carnival of Souls. Richard Kiel is a 19th-century lighthouse keeper who was killed by his mistress (Julie Newmar). Murray Hamilton and Clint Walker become singing, dancing zombies. Also with Cindy Pickett, Bud Cort, Franklyn Ajaye, Keenan Wynn, Gary Owens, John Larroquette, Natalie Cole, Paul "Mousie" Gardner, and Charlie Callas as Dracula. It debuted on HBO in 1985. The brothers (from Portland) briefly had their own TV show and had some minor 70s hits as singers.

I ACCUSE MY PARENTS

(Loonic, Sinister, 1944) D: Sam Newfield
S: Harry Fraser P: Max Alexander

A young man goes to work for a gangster to impress his nightclub-singer girlfriend. This early PRC jd movie opens with his trial for murder, where he says the film's title. The rest is a disappointing flashback. With Mary Beth Hughes, Robert Lowell, and John Miljan.

I AM A GROUPIE

(1970) D/S: Derek Ford P: Stanley Long, Barry Jacobs UK

Trans America (a branch of AIP) released this R-rated story of a groupie named Sally (Esme Long) on the road with a group called the Orange Butterfly. After a van crash causes the lead singer's death she moves on to another group, Sweaty Betty. In a scene copied from the Rolling Stones' Redlands bust she's caught (naked) in a drug raid at their country estate. Eventually she leaves the wild bands for a folk singer who "genuinely cares."

I AM LEGEND

(SW, 1994)

John Zacherle introduces a compilation of things with the long-bearded Johnny Legend. He's seen on various TV programs, including the British Beyond the Groove and The Dr. Shock Show (the horror host seems like another imitation of Ghoulardi), and in films (Bride of Re-Animator and Severed Ties). He plays rock music live (and with the Legendary Stardust Cowboy), and appears with wrestlers and with Timothy Carey and Pia Zadora. Musical highlights are "Pencil Neck Geek" and the theme from 2000 Maniacs. Parts of this feature were previously on a tape called Mondo Legend (1991).

I BOUGHT A VAMPIRE MOTORCYCLE

(1991) D: Dirk Campbell S/P: Mycal Miller, John Wolskel UK

In this horror comedy, Neal Morrissey buys a possessed cycle in Birmingham. It runs on blood and decapitates people. With Amanda Noar, Anthony Daniels, and Burt Kwouk (spoofing his character from the Pink Panther series).

ICE

(PM, 1994) D: Brook Yeaton S: Sean Dash P: Joseph Merhi, Richard Pepin

Traci Lords and Phillip Troy are married thieves out to steal diamonds from a mobster (Jorge Rivero) for an insurance company. When the husband is killed the wife seeks revenge. Zach Galligan plays her double-crossing brother. There's a gunfight during a hockey game, and lots of shooting and explosions, but this is a very bad movie. Yeaton is married to Lords, who sings (with a dubbed-in voice) and fights, but doesn't even take her clothes off in the shower.

THE ICEBOX MURDERS

(Mogul, 1981) D: Francis R. Gordillo
S: F. Ariza, F. Próspero Spain (El Cepo)

Jack Taylor is a strange doctor in a mansion near Paris. Two women arrive, decapitatation murders occur on a boat, and everybody talks too much.

ICE CREAM MAN

(A Pix, 1994) D/P: Norman Apstein S: David Dobkin

Geeky looking Clint Howard is the wisecracking childlike psycho killer ice cream truck man. He does cartoonish things like putting a decapitated head on a giant cone. The amusing, hard-working all-star cast includes Jan-Michael Vincent as a cop, David Naughton, David Warner, Olivia Hussey, Sandahl Bergman, Lee Majors III, and Steve Garvey. It was the first starring role for Howard since Evilspeak (1982).

ICED

(Prism, 1987) D: Jeff Kwitny S: Joseph Alan Johnson P: Robert Seibert (Blizzard of Blood)

Lisa Loring (grown-up little Wednesday from the TV series The Addams Family) gets naked in this horror movie by the director of Beyond the Door III. She's also electrocuted in a hot tub. A psycho at a ski resort kills people he holds responsible for a ski-accident death. It was made in Utah. Loring was also in Blood Frenzy.

ICEMAN

(MCA, 1984) D: Fred Schepisi S: Chip Proser, John Dimmer P: Patrick Palmer, Norman Jewison

John Lone (star of The Last Emperor) is a 40,000-year-old Neanderthal man called Charlie by the scientists who study him. He's kept in an artificial jungle in the Arctic and sings Neil Young's "Heart of Gold." Some of the scientists want to kill him. Lindsay Crouse and Timothy Hutton costar, with Danny Glover, Josef Sommer, and David Strathairn. The soundtrack is on Southern Cross.

THE ICEMAN COMETH

(1989) D: Clarence Fok Yiu Leung S: Stephen Shiu P: Johnny Mack Hong Kong

Yuen Biao is Ching, a Ming-dynasty guard who's after a killer/rapist (Yeun Wah). Both are frozen (thanks to a statue of Buddha), then discovered 300 years later and taken to modern-day Hong Kong. Maggie Cheung is a prostitute kidnapped by the killer. This action fantasy uses ideas from Time After Time and Highlander.

THE ICE PIRATES

(MGM, 1984) D/S: Stewart Raffill
S: Stanford Sherman P: John Foreman

TV star Robert Urich is the antihero in a Star Wars spoof about buccaneer spacemen with swords who are after giant ice cubes. Mary Crosby is a blackmailing princess, and Anjelica Huston (with a metallic bra) is the evil Maida. With John Matuszak, Ron Perlman, and John Carradine as the Supreme Commander. Raffill had directed G-rated family films. At least this was made before Mel Brooks' Spaceballs.

ICE STATION ZEBRA

(MGM, 1968) D: John Sturges S: Douglas Heyes P: Martin Ransohoff, John Calley

Rock Hudson stars as a US Navy submarine commander ordered to go to the North Pole. This Cold War thriller is about recovering a capsule from a Soviet space satellite. With Patrick McGoohan, Jim Brown, Ernest Borgnine as Boris Vaslov (a bad guy, maybe?), Tony Bill, Lloyd Nolan, and Alf Kjellin. This 152-minute MGM release, based on an Alistair MacLean novel, was shot in 70mm and was presented in Cinerama in some theaters. It was reportedly the favorite film of the reclusive billionaire Howard Hughes. MGM released the Michel Legrand soundtrack.

I COME IN PEACE

(Media, 1989) D: Craig R. Baxley
S: Jonathan Tydor, Leonard Mass P: Jeff Young M: Jan Hammer (Dark Angel)

Swedish muscleman, karate champ, and MIT alum Dolph Lundgren (Rocky IV) first got publicity as Grace Jones' boyfriend. He could have been as popular as Steven Seagal (or at least Jean-Claude Van Damme), but some of his movies were barely released to theaters. This one has a terrible title (in the US), but it's really entertaining and well made. A tall, albino alien in a duster (Matthias Hues) siphons endorphins out of humans and injects them with lethal doses of heroin, which he rips off from local gangsters. His space gun fires deadly, throat-slashing, spinning CDs (really). A dark-haired alien cop is sent to stop the scary space junkie (whose only dialogue is the title of the movie). Meanwhile, Jack Caine, a no-nonsense cop (Lundgren) with a coroner girlfriend, is put on the case, paired with a comic relief, by-the-books FBI agent (Brian Benben, star of the Dream On TV series). Michael J. Pollard and Jesse Vint have small but memorable roles. Former actor Mark Damon (The House of Usher) was one of the executive producers. Baxley (Action Jackson) filmed this in Houston.

I CONFESS

(Warner, 1953) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock
S: George Tabori, William Archibald

Montgomery Clift is a Catholic priest who hears a confession of murder and finds himself on trial for the killing. He won't reveal the real killer and even faces a lynch mob. Anne Baxter is a woman he loved before he became a priest, Karl Malden is the prosecutor, and Brian Aherne is the defense lawyer. This b/w Warner Brothers film was based on a 1902 play by Paul Anthelme and filmed on location in Quebec. It was one of Hitchcock's least popular films but was followed by the hits Dial M for Murder and Rear Window (both 1954).

ICY DEATH: See DEATH DIMENSION

IDAHO TRANSFER

(MPI, 1971) D: Peter Fonda S: Thomas Mattieson P: Leland Hayward

The second film directed by Fonda is an ecological science-fiction story. A group of young volunteers travel to the future and backpack across a barren landscape, passing through three time zones. It was shot on location in Idaho but was barely released (Cinemation, the distributor, went bankrupt). It features only one name actor, Keith Carradine. Many ecology movies were released in 1971, including Silent Running, Zero Population Growth (from England), and Godzilla vs. the Smog Monster (from Japan). The video has an added (1988) intro in which Fonda talks about environmental awareness.

IDENTITY CRISIS

(Command, 1985) D: Bruce Pittman S: Peter Colley, John Shepard P: Anthony Kramreither Canada (Mark of Cain)

A couple live in an old isolated mansion. The husband's twin escapes from an asylum. Authorities recapture the wrong twin and the wife is stuck with the killer. Robin Ward plays both men.

IDENTITY CRISIS

(Academy, 1989) D/P: Melvin Van Peebles S/A: Mario Van Peebles

A French fashion designer is poisoned, and a witch has him reincarnated as New York rap star Chilly D. Mario Van Peebles stars in this fantasy comedy featuring Ilan Mitchell-Smith and Shelly Burch. It was the end of a directing career for Van Peebles Sr., but his son went on to direct New Jack City and Posse.

I, DESIRE

(1982) D: John Llewellyn Moxey S: Robert Foster P: Audrey Blasdel-Goddard

David Naughton (who had just been in An American Werewolf in London) stars as an LA student working as a coroner's aide who meets a vampire hooker (Barbara Stock). This ABC-TV romantic horror movie features Brad Dourif and Dorian Harewood.

THE IDOLMAKER

(MGM, 1980) D: Taylor Hackford S: Edward Di Lorenzo P: Gene Kirkwood, Howard W. Koch M: Jeff Barry

This movie is based on the careers of rock promoter Bob Marcucci and his late-50s Philly singers Frankie Avalon and Fabian. Unfortunately, the songs sound too modern. Ray Sharkey stars as the Bronx songwriter turned manager who makes stars out of talentless Peter Gallagher (in his feature debut) and Paul Land. With Tovah Feldshuh as a teen-mag editor (based on Gloria Stavers), Joe Pantoliano, Maureen McCormick, John Amprea, and Olympia Dukakis. The score is on A&M. United Artists released the film. Marcucci sued.

I ESCAPED FROM DEVIL'S ISLAND

(1973) D: William Witney S: Richard L. Adams P: Roger Corman, Gene Corman

Jim Brown, Christopher George, Rick Ely as a gay prisoner, and James Luis as his lover escape from Devil's Island in 1918 on a raft and hide in the jungle. This attempt to cash in on Papillon was directed by a veteran of many serials. It features alligators, a shark attack, hostile Amazon natives, a leper colony, and lots of shooting and death. With Jan Merlin and Richard Rust. The music is by Les Baxter. This UA release was shot in the Philippines.

if...

(VSOM, 1969) D/P: Lindsay Anderson S: David Sherwin P: Michael Medwin UK

Years before Massacre at Central High, Class of 1984, and others, this incredible film ends with British boarding-school boys setting fire to a lecture hall and shooting faculty members as they flee. Malcolm McDowell (the year before A Clockwork Orange) stars as Mick Travers. He and his friends are publicly flogged after they steal a motorcycle and enjoy some sex in town. With David Wood, Robert Swann, Christine Noonan, Arthur Lowe, Mona Washbourne, Simon Ward, and Robin Askwith. This color Paramount release was rated X (because of a tinted sex-fantasy scene), then cut for an R. Anderson's O Lucky Man! (1973) and Brittania Hospital (1982) feature McDowell as the same character.

IF LOOKS COULD KILL

(Republic, 1986) D/S/P: Chuck Vincent S: Craig Horrall

Tim Gail stars as a photographer who spies on a woman who embezzled money from a bank. This Hitchcock ripoff about voyeurs has a porno-star cast (Sheri St. Claire, Jamie Gillis, and Veronica Hart).

IF LOOKS COULD KILL

(Warner, 1991) D: William Dear S: Darren Star P: Craig Zadan, Neil Meron

Richard Grieco stars in this PG-13 Warner Brothers film as a high-school student on a trip to France who is mistaken for a secret agent. With Linda Hunt, Roger Rees, Gabrielle Anwar, and Roger Daltrey as a villain called Blade. The story is by Fred Dekker.

IGOR AND THE LUNATICS

(Troma, 1985) D/S/P: Billy Parolini S/P: Jocelyn Beard S: Tom Doran, Brendan Faulkner

A Manson-type group is released from prison and takes revenge on a town in New York State. People are cut in half, beaten, gutted, and killed with arrows and pitchforks. This Troma release (filmed in Carmel, New York) must have been left unfinished. The characters' names and the actors change (an interesting effect for bad-movie fans).

IGUANA

(Imperial, 1988) D/S: Monte Hellman Switzerland

Everett McGill stars as Oberlus, an abandoned early-19th-century sailor with a deformed face who becomes king of an island in the Galapagos and declares war on mankind. He cuts off the fingers or heads of those who disobey but falls in love with Maru Valdivielso. Based on a novel by Alberto Vásquez Figueroa and filmed in the Canary Islands, it was Hellman's first film in 10 years but was seen by very few people.

I HATE YOUR GUTS!

(Independent Legend, 1962) D/P: Roger Corman S: Charles Beaumont

Here's a film that proves what Corman was capable of at one time. It was a flop when released in 1962 as The Intruder, was rereleased in 1966 as Shame (on an exploitation double bill with Poor White Trash), then was given another try as I Hate Your Guts! Charles Beaumont (known at the time for his work on The Twilight Zone) wrote the perceptive screenplay, based on his 1959 novel The Intruder, which was inspired by actual 1957 news reports of an "outside agitator." William Shatner is Adam Cramer, a devious, smiling, seductive "social worker" from "the Patrick Henry Society." He arrives in a Mississippi town in a white suit and dark sunglasses to convince the whites to fight the court-ordered integration of black students into the all-white high school. He assures them that "the NAACP is a Communist front headed by Jews who hate America!" and vows to keep the country "free, white, and American!" Mob hysteria soon takes over. A preacher dies when his church is bombed, a family is attacked, the newspaper editor is beaten, a cross is burned by the KKK, and a young man is nearly lynched. Meanwhile, Cramer amuses himself with an underage girl (Beverly Lunsford) and a married woman (Jeanne Cooper). This great-looking b/w film was made on location in Charleston, Missouri, with unprofessional locals playing most of the roles. Shatner is better than you would imagine, and the other leads are excellent. Robert Emhardt (the mob leader in Underworld USA) is a hateful local rich man allied with Cramer. Frank Maxwell (who was in several Corman films) is the brave editor. Charles Barnes (in his only known role) is a student accused of rape. Best of all is Leo Gordon as Sam Griffith, a big, loud, lusty carnival pitchman. His emotion-packed scenes are the film's highlights. Forget movies like Mississippi Burning or Betrayed and look for this.

ILLEGAL ENTRY: FORMULA FOR FEAR

(PM, 1993) D: Henri Charr S: John B. Pfeifer P: Jess Mancilla

Blonde Trace (Sabryn Gene't) flees from the people who killed her parents to get a secret formula. Ninjas, death by acid, and nude swimming are featured. With Barbara Lee Alexander.

ILLICIT BEHAVIOR

(Prism, 1991) D: Worth Keefer S: Michael Potts P: Ashok Amritras, Steve Beswick

Yes, it's another "erotic thriller," complete with a double-cross (and triple-cross) greed plot. Robert Davi is a divorced internal-affairs officer investigating a shooting at Griffith Park Observatory. Joan Severance is married to cop Jack Scalia and says she's afraid of her brother (her childhood lover). Severance has sex scenes in a kitchen and a car. Sometimes she's naked, at other times it's her body double. With James Russo, Jenilee Harrison, Sondra Currie, and Kent McCord. It's available in R and unrated versions. Keeter was a regular director for Earl Owensby and also made LA Bounty.

ILL MET BY MOONLIGHT

(1994) D/S/P/M: S. P. Somtow

A Midsummer Night's Dream is set in modern-day LA, but the characters speak Shakespeare's dialogue. The story still works, but I really could have done without the songs. Puck, one of the skateboarding street-kid fairies, gives love-potion drops to the wrong characters. Lysander, who was once in love with Hermia (Heidi Blose) and Demitrius both lust after the confused Helena (Judy Fei-Wing). Titania, the queen of the fairies (Rachel I. Sita Raine), jumps into bed with the comical Bottom (Ron Ford), whose face has been transformed into an ass (not a donkey's head, but . . .). One of the most notable aspects of this low-budget fantasy/comedy is that three of the four actresses are Asian. There's a happy ending (a Buddhist wedding) followed by an overlong presentation of a play, with Bottom doing Elvis. With novelist Tim Sullivan as Oberon, Timothy Bottoms as Hermia's father, and big Robert Z'Dar as the duke. It's pretty strange seeing Z'Dar, who usually plays brutal killers, spouting Shakespearian dialogue! Various other writers and random names also appear, including Bill Warren. Somtow, a novelist from Thailand, also directed The Laughing Dead. This film is letterboxed.

I'LL NEVER FORGET WHAT'S 'IS NAME

(1967) D/P: Michael Winner S: Peter Draper UK

Oliver Reed stars in a counterculture comedy as a man who makes TV commercials and has a wife and two mistresses. He smashes his office with an axe one day and tries to go back to editing a literary magazine, but his former boss (Orson Welles) buys it. With Harry Andrews, Michael Hordern, Frank Finlay, Edward Fox, Carol White, and Marianne Faithfull (who got into the record books by saying "fuck" onscreen "for the first time"). Because of the word (and an oral-sex scene) the film was denied a production-code seal in the US, but it was released by a subsidiary of Universal. It's one of the films that led to a new US ratings system. Decca released the Francis Lai soundtrack.

I'LL NEVER FORGET YOU

(1951) D: Roy Baker S: John Balderston
P: Sol C. Siegel UK (The House on the Square)

20th Century–Fox's remake of the 1933 romantic fantasy Berkeley Square uses the same script. Tyrone Power is an American working in London who goes back in time to the 18th century and falls in love with Ann Blyth. With Michael Rennie, Dennis Price, and Beatrice Campbell.

ILLUSIONS

(Prism, 1992) D: Victor Kulle S: Peter Colley
P: Steven Paul, Michael Canale, Gary Preisler

Robert Carradine and his wife (Heather Locklear), who has had a nervous breakdown, move to a new home. Carradine seems to be involved with his visiting sister (Emma Samms), and Locklear starts to lose it again. Ned Beatty costars as the landlord.

I LOVE TO KILL = IMPULSE

ILSA, HAREM KEEPER OF THE OIL SHEIKS

(CIC, 1976) D: Don Edmunds S: Langton Stafford P: William J. Brody Canada

Dyanne Thorne returns in the second Ilsa movie. It's not as offensive as the first but is still pretty strong stuff for viewers used to more standard exploitation movies. This time Ilsa runs a slave ring and tortures more people in the Middle East. There's an exploding-penis machine, more men are castrated, and topless black lesbians wrestle. Lepers attack the evil Ilsa at the end, then she's buried alive in shit. With Ivan Rassimov as the Sheik, Tanya Boyd and Marilyn Joi as the wrestlers, nudie regular Sharon Kelly, and Haji (from Russ Meyer movies). The convincing FX are by Joe Blasco. The Cinepix version is edited.

ILSA, SHE WOLF OF THE SS

(CIC, 1974) D: Don Edmunds S: Jonah Riyston
P/A: "Herman Traeger"/David F. Friedman

Friedman appears in this, the original Ilsa movie. He says that it's the only film he's not proud of. It certainly worked as a sick cult film, though, and spawned several sequels. Once whispered about by the few who would admit to watching it in a theater, this is now a common video rental and has been written about in mainstream magazines. Star Dyanne Thorne makes autograph-signing appearances at horror conventions, where some fans are disappointed that she seems so normal and friendly. She stars as Ilsa, commandant of Medical Camp 9. Ilsa says, "Once a prisoner has slept with me, he'll never sleep with another woman!" and castrates her lovers the next morning. Gregory Knoph is an American general who can do it all night, so she lets him live, which leads to her destruction. Female inmates are tortured and killed in various ways. Some are boiled alive, maggots are put into wounds, and death is caused by exploding diaphragms and superspeed dildos. There's plenty of nudity and some intentional (sick) humor. And, yes, the sets from Hogan's Heroes were used for the week-long shoot. Joe Blasco provided the grisly and effective FX. Blasco had done makeup for The Lawrence Welk Show (!) and the ABC Network and went on to open a popular FX studio in Hollywood. Director Edmunds had acted in movies like Gidget Goes Hawaiian and Beach Ball! The Cinepix version is edited.

ILSA, THE ABSOLUTE POWER: See ILSA, THE WICKED WARDEN

ILSA, TIGRESS OF SIBERIA

(American, 1977) D: Jean Lafleur S: Marvin McGara P: Julian Parnell Canada

In the third Ilsa movie (this time by a different director), she runs Gulag 14 in Siberia during the Korean War but flees when Stalin dies in 1953, goes to Montreal, and runs a whorehouse/dungeon. The action takes place during the 1976 Olympics. KGB agents invade at the end. Dyanne Thorne stars again, and her real-life husband, Howard Mauer, is in the cast. There's plenty of outrageous sex and torture deaths and a man-eating tiger. It's also available in a cut version (as Tigress), minus the chainsaw/arm-wrestling scene. It was supposedly released by New World. A fourth Ilsa movie was advertised in Variety ("Ilsa meets Bruce Lee in the Bermuda Triangle"!) but was not actually made.

ILSA, THE WICKED WARDEN

(CIC, 1977) D/S/A: Jesús Franco S/P: Edwin C. Dietrich Switzerland/W. Germany (Greta; Haus Ohne Mannen; Ilsa, The Absolute Power; Greta, the Mad Torturer; Greta, the Sadist; Wanda, the Wicked Warden)

This is one of four vile, humorless women-in-prison movies Franco made in succession for the same producer. It's not an Ilsa movie, but does copy them and was retitled in 1983 to cash in on their video popularity. Greta (Dyanne Thorne) runs a political prison in a South American jungle. An Amnesty International agent infiltrates it in search of her sister. There's lots of nudity, violence, and showers, a naked cat fight, lesbian scenes, snuff movies, acid injections, pins in breasts, and cannibalism. Greta is torn apart by the inmates at the end. With Tania Busselier as Abby, Lina Romay, and Howard Mauer. It uses the same sets as Barbed Wire Dolls. Cut and uncut versions are around.

Dyanne Thorne returns in Ilsa, Tigress of Siberia.

I, MADMAN

(Media, 1988) D: Tibor Takacs S: David Chaskin P: Rafael Eisenman (Hardcover)

A young actress (Jenny Wright, from Near Dark) with a cop boyfriend works at a used-book store. She's fascinated by the horror novels of a dead author, Malcolm Brand, who "makes Stephen King read like Mother Goose." In 40s period scenes, Brand, a creepy, bald, lovesick doctor and poet, slices off parts of his face to impress an actress, also played by Wright. After a while the whole front of his face is gone. He scalps another actress and wears her hair. Randall William Cook, who plays the bizarre killer, devised his own makeup and did the stop-motion animation. An impressive animated animal monster eats people (offscreen) and has a climactic fight in the store. After being cut in half, Cook resembles Johnny Eck in Freaks. At the end both creatures turn into pages of a book and float away. Although parts are boring and a bit confusing, this movie is more interesting than most dream/reality supernatural-killer movies and includes some fun references to Hitchcock and Tod Browning classics. Takacs also directed The Gate movies.

IMAGES

(1972) D/S: Robert Altman P: Tommy Thompson UK/US

After his excellent McCabe and Mrs. Miller, Altman made this little-known Repulsion-type movie. Susannah York is a children's-book writer living in an isolated house in Ireland. She hallucinates a lot and may be schizophrenic. Her evil double and her dead lover appear, and characters are murdered. René Auberjonois is her husband. Vilmos Zsigmond shot the film in Ireland. John Williams wrote the score (on CIF) which includes "sounds" by Stomu Yamashta. It's a Columbia release.

IMAGINE: JOHN LENNON

(RCA, 1988) D/P: Andrew Solt P: David L. Wolper

Yoko Ono helped make this documentary about her late husband and is interviewed in it. Andy Warhol, Jack Palance, Dick Cavett, and other celebs also appear. With footage of Lennon, the Plastic Ono Band, and the Beatles. Capitol released a soundtrack LP. The original 1971 Imagine (Sony) is a video album (the world's first) featuring all 10 songs from the Lennon album of the same name. The two Imagine tapes share some footage.

I-MAN

(1986) D: Corey Allen S/P: Howard Friedlander, Ken Peragine P: Richard Briggs

Scott Bakula is a cabdriver who becomes indestructible (along with his son and dog) because of a mysterious gas. This Disney movie was the pilot for an ABC-TV series that never made it, but Bakula went on to star in the popular Quantum Leap series. With John Anderson and Herschel Bernardi.

I MARRIED A VAMPIRE

(Starmaker, 1983) D/S: Jay Raskin P: Vicky Prodomidov

Russ Meyer's first film was The Immoral Mr. Teas.

A country girl (Rachel Gordon) meets and marries a 100-year-old vampire named Robespierre (Brendan Hickey) in the big city. Troma released this 16mm comedy in 1986.

I MARRIED A WITCH

(Warner, 1942) D/P: René Clair S: Robert Pirosh, Marc Connelly

A witch (Veronica Lake) and her wizard father (Cecil Kellaway) are burned in Salem, Massachusetts, in 1692. Centuries later, lightning frees their spirits from being imprisoned in a tree. She plans to curse a descendant (Fredric March) of the family that condemned them but falls in love with him. He's running for governor and is engaged to Susan Hayward. With Robert Benchley, Chester Conklin, and Monte Blue. (MGM countered with I Married an Angel the same year.) This charming fantasy/comedy from UA was the inspiration for the 60s TV show Bewitched. The famous French director who made The Ghost Goes West (1935) in England, directed It Happened Tomorrow (1944) and And Then There Were None (1945) in Hollywood before returning to France after WWII.

I'M DANGEROUS TONIGHT

(MCA, 1990) D: Tobe Hooper S/P: Bruce Lansbury S: Phillip John Taylor

A cursed Aztec cloak, made into a red dress, unleashes passion and hatred in a college town. This film is based on a 1937 Cornel Woolrich story. Madchen Amick (from Twin Peaks) stars as a shy Cinderella type who makes the dress, then becomes known as a slut. With Anthony Perkins as a suspicious professor, Natalie Schafer as the grandmother, Corey Parker, Dee Wallace Stone, R. Lee Ermey, and William Berger. It debuted on the USA Network.

I'M GONNA GIT YOU, SUCKA

(MGM/UA, 1988) D/S/A: Keenen Ivory Wayans P: Peter McCarthy, Carl Craig

All the clichés of early-70s black-action movies are revived in this often hilarious comedy. Wayans stars as nice-guy Nam-vet Jack Spade in "Any Ghetto, USA," Bernie Casey is John Slade, Isaac Hayes is Hammer, and Jim Brown is Slammer. There's even a spoof of the black exorcist movie Abby. With Antonio Fargas as Flyguy, Steve James, Ja'net DuBois, Damon Wayans, Chris Rock, Clarence Williams III, Eve Plumb (from The Brady Bunch), Anne-Marie Johnson, Becky LeBeau, and John Vernon as Mr. Big. The Arista soundtrack features the Gap Band, Curtis Mayfield, and others. Wayans went on to create the TV series In Living Color and tried to do a Hammer and Slammer series, but there was only a pilot.

THE IMMORAL MR. TEAS

(RM, 1959) D/S/C/E: Russ Meyer

This was the first "nudie cutie" hit. Some viewers will notice right away that it's a pretty close copy of the French "Mr. Hulot" movies, with nudity added. It was Russ Meyer's first film and was shot in five days for $24,000. Meyer was a Playboy photographer at the time. This 63-minute Eastmancolor film was a big hit and inspired "150 imitations within one year" (!). It's the only one of Meyer's pre-Lorna movies that he has released on tape (five others remain nearly impossible to see). Bill Teas stars as a deliveryman who imagines that women's clothes disappear. There's music but no words. June Wilkinson appears (uncredited), and there's a shot of the director in an audience.

THE IMMORAL THREE

(SW, 1972) D/P: Doris Wishman
S: Robert Jahn (Hotter Than Hell)

Three sisters (Sandy, Ginny, and Nancy) meet for the first time. They all stand to inherit a fortune and a luxury suburban house. Flashbacks reveal that their mom was "Agent 73," a big-breasted secret agent in Moscow who "used the only weapon she had." This color movie has lots of blood as characters die from a pitchfork, stabbings, and slashings. When not dying or killing, the various women take nude swims, suck on a banana, have sex, and do a sexy drunken aerobic dance. The music is Shaft-inspired "wah wah" guitar. Parts were filmed in New York City and Las Vegas. With Al Levitsky, a porno actor (also in Martin). The parts about the mother obviously inspired the Chesty Morgan movies Wishman made next. This was (briefly) a Joe Bob video release.

IMMORTAL COMBAT

(A-Pix, 1993) D/S/P: Daniel A. Niera S: Robert Crabtree US/Mexico (Resort to Kill)

Roddy Piper and Sonny Chiba are fighting LA-based federal agents. Eventually they both end up on a Caribbean island where drugs are used to bring back the dead and a half-assed Most Dangerous Game–type hunt occurs. The main opponent is a crazy, growling, long-haired, musclebound revived serial killer. A series of many narrated flashbacks (and visions) help confuse everything. Ninjas appear. The best action is when Chiba (who had starred in the Japanese Invasion of the Neptune Men 32 years earlier!) has sword fights. With Kim Morgan Greene as a photographer who is kidnapped, Meg Foster as the main villain, and big Tiny Lister, who cries. The music is overphrased rock.

THE IMMORTALIZER

(RCA, 1988) D: Joel Bender S: Mark M. Nelson P: Frederick Wolcott

Two couples are knocked out and kidnapped by ugly, growling, strong, lumpy-faced mutants. Big, bearded, laughing Dr. Devine (Ron Ray) transplants bloody young brains into old bodies in a hospital/house. Two derelict assistants (paid with booze) handle the mutants (kept in a pit) with cattle prods and feed them useless corpses, after they've gone through a Corpse Grinder–type machine. A cynical new criminal/doctor arrives to help, and the nurse wants both docs. The nurse is played by Melody Patterson (or Santangelo), Wrangler Jane from F Troop and the real-life wife of Hawaii Five-O's James MacArthur! After a transplant, she runs around naked with a new body (but the same voice). One of the assistants feels up a drugged, naked teenage girl (Playboy Playmate Rebekka Armstrong). "A new female monster" is thrown in the pit, and all the monsters fight. If Jerry Warren (Frankenstein's Island, Teenage Zombies) were still alive, and had slightly better production values and actors, I'd swear that he directed this stupid movie.

IMMORTAL SINS

(New Horizons, 1991) D: Herve Hachuel S: Tom Cleaver, Beverly Gray P: Roger Corman, Alida Camp

Maryam D'Abo marries Cliff De Young, the cursed heir to a Spanish castle. A succubus (Shari Shattuck, who has the sex scenes) tries to break up the marriage. It was filmed in Spain.

I, MOBSTER

(SW, 1958) D/P: Roger Corman
S: Steve Fisher P: Gene Corman

Joe Santi (Steve Cochran) narrates this story of how he moved up in (the real) Murder Incorporated, carried out hits, did time, and had to appear before a congressional hearing. Flashbacks to his childhood are remarkably like those in Scorsese's Goodfellas. With Lita Milan (Poor White Trash), Robert Strauss, Celia Lovsky as the mother, and Lili St. Cyr (as herself). Smaller roles are played by Yvette Vickers, Robert Shayne, Ed Nelson, and Bruno Ve Sota. Floyd Crosby was the cinematographer. The music is jazzy. This b/w Cinemascope 20th Century–Fox release is more expensive-looking than other Corman films of the period. The tape (from TV) is panned and scanned.

IMPACT VIDEO MAGAZINE

(MPI, 1989) P: Stuart Shapiro, Waleed Ali

Alex Winter (Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure) hosts videos by Public Enemy, Jane's Addiction, Butthole Surfers, and others. There are mondo-type sections with artist Robert Williams, SRL (Survival Research Laboratories), and Michael Musto in New York City. Also included is the cartoon Bambi Meets Godzilla. The 80-minute tape is from the makers of Mondo New York (and the Night Flight cable-TV program).

THE "IMP" PROBABLE MR. WEE GEE

(1966) D/S/P: Sherman Price

Wee Gee, the famous crime photographer, stars in this color nudie comedy as himself (somebody else provided his voice). He falls for a store-window dummy and follows her when she's shipped to London, where he meets a sexy ghost in a haunted house, and to Paris, where he's chased on the Eiffel Tower. Wee Gee also worked on Shangri-La (1961).

IMPROPER CONDUCT

(Monarch, 1994) D/S/P: Jag Mundhra
S: Carl Austin P: Victor Bhalla

Tahnee Welch is an employee at an LA ad agency who is assaulted by a coworker (John Laughlin). Steven Bauer represents her in court, but she loses the case, then dies in a car crash. Her sister (Lee Anne Beeman, the real star) goes undercover at the agency to expose the guilty. With Kathy Shower as the daughter of boss Stuart Whitman, Nia Peeples, and Adrian Zmed. This movie about sexual harassment is full of sex and shower scenes featuring Welch, Beeman, and Shower. R and unrated versions are available.

IMPULSE

(I.V.E., 1974) D: William Grefe S: Tony Grechales
P: Socrates Ballis (Want a Ride, Little Girl?)

What a find! William Shatner is Matthew Stone, a creepy, lying, seductive, psycho gigolo/hustler with sideburns, a scar, and white flare pants. A perfect, clichéd b/w flashback shows how as a kid he defended his mother by running a samurai sword through a tattooed drunk (William Kerwin!). Another flashback shows him crying while strangling a woman, then sinking her car. He seduces a widow (Jennifer Bishop, from Al Adamson movies and Hee Haw) whose best friend is played by Ruth Roman (who was in The Baby the same year). Only the woman's bratty, precocious little blond daughter (Kim Nicholas, who is perfect in the role) knows what a creep he is. Shatner/Stone runs over a dog, hangs Harold ("Oddjob") Sakata, and says things like "People like you should be ground up and made into dog food!" The video print is scratchy, but Impulse has excellent, clever cinematography and editing and is the most enjoyable of Grefe's made-in-Florida movies. It's a sleaze classic.

IMPULSE

(Vestron, 1984) D: Graham Baker S: Nicholas Kazan, Don Carlos Dunaway P: Tim Zimmerman

A toxic spill contaminates the milk in a small farming town after a mild earthquake. People start acting strange, then everyone goes crazy, doing bizarre and destructive things. Tim Matheson stars as a doctor, with Meg Tilly, Hume Cronyn, Jeff Fahey, Bill Paxton, Sheri Stoner, John Karlen, and Claude Earl Jones. The director also made Alien Nation. This is from 20th Century–Fox.

IMPULSE

(Warner, 1990) D: Sondra Locke S: John De Marco, Leigh Chapman P: Albert S. Ruddy, Andre Morgan

Theresa Russell stars as an LA narcotics cop who goes undercover as a hooker and gets lost in corruption and crime. With Jeff Fahey, George Dzundza, and Alan Rosenburg. Russell (who is good, as usual) played a "real" hooker in her next film, Whore. This was the second film directed by Locke, who had just sued Clint Eastwood for palimony.

IMPURE THOUGHTS

(Nelson, 1985) D/S/P: Michael A. Simpson
S: Michael J. Malloy P: William Vander Kloot

After four men die and are sent to Purgatory for forgotten, minor offenses against the Church, they remember their days as Catholic-school students together when JFK was shot. Brad Dourif stars in this PG comic fantasy, with Lane Davies, John Putch, and Terry Beaver. Dame Judith Anderson narrates. Simpson also made the Sleepaway Camp horror sequels.

IN ADVANCE OF THE LANDING

(1991) D/P: Dan Curtis Canada

North American people talk about their close-encounter experiences in this documentary, and UFO cults are seen as religion. With Betty Hill and John Shepard Hill (their story was told in the movie The UFO Incident), 90-year-old cult leader Archangel Uriel, old b/w news footage, and many 50s sci-fi-movie scenes and trailers. Actress Sherrie Rose is seen in one of the "real" on-the-street interviews. This16mm documentary is based on a book. It's not by the Dan Curtis who directed Dark Shadows.

IN A GLASS CAGE

(Cinevista, 1986) D/S: Agustín Villaronga
Spain (Tras el Cristal)

A Nazi doctor (Gunter Meisner) wanted for war crimes hides out in a Spanish villa during the 50s. His family is unaware of his vampirelike experiments on boys. When he falls and has to stay in an iron lung, a former victim (David Sust) arrives to be his nurse. Saying, "I love death," he uses blackmail and violence to take over. This has been called one of the most disturbing features ever made, by writers who should know. It was banned in Australia. It's subtitled.

IN A MOMENT OF PASSION

(Hemdale, 1992) D/S/P: Zbigniew Kaminski
S: Charles Haigh

Maxwell Caulfield is a psycho German-movie stand-in who kills, then somehow impersonates, a German-movie star (Jeff Conaway!) at a stud farm where a stunt woman from Texas named Pammy (Chase Masterson, who looks like Talia Shire) is learning to ride for an acting role. She falls for the impersonator while he kills off the cast and has sex with Conaway's large-breasted girlfriend in the dark (so she won't notice the difference!). Pammy also gets drunk and goes topless in a beer hall. Vivian Schilling shows up and sings (!) at a horse auction run by Joe Estevez. Julie Araskog is a blond lesbian, and Robert Z'Dar is Fritz. Wait till you hear the accents and the rap song. It's stupid! It's hilarious! It was shot in Lodz, Poland!

INCHON

(1981) D: Terence Young S: Robin Moore, Laird Koenig P: Mitsuharu Ishii S. Korea/US

Reverend Sung Myung Moon backed this One Way production, which took four years (and a reported $48 million) to make and ran 140 minutes when released by MGM/UA. If you've ever wondered what happened to the money that all those Church of Unification kids used to collect on American streets, here's one possible answer. Moon is credited as "spiritual adviser." Jacqueline Bisset and Ben Gazzara star in this anti-Communist epic about the Korean War, with Toshiro Mifune (also in Young's Red Sun), Richard Roundtree, Green Berets star David Janssen (in his last role), Rex Reed, Gordon Mitchell, and Laurence Olivier as a very old-looking General Douglas MacArthur. It features big battle scenes with real American troops as extras and some astounding continuity errors. It was shot in South Korea. The Jerry Goldsmith score was issued by Regency. Moon was convicted of tax fraud in 1982.

THE INCIDENT

(Fox, 1967) D: Larry Peerce
S: Nicholas E. Baehr
P: Monroe Sachson

Tony Musante and Martin Sheen (in his first film) star as Joe and Artie. They mug an old man, then terrorize people on the subway. All the characters are introduced before they board the train. Beau Bridges is a soldier with a broken arm who finally stands up to them. With Brock Peters, Ruby Dee, Jack Gilford, Thelma Ritter, Jan Sterling, Gary Merrill, Donna Mills (in her film debut), and Ed McMahon (who is good). This 20th Century–Fox movie was filmed in b/w in NYC. It's based on Ride to Terror, a 1963 TV drama. Don't miss the opening instrumental theme by Terry Knight. I saw this movie in a high-school assembly, thought it was depressing and scary, but later moved to New York anyway.

IN COLD BLOOD

(RCA, 1967) D/S/P: Richard Brooks

In 1959 two ex-cons (played convincingly by Robert Blake and Scott Wilson) rob and kill a family in Kansas. They're later caught, convicted, and hanged. The execution is depicted in graphic detail. This 134-minute film (told partially in flashbacks) is based on Truman Capote's 1966 novel. It's still the best true-crime movie around, not at all the typical Hollywood product. With John Forsythe as a cop, Paul Stewart as a reporter who narrates it, Jeff Corey, and Will Geer. It was shot on location in b/w by Conrad Hall in five states and Mexico. The Quincy Jones soundtrack is on Colgems. Brooks had directed Blackboard Jungle and Elmer Gantry, among many other important films.

Lou Ferrigno, on a break from starring in The Incredible Hulk, promotes the Movieland Wax Museum.

THE INCREDIBLE HULK RETURNS

(Starmaker, 1988) D/S: Nicholas Corea
P: Daniel McPhee

Star Bill Bixby was an executive producer of this NBC-TV Hulk revival series pilot from New World. Lou Ferrigno returns as the Hulk, but the idea was to introduce another Marvel character, Thor. Also with Lee Purcell, Tim Thomerson, and Charles Napier as a Cajun villain. The Trial of the Incredible

Hulk, featuring Rex Smith as Daredevil (1989) and The Death of the Incredible Hulk (1990) followed. Bixby (who died in 1994) even directed those. The original series ran from 1978 to 1982.

THE INCREDIBLE SEX REVOLUTION

(1965) D/S/P: Albert Zugsmith

Lee Gladden (as himself) explains problems of the sexual revolution in this b/w "sex education" film. He hears stories from patients, Adam and Eve appear, and motel sex is illustrated. The only name in the cast is Alex D'Arcy. It was the first of Zugsmith's independent Famous Players adult films. He returned with Movie Star American Style (1966).

THE INCREDIBLY STRANGE FILM SHOW

(1988–89) UK

These well-made, high-quality 45-minute (or less) documentaries were made by Channel X in London and hosted by Jonathan Ross. My only complaint is that they play down the more shocking and subversive elements of many of the films covered. I guess they had to do it that way for television. The programs were broadcast in the US on the Discovery Channel in 1990 (except for the Russ Meyer segment) and have been widely circulated on tape since. The show took its name from a book from Re/Search in San Francisco, which has taken it from Ray Dennis Steckler's movie The Incredibly Strange Creatures Who Stopped Living and Became Mixed-Up Zombies. The first is on American cult directors Herschell Gordon Lewis, Russ Meyer, Ted V. Mikels, Ray Dennis Steckler, John Waters, and Ed Wood Jr. The second series covers directors in Hong Kong (Jackie Chan and Tsui Hark) and Mexico (Santo), and includes segments on George Romero, Stuart Gordon, Sam Raimi, Fred Olen Ray, Tom Savini, and Doris Wishman. A third, higher-brow follow-up series, called For One Week Only (1990), includes directors Aki Kaurismaki from Finland, Pedro Almodovar from Spain, Alexandro Jodorowsky, and David Lynch.

INDECENCY

(MCA, 1992) D: Marisa Silver S: Amy Holden Jones, Holly Goldberg Sloan, Alan Ormsby P: Harvey Frand

Jennifer Beals goes to work at an ad agency after a mental breakdown. Her boss (Barbara Williams) is murdered. This PG mystery features drugs, sex, suicide, and embezzlement. With Sammi Davis-Voss and James Remar. Silver also directed Vital Signs, Permanent Record, and other films.

INDECENT BEHAVIOR

(WEA, 1993) D: Lawrence Lanoff S: Rosalind Robinson P: Michael Cain

Gary Hudson stars as a detective on a case of murder by designer drug who falls for a sex therapist who's a suspect (Shannon Tweed). With Jan-Michael Vincent as her husband, Brandy Sanders (from Penthouse) as her niece, Michelle Moffat as a sex-surrogate, and Lawrence Hilton-Jacobs. R and unrated videos are available. Indecent Behavior II followed.

INDECENT DESIRES

(SW, 1967) D/S/P: Doris Wishman

A young guy with wire frames and salt-and-pepper hair finds a magic voodoo doll. Whatever he does to the doll (feels it up, undresses it, whips it . . .), Ann (blonde Sharon Kent) feels. She thinks she's losing her mind. After he sees her with her fiancé, he breaks the doll's neck. Ann has nude scenes and her friend Babs gets dressed, strips, then exercises. It's one of the last b/w New York movies by Wishman (who used the names "Louis Silverman" and "Dawn Whitman"), the hardest working woman in adults-only features.

INDIANA JONES AND THE LAST CRUSADE

(Paramount, 1989) D: Steven Spielberg S: Jeffrey Boam P: Robert Watts M: John Williams

In 1938 Harrison Ford as Indiana Jones and Sean Connery as his missing archaeologist father search for the Holy Grail, and become involved with Nazi Alison Doody. They face lots of rats and Nazis, and ride in a dirigible. Denholm Elliott and John Rhys-Davies return from Raiders of the Lost Ark, and River Phoenix is young Indy in the opening flashback. With Julian Glover and Alex Hyde-White. The ILM FX received Oscars again. This $115 million PG-13 hit from executive producer George Lucas includes many outrageous continuity errors. In 1991 all three Indiana Jones tapes were being sold as part of a promotional tie-in at McDonald's for around $5 each. The next stop for the concept (based on old serials) was the Young Indiana Jones TV series.

INDIANA JONES AND THE TEMPLE OF DOOM

(Paramount, 1984) D: Steven Spielberg S: Willard Huyck, Gloria Katz P: Robert Watts M: John Williams

This is a prequel to Raiders of the Lost Ark, set in 1935 Shanghai and India. Harrison Ford stars, with 12-year-old Ke Huy Quan as Short Round and Kate Capshaw. Dan Aykroyd has a bit part. There is a banquet featuring monkey brains and eyeballs, and a heart is ripped out. The ILM FX received an Oscar, but complaints about some of the effects in this PG "family" movie helped lead to the creation of the PG-13 rating. Complaints about the old-fashioned racism didn't change anything. It was shot in Sri Lanka and made $109 million. By the time this came out, we had already been offered three (!) TV rip-offs: The Quest, Bring 'Em Back Alive, and Tales of the Gold Monkey. Polydor released the soundtrack.

INDIAN PAINT

(1965) D/S: Norman Foster P: Gene Goree

Johnny Crawford (from the TV series The Rifleman) stars as 15-year-old Arikara, and Jay Silverheels (from The Lone Ranger) is his Commanche chief father. Crawford sings, rides his horse, and participates in tribal rites. Floyd Crosby was the cinematographer of this Crown release, filmed in Texas.

INDIAN RAID, INDIAN MAID

(SW, 1969) D/P: Bob Favorite S: Bruce Kerr

This very dumb slapstick sex comedy features a bumbling secret agent, clichéd hillbillies, and "Indians." Long soft-core sex scenes take place in a car and a bathtub. It also includes fire breathing, strip poker, and silicone star Morgana's "devil dance."

THE INDIAN RUNNER

(MGM, 1991) D/S: Sean Penn P: Don Phillips

A small-town highway patrolman (David Morse) and his violent, out-of-control Nam-vet younger brother (Viggo Mortensen) are the main characters in this movie, based on the Bruce Springsteen song, "Highway Patrolman." With Valeria Golino, Charles Bronson as the father, Sandy Dennis (in her last role), Dennis Hopper as a bartender, Patricia Arquette, and Eileen Ryan (Penn's real-life mother). This 127-minute MGM release is set in Nebraska during the late 60s and includes many flashbacks.

THE INDIAN SCARF

(Sinister, 1963) D: Alfred Vohrer S: Georg Hurdalek, H. G. Peterson W. Germany (Das Indische Tuch)

A black-gloved mystery man kills off people trapped in a castle for the reading of a will. Heinz Drache is the attorney. Klaus Kinski as Peter Ross terrorizes women with lit cigarettes and a tarantula. With Elizabeth Flickenschild and Ady Berber. It's based on Edgar Wallace's The Case of the Frightened Lady, which had been a play and was previously filmed in 1932 and 1940 in England. This version went directly to TV in the US.

INDIO

(Media, 1988) D: "Anthony Dawson"/ Antonio Marghereti S/P: Filiberto Bandini M: Pino Donaggio Italy

In this environmentally correct action movie, Francesco Quinn stars as a half-Indian ex-Marine who becomes a Rambo-style fighter in the South American rain forest, waging a one-man war against corporate villain Brian Dennehy, a former Army colonel. With "Marvelous" Marvin Hagler. It was filmed in the Philippines, Borneo, Brazil, and Argentina.

INDIO II: THE REVOLT

(IVE, 1990) D: Antonio Marghereti S/P: Filiberto Bandini S: Gianfranco Bucceri Italy

Former boxing champ "Marvelous" Marvin Hagler stars as Sergeant Iron. He leads Indians against the South American villains who destroy the rain forest and enslave the Indians. With Charles Napier as an evil highway builder and Indio star Francesco Quinn (who is killed at the begining). There's plenty of blood, mud, and explosions and a slave revolt in this sequel, probably filmed back to back with the original.

INDUSTRIAL SYMPHONY No.1

(Warner, 1990) D: David Lynch

Singer Julee Cruise (from Iowa) sang on the Blue Velvet soundtrack, then appeared in the TV series Twin Peaks. She's in this strange, jazzy "opera" about a broken love affair in an industrial wasteland, with Laura Dern and Nicolas Cage (both in Lynch's Wild at Heart the same year). It's 43 minutes long. Cruise became a replacement member of the B-52's in 1992.

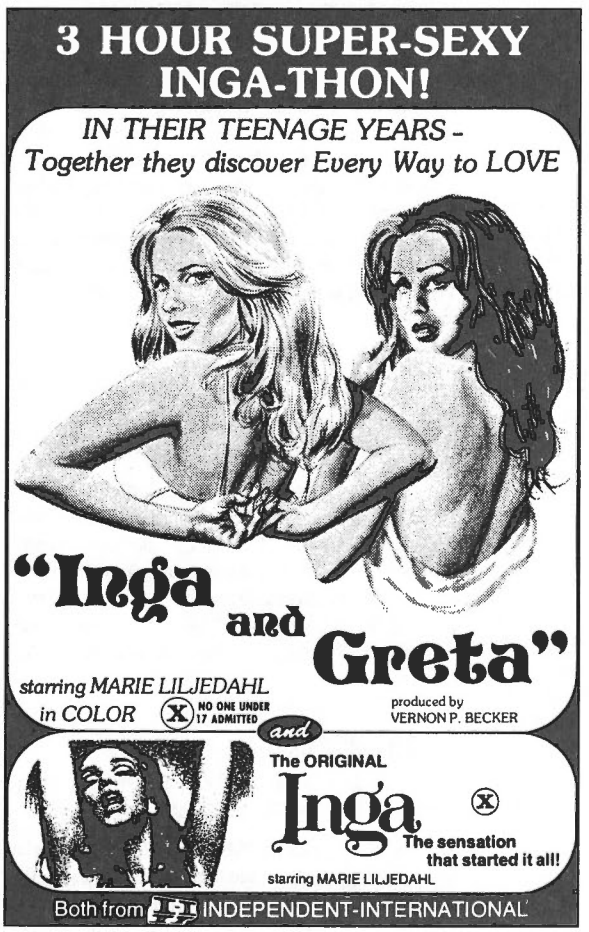
I NEVER PROMISED YOU A ROSE GARDEN

(1977) D: Anthony Page S: Lewis John Carlino, Gavin Lambert P: Terence F. Deane, Daniel H. Blatt, Michael Hausman

Kathleen Quinlan stars as a schizophrenic teen who hallucinates in a mental hospital. The people she hallucinates are played by a modern-dance troupe. Bergman star Bibi Andersson is a helpful psychiatrist. With Susan Tyrrell, Signe Hasso, Diane Varsi, Sylvia Sidney, Lorraine Gary, Barbara Steele, Reni Santoni, Dennis Quaid, and Jeff Conaway. Roger Corman was the executive producer of this unusually serious New World release, based on Hannah Green's memoir.



INEVITABLE GRACE

(1993) D/S: Alex Canawati P: Christian Capobianco

A Beverly Hills millionaire (Maxwell Caulfield), obsessed with Grace Kelly, blackmails a woman into "becoming" her. Jennifer Nicholson (Jack's red-headed daughter) stars as the woman who rushes out of a revival-movie theater and ends up in an asylum under the care of a doctor (Stephanie Knights). With Tippi Hedren as the director of the asylum, Samantha Eggar, Sandra Knight (Nicholson's former wife and his costar in The Terror), Victoria Sellers (daughter of Peter), and Taylor Negron. This Hitchcock-inspired low-budget debut by a USC film-school graduate was based on his 1989 student short.

INFERNO

(Fox, 1978) D/S: Dario Argento P: Claudio Argento C: Mario Bava Italy

A gothic mansion in New York City overlooking Central Park is the setting for this confusing but atmospheric and memorable movie about "the mother of darkness." It's sort of a sequel to Suspiria. There are lots of rats, a bag of cats, and an amazing underwater chamber filled with corpses, Leigh McCloskey (from Dallas) stars, with Alida Valli, Daria Nicolodi, and Irene Miracle. Lamberto Bava was the assistant director. Cinematographer Bava (who died in 1980) is credited with the FX. Keith Emerson did the score. 20th Century–Fox, the company that had released Suspiria (1977), was supposed to release Inferno, but didn't. The uncut version runs 106 minutes. Argento's next, Unsane, wasn't released in American theaters either.

INGA

(VSOM, 1968) D/S: Joseph W. Sarno P: Donald C. Dennis US/Sweden (Jag en Oskuld)

Marie Liljedahl stars as a 17-year-old sent to live with a scheming aunt who wants her to become a rich neighbor's mistress. She falls for a young man instead. This adult hit was released by Jerry Gross' Cinemation and later rereleased by Independent International on an X-rated double bill with Inga and Greta (also starring Liljedahl), advertised as "a 3 hour super-sexy Inga-thon!" Liljedalhl is also in more bizarre movies, like Eugenie (1969) and Dorian Gray (1970), both from producer Harry Alan Towers, and Grimm's Fairy Tales for Adults (1970).

INGAGI

(1930)

This notorious exploitation hit was supposedly a documentary of "Sir Hubert Winstead's" expedition into the Belgian Congo. The footage of wild animals is from the silent film Heart of Africa. The ending features naked native women offering one of their own as human sacrifice to Ingagi the gorilla. This payoff segment was filmed in California with local women as natives and a man in a gorilla costume. Ingagi was so well known in the 30s that it was the topic of a joke in an Our Gang comedy. It was banned in Ohio and (for a while) in New York, played for years on the exploitation-film circuit, and was imitated many times by other films, including Forbidden Adventure (also called The Love Life of a Gorilla) and Ankor.

IN GOLD WE TRUST

(AIP, 1990) D/P: Chalong Pakdeevichit S: Tony S. Suvat, Buncherd Dhawee Thailand (Gold of the Samurai)

Jan-Michael Vincent is an ex–Green Beret in Laos to track down some MIAs who have a stash of stolen gold. Sherrie Rose joins him, and Sam Jones is the psycho who leads the killer ex-soldiers. The plot (which copies parts of Apocalypse Now) includes local freedom fighters and some Japanese soldiers left over from WWII.

THE INITIATION

(HBO, 1984) D: Larry Stewart S: Charles Pratt Jr. P: Scott Winant

Daphne Zuniga (in her first role) stars as a sorority sister who has amnesia about her childhood and is hooked up to a "dream machine" to get rid of a recurring nightmare. She joins other young people in her father's department store at night, and they're decapitated (offscreen), axed, shot by arrows, or stabbed with garden tools. This bad-taste A Nightmare on Elm Street–inspired movie has a nude shower scene, a rape, and ridiculous multiple-surprise endings. A "repressed desires" costume party has teens dressed as hookers and in S&M gear. Vera Miles and Clu Gulager are the rich parents. This New World release was filmed in the Fort Worth area.

INNER SANCTUM

(Sinister, 1948) D: Lew Landers S: Jerome Todd Golland P: Samuel Rheiner, Walter Shenson

A Gypsy fortuneteller predicts disaster for a girl on a train, and a murder occurs. Charles Russell stars, with Mary Beth Hughes, Nana Bryant, Lee Patrick (The Maltese Falcon), and Fritz Leiber. This Film Classics release was based on the famous radio program, as were six earlier Universal features (all with Lon Chaney Jr.).

INNER SANCTUM

(RCA, 1991) D/P: Fred Olen Ray S: Mark Thomas McGhee P: Alam Amiel

This has nothing to do with the old Universal series or the radio program. It's a senseless "erotic gothic thriller" whose plot is similar to the plot of Ray's The Haunting Fear. Sadistic Joseph Bottoms has a wealthy wife in a wheelchair (Valerie Wildman) but wants to be with Margaux Hemingway (who is body-doubled by Michelle Bauer). Tanya Roberts (from Charlie's Angels) plays the blond live-in nurse, who has other ideas and most of the nude sex scenes. With Russ Tamblyn, Jay Robinson, Brett Clark, and Suzanne Ager. Ray used the same house for Evil Toons and Spirits. R and unrated versions are available. Mark Damon was the executive producer of this New Line release.

INNER SANCTUM 2

(Columbia, 1994) D/S: Fred Olen Ray S: Steve Armogida P: Alan Amiel

In between various nightmares, hallucinations, nightmares-inside-of-nightmares, and sex scenes there's some kind of plot here about Michael Nouri coming to stay with his late brother-in-law's traumatized wife (Sandahl Bergman) and people being decapitated. Blond Jennifer Reed (replacing Tanya Roberts as the nurse from the first movie) is the main visual attraction in and out of her mini-skirt. Bergman dances in a graveyard with her dead husband (Kato Kaelin in ghoul makeup) and there's a sex-with-a-rotting-corpse scene. With David Warner (doctor), Joe Estevez (cop), Robert Quarry (lawyer), Suzanne Ager, John Blythe Barrymore, and Margaux Hemingway lingering from Inner Sanctum. This was the unrated version.

INNERSPACE

(Warner, 1987) D: Joe Dante S: Jeffrey Boam, Chip Proser P: Michael Finnell

A Navy test pilot (Dennis Quaid) is miniaturized in a lab experiment, then accidentally injected into the body of a supermarket cashier (Martin Short). Spies chase after the confused Short. Although it's partially a comedic version of Fantastic Voyage (1966) it has typical Dante guest stars and gags. Meg Ryan costars with Kevin McCarthy, Fiona Lewis as Dr. Canker, Vernon Wells, William Schallert, Henry Gibson, Orson Bean, Kathleen Freeman, Dick Miller, Kenneth Tobey, Wendy Schaal, Joe Flaherty, and Andrea Martin. The FX by ILM and Rob Boltin received an Oscar. It was the first major video released letterboxed, which is great, but it includes a Pepsi commercial, which isn't. Geffen released the Jerry Goldsmith soundtrack, which includes various rock artists. Steven Spielberg was an executive producer.

INNOCENT BLOOD

(Warner, 1992) D: John Landis S: Michael Wolk P: Lee Rich, Leslie Belzberg

Anne Parillaud (the French star of La Femme Nikita) stars as Marie, a sexy vampire, in what could have been called A French Vampire in Pittsburgh. This horror comedy is actually better than Landis' An American Werewolf in London (1981), and Parillaud has several memorable nude scenes. Anthony La Paglia is an undercover cop who falls for her, Robert Loggia is a gangster who becomes a bloodsucker, and Don Rickles is a lawyer (he has the best death scene). Snowy Pittsburgh looks more interesting than it really does, thanks to added neon. Many vintage film clips (showing Hitchcock, Lugosi, and others) are glimpsed on TV sets, and Sinatra standards are used on the soundtrack. Small roles and bit parts are played by Angela Bassett, Tom Savini, Kim Coates, Linnea Quigley (in a cameo with her husband, Steve Johnson, who also did the FX), Teri Weigel, Sam Raimi, Sherrie Rose, Forrest J. Ackerman, Dario Argento, and Frank Oz. Dan Quayle appears in a clip.

INNOCENT PREY

(SVS, 1984) D/S: Colin Eggleston P: Ron McLean Australia

If you missed P. J. Soles (Halloween, Rock 'n' Roll High School), here she is in a mediocre psycho-killer movie. In Dallas her con-man husband from New Zealand is captured after killing hookers, breaks out of prison, and murders a bunch of cops (he decapitates one). She flees to Sydney and stays in a house owned by a young millionaire voyeur who monitors everything she does. More people start to die, and I fell asleep. Martin Balsam is a friendly sheriff from back home. The music is by Brian May.

INNOCENT SALLY

(Private Screenings, 1973) D: Bethel G. Buckalew (The Dirty Mind of Young Sally)

Red-haired Sharon Kelly (later billed as Colleen Brennan in X films) is at her perky best starring in this sex comedy. She runs and stars on an illegal pirate radio station from a van, playing "music to ball by" and turning on listeners with her voice, backed by bongos and flute music. She takes calls and offers herself as the prize in a contest. George "Buck" Flower is Toby, her hick engineer, who says things like "Jumpin' Jehoshaphat!" Both have legit jobs at a real station, and comic cops are after them. The many sex scenes, featuring couples on a beach, in cars, at the station, and Kelly herself, border on (and briefly cross into) hard X. With Robyn Whitting.

INNOCENTS FROM HELL: See SISTERS OF SATAN

INN OF THE DAMNED

(Paragon, 1974) D/S/P: Terry Bourke P: Rod Hay Australia

A German woman (Judith Anderson) runs a stagecoach inn in the late-19th-century outback. She and her husband kill lodgers because their children were killed by an escaped lunatic. With Alex Cord as an American lawman, Tony Bonner, and Michael Craig. It's more than two hours long.

THE INN ON THE RIVER

(Sinister, 1962) D: Alfred Vohrer S: Trygve Larsen, H. G. Peterson W. Germany (Das Gasthaus an der Themse)

Joachim Fuchsberger, as Inspector Wade of Scotland Yard, tries to catch "the Shark," a killer in a scuba-diving suit. With Brigitte Grothum (who sings the theme song) and Klaus Kinski (with a mustache) as Gregor Gubanow, and Richard Much. There's some twist music. It's based on Edgar Wallace's The India Rubber Men, filmed as The Return of the Frog in 1938 in England.

IN 'N' OUT

(Starmaker, 1984) D/S: Richard Franco S: Eileen Kesend P: Michael James Egan US/Mexico (Gringo Mojado)

Divorced and suicidal Sam Bottoms goes to Mexico to claim an inheritance. This PG comedy costars Isela Vega.

IN POSSESSION

(1984) D: Val Guest S: Michael J. Bird UK

An American (Carol Lynley) and her British husband (Christopher Cazenove) see visions of a murder and a ghost couple while on vacation. Back in the city more strange things happen, and there's a trick ending. It's a Hammer TV movie.

THE INQUIRY

(1987) D/S: Damiano Damiani S: Vittorio Boniocelli Italy (L'Inchiesta)

Keith Carradine is a Roman looking for the body of Christ several years after the Crucifixion. He disguises himself as a Jew and is mistaken for Christ by some lepers. A magician spins a man's head around. Harvey Keitel (soon to play Judas in The Last Temptation of Christ) is Pontius Pilate. It's by the director of Amityville II.

INQUISITION

(Vid City, 1976) D/S/A: "Jacinto Molina"/ Paul Naschy Spain

Naschy is a witch-hunting judge in 16th-century France, during an outbreak of plague. He falls for a woman, is seduced and tricked, and ends up being burned as a warlock. Naschy also plays Satan. This was the first of many times that the horror star directed himself. He added lots of nudity, violence, and torture, and borrowed ideas from Mark of the Devil (1970).

IN SEARCH OF DR. SEUSS

(Turner, 1994) D: Vincent Paterson S: Keith R. Clarke P: Joni Levin

The children's-book characters of the late Dr. Seuss (Theodore Geisel) come to life in this mixture of fact-based biography and fantasy, using both live action and animation. Kathy Najimy is a reporter who is given a tour of the Seuss fantasy world by The Cat In The Hat (Matt Frewer). Various characters are played by Robin Williams, Christopher Lloyd, Billy Crystal, Howie Mandel, Eileen Brennan, Graham Jarvis, and Patrick Stewart. Also with a look at Seuss's Oscar-winning WWII short Hitler Lives(!). From TNT.

IN SEARCH OF HISTORIC JESUS

(Vestron, 1979) D: Henning Schellerup S: Marvin Wald, Jack Jacobs P: Charles Sellier Jr.

This G-rated Sunn Classics docudrama (from the same people who were in search of UFOs and various monsters) recreates events in the life of Christ (John Rubinstein) and wonders about "the Shroud of Turin." It reuses footage from In Search of Noah's Ark, but the cast includes some good character actors. With Royal Dano as the prophet, Nehemiah Persoff, John Anderson, John Hoyt, and Morgan Brittany. Brad Crandall narrates.

IN SEARCH OF NOAH'S ARK

(Vestron, 1976) D/S: James L. Conway S/P: Charles Sellier Jr.

The biblical re-creations, shot in Utah (standing in for Turkey), are out of focus and grainy, but this G-rated speculation movie was a hit. It's narrated by Brad Crandall. It was the most profitable of the many popular Sunn/Taft family releases, which included Grizzly Adams (1975), Chariots of the Gods?(1974), and Beyond and Back (1978).

INSERTS

(Paramount, 1976) D/S: John Byrum
P: Davina Belling UK

Richard Dreyfuss stars as "the Boy Wonder," a manic, once-promising 30s Hollywood director who now makes illegal 16mm stag films in the mansion he refuses to leave. The unique theatrical feature takes place in the 30s. With Jessica Harper, Veronica Cartwright (who has surprising, energetic sex scenes) as a drug-addicted actress, and Bob Hoskins as Big Mac. Some have suggested that the (impotent) Dreyfuss character was based on Ed Wood Jr! Others suggest Tod Browning. United Artists released it.

THE INSIDE MAN

(Bingo, 1984) D: Tom Clegg S: Alan Plater P: Ingemar Ejve, Calvin Floyd, Bjorn Henricson Sweden

Dennis Hopper is a CIA agent in Sweden who makes a young Marine (Gosta Ekman) go undercover to find a laser search device from a Soviet submarine. Hopper is only a guest star. With Hardy Kruger and Cory Molder. Clegg also directed Hammer TV movies in England.

INSIDE MONKEY ZETTERLAND

(Prism, 1992) D: Jeffrey Levy S/P/A: Steve Antin P: Chuck Grile, Tani Cohen

A young LA screenwriter (Steve Antin) who's in therapy and still lives with his dysfunctional family narrates (in various comical voices) his flashbacks and daydreams. His soap-opera-star mother (Katherine Helmond) rents a room to a terrorist couple (Martha Plimpton and Rupert Everett). Other recognizable actors show up in this "wacky" comedy, several as gay characters. With Patricia Arquette as the lesbian sister, Debi Mazar, Sofia Coppola, Sandra Bernhard, Ricki Lake, Luca Bercovici, Bo Hopkins as the biker father, and Lance Loud as a shrink. It's from IRS.

INSIDE OUT

(Playboy, 1992) D: Lizzie Borden, Adam Friedman, Linda Hossani, Alexander Payne, Tony Randel, Jeff Reiner, Richard Shepard S: Larry Golin, Robert Karstadt (+10 more) P: Alan Poul
(Tales of the Unexpected)

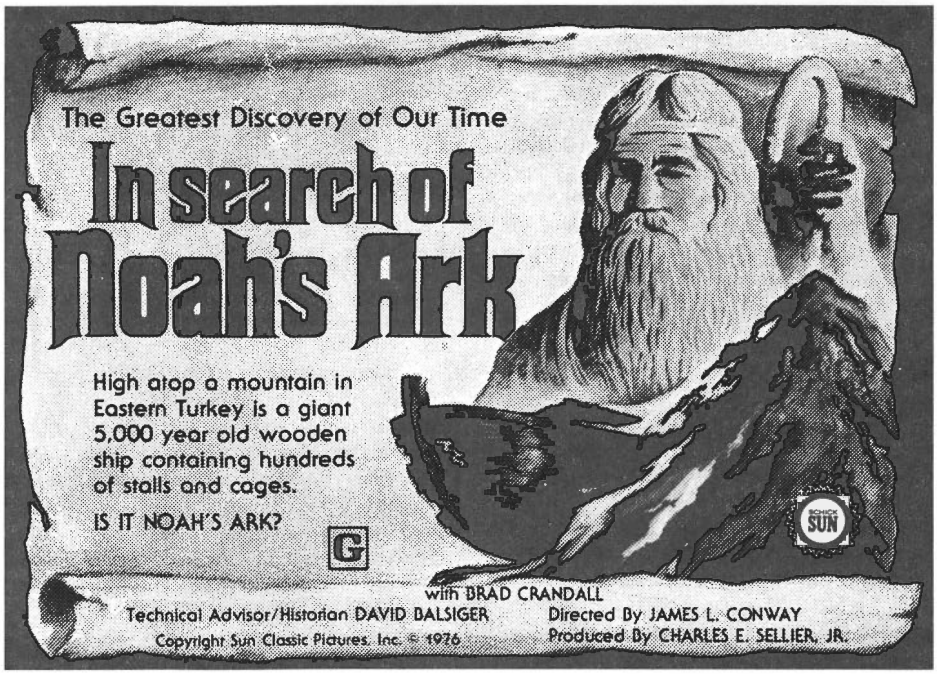
These 9 short "erotic tales of the unexpected" were part of a cable-TV series. One of the two by Randel stars Sherrie Rose as a woman in space with a romantic computer. One of Borden's (who also did two) stars Joe Dallesandro and Neith Hunter. One tale is about astral projection, and another features a man having sex with his female "better half" from a mirror world. Others star Cec Verrell and porno actress Rachel Ryan. A few are funny, sexy, or thought-provoking, and some might surprise you, but if you're looking for nudity you'll be disappointed. This tape seems designed for couples. At the price they're asking, each short will cost you around $8.



INSIDE OUT II

(Playboy, 1992) D: 8 of 'em P: Alan Poul

The best segment is Yuri Sivo's hilarious and well-made takeoff on Woody Allan's Zelig, starring Kitten Natividad as a sex star. Bruce Glover is in a good segment by Nicholas Brandt. Most of the others are forgettable, and Tony Randel's b/w short about masked aliens is especially pretentious. The cast includes Jack Carter, George "Buck" Flower, and Lisa London. Inside Out III and IV (1992) followed.

THE INSIDERS: See POLICEWOMAN

INSIDE THE GOLDMINE

(1994) D/S/A: Josh Evans S: Uri Zighelboim P: Adam Stern

Alan Marshall stars with Josh Evans (son of Robert Evans and Ali McGraw) in this story about spoiled, bored Hollywood rich kids and the murder of a young woman. With Alicia Tully Jensen, Charlie Spradling, Natasha Wagner, Drew Barrymore, and many nonprofessional actors.

INSIGNIFICANCE

(Warner, 1985) D: Nicolas Roeg
S: Terry Johnson P: Jeremy Thomas

Famous people all show up in a New York City hotel in 1954. Marilyn Monroe (Theresa Russell) explains the theory of relativity to Albert Einstein (Michael Emil). It's based on Terry Johnson's play. No real names are used, but Tony Curtis seems to be Joseph McCarthy, and Gary Busey resembles Joe DiMaggio. The cast also includes Will Sampson. A theater marquee advertises The Creature from the Black Lagoon.

INSTANT JUSTICE

(Warner, 1987) D: Dennis Amar
D/S/P: Craig T. Rumar (Marine Issue)

Michael Paré stars as a Marine sergeant named Youngblood who searches for his sister's killers, with help from a hooker (Tawny Kitaen). Charles Napier is Major Davis. It was filmed in Gibraltar.

INSTANT KARMA

(MGM, 1990) D: Roderick Taylor S: Bruce A. Taylor P: Dale Rosenblum, Bruce A. Taylor

Craig Sheffer stars in this comedy as a TV-network consultant looking for love. William Smith and David Cassidy are the stars of the fictitious Rock 'n' Roll P.I. series. They ride motorcycles and sing a duet. With Chelsea Noble, Orson Bean, Marty Engels, and Rebekka Armstrong.

INTENT TO KILL

(PM, 1992) D/S: Charles T. Kanagis
P: Richard Pepin, Joseph Merhi

Traci Lords returns in another action movie, this time as a cop who battles South American drug dealers led by Angelo Tiffe. There are feminist themes (she teaches self-defense to women, beats rapists, and throws out the cop she lives with for cheating). It also has lots of shooting, slo-mo explosions, car chases, and crashes (resulting in an NC-17 rating) and still manages to be kind of boring. The classical music doesn't help. The cast includes Yaphet Kotto as the captain, Michael Foley, and Elena Sahagan as a hooker. Kanagis also directed Lords in A Time to Die.

INTERCEPTOR

(Vidmark, 1992) D: Michael Cohn S: John Brancato, Michael Ferris P: Mark Armin, Frank Kostenko Jr.

Andrew Divoff is a Stealth Bomber pilot fighting killer terrorists led by Jürgen Prochnow. The villains are after two jets with virtual-reality guidance systems. The plot is basically the same as the plot of Under Siege. Also with Elizabeth Morehead.

INTERNATIONAL STEWARDESSES

(1974) D/S/P: Alf Silliman P: Chris J. Condon
(Supersonic Supergirls; The Stewardesses, Part II)

This 3-D X-rated sequel to The Stewardesses is by the same director. It was filmed around the world.

INTERVIEW WITH THE VAMPIRE

(Warner 1994) D/S: Neil Jordan S: Anne Rice
P: Stephen Wolley M: Elliot Goldenthal

Brad Pitt stars as Louis, a 1790s New Orleans plantation owner and slave owner who becomes an ageless vampire searching for the meaning of it all. The story, which mostly shifts between 1870s Paris (where vampires stage horror plays) and modern times, is told from his point of view. Tom Cruise (in lift shoes) is the tall, blond Lestat. With Kirsten Dunst (who was 11 years old) as the little girl vampire, and Antonio Banderas as Armand. It's a great-looking movie and is much better than Coppola's Dracula. The only part I hated was the Guns 'n Roses remake of "Sympathy for the Devil" at the end. Anne Rice's 1976 novel had sold five million copies. The 122-minute David Geffen production was 17 years in development and was a hit for Jordan (just after his The Crying Game). It cost over $50 million and was shot in New Orleans, San Francisco, and Paris. Some of the Stan Winston gore FX were cut pre-release, but there's still a body-cut-in-half scene that's pretty strong for such a major release. Also with Stephen Rea and Christian Slater (who replaced the late River Phoenix) as the reporter. The score is on Geffen Records.

INTERZONE

(TWE, 1986) D: Deran Sarafian
S: James Edwards P: David Hills

A peaceful group turns to a warrior named Swan to save them from a post-nuke tribe. He's killed for failing and then brought back to life. With Bruce Abbott and female bodybuilder Tegan Clive.

IN THE AFTERMATH

(Starmaker, 1988) D/S: Carl Colpaert S: Mamoru Oshii US/Japan (Angels Never Sleep)

An angel brings a magic egg to post-nuke Earth in animated scenes, and two survivors (Tony Markes and Rainbow Dolan) appear in live-action scenes. The director is from Belgium. Anthony Moore wrote the music.

IN THE COLD OF THE NIGHT

(Republic, 1989) D/P: Nico Mastorakis
S: Frank C. Perry

A musclebound Malibu beach gigolo/photographer (Jeff Lester) has dreams of killing women he had sex with. Adrienne Sachs is his dream-girl, a model with a motorcycle. It's about mind-control experiments and features lots of sex. With Shannon Tweed, Marc Singer, Brian Thompson, David Soul as a shrink, John Beck, and Tippi Hedren in one scene as a mom afraid of birds. Scenes are repeated, and clips of other Mastorakis films are watched on TV. It runs a long 113 minutes and is available in R and NC-17 versions.

IN THE DEEP WOODS

(Atlantic, 1992) D: Charles Correll S: Robert Nathan, Robert Rosenblum P: Frederic Golchan

Anthony Perkins played his last role in this NBC-TV movie, and it's a typically weird one. He's a man who follows a children's-book illustrator (Rosanna Arquette) while a psycho is killing successful women after torturing them with burns and pliers. It turns out that Perkins is after the "Deep Woods" serial killer, who murdered his daughter. The cast includes Will Patton as an FBI man, Chris Rydell as Arquette's strange brother, D. W. Moffat as her lover, and Kimberly Beck. It's based on the novel by Nicholas Conde.

IN THE EYE OF THE SNAKE

(AIP, 1994) D: Max Reid S: Efrem Camerin
S/P: Jacques Sandoz Switzerland

Marc (Jason Cairns) is a snake-expert teen who works at a museum in Geneva. He owns many snakes and even sleeps with and bathes with his pet python. He falls for Malenka (Sidney Penny), the assistant/mistress of a snake-expert professor (Malcolm McDowell) who turns out to be a fraud, a coward, and a dangerous psycho who seduced Marc's mother (Lois Chiles). Howard Vernon appears in flashbacks filmed in Burundi. The music is by Patrick Moraz. It could be rated PG. Reid also directed Wild Thing (1987), written by John Sayles.

IN THE HEAT OF PASSION

(RCA, 1992) D/S/P: Rodman Felder

Nick Corri stars as a part-time actor (named Charley Bronson) cast as a rapist on a reality TV program (hosted by Jack Carter). He's mistaken for the real wanted guy he portrayed and has an affair with an older, married psychiatrist (48-year-old Sally Kirkland), who shows up in various disguises to fool her rich husband and is frequently topless. There's sex and a murder. This Concorde release by the director of The Unborn is available in R and unrated versions. In the Heat of Passion II: The Unfaithful (1994) had an entirely different cast.

IN THE LINE OF DUTY: THE SIEGE OF WACO

(Republic, 1993) D/P: Dick Lowry S: Phil Penningroth

NBC-TV debuted this 84 days after the siege in which 86 cult members died in flames. It was being filmed while the events were happening. Now, that's exploitation! Tim Daly stars as would-be rock star turned cult leader David Koresh (he looks just like him), with Dan Lauria and William O'Leary. It was filmed outside Tulsa. Penningroth also wrote the TV movie The Amy Fisher Story.

IN THE LINE OF FIRE

(Columbia, 1994) D: Wolfgang Peterson
S: Jeff Maguire P: Jeff Apple

Clint Eastwood stars as a secret service agent (called an old dinosaur) who was in Dallas on November 22, 1963, and regrets not having done more to save the president. John Malkovich (who received an Oscar nomination) is a relentless, intelligent psycho after the current president. With Rene Russo, Dylan McDermott, John Mahoney, and Steve Railsback. It's 127 minutes long.

IN THE MOUTH OF MADNESS

(New Line, 1995) D: John Carpenter
S: Michael De Luca P: Sandy King

An insurance investigator (Sam Neill) is hired to search for a missing bestselling horror writer Sutter Kane (Jurgen Prochnow) whose book drives people crazy. His tale is told from an asylum. Most of this takes place in one of those typical Stephen King–style small mysterious New England towns. Neill is good and there are a few inspired reality-vs.-fantasy scenes, but other scenes should have been in another movie and a lot of it just doesn't make much sense. Still, it was Carpenter's best in years and has a great scene in a movie theater. The screenwriter is a young New Line executive. KNB created the Lovecraft-inspired mutant creatures. With Julie Carmen, pretty forgettable as a NYC book editor working for Charlton Heston, David Warner, Bernie Casey, and John Glover. It was shot in Toronto.

IN THE SHADOW OF KILIMANJARO

(IVE, 1984) D: Raju Patel S/P: Jeffrey M. Sneller P: Gautam Das

"Thousands" of hungry baboons (we see a few dozen) go on the rampage during a drought in Africa. It gets gory when natives eat baboons and baboons eat people. Timothy Bottoms stars, with Irene Miracle, John Rhys-Davies, and Michele Carey. Some animation was used. It's "based on a true story" and was filmed in Kenya.

IN THE SPIRIT

(Academy, 1990) D: Sandra Seacat S: Jeannie Berlin, Laurie Jones P: Julian Schlossberg

A Beverly Hills couple move to New York City, where they meet a mystic and have to hide from a killer. The cast of this black comedy includes Elaine May, Marlo Thomas, Jeannie Berlin, (May's real-life daughter), Peter Falk, and Melanie Griffith in a bit part.

INTIMATE DELUSIONS

(1992) D/S: Ron Oliver P: Ray Sager Canada

David Keith and Shannon Tweed get married at Niagara Falls. Christopher Plummer and Joseph Bottons costar in this comedy, which features clowns and midgets. The director made Prom Night III.

INTIMATE STRANGER

(Paramount, 1991) D: Allan Holzman S: Rob Fresno P: Yoram Pelman, J. J. Lichauco Pelman

"She just turned on the wrong guy!" Deborah Harry stars as a cynical bar singer who takes a phone-sex job to make some money. Tim Thomerson calls her and kills a prostitute while she listens. The cast includes James Russo as the only cop who believes her, Grace Zabriskie, and Tia Carrere. It was made for cable TV by the director of Forbidden World (1982).

INTO THE BADLANDS

(MCA, 1991) D: Sam Pillsbury S: Dick Bebe, Gordon Davison, Marjorie Davis P: Harvey Friend

It's hard to believe that Grim Prairie Tales spawned another western horror anthology, but here it is. Bruce Dern is an eccentric bounty hunter who narrates the tale and stars in one. Dylan McDermott, Helen Hunt, and Andy Robinson are in the first one. Mariel Hemingway (looking more unreal than ever) is a religious prairie woman who faces a wolf attack. In Dern's tale he cuts his own toe off and talks to the rotting corpse he's trying to deliver. They all have twist endings, but they're pretty slow going and feature odd guitar music. The director, from New Zealand, also made Zandalee (with Nicolas Cage). Also with Lisa Pelikan. This was made in New Mexico for the USA Network.

INTO THE FIRE

(Vestron, 1987) D: Graeme Campbell S: Jesse Ballard P: Nicholas Stillada Canada (Legend of Wolf Lodge)

Art Hindle and his rich wife (Susan Anspach) own a northwest estate. A young musician (Lee Montgomery) and his waitress girlfriend (Olivia D'Abo) show up. There's a confused seduction/murder/scam plot (with nudity), and they die at the end.

INTO THE NIGHT

(MCA, 1985) D: John Landis S/P: Ron Koslow P: George Folsey Jr.

Jeff Goldblum is an engineer with insomnia who ends up helping Michelle Pfeiffer, who's being chased by mobsters and SAVAK (Iranian secret police) because she has some smuggled emeralds. This adventure comedy features Kathyrn Harrold, Richard Farnsworth, David Bowie, Vera Miles, Irene Papas, Jake Steinfeld, and Dan Aykroyd. A lot of directors have cameos, including Jack Arnold, Paul Bartel, David Cronenberg, Jonathan Demme, Don Siegel, Richard Franklin, Jim Henson, Roger Vadim, and Amy Heckerling, and so does Forry Ackerman. Landis' Spies Like Us (1985) had director cameos too. I guess it was a show of support after The Twilight Zone deaths. The (out of print) MCA soundtrack is mostly cuts by blues and soul artists, including Marvin Gaye and B. B. King, who did the incidental music.

INTO THE SUN

(Vidmark, 1992) D: Fritz Kiersch S: John Brancato, Michael Ferris P: Kevin Kallberg, Oliver Hess

This action comedy has the same plot as The Hard Way (1991). Anthony Michael Hall is an actor who hangs out with Air Force flying ace Michael Paré to prepare for a role and ends up fighting Arabs in the desert. The cast includes Terry Kiser and Deborah Maria Moore. It's by the director of Gor and Tuff Turf.

INTRUDER

(Paramount, 1988) D/S: Scott Spiegel P: Laurence Bender (Night Crew)

Teens working at night to prepare for a sale in a supermarket are killed by a pyscho. This extremely gory film was heavily cut to get an R rating for the US video release, but the Belgian and Japanese versions are complete. With Elizabeth Cox, Renee Estevez, Alvy Moore, Bruce Campbell, Sam and Ted Raimi, and Emil Sitka. Spiegel cowrote Evil Dead II.

INTRUDERS

(Fox, 1992) D: Dan Curtis S: Barry Oringer, Tracy Torme P: Banki Lustig

After the failure of the revived TV series Dark Shadows Curtis made this (originally 2-part) CBS-TV movie. Richard Crenna is an LA psychiatrist at a mental hospital who uses regressive hypnotism on people who have had "close encounters of the third kind." Aliens arrive and impregnate Dana Ashbrook. Mare Winningham is "chosen" as a child. Susan Blakely is her sister. Inmate Ben Vereen has disturbing flashbacks. Despite a few good scenes, this goes on way too long (163 minutes) and is pretty dull. With Daphne Ashbrook, Steven Berkoff, Rosalind Chao, and G. D. Spradlin.

INVADER

(Vidmark, 1992) D/S: Phillip S. Cook P: John R. Ellis

A pushy scandal-magazine reporter (Hans Bachman) discovers that "aliens" in dark sunglasses disguised as soldiers have taken over the Clarksburg Air Force base. He teams up with a (black) guy from the Defense Department (A. Thomas Smith), and they steal a superjet for an impressive air battle. A talking animated robot (like in Robocop) is the only other worthwhile thing in the film. This 21st Century production, made in Virginia, is aimed at kids and includes some comedy and lots of explosions. The cast includes Rick Foucheux and George Stover in one scene. Cook directed Beyond the Rising Moon (1988).

THE INVADERS (1961) = ERIK THE CONQUEROR

THE INVADERS

(Goodtimes series, 1967–68)

Roy Thinnes starred as architect David Vincent in the ABC-TV series created by Larry Cohen. Until he convinced several others, he was the only person who realized that aliens disguised as humans were taking over. The only way to identify the aliens was by their bent little fingers. Kent Smith was a regular, and many name stars were guests. Thinnes also appeared in a 1995 2-part revival attempt TV pilot, The Invaders (Republic).

INVADERS FROM MARS

(Nostalgia Merchant, 1953) D: William Cameron Menzies S: Richard Blake P: Edward L. Alperson

This is one of the most fondly remembered cult science-fiction hits of the 50s. Director Menzies (Things to Come) was also his own set designer. His brilliantly surreal, minimal sets, offbeat pacing, and "Is it a dream?" ending make this a unique, nightmarish experience. When little David tries to tell people that his parents have disappeared into a sand pit and become cold and zombie-like because of neck implants from Martians who landed near their backyard, only a lady doctor believes him. He has to escape his once loving parents ("Please don't let my father get me!"), and because everything is seen from David's point of view, the film is like Kafka for kids. (Menzies was once a children's book writer.) The parents (Leif Erickson and Hillary Brooke) are scary. Dad even smacks his son across the room. The doctor (Helena Carter) is understanding, reassuring, and great to look at, with flaming red hair and lips, a white dress, and stockings with seams. Jimmy Hunt plays David as an intelligent but frightened little kid. There's a good flying saucer, a memorable alien head in a round tank, silly but great mutant slaves, and cost-saving military stock footage. From 20th Century–Fox.

INVADERS FROM MARS

(Media, 1986) D: Tobe Hooper S: Dan O'Bannon, Don Jakoby P: Golan/Globus M: Christopher Young

The remake isn't a revisionist effort (like the 80s versions of The Fly, The Thing, or Cat People). It copies the original pretty closely but still gets practically everything wrong. Karen Black as the doctor seems frazzled and a bit crazy. Hunter Carson (Black's real-life son) is bland and most of the time seems either bored or blubbery. The parents (Timothy Bottoms and Laraine Newman) are fine in the beginning, but after being "taken over" they just do weird things, like eating raw hamburger. Money was obviously spent on state-of-the-art effects by John Dykstra and Stan Winston, but the more elaborate spaceship and monster aliens merely look like less effective leftovers from Dune. Attempts to modernize the dialogue and make it funny are pretty dismal. Jimmy Hunt (from the original) shows up as the police chief. The score is on Enigma. Watching both tapes together makes for a fascinating comparison between durably effective, low-budget creativity and today's trashing of old movies for quick remake profits. The Image Laser version includes "making of" shorts on this and Lifeforce. After doing three Cannon movies in a row, Hooper directed an episode of The Equalizer, the pilot for the Freddy's Nightmares TV series, and a Cars rock video. Newman hosted the syndicated Canned Film Festival on TV, presenting "bad" movies, the same year.

INVASION EARTH: THE ALIENS ARE HERE!

(Starmaker, 1987) D: George Maitland S: Miller Drake P: Max J. Rosenberg

Despite the misleading video box, this is a mixture of new scenes and endless, great film clips from dozens of 50s and 60s science-fiction movies. The clever, disorienting opening has people in a theater watching the scene in The Blob where people in a theater watch Daughter of Horror. Mel Welles (acting pretty much like Gravis in The Little Shop of Horrors) is the manager of the theater, but it's invaded by bug-man aliens and their brain/head leader, and he becomes a bug man too. They zap the projectionist, discuss Plan 9 from Outer Space, and start editing and showing alien and monster film clips. They use pods to replace people, who end up tied up in their underwear behind the screen. Meanwhile, some kids sneak around trying to stop the invasion, and we're subjected to some pretty forced humor and treated to great clips from big hits like War of the Worlds, Them, and The Thing, and cheapo faves like The Brain from Planet Arous, Invasion of the Saucer Men, and The Giant Claw, plus random scenes by Harryhausen, Corman, and Bert I. Gordon. Near the end the clips get better and the editing gets faster. The parts from The Crawling Eye and Fiend Without a Face are amazing. I forgot how bloody and squishy those flying brains with spinal cords were! Producer Rosenberg used be one of the heads of the British Amicus company and must have had the connections to get the rights to use all the clips. It's from New World.

INVASION FORCE = HANGAR 18

INVASION FORCE

(AIP, 1990) D: David Prior S: David Winters P: David Marriott

A film crew and actors with props battle real terrorists taking over an American city. Richard Lynch stars in this ripoff of Invasion USA (which Lynch is also in), with Renee Cline, Walter Cox, and David Shark.

INVASION FROM INNER EARTH

(API, 1972) D/P: Bill Rebane S: Barbara J. Rebane (Hell Fire; They)

A DJ in Manitoba is the star of a UFO talk show. Unseen aliens take over, and he thinks he's the last survivor. Characters hide out in a remote snowbound farmhouse and discuss what could have happened. Paul Bentzen and Debbie Pick star in this very slow-moving feature. It was made (in Wisconsin) before Rebane's The Giant Spider Invasion but released in 1977.

INVASION OF PRIVACY

(Prism, 1992) D/S: Kevin Meyer P: Ashok Amritraj

Robby Benson stars as a psycho ex-con obsessed with a reporter (Jennifer O'Neill). She hires him to help with a prison story, and he has an affair with her daughter (Lydie Denier). The cast also includes Ian Ogilvy. R and unrated versions of this "erotic thriller" are available.

INVASION OF THE GIRL SNATCHERS

(VCI, 1973) D: Lee Jones S: Phineas T. Pinkham, Carla Rueckert (The Hidan of Mount Bienjow)

This seriously awful comedy from Arkansas was released (by Jeffrey Hogue) because of a bet that it couldn't make any money. It's about a cop going after human-looking aliens who kidnap women and take over their bodies.

INVASION OF THE SCREAM QUEENS

(See More Video, 1992) D: Donald Farmer

It could have used some more editing, but many actresses are interviewed on this tape, and movie scenes and trailers (lots of David DeCoteau) are included. The ones we'd expect (Brinke Stevens, who says she "looked like a werewolf" as a kid, Michelle Bauer, and Melissa Moore, who talks a lot) are here, along with actresses from Mark Pirro movies, Janus Blythe, Vivian Schilling, Elizabeth Kaitan (way too long), Martine Beswick, and Monique Gabrielle (bad takes and all). The best of all, though, is Mary Woronov, who talks about (and shows) some of her paintings and remembers working for Warhol, Corman, and others. A whole tape of just her talking would be interesting.

INVASION OF THE SPACE PREACHERS

(Rhino, 1990) D/S/P: Daniel Boyd P: David Wohl (The Strangest Dreams)

This ambitious, unpredictable science-fiction comedy is from West Virginia. Walter, a sensitive dentist (Jim Wolfe), and Rick, a yuppie accountant (Guy Nelson) set out for a cabin in the country. They insult each other by calling each other "'mo"s. On the way they stop at a gas-station tourist attraction, the House of Dung, then find a reptile-like alien who has crashed in a spaceship. The alien splits open, revealing Nova (Eliska Hahn), a pretty blond. Nova has a ray gun and chugs Coors. Johnny Angel, a (very good) rockabilly singer with female backup singers, does some numbers, and Jimmy Walker, an older country singer, does a song. The meandering plot includes a survivalist, pot-harvesting hippie commune and the Reverend Lash, a corrupt preacher who issues mind-control ear plugs to his followers and can make heads explode. Despite some nudity (swimming and sunbathing) and drugs that nobody uses, it's a pretty innocent and fun movie with an excellent title sequence.

INVASION USA

(Sinister, 1952) D: Alfred E. Green S/P: Robert Smith P: Albert Zugsmith

Dan O'Herlihy hypnotizes a group of people in a NYC bar with his brandy glass, and they experience what could happen because "we don't have a strong enough Army." Soldiers in American uniforms attack through Alaska and take Washington State, then San Francisco. Eventually the (unnamed) enemy destroys Boulder Dam, nukes military bases, shoots senators in DC, and drops the big one on New York City! Peggy Castle jumps out of a window to avoid the crude, drunken, lecherous (obviously Soviet) soldiers. There are lots of WWII references and stock footage of battles, plus some nice miniature work by Jack Rabin. Gerald Mohr stars as TV commentator Vince Potter, with William Schallert and two Lois Lanes (Phyllis Coates and Noel Neill). Columbia released this just as Eisenhower was becoming president. Amazing!

INVASION USA

(MGM, 1985) D: Joseph Zito S/A: Chuck Norris S: James Bruner P: Menahem Golan, Yoram Globus M: Jay Chattaway

Chuck Norris as ex–CIA agent Matt Hunter lives in the Everglades with an armadillo. When the Communists invade Miami and Atlanta he comes out of retirement and kicks ass. The ads said, "America wasn't ready, but he was!" Richard Lynch is the evil Rostov. With Melissa Prophet, Billy Drago, and James Pax. The Commies blow up a church, invade the suburbs on Christmas, try to blow up a full schoolbus, and even invade a mall! They kill Cuban boat people too. The story was by Aaron Norris. Tom Savini did the FX. The soundtrack was released by Varèse Sarabande.

INVINCIBLE BARBARIAN

(ANE, 1985) D: Franco Prosperi S: Peter Lombard Italy

A warrior named Zucan who was raised by Amazons joins with a breeder slave (Sabrina Siani) to fight the oppressors. A narrator explains the beginning of the world, and some stock-footage dinosaurs are seen. Siani, who specializes in dumb movies like this, takes her clothes off again.

Richard Lynch is a Commie invader in Invasion USA.

INVINCIBLE GLADIATOR

(Sinister, 1961) D: Antonio Momplet, Frank Gregory S: Francisco De Feo P: Cleto Fontini, Alberto De Martino Spain/Italy (Il Gladiatore Invincible)

Richard Harrison stars in this Technicolor arena-fight movie, with Isabel Corey as Princess Sira.

THE INVISIBLE AVENGER

(Sinister, 1958) D: James Wong Howe, John Sledge S: George Bellak, Betty Jeffries P: Eric Sayers, Emanuel Demby (Bourbon Street Shadows)

The famed Chinese-born cinematographer James Wong Howe directed two films, Go, Man, Go! (1954) starring the Harlem Globetrotters, and this odd crime movie, (actually episodes of a planned TV series) filmed in New Orleans, based on the famous radio series The Shadow. The dialogue and the plot, about an exiled South American leader and his evil twin, are on the level of a serial or Saturday-morning TV show. Richard Derr is Lamont Cranston, "the Shadow," who uses telepathy and hypnotism to "cloud men's minds" and laughs like a maniac every time he seems to disappear. Jogrendra (Mark Daniels) is his Asian-looking, cultured, philosophical, and mystical teacher, companion, and live-in assistant. They wear robes and meditate in their hotel room while they investigate the murder of a New Orleans musician and gangsters plot to kill the Shadow. In a club, the Famous Door, Cranston says, "That last chorus went clear out of space!" Somebody plays "St. James Infirmary." A "real" execution is broadcast on TV, and there's an on-location car chase through a cemetery. In 1962 this Republic film was rereleased with some new footage in a more "adult" version. "Who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of men?"

THE INVISIBLE DEAD

(Wizard, 1970) D/S: Pierre Chevalier S: Juan Fortuny Spain/France (Orloff y el Hombre Invisible; The Love Life of the Invisible Man)

Howard Vernon plays Dr. Orloff again, in this period horror film featuring an ape man and sex with an invisible man. Some versions have more nudity than others.

THE INVISIBLE KID

(Media, 1988) D/S: Avery Crounse P: Philip J. Spinelli

Nerd Jay Underwood becomes invisible and can wander into the girls' locker room at school. This teen comedy is like Zapped! Karen Black (who was also in Zapped Again!) is a dizzy mom who watches Brother Theodore's TV call-in show. The cast includes Michelle Phillips' daughter Chynna (from the Wilson Phillips group). It's by the director of Eyes of Fire.

THE INVISIBLE KILLER

(Sinister, 1940) D: "Sherman Scott"/Sam Neufield S: Joseph O'Connell P: Sigmund Neufield

Sonic murders are caused by telephones (an idea later used in Murder by Phone). Grace Bradley stars, with Roland Drew as a detective. This 61-minute time-waster is from PRC.

THE INVISIBLE MANIAC

(Republic, 1989) D/S: "Rif Coogan"/Adam Rifkin S/P: Anthony Marks S: "Matt Devlin"/Brett McCormick

In this sex/horror comedy(?) Dr. Kevin Dornwinkle (Noel Peters), a crazed, woman-hating, voyeur/killer scientist, escapes from an asylum and becomes a substitute high-school physics teacher. He dreams of naked schoolgirls and finally perfects his serum and injects himself so that he can watch them in showers. He cracks up after students make fun of him and starts slaughtering them while laughing hysterically. The mute janitor is also a voyeur (so are most of the male students), and the principal blackmails students into having sex with her. The females (including Melissa Anne Moore, Debra Lamb, and the late porno star Savannah) look great, but Peters' irritating acting, the bad FX, and the stupid script will make you wish they were in a different movie. Producer Marks returned with Bikini Island.

THE INVISIBLE MENACE

(SW, 1937) D: John Farrow S: Crane Wilbur (Without Warning)

Characters on a foggy Navy-base island are killed and tortured. Mr. Jeffries (Boris Karloff), an ex-con who was once an engineer in US-occupied Haiti, is the obvious suspect. Flashbacks show how his wife cheated on him and how he was framed. There's also a voodoo dance. With Marie Wilson as a dumb-seeming but observant new bride, Eddie Craven, and Regis Toomey as the officer of the guard. This 56-minute Warner Brothers film is based on a play. Murder on the Waterfront (1943) is a remake.

THE INVISIBLE MONSTER

(Stokey, 1950) D: Frank Brannon S: Ronald Davidson

Richard Webb stars as the hero of this 12-chapter Republic serial with an "invisible" villain. Aline Towne costars, with Stanley Price as "the Phantom Ruler," John Crawford, and Republic's fine stunt men. The feature version was Slaves of the Invisible Monster. Webb went on to star in the TV series Captain Midnight.

THE INVISIBLE STRANGLER

(TWE, 1976) D: John Florea S: Arthur C. Pierce P: Earle Lyon (Astral Factor)

A young psycho killer on death row learns an ancient Buddhist technique for becoming invisible and goes on a murder spree. The plot is pretty similar to the plot of Psychic Killer (1975). Robert Foxworth stars as a cop, and the all-star cast includes Stefanie Powers, Elke Sommer, Sue Lyon, Leslie Parrish, Marianne Hill, and Cesare Danova. It was released in 1984.

INVISIBLE: THE CHRONICLES OF BENJAMIN KNIGHT

(Paramount, 1994) D: Jack Ersgard S: Earl Kenton P: Vlad and Dana Paunesco

This is a (senseless) sequel to Mandroid. They were both shot in Bucharest, Romania. Michael Dellafemina somehow becomes invisible and the metal masked Drago (Curt Lowens) sends a comic group of insane peasants to kidnap girls in the woods. This involves (offscreen) gang rapes. Blonde beauty Jennifer Nash (taking over the role of a late scientist's daughter) proves to be the best special effect during her on-top fuck scene. This movie has lots of bad guys and slo-mo b/w flashbacks. With Brian Cousin returning as the scientist in a wheelchair who controls the remote robot.

THE INVISIBLE WOMAN

(1983) D/P: Alan J. Levi S: Sherwood Schwartz, Lloyd J. Schwartz

Alexa Hamilton is an invisible reporter in this NBC-TV series pilot about a museum robbery. Bob Denver, David Doyle, George Gobel, Harvey Korman, Art La Fleur, Garrett Morris, and Ron Palillo round out the comic cast.

INVITATION TO HELL

(Sony, 1984) D: Wes Craven S: Richard Rothstein P: Robert M. Sertner

Soap-opera star Susan Lucci is the Devil, and her country club is a gateway to Hell! This ABC-TV movie sounds a lot better than it is. Robert Urich and Joanna Cassidy are the unsuspecting new couple in town. The cast also includes Kevin McCarthy, Nicholas Worth, Joe Regalbuto, Soleil Moon Frye, Patty McCormack, and Michael Berryman in a bit part.

IN YOUR FACE

(Video Vault, 1977) D: Frank Packard S: James Smalley P: J. P. Joshua (Abar, the Black Superman)

This previously unknown wonder is a very ambitious and political curiosity item. A nice, middle-class black family moves to the suburbs and encounters insults, screaming, and worse from garbage-throwing whites. A black biker gang riding Harleys comes to their rescue. Their leader, Abar (Tobar Mayo), is a militant, bald, kung-fu-fighting admirer of Malcolm X. He has political debates with the doctor dad (J. Walter Smith), who prefers Martin Luther King Jr. After the death of his kid, the doctor convinces Abar to drink a serum that has already made a rabbit indestructible. Abar develops psychic powers, makes a hooker beat her pimp, then makes corrupt cops fight each other (near the Watts Tower). He has a vision of Christ, causes a storm, and creates rats and snakes to attack racist whites. This movie uses imitation Shaft music and is very low-budget (a hand-held microphone is visible in one scene), but the serious script makes it more of an admirable morale-booster than an exploitation movie. The doomed little boy even has a happy dream sequence, with Abar appearing as a cowboy hero.

IRAN ANGELS: See ANGEL

IRON AND SILK

(1990) D/P: Shirley Sun
S/A: Mark Salzman Canada

Mark Salzman stars as himself in this adaptation of his book about his experiences in China. He goes there in 1982 to teach English, learns kung-fu, and falls for a Chinese girl (Vivian Wu). His teacher is Pan Quingfu (also playing himself). Much of this PG film shows kung-fu training. It was shot in Canada.

THE IRON CLAW

(Stokey, 1941) D: James W. Horne S: Basil Dickey, George Plympton, Jesse A. Duffy P: Larry Darmour

This 15-chapter Columbia serial has a villain with a steel-hook hand. Charles Quigley stars, with Joyce Bryant and Forrest Taylor.

IRON EAGLE

(Fox, 1986) D/S: Sidney J. Furie S: Kevin Elders P: Ron Samuels, Joe Wizan

Jason Gedrick is an 18-year-old who flies a stolen fighter jet to the Middle East to rescue his father (Tim Thomerson), who has been sentenced to hang. He's helped by Louis Gossett Jr. as a renegade Air Force colonel named Chappy. Real Israeli Air Force planes were used for the impressive air-fight scenes. This PG-13 Tristar hit was released the same year as Top Gun. The rock soundtrack with various artists, including Queen and Dio, is on Capitol.

IRON EAGLE II

(IVE, 1988) D: Sidney J. Furie S: Kevin Elders P: Jacob Kotzky, Sharon Harel Canada/Israel

Louis Gossett Jr. returns as Chappy. He leads a joint US/Soviet mission of teens to destroy Middle Eastern nuclear weapons. The cast includes Mark Humphrey and Stuart Margolin. This PG movie reportedly sold $21 million worth of tapes, so another sequel, Aces, was produced. The rock soundtrack with various artists is on Epic.

IRON HEART

(Imperial, 1991) D: Robert Clouse
S: Lawrence Riggins P/A: Britton Lee

Master Lee stars as an LA cop after killer drug dealer Richard Norton. With Bolo Yeung as Ice and Karman Kruschke.

IRONMASTER

(ANE, 1982) D: Umberto Lenzi S: Alberto Cavallone, Dardano Sacchetti, Lea Martino, Gabriel Rossini Italy (La Guerra del Ferro)

William Berger and George Eastman (real name: Luigi Montefiore) star in this prehistoric action movie.

IRON MAZE

(1991) D: Hiroaki Yoshida S: Tim Metcalfe P: Ilona Herzberg, Hidenori Ueki US/Japan

A Japanese businessman (Hiroaki Murakami) buys a shut-down steel plant in a small Pennsylvania town and plans to build an amusement park. His lonely American wife (Bridget Fonda) has an affair with the hotel bellboy (Jeff Fahey), and the businessman is nearly murdered at the plant. This event is seen from several points of view in the style of Kurosawa's Rashomon. The cast includes John Randolph and J. T. Walsh as a local cop. Oliver Stone was an executive producer.

IRON WARRIOR

(Media, 1985) D: "Al Bradley"/Alfonso Brescia S: Steven Luotto P: Ovidio G. Assonitis Italy (Echoes of Wizardry)

Miles O'Keefe plays an imitation Conan called Ator (for the third time) and his own evil twin. He battles an evil sorceress and her silver-skulled "iron warrior" and helps a princess in a see-through blouse (Savina Gersak). It was filmed in Malta.

I SAW WHAT YOU DID

(1988) D: Fred Walton S: Cynthia Cidre P: Barry Greenfield

A pair of teen girls making prank phone calls unknowingly call a psycho killer and say, "I saw what you did!" Shawnee Smith (The Blob) and Tammy Lauren star, with Candace Cameron, Robert Carradine, and David Carradine (who was also in the TV remake of The Bad Seed). This TV remake of William Castle's 1965 movie is by the director of April Fool's Day.

THE ISLAND AT THE TOP OF THE WORLD

(Disney, 1974) D: Robert Stevenson S: John Whedon P: Winston Hibler M: Maurice Jarre

Adventurers in a big dirigible discover a lost world and a Viking civilization at the Arctic circle, in this Jules Verne–type fantasy/adventure from Disney. David Hartman stars, with Donald Sinden and Mako as the Eskimo guide Oomiak. The soundtrack was released by Disneyland Records.

ISLAND CLAWS

(Vestron, 1980) D: Hernán Cárdenas S: Jack Cowden, Ricou Browning P: Ted Swanson (Night of the Claw)

Marine biologists discover a giant man-eating crab on an island off Florida. With Barry Nelson, Robert Lansing, and Nita Talbot. The crab (caused by a nuclear accident) doesn't appear until the very end. Roger Corman did it better in the 50s.

ISLAND FURY

(AIP, 1989) D: Henri Charr S: John B. Pfeifer P: Jess Mancilla, Marcus Robertson

Mardi Rustam was the executive producer, so as usual this is an unfinished (?) movie with new scenes added. After a lengthy part about two teen girls being kidnapped from some Chinatown, we get the big flashback (the older footage) set on a remote island. The late Hank Worden is Jedediah, an old man living with his wife, their little grandson, and the mute, retarded Junior. The friendly-seeming old hicks are really crazy killers. They poison visitors' tea, blow up a boat ("It done blowed up higher 'n a kite!"), and keep bloody naked bodies (obvious mannequins!) hanging in the barn. The fight scenes are awful, and the action is interrupted by an earthquake. Michael Wayne is Repo.

ISLAND MONSTER = MONSTER OF THE ISLAND

ISLAND OF BLOOD

(Applause, 1982) D/S/P: Bill Naud (Whodunit?)

Actors and a director making a movie on an island are murdered in various ways by a mystery killer. Tapes of rock songs describing the murders (by chainsaw, acid, spear) are left near the bodies. Rick Dean is in this obscure Ten Little Indians ripoff.

ISLAND OF LOST GIRLS

(SW, 1968) D: Roberto Mauri S: James Brewer, Robert F. Atkinson, Manfred R. Kohler P: Theodore Werner, Ralph Zucker Italy/W. Germany (Kommissar X; Drei Goldene Schlangen)

Tony Kendall (real name Luciano Stella) stars as Joe Walker, aka Kommissar X, a muscular playboy/detective hired by a rich American tourist to find her daughter in Bangkok. Madame Kim So keeps topless young women in an opium-induced zombie state on her island and sells them as prostitutes. Brad Harris is Walker's friend Captain Roland. This was filmed on location and includes a crocodile farm, a cockfight, and a comic black midget. It was released by Hampton International, then International Artists in the 70s. The video print is faded and lacks credits. The Kommissar X series includes Kiss Kiss, Kill Kill (1965) and at least five others, all based on novels by Atkinson, and filmed in various countries.

ISLAND OF THE LOST

(Republic, 1968) D: John Florea, Ricou Browning S: Richard Carlson S/P: Ivan Tors

An anthropologist (Richard Greene) and his family are shipwrecked in the South Seas. With Luke Halpin (from the Flipper TV series), Robin Mattson, and Irene Tsu. Browning played the creature in The Creature from the Black Lagoon, and Richard Carlson (who cowrote this film) was the scientist hero.

ISLAND WOMEN

(Private Screenings, 1980) D: Jesús Franco P: Edwin C. Dietrich (Gefangenfrauen; Women's Penitentiary VII)

Women are locked up in the Central American Tago Mago prison. French porno star Brigitte Lahaie stars, with Karine Ganbier as the warden. Nude fights and sex (8 minutes) were cut from the US-release video.

ISLE OF FORGOTTEN SINS

(Sinister, 1943) D: Edgar G. Ulmer
S: Raymond L. Schrock P: Peter Van Duinen (Monsoon)

John Carradine stars as a deep-sea pearl diver searching for gold in a sunken ship, with Gale Sondergaard, Sidney Toler, Veda Ann Borg, and Frank Fenton. Carradine starred in Ulmer's better-known Bluebeard, also from PRC.

I SPIT ON YOUR CORPSE

(Super, Marathon, 1974) D: Al Adamson
S: John D'Amato P: Sam Sherman
(Girls for Rent; Fatal Pursuit)

Porno star Georgina Spelvin is a laughing, psycho hitwoman in the desert who has been set up. Rosalind Miles and Susan McGiver are the women sent to kill her. Parts of this R-rated drive-in movie resemble Adamson's Satan's Sadists, with Spelvin in the Russ Tamblyn role. The cast also includes Robert Livingston, Barbara Bourbon, and veteran Hollywood actor Kent Taylor in his sixth Adamson film. Spelvin was in X films from the early 70s until 1984, when she was in the first Police Academy movie.

I SPIT ON YOUR GRAVE

(Vid America, 1978) D/S/P: Meir Zarchi
P: Joseph Zbeda (Day of the Woman)

After Last House on the Left (1972) this is the best-known and most controversial American revenge exploitation movie. Camille Keaton goes to an Upstate New York summer cottage to write. Four local guys (one is retarded) rape her repeatedly. They think she's dead, but two weeks later the nearly catatonic woman lures them back and gets revenge by killing them in various ways (using an axe, castration, hanging, etc.). There's no background music, making it even more unbearable for some viewers. Keaton was also in Italian exploitation movies. Siskel and Ebert blasted it on TV, helping to make it notorious. The complete version is 101 minutes. R and unrated versions are available on tape. The original I Spit on Your Grave was a 1959 French movie retitled by producer Radley Metzger.

IS THERE SEX AFTER DEATH?

(Spencer, 1971) D/S/P: Alan and Jeanne Abel

Alan Abel, a professional prankster, made and released this comic parody of a documentary, and he appears in it as Dr. Rogers, the host and narrator. Buck Henry is Dr. Manos, a breast expert, Marshall Efron plays a porno director, and Jim Dixon impersonates President Nixon. There's an X-rated magic show, dancing and singing at a nudist camp, and a "sex bowl" competition. The cast also includes Holly Woodlawn and Robert Downey. Rated X but later cut for an R, it played midnight and college shows for years. A paperback version was published.

I STILL DREAM OF JEANNIE

(1991) D: Joseph Scanlan S: April Kelly P: Joan Carson

Barbara Eden returned as Jeannie in this TV movie based on the popular NBC fantasy/comedy series (1965–70). Bill Daily also returned, but since they couldn't get Larry Hagman, Christopher Bolton played astronaut Tony Nelson. Al Waxman and Peter Breck are also in the cast.

IT

(Warner, 1990) D/S: Tommy Lee Wallace
S: Lawrence D. Cohen

Some small-town Maine kids encounter Pennywise (Tim Curry), a magical, evil clown with sharp teeth, and 30 years later they return as troubled adults to face their fears again. It's based on Stephen King's thick 1986 novel (which borrows ideas from Ray Bradbury's novel Something Wicked This Way Comes, filmed in 1983). The parts with the group of outcast kids are the best. The shape-shifting clown appears as a werewolf, a mummy, and finally a stop-motion spider. The cast includes Richard Thomas, Tim Reid, Harry Anderson, Annette O'Toole, John Ritter, Richard Masur, Dennis Christopher, and Olivia Hussey. Cohen also wrote the screenplay for Carrie. This 240-minute ABC-TV miniseries was shot in Vancouver. The tape is 193 minutes.

ITALIAN STALLION

(GWN, 1970) D/P: Morton Lewis
(Party at Kitty and Stud's Place)

Sylvester Stallone plays Stud. He has sex with several women. A woman flashes him in the park, and he gets upset and smashes a window. It all ends when a black woman does a striptease at a party and people smoke pot, which leads to an orgy. The future star from New York was reportedly paid $200 for acting in this cheap, hour-long, soft-core adult movie, and 20 years later he was the highest-paid star in show biz. His next role was a bit in Woody Allen's Bananas.

IT CAME FROM SOMEWHERE ELSE

(Platinum, 1988) D: Howard Hassler
S: Patrick V. Johnson

It was promoted as "the worst film ever made," so beware. This Plan 9 from Outer Space spoof was made in Minnesota and is mostly b/w.

IT COULDN'T HAPPEN HERE

(RCA, 1991) D/S/P: Jack Bond S: James Dillon UK

You'd have to really like the pop duo the Pet Shop Boys (I don't!) to enjoy this pretentious, plotless, slow movie full of their dreary songs. Partially set at a seaside carnival, it's complete with WWII scenes and attempts at surrealism. Joss Ackland is a blind priest who helps kids. The big hit is "Western Town."

IT GROWS ON TREES

(1952) D: Arthur Lubin S: Leonard Praskins, Barney Slater P: Leonard Goldstein

Irene Dunne (in her last film) and Dean Jagger discover that $10 bills grow on the trees in their backyard. The cast includes Les Tremayne, Joan Evans, and Richard Crenna. Universal released this fantasy/comedy by the director of most of the movies in the Francis the Talking Mule series.

IT HAPPENED AT NIGHTMARE INN

(Sinister, 1973) D/S: Eugenio Martín S: Antonio Fos P: José López Moreno Spain (Un Vela para el Diablo; Nightmare Hotel)

People disappear at a hotel owned by two sisters. The dominant, religious-maniac sister kills women who have "bad morals" with an axe or knives and keeps the cut-up bodies in the basement, which causes food poisoning. Judy Geeson arrives looking for her sister. The version on video is cut to 67 minutes. Martin also made Horror Express.

IT HAPPENED HERE

(Lippert, 1964) D/S/P: Kevin Brownlow, Andrew Mollo UK

Hitler's army occupies Great Britain in 1940, and by 1944 it's a fascist state. An underground movement fights back. A nurse (Pauline Murray) pretends to be a fascist in order to continue her work, but she's caught, and is forced to give injections to foreign prisoners.This documentary-style film was started in 1956 as an amateur production, was finished in 1964, and was a major release in 1966. It's b/w, and some parts are 16mm. It was released in the US by Lippert. It's available on tape with Red Nightmare.

ITALY

Since the 50s, Italy has remained the country producing the most Psychotronic movies. Countless western, spy, muscleman, horror, science-fiction, and sex movies are made there, with actors from all over the world speaking their own languages and later dubbed for other markets. Italy's quality movie directors (such as Federico Fellini) may have periods of inactivity, but the exploitation directors never stop. Some of the most prolific are "Anthony M. Dawson," "Joe D'Amato," and Lucio Fulci. Mario Bava (1914–80) and Dario Argento are the most respected horror specialists.

IT HAPPENED TOMORROW

(1944) D/S: Rene Clair S: Dudley Nichols P: Arnold Pressburger

Dick Powell is an elderly newspaper reporter remembering what happened to him at the turn of the century. In flashback, he meets an old man who can magically show him newspapers for the next day. He gets all the important scoops, then reads of his own death. This fantasy comedy from UA features Linda Darnell, Jackie Oakie as a fake mystic, Edgar Kennedy, and Sig Ruman. Clair had just directed I Married a Witch (1942).

IT'S ALIVE III: ISLAND OF THE ALIVE

(Warner, 1986) D/S: Larry Cohen P: Paul Sadler

After his 1974 and 1978 It's Alive films, Cohen returned with the last one. Michael Moriarty, as the father of a mutant killer baby, goes to court to save his child. After five of the killer babies are sent to a remote island, they reproduce, escape to Florida, and fight bikers. There are some intentional laughs and outrageous scenes. The cast includes Laureen Landon, Karen Black as the mother of the mutant leader, Gerrit Graham, Neal Israel, Macdonald Carey, and Dawn Wildsmith. There's some animation. Rick Baker did the baby FX for all three films in the series, but the adult mutants are seen more in this one.

IT'S A MAD, MAD, MAD, MAD WORLD

(MGM, 1963) D/P: Stanley Kramer S: William Rose, Tania Rose

I can't believe that as a kid I sat through this whole epic, all-star, Cinerama road/chase movie about greed at a matinee (at the Detroit in Lakewood, Ohio). At the time I thought Dick Shawn was the funniest character. Spencer Tracy stars as a police chief trying to recover stolen money, but the cast is mostly comedians, led by Milton Berle, Sid Caesar, Buddy Hackett, Mickey Rooney, Jonathan Winters, and Terry-Thomas. Edie Adams and Dorothy Provine are wives, and Ethel Merman is a mother-in-law. Some of the many others from the past are Eddie "Rochester" Anderson, Alan Carney, Leo Gorcey, Joe E. Brown, Sterling Holloway, ZaSu Pitts, William Demarest, Edward Everett Horton, Buster Keaton, Andy Devine, Doodles Weaver, Arnold Stang, Marvin Kaplan, and Jimmy Durante. The Three Stooges are stop-motion-animated firemen. Seen briefly are Jerry Lewis, Carl Reiner, Jack Benny, and Peter Falk. It was 3 1/4 hours, but United Artists cut it to 2 1/2 after the premiere. On laserdisc it's 175 minutes plus a "making of" documentary. The UA soundtrack includes songs by the Shirelles.

ITS A SMALL WORLD

(SW, 1950) D: William Castle S: Otto Schreiber P: Peter Scully

Paul Dale stars as Harry, a sad-faced midget whose story is told in three parts. He's hidden away as a child, leaves his rural home at 21, and has to escape from a carnival. While working as a shoeshine boy in the big city, he drinks and falls for a sexy woman (Lorraine Miller) who lures him into being a pickpocket. Harry eventually finds happiness and a woman his own size at the Cole Brothers circus in Florida. Will Geer is Harry's father, Margaret Field is a childhood friend, and Steve Brody is a bootblack. This unique, sympathetic movie, one of Castle's most interesting, was released by Eagle Lion. Karl Struss shot it in b/w, often in actual locations.

IT'S A WONDERFUL LIFE

(Republic, 1946) D/P: Frank Capra S: Frances Goodrich, Albert Hackett

For many years this Christmas perennial from RKO was the most famous PD (public-domain) tape, and scenes from it showed up (at no charge) in other films. It's also been the inspiration for parodies and copies and has been colorized. As everybody knows, James Stewart stars as George Bailey, a suicidal small-town family man who gets another chance thanks to an angel (Henry Travers) who shows him how things would have been if he hadn't been born. The cast includes Donna Reed, Lionel Barrymore, Thomas Mitchell, Beulah Bondi, Frank Faylen, Ward Bond, H. B. Warner, Gloria Grahame, and Sheldon Leonard. The film received five Oscar nominations but was not a box-office hit in 1946. The 1992 Deluxe Collectors Edition includes a "making of" documentary, the original trailer, a hardcover book, and reproductions of a poster and a lobby card. It Happened One Christmas (1977) and Clarence (1990) are TV remakes. In 1988 Telarc released a soundtrack recording that also includes music from A Christmas Carol (1938) and Miracle on 34th Street (1947).

IT'S CALLED MURDER, BABY

(Vestron, 1982) D: Anthony Spinelli P: Billy Thornberg (Dixie Ray, Hollywood Star)

Guest star Cameron Mitchell plays a gangster in this porno movie (also released in an R-rated version). He plays virtually the same role in the MGM hit My Favorite Year from the same year. In the 40s, former movie star Dixie Ray (Lisa De Leew) hires a detective (John Leslie) to retrieve some compromising photos. He has sex with her and with Veronica Hart, Samantha Fox, Kelly Nichols, Jane Hamilton, and Juliet "Aunt Peg" Anderson.

IT'S ONLY A MOVIE!

(Cinema Images, 1990) D/S/A: Joseph Zaso S/C: V. C. Siegfried

A film crew goes to a haunted house, in this very amateurish b/w spoof. Brian Dixon is Madman Malone.

IT'S YOUR THING

(1970) D: Mike Gargiulo P: The Isley Brothers

A Yankee Stadium concert from June 21, 1969 was filmed on videotape and released to theaters. Tina Turner, the Isley Brothers, Moms Mabley, the Edwin Hawkins Singers ("Oh Happy Day"), the Brooklyn Bridge, Patti Austin, the Five Stairsteps and Cubie, and others perform. It was made three years before the better-known Wattstax (1973), by the Isleys, who had recently launched their own T-Neck label.

IT TAKES A THIEF

(Video Vault, 1959) D/S: John Gilling P: John Temple-Smith UK (The Challenge)

After her first stardom in America, Jayne Mansfield made two films in England in 1959. Too Hot to Handle is better known. In this crime story she acts against type as Billy, a dark-haired, tough schemer. She plans a heist, enlists a group of men, and announces, "I'm the boss!" She's also the driver, and after her lover, Jim (Anthony Quayle), takes the fall before revealing where the stolen loot was stashed, she leads the rest of the gang on a headline-making crime spree. The story centers on Jim (a widower) after his five years in jail. Gang members beat his mother and kidnap his son. A cop (Edward Judd) tails and harasses him. Billy, now a blonde, runs a nightclub but lets her new man call the shots. Descriptions in books reveal that this is a cut American version. It's great to be able to see this rare Mansfield movie, with jazzy music and a good ironic ending, but the tape has a hum on the soundtrack, the reel changes weren't removed, and 2 reels are mixed up!

Frank Lovejoy stars in I Was a Communist for the FBI.

THE IVORY APE

(1980) D: Tom Kotani S: William Overgard P: Arthur Rankin Jr.

Jack Palance captures a rare white gorilla in Africa and smuggles it to Bermuda. Cindy Pickett and Steven Keats try to save it. This ABC-TV movie is by the director of The Bushido Blade.

I WANNA HOLD YOUR HAND

(Warner, 1978) D/S: Robert Zemeckis
S: Bob Gale P: Tamara Asseyev, Alex Rose

When the Beatles arrive in New York for the taping of The Ed Sullivan Show, some New Jersey girls arrive in a hearse and try and get close to their new heroes. This PG comedy is the best Beatles movie without the Beatles (although 16 real Beatles songs are heard). Nancy Allen stars, with Theresa Saldana, Wendie Jo Sperber, Bobby Di Cicco, Marc McClure, Eddie Deezen (who swings over the audience at the show), Claude Earl Jones, Dick Miller, and Will Jordan as Sullivan. It makes a good companion piece to The Beatles: The First US Visit (MPI). Steven Spielberg was the executive producer of this film and Used Cars (1980) by Zemeckis. Neither one made much money, but they're both better than the Back to the Future movies the team made later.

I WANT TO LIVE!

(MGM, 1958) D: Robert Wise
S: Nelson Gidding, Don Mankiewicz
P: Walter Wanger

Barbara Graham, a former San Francisco hooker, went to the gas chamber in 1955, even though she insisted that she wasn't guilty of murder. The highly publicized case is dramatized in this 2-hour-long anti-death penalty feature from UA, starring Susan Hayward (who received an Oscar). Wise was allowed to witness an actual death by gas while preparing to direct it. The cast includes Simon Okland, Theodore Bikel, Philip Coolidge as one of the real killers, John Marley, Gavin McLeod, Peter Breck, and Jack Weston. Shelley Manne and other jazz musicians heard on the Johnny Mandel soundtrack are seen playing in a club. A 1983 ABC-TV remake stars Lindsay Wagner. Why Must I Die?(1960) is an AIP ripoff, with Terry Moore.

I WANT WHAT I WANT—TO BE A WOMAN

(Prism, 1972) D: John Dexter
S: Gillian Freeman UK

A man who wants a sex change falls in love. Anne Heywood (who seemed to go out of her way to be in controversial movies) stars, with Harry Andrews and Jill Bennett.

I WAS A BURLESQUE QUEEN

(1953) D: Frank McDonald D/S/P: Sidney Pink
S: Leslie Vale, George Halasz P: Matty Kemp

Pink took a 1947 PRC movie called Linda Be Good and added some 3-D scenes with chorus girls. It was released as a new "adult" movie at the height of 3-D mania. The cast includes Elyse Knox, Marie Wilson, Jack Norton, Alan Nixon, Professor Lambertini, and Sir Lancelot (as himself). Pink also worked with Arch Oboler on the first major 3-D film, Bwana Devil.

I WAS A COMMUNIST FOR THE FBI

(1951) D: Gordon Douglas
S: Crane Wilbur P: Byran Foy

Frank Lovejoy stars as (the real) Matt Cvetic, posing as a Pittsburgh steel worker in order to infiltrate Communists plotting to take over the US. Dorothy Hart, Philip Carey, and Richard Webb are also in this documentary-style film. Cvetic's exploits had been described in a Saturday Evening Post article and in a radio series. This Warner Brothers film was somehow nominated for the best-documentary Oscar! Lovejoy returned for more of the same in Shack Out on 101. Douglas went on to direct Them!, In Like Flint, and several Frank Sinatra movies.

I WAS A GROUPIE

(1970) D: "Fred William"/Jack Hill S: Manfred Gregor
P: Erwin C. Dietrich W. Germany (Ich, ein Groupie)

Blond Ingrid Steeger stars in this movie about sex, drugs, and rock and roll. She was in a series of sex comedies by Dietrich. Roger Corman was originally supposed to be involved, and it was advertised in Europe using his name. Hill (whose name was removed by the producer) went to the Philippines and made The Big Doll House next. This is not to be confused with Groupies or I Am a Groupie, both from the same year.

I WAS A TEENAGE MUMMY

(Ghost Limb, 1991) D/P: Christopher C. Frieri
S: Diane Reinhardt

After three early-60s greasers beat up an Egyptian kid (wearing a fez) in a school bathroom, their victim gets his revenge by turning a schoolgirl (Joan Devitt) into a killer mummy, and a private eye who talks to himself investigates. A couple take a motorcycle ride to a graveyard, where they have a philosophical discussion before the mummy kills them, ripping off an arm and a head. There's some good editing, atmospheric lighting and camera work, and some stop-motion effects in this b/w horror spoof. I would have liked more of the mummy and less of the out-of-control Turhan Bey clone. The A Bones play "Mum's the World" (a bird song) at a dance (and isn't that Psychotronic Video columnist Dale Ashman dancing?). All of the music is excellent (and some is backwards). There's a soundtrack on Norton. Frieri also made The Orbitrons.

I WAS A TEENAGE SERIAL KILLER

(1992) D/S/C/E: Sarah Jacobson

Kristin Calabrese (who resembles a young Barbara Hershey with a nose ring) stars as Mary, a woman on the road who kills men, usually for what they say to her (comments like "Great ass!" or "You need to have kids!"). She briefly finds love with a (male) killer, and the mood successfully changes from comic to serious. Despite the "feminist" theme, even the kind of guy she kills could enjoy the murders, the humor, and her nude sex scene. The 21-year-old director of this very well made 27-minute b/w 16mm movie is from Minneapolis and was a student of George Kuchar.

I WAS A TEENAGE TV TERRORIST

(Vestron, 1984) D/S: Stanford Singer
S/A: Kevin McDonough P: Susan Kaufman (Amateur Hour)

A high-school student (Adam Nathan) is sent to live with his father, who puts him to work as a stock boy at his right-wing Romance Entertainment cable-TV station in Jersey City. The son and his girlfriend (Julie Hanlon) plot against the station using harmless "terrorism," but he's blackmailed by his female boss. Joel von Ornsteiner is also in this Troma comedy.

I WAS A TEENAGE ZOMBIE

(Nelson, 1986) D/P: John Elias Michalakias
S: James Martin

A dope dealer named Mussolini sells toxic pot, becomes a toxic zombie, and fights teens. This comedy includes a nod to Troma films. The cast includes Alan Rickman (Shock! Shock! Shock!). The Enigma soundtrack album is better than the 16mm film, which is too long at 90 minutes. The Fleshtones do the theme song, and there are songs by the Ben Vaughn Group, Dream Syndicate, Smithereens, the Waitresses, Violent Femmes, Los Lobos, Alex Chilton, db's and others.

JABBERWOCKY

(RCA/Columbia, 1977) D/S/A: Terry Gilliam
S: Charles Alverson P: Sandy Lieberson UK

Michael Palin stars as a medieval barrel-maker's son who has to battle the man-eating Jabberwocky monster (a giant bird/dragon). He loves big Griselda Fishfinger instead of the princess (Deborah Fallender), daughter of King Bruno the Questionable. The cast includes Max Wall, Eric Idle, Neil Innes, Terry Jones, and David Prowse. This fantasy/comedy was the first solo film by the American-born Monty Python member, who went on to make Brazil. This film and Monty Python and the Holy Grail (1975) make a good double bill.

J'ACCUSE

(Sinister, 1937) D/S: Abel Gance
France (I Accuse; That They May Live)

Here's a powerful antiwar classic with great editing and visuals by the maker of the famous epic Napoléon (1927). Made just before WWII, it's a remake of Gance's 1919 silent film. Victor Francen (The Beast with Five Fingers) stars as Jean Diaz, a veteran of WWI who's obsessed with the horrors of war. When a new war begins he calls on dead soldiers to rise from their graves at Verdun and march. French veterans maimed and disfigured in WWI portray the horrifying zombie soldiers. Gance reused actual WWI footage from the silent version, plus some scenes from his film The End of the World (1929). The film was released (cut) on the American road-show circuit and advertised as a horror movie (which it is, in a sense) that was "banned in Europe." A restored and subtitled version was first screened in the US in 1979. Sinister offers the cut version. The complete (125 minute) uncut version is available from Connoisseur.

THE JACKALS

(Rawhide, 1967) D/P: Robert D. Webb
S: Lamar Trotti, Harold Medford S. Africa

Five bandits in the late 1800s wastelands of Transvaal discover a ghost town and Opa, an eccentric old gold prospector (Vincent Price), living nearby with his angry gun-toting blond daughter (Diana Ivarson). She eventually falls for the gang's leader (Robert Gunner) and the Shanga tribe shows up at the end. Price is the main attraction. He's very good in a rare serious 60s non-horror role, but sometimes seems like a laughing Andy Griffith. It's a remake of Yellow Sky (1948) based on a book by W. R. Burnett (he also wrote High Sierra). Both borrow from Shakespeare's The Tempest (so did Forbidden Planet).

JACK BE NIMBLE

(Triboro, 1992) D/S: Garth Maxwell
P: Jonathan Dowling New Zealand

Jack (Alexis Arquette) and Dora (Sarah Smuts-Kennedy) are a brother and sister who have a psychic link, despite being raised by different adoptive parents. Jack gets revenge on his abusive adoptive parents by hypnotizing them with a machine he made at school and forcing them to kill themselves. Dora and her older boyfriend (Bruno Lawrence) search for Jack, and his weird, mean stepsisters seek revenge. This highly original disturbing, unpredictable film is by a 30-year-old director.

JACKER

(Falcon, 1993) D: Benjamin Stansky S: Chip Herman

Mike (Phillip Herman) is a creepy young guy who eats cereal with his own blood, kidnaps and kills people, and steals their cars. Jackson (Patric Jackson) is the black police detective after him, especially after his sister is killed. Nancy Felciano has a shower scene, a (toy) car is set on fire, and one actor plays twins. Some of the same people appeared in Burglar from Hell. From Rockaway Beach, N.Y.

JACK OF DIAMONDS

(1967) D: Don Taylor S/P: Sandy Howard S: Jack De Witt P: Helmut Jedele US/W. Germany

George Hamilton, a jewel thief, moves from one country to another and robs guest stars Zsa Zsa Gabor, Carroll Baker, and Lilli Palmer (playing themselves). Marie Laforet is his new partner in Paris, and Joseph Cotten is his mentor, "the Ace of Diamonds." The cast also includes Maurice Evans and Wolfgang Preiss. This MGM release was filmed on location in several countries.

JACK'S BACK

(Paramount, 1988) D/S: Rowdy Herrington
P: Tim Moore

An LA serial killer celebrates the centennial of Jack the Ripper's murders by committing similar ones. James Spader stars as a doctor at a free clinic who becomes a suspect. This suspenseful movie involves telepathy and includes some good shocks and great plot twists. The cast includes Cynthia Gibb, Rod Loomis, and Chris Mulkey. Forget all the mediocre teen movies with Spader as a hateful yuppie. This is good. The original title was Red Rain.

JACKSON COUNTY JAIL

(Warner, 1975) D: Michael Miller S: Donald Stewart P: Jeff Behgun, Roger Corman

Yvette Mimieux stars as an LA ad executive driving through the South on her way to New York. Drug-addict hitchhikers (one is Robert Carradine) beat and rob her, she's jailed on vagrancy charges, she's raped by a psycho deputy (Frederic Cook), and she escapes with Tommy Lee Jones. The fact that she fights back, kills the rapist, and becomes a real outlaw helped make this movie a hit for New World. It surprised people expecting a more exploitative treatment. Howard Hesseman, Severn Darden, Betty Thomas, Mary Woronov, and Patrice Rohmer are also in the cast. Outside Chance (Charter, 1978) was an unofficial remake, also starring Mimieux.

Yvette Mimieux is in the Jackson County Jail.

THE JACKSONS: AN AMERICAN DREAM

(ABC, 1992) D: Karen Arthur S: Joyce Eliason
P: Jermaine Jackson, Margaret Maldonado Jackson

Someday, somebody will make an incredible, reality-based movie about Michael Jackson. Meanwhile, this 4-hour ABC-TV miniseries, backed by the Jackson clan, will have to do. It tells the story of the musical family from Gary, Indiana, until the 1984 Victory tour, with 20 kids portraying the Jackson 5 at various ages. Their real hits are heard. Billy Dee Williams is Berry Gordy, Lawrence Hilton-Jacobs is the father, Angela Bassett is the mother, Holly Robinson is Diana Ross, and Vanessa Williams is the woman who discovered the Jackson 5. The cast also includes Margaret Avery, Wylie Draper, and Angel Vargas.

JACK THE RIPPER

(Sinister, 1959) D/P/C: Robert Baker, Monty Berman S: Jimmy Sangster UK

Many are suspected of being the killer who strangles and stabs women, in this atmospheric version of the familiar story. Much time is spent in a hospital morgue, and there's a scarred, mute hunchback, can-can dancing, and a cat fight. A New York City cop (Lee Patterson) helps Scotland Yard. The cast includes Betty McDowall and Eddie Byrne. In the shock ending of this b/w movie, the killer is crushed in an elevator and red blood oozes out. The modern, jazzy score is out of place but sounds great. Joseph E. Levine released the film in the US. The RCA soundtrack features narration by Cedric Hardwicke. Baker and Berman returned with a grave-robbing tale, Flesh and the Fiends/Mania (1960), which is even better.

JACK THE RIPPER

(1988) D/S/P: David Wickes S: Derek Marlowe UK

Michael Caine stars as the Scotland Yard inspector who conducted the original investigation and later discovers the identity of the killer. Wickes did extensive research for this 200-minute British TV movie, shown in 2 parts on CBS. With Armand Assante, Ray McAnally, Susan George, Jane Seymour, Harry Andrews (who died in 1989), Lysette Anthony (from the revived TV series Dark Shadows), Lewis Collins, Edward Judd, Ken Bones, and Michael Gothard.The year 1988 was the centennial of the Ripper's crimes and documentaries were also released, including Jack the Ripper: The Final Solution and Jack the Ripper. Caine returned in Jekyll and Hyde, by the same director.

JACOB'S LADDER

(Live, 1990) D: Adrian Lyne S: Bruce Joel Rubin P: Alan Marshall M: Maurice Jarre

This irritating, $40 million, bad-acid-flashback/ghost movie has a plot twist that copies "An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge." Tim Robbins as a troubled Nam vet working at the post office in New York City either is suffering as a result of drug experiments on soldiers and/or is dead and trying to get into Heaven. Robbins is good, and there are some pretty horrifying hospital scenes. It was made because the writer had just done Ghost and the director had just done Fatal Attraction, and nobody wanted to say no to them. It might make an interesting 1990-big-studio-death double bill someday with Flatliners. Elizabeth Pena costars, with Danny Aiello as a chiropractor, Perry Lang, Matt Craven, Jason Alexander, and Macaulay Culkin as the dead son. The Pioneer laserdisc adds 15 minutes. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande. The illustrated sceenplay has been published.

JACOB TWO-TWO MEETS THE HOODED FANG

(VSOM, 1977) D/S: Theodore J. Flicker P: Harry Gulkin

A kid who says everything twice (Stephen Rosenberg) enters a fantasy world where he's put on trial for insulting an adult. He's jailed and tortured along with other kids. The masked, wrestling warden is Alex Karras. It's based on a children's book by Mordecai Richler. Flicker directed The President's Analyst.

JADED

(1989) D/S/P/A: Oja Kodar P: Gary Graver

This violent, underground-type film about lowlifes (a transvestite, a wife beater, a bisexual) in Venice, California, features Randall Brady, Elizabeth Brooks (The Howling), Jillian Kesner, and Kelli Maroney. The Yugoslavian director was Orson Welles' companion for many years before his death. She was in his F for Fake and several of his unfinished films.

JAIL BAIT

(SW, 1955) D/S/P: Edward D. Wood Jr. S: Alex Gordon (The Hidden Face)

Don (Clancy Malone), just released from jail, works for bad guy Vic Brady (Timothy Farrell), who has a beautiful, Vogue-model moll (Theodora Thurman). During a blackface minstrel show (starring Cotton Watts and Chick) Don botches a holdup and kills two cops: "They bleed just like anybody else." He goes to his kindly old goateed plastic-surgeon father (Herbert Rawlinson, who died the day after his scenes were shot) and demands a new face. Wood's second film has flubbed lines and laughable parts, but the surprise ending is a worthwhile payoff. Dolores Fuller (Wood's girlfriend) is the concerned sister, Lyle Talbot is the inspector, and future Hercules Steve Reeves bares his chest. Wood fans can also spot Mona McKinnon, Conrad Brooks, and other familiar faces. The minstrel footage is from Ron Ormond's Yes, Sir, Mr. Bones (1951), and the irritating guitar and piano music by Hoyt Kurtin (who later wrote the music for The Jetsons) is from Ormond's Mesa of Lost Women (1952). This video version ends with Johnny Legend and Rudolph Grey talking on 42nd Street. The Rhino "director's cut" version runs 72 minutes and includes stripper footage (not by Wood) in place of the minstrel show.

JAILBIRD ROCK

(TWE, 1988) D: Phillip Schuman S: Carole Stanley, Edward Kovach P: J. C. Crespo

A dancer (Robin Antin) goes to prison for defending her mother by shooting her abusive stepfather. The inmates put on a show to cover an escape, in this PG women-in-prison musical. Ronald Lacey is the warden.

JAILBREAKERS

(1994) D: William Friedkin P: Lou Arkoff, Debra Hill

Shannen Doherty becomes involved with a young hoodlum (Antonio Sabata, Jr.) in a Showtime Rebel Highway movie. It uses the title only of an obscure 1959 AIP release.

JAKE SPEED

(Star Maker, 1986) D/S/P: Andrew Lane S/P/A: Wayne Crawford P: William Ivey

Wayne Crawford stars as a pulp hero come to life in this Raiders of the Lost Ark copy about white slavers (led by John Hurt, in probably his worst role) in Africa. Dennis Christopher costars as Remo, the hero's sidekick, with Donna Pescow, Barry Primus, Monte Markham, and veteran actor Leon Ames. New World released it.

JAMAICA INN

(Video Yesterday, 1939) D: Alfred Hitchcock S: Sydney Gilliat, Joan Harrison P: Erich Pommer, Charles Laughton UK

Hitchcock's last British film before relocating to America is based on a novel by Daphne Du Maurier. Charles Laughton stars as the Squire of a Cornish village who is really a pirate leader. His men lure ships to their destruction, steal the cargoes, and kill the crew. The cast includes 19-year-old Maureen O'Hara, Leslie Banks, Emlyn Williams, Mervyn Johns, and Robert Newton. Laughton and Hitchcock often disagreed, and the results didn't please anyone. Hitchcock's next film was the hit Rebecca (1940), also adapted from a Du Maurier novel. Laughton and O'Hara costarred in The Hunchback of Notre Dame (1939) and This Land Is Mine (1944).

JAMAICA INN

(Starmaker, 1985) D: Lawrence Gordon Clark S: Derek Marlowe P: Peter Gordon Scott UK

Patrick McGoohan is the villain in this four-hour remake from BBC-TV. Jane Seymour stars, with Trevor Eve, John McEnery, and Billie Whitelaw. It was syndicated on American TV.

JAMES BOND AT THE MOVIES

(Amwest)

This compilation of trailers ends with A View to a Kill (1985), so the Timothy Dalton movies are missing. Still, it's fascinating to see all the European costars, and the Dr. No trailer (the longest) is especially great. Sid Haig is in the Diamonds Are Forever trailer, and Roger Moore's painfully obvious double is in the one for Live and Let Die.

JAMES DEAN, A LEGEND IN HIS OWN TIME

(Starmaker, 1976) D: Robert Butler S/P: William Bast P: John Forbes (The Legend)

Stephen McHattie is James Dean, and Michael Brandon is his early-50s roommate William Bast. Candy Clark, Meg Foster, Jayne Meadows, Katherine Helmond, Heather Menzies, Amy Irving, Brooke Adams, and Dane Clark are also in this NBC-TV movie. For the real Dean look for the documentaries The James Dean Story (Pacific Arts, 1957), directed by Robert Altman; James Dean, the First American Teenager (1975); and Forever James Dean (Warner, 1988).

JAMES DEAN, THE FIRST AMERICAN TEENAGER

(1975) D/S: Ray Connolly UK

This documentary includes film clips and interviews with Carroll Baker, Dennis Hopper, Nicholas Ray, Vampira(!), Sammy Davis Jr., and others. Music from the 70s by Elton John, David Bowie, Lou Reed, and the Eagles is used, making it pretty dated. Stacy Keach narrates.

JAN AND DEAN: DEAD MAN'S CURVE

(Interglobal, 1978) D: Richard Compton S: Daleen Young P: Pat Rooney

Richard Hatch is Jan Berry, and Bruce Davison is Dean Torrence. The 1966 accident that left Jan in a near-vegetable state is the major event in this look at the popular West Coast singing duo Jan and Dean. It's based on a Rolling Stone article and was made by the director of Angels Die Hard. The cast includes Pamela Bellwood, plus Mike Love and Bruce Johnson of the Beach Boys, Wolfman Jack, and Dick Clark as themselves.

JANE AND THE LOST CITY

(Starmaker, 1987) D: Terry Marcel S: Mervyn Haisman P: Harry Robertson UK

Blond Kristen Hughes stars as Jane in this PG Raiders of the Lost Ark–style adventure comedy, based on a British comic strip that began in 1932. Maud Adams is the evil German Lola Pagola, and

JAPAN

Japanese movies that played in America were either dubbed and cut Godzilla (or other giant-monster) bashes, or subtitled historical dramas, often starring Toshiro Mifune and directed by Akira Kurosawa. Many of these are great and should be seen. Japan has also produced a lot of exploitation movies with shocking sex, bondage, and violence that rival anything on Western screens (at least in the 60s). A recommended historical series that can be found on tape is the Baby Cart, or Lone Wolf, series.

Sam J. Jones is Jack Buck, an American. It was filmed in Mauritius. The Adventures of Jane (1949) is an earlier adaptation.

JANE EYRE

(Sinister, 1934) D: Christy Cabanne
S: Adele Comandini

The first sound version of Charlotte Brontë's gothic novel is considered one of the best 30s "poverty row" films. Colin Clive (best known as Dr. Frankenstein) is Edward Rochester, an English country squire, and Virginia Bruce is Jane Eyre, an orphan who becomes a governess. The cast includes Claire Dubrey as the mad wife locked in a secret wing of the mansion, Beryl Mercer, Aileen Pringle, Jameson Thomas, Lionel Belmore (also in Frankenstein), Jean Rogers, and future director Richard Quine. This Monogram release is 62 minutes long.

JANE EYRE

(Fox, 1942) D/S: Robert Stevenson S: Aldous Huxley, John Houseman P: William Goetz

This famous version of Charlotte Brontë's novel, from 20th Century–Fox, was made after the success of Wuthering Heights (1939) and Rebecca (1940), other gothic romances. Orson Welles, in his second starring role (after his Citizen Kane), is Edward Rochester. Joan Fontaine (also in Rebecca) is Jane Eyre. Peggy Ann Garner is Jane as a child, sent to an orphanage by Henry Daniell and Agnes Moorehead. Her friend there (played by 12-year-old Elizabeth Taylor) dies after being punished in the cold rain. The cast also includes Edith Barrett (in real life, Vincent Price's first wife), Margaret O'Brien, and John Abbott. Bernard Herrmann wrote the score. Stevenson went on to become a very successful director for Disney.

JANE EYRE

(1971) D: Delbert Mann S: Jack Pulman P: Frederick Brogger UK

This version of the famous novel is an NBC-TV movie filmed in England. George C. Scott and Susannah York star, with Ian Bannen, Jack Hawkins, Jean Marsh, and Nyree Dawn Porter (who was in The House That Dripped Blood and several other early-70s horror movies). The John Williams score (on Capitol) received an Emmy. A 1983 BBC-TV version with Timothy Dalton is also available (from CBS/Fox). Another version was released theatrically in 1996, starring William Hurt.

JANIS

(MCA, 1975) D/P: Howard Alk, Seaton Findlay

Most of this documentary is live concert footage of the late Janis Joplin, sometimes with her original, underrated psych/garage band, Big Brother and the Holding Company. It includes her appearance on The Dick Cavett Show and her Texas high-school reunion. She can also be seen in Monterey Pop.

THE JAR

(Magnum, 1984) D: Bruce Toscano
S: George Bradley (Carrion)

This very strange movie from Denver has effective touches in the style of Carnival of Souls. The music, camera work (parts are in b/w), lighting, and sound effects are all designed to make it disorienting. A man (Gary Wallace) has serious hallucinations after he brings home an old man he hit with his car. His tub fills with blood, he tries (in vain) to get rid of a demon baby in a jar, and he becomes involved with a very patient, concerned neighbor (Karen Sjoberg).

JASON GOES TO HELL: THE FINAL FRIDAY

(New Line, 1993) D: Adam Marcus
S: Dean Lorey, Jay Huguely-Cass
P: Sean Cunningham M: Harry Manfredini

New Line hired a 25-year-old NYU student to direct the ninth in the series. Since it bombed at the box office, maybe it really will be final. Jason is blown apart by the National Guard, but a black coroner in Ohio eats his brain (?!) and is possessed. The "spirit" (it looks like a lump of shit) inhabits other characters (like in The Hidden). John D. Lemay (from the Friday the 13th TV series) and Kari Keegan are the young stars. A crazy, sadistic black bounty hunter (Steven Williams, from 21 Jump Street) tracks the killer back to Camp Crystal Lake. This brain-dead sequel features a shower scene and a girl split in half after R-rated sex. In the most tasteless scene, a creature enters Erin Gray between her legs. Also in the cast are Steven Culp as an asshole TV reporter, Billy Green Bush as a sheriff, Allison Smith, and Julie Michaels. Kane Hodder is Jason for the third time. The video is the gorier "unrated director's cut." KNB did the FX.

JAWS OF SATAN

(1980) D: Bob Claver S: Gerry Holland
P: Bill Wilson (King Cobra)

Fritz Weaver stars as a preacher whose ancestors were Druids. He has a big battle with Satan in the form of a snake. Gretchen Corbett and Christina Applegate are also in the cast.

JAWS OF THE ALIEN = THE HUMAN DUPLICATORS

JAWS 3 (-D)

(MCA, 1983) D: Joe Alves S: Richard Matheson, Carl Gottlieb P: Rupert Hitzig M: Alan Parker

The original plan was to make the third Jaws movie an all-out comedy (called Jaws 3, People 0), but they went 3-D and "serious" instead. The director was the production designer on the first two films in the series. Dennis Quaid stars as the son of sheriff Brody, who was killed in Jaws II. He works at the Undersea Kingdom in Florida and trains dolphins to help him fight the mythical shark. This PG sequel features Bess Armstrong, Louis Gossett, Jr. as the owner of the tourist attraction, Simon McCorkindale, Lea Thompson (making her debut), Barbara Eden (in a bit part), and Shamu the killer whale. MCA released the soundtrack.

Lisa Maurer, Louis Gossett Jr., Dennis Quaid, and Bess Armstrong react to something in Jaws 3-D.

JAWS: THE REVENGE

(MCA, 1987) D/P: Joseph Sargent
S: Michael de Guzman

The story in this inferior PG-13 sequel, the fourth in the series, picks up right after the second. Lorraine Gary (the wife of Universal chairman Sidney Steinberg) stars as the widow of Sheriff Brody. The same shark follows her and her son (Lance Guest) when they go to the Bahamas. Mario Van Peebles (with dreadlocks), Michael Caine (the busiest major name in movies at the time), and Karen Young are also in the cast. The video has three more minutes of shark attacks.

JEKYLL AND HYDE

(Vidmark, 1990) D/S: David Wickes P: Patricia Carr

Michael Caine stars as the good doctor and a lumpy-faced Hyde in this ABC-TV version filmed in England. Cheryl Ladd costars, with Joss Ackland and Lionel Jeffries. Weeks also directed Caine in Jack the Ripper.

JEKYLL AND HYDE: PACT WITH THE DEVIL

(VSOM, 1968) D: Jaime Salvador S: Ramón Obón, Aldolfo Torres Portillo P: Luis Enrique Vergara Mexico (Pacto Diabólico)

John Carradine stars as Dr. Halback, a former colleague of the late Dr. Jekyll. He drinks a youth potion and poses as his own nephew (Miguel Ángel Álvarez). The young man goes to a burlesque house, gouges people's eyes out, and goes after a house guest (Regina Torne) who is the daughter of Dr. Jekyll. The cast also includes Isela Vega. The director made La Señora Muerte (also with Carradine). It's subtitled.

THE JEKYLL AND HYDE PORTFOLIO

(1972) D/P: Eric Jeffrey Haims D: Don Greer (Jekyll and Hyde Unleashed)

Women are killed at a nursing school. Gray Daniels stars with nudie movie vets Mady McQuire, Terry Johnson, and Rene Bond. The Adult Version of Jekyll and Hyde was released the same year as this soft-core-sex version.

JEKYLL AND HYDE... TOGETHER AGAIN

(Paramount, 1982) D/S: Jerry Belson S: Monica Johnson, Harvey Miller, Michael Lesson

Comedian Mark Blankfield stars as a nerdy scientist who snorts a coke-like chemical and becomes "cool" (gold chains, punk hair). This dumb comedy features Bess Armstrong, George Chakiris, Krista Erickson, Tim Thomerson, George Wendt, and Cassandra Peterson as "a busty nurse." Blankfield (from the Fridays TV series) returned in Frankenstein's General Hospital.

JENNIE: WIFE, CHILD

(SW, 1968) D: James Landis, Robert Carl Cohen P: James Enochs (Albert Peckinpah's Revenge)

Russ Meyer's Lorna (1964) was the obvious inspiration for this b/w rural sex comedy, complete with silly silent-movie intertitles. Albert, an old farmer, marries Jennie, a 20-year-old blonde (Beverly Lunsford, from The Crawling Hand). After she seduces Mario, a young farmhand, Albert drugs them and chains them up in his cellar. Jennie sings, "How'd You Like Me in My Birthday Suit?" before her nude swim, and another woman rides a motorcycle topless. Most of it was filmed (by cinematographer Vilmos Zsigmond) in 1965 as Tender Grass. The producer added footage of Davie Allan and the Arrows doing a new country-sound theme song in a club. The several Arrows instrumentals are typically good, but Allan and his double-necked guitar is mostly avoided by whoever shot the disappointing live footage. A Tower soundtrack was even released. Landis also directed The Sadist.

JENNIFER 8

(Paramount, 1992) D/S: Bruce Robinson P: Gary Luccesi C: Conrad Hall

Andy Garcia stars as a troubled, divorced big-city cop relocated to a small Northern California town. He investigates serial killings after a hand (and other body parts) are found at the city dump just before Christmas. He also falls for Uma Thurman, a blind woman who is the chief witness. Lance Henriksen is his partner and brother-in-law, and Kathy Baker is his sister. John Malkovich has a showoff role as an FBI interrogator. Also in the cast are Lenny Von Dohlen and Perry Lang. The British director had made Withnail and I and How to Get Ahead in Advertising, and his first American film is better than the plot suggests. It's 124 minutes long.

JESSE JAMES VS. THE DALTONS

(Columbia, 1954) D: William Castle S: Robert E. Kent P: Sam Katzman

Torches, guns, and lots more are hurled at the audience in this 3-D Technicolor Columbia western. Brett King stars as Joe Branch, who might be the son of Jesse James. Barbara Lawrence costars. It's only 65 minutes long.

JESSIE'S GIRLS

(Monterey, 1976) D/P: Al Adamson S: Budd Donnelly P: Michael F. Goodman (Wanted Women)

Sondra Currie, as a Mormon widow, frees three female outlaws in this sex-and-revenge western. One of the outlaws is Regina Carroll (the director's wife) as a hooker. Rod Cameron has a bit part. It copies the Raquel Welch movie Hannie Caulder (1972).

JESUS OF NAZARETH

(Fox, 1976) D/S: Franco Zeffirelli S: Anthony Burgess, Suso Cecchi D'Amico P: Vincenzo La Bella

Robert Powell is Jesus in this 8-hour, star-studded miniseries, with Anne Bancroft, Claudia Cardinale, James Farentino, James Earl Jones, Stacy Keach, Tony Lo Bianco, James Mason, Ian McShane, Laurence Olivier, Ernest Borgnine and Anthony Quinn (both also in Barabbas), Donald Pleasence (also in The Passover Plot), Christopher Plummer, Fernando Rey, Ralph Richardson, Rod Steiger as Pontius Pilate, Peter Ustinov, Michael York, Ian Holm, and Olivia Hussey as the Virgin Mary. Zeffirelli later publicly criticized The Last Temptation of Christ.

THE JESUS TRIP

(Unicorn, 1971) D: Russ Mayberry S: Dick Poston P: Joseph Feury (Under Hot Leather)

Heroin-dealing bikers kidnap a nun named Sister Anne (Tippy Walker), and she falls for their leader, Waco (Robert Porter). Billy "Green" Bush is a sadistic, corrupt cop, and Robert Tessier (who was also the second-unit director) is another cop. This no-action PG film is "an Eve Meyer presentation." The second wife of Russ Meyer died in 1977.

THE JEWEL OF THE NILE

(Fox, 1985) D: Lewis Teague S: Mark Rosenthal, Laurence Konner P/A: Michael Douglas M: Jack Nitzsche

Michael Douglas, Kathleen Turner, and Danny DeVito return in this PG sequel to 20th Century–Fox's Romancing the Stone, set in the Mideast. Teague, a former director of Corman films, had just done two Stephen King movies. The score is on Arista.

JEZEBEL'S KISS

(RCA, 1990) D/S: Harvey Keith P: Eric F. Sheffer

Katherine Barres stars (and has many nude scenes) as a young woman who goes after the killer of her grandfather. Also in the cast are Malcolm McDowell, Meg Foster, Everett McGill, Meredith Baxter, and Bert Remsen. It's by the director of Mondo New York.

JFK

(Warner, 1992) D/S/P: Oliver Stone S: Zachary Sklar P: A. Kitman Ho

Stone upset a lot of people with this dazzling dissection of American history centering on the New Orleans district attorney, Jim Garrison (Kevin Costner), who tried to disprove the Warren Commision. The film is fascinating even if you don't buy all (or any) of the conspiracy theories. It's based on books by Garrison and Jim Marrs. Gary Oldman is Oswald, Brian Doyle Murray is Ruby, and Sissy Spacek is Mrs. Garrison. Bizarre, supposedly real gay characters are played by Joe Pesci (!), Tommy Lee Jones, and Kevin Bacon. The cast also includes Michael Rooker, Wayne Knight, Laurie Metcalf, Vincent D'Onofrio, John Candy (with a great accent), Sally Kirkland, Lolita Davidovich, and Frank Whaley. Ed Asner, Jack Lemmon, and Walter Matthau all have memorable scenes. Garrison plays Chief Justice Earl Warren. Martin Sheen narrates the intro. Donald Sutherland's Agent X character says that the assassination was a coup d'état. The Kennedy autopsy scenes rival anything in a horror movie. The Warner Brothers release is 189 minutes. The director's-cut video adds another 17.

JIGSAW

(1968) D: James Goldstone S/P: Ranald MacDougall

Remember a Gregory Peck movie called Mirage (1965)? Well, this is a remake, also from Universal, with fast editing, a Quincy Jones score, and LSD added to the plot. Bradford Dillman, as a scientist, accidentally manages to drink some coffee with LSD sugar cubes. He wakes up with amnesia in a strange apartment with a dead woman in the tub. He hires a detective (Harry Guardino), who is forced to take LSD by some hippies, and the scientist takes more LSD so that he can remember what happened! With Hope Lange, Pat Hingle, Diana Hyland, Victor Jory, Susan Saint James, James Doohan, and Michael J. Pollard. It was made for NBC-TV but was first shown theatrically.

JIGSAW MURDERS

(MGM, 1988) D: Jag Mundhra
S: Allen B. Ury P: Victor Bhalla

Cops in LA search for a psycho killer who leaves tattooed body parts around. There's a bachelor party with strippers and lots of nude modeling going on too (which is where Brinke Stevens and Laura Albert come in). Chad Everett stars as a cop, with Michelle Johnson, Yaphet Kotto as Dr. Fillmore, and Michelle Bauer. The director made Open House. It's from Concorde.

JIMI HENDRIX

(Warner, 1973) D/P: Gary Weis, Joe Boyd, John Head

Lots of good live and interview footage is used in this documentary. Pete Townsend and many nonfamous people who knew Hendrix before the fame are featured. Hendrix is also the star of Rainbow Bridge (Rhino, 1971), and you can see him perform in Monterey Pop and Woodstock.

JIMMY THE KID

(SW, 1982) D: Gary Nelson S: Sam Brobrick P: Ronald Jacobs

Diff'rent Strokes star Gary Coleman is kidnapped by two crooks in this PG adventure comedy from New World that borrows the plot of O. Henry's "The Ransom of Red Chief." Paul Le Mat, Ruth Gordon, and Dee Wallace Stone team up to kidnap the bratty little kid (who was really 14 at the time). Also in the cast are Don Adams as a detective, Cleavon Little, Avery Schreiber, and Pat Morita.

JIMMY, THE WONDER BOY

(SW, 1966) D: Herschell Gordon Lewis P: Hal Berg

Lewis made this, his first kiddie movie (it's a musical), shortly after Color Me Blood Red. The acting is so bad, and the whole thing is so lame and ridiculous, that it's well worth watching. Little Jimmy Jay makes a reckless wish, and everybody stops moving. Aurora, a wizard's daughter (Nancy Berg, the producer's wife perhaps, who resembles Kathy Bates in Misery), takes him on a journey to "the world's end" to restart "the great clock." A Devil character called Mr. Figg (with incredible eyebrows) causes trouble by turning everything red and sings songs like "Think Big" and "Beans." The beans rain on a tribe of green Indians. To stretch the running time, there's a long slow-motion scene, and Aurora tells a story (a very badly dubbed European cartoon about a magic globe) that lasts for 20 minutes! This warped film was shot in Florida, at the same Coral Castles park as Nude on the Moon. The makeup was by Nature's Playmates star Louise Downs. Try to imagine being dropped off at a Saturday matinee to watch this when you were about nine years old. Around the same time Lewis directed additional scenes for the British Sin, Suffer, and Repent, a venereal-disease movie.

THE JIM ROSE CIRCUS SIDESHOW

(American Visuals, 1993) D: Jonathan Dayton, Valerie Faris

Rose, a very animated and loud MC, has taken some traditional sideshow attractions to new extremes by presenting this impressive traveling gross-out show for jaded young people at an old (packed) theater in Seattle. You might have seen sword swallowing, spikes up the nose, or worm and glass eating before, but how about a guy who has beer pumped in through his nose (too much coke?), or Mr. Lifto, who hangs heavy weights from his nipples and his dick!? Rose's show was also on the Lollapalooza tour.

THE JITTERS

(Prism, 1988) D/P/E: John Fasano S: Jeff McKay, Sonoko Kondo US/Japan

This is a comedy with hopping vampires, which are popular in Asia. It's not as good as the better 80s Asian horror movies, but it's amusing enough. A small, multiracial gang led by Leech kills Uncle Lee, a rich Chinatown merchant. James Hong and his assistant/son mix a potion that revives the man as a vampire with Mr. Spock ears. Eventually, all the vampires (who can be stopped only by papers with symbols on them) defeat the gang. Some good FX show vampires exposed to a mirror sparking, melting, and then bursting, and when a head splits open there's a muscular, snake-tongued monster man inside. My favorite line is "I'm terrified beyond the capacity for reasonable thought." It was filmed in Toronto but is set in LA. Fasano also directed Black Roses and Rock and Roll Nightmare.

JIVE JUNCTION

(1943) D: Edgar G. Ulmer S: Irving Wallace P: Leon Fromkes

Are you ready for an Edgar G. Ulmer PRC musical? An all-girl swing band, organized by Dickie Moore (formerly in Our Gang comedies) and other teens, plays jitterbug music for soldiers in a barn. Tina Thayer and Gerra Young costar in this 62-minute WWII movie.

J-MEN FOREVER!

(Lightning, 1979) D: Richard Patterson S: Philip Proctor, Peter Bergman P: William Howard

Members of the Firesign Theatre (who were still funny at the time) provided the new comedy dialogue added to Fighting Devil Dogs and parts of other old serials cut together with new scenes. A DJ from outer space plans to take over Earth with rock music. The heroes fight back with Lawrence Welk tunes. It features Philip Proctor, Peter Bergman, Leonard Nimoy, and the voice of Michael Gwynne. Akira Fitton did the credits and poster for this 75-minute film.

JOCKS

(RCA, 1984) D: Steve Carver S: Michael Lanahanm, David Oas P: Ahmet Yasa (Road Trip)

Scott Strader stars in this comedy about college tennis players in Las Vegas. Richard Roundtree costars as the coach who has to create a winning team, with Perry Lang, Christopher Lee as the college president, Mariska Hargitay, R. G. Armstrong, and Trinidad Silva. Crown International released it.

JOE

(Cannon, 1970) D/C: John D. Avildsen
S: Norman Wexler P: David Gil

Peter Boyle is excellent as a hippie-hating New York City construction worker. He first blackmails and then makes an alliance with a rich executive (Dennis Patrick) who killed his daughter's drug-dealer boyfriend after she disappeared into the East Village drug scene. The WWII vets check out the scene together, get high, get laid, then massacre everybody in a commune. It's not a typical anti-establishment movie of the time but is a must-see. Susan Sarandon makes her acting debut as the daughter, blitzed on speed. Lloyd Kaufman (later with Troma) was the production manager. Jerry Butler and Exhuma are heard on the Mercury soundtrack. Mercury also released an album of dialogue called Joe Speaks. The ads for the film featured a hippie with a target on his face and the line "Keep America beautiful." Avildsen did Guess What We Did in School Today for Cannon the same year. A Joe sequel was promised for many years.

Dennis Patrick and Peter Boyle in Joe.

JOE VERSUS THE VOLCANO

(Warner, 1990) D/S: John Patrick Shanley
P: Teri Schwartz

Tom Hanks stars as a dying nerd who is offered 6 months of paradise as an island king as long as he jumps into a volcano when his time is up. This fantasy/comedy features Meg Ryan in three roles, Lloyd Bridges, Robert Stack, Abe Vigoda as the Waponi chief, Dan Hedaya, Ossie Davis, Amanda Plummer, and Carol Kane. Steven Spielberg was an executive producer.

JOHN AND YOKO: A LOVE STORY

(SVS, 1985) D/S: Sandor Stern P: Aida Young

The lives of John Lennon (Mark McGann, from Liverpool) and Yoko Ono (Kim Miyori) from 1966 to Lennon's death are examined. It's pretty weak, considering what they had to work with. Actors play the other Beatles, Brian Epstein, Lennon's kids, Allen Klein, Linda Eastman

McCartney, Phil Spector, and May Pang. Lennon and Beatles songs are used on the soundtrack. Stern also wrote The Amityville Horror. Many real Lennon videos are available, including Imagine (Warner, 1988).

JOHN LENNON

(HBO, 1972) D: D.A. Pennebacker

This is a cut (56-minute) version of Sweet Toronto. The 12-hour September 13, 1969, Toronto festival was organized by and starred John Lennon, just after Woodstock. The first part is a classic lineup of people who influenced him: Chuck Berry, Bo Diddley, Jerry Lee Lewis, and Little Richard, all still in prime rockin' form. They have one song each on the tape. Then comes the Plastic Ono Band (with Lennon, Yoko, Eric Clapton, and Klaus Voorman). The Live Peace in Toronto LP is exactly what you see here. Yoko spends part of the time in a bag screaming, Clapton feeds back a lot, and they do the entire "Don't Worry, Kyoko." It's a wonder that the oldies fans didn't riot. All in all, it's a great concert movie as well as a major confrontation with and statement from the bearded Lennon.

JOHNNY CASH! THE MAN, HIS WORLD, HIS MUSIC

(Goodtimes, 1969) D/S/C: Robert Elfstrom
P: Arthur Barron

Johnny Cash was enjoying a pop-chart comeback with his "Folsom Prison Blues" when this concert documentary was made. He and June Carter Cash and her family sing and play lots of songs on tour. Carl Perkins was his guitarist at the time. Bob Dylan, whose new album was Nashville Skyline (his weakest up to that time), is seen in the studio with the man in black and sings "One Too Many Mornings." This film debuted on Nashville Entertainment TV. Elfstrom also made The Nashville Sound (1970) and The Gospel Road (1973), both with Cash.

JOHNNY FIRECLOUD

(Prism, 1974) D/P: William A. Castleman
S: Wilton Denmark P: David Friedman, Peter B. Good, Anton Wickremasighe
(The Revenge of Johnny Firecloud)

If you crossed Billy Jack with 2000 Maniacs you might come up with this story of the martial-arts-fighting Nam-vet Indian Johnny Firecloud (played by Puerto Rican Victor Mohica). Local Indians are humiliated, raped, and even lynched, until Johnny scalps a man, plants an axe in a skull, lights dynamite tied to a man's crotch, buries another man up to his neck (and pokes his eyes out), and hangs and whips Ralph Meeker, as the hateful, corrupt guy who runs the small town. The shocking, gory effects are by Joe Blasco (he also did Ilsa), who now runs an FX school in Hollywood. Scene-stealing Frank De Kova is the pathetic, alcoholic grandfather. All My Children star David Canary is the good cop. Christina Hart (The Stewardesses) is Johnny's ex-girlfriend. The only real American Indian in the cast (most of them look Italian) is Marlon Brando's friend Sacheen Littlefeather (of 1972 Academy Awards fame). She seems to have used a lot of silicone.

JOHNNY GOT HIS GUN

(Media, 1971) D/S: Dalton Trumbo
P: Bruce Post Campbell

Timothy Bottoms stars as a WWI soldier who is a deaf, mute, blind quadruple amputee after a bomb explosion. He remembers, dreams, and fantasizes in his hospital bed. The cast includes Diane Varsi (in her last role for many years) as a nurse, Jason Robards, Kathy Fields, Marsha Hunt, Eduard Franz, David Soul, and Anthony Geary. Donald Sutherland is Christ, and Tom Tryon (who was also an executive producer) has his last acting role. This Cinemation PG film is partially in b/w. It's based on Trumbo's 1939 anti-war novel (which was presented as a radio drama, with James Cagney playing Johnny). Trumbo was jailed for 10 months in 1950–51 and blacklisted until 1960 for refusing to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

JOHNNY GUITAR

(Republic, 1954) D: Nicholas Ray
S: Philip Yordan P: Herbert Yates

Joan Crawford, dressed in black, stars as Vienna, in one of the oddest westerns of all time. She builds a saloon and gambling house on Arizona land that the railroad wants. She uses the Dancin' Kid (Scott Brady) but falls for Johnny Guitar (Sterling Hayden). The big showdown is between Vienna and cattle queen Emma Small (the awesome Mercedes McCambridge). The film has been called political satire and "Freudian feminism." Ward Bond, Ernest Borgnine, John Carradine as Old Tom, Royal Dano, Ben Cooper, and Paul Fix are also in the cast. Peggy Lee sings the theme song. Citadel released the soundtrack in 1981. Ray made Rebel Without a Cause the next year. Gene Corman was his agent.

JOHNNY HANDSOME

(IVE, 1989) D: Walter Hill S: Ken Friedman
P: Charles Roven M: Ry Cooder

Lance Henriksen and Ellen Barkin double-cross petty criminal Mickey Rourke in New Orleans. Mickey looks like "the Elephant Man" but has extensive plastic surgery in prison. With Elizabeth McGovern, Morgan Freeman, Forest Whitaker as the plastic surgeon, and Scott Wilson. It's based on a novel by John Godey. The soundtrack is on Warner.

JOHNNY RENO

(1965) D: R. G. Springsteen
S: Steve Fisher P: A. C. Lyles

Dana Andrews stars as a US marshal in this old-fashioned color western about a town in Kansas where an Indian chief's son is murdered. The cast includes Jane Russell, Lon Chaney Jr. (who was in eight Lyles westerns at Paramount), and John Agar (who was in five). Tom Drake and Dale Van Sickle are the bad-guy brothers.

JOHNNY SUEDE

(Paramount, 1991) D/S: Tom DiCillo
P: Yoram Mandel, Ruth Waldburger

Johnny Suede (Brad Pitt) is an immature, unemployed liar and would-be pop star with a giant pompadour. He lives in a crummy apartment in an unnamed city. His band lasts through one practice, and he has humorous girlfriend problems (with Catherine Keener and Alison Moir). Some of the surreal hallucinations and dream sequences (featuring an iguana and midgets) are top-notch. The cast includes Tina Louise, Calvin Levels, Samuel L. Jackson, and Nick Cave as rock star Freak Storm. There's a clip from The Terror of Tiny Town. The new music by Link Wray is great, and some old Ricky Nelson hits are heard too. DiCillo, a cameraman on Jim Jarmusch movies, filmed this in New York City neighborhoods. It was made with a Sundance Institute grant. Miramax released it on tape after Pitt had gone on to fame and bigger films.

JO JO DANCER, YOUR LIFE IS CALLING

(Columbia, 1986) D/S/P/A: Richard Pryor
S: Rocco Urbisci, Paul Mooney

Pyror stars as Jo Jo (himself) and his "alter ego." He's seen growing up in a whorehouse, becoming a nightclub comic, and getting married over and over. His 1980 freebasing coke accident (the first time many heard of smoking crack) is shown as a turning point in his life. It's not very good, but it is interesting to see a living talent in charge of presenting his own version of his story. The cast includes Debbie Allen, Fay Hauser, Carmen McRae, Billy Eckstine, Diahnne Abbott, Wings Hauser, Tanya Boyd (Ilsa, Harem Keeper of the Oil Sheiks), Paula Kelly (from Playboy), and Barbara Williams. Warner released the soundtrack, featuring various artists.

THE JOKERS

(1967) D: Michael Winner S: Dick Clement, Ian La Frenais P: Maurice Foster UK

Two upper-class brothers (Michael Crawford and Oliver Reed) make plans to steal the crown jewels from the Tower of London and then to return them. This crime comedy also features Harry Andrews, Daniel Massey, Michael Hordern, Frank Finlay, James Donald, and Edward Fox. Universal released it in the US.

JONATHAN OF THE BEARS

(1993) D/S: Enzo C. Casterelli S: Lorenzo De Luca
P/A: Franco Nero P: Vittorio Noia, Gabriel Sefarian
Italy/Russia (Jonathan degli Orsi)

In the first "borscht western" flashbacks tell the story of Jonathan, a kid who sees his parents murdered. He befriends a bear and later an Indian chief (Floyd "Red Crow" Westerman). Grown-up, vengeance-seeking Jonathan (Franco Nero) is a legend among Indians, but the chief's son (Knifewing Segura) is his rival. With John Saxon as a bad-guy oil man who has Jonathan crucified, Melody Robertson as a mute Indian, Bobby Rhodes, and David Hess. It was shot on Army bases in Russia.

JOSHUA

(Rhino, 1976) D/P: Larry Spangler S/A: Fred Williamson (Joshua: The Black Rider)

In an imitation of Clint Eastwood's Italian westerns, Williamson stars as a former Union Army soldier out for vengeance after his wife is kidnapped and his mother is killed. Mexican star Isela Vega costars.

JOURNEY BENEATH THE DESERT

(Sinister, 1961) D: Edgar G. Ulmer, Frank Borzage S: Ugo Liberatore, Remigio Del Grosso Italy/France (Antinea; Della Citta Sepolta)

A helicopter (an obvious toy in long shots) crashes during a storm in the restricted "atomic-explosion area" of a desert and ends up in the underground city of Atlantis, where the evil Queen Antinea (Haya Harareet) in a sexy costume makes one of the visitors a mindless zombie slave. Jean-Louis Trintignant stars, with Rod Fulton as a playboy looking for diamonds, Georges Riviere, and Jean Maria Volonte as a helpful blond Arab. There are dream sequences, evil Arabs, a torture chamber, a snake dance, a slave revolt, machine-gun battles, and an A-bomb explosion. This movie (released directly to TV in America) is crazy (and the washed-out Technicolor print seems to be missing scenes). Veteran director Frank Borzage started it (he died in 1962) and was replaced by Ulmer. The same story had been filmed in France (1922), Germany (1932), and as the Maria Montez movie Siren of Atlantis (1948).

JOURNEY INTO FEAR

(Turner, 1942) D: Norman Foster S/P/A: Orson Welles S/A: Joseph Cotten

After making Citizen Kane and The Magnificent Ambersons, Welles took a supporting role in this film as Turkish police chief Colonel Haki. It was his second film as an actor and the third (and, unfortunately, the last) of his Mercury Productions for RKO. Joseph Cotten stars in this entertaining WWII spy thriller, based on an Eric Ambler novel, with Dolores Del Rio, Ruth Warrick, Agnes Moorehead, Everett Sloane, and Hans Conreid as Oo Lang Sang the magician. It was remade in 1974 in Canada.

JOURNEY INTO THE BEYOND

(VCII, 1977) D: Rolf Olson S: Paul Ross P: Rudolph Kalmowicz W. Germany

John Carradine narrates this 104-minute documentary on psychic surgery, voodoo, exorcism, ghosts, and levitation. Many real experts appear.

JOURNEY OF HONOR

(MCA, 1990) D: Gordon Hessler S: Nelson Gidding P/A: Sho Kosugi US/Japan (Shogun Mayeda)

Lord Mayeda (Sho Kosugi) is the samurai protector of the son (Kane Kosugi) of a warring shogun (Toshiro Mifune, who was also an executive producer). They're sent to Spain to buy guns for the 17th-century civil war in Japan. The cast includes Polly Walker, David Essex as an evil duke, Christopher Lee as King Philip, and John Rhys-Davies as the sultan of Morroco. Martial-arts star Kosugi planned and produced this old-fashioned PG-13 epic after spending years in American ninja-action movies.

JOURNEY TO FREEDOM

(1957) D: Robert C. Dertano S: Herbert F. Nichols P: Stephen C. Apostolof

Jacques Scott stars as an Eastern European who escapes to America, where Communist agents continue to track him. Producer Apostolof, who had fled Bulgaria, later directed Ed Wood scripts as A. C. Stevens. Tor Johnson (from Ed Wood movies) has a major fight scene. Genevieve Aumont costars. The anti-communism feature is from Republic.

JOURNEY TO THE CENTER OF THE EARTH

(Warner, 1986) D/S: Rusty Lemorande S: Debra Ricci, Regina Davis, Kitty Chalmers P: Golan/Globus

Young people exploring a cave in Hawaii fall into a hole, and this barely released PG adventure in the lost city of Atlantis begins. With Kathy Ireland, Emo Phillips, and Sam Raimi. Ireland also fell into a pit in Alien from LA (1983), also from Cannon. Don't confuse this with the much better 1959 movie.

JOURNEY TO THE CENTER OF THE EARTH

(1993) D: William Dear S/P: Robert Gunter S: David Mickey Evans P: Marvin Miller

This TV movie remake was backed by producer John Ashley. Jeffrey Nording stars, with Farrah Forke, John Neville, F. Murray Abraham, Carel Struycken, Fabiana Udenio, and Kim Miyori.

JOYRIDE

(Vestron, 1977) D/S: Joseph Ruben S: Peter Rainer P: Bruce Cohn Curtis

A pair of teen couples leave LA, drive north, and end up breaking into a summer home in Alaska. All the stars of this AIP release are the children of actors. They're Robert Carradine, Melanie Griffith, Desi Arnaz Jr., and Anne Lockhart. Melanie and Anne have topless scenes. Much of the music on the United Artists soundtrack is by the Electric Light Orchestra.

THE JOYS OF JEZEBEL

(SW, 1967) D/P: A. P. Stootsberry S: Maurice Smith

Hell is the setting of this soft-core-sex comedy/fantasy, a good way for the filmmakers to get away with lots of scandalous things. The comic Devil (Christopher Stone, but not the actor in The Howling) lets Jezebel (Christine Murray, also in Trader Hornee) return to earth so that she can deliver the soul of a busty blond virgin named Rachel (Dixie Donovan) by taking over her body. The orgies in Hell are hard to see because of all the red filters on the lights. The sex action usually centers on breast-kissing. Goliath and Solomon are other characters. The dubbed soundtrack has rock guitar, voices, and parts that are backwards.

JOYSTICKS

(Vestron, 1983) D/P: Greydon Clark S: Al Gomez, Mickey Epps, Curtis Burch (Video Madness)

Joe Don Baker wants to shut down River City's video-game parlor, and the Pac Man kids fight back. Scott McGinnis stars, with Anne Ramsey, Corinne Bohrer, Becky Le Beau, and Kym Malin and Lynda Wiesmeier (from Playboy). Clark also directed Wacko (also with Baker and McGinnis), released by the same company (Jensen Farley).

JUBILEE

(Mystic Fire, 1977) D/S: Derek Jarman P: Howard Manlin, James Whaley UK

Queen Elizabeth I is transported to post-WWIII England and is horrified by punks, anarchy, and lesbians. This punk fantasy/musical features Jenny Runacre as Bod, Little Nell (Campbell) as Crabs, Richard O'Brien, Toyah Wilcox as Mad, Ian Charleson, and Adam Ant. The music is by Brian Eno, plus Adam and the Ants, Siouxsie and the Banshees, Wayne County, The Slits, Chelsea, and others. Jarman (who died in 1994) started as a set designer for Ken Russell. Eno did the music for his Sebastiane (1976) too.

JUD

(Prism, 1971) D/S: Gunther Collins P: Igo Kantor

A Nam vet (Joseph Kaufman) returns to LA at Christmastime and experiences dejection and misery. Claudia Jennings has a small role as Sunny. The Ampex soundtrack features music by the American Breed, Crow, John Hartford, and others.

JUDGE DEE AND THE MONASTERY MURDER

(1974) D: Jeremy Paul Kagan S: Nicholas Meyer P: Gerald I. Isenberg (The Haunted Monastery)

This was the first all-Asian-American TV movie. It's a bit like The Name of the Rose. The hero of Robert Van Gulick's series of novels is based on a real 7th-century Chinese judge. Khigh Dhiegh (from the TV series Hawaii Five–0) stars as the crime-solving judge, with Mako, Soon-Taik Oh, Irene Tsu, James Hong, and Keye Luke. There's a chamber of horrors and a killer bear. This was aired as a series pilot on ABC-TV at the same time as their Kung Fu series was at the height of its popularity. It's too bad it didn't become a series.

JUDGMENT DAY

(Magnum, 1989) D/S/P: Ferde Grofe Jr. P: Keith Lawrence

This teens-in-Hell horror/fantasy about a cursed Mexican village has some strong similarities to The Laughing Dead. When their tour bus has a flat tire, two American guys follow an old lady in black: "We could be following this hag into a trip to Hell!" Of course they do. Monte Markham is a friendly but worried American who runs a restaurant. He warns them to leave town. They end up at the 17th-century home of Cesar Romero, who has a mysterious, beautiful daughter and a black slave. Things get pretty strange when hooded monks on horseback start horsewhipping Monte. He really suffers: "Ohh! Ohh! Ohh! A-a-ahhhh!" Some very impressive and surprising scenes feature a crowd of people in chains being whipped while walking up a huge staircase. Monte and a topless woman are crucified. The Devil is pretty good too, with horns and three arms. In the 60s Grofe wrote or directed action movies made in the Philippines, like Walls of Hell and The Steel Claw. His company specializes in generic combat videos (they have 100 to choose from) and has done videos for US News and World Report and CBS Video. His father, Ferde Grofe, was a well-known composer who also wrote music for Rocket Ship X-M and other films.

JUDGMENT NIGHT

(MCA, 1993) D: Stephen Hopkins
S: Lewis Colec P: Gene Levy

Four young suburbanites in a giant rented RV take a detour on the way to a boxing match. They hit a kid who was shot by a gang and have to flee for their lives on foot into the projects. This urban Deliverance clone is set in Chicago. Emilio Estevez stars, with Cuba Gooding Jr., Peter Greene, Jeremy Piven, and Stephen Dorff. Onetime MTV comedian Denis Leary is the main villain. Violence was reported in movie theaters (again) when this Universal film opened. The soundtrack mixes rap (Run-DMC) and rock (Pearl Jam, Sonic Youth). Hopkins made Blown Away next.

JUGULAR WINE

(Pagan, 1993) D/S/P/E: Blair Murphy

A young anthropologist (Shaun Irons) narrates his journey. He was bitten by a female vampire on a ship in Alaska, then traveled around while slowly changing ("Even the very air hurts"), searching for answers. The ambitious, arty feature was filmed on location (in Philadelphia, New Orleans, LA, and even Alaska) and features brief flashbacks, b/w and sped up segments, lite rock, some nudity, a heart being eaten, and some excellent drug-like freak-out scenes. Also with Monica Packer, Lisa Malkiewicz, Aki Aleong, Henry Rollins (he says three words), Stan Lee, Nosferatu clips, and a black dwarf. The director grew up in his family's New Jersey funeral home.

JULIA AND JULIA

(Fox, 1987) D/P: Peter Del Monte S: Silvia Napolitano M: Maurice Jarre Italy

Kathleen Turner finds her dead husband (Gabriel Byrne) in another dimension and lives there with him and their children. In the real world (?) she has a relationship with a photographer (Sting). This is the first film shot in high-definition video.

JULIET OF THE SPIRITS

(Conoisseur, 1965) D/S: Federico Fellini
S: Tullio Pinelli, Ennio Flaiano P: Angelo Rizzoli
Italy (Giulietta degli Spiriti)

Fellini's wife, Giulietta Masina, stars as a rich woman who thinks her husband is cheating on her, in this surrealistic fantasy. She calls up spirits during a séance, consults a mystic, and hires a detective to follow her husband. It was Fellini's next film after 8 1/2 (1963), and he claims to have taken LSD to prepare for making it. Sylva Koscina is Juliet's sister, and Sandra Milo plays three roles. Nino Rota wrote the score. The film is 148 minutes long and in color.

JUNGLE ASSAULT

(AIP, 1989) D/S: David Prior P: Fritz Matthews

The daughter of a retired American general (William Smith) is rescued from terrorists in South America by Nam vets. This typically lame AIP action movie features Ted Prior, William Zipp, and Maria Rosado.

THE JUNGLE BOOK

(Hal Roach, Spotlite, 1942) D: Zoltan Korda
S: Laurence Stallings P: Alexander Korda

Sabu stars as Mowgli, a boy raised by wolves, in this classic color adaptation of Rudyard Kipling's famous novel set in India. He talks with animals, including a giant talking cobra (a great special effect). The cast includes Joseph Calleia, Rosemary De Camp, Frank Puglia, Patricia O'Rourke, John Qualen, Ralph Byrd, and Noble Johnson. Sabu had just been in The Thief of Bagdad (1940). The Miklos Rozsa scores for both Korda productions were released on a single LP by RCA in 1960. Disney made an animated version in 1967, and Jason Scott Lee starred in a 1994 version shot in India.

JUNGLE BRIDE

(Video Yesterday, Sinister, 1933) D: Harry O. Hoyt, Albert Kelly S: Leah Baird P: I. E. Chadwick

A shipwreck off the African coast leaves four people stranded in the jungle. This 63-minute Monogram film stars Charles Starrett as a murderer, blond Anita Page, Kenneth Thompson, and Eddie Borden.

JUNGLE DRUMS OF AFRICA

(1953) D: Fred C. Bannon S: Ronald Davidson

Clayton Moore stars as Alan King in his last serial. Phyllis Coates costars, with Roy Glenn as Naganto. Some of the 12 chapters in this Republic serial are "The Beast-Fiend" and "Voodoo Vengeance." Moore (the Lone Ranger) and Coates (Lois Lane) were better known as TV stars at the time.

JUNGLE GIRL

(Stokey, 1941) D: William Witney, John English
S: Ronald Davidson, Norman S. Hall, William Lively

Francis Gifford stars as Nyoka in this 15-chapter Republic serial adapted from a radio series (which was based on the title of an Edgar Rice Burroughs book). Tom Neal costars with a man in a gorilla suit and Frank Lackteen as Shamba, the evil (white) witch doctor. Bad guys like to tie Nyoka up. Also in the cast are Eddie Acuff as the comic-relief character, Gerarld Mohr as a gangster, Tommy Cook as Kimbu, and stunt people like Helen Thurston, Yakima Canutt, and Tom Steel. Kay Aldridge took over the role in a 1942 sequel, Nyoka and the Tiger Man (also called The Perils of Nyoka). Gifford went on to Tarzan Triumphs (1943).

THE JUNGLE GIRL AND THE SLAVER

(SW, 1957) D: Hermann Leitner S: Ernst von Saloman
W. Germany/Italy (Liane, die Weisse Sklavin)

The sequel to Liane, Jungle Goddess, was also released in the US (in 1960) and features brief topless scenes. Marianne Michael returns as the girl who grew up in the jungle. She encounters her rich Hamburg relatives again but is kidnapped by slave traders. The cast includes Hardy Kruger and Adrian Hoven.

JUNGLE HEAT

(Transworld, 1983) D: Gus Trikonis S: Gregory Weston King, Larry Johnson, Michael Vilner
Philippines (Dance of the Dwarfs)

Peter Fonda is a drunken helicoptor pilot hired by an anthropologist (Deborah Raffin). A jungle queen and some short, reptilian monsters are found at the end. John Amos is also in this PG movie, which copies The African Queen a lot.

JUNGLE HELL

(Dark Dreams, 1956) D/S/P: Norman Cerf

Much of this very cheap movie is narrated stock footage of India. Some of the elephant scenes are awesome, but they have nothing to do with the plot about a radioactive rock and a bogus holy man. Eventually we discover that a flying saucer (hilarious FX!) has been causing planes to crash and animals to attack. Sabu stars as a 29-year-old

aka Jungle Holocaust

"jungle boy." David Bruce is a doctor who fights a stuffed jaguar, K. T. Stevens is a blond doctor who arrives from London, and George E. Stone is an elephant hunter. The makeup is by Harry Thomas.

JUNGLE HOLOCAUST

(Video City, 1976) D: Ruggero Deodato S: Tito Carpi, Gianfranco Clerici, Renzo Genta, Giancarlo Rossi Italy (Cannibal; The Last Survivor; The Last Cannibal World; Il Ultimo Mondo Cannibale)

A plane-crash survivor is captured by a primitive tribe. They hang him up (naked), thinking he can fly, but he falls and dies. Little kids piss on another prisoner in a cage, but a native woman (Me Me Lay) becomes "devoted" to him and brings him food (while romantic music plays). He escapes for some wild jungle sex, but she's captured, killed, sliced open, and filled with hot coals. An alligator is gutted, and a snake eats a lizard. The cast includes Massimo Foschi and Ivan Rassimov. It was shot in Malaysia and the Philippines. AIP released it in 1978 and it was rated X in 1984. Various versions (with more or less violence) have been released on tape. The sex is more surprising than the gore in the letterboxed version I saw. Me Me Lay looks great naked, but her eye makeup distracts from the stark realism (and do primitive natives have breast implants?). Deodato, a former assistant to Roberto Rossellini, worked on seven films by the Italian neorealist director. Lamberto Bava was the assistant director. Me Me and Ivan are also in The Man from Deep River (1972).

JUNGLE MASTER

(Force, 1970) D/S: Miles Deem S: M. Vitelli Italy (Kazan, il Favoloso Uomo della Giungla)

Kazan and his mate, Sheeran, are played by "Johnny Kismuller" and "Simone Blondell." She's captured by a safari. There's lots of stock footage and a man in a gorilla suit. Yes, it's very bad.

THE JUNGLE QUEEN

(Stokey, 1944) D: Ray Taylor D/S: Morgan B. Cox S: George H. Plympton, André Lamb

Ruth Roman is Lothel, the magical guardian of a tribe. She can disappear and walk through fire. In this 13-chapter Universal serial Nazi agents in Africa try to use the tribe to fight the Allies. The cast includes Lois Collen, Edward Norris, Eddie Quillan, Douglas Dumbrille, and Clarence Muse as Kyba. It's one of the dumbest serials I've ever sat through.

JUNGLE RAIDERS

(Stokey, 1945) D: Lesley Selander S: André Lamb, George H. Plympton P: Sam Katzman

Kane Richmond stars in this 15-chapter Columbia serial. The plot involves a fungus that's a miracle cure. Some chapter titles are "Witch Doctor's Treachery" and "Valley of Destruction." Carol Hughes costars as Zara, with Eddie Quillan, Veda Ann Borg, and Janet Shaw. Selander made Vampire's Ghost the same year.

JUNGLE RAIDERS

(MGM/UA, 1984) D: "Anthony M. Dawson"/ Antonio Margheretti S: Giovanni Simonelli P: Luciano Appignani Italy (La Leggenda del Rubino Malese; Captain Yankee)

It's another Raiders of the Lost Ark copy. In this PG action fantasy Christopher Connelly, Lee Van Cleef, and Alan Collins are after a ruby in Malaysia.

JUNGLE SIREN

(Sinister, 1942) D: Sam Newfield S: George Wallace Sayre, Sam Robins P: Sigmund Neufield

Buster Crabbe stars in this PRC movie with burlesque star Ann Corio as Kuhlaya, a woman raised in the jungle, and Greco the chimp. They outwit Nazis trying to start a native uprising. Buster was back in the PRC jungle, with Julie London, in Nabonga two years later.

JUNGLE STREET GIRLS

(1961) D: Charles Saunders S: Alexander Dore P: Guido Coen UK (Jungle Street)

David McCallum stars as a young criminal who hangs out at the Adam and Eve strip club. He mugs an old man for money, double-crosses a guy who helps him rob the club's safe, and kidnaps a stripper (Jill Ireland, who was married to McCallum at the time). This was an adults-only release (from Ajay Films) in the US. It was the last of McCallum's juvenile-delinquent roles and Ireland's last film appearance until she started acting with Charles Bronson (whom she married in 1968).

JUNGLE WARRIORS

(Media, 1983) D/S/P: Ernst von Theumer S: Robert Collector US/W. Germany/Mexico

When seven sexy models crash-land in Peru, they're abducted by coke dealers. Sybil Danning stars as Angel (she tortures people), with Nina Van Pallandt, Paul L. Smith, John Vernon, Marjoe Gortner, Woody Strode, Alex Cord, Kai Wulff, Louisa Moritz, and Ava Cadell. This is the movie (it was filmed in Mexico) that Dennis Hopper was fired from for wandering around naked. He straightened out afterward. Gortner replaced him. Original director Billy Fine was replaced too.

JUNIOR

(Prism, 1984) D: Jim Hanley S/P: Don Carmody S: John Maxwell (A Cut Above)

Two female ex-cons in bikinis flee to a redneck town. The corrupt sheriff, a musclebound young psycho, and his mother (played by a man in drag) torment them. They wreak a violent revenge.

JUNIOR G-MEN

(Stokey, Rhino, 1940) D: Ford Beebe, John Rawlins S: George Plympton, Basil Dicky, Rex Taylor

This is the first of three Universal WWII serials starring "the Dead End Kids and the Little Tough Guys." In this case it's four of the six Warner Brothers Dead End Kids: Billy Halop (Billy), Huntz Hall (Gyp), Gabriel Dell (Terry), and Bernard Punsley (Lug). They join with the FBI to find Billy's scientist grandfather, who has been kidnapped by the Flaming Torch group. Rather than "12 chapters of superthrills," this serial is said to be pretty awful and has little to do with planes. At least the sequel has a good villain.

JUNIOR G-MEN OF THE AIR

(Rhino, 1942) D: Ray Taylor, Lewis D. Collins S: Paul Huston

This 12-chapter sequel to the Universal serial Junior G-Men is available on two videos. Billy Halop (Ace) and his gang fight the Black Dragon group, led by a Japanese spy called the Baron (Lionel Atwill). Huntz Hall (Bolts), Gabriel Dell (Stick), and Bernard Punsley (Greaseball) costar, with Frankie Darro, Turhan Bey, and Jack Arnold. It's also in the Saturday Night Serials series (Rhino) with three other serials.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

(Tapeworm, 1977) D/S: Michael Nankin, David Wechter S/E: Steve Jacobson, Helyn Spears

Before she was well-known, 14-year-old singer Paula Abdul was fifth-billed in this light musical set in a California school. She gives a party. Kids

JUNKMAN

(TWE, 1982) D/S/P/C/A: H. B. Halicki

Halicki (with a terrible long haircut and sideburns) plays widowed movie star, stunt driver (and toy collector) Harlan Holis. This outrageous, PG-rated ego trip is filled with expert footage of car chases and car and plane crashes. There's a conspiracy to kill the hero and his daughter (Susan Shaw), the Hollywood premiere of Gone in Sixty Seconds (Halicki's 1974 drive-in hit), and the Goodyear Blimp. The newsreel opening resembles Citizen Kane. The ads promised, "Over 150 cars destroyed!" Hoyt Axton (who also provided some good music) plays himself. The cast also includes Lang Jeffries, Christopher Stone, Lynda Day George, custom-car king George Barris, Freddie Cannon and the Belmonts (at "a James Dean festival"), and Jewel Shepard. Halicki died filming car stunts in 1990.

JURASSIC PARK

(MCA, 1993) D: Steven Spielberg S: Michael Crichton, David Koepp P: Kathleen Kennedy, Gerald R. Molen M: John Williams

"The most successful worldwide theatrical release in history" is a lot like a $65 million version of The Land Unknown (MCA, 1957). This PG-13 Universal megahit based on Michael Crichton's novel had cross-promotions with a reported 100 companies. Sam Neill stars, with Laura Dern, Jeff Goldblum, and Sir Richard Attenborough as a Scottish millionaire who keeps genetically cloned dinosaurs on an island. The main victims are a lawyer, a fat guy, and a black guy. The cast also includes Wayne Knight, B. D. Wong, Samuel L. Jackson, Ariana Richards, and the voice of Richard Kiley. There's a Mr. DNA cartoon and a can of Barbasol. Stan Winston and ILM created the awesome, Oscar-winning FX. It's the second-highest domestic grossing film of all time (after Spielberg's E.T.). It was partially filmed in Hawaii during a hurricane. The score is on MCA. MCA also released The Making of Jurassic Park.

JUST A GIGOLO

(Water Bearer, 1978) D/A: David Hemmings S: Ennio de Concini, Joshua Sinclair W. Germany (Schöner Gigolo, Armer Gigolo)

This was the most expensive movie made in Germany up to that time, but it's not very good. David Bowie stars as a Prussian WWI hero in early-30s Berlin. He works as a walking billboard and a servant, then becomes a gigolo. The cast includes Sydne Rome, Kim Novak, Curt Jurgens, and Maria Schell. Marlene Dietrich, who came ranger (George Kennedy), so they're killed off by mutant twins with machetes. The cast includes Chris Lemmon and Jamie Rose (from All My Children). In one scene a woman kills her attacker by thrusting her whole arm down his throat. Lieberman made this after Squirm and Blue Sunshine.

JUST FOR THE HELL OF IT

(SW, 1968) D/P: Herschell Gordon Lewis S: Allison Louise Downe

Except for some bikers, movie teenagers just didn't act like this until maybe The Class of 1984. A group of normal-looking, middle-class "gang" members smash up a house, a cafeteria, a club, and an office, pour paint on people, start fires, torment a blind man, attack little kids playing softball, put a baby into a garbage can, and enjoy every minute of it. They lure schoolgirls to a party by telling them that a singing star called Rocky Reeves will be there, then drug their drinks. Newspapers with headlines about the violence are shown being burned, stabbed, splattered with paint, and axed. It's overlong and crude, with strange jazz music in some scenes and some long scenes totally silent. Lewis throws in a very small amount of nudity and blood but mostly shows destruction. Frequent fade-outs were probably used for the same reason that Jim Jarmusch used them in Stranger Than Paradise, to hold together leftover film stock. Ray Sager, who went on to star in Lewis' The Wizard of Gore, plays gang leader Dexter as if he wishes he were Bruce Dern. Nancy Lee Noble is Mitzi, his wild, sadistic, cute, blond girlfriend. Lewis himself wrote "Destruction Inc.",

JUST ONE OF THE GUYS

(RCA, 1985) D: Lisa Gottlieb S: Dennis Feldman, Jeff Franklin P: Andrew Fogelson

Joyce Hyser disguises herself as a boy so that she'll be taken seriously as a high-school journalist. Sherilyn Fenn is attracted to her. With Clayton Rohmer, Billy Jacoby, Leigh McCloskey, Arye Gross, and Rebecca Ferratti. Similar cross-dressing teen comedies followed, including Little Sister, Nobody's Perfect, and Just One of the Girls.

JUST THE TWO OF US

(SW, 1970) D: Jacques Deerson D/S: Barbara Peters (The Dark Side of Tomorrow)

Two Army wives start hanging out together while their husbands ignore them. Eventually dark-haired Denise (Elizabeth Plumb) seduces blond Adrian (Alicia Courtney). Adrian later decides to have an affair with a guy, but the jealous Denise wants only her. John Aprea (Savage Beach, Godfather III) costars. Characters talk a lot and the sex scenes are very brief and intercut with other scenes. Some of the soft-rock songs played by a band with female backup singers at a beach pot party are really good. A psychedelic band plays at a club, and people dance to a cover version of a Big Brother and the Holding Company instrumental. Box Office International released this in 1973. Peters, one of the very first female exploitation directors, later made Bury Me an Angel (1972), Summer School Teachers (1976), and others for Roger Corman.

K-2

(Paramount, 1992) D: Franc Roddam
S: Peter Meyers, Scott Roberts UK

A Seattle attorney (Michael Biehn) and a physicist (Matt Craven) decide to climb a treacherous mountain in Kashmir. This movie, based on a play by Meyers, has excellent stunts and cinematography (by Bagriel Beristain) but still gets pretty dull. With Patricia Charbonneau, Julia Nickson-Soul, and Luca Bercovici. Cliffhanger (1993), also about mountain-climbing, was a bigger hit.

KAFKA

(Paramount, 1991) D: Steven Soderberg S: Lem Dobbs P: Stuart Cornfield US/France

This is an attempt (by the director of sex, lies, and videotape) to make an expressionistic film combining elements of Kafka's life and his writings. Jeremy Irons plays Kafka, an insurance clerk in 1919 Prague who also writes fiction on the side with his Remington. Trying to find a missing friend, he has to go to a castle with a bomb in a briefcase, and there are horror-movie overtones. The cast is great: Theresa Russell as a terrorist, Armin Mueller-Stahl as a police inspector, Joel Grey as a nosy office worker, Alec Guinness as Kafka's boss, Ian Holm as the mad Dr. Murnau, who's creating the perfect drone worker, Jeroen Krabbe, Brian Glover, and Robert Flemyng (from The Horrible Dr. Hitchcock). Filmed in b/w by Walt Lloyd in Prague, with a color sequence in the castle, it's rated PG-13. Barry Levinson was the executive producer. The soundtrack by Cliff Martinez was issued by Virgin. Other Kafka movies are The Trial, The Castle, Metamorphosis, The Labyrinth, The Insurance Man, and Shadows and Fog.

KALIFORNIA

(Polygram, 1993) D: Dominic Sena S: Tim Metcalfe
P: Steve Golin, Aris McGarry, Joni Sighvatsson

A Pittsburgh magazine writer (David Duchovny) researching serial killers for a book, and his photographer girlfriend (Michelle Forbes), share a ride in their Lincoln convertible from Kentucky to California. Brad Pitt is Early Grayce, a beer-drinking psycho killer on the road with his childlike trailer-park girlfriend (Juliette Lewis, who has her first topless scenes). This was released at the same time as another killer-teen road movie, True Romance (with Pitt in a small role) and was followed by Natural Born Killers (starring Lewis). Patricia Talman is also in the cast. Pere Ubu is heard on a jukebox. It's R or unrated.

KAMA SUTRA

(1969) D: Kobi Jaeger S: George Wilson
P/C: Richard Reuven Rimmel W. Germany
(Kama Sutra: Vollendung der Leibe)

AIP took this sex documentary, deleted some footage, and added more about middle-class Americans taking drugs, swapping wives, and painting their bodies. It was rereleased by Transamerica in 1972.

KAMIKAZE

(1986) D/S/P: Luc Besson
D/S: Didier Grousset France

A man (Michel Galabru) fired from his electronics job invents a video shooting device with which he can kill anyone appearing on TV just by aiming at the screen. A detective (Richard Bohringer) searches for the killer, who eventually loses it and starts killing in person too, dressed as a Japanese warrior.

KAMIKAZE 1989

(MGM, 1982) D: Wolf Gremm
S: Robert Katz Germany

The director Rainer Werner Fassbinder stars as a chubby, bearded police detective who wears a leopard-skin suit. This futuristic spy thriller is about a fascist, media-controlled land and bomb threats. Fassbinder died before it was released. Also with Gunther Hoffmann and Franco Nero. The soundtrack is by Edgar Froese of Tangerine Dream. It's subtitled.

KANDYLAND

(New World, 1988) D/S: Robert Schnitzer
S: Toni Serritello P: Rick Blumenthal

A stripper named Harlow Divine (Sandahl Bergman) teaches a new stripper (Kim Evenson, from Playboy) the tricks of the trade. Nothing very exciting or surprising happens, but there is a psycho bartender. With Catlyn Day. It's by the director of Rebel (1973), an early Stallone film.

KANSAS CITY BOMBER

(1972) D: Jerrold Freedman S: Calvin Clemens, Thomas Rickman P: Marty Elkfland

Raquel Welch stars as K.C., a roller derby star who tries to replace the current star (Helena Kallianiotes). With Jodie Foster, Kevin McCarthy, Mary Kay Place, Norman Alden, and Cornelia Sharpe. The Unholy Rollers (an AIP ripoff of this PG-rated MGM release), with Claudia Jennnings, was more popular.

KARAMOJA

(SW, 1954) D: Dr. and Mrs. Truetle

A major gross-out Technicolor road-show hit in its day, this narrated documentary was filmed (in 16mm) by a California dentist and his wife. Kroger Babb released it and let everyone know it was hot stuff. ("See it all! Uncut! Uncensored! Unclothed! Unashamed!") Scenes feature naked natives drinking animal urine and blood from cows. They smear on animal shit and participate in coming-of-age rites. Front teeth are knocked out, and the main attraction is a circumcision. An earlier feature, Slash of the Knife God, had also featured circumcision footage. Karamoja was later cut to 66 minutes and billed with Halfway to Hell. David F. Friedman helped promote and distribute the double bill.

KARATE COP (1973): See SLAUGHTER IN SAN FRANCISCO

KARATE COP

(Imperial, 1993) D: Alan Roberts S: Denny Grayson, Bill Zide S/P/A: Ron Marchini P: Garrick Huey

Ron Marchini returns as John Travis, "the last cop on Earth" in the future, in this sequel to Omega Cop. It's got even more sub–Road Warrior villains and gladiator battles. The cast includes Carrie Chambers as the scientist he saves, David Carradine, and Michael M. Foley.

KARATE: THE HAND OF DEATH

(SW, 1964) D/P/A: Joel Holt S: David Hill

Joel Holt stars as Matt Carver, a cranky, short-tempered American karate black belt in Japan. He has WWII flashbacks ("I think I killed over 100 men") with theremin music. While he searches for the sister (Reiko Okada) of his teacher and friend (Akira Shiga), a really bad actor playing a Sydney Greenstreet type is after a coin stolen from a Nazi war criminal. Much time is spent on the history of karate, and there's a demonstration. Joseph Brenner released this ahead-of-its-time movie, filmed in Tokyo. Holt also coproduced Primitive Love, with Jayne Mansfield, and narrated Mondo Oscenità. This b/w feature is letterboxed and includes a Johnny Legend intro.

THE KEEP

(Paramount, 1983)
D/S: Michael Mann P: Gene Kirkwood, Howard Koch Jr.

German soldiers in the mountains of Romania during WWII use an ancient stone fortress as their headquarters. The Nazis are eaten alive by an unseen force. Scott Glenn stars as a mysterious hero named Glaeken Trismegistus, and Jurgen Prochnow is a good-guy German soldier. A professor and his daughter (Alberta Watson) are brought from a concentration camp to help. The cast also includes Ian McKellen and Gabriel Byrne. There's a monster (which looks like it's from a superhero comic book) at the end. This murky, confusing movie with dreary Tangerine Dream music is supposedly based on the legend of the Golem.

KEEP MY GRAVE OPEN

(Unicorn, 1979) D/P: S. F. Brownrigg S: F. Amos Powell

A crazy woman living in an old mansion thinks she's with her brother/lover, who lures victims to her. Bodies are hidden in an old car. This Texas movie by the director of Don't Look in the Basement is slow but creepy. Camilla Carr (now a novelist) stars, with Gene Ross as her shrink, Stephen Tobolowsky (who went on to many major productions), and Bill Thurman.

KEEP OFF MY GRASS!

(1971) D: Shelley Bedman S/P: Austin Kalish, Irma Kalish P: Albert J. Saltzer

Micky Dolenz stars as "the local Casanova" in this PG obscurity filmed in New Orleans. Marcus J. Grapes costars, with Christina Hart and Gary

Wood. The Monkees drummer and singer also starred in Night of the Strangler, also made in New Orleans. Neither were mentioned in his autobiography.

KEIKO MASK

(VSOM, 1993) D: Tomo Akiyama Japan

A high school is run by a fascist costumed Jester with an army, whose only opposition is Keiko Mask, a mysterious super heroine who wears a red hood and cape—but nothing else! The naked woman flies through the air and kills by landing on a bad guy and wrapping her legs around his face. The Jester suspects all female teachers and students of being Keiko, so has them stripped and tied up for comparison. Much is made about typical Japanese movie censorship and the "fogging" of sexual organs. Oversized pink censor dots cover penises in a shower scene and a character who sees Keiko says "I can't function. She showed her vagina!" This action fantasy is funny, sexy, and works as a social satire. I've never seen anything quite like it. Keiko is played by "unknown." Keiko Mask must have been successful because there were two sequels. Threat Video offers Keiko Mask 3 (as Super Naked and Power Pussy) without subtitles.

KEMEK

(Genesis, 1970) D/S: Theodore Gershuny, Don Patterson S/P: Harry Millaro P: Jack McCallum W. Germany/Canada/Italy (For Love or Murder)

Most of this confusing movie is an on/off flashback. There's a nightmare in a flashback and a b/w flashback within a flashback. Star Mary Woronov said it was "unfinished," so that explains things, sort of. A man (Cal Haynes) and a detective (Charles Mitchell, from Porky's) visit Mary Wonderly (Woronov) and get drunk as she relates flashbacks, set in Naples, about an experimental pleasure drug and how Marisa Love (Alexandra Stewart) died. Mary (who wears different clothes in nearly every scene) works for a blond guy (Helmut Schneider), and David Hedison is an unshaven writer whose friend is killed. Hedison has a bad-trip scene, and a futuristic (?) videotape looks suspiciously like an 8-track tape. It was filmed in Canada and Italy. The music is by the Modern Jazz Quartet, and the original "Nowhere to Run" is the theme song.

KENT STATE

(1981) D: James Goldstone S: Gerald Green, Richard Kramer P: Lin Ephraim

Various characters are seen during the four days of anti-war protests that led up to the May 4, 1970, killing of four students in Ohio. Jane Fleiss and Charley Lang star, with Talia Balsam, Keith Gordon, John Getz, Shepperd Strudwick, and, in small roles, Will Patton, Lenny Von Dohlen, and Ellen Barkin as a campus agitator. It was filmed on an Alabama college campus. Wes Craven was one of the producers. Originally 180 minutes long on NBC-TV, it's now as short as 120. The RCA soundtrack features appropriate 60s artists.

KENTUCKY FRIED MOVIE

(Media, 1977) D: John Landis S: David Zucker, Jim Abrahams, Jerry Zucker P: Robert K. Weiss

Before Airplane (1980), the Zucker/Abrahams comedy-writing team (from Milwaukee) ran the Kentucky Fried Theater satirical group in Madison, then wrote this film version with "110 bits and cameos." It's pretty funny. I especially like the ad for the JFK game and the spoof of Enter the Dragon with Evan Kim and Master Bong Soo Han. The cast includes Marilyn Joi as a Cleopatra Jones type, Uschi Digart, Felix Silla in Catholic School Girls in Trouble (cut from TV prints), Donald Sutherland, Bill Bixby, George Lazenby, Henry Gibson, Tony Dow, Tara Stromeir, Forry Ackerman, Simon Rhee, and Jack Baker. Rick Baker did the FX and appears as a gorilla. There's a disaster-movie spoof, too. Landis next made his first big hit, Animal House.

KENTUCKY JUBILEE

(Loonic, 1951) D/S/P: Ron Ormond S: Maurice Tombragel

Jerry Colonna stars in this 67-minute Lippert musical comedy by the director of The Exotic Ones. Jean Porter, James Ellison, and Fritz Feld costar, and acts like the McQuaig Twins, "Carrot Top" Anderson, Buck and Chickie, and the Y-Knot Twirlers appear.

KEOMA

(MNTEX, 1975) D/S: Enzo G. Castellari S: Nino Roli, Nico Ducci, Luigi Montefiori P: Manolo Bolognini Italy (Desperado)

Franco Nero stars as a half-breed who returns home and has to fight his corrupt stepbrothers. This highly regarded western costars William Berger, Woody Strode, and Gabriella Giorgelli. It features a strange musical score. The director and star reteamed years later for the similar Jonathan of the Bears.

KEYHOLES ARE FOR PEEPING

(American Electric, 1972) D/S/P: Doris Wishman S: Lou Burdi (Or Is There Life After Marriage?)

Jerry Lewis imitator Sammy Petrillo stars in this amazing adults-only artifact filmed in the director's NYC apartment. A woman reads Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex in bed but can't get any action out of her husband. She has an arty dream of her husband and another woman, wakes up, and beats him with the book! After the titles we meet manic "schmuck" Stanley Bebble (Petrillo), a mail-order-diploma marriage counselor who lives in a New York high-rise. Stanley has long greasy hair, wears ugly leisure suits, and sweats a lot. He does eye-popping double takes and the Lewis laugh, and even plays his own stereotyped Jewish mother, with a dubbed-in voice. The burlesque-style comedy includes sound effects like "Boinnng!!" after a joke, a slide whistle when pants fall down, and a nagging wife's voice speeded up. During a group-therapy session various couples' flashbacks show a wife stripping in front of a husband who won't take his eyes off the football game on TV, a nagging mother-in-law played by a man, and long scenes of a belly dancer and Hawaiian dancers. Every once in a while Manuel, the Puerto Rican peeping-Tom janitor, looks through keyholes to watch unrelated sex scenes that range from very tame to almost porno. Usually the faces are obscured. Some segments are in color, some in b/w or tinted sepia, and one is shown entirely in negative. It's another Wishman movie to lose your mind to. Petrillo was supposed to star in Doris's next feature too, but she got sidetracked making Chesty Morgan movies.

KEY WITNESS

(1960) D: Phil Karlson S: Alfred Brenner P: Pandro S. Berman, Kathryn Hereford

Jeffrey Hunter stars as an LA businessman who witnesses a murder. Nobody else on the scene will testify, and he and his family are threatened by the jd killer, Cowboy (Dennis Hopper). The other gang members are singer Johnny Nash, Susan Harrison, Joby Baker and Corey Allen (also in Rebel Without a Cause with Hopper). With Pat Crowley, Frank Silvera, and Bruce Gordon. There's good hip dialogue and pot-smoking, and it was filmed on location.

KGB: THE SECRET WAR

(Magnum, 1985) D: Dwight Little S: Sandra K. Bailey P: Sandy Howard

KGB agents in LA plan to kill one of their own, and the CIA wants him to defect. The girlfriend of the man on the run says, "So much is happening that I don't understand!" Michael Billington stars, with Denise DuBarry, Michael Ansara, and Sally Kellerman. It's from Corman's Concorde.

KICKBOXER

(HBO, 1989) D: David Worth D/P: Mark DiSalle S: Glenn A. Bruce

Belgian-born Jean-Claude Van Damme cowrote the story and was also the fight choreographer for this tale of vengeance. He's after the people who killed his brother in Thailand. Dennis Chan trains him. With fighter Tong Po as himself and Benny "the Jet" Urquidez. Van Damme, who went on to much bigger-budgeted starring roles, was not in the sequels.

KICKBOXER 2: THE ROAD BACK

(HBO, 1991) D: Albert Pyun S: David Goyr P: Steve Friedman

Sasha Mitchell (Spike of Bensonhurst) stars as the tattooed younger brother of the original star, and he's out for revenge and kicking the bad guys. With Peter Boyle, Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa, Matthias Hues, John Diehl, Dale Jacoby, and Dennis Chan (Kickboxer). Mark Damon was the executive producer.

KICKBOXER 3: THE ART OF WAR

(Live, 1992) D: Rick King S: Dennis Pratt P: Michael Pariser

Sasha Mitchell returns as kickboxing champ Sloan, who goes to Rio for a tournament. While there he saves the sister (Althea Miranda) of a street kid from evil whoremongers. With series regular Dennis Chan and Ian Jacklin. It was filmed in Brazil. Kickboxer 4 and 5 followed, both with Mitchell.

Michel Qissi and Cary Hiroyuki Tagawa in Kickboxer 2.

KICKBOXER FROM HELL

(Magnum, "1991") D: Alton Cheung
P: Joseph Lai (Zodiac America III)

Someone took a pretty entertaining (70s?) Asian movie, about a vengeful ghost who possesses living people to get back at her cheating killer husband, and added some of the worst new footage I've ever seen. The new "star" is a beefy dyed blond (Mark Houghton) "working undercover against Lucifer," and the confused, unrelated new plot features kung-fu-fighting Satanists, a nun (Sooni Shroff), and a sledgehammer fight. The music is all stolen from various soundtracks by John Carpenter, Tangerine Dream, and Richard Band.

KICK FIGHTER

(AIP, 1988) D: Anthony Maharaj
S: Noah Blough Philippines

Richard Norton stars as a man who is released from prison in Bangkok, takes fighting lessons from a blind, homeless martial-arts master, and goes to the Philippines to battle Benny "the Jet" Urquidez in a cage. It's all to make money for his sister's operation. There's also a cockfight.

KICK OR DIE

(AIP, 1987) D/S: "Charles Norton"/ Hanro Mohr P: Chris Davies, Lionel A. Ephraim S.Africa (No Hard Feelings)

Kevin Bernhardt (an American soap-opera star) is a martial-arts fighter protecting college girls from a killer/rapist who disguises himself as a black man. With Holaday Mason as a singer, Tim Wallace, and Mike Stone.

KIDNAPPED

(1971) D: Delbert Mann S: Jack Pulman
P: Frederick H. Brogger UK

Michael Caine stars as Alan Breck, with Trevor Howard, Jack Hawkins, and Donald Pleasence, in this version of Robert Louis Stevenson's famous story. This G-rated movie was released by AIP and the soundtrack includes songs by Mary Hopkin. Earlier versions were made in 1948 (with Roddy McDowall) and in 1960 (from Disney).

KIDNAPPED

(Virgin, 1986) D/S: Hikmet Avedis
P: Marlene Schmidt

LA gangsters drug women and force them to be in porno movies. It's the Hardcore plot with nudity and humor added. Barbara Crampton teams up with a cop (David Naughton) to find her sister (Kim Evenson, from Playboy). With Charles Napier and Jimmy Walker. "Howard" Avedis had been making drive-in movies since the early 70s (Stepmother, The Teacher, Dr. Minx). The Sandy Howard production went directly to video.

KIDNAPPED COED

(SW, 1972) D/S/P: Frederick R. Friedel
(House of Terror)

This was made in North Carolina by the director of Axe and released by Boxoffice International. Jack Cannon and Leslie Ann Rivers star in this tasteless story of a red-headed woman living in a boarding-house who is kidnapped for money by a small-time criminal. Others break in and rape her, and the kidnapper turns hero and kills them. It was first on tape with Hitchhike to Hell.

THE KIDNAPPERS

(1964) D: Eddie Romero S: Harry Harber
P: Cirio H. Santiago Philippines (Man on the Run)

Burgess Meredith stars as an American in Manila, with a Filipino wife (Olivia Cenizal), whose son has been kidnapped. Romero, a major director in the Philippines, later specialized in horror movies like Mad Doctor of Blood Island.

THE KIDS ARE ALRIGHT: SPECIAL EDITION

(BMG, 1979) D: Jeff Stein P: Bill Curbishley, Tony Klinger

Pete Townshend and John Entwistle helped with this excellent official Who documentary (without narration). It uses great footage from TV, concerts, interviews, and home movies. Early bits include "Shout and Shimmy" (in b/w) and parts of "Substitute" and "Pictures of Lily." The Who play at Monterey, at Woodstock, on the very last Shindig show, and on the Smothers Brothers' show. The Rock and Roll Circus version of "A Quick One" is a rare highlight. They know they were best in the beginning, so most of the footage is from the 60s. Keith Moon sings "Barbara Ann" and gives an S&M interview. Entwistle skeet-shoots gold records. The guest stars include Ringo Starr and Steve Martin. New World released it in theaters the same year as Quadrophenia. The double soundtrack is on MCA.

KID VENGEANCE

(Warner, 1976) D: Joe Manduke S: Bud Robbins, Jay Telfer, Ken Globus P: Frank Johnson Italy/Israel (Vengeance Vendetta)

A prospector (Jim Brown) whose gold has been stolen teams up with a kid (Leif Garrett) whose parents have been killed and his sister kidnapped. Lee Van Cleef is the killer they're both after. With John Marley, Matt Clark, and Glynnis O'Connor. Brown and Van Cleef were also in El Condor (1970) and Take a Hard Ride (1975). This was the last movie Brown starred in for many years, and it was Van Cleef's last western. It was filmed in Israel and released by Cannon.

KILL

(USA, 1972) D/S/P: Romain Gary P: Alexander Salkind France/W. Germany/Italy/Spain (KILL! KILL! KILL!)

Jean Seberg was a 19-year-old small-town Iowa girl when she was chosen after a massive talent hunt to star in Otto Preminger's flop Saint Joan (1957). After the international hit Breathless (1960) she stayed in France and was a major star there. Her second husband, novelist Romain Gary, starred her in two of his obsessive do-it-all movies, Birds of Peru (1968) and this strange anti-drug film. She plays the wife of a grouchy international cop (a bearded James Mason) who is a drug smuggler on the side. She's first seen wearing an Afro wig and listening to African music. Mason says, "You want to save the world, don't you!" Stephen Boyd steals the show as an unhinged but effectively brutal anti-drug agent. He spends the whole movie bare-chested, unshaven, and sweaty, wearing brown leather, shouting lines like "I'm a psycho!" and "You're my kind of bitch!" Seberg and Boyd have an affair (a body double is used for her nude scenes), and after a lot of violence all three stars join in a laughable, dreamlike machine-gun execution of dealers. Soul singer Doris Troy sings the theme song, and blues great Memphis Slim performs "Kill" at the piano in a steamy private club, surrounded by mannequins, naked women in cages, slave traders, and heroin dealers. To make sure the anti-drug message gets across, real footage of a 12-year-old junkie is shown. The cast also includes Curt Jurgens, Victor Israel, and Daniel Emilfork. In real life Seberg was the victim of a smear campaign by the FBI because of her involvement with the Black Panthers and suffered an emotional breakdown that led to her tragic death. Gary later killed himself. Boyd narrated the official Dianetics induction film (featuring Karen Black) before dying in 1977. Mason and Jurgens are gone too. Was 1972 really that long ago?

KILL A DRAGON

(1967) D: Michael Moore S: George Schenck, William Marks P: Hal Klein

Jack Palance stars as a soldier of fortune hired by Chinese villagers on an island to get rid of a gangster (Fernando Lamas), who threatens to blow them all up with a junk packed with nitroglycerin. With a team of karate experts, Aldo Ray as a tourist guide, Alizia Gur, and Kam Tong. The U. A. release was filmed in Hong Kong, Macao, and Kowloon.

KILL AND GO HIDE: See THE CHILD

KILL AND KILL AGAIN

(Film Ventures, 1981) D: Ivan Hall S: John Crowther P: Igo Kantor US/S. Africa

In a sequel to Kill or Be Killed, James Ryan stars as karate champ Steve Chase, who has mystic abilities. He, a scientist's daughter (Anneline Kriel), and a team of four rescue a captive scientist from an evil scientist named Marduk (who dresses like an old serial villain) in New Babylonia. A character called the Fly can levitate, and Marduk uses mind-control drugs to create zombie-like slaves. It all ends in an Enter the Dragon–style battle in an arena. Also with Ken Gampu. Part of it was filmed at the famous Sun City.

KILL CASTRO

(1978) D/S: Chuck Workman S: Robin Swicord P: Peter J. Barton US/W. Germany (Cuba Crossing; Sweet Dirty Tony; Assignment: Kill Castro; The Mercenaries)

Stuart Whitman stars as a soldier of fortune involved in a plot to kill Castro. This little-known feature also stars Robert Vaughn, Raymond St. Jacques, Woody Strode, Sybil Danning, Albert Salmi, Michael Gazzo, Caren Kaye, and Monti Rock III (!). It was filmed in Key West, Florida, and has been released under many names. Workman also directed Stoogemania.

KILL CRAZY

(Media, 1990) D/S/A: David Heavner P: Arthur Boris Leon

Bruce Glover and a right-wing survivalist group use David Heavner (who suffers from combat shock) and other camping Nam vets for The Most Dangerous Game–style hunting. Danielle Brisbois (Big Bad Mama II) shows up for a nude swim but is attacked and killed. Also with Burt Ward as a mute, Gary Owens, and Lawrence Hilton-Jacobs. Anybody can direct features these days.

KILL CRUISE

(MCA, 1990) D/S: Peter Keglevic

Patsy Kensit and Elizabeth Hurley are British cabaret singers in Malta who meet an alcoholic yacht captain (Jurgen Prochnow). They all head for Barbados. Kensit becomes convinced he's a murderer and drug addict (he's actually diabetic), and Hurley has an affair with him. Tense but slow-moving (there's lots of lying around in bikinis), it has a surprise ending. It was made for cable TV.

THE KILLER: See DADDY'S DEADLY DARLING

THE KILLER

(Fox, 1989) D/S: John Woo P: Tsui Hark Hong Kong

John Woo is the number-one action director in Hong Kong, and this very violent, nonstop-gunfire action movie shows why. Parts of the plot might be laughable to Western viewers, but the action sequences will leave you breathless. Woo said it was a tribute to the French films of Jean-Pierre Melville. Chow Yun-Fat stars as a harmonica-playing hitman who accidentally blinds a singer (Sally Yeh) in a shootout. He tries to help her while fighting his former close friend, a cop (Danny Lee), and other hitmen. Countless characters die in blazes of gunfire. The originally 136-minute, subtitled, NC-17 film was a surprise art-house hit in America. Subtitled or dubbed versions and R or unrated versions are available, and the letterboxed unrated Voyager laserdisc includes trailers from other Woo films.

KILLER

(Fox Lorber, 1989) D/P: Tony Ellwood S: Mark Kim Ray P/A: Tony Locklear

A brutal, unshaven serial killer (Duke Ernsberger) wears dark glasses and stays pretty cool while he slaughters lots of people. A clichéd flashback shows how he killed his mother while she was in bed with an abusive cop. Ash (Andy Boswell) is a friendly orphan who works at his uncle's gas station. He gets wise to the stranger, who then kills his uncle and kidnaps his girlfriend. Ash and a reluctant friend tail him during an all-night car chase. The killer says that doctors cut his soul out: "Without a soul you can never go to Heaven. But you can't go to Hell either." He puts out cigarettes on his hands and proves how he can't lose at Russian roulette. There's plenty of action and blood, and the acting and script are better than average too. The lighting isn't very good, but it was filmed around Charlotte, North Carolina in Super 8 for under $10,000. Killer is a good, serious horror movie. The 28-year-old director started out doing special effects for Evil Dead II.

THE KILLER ELITE

(MGM, 1975) D: Sam Peckinpah S: Marc Norman, Sterling Silliphant P: Martin Baum, Arthur Lewis

A crippled CIA agent (James Caan) is after his ex-friend, a gangster (Robert Duvall) who's planning to kill a liberal politician from Taiwan (Mako). This over-the-top movie is pretty violent for a PG rating and features some samurai sword battles. With Arthur Hill, Gig Young, Bo Hopkins, Burt Young, Helmut Dantine, Uschi Digart in a party scene, and Tiana. Monte Hellman edited the fight sequences.

KILLER FORCE

(Vestron, 1975) D/S: Val Guest S: Michael Winner, Gerald Sanford P: Nat Wachsberger, Patrick Wachsberger US/S. Africa (Diamond Mercenaries)

This diamond-heist movie stars Telly Savalas as the chief of security at a vault. The crooks are played by an odd assortment: Peter Fonda, Hugh O'Brian, Christopher Lee, O. J. Simpson, and Maud Adams. It was filmed in Namibia and Ireland and released by AIP. The soundtrack is on Audio Fidelity.

Sally Yeh and Chow Yun-Fat in John Woo's The Killer.

KILLER IMAGE

(Paramount, 1991) D/S/P: David Winning
S: Stan Edmonds P: Rudy Barichello, Bruce Harvey Canada

John Pyper-Ferguson stars as a photographer who has incriminating photos of a senator (M. Emmet Walsh). The senator's brother, Luthor (Michael Ironside with a ponytail), is a relentless, clever psycho killer who frames the hero for several murders. The headlines say, "PHOTO KILLER AT LARGE!" This violent movie includes teen gangs, a corpse on a rollercoaster, and frequent nightmares and flashbacks. It's full of plot holes and was obviously made in Canada (Calgary). Krista Errickson costars.

KILLER INSTINCT

(VEC, 1984) D: William Fruet S: John Beaird Canada

Nicholas Campbell is a law student who doesn't believe in killing until he and some friends go to the hills of Tennessee and see Henry Silva and his backwoods friends kill somebody. Danone Camden has nude scenes.

KILLER INSTINCT

(Vidmark, 1992) D: Greydon Clark, Ken Stein
S: Neil Ruttenberg P: Menahem Golan US/Russia

Christopher Bradley stars as Mad Dog Coll and Bruce Nozick is Dutch Schultz, in this Prohibition-era gangster movie. Rachel York costars as a speakeasy singer. This 21st Century feature is set in New York City, but was filmed in Moscow! It was made back to back with Hit the Dutchman, also with Nozick as Schultz. Mad Dog Coll (1961) was a lot better.

KILLER KLOWNS FROM OUTER SPACE

(Media, 1987) D/S/P: Stephen Chiodo
S/P: Charles Chiodo P: Edward Chiodo

This oddball, PG-13 takeoff on 50s drive-in science fiction movies starts with a comet landing in the woods. It turns out to be a circus tent. The interior resembles a set from the Lost in Space TV series, and it's filled with alien clowns of all sizes, with ray guns and electronic voices, who spin cotton-candy cocoons around their human victims. As in The Blob, teens can't convince the local authorities to act. Even though this movie drags in spots, it has a great concept, good special effects, and some inspired moments. A tiny clown on a bike is harassed by bikers and knocks the leader's head off, and a giant, scary clown attacks. Some goofy comedy-relief brothers in an ice-cream truck come to the rescue. Royal Dano is a backwoods victim, and sleaze great John Vernon plays the hateful Officer Mooney. The unique California group the Dickies provide a great theme song, and after the end credits they do it again in a rock video. The Chiodo brothers created the aliens in Critters.

KILLER NERD

(Tempe, 1991) D/S/P: Mark Steven Bosko, Wayne A. Harold

Toby Radloff worked as a file clerk with comic-book writer Harvey Pekar at the VA hospital in Cleveland. Pekar put Toby into some issues of his American Splendor comics, which led to some MTV spots. In his film debut, Toby is Harold Hunkle, a comic-book collector with a possessive mother. When somebody tells him to "accentuate the positive," Harold says, "There's—not—one—iota—of—positive—to—accentuate." (Toby talks creepy and slow like that in real life.) Harold dreams of becoming cool and being with a stripper, but in real life everybody ridicules and torments him. After getting a punk haircut and going to a dance he gets beaten up (again) by drug dealers. He cracks up, yelling, "Nerd! Nerd! Nerd!" He kills people with acid and dynamite, decapitates a drug dealer, and punches his mom, then buries an axe in her head, laughing all the time. The end is bloody and shocking because you get the unsettling feeling that Toby is doing exactly what he might like to do in real life. Alan Mothersbaugh plays a bartender. It was filmed in Ravenna, Ohio. Bride of the Killer Nerd followed.

KILLER NUN

(Redemption, 1977) D/S: Giulio Berruti S: Alberto Torallo P: Enzo Gallo Italy (Suor' Omicidi)

Anita Ekberg is Sister Gertrude, a modern-day nun working in an asylum. She becomes addicted to morphine, has nightmares, and is obviously losing her mind. She stomps on a patient's dentures, steals, and picks up men. She also has an affair with a younger nun (Paola Morra) and seems to be killing patients. The character is more confused and pathetic than scary or hateful. Morra has nude scenes. Alida Valli is the mother superior, Joe Dallesandro is a doctor, and Lou Castel is a crippled painter. This is a letterboxed British version.

KILLER PARTY

(Fox, 1984) D: William Fruet S: Barney Cohen P: Michael Lepiner

Students are killed in old house on April Fools' Day during some frat hazing. The killer wears a diver's suit. There's some comedy, zombies, and a film-within-a-film opening. Joanna Johnson (from the TV series The Bold and the Beautiful) becomes possessed and hangs from the ceiling. With Martin Hewitt (Endless Love) and Paul Bartel (Eating Raoul) as a professor.

THE KILLERS

(1984) D/S/P: Patrick Roth

A former insurance man and a thief plan to rob a house. Murder and rape result. It's based on "Short Story" by Charles Bukowski, who appears as "the author." Jack Kehoe and Raymond Mayo star, with Anne Ramsey and Susan Tyrrell as "ragpickers."

KILLER'S CURSE = NURSE SHERRI

THE KILLER'S EDGE

(PM, 1990) D/S/P: Joseph Merhi
P: Richard Pepin (Blood Money)

Wings Hauser stars as an LA Nam-vet cop who teams up with an FBI agent (Karen Black) to catch a Nam-vet counterfeiter (Robert Z'Dar) who has big guns.

KILLER'S KISS

(MGM, 1955) D/S/P/C/E: Stanley Kubrick
S: Howard O. Sackler P: Morris Bousel

United Artists released Kubrick's second feature but added a happy ending. This much-copied NYC crime film is only 67 minutes long. Bousel, the co-producer, was a Bronx chemist. The cast was from TV. Jamie Smith stars as a boxer, and Irene Kane (aka Chris Chase) is a nightclub dancer. The owner (Frank Silvera) of the Times Square club where she works tries to rape her and then holds her hostage in a warehouse full of mannequins. It's worth seeing just for the location work. Kubrick's next film was the even better The Killing (1956). Matthew Chapman's Strangers Kiss (1984) is about making this film.

KILLER'S MOON

(CIC, 1978) D/S/P: Alan Birkinshaw
P: Gordon Keymer UK

Mental-hospital patients treated with LSD escape and kill camping schoolgirls and some of their boyfriends. It's gory and dumb, and includes rape scenes. The director later made bad movies for Harry Alan Towers.

KILLER SNAKES

(SW, 1972) D: Kuei Chi-Hung P: Raymond Shaw, Run-Run Shaw Hong Kong

From the same year as William Grefe's Stanley, this more violent movie is about a pitiful young man named Keto (Kan Kuo-Liang) who uses snakes for revenge. This Shaw brothers production was released in America by Mahler Films. It features "1001 killer snakes."

KILLER TOMATOES EAT FRANCE

(Fox, 1991) D/S/P: John DeBello S: Constantine Dillon S/P: J. Stephen Peace

The gag-filled fourth in a series from New World (all directed by DeBello) is very silly and is aimed at kids. John Astin returns as Professor Gangrene. The tomatoes are hand puppets. The plot has something to do with Nostradamus's prophecies and a young couple (Angela Vissier and Marc Price). Most of the action takes place in a French château/hotel. A car chase was actually shot in Paris, and some WWII footage is used as filler.

KILLER TOMATOES STRIKE BACK

(Fox, 1991) D/S/P/A: John DeBello
S: Constantine Dillon, Rick Rockwell
P: J. Stephen Peace

John Astin returns as Professor Gangrene, who poses as a TV talk show host. Rick Rockwell is detective Lance Boyle, Crystal Carson solves tomato murders, and Steve Linquist is Igor. It followed Return of the Killer Tomatoes (1988).

KILLER WORKOUT

(Academy, 1987) D/S/P: David A. Prior P: Peter Yuval (Aerobicide)

Who is stabbing customers at a health spa? The same idea was used in Death Spa, and both movies are bad. Ted Prior, Fritz Matthews, and Marcia Karr are in the cast.

THE KILL FACTOR: See DEATH DIMENSIONS

THE KILLING

(MGM, 1956) D/S: Stanley Kubrick P: James B. Harris

Sterling Hayden stars as Johnny Clay, an ex-con from Kentucky, in this influential, b/w, narrated, documentary-style heist classic. The excellent cast includes Coleen Gray, scene-stealing Timothy Carey, Marie Windsor and Elisha Cook Jr. as a married couple, Joseph Sawyer, Jay C. Flippen, Vince Edwards, Ted De Corsia, and Joseph Turkel. Jim Thompson wrote the original screenplay, based on Clean Break, by Lionel White, but was credited only for "original dialogue." Thompson also wrote Paths of Glory for Kubrick. It was a U.A. release.

KILLING CARS

(Vidmark, 1985) D/S: Michael Verhoeven
W. Germany

Jurgen Prochnow stars as a car designer in Berlin who develops a nonpolluting "worldcar" that doesn't need gas. Arab oil interests try to suppress it. The cast also includes Senta Berger (the director's wife), Bernhard Wicki, and William Conrad as an American businessman.

THE KILLING EDGE

(1986) D: Lindsay Shonteff S: Robert Bauer P: Elizabeth Gray UK

A man (Bill French) searches for his family in a nuclear wasteland with terminators.

THE KILLING GAME

(City Lights, 1988) D/S/P: Joseph Merhi
P: Richard Pepin

Chad Howard stars as a hitman being blackmailed, with big Robert Z'Dar. The low-budget filmmakers later created the PM Video company.

KILLING HEAT

(1981) D/S: Michael Raeburn P: Mark Forstater
UK/Sweden (The Grass Is Singing)

Karen Black stars as a city woman who marries a farmer (John Thaw) and tries to adjust to rural life. John Moulder-Brown, John Kani, and Patrick Mynhardt are also in the cast. Black has a nude shower scene. This adaptation of Doris Lessing's novel was filmed in Zambia.

A KILLING IN A SMALL TOWN

(Vidmark, 1990) D: Stephen Gyllenhaal
S: Cynthia Ciore, Stephen Gyllenhaal
P: Dan Witt, Courtney Pledger

A married Sunday-school teacher (Barbara Hershey) has an affair with her best friend's church-going husband (John Terry). He calls it off, so she kills his wife with an axe. This is an adaptation of the novel Evidence of Love, by Jim Atkinson and John Bloom (aka Joe Bob Briggs!), which was based on an actual 1980 case near Dallas. Brian Dennehy is her attorney, and Hal Holbrook is a psychiatrist.

THE KILLING KIND

(American, 1973) D: Curtis Harrington
P: George Edwards S: Lenny Crechalon

Harrington (Night Tide) effectively ended his theatrical directing career with this tale of a young psycho killer (John Savage) just out of prison, where he has served two years for rape (he was forced to join in a gang bang). He insults and humiliates women, including his mother, Thelma (Ann Sothern), her boardinghouse tenants, a librarian, Louise (Luana Anders), and Cindy Williams. Sue Bernard (Faster, Pussycat! Kill! Kill!), the girl who cried rape, is his first victim, killed in an arranged car crash. His lawyer (Ruth Roman) is forced to get drunk, then is tied up and burned to death, while her client laughs. In a dream he's in a crib surrounded by women. An older tenant has a stairway elevator like the one in Homicidal. Harrington went on to lighter TV movies like The Killer Bees and Devil Dog, Hound from Hell. In real life Savage had already had two kids, acted in two obscure nudie movies, and joined SDS by the time this filmed-in-Malibu movie was made.

KILLING MACHINE

(Thriller, 1983) D/S: José Antonio Loma
P: Carlos Vasallo Spain/Mexico

A Spanish truckdriver and demolition expert (Jorge Rivero) battles French farmers in a border area, as well as corrupt cops and gangsters. The cast includes Lee Van Cleef as a lawyer, Margaux Hemingway as a French aerobics instructor, Willie Ames, Richard Jaeckel, and Hugo Stiglitz. It was filmed in Spain and France. The tape has a Sybil Danning intro.

KILLING OBSESSION

(Triboro, 1994) D/S/P: Paul Leder

John Savage (see The Killing Kind) is a serial killer, released from a mental institution after 20 years, who has hallucinations and kills women from the phone book named Annie Smith. John Saxon is the doctor who reluctantly released him. Incredibly, it's a remake of Leder's notorious 1972 movie I Dismember Mama (aka Poor Albert and Little Annie). With Kimberly Chase as the now-grown-up Annie, Bobby DiCicco as a pimp, and porn star Hyapatia Lee as a hooker. The cast members are all shown again for the end credits. Saxon and DiCicco were also in Leder's The Baby Doll Murders.

THE KILLING OF A CHINESE BOOKIE

(Touchstone, 1976) D/S: John Cassavettes
P/A: Al Ruban

Cosmo (Ben Gazzara), who runs the Crazy Horse West, a sleazy Sunset Strip strip club, is forced to kill a bookie to pay off gambling debts to mobsters. Also in the cast are Morgan Woodward as a gangster, Timothy Carey and Seymour Cassel as his henchmen, Azizi Johari, and Haji as herself (although she was mostly cut out). Cassavettes made it the way he wanted to (pretty strange) for his own Faces company. The tape is 17 minutes shorter than the theatrical release.

THE KILLING OF AMERICA

(VSOM, 1981) D: David Weisman S/P: Leonard Schrader Japan (Violence in America)

Paul Schrader's brother planned this chilling documentary look at "the land of a million murders and a hundred million guns." Famous serial killers are discussed or interviewed, political assassinations are covered (and the Zapruder film is shown), and the endless, normal, everyday big-city murders are tallied. John Lennon's death and the attempt on Ronald Reagan's life were recent events. It was made for the Japanese market and was never officially released in America but was a hit in Australia and other countries. Seeing it for the first time when it was 10 years old, I was struck by how much American Hard Copy–style TV shows resemble this grim movie and how much worse everything had gotten in those 10 years.

THE KILLING OF SATAN

(Paragon, 1974) D: Efrón C. Pinión S: José Maria Avilana P: Pio C. Lee Philippines

A man (Ramón Revilla) is chosen by his dead uncle Miguel to battle evil forces. "The prince of magic" can hypnotize people, shoot rays from his hands, and make heads spin, but he and his men use guns when convenient. A Devil in a red suit keeps naked women caged in his cave. A snake becomes a man in a jockstrap. A giant boulder crushes a man into a bloody pulp. This fun movie throws in every low-budget effect the filmmakers could come up with. It includes Penitentes whipping themselves and ends with a major battle of magic.

KILLINGS AT OUTPOST ZETA

(United, 1981) D/P: Allan Sandler, Robert Emenegger S: Peter Dawson

A rock-like creature that feeds on blood is discovered on the planet Zeta in the year 2002. Gordon Devol and Jacqueline Ray star in this very cheap direct-to-TV Gold Key feature.

KILLING SPREE

(Twisted Illusions, 1987) D/S: Tim Ritter P: Al Nicolosi

A jealous mechanic imagines his wife is having affairs, so he slaughters men with various tools. Red lights flash, followed by lots of extreme gore. The victims return as zombies. It was shot on video in Florida and directed by the 21-year-old who made Truth or Dare. His next film was Wicked Games.

THE KILLING TIME

(Starmaker, 1987) D: Rick King S: Don Bohlinger, James Nathan, Bruce Franklin P: Peter Abrams, Robert L. Levy (A Perfect Stranger)

Beau Bridges is a small-town California deputy sheriff plotting to kill his mistress's husband. The convoluted Body Heat–inspired plot also involves Kiefer Sutherland, Wayne Rogers, Joe Don Baker, Harriet White Medin, and Camilla Kath. It's from New World.

KILLING ZOË

(Live, 1994) D/S: Roger Avary France

Zed (Eric Stolz), a long-haired American safecracker in Paris, and a crazed local (Jean-Hughes Anglade, from La Femme Nikita) shoot heroin and botch a bank heist. This violent, partially subtitled movie features Julie Delpy as part-time hooker Zoë, and Gary Kemp. Quentin Tarantino was the executive producer. The 29-year-old Canadian director worked on Reservoir Dogs, True Romance, and Pulp Fiction. Tom Savini did the FX.

THE KILLING ZONE

(PM, 1991) D/S: Addison Randall P: Charla Driver

Big Daron McBee (from the American Gladiators TV show) stars as a convict recruited from a chain gang to capture a Mexican drug lord (James Dalesandro). The cast also includes Armando Silvestre as his crippled drug-agent uncle and Melissa Moore, who has a shower scene during a break in slow-motion fights.

KILL LINE

(Hemdale, 1988) D/S: Richard H. Kim
P/A: Robert W. Kim

Bobby Kim (The Manchurian Avenger) stars as Bone Crusher Bronson in this martial-arts revenge tale. A corrupt sheriff sends him to jail, and his family is murdered. The Korean star has also made features in Korea and Hong Kong. This one was filmed in Denver. With Peter Johnson and several of the stars from Backstreet Jane.

KILL ME AGAIN

(MGM, 1989) D/S: John R. Dahl S: David Warfield

Val Kilmer stars as a Reno private investigator who owes money to the mob. A woman (Joanne Whalley-Kilmer, his real-life wife at the time) who has robbed the mob wants him to fake her murder so that she can escape her psycho ex-husband (Michael Madsen), who wants to kill her. Also in the cast are Jonathan Gries and Bibi Besch. The director later made the hits Red Rock West and The Last Seduction.

KILL OR BE KILLED

(1950) D/S: Max Nosseck S: Arnold Phillips, Lawrence Goldman P: Walter Jurmann

Lawrence Tierney is a man accused of a murder he didn't commit hiding out in the South American jungle. With Marissa O'Brien, George Coulouris as a plantation owner, and Rudolph Anders. From Eagle Lion. Tierney returned in The Hoodlum (1951) and Singing in the Dark (1956), also directed by Nosseck, who had launched his career with Dillinger.

KILL OR BE KILLED

(Media, 1980) D: Ivan Hall S: C. F. Beyers-Boshoff P: Ben Volk S. Africa

James Ryan (a dancer in real life) stars as a mystical kung-fu hero who battles a Nazi general/karate coach. The cast includes Charlotte Michelle and Norman Combes. This PG Cinemation release did well, so there was a sequel, Kill and Kill Again.

KILLPOINT

(Vestron, 1982) D/S/P/E: Frank Harris
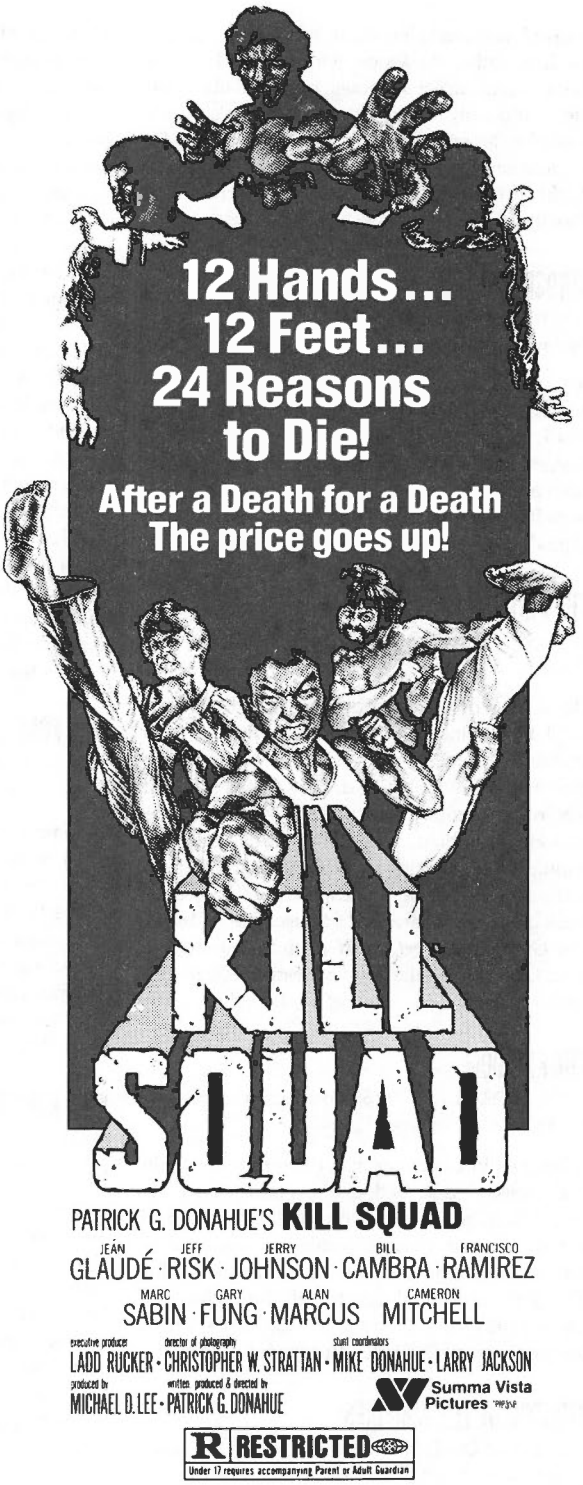
P: Diane Stevenett

Leo Fong stars as an LA karate-fighting cop who avenges the rape and murder of his wife and teams up with an FBI man (Richard Roundtree). Cameron Mitchell is the sadistic psycho leader of a gang of gunrunners who raided a National Guard armory. With Stack Pierce and Hope Holliday. Harris was a former California TV news reporter. Killpoint was released by Crown International on its 25th anniversary. Fong and Mitchell returned in Low Blow.

KILL SQUAD

(Edde, 1982)
D/S/P: Patrick G. Donahue
P: Michael D. Lee Philippines

Six martial-arts-fighting Nam vets of various nationalities battle Dutch (Cameron Mitchell) and his band of burglars. Among the fighters are Jean Glaudé, Jeff Risk, and Francisco Ramírez. Some characters are decapitated by axes.



KILL ZONE

(1985) D/S: David A. Prior
S/P: Jack Marino

Fritz Matthews is a deranged Nam vet who thinks he's back in the jungle during some war games. With Ted Prior and Melissa Moore. This is one of Prior's first (of way too many) direct-to-video features.

KILL ZONE

(New Horizons, 1991) D/P: Cirio H. Santiago
S: Frederick Bailey

Most of this Nam War film consists of endless shooting and explosions. Tony Dorsett (of the Dallas Cowboys) is sort of the star. He falls for a guerrilla fighter (Vivian Velez) with a designer black-leather bra. David Carradine is the "unconventional," racist, cigar-chomping Colonel Wiggins, who has people murdered and orders an illegal incursion into Cambodia. Carradine fans should check it out for the scene where he freaks out and yells, "Year of the fuckin' monkey!" while mowing down innocent villagers with a machine gun, and for his stupid return-from-the-dead scene. It was filmed in the Philippines. The local actors and extras do not look Vietnamese.

KILMA, QUEEN OF THE AMAZONS

(All Seasons, 1975) D/S: Manuel Iglesias Bonns
S: Miguel Cusso Spain

During a 19th(?)–century pirate mutiny, Robinson, the navigator (with thinning blond hair and black eyebrows), escapes to an island. He sees an Easter Island statue and natives with bows who look suspiciously like Spaniards. Then a group of female warriors with spears and lots of eye makeup show up on horseback. In a temple they vow, "We shall always fight against men!" After Kilma (Eva Miller) is saved from snakebite death by the hero she falls for him. Other Amazons, with leather bondage belts, become upset. Although packaged like a daring, adults-only sex-adventure tape, this silly tale could be shown to kids on Saturday-morning TV without causing any trouble. It's by the director of Night of the Howling Beast (1976), starring Paul Naschy.

KINDER, MUTTER, UND EIN GENERAL

(1954) D: Laslo Benedek P: Erich Pommer W. Germany

A group of German mothers set out to find their teenage sons, soldiers on the Eastern Front, in 1945. Hilde Krahl stars, with Bernhard Wicki, Maximilian Schell, and Klaus Kinski (who had been a teenage soldier himself). The Hungarian-born Benedek had already directed The Wild One (1954) in America.

THE KINDRED

(Vestron, 1987) D/S/P: Jeffrey Obrow D/S/C: Steven Carpenter S: John Penney, Earl Ghaffari

David Allen Brooks inherits his mom's lab in an isolated house and shows up there with his teen friends. Her gene-splicing experiments resulted in monsters. Rod Steiger costars as a mad scientist who revives a mutant cat, and Amanda Pays turns into an amphibian. With Talia Balsam and Kim Hunter, who dies early in the film. Joseph Stefano worked on the script. The David Newman soundtrack is on Varese Sarabande. Steiger was in American Gothic and Feel the Heat around the same time. Obrow spent the next few years directing rock videos, then made Servants of the Twilight.

THE KINGDOM

(1994) D/S: Lars von Trier S: Tomas Gislason P: Ole Riem Denmark (Riget)

A hospital in Copenhagen is the setting for brain operations, ghosts, voodoo, organ transplants, severed heads, a monster baby, and rock and roll music. The very strange, comic four part, nearly four-and-a-half-hour movie was shot on video for TV by the acclaimed director of The Element of Crime (1984) and Zentropa (1990). Ernest Hugo Jaregard stars with Kristen Rolffes and Udo Kier.

KINGDOM OF THE VAMPIRES

(CVH, 1991) D/P/E: J. R. Bookwalter S/A/M: Matthew Jason Walsh P: Scott P. Plummer

A long-haired convenience-store worker is a very reluctant vampire whose horrible mother demands, "Kill for me!" Matthew Jason Walsh (who also stars in Midnight II) gives his all as he talks, cries, screams, begs, and finally panics and kills her. The trouble is that this shot-on-video release has no FX and moves at a snail's pace. It was made in Medina County, Ohio.

KING DONG

(Selectatape, 1984) D/S/P/A: Yancy Hendrieth P: Ben Yoman (Lost on Adventure Island)

It's hard to believe that this fantasy/adventure King Kong ripoff/porno movie exists, but it does. Made in Honolulu, it has some pretty good stop-motion animation, OK special effects, and amusing matte paintings but strictly amateur sex scenes. Crystal Holland, who had a short-lived porno career (Surrender in Paradise) after this, joins some people on a sailboat, which crashes. She and some actor using a fake name survive on an island where they see a long-necked, animated dinosaur, a normal-sized gorilla with impossibly long arms (played by the director), and a brown, animated, almost perfect copy of King Kong. The island also has female warriors on horseback, a T. Rex, black cannibals, and a big, floppy balloon hand for Kong to pick people up with. This would have made an amusing short, but most of the time is filled with badly lit, unappealing, hard-core fuck scenes. The only native who gets any is (surprise) the only white one. The hero does it doggy style with three handcuffed women at swordpoint. Holland has a lesbian scene with the island's queen. It was a real family project: Dee Hendrieth, another producer, did the costumes and plays two roles. At the end Crystal wakes up in a hospital where a terrible actor plays Dr. Cronenberg, and you hope it really was just a dream.

KING KONG LIVES!

(Lorimar, 1986) D: John Guillerman S: Ronald Shusset, Steven Pressfield P: Martha Schumacher M: John Scott

DEG produced this dumb flop sequel to the awful 1976 remake. Linda Hamilton leads a surgical team that gives Kong (who had fallen off the World Trade Center) an artificial heart. Brian Kerwin brings him a female Kong (with breasts), and the giant gorillas have a cute baby. The giant-heart-transplant scene does have a certain unique quality. This was made in North Carolina and features Carlo Rambaldi FX. The score is on MCA.

KING KUNG FU

(American, 1976) D/S/A: Lance D. Hayes P: Bob Walterscheid

This silly, dated spoof is filled with sight gags and jokes derived from the then-current De Laurentiis King Kong and the Kung Fu TV show. The newscaster hero (named Beau Bridges) looks like De Niro in The King of Comedy. There's a dream sequence, a gorilla's flashback, some animation, and even jokes about Ronald Reagan. Actually, it's pretty impressive for a movie made in Wichita and has some good gags. Postproduction was by Herbert Strock.

KING LEAR

(Xenon, 1987) D/S/A: Jean-Luc Godard P: Golan/Globus US/Switzerland

Peter Sellars stars as Shakespeare's descendant in a postnuke hotel in Switzerland. In this experimental film are Burgess Meredith as a Mafioso, Molly Ringwald as his daughter, Woody Allen as Mr. Alien, and Quentin Tarantino, years before anybody heard of him. Norman and Kate Mailer show up as themselves. This Cannon feature was rated PG.

THE KING OF COMEDY

(RCA, 1981) D: Martin Scorsese S: Paul D. Zimmerman P: Arnon Milchan

Robert De Niro stars as Rupert Pupkin, an off-balance fan and would-be standup comic living with his mom in New Jersey. He decides to kidnap a network-TV talk-show host (Jerry Lewis!) so that he can bring his act to the public. This chilling, disturbing black comedy was not a box-office hit, but says volumes about "fame" and show biz. With Sandra Bernhard, Diahnne Abbott, Ed Herlihy, Shelley Hack, Tony Randall, Dr. Joyce Brothers, Victor Borge, the Clash, and Tonight show producer Fred De Cordova. Scorsese's mom plays Rupert's mom, and the director has a bit part as a TV director. It was filmed in 1981, after Raging Bull, but released in 1983. The various artists soundtrack is excellent (typical for a Scorsese movie) and a recording was issued by United Artists.

KING OF HEARTS

(MGM, 1966) D/P: Philippe De Broca S: Daniel Boulanger France/UK (Le Roi de Coeur)

During WWI a Scottish soldier (Alan Bates) walks into a French town inhabited only by inmates of an asylum. He's there to defuse a bomb left by the Germans, but the carefree residents crown him king and arrange a wedding with an acrobat (Genevieve Bujold). With Pierre Brasseur, Jean-Claude Brialy, Micheline Presle, and Adolfo Celi. It became a cult hit when it was rereleased in America (by United Artists) and played revival houses for years. A soundtrack was also issued by UA. It's subtitled.

KING OF KINGS

(MGM, 1961) D: Nicholas Ray S: Philip Yordan P: Samuel Bronston M: Miklos Rozsa

Jeffrey Hunter is Christ and Siobhan McKenna is Mary, in a movie some critics at the time called I Was a Teenage Jesus (even though Hunter was in his mid–30s). Also in the cast are Hurd Hatfield as Pontius Pilate, Robert Ryan as John the Baptist, Rip Torn as Judas. Also with Ron Randell, Viveca Lindfors, Rita Gam, Harry Guardino, Guy Rolf, Royal Dano, and George Coulouris. Future horror star Paul Naschy was an extra. Narration read by Orson Welles and written by Ray Bradbury was added after MGM had the film cut. Like The Last Temptation of Christ (1988), it was denounced as blasphemous, and like Bronston and Ray's next epic, 55 Days at Peking, this Super Techirama 70 movie is long (originally 168 minutes) and expensive, has a cast of thousands, and was filmed in Spain. The box-office failure of the two features ended Ray's career. Playing the son of God didn't help Hunter much either. MCA released the soundtrack.

KING OF KONG ISLAND

(Sinister, 1968) D: Robert Morris S/P: "Ralph Zucker"/Mario Pupillo P: Walter Brandt Italy/Spain (Kong Island; Eve; La Venere selvaggio)

Esmeralda Barros is a woman brought up by (normal-sized) apes. A mad scientist (American actor Marc Lawrence) controls the robot-like apes, and Brad Harris is the hero.

KING OF NEW YORK

(Live, 1989) D: Abel Ferrara S: Nicholas St. John P: Augusto Caminito

Gangster Frank White (Christopher Walken) gets out of jail and sets up headquarters at the Plaza Hotel in NYC, with female bodyguards. He and a group of loyal black drug dealers battle the Mafia and Chinese and Colombian gangsters. He backs the building of a hospital, thinks of running for mayor, and becomes a hero to many. Lawrence (Larry) Fishburne costars as the "posse" leader, and Wesley Snipes and David Caruso are cops. This violent, outrageous action movie almost got an X rating. There are some great scenes on the subway and an unbelievable Times Square ending. It was booed at the New York Film Festival. The idea of a drug dealer as hero/politician was close to what really happened a few years later in Chicago. With Victor Argo, Joey Chin, Giancarlo Esposito, Steve Buscemi, James Lorinz, Phoebe Legere, Zoe Tamerlis, and Ariane. There's a clip from Nosferatu.

KING OF THE CARNIVAL

(1955) D: Franklin Adreon S: Ronald Davidson

The very last Republic serial stars Harry Lauter and Fran Bennett. They played circus acrobats and had to dress in some some very old-fashioned-looking costumes (with skull and crossbones insignias) to match all the footage from Circus Girl (1937). One of the supporting players is a young Stuart Whitman.

KING OF THE CONGO

(Stokey, 1952) D: Spencer Gordon Bennett, Wallace A. Grissell S: George Plympton, Royal K. Cole, Arthur Hoerl P: Sam Katzman

Buster Crabbe stars in his last (and worst) serial as Thunda, a jungle hero based on the hero of a comic book. A US Air Force captain searches for missing microfilm. The 15-chapter serial, from Columbia, has men in gorilla suits, cavemen, magic rocks, and a man-eating plant. Gloria Dea as "Pha," Leonard Penn as Boris, and Jack Ingram co-star.

KING OF THE KONGO

(Stokey, 1929) D: Richard Thorpe P: Nat Levine

Boris Karloff plays Scarface Macklin, a gang leader, in this rare 10-chapter Mascot serial. It was released in silent and part-talkie versions (a first). Walter Miller stars as a Secret Service agent searching for his brother with Jacqueline Logan and there's a gorilla. Karloff also played villains in The Hope Diamond Mystery (1921), Vultures of the Sea (1928), and The Fatal Warning (1929), all silent serials. He and Miller returned in King of the Wild (1930).

KING OF THE MOUNTAIN

(1981) D: Noel Nosseck S: H. R. Christian P: Jack Frost Sanders

Garage mechanic Harry Hamlin and his beer-drinking friends race cars on the streets of LA. Dennis Hopper is the burned-out Cal, the former "king" of Mulholland Drive, and Sid Haig is a mechanic. This PG release based on a magazine article by Dave Berry, also features Joseph Bottoms, Deborah Van Valkenburgh, Dan Haggerty, and Seymour Cassel. Nosseck also made Las Vegas Lady and TV movies.

KING OF THE ROCKET MEN

(Republic, 1949) D: Fred Brannon S: Royal Cole, William Lively, Sol Shore

This 12-chapter Republic serial may have inspired The Rocketeer (1991). And if anything else looks familiar, it's because lots of stock footage from this serial was used in the other Republic flying-men serials: Flying Disc Man from Mars (1951), Radar Men from the Moon (1952), and Zombies of the Stratosphere (1952). Tristram Coffin stars as Jeff King, who flies around wearing a leather jacket, a metal helmet, and a rocket-propelled backpack. The controls on his chest read: slow, fast, up, down, on, off. Mae Clarke is a photographer for Miracle Science magazine, and I. Stanford Jolley is the evil Dr. Vulcan. In the last chapter he destroys NYC with a tidal wave (there's stunning footage from the 1933 film Deluge). With Dave Sharpe, Tom Steele, and Eddie Parker (the busy stunt men). The 1951 feature version is called Lost Planet Airmen.

King of the Rocket Men, the first serial with jet-pack-flying heroes.

KING OF THE WILD

(Stokey, 1930) D: Reeves Eason S: Wyndham Gittens, Ford Beebe

Boris Karloff plays a villainous sheik in the last of his five serials. This Mascot jungle tale is about a bizarre-looking, ape-like creature. Walter Miller stars, with Nora Lane and Dorothy Christy.

KINGS AND DESPERATE MEN

(Magnum, 1977) D/S/P/A/C/E: Alexis Kanner S: Edward Ward Canada

Patrick McGoohan is John Kingsley, an arrogant Montreal radio-talk-show host taken hostage on Christmas Eve by a political-extremist history professor (Alexis Kanner). Andrea Marcovicci is his shotgun-carrying accomplice. Meanwhile, a judge is kidnapped, the prime minister's wife (Margaret Trudeau!) and her child are held captive in an apartment, and the whole building is wired to explode. SWAT teams stand by, and Kingsley holds a phone-in trial on the radio. The ending is great. Kanner was Number 2 on the TV series The Prisoner, also starring McGoohan.

KING SOLOMON'S MINES

(Sinister, 1937) D: Robert Stevenson S: Michael Hogan, Roland Pertwee UK

Cedric Hardwicke stars as Allan Quatermain in the first (and best) sound version of H. Rider Haggard's novel. Paul Robeson steals the show (and sings) as King Umbopa. With Roland Young, Anna Lee, and John Loder. In one scene, a female witch doctor puts a curse on some warriors and causes a volcano to erupt. Some of the battle scenes were shot on location. The next version was in 1950 with Stewart Granger.

KING SOLOMON'S MINES

(MGM/UA, 1985) D: J. Lee Thompson S: Gene Quintano, James R. Silke P: Golan/Globus

Richard Chamberlain is a bearded Allan Quatermain in this PG-13 "H. Rider Haggard meets Indiana Jones" movie with cannibals, bad Germans and Turks, an elephant stampede, and giant spiders. Sharon Stone costars, with Herbert Lom, John Rhys-Davies, and Ken Gampu. This comic Cannon feature "started the production boom in South Africa." The Jerry Goldsmith score was released by Restless. The sequel, Allan Quatermain and the Lost City of Gold (1987), was filmed at the same time.

KING SOLOMON'S TREASURE

(United, 1976) D/P: Alvin Rakoff
S: Allan Prior, Colin Turner UK/Canada

David McCallum (who stutters for comic effect), Patrick Macnee, and John Colicos star as a trio of adventurers in Africa. This film, based on H. Rider Haggard's Allan Quatermain books, also features Britt Ekland as a Phoenician queen, Wilfrid Hyde-White, and Ken Gampu. Harry Alan Towers was executive producer. From Gold Key.

KINJITE: FORBIDDEN SUBJECTS

(Warner, 1989) D: J. Lee Thompson
S: Harold Nebenzal P: Pancho Kohner

Charles Bronson is an LA vice detective with a 15-year-old daughter, who teams up with a Japanese businessman (James Pax) whose daughter has been kidnapped. They go after a pimp (Juan Fernandez) who uses underage girls for porno shoots. There are some shocking scenes. With Perry Lopez, Peggy Lipton, Sy Richardson, Nicole Eggert, and Alex Hyde-White. It was Thompson's ninth Bronson feature. Parts of the Cannon release were filmed in Tokyo.

KIPLING'S WOMEN

(SW, 1963) D/S/P: Larry Smith D/S: Fred Hudson P: Harry Smith UK

A retired British Army officer (who sings and recites poetry) remembers, dreams, and fantasizes about women. A Burmese woman bathes in a river, and a jealous, naked woman with a pet tiger stabs photos of a rival (a memorable image). It's "based on" Kipling's poem "The Ladies" and was mostly shot outdoors, featuring pinup models Margie Sutton, Lisa Gordon, and Virginia Rogers. Kroger Babb distributed this color adults-only film in America.

THE KISS

(RCA, 1988) D/P: Pen Densham S: Stephen Volk, Tom Ropelewski Canada

Joanna Pacula is some kind of witch who comes to stay with her sister. After her sister dies, she seduces her brother-in-law and kills anybody who threatens her plans. Meredith Salenger is the niece who figures out what's going on. A flashback set in "the Belgian Congo, 1963" shows how it all started. There are Chris Walas FX, death by escalator, and some odd, senseless, threatening garden hoses and tools. Volk also wrote Gothic and The Guardian.

A KISS BEFORE DYING

(1956) D: Gerd Oswald S: Laurence Roman P: Robert L. Jacks

A smooth-talking psycho (Robert Wagner) pushes his pregnant college girlfriend (Joanne Woodward) off a roof and writes her suicide note. Later he goes after her rich sister (Virginia Leith, star of The Brain That Wouldn't Die). Jeffrey Hunter investigates. Mary Astor is Wagner's devoted mom. Also with George Macready and Robert Quarry. This underrated U.A. release is based on a novel by Ira Levin (Rosemary's Baby), and was shot in Cinemascope and Deluxe Color. It was remade in 1991. The German-born Oswald followed with Screaming Mimi (1958).

A KISS BEFORE DYING

(MCA, 1991) D/S: James Dearden
P: Robert Lawrence

Matt Dillon throws Sean Young through a skylight. Later he goes after her social-worker sister (also played by Young). This inferior R-rated remake costars Diane Ladd, James Russo, Max von Sydow as the industrialist father of the sisters, and Adam Horovitz. The entire ending was reshot by Universal after it tested badly. There's a clip from Vertigo.

KISS DADDY GOODBYE

(Academy, 1980) D/S/A: Patrick Regan S: Alain Silver, Ron Abrahams, Mary Stewart (Revenge of the Zombies; The Vengeful Dead)

Two little blond telekinetic twins (played by the director's kids) revive their dad (the director) after bikers kill him. They use the zombie to drive them around in a black car, and when they're done with him they make him dig his own grave (!). They also cause the deaths of the killers. Fabian (pretty laid back in one of his last roles) stars as the new deputy sheriff of a California seaside town. Marilyn Burns (Texas Chainsaw) is good as a concerned social worker who checks up on the kids. It's pretty strange, and Nell and Patrick Regan are quite effective. I wonder what they're doing these days.

KISS DADDY GOODNIGHT

(Academy, 1987) D/S: Peter Ily Huemer S: Michael Gabrieli P: Maureen O'Brien, William Ripka

Uma Thurman (in her film debut) stars as a girl in a blond wig who does coke and robs several men. She leads on an older man (Paul Richards), who then has her followed. This was made in Manhattan by first-time filmmakers with a low budget. Also in the cast are Paul Dillon, Steve Buscemi, Annabelle Gurwitch, and Arto Lindsay.

KISS ME A KILLER

(1992) D/S: Marcus De Leon S: Christopher Wooden P: Catherine Cyran

Julie Carmen is married to the violent Guy Boyd, owner of an East LA bar. A singer/guitarist (Robert Beltran) arrives, boosts business, and seduces her. Executive producer Roger Corman had this Concorde release remade with a country-music background as Saturday Night Special.

KISS ME, BABY

(SW, 1957) D: Lillian Hunt

Six beautiful strippers who go down to their pasties are featured in this filmed stage-show, along with long comedy segments. "Miss Dublin 1954" does a comic dance and sings. The headliner (she has the biggest chest) is Taffy O'Niel, "the Candy Kid." Merle Connell was the cinematographer, Phil Tucker (Robot Monster) was the editor, and Harry Thomas (Frankenstein's Daughter) did the makeup. They all worked on Ed Wood movies. The print of this b/w David Freidman Roadshow Rarity is excellent. It's followed by Striptease Revealed, a color short with Tempest Storm. Hunt (if that's a real name) directed a lot of nudie burlesque movies.

KISS ME KATE

(MGM, 1953) D: George Sidney S: Dorothy Kingsley P: Jack Cummings

Cole Porter's musical, based on Shakespeare's comedy The Taming of the Shrew, was filmed in 3-D by MGM. Kathryn Grayson and Howard Keel (The Day of the Triffids) star, with Ann Miller, Keenan Wynn, Bobby Van, James Whitmore, Ron Randell, Kurt Kaszner, Tommy Rall, Carol Haney, and future director Bob Fosse.

KISS ME, KILL ME

(Paragon, 1973) D/S: Corrado Farina
P: Simone Allouche Italy (Baba Yaga)

Isabelle De Funes stars as a photographer, Valentina, a character based on a 60s Italian S&M comic strip by Guido Crepax. Carroll Baker is the aristocratic witch Baba Yaga, who captures Valentina in her castle with a dungeon and a bottomless pit. With George Eastman (Luigi Montefiori). It's a unique but dated allegorical sex fantasy. Valentina was also a 1987 Italian TV series.

KISS ME, MONSTER

(Redemption, 1967) D/S/A: Jesús Franco S: B. G. Hoffman P: Pier A. Caminecci, Adrian Hoven Spain/W. Germany (Bésame, Monstruo)

Janine Reynaud and Rossana Yanni are "the Red Lips," spies disguised as nightclub strippers. They encounter lesbian killers and mutant bodybuilders in an island castle where strange experiments are being conducted. The cast also includes Michel Lemoine and Adrian Hoven. The same cast and characters were in Franco's Sadisterotica, and husband and wife Lemoine and Reynaud were in Succubus the same year. This was first released on video in the US by Joseph Green.

KISS ME QUICK

(SW, 1964) D: Pete Perry, Max Gardens (Emmanuelle Meets Frankenstein)

Russ Meyer had nothing to do with this Boxoffice International release (his name has been attached to it for years), but it's a clever color horror nudie movie comparable to Orgy of the Dead, except that the laughs are on purpose and it's sexier. A Peter Lorre voice sets up the "plot," about an effeminate alien named Sterilox (Fred Coe, doing a passable Stan Laurel imitation) visiting the castle of Dr. Breedlove, a mad doctor (with a Lugosi voice) to find some women for his planet. All the horror clichés are used (thunder and lightning, the mad doctor in his lab), and the Frankenstein monster (also Coe), a comic Dracula, and a weird female mummy appear. The sets are cheap, but the monster makeup is good and little extras (a skull says, "Cool it, baby") show up like in Mad magazine. Best of all, Kiss Me Quick is very sexy (and ass-obsessed) and was expertly shot by Lazlo Kovacs

(Close Encounters...). A blonde strips very slowly on an operating table. Women dance wildly to garage-rock instrumentals. In an exercise dungeon (!) naked women ride bikes, swing on a swing, and use a vibrating belt. In the best scene, which is surprisingly revealing for the time, three women strip and frolic in a small wading pool. The title is a takeoff on Billy Wilder's Kiss Me, Stupid, released the same year.

KISS OF DEATH (1968) = KISS AND KILL

KISS OF THE BEAST: See MERIDIAN

KITTEN WITH A WHIP

(VSOM, 1964) D/S: Douglas Heyes P: Harry Keller

Ann-Margret (the same year as Viva Las Vegas) stars in this surprising b/w feature as Judy Dvorak, a wild, sexy, anything-goes, jive-talking delinquent. She knifes a matron at a detention home, sets the place on fire, escapes, and breaks into the home of a San Francisco politician (John Forsythe). She blackmails him, holds a drinking party at his house, then forces him to drive her and another delinquent (Peter Brown) to Tijuana to have his knife wound treated. With Richard Anderson, Doodles Weaver, and Hal Hopper. This has played on Mystery Science Theater 3000. From Universal. Heyes also wrote Ice Station Zebra.

KNIGHT MOVES

(Republic, 1992) D: Carl Schenkel S: Brad Mirman P: Ziad al-Khoury, Jean-Luc Defait US/Germany (Face to Face)

Christopher Lambert stars as a grand master competing in a chess tournament in Washington State. A woman he has spent the night with bleeds to death, and bloody messages are left on the wall. An electronic voice calls to brag about the killings. Many women die, and this world-famous guy is the prime suspect. I want to know where the media is?! Lambert's real-life wife, Diane Lane, is a police psychologist working on the case (they have slo-mo sex). Tom Skerritt (much better in the TV series Picket Fences) and Daniel Baldwin are cops, and Ferdinand Mayne is a blind man. A stakeout in a flooded basement is the visual highlight. With bodies as chess pieces, b/w flashbacks, and "I Put a Spell on You" on the soundtrack. It was filmed in Vancouver. Mirman also wrote the Madonna movie Body of Evidence. The tape is 12 minutes shorter than the version that played in Europe.

KNIGHTS

(Paramount, 1993) D/S: Albert Pyun P: Tom Karnowsky

Kathy Long is the futuristic kickboxing Nea, and Kris Kristofferson is Gabriel, a robot (!) programmed to kill cyborgs, who spends part of this very bad movie cut in half. They had a lot of nerve releasing this at all, since it's obviously unfinished and has no ending! It all takes place in the desert (of Utah), and characters dress in biblical garb. With Lance Henriksen as Job, ruler of the vampirish cyborgs, Scott Paulin, Gary Daniels, and Tim Thomerson in a bit part.

KNIGHTS OF THE CITY

(Star Maker, 1984) D: Dominic Orlando S/P/A: Leon Isaac Kennedy P: John C. Strong (Cry of the City)

The Royals, a South Florida gang, are also a rap group, so there's lots of music and breakdancing in this action movie. Overage Leon Isaac Kennedy stars as the gang's leader, Troy, with Nicholas Campbell, Michael Ansara as an alcoholic who owns a record company, Janine Turner, Stoney Jackson, Smokey Robinson, the Fat Boys (who do "Jailhouse Rap"), K.C. (from the Sunshine Band), Cleveland's own Jeff Kutash as a dance instructor named Flash, and early rapper Kurtis Blow. Sammy Davis Jr. was in this mess at one time too, but luckily for him his part was cut out. Michael Franzese, the executive producer, was charged with racketeering and laundering money, and he went to jail. The credits are padded with the names of dialogue coaches and a psychiatrist. Private I released a soundtrack.

KNOCK ON ANY DOOR

(1949) D: Nicholas Ray S: Daniel Taradash, John Monks Jr. P: Robert Lord M: George Anthiel

Humphrey Bogart's Santana production company backed this early, serious jd movie. Bogart stars as a lawyer defending John Derek, who is accused of killing a cop. Flashbacks show the life of the troubled teen. With George Macready as the prosecutor, Allene Roberts, Mickey Knox, and Cara Williams. Columbia released this the same year as two other postwar juvenile-delinquency classics, Gun Crazy and City Across the River. Let No Man Write My Epitaph (1960) is supposed to be the sequel.

KONGO

(Shock Toon, 1932) D: William Cowan S: Leon Gordon

The silent Lon Chaney movie West of Zanzibar was remade, starring Walter Huston as the magician King Deadlegs Flint (he had also played the role onstage). This version is equally mind-boggling. If the native-sacrifice and "evolution" scenes look familiar, it's because MGM simply reused some of director Tod Browning's best footage from the original. I won't describe the sadistic, perverse, hate-driven plot, but some of the highlights are a decapitation trick with a talking head on a table, a chimp attack, and a twitchy, drug-addicted doctor (Conrad Nagel) buried up to his neck in a swamp full of leeches for a painful "cure." Virginia Bruce is a pure, blonde victim of Flint's sick revenge plan, and sexy Lupe Velez (sounding like Charo) is Tula, a new character. C. Henry Gordon plays a bad guy (as usual). This movie shows people being whipped, starved, and humiliated, and all the "ooga booga" native dialogue makes it even more racist than the original.

KOYAANISQATSI: LIFE OUT OF BALANCE

(Pacific Arts, 1983) D/S/P: Godfrey Reggio S: Ron Fricke, Michael Hoenig M: Philip Glass

Don't miss this unique documentary (without narration) directed and photographed by a Buñuel fan who was a monk for 14 years. The title means "life out of balance" in the Hopi Indian language. Speeded-up and time-lapse photography is used to contrast the natural beauty of America with the results of industrialization and modernization. There are excellent segments on Manhattan and on fast-food production. The look of this film and the score (on Antilles) was very influential, mostly on TV commercials. The score was performed live at Lincoln Center screenings. It's the first of a planned trilogy and was "presented" by Francis Ford Coppola. Powaqqatsi (1988) followed.

THE KRAYS

(RCA, 1990) D: Peter Medak S: Philip Ridley
P: Dominic Anciano, Ray Burdis UK

Gary and Martin Kemp (from the 80s rock group Spandau Ballet) star as the real-life identical-twin psycho gangsters (one is gay) who terrorized the East End of London in the 60s. Their lives are seen from birth to death. Women are shown as important driving forces. The family helps while they run protection rackets. Billie Whitelaw is their doting mother. The cast also includes Charlotte Cornwell, Alfred Molina, Susan Fleetwood, and Tom Bell. The twins are still in jail. Screenwriter Ridley went on to direct The Reflecting Skin. Gary Kemp was later in The Bodyguard.

THE KREMLIN LETTER

(1970) D/S/A: John Huston S: Gladys Hill
P: Carter De Haven, Sam Wiesenthal

This complicated and violent all-star Cold War spy movie from 20th Century–Fox was universally panned, but it has its moments. Richard Boone and Dean Jagger lead a team of agents looking for a secret document that says the US and the USSR will attack China. The cast also includes Patrick O'Neal, Orson Welles, Max von Sydow, Bibi Andersson, Raf Vallone, Barbara Parkins, Lila Kedrova, Vonetta McGee, Nigel Green, and Marc Lawrence. George Sanders is memorable as "the Warlock," a San Francisco drag queen.

KRIEMHILD'S REVENGE: See SIEGFRIED

KRULL

(RCA, 1982) D: Peter Yates S: Stanford Sherman
P: Ted Mann, Ron Silverman M: James Horner UK

Ken Marshall stars as a prince who rescues his fiancée (Lysette Anthony) from a beast and has to endure many other fantastic challenges. This film cost Columbia $27 million and lost money. It copies some ideas from Star Wars and The Magic Sword and has lots of FX. The giant animated spider is worth seeing, the Horner score is good, and there's a cyclops who's actually a good guy under a curse. Also in the cast are Liam Neeson, Freddie Jones, Francesca Annis, and Belinda Mayne. The score is on Southern Cross.

KRUSH GROOVE

(Warner, 1986) D/P: Michael Schultz
S: Ralph Farquhar P: Doug McHenry

Real-life violence at New York City screenings created publicity and helped make this rap musical a hit. It's based on the career of Russell Simmons. Blair Underwood (an LA Law regular) stars, with Eron Tabor, Sheila E., Run DMC (also in Tougher Than Leather), the Fat Boys, New Edition, Kurtis Blow, L. L. Cool J, and Rick Rubin. The soundtrack, featuring various artists, is on Warner.

KUNG FU FROM BEYOND THE GRAVE

(Ocean Shores, 1979) D: Li Zhoa S: Lu Feng
P: Bao Meng, Shao Weiying Hong Kong (Yin Ji)

Rival ghost gangs and good and bad magicians fight humans who are after a magic book. Billy Chong stars, and Lo Lieh is a villain. This movie has an early example of gyonsi (hopping vampires), later a cliché in Asian horror movies. They can be destroyed only by menstrual blood from virgins.

KUNG FU RASCALS

(1990) D/S/P/A: Steve Wang S/A: Johnny Saiko

An animated living statue called "the Bamboo Man" (similar to Majin, from 60s Japanese movies) is the main villain in this Super 8 animated action movie with ninjas, mutants, and a witch (Marion Paras). Steve Wang leads a comic trio of heroes. The comedy is mostly piss and fart jokes. Wang did special effects for major features like Batman and Predator and later directed The Guyver movies.

KUNG FU: THE MOVIE

(Warner, 1986) D: Richard Lang S: Durrell Royce Crays P: Slip Ward, David Carradine

This pretty good attempt at reviving Carradine's Kwai Chang Caine character is set in the 1880s. It features Bruce Lee's son, Brandon Lee, as a bald assassin, Mako as an opium dealer, Keye Luke as Master Po (in flashbacks), Benson Fong, Martin Landau, Luke Askew, Ellen Geer, Calista Carradine, and John Alderman. It was a CBS-TV pilot. The Kung Fu series concept would not die. The next year a 60-minute pilot was made, set in modern times, with Lee but not Carradine. Then, in 1993, a successful syndicated series, Kung Fu: The Legend Continues, appeared, also set in modern times, with Carradine but not Lee.

KUNG FU ZOMBIE

(Ocean Shores, 1981) D/S: Hwa I. Hung
P: Pal Ming Hong Kong

Billy Chong fights evil zombies and vampires. This comic horror movie features an exorcism, characters who eat dogs, magic, priests, and the dead leaping out of graves.

KURONEKO

(SW, 1968) D/S: Kaneto Shindo Japan
(Yabu no Naka no Kuroneko; The Black Cat)

In the 12th century, samurai rape and kill an old woman and her daughter-in-law. The women return as "ghost cats," trapping and killing warriors. This chilling tale is from the Toho studios and the director of the classic ghost movie Onibaba.

KURT VONNEGUT'S "MONKEY HOUSE"

(Pacific Arts, 1991) D: Paul Shapiro, Gilbert Shelton, Allan King S: Jeremy Hole, Jeffrey Cohen, Stan Daniels P: Jonathan Goodwill, Gordon Mark

This Showtime series pilot, introduced by the author, dramatizes 3 short stories with ironic endings. The cast includes Len Cariou, Frank Langella, and Miguel Fernandez.

KWAHERI

(1964) D: Mr. and Mrs. Nikki Carter
P: David Chudnow, Thor Brooks

Forbidden African rituals, witch doctors, snake swallowers, blood drinkers, animal poachers, a virgin sacrifice, and marijuana are all parts of this color mondo documentary from Unusual Films. It opens with a snake swallowing a calf. Les Tremayne narrates. This was a hit thanks to promotion by Kroger Babb, who wrote all of the ad copy himself: "Forget Anything and Everything You've Seen Before!"; "Tell No One What You See!" Chudnow also produced several H. G. Lewis sex comedies.

L.A. BAD

(Starmaker, 1985) D/S: Gary Kent
P: Tomi Barrett (Rainy Day Friends)

Esai Morales (La Bamba) stars in this drama about street kids, with Janice Rule, Carrie Snodgress, and John Phillip Law. The director had acted in many movies by Richard Rush, Al Adamson, and Ray Dennis Steckler.

LABORATORY

(1980) D/S/P: Allan Sandler
S: Steve Marshall III

Aliens experiment on a group of humans, including a priest. There's a zombie and a decapitation in this low-budget obscurity. The associate producer was Anne Spielberg.

L.A. BOUNTY

(IVE, 1989) D: Worth Keeter S/P: Michael W. Leighton P/A: Sybil Danning

Sybil Danning, a former model, has been in all kinds of exploitation movies since the late 60s. After hitting a bit of a career low (acting for Chuck Vincent and Fred Olen Ray), she decided to produce her own project. She plays Ruger, a silent, vengeful ex-cop in jeans, sunglasses, and a black leather jacket. She lives in a trailer, smokes small cigars, and uses extremely large guns. Her evil rival is Cavanagh, a fast-talking, coke-dealing, crazed, earring-wearing killer artist played by a laughing, out-of-control Wings Hauser. All of his scenes were shot on a single set (his studio/headquarters), where he rants ("Life and death, life and death, life IS death!"), kills, and paints a female model. This ludicrous movie has lots of car chases, unrealistic dreamlike flashbacks, boring rock music, a western-style shootout (conveniently staged on a real studio backlot), and an overlong Road Runner–inspired battle at the end with lots of dynamite and the William Tell Overture! You just might like it. With Robert Quarry.

LABYRINTH

(Embassy, 1986) D: Jim Henson
S: Terry Jones P: Eric Rattray

George Lucas was the executive producer of this fantasy, written by a former member of Monty Python. Jennifer Connelly, with the help of a troll, tries to rescue her little stepbrother, who has been taken away by goblins. David Bowie is Jareth, the goblin king (he sings). The many surprising creatures (some are elaborate Muppets) and the ILM FX in the maze-like fantasy world make it worth watching. With Kenny Baker and Toby Froud.

L.A. CRACKDOWN

(City Lights, 1987) D/S/P: Joseph Merhi
P: Richard Pepin

A policewoman (Pamela Dixon) tries to reform two teenage girls who are crack addicts, with disastrous results. Then she goes after some dealers and kills them. Dixon returned in L.A. Crackdown II (1988), by the same filmmakers.

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN, THE FABULOUS STAINS

(1981) D: Lou Adler S: Rob Morton P: Joe Roth

Diane Lane (playing a 15-year-old) forms a band with her sister and cousin (Laura Dern). They have "skunk" hair and wear see-through tops. They go on a bus tour with a British punk band featuring Cook and Jones of the Sex Pistols and Paul Simeon of the Clash. The Stains become a media sensation with a following of rebellious young girls, but Lane is criticized for selling out, and it all falls apart. Some of the songs and music are pretty good (the ex-Pistols also wrote the songs), parts are funny, and Lane has a nude sex scene in the shower. It's too bad about the happy ending, though. Also in the cast are Christine Lahti, Peter Donat, Cynthia Sykes, and Fee Waybill (of the Tubes) as the washed-up leader of the Metal Corpses. Adler ran Ode records and produced Cheech and Chong movies.

THE LADIES' CLUB

(Media, 1984) D: "A. K. Allen"/Janet Greek
S/P: Paul Mason P: Nick Mileti (The Violated)

A policewoman and rape victims plot revenge against rapists. Characters are kidnapped, drugged, and castrated. The director (who also made Spellbinder, a horror movie) had her name removed. Diana Scarwid stars, with Arliss Howard, Bruce Davison, and Karen Austin.

LADIES IN RETIREMENT

(1941) D: Charles Vidor S: Denham Fort, Garrett Fort P: Lester Cowan

In this gothic melodrama, a retired British actress (Isobel Elsom) lives in an isolated old house. The maid (Ida Lupino) invites her deranged sisters (Elsa Lanchester and Edith Barrett) to visit and kills people in ovens to keep them out of an institution. With Louis Hayward and Evelyn Keyes. The Columbia release, based on a Broadway hit, was remade as The Mad Room (1969), with Shelley Winters and Stella Stevens.

LADIES OF THE BIG HOUSE

(1932) D: Marion Gering S: Louis Weitzenkorn

Sylvia Sidney stars in this pre-Code women-in-prison movie from Paramount as an innocent woman sent up for a murder committed by a gangster (Earl Foxe). Gene Raymond costars, and Louise Beavers is one of the inmates. The story was by Ernest Booth, an ex-con himself.

LADIES THEY TALK ABOUT

(1933) D: Howard Bretherton, William Keighley
S: Sidney Sutherland, Brown Holmes P: Ray Griffith

Barbara Stanwyck stars in this adaptation of the play Women in Prison. She's Nan, a small-town deacon's daughter who goes to reform school, then becomes part of a gang and is sent to San Quentin for a bank robbery. This pre-Code film is known for its tough dialogue. With Preston Foster, Lyle Talbot, Dorothy Burgess, Lillian Roth (who sings), Helen Ware, and Madame Sul-Te-Wan.

LADY AVENGER

(South Gate, 1986) D/P: David De Coteau S: Will Schmitz, Keith Kaczorek P: John Schwouweiler

Peggy Sanders escapes from prison and goes after the gang that murdered her brother. With Michelle Bauer. It was released in 1989.

LADY BEWARE

(IVE, 1987) D: Karen Arthur S: Charles Zev Cohen P: Toni Scotti, Larry Mortorff

Diane Lane stars as a window dresser named Katya in Pittsburgh (where this was filmed). Her controversial, sexy windows affect an X-ray technician (Michael Woods) who's a peeping Tom. He starts making obscene phone calls and harassing her, and even breaks into the giant loft where she lives alone. When nobody else really helps much, she fights back in a clever, nonviolent way. With Cotter Smith and Viveca Lindfors. Lane restarted her acting career with this film and The Big Town (also 1987), and has memorable nude scenes in both. Arthur also directed The Mafu Cage/My Sister, My Love (1978).

LADY BLUE

(1985) D: Gene Nelson
S: Robert Vincent O'Neill
P: Herb Wallerstein

Jamie Rose stars as a red-haired Chicago detective with a magnum who's after drug dealers, in this pilot for a short-lived ABC-TV series. The character is like a female Dirty Harry, and the series was considered pretty violent for network TV at the time. With series regular Danny Aiello, Katy Jurado, Bibi Besch, Jim Brown, and Tony LoBianco.

LADY CHATTERLEY'S LOVER

(Pearl, 1981) D: Just Jaeckin S: Christopher Wicking P: Golan/Globus UK/France

Sylvia Kristel stars in this version of the D. H. Lawrence novel, with Ann Michelle, Nicholas Clay, former Miss Universe Emparo Múñoz, and former Hammer horror star Shane Briant. It's by the director of her Emmanuelle movies.

LADY COCOA

(Unicorn, 1974) D/P: "Matt Cimber"/ Matteo Ottaviano S: George Theakos

In a plot that must have been inspired by the real-life exploits of actress Liz Renay, "Lady Cocoa" (Lola Falana) is in prison for refusing to testify against her gangster boyfriend. She's allowed out in Lake Tahoe under the protective custody of two detectives (Gene Washington and Alex Dreier) because she promises to talk. Gangsters try to kill her and cars crash into a casino. Falana sings and has a topless scene. With Mean Joe Greene, Buck Flower, and Millie Perkins as a cross-dressing hitwoman. Cimber later remade this Dimension release as Fake Out, with Pia Zadora! Falana also starred in the Italian film Black Tigress (1968).

LADY DRACULA

(VSOM, 1975) D: Franz Josef Gottlieb
S: Redis Rada W. Germany

Dracula (Stephen Boy) is killed by villagers in 1876. When a blonde (Evelyn Kraft, from Goliathon) he bit is unearthed in Vienna 100 years later, she starts killing. With Brad Harris as a cop and Eddi Arent.

LADY DRAGON 2

(Imperial, 1993) D/C: David Worth
S: Clifford Mohr P: Gope T. Samtani

Cynthia Rothrock is raped by Billy Drago's gang of diamond thieves, and her soccer-star husband is crippled. She seeks kickboxing revenge. The cast also includes Sam (Flash Gordon) Jones. This unrelated "sequel" to Lady Dragon (1991) was shot in Jakarta, Indonesia. The original stars Rothrock and Richard Norton.

THE LADY FROM SHANGHAI

(RCA, 1948) D/S/P/A: Orson Welles

In his first do-it-all movie after Citizen Kane, Welles stars and narrates (with a brogue) as an Irish seaman, Michael O'Hara, caught up in a murder mystery. The Columbia release was a flop at the time, some say because he had his wife Rita Hayworth's hair cut short and bleached blond for her role as Elsa Bannister. Now it's considered a film noir classic. With Everett Sloane as the crippled Arthur Bannister, Glenn Anders as Grisby, and Ted De Corsia. The famous shootout ending in a Chinatown fun house lined with mirrors has been copied countless times. Some scenes were filmed on Errol Flynn's yacht. William Castle was an uncredited on-location producer. The stars' marriage ended before the film's release. Elements of the plot were used in The Come-On (1956), with Sterling Hayden and Anne Baxter.

LADY GREY

(1980) D: Worth Keeter S: Tom McIntyre P: Earl Owensby

Ginger Alden stars as a country singer, and David Allan Coe is Black Jack Donovan. Alden was also in Owensby's Living Legend, about Elvis, her former boyfriend. This was shot in North Carolina.

LADYHAWKE

(Warner, 1985) D/P: Richard Donner
S: Edward Khmara, Michael Thomas, Tom Mankiewicz P: Lauren Shuler

A 13th-century knight (Rutger Hauer) and his true love (Michelle Pfeiffer) have been enchanted by an evil bishop. He becomes a wolf at night, and she is a hawk by day. A pickpocket (Matthew Broderick) and an old priest (Leo McKern) help to break the curse. Vittorio Storaro was the cinematographer of this 121-minute, PG-13 romantic fantasy. Alan Parsons did the rock soundtrack. Donner's The Goonies was released the same year.

THE LADY IN THE CAR WITH GLASSES AND A GUN

(1970) D: Anatole Litvak S: Richard Harris
P: Raymond Danan US/France

In this psychological thriller a secretary in Paris (Samantha Eggar) has memory loss and encounters strangers who claim they know her. She picks up a hitchhiker (John McEnery) on the way to the Riviera, and he steals a car with a body in the trunk. Oliver Reed is her advertising-agency boss. This was the last feature by the Russian-born director of Sorry, Wrong Number (1948) and The Snake Pit (1949).

LADY IN THE DEATH HOUSE

(1944) D: Steve Sekely S: Harry O. Hoyt P: Jack Schwartz

Lionel Atwill stars as a criminologist investigating the case of a woman (Jean Parker) wrongly convicted of murder and sentenced to die in the electric chair. The executioner (Douglas Fowley) is also a scientist experimenting with reviving the dead. Most of the plot of this 56-minute PRC feature is told in flashback. The director had done Revenge of the Zombies the year before.

THE LADY IN WHITE

(Virgin, 1988) D/S/P/M: Frank Laloggia
P: Andrew G. La Marca

Big-eyed Lukas Haas is a boy named Frankie in the second feature by the young director of Fear No Evil. This nostalgic, PG-13 ghost story takes place on Halloween in 1962, in picturesque Willows Point, and is narrated by a grown-up Frankie, a Stephen King–type character. The ghost of a little girl haunts the school. Her dead angel/ghost mother wanders around looking for her, and her nearly catatonic aunt (Katherine Helmond) is considered a local nut case. An unknown serial killer tries to make little Frankie victim number 11. Alex Rocco costars as a member of Frankie's emotional Italian-American family. The film has excellent period detail and cinematography but stumbles when trying to copy To Kill a Mockingbird with a subplot about racism. With FX by Gene Warren, Ernest Farino, and others. It was filmed near Rochester, New York. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande.

LADYKILLER

(MCA, 1992) D: Michael Scott
S: Shelley Evans P: Gordon Wolf

Mimi Rogers stars as a police photographer who meets wealthy John Shea through a dating service. People are killed, and he may be the murderer. With Tom Irwin, Bert Remsen, and Alice Krige.

THE LADYKILLERS

(Prism, 1988) D: Robert Lewis
S: Greg Dinallo P: Andrew Hill

In a reversal of a worn-out cliché, men who dance and strip at an LA club for women are being killed. Marilu Henner stars, with Susan Blakely and Lesley-Anne Down. It debuted on ABC-TV.

LADY STAY DEAD

(Video City, 1981) D/S/P: Terry Bourke Australia

A bearded young gardener who's a psycho voyeur/rapist (Chad Hayward) has sex with an inflatable doll, works for a pop singer, and kills female employees.

LADY TERMINATOR

(Studio, 1988) D: Jalil Jackson S: Karr Kruinowz P: Ram Soraya Indonesia
(Nasty Hunter; Shooting Star)

Somebody crossed The Terminator with a typical Southeast Asian black-magic/revenge story and came up with this amazing, violent, action-and-sex-filled movie. Since it has a Western star, it even played (unrated) in American theaters. In 1889, in a great-looking castle on a South Seas island, a magic queen with female servants has loud, sweaty sex surrounded by fog and candles but complains, "Is there any man who can satisfy me?!" Her 100th husband tricks her by pulling a snake (the essence of her magic) from between her legs. The snake becomes a knife, lightning flashes, and she walks into the sea vowing revenge on his granddaughter. Tanya, an anthropologist (star Barbara Anne Constable, who also receives a makeup credit), goes scuba-diving near the island 100 years later while researching the legendary queen. A tidal wave appears, and suddenly she's tied spread-eagle to a bed while an animated snake enters her. She emerges from the ocean naked near a city and confronts a group of drunken guys laughing and pissing. They each die, blood spurting in their faces, while having sex with her. She gets clothes (black leather) and a room (which she mostly destroys with telekinetic powers) and starts blowing away people with a machine gun. She kills lots of people on the street, in huge malls, and in a disco, stopping only to have sex with the bellboy. She's indestructible, but bullets can slow her down. She smashes up a police station where the cops are talking about bodies with "the cocks bitten off." Erica, a rock singer with a cop boyfriend, is the granddaughter the reincarnated queen is looking for, and her great-uncle is a good magician. But the dubious heroes are a couple of clichéd bonehead American guys ("Fuckin' A!"; "I'm outa here!") who show up for the final scenes of car and tank crashes and big explosions. You won't believe it.

THE LADY VANISHES

(MPI, Diamond, 1938) D: Alfred Hitchcock S: Sidney Gilliat, Frank Launder P: Edward Black UK

This comedy/mystery classic has been copied countless times. A young woman (Margaret Lockwood) meets a kindly governess (May Whitty) as they're boarding a train in Europe. When the older woman mysteriously disappears, a musicologist (Michael Redgrave) helps her to sort it all out, while everybody on the train claims that the missing woman never existed. Also in the cast are Paul Lukas as a sinister brain surgeon, Mary Clare as a countess, Googie Withers, and the comic pair Basil Radford and Naunton Wayne (they were later teamed in Night Train to Munich, Dead of Night, and other films). A book containing the screenplay has been published. It was based on a novel by Ethel Lina White, as were The Unseen (1945) and The Spiral Staircase (1946). The film was produced by Gainsborough.

THE LADY VANISHES

(1979) D: Anthony Page S: George Axelrod P: Tom Sachs UK

Cybill Shepherd and Elliott Gould star in a comic remake of Hitchcock's film, with Angela Lansbury as a spy who disappears on a train, Herbert Lom, Arthur Lowe, Ian Carmichael, and Jenny Runacre. This unsuccessful Rank/Hammer coproduction is one of the features that helped put Hammer out of business.

LAFAYETTE ESCADRILLE

(1958) D/P: William A. Wellman S: A. S. Fleischman

Tab Hunter stars in this WWI Foreign Legion movie, with Etchika Choreau, Clint Eastwood (in his last role before TV fame in the series Rawhide), Tom Laughlin (years before Billy Jack), David Janssen, Marcel Dalio, William Wellman Jr., Joel McCrea, and Brett Halsey. It was a flop and was the last feature by the man who had directed the first Oscar-winning film, Wings (1927). From Warner Brothers.

L.A. GODDESS

(Prism, 1993) D: Jag Mundhra S: Jerry Davis P: Michael Criscione, Bruce Mulhearn

Kathy Shower is a would-be scriptwriter and a stunt double for the star of an erotic western called Frontier Foxes. Studio head David Heavener falls for her and takes her to his mansion, but she says, "Sorry, Mr. Mogul, My script and my body are not for sale." With Wendy McDonald as the "sex-crazed" alcoholic movie star, Jeff Conaway as the director, Tally Chanel, Joe Estevez, and James Hong as the butler. Both the R and unrated versions feature showers and sex backed by romantic ballads.

L.A. HEAT

(PM, 1989) D/P: Joseph Merhi S: Charles T. Kanganis P: Richard Pepin

Lawrence Hilton-Jacobs stars as a detective who dreams of being a cowboy hero, with Jim Brown as the police captain, Pat Johnson, Gretchen Becker, and the usual strippers. This violent movie about drugs had a sequel, L.A. Vice.

THE LAIR OF THE WHITE WORM

(Vestron, 1988) D/S/P: Ken Russell UK

Irish novelist Bram Stoker was suffering from Brights disease (which he died of the next year) when he wrote his last novel in 1911. It's a fantastic, fevered tale of pagan snake worshippers, virgin sacrifices, and a vampire-like snake-woman. Russell made a great comic movie from it, adding mind-blowing hallucination sequences and incredible, nightmarish, sacrilegeous visions. One shows the crucifixion of Christ, a serpent, and impaled nuns. Amanda Donohoe stars as Lady Sylvia Marsh, a viciously funny, sexy, seductive (and often naked), venom-spewing snake-woman with a giant, Dune-like snake in her castle. Hugh Grant is the young lord whose ancestors slew a dragon. He and archaeologist Peter Capaldi try to help two lower class orphaned sisters (Catherine Oxenberg and Sammi Davis). Everyone has strong Scottish accents. There's a George Méliès clip, a Citizen Kane reference, and much more.

LAMBADA

(Warner, 1990) D/S: Joel Silberg S: Sheldon Renan P: Peter Shepard

J. Eddie Peck (Curse II) stars as a math teacher called Blade who hangs out with barrio kids at night and falls for Melora Hardin. Adolpho "Shabba-Doo" Quinones (Breakin' I and II) co-stars and was the choreographer. With Keene Curtis and Thalmus Rasulala. Executive producer Yoram Globus released this PG film at the same time as his cousin and former Cannon partner, Menahem Golan, released a wilder lambada movie, The Forbidden Dance.

THE LAND OF FARAWAY

(Starmaker, 1987) D: Vladimir Grammatikov S: William Aldridge P: Ingemar Ejve Sweden/USSR/Norway (Mio in the Land of Faraway)

Nicholas Pickard and Christian Bale (from Spielberg's Empire of the Sun) star in this fantasy, based on books by Astrid Lindgren, with Christopher Lee as "the Black Knight," Timothy Bottoms as a medieval king, and Susannah York. It was filmed in the Crimea, at a Moscow studio, and in Scotland.

THE LAND OF NO RETURN

(1981) D/S/P: Ken Bateman S: Frank Ray Perilli (Snowman; Challenge to Survive)

Mel Torme and William Shatner (what a pair!) star in a G-rated tale of a TV animal trainer whose plane crashes in Utah. Bateman also directed the obscure horror movie Headless Eyes!

LAND RAIDERS

(VSOM, 1970) D: Nathan Juran S: Ken Pettus P: Roy Rowland

Telly Savalas kills people and blames Apaches, which starts an Indian war. His brother (George Maharis) is the hero. Arlene Dahl is also in this western (filmed in Spain and Budapest), with Jocelyn Lane, George Coulouris, and Guy Rolfe. It was Dahl's last film until she appeared in several in the 90s with her son Lorenzo Lamas. Juran made only one more, The Boy Who Cried Werewolf (1973).

LANSKY'S ROAD

(1985) D/S/P: Richard Farr

A couple are abducted by flying saucers. The guy goes to a hospital, where media hysteria results. Officials pursuing the secrets he learned drug him and blame him for terrorist bombings. It was shot on video in Grand Junction, Colorado and is filled with bad camera zooms and slo-mo.

LASER MAN

(VSOM, 1988) D/S/P/A: Peter Wang US/Hong Kong

A philosophical NYC police captain (Peter Wang) narrates a rambling story about Arthur (Mark Hayashi), a laser scientist and friend of the family who is supposed to assassinate somebody with his invention. Arthur has a Jewish mother and girlfriend problems, so most of this comic movie deals with cultural clashes. Maryann Urbano costars, and Sally Yeh is the guest star. There's some Chinese dialogue, which is subtitled. Tsui Hark was the associate producer. Wang also made The Great Wall.

LASER MISSION

(Turner, 1989) D: Beau Davis S: Philip Gutteridge P: Hans Kuhle W. Germany

Bruce Lee's son, Brandon, plays Michael Gold, an American mercenary who escapes from jail in a South American Communist country. He's handsome and he's cool, and this movie has lots of car chases, explosions, and guns, but it's not what you would expect from the son of the world's best martial-arts star. He helps Melissa (Debi Monahan), a blonde with a very high voice who's stranded in a desert wearing high heels and a low-cut dress. Her father is a professor (Ernest Borgnine, whose accent changes several times). An Austrian soldier of fortune (Werner Pochath) with a room full of heads is after a laser weapon developed by the professor and kidnaps her. Black slave laborers and comic Cubans work in a diamond mine. This was filmed in South Africa. Lee had also been in Legacy of Rage (1987).

LASER MOON

(Hemdale, 1991) D/S/A: Douglas K. Grimm P: Mark Paglia

A black-masked killer with a pen lite laser kills women after they have sex, then photographs their bodies. Someone starts confessing to the bored host of a late-night radio talk show (Harrison Le Duke). Traci Lords is Barbara Fleck, the new partner of a cop who watches TV in his car. At one point she says, "This movie sucks." It sure does. If the radio host's voice doesn't put you to sleep, the boring soft music will. Avoid this worse-than-usual video, made in Colorado Springs.

LASH OF LUST

(1968) D: "George Sheafer"/Al Adamson S: Sam Sherman P: Mardi Rustam

Bambi Allen and other women are kidnapped, in this adults-only sex western shot on the Spahn Ranch. Adamson later said that he had to have Charles Manson and some of his followers thrown off the set. He also directed other, tamer westerns (Five Bloody Graves and The Female Bunch) around the same time. This one wasn't released until 1974.

THE LASH OF THE PENITENTES

(Sinister, 1936) D: Harry Revier, Roland C. Price S: Zelma Carroll (The Penitente Murder Case)

Penitentes—Catholic religious fanatics who whip themselves—have existed in many parts of the world for hundreds of years. Some were active in New Mexico in the 30s. Filming was strictly forbidden, but Roland C. Price shot silent footage of them, Harry Revier shot exploitative new footage about a murder (including a tied-up, naked woman being whipped), and a road-show classic was born. Marie de Forest stars as Raquel. A 70-minute English version and a longer Spanish version were available for many years. Video versions are as short as 35 minutes. The Penitentes (1915), by D. W. Griffith, is an earlier look at the same cult.

LAST ACTION HERO

(Columbia, 1993) D/P: John McTiernan S: Shane Black, David Arnott, William Goldman (uncredited) P: Steve Roth

The original script for this expensive (probably over $100 milion!), long (122-minute) PG-13 commercial flop, with industry in-jokes, shameless plugs, and intentional continuity errors, was written by a pair of novices in their mid-20s, Zak Penn and Adam Leff. The incredible prepublicity included a giant, inflatable Arnold Schwarzenegger with dynamite (just after the World Trade Center bombing) in Times Square and a logo on a NASA rocket. Austin O'Brien is a kid with a magic movie ticket who enters a film, Jack Slade IV, that's set in LA of the future. Schwarzenegger is Slade, the fictional hero, and appears as himself with his wife, Maria Shriver. Slade and a British villain (Charles Dance) also enter real-life Manhattan. With Tom Noonan as "the Ripper," Robert Prosky as a Times Square projectionist, Mercedes Ruehl, Anthony Quinn, F. Murray Abraham, Art Carney, Michael Gazzo, Colleen Camp, Professor Tanaka, Tina Turner as the mayor, and a cartoon cat. Some of the briefly seen guest stars are Sharon Stone, Jean-Claude Van Damme, Damon Wayans, Melvin Van Peebles, Joan Plowright, Tony Curtis, Little Richard, Adam Ant, Hammer, Chris Connelly, James Belushi, and Chevy Chase. The soundtrack by Michael Kamen (on Columbia) includes tracks by Alice in Chains, AC/DC, Megadeath, and Aerosmith (a "Dream On" remake). The widescreen laserdisc runs 131 minutes. The video has ads for the soundtrack, the video game, and an Arnold fitness video. Slade's favorite line is "Big mistake."

THE LAST AMERICAN HERO

(1973) D: Lamont Johnson S: William Roberts P: John Cutts, William Roberts (Hard Driver)

Jeff Bridges stars as Junior Jackson, a North Carolina moonshiner who becomes a stock-car racer. With Gary Busey as his brother, William Smith as a rival driver, Valerie Perrine, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Ned Beatty, Art Lund, Ed Lauter, and Plan 9 from Outer Space star Gregory Walcott.

THE LAST AMERICAN VIRGIN

(MGM, 1982) D/S: Boaz Davidson P: Golan/Globus

A couple of guys (Steve Antin and Joe Rubbo) try to find a girl for their friend (Lawrence Monoson). The cast also includes Diane Franklin (in her debut), Brian Peck, Kimmy Robertson, and Louisa Moritz as the Mexican hooker they take him too. Davidson also directed the similar Israeli Lemon Popsicle series of teen comedies. The new-wave-hits soundtrack (on Columbia) is the best thing about this.

THE LAST BOY SCOUT

(Warner, 1991) D: Tony Scott S: Shane Black P: Joel Silver, Michael Levy

Damon Wayans is a former football star with a drug problem teamed up with a sleazy former Secret Service agent (Bruce Willis). The plot, in there somewhere with lots of action and explosions, involves football corruption, and it all ends at a big game. With Chelsea Field, Noble Willingham, Halle Berry (a former Miss World from Cleveland), Kim Coates, Billy Blanks, Dick Butkus, and Sara Suzanne Brown. Black, who wrote Lethal Weapon, received $1.75 million for the script. Wayans' only other major film role had been in Earth Girls Are Easy. Michael Kamen did the soundtrack.

LAST CALL

(Prism, 1990) D: Jag Mundhra S: Steven Lyama P: Ashok Amritraj

Shannon Tweed is a stripper who throws knives at teddy bears as part of her act, in this "erotic thriller." William Katt hires her to get back at some mobsters who cheated him in a real-estate deal. Tweed takes it off in sex and dance scenes. With Joseph Campanella as a gangster and Stella Stevens. There are b/w flashbacks and a Kiss pinball machine. It's available in R and unrated versions.

LAST CONTRACT: See PORTRAIT OF A HITMAN

THE LAST DANCE

(Prism, 1991) D/P: Anthony Marks S: Emerson Bixby

Dancers appearing on the Miss Dance TV show are being killed. The ads said, "Only the Sexy Die Young." With Erica Ringstrom, Cynthia Bassinet, Elaine Hendrix, and "Marci Brickhouse." The Seeds (!) and Savoy Brown are heard on the soundtrack. It's from Mike Curb's company and the makers of Bikini Island.

THE LAST DAYS OF POMPEII

(1984) D: Peter Hunt S: Carmen Culver P: Richard Irving, William Hill UK/Italy

NBC aired this 7-hour all-star mini-series with a disaster-movie ending. Olivia Hussey and Nicholas Clay star, with Ned Beatty, Brian Blessed, Ernest Borgnine, Lesley-Anne Down, Franco Nero, Anthony Quayle, Linda Purl, Laurence Olivier, and Marilu Tolo. Jack Cardiff was the cinematographer for this expensive project. The 1935 and 1960 versions were a lot shorter.

THE LAST DRAGON

(CBS/Fox, 1985) D: Michael Schultz S: Louis Venosta P: Rupert Hitzig (Berry Gordy's "The Last Dragon")

Taimak stars as a Harlem teenager who is obsessed with martial arts and even dresses Chinese. He has to save a TV rock-video hostess (Vanity) from the outrageous Sho Nuff, "the shogun of Harlem" (Julius J. Carry III). This Motown production is a fun, cartoonish musical/action comedy. There's a gang fight in a movie theater showing Enter the Dragon. Vanity (D. D. Winters) was originally going to co-star with Prince in Purple Rain. Schultz directed Krush Groove the same year.

THE LAST EMBRACE

(Fox, 1979) D: Jonathan Demme S: David Shaber P: Michael Taylor, Dan Wigutow M: Miklos Rozsa

Roy Scheider is an undercover government agent who has a nervous breakdown and becomes involved in a Hitchcock-type adventure involving Janet Margolin and rabbis in New York. The climax takes place at Niagara Falls. With John Glover, Charles Napier, Christopher Walken, and Mandy Patinkin. From United Artists. The score, released by Varèse Sarabande, was performed by the Nuremberg Symphony Orchestra. The director's next was Melvin and Howard.

THE LAST FIGHT

(Thorn EMI, 1983) D/S/A: Fred Williamson P: Jerry Masucci M: Jay Chattaway

Panamanian-born Ruben Blades (making his American debut) stars as a salsa singer with gambling debts who turns to boxing for money. Fred Williamson, who appears as detective Jesse Crowder again, put together an impressive cast from the world of boxing, salsa music, and exploitation movies, including Willie Colon as a nightclub owner and gangster, Joe Spinell, Darlanne Fluegel, Nereida Mercado, Don King, boxer Salvador Sanchez, and José Torres. It was produced by the head of Fania Records.

THE LAST FRONTIER

(Stokey, 1932) D: Spencer Gordon Bennett, Thomas L. Story S: George Plympton, Robert F. Hill

In one of his first roles, Lon Chaney Jr. stars as a western hero who doubles as a mysterious, Zorro-type masked man and as an Indian. Dorothy Gulliver co-stars. This 12-chapter serial is the only one RKO made. Black Ghost is the feature version.

THE LAST GLORY OF TROY = THE AVENGER

THE LAST HIT

(MCA, 1993) D: Jan Egleson S: Walter Klenhard, Alan Sharpe P: Rob Christiansen

Bryan Brown is a former CIA assassin who settles down in New Mexico and falls for Brooke Adams. Her father (Harris Yulin) turns out to be the target of his unfinished assignment. It's by the director of A Shock to the System.

THE LAST HORROR FILM

(VCI, Media, 1981) D/S/P/A: David Winters S/P/A: Judd Hamilton S: Tom Classen

American taxi driver Vinny Durand (Joe Spinell) dreams of making The Loves of Dracula while in Cannes for the 1981 film festival. He's a mother-dominated psycho who sweats, whimpers, and cries and is obsessed with actress Jana Bates. Caroline Munro plays the horror star whose streaked hair changes from scene to scene. Her real-life husband, Judd Hamilton, plays her director. Vinny also seems to be committing chainsaw decapitation murders. This amazingly silly movie was inspired by Taxi Driver (which Spinell had a small part in) and the attempt on President Reagan's life (Robin Leach shows up and asks about John Hinkley Jr.). It wasn't released until 1984. Spinell's real mom, Mary Spinell, plays his pot-smoking mother. Karen Black, Isabelle Adjani, and others show up in festival footage, and marquees announce Polyester and Cannibal Holocaust. The movie features June Chadwick, rock songs, some nudity and gore, and topless sunbathers (including Annie Ample). It also includes the then unthinkable idea that a woman could win a major award for acting in a horror movie. Spinell starred in the more disturbing Maniac. He and Munro were also in Starcrash.

THE LAST HOUR

(Academy, 1990) D: William Sachs S: Jim Byrnes (Concrete War)

Michael Paré stars as an ex-cop with an Uzi, trying to rescue his ex-wife (Shannon Tweed) from gangsters in a skyscraper. Her stockbroker husband scammed the mob, so Bobby DiCicco kidnapped her. This Die Hard copy features a lot of slo-mo shooting scenes.

THE LAST HUNTER

(Vestron, 1980) D: "Anthony Dawson"/ Antonio Margheretti S: Dardano Saccheti P: Gianfranco Couyoumdjian Italy (L'Ultimo Cacciatore; Hunter of the Apocalypse)

David Warbeck (a regular Dawson star) is a soldier behind enemy lines in Vietnam. This movie copies parts of Apocalypse Now and The Deer Hunter. The cast also includes Tisa Farrow (Zombie), John Steiner, and Alan Collins.

THE LAST MOVIE

(United American, 1970) D/A: Dennis Hopper S: Stewart Stern P: Paul Lewis C: Laszlo Kovacs M: Kris Kristofferson

Hopper stars as Kansas, a stunt man for a western being made in Chinchero, Peru. He stays behind after the production and the locals decide to copy the filmmakers with bamboo cameras and real bullets. Despite what you've heard, it's pretty damn interesting. Stella Garcia is his prostitute girlfriend, who wants lots of consumer goods. Hopper invited friends to Peru for the long shoot. Some play actors in the movie being shot. Don Gordon and Julie Adams are good in major roles, Thomas Milian is a priest, and director Samuel Fuller plays himself. Look closely for Peter Fonda, John Phillip Law, Dean Stockwell, Russ Tamblyn, John Alderman, Toni Basil, Rod Cameron, Sylvia Miles, Michelle Phillips (she was married to the star for 8 days), Richard Rust, Kris Kristofferson (he wrote the music and makes his movie debut), Severn Darden, and Tom Baker. Kovacs also shot Easy Rider. The film shares the record for the longest pre-credits sequence (30 minutes). The Universal release was backed by Bob Rafelson and BBS after Easy Rider and was a major flop, ending Hopper's directing career for a long time. Phil Spector was going to produce but had a falling-out with Hopper. Hopper also made American Dreamer (1971), a companion documentary, while slowly editing The Last Movie down to 110 minutes.

THE LAST NINJA

(1983) D: William A. Graham S: Edward Spielman P: Anthony Spinner

Michael Beck stars as Ken Sakura, an art dealer who was raised by a Japanese-American family (including Nancy Kwan and Mako) and is secretly a hero ninja. He rescues some scientists held hostage in a Dallas skyscaper. This ABC-TV series pilot also features Richard Lynch as the evil Professor Norden and John Larroquette.

LAST OF THE AMERICAN HOBOS

(1969) D/S/P/C/A: Titus Moody

This flashback-filled 16mm semidocumentary took four years to finish. It explores the history of hobos back to the Great Depression, using interviews with real 'bos in the 60s, folk songs, and historical reenactments. Moody talks to real characters like Slow Motion Shorty and Boxcar Myrtle, learns about hobo etiquette and life on the back roads and railroads, and shows what an actual flophouse is like. A man living in a cave tells how he lost his leg. One 'bo says "There's more after every war. We're even kids from Vietnam now." An annual hobo convention is held in Britt, Iowa. Tiger Joe Marsh, Bruno Ve Sota, and director Coleman Francis are in there somewhere too.

Julie Adams and Dennis Hopper in The Last Movie.

LAST OF THE FINEST

(Orion, 1990) D: John MacKenzie S: George Armitage, Thomas Lee Wright P: John A. Davis

When three members of a suspended LA undercover narcotics cop team look for the killers of their partner, they discover a conspiracy. Brian Dennehy stars, with Bill Paxton, Joe Pantoliano, Michael C. Gwynne, and Pamela Gidley.

LAST OF THE RENEGADES

(VSOM, 1964) D: Harold Reinl S: Harold G. Petersson P: Horst Wendlandt W. Germany/ France/Italy/Yugoslavia (Winnetou II)

Lex Barker returns as Old Shatterhand, and Pierre Brice is Winnetou again, in another film in a series, based on Karl May's western stories, that was very popular in Europe. Anthony Steel and Klaus Kinski are the villainous oilmen who try to start an Indian war. With Karin Dor and Terence Hill.

LAST OF THE WARRIORS

(AIP, 1989) D/P: Lloyd Simandl D: Michael Mazo S: Chris Maruna Canada (Empire of the Ash II)

Melanie Kilgour (Maniac Warriors) joins a futuristic warrior (Ken Farmer) as they battle William Smith and his bad warriors. The film has lots of battle scenes, Kilgour taking a shower, Nancy Pataki as a lesbian priestess, and mutant cannibal zombies.

LAST PLANE OUT

(Fox, 1983) D/P: David Nelson S: Ernest Tidyman P: Jack Cox

Jan-Michael Vincent stars as a Texas journalist in Nicaragua who falls for a Sandinista rebel (Julie Carmen). This political thriller is based on the journalistic experiences of producer Jack Cox. With Mary Crosby and William Windom. It's a PG-rated New World release.

THE LAST PORNO FLICK

(Abacus, 1974) D: Ray Marsh S: Larry Ditillio P: Steve Bond (The Mad Movie Makers)

This comedy about making porno movies includes a Deep Throat parody but is rated PG because it doesn't show much. The cast includes Marianna Hill, Michael Pataki, Mike Kellin, and Anthony Carbone.

THE LAST REBEL

(1971) D: Denys McCoy S: Warren Kiefer P: Larry G. Spangler

Joe Namath stars as a pool hustler, in this PG post–Civil War western set in Missouri but filmed in Spain. A sheriff (Ty Hardin) is after Namath, Jack Elam, and Woody Strode. The one-time football hero also starred in the biker movie C.C. and Company (1970) but later settled for doing TV commercials.

LAST RESORT

(Vestron, 1985) D/A: Zane Buzby
S: Steve Zacharias P: Julie Corman

Unemployed Charles Grodin takes his family on a Club Med vacation, in this sex comedy from Concorde with Mario Van Peebles, Gerrit Graham, Jon Lovitz, and Brenda Bakke.

THE LAST RIDE

(AIP, 1991) D: Karl Krogstad S: Ted Prior

In this close copy of The Hitcher, Daniel Ranger is a paroled inmate stalked by a psycho (Michael Regis) with a truck. Amy Newhavic is his waitress girlfriend.

THE LAST RIDER

(PM, 1990) D/S/P: Joseph Merhi S: Addison Randall, Ray Garmon P: Richard Pepin

A biker quits the Slavers gang, and his ex-buddies turn against him and kill his family. Erik Estrada stars in this revenge tale set in Las Vegas. With Mimi Lesseos, William Smith, Angeko Tiffe, and Kathrin Lautner.

THE LAST ROMAN

(1968) D: Robert Siodmak S: Ladislas Fodor
P: Arthur Brauner W. Germany/Romania
(Der Kampf um Rom)

This two-part Roman Empire epic, more than three hours long and shot in Techniscope and Eastmancolor, was released in America cut down to 92 minutes. Laurence Harvey stars, with Orson Welles, Sylva Koscina, Honor Blackman, Harriet Andersson, Michael Dunn, and Lang Jeffries. It was based on a best-selling German novel by Felix Dann and was the last film by the director of Phantom Lady (1944) and The Killers (1946).

THE LAST SEDUCTION

(Polygram, 1994) D: John Dahl S: Steve Barancik P: Jonathan Shestack

Linda Fiorentino stars as a manipulative NYC woman who cons her husband (Bill Pullman), a medical student, into pulling off a big drug deal. Then she takes off with the money. On the way to Chicago she seduces a man (Peter Berg) in a small, upstate New York town and tries to trick him into murdering her husband. The cast also includes J. T. Walsh (also in Dahl's Red Rock West) as her lawyer and Bill Nunn. It debuted on HBO, was a critical smash, then did well in theaters.

THE LAST SHARK = THE GREAT WHITE

THE LAST SLUMBER PARTY

(United, 1987) D/S/A: Stephen Tyler
P: Bill F. Blair, Betty S. Scott

A killer slits the throats of some boring teens. This was released the same year as Slumber Party Massacre II.

THE LAST STARFIGHTER

(MCA, 1984) D: Nick Castle S: Jonathan Beutel
P: Gary Adelson, Edward O. Denault

Lance Guest is a kid living in a trailer park who becomes part of a video game. Robert Preston (in his last film) recruits him to join the Starfighters and battle the evil lizard-man Grig (Dan O'Herlihy, with maxiumum makeup). The impressive FX for this PG film were all done on computers. With Catherine Mary Stewart, Wil Wheaton, Cameron Dye, and Owen Bush.

THE LAST SUNDOWN

(Even Steven, 1971) D: Mike Bennett S: Mike Angel
P: Edward De Priest (Six Guns for Six Women)

A couple of sadistic cattlemen take six dance-hall girls (including Marsha Jordan) to prison in this adults-only western.

THE LAST SURVIVOR: See JUNGLE HOLOCAUST

THE LAST TEMPTATION OF CHRIST

(MCA, 1988) D: Martin Scorsese S: Paul Schrader
P: Barbara De Fina M: Peter Gabriel

This retelling of the story of Christ is pretty interesting, but the protesters outside the Ziegfeld Theater in NYC were more memorable. It's a lot more believable than any of the older Hollywood Christ features, but like them it suffers from an "all-star" cast. Several people in the audience yelled out "It's David Bowie!" when Pontius Pilate appeared. Willem Dafoe stars as the flawed savior, and Barbara Hershey (who had her lips enlarged for the role) is Mary. With Harvey Keitel as Judas, Harry Dean Stanton, Verna Bloom, Roberts Blossom, Barry Miller, André Gregory, and Irvin Kershner. The soundtrack is excellent, and the ILM FX are put to good use. It's based on Nikos Kazantzakis' novel, which David Carradine says he gave to the director during the filming of Boxcar Bertha.

LAST VIDEO AND TESTAMENT

(1984) D: Peter Sasdy S: Roy Russell UK

Deborah Raffin is having an affair with Oliver Tobias. Her international-businessman husband (David Langton) accidentally videotapes them, fakes his own death, and plots revenge by "haunting" them, using scientific methods. It's a Hammer TV movie.

THE LAST WALTZ

(United Artists, 1978) D: Martin Scorsese
P: Robbie Robertson

The Band perform at their "last" show, on Thanksgiving 1976, at the Winterland. They also play on an MGM soundstage. Guest stars include Bob Dylan, Van Morrison, Neil Young, the Staples Singers, Ronnie Hawkins, Muddy Waters, Dr. John, and Ringo Starr. Scorsese (a friend of Robbie Robertson) conducts the interviews with the group. Bill Graham sponsored the show. The cinematographers included Laszlo Kovacs and Vilmos Zsigmond, and U.A. released it. Scorsese made the classy concert film in between New York, New York (1977) and Raging Bull (1980). The Band later got back together without Robertson.

THE LAST WARNING

(1929) D: Paul Leni S: Alfred A. Cohn P: Carl Laemmle

Universal reteamed director Paul Leni and actress Laura La Plante, from the hit The Cat and the Canary (1927), in this horror comedy set in a theater. A director (Montague Love) restages a play that was a hit until a real murder occurred, but the new production seems to be haunted by the ghost of the original leading man. (The sets from The Phantom of the Opera were used.) Roy D'Arcy costars, with Margaret Livingston and John Boles. This was released in silent and part-sound versions. It was remade as House of Fear (1939).

THE LAST WAVE

(Rhino, 1977) D: Peter Weir S: Tony Morphett, Petro Popescu Australia

A lawyer (Richard Chamberlain) defending an Aborigine (David Gulpilil, from Walkabout) accused of murder has hallucinations of apocalyptic events and ancient tribal rituals. This was Weir's third feature and was released by United Artists.

LAS VEGAS BLOODBATH

(S.K.M.D., 1989) D/S/P: David Schwartz P/A: Ari Levin

This is a sick gore movie with terrible acting and endless scenes of cars. A young businessman named Sammy (Ari Levin) cracks after he finds his wife (a blond hair hopper) with the doorman: "I'll get even with them all!" He walks and drives around with his wife's head and shows it to a hooker before he knifes her in broad daylight, then ties her legs to his car and pulls them off. He talks to the head (shades of Bring Me the Head of Alfredo Garcia) and takes it to a bar. When a driver gives him the finger he shoots it off. He invades a house full of female "oil wrestlers" (we see their show on TV) and proceeds to slaughter them. He ties up and kills the pregnant one, cuts the baby out, and throws it against the wall. As I've said elsewhere, I don't make these things up; people send them for review. The FX are by a guy who does Vegas haunted-house shows. I don't know whether this video ever made it out of the Vegas area (there's a story about nobody being paid), which is just as well.

LAS VEGAS LADY

(1976) D: Noel Nosseck S: Walter Dallenbach
P: Joseph Zappala, Gene Slott

Stella Stevens stars in a Crown International release about a casino hostess who plans a robbery, with Stuart Whitman, Lynn Moody, George DiCenzo, Jesse White, and her son, Andrew Stevens.

LAS VEGAS SERIAL KILLER

(Sinister, 1985) D/S/C/E: "Wolfgang Schmidt"/ Ray Dennis Steckler P: Katharine Steckler

Killer Jonathan Glick (the 50-something Pierre Agostino) is paroled and stars killing again. Meanwhile, some crooks walk around. It's narrated by a reporter, but this awful movie still makes no sense and has no ending. Parades, a rodeo, signs, models posing—anything is thrown in to fill up the time. There's the silicone body of Miss World Burlesque, porno star Jeannie Pepper as a model, and a Smurf doll. It's sort of a sequel to The Hollywood Strangler Meets the Skid Row Slasher, also with Agostino. Steckler also directed many hard-X films (Teenage Hustler, Las Vegas Erotica, Sex Rink) using fake credits, and opened video stores in Vegas.

LAS VEGAS WEEKEND

(1985) D/S/P: Dale Trevillion

This is a comedy about a computer nerd (Barry Hickey) winning in Vegas and getting the girl. Cult director Ray Dennis Steckler is in the cast. The director made One Man Force.

LATE FOR DINNER

(SVS, 1991) D/P: W. D. Richter
S: Mark Andrus P: Dan Lupovitz

Two friends on the lam (Brian Wimmer and Peter Berg) are put into a deep freeze by a doctor in 1962. When they wake up in LA in 1991, Wimmer has to deal with his older, remarried wife and grown-up daughter. With Marcia Gay Harden, Colleen Flynn, and Peter Gallagher. This little-seen PG fantasy was Richter's first film after Buckaroo Banzai.

THE LATE NANCY IRVING

(1984) D: Peter Sasdy S: David Fisher UK

Christina Raines is a diabetic golf pro in England who has a rare blood type. Marius Goring is a wealthy sadist with pet scorpions who needs her blood to stay alive, so he has her death faked. This Hammer TV movie copies Coma.

THE LATHE OF HEAVEN

(1980) D/P: David R. Loxton, Fred Barzyk
S: Roger E. Swaybill, Diane English

Bruce Davison stars as George Orr, who lives in Portland, Oregon, in the near future. His dreams affect the weather and the past, present, and future. He nearly ODs from drugs and is sent to a psychiatrist (Kevin Conway) who drugs him and uses him in an attempt to control overpopulation. As a result, millions die from a plague, racial problems get worse, everybody turns gray, and turtle-like aliens arrive. Margaret Avery costars as a lawyer. Filmed in Dallas using real futuristic-looking buildings, this highly praised PBS-TV production is based on Ursula K. Le Guin's novel. It's been much requested on video.

LATIN QUARTER

(Sinister, 1945) D/S: Vernon Sewell
P/A: Derrick De Marney UK (Frenzy)

A Paris artist kills his wife and covers her in plaster. During a séance the killer is revealed. Derrick De Marney stars, with Joan Greenwood, Frederick Valk, and Valentine Dyall. So that's where the idea for A Bucket of Blood came from.

LAUGH, CLOWN, LAUGH

(Fright, 1928) D: Herbert Brenon S: Elizabeth Meehan P: Irving G. Thalberg

Tito (Lon Chaney) and Simon (Bernard Siegel) are Italian clowns who take in an abandoned girl named Simonetta. As she grows up (played by Loretta Young, who was 15 at the time), the clowns become big stars as Flik (lovesick and miserable) and Flok (now just a straight man). The plot, involving a count (Nils Asther) who suffers from "spells of uncontrollable laughter," is pretty contrived. It's an adaptation of a play by David Belasco and Tom Cushing, based on an Italian play (John Barrymore had starred in the Broadway version). Parts are remarkably similar to The Man Who Laughs (both are basically tragic stories of unrequited love). The attraction, of course, is Chaney, who does an incredible death-defying slide over an opera-house audience on a wire—on his head (!)—and has an unforgettable death scene. This rare MGM release was shot by James Wong Howe and has a musical score. The video I saw was taped from a theater screen.

THE LAUGHING DEAD

(1989) D/S/M/A: "S. P. Somtow"/Somtow Sucharitkul P: Lex Nakashima

The first directing effort of Somtow, a novelist from Thailand, is a wild tale, shot on location, of present-day Maya Indian sacrifice. This low-budget film has excellent music and cinematography, and an interesting plot. A busload of tourists from Tucson, Arizona, go to Oaxaca, Mexico, to see "the Festival of the Dead." Tim Sullivan, (a writer who was also the associate producer) plays the troubled Father O'Sullivan of the Sacred Heart Catholic Church, the guide for the trip. Also along are his secret lover (an ex-nun) and their son ("It's all your fuckin' fault, preacher dude!"), a New Age couple complete with crystals, an Oriental girl escaping from her brutal father, a hippie bus driver, and a jerk in a yellow suit who tells dirty jokes. Dr. Um Tzeck (Somtow), a professor with a computer who plays classical music, leads the Maya in their pagan sacrifices. Hearts are cut out, heads chopped off or crushed, and a ripped-off arm is shoved down somebody's throat. There's a cave of zombies and shocking dreams, and some characters turn into big, reptilian monsters. Some of the FX (by busy John Buechler and his crew) are shocking and well done, while a few are shown too long or are unconvincing. I was disappointed when Somtow switched to all-out comedy, after a great, serious buildup, but I'm sure others will love it that way. I didn't recognize him, but Forry Ackerman plays a corpse. This has only been released overseas.

THE LAUGHING, LEERING LURES OF DAVID FRIEDMAN

(SW, 1992)

This is a compilation of 18 trailers (most in color) for 60s and 70s adults-only films from "America's fearless young showman." Some are very funny, filled with puns, in-jokes and purposely overdone hard-sell. The Lustful Turk is a pretty hilarious "making of" short (a few of the trailers are nearly 10 minutes long). Most have lots of nudity, and some have spanking, whipping, rape, some near-X sex, and even a bit of hard-core. Marsha Jordan is featured in several, and Rene Bond, Kathy Williams, and Uschi Digart also appear. Some other titles are Brick Doll House, Space Thing, Brand of Shame, The Adult Version of Jekyll and Hyde, and Ramrodder.

L.A. VICE

(PM, 1989) D/P: Joseph Merhi S: Charles T. Kanganis P: Richard Pepin

Detective Jon Chance (Lawrence Hilton-Jacobs) and his American Indian partner are on a kidnapping case. William Smith is the retired captain who helps them. This is a sequel to L.A. Heat.

THE LAWLESS LAND

(MGM, 1988) D: Jon Hess S/P: Tony Cinciripini, Larry Leahy

Nick Corri and Amanda Peterson are pursued by a gang led by "Road Kill" (Leon Berkeley) in the near future. This Mad Max copy from Concorde was filmed in Chile. Hess also made Watchers.

THE LAWLESS RIDER

(1952) D: Yakima Canutt S: Edward D. Wood Jr.

Just before Ed Wood made his directorial debut with Glen or Glenda, he scripted this obscure western. The famous stuntman Yakima Canutt directed it, and it stars Johnny Carpenter (also a stuntman), with Frankie Darro, Douglas Dumbrille, Noel Neill, and Kenne Duncan. The 62-minute feature was released by UA in 1954. Duncan and Carpenter were later in Wood's Night of the Ghouls.

THE LAWNMOWER MAN

(New Line, 1992) D/S: Brett Leonard
S/P: Gimel Everett

Jeff Fahey stars as a grown man with the mind of a child (and a bad blond wig). Scientist Pierce Brosnan experiments on him, and he becomes an unstoppable madman who ODs from virtual reality, sees God, and faces evil military men. The plot is Charly mixed with Brain Waves, Tron, and Man with the X-Ray Eyes. The computer animation includes a (brief) sex scene. With Jenny Wright, Geoffrey Lewis, and Jeremy Slate as a priest. It's available in an R or an unrated "director's cut" with 32 (!) minutes of extra footage. (At least we didn't get a director's cut of Leonard's The Dead Pit.) Milton Subotsky is credited as the coproducer. He owned the film rights to Stephen King's short story "Nightshift." King successfully sued to have his name removed from this mediocre movie, and New Line was found to be in contempt of court in 1994 for leaving his name on the video. Lawnmower Man II followed.

LAW OF THE JUNGLE
(Sinister, 1942) D: Jean Yarborough
S: George Brickner P: Lindsay Parsons

An explorer (John "Dusty" King) and a singer (Arline Judge) on a jungle island encounter Nazis who are after a scientist. Mantan Moreland, Arthur O'Connell, and C. Montague Shaw are also in this 61-minute Monogram release.

LAW OF THE LAWLESS
(1964) D: William F. Claxton
S: Steve Fisher P: A. C. Lyles

Dale Robertson stars in this color Paramount western as a circuit-riding judge who arrives in a Kansas town to try a killer (John Agar). William Bendix is the sheriff, and Yvonne De Carlo is a dance-hall girl. Also with Bruce Cabot, Barton MacLaine, Richard Arlen, Kent Taylor, Lon Chaney Jr., Don Barry, Jody McCrea, and Rod Lauren.

LAWS OF GRAVITY
(Triboro, 1991) D/S: Nick Gomez P: Bob Gorse

Peter Greene (Judgment Night) stars in this very-low-budget Mean Streets type of story, concerning small-time thieves and stolen guns. It was filmed in Brooklyn. The soundtrack uses rap music.

THE LEATHER BOYS
(1963) D: Sidney J. Furie S: Gillian Freeman P: Raymond Stross UK

Mechanic Reggie (Colin Campbell) is married to Dot (Rita Tushingham), but he finds himself drawn into a relationship with another motorcycle racer (Dudley Sutton). The now tame gay theme of this movie made it controversial when it was released. All of the main characters race to Edinburgh. Furie also directed an American film about motorcycle racing, Little Fauss and Big Halsy (1970).

LEATHERFACE: THE TEXAS CHAINSAW MASSACRE 3
(RCA/Columbia, 1990) D: Jeff Burr
S: David J. Schow P: Robert Engleman

After Cannon made the first sequel, New Line took over the Chainsaw characters for a series. They blew it by firing Burr and cutting the movie drastically for an R rating. New scenes and a new ending were even filmed by second-unit directors. This second "sequel" ignores the first one and pretty much recycles the script of the original movie. Leatherface and a new cannibal clan with seven members (including a little blond girl killer) attack a vacationing couple. Kate Hodge (star of the She Wolf of London TV series) is the screaming main victim. A seemingly indestructible survivalist (Ken Foree) comes to the rescue. Viggo Mortensen is Tex. The uncut version was shown in other countries and later made it to bootleg tapes in the U.S.A. Return of the Texas Chainsaw Massacre was next.

LEATHER JACKETS
(Epic, 1990) D/S: Lee Drysdale P: Cassian Elwes

Cary Elwes, Bridget Fonda, D. B. Sweeney, and Christopher Penn hit the road after a botched, violent attempt to rip off a Vietnamese gang. This very downbeat action movie went directly to video after two years on the shelf, and critics hated it. It has a great cast of teen stars, and Fonda is especially good. Also in the cast are Craig Ng, James LeGros, Marshall Bell, and porno stars Ginger Lynn and Viper.

THE LEFT SIDE OF MY BRAIN
(1992) D/S/E/A: Jonathan Morrill D/S: Gary Wortzel

The ambitious 90-minute film, told mostly in flashbacks, was taped and filmed, in color and b/w, in NYC and Boston. It spans 16 years in the life of Raymond Salzberg, a naive would-be artist from New Jersey who eventually makes it. It has good locations and period changes and was obviously made by people who know the art scene. There's a flashback nightmare, a Twilight Zone type of structure (beginning = ending), original rock music, and a live appearance by the Smithereens. Morrill also made the less coherent Bride of Johnny in Monsterland.

LEGACY OF HORROR = LEGACY OF BLOOD

LEGACY OF SATAN
(Abacus, 1973) D/S/P/E: Gerard Damiano
P: Lou Parrish

Here's a forgotten 70s movie, and it should stay that way. An evil doctor and his blood-drinking followers worship "Lord Rakish." They lure people to a costume party where some are killed (and everyone talks a lot) and a woman (Lisa Christian) becomes the new "queen." The master says things like "You pitiful worm under my feet!" and mutates at the end. This slow movie has an irritating, buzzing synthesizer score that sounds like ELP outtakes. Damiano is better known for his many porno movies, including The Devil in Miss Jones.

LEGAL TENDER
(Prism, 1990) D: Jag Mundhra S: Barry Roberts P: Ashok Amritraj

Robert Davi stars as a motorcycle-riding private eye. Blond Tanya Roberts owns a bar and poker joint. Morton Downey Jr. (!) is a Texas S&L executive and coke dealer who takes bubble baths with his women (including porno star Savannah) and kills a man with a meat cleaver. It's another "erotic thriller," and this time Roberts used a body double for the nude scenes. Wendy McDonald is also in this movie, which is from the director of Night Eyes.

THE LEGEND: See JAMES DEAN

LEGEND
(MCA, 1985) D: Ridley Scott S: William Hjortsberg
P: Arnon Milchan, Tim Hampton UK

Tom Cruise and Mia Sara (aka Sara Pocciello) star in this PG fantasy for kids with elves and unicorns. Tim Curry is impressive as the demon Darkness. Billy Barty is also in the cast. It's pretty disappointing after Scott's Blade Runner, but the Rob Bottin makeup FX are good. Jerry Goldsmith's score was replaced by Tangerine Dream's for the 89-minute American release. The original, uncut 120-minute version is on video in Germany (dubbed).

THE LEGEND OF BLOOD CASTLE
(VSOM, 1972) D/S: Jorge Grau S: Juan Tebor
P: José María González Sinde Spain/Italy
(Ceremonia Sangrienta; Blood Castle; Female Butcher)

A version of the Countess Elizabeth Báthory vampire legend set in Central Europe in 1857, this movie has many interesting images, torture scenes, real bats, and good makeup FX. It's much better than the Hammer versions. Bread is baked with blood, a corpse is put on trial, and a naked virgin boy is sent on a white horse to locate the tomb of a vampire. Elizabeth (Lucia Bose) bathes in blood, her living-dead husband, Karl (Esperanto Santoni), helps, and Ewa Aulin (Candy) is Marina, the star victim. Grau also made Don't Open the Window/The Living Dead at Manchester Morgue.

LEGEND OF DOLEMITE
(Xenon, 1994) D: Foster Gordon
S: Duane Ladage S/P: Leigh Savidge

A lot of this tape is comedian Rudy Ray Moore in a then-recent club appearance, but he's also seen on the Arsenio Hall show and talks about his party albums and his two Dolemite movies. Film clips (not always the best ones) are used. There are

CHRISTOPHER LEE

After years as a character actor in British films, Lee became a major international horror star after playing Dracula, the Frankenstein Monster, and the Mummy for Hammer studios in the late 50s. Throughout the 60s, horror fans looked forward to seeing just about anything he was in. After a few big money features (like The Man with the Golden Gun and Airport '77), Lee stopped doing horror movies but still acted a lot and did voices for some animated features. After the deaths of John Carradine, Vincent Price, and Lee's frequent costar Peter Cushing (who retired in 1986), he was the only well-known living horror star, and the tall, dark, and gruesome actor became a frequent narrator and spokesman for anything about horror. His appearances are still always welcome.

interviews with Lady Reed and LaWanda Page and appearances by Ice-T and Mike D. from the Beastie Boys.

THE LEGEND OF FRENCHIE KING

(1971) D: Christian-Jaque D/S: Guy Casaril S: Daniel Boulanger, Marie-Ange Anies P: Raymond Erger Italy/France/Spain/UK (Le Pistolere; Les Pétroleuses; Petroleum Girls)

Brigitte Bardot and Claudia Cardinale are rival gang leaders in this almost all-female western/comedy set in the French settlement of Bougival Junction, New Mexico. Bardot had been in a similar western, Viva Maria! (1965). This was among her last films. Also in the cast are the mugging Michael J. Pollard as the sheriff, Emma Cohen, Patty Shepard and Teresa Gimpera as Frenchie's sisters, and Micheline Presle. K-Tel released it in America. It was shot in Spain.

THE LEGEND OF HILLBILLY JOHN

(R&G, 1973) D: John Newland S: Melvin Levy P: Barney Rosenzweig (Who Fears the Devil; My Name Is John)

Hedges Capers stars as a young, wandering Appalachian ballad singer who encounters an ugly, animated bird creature (FX by Gene Warren) and goes back in time. This odd, G-rated fantasy about the Devil's work was filmed in North Carolina. Narrator Severn Darden looks into the camera, and when a character dies the film breaks. Denver Pyle, who plays the grandfather, talks/sings the theme, written by Hoyt Axton. Also with Sharon Henesy as the pretty girlfriend, Susan Strasberg as an old witch, Harris Yulin as an undertaker, R. G. Armstrong, Alfred Ryder, and Val Avery. Jack Harris released this film, directed by the host of the TV series One Step Beyond.

THE LEGEND OF LYLAH CLARE

(1968) D/P: Robert Aldrich S: Hugo Butler, Jean Rouvel

Kim Novak is an unknown actress (with vertigo) hired to play Lylah Clare, a famous actress. She seems to become possessed by the star, who died mysteriously on her wedding night, and the director (Peter Finch), who was married to Lylah, falls for her. Rosella Falk (Modesty Blaise) is a drug-addict and lesbian. Coral Browne is a famous gossip columnist. With Ernest Borgnine, Valentina Cortese, Lee Meriwether, Michael Murphy, and Ellen Corby. You won't believe how this long (130-minute) MGM movie ends. It's based on a TV play by Robert Thom. The Blonde (1980) is an uncredited porno remake starring Annette Haven.

THE LEGEND OF NIGGER CHARLEY

(1972) D: Martin Goldman S/P: Larry Spangler

Just after the release of Buck and the Preacher, Fred Williamson starred in this similar western set in the 1850s. He escapes from a Virginia plantation with D'Urville Martin and Don Pedro Colley after killing sadistic overseer John P. Ryan. A bounty hunter goes after them as they head west. With Tricia O'Neil as a half-Indian woman, Gertrude Jeanette, and Marcia McBroom. The theme song is by Lloyd Price. The Soul of Nigger Charley (1973) followed.

THE LEGEND OF SLEEPY HOLLOW

(Starmaker, 1979) D: Henning Schellerup S: Malvin Wald, Jack Jacobs, Tom Chapman P: James L. Conway

The Sunn Classics people made this adaptation of Washington Irving's famous story about the 17th-century headless horseman. It debuted on Halloween on NBC-TV and was aimed at kids. Jeff Goldblum stars as the Hudson Valley schoolmaster Ichabod Crane, with Dick Butkus, Meg Foster, and Paul Sand. It was filmed in Utah.

LEGEND OF THE SEA WOLF

(Simitar, 1975) D: Giuseppe Vari P: Joseph Green Italy (Wolf Larsen)

Chuck Connors stars as the sadistic sea captain, in another version of Jack London's novel The Sea Wolf. The cast also includes Barbara Bach as a shipwrecked woman, Ivan Rassimov, Alan Collins, and Rick Battaglia.

THE LEGEND OF WOLF MOUNTAIN

(Hemdale, 1991) D/S: Craig Clyde S: James Hennessy P: Bryce Fillmore

Nicole Lund and two other kids in Utah are kidnapped by escaped prisoners (Robert Z'Dar and David Shark), in this PG adventure movie. Bo Hopkins and Mickey Rooney are forest rangers. A legendary Indian warrior (Don Shanks) helps with the rescue mission and becomes a wolf in a dream sequence. Vivian Schilling is the older sister.

LEGENDS

(Fox Lorber, 1994) D: Ilana Bar-Din

This excellent, all true 54-minute documentary is about the Las Vegas Legends in Concert show, featuring impersonators of Marilyn Monroe, Elvis Presley, and Judy Garland. Elvis (who goes on and on about his fans) and Marilyn fall in love, defect, and start their own show. Judy (who sounds very insane) eventually dies of cancer. The show's egotistical manager is seen rehearsing his new attraction, a Sammy Davis Jr. clone.

LENA'S HOLIDAY

(Prism, 1991) D: Michael Keusch S: Deborah Tilton P: Marilyn Jacons Tenser

Felicity Waterman stars as a blond East German tourist in LA who's obsessed with James Dean. Her bags are switched with those of a murder victim. This comedy takes place around the time the Berlin Wall fell. The cast, better than usual for Crown International, includes Chris Lemmon, Nick Mancuso, Michael Sarrazin, Pat Morita, Bill Dana, Susan Anton, and Liz Torres.

LENINGRAD COWBOYS GO AMERICA

(Orion, 1990) D/S/P: Aki Kaurismaki P: Klas Olofsson, Katinka Farago Finland

A Finnish rock group with exaggerated pomps are considered bad in their homeland, so they go to America. After stopping in NYC they go on a tour of small towns and play at a Mexican wedding. The cast includes Nicky Tesco, Duke Robillard, and director Jim Jarmusch as a car dealer. This PG-13 comedy was backed by the Swedish Film Institute. The Cowboys returned in other features.

LEONARD PART 6

(RCA, 1987) D: Paul Weiland S: Jonathan Reynolds P/A: Bill Cosby

Even though Bill Cosby was starring in the top TV series at the time, this PG movie was a box-office flop. He plays a multimillionaire former secret agent trying to catch Medusa (Gloria Foster), who plans to make the animals of the world kill off the humans. There's a scene in which Leonard rides an ostrich and stops an attack by lobsters. Tom Courtenay is his butler, who narrates the story, and Joe Don Baker is a CIA man. Also with Moses Gunn, Grace Zabriskie, and Jane Fonda (as herself, doing aerobics). Cosby (who received a story credit) urged people not to see this, then followed it with the flop Ghost Dad.

LEOPARD IN THE SNOW

(1978) D: Gerry O'Hara S: Anne Mather, Jill Hyem P: John Quested Canada/UK

This PG release from Roger Corman's New World was a Harlequin Romance production. A woman (Susan Penhaligon) has to abandon her car in a town called Cumberland Falls, in northern England, and meets a strange man (Keir Dullea) who lives in a remote house and has a leopard. With Billie Whitelaw, Jeremy Kemp, and Kenneth More.

LEPKE

(1975) D/P: Menahem Golan S: Wesley Thau, Tamar Hoffs US/Israel

Tony Curtis is Louis "Lepke" Buchalter, head of "Murder Inc.," in this Godfather-inspired gangster epic set in the 30s and 40s. Anjanette Comer and Michael Callan costar. Vic Tayback is Lucky Luciano, and former JFK impersonator Vaughn Meader is Walter Winchell. Also with Warren Berlinger, Milton Berle, and Mary Wilcox. Cannon founder Golan had already directed more than a dozen features. Future director Andrew Davis was the cinematographer. Warner released it.

LEPRECHAUN

(Vidmark, 1992) D/S: Mark Jones P: Jeffrey B. Mallian

Warwick Davis (Willow) is a killer leprechaun with red hair and a green suit. He's after the American who stole his pot of gold, and he torments a man and his daughter (Jennifer Aniston of Friends) who have just moved into the house he was imprisoned in. Ken Olandt, Robert Gorman, and Mark Holton are painters who become involved. The makeup is good, but the mixture of gags, fantasy, horror, and gore is an uneasy one. This Trimark release was a surprise money-maker in theaters.

LEPRECHAUN 2

(Vidmark, 1994) D: Rodman Flender S: Turi Meyer, Al Septien P: Donald Borchers

After a prelude in ancient Ireland, the talkative leprechaun (Warwick Davis) arrives in modern-day LA. He kidnaps a blonde teen (Shevonne Durkin), brings her to his maze of caves, and informs her that she'll be "bearing my wee ones soon." Meanwhile, characters die by fan and espresso machine. Charlie Heath is the nice-guy boyfriend who hosts a Hollywood death tour for his alcoholic uncle (Sandy Baron). With Clint Howard and Kimmy Robertson. There are lots of dwarfs in a scene that parodies Freaks. The FX are by Gabe Z. Bartolos (Frankenhooker). In England this movie is called One Wedding and Lots of Funerals (!).

LES PATTERSON SAVES THE WORLD

(Southgate, 1987) D: George Miller S: Barry Humphries, Diane Millstead Australia

Barry Humphries (aka Dame Edna Everidge) stars as the ambassador to a fictional Middle Eastern kingdom. A colonel is planning to infect the world with a deadly virus (called H.E.L.P.). Victims ooze pus. Joan Rivers plays the US president. The music is by Tim Finn. This offensive, lowbrow comedy is not by the same George Miller who directed Mad Max.

LETHAL GAMES

(AIP, 1991) D: John Bowen S: Danny King P: Joseph R. Donato, Ron Lavery

Frank Stallone helps a small community fight a gang hired by the mob. With Brenda Vaccaro, Heidi Paine, and Karen Russell.

LETHAL WEAPON

(Warner, 1987) D/S: Richard Donner S: Shane Black P: Joel Silver

The "lethal weapon" is Martin Riggs (Mel Gibson), a deranged, suicidal cop whose wife has been killed. He's teamed with his Nam-vet friend Danny Glover, whose daughter is kidnapped by Nam-vet villains. The military-style bad guys are led by blond Gary Busey as a psycho hitman/drug dealer and Mitchell Ryan. Gibson has a pro-pot-legalization scene. With Tom Atkins, Darlene Love (a singer on many classic 60s records that Phil Spector produced), Cheryl Baker, Renee Estevez, Traci Wolfe, Al Leong, Don Gordon, Damon Hines, and Jackie Swanson and Terri Lynn Doss in a shower. The soundtrack (on Warner) is by Michael Kamen (once leader of the New York Rock and Roll Ensemble) and features Eric Clapton. This was only a modest hit, but sequels added more comedy and were much more successful at the box office.

LETHAL WEAPON 2

(Warner, 1989) D/P: Richard Donner S: Jeffrey Boam P: Joel Silver

Gibson and Glover return, and this time they're after racist South African villains, led by Joss Ackland, who are laundering money and dealing drugs. Joe Pesci, as an accountant who needs witness protection, steals scenes. There's more comedy with the violent action this time. Gibson even does Three Stooges imitations. With Patsy Kensit, Darlene Love, Traci Wolfe, and Buck Flower. I saw this in a big, old theater in São Paulo, Brazil, with Portuguese subtitles. They kept the sound low, so it was kind of hard to hear. The Michael Kamen soundtrack (on Warner) features Eric Clapton, George Harrison, and Bob Dylan's "Knockin' on Heaven's Door."

LETHAL WEAPON 3

(Warner, 1992) D/P: Richard Donner S: Jeffrey Boam, Robert Mark Kamen P: Joel Silver

Mel Gibson, Danny Glover, and Joe Pesci return again. Model Rene Russo (Freejack) is an internal-affairs cop who's a kickboxer. The plot's about a psychotic ex-cop (Stuart Wilson) running a gun racket, but the slapstick gags take over the movie. The old Orlando, Florida, city hall building was blown up. Also in the cast are Darlene Love and Damon Hines. The soundtrack (on Warner) is by Michael Kamen, with contributions from Eric Clapton, David Sanborn, and Sting, who warbles the title song. It's rare for the same director to make so many movies in a major series and even rarer for each to make more money than the previous entry.

LETHAL WOMAN

(Vid America, 1988) D: Christian Marnham S: Michael Olson, Gabe Ellis P: John Kaire S. Africa (The Most Dangerous Woman Alive)

In a flashback, a soldier (Merete Van Kamp) in Florida is the victim of an army coverup after she's raped by a colonel. Later, rapists are lured to a fantasy island for an "erotic vacation," as women wait to take revenge with their crossbows. After a big feast the men are let loose in the woods, and it's Most Dangerous Game time again. Topless women writhe by a fire, a man's head is displayed on a pole, and more heads hang in a room. Shannon Tweed costars. There are nude scenes, lots of flashbacks, a midget, and some laughable dialogue.

LET IT BE

(Magnetic, 1970) D: Michael Lindsay-Hogg P: Neil Aspinal

See the world's most famous pop group self-destructing. The Beatles rehearse songs, record at the Apple studios, then play a concert on the Apple rooftop (1/30/69). It was the last time the group played in public (surprising passersby on the street below). Yoko Ono and Billy Preston also appear. UA released this 16mm film. By the time the album came out (more than 15 months later) it had been reworked by Phil Spector, and the Beatles were history. Skip this and watch The Rutles: All You Need Is Cash (Pacific Arts, 1978).

LET IT ROCK

(Media, 1981) D/S/P: Roland Klick W. Germany (White Star)

After directing Out of the Blue, Dennis Hopper went to Germany to play a hyper American rock agent who talks a lot about "the colonel" and Brian Epstein. If you like manic Hopper, he's here nonstop, probably ad-libbing most of the time. He tries to promote a guy who plays some kind of techno-pop, giving him the name "White Star," to a punk audience ("This is the future. What do you know about music, punks?"). He hires David Hess (!) to break store windows and start a riot for publicity purposes, and plans an assassination attempt that results in the death of an innocent girl. White Star does not become a major act. Roger Corman retitled the movie for its US release and added footage of T.S.O.L. from Suburbia. Klick also made Deadlock (1970), with music by Can.

LET'S DO IT! (1982): See DOING IT

LET'S DO IT

(Best, 1984) D/S/P/E: Bert I. Gordon

One of Mr. BIG's worst is a comedy starring Greg Bradford as Freddie, a blond Hollywood virgin with a serious mother complex. No woman can seem to seduce him. A scene with giant breasts is similar to the one in Bert's earlier Village of the Giants. Freddie has a dream of naked women on a trampoline, and his girlfriend has a dream that's actual footage from the original King Kong (what, no lawsuits?!). With Betsy Russell (Private School) and (I think) Brinke Stevens. Gordon also made two other sex comedies, How to Succeed with Sex (1970) and The Big Bet (1986).

LET'S GET HARRY

(1986) D: "Alan Smithee"/Stuart Rosenberg S: Charles Robert Carner, Samuel Fuller P: Daniel H. Blatt (The Rescue)

A soldier of fortune named Smilin' Jack (Gary Busey) is hired to help rescue a pipeline worker (Mark Harmon) and an ambassador kidnapped by South American drug dealers. With Glenn Frey, Robert Duvall, Rick Rossovich, Ben Johnson, Matt Clark, Gregory Sierra, and David Hess. The director had his name removed and it was barely released.

LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL

(1973) D/S: Robert J. Abel, Sidney Levin P: Gerald I. Isenberg

Highlights from 1972 "oldies" stage shows, presented by Richard Nader, make up most of this concert film. The artists are Fats Domino, Little Richard, Bo Diddley, Chuck Berry, Bill Haley and the Comets, the Shirelles, and Chubby Checker. If the classic songs the stars do here were oldies in 1973, what are they now!? There are also choice clips from 50s TV shows, newsreels, and films.

LEVIATHAN

(MGM, 1989) D: George Pan Cosmatos S: David Peoples, Jeb Stuart P: Luigi De Laurentiis

At an underwater mining camp, infected vodka from a Russian submarine turns Daniel Stern into a fish monster. Peter Weller stars with Amanda Pays (in the Sigourney Weaver Alien role), Richard Crenna, Ernie Hudson, Lisa Eilbacher, Hector Elizondo, Michael Carmine, and Meg Foster. It was shot in Rome. Ron Cobb was the production designer for this film (and Alien). Jerry Goldsmith wrote the score for this film (and Alien). Stan Winston did the FX for this film (and Aliens). Hmmm.

LIANE, THE JUNGLE GODDESS

(SW, 1956) D: Edward von Borsody
S: Ernst von Salomon P: Helmut Volmer
W. Germany (Liane, die Weiss Sklavin)

This sex-tease jungle-woman movie (in wonderful Pathé color) was released in America by DCA. Marion Michaels plays a beautiful, blond jungle girl living in an African tree house who saves a photographer (Hardy Kruger) from a native attack. In the early scenes Liane is topless and carefree (although she has red lipstick and mascara). Eventually her long hair is cut by a jealous lady doctor and she's kidnapped. Tonga, a faithful native warrior, and Simba the lion join her in Germany, where she wears sexy nightgowns and a bikini. Liane is called "you little Devil," "little savage," "little brat," and "pretty little bubblehead" by various characters. Reggie Nalder (Salem's Lot) is the evil Mr. Goering, a Hamburg shipbuilder who's after her inheritance. There's plenty of National Geographic–style topless native footage and out-of-place jazzy big-band music. Liane is exploitative, silly, and insulting, but very entertaining. A sequel was called Nature Girl and the Slavers in America.

LIARS' CLUB

(New Horizons, 1993) D: Jeffrey Porter
S: Jeff Yonis P: Mike Elliot

Although it shamelessly copies major parts of River's Edge, this is a very good movie that stands on its own. A high school girl is raped at a party by a football jock (Brian Krause). A big, blond guy called Jimbo (Michael Cudlitz) accidentally kills her while trying to shut her up and save his friend's future, which leads to a coverup by the other kids. Wil Wheaton stars as the nice-guy mechanic who reluctantly gets involved. There is no Dennis Hopper character, but there's a pot-selling little kid named Buzzard. With Soleil Moon Frye and Bruce Weitz.

LIAR'S EDGE

(New Line, 1993) D: Ron Oliver
P: Ray Sagar, Llana Frank Canada

Shannon Tweed (who leaves her clothes on) is a divorced mother in a mobile home on the Canadian side of Niagara Falls with a teen kid (Nick Shields). Her new husband (David Keith) brings home his deranged brother (Joseph Bottoms) to live with them, and murder results. Christopher Plummer is Detective Weldon. It debuted on Showtime.

LIAR'S MOON

(Vestron, 1982) D/S: David Fisher P: Don P. Behrns

A poor kid (Matt Dillon) elopes with a banker's daughter (Cindy Fisher). With Susan Tyrrell, Hoyt Axton, Yvonne De Carlo, and Broderick Crawford. This PG-rated Crown International film was released with alternate endings in which the girl either dies from an abortion or survives.

LIBERTY AND BASH

(Fries, 1990) D: Myrl A. Schreibman
S: Tina Plakinger P: Doug Forsythe

The people who made this comedy must have figured that Tango and Cash was going to be a big hit. It's about two muscular Nam vets (Miles O'Keeffe and Lou Ferrigno) who battle drug dealers in Miami. With Mitzi Kapture, Gary Conway, and Charles Dierkop. It's from the director of Angel of HEAT.

LICENSE TO KILL

(Sinister, 1964) D: Henri Decoin S: Jean Marcillac, André Haguet, André Legrand
France/Italy (Nick Carter Va Tout Casser)

Whether Eddie Constantine is playing Lemmy Caution, Nick Carter, or just Eddie, he's pretty much the same. He's cool, he's comical, and he kicks ass. Here, as Nick Carter, he battles Asian spies who are after a secret weapon. Daphne Dayle costars.

LICENSE TO KILL

(MGM/UA, 1989) D: John Glen S: Richard Maibaum
P: Albert C. Broccoli, Michael G. Wilson

After The Living Daylights, Timothy Dalton was James Bond for the second and last time. This is one of the most violent of the series. Carey Lowell costars, with Robert Davi as a South American drug dealer who cuts hearts out, Talisa Soto as Davi's woman, Anthony Zerbe, Don Stroud, Priscilla Barnes, Everett McGill, Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa, Diane Lee-Hsu, and Wayne Newton as Professor Joe Butcher. David Hedison is back as Felix, and a very old-looking Desmond Llewelyn is Q again. Gladys Knight sings the title song. It was to be called Licence Revoked, but United Artists decided that Americans wouldn't understand that. The score is by Michael Kamen. It's 133 minutes and rated PG-13.

THE LICKERISH QUARTET

(Magnum, 1970) D/P: Radley Metzger
S: Michael De Forrest US/Italy/W. Germany
(Erotic Illusions; Erotic Instinct)

I saw this stylish, pretentious, X-rated fantasy at the Detroit in Lakewood, Ohio, when it opened, and I'll never forget it. A bored couple living in an incredible castle in Italy go to a carnival with their teen son (who has seen a vision of the Virgin Mary). They see "the girl" (blond Erika Remberg) riding a motorcycle in a wall-of-death act, decide that she's the star of a stag film they like to watch at home, and bring her back to the castle. "The girl" has sex with "the boy" on the castle grounds, with "the man" in his erotic library, and with "the woman" while they watch, and then magically appear in, the stag film (which takes place during WWII). Frank Wolff (a 50s Corman actor) is "the man." This movie is sort of like an Outer Limits epsiode with sex and nudity. Metzger made Little Mother (1972) next.

LIEBESTRAUM

(MGM, 1991) D/S/M: Mike Figgis P: Eric Fellner

Kevin Anderson stars as an architect. Bill Pullman is his college friend, married to Pam Gidley. Their love triangle mirrors a double murder that occurred 40 years earlier in a creepy, condemned building. Characters have dream sequences. Also in the cast are Kim Novak (on her deathbed, throughout the movie), Catherine Hicks, and Taina Elg. The title theme is performed by Earl Bostic. The film is available in R or unrated versions with 7 extra minutes of sex.

LIES

(Key, 1983) D/S/P: Ken Wheat, Jim Wheat P: Shelley Hermann

Ann Dusenberry is an out-of-work actress hired to play the lead in a movie being filmed in a mental hospital. Gail Strickland and Clu Gulager are behind the project, actually a scam to cheat an heiress out of her money. The actress ends up being prepared for electroshock treatments. The cast also includes Bruce Davison, Terence Knox, Bert Remsen, and Dick Miller.

LIES OF THE TWINS

(MCA, 1991) D: Tim Hunter S: Mel Frohman, Walter Klenhard P: Tim Zinnemann

A model (Isabella Rossellini) becomes involved with her therapist (Aidan Quinn). She thinks she sees him with another woman, but he has an evil twin, also a psychiatrist. The film is based on a novel by Joyce Carol Oates and was made for the USA Network. With Iman, Claudia Christian, Hurd Hatfield, and Richard Harrison.

LIFEBOAT

(Fox, 1943) D: Alfred Hitchcock S: Jo Swerling P: Kenneth MacGowan

This technically innovative film takes place in a lifeboat containing nine people, after a freighter is sunk by a German submarine during World War II. They argue, fall in love, and starve while sharks circle. It was an effective WWII-time experimental feature with a strong message against trusting Nazis. Tallulah Bankhead stars with William Bendix, Walter Slezak as the Nazi on board, Mary Anderson, John Hodiak, Henry Hull, Heather Angel, Hume Cronyn, and Canada Lee. The director is seen in a newspaper floating by. The film is based on a story by John Steinbeck (who also worked on the script) and was released by 20th Century–Fox. It was remade as Lifepod.

LIFEFORCE

(Vestron, 1985) D: Tobe Hooper S: Dan O'Bannon, Don Jakoby P: Golan/Globus M: Henry Mancini UK

A spaceship inside Halley's comet brings a beautiful, lifeforce-sucking zombie (Mathilda May) to London. This is similar to the Professor Quatermass movie Five Million Years to Earth but more outrageous. Steve Railsback stars as a frantic American astronaut who tries to save the world from a plaugue of zombies, with Peter Firth, Frank Finlay, a pre–Star Trek Patrick Stewart, and Michael Gothard. May spends most of the movie walking around naked (unless you see it on a commercial TV station, of course). She and other alien forces make characters disintegrate and turn all of London into a hysterical shambles. It's based on Colin Wilson's novel The Space Vampires and was first planned by Dino De Laurentiis, then by Cannon, to be filmed in 3-D. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande. The Image laserdisc includes a 60-minute "making of" documentary about this and Hooper's Invaders from Mars.

THE LIFEFORCE EXPERIMENT

(1994) D: Piers Haggard S: Mike Hodges, Gerald MacDonald P: Nicholas Clermont Canada

Donald Sutherland stars as a bearded scientist in Newfoundland trying to capture human energy at the point of death. Mimi Kuzyk, as a CIA agent working undercover, tries to stop him. The cast also includes Corin Nemec. First shown on the Sci-Fi channel, it's based on a Daphne Du Maurier story and was filmed in Montreal and Nova Scotia.

LIFE IS A CIRCUS

(1958) D/S: Val Guest P: E. M. Smedley-Aston UK

Shirley Eaton stars (and sings) in this comedy/fantasy about rival circus owners. A genie (Lionel Jeffries) from a lamp uses magic to save her father's circus. With Eric Pohlman and Michael Holliday. Allied Artists released this b/w film in 1962.

LIFEPOD

(United, 1980) D/S: Bruce Bryant
S: Carol Johnson

Gold Key TV made this 2001 copy. A talking pleasure computer rebels and threatens passengers on a space flight. With Kristine DeBell, Joe Penny, and Sandy Kenyon.

LIFEPOD

(Cabin Fever, 1993) D/A: Ron Silver
S: Pen Densham S/P: M. Jay Roach

Looking at the short list of Hitchcock movies that hadn't been remade, Fox TV came up with Lifeboat (1944). In this version the survivors of a space-liner explosion in 2169 drift in a space pod. They argue, starve, suffocate, develop radiation scars, freeze, and die. Jessica Tuck is a reporter who videotapes what happens and narrates. One of them is a terrorist (it was a Nazi in the original). Ron Silver directs (he's no Hitchcock) and stars as a blind man. Also in the cast are Robert Loggia as a politician, Stan Shaw, CCH Pounder, Adam Storke, and Ed Gale as the best character, a dwarf mechanic with a cyborg arm.

LIFE RETURNS

(LSVideo, 1935) D: Eugene Frenke S: Arthur Horman, John F. Goodrich P: Lou Ostrow

This slow-moving hour-long, exploitation oddity from Universal is based on a real-life experiment conducted at the University of Southern California in 1934, in which scientists claimed that they had brought a dead dog back to life. After a lot of plot, disgraced scientist Onslow Stevens' son's dog, Scooter, is grabbed by the dogcatcher and gassed. The actual USC footage is edited in as the dog is brought back to life. With George Breakston as the son, Valerie Hobson (from Bride of Frankenstein) as the wife, Frank Reicher, and Richard Quine. One of the actual USC scientists (Robert E. Cornish) and silent-film star Lois Wilson play scientists. The director sued Universal for not releasing the film properly, and a company called Scientart Pictures rereleased it in 1938. It was banned in Great Britain.

LIFESPAN

(Vestron, 1974) D/S: Alexander Whitlaw
S: Judith Roscow, Alva Ruben M: Terry Riley
US/UK/Netherlands

Hiram Keller is a young scientist trying to unlock the secret of a formula that stops the aging process. He falls for the widow (Tina Aumont) of the man who developed it, who committed suicide. Klaus Kinski is a sinister industrialist. This slow but interesting film was shot in Amsterdam.

LIFESTYLES OF THE RAMONES

(Warner, 1990) D/P: George Seminara
P: Allen B. Goldman

12 Ramones videos are great to have on one tape, but this also features Johnny (at Yankee Stadium), Joey (in his living room), and Marky (working on a car) talking in between. Other celebs talk about the tremendous influence the Ramones have had since their first album changed the music world back in 1976. The videos prove how good, and how much fun, this band still is. My faves are "I Wanna Be Sedated" (what a song!), the mini-horror-movie "Psychotherapy" video (which was banned on MTV), their remake of "Time Has Come Today" (set in a church), and "Howling at the Moon." This tape introduces the new ex-Marine bass player, and past Ramones Tommy and Dee Dee aren't forgotten either.

THE LIFT

(Media, 1983) D/S/M: Dick Maas P: Matthijs Van Heijningen Netherlands

A repairman (Huub Stapel) teams up with a reporter (Willeke Van Ammelrooy) to investigate a killer elevator in an office building. The American ads said, "For God's sake, take the stairs!" The elevator decapitates or suffocates people. Maas followed with Amsterdamned.

THE LIGHT AT THE EDGE OF THE WORLD

(UAV, 1971) D: Kevin Billington S: Tom Rowe
P/A: Kirk Douglas Spain/Liechtenstein

Kirk Douglas stars as a lighthouse keeper, in this adaptation of a Jules Verne novel. It was filmed in Spain but is set at Cape Horn, the southern tip of Argentina, in 1865. Yul Brynner leads the vicious killer pirates who are after the lighthouse. Also in the cast are Samantha Eggar as a shipwreck victim, Fernando Rey, and Victor Israel. It was originally over 2 hours long. Douglas had also been in the more successful Verne movie 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea (1954).

LIGHT IN THE JUNGLE: THE STORY OF DR. ALBERT SCHWEITZER

(IVE, 1990) D: Grey Hofmyer S: Michel Potts
P: Ashok Amritraj (Schweitzer, Out of Darkness)

Malcolm McDowell stars as the famous humanitarian doctor in the French Congo in the late 40s. With Susan Strasberg as his wife, Andrew Davis, and John Carson. The serious PG Concorde release from executive producer Roger Corman was shot in Zimbabwe and the Ivory Coast. McDowell was usually playing psychos and madmen around the time.

LIGHTNING BOLT

(Sinister, 1965) D: "Anthony M. Dawson"/ Antonio Margheretti S: José López de la Loma
S/P: Alfonso Balcazar Italy/Spain
(Operazione Goldman)

American Anthony Eisley (with dyed red hair) narrates and stars as a spy who goes undercover in Florida as a playboy to stop the sabotage of a NASA moon project. The villain with an underground city also owns a beer factory. This very 60s-looking adventure features serial-type near-death scenes, suspended animation, lots of fights and explosions, obvious models, and blurry stock footage. With Wandissa Leigh and Diana Lorys. Woolner released it in America.

THE LIGHTNING INCIDENT

(Paramount, 1991) D: Michael Switzer
S: Michael Murray P: O. B. Weiss

The baby of a psychic Santa Fe sculptor (Nancy McKeon) living in an isolated house is kidnapped by a Hispanic cult of Devil worshippers for a sacrifice. After her husband and other people are killed with voodoo and reptiles, she goes to "the City of Lost Souls" in Central America (alone), where a blind sculptor teaches her to use her psychic power during a lightning storm. With Polly Bergen as her depressed mother, Elpidia Carrillo, Tantoo Cardinal, Tim Ryan, and Gary Clarke. This cable-TV movie, filmed in Arizona, doesn't rate high in the sense department.

LIGHTNING SWORDS OF DEATH

(VSOM, 1972) D: Kenji Misumi P: Shintaro Katsu S: Kazuo Koike, Gohseki Kojima Japan
(Baby Cart: Lend a Child, Lend an Arm)

The video poster for this one claims, "Adventures in butchery along a trail of gore!!" It's the first of a series that will be surprising to novice Western viewers. (We found the JA video version, Lupin Wolf, in our favorite Korean video store, dubbed into English.) Tomisaburo Wakayama is Ito Ogami, "the Lone Wolf," a master swordsman who roams the countryside with his baby in a specially rigged killer carriage. Mercenary samurai ambush and rape some women. When Ito arrives an honorable samurai who hated the others kills the women (they would have been too ashamed to live) and, despite asking to die, is spared by Ito. Then he protects a female slave who bit off the tongue of the man who bought her. The original owner, a female gang leader, wants her back and submits Ito to a hard-to-watch ceremonial punishment. After being hung upside down, beaten, and dunked under water, he doesn't even cry out, and she's so impressed that she hires him to help avenge her father's death. Everything ends in an amazing, large-scale battle with Ito and his child against a massive army fighting with martial arts, swords, and even guns. He, of course, also has to face the humiliated samurai he spared. It's hard to follow the strict codes and mixed allegiances, but the Lone Wolf movies are gorier than most horror movies and more complex than most martial arts movies, and they have more action than any modern cop movie. Part II, Baby Cart in the Land of Demons/Baby Cart at the River Styx (1972), by the same director, was released in America as Shogun Assassin (in 1982), with scenes from Part I added. These and the four other sequels are all available (subtitled) from Video Search. They are: Part III, Flying on the Wind of Death in a Baby Cart/Baby Cart to Hades (1972); Part IV, Heart of a Parent, Heart of a Child (1972); Part V, Tread Lightly on the Path to Hell (1973); and Part VI, Daigoro, We're Going into Hell! (1973). Comic books were translated and released in America too. (See also Lone Wolf and Child: Final Conflict.)

LIGHT OF DAY

(Vestron, 1987) D/S: Paul Schrader
P: Rob Cohen, Keith Barish

Rocker Joan Jett stars as a bar-band leader who wants to tour and get out of Cleveland. Michael J. Fox (as her brother) and Michael McKean are also in the band. The group has equipment problems and personality clashes and falls apart while staying in crummy motels. Gena Rowlands is their dying, religious mother. With Jason Miller and Del Close as a doctor. Bruce Springsteen wrote the title song. Most of this PG-13 film was shot in Chicago. CBS released the soundtrack.

THE LIGHT OF FAITH

(Sinister, 1922) D/S: Clarence Brown S: William Dudley Pelley (The Light in the Dark)

Lon Chaney stars in this 33-minute silent film, which was shown (in an edited version) to religious groups in the 30s. Hope Hampton costars, with E. K. Lincoln. The screenwriter founded a fascist organization, the Silver Shirts.

LIGHTS OUT!

(Goodtimes)

Only 2 episodes of this live NBC-TV anthology series (1949–52) are on tape. The series was based on Arch Oboler's famous radio show.

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON

(RCA, 1987) D: Rod Daniel S: Lorne Cameron, Steven L. Bloom P: Brian Grazer

In yet another of those never-too-funny 80s body-switch comedies, an Indian drug causes a heart surgeon (Dudley Moore) and his teen son (Kirk Cameron) to exchange personalities. With Catherine Hicks, Patrick O'Neal, Sean Astin, and Cami Cooper. Daniel also directed the awful Teen Wolf and K-9.

Leslie Parrish, Jerry Lewis, and Julie Newmar in Li'l Abner.

LIKE IT IS

(SW, 1968) D/S/C: William Rotsler P: Chris Warfield

This hippie mondo movie with lots of drugs and complete nudity is made up of 72 minutes of b/w and color 16mm mail-order adults-only shorts that Rotsler had made. Narration was added.

L'IL ABNER

(Viking, 1940) D: Albert S. Rogell
S: Charles Kerr, Tyler Johnson

Granville Owen is L'il Abner and Martha O'Driscoll is Daisy Mae, in this hillbilly comedy based on Al Capp's comic strip. It's not very good, but it has a very odd cast of comedians, including Buster Keaton as Lonesome Polecat, Edgar Kennedy as Cornelius Cornpone, Chester Conklin, Lucien Littlefield, Johnny Arthur, Mickey Daniels, Al "Fuzzy" St. John, and Doodles Weaver. The theme song was cowritten by Milton Berle. This RKO release was later picked up by Astor and played in small towns as late as the 50s. Columbia made five L'il Abner cartoons in 1944. Cut versions are on tape.

L'IL ABNER

(Paramount, 1959) D: Melvin Frank
S/P: Norman Panama

Dogpatch is chosen by the government for A-bomb tests, in this Technicolor version of the 1956 musical by Johnny Mercer and Gene De Paul, based on Al Capp's characters. Most of the Broadway cast are in the film, including Peter Palmer as L'il Abner, Leslie Parrish as Daisy Mae, Julie Newmar as Stupefyin' Jones, Stella Stevens as Appassionata Von Climax (Tina Louise played the role on the stage), and Stubby Kaye as Marryin' Sam. The women look great, the songs are good, and the plot is surprisingly anti-government. Mammy Yokum has visions, and Evil-Eye Fleagle puts the whammy on people. Jerry Lewis is a guest star.

LILIOM

(Sinister, 1934) D/S: Fritz Lang P: Erich Pommer M: Rudolph Maté

When Fritz Lang fled Germany in 1933, he first went to France where he made this version of Ferenc Molnár's play. The same story had been filmed in Hollywood by director Frank Borzage (1930) and was later turned into the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical Carousel (1956). Charles Boyer stars as Liliom, a carnival barker who is fired, turns to a life of crime, and kills himself to avoid capture by the police. He stands trial in Heaven, where his misdeeds are shown to him repeatedly (on film). After 16 years in Purgatory he's allowed to return to Earth to do a good deed, and he meets his grown-up daughter. The film is in French. It was originally 2 hours long, but the video available in the US is 85 minutes. Lang, producer Erich Pommer (also a German refugee), and Boyer all went to Hollywood in 1934. The Polish-born Maté arrived in 1935.

LIMIT UP

(Virgin, 1989) D/S/A: Richard Martini S/A: Luana Anders P: Jonathan D. Krane

A Chicago Board of Trade worker (Nancy Allen) makes a deal with an emissary of the Devil (Danitra Vance). This PG-13 comedy also features Dean Stockwell, Brad Hall, Ray Charles (as God!), Rance Howard, Luana Anders (billed as Lu), Sally Kellerman, and Ava Fabian.

THE LINCOLN CONSPIRACY

(1977) D: James L. Conway S: Jonathan Cobbler P: Charles E. Sellier Jr., Raymond D. Jensen

Bradford Dillman is John Wilkes Booth, in this G-rated "speculative fiction" feature from Sunn Classics. It was advertised as depicting "the true facts, which were covered up for 110 years!" Booth doesn't die in a fire but escapes to Canada. John Anderson costars as Lincoln, with Robert Middleton, John Dehner, and Whit Bissell.

LINDA AND ABILENE

(1969) D: "Mark Hansen"/Herschell G. Lewis P: Thomas J. Dowd

This western about incest was filmed on the famous Spahn ranch. Sharon Matt and Kip Marsh are an orphaned brother and sister, and Roxanne Jones is a bar girl. It's similar to David Friedman's The Ramrodder, from the same year.

LINDA LOVELACE FOR PRESIDENT

(Selectatape, 1976) D: Claudio Guzman S: Jack Margolis P: David Winters, Charles Stroud

Yes, this is a real movie, filmed partially in Kansas City and once available in X, R, or PG versions. It's a silly, anything-goes comedy that insults every known minority and is filled with endless sex jokes, nudity, sex, kung fu, a dwarf, a talking chimp, H-bomb footage, and guest stars. Scatman Crothers does an all-rhyming routine in a pool hall. Ex-Monkee Micky Dolenz acts goofy and is seen with a naked girl. Joe E. Ross (from the TV series Car 54, Where Are You?) is teamed with Louis Quinn (from 77 Sunset Strip), and Chuck McCann plays two roles. There's also Marty Ingels (I'm Dickens, He's Fenster), Robbie Lee (Switchblade Sisters), and former JFK impressionist Vaughn Meader having sex with Lovelace and singing "Nearer My God to Thee." Surprisingly, some of this mess is funny. Lovelace, the original porno star, is likable in the comic role and sexy in the soft-core scenes. Producer Winters was married to Lovelace at the time. He formed AIP video in 1986. Executive producer Arthur Marks directed Pam Grier and Fred Williamson hits. Dolenz was later in the Monkees reunion, and he recorded a children's album in 1992.

Anne Carlisle as Jimmy in Liquid Sky.

LINE OF FIRE: See THE SWAP

THE LINGUINI INCIDENT

(Academy, 1991) D/S: Richard Shepard S: Tamar Brott P: Arnold Orgolini

Rosanna Arquette stars in this NYC comedy with Desperately Seeking Susan touches. She's a waitress who's obsessed with Houdini and plans a robbery. With David Bowie (looking old) as a bartender, Eszter Balint, Marlee Matlin, Buck Henry, Viveca Lindfors, André Gregory, Julian Lennon, and Iman.

LINK

(HBO, 1986) D/P: Richard Franklin S: Everett De Roche M: Jerry Goldsmith

Terence Stamp is a scientist working in an isolated mansion in Scotland. Elisabeth Shue is the student caretaker. Link, one of three trained chimps (actually an orangutan), discovers he's going to die for science, so he takes over, killing anyone in his way. The score is on Varèse Sarabande, and the Kinks' "Apeman" is heard.

LIONHEART

(Warner, 1987) D: Franklin J. Schaffner S: Menno Meyjes, Richard Outten P: Stanley O'Toole, Talia Shire M: Jerry Goldsmith

In the 12th century, a group of kids search for King Richard I. Eric Stoltz stars, with Gabriel Byrne as the evil "Black Prince," Deborah Barrymore, Nicholas Clay, and Sammi Davis. This PG adventure was the last Taliafilm from Shire.

LIONHEART

(MCA, 1990) D/S: Shelton Lettich S/A: Jean-Claude Van Damme P: Ash R. Shaw, Eric Karson (A.W.O.L.; The Wrong Bet)

Jean-Claude Van Damme is a Foreign Legionnaire who deserts and becomes a professional bareknuckle streetfighter to save his brother. Harrison Page costars, with Deborah Rennard (daughter of Roger Moore), Lisa Pelikan, Jeff Speakman, and Billy Blanks. It's from Universal.

LION OF THE DESERT

(1979) D/P: Moustapha Akkad S: H. A. L. Craig Libya/UK

Anthony Quinn stars as the real-life Omar Mukhtar, the leader of Libyan rebels who fought the Italians from 1911 to 1931. Rod Steiger plays Mussolini (as he did in the 1977 Italian film The Last Four Days). This 162-minute Khaddafy-backed production, filmed in Libya, features Oliver Reed, John Gielgud, Irene Papas, and Raf Vallone. Akkad also made The Message (1976) with Quinn and Pappas and backed the Halloween movies in America. Maurice Jarre wrote the score.

LIPSTICK

(Paramount, 1976) D: Lamont Johnson S: David Rayfiel P: Freddie Fields

A model (Margaux Hemingway) goes through a courtroom ordeal after being raped. The music teacher perp (Chris Sarandon) is acquitted and later rapes her younger sister (Mariel Hemingway), so Margaux shoots him in the crotch with a shotgun (as in dozens of other revenge movies). This Dino De Laurentiis production received publicity because it was the acting debut of Margaux (a former model) and Mariel. The ads said, "It isn't always an invitation to a kiss." With Perry King and Anne Bancroft as the prosecuting attorney.

LIPSTICK CAMERA

(Triboro, 1993) D/S: Mike Bonifer
S: L. G. Weaver P: Victoria Maxwell

A cute, innocent-looking pushy young woman (Ele Keats) wants to work in TV news. She borrows a tiny camera from her frustrated video-nut friend (bearded Corey Feldman) and obtains incriminating photos that two killers, former East German Stasi spies (Terry O'Quinn and Sandahl Bergman) are after. The cast also includes Brian Wimmer as a cameraman, Richard Portnow, and Charlotte Lewis. Billed as an "erotic thriller," it has no nudity, but Keats is very good.

THE LIQUIDATOR

(1966) D: Jack Cardiff S: Peter Yeldham P: Jon Penington UK

Rod Taylor stars as a war vet who hates bloodshed. Hired by Trevor Howard to be a James Bond type of assassin, he's supplied with a penthouse, cars, and women, and takes Jill St. John (who turns out to be a master spy) to the Riviera. Also with Wilfrid Hyde-White, Akim Tamiroff, Daniel Emilfork, and Suzy Kendall. Shirley Bassey (Goldfinger) sings the theme song.

LIQUID DREAMS

(Academy, 1991) D: Mark Manos
S: Zack Davis P: Zane W. Levitt

There are elements of Twin Peaks, The Atomic Cafe, and Videodrome in this would-be cult film. Candice Daly goes undercover as a stripper at the Twilight Club to investigate the murder of her sister. The strippers have to live in an apartment complex where TV screens show endless sex videos with subliminal messages. Some characters are "endorphin junkies." The R-rated version I saw has no nudity. Maybe the unrated version is better, but this film is badly written and directed, and is pretty boring. With Richard Steinmetz as a detective, Tracey Walter, and John Waters regular Mink Stole. John Doe and Paul Bartel have a scene each. Cassian Elwes was the executive producer.

LIQUID SKY

(Media, 1982) D/S/P: Slava Tsukerman
S/A: Anne Carlisle S: Nina V. Kerova

Tiny aliens land on a windowsill and live off an addictive substance produced by human brains during orgasm. It all takes place around the downtown NYC art and fashion scenes. Anne Carlisle stars as a bisexual punk model, Margaret, and a gay male model, Jimmy. The double role is in the spirit of Homicidal and is very well done. With Paula E. Sheppard (Alice, Sweet Alice). The first American film by the Russian director was a midnight cult hit in NYC and a soundtrack was released.

LISA

(CBS/Fox, 1990) D/S: Gary Sherman
S: Karen Clark P: Frank Yablans

A 14-year-old (Staci Keanan) phones a stranger and poses as an older woman. Her phone suitor (D. W. Moffett) turns out to be "the candlelight killer." With Cheryl Ladd as her mom, Jeffrey Tambor, Edan Gross, and Elizabeth Gracen. This PG-13 United Artists release is mostly talk.

LISETTE

(1961) D/S/P: John Hough

John Agar is a married newspaperman who falls for a "Eurasian beauty" (Greta Chi) imported as a publicity gimmick. This obscure drama was made in Florida. Agar also sings the theme song, written by Les Baxter.

LISZTOMANIA

(Warner, 1975) D/S: Ken Russell P: Roy Baird UK

After the hit musical Tommy, Russell returned to his series of irreverent, loony biographies. Roger Daltry (of The Who) is the 19th-century Hungarian composer and pianist Franz Liszt. The film includes his active love life and his relationship with his son-in-law Richard Wagner (Paul Nicholas). There are typical Russell dream sequences and Hitler references. This was the first film with a Dolby stereo soundtrack. With Sara Kestelman, Fiona Lewis, Ringo Starr (as the Pope!), Rick Wakeman (who wrote the score), Anulka Dzubinski (Vampyres), Nell Campbell, and Karen Mayo-Chandler. Russell's next film was another biography, Valentino (1977).

LITTLE ANGEL

(1957) D/S: Roberto Rodríguez D: Ken Smith S: José Luis Celis, Rafael García Travesi Mexico (La Sonrisa de la Virgen)

K. Gordon Murray imported this drama about a miracle and added new scenes and narration by Hugh Downs, host of the TV show Concentration at the time (1962). After Marita (María García), a poor farm girl, talks to a statue of the Virgin, her cow gives birth. Rodríguez also directed the Little Red Riding Hood series, also starring Garcia.

LITTLE CIGARS

(1974) D: Chris Christenberry S: Louis Garfinkle, Frank Ray Perilli P: Albert Band

Blond Angel Tompkins, the former mistress of a gangster (Joe De Santis), leads a gang of dwarf robbers. The little guys have a medicine show. Some do slapstick comedy while others steal cars. Tompkins and Billy Curtis have an affair in San Francisco and plot bank, casino, and movie-theater jobs. The other stars are Jerry Meren, Angelo Rossitto, Frank Delfino, Felix Silla, and Emory Souza. AIP released the unique PG-rated feature.

LITTLE DARLINGS

(Paramount, 1980) D: Ronald F. Maxwell S: Kimi Peck, Darlene Young P: Stephen J. Friedman

This was Paramount's rival to United Artists's Foxes, from the same year. Will rich kid Ferris (Tatum O'Neal) or Angel (Kristy McNichol) lose her virginity first? That's the big question in this summer-camp movie with Armand Assante, Matt Dillon, Cynthia Nixon, and Nicolas Coster. With songs by Blondie, John Lennon, and others.

LITTLE DEVILS

(1991) D/P: Fred Olen Ray S: Mark Thomas McGee

Veronica Carothers plays twin roles in this horror comedy. Also in the cast are Robert Vaughn as the Devil, Priscilla Barnes, Suzanne Ager, Ruth Collins, Michelle Bauer, and Jay Richardson. Vaughn worked mostly in South Africa during the 80s and did hour-long TV infomercials for the "Helsinki formula" baldness remedy.

THE LITTLE DRAGONS

(Active, 1980) D/P: Curtis Hanson S: Harvey Applebaum, Louis G. Atlee, Rudolph Borchert, Alan Ormsby P: Hannah Hempstead

Karate experts rescue a girl kidnapped by Ann Sothern and her sons (Joe Spinell and John Chandler), who live together in a car. With Master Bong Soon Han, Charles Lane, and Chris Petersen. Tony Bill was an executive producer of this PG action comedy and also appears. Martial-arts movies for kids didn't really catch on until the 90s.

THE LITTLE DRUMMER GIRL

(Warner, 1983) D: George Roy Hill
S: Loring Mandel P: Robert L. Crawford

Diane Keaton stars as a pro-Palestinian American actress recruited by an Israeli counterintelligence offficer (Klaus Kinski) to trap a terrorist. This long (130-minute) movie is based on John Le Carré's bestselling novel (and he has an acting role). Also with Sami Frey, Thorley Walters, and Anna Massey. It was filmed in Israel, Greece, Lebanon, and other countries.

LITTLE LAURA AND BIG JOHN

(United, 1972) D/S: Luke Moberly, Bob Woodburn P: Lou Wiethes

Karen Black and Fabian star in a Bonnie and Clyde copy about the turn-of-the-century Ashley gang in Florida (where this low-budget feature was made). Fabian had just starred in another period gangster movie, A Bullet for Pretty Boy (made in Texas).

LITTLE MONSTERS

(MGM/UA, 1989) D: Richard Alan Greenberg
S: Terry Rossio, Ted Elliot P: Jeffrey Mueller

Howie Mandel is a monster under a bed in this PG Beetlejuice copy. A kid (Fred Savage) living with his family in an old house finds him on Halloween and meets other creatures. With Daniel Stern, Margaret Whitton, and Frank Whaley.

LITTLE NEMO: ADVENTURES IN SLUMBERLAND

(Hemdale, 1992) D: Masami Hata, William T. Hurtz S: Chris Columbus, Richard Outten P: Yutaka Fujioka Japan

Winsor McCay's incredible comic strip from the early 1900s becomes an expensive, G-rated animated musical with a new character, Nemo's flying-squirrel companion. The confused credits say that it's based on a story by (French comic-book artist) Moebius and Fujioka and derived from a concept by Ray Bradbury, who was advised by story consultants including Robert Towne. The main voices are supplied by Gabriel Damon as Nemo, Mickey Rooney as Flip, and René Auberjonois as Professor Genuis.

LITTLE NOISES

(Prism, 1991) D/S: Jane Spencer S: Jon Zeiderman P: Michael Spielberg

Crispin Glover completely dominates this odd comedy as a down-and-out NYC writer living in Hoboken who wants to impress his friend (Tatum O'Neal) with a book of poems. The small role was her first in many years. With Rik Mayall as his agent, John C. McGinley, Steven Schub, and Tate Donovan.

THE LITTLE PRINCE

(1974) D/P: Stanley Donen S: Alan Jay Lerner UK

Paramount released this G-rated musical fantasy based on the story by Antoine de Saint Exupéry. Stephen Warner is the prince from a faraway star and Richard Kiley is the aviator who guides him. With Bob Fosse as the snake, Gene Wilder as the fox, Joss Ackland, Clive Revill, and Victor Spinetti.

LITTLE RED RIDING HOOD

(UAV, 1959) D: Roberto Rodríguez S: Fernando Morales Ortiz, Ricardo Garibay Mexico (La Caperuceta Roja)

K. Gordon Murray released this musical fantasy in America. Manuel "Loco" Valdez is a nasty wolf with a long tongue, teamed with Stinky the Skunk. María García stars. Sequels are Little Red Riding Hood and Her Friends (1959), Little Red Riding Hood and the Monsters (1960), and Caperuceta Sus Tres Amigos, the only one not dubbed into English. There are also German versions of this fairy tale made in the early 50s and an 80s Faerie Tale Theatre version (Fox).

LITTLE SHOP OF HORRORS

(Warner, 1986) D: Frank Oz S: Howard Ashman M: Alan Menken P: David Geffen

This PG-13 musical comedy, set in 60s NYC, is adapted from the 1982 off-Broadway musical, which was based on the 1960 Roger Corman cult movie. Incredibly, no credit is given to the original scriptwriter, Charles B. Griffith! Rick Moranis stars as Seymour Krelborn, a nerd who raises a man-eating plant in the flower shop where he works. He loves Audrey (Ellen Greene, from the stage production), who also works there. Also in the cast are Vincent Gardenia as Mushnik the florist, Steve Martin as Audrey's sadistic dentist/biker boyfriend, Jim Belushi, John Candy, Christopher Guest, Bill Murray, and a singing trio (featuring Tisha Campbell) named Crystal, Chiffon, and Ronette. Levi Stubbs (of the Four Tops) provides the voice of the plant, Audrey Jr. The soundtrack is on Geffen. An expensive sequence showing the giant plant attacking Manhattan at the end was deleted before the film's release. Lyricist Howard Ashman died of AIDS.

LIVE A LITTLE, STEAL A LOT

(1975) D: Marvin Chomsky S: E. Arthur Kean P: J. Skeet Wilson (Murph the Surf; You Can't Steal Love)

Robert Conrad and Don Stroud star in an AIP movie based on real-life Florida beach bums who became jewel thieves and stole the Star of India. Also with Donna Mills, Luther Adler, Burt Young, and Paul Stewart. Motown released the soundtrack. Stroud was in many AIP films at the time. Conrad was in Sudden Death next.

LIVE BY THE FIST

(New Horizons, 1993) D/P: Cirio H. Santiago S: Charles Philip Moore Philippines

In executive producer Roger Corman's remake of his Forced to Fight, kickboxer Jerry Trimble stars as a navy vet framed and thrown into prison on an island. George Takei is a wise prison inmate who teaches him non-violence, and Laura Albert is an Amnesty International worker.

LIVE! FROM DEATH ROW

(ABC, 1991) D/S: Patrick Duncan P: Julie Bilson Ahlberg

A TV tabloid-show hostess (Joanna Cassidy) is taken hostage while interviewing a serial killer (Bruce Davison) condemned to the electric chair. This ABC-TV movie costars Art LaFleur.

THE LIVELY SET

(1964) D: Jack Arnold S: Mel Goldberg, William Wood P: William Alland

James Darren stars as a race-car builder and driver who falls for Pamela Tiffin, in this comedy/drama with Doug McClure, Joanie Sommers, Marilyn Maxwell, Ross Elliot, and Greg Morris. Bobby Darin sings on the soundtrack, and the Surfaris sing "Boss Barracuda."

LIVE WIRE

(New Line, 1992) D: Christian Duguay S: Bart Baker P: Suzanne Todd, David Willis Canada

Pierce Brosnan stars as an FBI explosives expert in Washington where politicians are blowing up after drinking liquid explosives. Ben Cross is the brains behind it all, and Ron Silver is a corrupt congressman making time with Brosnan's ex-wife (Lisa Eilbacher). With pretty good FX, exploding clowns, real scenes of international terrorism, and a clip from Reefer Madness. Al Waxman, Michael St. Gerard, Tony Plana, Tracy Tweed, and Nels Van Patten are also in the cast. It's by the director of the Scanners sequels. It was filmed in Canada and debuted on HBO. R and unrated versions are available.

THE LIVING DAYLIGHTS

(MGM/UA, 1987) D: John Glen S: Richard Maibaum P: Albert R. Broccoli, Michael G. Wilson

When Timothy Dalton played James Bond for the first time, it was a nice change after too many Roger Moore movies. This was released on the 25th anniversary of the first Bond film, Dr. No. The plot concerns good and bad KGB agents. Maryam D'Abo (who was in a typical Playboy tie-in shoot) costars as Kara, with Jeroen Krabbe as a good-guy villain, Joe Don Baker, John Rhys-Davies, Virginia Hey (Road Warrior), and Catherine Rabett. There's a safe-sex scene. This 130-minute PG movie was shot in Gibraltar, Morocco, America, Italy, and Austria. 25 Years of James Bond, a compilation soundtrack album, was released by Bainbridge the same year.

THE LIVING DEAD

(1932) D: Richard Oswald P: Gabriel Pascal Germany (Fünf Unheimliche Geschichten; Unholy Tales)

Paul Wegener is a mad scientist who kills his wife and walls her up. He goes on the run, followed by a reporter, and turns up in other adaptations of tales by Poe and Stevenson, including "The Black Cat," "Dr. Tarr and Professor Feather," and "The Suicide Club." This rare horror anthology wasn't released in America until 1940, in a badly dubbed and edited version. Scenes were used in Dr. Terror's House of Horrors (1943). Oswald and Pascal fled Germany in 1934.

THE LIVING DEAD

(Sinister, 1934) D: Thomas Bentley S: Frank Miller UK

An evil doctor puts people into a death-like state. The famous stage actor Gerald Du Maurier stars, with George Curzon. It's based on a play.

LIVING DOLL

(1989) D: Peter Litten, George Dugdale S: Bob Greenberg P: Dick Randall UK

Mark Jax stars as a lonely medical student working in a NYC morgue. He has a shrine to the hospital flower seller he loves. She shows up dead in the morgue, and after she's buried he digs up her moldy body and takes it home. Eartha Kitt plays his landlady. It's by the makers of Slaughter High (1986).

THE LIVING IDOL

(1957) D/S/P: Albert Lewin P: Gregorio Walterstein

Steve Forrest stars in this tale about a reincarnated Maya princess (Liliane Montevecchi) and a jaguar god. Also with James Robertson-Justice. René Cardona Sr. was an associate director of this color MGM release film, shot in Mexico. It's based on a novel by Lewin, who directed The Picture of Dorian Gray (1942).

LIVING TO DIE

(PM, 1990) D/A: Wings Hauser S: Stephen Smoke P: Richard Pepin, Joseph Merhi

Wings Hauser stars as a burned-out Las Vegas private eye involved in a blackmail plot, with Darcy Demoss as a "dead" hooker, Wendy MacDonald as a cop, and Asher Brauner. There's lots of nudity and blood.

LIVING VENUS

(SW, 1960) D/P: Herschell Gordon Lewis

William Kerwin stars as a Hugh Hefner type who starts a magazine called Pagan with a photographer (Harvey Korman, in his film debut). The new publisher leaves his fiancée, marries his star model, Peggy, and angers his partner, who quits. Later the magazine fails, and Peggy commits suicide. Danica D'Hont (a French Canadian) is the main attraction as Peggy. With Linne Nanette Ahlstrand (who was in Playboy and Beast from the Haunted Cave) and Billy Falbo. It was made in Chicago (home of Playboy). Joe Bob introduces some video-release prints. Lewis added nudity to his next feature, The Adventures of Lucky Pierre (1961) and had a hit.

LOADED GUNS

(1974) D/S: Fernando di Leo Italy (Colpo di Canna)

Ursula Andress stars as an airline stewardess and secret agent who's after drug traffickers, with Marc Porel and Woody Strode as a gangland enforcer. This action film was cut for a PG rating in America, so Ursula's nude scenes are missing.

LOBSTER MAN FROM MARS

(I.V.E., 1989) D: Stanley Sheef S: Bob Greenburg P: Eyal Rimmon, Steven S. Greene

A young amateur filmmaker shows his movie to a producer (Tony Curtis), who decides to release it as a tax loss (as in The Producers). The film within a film is a fun, in-joke-filled nod to Teenagers from Outer Space, Robot Monster, and It Conquered the World. Deborah Foreman and Anthony Hickox (a young director in real life) star, with Patrick Macnee, Billy Barty, Phil Proctor, Bobby "Boris" Pickett (as the king of Mars), Skip Young (Wally from the TV series Ozzie and Harriet), Ava Fabian, and the voice of Dr. Demento. They even used Bronson Canyon for a location. But the Robot Monster clone is way too skinny! The movie opens with a remake of the B-52's "Rock Lobster."

THE LOCH NESS HORROR

(Monterey, 1982) D/S/P: Larry Buchanan S: Lynn Schubert (Nessie)

Characters spend a lot of time talking, and when the Loch Ness monster shows up it's really unconvincing. With Sandy Kenyon and Stuart Lancaster. The executive producer was Jane Buchanan, and Barry Buchanan acts. The Texas filmmakers' next was Beyond the Doors.

LOCK AND LOAD

(AIP, 1990) D/S: David Prior S: John Cianetti P: Kimberly Casey

It's boring, it's filled with talk, and it rips off Telefon. Jack Vogel (who is way too young for the role) stars as a Nam vet who has nightmares with bloody-faced zombies. Hypnotic suggestions are given to soldiers on the phone so that they'll commit crimes and then kill themselves. A bag of money in a car that blows up is removed intact. The cops don't notice. With Renee Cline and Jeffrey Smith. It was filmed in Denver.

LOCK UP

(IVE, 1989) D: John Flynn S: Richard Smith, Jeb Stuart, Henry Rosenblum P: Lawrence Golden, Charles Golden

Sylvester Stallone is a convict about to be paroled who is transfered to a high-security prison. He's such a good guy that he was first arrested for helping an old man who was being beaten up, and he escapes from prison to visit his dying father, then returns. Donald Sutherland is the sadistic warden who makes life hell for him. With John Amos, Sonny Landham (in his biggest non-porno role), and Darlanne Fluegel. Real inmates of New Jersey's Rahway State Prison play inmates. The TriStar release was a box-office flop.

THE LODGER

(Video Yesteryear, 1926) D/S: Alfred Hitchcock S: Eliot Stannard P: Michael Balcon UK

Ivor Novello plays a mysterious stranger who may be Jack the Ripper. Hitchcock's first suspense thriller (it was his third film) uses advanced visual tricks like a see-through glass floor. A jealous detective (Malcolm Keen) accuses the lodger of being a killer, and a bloodthirsty mob attacks the man at the end. This silent film is based on a novel by Marie Belloc-Lowndes. It was remade in Britain in 1932 (again with Novello) and in America in 1944 (with Laird Cregar) and 1954 (with Jack Palance), as Man in the Attic.

LOIS AND CLARK: THE NEW ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN

(1993) D: Robert Butler S: Deborah Le Vine P: Mel Efros, Thania St. John

Dean Cain and Teri Hatcher star as young Superman and sexy Lois Lane, with John Shea as Lex Luthor, Lane Smith as editor Perry White, and Tracy Scoggins. This is the pilot for an ABC-TV series stressing romance and light comedy over science fiction and crime.

LOLA

(1970) D: Richard Donner S: Norman Thaddeus Vane P: Clive Sharp UK/Italy (Twinky)

Charles Bronson, in his first film after the magnificent Once Upon a Time in the West, is a 38-year-old American novelist who marries a 16-year-old English schoolgirl named Twinky (Susan George). The movie shows how their families take it. Bronson looked (and was) 49, and no major American company wanted it, so AIP released it in 1971 with a new title chosen to make people think of Lolita. The cast also includes Michael Craig, Trevor Howard, Jack Hawkins, Honor Blackman, Lionel Jeffries, Robert Morley, Paul Ford, Kay Medford, and Orson Bean.

LOLITA

(Voyager, 1962) D: Stanley Kubrick S: Vladimir Nabokov P: James B. Harris UK

James Mason is British professor Humbert Humbert, who becomes obsessed with teen "nymphet" Dolores "Lolita" Haze (Sue Lyon) and marries her mother (Shelley Winters). Peter Sellers is devious playwright Clare Quilty, a master of disguises. Based on Vladimir Nabokov's 1955 novel, the film is told in flashbacks and is set in New Hampshire and Ohio. This b/w classic is visually impressive (of course) and very funny. Kubrick next made the more challenging films Dr. Strangelove (1963, also with Sellers), 2001 (1969), and A Clockwork

Sue Lyon is Lolita.

Orange (1971), all filmed in England. Lolita is 152 minutes long and is available on video and on Criterion laserdisc.

LONDON KILLS ME

(Live, 1991) D/S: Hanif Kureishi P: Tim Bevan UK

A group of young people crash in an apartment above a meditation center, sell drugs, and rip off tourists. Justin Chadwick stars as the pathetic Clint, with Steven Mackintosh (who looks like Brian Jones) as Muffdiver, Emer McCourt as the heroin-addict girlfriend they share, Fiona Shaw, and Brad Dourif. There's an Elvis-impersonator stepfather. Kureishi wrote the screenplays for My Beautiful Laundrette (1985) and Sammy and Rosie Get Laid (1987).

LONELY HEARTS

(Live, 1991) D/S/P: Andrew Lane
S: R. E. Daniels P: Robert Kenner

Eric Roberts stars as a con man who seduces women for their money. Beverly D'Angelo is conned by him and then helps him with his schemes. Joanna Cassidy is a private eye who's after him. Also with Charles Napier, Robert Ginty, Bibi Besch, Sharon Farrell (who has a topless scene), and Rebecca Street. It was made for cable TV.

THE LONELY HEARTS BANDITS

(1950) D: George Blair S: Gene Lewis

It's nowhere near as good, but this obscure Republic movie is based on the same actual events as The Honeymoon Killers (1970). John Eldredge and Dorothy Patrick are two grifters who join forces, posing as brother and sister. He marries widows, and then they kill them for their money. With Ann Doran, William Schallert, Kathleen Freeman, and Barbara Fuller. Eldredge played supporting roles in many films, including the 40s horror movies The Black Cat and The Mad Doctor of Market Street.

THE LONELY LADY

(MCA, 1983) D: Peter Sasdy S: John Kershaw, Shawn Robbins P: Robert R. Weston

Pia Zadora is a would-be screenwriter who goes to bed with nasty Hollywood men (and women) to get where she wants to go. She's even raped by a garden hose. This trashy movie is based on a Harold Robbins novel and was shot in Italy. With Jared Martin, Lloyd Bochner, Bibi Besch, and Ray Liotta. The Universal movie was the only Pia vehicle to receive a major release. Sasdy also directed Hammer horror movies.

THE LONELY MAN

(1957) D: Henry Levin S: Harry Essex, Robert Smith

Jack Palance stars as a gunfighter trying to reform, and his son is played by Anthony Perkins! If that isn't enough, the cast also includes Neville Brand, Lee Van Cleef, Elisha Cook Jr., Claude Akins, and Robert Middleton. From Paramount.

THE LONELY SEX

(SW, 1959) D/S/P/C: Richard L. Hilliard

A childish, depressed guy who wears only black and lives in a shack dreams that he kills (I think) and kidnaps a girl. Meanwhile, a balding, bearded voyeur boarder in the house where she lives is a killer who watches a stripper undress (twice). This minimal b/w film has very little dialogue and some arty shots and acting that make it resemble a 20s silent movie. It was released by Joseph Brenner and is by the director of Psychomania (1963).

THE LONE RANGER

(1938) D: William Witney, John English S: Barry Shipman, Franklyn Adreon, Ronald Davidson

Chief Thundercloud (a real American Indian) is Tonto, and an unbilled Lee Powell is the masked man of mystery with silver bullets. The screen's first Lone Ranger has a veil on his mask that covers his mouth. The serial's gimmick was that you didn't know which of the rangers was the hero until the end. The enduring legend started on a radio program in 1933. Also in the cast are Herman Brix (star of Tarzan serials and later known as Bruce Bennett), George Montgomery, and William Farnum. The first of the 15 chapters of this serial is "Heigh-Yo Silver!" (also the name of a feature version). Robert Livingston starred in a sequel serial, The Lone Ranger Rides Again (1939).

THE LONE RANGER

(1956) S: Stuart Heisler S: Herb Meadows P: Willis Goldbeck

Clayton Moore, who had been in serials for years, and Jay Silverheels (a real American Indian) were the Lone Ranger and Tonto on TV from 1949 to 1957 (except for a season when Moore was replaced). This color feature version from Warners is about a plot to steal silver from Indian land. With Lyle Bettger and Bonita Granville. Tapes of the TV series, with 2 episodes each, are available from Rhino.

THE LONE RANGER AND THE LOST CITY OF GOLD

(1958) D: Lesley Selander S: Robert Schaefer, Eric Freiwald P: Sherman A. Harris

The Lone Ranger (Clayton Moore) and Tonto (Jay Silverheels) expose a secret society of hooded villains in a color sequel from UA. With Douglas Kennedy and Noreen Nash. The characters didn't reappear until the flop The Legend of the Lone Ranger (1981).

THE LONERS

(Vid America, 1972) D: Sutton Roley
S: John Lawrence P: Jerry Katzman

Dean Stockwell stars as a half-Navajo, hippie motorcycle racer with a bandanna who's blamed for the death of a patrolman. He teams up with a runaway (Pat Stich, who does the nude scenes) and a disturbed guy (Todd Susman), and they go on the run in the Southwest on cycles, committing robberies. With Gloria Grahame, Scott Brady as a cop, and Tim Rooney. Sam Katzman was the executive producer of the Fanfare release.

THE LONE RUNNER

(TWE, 1986) D: Ruggero Deodato S: Chris Trainor, Steven Luotto P: Maurizio Maggi Italy/US

Miles O'Keeffe takes his explosive arrows on a mission to rescue an heiress (Savina Gersak) being held for ransom in the Moroccan desert. John Steiner, Ronald Lacey, and Michael Aronin are also in this ridiculous Ovidio Assonitis production, which is rated PG.

LONESOME COWBOYS

(1968) D/S/P: Andy Warhol D/C/E: Paul Morrissey

This gay western comedy was a hit on the underground midnight-movie circuit. It was rated X, but would barely rate an R today. Louis Waldren stars, with Viva, Taylor Mead as a nurse who does the Lupe Velez twist, and Joe Dallesandro as Little Joe. It was filmed around Tucson. Dallesandro was still acting in the 90s. Morrissey went on to direct nearly all of the Warhol movies. Flesh was his next project.

LONE WOLF

(Prism, 1987) D: John Callas
S: Michael Krueger P: Sarah Liles

LONE WOLF Series

Michael Laynard was raised to be a criminal in Paris, and became a gentleman jewel thief. The character is based on novels by Louis Joseph Vance (starting in 1914). Several silent features were made and Columbia produced a series (1926–30) with Bert Lytell. After The Lone Wolf Returns (1935) starring Melvyn Douglas and The Lone Wolf in Paris (1938), starring Francis Lederer, a new Columbia series of nine features (1939–47) starred Warren William as a reformed Wolf and Eric Blore as a comic sidekick. Directors included Roy William Neill, Sidney Salkow, and Edward Dmytryk. Then Gerard Mohr was in The Lone Wolf in London (1947) and Ron Randell was in The Lone Wolf and His Lady (1949). There was a radio version, and a syndicated TV series starred Louis Hayward in 1955.

Small-town computer-hacker teens track down a killer werewolf, in this gory horror movie with Dyann Brown and Kevin Hart. The same people in Denver made Mind Killer and Night Vision.

LONE WOLF AND CHILD: FINAL CONFLICT

(VSOM, 1993) D: Shou Inoue Japan

Years after the bloody 1972–73 Baby Cart series a second series of 10 features appeared, starring Kinosuke Nishikawa. Apparently they were edited from a TV series. This big-budget version retells the whole story. Masakazu Tamura stars, with Yushi Shibata as Diagaro. There's no gore or baby cart. See the entry for Lightning Swords of Death.

LONE WOLF McQUADE

(Vestron, 1983) D/P: Steve Carver S: B. J. Nelson P: Yoram Bel-Ami

Chuck Norris stars as J. J. McQuade, a Texas Ranger with a truck, in one of his better movies, a modern western. David Carradine as illegal arms dealer Rawley Wilkes is the main villain. With Barbara Carrera, Leon Isaac Kennedy, L. Q. Jones, Robert Beltran, and William Sanderson. It's from Orion (formerly AIP).

THE LONG GOODBYE

(1973) D: Robert Altman S: Leigh Brackett P: Jerry Bick

Elliott Gould is a very out-of-it modern-day Philip Marlowe in this satirical Raymond Chandler adaptation. Sterling Hayden and Nina Van Pallandt co-star, with Henry Gibson, Mark Rydell, Warren Berlinger, Jack Riley, and Rutanya Alda. Look quickly for Arnold Schwarzenegger as a muscleman and David Carradine as a prisoner. The cinematography is by Vilmos Zsigmond, and the music is by John Williams. A U.A. release.

THE LONG HAIR OF DEATH

(Sinister, 1964) D: "Anthony M. Dawson"/Antonio Margheretti S: Bruno Valeri, Ernesto Gastaldi P: Felice Testa Gay Italy (I Lunghi Capelli della Morte)

This was the rarest Barbara Steele horror movie in America until it showed up on video (letterboxed) in the early 90s. In the 15th century she's accused of murder, burned as a witch, and buried. Later, during a plague, lightning revives her (a great scene). She returns as a woman named Mary and prevents her daughter (Elizabeth Karnstein) from marrying Kurt, the count's son, who was the real killer. There's a lot of plot, and the castle intrigue gets kind of confusing, but Steele is in top form ("You're going to die!"), and there are many good parts. Kurt is eventually burned in a giant skull effigy (as in The Wicker Man). Margheretti also made Castle of Blood with Steele.

THE LONG RIDERS

(United Artists, 1980) D: Walter Hill S: Bill Bryden, Steven Phillips, Stacy Keach, James Keach P: Tim Zimmerman M: Ry Cooder

This superior western about the real Northfield, Minnesota, raid has the extra attraction of real actor brothers as stars. David, Keith, and Robert Carradine are the Younger brothers, Stacy and James Keach (also the executive producers) are the James brothers, Randy and Dennis Quaid are the Millers, and Christopher and Nicolas Guest are the Fords. Also with Pamela Reed as Belle Starr, Harry Carey Jr., and James Whitmore. A scene with John Carradine was deleted. The very good score was released by Warner. This is much better than the later Young Guns movies.

THE LONGSHOT

(1986) D: Paul Bartel S/A: Tim Conway P: Lang Elliot

Gangsters are after four losers who borrowed money to bet on horses and then lost. Tim Conway (in his only movie that's not for kids) stars, with Jack Weston, Harvey Korman, Ted Wass, Jonathan Winters, Anne Meara, Stella Stevens, and George DiCenzo. Mike Nichols was the executive producer of this PG-13 comedy.

LOOPING

(VSOM, 1980) D: Walter Bockmayer S: Bea Fröhlich W. Germany

An old couple who dream of flying a looping plane are murdered. Hans-Christian Blech and Shelley Winters star, with Ingrid Caven, Sydne Rome, and Adrian Hoven. The music is by Brian Ferry and Roxy Music.

LOOSE SCREWS

(Lightning, 1984) D: Rafal Zeilinski S: Michael Cory P: Maurice Smith Canada

This stupid teen comedy, a sequel to Screwballs, is from Corman's Concorde. With Linda Shayne and Bryan Genesse.

LOOSE SHOES

(Key, 1977) D: Ira Miller S: Varley Smith P: Joel Chernoff (Coming Attractions; Quackers)

Lots of performers have small roles in this plotless spoof of trailers for movies like Skateboarders from Hell, including Bill Murray (in his film debut), Jaye P. Morgan, Louisa Moritz, Misty Rowe, Betty Thomas, Howard Hesseman, Buddy Hackett (as himself), Ed Lauter, and Susan Tyrrell. Made by Mel Brooks' Brooksfilms, it was released in 1980.

LORD OF THE FLIES

(Public Media, 1961) D/S: Peter Brook P: Lewis Allen UK

During a war in the near future, English schoolboys are evacuated from London in a plane that crashes in the South Pacific. They think that the body of the pilot is a mythical beast and kill a wild pig as a sacrifice. Ralph (James Aubrey) and Jack, the main bully (Tom Chapin), become the leaders of warring groups. This chilling b/w film is based on William Golding's 1954 novel. At one time it was to be directed by Luis Buñuel. It was filmed in Puerto Rico. The Criterion laserdisc includes auditions, outtakes, clips from the film's 1963 Cannes screening, commentary by Brook, and Golding reading from his novel.

LORD OF THE FLIES

(Nelson, 1990) D/E: Harry Hook S: "Sarah Schiff"/Jay Presson Allen P: Ross Miloy

The executive producers backed this updated color remake for the same reason that George Romero backed a remake of his Night of the Living Dead (they had lost the rights and profits from the superior original). The boys are American this time. With Balthazar Getty and Chris Furrh.

THE LORDS OF FLATBUSH

(RCA, 1974) D/S/P: Stephen F. Verona D/S: Martin Davidson S: Gayle Glecker M: Joe Brooks

Juvenile delinquents with leather jackets in 1957 Brooklyn have comic adventures. Perry King stars, with Sylvester Stallone (in his first billed role in a major release) and Henry Winkler (as a pre–Happy Days Fonz type). With Susan Blakely, Paul Jabara, Ray Sharkey, and Armand Assante in small roles. Davidson later made Eddie and the Cruisers. This Columbia release is rated PG. The soundtrack is on ABC.

LORDS OF MAGICK

(Prism, 1988) D/S/P/E: Davis Marsh S: Sherman Hirsch

A pair of sorcerer brothers from 10th-century England show up in modern-day California. In this shot-on-video film, which copies Highlander, a wizard possesses a street gang, rotting corpses have laser-beam eyes, and there are topless scenes.

LORDS OF THE DEEP

(MGM, 1989) D: Mary Ann Fisher S: Howard Cohen, Daryl Haney P/A: Roger Corman

A psycho commander (Bradford Dillman) kills his crew, in this cheap-looking PG-13 environmental-warning movie. Priscilla Barnes has LSD visions, and the monsters turn out to be cute, friendly E.T.-type aliens. Also with Daryl Haney and Eb Lottimer. Producer Corman himself shows up as a corporate executive.

LORNA

(RM, 1964) D/P/C/E: Russ Meyer S: James Griffith

This gothic melodrama was the first Russ Meyer film to have a plot. It was also his first in b/w. It opens with a fire-and-brimstone preacher (James Griffith, who narrates) in the middle of a road. His tale is about Lorna Maitland, a backwoods wife who finds satisfaction with an escaped con. Maitland's large, strange-shaped breasts and nude scenes helped make Lorna a hit, but the characters and plot also make it worth seeing. Death even appears with a scythe. With Hal Hopper, Mark Bradley, and Franklin Bolger. Meyer's other 1964 release was a disastrous collaboration with Albert Zugsmith made in Europe, Fanny Hill.

LORNA THE EXORCIST

(VSOM, 1974) D/S/A: "Clifford Brown"/Jesús Franco (Les Possedées du Diable)

A wealthy French businessman on vacation with his family is visited by Lorna, an ageless devil (Pamela Stafford) with lots of eye makeup. She's back to claim the soul of his daughter (Lina Romay) when she turns 18. Howard Vernon and Franco have small roles, and there's lots of sex. It's subtitled.

LOSIN' IT

(Embassy, 1981) D: Curtis Hanson S: B. W. L. Norton P: Bryan Gindoff, Hannah Hempstead US/Canada

Jackie Earle Haley, Tom Cruise, and John Stockwell are three teens who go to Tijuana in this comedy with strippers, nudity, and Spanish fly. Shelley Long is a waitress who goes with them, and Joe Spinnell is a border guard.

LOST BATTALION

(1961) D/S/P: Eddie Romero S: César Amigo US/Philippines

Leopold Salcedo as Ramón, a WWII Philippines guerrilla leader, and some Americans try to avoid the Japanese invaders and make it to safety in a submarine. With Diane Jergens. Kane Lynn was the executive producer of the AIP release.

THE LOST BOYS

(Warner, 1987) D: Joel Schumacher S: Janice Fischer, James Jeremias, Jeffrey Boam P: Harvey Bernhard

This teen horror hit has an MTV look and way too much POV camera work, and it copies ideas from 'Salem's Lot and Rebel Without a Cause. Jason Patric (son of Jason Miller) is a new kid in a California town that features an amusement park. Corey Haim is his worried kid brother. The Rambo/Van Helsing kids (Corey Feldman and Jamison Newlander) are the best part. Kiefer Sutherland, Jami Gertz, and Alex Winter are Peter Pan–style vampires. The adults include Dianne Wiest, Edward Herrmann, and Barnard Hughes as the eccentric taxidermist grandfather. There's fake Doors music and many Jim Morrison references. The INXS do the Easybeats' "Good Time Tonight" on the Atlantic soundtrack, featuring various artists. Mark Damon was the executive producer.

THE LOST CITY

(Stokey, Foothill, 1935) D: Harry Revier S: Pereley Poor Sheehan, Eddie Graneman, Leon d'Usseau P: Sherman L. Krellberg

Look for this 12-chapter independent Krellberg serial. It's even weirder than The Phantom Empire (from the same year). When it played in NYC in 1953 the TV station received a record number of complaints and took it off the air. It's bad, stupid, racist, and non-stop "Huh!?!" Kane Richmond stars as hero Bruce Gordon, who goes to Africa to trace the origin of earthquakes, hurricanes, and storms that have been threatening the world. William "Stage" Boyd wears lightning bolts as the mad Zolok, last of the Lemurians. He has turned the natives into towering zombies who grunt, and he can also turn black people white. Also in the cast are Claudia Dell as the blond daughter of a kidnapped scientist, George "Gabby" Hayes, Billy Bletcher as a hunchback, and "500 others." The electrical effects are by Kenneth Strickfadden. It was originally available as a complete serial, a feature, or a feature plus 8 chapters.

THE LOST CITY OF ATLANTIS

(1978) D/P: Richard Martin

Herbert L. Strock was the editor of this pseudo-documentary with narration. Excavations on the island of Thera, in the Aegean Sea, lead to questions. Were the ancient people there from Atlantis? Were they Egyptians, Maya, Etruscans, or aliens!?!

LOST CITY OF THE JUNGLE

(Stokey, Video Dimensions, 1946) D: Ray Taylor, Lewis D. Collins S: Joseph F. Poland, Paul Houston, Tom Gibson

Russell Hayden stars as a "United Peace Foundation" investigator in this 13-chapter Universal jungle-adventure serial. Sir Eric Hazarias (Lionel Atwill) steals Meteorium 245, a secret defense against the atomic bomb, and plans to start WWIII. The jungle is supposed to be in the Himalayas. Atwill became ill, had to quit, and died from pneumonia, but since the show must go on, a double (George Sorel) filled in for him in many scenes. Action scenes were lifted from Lost Horizon and the Maria Montez movie White Savage. With Jane Adams, Keye Luke, Gene Roth, and Arthur Space. Chapter titles include "Fire Jet Torture" and "Booby Trap Rendezvous." Universal made only one more serial.

THE LOST CONTINENT

(Fang, 1951) D: Sam Newfield S: Richard H. Landau P: Sigmund Neufeld

A search party climbs and climbs and climbs a taboo sacred mountain on a South Sea island to find a missing atomic rocket. They seem to go around in circles for hours but finally see animated dinosaurs in the jungle at the top. Cesar Romero stars as a playboy air-force major. The others are Hugh Beaumont, Whit Bissell, John Hoyt as a Russian who talks about concentration camps, and Sid Melton as a comic sergeant. They all smoke a lot. Hillary Brook and Acquanetta, the only women in this almost surreal all-star Lippert cheapie, have one scene each.

THE LOST EMPIRE

(Lightning, 1983) D/S/P: Jim Wynorski M: Alan Howarth

In a plot taken from The Game of Death, three fighting women go to a secret training island and battle the followers of the evil Dr. Sindu, gladiator style. After a good pre-credit sequence with ninjas in Chinatown and some plot about valuable jewels, Angel (Melanie Vincz), a blond supercop, enlists the others for a journey to avenge her brother's death. Raven De La Croix (a professional stripper who starred in Russ Meyer's Up) is White Star, a mystical Indian. She was also the associate producer. Angela Aames, a gum-chewing, shower-taking blond prisoner, wins a fight with Angelique Pettyjohn before she's paroled to go along. Pettyjohn (a sometime porno star) has the best (brief) part in the movie, wearing black leather boots and a bikini while she attacks with a whip. Angus Scrimm is the evil doctor, whose real face is a black skull. Howarth usually does John Carpenter scores. (When he was in the 60s Cleveland band the Tree Stumps, he used to rise from a coffin onstage.) The special effects (good considering the budget) are by Ernie Farino. Also in the cast are Kenneth Tobey as a cop, grown-up Lassie star Tommy Rettig, Robert Tessier, Linda Shayne, a gorilla, and porno star Stacey Adams. It was originally announced as a 3-D film.

LOST IN SPACE pilots

(Columbia House, 1965) D/S/P: Irwin Allen S: Simon Winclerberd

The never-aired b/w pilot (No Place To Hide—The Space Family Robinson) for the ridiculous CBS series shows how the Robinson family were in suspended animation before landing on a mysterious planet. The dad (Guy Williams) has a jet pack and narrates. Their land rover is attacked by a giant cyclops (it was sold as a plastic model). Familiar Bernard Herrmann music was borrowed for the theme. In the second plot (The Reluctant Stowaway), which did air, Doctor Smith (Jonathan Harris) is added and the robot is a bad guy. Some low points are the obvious models, the stupid pet monkey with a headpiece that moves, "freezing" characters that sweat, and Billy Mumy singing. Also with June Lockhart, Marta Kristen, Angela Cartwright, and Mark Goddard. The series (later in color) lasted until 1968.

THE LOST JUNGLE

(Stokey, 1934) D/S: Armand Schaefer, David Howard S: Barney Sarecky, Wyndham Gittens

Famous animal trainer Clyde Beatty stars as himself in this 12-chapter Mascot serial. A dirigible carrying an expedition collecting animals for a circus crashes on an uncharted island where a killer gorilla guards a buried city. Some chapters are "Nature in the Raw," "Gorilla Warfare," and "Human Hyenas." With Cecilia Parker, Wheeler Oakman, and little Mickey Rooney. Beatty from Ohio, returned in Darkest Africa (1934).

LOST, LONELY, AND VICIOUS

(Sinister, 1959) D: Frank Myers S: Norman Graham P: Charles Casarelli

Ken Clayton stars as a death-obsessed (and James Dean–inspired) actor in Hollywood. Barbara Wilson is a drugstore clerk. Howco International promoted this as a "documentary." There's lots of talk.

THE LOST PLANET

(Stokey, 1953) D: Spencer Gordon Bennett S: George Plympton, Arthur Hoerl P: Sam Katzman

Judd Holdren stars as Rex Barrow and Captain Video in this 15-chapter sequel to the Columbia serial Captain Video (1951). It was the last science-fiction serial produced. The captain has a pretty female partner (Vivian Mason) this time, instead of a kid, and a new suit with a lightning bolt on the front. Dr. Grood (Michael Fox) uses mind-control helmets to turn people on the planet Ergo into robots. Gene Roth is the villain, Reckov. With scenes filmed at Bronson Canyon.

THE LOST PLATOON

(AIP, 1989) D/S: David A. Prior
S: Ted Prior P: Kimberly Casey

A WWII-vet reporter covering the war in Nicaragua discovers that four soldiers are really ageless vampires who drink only the blood of dying soldiers. Peasants are mass-murdered by an evil government general who turns out to be a vampire too. His mistress spins to death. William Knight stars. This silly film includes dialogue about the bad Soviets and fast-motion POV shots. It was filmed in Alabama.

THE LOST PROPHET

(1992) D/S/C/M: Michael De Avila S: Drew Morone, Larry O'Neil, Shannon Goldman

Jim Burton stars as an unstable guy who goes to an empty mansion for the summer and encounters punks, a serial killer, and a New Age witch. This narrated, arty b/w movie was filmed at and set at Lake George, New York (a great vacation spot).

THE LOST WEEKEND

(MCA, 1945) D/S: Billy Wilder S/P: Charles Brackett

Writers who drink, beware of this movie! Ray Milland (who received and deserved an Oscar) drinks, goes to pawnshops, drinks, and tries to write. He meets a hip-talking bar girl, thinks he sees a bat kill a mouse in a hole in his apartment, and wakes up in the (real) alky ward of a hospital. The film ends when he doesn't kill himself. The theremin music (later used in so many science-fiction movies) is by Miklos Rozsa. The film, shot on location in NYC in b/w, is based on a novel by Charles Jackson. With Jane Wyman, Phillip Terry, Doris Dowling, Howard Da Silva, and Frank Faylen. From Paramount.

THE LOST WORLD

(Milestone, 1925) D: Harry Hoyt S: Marion Fairfax
P: Earl Hudson, Watterson R. Rockacker

It may look a little crude now, but this adaptation of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's novel was a big hit in its day. The plot is similar to King Kong. Professor Challenger (Wallace Beery) brings a brontosaurus to London. It escapes at the end and swims away. There's also an ape man (Bull Montana) and dinosaur battles. Willis O'Brien was responsible for the stop-motion animation FX. Bessie Love and Lewis Stone costar. It was the first movie shown on a passenger flight (Imperial Airways from London to Europe). Both the restored, tinted, 90-minute laserdisc version from Lumnivision and the Milestone video include a musical score, more than half an hour of historical material, missing scenes, the original trailer, and more. The worst and shortest version is from Goodtimes. It was originally 106 minutes. It was remade in 1960 by Irwin Allen (using real lizards) then by Harry Alan Towers (1992).

THE LOST WORLD

(Worldvision, 1992) D: Timothy Bond S: "Peter Welbeck"/Harry Alan Towers P: Frank Agrama, Norman Siderow UK/Canada

Professor Challenger (John Rhys-Davies) and a rival (David Warner) go on an expedition to Africa in 1912, and bring back a cute baby pterodactyl. A Canadian reporter (Eric McCormack) narrates. With Nathania Stanford as an Acquanetta-look native and Tamara Gorski. This childish version of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's novel may appeal to kids. It was filmed in Zimbabwe, along with a sequel, Return to the Lost World. Henry Alan Towers was the executive producer.

LOUISIANA TERRITORY

(1953) D/C: Harry W. Smith S: Jerome Bronfield P: Jay Bonafield, Douglas Travers

Howard Hughes presented this RKO 3-D story about the Louisiana Purchase, starring Val Winter as Robert Livingston. There's a travelogue section and Mardi Gras footage. It's only 65 minutes.

LOVE AND A .45

(Vidmark, 1994) D/S: C. M. Talkington P: Darin Scott

Gil Bellows (The Shawshank Redemption) is a non-violent Texas stick-up artist, Renee Zelwegger is his girlfriend, and Rory Cochrane is his crazed partner in crime. After a botched hold-up results in a series of murders, the couple becomes famous and the partner (now bald) seeks revenge. Also with Jeffrey Combs, Jack Nance, and Wiley Wiggins. Peter Fonda and Anne Wedgeworth play hippie parents. Several of the actors were also in Dazed and Confused, also made in Texas. The Sony soundtrack to the Trimark release was scored by Tom Verlaine. It features The Butthole Surfers, Jesus And Mary Chain, The Meat Puppets, and Johnny Cash.

LOVE AND MONEY

(1980) D/S/P: James Toback

Ray Sharkey is hired by billionaire businessman Klaus Kinski to influence a South American dictator (Armand Assante). He has an affair with Kinski's beautiful wife (Ornelia Muti). Veteran director King Vidor has an acting role as Sharkey's grandfather. It was released in 1982. Toback returned with Exposed (1983).

LOVE AND MURDER

(Coyote, 1988) D/S/P: Steven Hilliard Stern

Todd Waring stars as a photographer who takes sneak photos of women in their apartments with his zoom lens in another Rear Window ripoff. He accidentally photographs a murder, and a transvestite psycho goes after him. With Kathleen Lasky, Ron White, and Wayne Robson as the janitor who's suspected.

LOVE AND MIDNIGHT AUTO SUPPLY

(1978) D/S/P: James Polakof (Midnight Auto Supply)

Michael Parks stars as the leader of a stolen auto-parts gang, in this PG action comedy with Scott Jacoby, Linda Crystal, Colleen Camp, and Monica Gayle. Rory Calhoun, Rod Cameron, and John Ireland are guest stars. It's by the director of Slashed Dreams (1974).

LOVE AT STAKE

(Nelson, 1987) D: John Moffitt S: Terrence Sweeney P: Michael Gruskoff (Burnin' Love)

Kelly Preston is accused during the 1692 Salem witch trials, in this Mel Brooks–style comedy. Barbara Carrera is a real witch (who mutates into Anne Ramsey!), and Dave Thomas and Stuart Pankin are corrupt officials. With Patrick Cassidy, Bud Cort, Annie Golden, and Dr. Joyce Brothers (as herself). "Louie Louie" is played at a Thanksgiving dinner with Indians. This R-rated movie has nudity and drug jokes. It was filmed in Canada.

THE LOVE CAMP

(Active, 1980) D/S/P/M/A: "Christian Anders"/ Ilias Milonakos W. Germany/Greece
(Die Todesgottin des Liebscamps; Love Cult)

Laura Gemser is the leader of the Children of Light cult in Greece. This is a musical (!) sex movie with several Hair-style songs and lots of nudity, sex, and lesbian scenes featuring Gemser. Cult members chant "The Divine One is everything and I am nothing." Those who disobey are thrown into a pit by a musclebound servant or are flogged while tied up naked and everybody is blown up with dynamite after a mass orgy at the end. Anders is Dorian, a blond cult leader who seduces a rich American Senator's blond daughter. Also with Gabrille Tinti.

LOVE CAMP 7

(SW, 1968) D: Lee Frost S: Wesdon Bishop
P/A: R. W. Cresse (Living Nightmare)

Two WACs go undercover in a Nazi prison to get vital information from a scientist being held there. A scar-faced dyke doctor tortures prisoners. This adults-only "roughie" was rated X but is tame compared to many later features with similar themes. It features unconvincing accents and a narrator who relates everything in flashback and claims that it's all true. Kathy Williams costars, R. W. Cresse is the commandant, and David F. Friedman plays a general. It was a hit in Canada, so Friedman was hired to produce the first Ilsa film there.

LOVE, CHEAT, AND STEAL

(Columbia, 1994) D/S: William Curran
P: Brad Krevoy E: Monte Hellman

In this film noir attempt, killer Eric Roberts breaks out of prison, convinces the banker husband (John Lithgow) of his ex-wife and partner (Madchen Amick) that he's her brother, and forces her to help him rob her husband's bank. Also with Richard Edson, Dan O'Herlihy, David Ackroyd, and Donald Moffatt. It debuted on Showtime.

THE LOVE CLINIC

(1968) D/P: Ferd Sebastian S: Ann Cawthorne

A woman goes to a clinic and learns about fulfillment from a computer. Her husband gets jealous and angry. This sex comedy was from Boxoffice International. Beverly Sebastian was executive producer. The Sebastians also made I Need (1967) and Marital Fulfillment (1970). They went on to drive-in hits like Gator.

LOVE COMMUNE

(SW, 1970) D/S: Robert J. Emery S: John Pappas
P: George B. Roberts, Paul Rubenstein
(Sign of Aquarius; Ghetto Freaks)

Despite the video box, this embarrassing, plotless hippie/drug movie with imitation Hair songs was filmed entirely in Cleveland during a snowy winter. Much of the stoned dialogue seems to be improvised, man. The main characters are named Sonny, Stringbean, and Cleaver. A Tom Jones–type singer in fringes sings, "My name is Mousy. I feel lousy." Another song goes, "We cannot comprehend the straight way of life." There's a freak-out, a trip/fuck, a murder by a drug dealer, and downtown Public Square panhandling scenes. The nude dancing was choreographed by Jeff Kutash, from the local Upbeat show! A runaway girl's father is played by Bob Wells, who as Hoolihan cohosted what had been the Ghoulardi show! This obscure wonder opened (in Cleveland) as Sign of Aquarius and was later reissued, with ads featuring minor black characters, as Ghetto Freaks! It's from the producer of Fireball Jungle and The Weird World of LSD! Believe it or not, as a teen I wasted an afternoon going to a publicity-stunt casting call for this movie. I failed the "audition" for Ghetto Freaks!

LOVE CRIMES

(HBO, 1991) D/P: Lizzie Borden
S: Allan Moyle P: Rudy Langlais

Sean Young stars as an assistant DA who's after a con man and rapist (Patrick Bergin) posing as a photographer. With James Read and Arnetia Walker. R and unrated versions (complete with a spanking scene and Young nude) are available. It's by the director of Working Girls.

THE LOVE CULT

(SW, 1966) D: T. A. Dee S: Russell Fore

The Great Eric is a TV magician and hypnotist who decides to create a sex cult with the help of his supportive assistant and wife. He becomes Brother Eros and makes money from cult members in robes who chant, "Love is all that counts" and have orgies at his house. Rape, jealousy, blackmail, and murder result. The sex is very tame or offscreen. This 65-minute b/w movie is narrated by someone with a serious, Rod Serling type of voice.

LOVE DOLLS SUPERSTAR

(SST, 1986) D/S/P: David Markey S: Jennifer Schwartz, McDonald Brothers

In this welcome sequel to Desperate Teenage Love Dolls the Love Dolls reform and "climb back from the bottom." Tracy Lea shows up as the mother of Tanya, who was killed in the first film, and Steve McDonald (of Redd Kross) as a "freedom school" hippie attempts to avenge the death of his brother. Plotwise, things get a lot more out there than in the original. Bunny returns as a ghost, Alexandria is a hooker, Bruce Springsteen is assassinated by a guy possessed by a Kiss doll(!), Patch starts a new religion, and the Love Dolls massacre their own fans Jonestown style (at Bronson Canyon), then head for outer space! There's also a funny hard-core punk-band takeoff. The SST soundtrack uses the same great groups again, plus Sonic Youth and others. Any rock movie that mixes references to Billy Jack, Charles Manson, and Jim Jones is all right with me. Markey also made the documentary 1991: The Year Punk Broke.

THE LOVED ONE

(MGM, 1965) D: Tony Richardson S: Terry Southern, Christopher Isherwood P: John Calley, Haskell Wexler

If you haven't seen this, what are you waiting for? It was promoted by MGM as "the movie to offend everyone." Based on a 1948 novel by Evelyn Waugh, this black comedy about the funeral business in California is the closest thing to a John Waters movie ever made by a major studio, and in 1965! Luis Buñuel wanted to direct it once, but Tony Richardson got to make it because he had done the hit Tom Jones. Robert Morse stars as a British poet who comes to Hollywood after his art-director uncle (John Gielgud) hangs himself. Jonathan Winters (playing two brothers) runs Whispering Glades (a parody of the real Los Angeles cemetery Forest Lawn) and the Happy Hunting Grounds pet cemetery, Anjanette Comer is an embalmer, and Rod Steiger is incredible as Mr. Joyboy. There are hookers in coffins, and Joyboy's mom eats whole pigs and dies when the refrigerator falls on her during an eating binge. With Dana Andrews, Milton Berle, James Coburn, Tab Hunter, Liberace, Lionel Stander, Robert Morley, Margaret Leighton, Alan Napier, Elizabeth Ann Roberts (from Playboy), and singer Paul Williams as a kid who invents a rocket to send bodies into space. It was shot by Haskell Wexler. Even at 122 minutes, some parts were cut (including scenes with Jayne Mansfield and Barbara Nichols).

THE LOVE FACTOR: See ZETA ONE

LOVE FEAST

(SW, 1969) D/P: Joseph F. Robertson
S/A: Edward Wood Jr. (The Photographer)

Lost Ed Wood Jr. movies keep turning up. In this 65-minute color sex comedy he stars (with a Shemp Howard haircut) as Mr. Murphy. He speaks to the camera: "Now I love girls! Girls! Girls! Girls!" He calls a model agency for women. He helps one undress. She gets into bed with the second one. More and more women arrive and strip, and some guys stop by too, creating a cartoonish pile of naked bodies on a bed. The big joke is that Wood is always interrupted and can't join them: "I'm gonna cry!" He makes distorted faces and goes outside and drinks several times. Eventually some women force him to wear a dog collar, put on a nightie, crawl on his knees bare-assed, and lick their boots. Wood was also in The Sensuous Wife, by Robertson.

LOVE FROM A STRANGER

(Sinister, 1936) D: Rowland V. Lee S: Frances Marion P: Max Schach (Night of Terror)

Basil Rathbone is in top form as Gerald Lovell, a poetic ladies' man who is really a psychotic killer. He meets blond Ann Harding in France and marries her for her lottery money. They move into an isolated house in Kent, and he gets stranger as time passes. He fondles scarves that belonged to his previous wife, makes his new wife play the piano very fast, and listens to "In the Hall of the Mountain King" in his secret basement darkroom. Binnie Hale is a comic-relief aunt, and Joan Hickson (later Miss Marple on TV) is a simpleminded maid. This United Artists film, made in England, is adapted from a play by Frank Vosper, based on an Agatha Christie story. It was remade in 1947 in America. Lee also directed Rathbone in Son of Frankenstein, The Sun Never Sets, and Tower of London.

LOVE FROM A STRANGER

(Starmaker, 1947) D: Richard Whorf
S: Philip MacDonald

John Hodiak is a psycho who marries Sylvia Sidney, in this Eagle Lion remake of the 1936 film, this time set in 1901. It was Sidney's last film for years. John Howard and Ann Richards costar.

LOVE IN A GOLDFISH BOWL

(1961) D/S: Jack Sher P: Martin Jurow

Toby Michaels and Tommy Sands are college students who try to run away together, but their boat capsizes. She ends up being rescued by Giussepe (Fabian) and the Coast Guard. Tommy Sands and Fabian both sing in this lame teen comedy. With Jan Sterling, Edward Andrews, John McGiver, Majel Barrett, Denny Miller, and Toby Michaels.

LOVE IN 3-D

(1972) D: Walter Boos S: Florian Vollmer
P: Wolfgang C. Hartwig W. Germany
(Liebe in Drei Dimensionen)

This 3-D soft-X film consists of 7 short segments. Dimension, then Monarch, released it in America, and it was advertised as being "filmed in 70mm," which was true, but they showed a 35mm version! It was still being booked in the 80s! Ingrid Steeger and Christine Lindberg star.

LOVE KILLS

(1991) D: Brian Grant S: Michael J. Murray P: Bob Roe

Virginia Madsen is an heiress and photographer in Salt Lake City whose psychologist husband (Jim Metzler) has interviewed serial killers for a book. A hitman on the run (Lenny Von Dohlen) hires her to take some pictures. Many plot twists follow. Kate Hodge is also in this USA Network movie.

THE LOVELESS

(Media, 1981) D/S: Kathryn Bigelow, Monty Montgomery P: Grafton Nunes

In the 50s some bikers on the way to Daytona for races stop in a small southern town, wait for repairs, and mess with some local women. Don Ferguson and Monty Montgomery star with then unknown Willem Dafoe and rockabilly singer Robert Gordon. It's pretty slow going, but everybody looks cool and there's lots of rockabilly on the soundtrack. With Tina L'Hotsky and cartoonist J. D. King.

LOVE LETTERS

(Vestron, 1983) D/S: Amy Jones
P: Roger Corman (Passion Play)

A disc jockey (Jamie Lee Curtis) has an affair with an older married man (James Keach). With Amy Madigan, Matt Clark, Bud Cort, Rance Howard, and Sally Kirkland as a hippie. Jones directed this serious New World film after making Slumber Party Massacre.

LOVE LETTERS OF A PORTUGUESE NUN

(VSOM, 1976) D/S: Jesús Franco
S/P: Erwin C. Dietrich P: Max Dora
Switzerland/W. Germany

Innocent 16-year-old María (Susan Hemingway) is forced to enter a convent (a beautiful real location) secretly run by Satanists. She's put in isolation, tortured, forced into sexual situations with men, women, and even a horned Devil (Herbert Fux), and told that it was all dreams. When she escapes inquisitors make her confess (on the rack) and decide to burn her in public. This is one of Franco's best, a well-made, lush-looking feature that transcends the obvious exploitation angles. William Berger is very good as the father confessor. The dubbed video has Dutch subtitles. The same story was filmed in Spain by Jorge Grau in 1978.

LOVE, LIES, AND MURDER

(Republic, 1992) D: Robert Markowitz
S: Daniel Hill P: Jay Bernsen, Danielle Hill

A businessman (Clancy Brown) convinces his daughter (Moira Kelly) and his sister-in-law (Sheryl Lee) to kill his wife. He sets up his daughter, marries his sister-in-law, and collects the life insurance. John Ashton is the insurance investigator. It's based on a true story. This TV movie is more than 3 hours long.

LOVELY BUT DEADLY

(Vestron, 1982) D/S/P: David Sheldon
S: Patricia Joyce P: Doro Vlado Hreljanovic

Lucinda Dooling is Lovely, a martial-arts-fighting cheerleader who goes undercover as a junkie to fight drug dealers because her brother OD'd and other cheerleaders are hooked. The plot is the same as Coffy. Also with Marie Windsor as her aunt, John Randolph, and Mel Novak.

THE LOVE MACHINE

(RCA, 1971) D: Jack Haley Jr. S: Samuel Taylor P: Michael J. Frankovich

This trashy, funny adaptation of a Jacqueline Susann novel stars John Phillip Law as a TV newscaster who has an affair with the wife (Dyan Cannon) of a network executive (Robert Ryan) to get a promotion. With David Hemmings, Jackie Cooper, Shecky Greene, Sharon Farrell, Alexandra Hay, twins Madeleine and Mary Collinson in a shower, Gayle Hunnicutt, and Claudia Jennings. From Columbia. The soundtrack (on Scepter) features Dionne Warwicke.

LOVE ME DEADLY

(Video Gems, 1972) D/S: Jacques La Certe
P: Buck Edwards

It's hard to believe that this serious and disturbing necromaniac movie was made and probably played drive-ins. Mary Wilcox stars as Lindsay, a blond heiress. Her boyfriend (Christopher Stone) is tired of her not putting out. She falls for and eventually marries an art-gallery owner (Lyle Waggoner) but won't sleep with him either. A persistent mortician named Fred (Timothy Scott), who leads a secret cult of hooded necros, recognizes that she's obsessed by the dead, and eventually she's naked on top of a corpse. Fred also picks up prostitutes (male and female) to kill and drain. The movie has bad 70s hair, long romantic parts, love songs, flashbacks, and nightmares. H. B. Halicki was an associate producer. Wilcox was also in Beast of the Yellow Night and Lepke.

LOVE ME LIKE I DO

(1969) D/S/P: J. Van Hearn

Peter Carpenter and Dyanne Thorne (from the Ilsa movies) star as a married couple in this X-rated comedy about cheating and swapping in Las Vegas. The music is by the Mongolian Horse. Both stars were also in Point of Terror.

THE LOVE PIRATE

(1971) D/S: Barry Mahon

Florida schlock director Brad Grinter (Blood Freak) stars as pirate Captain Fu, with an all-female crew, in this nudie adventure. Doug Hobart was the set designer. It was filmed in North Miami Beach.

LOVE POTION NO. 9

(Fox, 1992) D/S/P: Dale Launer

Tate Donovan and Sandra Bullock are young lab workers who get mixed up with a love spray in this silly but nice PG-13 romantic comedy. She goes from being a nerd to having an English prince as a boyfriend. With Dale Midkiff and Anne Bancroft as a Gypsy.

LOVE SCENES

(MGM, 1983) D: Bud Townsend S: C. Panning Master
P: Vernon C. Becker (Ecstasy; Love Secrets)

Tiffany Bolling stars with Franc Luz in this soap opera about the making of a sex movie. With Julie Newmar, Jack Carter, Britt Ekland, Monique Gabrielle, and Daniel Pilon. Bolling, Gabrielle, and others are naked a lot. This Harry Alan Towers Playboy production debuted on Playboy TV.

THE LOVES OF IRINA: See EROTIKILL

LOVE, STRANGE LOVE

(Vestron, 1982) D/S: Walter Hugo Khouri P: Anibal Massanineto Brazil

A boy named Hugo is sent to live in a large, ornate Brazilian whorehouse with his mother (Vera Fischer) during WWII. He gets an eyeful of sex, orgies, and political intrigue. The adult Hugo (now an old politician) magically wanders around the house remembering what happened. The reason to watch this is third-billed Xuxa (Meneghel), now the host of an incredibly popular children's show produced in Portuguese, Spanish, and English. If she were American this movie (released dubbed here) would be a National Enquirer/Hard Copy standby. She plays Tampa, a young whore who poses as "a German virgin from the South" and strips off her white teddy-bear costume while Dixieland jazz plays. She also attempts to seduce Hugo, who later has sex with his mom.

THE LOVE THRILL MURDERS

(Troma, 1971) D/P: Robert L. Roberts
S: Matt Cavanagh (Sweet Savior)

Troy Donahue (looking like Leon Russell) is Moon, a Bible-quoting "chemical messiah," in this suitably sick, soft-core Manson movie set in NYC. Moon and his "family" live, sing (about plastic people), and have sex in a small apartment. The "freaks" are invited to help liven up a suburban swinger party. Moon gives a reluctant woman a popper and she screams, "Screw me, now!" His followers eventually kill everybody, including a pregnant actress (Renay Granville). Moon has nightmares of his childhood ("No, Papa!"), and we see flashbacks and flashforward glimpses of the slaughter. Bull is tricked into having sex with a comic transsexual named Spitzi. Scenes of Moon on his cycle riding through Times Square are shown twice. The soft-rock theme, written and sung by Jeff Barry (who created the Archies), is excellent and could have been a hit (really). Lloyd Kaufman was the production manager. This was later retitled and rereleased by Troma. The video seems to be cut. The director later made Patty (1975).

LOVE WANGA

(SW, 1935) D/S/P: George Terwilliger (Ouanga; The Crime of Voodoo; Drums of the Jungle)

This rare road-show horror movie "filmed entirely in the West Indies" (Haiti and Jamaica) was thought to be lost forever. The print is from Canada. A lot goes on in 56 minutes. Cleely (Fredi Washington), who owns a plantation on Paradise Island, is furious when her white plantation-owner lover, Adam, returns from NYC engaged to a white woman. "You belong with your kind," she says. "I'll show you what a black girl can do!" She uses voodoo to revive two bodies and to have the fiancée (Marie Paxton) kidnapped. The movie has a documentary intro, servants from Harlem dancing and gambling, voodoo ceremonies, and Sheldon Leonard as a threatening, evil overseer. The script was later reworked as The Devil's Daughter (1939). Terwilliger had written scripts for D. W. Griffith. Washington (who died in 1994) costarred in Imitation of Life (1934) and was in shorts with Duke Ellington and Cab Calloway.

BELA LUGOSI
(1882–1956)

Lugosi, a Hungarian star of stage and screen, becomes more of a cult figure every year. After attaining stardom in America in Dracula, he was in some Universal horror classics but was also in many more, cheaper, "poverty row" horror movies and serials. That's why he's a king of public-domain videotapes. Many Lugosi 30s and 40s titles from Monogram, P.R.C., and lesser studios are easy to find at low prices. People are fascinated by Lugosi: he played the screen's most famous vampire, he was in many low-budget oddities (including three Ed Wood Jr. movies), he's seen as a tragic rival to Karloff, and the end of his life was so pathetic (he was broke and addicted to pain killers). Several tapes compile Lugosi interviews, TV appearances, and trailers and scenes from features. Most of these "documentaries" share some of the same (public domain) clips and interviews: Bela Lugosi: The Forgotten King (MPI), hosted by Forrest J. Ackerman, Mondo Lugosi (Rhino), Bela Lugosi: Then and Now! (Tempe), and several tapes about Ed Wood.

LOVE YOU TILL TUESDAY
(Polygram, 1969) D: Malcolm J. Thompson

This half-hour rarity is probably the earliest footage you'll find of David Bowie. He does the title song, a different version of "Space Oddity," the excellent "Let Me Sleep Beside You," and others (some never released), usually against a white background and with unseen orchestral backing. Hermione and Hutch also sing with Bowie in the background (the short-lived trio was called Feathers). Bowie wears an unfortunate-looking wig because his hair was short for his first movie role (The Virgin Soldiers). WARNING: Contains mime routines.

LOW BLOW
(Vestron, 1986) D/C: Frank Harris
S/P/A: Leo Fong (Savage Sunday)

Leo Fong stars as ex-cop Leo Wong. Cameron Mitchell is a blind religious-cult leader, Yurakunda (!), and Akosa Busia is his black henchwoman, Karma. Troy Donahue wants his daughter back, so he hires Wong, who has martial-arts battles. This started Donahue's full-time exploitation-movie comeback. It's by the makers of Killpoint.

LOW DOWN DIRTY SHAME
(Hollywood, 1994) D/S/A: Keenen Ivory Wayans
P: Joel Roth, Roger Birnbaum

Wayans (in his first feature after I'm Gonna Git You Sucka) is Andre Shame, a cop turned private eye in a 70s-style action movie with comedy. The main action takes place in a shopping mall. Jada Pinkett and Salli Richardson are the women in Shame's life and Charles S. Dutton and Andrew Divoff are drug-dealing villains. Also with Corwin Hawkins and Gregory Sierra. The soundtrack is on Hollywood.

LOWER LEVEL
(Republic, 1991) D: Kristine Peterson S: Joel Soisson P: W. K. Border, Michael Leahy

An architect (Elizabeth Gracen) in a computer-controlled high-rise that she designed is trapped at night by a psychotic, lovesick, voyeur security guard (David Bradley, from the American Ninja movies). It's pretty suspenseful and has one good erotic scene in a parking garage. She and her boyfriend (Jeff Yagher) strip and have sex in a car (while the guard watches on closed-circuit TV); then the water sprinklers go on. In a continuity error, the killer changes clothes and then changes back again. Also with Shari Shattuck. Peterson made Body Chemistry and Deadly Dreams. Elizabeth Gracen (or Ward) claimed she had an affair with President Clinton when he was governor and she was Miss Arkansas. Her character is named Hillary.

LSD PSYCHEDELIC FREAKOUT, Vol. I
(SW, 1994)

These 2 hours of unidentified clips from various 60s adults-only movies feature lots of naked dancers, strobe lights, hallucinations, and bongo music. Some choice clips are from Alice in Acidland, Mantis in Lace, Acid Eaters, The Worst Crime of Them All, Wanda the Sadistic Hypnotist, and The Wild World of LSD. There's also an Acid Dreams short.

THE LUCIFER COMPLEX
(VCI, 1976) D/S: David L. Hewitt
D: Kenneth Hartford S: Dale Skillicorn P: David E. Jackson

After "the great war" of 1986 a survivor in a cave on a Hawaiian island (William Lanning) sits and watches "every document of mankind" (including old war footage, a band at a rock festival, and the bulk of this pathetic movie). An agent (Robert Vaughn) watches a belly dancer, then goes to a Nazi prison camp (in Florida) where naked people are kept in suspended animation. Aldo Ray is a German guard there ("Ya, ya"). Vaughn and a female inmate (Merrie Lynn Ross) attempt to escape with other women with machine guns, but he's cloned and has to fight himself! Oh yeah, Hitler (with gray hair and big ears) is still alive! He can disappear like a ghost (?) and is going to take over the world with his clones! Also with Keenan Wynn, Leo Gordon, and Victoria Carroll. Some of the footage was left over from Hewitt's unfinished Women of Stalag 13/Hitler's Wild Women. This Gold Key production went directly to TV in 1979!

LUCKY GHOST
(Discount, 1941) D: William X. Crowley
S: Lex Neal, Vernon Smith D: Jed Buell

A comedy team billed as Miller and Mantan star in this amazing all-black comedy not found in any reference book. Jefferson (F. E. Miller) and Washington (Mantan Moreland) are hungry, homeless, and on the road. Miller is the more sensible one, but Mantan gets the laughs. After being caught stealing chickens they win the car, chauffeur, and clothes of two rich man by shooting dice. They go to a sanitarium being used as an illegal, posh nightclub for dining, dancing, and gambling. The owner becomes murderously jealous when Mantan dances with his sexy hostess girlfriend (Florence O'Brien). All of a sudden the ghosts of the original owners meet in a cemetery and decide to scare everyone and stop all the noise. An invisible man walks around, a skeleton plays the piano, and a ghost possesses Mantan, making him do a wild "gator" on the floor. If you've seen him only in Charlie Chan movies you won't be prepared for all-out Mantan. For some unknown reason a lone character who appears only outside the sanitarium is a white man in blackface! This was part of a series that included Mr. Washington Goes to Town (1940) and Professor Creeps (1941).

LUCKY STIFF
(RCA/Columbia, 1988) D: Anthony Perkins
S: Pat Proft P: Gerald T. Olson

Perkins' PG cannibal comedy was going to be called My Christmas Dinner. Donna Dixon stars as a beautiful woman who is part of an inbred cannibal family. She chooses a big guy (Joe Alaskey) to bring home for dinner. With Jeff Kober, Fran Ryan, and Leigh McCloskey. Perkins also directed Psycho III.

LUCKY THE INSCRUTABLE
(VSOM, 1967) D/S/A: Jesús Franco S: José Luis Martínez Molla P: José Luis Jerez
Spain/W. Germany (Lucky; El Intrépido)

American Roy Danton stars as a comical Bond-like secret agent who goes to Rome and Albania to stop counterfeiters. The influence of the Batman TV series is obvious when comic-book balloons and panels are used. With Rosabla Neri as a sexy Albanian police commissioner and Dante Posani. This went directly to TV in America.

LUGOSI: THE FORGOTTEN KING
(1985) D: Mark S. Gilman, Dave Stuckey

Clips of many public-domain Lugosi movies are shown, along with interviews with Carol Borland

(Mark of the Vampire), Forrest J. Ackerman, John Carradine (The Black Cat and Return of the Ape Man), Alex Gordon, Ralph Bellamy (The Wolf Man and The Ghost of Frankenstein), and others.

LULU

(VSOM, 198?) D/S: Bigas Luna Spain

A woman named Lulu (Francesca Neri) narrates her own flashbacks (some in b/w) of her descent into a life of dangerous sex for money in Madrid. This bizarre movie has transvestite hookers, incest, and live sex shows. Lulu is saved just in time before starring in a show with a dog. Music includes "Walk on the Wild Side" and "The Peter Gunn Theme." Luna, known to horror fans for his Anguish (its star, Ángel José, is in this too), is an arthouse hero because of films like Jamón, Jamón (1993).

LUNATICS: A LOVE STORY

(RCA, 1990) D/S: Josh Becker P/A: Bruce Campbell

Theodore Raimi (Sam's brother) is a delusional paranoic on medication who writes poetry in his LA apartment. He hallucinates like crazy and nearly becomes a psycho killer, but instead he becomes a hero to Deborah Foreman by defeating street-gang members. This unique romantic comedy/fantasy has some great scenes with animated spiders on Raimi's brain. The first time he gets up the courage to leave his apartment he thinks there's an earthquake, and a garbage truck appears as a giant spider. Campbell plays several roles, including Edgar Allan Poe (on a book cover). There's a "Nervous Breakdown" rap sequence and jazz background music. This Sam Raimi/Robert Tapert production was shot in Pontiac Hills, Michigan, in 1989.

LUNCHMEAT

(Tapeworm, 1986) D/S/P: Kirk Alex P: Mark Flynn

The original, large-size display box for this low-budget super-8 horror movie is pretty eye-catching (look for it). Lunchmeat isn't very original, and it's crude, but I liked it. A group of six yuppie-type teens from LA (and one nonconformist punk girl) end up lost in the woods and are killed off by a demented hillbilly family. Pa and his two sons sell human meat to a burger stand. A third son (the one on the box) is a big, retarded cannibal kept on a chain and whipped when he misbehaves. It's not really very gory for an 80s horror movie but is somehow disturbing and effective despite continuity problems and a weak ending.

LUNCH WAGON GIRLS

(Media, 1980) D: Ernest Pintoff S: Leon Phillips, Marshall Harvey P: Mark Borde
(Lunch Wagon; Come and Get It)

Three young women sell food at a construction site, and their rivals are gangsters. This drive-in comedy is similar to Porky's. Rosanne Katon, Pamela Jean Bryant, and Candy Moore star, with Rick Podell, Louisa Moritz, Chuck McCann, Rose Marie, Nels, Dick, and James Van Patton.

LURKERS

(Media, 1988) D/C/E: Roberta Findlay S: Ed Kelleher, Harriet Vidal P: Walter E. Sears

A cello-playing woman has conflicting flashbacks. Her dead mom haunts her, and dead people float. Christine Moore stars, with Gary Warner, Ruth Collins, Debbie Rochon, and writer Maitland McDonagh.

LURKING FEAR

(Paramount, 1994) D/S: C. Courtney Joyner P: Vlad Paunescu, Dana Paunescu

An ex-con (Blake Bailey, who narrates his own flashback) is after money buried in a Massachusetts graveyard. Most of the story (supposedly based on a work by H. P. Lovecraft) takes place in a church where characters argue and fight. A hard-drinking doctor (Jeffrey Combs) and his assistant (Ashley Lauren, from the Hellraiser movies) try to dynamite everything. Ghouls that look like the ones in EC comics emerge from tunnels, Lauren and Allison Mackie have a mud fight, and a heart is pulled out. Jon Finch (Frenzy) is a gangster, Paul Mantee is a priest, Vincent Schiavelli is a mortician, and Michael Todd is a zombie. Originally slated to be directed by Stuart Gordon, it was filmed in Romania.

LUST AT FIRST BITE: See DRACULA SUCKS

LUST FOR FREEDOM

(AIP, 1987) D/S/P: Eric Louzil S: Craig Kusaba

Blond Melanie Coll (who narrates) stars as a karate-fighting ex-cop framed and put into a desert prison. Troma bought an unreleased 70s (note the Jimmy Carter photo) women's-prison movie (Georgia County Lockup) filmed in Nevada and added new narration, a heavy-metal soundtrack by Grim Reaper, and more scenes of sex and violence. With some gore, whippings, rape, Deana Booher/Queen Kong, Michelle Bauer, and porno star Crystal Breeze in a lesbian scene.

THE LUSTFUL TURK

(SW, 1968) D/P: Ron Elliot S: David F. Friedman

After two Englishwomen and a female servant are kidnapped by Algerian pirates, they're given to a Sheik Ali. But they all fall for the pirate captain (who gets castrated at the end). With Michelle Triola (the actress who sued Lee Marvin for palimony), Abbe Rentz, Foreman Shane, and Kathy Williams. There's an animated sequence.

LUST IN THE DUST

(Star Maker, 1985) D: Paul Bartel S: Philip John Taylor P: Allan Glaser, Tab Hunter

Tab Hunter stars in a Clint Eastwood type of role, in this western comedy from New World. The title comes from what some critics had nicknamed Duel in the Sun (1946). Treasure maps are tattooed on the asses of Divine and Lainie Kazan. With Geoffrey Lewis, Henry Silva, Cesar Romero, Woody Strode, Courtney Gains, and a dwarf. Divine's other non–John Waters appearances are in the West German documentary Tally Brown, NY (1979), a drag documentary from England called The Alternate Miss World (1980), Trouble in Mind (1985), and Out of the Dark (1989).

A LUST TO KILL

(SW, 1957) D: Oliver Drake S: Sam Roeca, Thomas Hubbard P: A. R. Milton, Patrick Betz

Jim Davis is kind-hearted Marshal Clint in this obscure indy western. Allison Hayes helps Don Megowan as one of the Holland boys gang escape from jail. A scene of naked women swimming (shown from the back) made it exploitable in the 50s. It opens and closes with the biblical quotes that became the Pete Seeger song "Turn, Turn, Turn," later sung by the Byrds. Hayes was in The Disembodied, The Unearthly, and The Zombies of Mora Tau, all released the same year. Drake later directed The Mummy and the Curse of the Jackal.

LUTHER THE GEEK

(Quest, 1989) D: Carlton J. Albright S: Whitey Styles P: David Platt

Luther Watts (Edward Terry), a repulsive, balding, blond maniac with metal teeth who makes chicken noises and crows like a rooster, is paroled after 20 years in prison. He had been strongly affected by seeing a real circus geek as a kid in 1938 (shown in an excellent prologue). Luther eats raw eggs in a supermarket and bites an old lady on the neck before heading for a remote farm where he ties up the young widow who lives there. Her oblivious, big-breasted daughter (Stacy Haiduk, who played Lana Lang in the Superboy TV series) shows up for a shower (then bed) sex scene with her boyfriend. When she finds her mother (Joan Roth) tied up she cries and leaves her there! Luther leaves the farm, kills people, returns, guts the boyfriend, bites the stupid sheriff's finger off, and stalks the determined mother, who triumphs in a bizarre, ridiculous, but oddly effective and memorable ending. It was directed in Iowa and Illinois by the same man who wrote and produced The Children (1980).

MACABRO

(1965) D: Romolo Marcellini S: Giancarlo Del Re P: Guido Giambartolomei Italy (Mondo Macabro; Tabu No. 2)

Tribal circumcision rites, male geishas, snake-eating, Brazilian headhunters, and "railway roulette" are some topics explored in this mondo documentary narrated by Marvin Miller. Trans-American, the AIP offshoot that released it, originally planned to call this It's a Sick, Sick World.

MAC AND ME

(Orion, 1988) D/S: Stewart Raffill S: Steve Feke P: R. J. Lewis

In this subversive, PG-rated E.T. copy, aliens are revived by Coca-Cola and there's a musical number at a McDonald's (!). Many McDonald's plugs are included, and Ronald McDonald "himself" appears. The plot is: A kid in a wheelchair befriends a lost alien kid. The message is: Eat More Overpriced Junk Food, Kids! Christine Ebersole is the mom. Mark Damon (star of The Devil's Wedding Night) was the executive producer.

MACBETH

(Republic, 1948) D/S/P/A: Orson Welles

The first sound version of Shakespeare's play was made as cheaply as possible, in b/w, in about 21 days for Republic. Orson Welles is Macbeth, Jeanette Nolan is Lady Macbeth, and Dan O'Herlihy is Macduff. With Edgar Barrier, Roddy McDowall, Alan Napier, and William Alland, all using Scottish accents. Welles and O'Herlihy designed the simple, very theatrical sets. It was originally 105 minutes long but was sometimes shown cut at 89 minutes. It was released "restored" on laserdisc in 1992 with an additional audiotrack essay. Welles's next movie as a director was Othello (1951). Other features based on Shakespeare's MacBeth are Joe Macbeth (1955), a comedy about a modern-day American gangster, and Akira Kurosawa's Throne of Blood (1957), which has a samurai-era setting.

THE MACHINE

(1994) D/S: François Dupeyron P: René Gleitman France/Germany (La Machine)

A respected psychiatrist (Gérard Depardieu) uses a machine to trade minds and bodies with a psycho killer (Didier Bourbon). This serious horror movie was a major release in Europe. With Nathalie Baye as his wife, Natalia Woerner as his mistress, and Claude Berri. It's based on a novel by René Belletto.

MACHO CALLAHAN

(1970) D/P: Bernard Kowalski S: Clifford Newton Gould P: Martin C. Shute

"Macho" Callahan (David Janssen) escapes from a deadly Confederate prison camp and goes on a personal mission to kill the man who put him there (Lee J. Cobb). In Texas he accidentally kills a one-armed soldier (David Carradine). The widow (Jean Seberg) offers a reward. Later he rapes her, but she falls in love with him. With James Booth, Bo Hopkins, Diane Ladd, Pedro Armendariz Jr., and Matt Clark. This violent Avco Embassy western was filmed in Mexico. Seberg and Janssen later died tragically, within months of each other.

MACISTE IN HELL = THE WITCHES' CURSE

THE MACK

(Nelson, 1973) D: Michael Campus S: Robert J. Poole P: Harvey Bernhard

This outrageous black-action classic could still pack the house on 42nd Street 10 years after it was made. Max Julien stars as Goldie, a pimp in Oakland who is named "player" of the year before his violent downfall. Richard Pryor is his often hilarious buddy Slim. The dialogue is great, and characters die from rats, Drano, battery acid in veins, and dynamite in the mouth. With Roger E. Mosley as Goldie's militant brother, Juanita Moore as his mom, Don Gordon as a racist cop, Carol Speed, and Anazette Chase. The screenwriter was an ex-con and pimp in real life. The director also made The Passover Plot. Music by Willie Hutch and others is on the Motown soundtrack, but some video versions have a different 80s rerelease soundtrack. It was a Cinerama release.

Max Julien and Richard Pryor in The Mack.

MACON COUNTY LINE

(Embassy, 1974) D/S: Richard Compton S/P/A: Max Baer, Jr.

Accused of a murder they had nothing to do with, three Yankee kids are hunted by the law in Georgia in the 1950s. This AIP drive-in classic was the first feature produced by Max Baer, Jr. (Jethro in the TV series The Beverly Hillbillies), who also plays the sheriff. With Geoffrey Lewis, Joan Blackman, Cheryl Waters, Leif Garrett, Jesse Vint, and Alan Vint. Bobbie Gentry sings the theme song. Return to Macon County (1975) is the sequel.

MACON COUNTY WAR

(AIP, 1991) D/S/P: Bret McCormick

A man returns home to help out with a feud between families. Dan Haggerty stars. Fred Olen Ray was the executive producer. This has nothing to do with the 70s Macon County movies, but some video renters won't know that.

MAD AT THE MOON

(Republic, 1992) D: Martin Donovan S: Richard Pelusi P: Michael Kastenbaum, Matt Devlin

Mary Stuart Masterson stars in this slow-moving fairy tale/western as a woman who has an arranged marriage and discovers that her awkward, bearded farmer husband (Stephen Blake) suffers from "moon sickness." The pathetic man howls and roars in pain during his "transformations." She loves Hart Bochner (also in the director's Apartment Zero) as a mysterious gambler who likes bar girls like Cec Verrell. With Fionnula Flanagan and Daphne Zuniga in a flashback.

MAD AT THE WORLD

(Fang, 1955) D/S: Harry Essex P: Collier Young

This little-known but very cool b/w crime/jd movie from Ida Lupino's Filmmakers company was shot on location in Chicago. Keefe Brasselle is Sam, a Korean War vet who becomes a depressed vigilante after his baby is killed by a bottle thrown by a "wolf-pack." The small gang (led by Paul Dubov) hangs out at the Hijackers social club, and a white bebop group plays. Frank Lovejoy (who narrates) costars as the helpful police captain, and Cathy O'Donnell and Karen Sharpe are the women in Sam's life. The supporting cast is priceless. Stanley Clements (from the Bowery Boys) and Joseph Turkel (later a Stanley Kubrick regular) are Ignatz and Pete, jds who drink, beat, rob, and kill. Young Aaron Spelling (!) is a wide-eyed suspect from the slums, and Joe Besser (!) is a gas jockey with useful information. The jazzy score is by Leith Stevens (The Wild One). Harry Essex, a well-known screenwriter, also directed I, the Jury (1953) in 3-D.

THE MAD DEATH

(Prime, 1983) D: Robert Young S: Sean Hignett P: Robert McIntosh UK

It all starts like a Cujo copy but escalates until the entire Scottish countryside is threatened by packs of rabid dogs. A mass dog hunt with S.W.A.T. teams is organized, and the hero is a veterinarian. Some people become rabid (pronounced "ray-bid"). They hallucinate and have nightmares about water. This was originally a TV miniseries. It's really pretty boring.

MAD DOG AND GLORY

(MCA, 1993) D: John McNaughton S: Richard Price P: Barbara De Fina, Martin Scorsese C: Robby Muller M: Elmer Bernstein

Martin Scorsese and Robert De Niro hired the director of Henry: Portrait of a Serial Killer to make this black comedy with some violent scenes. A mild-mannered Chicago police photographer (De Niro, trying to change his image) saves the life of a mobster (Bill Murray). As a reward he receives a woman called Glory (Uma Thurman) for a week, and they fall in love. Also with David Caruso, Tom Towles (Henry), Kathy Baker, and Richard Belzer. This Universal release is from De Niro's Tribeca company.

MAD DOG COLL

(1961) D: Burt Balaban S/P: Edward Schreiber

John Davis Chandler stars as Vincent Coll, a crazed young 20s gangster in NYC who challenges bootlegger Dutch Schultz (Vincent Gardenia). With Kay Doubleday as his stripper mistress, Brooke Hayward, Jerry Orbach, Telly Savalas, and Gene Hackman (in his first role) as a cop. It's in b/w. Chandler was in The Young Savages the same year. Killer Instinct (1992) is also about Coll.

MAD DOGS AND ENGLISHMEN

(1971) D/P: Pierre Adidge P: Harry Marks, Robert Abel UK (Joe Cocker: Mad Dogs and Englishman)

Joe Cocker toured America in 1970 with a troupe of 42 musicians, including Leon Russell, Claudia Linnear, and Rita Coolidge, plus various girlfriends and kids. Adidge filmed 62 hours of footage and cut it down to 117 minutes for an MGM release. The A&M album was only Cocker's third.

MADE IN HEAVEN

(Warner, 1987) D: Alan Rudolph S/P: Bruce A. Evans, Raynold Gideon P: David Blocker

This romantic déjà-vu hippie movie may interest Neil Young fans. He appears and wrote the theme song, Buffalo Springfield songs are heard, and star Timothy Hutton even resembles Young after he's reincarnated. Hutton drowns saving some kids in the 40s (shown in b/w) and meets an unborn soul (Kelly McGillis) in heaven. Later they have to find each other on Earth with no memory of meeting before. A lot of time is spent explaining the rules of reincarnation and heavenly teleportation, and some scenes take place in Heaven, with wings and everything. With Maureen Stapleton as a dead aunt, Don Murray, Amanda Plummer, and Ellen Barkin. There are bits by Tom Petty, Ric Ocasek, Mare Winningham, John Considine, and Debra Winger in drag as God. Lorimar released this PG feature, which was made in Georgia and South Carolina.

THE MAD EXECUTIONERS

(Sinister, 1963) D: Edwin Zbonek
S: Robert A. Stemmle P: Arthur Brauner
W. Germany (Der Henker von London)

This b/w horror mystery, based on a novel by Bryan Edger Wallace (son of Edgar Wallace), has enough happening for two movies. Criminals are being sentenced and hanged by a secret court of hooded judges who drive horse-drawn carriages and use coffins for tables. A Scotland Yard inspector (Hansjorg Felmy) and an amateur detective who uses disguises check up on the many suspects. Meanwhile, a "fake" execution group appears, a body is sold to a museum as an ancient mummy (?!), and a mad surgeon/sex killer in a secret lab decapitates women and keeps their heads on an artificial body (this, unfortunately, is not shown). With Wolfgang Preiss and Maria Perschy. Some of the slow, Duane Eddy–type music is pretty great. The tape is letterboxed and includes trailers (good) but is also pretty worn out (bad).

MADHOUSE

(Virgin, 1980) D/S/P: "Oliver Hellman"/ Ovidio G. Assonitis S: Stephen Blakely, Peter Shepard, Robert Gandus
Italy (Scared to Death)

The deformed identical-twin sister of a teacher at a school for the deaf (Trish Everly) escapes from an asylum and moves into an old mansion. She kills people with the help of her priest uncle and her trained Rottweiler. Dead bodies are arranged around a table for a birthday party. This gory movie by the director of Beyond the Door (1975) was filmed in Savannah, Georgia. The video was banned in England.

MADHOUSE MANSION

(Comet, 1974) D/S/P: Stephen Weeks
S: Philip Norman, Rosemary Sutcliff
M: Ron Geeson UK (Ghost Story)

Naked Under Leather was a lot more fun, but here's another movie with singer Marianne Faithfull. It's a slow-moving story of three very different 20s British men vacationing at a huge estate. A doll becomes a little girl, and an old asylum is filled with ghosts. The dreams, nightmares, and bad memories of Miss Sophie (Faithfull) explain the restless spirits. Barbara Shelley plays two parts. The cinematography is good, but there are no notable special effects. It was shot in India. Stephen Weeks also directed Christopher Lee in I, Monster.

MADIGAN'S MILLIONS

(Video Treasures, 1966) D/S: Dan Ash
D: Stanley Prager, Giorgio Gentili
S: Jim Henaghen, José Luis Bayonas
P: Sidney Pink Italy/Spain
(Un Dollaro per Sette Vigliacchi)

By 1969, when AIP released this unfunny G-rated comedy, its star, Dustin Hoffman, had been nominated for two Oscars. He plays an IRS agent sent to Rome to recover money hidden by a murdered gangster (Cesar Romero). When he meets the gangster's daughter (Elsa Martinelli) he thinks she's his mistress. With George Raft, Gustavo Rojo, and Gérard Tichy.

MAD JACK: See BLOOD SALVAGE

MAD MAX BEYOND THUNDERDOME

(Warner, 1985) D: George Ogilvie
D/S/P: George Miller S/P: Terry Hayes

After the awesome Road Warrior, this third and final Mad Max movie was a big disappointment. Mel Gibson (who did his own stunts) and Bruce Spence return. Max leads the post-nuke feral children at the end. Instead of hyperspeed chase scenes in costumized vehicles Max has to battle some guy while hanging from big rubber bands in a makeshift arena. Aunty Entity (Tina Turner) runs Barter Town and famous dwarf actor Angelo Rossitto enjoys his ultimate role as "the Master," always on the shoulders of "Blaster." This Columbia release was rated PG-13 (the first two were rated R).

MAD MISSION III

(Vestron, 1984) D: Tsui Hark S: Raymond Wong P: Karl Mak, Dean Shek Hong Kong
(Aces Go Places III: Our Man in Bond Street)

This is part of a series of six (so far) silly action comedies that spoof James Bond movies, all very popular in Asia. Series star Samuel Hui is a master thief named King Kong who's hired to steal some jewels. Sylvia Chang and bald Carl Maka are the hero's police-couple friends. This entry features Richard Kiel reprising his Jaws role again as Big G, Tsunehara Sugiyama as Oddjob, and Peter Graves in a brief Mission Impossible–inspired scene. Doubles for James Bond and Queen Elizabeth steal the "Star of Fortune." The first two in the series, Mad Mission (1981) and Mad Mission II (1983), were directed by Eric Tsang and are available in America on video. Aces Go Places IV: You Never Die Twice (1986) was directed by Cheung Kuen. Aces Go Places V: The Terracotta Hit (1989) was directed by Lau Karl Leung.

Angelo Rossitto as "the Master" in Mad Max Beyond Thunderdome.

MADONNA: A CASE OF BLOOD AMBITION

(Atlas, 1990) D: Alain Zaloum S: Brenda Newman P: Roger Racine Canada

A woman (Deborah Mansy) kills the jurors who convicted her father of the rape and murder of a child after he is beaten to death in prison. She carefully plans each murder, seducing some of the victims. The film is based on a novel by Ed Kelleher and Hariette Vidal.

THE MAD PLUMBER: See THE PLUMBER

MAD RON'S PREVIEWS FROM HELL

(Off the Wall, 1987) D: Jim Monaco P: Ron Roccia, Jim Murray

A projectionist (Mad Ron Roccia), a ventriloquist (Ron Pawlow), and a zombie dummy host an 82-minute movie-trailer compilation made in Landsdowne, Pennsylvania. Everyone agrees that the comic bits in between are a problem, but the 45 theatrical-preview trailers shown make this a must for hard-core gore-and-exploitation fans. Some of the most notorious and disgusting movies ever made are represented, often with scenes later cut out of the actual films. Some titles are I Drink Your Blood, Africa, Blood and Guts, Man from Deep River, Deep Red. There are also trailers for the Ilsa series and H. G. Lewis movies. The real mondo-movie scenes are somehow even more shocking when mixed with all the faked horror.

THE MAESTRO: See HOME MOVIES

THE MAFU CAGE: See THE CAGE

MAGICAL MYSTERY TOUR

(MPI, 1967) D/P/A: The Beatles UK

The Beatles made this 60-minute fantasy, first shown on TV in England, as a follow-up project to the Sergeant Pepper album. It was criticized by nearly everyone at the time, but I think it's improved with age. John, Paul, George, and Ringo appear as wizards and as themselves in various drug-induced scenes. Some highlights are "I Am the Walrus" performed with animal masks, and George and Paul at a burlesque show. With the Bonzo Dog Band, Victor Spinetti (Help!), Ivor Cutler, Mal Evans, and Mike McGear (Paul's brother). A deluxe EP with six songs was issued in England. A Capitol album, which added five older hits, was released in America in time for Christmas and made it to number 1.

THE MAGIC CRANE

(1993) D: Benny Chan P: Tsui Hark Hong Kong

This period martial-arts/fantasy/adventure includes some gore, sex, cannibalism, a swarm of bats, and a giant crane and turtle. Tony Leung stars, with Chiu Wai, Anita Mui, and Rosamund Kwan as lady magicians and Lawrence Ng as the main villain.

THE MAGIC FOUNTAIN

(Sinister, 1961) D/P: Allan David S: John Lehmann

Prince Alfred (Peter Nestler) searches for a magic fountain in an enchanted castle to restore the health of his dying father. When his two evil brothers cause trouble, a dwarf turns them into ravens. This Brothers Grimm fairy tale was filmed in the Black Forest of Bavaria. The voices of Buddy Baer and Hans Conried are heard, Steve Allen sings the title song, and Cedric Hardwicke narrates the film and plays the king in footage added in 1964. Weegee is credited with (added) special effects.

THE MAGIC GARDEN OF STANLEY SWEETHEART

(1970) D: Leonard Horn S: Robert T. Westbrook P: Martin Poll

Don Johnson (in his movie debut) stars as a Columbia University student who makes an underground sex film (called Headless) starring Holly Near (she was also in Angel, Angel Down We Go! and later became a feminist folk singer). He also gets high and joins in body-painting and group sex. With Linda Gillin, Michael Greer, and Dianne Hull. Mike Curb was the musical supervisor, and MCA released the soundtrack, featuring Davie Allen, Richie Havens, Crow, Eric Burdon and War, and others. This R-rated adaptation of Robert T. Westbrook's novel was not popular. Johnson returned in other counterculture misfires like Zachariah and The Harrad Experiment.

THE MAGICIAN

(Fright, 1926) D/S/P: Rex Ingram

The great German star Paul Wegener is Oliver Haddo, a caped alchemist and hypnotist in France. He has a remote castle known as "the sorcerer's tower" with an elaborate mad lab and a dwarf assistant. Haddo needs "the blood of a maiden" (Alice Terry) to create life, so he takes her over Svengali style. In an incredible scene she's transported to Hell, where he appears as the Devil and nearly naked horned men dance. Villagers attack and blow up the castle at the end. The film is based on a novel by Somerset Maugham that was inspired by the real-life Aleister Crowley. The first two Universal Frankenstein movies borrowed a lot from this ambitious horror/fantasy silent. An expensive and impressive-looking MGM production, it was filmed at Rex Ingram's studio in Nice, on location in Paris and on the Riviera. Scenes are tinted in various colors. It was unpopular when released and called "tasteless and horrible" by reviewers. The maiden is played by the American wife of the Irish director. His assistant was the future British filmmaker Michael Powell (who also acts in the film).

THE MAGICIAN OF LUBLIN

(1979) D/S/P: Menahem Golan S: Irving S. White P: Yoram Globus Israel/W. Germany/Canada

Alan Arkin stars as a depressed Jewish traveling magician in turn-of-the-century Poland. It's based on a novel by Isaac Bashevis Singer, and features Louise Fletcher, Shelley Winters (she was in several Golan pictures), Valerie Perrine, Maia Danziger, Lou Jacobi, and Warren Berlinger. Golan returned with more typical Cannon features like The Apple (1980) and Enter the Ninja (1981).

THE MAGIC KID

(PM, 1993) D/P: Joseph Merhi S: Stephen Smoke P: Richard Pepin (Ninja Dragons)

Ted Jan Roberts (a black belt at 13) stars as a martial-artist kid who gets to meet his hero, Don "the Dragon" Wilson, in LA. With Stephen Furst as his uncle, an alcoholic professional clown in debt to a mob boss (Joseph Campanella), Shonda Whipple, Lauren Tewes, Pamela Dixon, and Chris Mitchum. This PG film from guys known for R action movies copies Sidekicks and Three Ninjas.

THE MAGIC KID II

(PM, 1994) D/S/A: Stephen Furst S: Nick Stone P: Richard Pepin and Joseph Merhi

Flounder from National Lampoon's Animal House made this PG sequel. The star (Ted Jan Roberts) of the "Ninja Boy" movies leaves the Hollywood life for school, but bad-guy studio executives plot to lure him back to make them more money. With Allyce Beasley, Wil Shriner, and cameos by former St. Elsewhere regulars William Daniels, Howie Mandel, and David Morse.

THE MAGIC SERPENT

(VSOM, 1966) D: Tetsui Yamaguchi S: Marasu Igami P: Shigeru Okawa Japan (Kai Tatsu Daikessen)

This Toei fantasy features giant monsters (men in suits), ninjas, a spider woman, and decapitations and spurting blood. When ghosts appear the color film changes to b/w. A prince (Hiroki Matsukata) who is a student of a wizard is the hero. AIP released this (badly dubbed) directly to TV, while some less intersting Japanese sci-fi movies played in theaters.

THE MAGIC WEAVER

(United, 1960) D/P: Alexander Rou S: Eugene Schwartz USSR (Mariya Iskusnitsa)

The director of this color fairy tale made many fantasy films in the USSR, at the Maxim Gorky studios. It has lots of special effects, fantasy sets, and excellent animal footage. A happy, singing soldier helps a kid rescue his mother, a weaver, from a wizard king with an underwater kingdom. She says, "Freedom or slavery, it is all one." I like the frog man and the pirates who sing in Russian. Allied Artists released it in America in 1965. Then Jeffrey C. Hogue put it on video.

MAGNUM FORCE

(Warner, 1973) D: Ted Post S: John Milius, Michael Cimino P: Robert Daly

It's not as good as Dirty Harry (1971), but Clint Eastwood ("Do You Feel Lucky?") returns as San Francisco cop Harry Callahan for the second time. He discovers killers in the police department. David Soul, Robert Urich, and Kip Niven (Bummer!) are cops who have become "executioners." The cast also includes Hal Holbrook, Tim Matheson, Richard Devon, and Suzanne Somers (shot dead in a pool). The Enforcer was next in the series. In real life, two killer hold-up men claimed they were inspired by this movie to force five of their victims to drink Drano.

THE MAGUS

(1968) D: Guy Green S: John Fowles P: John Kohn, Jud Kinberg UK

Michael Caine takes a teaching job at a boys' school on a Greek island, replacing a man who killed himself. He visits the villa/asylum of Conchis, the god-like "Magus" (Anthony Quinn), where he's forced to play various games, is told to whip Candice Bergen (whom he has seen in a porno movie), and is put on trial. He discovers that Conchis was responsible for helping to arrange Nazi atrocities during the war (seen in flashbacks). With Anna Karina and Julian Glover. This confusing, reality-shifting feature was shot in Spain and released by 20th Century–Fox. It would make a good Quinn double bill with The Visit (1964).

MAHOGANY

(Paramount, 1975) D: Berry Gordy, Tony Richardson S: John Byrum P: Rob Cohen, Jack Ballard

Diana Ross is a poor girl who becomes a famous fashion designer in Europe. Billy Dee Williams loves her, but it's Tony Perkins as Sean, her psychotic photographer, who ruins her life and steals all his scenes. Motown president Berry Gordy (who was romantically involved with Ross) fired the director and made most of it himself (a big mistake). Perkins fans shouldn't miss it. With Jean-Pierre Aumont, Nina Foch, and Marisa Mell. The soundtrack is on Motown (of course). Ross' next film, the last of three (all for Motown), was The Wiz.

MAIDEN QUEST

(Private Screenings, 1970) D: Adrian Hoven S: Fred Denger D/S/P: David F. Friedman W. Germany (Siegfried und das Sägenhafte Liebesleben der Nibelungen; The Long Swift Sword of Siegfried)

This comic sex remake of Fritz Lang's classic 1924 epic Die Nibelungen copies the original script pretty closely and was a hit in Germany. While it was being shot, Cabaret was being made on the next sound stage. Friedman "Americanized" it with dubbing. Russ Meyer regular Stuart Lancaster is the voice of the king. Star Raymond Harmstorf (known in Germany for playing Jack London on TV) became "Lance Boyle" in the US credits. Although there's no dragon, the story includes a magic cap of invisibility, a wall of fire, a trip to Iceland, a torture chamber, and the insatiable Brunhild and her all-female army wearing Barbarella-type costumes. Although it's a well-produced costume film, it's a sex movie, and there's lots of nudity and very energetic sex. There's an orgy, topless dancers, voyeurs, and (best of all) sex with an invisible man. This is the first look Americans got of Sybelle Denninger (later Sybil Danning) as the king's sister, Kriemhild (pronounced "Cream-held"). She has pretty wild eyelashes and a surprising lesbian scene. The soundtrack uses music by Richard Wagner and some funny, out-of-place rock with electric-guitar leads. Director Hoven also produced Succubus and Mark of the Devil.

Anthony Perkins in Berry Gordy's Mahogany.

MAÎTRESSE

(Warner, 1976) D/S: Barbet Schroeder S: Paul Voujargol France

A thief (Gérard Depardieu) falls for a dominatrix (Bulle Ogier, who later married the director) after he and a partner break into her house. She dresses in black leather and operates a well-stocked torture chamber. Some real dominatrix customers were used for the strong torture scenes. This often shocking feature (in one scene, a penis is nailed to a board) received an X rating in America and was a surprise (and uncut) release by Warner Video in 1992.

THE MAJORETTES!

(Tempe, 1986) D: Bill Hinzman S/P: John Russo (One by One)

A psycho in a hood kills suburban high-school girls. A Devil-worshipping, drug-dealing biker gang is thrown in, along with many other suspects. It's based on John Russo's novel and was directed (badly) by a Night of the Living Dead zombie in Pittsburgh. With Russ Streiner, and cameos by Russo and Hinzman.

MAKE THEM DIE SLOWLY

(IVE, 1980) D/S: Umberto Lenzi P: Antonia Crescenzi Italy (Cannibal Feroux)

Ads for this unrated shocker (falsely) claimed, "Banned in 31 countries." It's one of the stronger fake lost-civilization films talked about in reverent tones by "fans" and condemned by others (who usually haven't seen it). College students in Colombia encounter Indians who fight back after being abused by drug dealers. Meanwhile, a police lieutenant (Richard Bolla) searches for a dealer in NYC. There are fake scenes of severed limbs, brain and gut eating, castration, and torture. A woman is strung up in A Man Called Horse–style by her chest. If that isn't enough, a crocodile and turtle are actually killed. John Morghen is the sadistic drug dealer Mike. Women about to die sing "Red River Valley." It was made in South America and NYC. Aquarius released it in 1983, rated X.

MAKING CONTACT

(Starmaker, 1985) D/P: Roland Emmerich W. Germany (Joey)

A kid (Joshua Morrell) talks to his dead dad on a magic phone, and an evil spirit is in a ventriloquist doll. This Spielberg-like PG fantasy is set in Virginia Beach but was filmed near Stutgart. New World released it. The director later made big-budget titles like Universal Soldier and Stargate.

MAKING MR. RIGHT

(HBO, 1987) D: Susan Seidelman S: Floyd Byars, Laurie Frank P: Mike Wise

John Malkovich stars as an anti-social scientist and his friendly lookalike, a robot creation called Ulysses. Ann Magnuson is Frankie Stone, a Miami publicist engaged to a congressman (Hart Bochner). She's supposed to sell Ulysses to the public but falls in love with him. With Glenne Headly, Laurie Metcalf, Ben Masters, and Polly Bergen. This Orion fantasy/comedy is rated PG-13.

MALAMONDO

(1964) D/S: Paolo Cavara S: Ugo Gregoretti, Zanetti P: Goffredo Lombardo Italy (I Malamondo)

"Bizarre activities of European youth" are explored in this mondo movie. It features Swiss students who ski naked, Italians butchering a pig, a Paris "happening," female impersonators, an orgy in a graveyard, rock and roll in Italy, suicide, and miscegenation. The Ennio Morricone soundtrack is on Epic. The narration is by Marvin Miller, and Jane Morgan and Catherine Spaak sing.

MALIBU BEACH

(Starmaker, 1978) D/S: Robert J. Rosenthal S: Celia Susan Cotelo P: Marilyn J. Tenser

Kim Lankford stars as a lifeguard in this teen beach comedy with Stephen Oliver, James Daughton, Susan Player-Jareau, Tara Stromeir, and Rebecca Ferratti (from Playboy). It's from Crown International and the director of Zapped!

THE MALIBU BIKINI SHOP

(Fox, 1985) D/S: David Wechter P: Gary Mehlman, J. Rotcop, Leo Leichter (The Bikini Shop)

College-grad brothers (Michael David Wright and Bruce Greenwood) inherit a bikini store from their aunt (the then-newsworthy Rita Jenrette). This sex comedy features Debra Blee, Jay Robinson, Kathleen Freeman, and hot tubs.

MALIBU EXPRESS

(MCA, 1984) D/S/P: Andy Sidaris

Former child actor Darby Hinton stars as a millionaire private eye, in this remake of the director's Stacy! (1973), which was a cable-TV staple for years. It features four Playboy playmates (Barbara Edwards, Lorraine Michaels, Lynda Wiesmeier, and Kimberly McArthur), lots of nudity, and a transvestite bar scene. With Art Metrano and, in small roles, Regis and Joy Philbin, porno star Shauna McCulloch, and Sybil Danning as a countess. Playboy magazine put up half the budget. Hard Ticket to Hawaii was the next by Sidaris, who went on to make many more interchangeable sex/action movies.

MALIBU HIGH

(1979) D: Irv Berwick S: John Buckley, Tom Singer P: Lawrence D. Foldes

A girl (Jill Lansing) becomes a teen hooker who gives a school teacher a heart attack by stripping for him. It's by the director of The Monster of Piedras Blancas. The sequel to this sleazy Crown release was Young Warriors.

MALICE

(New Line, 1993) D/P: Harold Becker S: Aaron Sorkin, Scott Frank P: Rachel Pfeffer, Charles Mulvehill M: Jerry Goldsmith

A serial killer/rapist is loose on a New England campus. Alec Baldwin stars as a supersurgeon ("I am God") who rooms at the house of the college dean and performs emergency surgery on the man's wife (Nicole Kidman). This slick Columbia feature has many plot holes and borrows ideas from Marnie. Bill Pullman costars as the dean, with Peter Gallagher as a lawyer, George C. Scott, and Anne Bancroft.

MALPERTUIS

(VSOM, 1972) D: Harry Kumel S: Jean Ferry P: Paul Laffargue Belgium/France/W. Germany

The dying, god-like Cassavius (Orson Welles) "captures" some Greek gods in his huge island home and has them "sewn" into human skins by a taxidermist. This adaptation of a novel by Jean Ray is by the director of the cult vampire movie Daughters of Darkness. Mathieu Carriere is a sailor who falls in love with Gorgon (Susan Hampshire, who plays three roles) and becomes a statue. With Jean-Pierre Cassel, Sylvie Varton, Daniel Pilon, and Walter Rilla. A 124-minute English-language version exists, but it's been cut down to as short as 96 minutes.

MAMA'S DIRTY GIRLS

(TWE, 1974) D/C: John Hayes P: Ed Carlin, Gil Lasky (Jessie's Girls)

"Sultry sisters in sin—they fight dirty—they love dirty!" Gloria Grahame marries for money, and Candice Rialson and Sondra Currie are her money-hungry daughters. This Premiere release was made after Hayes' Grave of the Vampire.

MAN AND WIFE

(1969) D/S: "Matt Cimber"/Matteo Ottaviano

Cimber, who had married Jayne Mansfield and directed her last film (Single Room Furnished), made this and other early porno movies. They were allowed to be screened because they were disguised as documentaries. This has been called "the first theatrical hard-core feature," and it was said to include 49 positions. Cimber later made black-action and Pia Zadora movies.

MAN BAIT

(1952) D: Terence Fisher S: Frederick Knott P: Anthony Hinds UK (The Last Page)

Sexy Diana Dors was introduced to American audiences in this Hammer film released by Lippert. In one of his last films, American star George Brent plays a book dealer who gets involved in blackmail and murder. Marguerite Chapman, another American, costars. Fisher's next was Stolen Face.

MAN BEHIND THE SUN

(World Video, 1987) D: Xeng Le Law S: Mou Wen Yuan, Teng Dun Jing, Liu Mei Fei P: Fu Chi Hong Kong (Hei Tai Yang 731; Black Sun 731)

This unflinching, fact-based movie, with convincing FX, about WWII Japanese medical atrocities was produced the same year as The Last Emperor. It shocked even the most jaded viewers when it played in some American theaters and was a hit in parts of Asia. In 1945 General Ishi takes over as director of the notorious 731 Squadron in Manchukuo (Manchuria), where "3,000 Chinese, Korean, and Russian people died." Japanese kids receive brutal training and learn to hate Chinese and consider them less than human. Prisoners are used for horrifying experiments and live autopsies. The ending explains that the guilty escaped to Pusan, where they were spared by the Americans, and that the results of Ishi's germ-warfare experiments were used on our side in the Korean War! The video is letterboxed. The Japanese dialogue is dubbed into English, but the Chinese dialogue is not. Man Behind the Sun 2: Laboratory of the Devil (1991) and Man Behind the Sun 3: Narrow Escape (1994) followed.

MAN BITES DOG

(Fox Lorber, 1992) D/S/P/A: Rémy Belvaux D/S/P/A/C: André Bonzel D/P/A: Benoît Poelvoorde S: Vincent Tarvier Belgium (C'est Arrivé près de chez Vous)

A film crew follows a friendly, cultured, poetry-spouting, racist, homophobic psycho killer (Benoît Poelvoorde) who never stops talking while he's busy at "work." The three-man crew eventually joins him in committing crimes. This documentary-style black comedy is disturbing (a gang rape and guts are shown), too long, and more irritating than anything else. It was shot in 16mm b/w by guys in their 20s. Real relatives of the leads play themselves. It won several European awards. It's available as an NC-17 or unrated (cut) video (both are in French with English subtitles). The complete Criterion laserdisc includes an interview. The lesser-known America's Deadliest Home Videos, from the same year, used the same idea.

A MAN CALLED HORSE

(Fox, 1970) D: Elliot Silverstein S: Jack De Witt P: Sandy Howard

In the early 19th century an Englishman, Lord Morgan (Richard Harris), is captured by Sioux Indians and becomes a slave. He learns their language and customs and falls in love with Running Deer (Corinna Tsopei), the chief's daughter. Before they can marry he has to prove himself by enduring the "sun vow" torture. The famous shocking scenes of Harris hanging from hooks stuck through the skin on his chest inspired more tasteless imitations in European cannibal movies. Famous stuntman Yakima Canutt was the second-unit director. With Judith Anderson, Dub Taylor, Iron Eyes Cody, Manuel Padilla, and many real American Indians. It was filmed in Mexico and released by National General. The Leonard Rosenman score is on Columbia. Harris returned in Return of a Man Called Horse and Triumphs of a Man Called Horse.

Richard Harris is A Man Called Horse.

A MAN CALLED RAINBO

(Section Eight, 1989) D: Lesser Pismo D/S/P: Robert Schnitzer S: Scott Altizer P: Jeffrey Hilton

This is a reedited and redubbed version of Rebel (1969) starring Sylvester Stallone. This time he's a Nam-deserter hippy who has to help start WWIII. The humor consists mostly of sex, drug, and shit jokes.

A MAN CALLED SLEDGE

(VSOM, 1970) D/S: Vic Morrow S: Frank Kowalski P: Dino De Laurentiis

James Garner stars as Sledge, a wanted man who goes after a gold shipment with his gang (including Dennis Weaver and Claude Akins) and some maximum-security prisoners they help to escape. Laura Antonelli is his woman. This downbeat Columbia western, filmed in Spain and Italy, features John Marley and Ken Clark. Morrow also directed Deathwatch.

THE MANCHU EAGLE MURDER CAPER MYSTERY

(United Artists, 1973) D/S: Dean Hargrove S/A: Gabriel Dell P: Edward K. Dobbs

This PG spoof of 40s private-eye films was barely released, but check out the cast. Former Dead End Kid Gabriel Dell stars as an amateur detective who raises chickens. He tries to solve the murder of a milkman (Dick Gautier). With Will Geer, Joyce Van Patten, Anjanette Comer, Nita Talbot, Vincent Gardenia, Barbara Harris, Sorrell Brooke, Jackie Coogan, and Huntz Hall. Made by United Artists.

MANCHURIAN AVENGER

(HBO, 1984) D: Ed Warnick S: Pat Hamilton, Timothy Stephenson P: Robyn Bensinger (Shanghai Joe)

Bobby Kim, Bill "Sugarfoot" Wallace, and Michael Stuart star in this martial-arts western set in a Colorado gold-rush town.

THE MANCHURIAN CANDIDATE

(MGM, 1962) D: John Frankenheimer
S: George Axelrod P: Howard Koch

Frank Sinatra has nightmares of when he was a prisoner during the Korean War. He tries to stop brainwashed, zombie-like Laurence Harvey from assassinating a presidential candidate at Madison Square Garden. Harvey was programmed in Manchuria to obey orders whenever he sees a Queen of Diamonds. His mother (Angela Lansbury, who was nominated for an Oscar) is behind the plot to have her vice-presidential-nominee husband (James Gregory) become president. The flashback/nightmare brainwashing scenes are excellent, and Sinatra and Henry Silva (playing a Korean) have an early (for the US) martial-arts battle. With Janet Leigh, Leslie Parrish, Khigh Diegh, John McGiver, Whit Bissell, and Reggie Nalder. This 126-minute UA release was kept out of circulation for years (so was Suddenly, the other Sinatra assassination movie). It was rereleased theatrically in 1987. The video includes interviews with Sinatra, director John Frankenheimer, and others.

MAN CRAZY

(1953) D: Irving Lerner S/P: Sidney Harmon S: Philip Yordan

Neville Brand is top billed as a Hollywood villain in this story about three women who want to be in the movies. The ads said, "It's Bold! Blunt! Brutal!" Christine White, Irene Anders, and Coleen Miller are the aspiring actresses. With Joe Turkel, Karen Steele, and Jack Larson. It's from 20th Century–Fox.

MANDINGO

(Paramount, 1975) D: Richard Fleischer
S: Norman Wexler P: Dino De Laurentiis

James Mason is a southern slave-owner in 1840. His daughter (Susan George) messes with a bare-knuckles-fighting slave (Ken Norton). This long (more than two hours), big-budget exploitation movie was condemned by the Catholic Church. It features Perry King, Ben Masters, Ji-Tu Cumbuka, Brenda Sykes, Debbi Morgan, and Laura Misch (from Playboy). Mason uses kids for footstools, there's male nudity, and characters are pitchforked and boiled alive. Norton returned in a sequel, Drum. Both features were based on books by Kyle Onstott (supposedly a pseudonym for a black French Quarter queen).

MANDINGO MANHUNTER: See MAN HUNTER

MANDRAKE THE MAGICIAN

(Stokey, 1939) D: Sam Nelson, Norman Deming
S: Joseph F. Poland, Basil Dickey, Ned Dandy P: Jack Fier

This 12-chapter Columbia serial stars Warren Hull (who also played the Green Hornet) as Mandrake, who has the power to cloud men's minds. The character is based on the comic strip by Lee Falk. Al Kikume is his African sidekick, Lothar, and Doris Weston is Betty. The Wasp, the masked villain, has a deadly radium machine. There was also a 1954 TV series and a 1979 TV movie.

MANDROID

(Paramount, 1993) D: Jack Ersgard S: Earl Kenton, Jackson Barr P: Vlad Paunesco, Dana Paunesco

In Eastern Europe the masked Dr. Drago takes over a powerful, all-black, remote-control Robocop-look robot. The action high point is a shootout in an old building. This is another movie aimed at kids that for some reason ends with the bad guy in bed with a topless hooker. There's also a lame setup for a sequel called Invisible. Brian Cousins is the American hero, and Jane Caldwell is the blond daughter of a good scientist. It was made in Romania by a Swedish director.

MAN-EATER: See SHARK!

MAN-EATER OF HYDRA

(Sinister, 1965) D: Mel Welles S: Stephen Schmidt
P: George Ferrer Spain/W. Germany (Das Geheimnis der Todesinsel; Island of the Doomed)

Six tourists visit the villa of botanist Baron von Weiser (Cameron Mitchell), and several are killed. The baron's menacing, dead servant seems to return to life, and his special hybrid tree has blood-sucking tubes. Mitchell plays it cool until near the (very bloody) end, when he sobs to his creation, "My darling, my pet, my baby!" and attacks with an axe. Elisa Montes is blond Beth, and Kay Fischer is red-haired Carla. Sylvia Miles dubbed the voice of the old lady with the camera. The soundtrack is cool jazz and some zither music. Allied Artists released it in America. Welles (an American actor known for early Roger Corman movies) also directed Lady Frankenstein (1972).

THE MANEATERS ARE LOOSE!

(1978) D: Timothy Galfas S: Robert W. Lenski P: Bill Finnegan

Tom Skerritt, Steve Forrest, Harry Morgan, and G. D. Spradlin star in this story about killer tigers unleashed near a California town. Diana Muldaur and Dabney Coleman are also in this CBS-TV movie.

MAN FACING SOUTHEAST

(Starmaker, 1986) D/S: Elisio Subiela
P: Lujan Pflaum Argentina

A man mysteriously appears in a Buenos Aires mental hospital, claims to be an alien, and seems to have supernatural powers. A psychiatrist tries to figure him out. The cast includes Lorenzo Quinteros, Hugo Soto, and Ines Verengo. New World released this serious film (in Spanish with English subtitles) in America.

THE MAN FROM BEYOND

(Sinister, 1921) D: Burton King S: Coolidge Streeter P/A: Harry Houdini

Houdini (who also wrote the story) stars as a man encased in Arctic ice who's thawed out and searches for the reincarnation of the woman he loved 100 years before. There's lots of magic and a cimactic battle on the edge of Niagara Falls. I saw this with my father and a hall full of other magicians when I was a kid. The famous escape artist and illusionist (born in Hungary and raised in Wisconsin) also starred in a serial, The Master Mystery (1918), and several other silent features.

MAN FROM DEEP RIVER

(Prism, 1972) D: Umberto Lenzi S: Francesco Barilli, Massimo D'Avaci P: M. G. Rossi Italy (Il Paese del Sesso Selvaggio; Deep River Savages)

A macho British photographer (Ivan Rassimov) is captured by a tribe in Thailand while snorkeling, and he eventually marries the cannibal chief's daughter (Me Me Lai). With cannibals, torture scenes, a Man Called Horse–style hanging scene, monkey-brain eating, and nudity. It was the first of its kind and was shot on location in the Thai jungle. Both stars returned in the even stronger Jungle Holocaust (1976), by Ruggero Deodato. An uncut version with Spanish subtitles is available from VGV.

THE MAN FROM HONG KONG

(1975) D: Brian Trenchard-Smith P: Raymond Chow Hong Kong/Australia

Jimmy Wang Yu (The One-Armed Swordsman) is a police inspector who goes to Sydney, Australia, and uses kung fu to battle drug dealers led by George Lazenby. Lazenby, who played James Bond once, was in other 70s Chinese features too.

THE MAN FROM O.R.G.Y.

(1970) D: James A. Hill P: Sidney Pink

Robert Walker Jr. searches for three prostitutes who have gopher tattoos on their asses, to inform them that they've inherited a uranium mine. A midget helps him, and some Mafia agents try to stop him. With Steve Rossi, Slappy White, Louisa Moritz, and Lynn Carter. This R-rated Cinemation sex comedy was filmed in NYC and Puerto Rico. Walker also starred in Son of Blob!

THE MAN FROM S.E.X.

(Catalina, 1979) D: Lindsay Shonteff
S: Jeremy Lee Francis P: Elizabeth Gray
UK (Licensed to Love and Kill)

Gareth Hunt is agent Charles Bind, in this boring movie with bad puns and exaggerated sound FX. The hero is cloned, a midget in bell bottoms uses a whip, people are thrown into a pool of acid, and a man plays Madame Wang. The oddest scene has a stripper twirling razor-blade tassels. This is part of a series of spy spoofs by the Canadian-born director.

THE MAN FROM U.N.C.L.E.

(MGM series)

This NBC-TV spy series lasted from 1964 (the same year as Goldfinger) to 1968. It was so popular that MGM released theatrical features made from TV episodes. Robert Vaughn is Napoleon Solo, and David McCallum is Illya Kuryakin. The only other regular cast member was Leo G. Carroll as Mr. Waverly. So far, 22 volumes are available, with 2 episodes on each 104-minute video. Some of the directors were Richard Donner, John Newland, and Barry Shear. And a list of interesting guest villains would be very long.

A feature version of the TV series The Man from U.N.C.L.E.

THE MANGLER

(New Line, 1995) D/W: Tobe Hooper & Stephen Brooks P: Arvon Singh US/Israeli/S. Africa

This Stephen King adaptation is a lot like Graveyard Shift: it's set in a small New England town and it's dark, dreary, and very confusing. King's Night Shift story was only twenty pages long. Ted Levine stars as a depressed cop trying to find out how and why a big old industrial laundry pressing machine is grinding up local workers. With gore scenes, an enchanted creature, a psychic (Daniel Matmor), and a possessed refrigerator. Robert England (looking like Dr. Strangelove in old-age makeup) is the heartless crippled sweatshop owner with a voice box and an eye patch. Also with Vanessa Pike and Lisa Morris. Henry Alan Towns was executive producer. England was cast in Hooper's Night Terrors, shot around the same time.

MANHATTAN BABY

(Lightning, 1982) D/W/A: Lucio Fulci & Elisa Livia Briganti, Giovanni Sacchetti P: Fabrizio De Angelis Italy
(Double Art Master of the Evil Dead; Not Reviewed)

Christopher Connelly discovers a tomb and is blinded by a cursed Egyptian medallion. Back in NYC his daughter (Martha Taylor) is possessed and goes on a bloody killing spree. With Cinzia De Ponti (Miss Italy 1979) and some horror-movie in-jokes. Fulci did New York Ripper the same year.

THE MANHATTAN PROJECT

(HBO, 1986) D/W/P: Marshall Brickman
St: Thomas Baum P: Jennifer Ogden

A high-school kid (Christopher Collet) whose father is working on the Star Wars project steals some plutonium with help from his girlfriend (Cynthia Nixon) and builds his own nuclear reactor, nearly blowing up the world. This Columbia comedy/thriller was released after War Games. With John Lithgow, Jill Eikenberry, and John Mahoney. Brickman also made Simon (1980).

MAN HUNT

(Sac, 1961) D: Rita Lang & Dudley Nichols P: Kenneth MacGowan

Walter Pidgeon stars as Captain Thorndike, a British big-game hunter who fails in his first attempt to kill Hitler. He's arrested, escaped to London with Nazis in pursuit, and as the movie ends is ready to try again. With Joan Bennett, George Sanders and Joan Carradine as Nazis, and young Roddy McDowall. This 20th Century-Fox film is based on the novel Rogue Male, by Geoffrey Household. It was made after Lang's two westerns, The Return of Frank James and Western Union. Other Lang films with anti-Nazi themes are Hangmen Also Die (1943), Ministry of Fear (1945), and Cloak and Dagger (1946). Rogue Male (1976) is a color BBC-TV remake starring Peter O'Toole.

MANHUNT

(MGM, 1973) D/P: Fernando Di Leo
St: Augusto Finocchi, Ingo Hermes
Italy (The Italian Connection)

Henry Silva (soldier for the mob, and there's a major heroin deal. With Woody Strode, Luciana Paluzzi, Sylva Koscina, Mario Adorf, and Aldolfo Celi.

THE MANHUNT

(Vanda, 1976) D/W/P: Fabrizio De Angelis Italy

John Ethan Wayne is a horse trainer framed as a horse thief and hunted by the authorities. With Henry Silva, Bo Svenson, and Ernest Borgnine. It was filmed in Arizona and has fake production credits.

MAN HUNTER

(Cave, 1960) D/S/M: Clifford Brown Yeah! France
S/P: Jean Schwarz Gomez Italy/Spain/W. Germany
(I Cannibali/Il Cacciatore di Uomini/Les Mangeurs de Hommes)

A blond movie starlet (Ursula Pallaver) is kidnapped for ransom by gangsters and taken to an island where she is chained up. With Massimo Serato, cannibals in the jungle, and a huge black zombie with Ping-Pong ball eyes, known as "The Devil," who rapes women and then eats them. Notice the very inconsistent color and bad makeup. With Al Oliver and Robert Morton.

MANHUNTER

(1974) D: Martin Beck & Greg Lyndes P/A: Earl Owensby

Owensby made his first million selling process tele-tools. He opened his own studio in Shelby, North Carolina, and produced action movies for distribution in the South. "The Confederate Clint Eastwood" starred in a reported 15 movies before selling his studio in 1990. He's Frank Challenge, superspy, in this Walking Tall spoof. His first.

MANHUNTER

(Warner, 1986) D/S: Michael Mann P: Richard Roth (Red Dragon: The Search for Hannibal Lecter)

William L. Petersen stars as a southern FBI agent who attempts to get into the mind of a serial killer in order to capture him. It's based on the Thomas Harris novel Red Dragon (1981). The Silence of the Lambs later used some of the same characters. The acting is great, and it's a very stylish, intense feature. Brian Cox is Dr. Lecter, and Tom Noonan is "the Tooth Fairy," who kills families during the full moon with a stocking on his head. With Kim Greist, Joan Allen, and Dennis Farina. Dino De Laurentiis backed the film. After the other Lecter movie became a hit NBC retitled this for TV to make people think it was a sequel.

MANHUNT IN SPACE: See ROCKY JONES

MANHUNT OF MYSTERY ISLAND

(Republic, 1945) D: Spencer Gordon Bennet, William A. Grissell, Wallace A. Grissell & Albert Demond, Basil Dickey, Ande Lamb

A modern villain "becomes" the 200-year-old, pirate Magnifico (Guy Kingsford) with the "transformation chair." He's after the "radio-electric power transmitter." This 15-chapter Republic serial stars Richard Bailey as criminologist Lance Reardon and Linda Sterling as the daughter of a kidnapped scientist. The overworked stuntmen are Dale Van Sickel, Eddie Parker, and Tom Steele. The 1966 feature version is Captain Mephisto and the Transformation Machine.

MANIAC COP

(Orion, 1987) D: William Lustig S/P: Larry Cohen

When NYC cop Bruce Campbell's wife is killed, he's blamed, and indeed every other cop. Laurene Landon helps him escape and catch the real killer. Robert Z'Dar is Matt Cordell, the rarely seen, badly scarred, almost supernatural killer, a big former cop who was framed and sent to prison. In one scene he destroys a police station. It's a superior action movie with a horror subplot and some humor. With Tom Atkins as the cop on the case, Richard Roundtree, William Smith, Sheree North

Paul Henreid stars in this Hammer mystery about a private detective who's after a killer. Lois Maxwell (later in James Bond movies), Kieron Moore, and Hugh Sinclair costar. United Artists released it

MANNEQUIN II: ON THE MOVE

(1991) D: Stewart Raffill S: David Isaacs, Ken Levine, Betsy Israel S/P: Edward Rugoff

closeup shows a Capitol LP playing, but we hear the Lila theme (again). His face becomes other men's faces. Loud, echoing laughter and backwards music and dialogue are heard: "Oh, wow ! Oh, wild!" His head becomes a bunch of bananas, and she stabs him with a screwdriver. Russ Meyer star Stuart Lancaster plays Ackerman, a psychologist who tries to analyze her. She dances for him in a see-through nightie. During sex he turns into a mad surgeon with a syringe (the fast editing is excellent). A voice says, "Do as I say. Eat raw vegetables." Later she has flashbacks while dancing at the club and sees a submarine sandwich turn into a hand being sliced off. The next victim is an aggressive, drunken slob who gets chopped with a cleaver. Outside, marquees announce, "Topless, bottomless LSD revue" and Procol Harum! Among the strippers is Pat Barrington (Orgy of the Dead). The interesting cinematography by Kovacs is shortly before he did Easy Rider. The camera goes behind the strippers and back and forth in the audience. Most of the dialogue is corny and dated, but there are a lot of good sarcastic lines. The strip-

THE MAN WHO KNEW TOO MUCH

(MCA, 1956) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock
S: John Michael Hayes, Angus McPhail

Hitchcock's only remake of one of his own features is a 2-hour Technicolor and Vistavision version of the 1934 b/w film (now a public-domain video). James Stewart and Doris Day (who sings "Que Será Será") star as the vacationing Americans whose son is kidnapped in Morocco. With Daniel Gelin, Bernard Miles, Hillary Brooke, Caroline Jones, Leo Gordon, and Reggie Nalder as Rien, the assassin. Hitchcock shows up in the marketplace. Bernard Herrmann wrote the score. Paramount re-released it to theaters in 1984. This "family film" was followed by the much more adult The Wrong Man and Vertigo.

THE MAN WHO LAUGHS

(Midnight, 1927) D: Paul Leni S: Charles E. Whittaker, Marion Ward, May McLean P: Carl Laemmle

I was surprised by the expensive look and epic scope of this impressive historical fairy tale based on Victor Hugo's novel. Gwynplaine (Conrad Veidt), actually an heir to the British throne, is sold to Gypsies as a child, and his face is carved into a permanent, wide grin. As an adult he travels with a carnival, first as a freak and then as a famous clown. Later he becomes a pawn in court intrigue. Mary Philbin (The Phantom of the Opera) is the

THE MAN WITH A CLOAK

(1951) D: Fletcher Markle S: Frank

R-rated horror comedy costars David Warner as Dr. Necessiter, Paul Benedict, Jeffrey Combs, Randi Brooks, Merv Griffin as himself, and Sissy working on his own film, Chimes at Midnight, at the time and did this role to raise money), Akim Tamiroff, and Robert Hossein. This was filmed in had been 20 years earlier in The Owl and the Pussycat.

MARJOE

(RCA, 1972) D/P: Howard Smith, Sarah Kernochan

Marjoe Gortner, later an exploitation-movie star (Jungle Warriors, Hellhole, and others), was once a popular but fake boy faith healer and evangelist. This fascinating

MARK OF THE WITCH

(1970) D/P: Tom Moore S/P: Mary Davis S: Martha Peters

Jill, a college student who works at the campus bookstore, goes to a séance involving "the red book" and becomes possessed by a woman hanged as a witch in England (seen in the prologue). She says, "One acquires an almighty thirst in 300 years!" in her irritating new/old British accent. The new Jill kills her professor's dog, makes a bird fry, and has to ask what a phone is. She drugs a Machiavel and "the Red Death." He's seen briefly, then played by a masked double. Tracy Reiner (daughter of Rob Reiner and Penny Marshall) is Prospero's sister and lover. Also with Clare Hoak and Maria Ford. It played in theaters as Edgar Allan Poe's "Masque of the Red Death" to avoid confusion with the inferior rival version made in 1988. Forget both and go for the original, from Orion.

MASQUERADE

(Fox, 1988) D: Bob Swaim
S: Dick Wolf P: Michael I. Levy

This is an uncredited teen remake of Suspicion, which had already been remade as a TV movie. Meg Tilly is an heiress who marries Rob Lowe, who may be trying to kill her. With Kim Cattrall, John Glover, Dana Delany, and Barton Heyman. From MGM.

MASSACRE AT CENTRAL HIGH

(MPI, 1976) D/S: Renee Daalder P: Harold Sobel

A new kid at a California high school (Derrel Maury) seeks revenge after jock gang members push a car over his leg. At the end he blows up the whole school (a popular idea later used in Rock 'n' Roll High School). TV exposure over the years has made this a cult film. It doesn't live up to its title, but it's well worth seeing. With Andrew Stevens, Robert Carradine, Kimberly Beck, Roy Underwood, Brad Davis, Lani O'Grady (from the TV series Eight Is Enough), and Cheryl "Rainbeaux" Smith. The director later designed digital effects for movies like Robocop.

MASSACRE AT FORT HOLMAN

(Video Gems, 1972) D/S: Tonino Valerii
S: Ernesto Gastaldi P: Michael Billingsley
Italy/France/ W. Germany/Spain (Una Ragione per Vivere e una per Morire; A Reason to Live, a Reason to Die)

A Union Army colonel (James Coburn) leads seven condemned men against a brutal Confederate major (Telly Savalas) who's protecting a fort full of gold. With Bud Spencer and Robert Burton. K-Tel released it. Valerii also made My Name Is Nobody.

MASSACRE AT GRAND CANYON

(1963) D/S: Sergio Corbucci S/P: Albert Band Italy (Massacro al Grande Canyon)

James Mitchum (son of Robert) stars in this early spaghetti western, with Giorgio Ardisson and Giacomo Rossi-Stuart.

MASSACRE IN DINOSAUR VALLEY

(Lighting, 1985) D: Michele Tarantini
S: Lemick Tarantini Italy

Here's one made in Brazil. I saw it in Sweden. It's about a group of typically diverse people stranded in the jungle after a plane crash. An archaeologist finds some dinosaur prints but no dinosaurs. They're attacked by killer Indians, and then the survivors are captured and put into a slave-labor camp run by drug dealers. There's nudity, comedy, and typical Italian gore, but nothing very memorable.

MASSACRE OF PLEASURE

(SW, 1966) D: "Jean-Loup Grosard"
France (Massacre for an Orgy)

A detective is involved with gangsters, white slavery, and drugs. This confusing b/w adult movie was released with dubbed narration, fake credits, and out-of-place sound FX by Bob Cresse.

MASSARATI AND THE BRAIN

(1982) D: Harvey Hart S: George Kirgo P: Charles B. FitzSimons

Peter Billingsley (A Christmas Story) is a 12-year-old genius who helps his soldier-of-fortune uncle (Christopher Hewett) retrieve a stolen treasure from a Nazi (Christopher Lee). This ABC-TV movie also features Daniel Pilon, Ann Turkel, Camilla Sparv, Markie Post, Heather O'Rourke, and Greta Blackburn.

THE MASTER

(1984)

All the episodes of this short-lived NBC-TV series are on 7 tapes. Lee Van Cleef is a WWII vet who became a ninja master in Japan. Back in America he travels in a van, searching for his lost daughter, with Timothy Van Patten. Sho Kosugi is Osaka, a bad ninja, who's always after them.

MASTERBLASTER

(Prism, 1986) D/S: Glenn R. Wilder
S/P: Randy Grinter S/A: Jeff Moldovan

Tom Laughlin stars in The Master Gunfighter.

A Nam vet (Moldovan) is involved in a mock killing tournament in which participants are really being killed. With Tracey E. Hutchinson and Kari Whitman. William Grefe was the executive producer of this film, made in Florida. Some other movies with similar plots are Tag, Gotcha, and The Zero Boys.

MASTER DEMON

(1991) D/S: Samuel Oldham
D: Art Camacho P/A: Eric Lee

A kung-fu expert (Lee), a lowly private eye (Steve Nave, who narates), and a cop (Sid Campbell) battle evil forces for a stolen talisman (a hand) in and around Hollywood. A bald demon (Gerard Okamura) conjures up a musclebound killer in leather with teased hair called Medusa (Kay Baxter Young, who died in 1988). The best gag is when she hits a building and it collapses. This low-budget comic martial-arts fantasy also features Ava Cadell and the World Wrestling Federation's "the Viking." The makeup (including a face being ripped off) is by Rodd Matsui. Oldham also codirected Dark Romances and Zombie Party.

THE MASTER GUNFIGHTER

(1975) D/A: Tom Laughlin S: Harold Lapland P: Philip L. Parslow

After playing Billy Jack three times, Laughlin tried out a new samurai-cowboy character, in this sometimes laughable PG remake of the Japanese film Goyokin (1966). He uses guns and swords to kill a lot of characters (often in slow motion) and wears hats that are too big. Injustice to Indians is a major part of the flashback-filled plot. With Barbara Carrera, Ron O'Neal (after the Superfly movies), Angelo Rossitto, and Victor Campos. Narration by Burgess Meredith was added, in an attempt to make sense of it all. The credited director, Frank Laughlin, is Tom Laughlin's son (nine years old at the time!). Laughlin spent lots of his own money for ads blasting critics who ridiculed his movie, which he distributed himself. He finished only one more feature, Billy Jack Goes to Washington.

THE MASTER KEY

(Stokey, 1945) D: Ray Taylor, Lewis D. Collins S: Joseph O'Donnell, George H. Plympton P: Morgan Cox

Milburn Stone stars as federal investigator Tom Brant, in this 13-chapter Universal serial. Nazis are after the "orotron," a machine developed by scientist Byron Foulger that extracts gold from sea water. With Jan Wiley, Dennis Moore, Maris Wrixon, Gene Roth, and Al "Lash" La Rue.

THE MASTER OF DRAGONARD HILL

(Media, 1987) D: Gerard Kikoine S: Rick Marx S/P: Harry Alan Towers S. Africa

Kimberly Sissons and Patrick Warburton star in this sequel to Drago- nard. Oliver Reed is the mean new governor, mistreating Caribbean slaves. With Herbert Lom as a pirate, Claudia Udy, and Eartha Kitt. It's from Cannon. Kitt and Lom had also been in Uncle Tom's Cabin (1965).

MASTER OF EVIL: See THE DEMON LOVER

MASTER OF THE FLYING GUILLOTINE

(Sinister, 1976) D/S/A: Jimmy Wang Yu
P: Wong Chuck Hon Hong Kong

Fung, a blind man disguised as a priest, vows to kill a one-armed boxer (Wang Yu), the leader of a martial arts school. Fung's weapon resembles a red felt hat on a long chain with a circular saw blade inside and yes, incredibly, it decapitates people (and some chickens). This is a wild period kung fu fantasy with a tournament and many fights. There's a female eagle claw technique specialist, a bad Japanese fighter who joins Fung, and an Indian fighter with extending arms (an idea copied in Nightmare on Elm Street). The excellent soundtrack consists of stolen music by German bands Kraftwerk, Neu, and Tangerine Dream! The print is worn.

MASTERS OF MENACE

(RCA, 1990) D: Daniel Raskov
S/P: Tino Insana P: Lisa M. Hansen

David Rasche is a biker-gang leader, and Catherine Bach is his pregnant wife, in this PG-13 comedy with dumb gags. With Teri Copley as a topless dancer, George "Buck" Flower, and Lee Ving. There are bits by slumming comedians Dan Aykroyd, John Candy, and James Belushi. It's from New Line.

MASTERS OF THE CONGO JUNGLE

(Video Dimensions, 1959) D/S: Heinz Seilman
Belgium (Les Seigneurs de la Forêt)

Orson Welles hosts and narrates this documentary, shot in the Belgian Congo. It features wild animals, local customs, and human sacrifice. 20th Century–Fox released it.

MASTERS OF THE UNIVERSE

(Warner, 1987) D: Gary Goddard
S: David Odell P: Golan/Globus

Conan meets Star Wars. This whole movie is based on a line of Mattel toys. Despite that fact, it's not bad as mindless, PG-rated entertainment. Dolph Lundgren (in his first starring role) is He-Man, Frank Langella is unrecognizable as Skeletor, and Meg Foster (with her naturally glowing eyes) is Evil-Lyn. With Billy Barty as a wizard/inventor, Courteney Cox, James Tolkan, Jon Cypher, Chelsea Field, Christina Pickles, and Barry Livingston. A big laser battle in a used-record store is my favorite scene. Bill Conti did the soundtrack. The Secret of the Sword (1985) is an animated He-Man adventure.

MASTERS OF VENUS

(Sinister, 1962) D: Ernest Morris
S: Michael Barnes UK

Two kids stow away on a spaceship to Venus. They discover survivors of the lost city of Atlantis and "the thing in the pit." This 8-part serial made for kids runs more than 2 hours.

THE MASTER'S REVENGE: See DEVIL RIDER!

MATA HARI

(MGM, 1984) D: Curtis Harrington
S: Joel Ziskin P: Golan/Globus

Curtis Harrington's last film to date stars Sylvia Kristel as the famous WWI spy. There's topless swordfighting, opium smoking, and nudity. Christopher Cazenove and Oliver Tobias costar. This Cannon release was cut for American distribution.

MATILDA

(1978) D: Daniel Mann S/P: Timothy Galfas P: Albert S. Ruddy

Elliott Gould and Robert Mitchum star in a misfire comedy about a boxing kangaroo (a man in a suit). Everybody thought it was really terrible, but Gould went on to many worse movies. With Harry Guardino, Clive Revill, Lionel Stander, Karen Carlson, and Roberta Collins. Andy Sidaris worked on this G-rated AIP feature.

MATINEE

(Malofilm, 1989) D/S: Richard Martin
P: Kim Steer, Cal Shumacher Canada

Young people are killed while watching horror movies during a film festival, in this horror comedy set in small town. Murder Camp is the slasher movie being screened. Others are spoofs of The Texas Chainsaw Massacre, The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari, and a vampire movie. The same idea was used for Popcorn. The theater manager (Don Davis) has posters on his wall from real movies produced by Malofilm (including Pin). Ron White and Gillian Barber star.

MATINEE

(MCA, 1993) D: Joe Dante S: Charles Haas
P: Michael Finnell M: Jerry Goldsmith

Joe Dante manages to recapture the joy of attending an overhyped gimmick movie and the mood during the 1962 Cuban missile crisis, in this funny and nostalgic comedy. It spoofs fear of the end of the world, fallout shelters, and hucksterism. Simon Fenton stars as a kid in Key West, Florida. John Goodman is Laurence Woolsey, a William Castle type of showman and director who arrives to premiere his new movie, Mant! (shot in "Atomo-Vision"). Cathy Moriarty is Ruth Corday, his star, companion, and "nurse." With John Sayles and Dick Miller as phony protesters, Lisa Jakub, Robert Picardo, Jesse White, and Forry Ackerman. We see parts of the comical b/w science-fiction movie within the movie. William Schallert, Kevin McCarthy, and Robert Cornthwaite (The Thing) are in it. There's even a spoof of a dumb Disney fantasy. The script is by the writer of Over the Edge. This PG-rated Universal release was shot in Florida. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande. The laserdisc has extra Mant! footage and a complete Mant! trailer.

John Goodman as the William Castle–inspired director in Matinee.

A MATTER OF DEGREES

(Prism, 1990) D/S: W. T. Morgan S/P: Randall
Poster S: Jack Mason P: Roy Kissin

Arye Gross stars as a college student living in a communal home who doesn't want to go on to Columbia Law School. He smokes pot, has fantasies about his dream girl, and decides to disrupt the graduation ceremonies after a corporation takes over campus radio station WXOX. This is like a milder version of an early-70s campus-protest movie without much left to protest. With Judith Hoag, Tom Sizemore, John Doe as a DJ, Fred and Kate of the B-52s, and John Kennedy Jr. in a party scene. It was shot at Brown University, in Providence. The director also made The Unheard Music, featuring X. The soundtrack, on Atlantic, includes music by the Minutemen, Pére Ubu, the Dream Syndicate, and others. A Twentieth Century release.

MAU MAU

(SW, 1954) D: Elwood G. Price
S: Dave Shepperd P: Joe Rock

News anchorman Chet Huntley (!) introduces and narrates this color documentary, less than an hour long, about the "growing unrest in white man's rule" in British East Africa. Most of the film is a historical look at the origins of the black rebellion in Kenya, led by Oxford-educated Jomo Kenyatta. White judges in wigs are shown sentencing black men to prison camps or the gallows, and the Mau Mau are said to be "patterned after Communists." Staged attacks are shown, with naked or topless "African" women running, then being killed by men with machetes. This is described as "an orgy of insane fury" and is followed by shots of actual dead bodies. One of the women was featured in the ads, and these scenes, of course, were why this was an exploitation hit. Did this film help Huntley get his job at NBC the next year!? The video, presented by David F. Friedman, includes dozens of trailers for jungle-theme movies.

MAUSOLEUM

(Embassy, 1981) D: Michael Dugan
S/P: Robert Barich, Robert Madero

Evil Spawn star Bobbie Bresee made her debut in this equally ridiculous and fun low-budget horror movie about a family curse. Her rich husband is Marjoe Gortner. Bresee, who has the widest mouth in showbiz, makes a car blow up, an art dealer float, and her aunt's chest rip open, and in the film's most outrageous scene her toothy killer breasts attack Marjoe! Other highlights are Bresee's nude and topless scenes and her dancing to disco music with her ex-evangelist costar. Her eyes glow green, and sometimes she turns into a monster with a scary voice. Lawanda Page (Aunt Esther on Sanford and Son) is Elsie the maid. When she sees mysterious green smoke she says, "No more grievin'. I'm leavin'!" A weird Mexican gardener spends his time reading and sleeping. Bits of dialogue are badly edited in, and some parts make no sense at all. For those who love flashbacks (and who out there doesn't?) there are pointless flashbacks of nearly everything we've already seen. Whose flashbacks they are I don't know. The music is pretty good, but the love song at the end is a bit much.

MAX HEADROOM

(Warner, 1986) D: Rocky Morton, Annabel Jankel
S: Steve Roberts, George Stone P: Peter Wagg UK

This is the original, hour-long innovative British TV program, first aired on Cinemax in America. It's about "blipverts," TV ads in the grim future that make viewers explode. Matt Frewer is the

Sam Jones (Flash Gordon), Jason Lively, and Sherrie Rose are renegade cops working for John Saxon. They go undercover to infiltrate the hookers and drug dealers led by Richard Lynch. Rose does some kung-fu fighting. With Mickey Rooney (who has been acting in movies since 1926!) as a corrupt police chief in a limo, Andrew Stevens, and Sonny Landham.

MAXIMUM OVERDRIVE

(Lorimar, 1986) D/S: Stephen King
P: Martha Schumacher

This slow-moving and slow-witted tale of what happens when a comet causes machines to attack people in Wilmington, North Carolina, is based on Stephen King's short story "Trucks" (in the Night Shift collection). Emilio Estevez plays a young cook at the Dixie Boy truck stop, run by cruel Pat Hingle. Laura Harrington is good as a pretty, independent-minded hitchhiker who keeps changing from skirts to pants while driverless semis circle the Dixie Boy and terrorize the stupid characters trapped inside. It takes them forever to find the weapons (in the basement!) and make their escape. Originally given an X rating by the MPAA, Overdrive was heavily edited before its theatrical release, removing most of the gore scenes that might have given it a reason to exist. Deaths caused by a steamroller and by soft-drink cans are supposed to be funny. Another hoot is a character staring into the end of a malfunctioning gas hose and getting an unleaded flood in his face. The only black actor in the cast, Giancarlo Esposito, is a

MAYUMI VIRGIN TERRORIST

(1990) D: Sang Ook Sheen S: Bong Sung Shin P: Myung Gil Shin S. Korea

You may think that George Kennedy is in too many American movies, but he works in other countries all the time too. Suh Ra Kim stars in this story, based on a real-life incident in which a Korean plane was blown up by a terrorist bomb.

MAZES AND MONSTERS

(Edde, 1982) D: Steven Hilliard Stern S: Tom Lazarus P: Richard A. Briggs Canada
(Rona Jaffe's "Mazes and Monsters")

Some college students (including Tom Hanks and Chris Makepeace) play a Dungeons and Dragons type of fantasy video game and "flip into it." With Anne Francis, Vera Miles, Susan Strasberg, Lloyd Bochner, Murray Hamilton, and Kevin Peter Hall. This CBS-TV movie is based on a Rona Jaffe book.

McBAIN

(MCA, 1991) D/S/A: James Glickenhaus
P: J. Boyce Harman Jr.

McBain (Christopher Walken) and his Nam-vet friends help Maria Conchita Alonso overthrow a Colombian drug-cartel dictator. With Michael Ironside, Steve James, and Luis Guzman. This violent, cartoonish action movie has many good stunts and lots of explosions. It was made in the Philippines.

THE McGUFFIN

Griffin Dunne is a NYC architect whose penis talks to him (in the voice of Mark Linn-Baker). Carey Lowell (who married Dunne in real life) co-

the killer) is orchestrated to a blast of live Cream. With Amy Robinson (later a producer), Richard Romanus, Cesare Danova, and Jeannie Bell as a place, and people die. The Phantom of the Opera copy includes old film clips. The cast includes Arch Jaboulian, Diane Davis, and Emily Spendler.

MEET MR. LUCIFER

(1953) D: Anthony Pelissier
S: Monja Danischevsky UK

The Devil (Stanley Holloway) uses a man (also Holloway) to help him with a plan to use TV broadcasts to ruin people's lives. Also in the cast are Peggy Cummins (Curse of the Demon), Kay Kendall, Gordon Jackson, and Ernest Thesiger. The same year, in America, Arch Oboler's anti-TV fantasy The Twonky was released. Both films were obviously ahead of their time and should be seen today.

MEET THE APPLEGATES: See THE APPLEGATES

MEET THE FEEBLES: See THE FEEBLES

MEET THE HOLLOWHEADS

(Media, 1989) D/S/A: Tom Burman S: Lisa Morton P: Joseph Grace (Life on the Edge)

I can't believe somebody financed this "Huh!?" movie directed by a special-effects expert, but I'm sort of glad they did. It's a PG-13 post-nuke family/black comedy patterned in part on the Jetsons cartoons, on sets that look like leftovers from Pee-wee's Playhouse. An optimistic, hardworking dad (John Glover) brings his obnoxious, slimy boss home for dinner. His cheerful wife (Nancy Mette) serves mutant-frog snacks to the kids and works overtime preparing blue and green food. Everything comes from plastic tubes, including edible tentacles. Grandpa is fed with a giant syringe. The only scene not in the bizarre home is in some kind of void and features Logan Ramsey and his wife, Anne (who speaks with subtitles). With Juliette Lewis (before she was well known), Joshua Miller, and Bobcat Goldthwait. There's a rap theme. Ron Cobb was the "visual consultant."

MEGAVILLE

(Live, 1990) D/S: Peter Lehner S: Gordon Chavis P: Christina Schmidlin

MELVIN AND HOWARD

(MCA, 1980) D: Jonathan Demme S: Bo Goldman P: Art Linson, Don Phillips

Melvin E. Dummar (Paul Le Mat) meets Howard Hughes (Jason Robards), and his life is changed even though he never gets any money from Hughes' will. Mary Steenburgen (who received an Oscar) costars as Melvin's wife, with Michael J. Pollard, Pamela Reed, Dabney Coleman, John Glover, Gloria Grahame, Martine Beswicke, Sonny Carl Davis, Denise Galik, and Cheryl "Rainbeaux" Smith. Charles Napier delivers the will. The script is based on the real claims of Dummar (who has a bit part) and it's one of Demme's best films.

MEMED MY HAWK

(1984) D/S/A: Peter Ustinov
P: Fuad Kavur UK/Yugoslavia

Peter Ustinov stars as Abdi Aga, a local dictator in Turkey in the 50s. With Herbert Lom, Denis Quilley, Siobhan McKenna, and Michael Gough. Freddie Francis was the cinematographer. It's based on a novel by Yashar Kemal. Ustinov directed at least eight features.

MEMOIRS OF AN INVISIBLE MAN

(MCA, 1991) D: John Carpenter S: Robert Collector, Dana Olsen, William Goldman P: Bruce Bodner, Dan Kolsrud M: Shirley Walker

Chevy Chase is a stock analyst in San Francisco who becomes invisible because of a freak accident and is used by the CIA. His clothes also disappear, but the food he eats does not. The ILM computer-animation FX are good, and we get to "see" an invisible man puke. Advance publicity tried in vain to convince people that this was a new, "serious" Chevy Chase, and the expensive Warner release was a box-office flop. With Daryl Hannah, Sam Neill as an invisible agent, Michael McKean, Stephen Tobolowsky, and Rosalind Chao. The soundtrack was released by Varèse Sarabande. The script is based on a novel by H. F. Saint.

to be Vanity. With Robin Thomas, Olivia Brown, and Don Davis. The first film made by the Lifetime cable-TV network, it shows the influence of Fatal Attraction.

THE MEMORY OF EVA RYKER

(1980) D: Walter Grauman
S: Lawrence Heath P: Irwin Allen

Natalie Wood plays a dual role as a woman who died on a luxury liner torpedoed during WWII and as her daughter. Like most Irwin Allen productions, this CBS-TV movie has disaster scenes and many name stars, including Ralph Bellamy, Robert Foxworth, Bradford Dillman, Roddy McDowall, Peter Graves, Mel Ferrer, Jean-Pierre Aumont, Morgan Fairchild, and Vince Edwards.

MENACE FROM OUTER SPACE: See ROCKY JONES

MENACE II SOCIETY

(New Line, 1993) D/S: Allen and Albert Hughes S/A: Tyrin Turner P: Darin Scott

This violent inner-city action movie, inspired by Mean Streets and Goodfellas, was the first effort by talented 21-year-old twin brothers who had done many rap videos. It will not be enjoyed by Korean grocers. Tyrin Turner stars and narrates as Caine, a high-school graduate growing up in South Central LA. He and his wired friend with dreadlocks, O-Dog (Laranz Tate), sell drugs and steal cars. With Jada Pinkett, Vonte Sweet, Charles S. Dutton, Bill Duke, and Arnold Johnson (Putney Swope). Both the theatrical and video releases were cut for R ratings. The Voyager laserdisc, which is letterboxed and uncut, includes a short student film and alternate audio tracks about the making of Menace. The various artists rap soundtrack was also popular.

MEN OF SHERWOOD FOREST

and Animatronics. With Alan Rickman. This independent New Jersey production ran out of funds in 1988, was resumed later, and was released in 1993.

Purists hate it for a number of reasons, but this shortened and modernized version of Lang's classic played theatrically. Luring teens in to see a

MIAMI CONNECTION

(1986) D: Richard Park S: Joseph

MEXICO

South-of-the-border horror and wrestling hero movies were common at Saturday matinees in America in the 60s. Many are on tape if you look hard enough, and many other good titles are available that are not dubbed. Fans can collect dozens of features starring the late great Santo, The Blue Demon, Neutron, and various wrestling women, vampires, and monsters. Mexico's Psychotronic movie era ended in the 70s. A good look at the wrestling hero phenomena is the Incredibly Strange Film Show segment with Johnny Legend.

This is probably the best movie Warren Beatty ever... A girl (Melanie Verlip) runs away from home and... Olivia D'Abo stars as a Satan-worshipping nappy...

MIDNIGHT GIRL

(Video Yesterday, 1925) D/S: Wilfred Noy
S: Jean Conover

Bela Lugosi was still pretty unknown in 1925, but he had already been in films since 1915, starting in his native Hungary. Lila Lee stars as a Russian opera singer in America. In this rare silent film from Chadwick Pictures, Lugosi (with a goatee) is her suitor. Lee went on to star in several old-dark-house movies and The Unholy Three (1930). It's 84 minutes, and new music has been added.

THE MIDNIGHT HOUR

(Vidmark, 1985) D: Jack Bender
S: Bill Bleich P: Ervin Zavada

This ABC-TV horror/comedy was made to cash in on the popularity of Michael Jackson's "Thriller." It's a good example of just how much horror became accepted, mixed up, and tamed by the mainstream. In a small Massachusetts town on Halloween a group of students (who all look too old for their parts) accidentally unleash Lucinda, a black witch/vampire hanged in the 18th century, and a graveyard full of zombies. It all happens because these "nice" kids decide to break into a museum and "borrow" some authentic costumes for a party. Graves explode, and the living dead emerge Thriller style. One perfectly preserved blond 50s cheerleader provides the love interest and makes comments about how things have changed for the worse. The makeup and special effects by the Tom Burman studios are typically good. Several scenes are rock-video style. The star, Shari Belafonte-Harper, dances and sings "Let's Get Dead" after becoming a vampire. The best scene is when she's bitten in the wine cellar. Wine spurts all over in slow motion, while "How Soon Is Now?" by the Smiths plays(!). The soundtrack has mostly old hits like "Little Red Riding Hood" by Sam the Sham and the Pharaohs and the great but overused "Bad Moon Rising." With LeVar Burton (who becomes a vampire), Kevin McCarthy (who becomes a zombie), Dick Van Patten, Lee H. Montgomery, Kurtwood Smith, Mark Blankfield, and Dedee Pfeiffer. There's a werewolf, a midget zombie, and the voice of Wolfman Jack.

MIDNIGHT KISS

(Academy, 1992) D: Joel Bender S: John Weidner
P: Manette Marion Zola (In the Midnight Hour)

Michelle Owens stars as a Hollywood rape-crisis-squad cop who is bitten by a long-haired, blond vampire, priest, and serial killer (Gregory A. Greer) who says, "You shouldn't fuck with a man of God!" She has a trick dream-within-a-dream and becames a superstrong vampire herself so that she can throw criminals around. The male cops are all extreme assholes in this movie, which features some imaginative violence and an attack of vampire victims in a morgue. With Celeste Yarnall and Gabriel Dell Jr. as "Punk Number One." It's by the director of Gas Pump Girls (1978).

MIDNIGHT MADNESS

(1980) D/S: Michael Nankin, David Wechter P: Ron Miller

Back in 1980 a PG movie from Disney was a surprise. This was the studio's first, and it's about an all-night scavenger hunt by LA college students. With David Naughton, Eddie Deezen, Stephen Furst, and a then unknown 18-year-old Michael J. Fox playing a 12-year-old.

MIDNIGHT MOVIE MASSACRE

(VCI, 1986) D/S: Mark Stock, Larry Jacobs S/P: Wade Williams

Wade Williams was smart enough to go around securing the rights to some old science-fiction movies when video first caught on, but he wasn't smart enough to resist the temptation to make his own movie. It's set in a 50s theater and is overloaded with lame overeating, tit, nerd, and snot humor. Real trailers are used for filler, and a very unconvincing b/w re-creation of a serial wastes guest stars Robert Clarke and Anne Robinson (War of the Worlds). That footage is from an earlier, unreleased Williams project called Space Patrol. If you can stay awake until the end, there's an inspired scene with lots of old-fashioned tin-can robots who dance. It was shelved for four years.

MIDNIGHT WARRIOR

(PM, 1989) D/P: Joseph Merhi
S: Charles T. Kanganis P: Richard Pepin

Kevin Bernhardt is an LA TV-news cameraman who eventually sells out. This direct-to-video action movie features Lilly Melgar, Kevin Bernhardt, and Heidi Payne. It's by the director of Night of the Wilding and Fresh Kill.

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM

(1933) D/P: Max Reinhardt D: William Dieterle
S: Charles Kenyon, Mary McCall Jr.

Olivia De Havilland (in her screen debut) and Dick Powell star in this Shakespeare comedy/fantasy, but watch it for the all-star supporting cast, including James Cagney as Bottom, young Mickey Rooney as Puck, Victor Jory as Oberon, Anita Louise as Titania, Joe E. Brown, Arthur Treacher, Frank McHugh, Hugh Herbert, and Ian Hunter. Even little Kenneth Anger is in it. Cinematographer Hal Mohr won an Oscar. Erich Wolfgang Korngold arranged the Mendelssohn music. This prestigious Warner Brothers version of Max Reinhardt's stage production runs 132 minutes. There are silent films based on the play, including several made in Germany. Some later versions are dance films, cartoons, and TV movies. Diana Rigg and David Warner starred in a Royal Shakespeare Company version in 1969. Ill Met by Moonlight is a 90s modernized adaptation.

THE MIGHTY GORGA

(Cinema Concepts, 1969) D/P: David Hewitt
P: Robert V. O'Neil, Joan Hewitt, David Prentiss

Gorga is the worst King Kong copy ever made, anywhere, anytime. Mark Remington (Anthony Eisley) owns a small circus that needs a new attraction to keep the creditors away. He goes on a "safari" with two black bearers. They encounter a ridiculous lost white tribe who dress like Indians, keep skulls on poles, and worship "the Mighty Gorga." The cast includes Scott Brady as a villain, Kent Taylor as the missing Congo Jack, Gary Kent, and future directors Greydon Clark and Gary Graver (who was also the cinematographer). You could say it was made for kids, but even in 1969 most kids would try to destroy a theater when confronted by Gorga's special effects. A man in an immobile gorilla mask is one thing, but this movie uses plastic toy dinosaurs. There's a lava flow (stock footage), a brief animated shot of a dragon (from another movie), and a "chamber of death" (Bronson Canyon). Even the cheapest movies use a blue screen to combine the actors with supposedly giant creatures. This time the actors are in an out-of-focus film shown on a normal screen. The man in a gorilla suit stands in front of the screen. At one point he carries a doll around. Hewitt also made The Wizard of Mars (1964) and others. Producer Robert V. O'Neil went on to direct the first two Angel movies.

THE MIGHTY JUNGLE

(Paragon, 1964) D/S: Ismael Rodríguez, Arnold Belgarde D/A: David Da Lie US/Mexico

Parade films took a Mexican movie, La Ciudad Sagrada (1959), and added two sets of new scenes (and music by Les Baxter) to make this incoherent, paste-up, near-mondo entertainment with much narration and animal footage. Marshall Thompson goes alone and unarmed to the Congo and befriends a tribe of real, naked pygmies. Meanwhile, his "partner" (Da Lie) goes off to the Amazon where he has adventures. In the weirdest (the Mexican) part, Da Lie eats some "forbidden fruit." He freaks out ("This can only be a hallucination!"), everything changes to negative, and he imagines climbing a pyramid where natives perform a human sacrifice. Back in the "real" world the movie ends with the number two hero killed by a crocodile and a naked woman (Rosenda Monteros) taking a shower! Thompson directed and starred in A Yank in Vietnam the same year.

THE MIGHTY URSUS

(1961) D: Carlo Campogalliani S: Giuliano Carmineo, Giuseppe Mangione Italy/Spain (Ursus)

Ursus (Ed Fury) has to rescue Attea (Maria Orfei) from an evil priest on an island. But she's been turned into an evil princess, so he's thrown into the arena, where he fights a bull, then leads a slave revolt. Sets left over from King of Kings were used. Fury returned in more Ursus movies.

MIKEY

(Imperial, 1992) D: Dennis Dimster-Denk
S: Jonathan Glasser P: Peter Abrams, Robert Levy, Natan Zahavi

In a twist on The Stepfather, an adopted boy (Brian Bonsall, from the TV series Family Ties) kills off his entire suburban family, then moves on to another one, and keeps a videotape of the killings to watch. Mikey remains polite and cheerful but makes scary drawings, which concern his fourth-grade teacher, the (traditional) character who can't convince anyone else that something is seriously wrong. Mikey falls for his friend's older sister (Ashley Lawrence, from Hellraiser) and kills her boyfriend, along with more people. With John Diehl, Mimi Craven, Josie Bisset, and Lyman Ward. It was made in Arizona.

THE MILKY WAY

(Cinematheque, 1969) D/S: Luis Buñuel
S/A: Jean-Claude Carrière P: Serge Silberman
France /Italy (La Voie Lactée)

This may be the ultimate religious film. Anyone who can cope with subtitles might enjoy it, but so would open-minded biblical scholars. Two beggars on the road leading to a shrine have many surprising, often comic, dream-like encounters. They missing-heiress story. A 1927 version with Lila Lee is set in an old, dark house (and is available from Sinister). This version, released by DEG, stars Eddie Deezen(!). It copies It's a Mad Mad Mad Mad World, and it lost millions. Another press agent came up with the bright idea of awarding a million to a real person in a contest sponsored by Glad Bags. It was the last nail in DEG's coffin. Tom Bosley is a government agent who dies, with Kevin Pollak, Tawny Fere, and Rich Hall. MRC released the soundtrack. It was Fleischer's last film.

MILLIONS

(Prism, 1990) D: Carlo Vanzini S: Enrico Vanzina, Carol

leader has a distorted voice, but it's obviously co-star Wings Hauser, who plays an attorney. Ginger is raped before being released from jail. She goes on a TV talk show to expose the Satanists and debates a "priestess." There's some nudity, car chases, and a "surprise" ending. Tami Bakke is a friend from jail, and Jay Richardson is a cop.

MINDFIELD

(Magnum, 1989) D: Jean-Claude Lord
S: William Deverall P: Tom Berry,
Franco Battista Canada

Michael Ironside is a troubled, divorced Montreal

pital where scientists conduct pain-and-pleasure experiments. With a young-looking Ronny Cox as a manic patient who laughs a lot, Ralph Meeker as an officer, and Joss Ackland. Walken didn't become well known until The Deer Hunter seven years later. This PG-rated Cinerama release (based on the novel The Happiness Cage) was filmed in Denmark and backed by Joseph Papp.

MIND TRAP

(AMI, 1989) D: Eames Demetrios
S: Jay Sri, Bill Hart P: Vinay Shrivastava

Here we have your basic revenge plot with terrible acting and accents, awful dialogue, laughable fight scenes, and Dan Haggerty as Sergei, a director in [illegible] her in a giant meat grinder, and drinks her blood from skulls! Barnett also directed the useless Hollywood Boulevard II.

THE MINES OF KILIMANJARO

(Imperial, 1985) D/S: Mino Guerrini
P: Augustino Caminito Italy (Afrikanter)

More Raiders of the Lost Ark stuff. Pre-WWII Nazis use a lost tribe in Africa for diamond minning. Tobias Hoels and Elena Pompei star, with Christopher Connelly, Gordon Mitchell, and Al Cliver.

MINISTRY OF FEAR

Three businesslike call girls are hired by a power-hungry NYC businessman (Robert Rodan) for a corporate party at a hunting lodge set up with hidden cameras. There are long, tasteful, out-of-focus sex scenes (backed by music that starts out like Duane Eddy and ends up sounding like the Rolling Stones' Their Satanic Majesties Request LP), voyeurism, and (offscreen) masturbation. It was the last film for blond 50s star Jan Sterling, who has a small role as the wealthy but unloved wife. The music is by the Cyrkle ("Red Rubber Ball") who are seen playing at Harlow's discotheque wearing Sergeant Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band uniforms. Cambist released this lame attempt at a "with it" movie. The video print is worn, but it includes some good trailers.

Browning's last film is based on "Death from a Top Hat," a Great Merlini novel by Clayton Rawson, a magician from Ohio. Robert Young stars as Morgan, a magician/detective in Manhattan who sells and creates stage illusions. The shocking WWII-theme opening illusion features a woman put in a small coffin and machine-gunned by Japanese soldiers. Morgan solves a murder and debunks fake spiritualists. There's a séance, a ghostly head, and a new invention called "invisible spectacles" (contact lenses). Some illusions are explained, but others (optical effects) are not. Henry Hull has two roles, as Morgan's father and a radio-star professor with a Karloff-type voice. The MGM cast also includes Florence Rice, Frank Craven, William Demarest as a cop, and Gloria Holden as a European mystic.

MIRAGE

(1965) D: Edward Dmytryk S: Peter Stone P: Harry Keller M: Quincy Jones

Gregory Peck is a nuclear scientist who has amnesia after seeing his best friend fall from a 27th-floor window. He has discovered a way to neutralize radioactivity, and agents are after him. Also in the cast are Walter Matthau as a private eye, Diane Baker, Kevin McCarthy, Jack Weston, Leif Erickson, and George Kennedy. The Universal release was shot on location in NYC. The soundtrack was released by Mercury. Jigsaw is a remake.

MIRROR IMAGES

(Academy, 1991) D: Gregory Hippolyte P: Andrew Garoni

Delia Sheppard stars as twins in this "erotic thriller" with a psycho lover and murder. She takes showers and is in sex scenes (including a lesbian scene). With Jeff Conaway (Taxi), Julie Strain, Kee Anne Beaman, Nels Van Patten, and George "Buck" Flower as Wolfman. R and unrated tapes are available.

MIRROR IMAGES II

(Academy, 1993) D: Gregory Hippolyte S: Daryl Hanley P: Andrew Garoni

Shannon Whirry gets to play identical sisters (a vengeful whore and a traumatized, rich housewife). She also plays one of them as a teenager in b/w sex flashbacks and later gets to watch "herself" in action. The whole flashback-filled tale of murder and double-crosses is told to a sexy shrink (Kristine Kelly) who says, "There are ethical questions" before a hot lesbian session with her patient begins. This direct-to-video movie has many, varied, almost nonstop sex scenes. Shannon in the pool is a highlight. The cast also includes Luca Bercovici as the corrupt-cop husband (who does it with both Shannons), Sara Suzanne Brown, and Eva LaRue.

MIRROR, MIRROR

(Academy, 1989) D/S: Marina Sargenti S: Annette Cascone, Gina Cascone, Yuri Zeltser P/M: Jimmy Lifton

Rainbow Harvest (made up to resemble Winona Ryder in Beetlejuice) stars as a neurotic, out-of-place student who acquires supernatural powers from a bleeding, haunted mirror. This modernized Carrie clone uses Psycho music to underscore the many death scenes. Characters die by steam, garbage disposal, etc. Karen Black (in a blond wig) is the ditzy mom, William Sanderson (with a ponytail) is a Nam-vet pet-cemetery owner, and Yvonne De Carlo is a real-estate broker. Charlie Spradling is also in the cast. The video box has a nice pseudo-3-D hologram cover.

MIRROR, MIRROR II: RAVEN DANCE

(Orphan, 1993) D/S/P/M: Jimmy Lifton S: Virginia Perfili

Tracy Welles (from the TV series Mr. Belvedere) is an orphaned teen sent to a remote Catholic school along with her violin-playing little brother. A demon from a mirror helps her kill off characters who are after her inheritance, like Roddy McDowall as a shrink and Sally Kellerman (who ages 120 years) as an evil half-sister. With Mark Rufallo, Lois Nettleton and Veronica Cartwright as nuns (Cartwright is a blind seer), William Sanderson (in a different role than the first movie) as a handyman, and Sarah Douglas.

MIRROR OF DEATH

(Sony, 1987) D: Deryn Warren S: Gerry Daly P: Jessica Rains

Empress Sura (Julie Merrill), a succubus from a mirror, takes over a battered girl. She becomes beautiful, picks up men, and kills them by cutting out their hearts, their eyes, etc.

MIRRORS

(1974) D: Noel Black S: Sidney L. Stebel P: John T. Parker (Bad Dreams; Marianne)

Kitty Winn has nightmares in New Orleans, and someone is murdered. The cast also includes Peter Donat and William Svetland. First on video in Europe, it wasn't released in America until 1984.

MISERY

(RCA, 1990) D/P: Rob Reiner S: William Goldman P: Andrew Scheinman

Kathy Bates won the first best-actress Oscar for a horror movie. It was the most successful Stephen King adaptation at the box office and the second King movie by Reiner (after Stand by Me). James Caan is the captive romance writer who ends up using his typewriter as a weapon. Bates is his psychotic, lonely "number-one fan." Most of it takes place in a house in one room, but it manages to be suspensful and scary. With Richard Farnsworth, Frances Sternhagen, Lauren Bacall, Graham Jarvis, and J. T. Walsh. The Marc Shalman soundtrack is on Bay Cities. Barry Sonnenfeld was the cinematographer and second-unit director. Bates returned to star in another King adaptation, Dolores Claiborne (1995).

THE MISFIT BRIGADE

(TWE, 1987) D: Gordon Hessler S: Nelson Gidding P: Just Betzer, Benni Korzen US/UK (Wheels of Terror)

Anti-Nazi German prisoners are forced to fight the Red Army in 1943. This WWII action comedy, based on Sven Hassel's novel, features David Carradine as the mean Colonel von Weisshagen, Bruce Davison, Oliver Reed in a small part as a general, D. W. Moffett, and Svetlana.

MISSILES FROM HELL

(1958) D: Vernon Sewell S: Jack Hanley, Eryck Wlodek P: George Maynard UK (The Battle of the VI)

Michael Rennie and Patricia Medina star in this WWII story (based on true incidents) about the British working with Polish partisans. A pre-star Christopher Lee plays Brunner, an SS officer.

THE MISSING GUEST

(1938) D: John Rawlins S: Charles Martin, Paul Perez

This comedy/mystery is a remake of The Secret of the Blue Room (1933). Scoop Hanlon (Paul Kelly), a reporter assigned to attend a masquerade party and spend the night in an old, haunted mansion on Long Island, pretends to be a psychic. Characters disappear, are murdered, and are frightened by (fake) ghosts. With Constance Moore, Selmer Jackson, and William Lundigan. It was remade again as Murder in the Blue Room (1944).

MISSING IN ACTION

(MGM, 1984) D: Joseph Zito S: James Bruner P: Golan/Globus

Chuck Norris, as a former POW, Colonel James Braddock, frees some MIAs in Nam. This Rambo clone, made in the Philippines by the director of Friday the 13th: The Final Chapter, features M. Emmet Walsh, Lenore Kasdorf, and James Hong. A prequel followed.

MISSING IN ACTION 2: THE BEGINNING

(MGM, 1985) D: Lance Hool S: Arthur Silver, Larry Levinson, Steve Bing P: Golan/Globus

This prequel was actually shot before the "first" movie (in Mexico and St. Kitts). The setting is a slave-labor opium operation in postwar Vietnam. Chuck Norris is hung upside-down with a rat, so he bites its head off. Soon-Teck Oh is the evil torturer Colonel Yin. The cast also includes Professor Tanaka. There was even a "making of" tape (on UA video), followed by Braddock: Missing in Action III (1988).

MISSING LINK

(J2, 1988) D/S/C: David and Carol Hughes P: Dennis D. Kane

The last ape man (Peter Elliot) wanders the plains of Africa after men have killed off his family. Typically excellent Rick Baker makeup FX are used for the ape man. This documentary-style PG film from Universal has no dialogue but is narrated by British actor Michael Gambon.

MISSION IN MOROCCO

(Republic, 1959) D: Anthony Squire S: Brian Clemens P: Sergio Newman UK/Spain

Lex Barker stars as an oil-company executive in Morocco who investigates the death of a colleague. Juli Reding (Tormented) is his daughter, and Fernando Rey is a prince.

MISSION KILL

(Media, 1985) D/S/P: David Winters S: Maria Dante

Nam-vet demolition expert Robert Ginty joins the rebels in a South American revolution to get revenge after a friend is murdered. With Cameron Mitchell, Olivia D'Abo, Brooke Bundy, Sandy Baron, and Merete Van Kamp. Winters formed his own company, AIP Video, the next year.

MISSION MARS

(Unicorn, 1968) D: Nicholas Webster
S: Michael St. Clair P: Everett Rosenthal

After a lot of time is spent introducing three astronauts and their girlfriends, the men are sent to Mars where they discover a frozen Soviet astronaut and a talking orb. Darren McGavin stars. Nick Adams is a geologist who brings a pastrami sandwich on board. The instrumental rock-music soundtrack (like a San Francisco bar band) helps set it in the late 60s, but the characters are more like they're from the early 50s. There's a nightmare sequence, NASA stock footage, and an obvious model space ship. The story is by Aubrey Wisberg. It was the first feature filmed at Miami's Studio City complex. Adams died of a drug overdose the year this was released by Allied Artists.

MISSION OF JUSTICE

(Republic, 1992) D: Steve Barnett S: George Saunders P: Pierre David, Kurt Anderson

Jeff Wincott stars as a martial-arts-fighting ex-cop who infiltrates a criminal organization. The Mission of Justice, a gang of ninja assassins disguised as a Guardian Angels type of group, is backed by mayoral candidate Brigitte Nielsen. Karen Sheperd is the hero's ex-partner. Also with Matthias Hues and Luca Bercovici.

MISS NYMPHET'S ZAP-IN

(1970) D/P: "Sheldon Seymour"/ Herschell Gordon Lewis

The Laugh-In show was still popular on TV when Lewis made this adults-only takeoff. It's a series of comic sketches featuring topless go-go dancers, painted breasts, and a hunter captured by black native women. It was filmed in California.

MISS RIGHT

(Sony, 1980) D: Paul Williams S/A: William Tepper P: Ibrahim Moussa Italy

William Tepper, who starred in Jack Nicholson's Drive, He Said (1972), is an American reporter in Rome who tries to say goodbye to several girlfriends in one evening during separate dinners at his apartment. Karen Black and Marie-France Pisier have topless scenes. The international cast of beauties includes Margot Kidder, Clio Goldsmith, Virna Lisi, Dalila Di Lazzaro, and Jenny Agutter (who appears for only a few seconds). This comedy wasn't released in America until it came out on video in 1989.

MISS SADIE THOMPSON

(1953) D: Curtis Bernhardt
S: Harry Kleiner P: Jerry Wald

This 3-D, color, stereophonic musical version of W. Somerset Maugham's Rain, filmed in Hawaii, stars Rita Hayworth as a singer (not a prostitute). In Memphis her dance scene was removed by censors. José Ferrer is Reverend Davidson, and Aldo Ray and Charles Buchinsky (Charles Bronson) are sailors. The Columbia remake was a hit. Other versions are the silent film Sadie Thompson (1928) with Gloria Swanson, Rain (1932) with Joan Crawford, and the version I'd like to see, Dirty Gertie from Harlem (1946).

MR. ARKADIN

(1955) D/S/P/A: Orson Welles
Spain/France (Confidential Report)

Orson Welles (with heavy makeup) stars as a mysterious millionare, in a film with Citizen Kane touches. Based on his novel, it was shot all over Europe, in Spanish-language and English-language versions. Welles married costar Paola Mori after filming was over. Also with Akim Tamiroff, Patricia Medina, Michael Redgrave, Mischa Auer, Katina Paxinon, Peter Van Eyck, Suzanne Flon, and Robert Arden. It was released, and pretty much ignored, in England in 1955 and in America in 1962. Welles said that recutting had made it the most butchered of all his films. His next film as director, also ignored at the time, was Touch of Evil.

MR. BILLION

(Fox, 1976) D: Jonathan Kaplan
S/P: Ken Friedman P: Stephen Bach

Italian superstar Terence Hill, in a rare American feature, plays a mechanic who heads across the country to San Francisco to claim an inheritance. This PG comedy costars Jackie Gleason and Valerie Perrine as swindlers, Slim Pickens, Chill Wills, R. G. Armstrong, Leo Rossi, and Dick Miller.

MR. DESTINY

(Touchstone, 1990) D/S/P: James Orr
S/P: Jim Cruickshank

This PG-13 movie copies It's a Wonderful Life (and Peggy Sue Got Married). James Belushi goes back to 1970 to relive a baseball game. This time he hits a homer, marries the prom queen (Rene Russo), and goes on to live in a North Carolina mansion. He eventually wants his middle-class life and real wife (Linda Hamilton) back. Michael Caine is the angel figure, a magical bartender. Also in the cast are Jon Lovitz, Hart Bochner, and Kathy Ireland.

MR. FROST

(SVS, 1990) D/S: Philip Setbon S: Brad Lynch P: Xavier Gelin UK/France

Mr. Frost (Jeff Goldblum), who claims to be the Devil, says that he tortured and murdered 24 people, then buried them in a garden. Kathy Baker (from the TV series Picket Fences) is the psychiatrist he chooses to talk to after years of silence in a mental hospital. An inmate under his control goes on a shooting spree, killing religious leaders. The police inspector (Alan Bates) who captured him is the only one to realize who the manipulative, steely-eyed Frost really is. With Jean-Pierre Cassel as a cop, Daniel Gelin, Charlie Boorman, and Vincent Schiavelli. This British production (filmed in France) has similarities to Exorcist III. It includes a flashback, a nightmare, and maybe too much talking, but Goldblum and Baker are good.

MR. HORN

(1979) D/A: Jack Starrett S: William Goldman
P: Robert L. Jacks, Elliot Kastner

David Carradine stars as the western folk hero Tom Horn in a 2-part CBS-TV movie set in the 1880s, with Richard Widmark, Karen Black, Enrique Lucero as Geronimo, Richard Masur, Jeremy Slate, Pat McCormick, and John Alderman. Steve McQueen plays the same role in Tom Horn (1980).

MR. MEAN

(Rhino, 1977) D/P/A: Fred Williamson
S: Jeff Williamson Italy

A gangster in Rome hires Mr. Mean (Williamson), an ex-cop from LA, to kill Lou Castel. Meanwhile gangsters try to kill Mean. He chases a car on foot and says, "Just call me Mean." His life is saved by his gold chain. It's pretty dull. Crippy Yocardo is his model girlfriend. The Ohio Players do the theme song and are seen playing in a club.

MR. MIKE'S MONDO VIDEO

(1979) D/S/P: Michael O'Donaghue S: Mitchell Glazer, Emily Praeger, Dirk Wittenborn

This 70-minute, comic, pseudo–mondo movie was shot on video for NBC-TV, was rejected for airing, then was released theatrically by New Line. It features Japanese women bathing in dolphin blood, Gig Young's groceries, Sid Vicious doing "My Way," and appearances by Carrie Fisher, Teri Garr, Joan Hackett, Deborah Harry, Margot Kidder, Klaus Naomi, and Saturday Night Live regulars Dan Aykroyd, Jane Curtin, Bill Murray, Gilda Radner, and Paul Shaffer.

MR. PAYBACK

(1995) D/S: Bob Gale

If you wasted your money seeing this silly and mean spirited PG-13 25-minute interactive movie in a theater (like I did), you got to choose various "plot" advancements by pushing one of three colored buttons on a joy stick attached to your seat. Advertised as "from the makers of the Back to the Future" movies, it's filled with bad taste gags, torture, and humiliation. Billy Warlock stars as some kind of android who helps people seek revenge. I imagine some parents who took their kids had second thoughts when the dominatrix school teacher was forced to get on her knees in bondage gear and act like a dog. In another version, a racist boss (Christopher Lloyd) appears in drag and blackface. Sony released the gimmick film in its own theaters. The picture quality is also substandard. Hopefully this technology will be used for better things in the future.

MR. PEEK-A-BOO'S PLAYMATES

(1962) D/P: Ronny Ashcroft
P: Lorraine Ashcroft (Like Wow!)

A man finds magic glasses and sees naked women in a copy of Paradisio (1961). It's by the director of The Astounding She Monster.

MR. PETERS' PETS

(SW, 1962) D/P: Dick Crane

A balding Irish guy orders "animal ambrosia" that magically turns him into various animals so that he can watch women. A blonde takes a bubble bath (he's a cat), a woman sunbathes naked on a beach (he's a fish), three women strip on cliffs (he's a duck). There are also topless harem dancers. It's all silent color footage with narration and thinking out loud. Althea Currier (Kiss Me Quick) and Denise Daniels star. This 70-minute comedy is from Sonney Amusements.

MR. RICCO

(1975) D: Paul Bogart S: Robert Hoban P: Douglas Netter

In his last starring role Dean Martin plays a San Francisco attorney hired to defend black militant Thalmus Rasulala, who's accused of murder. Also with Denise Nicholas, Cindy Williams, Geraldine Brooks, Philip Michael Thomas, and Ella Edwards. From MGM.

MR. VAMPIRE

(VSOM, 1984) D: Ricky Lau S: Wong Ying, Szeto Cheuk Hon P: Leonard K. C. Ho, Samo Hung Hong Kong

The first in a very popular and much-copied period comic-horror series from Golden Harvest stars Lam Ching Ying (Fists of Fury) as "the one eyebrow priest." He's hired by a landowner to control his father, now a hopping, kung-fu-fighting vampire corpse. Also in the cast are Lu Nan Chung and Moon Lee. Mr. Vampire 2 (1985) and #3 (1987) feature Yuen Biao. #4 (1987) stars Wu Ma as the priest. All were produced by Samo Hung and directed by Ricky Lau. There were the inevitable copies and ripoffs (some also with Lam Ching Ying), Mr. Vampire V and VI (1988 and 1989), and Mr. Vampire 92. Cool hopping-vampire puppets can be purchased in American Chinatowns.

MISTER ZEHN PROZENT

(1967) D: Guido Zurli S: Arpad De Riso, Werner Hauff W. Germany/Italy

A mystery man called Sigpress captures thieves and hands them over to Scotland Yard after taking 10 percent of what they stole for himself. George Martin stars, with Klaus Kinski and Ingrid Schoeller.

MITCHELL

(Rhino, 1975) D: Andrew V. McLaglen
S: Ian Kennedy Martin P: R. Ben Ephraim

Joe Don Baker stars as a detective who's after big-time drug dealers Martin Balsam and John Saxon. The Allied Artists release is considered bad by some people mostly because of Baker's tough-guy acting. It's only available on tape in the Mystery Science Theater 3000 version, with robot viewers making jokes. With Linda Evans as a call girl and Harold J. Stone.

MIXED BLOOD

(Media, 1984) D/S: Paul Morrissey S: Alan Brown P: Antoine Gannage, Steven Fierberg

Brazilian actress Marilia Pera (Pixote) stars as Rita La Punta, a mom and ruthless drug dealer in NYC's "Alphabet City." Morrissey's sense of humor really shows, and this is one of his best. A scene in a (real) Menudo shop is a high point. The violent characters and situations are pretty believable and funny. Also with Richard Ulacia as Rita's son, Angel David, and Linda Kerridge.

MOANA

(1926) D/S: Robert Flaherty

This silent classic about Polynesian tribal life was the first feature called a "documentary" (in a review in the New York Sun). Paramount promoted it as "the love life of a South Seas siren!" and many people bought tickets to see the topless female natives being tattooed.

MOB BOSS

(Vidmark, 1990) D/P: Fred Olen Ray S: T. L. Lankford

In the same year as GoodFellas and Godfather III, Ray made this gangster comedy. Eddie Deezen stars as the idiot son of dying mobster William Hickey, with Morgan Fairchild, Stuart Whitman, Don Stroud, Brinke Stevens, Debra Lamb, Karen Russell, Jay Richardson, Leo V. Gordon, Dick Miller, Robert Quarry, Jasae, and Teagan. Also with Mike Mazurki (in his last role) and Jack O'Halloran, who both played Moose Malloy in different versions of Murder, My Sweet.

MOB BUSTERS

(1986) D: Winston Richard
P: Frank Wong Hong Kong

Americans Richard Kiel (from the James Bond movies) and Misty Rowe (from Goodbye, Norma Jean) went to Asia and starred in this kung-fu comedy. Kiel was also in War of the Wizards and Mad Mission III, both made in Hong Kong.

MOBSTERS

(MCA, 1991) D: Michael Karbelnikoff S: Michael Mahern, Nicholas Kazan P: Steve Roth

Universal released this misfire teen-appeal epic about young 20s gangsters after the success of Young Guns and its sequel. Christian Slater stars as Lucky Luciano, with Patrick Dempsey as Meyer Lansky, Richard Grieco as Bugsy Siegel, and Costas Mandylor as Frank Costello. Michael Gambon, Anthony Quinn, and F. Murray Abraham show up as older gangsters. Also with Lara Flynn Boyle (and her body double), Christopher Penn, Nicholas Sandler, Seymour Cassel, Robert Z'Dar, Karen Russell, and Ava Fabian.

MOB STORY

(Shapiro, 1989) D/S: Jan Carlo, Gabriel Markiw
S: David Flaherty P: Anthony Kramreither Canada

Kate Vernon stars, with her father, John Vernon, Al Waxman, and Margot Kidder, in this PG-13 "dark romantic comedy" about a mob boss training his nephew to be a criminal. It was filmed in Winnipeg.

MOBY DICK

(MGM, 1956) D/S/P: John Huston S: Ray Bradbury

It opens with a young seaman (Richard Basehart) who introduces himself and then narrates the story. He has to spend the night with Queequeg (Friedrich Ledebur) a harpooner from a tribe of tattooed headhunters. Before embarking he hears a sermon by Father Mapple (Orson Welles, who had once planned to direct his own version). John Huston's version of Herman Melville's difficult novel was not popular when it was released but it looks great, has some fine acting and special effects, and is well worth watching. Gregory Peck is the obsessed, one-legged Captain Ahab of the Pequod. The whale-hunting scenes are excellent (and were later copied in Dune). With Leo Genn as Starbuck, Harry Andrews, Mervyn Johns, Bernard Miles, James Robertson-Justice, and Royal Dano as the figure of doom. This Warner Brothers Technicolor release runs 116 minutes. The novel had been filmed twice with John Barrymore, in 1926 as a silent film, The Sea Beast, and in 1930.

MODEL BY DAY

(Academy, 1993) D: Christian Duguay S: Joseph Loeb III, Mathew Weisman P: Kent Cord Canada

A famous NYC model (Famke Janssen) becomes a kickboxing crime-stopper known as Lady X. She wears a lavender helmet, a bra, and boots, does back flips, and battles punks, carjackers, and the Russian Mafia. Meanwhile an imposter kills people. It's a fun movie with some good fight scenes. Steven Shellan is the cop she falls for, Kim Coates is a bad-guy nightclub owner, Shannon Tweed is a kung-fu teacher, and Sean Young has one scene. By the director of the Scanners sequels, it was filmed in Toronto.

THE MODEL KILLER: See HOLLYWOOD STRANGLER MEETS THE HILLSIDE SLASHER

MODEL MASSACRE = COLOR ME BLOOD RED

MODELS, INC.

(1952) D: Reginald LeBorg S: Harry Essex, Paul Yawitz P: Hal E. Chester

Coleen Gray becomes involved in a racket in which models marry for money. Howard Duff is the hero, and John Howard is the bad guy. From Mutual Productions. Gray later became The Leech Woman. LeBorg's next was Bad Blonde.

MODERN PROBLEMS

(Fox, 1981) D/S: Ken Shapiro S: Tom Sherohman, Arthur Sellers P: Alan Greisman

Chevy Chase is an air-traffic controller who's exposed to nuclear waste and acquires telekinetic powers. This PG comedy by the director of The Groove Tube features Patti D'Arbanville, Dabney Coleman, Mary Kay Place, and Nell Carter.

MOHAMMAD, THE MESSENGER OF GOD

(1976) D/P: Moustapha Akkad
S: H.A. L. Craig (The Message)

In 1977 a Muslim sect took 100 hostages in Washington DC, and showings of this film were cancelled, all 180 minutes of it. Mohammad himself is never shown (that's forbidden) in this story of the birth of the Muslim religion, but there's a lot of action, and Anthony Quinn stars as his uncle. It's from the maker of the Kadafy-backed Lion of the Desert (also with Quinn) and the producer of the Halloween series. With Irene Papas, Michael Ansara, Johnny Sekka, Michael Forest, and André Morell.

MOLLY AND GINA

(A-Pix, 1994) D/S/P: Paul Leder
S: Reuben Leder P: Ralph Tornberg

Frances Fisher (who narrates) is the secretary and mistress of an LA private eye who is killed. She teams up with a would-be actress (Natasha Gregson Wagner) whose boyfriend was killed at the same time. They search for a missing woman and try to find the killers. This comic movie has Fisher constantly mentioning Wagner's green hair and Wagner dropping the name of an earlier Leder film, I Dismember Mama. With Bruce Weitz as an asshole police sergeant, Stella Stevens as a rich alcoholic, long-haired Peter Fonda, Penny Johnson, and Leder regular Greg Mullavey. Fisher was also in Leder's Frame Up and Frame Up II.

MOM

(TWE, 1989) D/S: Patrick Rand P: Leon Dudevoir

A blind man (Brion James with a ponytail) who rents a room in LA turns out to be a cannibal/vampire monster who bites his elderly landlady. The life of her TV-newsman son (Mark Thomas Miller) is ruined when he finds her feeding in a back alley ("Mom!") and tries to keep her locked up at home. Jeanne Bates (Silent Night, Deadly Night IV) is great as the vampire mom. The sight of this gray-haired lady (wearing shades) on a relentless search for victims is pretty outrageous. Most of the killing is offscreen, but after a while she mutates, acquires a man's voice, and starts throwing people around. Stella Stevens (in her mid–50s) shows up as a sexy, drunk hooker, and Claudia Christian is a victim. James is also good, with his creepy, dark voice, but disappears too soon.

MOM AND DAD

(SW, 1944) D: William Beaudine S: Mildred Horn P: Kroger Babb, J. S. Jossey

Incredibly, this adults-only road-show movie grossed $16 million, making it the 4th-highest moneymaker of the 40s, behind three animated Disney films! It received a C (condemned) rating from the Catholic Church's Legion of Decency and was banned in many cities. The biggest hit from Kroger Babb, a former carnival barker from Wilmington, Ohio, it was still showing in the late 50s. His wife wrote the screenplay. It was presented (in person) by "Elliot Forbes, the eminent hygiene commentator." Forbes (who could be any fast talker) showed up in many towns at once. For a while, Olympic track star Jesse Owens (!) was the pitchman in black theaters. Nurses were in attendance, and the books Man and Boy and Woman and Girl (also written by Babb's wife) were sold. Screenings were for men only or women only and would begin with a Star-Spangled Banner singalong. In the film itself, puritanical parents don't tell their daughter about "personal hygiene," she becomes pregnant, her boyfriend dies, and the parents are blamed. The high-school teacher who wanted sex-education classes then gets to show (onscreen interruption for Forbes' talk) the birth-of-a-baby reel (both natural and cesarean births) plus what VD can do. David F. Friedman and Joe Solomon were distributors in later days. Mom and Dad was followed by imitators like (The Story of) Bob and Sally, Because of Eve, and Street Corner. The prolific Beaudine also directed the road-show family hit Prince of Peace (1949).

MOM AND DAD SAVE THE WORLD

(HBO, 1992) D: Greg Beeman S: Chris Matheson, Edward Solomon P: Michael Phillips

Parents Teri Garr and Jeffrey Jones are transported in their station wagon to another world where men are part dog and women are part fish. This PG comedy has a Flash Gordon serial look and rubbery creatures. Jon Lovitz is the evil but dumb emperor who's in love with Garr, and Eric Idle is an imprisoned king. Thalmus Rasulala and Wallace Shawn work for the emperor. With Kathy Ireland and Dwier Brown. This Warner release is by the same writers as the Bill and Ted movies.

MOMMIE DEAREST

(Paramount, 1981) D: Frank Perry S: Tracy Hotchner, Robert Getchell S/P: Frank Yablans

Audiences started laughing in the wrong places, and this Joan Crawford exposé/biography soon became some kind of cult movie. Paramount changed the ads to say, "The biggest mother of them all!" and mentioned the wire hangers. It's based on Christina Crawford's book about the horrors of living with her adoptive mother (who died in 1977). Faye Dunaway stars. After this film, Wicked Lady, and Supergirl, nobody took her seriously again until Barfly. Diana Scarwid costars as Christina, with Howard Da Silva as Louis B. Mayer and Steve Forrest, Rutanya Alda, and Jocelyn Brando as various reality-based characters. I can't wait for movies about Bette Davis and Bing Crosby.

MONACO FOREVER

(BRI, 1984) D/P: William A. Levey S: C. William Pitt

This is an obscure 48-minute comedy short set in France in the 50s with Charles Pitt as an American tourist (actually a jewel thief) who encounters various characters. They include Martha Farris, Sidney Lassick (as himself), and Jean-Claude Van Damme (in his first role) as a French-speaking homosexual karate fighter. Van Damme is featured on the cover of the video box. By the director of Slumber Party '57.

MONA'S PLACE

(American, 1970) S/P/E: John Hayes
P/C: Paul Hipp (Fandango)

James Whitworth (Papa Jup in The Hills Have Eyes) stars in this western with sex as Dan Murphy, leader of a lonely group of gold miners. He has lots of tattoos, a beard, and a big (real) nose. He takes Busby and Sissy Sam to Fandango to arrange for Mona (big-breasted Shawn Devereaux, from Russ Meyer's The Seven Minutes) to bring back her dance-hall girls to their camp. It's all kinda like a grade-Z version of Robert Altman's McCabe and Mrs. Miller, which was probably being filmed at the same time. The Irish villain, Muck Mulligan, is copied from Lee Marvin in Cat Ballou, with a patch on his half nose. The cowboys all sing "Oh, Susanna" in bathtubs, everybody has faked sex, all the women are forced to strip outside, there's a gang rape, and in the end the women kill the bad guys with hat pins.

MONDO MOVIES

The history of documentary movies designed to shock viewers goes back to (at least) 1903, when Edison released An Execution by Hanging and Electrocution of an Elephant. Documentaries showing strange cultures were popular major releases in the 20s. Some were more studious and honest than others, but many were partially (or totally) faked exploitation movies. Features showing naked natives, blood, and violence were roadshow adults-only staples for years. Some were called "Goona Goona" movies in the trade. In the early 60s, the Italian movie Mondo Cane created a worldwide sensation and many copies were released. By the 70s, some of these "mondo" movies had become extremely shocking and disturbing. These days many of these features are on tape and many more are made just for video release (see Faces of Death).

MONDO BALARDO

(SW, 1963) D: Roberto Bianchi Montero S: Albert T. Viola Italy

Much of this aimless mondo movie is staged, but the friendly, familiar voice of Boris Karloff narrating gives it a special edge. Several of the many, many scenes involve a bondage photo shoot in Hong Kong, sea turtles being decapitated, an opium den, lesbians, strippers, modern art, strange religious rites, and a behind-the-scenes look at the making of a Hercules movie. Many segments are set in West Germany, including escapes through the then recently completed Berlin Wall. Franz Drago, a midget who lip-synces to "I Ain't Got Nobody," is in the most unique part. The Karloff narration, written by Albert T. Viola, was added in 1967 for Crown International's release of the American version, advertised as "filmed in Stereorama." The video is a Frank Henenlotter release.

MONDO CANE

(Video Dimensions, 1962) D/S/P: Gualtiero Jacopetti Italy (Mondo Cane No. 1)

This is the documentary that started it all. Gualtiero Jacopetti (who narrates) was a journalist and newsreel maker. He doesn't just show gross scenes. There's sense and irony in everything. The film made audiences think while shocking them. Scenes at a Hollywood pet cemetery, for instance, are followed by a look at an Asian restaurant where dogs are served. Other segments concerns sharks, bulls, Hawaiian tourists, drunken Germans, and nude body painting. Although it's very tame by today's standards it's still better than most of the later mondo movies. It was a worldwide hit, and so was the theme song, "More," which is now often played at weddings! Times Films released it, then Cinemation, which also released Mondo Pazzo/Mondo Cane No. 2. The hit LP is on UA.

MONDO FREUDO

(SW, 1966) D: R. L. Frost P: Bob Cresse

"Hidden cameras" capture various (mostly staged) scenes of London hookers, beatnik artists, a slave auction in Mexico, a Puerto Rican black mass in NYC, mud wrestling in Germany, and an S&M club in Japan. The filmmakers also appear and interview hookers in NYC.

MONDO HOLLYWOOD

(1967) D/S/P: Robert Carl Cohen

This narrated "documentary" is a series of many very brief (and pretty mundane) segments about "the city of dreams," shot too often with an out-of-control zoom lens. We see surfing, skateboarding, parachuting, war protests, an LSD lecture, body painting, topless waitresses, and lots of famous movie stars (like Zsa Zsa Gabor, Dean Martin, and Nancy Sinatra) in footage of a parade. A vegetarian lives in a garage with a monkey, and a hairdresser has some great wigs and hairpieces. There's a priceless bit with Governor Ronald Reagan, a photo from The Mask is shown, and Alfred Hitchcock is seen making Torn Curtain. Bobby Jamison, who had been a promising singer a few years earlier, is seen as a bearded hippie. The Mothers of Invention were cut out for legal reasons, but you can still see Frank Zappa and Jimmy Carl Black at a "freak-out." Mike Curb put the soundtrack (on Tower) together, and the Arrows do a long instrumental.

MONDO KEYHOLE

(SW, 1966) D/P: John Lamb D/S/C/E: Jack Hill P: Ronald Graham (The Worst Crime of Them All!)

This is a rape-revenge movie, but it's not what you'd expect. Howard (Nick Moriarty, who narrates) runs Art Products, a mail-order sex business offering nudist magazines, films, and albums like Punishment in Hi Fi. Cathy Crowfoot (who was Lamb's girlfriend) is a lesbian karate expert with a whip and leather bondage gear. At a Hollywood-models costume ball Dracula announces that the punch has LSD in it. The movie is filled with well-done, mind-altering camera FX (including flaming skulls and watches) and features elaborate bondage and S&M scenes, a naked woman underwater (Lamb also made Mermaids of Tiberon), and a heroin-addict wife. It's a 70-minute b/w Frank Hennenlotter Sexy Shocker.

MONDO MOD

(SW, 1967) D/P/E: Peter Perry S: Sherman Greene

DJ Humble Harve narrates this look at teens in LA in the wonderful year of 1966. It's a very entertaining mixture of real and obviously staged scenes. We see "the Group" (kids with acne) and a terrible white soul singer playing at the Whiskey à Go-Go, and we learn that teenagers spend up to $10 a month (!) on records. Long (very good) scenes show surfing and the Sunset Strip demonstrations. Pot and LSD use is explored and bikers attack a cameraman. Instrumental covers heard include "Can't Explain" (Love), "Feel a Whole Lot Better" (the Byrds) and "You Make Me Feel Good" (the Zombies). Laszlo Kovacs and Vilmos Zsigmond were the cinematographers (assisted by Ed De Priest), and Jack Starrett was the assistant director. This Timely Films release was backed by Harry Novak, who is interviewed by Johnny Legend at the end of the video. They talk about the late surfer Mike Weldon (seen in the film) and confirm that he doesn't edit Psychotronic. The video is available with Pot Party Playgirls (love that title!), an alternate topless-dancing version of the climactic party scene, released as a short.

MONDO NEW YORK

(MPI, 1987) D/S: Harvey Keith S: David Silver P: Stuart Shapiro

This late entry in the mondo craze is a look at various "underground" and performance-art stars and would-be stars in Manhattan as seen by a young woman (Joey Arias). Some of them are Rick Aviles, Joe Coleman, Phoebe Legere (who sings), Lydia Lunch, Ann Magnuson (who reads poetry), John Sex, and Annie Sprinkle.

MONDO PAZZO

(SW, 1963) D/S: Gualtiero Jacopetti D/S: Franco Prosperi P: Mario Maffei, Giorgio Cecchini Italy (Mondo Cane II)

This sequel (also narrated by Gualtiero Jacopetti) features the Mexican "Day of the Dead," insect eating, American cops in drag, slave markets, a Buddhist monk burning himself to protest the war in Vietnam, and many more scenes (mostly authentic) of strange customs around the world. It was released in America (cut by 20 minutes) by Rizzoli, then Cinemation. The soundtrack is on 20th Century–Fox. Steve Rossi sings the theme song. Unrelated 80s European videos pretending to be part of a series go up to at least Mondo Cane V.

Ann Magnuson beats a dead horse in Mondo New York.

MONDO TOPLESS

(RM, 1966) D/P/C/E: Russ Meyer

After the box-office failure of Faster, Pussycat! Kill! Kill! this short (62-minute) color "documentary" was a momentary step back for Meyer, but it was a drive-in hit and is a hilarious classic of its kind. It includes footage from Europe in the Raw (1963) and Lorna Maitland's screen test for Lorna. Most of it is nonstop wild dancing by topheavy topless women, usually outdoors with a radio blasting. Their voiceovers explain their plans and goals. With Babette Bardot (who starred in Common-Law Cabin) and Pat Barringer. The music is by the Aladdins.

MONDO TRASHO

(Cinema Group, 1969) D/S/P/C/E: John Waters

Waters's first (and, at 95 minutes, longest) feature was made in 16mm and b/w, with no dialogue, for $2,000. Mary Vivian Pearce experiences a series of bizarre adventures. She meets a shrimper, sees a miracle in a laundromat, is run over by Divine, and is put into an asylum run by a mad doctor (David Lochary). Mink Stole tap dances. Pearce had been in Waters's shorts as far back as 1964 (Hag in a Black Leather Jacket). The other cast members had been in his Roman Candles (1966) and Eat Your Makeup (1968). Old hits are heard on the soundtrack. This was later distributed by New Line. Waters returned with Multiple Maniacs (1970).

MONDO VIOLENCE

(T-Z, 1977) D/S: Mario Morra, Antonio Climati Italy

This consists mostly of narrated travelogue footage with animal-death scenes added. It includes real and fake footage and supposed alligators in the NYC sewer system. "Banned in 40 countries," says the video box. It's by a Mondo Cane cameraman.

MONEY FROM HOME

(1954) D: George Marshall S: Hal Kanter P: Hal B. Wallis

Jerry Lewis as Virgil Yokum and Dean Martin as Honeytalk Nelson star in their only 3-D movie. It's based on a Damon Runyon story and involves gangsters, steeplechase racing, and an Arab sheik's harem. With Marjie Millar and Pat Crowley. From Paramount.

MONEY TO BURN

(New Line, 1994) D/S: John Sijogren S/P: Scott Ziehl

Chad McQueen and Don Swayze (stars of Death Ring) obtain a suitcase full of stolen money. This action movie features Joe Estevez, Julie Strain, and Sydney Lassick. Note the three relatives of more famous stars.

THE MONEY TREE

(Black Sheep, 1990) D: Alan Dienstag P/A: Christopher Dienstag

Christopher Dienstag (an acting teacher and the director's son) stars as a Marin County pot grower. This pro-NORML film deals with the details of growing, the personal problems of growers, drug-seeking helicoptors, and wild pigs. It has improvised dialogue and a jazz score.

THE MONGOLS

(Sinister, 1960) D: André De Toth, Riccardo Freda S: Ugo Guerra, Luciano Martino, Ottavio Alessi P: Guido Giambartolomei Italy/France (I Mongoli)

Genghis Khan's son Ogatai (Jack Palance) and his Mongol hordes invade Poland. Anita Ekberg (!) costars as his conniving mistress, Hulina. She looks great but not at all Mongolian. It's in Cinemascope and Eastmancolor.

Anita Ekberg in The Mongols.

MONGREL

(Paragon, 1982) D/S: Bob Burns

A practical joke at a boardinghouse leads to death, and a young tenant is afraid of dogs. Terry Evans stars, with Aldo Ray as the landlord and Mitch Pileggi (Shocker). This early direct-to-video feature comes in a very misleading monster-dog box and was shot in Austin, Texas. Bob Burns did the art direction for The Texas Chainsaw Massacre and starred in Confession of a Serial Killer.

MONIKA: THE STORY OF A BAD GIRL

(1952) D/S: Ingmar Bergman S: P.A. Fogelström Sweden (Sommaren med Monika; Summer with Monika; Monika)

Kroger Babb cut Ingmar Bergman's 97-minute b/w film to 62 minutes, dubbed it into "American" English, added a new score by Les Baxter, and distributed it on the exploitation/road-show circuit in 1955, playing up the nude swimming scenes with star Harriet Andersson. It was advertised as "a picture for wide screens and broad minds!" (copy written by David F. Friedman) and played at drive-ins. Bergman's Illicit Interlude (1950) and The Naked Night/Sawdust and Tinsel (1953) had already been art-house hits, but more people saw this than any other Bergman film (until Roger Corman released some in the 70s).

THE MONK

(Video Search, 1972) D/S: Ado Kyrou S: Luis Buñuel, Jean-Claude Carriere P: Henri Lange M: Ennio Morricone France (Le Moine)

This fascinating film, based on Matthew Gregory Lewis' 1796 novel, was to have been directed by Luis Buñuel and has been unjustly criticized because it wasn't. During the inquisition a Spanish Capuchin abbot, Father Ambrosio (Franco Nero), preaches chastity and is considered "the reincarnation of one of the apostles." He falls in love with a monk who's actually a female witch (Nathalie Delon). She leads him into a life of "fornication, sorcery, and murder." A decadent duke (Nicol Williamson) who has girls kidnapped and abuses orphans becomes his benefactor. When Ambrosio confesses the priest is so shocked that he dies. Inquisitors with skulls and crossbones condemn him, but he signs away his soul in blood to avoid paying for his sins. Unlike in most movies, this act is completely successful! The video has English subtitles added to Danish (?) subtitles. A 1991 Spanish remake stars Sophie Ward.

MONKEY BOY

(Prism, 1990) D: Lawrence Gordon Clark S: Stephen Gallagher P: Nick Gillott UK (Chimera)

A pretty horrible-looking, superstrong mutant boy born in a lab is destined for vivisection. He escapes and murders a scientist and many other people, and the police search for him. It's based on the novel Chimera, by Stephen Gallagher. John Lynch stars, with Christine Kavanaugh and Kenneth Cranham. This 4-part TV miniseries had its American debut on the Arts and Entertainment Network and then was condensed for video release.

MONKEY HUSTLE

(Orion, 1976) D/P: Arthur Marks S: Charles Johnson

A new highway threatens a Chicago neighborhood, so the locals throw a big block party as a protest. Yaphet Kotto as Daddy Foxx and a toned-down Rudy Ray Moore are small-time gangsters. This PG comedy also features Rosalind Cash, Randy Brooks, Debbi Morgan, and Kirk Calloway. This AIP release was the last directed by the son of Groucho Marx, who also made the 70s black-cast features Detroit 9000, Bucktown, Friday Foster, and JD's Revenge.

MONKEY ON MY BACK

(1957) D: André De Toth S: Crane Wilbur, Anthony Veiller, Paul Dudley P: Edward Small

Cameron Mitchell, in probably his best dramatic starring role, is the real-life WWII hero and champion welterweight boxer Barney Ross, who became addicted to morphine. This and The Man with the Golden Arm (also from UA) were the first major studio releases to deal openly with drug addiction. A scene of Ross shooting up was cut in order to get an MPAA seal but was used in ads. For many years this movie was shown to patients in government-run addiction programs. With Dianne Foster as Ross' wife and Jack Albertson.

MONKEY SHINES: AN EXPERIMENT IN FEAR

(Orion, 1988) D/S: George Romero
P: Charles Evans (Ella)

A quadriplegic Boston law student (Jason Beghe) develops a mind link with Ella, a superintelligent experimental monkey who's there to help him get through each difficult day. Ella carries out his subconscious wishes, and people are attacked and killed. With John Pankow as a scientist friend, Patricia Tallman, Joyce Van Patten, Janine Turner, and an irritating bird. The nurse is played by George Romero's wife, Kate McNeil. Tom Savini provided the FX. It's a long 115 minutes.

THE MONOCLE

(1964) D: Georges Lautner S: G. Rémy, Jacques Robert France

Oliver Despax stars as a French agent who goes after a gang of Asian terrorists who plan to destroy an American nuclear carrier. Barbara Steele costars in this b/w comedy/thriller.

MONOLITH

(MCA, 1993) D/P: John Eyres
S: Steven Lister P: Geoff Griffiths

Bill Paxton and Lindsay Frost (Dead Heat) star as mismatched, arguing LA cops. He has b/w flashbacks of his wife being shot. A Russian woman tries to kill a kid, and an indestructible alien with death-ray eyes changes bodies. This movie has lots of shooting, explosions, and burning men, but not much of a script. Guest stars John Hurt and Lou Gossett Jr. both get to yell a lot. The end of this SGE release copies Predator II (also with Paxton), as the heroes discover and, in a ridiculous climax, ride on top of (?!) a large flying saucer.

MONSIEUR VERDOUX

(Fox, 1947) D/S/P/A: Charles Chaplin

Chaplin stars as a Depression-era Bluebeard. The American Legion's threat to boycott theaters showing this 123-minute, pacifist-themed black comedy (which condemns war with statements like "One murder makes a villain, millions a hero. Numbers sanctify.") plus generally bad reviews, doomed the original release. It was kept out of release in America until 1964! Based on an idea by Orson Welles, it seems extremely tame today. Martha Raye costars, with Isobel Elsom, William Frawley, Marilyn Nash, and Fritz Leiber. The laserdisc version (from Image) includes script excerpts and commentary. When Chaplin left the country in 1952 to attend the English premiere of what turned out to be his last American film, Limelight, the US attorney general revoked his reentry visa.

THE MONSTER

(Dark Dreams, 1925) D/P: Roland West
S: Willard Mack, Albert Kenyon

Seeing just how far back horror clichés go is a good idea. Here's a Lon Chaney horror comedy made over 70 years ago. Dr. Ziska, a mad surgeon, runs a former sanitarium with trap doors, tunnels, and an electric chair in the hidden basement. His killer slave, a zombie-like ghoul man in a cape, and a guy who rolls invisible cigarettes use mirrors to cause car wrecks during thunder-storms, assuring new victims. A naive, lovesick, backwoods amateur detective (Johnny Arthur) shows up trying to find a missing person. Before being electrocuted himself, Chaney acts friendly in a smoking jacket, then demented in a lab coat, as he straps Gertrude Olmsted to his operating table: "At last the fools have brought me a woman! I shall transfer your soul into her body! Don't you dare call me mad!" A standout comic/action scene has the nervous hero escaping on a phone wire. The original comic intertitles are almost impossible to read, but after a while they're replaced by newer typed ones. A monotonous piano score is on the soundtrack, but you could supply your own (better) music. This was released the same year as the more famous Chaney hits The Phantom of the Opera and The Unholy Three. Johnny Arthur was Spanky's dad in the Our Gang short Anniversary Trouble (1935).

MONSTER

(Premiere, 1978) D/S: Herbert L. Strock
S/P: Kenneth Herts, Walter Robert Schmidt, Garland Scott (Monstroid; Toxic Monster)

The credits (and even the cast) for this all-star, PG, too-dark, ecology-minded movie are wrong in most books (including my first Psychotronic book). It was a 1975 promo reel first. An intro claims that what you are about to see is true and that it happened in 1971 in Colombia (where the creature scenes created by David Hewitt were shot). It was made later, though, in New Mexico. An American cement corporation (led by Phil Carey) has polluted a lake, creating a Loch Ness type of monster. The villagers stone and then burn a woman (whose husband had been killed by the monster) for being a witch. Carey sends tough guy Jim Mitchum to stop the bad news from leaking out, and he has problems with a pushy American lady reporter. Anthony Eisley is the foreman, messing around with the corrupt mayor's daughter. His blond ex-girlfriend has her legs bitten off after a nude swim. John Carradine is a priest who's against "the foreign polluters." The creature is seen as a big claw or as a silly puppet head with floppy jowls. Herbert L. Strock directed I Was a Teenage Frankenstein (1957). Kenneth Hartford/Herts directed The Lucifer Complex (1978).

THE MONSTER AND THE APE

(Stokey, 1945) D: Howard Bretherton S: Sherman Lowe, Royal K. Cole P: Rudolph C. Flothow

This Columbia serial features a man in a gorilla suit and an excellent, mean-faced robot (or metalogen). Robert Lowery (who also played Batman) stars, with Carole Mathews and Ralph Moran. George McCready is the mad-professor villain.

THE MONSTER AND THE STRIPPER: See THE EXOTIC ONES

MONSTER AT CAMP SUNSHINE

(SW, 1964) D/S: "Ferenc Leroget"
P: Gene Kearney

Chemicals used by a doctor in NYC make lab rats attack, so he simply tosses a bottle of the toxic waste into the river. In an upstate nudist camp, Hugo, a dumb, fat gardener, becomes a "monster" and attacks with an axe. Clare, a model, narrates the tale of what happened to her nudist-nurse roommate, Martha. The pretty female leads are seen topless at a nighttime birthday party and, in my favorite scene, modeling topless bathing suits on a NYC tenement roof. Nearly everybody has flashbacks and smokes a lot. It all starts with Monty Python–style montages, includes silent movie intitles, and ends with actual war footage to suggest the battle with Hugo. This b/w tape is presented by Frank Henenlotter.

MONSTER DOG

(TWE, 1984) D: "Clyde Anderson"/Claudio Fragasso
S/P: Carlos Aured (Los Perros de la Muerte; The Bite)

American rock star Alice Cooper (real name Vince Furnier) stars as Vincent Raven, a rock star visiting his home town with a video crew. People die (his father was killed by a werewolf). With Victoria Vera. It's by the maker of Rats.

MONSTER HIGH

(RCA, 1988) D: Rudiger Poe S: Roy Langdon, John Platt P: Eric Bernt

Mr. Armageddon (David Marriott), an alien in human form, shows up to retrieve a doomsday device at a high school. There are comic aliens, rap songs, gore, and students playing a basketball game against monsters to save the world. The movie is narrated.

MONSTER HUNTER

(Wizard, 1977) D/P: "Peter Newton"/Aristide Massaccesi S: John Cart P: Donatella Donati Italy (Anthropophagus II; Absurd)

George Eastman (Luigi Montefiore) returns as the mutant killer cannibal in this gory immediate sequel to The Grim Reaper (1981). It has a plot like Halloween and takes place in small-town America during the Super Bowl. A priest (Edmond Purdom) and a cop search for the killer. The cast also includes Katya Berger as the bedridden main victim, Laura Gemser, and Annie Belle. The Grim Reaper (heavily cut in America) is on tape from Monterey.

MONSTER IN THE CLOSET

(Troma, 1983) D/S: Bob Dahlin
P: David Levy, Peter L. Bergquist

Donald Grant stars as a newspaper reporter who teams up with a teacher (Denise DuBarry) to try to defeat a 50s-style man-in-a-suit monster (Kevin Peter Hall) who's literally in a closet. Stella Stevens and Paul Dooley own the house. This PG science-fiction parody set in San Francisco also features guest stars, including John Carradine as a blind man, Howard Duff, Henry Gibson, Claude Akins, Jesse White, and Donald Moffatt. Troma released it in 1986.

MONSTERS

(Lorimar, 1988–91) D: Michael Gornick, Ted Gershuny, Frank De Palma, Richard Friedman, Debra Hill, Ernest Farino, Bette Gordon, Sara Driver, and others P: George Romero

This light, low-budget weekly syndicated half-hour horror series was from the same people (especially Richard Rubinstein) who created the Tales from the Darkside show. Episodes were produced in studios in NYC and LA. Some corny and clichéd episodes are sure to make you groan, but many of the directors went on to features. Most episodes have at least one name actor. Some were David McCallum, Robert Lansing, Mary Woronov, Frank Gorshin, Linda Blair, Farley Granger, and Pam Grier. Each video has 2 episodes. Some shows were dedicated to Tom Allen, a creative force in NYC who died while the show was in production.

MONSTERS AND MANIACS

(Filmfax, 1988) D: Ted Newsom

Brinke Stevens hosts and narrates this 110-minute compilation of horror-movie scenes, trailers, and behind-the-scenes footage. It includes a tribute to 50s monster creator Paul Blaisdell.

MONSTERS CRASH PAJAMA PARTY

(Sinister, 1964) D/S/P: David L. Hewitt S: Jay Lister

This fascinating short (33-minute) artifact is the closest thing you'll ever see to an actual old, live spook show. It was shown at midnight, following David L. Hewitt's Time Travelers. After a very long narrated comic intro with a gorilla director, laughter, and screams, this clichéd horror comedy shows 10 teens going to an old, dark house for an initiation. The wisecracking guys leave the girls (now in nighties), not knowing about the mad doctor (Nick McGhee) with a Vampira-like assistant, a gorilla, and a hunchback. One girl is "turned into" a gorilla on an operating table, and they're all chained up in the dungeon. Then comes the "blackout," lightning, screams, and next the monsters would run out into the theater audience! Great stuff, and it's followed by a trailer for Monster Crash ("In fantastic horror vision!") and three live spook shows (Dr. Sin, Houston's Hallucinations, and Dr. Rome the Ghostmaker).

MONSTER SHARK

(1986) D: "John Old Jr."/ Lamberto Bava S: Gianfranco Clerici P: Mino Loy Italy/France (Red Ocean)

The cells of a giant shark/octopus off the Florida coast can reproduce. Michael Sopkiw stars, with William Berger, Gianni Garko, and Dagmar Lassander. Based on a story by Luigi Cozzi and Sergio Martino, it includes some nudity and played on 42nd Street.

MONSTERS, MADMEN, AND MACHINES

(RKO, 1984) D: Daniel Helfgott, Alan Adler

Gil Gerard hosts 57 minutes of clips from 38 science-fiction movies, mostly from the 50s, divided into pointless sections like "The Beast," "The Girl," and "The Future."

THE MONSTER SQUAD

(Vestron, 1987) D/S: Fred Dekker S: Shane Black P: Jonathan A. Zimbert

Andre Gower and other kids in a monster-movie fan club encounter the old Universal monsters, in this fun PG-13 feature. Tom Noonan is a friendly Frankenstein monster, and Duncan Regehr is Dracula. Stan Winston and Steve Wang created the monsters (including the wolf man and the gill man) and FX. With Robby Kiger, Stephen Macht, Mary Ellen Trainor, and Randi Brooks. Black also wrote Lethal Weapon. A Tri Star release.

MONSTROSITY

(VSOM, 1988) D: Andy Milligan P: Lew Mishkin

Haal Borske stars as Frankie, a comic, lovesick creature with "the "brain of a child and the body of a giant." He was created by a guy whose girlfriend was killed by a gang in Hollywood. Andy Milligan made Weirdo next.

MONTEZUMA'S LOST GOLD

(1978) D/P: John Burrud, Milas Henshaw

This docudrama recreates the quest of 1860 murderer John Bodeen's 20-year search for gold hidden by the conquistadors. John Burrud (who later produced the Faces of Death series) narrates.

MONTY PYTHON AND THE HOLY GRAIL

(RCA/Columbia, 1974) D/S: Terry Gilliam, Terry Jones P: Michael White, John Goldstone UK

"It makes Ben-Hur look like an epic!" said the ads. This version of the King Arthur legend is really a series of funny gags. It's remembered by some for the very gory scene of a knight who refuses to stop fighting even after his arms, legs, etc., are hacked off. All of the Python members contributed to the screenplay and appear in many roles, and Graham Chapman is King Arthur. The letterboxed laserdisc version from Voyager is thebest-looking and includes alternate soundtrack commentary by the directors, some missing footage, and the Japanese-dubbed soundtrack. There are also 22 volumes (60 minutes each) of the TV series Monty Python's Flying Circus, as well as Monty Python Live at the Hollywood Bowl and the 20th-anniversary videos Life of Python, a BBC documentary with interviews, and Parrot Sketch Not Included, a "best of" compilation (all from Paramount).

MONTY PYTHON'S LIFE OF BRIAN

(Warner, 1979) D/S/A: Terry Jones P: John Goldstein (Life of Brian)

Graham Chapman stars as Brian, born at the same time as Christ. He has a parallel life, is mistaken for the Savior, and is persecuted by the Romans. The finale is "Always Look on the Bright Side of Life," sung by dozens of crucified men. (It reentered the British charts in the early 90s.) George Harrison backed this irreverent comedy. Chapman and costars John Cleese, Terry Gilliam, Eric Idle, and Michael Palin all contributed to the screenplay. Spike Milligan is also in the cast, and there's animation by Gilliam.

MONTY PYTHON'S THE MEANING OF LIFE

(MCA, 1983) D/S/A: Terry Jones P: John Goldstone

The last and in many ways the most outrageous Python movie is a series of elaborate and expensive-looking sketches, some featuring blood and gore. Musical production numbers include "Every Sperm Is Sacred." A huge Terry Jones pukes up food at a restaurant. Cast members Graham Chapman, John Cleese, Terry Gilliam, Eric Idle, and Michael Palin all contributed to the screenplay. Gilliam directed the epic "Crimson Permanent Insurance" intro segment.

MOONCHILD

(1971) D/S: Alan Gadney P: Dick Alexander (Full Moon)

An art student (Mark Travis) arrives at an old California mission being used as a hotel. He experiences many flashforwards and meets bizarre characters who argue about life. A mysterious blonde (Janet Landgard) is the daughter of an alchemist. John Carradine is the bearded Mr. Walker, "a keeper of words," and Victor Buono ends up presiding over an Inquisition-like trial. Hooded figures run around, and there's a one-eyed idiot hunchback, b/w dream sequences, and a (real) pig's head being ripped apart. This interesting, disorienting USC student film is not officially on video but has been recorded from a Boston TV station. Carradine and Buono both have lots of dialogue and must have enjoyed their roles (they couldn't have done this for the money). The wah-wah guitar theme dates it.

The Monster Squad

MOONFLEET

(1955) D: Fritz Lang S: Jan Lustig, Margaret Fitts P: John Houseman

Jon Whiteley stars as an 18th-century boy put into the care of a renegade gentleman (Stewart Granger) who only wants his inheritance. The story involves smugglers, underground passageways, and a cemetery, and it would still be pretty scary for a kid to watch. With George Sanders, Joan Greenwood, Viveca Lindfors, Liliane Montevecchi, Alan Napier, John Hoyt, Jack Elam, Dan Seymour, Ian Wolfe, and Skelton Knaggs. The MGM release was in color and Cinemascope. In Jean-Luc Godard's Contempt, Fritz Lang says that Cinemascope is "good only for funerals and snakes."

MOON 44

(Live, 1990) D/P: Roland Emmerich S: Oliver Eberle S/P: Dean Heyde M: Joel Goldsmith W. Germany

The plot of this prison movie set in futuristic, industrial space is basically intelligent boys vs. musclebound lunkheads. Everything is very sweaty, smoky, and claustrophobic. Michael Paré plays Stone, an expressionless undercover agent and helicopter pilot who smokes and reads a lot. One boy hangs himself after being raped in the shower (offscreen). Malcolm McDowell is the suspicious Major Lee, Lisa Eichhorn is the only female on board, Stephen Geoffreys sells drugs, and Roscoe Lee Browne stays on Earth. Also with Dean Devlin, Leon Rippy, and Brian Thompson. The soundtrack is on One World. This expensive production went directly to video in America.

MOON IN SCORPIO

(TWE, 1987) D: Gary Graver S: Robert S. Aiken P: Alan Amiel

Voiceovers and narration by a crazy woman were added to try to make sense out of footage shot at three different times. The plot is Nam vets on a yachting trip vs. supernatural victims of a massacre. The confusing feature stars John Phillip Law as a Nam vet, Britt Ekland as his bride, Robert Quarry, William Smith, James Booth, Donna Kei Benz, Jillian Kesner, and April Wayne. Fred Olen Ray was the coproducer.

THE MOONLIGHTER

(1953) D: Roy Rowland S: Niven Busch P: Joseph Bernhard

Barbara Stanwyck and Fred MacMurray star in this 3-D tale of cattle rustlers, from Warners. With Ward Bond, Morris Ankrum, and Jack Elam.

MOONSHINE MOUNTAIN

(SW, 1964) D/P/C: Herschell Gordon Lewis S/A: Charles Glore

Doug Martin, a country-music star (screenwriter Charles Glore, aka Chuck Scott) returns to mountain country to research "folk music." He encounters moonshiners with a giant still, a white gospel-singing family, a new girlfriend (Bonnie Hinson), and murder. Color Me Blood Red star Adam Sorg is the psycho killer-rapist sheriff, and you'll recognize actors from 2000 Maniacs. This crude movie, shot in South Carolina, features every inbred-hillbilly cliché imaginable and rape scenes, but from the jokey credits you can see that it isn't supposed to be taken seriously. "White Lightnin'" sung at a barn dance is the musical highlight. Pat Patterson was the assistant director and acts. The print is jumpy, the color is washed out, and the sound is bad.

MOONTRAP

(SGE, 1988) D/P: Robert Dyke S: Tex Ragsdale

Walter Koenig (in a rare non–Star Trek role) stars as Colonel Grant, in this story about the first manned moon mission in decades. Bruce Campbell is the copilot, and Leigh Lombardi is an alien woman. Killer robots are assembled from spare metal (and human) parts. There's some good stop-motion animation. It was made in Troy, Michigan.

MORE

(Warner Brothers, 1969) D/S/P: Barbet Schroeder S: Paul Gegpuff Luxembourg

Swiss-born Barbet Schroeder made this, his first feature, in France and on the beautiful Spanish island of Ibiza. Most of the dialogue is in English, but various characters speak untranslated French, German, and Spanish. Klaus Gruber stars as Stephen, a blank and directionless German guy who's hitchhiking to Morocco and has the mixed fortune of hooking up with a beautiful, uninhibited American girl (Mimsy Farmer). He smokes pot for the first time with her (while Pink Floyd's "Cymbaline" plays). They seem to be alone in paradise on Ibiza, but she's also involved with an ex-Nazi and hard drugs. He gets confused, hooked, and strung out, takes LSD, meditates, gets mad, goes into debt, and ends up in a wooden box. This unique timepiece made former AIP starlet Farmer (who spends half of the movie naked) a star in Europe. You may see this as a depressing but erotic version of The Blue Lagoon (also shot by Nestor Almendros) mixed with a modern version of Reefer Madness ("Fix me!"), but you won't forget it. Schroeder's movies can work on many levels, and there's a lot to read into this one if you want to. Parts of the famous Pink Floyd soundtrack are heard coming from a jukebox, a radio, records, and tapes. Floyd fans should know that there's also some good stuff not on the LP, originally released on Tower. (The group also scored Schroeder's The Valley.)

MORE AMERICAN GRAFFITI

(MCA, 1979) D/S: B. W. L. Norton P: Howard Kazanjian

After the original hit, this was a box-office washout. Audiences didn't like what they were seeing. The film deals with changes in sex, drugs, rock and roll, and politics, often with humor. It has an ambitious if awkward structure (the segments go back and forth) and takes place on several different New Years Eves from 1964 to 1967. Characters go to Vietnam, protest, and become stoned, disillusioned, and even dead. With Candy Clark, Bo Hopkins, Ron Howard, Paul Le Mat (who is excellent), Mackenzie Phillips, Charles Martin Smith, Cindy Williams, Scott Glenn, Mary Kay Place, Doug Sahm, Wolfman Jack, Country Joe and the Fish, and even Rosanna Arquette. Another great double MCA soundtrack includes hits by the Byrds, Hendrix, and Dylan, and "Fingertips," "Woolly Bully," and "96 Tears." George Lucas was the executive producer.

MORONS FROM OUTER SPACE

(Warner, 1985) D: Mike Hodges S/A: Griff Rhys Jones, Mel Smith P: Barry Hanson UK

After three stupid aliens land in England, scientists and military men study them. With Jimmy Nail, Dinsdale Landen, Joanne Pearce, Paul Brown, and James B. Sikking. By the director of the Flash Gordon remake. Smith and Jones have starred in and written comedy shows for British TV, including Alas Smith and Jones and Not the Nine O'Clock News. Smith directed The Tall Guy.

MORTAL PASSIONS

(Fox, 1989) D: Andrew Lane S: Alan Moskowitz P: Gwen Field

Krista Errickson is married to suicidal Zach Galligan, and they live in a mansion. This unpredictable sex-and-murder story features David Warner, Michael Bowen, and Luca Bercovici. Wayne Crawford was an executive producer. Lane and Crawford have been making wacky, low-budget features since the early 70s.

MORTAL THOUGHTS

(RCA, 1991) D: Alan Rudolph S: William Reilly, Claude Kerven P: John Fielder, Mark Tarlov

Demi Moore (who was also a coproducer) and Glenne Headly run a beauty shop in New Jersey. Headly's abusive husband (a bearded Bruce Willis) is killed "accidentally," and they cover it up. Harvey Keitel is the detective who demands even more flashbacks. With Billie Neal and John Pankow. It was a Columbia release.

MORTUARY

(Vestron, 1981) D/S/P: Hikmet Avedis S/P: Marlene Schmidt

Christopher George (in one of his last features) and his real-life wife, Lynda Day George, are top billed in this movie about a killer who uses embalming tools (large needles through the chest). Mary McDonough (from The Waltons) is the real star, and a young Bill Paxton has the best role. Also with Alvy Moore and Michael Berryman. It was a Crown International release by the director of The Fifth Floor.

MORTUARY ACADEMY

(RCA, 1988) D: Michael Schroeder S: William Kelman P: Dennis Winfrey

The Grimm brothers (Christopher Atkins and Perry Lang) inherit a mortuary but have to take classes there. Paul Bartel is the necrophiliac manager. Mary Woronov is a teacher who plays dead for him. He falls in love with the corpse of a cheerleader, but she's gang-banged on a beach (?!). This not-too-funny, very-bad-taste comedy is also loaded with ethnic jokes. Tracey Walter reanimates a heavy-metal bar-mitzvah band managed by Wolfman Jack. With Cesar Romero, Stoney Jackson, Anthony James, James Daughton, Dona Speir, Karen Witter, and Rebekka Armstrong. The theme is a remake of "Be True to Your School."

MOSQUITO

(Hemdale, 1994) D/S: Gary Jones S: Steve Hodge P: Dave Thiry (Blood Fever; Nightswarm)

A giant killer mosquito from a space ship attacks campers. With Rachel Loiselle as the park ranger, Gunnar Hansen as an escaped bank robber with a chainsaw, Ron Ashton (from the Stooges), and Josh Becker. It was directed by an FX guy who had worked on Sam Raimi's movies. It was made near Detroit the same year as the similar Skeeter and Ticks.

MOTEL CONFIDENTIAL!

(Rhino, 1967) D/P: A. C. Stevens S: Mark Del Monde

A comedy-relief Italian runs the eight-dollar-a-night Quickie motel. For each couple who check in there's a story and a sex scene. One segment features a guy in drag. This episodic, adults-only movie is strangely similar to the later Pink Motel. It's also available on the tape Saturday Night Sleazies, Volume III.

MOTHER

(VSOM, 1970) D/S/P: Don Joslyn (Up Your Teddy Bear)

There's a minimal plot here about Julie Newmar ordering the huge, childlike Skippy (Victor Buono) to convince the tiny, lovesick Clyde (Wally Cox) to work for her toy company. This bizarre comedy resembles a bad nudie movie, as Skippy sends one hooker after another to try to seduce Clyde. We also get endless fat gags involving Buono (who appears in drag), Cox in fantasy sequences following women, dancing, singing, and yodeling, Newmar in a black bikini, Angelique Pettyjohn naked in a steamroom, and many closeups of asses. With Claire Kelly, Thordis Brandt, and Valora Noland. The music is by Quincy Jones. Cox, a longtime friend of Marlon Brando (and the voice of Underdog), died in 1973. This R-rated release is from Gemeni, the company that released Ted V. Mikels' movies.

MOTHER'S BOYS

(Miramax, 1993) D: Yves Simoneau S: Barry Schneider, Richard Hawley P: Jack E. Freedman

Jude (Jamie Lee Curtis), a mom who ran off, returns after three years determined to get her husband (Peter Gallagher) and three sons back. She uses lies and emotional blackmail and nearly kills all of them. She lets her 12-year-old-son (Luke Edwards) drive a car and see her naked. It was the first horror role for Curtis since Halloween II and Road Games, back in 1981. With Joanne Whalley-Kilmer as the schoolteacher her husband now loves, Vanessa Redgrave as the rich grandmother who knows what a psycho her daughter is, and Joss Ackland. It's based on a novel by Bernard Taylor.

MOTORAMA

(Columbia, Tristar, 1992) D: Barry Shils S: Joseph Minion P: Donald P. Borchers M: Andy Summers

A determined 10-year-old named Gus (Jordan Christopher Michael) steals a '65 Mustang and goes on the road through mythical states in the Southwest, trying to collect enough letters to win a gas-station card game. Gus runs into many odd characters, in this unique and pretty great black comedy by the guy who wrote After Hours. Mary Woronov and Sandy Baron punch Gus' eye out, Drew Barrymore is in a nightmare, Susan Tyrrell is in a wig, Meat Loaf is a biker, Vince Edwards is a doctor, and Michael J. Pollard and Garrett Morris run a gas station. The cast also includes Flea, Jack Nance, Dick Miller, Martha Quinn, Robin Duke, Allyce Beasley, Shelley Berman, and John Diehl.

MOTORCYCLE GANG

(1994) D: John Milius S: Kent Anderson P: Lou Arkoff, Debra Hill

Gerald McRaney is a retired soldier who defends his family from bikers led by Jake (son of Gary) Busey. With Carla Gugino as the daughter and Elan Oberon. This Showtime Rebel Highways series movie and Road Racer (1993) both copy Hot Rods to Hell (1967). Ed Cahn's 1957 AIP movie Motorcycle Gang (available on Columbia video) is about illegal street racing.

MOTORPSYCHO!

(RM, 1965) D/S/P/C/E: Russ Meyer

A three-man gang led by the crazed Brahman (Stephen Oliver) harass a fisherman and his wife, then go after a country veterinarian (Alex Rocco) and rape his wife. Rocco teams with Cajun Ruby (Haji) for revenge. The bikers look just like any guys on Japanese bikes, but Oliver plays an early example of a deranged Nam vet. He went on to Angels from Hell (1968), The Naked Zoo (1969), Savage Abduction (1972), and others. Surf rock is heard coming from a transistor radio. With Coleman Francis. This b/w companion film to the more famous Faster, Pussycat! Kill! Kill! was very rare before its video release in 1992. I saw it dubbed into German. Meyer appears as the sheriff.

MOUNTAINTOP MOTEL MASSACRE

(Starmaker, 1983) D/P: Jim McCullough Sr. S/P: Jim McCullough Jr.

Evelyn (Anna Chappell), the heavyweight proprietor of a motel, kills with a scythe and hides in tunnels. She also puts snakes and rats in rooms. The ads said, "Please do not disturb Evelyn. She already is." Larry Buchanan regular Bill Thurman is the local reverend. New World released it in 1986.

THE MOUSE ON THE MOON

(1963) D: Richard Lester S: Michael Pertwee P: Walter Shenson UK

The small, poor Duchy of Grand Fenwick convinces the world that it's entering the space race (great idea), so the USA, the USSR, and the UK all send financial aid. They use local wine for fuel and eventually really make it to the moon. Bernard Cribbins stars in this Cold War comedy, with Margaret Rutherford as the grand duchess, Ron Moody, Terry-Thomas, Michael Crawford, and June Ritchie as a beatnik. It's a sequel to The Mouse That Roared (1957). Both are based on novels by Leonard Wibberley.

MOVIE HOUSE MASSACRE

(Active, 1984) D/S/P/A: Alice Raley

When a Beverly Hills theater is reopened a psycho kills cheerleaders there. This amateur film features Mary Woronov as the owner's assistant.

THE MOVING FINGER

(Audubon, 1963) D/S: Larry Moyer

This previously unreleased b/w obscurity is set in NYC's Greenwich Village. Lionel Stander owns an espresso bar with a basement where pot smoking beatniks crash along with a wounded bank robber. With Barbara London (later in Psychout), Art Smith, and the famous street musician Moondog. The music is twist instrumentals. Stander's next appearance was in The Loved One (1965).

MOVING TARGET

(Southgate, 1989) D/S: Marius Mattei S/P: Josi W. Konski Italy

Linda Blair fans, beware! In this made-in-Miami movie she has a useless role as a jilted doctor. The real star is Janine Linde, a young blonde who takes her clothes off at every possible opportunity. She has amnesia after her boyfriend is blown away by

MOST-COPIED FEATURES

TOP 10

1. The Most Dangerous Game
2. Die Hard
3. Deliverance
4. The Exorcist
5. Road Warrior
6. Alien
7. Conan
8. Emmanuelle
9. Rambo
10. Star Wars

a mysterious killer biker wearing black. So she moves in with and seduces a tennis champ who she thinks is her father. A gangster (Stuart Whitman) is after her for a key to a fortune that she unknowingly has. Captain Morrison (Ernest Borgnine) investigates all the killings, and a (badly dubbed) female news reporter seems to be everywhere. This movie has lots of car chases and smashups, a slow-motion topless run on a beach, a disco scene, a great falling-off-a-balcony scene, plenty of dead people, and ridiculous (surprise!) plot twists. The cinematography is much better than necessary.

MOVING VIOLATION

(Fox, 1976) D: Charles S. Dubin
S: David Osterhout P: Julie Corman

Stephan McHattie and Kay Lenz star as a couple being pursued by a redneck sheriff, with Eddie Albert, Will Geer, Fred Willard, and Dick Miller. Roger Corman was the executive producer of this PG car-chase movie, and Barbara Peeters was the second-unit director.

MOZAMBIQUE

(1965) D: Robert Lynn S: Peter Yeldham P: Harry Alan Towers UK

Steve Cochran stars as an American pilot forced to fly a colonel into Mozambique. He has lots of adventures and encounters a killer dwarf and drug dealers. With Hildegard Neff, Paul Hubschmid, and Vivi Bach.

M 3-D! THE MOVIE

(1976) D: "Stephen Gibson"
(Lollipop Girls in Hard Candy)

This 3-D sex movie with fake credits was advertised as being in "widescreen, color 3-dimension, super 70mm stereo" but was really in 35mm with mono sound. R, X, and hard-core versions were released, all with John Holmes, John Seeman, and William Margold. It played in West Coast art houses for years and was rereleased in 1991 as a midnight movie. It may have also been released in 1983 as Scoring!

MUDHONEY

(RM, 1965) D/P/E/A: Russ Meyer S: Raymond Friday Locke, William E. Sprague P: George Costello

Russ Meyer's follow-up to his hit Lorna is another b/w rural drama, set in Spooner, Missouri, during the Depression. An ex-con (John Furlough) finds work (and sex) at the Brenshaw farm, and Hannah Brenshaw eventually faces a lynch mob. Hal Hopper and Antoinette Cristiani star as the Brenshaws, with Stuart Lancaster as an uncle, Rena Horton as a deaf-mute, Franklin Bolger as a fire-and-brimstone preacher, and Lorna Maitland, this time as Clara Belle. It played in some towns as Rope of Flesh and was followed by Motorpsycho! (1965) and Meyer's by-now most famous feature, Faster, Pussycat! Kill! Kill! (1966). You should demand all of them at your local video store.

MUGSY'S GIRLS

(Vestron, 1985) D/S/P: Kevin Brodie
P: Leonard Shapiro (Delta Pi)

Ruth Gordon, in one of her last movies, is a sorority house mother who enters her girls in a mud-wrestling contest. With Laura Branigan (who wrestles Annie Ample), Queen Kong (who wrestles Gordon!), Estrelita, and Eddie Deezen.

MULTIPLE MANIACS

(Cinema Group, 1970)
D/S/P/C/E: John Waters

Divine and Mr. David (David Lochary) run the Calvacade of Perversions, a traveling freak show featuring junkies, homosexuals, and pornographers. Suburban costumers are robbed and killed by their gang of drug-crazed killers. Mink Stole gives Divine a rosary job in a church, where she narrates her visions of Jesus. Divine also is raped by a giant lobster, eats a human heart, and is gunned down by the National Guard at the end. This 16mm b/w hit is one of Waters' best. With Mary Vivian Pearce, Cookie Muller as Divine's daughter, Susan Lowe, and Edith Massey (in her film debut). They all returned in Pink Flamingos (1972), Waters' most famous feature. All early Waters features were later distributed by New Line.

THE MUMMY AND THE CURSE OF THE JACKAL

(Academy, 1969) D: Oliver Drake
S/P: William C. Edwards

It's exciting for me to find a tape this old that was never shown theatrically or even on TV. It was released on tape in 1985 and has been mostly ignored since. The short-lived Vega International produced three movies in 1969. Ride a Wild Stud (a sex western) and Dracula, the Dirty Old Man (a sex/horror movie) were released, but this one, probably featuring the same jackal head as in Dracula, the Dirty Old Man, remained a rumor in the filmographies of costar John Carradine. Busy Anthony Eisley, also in The Mighty Gorga, The Witchmaker, and Dracula vs. Frankenstein (all made the same year), stars as David, a guy who talks about Atlantis and theories that will make him famous. He has himself locked in a house overnight with the body of an odd-looking, perfectly preserved ancient princess and becomes a very hairy, cartoonish werewolf with three big claws on each hand. The frequent, long, awkward time-lapse transformations are worth renting this for, but you also get an overweight, bug-eyed male mummy who fights the jackal on the streets of Las Vegas (as pedestrians look on in disbelief or even laugh) and in a badly lit casino. The mummy also kills a stripper and a belly dancer onstage. Several of the monster's victims cross their eyes before they die. An extremely long silent flashback, similar to the one in Blood Feast, is narrated by Eisley and shows us how mummies were prepared and placed in the tomb. The princess, who uses a hypnotic ring, is visited by "Mother Isis" (with horns), who tells her what to do. Carradine shows up as a professor and spends a long time trying to explain things. The cinematography, by the same guy who filmed The Slime People and She Freak, is terrible, but the music is great. The theme song sounds like the Ventures doing music from The Munsters. Music by a jazz combo with bongos is edited with Booker T and the MGs–style rock and sitar music. Eisley later said that the director was senile. One of the four assistant directors was Wyatt Ordung (he wrote Robot Monster). The tape has an R rating, which is ridiculous. It's a G.

Russ Meyer's Mudhoney.

MUMMY'S BOYS

(Image, 1936) D: Fred Guiol S: Jack Townley, Philip G. Epstein, Charles Roberts P: Lee Marcus

Tired of the Three Stooges? Seen everything by the Marx Brothers? Try Wheeler and Woolsey! They starred in 21 comedies at RKO, until Woolsey died in 1938. Bert Wheeler is wide-eyed, baby-faced, and naive. Robert Woolsey is sort of an offbeat mixture of George Burns, Groucho Marx, and Shemp Howard. This time they go to Cairo to investigate a curse. They take along Catfish (Willie Best) because he's from Cairo (Illinois). Wheeler suffers from amnesia, so in the strangest scene Woolsey has him strung up and a map is tattooed on his back. There's a tomb, bats, a bizarre laughing hyena, the stars in drag, and a (fake) mummy with a deadly syringe. With Barbara Pepper, Frank Lackteen, and (I think) Noble Johnson. The print quality is excellent, and it's only 68 minutes long.

MUNCHIE

(New Horizons, 1992) D/S: Jim Wynorski
S: R. J. Robertson P: Mike Elliott

In this PG sequel (in name only) to Muchies, Munchie, a large, smiling puppet creature (with the voice of Dom DeLuise) helps a kid (Jamie McEnnan) fight school bullies and grants him wishes. Loni Anderson is his mom. She dates Andrew Stevens. The cast also includes Arte Johnson, Jay Richardson, Angus Scrimm, Toni Naples, Raven De La Croix, Becky LeBeau, Linda Shayne, and George "Buck" Flower, and Brinke Stevens, Monique Gabrielle, and Fred Olen Ray in a party scene. Roger Corman was the executive producer. Munchie Strikes Back (1993) followed.

MUNCHIES

(MGM, 1987) D: Bettina Hirsch
S: Lance Smith P: Roger Corman

The editor of Gremlins made this PG comedy about a junk-food-eating, Gremlins-style (puppet) creature who regenerates and duplicates himself. With Harvey Korman (in two roles), Paul Bartel, Nadine Van Der Velde, and Robert Picardo. Ads for this Concorde release said, "From the creators of Little Shop of Horrors." Roger Corman was the executive producer. Two "sequels" followed.

MUNDO DEPRAVADOS

(SW, 1967) D/S: Herb Jeffries P: Leroy C. Griffith (World of the Depraved)

Johnny Decker and Larry Reed are leering, comedian police detectives who are after a black-masked "sex monster." They do awful impressions of Ed Sullivan and Topo Gigio. Meanwhile several voyeur characters eye the strippers, and famous stripper Tempest Storm demonstates how terrible her acting is. Also with Bunny Ware. David F. Friedman was the production manager for this b/w Boxoffice International release with a misleading name. The video is a Frank Henenlotter presentation.

THE MUPPET CHRISTMAS CAROL

(1992) D/P: Brian Henson S: Jerry Juhl

Michael Caine is Scrooge, and Kermit the frog is Bob Cratchit. This G-rated post–Jim Henson title from Buena Vista features Paul Williams' songs. Frank Oz was the executive producer.

THE MUPPET MOVIE

(Fox, 1979) D: James Frawley S: Jerry Juhl, Jack Burns P: Jim Henson

Sir Lew Lord (Orson Welles) signs Kermit when he finally arrives in Hollywood to become a star. Charles Durning is the villain who sells fried frogs' legs in his restaurant chain. The cast of this comic road movie also includes James Coburn, Carol Kane, Telly Savalas, Richard Pryor, Bob Hope, Paul Williams, Steve Martin, Edgar Bergen, Milton Berle, Mel Brooks, Elliott Gould, and Cloris Leachman. The voices are by Jim Henson and Frank Oz. The Great Muppets Caper (1981) and The Muppets Take Manhattan (1984) followed, with less interesting guests.

MURDER!

(Republic, 1930) D: Alfred Hitchock
S: Alma Reville P: John Maxwell UK

Herbert Marshall stars as a famous actor serving on a jury who tries to help a young actress (Nora Baring) on trial for murder. The killer turns out to be a "half-caste" transvestite (Esmé Percy). With Edward Chapman, Phyllis Constam, and Miles Mander. The film is adapted from a play, Enter Sir John, by Helen Simpson and Clemence Dane. It was also released in a German-language version called Mary. The director appears on a street in the second of his many cameos (the first had been in The Lodger, 1926).

MURDER À LA MODE

(1968) D/S/E: Brian De Palma

De Palma's first solo feature is a comedy/mystery set in NYC. Margo Norton falls for a filmmaker (Jared Martin) who is making a porno movie. She's murdered by an ice pick, and three characters tell their versions of what happened (Rashomon style). With De Palma regulars William Finley as Otto and Jennifer Salt.

MURDER AT THE BASKERVILLES

(Foothill, 1937) D: Thomas Bentley S: H. Fowler Mear P: Julius Hagan UK (Silver Blaze)

Arthur Wontner is Sherlock Holmes for the fifth and final time, in this tale of a murdered groom and a missing racehorse. Ian Fleming is Dr. Watson, and Lyn Harding is Professor Moriarty. This and a German film from the same year were the last Holmes films made before Basil Rathbone began to play the role. It was released in America in 1941, retitled to make people think it was related to the first Rathbone film, The Hound of the Baskervilles (1939). Sir Henry Baskerville is a character.

MURDER BY CONTRACT

(1958) D: Irving Lerner S: Ben Sincoe P: Leon Chooluck

Vince Edwards stars as an unemotional hitman and college student hired by gangsters to kill a wealthy woman on the West Coast. Also in the cast are Herschel Bernardi, Philip Pine, and Caprice Toriel. This Columbia film noir is said to have influenced Taxi Driver.

MURDER BY MOONLIGHT

(Vidmark, 1989) D: Michael Lindsay-Hogg S: Carla Jean Wagner P: Tamara Asseyev UK (Murder in Space)

In 2015 the Americans and Soviets are mining on the moon. Brigitte Nielson, as a NASA agent, investigates the murder of a security chief with Julian Sands, a Russian major who interrogates suspects. They fight, then fall in love, and catch a transsexual terrorist. With Gerald McRaney, Jane Lapotaire, and Brian Cox. This PG-13 film debuted on British TV and then on CBS-TV. Trevor Jones wrote the score.

MURDER BY NATURAL CAUSES

(Lorimar, 1979) D: Robert Day S: Richard Levinson, William Link P: Robert A. Papazian

Katharine Ross plots to kill her husband (Hal Holbrook), a famous mentalist, with help from her lover (Barry Bostwick). With Richard Anderson and Victoria Carroll. Robert Day had directed horror and science-fiction movies in England, and the writers had created the Columbo TV series.

MURDER BY NUMBERS

(Magnum, 1989) D/S/P: Paul Leder P: Ralph Tornberg

Shari Belafonte-Harper and Sam Behrens (married in real life) star in this flashback-filled murder mystery. He's hired to investigate the death of a married man who had AIDS. Also with Jayne Meadows as the man's mother, Ronee Blakley, Dick Sargent, and Cleavon Little (who both died several years later).

MURDER BY PHONE

(Warner, 1980) D: Michael Anderson S: Michael Butler, Dennis Shyrack, John Kent Harrison P: Robert Cooper UK (The Bells)

Richard Chamberlain stars as a teacher who investigates the mysterious death of a student (she shakes, bleeds, and dies after answering a phone in a subway station). While attending a conference, he's staying in NYC with an old friend (John Houseman) who works for the phone company. With Sara Botsford and Barry Morse. This is a cut (79-minute) version of The Bells (94 minutes).

THE MURDER GANG

(Super, 1976) D/P: Al Adamson S: John D'Amato, Sheldon Lee, Budd Donnelly (Black Heat; US Vice; Girls' Hotel)

Timothy Brown (The Dynamite Brothers) stars as Las Vegas cop Kicks Carter. His TV-newsphotographer girlfriend, Tanya Boyd (Black Shampoo), has the featured sex scene. Russ Tamblyn (in the last of his four Adamson movies) plays Ziggy, a loan shark and club owner who gets to smash a car up, beat a man to death with a hammer, then run him over. With Jana Bellan as Ziggy's lesbian boss, bald J. C. Wells as an arms dealer and gangster, Regina Carrol as a lounge singer (she sings a whole song), Geoffrey Land, and Al Adamson playing blackjack. There's a hand cut off, a tasteless gang rape, and lots of chases and shootouts. The soundtrack is all groove and funk music. Gary Graver shot it in Nevada, and Calvin Flood was the executive producer. Independent International used different titles (and different-length versions) for inner-city (black) theaters, drive-ins, video, and Canada!

MURDER IN HIGH PLACES

(1991) D/S: John Byrum P: Marvin Miller

An eccentric writer and former hippie (Ted Levine) is elected mayor of a town called Zenith. The body of his former wife (Traci Lords!) is dropped from a plane and crashes through a skylight. Adam Baldwin, Joyce Hyser, James Keach, James Sheridan, Miguel Ferrer, and Spice Williams are also in this murder mystery. It was shot in Aspen and debuted on NBC-TV.

MURDER IN SPACE

(Vidmark, 1985) D: Steven Hilliard Stern S: Richard Levinson, William Link P: Robert Cooper

Members of a multinational space probe are being murdered. With Wilford Brimley, Michael Ironside, Martin Balsam, Arthur Hill, Kate Lynch, and Richard Blackburn. When this was first broadcast Showtime didn't air the ending and offered cash prizes to viewers who could name the killer.

MURDER IN THE BLUE ROOM

(1944) D: Leslie Goodwins
S: I. A. L. Diamond, Stanley Davis

This WWII-era comedy/mystery was Universal's third version of the same story, made first as Secret of the Blue Room (1933) and then as The Missing Guest (1938). A party is thrown at a haunted mansion. The Three Jazzybelles, a female comedy trio created to replace the Ritz Brothers (who were originally slated to star), sing and dance and react to scary things. A comic ghost shows up, characters die, and a man who spends the night in the dreaded "blue room" disappears. Anne Gwynne stars, with Donald Cook, John Litel, Regis Toomey, and Ian Wolfe. Screenwriter I. A. L. Diamond later wrote many classics directed by Billy Wilder.

MURDER IN THE HEARTLAND

(1993) D: Robert Markowitz S: Michael O'Hara P: S. Bryan Hickox C: Ron Garcia

Tim Roth and Fairuza Balk star as mass killer Charles Starkweather and his 14-year-old girlfriend, Caril Ann Fugate, in this above average 2-part, fact-based ABC-TV movie, set in 1958. The second half is their trial, and the killings are seen again as Starkweather descibes them. Brian Dennehy is her attorney, and Randy Quaid is the trial prosecutor. Also with Miles O'Shea, Kate Reid, and Roberts Blossom. Period rock tunes are on the soundtrack.

MURDER IN THE RED BARN

(Sinister, 1935) D: Milton Rosmer
S: Randall Faye UK (Maria Marten)

The 50-year-old actor Tod Slaughter makes his film debut as the evil squire Corder, a role he had played onstage for years. He impregnates a young woman, kills her, and frames her Gypsy boyfriend. The film opens like a play, introducing the players (including Sophie Stewart and Eric Portman), and runs only 67 minutes. This old melodrama (based on a real 1820 case) had been filmed three times previously. Sweeney Todd, Demon Barber of Fleet Street (1936) was Slaughter's next film.

MURDER LUST

(Prism, 1985) D: Donald Jones S/P/M: James Lane

An impotent security guard who teaches Sunday school (Eli Rich) picks up and kills hookers. The man, labeled "the Mojave murderer," is shown to be a schizo who is a good guy during the day. He buries bodies in a mass grave, which he likes to piss on. By the maker of The Love Butcher. With Ashley St. John.

MURDEROCK

(Domo, 1983) D/S/A: Lucio Fulci S: Gianfranco Clerici, Vincenzo Mannino P: Augusto Caminito
Italy (The Demon Is Loose; Uccide a Passo di Danza)

Dancers auditioning for a show at "the New York Center for Performing Arts" are being killed with a needle. A detective investigates, and a dance teacher (Olga Karlatos) has nightmares. Also with Ray Lovelock, Al Cliver, and the director in a bit part. Keith Emerson provided the disco-music score, and there's a breakdancing sequence.

MURDER ONE

(Nelson, 1988) D: Graeme Campbell
S: Fleming "Tex" Fuller P: Nicolas Stiliadis

Brothers James Wilder and Stephen Shellan escape from a Maryland prison and kill a family of six, in this In Cold Blood–type of story based on a real 1973 Georgia case. Henry Thomas is the younger brother, who mostly watches. Patsy Cline's "Crazy" plays during a rape and murder. The director did Psycho IV next.

Bronson and Kathleen Wilhoite in Murphy's Law.

MURDEROUS VISION

(Paramount, 1991) D/P: Gary Sherman
S: Paul Joseph Gulino

A detective (Bruce Boxleitner) and a psychic (Laura Johnson) go after a serial killer (Joseph D'Angerio) who takes the skin off victims' faces. This USA Network movie copies The Silence of the Lambs and has faces in jars. With Robert Culp and Beau Starr.

MURDERS IN THE RUE MORGUE

(Vidmark, 1986) D: Jeannot Szwarc
S: Devis Epstein P: Robert Halmi

George C. Scott stars as Edgar Allan Poe's 19th-century French detective C. Auguste Dupin. Rebecca De Mornay costars, with Ian McShane and Val Kilmer. This CBS-TV movie was filmed in Paris. The director had just made Santa Claus: The Motion Picture. Earlier versions were made in 1914, with Bela Lugosi in 1932 (MCA), with Karl Malden in 1954, and with Jason Robards in 1971 (Vestron).

MURDER STORY

(Academy, 1988) D: Eddie Arno, Markus Innocent P: Tom Reeve Netherlands

Christopher Lee is Willard Hope, the famous author of Bloodbath, who lives in Amsterdam. Tony (Bruce Boa), a young, would-be novelist, collects newspaper clippings for plot inspiration. Lee (with gray hair and black eyebrows) decides to help Tony investigate the real murder of a scientist. Even though he has a new girlfriend, Tony's mom thinks he's gay because he keeps talking about Hope. The conspiracy plot involves a feminist anti-porno demonstration, two men who resemble Orson Welles, and secret agents. Lee is fine in this sympathetic role, and his character is missed when he's killed off.

MURDER WEAPON

(Cinema Home, 1989) D: "Ellen Cabot"/ David DeCoteau S: Ross A. Perron
P/A: Linnea Quigley P: Fred Kenwamer

Disturbed inmates Karen Russell and Linnea Quigley escape from an asylum, throw a party, and kill men. Linnea is naked a lot. Lyle Waggoner is a shrink. There's a reused Nightmare Sisters scene with Michelle Bauer and Brinke Stevens on a TV screen.

MURPHY'S LAW

(Media, 1986) D: J. Lee Thompson S: Gail Morgan Hickman P: Pancho Kohner

Charles Bronson is an alcoholic detective framed for the death of his ex-wife. He likes to say, "Don't fuck with Jack Murphy." He escapes, handcuffed to a foul-mouthed 14-year-old shoplifter (Kathleen Wilhoite). This nutty movie features Carrie Snodgress as a killer with a crossbow in the Bradley Building, Richard Romanus, Angel Tompkins as a stripper, Lawrence Tierney, Leigh Lombardi, and Teri Lynn Peake (from Penthouse). Jill Ireland was the coproducer. I saw this one in a theater in Copenhagen. It made me proud to be an American. Murphy's Law was also a band from Queens.

MUSIC OF THE SPHERES

(1984) D/S/P: G. Philip Jackson
S: Ganrille de Montmollin Canada

A supercomputer called "the Beast" rules the 21st century. With Anne Dansereau and Peter Brikmanis.

MUTANT

(Vestron, 1983) D: John "Bud" Cardos
S: Peter Z. Orton, Michael Jones, John C. Kruize P: Igo Kantner (Night Shadows)

Toxic waste creates blue-faced, oozing zombies in a small southern town. Wings Hauser is the visiting hero, Lee Harcourt Montgomery is his brother, and Bo Hopkins is the drunken sheriff. This talk-filled film also features Jody Medford and a "special appearance" by Jennifer Warren as the town's doctor. Film Ventures released it.

MUTANT HUNT

(Wizard, 1986) D/S: Tim Kincaid P: Cynthia De Paula

Cyborgs kill New Yorkers in the future. Rick Gianasi stars as hero Matt Riker. The villains are called Z and Domina. There's some gore and comedy. With Mary-Anne Fahey and Joel von Ornsteiner. Ed French created the FX. The music from Breeders is used.

MUTANT MASSACRE 2

(Daily Video, 1981) D/S/P/A: Carl J. Sukenick

This amateur Hollywood sci-fi movie, shot on video, is about aliens who turn people into mutants. It has narration and a clay-animation opening.

MUTANT ON THE BOUNTY

(Southgate, 1988) D/P: Robert Torrance
S/P: Martin Lopez

A droid (John Roarke) is the main character in this silly PG-13 sci-fi comedy set in 2048 on a spaceship. It's from the producer of the Killer Tomato series. Max (Kyle T. Heffner) is a mutant sax player (he has a ringing phone lodged in his skull), and there's a psycho killer on board. With Deborah Benson and Fox Harris.

MUTANTS IN PARADISE

(TWE, 1984) D/S: Scott Apostoulo P: William Moses

A scientist experiments on a nerdy student (Brad Greenquist) to create a nuke-proof man. This 16mm sci-fi spoof, made by a University of Virginia film student, has guest stars Eddie "the Egg Lady" Massey and Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini.

MUTATOR

(Prism, 1989) D: John R. Bowey S: Lynn Rose Higgins P: Russell D. Markowitz S. Africa (Time of the Beast)

Brion James, a great screen villain, is a dull screen hero in this boring, slow-paced movie about a barely seen monster (created by the Burman studios) in a tightly sealed research institute. James goes undercover as a night-shift guard. Wolfen-style polarized POV shots waste a lot of time, but the monster does have a scary cat face. It's pretty similar to Syngenor, which is much better.

THE MUTHERS

(SW, 1968) D/P: Don Davis S: Jason Hunter

Will suburban-LA teen Suzy (Kathy Williams) witness her mother, Sally (Marsha Jordan), having sex with some guy at a "picnic"? That's the plot of this nudie. The cheating mothers hang out at the Pink Swan bar, the kids smoke pot at pool parties, the men leave their shorts on during sex, and a cat fight turns into a lesbian scene. Also with Virginia Gordon.

THE MUTHERS

(VEC, 1976) D/P: Cirio H. Santiago S: Cyril St. James

You'll wonder what century we're in as Jeanne Bell (who has a shower scene) and Rosanne Katon (both former Playboy models) lead "the Muthers," a group of pirates on a gunboat who use backflips and kung fu and give to the poor. The heroines go undercover in a prison camp on a coffee plantation to rescue Bell's sister, Marcy (Trina Parks, from Diamonds Are Forever and Darktown Strutters). Eventually Serena (Jayne Kennedy), the whip-wielding mistress of the sadistic warden, leads a breakout. It's basically just another tropical women-in-prison movie, but how many movies of any kind star four beautiful black women? Some of the dialogue in this Dimension release is in Spanish.

THE MUTILATOR (1979) = THE DARK

THE MUTILATOR

(Vestron, 1983) D/S/P: Buddy Cooper
D: John S. Douglass (Fall Break)

Some college students are killed off while staying at a remote condo. This gory, unrated movie features NYC-area actors but was filmed in South Carolina. With Matt Mitler, Ruth Martinez, and Frances Raines.

MY BEST FRIEND IS A VAMPIRE

(HBO, 1988) D: Jimmy Huston
S: Tab Murphy P: Dennis Murphy

This comic, PG-rated horror movie is a variation on the plot of the later Buffy the Vampire Slayer. A teen delivery boy (Robert Sean Leonard) becomes a good-guy vampire. René Auberjonois is the vampire who teaches him, and David Warner is a vampire killer. With Evan Mirand, Cheryl Pollak, Cecilia Peck (daughter of Gregory Peck), and Fannie Flagg. Timbuk 3, Blondie, and others are heard on the soundtrack. It was filmed in Houston by the director of Final Exam.

MY BOYFRIEND'S BACK

(Touchstone, 1993) D: Bob Balaban S: Dean Lorey P: Sean Cunningham (Johnnie Zombie)

You know things have changed when Disney releases a PG-13 cannibal-zombie comedy. The nation's mainstream critics nearly had a collective heart attack reviewing it. A nice, shy, suburban teen (Andrew Lowery) is shot and returns as a rotting zombie who wants to take Traci Lind to the prom. His body parts fall off, he resorts to cannibalism, he's almost lynched, and finally he's judged in a heavenly court. It's pretty lame, but the leads are appealing and the cast is filled with familiar faces: Paul Dooley and Ed (Texas Chainsaw) Neal as local yokels, Bob Dishy as a helpful gravekeeper, Mary Beth Hurt and Edward Herrmann (confused parents), Austin Pendleton as an evil doctor, and Cloris Leachman. The end theme by the Sextants is excellent. Balaban also made Parents, a more disturbing cannibal comedy.

MY BREAKFAST WITH BLASSIE

(Rhino, 1983) D/S/P/E: Johnny Legend, Linda Lautrec

Andy Kaufman talks with wrestling manager Freddie Blassie over breakfast in this hour-long takeoff on My Dinner with André (1981) set in a Sambo's restaurant. This was the first Rhino video release. The late conceptual comic Kaufman (a regular in the TV series Taxi) can also be seen in Heartbeeps and in several performance videos.

MY BROTHER HAS BAD DREAMS

(VCI, 1972) D/S/P: Bob Emery

A disturbed Norman Bates clone named Carl lives with his virgin older sister. He masturbates while spying on her undressing and talks to (and sleeps with) his "mother" (a mannequin). Carl, always in underwear or cutoffs, sweats, cries, and groans a lot. His nightmares reveal that their alcoholic father killed their crippled mother. One day he swims naked with a Nam-vet biker and then brings him home for dinner. After several murders and more disturbing nightmares Carl rides off on the motorcycle with the mannequin strapped on the back. This unique wonder from Florida used to play on NYC's Channel 9 (with the nudity cut). Did I mention the sharks?

MY BROTHER'S WIFE

(SW, 1966) D/S/P: Doris Wishman

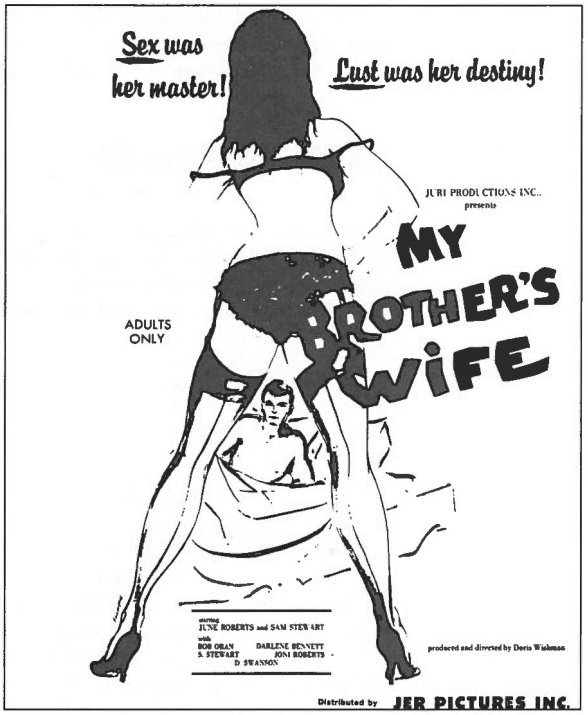
After a long fight in a billiard hall over a woman who killed herself, Frankie (who loses) remembers, "The first time I saw Mary I knew there'd be trouble," and we're in a feature-length flashback. Bob, a balding wrestling fan who wears a black shirt and white tie, is married to Mary. When his no-good brother visits their NYC apartment and stays, Mary (June Roberts) thinks, "He's so exciting!" The characters think a lot, since the sound was all dubbed in later. Frankie starts having sex with his sister-in-law, then with his ex-girlfriend, Zena, and they both love the bastard. Most of the sex is offscreen (or in shadows), but the women wear negligées and Zena takes a shower to harpsichord music. There's an arty lesbian scene, a black woman doing funky dancing at a party, and lots of closeups of feet whenever anybody goes someplace. One clever shot shows a woman sitting on the camera for a chair point of view. This is a pretty typical mid-period b/w Wishman drama.



MY CHAUFFEUR

(Vestron, 1985) D/S: David Beaird P: Marilyn J. Tenser

Deborah Foreman becomes the first female chauffeur for an LA company. Sam J. Jones (Flash Gordon) costars, with Howard Hesseman, E. G. Marshall, Penn and Teller, and Cindy Beal. This film, which copies My Tutor, is from Crown International.

MY DAUGHTER'S KEEPER

(Live, 1991) D/S: Heinrich Dahms S: Richard Deynoms P: Paul Raleigh S. Africa (Au Pair)

An American author in England (Nicholas Guest) takes his family and their beautiful new Portuguese nanny (Ana Padrao) to Mozambique (actually South Africa) while his red-haired wife (Jocelyn Broderick), a reporter, is away on assignment. He has an affair with the nanny, and she (surprise!) turns out to be a jealous psycho who kidnaps his daughter. This derivative feature was picked up by Miramax.

MY DEGENERATION: THE MOVIE

(CD, 1984) D/S: Jon Moritsugu S: Daryl Chin

In the grand tradition of Beyond the Valley of the Dolls and Desperate Teenage Love Dolls, this is the story of a female rock trio. The 70-minute film shows how the group Bunny Love becomes the hit-making Fetish by promoting the meat industry. Amanda Jones (Loryn Sotsky), the blond bass player, narrates, has visions of cottage cheese and canned peach halves, and falls in love with a (real) pig's head that thinks out loud. The group hits with "beef rock" and the LP Meat Is Love (on liver-colored vinyl). They appear on talk shows and star in a comic book, and bootlegs from Japan and Australia appear. The music (by Vomit Lunch, Government Issue, and others) is great. The experimental techniques (dialogue loops, scratched film stock, negative scenes, crude animation) are effective, and the humor is very on-target, but it's sometimes hard to tell whether or not out-of-focus scenes and tape jumps are deliberate.

MY DEMON LOVER

(RCA, 1987) D: Charles Loventhal S: Leslie Ray P: Robert Shaye M: David Newman

Scott Valentine (from the TV series Family Ties) is a lovable homeless street musician who becomes a demon when aroused. Women are killed by "the Mangler," but this is a romantic horror comedy with a fantasy ending. Michelle Little costars, and Arnold Johnson and Larry "Bud" Melman appear. New Line made this PG-13 mess in NYC. The score is on Varèse Sarabande.

MY FAVORITE BUTLER: See WHAT THE SWEDISH BUTLER SAW

MY FRIENDS NEED KILLING

(1976) D/S/P/E: Paul Leder

Greg Mullavey (from the TV series Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman) stars as a Nam vet who rants, flips out, kills his Nam buddies, or makes them kill themselves. Meredith MacRae (from Petticoat Junction) is his wife. Both showed up in more strange, obscure movies by Paul Leder, and were married in real life.

MY GRANDPA IS A VAMPIRE

(Republic, 1991) D: David Blyth S: Michael Heath P: Murray Newey New Zealand (Moonrise; Grampire)

Al Lewis, from the TV series The Munsters (who used to advertise his NYC restaurant on cable-TV sex shows), stars as a cheerful, senile, and weak 18th-century vampire in modern-day New Zealand. His American grandson and a friend help him survive. They buy him raw hamburgers at McDonald's. This fairly boring kids' movie has Steven Spielberg–style floating-in-the-air scenes. David Blyth also made Red Blooded American Girl.

MYLÈNE FARMER

(VSOM, 1986–93) D: Laurent Boutonnat

Mylène Farmer, who is very popular throughout Europe and in Japan, sings romantic French songs, usually about death, pain, and suffering. This subtitled and letterboxed tape compiles 10 videos. Sometimes she plays a fighting rebel and/or a liberator in historical settings. Several of the videos are amazing, beautifully done little epics set in various times and countries and with dialogue in various languages. "Libertine" and its sequel look like some reels from Kubrick's Barry Lyndon. "Allan" (as in Poe), is based on The Tomb of Ligeia. She's burned at the stake in one and is Snow White in another. Several have sex and nudity (usually during instrumental passages, so that they can be cut for various markets), and a few are smaller in scale and surreal. Dead characters from previous videos show up in others. You'd think some American cable network would show this stuff. Video Search also offers Mylène Farmer in Concert.

MY LOVELY BURNT BROTHER AND HIS SQUASHED BRAIN

(1987) D/S/A: "Jay Jay Hard"/Giovanni Arduino

This amateur gore movie features a killer in a KKK hood who reads Fangoria, lots of blood, H-bomb footage, drugs, comic sound effects, bad dubbing, and very sick humor. The 60s-type garage band is pretty good. Some fanzines claim it's from Italy, but I doubt it.

MY LOVELY MONSTER

(1990) D/S/P: Michel Bergmann Germany

A silent-film character (Silvio Francesco) who looks like Lon Chaney in London After Midnight is stuck in a German theater and wants to return to his film. This horror-movie spoof features Forrest J. Ackerman as "the Master" (he wrote additional dialogue), Ferdy Mayne, Bobbie Bresee, and Sara Karloff (daughter of Boris). It's dubbed into German and has English subtitles.

MY MOM'S A WEREWOLF

(Prism, 1988) D: Michael Fischa S: Mark Pirro P: Steven J. Wolfe

Susan Blakely is bitten on the toe by a pet-shop owner (John Saxon), a werewolf who eats mice. This PG horror comedy features Katrina Caspary as her daughter, Ruth Buzzi as a fortune-teller, John Schuck, Marilyn McCoo, and Forry Ackerman. Crown International released it. It's by the director of Death Spa and Crack House.

MY NAME IS NOBODY

(VSOM, 1973) D: Tonino Valeri S: Ernesto Gastaldi P: Sergio Leone M: Ennio Morricone Italy/France/W. Germany (Il Mio Nome E Nessuno)

Henry Fonda and Terence Hill star as gunmen, in this western spoof. Fonda is the older one who wants to retire. This big Panavision production, originally running 130 minutes, was filmed in Spain and America. Many think that Sergio Leone directed parts of it. Fonda had been in Leone's classic Once Upon a Time in the West (1968), and Hill had just been in the popular Trinity movies. With Jean Martin, Leo Gordon, R. G. Armstrong, Geoffrey Lewis, and Steve Kanaly. The video runs 116 minutes.

MY NEW GUN

(Columbia, 1993) D/S: Stacy Cochran P: Michael Flynn

A suburban housewife (Diane Lane) is given a loaded .38 by a neighbor (James LeGros). This comedy by a first-time director features Tess Harper, Stephen Collins, and Bruce Altman. From IRS.

MY SCIENCE PROJECT

(Touchstone, 1985) D/S: Jonathan Beteul
P: Jonathan Taplin

Some students reactivate a time-warp machine found in a fallout shelter and battle post-nuke mutants, gladiators, and dinosaurs in the future. The FX are by Rick Baker. John Stockwell stars, with Danielle von Zerneck and Fisher Stevens. Dennis Hopper (in his first role after he bottomed out in 1983) is their science teacher. With Richard Masur, Raphael Sbarge, Michael Berryman, Barry Corbin, Ann Wedgeworth, and Pamela Springsteen. It's from Disney.

MY SISTER, MY LOVE: See THE CAGE

MY SOUL IS SLASHED

(VSOM, 1990) D: Sunsake Kaneko
S: Saka Kawamura Japan

A businessman (Ken Ogaka) is killed in an arranged "accident" and is blamed for a business scandal. A year later he returns to his family, naked and confused, thanks to a tranfusion of Dracula's blood. A vampire-expert doctor (Narumi Yasuda) teaches him to float, and he becomes a white-haired "Japanese version of a full-fledged Dracula" and seeks revenge. Hikari Ishida is his daughter, and Eisi Aramoto (King Kong Escapes) is the doctor's servant. The theme song is by Mylène Farmer. This subtitled horror comedy from Toho is by the director of Last Frankenstein.

MY STEPMOTHER IS AN ALIEN

(RCA, 1988) D: Richard Benjamin S: Jerico Weingrod, Herschel Weingrod, Timothy Harris, Jonathan Reynolds
P: Ronald Parker, Franklyn R. Levy

An alien cyclops/snake (with an NYC accent) and Kim Basinger land in a flying saucer. She watches porno movies to learn how to make love to Dan Aykroyd (in the same hit-filled year as Caddyshack II, The Couch Trip, and The Great Outdoors), and they get married. The film opens with a Barbarella copy (a floating woman). Also featured are Jon Lovitz and the voice of Harry Shearer. John Dykstra (Star Wars) did the FX. It was the sixth feature film directed by Richard Benjamin. President Bush attended the premiere because he was a friend of executive producer Jerry Weintraub. It was a box-office flop.

Dennis Hopper in My Science Project.

MYSTERIES FROM BEYOND THE TRIANGLE

(1976) D/P: William F. Miller, Laurence P. Crawley

Parapsychology scientists (played by actors) sail a schooner into the Devil's Triangle. They take Kirilian photos, have out-of-body experiences, discuss UFOs and Atlantis, get lost, run out of water and fuel, and sing "The Sloop John B."

THE MYSTERIOUS DR. FU MANCHU

(Starlite, 1929) D: Rowland V. Lee
S: Florence Ryerson, Lloyd Corrigan

This was the first of three stylish Paramount features with Warner Oland as Sax Rohmer's famous villain. It introduces Fu during the Boxer Rebellion. After "foreign devils" kill his wife and child he vows to kill the British officers he holds responsible. With Jean Arthur as the adopted daughter he hypnotizes, O. P. Heggie as Sir Nayland Smith, Neil Hamilton, Tully Marshall, and Noble Johnson. The Swedish-born Oland played Fu again in The Return of Dr. Fu Manchu (1930), with the same cast, and Daughter of the Dragon (1931), starring Anna May Wong. In 1931 he starred in the first of his seven Charlie Chan films. Boris Karloff played Fu in The Mask of Fu Manchu (1932).

MYSTERIOUS DR. SATAN

(Republic, 1941) D: William Witney, John English S: Franklyn Adreon, Ronald Davidson

Robert Wilcox is Bob Wayne, aka the masked hero Copperhead, in this 15-chapter Republic serial. Eduardo Ciannelli is Dr. Satan, who uses the same old clunky Republic robots. With Ella Neal and C. Montague Shaw. Dave Sharp and Tom Steele are the main stuntmen. The 1966 feature version is Dr. Satan's Robot.

MYSTERIOUS ISLAND

(1929) D/S: Lucien Hubbard D: Maurice Tourneur, Benjamin Christensen P: J. Ernest Williamson

This recommended rarity, based on a Jules Verne novel (a sequel to Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea), was in production for more than two years as directors were replaced and scenes were reshot. It has very odd partial sound. All of a sudden one character will say a line. Then it's back to intertitles. Lots of great miniatures are used, and the pretty amazing ending features thousands of little underwater creatures played by dwarves in suits (they look kind of like Howard the Duck), a real alligator with attached horns and fins, and a giant octopus. Lionel Barrymore stars as Count Dakkar (Captain Nemo in the novel), and Montague Love is the villain, Falon (with a fur hat). Also with Jane Daly and Lloyd Hughes. It's been shown on TNT.

MYSTERIOUS ISLAND

(Stokey, 1949) D: Spencer Gordon Bennet S: Lewis Clay, Royal K. Cole, George H. Plympton P: Sam Katzman

Richard Crane is Captain Harding and Leonard Penn is Captain Nemo, in this 15-chapter Columbia serial. The plot (about Civil War castaways) is similar to the 1961 Ray Harryhausen version, but Nemo can walk through walls, and aliens from Mercury show up with ray guns. With Karen Randle, Marshall Reed, Gene Roth, and Bernie Hamilton. Crane went on to play Rocky Jones on TV. Penn played more villains in the serials King of the Congo (1952) and The Lost Planet (1953). Another version of Jules Verne's novel was made in Europe in 1972, starring Omar Sharif.

THE MYSTERIOUS MAGICIAN

(Sinister, 1964) D: Alfred Vohrer S: Herbert Reinecker W. Germany (Der Hexer)

A killer called "the Wizard" seems to return from the dead. Edgar Wallace's novel The Ringer had been filmed five times previously. Joachim Fuchsberger stars, with Heinz Drache, Sophie Hardy, and Eddi Arent.

MYSTERIOUS MR. M

(Stokey, 1946) D: Lewis D. Collins, Vernon Keays S: Joseph F. Poland, Paul Huston

Richard Martin stars as federal investigator Grant Farrell, in the very last of Universal's 69 sound serials. It's 13 chapters of fights and chases. Pamela Moore costars, with Jane Randolph, Byron Foulger, and Jack Ingram. Mr. M uses a drug called "hypnotrene" to help steal submarine equipment. Columbia and Republic kept making serials until the mid-50s.

MYSTERIOUS TWO

(1982) D/S: Gary Sherman P: Alan Landsburg

Evangelists John Forsythe and Priscilla Pointer are really aliens, brainwashing earthlings so that they can take over! Only James Stephens knows what's going on. This NBC-TV series pilot by the director of Raw Meat features Vic Tayback, Noah Berry Jr., and Robert Englund.

MYSTERY DATE

(1991) D: Jonathan Wacks S: Parker Bennett, Terry Runte P: Cathleen Summers Canada

Shy Ethan Hawke, on an arranged date with Teri Polo, discovers a pair of bodies in his trunk. He's pursued by cops and Chinese gangsters (led by Broadway star B. D. Wong). With Fisher Stevens, James Hong, Victor Wong, and (in a surprise appearance) Gwar. This PG-13 Orion release was filmed in Vancouver by the director of Powwow Highway.

MYSTERY LINER

(Sinister, 1934) D: William Nigh S: Wellyn Totman P: Paul Malvern

Noah Berry Jr., Gustav von Seyffertitz, and Astrid Allyn star in this 62-minute Monogram movie about murder on board an ocean liner. There's a mad lab, a secret weapon, and an apparition of a dead captain. It's based on "The Ghost of John Holling," a story by Edgar Wallace published in the Saturday Evening Post.

THE MYSTERY OF EDWIN DROOD

(1993) D/S: Timothy Forder P: Keith Hayley UK

Robert Powell stars as Jasper, an opium-smoking choirmaster, in this version of Charles Dickens' last, unfinished novel, a murder mystery. It was first filmed in 1935 by Universal with Claude Rains. Michelle Evans costars, with Jonathan Phillips, Nanette Newman, and Freddie Jones.

MYSTERY TRAIN

(Orion, 1988) D/S: Jim Jarmusch P: Jim Stark

A series of three intertwining stories centering on a night in a run-down Memphis hotel make up this slow but engrossing and often funny movie, which features Elvis everything. Some parts are subtitled. Youki Kudoh and Masatoshi Naguse are a pair of young Japanese tourists. Nicoletta Braschi (Down by Law) is a widow who hears a ghost story from Tom Noonan. Screamin' Jay Hawkins is great as the desk clerk. With Joe Strummer as a British Elvis, Steve Buscemi, Rick Aviles, Sy Richardson, Elizabeth Bracco, Rockets Redglare, and Tom Waits as the voice of radio DJ Rufus Thomas. Elvis' "Blue Moon" is heard several times, and Lost in Space is discussed. Night on Earth (1992) was the Ohio-born director's next film.

MY SWEET SATAN

(Film Threat, 1992) D/S/A: Jim Van Beeber

The Ohio-based maker of Deadbeat at Dawn did some amazing short films while hoping to complete his feature-length Charlie's Family (about Manson). This is about believable, directionless, drug-addled young people in Dayton involved with a cult murder. It's extreme, disturbing, violent, and so well made that it's easy to forget that Van Beeber and his friends are talented actors. The gory Roadkill (about a killer cannibal) and Doper, a drug documentary, are also on this compilation tape.

MY TALE IS HOT!

(SW, 1964) D/S/P: "Seymour Tokus"/Dan Sonney

Lucifer (a guy in a cheap Devil suit) emerges from the ground in a suburban garden (a set) and tries to tempt Ben (very short burlesque comedian Little Jack Little) with a series of naked women. Many women take it all off in various settings and some are viewed on a "sinnervision" set. Some frolic in a wading pool. The joke is that faithful husband Ben turns out to have his own harem, and at the end all his naked wives do the twist. This fun and revealing (for the time) color nudie comedy from Sonney Amusements also features a Hell set and the Devil's wife. Top-billed stripper (and notorious stag-reel star) Candy Barr dances and strips down to pasties on a stage set in what looks like a short added as a publicity-grabbing afterthought. The tape is a David F. Friedman presentation. The next year Sonney and Friedman teamed up for The Defilers, and Little was in Arch Hall's Deadwood 76 and The Nasty Rabbit.

MY THIRD WIFE GEORGE

(SW, 1969) D/P: Harry Kerwin S: Wayne Rafferty P: Leroy Griffith

Ralph (Bill Kirwin, aka Thomas Wood, who narrates) is a voyeur who lives with his mother in a mansion. After watching the oriental maid undress he relates three flashbacks at a bar. He takes an LSD sugar cube and has sex (still in his underwear) with three "virginal flower children" in their "kooky pad." The other stories involve a guy in a gorilla suit and pictures taken for a divorce. B/W features were a rarity by 1969. This one was made in Florida. With Jeri Winters and Doug Hobart in drag.

MY TRUE STORY

(1951) D: Mickey Rooney S: Howard J. Green, Brown Holmes P: Milton Freedman

Mickey Rooney was 31 when he directed this Columbia movie about a jewel thief (Helen Walker). With Willard Parker and a very young Aldo Da Re (Ray).

MY TUTOR

(MCA, 1983) D: George Bowers S: Joe Roberts P: Marilyn Tenser

Teen Matt Lattanzi (he was married to Olivia Newton-John and was later in the TV series Paradise Beach) wants to get laid. His rich father (Kevin McCarthy) hires a blond tutor (Caren Kaye) who swims nude at night and gives him French lessons. With Kitten Natividad as a hooker, Crispin Glover (in an early role), Clark Brandon, Katt Shea, and Jewel Shepard. It's a Crown International release by the director of The Hearse and Private Resort.

NADJA

(Evergreen, 1994) D/S: Michael Almereyda
P: Mary Sweeney, Amy Hobby

Elina Lowensohn is the sexy daughter of Dracula in downtown Manhattan in a b/w feature partially shot in Pixelvision. With Jared Harris as the vampire's twin brother, Suzy Amis as a private nurse, Peter Fonda as Dr. Van Helsing (!), Martin Donovan, and Galaxy Craze as Lucy. It's a David Lynch presentation, and he appears as a morgue guard. Lowensohn was also in the director's Another Girl, Another Planet, and Amis was in his Twister. The soundtrack features My Bloody Valentine, Verve, and Portishead.

NAIL GUN MASSACRE

(Magnum, 1985) D/S/P: Terry Loftin D: Bill Leslie

Here's some more dumb sex and violence from Texas. A rural killer in combat gear uses a nail gun with a big yellow power pack and talks with a deep, echoing voice, spouting corny Freddy Krueger-style lines. We're set up to think that the killer is a woman who works at a lumberyard, on a vengeance spree after an (offscreen) gang rape. It turns out to be her brother, Bubba, even though the killer has a female body. Lots of people are killed and found with nails sticking out of their bodies. The sheriff figures, "Some guy went plumb loco with a hammer and a box of nails!" After a bunch of young people working on an old house are slaughtered the rest of them still stay there. A couple have sex against a tree, and the guy is shot during orgasm. One guy cuts off his own hand with a chainsaw after being nailed. Some editing would have helped a lot. Acting teacher Adam Roarke is thanked at the end.

NAILS

(1992) D: John Flynn S: Larry Ferguson, Roderick Taylor P: George W. Perkins

Dennis Hopper is a crazed above-the-law cop who's after drug dealers, in a feature planned for theaters but released to cable TV. Anne Archer (who used a body double) costars, with Tomas Milian, Keith David, Charles Hallahan, and Cliff De Young. Flynn returned with Scam with Christopher Walken.

NAKED AFRICA

(1957) D/P: Cedric Worth

Quentin Reynolds narrates this color documentary on the Xhosa tribe of Cape Nguni. It played on an AIP double bill with White Huntress.

(NAKED) AS NATURE INTENDED

(SW, 1961) D/S/P/A: Harrison Marks UK

This is the best-looking nudist movie I've seen. It's a historical travelogue in excellent color that takes us on a narrated tour of Southwest England, including Somerset, Lands End, the ancient fishing village of Clavelly, and even Stonehenge, and shows gorgeous, platinum-blond Pamela Green naked (as nature . . .). After three city women on vacation meet up with two blond gas-station workers who are nudists all five are soon frolicking and swimming naked on various beaches and visiting the Sun Club in Cornwall. Marks appears as a number of characters they meet on the way. Pamela Green seems to have been sort of the Betty Page of England. In this film she plays Ping-Pong, relaxes on a hammock, takes a shower, and swings on a swing, always naked (as nature . . .). The only real disappointment is that Marks missed the opportunity to have his stars naked at Stonehenge. Tony Tenser was the executive producer. It was released in America by Crown International.

THE NAKED CAGE

(Media, 1985) D/S: "Paul Nicholas"/ Lutz Shaarwachter P: Chris D. Nebe

Shari Shattuck is Misty, a nice, innocent country girl set up by Christina Whitaker and sent up for a bank robbery. Nearly everyone in the prison, including the lesbian warden (Angel Tompkins), goes out of their way to make Misty miserable. With Lucinda Crosby, John Terlesky, Nick Benedict (from the soap opera All My Children), and Lisa London. By the director of Chained Heat (1982). The Fabulous Thunderbirds are on the soundtrack, and most of the inmates in the cage do get naked. From Cannon.

The Naked Cage

NAKED COMPLEX

(CH 13, 1963) D/S: Ron Mart

If you've never seen a nudist-colony movie here's a good one to start with. An offscreen narrator informs us, "This is Miami Beach." The film's title is written in the sand, and a cool, crude surf theme plays. Roy Savage stars as Johnny. He narrates too, since whenever people actually talk their voices are badly postdubbed. Johnny is seriously nervous around women, so he goes to see a doctor about his "malady." The doctor takes him to the Café des Artistes in Miami, where they watch a sexy dancer. A pretty awkward four-piece band in suits and white socks plays that theme song some more, and then they try "Harlem Nocturne," bad notes and all, while Esmeralda dances with two snakes. The next morning a photo of Johnny (a famous race-car driver) is on the cover of a newspaper with the headline "HE FAINTS AFTER A KISS!" Totally humiliated, he writes a long goodbye letter noting his pluses: "I'm an expert at judo, water skiing, golf, tennis, scuba diving." We see Johnny excelling at everything. Then he gets into a private plane and bales out over the ocean. He parachutes into a tree, weakly yells, "Help, help, help" about 20 times, and passes out. Now comes the reason for this wonderfully dated color movie: The Carribean island he ends up on (actually the Sun Beach Club in Tampa) is a nudist retreat for seven women (and a few monkeys), all naked and working out on the beach. One of them is bench-pressing bricks. They discover Johnny and go running in different directions for a ladder, a rope, an axe, and a bucket of water. The women are shot from many angles, often from the ground up, and all look pretty fine, but pubic hair was still too much for adults-only audiences in the great year of 1963. The leader is red-haired Dolores Carlos, also the film's executive producer. Carlos was also in Nature Camp Confidential, Herschell Gordon Lewis' A Taste of Blood, and others. She says, "You never can tell what monster lies in a man!" so they tie him up, then take his clothes off (except for his underwear). Johnny, who is afraid to look at the naked women, escapes and is recaptured. The women lounge around, go swimming, and pretty much ignore him. Finally Johnny is cured, takes off his underwear, and runs to join the women in a pond. A happy ending.

THE NAKED EDGE

(1961) D: Michael Anderson S: Joseph Stefano
P: Walter Seltzer, George Glass UK

Gary Cooper (in his last feature) plays a businessman in London who's accused of murder and gets involved with blackmail. Peter Cushing is the prosecutor in the courtroom scenes. Deborah Kerr costars, with Diane Cilento, Eric Portman, Hermione Gingold, Ronald Howard, and Michael Wilding. When UA released this b/w film the publicity compared it to Psycho (which Joseph Stefano had also written).

THE NAKED FLAME

(Sinister, 1963) D/P: Lawrence Matlansky S: Al Everett Dennis Canada (Deadline for Murder)

Female members of a Russian pagan sect in a small Canadian town chant and sing, burn their own buildings, and take their clothes off so that "God will see their anguish." Incredibly, this color exploitation movie is based on reality. A surreal sequence with naked women (who look like nudie-movie models) standing in front of flaming buildings is not easily forgotten. In other scenes the older women leave their underwear on. Dennis O'Keefe stars as a lawyer for mine owners, sent to his hometown, where he encounters soap-opera-style situations and obscure battles between "Orthodox Freedomites" and "Dukhobors" (actual sects). A laughing, bearded blackmailer (Battlestar Galactica's John Colicos) rapes and kills the girlfriend of the mine owner's son (Barton Heyman), and it all ends up in a courtroom. It was made in Calgary, Alberta, and not released in America until 1970 (several years after O'Keefe had died), by Headliner. This would make a great Canadian double bill with Playgirl Killer.

THE NAKED GUN: FROM THE FILES OF POLICE SQUAD!

(Paramount, 1988) D/S/P: David Zucker
S/P: Jerry Zucker, Jim Abrahams S: Pat Proft

It's rare for a hit movie to be based on a short-lived flop TV series, but this PG-13 comedy is based on the 1982 series Police Squad (which is also on video). Leslie Nielsen stars as the oblivious Lieutenant Frank Drebin, with George Kennedy and Priscilla Presley. It's full of the puns and sight gags that the makers of Airplane! were known for, and it ends at a baseball game. Ricardo Montalban is a South American drug dealer who plans to have hypnotized assassins kill the queen of England (Queen Elizabeth lookalike Jeannette Charles). With O. J. Simpson, Weird Al Yankovic, Dr. Joyce Brothers, Lawrence Tierney, and Brinke Stevens (an extra).

THE NAKED GUN 2 1/2

(Paramount, 1991) D/S: David Zucker
S: Pat Proft P: Robert Kweiss

The original creative team had split up by the time this sequel was made, but it was a much bigger box-office hit than the original. Nielsen, Presley, Kennedy, and Simpson (in a bigger role) all return. Lieutenant Drebin goes to Washington, DC, Robert Goulet is the main villain, and there's lots of topical humor about the environment, pollution, and atomic energy. This PG-13 comedy includes a Ghost gag, and somebody portrays President and Mrs. Bush. With Lloyd Bochner, Gina Mastrogiacomo, and Zsa Zsa Gabor and Mel Torme as themselves.

NAKED GUN 33 1/3: THE FINAL INSULT

(Paramount, 1994) D: Peter Segal S: Pat Proft, David Zuckerman, Robert LoCash P: Robert K. Weiss

Lieutenant Drebin (Nielsen), now married to Jane (Priscilla Presley), is after terrorists. This PG-13 comedy sequel is packed with spoofs of other movies (including Thelma and Louise, Jurassic Park, and The Crying Game) but will be remembered as the last major pre-arrest role for O. J. Simpson, who played Detective Norberg for the third time. It all ends at an Oscar ceremony. With Fred Ward, Kathleen Freeman, and model Anna Nicole Smith as the terrorists, Ellen Greene, Julie Strain, and guest stars Raquel Welch, Pia Zadora, Vanna White, and Weird Al Yankovic.

NAKED INSTINCT

(Dementia, 1993) D: "Ellen Cabot"/David DeCoteau S: Eric Black P: Ian Icarian

Michelle Bauer tells her shrink about the affairs that she and her friend (blond DeAnne Power) have had with a series of "hunky" younger men. The naked men are featured as much as or more than the women.

NAKED KILLER

(Worldwide, 1992) D: Clarence Fok Yiu Leung
S/P: Jing Wong Hong Kong (Chiklo Gouyeung)

This cartoonish sex/action comedy copies La Femme Nikita and Basic Instinct but also has rapists chained up in a cellar, castration, and lesbian sex in a pool of blood. Kitty (Chingmy Yau, a former Miss Hong Kong) is trained by Sister Cindy (Kelly Yao) to become a man-hating professional assassin. A Hong Kong cop (Simon Yam) and the evil princess (Carrie Ng) both fall for Kitty. Naked Killer II (1993) is a follow-up without most of the first movie's female characters.

NAKED LUNCH

(Fox, 1991) D/S: David Cronenberg
P: Jeremy Thomas Canada/UK

You don't have to be familiar with William Burroughs' writings to enjoy this bizarre drug-fantasy movie. It's about what might have been in Burroughs's mind while he was writing his famous 1959 novel. Peter Weller stars as William Lee (a Burroughs pseudonym), a NYC writer working as an exterminator. His wife, Joan (Judy Davis), injects bug powder. Her accidental death is what puts Lee into "Interzone"/Tangier (all atmospheric sets). Chris Walas created special-effects creatures like the disturbing roach/typewriters that talk though their assholes and the alien-look mugwumps (maybe they should have been left out). Davis also plays another (fantasy) woman. Weller does a good Burroughs voice, Davis (in Barton Fink the same year) is excellent, and the (often gay) sex is offscreen (which angered some Burroughs fans). With Ian Holm, Julian Sands, Roy Scheider, and Nicholas Campbell. Ornette Coleman is featured on the Milan soundtrack by Howard Shore. There was also a British documentary, Naked Making Lunch (1992), by Chris Rodley (who also made Long Live the New Flesh, about David Cronenberg).

NAKED MASSACRE

(Questar, 1975) D/S: Denis Heroux Canada/W. Germany/France/Italy (Die Hinrichtung; Born for Hell)

A returning Nam vet (Matthieu Carrière) kills eight nurses in Ireland. Kind of like the Richard Speck story set in Belfast, it was shot in Germany by the Canadian director of The Uncanny with an international cast, including Eva Mattes, Debby Berger, and Carol Laure (after Sweet Movie).

David Cronenberg and Peter Weller promoting Naked Lunch.

NAKED OBSESSION

(Vestron, 1991) D: Dan Golden
S: Robert Dodson P: Ron Zwano

This sex/horror movie is ridiculous, but at least it tries to be different. A California city councilman (William Katt) checks out the Yin Yang club in the "Dante's Square" area. He's tempted by a philosophical young homeless thief (Rick Dean) who seems to be the Devil himself! Katt starts going home with strippers and is blamed for a series of murders. His first stripper (Maria Ford) teaches him about oxygen-deprivation sex. During b/w nightmares he's elected mayor and assassinated. With Elena Sahagun, Wendy MacDonald, Madison Stone, and Fred Olen Ray as the club MC. Some of the strip acts are pretty imaginative. This Concorde release is available in R and unrated versions.

NAKED PREY

(Paramount, 1966) D/P/A: Cornel Wilde
S: Clint Johnson

Cornel Wilde went all out for this excellent survival movie, shot on location in Africa and set in the 19th century. Because of a stupid, arrogant safari leader who plans to take slaves, the members of an ivory-hunting party are captured and tortured. One man is covered in clay and baked. Another has to act like a bird and is put in a ring with a deadly cobra. A nameless hunter (Wilde) who understands the local language and customs is set free (with only a loincloth) and given a chance to live while being hunted down by warriors (led by Ken Gampu). Incredibly, the sick, starving man survives by eating raw snakes. He also fights vicious Arab slavers and befriends a kid who escapes from them. Most of the movie is in native languages. It features nudity and surprising mondo scenes of natives drinking goat's blood and climbing inside a huge elephant carcass. Wilde made Beach Red next.

NAKED PURSUIT

(SW, 1968) D: Toshio Okuwaki
S: Shunichi Naho Japan (Kufun)

This arty, subtitled b/w exploitation movie told in flashbacks has almost no dialogue. It does have several (soft-core) rape scenes and long scenes of a naked woman (Maki Oaki) running over sand dunes. There's also footage of student riots and very strange music. The tape is letterboxed. When it was released in theaters by Boxoffice International there was a color sequence.

NAKED UNDER LEATHER

(1968) D: Jack Cardiff S: Ronald Duncan P: William Sassoon
UK/France (Girl on a Motorcycle)

Rebecca (Marianne Faithfull), married only two months and bored with her schoolteacher husband, takes off on her Harley (a wedding present from her ex-lover Alain Delon), wearing only her black-leather jumpsuit. On the way to meet Delon in Heidelberg she flashes back to their soft-focus lovemaking with rose petals (and thorns), and eventually she ends up with her head smashed through a car windshield. Audiences usually crack up laughing during this nice-looking attempt at "erotic symbolism" directed by the same cinematographer who made Mutations. With Marius Goring and Catherine Jourdan. Rebecca says, "Skin me!" It was rated X in America. The soundtrack, Girl on a Motorcycle, was issued by Bill Cosby's company, Tetragrammaton.

Marianne Faithfull is Naked Under Leather.

NAKED VENGEANCE

(Lightning, 1985) D/P: Cirio H. Santiago S: Reilly Askew P: Anthony Marharaj (Satin Vengeance)

A woman (Deborah Tranelli) is gang-raped, and her family is killed. Her revenge includes men being set on fire, shot in the head, and castrated. With Don Gordon. This Roger Corman/New World production is available in R and unrated videos.

NAKED VENUS

(Dark Dreams, 1958) D/P: Gaston Hakim

A young American artist and his French wife, Yvonne, an artists' model, live in France with their kid. They visit America, but his horrible, meddling mother hires a detective to prove that Yvonne is an unfit mother. It seems that she once posed for a painting of a naked Venus. The wife hires a lady lawyer who argues in divorce court that "art is never morally objectionable." Luckily for us, Yvonne is also a nudist, so she takes her daughter (and her poodle) to the Royal Palms seaside nudist camp, where we see a nude wedding and silent footage of typical nudist sports. Nudist footage is also projected in court and used as flashbacks. Even the men are full-frontally naked in this b/w feature.

NAKED WARRIORS = THE ARENA

THE NAKED WITCH

(Sinister, 1960) D/S/E: Larry Buchanan P: Claude Alexander

Larry Buchanan's first feature is a real find. A stake is pulled out of "the widow witch" (Libby Hall) in the old-fashioned German village of Luchenbach, Texas. She returns (after some bad time-lapse changes) to kill descendants of the townspeople (seen in a flashback) with an axe. She has wild eyebrows and is naked walking through a graveyard, but she's optically censored! In other scenes she wears a see-thru negligée, dances in a cave to bongo music, and takes a nude swim. With Robert Short as a meddling student (who also narrates), Jo Maryman, and Der Sängerbund Children's Choir. Buchanan said that he made this for "$8,000 in 16mm and color." A very long intro is read (by Gary Owens, from the TV show Laugh-In) over close-ups of Hieronymus Bosch paintings. The sound is by S. F. Brownrigg. The video (which is b/w) is jumpy in spots but has some choice trailers at the beginning.

THE NAKED WITCH

(1964) D: Andy Milligan S: Clay Guss P: Claude Alexander (Naked Temptress)

A college student on the Atlantic coast digs up the grave of a woman executed as a witch in the 1800s. She returns as a vampire. He falls for a village girl with a deaf-mute hunchback friend. Everybody thinks it's strange that Larry Buchanan and Andy Milligan both made movies with the same title and nearly the same plot, but that's exploitation. William Mishkin released this one in 1967.

NAKED WORLD

(1968) D: Francesco De Feo, Albert T. Viola S: Giuseppe Marotta, Giancarlo Fusco Italy (Mondo Nudo)

This documentary features a visit to Hiroshima, nude sunbathers in Denmark, the Mexican "Day of the Dead," a gay fashion show in the Philippines, hypnotism, and "free love" among prisoners on a Pacific island. New footage was added to the 1963 film for the American release.

THE NAKED WORLD OF HARRISON MARKS

(1967) D/S/P/A: George Harrison Marks S: Terry Maher, Jim McDonald

Marks plays himself (a photographer) and has a series of comic dreams, all with naked ladies. He appears as Dracula, James Bond, and other characters. Blond Pamela Green (his real-life wife) is the main attraction. The film is narrated by Valentine Dyall.

NAKED ZOO

(NPY, 1969) D/P: William Grefe D: Barry Mahon S: Roy Preston (The Hallucinators; The Grove)

Miami-based William Grefe was the president of the Ivan Tors studios (producers of the Flipper and Gentle Ben TV shows). He also directed about a dozen cheap, crazed movies like The Death Curse of Tartu. This mean-spirited, embarrassing rarity (from a story by Grefe) stars Steven Oliver (Motor Psycho) as Terry, a crazy, sadistic playboy writer gigolo with sideburns. Rita Hayworth (who later died of Alzheimer's) plays the wealthy Mrs. Golden. Terry gives her LSD, then scares her to death, disguised as her wheelchair-bound husband (whom he killed earlier). Fay Spain has the most demeaning part, as a middle-aged woman in a wig trying to be hip while being humiliated and drugged at a pot party where Canned Heat plays (!). They do "One Kind Favor," a good cut from their second album. Bob "the Bear" Hite sings, and "Blind Owl" Wilson plays a guitar solo. The ironic lyrics go, "Did you ever hear that coffin sound?" In an incredible scene Terry has one puff of grass, screams in pain, imitates a hellfire preacher, and convinces everybody at a friend's party to start a fire on the floor and throw the furniture into it! "Special guest star" Joe E. Ross, former burlesque comic and Car 54 star, has a short scene talking on a phone. Steve Alaimo, the worst artist ever on Chess records, is heard singing horrible ballads. To spice up the movie, nudie specialist Barry Mahon was hired to shoot sex scenes. A girl with a vibrator is edited in during the party sequence. There's a lesbian character and a "spade-chick" girlfriend ("We can miscegenate!"), and one of the dumb cops at the end is Herschell Gordon Lewis star William Kerwin!

NAM ANGELS

(Media, 1989) D: Cirio H. Santiago S: Dan Gagliasso P: Christopher R. Santiago

The Hell's Angels are hired to liberate some POWs in Vietnam. This bad copy of The Losers stars Brad Johnson (who was the Marlboro man) and Vernon Wells. The Hell's Angels sued Concorde over their depiction. They had also sued Corman more than 20 years earlier over The Wild Angels.

A NAME FOR EVIL

(Paragon, 1970) D/S: Bernard Girard P: Reed Sherman Canada (The Grove)

An evil ghost of Robert Culp's ancestor makes him kill his wife in his haunted Southern mansion. Or is it all a dream? Samantha Eggar costars, with Sheila Sullivan (also in Culp's Hickey and Boggs).

The Naked Venus

Sex scenes with full frontal nudity (including Culp) were featured in Playboy. The music is by Dominic Frontière and Billy Joe Royal. Cinerama released this film in 1973.

THE NAME OF THE ROSE

(Nelson, 1986) D: Jean-Jacques Annaud S: Andrew Birkin, Gerard Brach, Howard Franklin, Alain Godard P: Bernd Eichinger Germany/Italy/France

This murder mystery set in a 13th century abbey was based on Umberto Eco's bestseller. Sean Connery is William of Baskerville, a Franciscan brother who's an early Holmes-style detective, and Christian Slater is his assistant. It features gore, torture, lots of scary, ugly, perverted monks, gargoyles, and great M. C. Escher–style labyrinths. With Valentina Vargas in a memorable sex scene, F. Murray Abraham, William Hickey, Michael Lonsdale, and Ron Perlman as a hunchback. It's by the director of Quest for Fire.

NARCOTICS STORY

(SW, 1958) D/P: Robert W. Larson S: Roger Garris (The Dread Persuasion)

The ultimate anti-drug movie is a stark, color, semi-documentary "Police Science Production" made by (and originally for) police. Users and dealers in a small California town are discussed and examined. The local dealer runs the malt shop. We're shown (in great detail) how to score, roll, inhale, price, and sell marijuana, then how to prepare heroin to sell or to shoot. If you want to become a cop this will show you how to search rooms and how to properly bust a teen "tea party" in a car. Future dealers can gain foolproof tips on how to lure young girls into using junk. The very serious narration is by Art Gilmore, and there's a flashback. Today's viewers may find a few cheap laughs, but this is mostly too realistic for ridicule. Publicity claimed that the cast was made up of "dope addicts, narcotics investigators, and dope pushers." I don't know about that, but the characters and unknown faces are great, and some are very convincing. This was released with an exploitation campaign in 1958 and again in 1962. It played drive-ins for years.

NASHVILLE

(Paramount, 1975) D/P: Robert Altman S: Joan Tewkesbury

This 2-hour drama about the country-music business received a number of Oscar nominations. It's here because of Karen Black as Connie White and Keith Carradine as Tom Frank (and because it's good). They both sing, and Carradine even had a real world hit ("I'm Easy," which won an Oscar). Some others in the interesting cast are Ned Beatty, Ronee Blakley, Geraldine Chaplin, Shelley Duvall, Henry Gibson, Michael Murphy, Scott Glenn, Keenan Wynn, Robert DoQui, Elliott Gould, Gwen Welles, and Jeff Goldblum.

NASHVILLE GIRL

(1976) D: Gus Trikonis S/P: Peter J. Oppenheimer (Country Music Daughter; New Girl in Town)

New World put this into drive-ins the year after Nashville. Monica Gayle leaves the farm for the big city (Nashville). With Glenn Corbett and country star Johnny Rodriguez (in his acting debut).

NATION AFLAME!

(Sinister, 1937) D/P: Victor Halperin P: Edward Halperin

The KKK is the topic of this exploitation movie from the makers of White Zombie. The cast includes Lila Lee (The Unholy Three), Noel Madison, and Snub Pollard. The racist, anti-foreigner group in the film, created by a con man who wants control of a state, is called the Avenging Angels. This has been on video with Probation (which features a 16-year-old Betty Grable).

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S ANIMAL HOUSE

(MCA, 1978) D: John Landis S: Harold Ramis, Douglas Kennedy, Chris Miller P: Matty Simmons, Ivan Reitman

The ultimate frat-house comedy was a huge hit and is still being imitated. Any movie with "Louie Louie" in it is OK with me. It takes place in 1962. John Belushi is Blutarsky, and the other defiant rejects are Tim Matheson, Tom Hulce, Stephen Furst, Kevin Bacon, Peter Riegert, and Bruce McGill. With Karen Allen, John Vernon as Dean Wormer, Verna Bloom as his wife, Donald Sutherland as a pot-smoking professor, Mary Louise Weller, and Playboy Playmate Martha Smith. Vernon, Furst, and McGill were also in Delta House, one of three short-lived 1979 TV series based on this movie. The soundtrack features Otis Williams and the Knights, an Isley Brothers type group. MCA also released the Elmer Bernstein score.

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S CLASS REUNION

(Vestron, 1981) D: Michael Miller S: John Hughes P: Matty Simmons

A mad killer attacks members of the class of '72. This horror spoof was the second major flop with the Lampoon name on it. With Gerrit Graham, Michael Lerner, Stephen Furst, Zane Busby, Anne Ramsey, and Misty Rowe. Michael Miller went on to direct Silent Rage. Scriptwriter John Hughes (who shows up in a dress with a paper bag over his head) later became a big-deal director.

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S LOADED WEAPON I

(New Line, 1993) D/S: Gene Quintano S: Don Holley P: Suzanne Todd, David Willis

Emilio Estevez and Samuel L. Jackson star in this spoof of the Lethal Weapon series done in Naked Gun style by the director of Honeymoon Academy. William Shatner and Tim Curry are the main villains. Kathy Ireland is featured in a Basic Instinct takeoff, and specific scenes from all three Lethal Weapon movies are parodied. With Denise Richards, Jon Lovitz as the Joe Pesci character, and guest stars Whoopi Goldberg, F. Murray Abraham, Bill Nunn, Dr. Joyce Brothers (who's also in The Naked Gun), James Doohan, Richard Moll, Charlie Sheen, Phil Hartman, J. T. Walsh, Charles Napier, Bruce Willis, Erik Estrada, and Corey Feldman. It's PG-13. National Lampoon's Last Resort (Vidmark, 1994) and National Lampoon's Attack of the 5'2" Women (Paramount, 1995) were the next unrelated franchise comedies.

NATIONAL LAMPOON'S MOVIE MADNESS

(MGM, 1981) D: Bob Giraldi, Henry Jaglom S: Tod Carroll, Shary Flenniken, Pat Mephitis, Gerald Sussman, Ellis Weiner P: Matty Simmons (National Lampoon Goes to the Movies)

A producer of Animal House returned with this barely released movie spoof made up of three segments (a disaster-movie segment by Henry Jaglom was removed). The themes are a "personal growth" film, a soap opera, and a police movie. The cast includes Peter Riegert, Diane Lane, and Candy Clark in the first segment, Robert Culp, Joe Spinnell, Mary Woronov, Dick Miller, and Fred Willard in the second, and Richard Widmark, Christopher Lloyd, Elisha Cook Jr., Henny Youngman, and Harry Reems in the third. Also featured are Robby Benson, Julie Kavner, Olympia Dukakis, Bobby DiCicco, Margaret Whitton, and a theme song by Dr. John. Bob Giraldi later made the "Beat It" video. What were they thinking when they hired Jaglom?

NATURAL BORN CRAZIES

(1992) D/S/P/E: George Baluzy, Mike Baluzy (Memoirs of a Madman)

During a Christmas party four inmates escape from a state asylum and take a doctor with them. Brad Bechard is pretty convincing as the extremely psychotic white-trash leader, Butch. One inmate is a cartoonish geek, a pathetic one in drag has a French accent, and James (Richard Craven) is a good-looking one on medication. Sometimes we hear their thoughts. The almost constant narration (by a guy with a very affected British voice) is both irritating and funny ("Oh, how they begin to resemble wild beasts"). There's a heavy-metal band, a (male) shower scene, rape, murder, and suicide (nothing graphic). Taylor Mead and Quentin Crisp appear briefly. Most of it was shot in fields and woods in upstate New York.

NATURAL BORN KILLERS

(Warner, 1994) D: Oliver Stone S: David Veloz, Richard Rutowski P: Jane Hamsher

Stone threw in every underground-movie technique (now common in TV commercials and rock videos) for his cartoonish, frantic, self-indulgent, over-the-top 2-hour-long parody of serial killers and modern media. It features parts shot in Super 8, on video, and in b/w; Japanese-style animation (by Mike Smith); peyote-eating Indians and hallucinations; and scenes from newsreels, Captain Sinbad, Night of the Lepus (giant bunnies) and many other horror movies. The quick flashes of demon faces are very effective. Many hated it, but if nothing else it was the best drug-experience movie in years. Juliette Lewis and Woody Harrelson star as the young killers Mickey and Mallory Knox. Robert Downey Jr. is the New Zealand–accented tabloid-TV star reporter Wayne Gale, Tommy Lee Jones is pretty hilarious as the prison warden, Tom Sizemore is a famous author/cop (and a psycho killer himself), and Rodney Dangerfield is Mallory's abusive father in TV-sitcom flashbacks. Also with Russell Means, Balthazar Getty, Edie McClurg, Ashley Judd, Denis Leary, Steven Wright, and Arliss Howard. A real Chicago prison and inmates were used. Stone shot two endings, and several scenes were cut for an R rating. It was based on an original screenplay by Quentin Tarantino, who had hoped to direct it himself. The bestselling soundtrack, produced by Trent Reznor (from Nine Inch Nails), includes older tracks by Patti Smith, Duane Eddy, Patsy Cline, L7, and Ministry, and a great new Leonard Cohen theme song.

NATURAL ENEMIES

(1979) D/S/E: Jeff Kanew P: John E. Quill

Hal Holbrook stars as a successful publisher who decides to kill his entire family. First he hires a group of hookers for a private orgy. Don't expect lots of sex and violence, though. It's mostly talk. With José Ferrer, Louise Fletcher as the wife, Elizabeth Berridge as the daughter, and Viveca Lindfors. Kanew later made Revenge of the Nerds.

THE NATURE GIRL AND THE SLAVER

(1957) D: Hermann Leitner
P: Helmut Volmer W. Germany
(Liane, die Weisse Sklavin)

Marian Michael stars in this sequel to Liane. She's back in the jungle and has more topless scenes. With Adrian Hoven and Saro Urzi.

NATURE'S PARADISE

(1955) D: Charles Saunders S: Leslie Bell, Dennis Kaye P: Frank Bevis UK (Nudist Paradise)

An American art student in England falls for a nudist and joins her at a camp. This movie features Anita Love and Katy Cashfield. It was filmed in Cinemascope and Eastmancolor. Fanfare released it in 1960.

NATURE'S PLAYMATES

(Video Dimensions, 1962) D: Herschell Gordon Lewis S/P: David F. Friedman S: Bentley Williams P: Thomas J. Dowd

A cheery blond private eye (Vicki Miles) and her male partner (who resembles Keenan Wynn) pose as a brother and sister and go to nudist camps searching for a missing husband with a navy tattoo. Miles (aka Allison Louise Downe) went on to star in Goldilocks and the Three Bares, Boin-n-g, and others by Friedman and Lewis, then switched to production jobs and wrote the screenplays for The Gruesome Twosome and She Devils on Wheels! In this one she wears lots of makeup and high heels while going "natural." The nude highlights are women bouncing on a trampoline and a twist contest. The video of this color movie is in b/w.

NAUGHTY DALLAS

(SW, 1964) D/S: Larry Buchanan
(Mondo Exotica; Naughty Cuties)

The action is narrated by some guy, then Toni (Toni Shannon), a small town girl in Dallas, then a theatrical agent, then a burly club owner. She thinks, "What a lucky break! I'm in show business!", chickens out during an amateur stripper night, but becomes a hit after some private lessons. Most of the movie (filmed as early as 1959) is vintage real strip acts, with some unfunny comics (one in drag), and Bill Peck and his Peckers band. Some strippers leave pasties on. My faves were the two "maids," Jada (who gets a pie in the face), and the woman on the tiger skin rug. In glorious faded color. It was shot in several Dallas burlesque houses but, despite the false publicity, not in Jack Ruby's Carousel club.

NAUGHTY NYMPHS: See DON'T TELL DADDY

NAUGHTY STEWARDESSES

(Super, 1973) D/P: Al Adamson S: Sam Sherman

Connie Hoffman, Donna Desmond, Tracy King, and Regina Carrol star in a movie that copies the hit The Stewardesses. Former cowboy-movie star Robert Livingston is also in it. From Independent International. Blazing Stewardesses was a more comical sequel.

NAVAJO JOE

(MGM, 1966) D: Sergio Corbucci S: Mario Pierotti, Fernando Di Leo P: Ermanno Donati, Luigi Carpentieri M: Ennio Morricone Italy/Spain (Un Dollaro a Testa)

An Indian warrior (Burt Reynolds) is hired by a town to stop Also Sambrell, an evil bounty hunter who kills and scalps Indians, causing revenge attacks. Fernando Rey is a priest. Ruggero Deodato was the assistant director.

NAVAJO RUN

(1964) D/P/A: Johnny Seven S: Jo Heims

A rancher saves a Navajo half-breed from death by snakebite, but it's part of a revenge plot. Warren Kemmerling and Virginia Vincent are also in this obscure AIP western.

THE NAVIGATOR: A MEDIEVAL ODYSSEY

(1988) D/S: Vincent Ward S: Kelly Lyons, Geoff Chapple P: John Maynard, Gary Hannam New Zealand/Australia

In 1348 a young Welsh psychic (Hamish McFarlane) dreams of a way to save his village from the black plague. He leads four others through a tunnel, and they emerge in present-day New Zealand (where people are dying of AIDS). This acclaimed PG film was shot in b/w and color on a very low budget.

NAZARÍN

(1959) D/S: Luis Buñuel S: Julio Alejandro P: Manuel Barbachano Ponce

Francisco Rabal stars as a priest who tries to follow the teachings of Christ in turn-of-the-century Mexico. The Church defrocks him after he shelters a prostitute (Rita Macedo). He goes on the road, followed by her, another woman (Marga López), and a dwarf (Jesús Fernández). Some consider him a saint, but his efforts to do good land him in jail. Luis Buñuel returned to the same theme with Simon of the Desert (1965).

NAZI LOVE CAMP NO. 27: See LOVE CAMP 27

NEAR DARK

(HBO, 1987) D: Kathryn Bigelow S: Eric Red P: Steven-Charles Jaffe M: Tangerine Dream

The first vampire/road movie is a unique classic, although it borrows ideas from Anne Rice's book Interview with the Vampire. Lance Henriksen leads a "family" group of vicious, unrelenting vampires in search of victims. They travel in a car with blacked-out windows and stay in motels. Since vampires are ageless some of them are kids. Henriksen (still wearing his Civil War uniform), Bill Paxton, and Jenette Goldstein are the main vampires (they were in Aliens too). An Oklahoma farm boy (Adrian Pasdar) is seduced by Jenny Wright and becomes one of them but still won't kill. With Joshua Miller and Tim Thomerson. The score is on Varèse Sarabande. The Cramps are heard on a jukebox doing "Fever," which is fitting since Paxton is made up to resemble Cramps singer Lux Interior.

THE NEBRASKAN

(1953) D: Fred F. Sears S: David Lang, Martin Berkeley P: Wallace MacDonald

Phil Carey is an army scout in this 3-D color Columbia feature about an Indian uprising, with Roberta Haynes, Jay Silverheels, Wallace Ford, Lee Van Cleef, Regis Toomey, and Dennis Weaver.

NECROMANCER

(Forum, 1987) D: Dusty Nelson S: Will Naud P: Roy McAree (Satan's Servant)

An acting student (Elizabeth Kaitan) is gang-raped. She contacts a necromancer (who advertises in the newspaper) for help in getting revenge. While possessed she seduces the attackers and kills (and castrates) them. We see a claw, glowing eyes, and a (very bad) monster face. Russ Tamblyn is a Shakespeare-spouting acting teacher who casts her in The Taming of the Shrew.

NECROMANIA

(SW, 1971) D/S: Edward D. Wood Jr.

Wood's last feature as a director, a soft-core sex movie, is only for completists. Real-life couple Rene Bond and Ric Lutz star. They're at the home of a "witch" so that he can be cured of impotence. Based on Wood's novel The Only House, it's a series of sex scenes (about half of them are lesbian), an odd and brief look at damned souls, plus a woman getting off with help from a fake skull. The gag ending is Lutz forced to join "Madame Heles" in a coffin. Dialogue includes "Bet your sweet bippy!" and "We shall return to the red room." (Did Stanley Kubrick see this?) Frank Henenlotter introduces the video and returns at the end to talk to Rudolph Grey about it. Since this version runs only 43 minutes, an edited version of Love Feast, starring Wood, follows.

NECROMANIAC = GRAVEYARD OF HORROR

NECRONOMICON

(1993) D/P: Brian Yuzna D: Christopher Gans, Shu Kaneko S: Brent V. Friedman P: Samuel Hadida

This horror trilogy based on H. P. Lovecraft features Jeffrey Combs as Lovecraft in wraparound segments. In "The Drowned" (by Christopher Gans, from France) Richard Lynch stars as a man who inherits a remote New England hotel from his uncle, who made a pact with the Devil. The cast also includes Bruce Payne, Maria Ford, and Belinda Bauer. Bess Meyer tells a story to a Boston reporter (Gary Graham) in "The Cold" (by Shu Kaneko, from Japan). With David Warner as a mad scientist and Millie Perkins. Signy Coleman is a futuristic Philadelphia cop in "Whispers" (by Brian Yuzna). Don Calfa and Judith Drake costar. Tom Rainone supervised the many name FX experts, and Tom Savini was an adviser. The US release was delayed.

NECROPOLIS: CITY OF THE DEAD

(Lightning, 1986) D/S: Bruce Hickey P: Tim Kincaid, Cynthia De Paula

A blond Dutch witch (LeeAnne Baker) is reincarnated as a punk biker in NYC. She sacrifices virgins and sucks souls through victims' foreheads. She also grows four extra breasts to feed some followers with. Joel von Ornsteiner is also in the cast. Ed French did the FX.

NED KELLY

(1970) D/S: Tony Richardson S: Ian Jones P: Neil Hartley Australia

Mick Jagger with a beard stars as a young 19th-century Irish outlaw who fights corrupt British Protestant colonists in Australia. The real Ned Kelly is a famous historical figure down under. He's arrested for stealing pigs, serves time, then is framed by a policeman. In some scenes he and his gang wear homemade armor. While this was being filmed in 1969 Brian Jones was buried. Marianne Faithfull showed up to costar but ended up in the hospital from a drug overdose and was replaced by Diane Craig. When it was released Jagger called the movie "a load of shit." It's not that bad. The UA soundtrack features Waylon Jennings, Kris Kristofferson, and one accustic Jagger cut. Mad Dog Morgan, with Dennis Hopper, is similar, and Reckless Kelly (1993) is a modern-day takeoff. Freejack, Ned Kelly, and Performance are the only feature films starring Jagger. Performance was made first (in 1968) but released second.

NEEDFUL THINGS

(New Line, 1993) D: Fraser Heston S: W. D. Richter P: Jack Cummins

Max von Sydow is Leland Gaunt (the Devil), who opens an antique shop in Castle Rock, Maine, and plays people against each other. Eventually there's fighting in the streets and the town is on fire. This adaptation of Stephen King's 1991 novel has some good acting (especially Ed Harris as the sheriff), but it has too many subplots and makes little sense. As in other King-based movies, animals are mutilated. With J. T. Walsh as a corrupt local politician, Bonnie Bedelia, Amanda Plummer, Duncan Fraser, Valri Bromfield, and Lisa Blount (mostly cut out). This overlong (120-minute) Columbia release was shot in British Columbia.

NEGATIVES

(1968) D: Peter Medak S: Peter Everett, Roger Lowry P: Judd Bernard

Theo (Peter McEnery) and Vivien (Glenda Jackson) live together above an antique shop. They dress up and pretend to be the famous murderer Dr. Crippen and his mistress, Ethel La Neve. A German photographer (Diane Cilento) rents a room and throws their routine off balance by convincing Theo to "become" WWI flying ace Baron von Richtofen. He even has a plane on the roof. Jackson had been in only one film (Marat/Sade). Maurice Denham and Norman Rossington are also in this black comedy.

THE NEIGHBOR

(Academy, 1993) D: Rodney Gibbons S: Kurt Wimmer P: Tom Berry Canada

Rod Steiger is Myron Hatch, a creepy, balding retired obstetrician who's renting his old house to a pregnant woman (Linda Kozlowski from Crocodile Dundee). Myron becomes her doctor, and she has bloody nightmares. He's always around, is creepy as he stares at (and drugs) her, and cries while he kills. Too bad Steiger sounds like he's playing W. C. Fields again! Flashbacks reveal that as a kid Myron was a psycho ventriloquist and baby killer. Ron Lea is the dimwit husband. This disturbing but absurd film was made in Quebec. The executive producer was Pierre David.

NEIGHBORS

(RCA/Columbia, 1981) D: John G. Avildsen S: Larry Gelbart P: Richard D. Zanuck, David Brown

Vic and Ramona (Dan Aykroyd and Cathy Moriarty) are the out-of-control new neighbors who torment bourgeois suburbanites John Belushi and Kathryn Walker. This was a big flop. Belushi died, and Moriarty (Raging Bull) didn't work for years afterward. The movie was based on Thomas Berger's novel.

NEKROMANTIK

(Film Threat, 1987) D/S: Jorge Buttgereit S: Franz Rodenkirchen P: Manfred O. Jelinski W. Germany

Rob (Daktari Lorenz) works for Joe's street-cleaning agency, cleaning up after accidents on the Autobahn. He starts taking body parts home, then a whole rotten corpse. His girlfriend, Betty (Beatrice M.), bathes in blood and gets into it so much that she leaves with the corpse, her new lover. Rob loses his job and goes to a gore movie at the Xenon (a very old West Berlin revival theater where the young director was a projectionist). He tries to make it with a hooker in a cemetery but kills her (and the caretaker). This 71-minute film has a great ending, but despite its gross-out cult reputation it doesn't have good enough FX.

NEKROMANTIK II: DIE RÜCKER DER LIEBEN TOTEN

(Film Threat, 1989) D/S: Jorge Buttgereit S: Franz Rodenkirchen P: Manfred O. Jelinski Germany

Monika M. stars as a blond necro who digs up stiffs while in her high heels. When the corpses rot too much she cuts them up for disposal but keeps the penises in the fridge. She also dates the live Mark Reedek and works doing voiceovers for porno movies. The budget was slightly higher this time, and there's even a dream sequence. In 1992 a Berlin court ruled that the negative and all promotional materials had to be destroyed (!) because the film "propagates violence." The episodic Der Todskind (1990) and a behind-the-scenes documentary called Corpse Fucking Art (1992) are also available.

NEMESIS

(Imperial, 1992) D: Albert Pyun S: Rebecca Charles P: Ash R. Shaw, Eric Karson, Tom Karnowski

Olivier Gruner (Angel Town) stars as a futuristic part-cyborg fighting cop with an identity crisis in a dismal post-nuke 2020. He's drugged, a bomb is planted in his heart, then he's forced (by Brion James and Tim Thomerson) to go to Baja, Rio, and Java. Later lots of time is spent on gun battles (often with female terrorists), and Deborah Shelton has a nude sex-then-fight scene. Thomerson becomes an animated metal skeleton. A female narrator tries to make sense of it all. With Merle Kennedy as a petite fighter, Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa, Nicholas Guest, and Jackie Earle Haley. This theatrical release copies Blade Runner, Terminator, Robocop, etc. It has Bernard Herrmann–inspired music and was filmed in Hawaii (where the director is from). Sequels (also by Pyun) followed.

NEMO

(1984) D/S: Arnaud de Selignac S: Jean-Pierre Esquenazi, Telshe Boorman P: John Boorman, Claude Nedjar France/UK

An adolesent Nemo (Jason Connery) in NYC takes an elevator that contunues to the center of the earth, then into outer space. He finds the Nautilus in a dream world and rescues a princess (Mathilda May) from the masked villain, Mr. Legend (Harvey Keitel!). This fantasy, based on Jules Verne's Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea, is by a 26-year-old first-time director. The cast also includes Nipsey Russell (in two roles), Carole Bouquet, Katrine Boorman, and Charley Boorman. Columbia was going to release it in America (as Dream One) but didn't.

NEON CITY

(Vidmark, 1991) D/S/A: Monte Markham S: Buck Finch, Jeff Negun P: Wolf Schmidt

In the bleak, snow-covered wasteland of 2053, Stark (Michael Ironside) takes a "red star" (Vanity) to Neon City for "credits." The perilous trip in an old truck (driven by Lyle Alzado) takes a group of various desperate characters through dangerous territory where people with burned faces wait to die. Richard Sanders (from the TV series WKRP) sells poison to people for quick suicides. Basically a remake of Stagecoach, this is worth watching but is one of the bleakest post-nuke movies around. It's a relief when the expected action/chase scene finally takes place and when they arrive in the economical "city." With Valerie Wildman, Nick Klar, and Juliet Landau. It was filmed at the same Salt Lake City locations as Carnival of Souls.

Lyle Alzado, Vanity, and Michael Ironside in Neon City.

NEON MANIACS

(Lightning, 1985) D: Joseph Mangine S: Mark Patrick Carducci P: Steven Mackler, Chris Arnold

Armed, rubbery "monsters" (biker, samurai, soldier, etc.) from under the Golden Gate Bridge kill high-school students in San Francisco. Water pistols kill them. The cast includes Marta Kober and Allan Hayes. The soundtrack, featuring various artists, is on Easy Street.

NERDS OF A FEATHER

(1992) D/S/A: Mario Romeo Milano D: Gary Graver

A couple (Mario Romeo Milano and Kathleen Kichta) working as nursing-home orderlies in Venice, California, become involved with a mad professor and midget Russian spies who are after a secret formula. This dumb comedy features Anya Karin, Pat McCormick, Charles Pierce as Grandma, and Charles Dierkop as a biker. Troma released it.

NERO

(VSOM, 1992) D/S: Giancarlo Soldi S: Tiziano Sclavi P: Giovanna Romagnoli Italy

This offbeat gore comedy with surreal touches was written by the author of the Italian comic strip Dylan Dog. Sergio Castellitto thinks his girlfriend (Chiara Caselli, from My Own Private Idaho) is a murderess. Claudio Argento was the executive producer. The music is by Mau Mau.

THE NEST

(MGM/UA, 1988) D: Terence H. Winkless S: Robert King P: Julie Corman

A resort town on a Washington State island is threatened by giant cannibal roaches. They evolve and become what they eat, so we get a cat/roach, a man/roach, etc. Corrupt mayor Robert Lansing becomes a man/roach and attacks his daughter (Lisa Langlois). With Franc Luz and Terri Treas. Parts of this copy The Fly and other 80s movies, but it would make a good double bill with Bug (1975).

DAS NET

(1976) D/S: Manfred Purzer P: Luggi Waldleitner W. Germany

Mel Ferrer stars in this movie about a psycho killer and an aging writer, with Klaus Kinski, Elke Sommer, Heinz Bennent, and Andrea Rau. It was filmed in English.

NETHERWORLD

(Paramount, 1991) D/A: David Schmoeller S: Billy Chicago P: Thomas Bradford

Michael Bendetti (from 21 Jump Street) arrives at his late father's old southern mansion, run by a housekeeper (Anjanette Comer, from The Baby) who has an underage blond daughter. People warn him about the local roadhouse, where the hookers are really witches (and Edgar Winter is in the house band!). In a scene copied directly from the Phantasm movies, a statue hand comes to life, zooms through the air, and embeds itself in (obvious dummy) heads. Most of it is silly, confusing, or boring, but you can tell it's by David Schmoeller (Tourist Trap, Crawlspace, etc.). The movie is bird-obsessed, the "tonk" is atmospheric, and the grounds of the mansion are beautiful. I'd like to live there. Moonstone released the soundtrack by David Byran (of Bon Jovi). At the time Full Moon threatened to release one tape a month (!), and unfortunately they did.

NEVADA HEAT: See FAKE-OUT

THE NEVERENDING STORY

(Warner, 1984) D/S: Wolfgang Petersen S: Herman Weigel P: Bernd Eichmon, Dieter Geissler W. Germany/UK

A young boy (Barret Oliver) becomes part of the book he's reading. In the empire of Fantasia a disease makes people forget hopes and dreams, and lots of furry creatures, flying dogs, talking rocks and other (childish-looking) special effects appear. The director of Das Boot filmed this PG kids' movie in Canada and in Munich studios, but it's set in an American town. It cost a record (outside the US and the USSR) $27 million and has ILM FX. With Moses Gunn and Gerald McRaney. Michael Ende, whose novel the film is based on, had his name removed. Sequels followed.

NEVERENDING STORY II: THE NEXT CHAPTER

(Paramount, 1990) D: George Miller S: Karin Howard P: Dieter Geissler US/Germany

This PG fantasy about saving a child empress has a different cast but the same creatures as the first film. Jonathan Brandis stars as the same kid. It was filmed in Munich studios, Canada, Argentina, France, and Italy. Mark Damon was the executive producer. Neverending Story III followed (1994).

NEVER ON TUESDAY

(Paramount, 1987) D/S: Adam Rifkin P: Brad Wyman, Lionel Wigram

Claudia Christian is in a car crash with some guys in another car (Andrew Lauer and Peter Berg). They're all stranded, and she tells them she's a lesbian. Gilbert Gottfried, Charlie Sheen, Emilio Estevez, and Judd Nelson play in small roles. The director later made The Dark Backwards.

NEVER PICK UP A STRANGER

(IVE, 1979) D: Joseph Bigwood S: Robert Jahn P: Joseph Zito, Alan A. Braverman (Blood Rage)

A shy voyeur psycho (Ian Scott) narrates while he kills hookers in NYC. Lawrence Tierney plays a cop.

NEVER SAY NEVER AGAIN

(Warner, 1983) D: Irvin Kershner S: Lorenzo Semple Jr. P: Jack Schwartzman

In 1983 there were two Bonds to choose from. Sean Connery returned after 12 years in this Thunderball remake. It was a lot better than Octopussy but not up to the 60s features. Klaus Maria Brandauer is a high point as Largo, who steals two nuclear-armed cruise missiles. Barbara Carrera is Fatima Blush, and Kim Basinger is Largo's mistress, Domino. The role (and her Playboy layout) took her from obscurity to stardom. With Max von Sydow, Bernie Casey as Felix Leitner, and Edward Fox as M. It was a Taliafilm (backed by Talia Shire) and unfortunately lost money. Roger Moore (who is three years older than Connery, by the way) played the role only once more (in A View to a Kill).

NEVER TAKE CANDY FROM A STRANGER

(Sinister, 1960) D: Cyril Frankel S: John Hunter P: Anthony Hinds UK (The Molester; Never Take Sweets from a Stranger)

Hammer made this b/w drama about a wealthy, senile psycho (Felix Aylmer) in a Canadian town. He's been in a mental hospital for molesting young girls, but his actions are covered up by his son. A new high-school principal (Patrick Allen) presses charges because of what his daughter tells him. With Niall MacGinnis and Gwen Watford. The tape is letterboxed.

NEVER THE TWAIN

(1974) D: Frank M. "Brad" Grinter S: Manny Dietz P: George M. Souter, Herbert R. Benton

Ed Trostle (in real life a Mark Twain impersonator) claims that the spirit of Twain has taken him over while he's been doing his stage show at a nudist colony. His wife (Kathy Weldon) calls in Richard Webb (star of the Captain Midnight TV show) to battle the spirit. This rare R-rated film is basically a filmed stage play. It's by the maker of Blood Freak.

NEVER TOO LATE TO MEND

(Sinister, 1937) D: David MacDonald P: George King UK (It's Never Too Late to Mend)

Squire Meadows (Tod Slaughter) runs a prison. He frames Jack Livesey so that he can have his fiancée (Marjorie Taylor). The prisoners, his "children," are tortured, whipped, and thrown into "the black hole" by the mad squire. This melodrama had been filmed twice before as silent features.

NEVER TOO YOUNG TO DIE

(Charter, 1986) D/S: Gil Bettman S/P: Steven Paul S: Lorenzo Semple Jr., Anton Fritz

John Stamos is the son of a James Bond–type secret agent (George Lazenby) who is killed. The high-school gymnast teams with a spy (Vanity) to save Los Angeles. Gene Simmons is Velvet Von Ragner, a psychotic hermaphrodite who's trying to poison the LA water supply. He sings too. This spoof borrows from Road Warrior, The Rocky Horror Picture Show, and other films. With Peter Kwong, Robert Englund, and Tara Buckman.

THE NEW ADVENTURES OF PIPPI LONGSTOCKING

(RCA, 1988) D/S/P: Ken Annakin P: Gary Mehlman, Walter Moshay

Astrid Lindgren's books have been favorites of girls for years. Tami Erin stars as the anarchistic tomboy with pigtails who has fantastic adventures, in this G-rated adaptation with music. With Eileen Brennan, George DiCenzo, and Dick Van Patten. Fans should search for the four Swedish/German Pippi movies produced in 1969, which played early-70s American kiddie matinees. Inger Nilsson starred in them.

NEW ADVENTURES OF TARZAN

(Video Dimensions, Sinister, 1935) D: Edward Kull, Wilbur McGaugh S: Charles F. Royal P: George W. Stout, Ben S. Cohen, Ashton Dearholt, Edgar Rice Burroughs

Edgar Rice Burroughs personally supervised this 12-chapter serial backed by his own company. It was the first Tarzan movie filmed on location (under nearly impossible conditions in Guatemala). Olympic decathalon champ Herman Brix (later Bruce Bennett) stars as Tarzan, who speaks perfect English (just as he does in the books). Ula Holt costars, with Jiggs the chimp. Tarzan goes to South America, finds a lost city (real Maya ruins) ruled by "the green goddess," and fights spies. It was released by Republic as a serial and as two features (Tarzan's New Adventure and Tarzan and the Green Goddess). Feature versions are also available on video.

THE NEW BARBARIANS: See WARRIORS OF THE WASTELAND

NEW EDEN

(MCA, 1994) D: Alan Metzger S: Dan Gordon P: Harvey Frand

Stephen Baldwin (who says, "I'm not much of an entertainer") is an engineer who is left on a post-nuke planet. He becomes a slave for a while, trains with a warrior (Tobin Bell), and falls for a "Scav" (Lisa Bonet) with a "cute" kid. He helps her peaceful tribe irrigate and purify the desert. Another prisoner (Michael Bowen) joins the bad sand pirates. Since each tribe has one black female, the bad one (Janet Hubert Whitten, who has a whip), and the good one (Bonet) end up fighting with swords. Nicholas Worth is in one scene. It's rated R but looks like a PG.

THE NEW GLADIATORS

(Media, 1983) D/S/A: Lucio Fulci S: Elisa Briganti, Dardano Sacchetti, Cesare Frugoni Italy (Rome 2072; The New Gladiators; 2020 New Barbarians)

A futuristic human (actually a computer) runs rival TV networks that air violent gladiatorial death-games starring prisoners. Broadcasts are shown on giant outdoor screens. Jared Martin, Fred Williamson, Al Cliver, and Haruiko Yamanouchi are on the same team. The plot is nearly the same as The Running Man, which came out later (1987).

THE NEW INVISIBLE MAN

(Sinister, 1957) D/S: Alfredo Crevenna P: Guillermo Calderón Stell Mexico (El Hombre Que Logro Ser Invisible)

The plot of this is the same as The Invisible Man Returns (1940). Arturo de Cordova is framed for a murder, becomes invisible in jail, and escapes, seeking revenge. He goes mad in the end and threatens to poison the city's water supply. With Ana Luisa Peluffo and Augusto Benedico.

NEW JACK CITY

(Warner, 1991) D/A: Mario Van Peebles S: Thomas Lee Wright P: Doug McHenry, George Jackson

Exactly 20 years after Sweet Sweetback's Baadasssss Song, its director's son made the highest-grossing black-cast film ever (up to that time). The story starts in 1986 and looks at drug dealing as a profitable business. Wesley Snipes stars as a drug lord (partially copied from the real-life Nicky Barnes) who has a whole factory/fortress for his lucrative NYC crack business. Ice T (very good in a serious role) and Judd Nelson are cops who report to Detective Stone (Mario Van Peebles). With Chris Rock, Russell Wong, Bill Nunn, John Aprea, Tracy Camilla Johns (She's Gotta Have It), the other Vanessa Williams, Thalmus Rasulala (in his last feature), and Eeek-a-Mouse. It was filmed in Harlem and the Bronx and makes good use of Marvin Gaye's "Inner City Blues." There's a Sweet Sweetback film clip. The movie sparked a predictable controversy over theater violence.

THE NEW KIDS

(RCA/Columbia, 1984) D/P: Sean S. Cunningham S: Stephen Gyllenhaal P: Andrew Fogelson

Lori Loughlin and Shannon Presby star as an orphaned sister and brother at Santa Funland, their uncle's run-down Florida amusement park. They're terrorized by a gang, and characters die by electrocution, decapitation, and falling off the ferris wheel. Novelist Harry Crews reportedly contributed "the authentic swamp-trash dialogue." With James Spader as the main bully and Eric Stoltz (who both went on to much bigger features) and John Philbin. This PG film was shot in Florida.

THE NEWLYDEADS

(City Lights, 1987) D/S/P: Josepeh Merhi S: Sean Dash P: Richard Pepin

A lakeside-resort motel owner kills a transvestite. The spirit of "the cross-dress killer" returns 15 years later and murders honeymoon couples. There are decapitations and an exorcism. With Jim Williams, Jay Richardson, Roxanne Michaels, and Captain Mike.

NEW YORK NIGHTS

(VSOM, 1980) D: Simon Nuchtern S/P: Romano Vanderbes

This exploitation version of the much-filmed play La Ronde is told in nine interlocking segments. It was good for some laughs on 42nd Street. Corinne Alphen (Wahl) is top billed, with Marcia McBroom (Beyond the Valley of the Dolls) and Willem Dafoe as "the punk boyfriend." Rod Stewart's "Passion" is on the soundtrack. The director also made Silent Madness in NYC.

NEW YORK NIGHTS

(York, 1994) D: Ernest G. Saver S: Mike McDonald P: Gary P. Connor

A trio of women from various places end up sharing the same luxury apartment in NYC while looking for rich men. Marilyn Chambers stars in this sex comedy, with Julia (claims to be Dolly's cousin) Parton and Penthouse Pet Susan Napoli. It's available unrated or in the R-rated version I fast-forwarded through. This and other lame Chambers features (Party Incorporated, Breakfast in Bed, The Marilyn Diaries, etc.) frequently show up on cable.

NEW YORK RIPPER

(Vidmark, 1982) D/S: Lucio Fulci S: Gianfranco Clerici, Dardano Sacchetti, Vincenzo Mannino P: Abrizio De Angeli Italy (Lo Squartatore di New York)

A detective (Jack Hedley) is after a slasher who kills "loose" women in NYC and talks with a Donald Duck voice. This gory feature with scenes in a sex club was cut in America. With Alexandra Delli Colli and Andrea Occhipinti.

NEXT DOOR

(1994) D: Tony Bill S: Barney Cohen P: Jay Benson

It's a cultured college professor (James Woods) and his teacher wife (Kate Capshaw) and son vs. their new suburban neighbors, a beer drinking butcher (Randy Quaid), his wife (Lucinda Dickey), and son. The feud in this black comedy involves killing dogs and torture. The music is by Van Dyke Parks. A Showtime debut.

THE NEXT KARATE KID

(Columbia, 1994) D: Christopher Cain
S: Mark Lee P: Jerry Weintraub

John Avildsen made three Karate Kid movies in the 80s, all with Ralph Maccio as the kid and Pat Morita as his karate instructor, Mr. Miyagi. This time Morita teaches a teen orphan (Hilary Swank) to defend herself at her Boston high school. Michael Ironside is her evil gym teacher, Chris Conrad is her boyfriend, Constance Towers (from 60s Sam Fuller movies) is her grandmother, and there's a group of fun-loving monks. It's rated PG.

NEXT OF KIN

(Media, 1982) D/S: Tony Williams S: Michael Heath
P: Robert Letet Australia/New Zealand

Linda (Jackie Kern, who looks sorta like Nastassja Kinski) inherits her mother's retirement home, which seems to be haunted. Her mother's diary describes "the evil in this house." Lots of characters are killed, and in one of the dream sequences a (very real-looking) dead old man shows up floating outside a window! There's an effective Klaus Schulze score, excellent cinematography, and an action-packed, explosive ending. Although slow and moody (parts resemble The Shining), it includes an eyeball stabbing, a head blown off, and other suprises. This little-known scary movie was filmed in New Zealand and New South Wales.

NEXT OF KIN

(Warner, 1988) D: John Irvin S: Michael Jenning P: Les Alexander M: Jack Nitzsche

Patrick Swayze (with a ponytail) stars as a Chicago cop named Truman Gates. A Mafia hitman (Adam Baldwin) working in the juke-box racket kills his brother (Bill Paxton). Another brother (Liam Neeson), a deer hunter, arrives from Kentucky seeking vengeance, and eventually the whole clan battles the gangsters using crossbows, hatchets, and snakes! The climactic action sequence takes place in a cemetery. With Helen Hunt, Michael J. Pollard, Ted Levine, Andreas Katsulas, Ben Stiller, and Del Close.

THE NEXT ONE

(Vestron, 1981) D/S: Nico Mastorakis US/Greece

Adrienne Barbeau lives on a Greek island with her son (Jeremy Licht). She falls for a Christlike stranger (Keir Dullea) from the future. Mastorakis coproduced The Greek Tycoon (1978), about Aristotle Onassis.

NEXT VICTIM

(Thriller, 1974) D: James Ormerod
S: Brian Clemens P: Ian Fordyce

Wheelchair-bound Carroll Baker lives alone in an apartment in a nearly deserted building. She lets a repairman in. He turns out to be a psycho strangler. This BBC-TV movie was videotaped. It has music by Laurie Johnson.

THE NEXT VICTIM (1970): See BLADE OF THE RIPPER

NICE GIRLS DON'T EXPLODE

(Starmaker, 1987) D: Chuck Martinez
S: Paul Harris P: Doug Curtis, John Wells

Michelle Meyrink stars as a telekinetic teen who starts fires when she gets aroused. Barbara Harris is her mom, who has the same power. With William O'Leary and Wallace Shawn. This comedy from New World was shot in Lawrence, Kansas.

NICK KNIGHT

(CBS, 1989) D: Farhad Mann S: James D. Parriot P: S. Michael Formica

New World produced this CBS-TV series pilot. Rick Springfield is a good-guy vampire who's a cop in San Francisco. Michael Nader is a killer vampire. They both fly around and fight, and "Papa Oom Mow Mow" is heard on the soundtrack. With Laura Johnson, Cec Verrell, and Irene Miracle. It's on video in Europe as Midnight Cop. The idea was later reused for the CBS (later USA Network) series Forever Knight, with a different cast.

NIGHT ANGEL

(Fries, 1989) D: Dominique Othenin-Girard
S: Walter Josten S/P: Joe Augustyn

A lot of things about this movie are painfully dumb, but it's still one of the best recent erotic horror movies, and many of the scenes and effects are excellent and surprising. Isa Anderson stars as Lilith, a winged female demon who rises from the earth and goes about killing off the male staff of a hip fashion magazine Siren. In her sexy human form she has black hair, nails, and (sometimes) lips. Karen Black as Rita, an editor who is seduced into worshipping the demon, mainly seems to want to be a cover girl. The gorgeous Debra Feuer is Kristie, Rita's sister from Milwaukee. There's a great Hell sequence, an old black lady (Helen Martin) in a yellow cab who's a Van Helsing type ("She is Satan's whore!"), Cronenberg-inspired sex zombies in the office (turned on by photos!), hearts ripped out, photos that come to life, good dreams, and plenty of nudity and sex. Some of the music is by Barrence Whitfield and the Savages, and there's a great new song by Screamin' Jay Hawkins, "Siren's Burning." Roscoe Lee Browne is the narrator. With Susie Sparks and Gary Hudson. The Swiss-born director also made After Darkness (1985), with Julian Sands, and Halloween 5.

Isa Anderson as the Night Angel.

NIGHT BEAST

(Paragon, 1982) D/S/P/E: Don Dohler

An alien with a laser weapon decapitates and tears up locals in backwoods Maryland. The low-budget alien (played by two people in a suit) is pretty scary-looking, and there's some nudity and gore. Tom Griffith as a sheriff, George Stover as a doctor, and Don Liefert are in this movie, which was later picked up by Troma.

NIGHTBREAKER

(1989) D: Peter Markle S: T. S. Cook P: William R. Greenblatt

Emilio Estevez plays an army psychiatrist stationed in Nevada during the 50s, when the US government exposed soldiers to atomic tests. Martin Sheen (an executive producer) plays the same character today. With Lea Thompson, Melinda Dillon, Nicholas Pryor, Joe Pantoliano, and James Marshall. This is an adaptation of Howard Rosenberg's novel Atomic Soldiers, which is based on real events. Screenwriter T. S. Cook also wrote The China Syndrome. This was made for TNT.

NIGHT BREED

(Media, 1990) D/S: Clive Barker P: Gabriella Martinelli M: Danny Elfman

Craig Sheffer is a Canadian teen who's accused of being a serial killer. He's under the care of a doctor (David Cronenberg) who is the real killer. Cronenberg has a great mask, but he should stick to directing. The confused young hero escapes to the secret, underground world of Midian, below a cemetery, where good monsters dwell. Lots of interesting monsters were created (people in makeup), but the movie, based on Clive Barker's novel Cabal, just doesn't work. It was cut for an R rating, and Suzi Quatro was cut out altogether. With Anne Bobby, Charles Haid, Catherine Chevalier, Doug Bradley, and John Agar as the gas-station owner. The score is on MCA.

THE NIGHT BRINGS CHARLIE

(Quest Entertainment, 1990) D: Tom Logan
S: Bruce Carson P: Wally Parks, Paul Stubenrach

This one's a dumb, small-town-slasher movie filled with false scares and inane plot twists (and a nude shower scene). After a number of unsolved gore murders local girls plan a slumber party. Charlie is a big, mute Nam vet with a limp, goggles, and power tools. Maybe it's a comedy. It was filmed in Orlando.

NIGHT CALL NURSES

(VGB, 1972) D: Jonathan Kaplan D/S: George Armitage P: Julie Corman (Young LA Nurses II)

Alana Collins (Stewart) stars as a blond nurse who falls for a speed-freak truck driver. Mittie Lawrence is a nurse who becomes a black activist after she finds out what goes on in "the suicide ward." Patti Byrne falls for a hippie encounter-group leader. With Dixie Lee Peabody (star of Bury Me an Angel), Lynne Guthrie, and Dick Miller. It was the first by the NYC student director and was part of New World's nurse series.

NIGHT CHASE

(1970) D: Jack Starrett S: Marvin A. Gluck P: Collier Young

David Janssen is a rich man who flees to Mexico in a cab driven by Yaphet Kotto after his wife is murdered. With Victoria Vetri, Elisha Cook Jr., and Richard Romanus. This CBS-TV movie was made the same year as Jack Starrett's The Losers.

NIGHT CHILDREN

(Vidmark, 1989) D/S/P: Norbert Meisel

David Carradine is Max, a uniformed Hollywood cop who loves a probation officer (Nancy Kwan). It's interesting that both of them made martial-arts instructional tapes and hawked them on TV after this movie was made, but anyway, this is about horrible, cop-killing punks (including Griffin O'Neal and Tawny Fere) with "anarchy" painted on their jackets. They kill at least four cops and steal a police car. No big deal. Kwan gets punched after kneeing a bad punk in the crotch. At one point they tie up Carradine, put a pig sign around his neck, and make him play Russian roulette. It's pretty ridiculous.

NIGHT CRIES

(VCL, 1978) D: Richard Lang
S: Brian Tagert P: David Manson

Susan St. James receives messages from her dead baby. This ABC-TV movie features Michael Parks as her husband, William Conrad, Cathleen Nesbitt, and Dolores Dorn.

NIGHT EYES

(Prism, 1989) D: Jag Mundhra P: Ashok Amritraj

Andrew Stevens stars as a surveillance expert hired to spy on Tanya Roberts, who runs an art gallery and is married to an obnoxious, long-haired has-been rock star. It's all some kind of set-up. This Body Heat copy features some videotaped sex. Roberts drips candle wax onto Stevens, and then they have (near-X) sex in the shower. A cut TV version is called Hidden View. R and unrated tapes are available.

NIGHT EYES II

(Prism, 1991) D: Rodney McDonald
S: Simon Louis Ward P: Ashok Amritraj

Andrew Stevens returns as a security guard who gets involved with another set-up, another married woman (Shannon Tweed), and more videotaped sex. Her husband is a wealthy South American diplomat. The most explicit sex scene features Stevens' black partner (Tim Russ), who later (surprise!) is killed. Stevens also wrote the story and was the supervising producer. It's available R or unrated but is pretty boring either way.

NIGHT EYES III

(Prism, 1993) D/S/A: Andrew Stevens
S: Michael Potts P: Ashok Amritraj

It's Andrew Stevens as Will again, and Shannon Tweed again as a different character. This time she's the star of a TV cop series whom he's protecting between sex scenes. Shannon's real-life sister Tracy Tweed costars and has nude scenes too. Also with Monique Parent. It's available in R and unrated versions.

NIGHTFALL

(1957) D: Jacques Tourneur S: Sterling Silliphant P: Ted Richmond

Aldo Ray stars as a man framed for a murder and pursued by the real killers, in this adaptation of a David Goodis novel. Ray relates his flashbacks. Brian Keith and Anne Bancroft costar, with James Gregory, Jocelyn Brando, and Frank Albertson. The director's next film was the classic Curse of the Demon.

NIGHTFALL

(MGM/UA, 1988) D/S: Paul Mayersberg
P: Julie Corman

Nightfall occurs only every 1000 years on a world with three suns. Paul Mayersberg, who wrote the script of The Man Who Fell to Earth, made this talky, slow, PG-13 adaptation of Isaac Asimov's short story. David Birney stars, with Sarah Douglas, Starr Andreeff, Andra Millian, and Alexis Kanner. It was filmed in Arizona. From Concorde.

NIGHTFIRE

(Triboro, 1994) D/P: Mike Sedan
S: Catherine Tavel, Helen Haxton

Shannon Tweed is a businesswoman who is unhappily married to John Laughlin. They live on a remote ranch. He hires a swinging couple (Rochelle Swanson and Martin Hewitt) to turn her on, but they have sadistic ideas. It's available in R and unrated versions.

NIGHTFLYERS

(IVE, 1987) D: "T. C. Blake"/Robert Collector
S/P: Robert Jaffe M: Doug Timm

An evil brain in a smoky old rented spaceship tries to kill scientists, and a laser decapitates people. This film is based on a George R. R. Martin book but copies Alien. With Catherine Mary Stewart, Michael Praed, Lisa Blount, and Michael Des Barres. It's by the director of Red Heat. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande.

NIGHTFORCE

(Lightning, 1986) D/S: Lawrence D. Foldes
P: Victoria Paige Meyerink

The stars of Roller Boogie return! Linda Blair and her frat buddies go to Central America to rescue a friend kept in a bamboo cage by terrorists. James Van Patten costars, and Richard Lynch is a helpful, flute-playing Nam vet with a pet monkey. With Cameron Mitchell as a senator, Chad McQueen (son of Steve McQueen), and Kathleen Kinmont. Claudia Udy is the one who is kidnapped and has the nude scenes. It's by the director of Nightstalker (1979).

NIGHT FRIGHT

(Sinister, 1967) D: James A. Sullivan P: Wallace Clyde Jr.

The monster in this movie must be related to Robot Monster. It's a gorilla with three-toed footprints and an alien head. We don't see much of it, but we do see a lot of John Agar as Clint Crawford, sheriff of Holliston, Texas. Overage sorority girls are being killed in Satan's Hollow, but he gets angry at them: "Look, punk. Don't ever call me fuzz!" The monster is the result of a NASA experiment gone wrong. The Wildcats provide cool instrumental music, and the kids wear V-neck sweaters and white boots. It was directed (near Dallas) by Larry Buchanan's assistant director on Zontar and Curse of the Swamp Creature (both with Agar), and it's a remake (!) of the obscure Russ Marker movie The Demon from Devil's Lake (1964). Marker is even in it, and Bill Thurman is the deputy. It's called The Extraterrestrial Nasty (!) in England and doesn't seem to have been released anywhere until video came along.

NIGHT GAME

(HBO, 1989) D: Peter Masterson S: Spencer Eastman, Anthony Palmer P: George Litto M: Pino Donaggio

In Galveston, Texas, a police detective (Roy Scheider) tracks a psycho who kills blondes with a hook. A Houston Astros pitcher is the main suspect. It was advertised as a slasher movie, and there's a death in a house-of-mirrors sequence, but nothing much is shown. With Karen Young as the cop's reporter girlfriend, Paul Gleason, and Lane Smith. It's from TWE.

NIGHT GAMES

(VSOM, 1980) D: Roger Vadim S: Anton Diether, Clarke Reynolds P: André Morgan, Roger Lewis

Cindy Pickett has erotic fantasies and nightmares (due to a childhood rape). She has sex with a man in a bird suit. Pickett and Joanna Cassidy have nude scenes, but nobody bothered to see this sex fantasy when it was first released. Raymond Chow was the executive producer. Golden Harvest, a Hong Kong production company, made it in the US. With Gene Davis, Paul Jenkins, and Barry Primus. The Avco Embassy release was the last feature for Roger Vadim until he remade his own 1956 film And God Created Woman in 1987.

THE NIGHT HAS EYES

(Sinister, 1942) D/S: Leslie Arliss
S/P: John Argyle UK (Terror House)

A shell-shocked composer (James Mason) living in a Scottish mansion thinks he's a werewolf killing on the moors during the full moon. It's all a frame-up (just like the one in the later Daughter of Dr. Jekyll). With Joyce Howard as a schoolteacher who loves him, Tucker McGuire as her friend, Wilfred Lawson, and Mary Clare.

NIGHTHAWKS

(MCA, 1981) D: Bruce Malmuth
S: David Shabeer P: Martin Poll

Sylvester Stallone stars in one of his best movies as a NYC cop. His partner is played by Billy Dee Williams. They're assigned to stop a terrorist named Wulfar (Rutger Hauer, in his first American film) who has had plastic surgery to disguise his face. Scenes take place on the subway, in a disco, and in the cable car to Roosevelt Island. With Lindsay Wagner, Persis Khambatta, Nigel Davenport, Joe Spinell (as a police lieutenant), Catherine Mary Stewart, and Jamie Gillis. Dick Smith did the makeup. MCA released the soundtrack by Keith Emerson. Some of the original rock songs by the Rolling Stones were replaced on the reissue tape.

A NIGHT IN PARADISE

(1946) D: Arthur Lubin S: Ernest Pascal P: Walter Wanger

Universal made this expensive comic adventure in Technicolor about the legendary storyteller Aesop (Turhan Bey). Merle Oberon stars as Princess Delarai, who's promised to the evil Croesus, ruler of the kingdom of Lydia (Thomas Gomez). Gail Sondergaard is Queen Attossa, a sorceress. With Ray Collins, George Dolenz, John Litel, Ernest Truex, Douglas Dumbrille, Marvin Miller, Jerome Cowan, and Julie London. Characters use modern-day (40s) slang. Universal's earlier costume adventures had starred Maria Montez.

NIGHT LIFE

(RCA/Columbia, 1989) D: David Acomba
S: Keith Critchlow P: Charles Lippincott

Scott Grimes (from the Critters movies) is Archie, a red-haired teen mortician working for his strict uncle (John Astin). Other kids harass him and call him things like "little corpse-fucker," but he has one friend, a beautiful tomboy mechanic named Charlie (Cheryl Pollak). When Archie and his uncle prepare a corpse and drain the blood, it's like watching a mondo movie. After a long time some of the hateful school jocks die in a car crash and somehow come back as zombies (who still enjoy sex), and this becomes a pretty exciting horror/action movie. Phil Proctor (from Firesign Theatre) is in a sitcom-style comic scene, and Anthony Geary shows up for a drunk scene. The FX are by Craig Reardon.

NIGHTLIFE

(MCA, 1989) D/S: Daniel Taplitz
S: Anne Beatts P: Robert T. Skodis

Maryam D'Abo and Ben Cross are vampires in modern day Mexico City. Keith Szarabajka, a doctor who owns the blood clinic she's haunting, falls in love with her. This horror comedy also features Glenn Shadix. It was shot in Mexico City and debuted on the USA Network.

NIGHT LIFE OF THE GODS

(1935) D: Lowell Sherman S: Barry Trivers P: Carl Laemmle Jr.

Alan Mowbray stars as an eccentric scientist who discovers how to turn people into statues (and vice versa) with a ray from a ring. Statues of eight Greek gods and goddesses are brought to life at the Metropolitan Museum of Art. With Florine McKinney, Peggy Shannon, Douglas Fowley, William Stage Boyd, and Irene Ware. The film is said to have excellent special effects by John P. Fulton and makeup by Jack Pierce. It's based on a novel by Thorne Smith, whose Turnabout, Topper, and I Married a Witch were also filmed. This "lost" Universal film exists in the UCLA archives.

NIGHTMARE

(1942) D: Tom Whelan S: Dwight Taylor

An American gambler (Brian Donlevy) breaks into the home of an English couple and discovers the body of the husband (Henry Daniell). He and the wife (Diana Barrymore) run from the police and from Nazi spies. Also with Gavin Muir, Hans Conried, and Arthur Shields. Universal released this as part of the original Shock Theater TV package.

NIGHTMARE

(1973) D: Kevin Billington S: George Kirgo
S/P: Robert Enders UK (Voices)

David Hemmings is a writer, and Gayle Hunnicutt is his wife (in real life they were married at the time). She goes crazy after their son drowns and is in and out of an asylum. They go to an isolated country mansion, where she hallucinates and ghosts appear in a surprise Carnival of Souls–type of ending. It's based on a play by Richard Lortz.

NIGHTMARE

(New Horizons, 1992) D: John Pasquin
S: John Robert Bensink, Rick Husky
P: Graham Cottle (Don't Touch My Daughter)

This PG-13 made-for-TV movie copies parts of Cape Fear. Jonathan Banks is a relentless, disgusting suspected child molester who threatens a divorced mom who teaches math (star Victoria Principal, who was also an executive producer). He had briefly kidnapped her 11-year old (Danielle Harris, from the Halloween sequels). A police lieutenant (Paul Sorvino) tries to help, but the system fails again, and mom confonts the psycho on her own. Also with Greg Henry and Christine Healey.

NIGHTMARE ASYLUM

(Cinema Home, 1992) D/S/P/E/M/A: Todd Sheets

A girl (Lori Hassel) finds herself trapped in a building (an actual amusement-park type of "haunted house" with horror props) where hyper psychos yell, fight, dance, sing, and dismember people. A mummy, a wolf man, and zombies show up, and there's lots of gore. There's no story, the acting is terrible, and nearly everyone has long bad haircuts, but at least something is always happening. One part is a re-creation of a Texas Chainsaw Massacre scene starring 6'4" Todd Sheets as the loud, talkative butcher. I liked the zombie in a giant rat trap. David DeCoteau was the executive producer.

NIGHTMARE AT 43 HILLCREST

(USA, 1974) D/P: Dan Curtis

Jim Hutton stars in this 68-minute videotaped TV movie, with Mariette Hartley and Peter Mark Richman, about a family whose home is mistakenly raided by the police. Dan Curtis was making lots of horror and suspense shows at the time.

NIGHTMARE AT NOON

(Republic, 1986) D/S/P: Nico Mastorakis
S: Kirk Ellis (Death Street USA)

Residents of a small southwestern town start bleeding green and killing each other after drinking water contaminated by toxic chemicals used by albino scientist Brion James. This horror western stars Wings Hauser (just passing through) and Bo Hopkins (a hitchhiker) as the heroes who drink beer. With George Kennedy as the sheriff and Kimberly Beck.

NIGHTMARE CIRCUS = BARN OF THE NAKED DEAD

NIGHTMARE HOUSE = SCREAM, BABY, SCREAM

NIGHTMARE IN RED CHINA

(SW, 194?) India

An American distributor took an Indian movie (filmed in English) about the civil war in China and spiced it up with some new scenes. After A-bomb explosion footage and some narration about the end of WWII we meet a friendly, heroic Indian doctor who is sent to China to aid the (anti-Communist) guerrillas there. His assistant turns out to be a woman in disguise, and they fall in love. Since it's an Indian feature, the story stops for traditional musical and dance sequences! Ambitious sets and miniatures are used, along with impressive location work. Most of the Chinese characters are unconvincingly played by Indian actors (American movies were cast the same way). It's all pretty interesting on many levels, even without the crude added "flashbacks" of Russian Commie doctors doing germ-warfare experiments and soldiers raping a nurse and bayonetting a priest!

NIGHTMARE IN THE SUN

(Ace, 1964) D/P: Marc Lawrence S: Ted Thomas, Fanya Lawrence D/A: John Derek

Ursula Andress picks up a hitchhiker (John Derek). They have an affair, which leads to murder and blackmail. Arthur O'Connell is her rich ranch-owner husband, Aldo Ray is the devious sheriff, and Sammy Davis Jr. is a truck driver. With Keenan Wynn, John Marley, and Richard Jaeckel and Robert Duvall as motorcyclists. The same year Andress was in Once Before I Die, directed by and starring Derek, her husband at the time.

THE NIGHTMARE NEVER ENDS: See CATACLYSM

NIGHTMARE OF TERROR = DEMONS OF THE MIND

A NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET

(Video Treasures, 1984) D/S: Wes Craven P: Robert Shaye, Sarah Risher

Wes Craven created one of the most effective horror movies of the 80s (and the most popular character). Unlike in most of the sequels, the scarred, supernatural dream killer Freddy Krueger (Robert Englund) is mysterious and scary, and he doesn't wear out his welcome. The story centers on suburban schoolgirl Nancy Thompson (Heather Langenkamp), who's trying to stay awake to avoid the horrors in her dreams after a friend (Amanda Wyss) is killed. Her cop father (John Saxon) doesn't believe her, her divorced mother (Ronee Blakley) drinks, and her neighbor and would-be boyfriend (Johnny Depp) fails to protect her. The terrified girl (whose hair is turning gray) decides to stand up for herself and defeat Freddy. Craven used some great, clever shock ideas and effects (often borrowed from other films, including his own), and the teenagers are much more likable and convincing than usual. Parts of the production were rushed, and it suffers from a dumb ending, but it's no surprise that it caught on so fast and is still being copied. A scene from The Evil Dead is glimpsed on TV. The Charles Bernstein soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande. New Line released the film.

A NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET PART 2: FREDDY'S REVENGE

(Video Treasures, 1985) D: Jack Sholder S: David Chaskin P: Robert Shaye, Sarah Risher M: Christopher Young

In the first sequel Jesse (Mark Patton), a boy living in the same house five years later is possessed by Freddy Krueger (Robert Englund). The concepts and ideas that worked in the first movie are thrown away here as the dream killer shows up at any time and makes wisecracks. The terrifying child killer quickly became a comic teen killer. The only thing that makes Part 2 memorable is the surprising gay theme concerning a gym coach (Marshall Bell) and an S&M bar. Meryl Streep lookalike Kim Myers is the girlfriend, and Clu Gulager and Hope Lange are the parents. Some of the FX are fun, but an exploding killer parakeet and an obvious toy-bus scene are awful. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande. Jack Sholder made Alone in the Dark and The Hidden, also from New Line.

A NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET 3: DREAM WARRIORS

(Video Treasures, 1987) D/S: Chuck Russell S: Wes Craven, Bruce Wagner, Frank Darabont P: Robert Shaye, Sarah Risher M: Angelo Badalamenti

Freddy invades Dick Cavett's talk show in A Nightmare on Elm Street 3. Zsa Zsa Gabor is the guest.

Wes Craven returned to cowrite this sequel, which pretends part 2 didn't exist. It made more money than the first two movies and made more entries a sure thing. A more grown-up Nancy (Heather Langenkamp) returns as the therapist of seven troubled teens in the psycho ward of a mental hospital. Freddy Krueger (Robert Englund) makes kids kill themselves, and Nancy teaches them how to defend themselves. John Saxon also returns as her cop dad. It's got lots of surprising effects and even some stop-motion animation. Krueger is revealed to be "the bastard son of a thousand maniacs" (!?). With Craig Wasson, Patricia Arquette, Priscilla Pointer, Bradley Gregg, Laurence (Larry) Fishburne, Jennifer Rubin, and Brooke Bundy. Dick Cavett and Zsa Zsa Gabor play themselves on TV. The tape includes a tie-in video by Dokken. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande. The director also made the remake of The Blob.

A NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET 4: THE DREAM MASTER

(Video Treasures, 1988) D: Renny Harlin S: Brian Helgeland, Scott Pierce P: Robert Shaye, Rachel Talalay

By this time these movies just tried to top the previous entries with more gags and special effects. Each made more money than the previous one, and this was the biggest box-office hit of them all. Lisa Wilcox stars as Alice, working at an old-fashioned soda fountain, and three surviving teens from the third movie are killed off. Screaming Mad George and Steve Johnson created many of the imaginative but silly FX. Also with Andras Jones, Rodney Eastman, Ken Sagoes, Brooke Bundy, Hope Marie Carlton, Robert Shaye, and Linnea Quigley as a lost soul on Freddy's chest. One nightmare sequence is repeated (a good idea), and clips from Kronos and Reefer Madness are shown. The Freddy "rap" end theme by the Fat Boys and music by various other artists are on the Chrysalis soundtrack album, and a "making of" video is available. Freddy mania continued with more tie-in products, ripoffs, porno spoofs, and obsessive horror-magazine coverage.

A NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET 5: THE DREAM CHILD

(Video Treasures, 1989) D: Stephen Hopkins S: Leslie Bohem P: Robert Shaye, Rupert Harvey

Freddy overkill helped make this the least profitable entry in the entire series. Why pay for a mediocre movie when you could see the same concept and main character on TV for free? Lisa Wilcox returns as Alice. She tries to prevent Krueger (Robert Englund) from entering the dreams of her unborn child. In this pro-life horror fantasy Freddy wants to be reborn. The spirit of Freddy's nun mother (the victim of "a hundred rapes") helps Lisa. A 10-year-old dream child appears. Krueger isn't onscreen as much as in the earlier movies. Some of the drug-like dream sequences are pretty interesting (one character dreams in b/w), but some of the FX are (again) too silly. One guy becomes a motorcyle, and a girl is stuffed to death. The M. C. Escher–inspired nightmare sequence idea had already been used in Hellbound (1988). With Danny Hassel and Erika Anderson. The movie ends with another Freddy rap song. The soundtrack (on Jive) is by Jay Ferguson, with tracks by various artists. R and unrated videos are available. The director also made Predator 2. The next entry was Freddy's Dead.

NIGHTMARE ON THE 13TH FLOOR

(Paramount, 1990) D/P: Walter Grauman S: J. D. Feigelson, Dan Di Stefano

A travel reporter (Michele Greene) goes to a Victorian hotel in LA with a 13th floor sealed off since 1901, when a Satanist doctor (James Brolin) killed 16 people with an axe. Now the murders start again. With John Karlen, Louise Fletcher, and Terri Treas. It debuted on the USA Network.

NIGHTMARES

(MCA, 1983) D: Joseph Sargent S: Jeffrey Bloom S/P: Christopher Crowe

This 4-part horror anthology borrows most of its ideas from other films. A chain-smoking housewife (Cristina Raines) is threatened by an escaped psycho. With William Sanderson. Emilio Estevez (with blond hair) plays video games and ends up in a game. Some real punk music is used, and Moon Zappa appears. Lance Henriksen is a priest facing an evil car. Richard Masur and Veronica Cartwright battle a giant rat. Also with James Tolkan. It was made for TV but released in theaters.

NIGHTMARE SISTERS

(TWE, 1986) D/P: David DeCoteau S: Kenneth J. Hall (Sorority Sisters)

Linnea Quigley, Brinke Stevens, and Michelle Bauer are "plain" sorority girls who become sexy (and evil) with magic from a genie. They develop fangs and have sex with men (who disintegrate). It all takes place in a house and features lots of nudity. The TV version has tamer alternate scenes. With Richard Gabai and Sandy Brooke. The music is by Haunted Garage. Hall also wrote Evil Spawn.

NIGHTMARE WEEKEND

(Lightning, 1985) D: Henry Sala S: George Faget-Bernard P: Bachoo Sen

Three bimbos in a Florida house encounter a scientist conducting mind-change experiments. There's senseless gore, nudity, and a puppet creature. Debbie Laster and Dale Midkiff are in this Troma release, which includes new footage added to an already incomprehensible movie.

NIGHT OF A THOUSAND CATS

(Laser Leasing, 1972) D/S: Rene Cardona S: Mario Marzac P: Mario Z. Zacharias Mexico (Blood Feast; La Noche de los Mil Gatos)

Hugo (Hugo Stigliz) keeps heads in glass cases and has a huge cage full of howling, hungry cats in his old stone monastery. He throws fistfuls of raw meat to them. He strangles his sexy blond wife, then courts a married woman (Anjanette Comer). Gorgo, a mute butler with a limp, plays chess. A lot of time is spent showing nice Acapulco scenery from Hugo's helicopter as he looks for new victims. There's some (PG) sex, a slow-motion flashback, and lots of zoom-lens work. It's almost up there with Rene Cardona's Night of the Bloody Apes (1968).

NIGHT OF BLOODY HORROR

(Paragon, 1968) D/S/P: Joy N. Houck Jr. S: Robert A. Weaver

Dan Quayle's favorite TV show was Major Dad, starring Gerald McRaney. The vice president was even a guest. Wonder if he saw McRaney's first movie? The sensitive Wesley (McRaney) complains of a headache, and we see a psychedelic swirl. The woman he was attempting to have sex with goes to church to confess, but the preacher stabs her in the eye! Years later Wes, who still lives with his domineering mother, broods and drinks. He has bad headaches and childhood flashbacks. In a nightmare the woman in bed with him becomes his mother. A nurse takes him home after he's been beaten and robbed, but she ends up with an axe in her chest, and he's arrested. The cops call him nuts, a fruit, and a fag, but they release him on bail. He goes to see a crude, noisy band (the Bored), and the film switches to negative while they sing about "plastic fantastic dreams." Another victim spurts blood when his hand is cut off. I won't reveal the ending of this low-budget, 16mm, Psycho-inspired movie shot in New Orleans, but you should know that it was filmed in "Violent Vision" and that the families of theater patrons were offered $1000 if their relatives died while watching it. Most of the music was borrowed from The Phantom Planet (1964). It was made by the great Howco company (run by Joy N. Houck Sr.), known for 50s hits like The Brain from Planet Arous and Carnival Rock. McRaney's next film was Women and Bloody Terror (!), also by Houck.

NIGHT OF EVIL

(Sinister, 1962) D/P: Richard Galbreath S: Louis Perino P: Lou Perry

Lisa Gaye stars as a high-school cheerleader with foster parents who is raped (offscreen) and sent to a girls' camp. She later becomes Miss Colorado, helps hold up a liquor store, marries a hoodlum (William Campbell), and ends up on skid row. At least I think so (the end of the video was missing). There's lots of narration of flashbacks. Earl Wilson narrates this obscure Astor release (filmed in Fort Wayne, Indiana) and claims that it's all true. Gaye was also in Face of Terror and Castle of Evil.

Gerald McRaney is an axe murderer in Night of Bloody Horror.

NIGHT OF HORROR

(1981) D/S: Tony Malanowski

The ghosts of Confederate soldiers appear in this very homemade local movie (filmed in Maryland). It's padded with Civil War battle reenactments, and Don Dohler is thanked at the end.

NIGHT OF TERROR

(1986) D: Felix Gerard S/P/A: Rene Harmon

The producer and star of Lady Street Fighter and other low-budget wonders made this shot-on-video movie about vengeance, set in an asylum.

NIGHT OF THE BLOODSUCKERS = VAMPIRE HOOKERS

NIGHT OF THE BLOODY TRANSPLANT

(United, 1970) D/P: David W. Hanson (The Transplant)

A doctor performs an illegal heart transplant, but his drunken brother ruins it. This amateur film from Flint, Michigan, stars Dick Grimm and Cal Seeley. It features footage of open-heart surgery, body painting, and performance art.

NIGHT OF THE COMET

(CBS/Fox, 1984) D/S: Thom Eberhardt P: Andrew Lane, Wayne Crawford

A comet wipes out most of the population. Valley-girl sisters Catherine Mary Stewart and Kelli Maroney go shopping in empty LA stores, fight over Robert Beltran, and face zombies. Some scientists (Mary Woronov and Geoffrey Lewis) want the girls for experiments. Sharon Farrell and Michael Bowen are also in this amusing PG-13 film. The soundtrack, featuring various artists, is on Macola. Woronov and Beltran were both in Eating Raoul.

NIGHT OF THE CREEPS

(HBO, 1986) D/S: Fred Dekker P: Charles Gordon

An alien experiment in the late 50s results in zombie teens on campus years later. This horror comedy is a lot better than it sounds and is full of surprises, scares, and some laughs. Some frat brothers break into a medical lab and steal a body containing alien slugs that enter victims' mouths and breed in the brain. Soon jock zombies are everywhere, and Jason Lively, Jill Whitlow (Porky's), and a paraplegic friend (Steve Marshall) have to fight them. Tom Atkins is great as a seasoned police detective. A Plan 9 clip is seen on the TV, and lots of in-joke names are used. With Suzanne Snyder, Dick Miller, Kenneth Tobey, and Bruce Solomon. The version shown on cable TV has a completely different ending.

NIGHT OF THE CRUEL SACRIFICE

(VSOM, 1980) D/S: Jean Rollin France (La Nuit de Traquees)

Elizabeth (Brigitte Lahaie), a woman with amnesia, goes to Paris and has sex with a man who has helped her. Then a doctor and his assistant arrive and take her away to "the black tower," which must be inspired by early David Cronenberg movies. She and her "roommate" (who can't use her hands) both forget whatever they've heard or learned almost instantly but want to escape. There's a bald rapist, and bodies are burned in an oven. A nuclear attack is blamed. Jean Rollin's movies are an acquired taste. They're uniquely odd, with simple plots and always some horror and some sex, but they're in a class by themselves, sort of elegant exploitation. It's subtitled in English.

Night of the Creeps

NIGHT OF THE DAY OF THE DAWN OF THE SON OF THE BRIDE OF THE RETURN OF THE TERROR: THE REVENGE OF THE TERROR OF THE ATTACK OF THE EVIL, MUTANT, HELLBOUND, FLESH-EATING, SUBHUMANOID LIVING DEAD, PART 2

(Jyvass, 1991) D/S/P: Lowell Mason

They took George Romero's (supposedly public-domain) original and added new sound effects, music, and dumb/offensive/juvenile comic dialogue. Duane Jones now uses jive talk. Men do the female voices too. Characters talk about what will happen next. There's also new irritating filler material and a (very good) female-led art-rock band doing a song, for some reason. This has been condemned by some critics and fans, but it made me laugh a few times. It was distributed by the Palmer Video chain.

NIGHT OF THE DEATH CULT = NIGHT OF THE SEAGULLS

NIGHT OF THE DEMON

(Lettuce, VCI, 1979) D: James C. Watson
S: Mike Williams P: Jim L. Ball

A professor and his students encounter a rapist Bigfoot-type monster in a very long flashback (and in flashbacks inside that flashback). The ridiculous-looking monster kills Girl Scouts, rips its victims' guts out, and tears a biker's dick off. Michael J. Cutt is the professor, and Shane Dixon is the monster (names to remember).

NIGHT OF THE DEMONS

(Republic, 1987) D: Kevin S. Tenney
S/P: Joe Augustyn (Halloween Party)

A bunch of obnoxious and hateful teens go to a former funeral parlor for a Halloween party. They're trapped inside, unleash Angela, a floating demon (Mimi Kinkade), and are killed off. Special-effect scenes (by Steve Johnson) include Linnea Quigley poking out a guy's eyeballs and pushing a lipstick tube into her nipple. There's also sex in a coffin, and Quigley has a nude scene. With Cathy Podewell (Dallas) and Jill Terashita. It was heavily cut in theaters but is available R or unrated (uncut) on video. It's by the director of Witchboard.

NIGHT OF THE DEMONS 2

(Republic, 1994) D: Brian Trenchard-Smith
S: Joe Augustyn P: Walter Josten

This more imaginative and outrageous sequel to Kevin S. Tenney's original movie features troubled Catholic-school girls going to the same Hell house, still haunted by Angela (Amelia Kinkade). A nun (Jennifer Rhodes) saves the day with holy water in a squirt-gun Uzi. There's some nudity, crotch gags, gory decapitations, breasts becoming arms, and an impressive snake monster. Steve Johnson did the FX again. Cristi Harris is top-billed as Bibi. With Merle Kennedy as Mouse, who has nightmares about her possessed sister Angela, and Bobby Jacoby. Jehovah's Witnesses will not like the opening scene.

NIGHT OF THE DEVILS

(VSOM, 1972) D: Giorgio Ferroni S: Romano Migliorini P: Luigi Mariani Italy (La Notte dei Diavoli)

Remember the Boris Karloff "Wurdalak" segment of Mario Bava's Black Sabbath? This is the same story, with a peasant family in the woods becoming vampires. John Garo and Augostina Belli star. The ending suggests that it all might have been a dream.

THE NIGHT OF THE FOLLOWING DAY

(MCA, 1969) D/S/P: Hubert Cornfield
S: Robert Phippeny

Outside of Paris, Bud the chauffeur (Marlon Brando) and "the Leer" (Richard Boone) kidnap a nameless girl (Pamela Franklin). They take her to a drug-addicted stewardess (Rita Moreno) at a beach house and hold her for ransom. Several characters die, including "the girl," who wakes up at the end as the whole ordeal begins again (!). Annie Ross is on the soundtrack. Brando, who had just been in Candy, was considered box-office poison (in America) when he made this in France. Universal released this rough, R-rated movie to zero business, and it later showed up (cut) on TV. The 95-minute video is uncut. Brando became a desirable star again in 1972.

NIGHT OF THE GHOULS

(Rhino, 1958) D/S/P/A: Edward D. Wood Jr.
(Revenge of the Dead)

Wood's first movie after Plan 9 From Outer Space (completed in 1956 but released in 1959) wasn't seen by the public until the video release in 1984 (!) and is a sequel to his Bride of the Monster (1955). Much misinformation has been printed about this movie, but for Wood fans it was worth the wait to see it. A séance with bodies, a head, and floating trumpets is priceless. Kenne Duncan (The Sinister Urge) is phony spiritualist Dr. Acula, Tor Johnson is Lobo, and Criswell narrates from his coffin. Valda Hansen is "the white ghost," and Jeannie Stevens is "the black ghost." Duke Moore is Lieutenant Bradford, and Paul Marco is Kelton the cop. A scene with Wood fighting with Conrad Brooks was shot in 1956 for an unfinished film to be called Rock and Roll Hell. It also shows up in Wood's The Sinister Urge (1961). Some other scenes are from a short 1957 pilot film called "The Final Curtain." The executive producer was a retired Marine major. It's 69 minutes long and has cinematography by William C. Thompson. Elvira hosts the Rhino version.

Night of the Living Dead (1990)

THE NIGHT OF THE HUNTER

(1991) D: David Greene S: Edmond Stevens

This is a TV remake of the 1955 classic, which was directed by Charles Laughton. Richard Chamberlain stars as the preacher, with Diana Scarwid, Amy Bebout, and Burgess Meredith. Look for the original (from MGM/UA).

NIGHT OF THE KICKFIGHTERS

(AIP, 1990) D/P: Buddy Reyes
S: Ron Schultz (Night Rangers)

Andy Bauman (a real kickboxing champ but no actor) stars as Cady, hired to return the kidnapped daughter of Adam West, a rich businessman who has a new computerized laser weapon. Cady assembles a rescue team with a black fighter, a hippie electronics expert (with Nunchuck guns), and a stage magician (with an inflatable ninja). Marcia Karr is the cartoonish, laughing, Spanish-speaking villainess who has a pet cobra and makes deals with evil Arabs. Her assistant is Carel (Lurch) Struycken, who looks cool but is not convincing as a fighter. After lots of fighting, shooting, and dune-buggy chases an obvious model of the secret headquarters blows up. It was filmed in Arizona.

NIGHT OF THE LIVING DEAD

(RCA/Columbia, 1990) D: Tom Savini S: George A. Romero P: John A. Russo, Russ Steiner

The original b/w horror classic (1968) had already spawned two official sequels by George A. Romero, two sanctioned Return of the Living Dead spoofs, and countless (mostly Italian) copies. Other movies ripped off every possible element from the Romero movies. Romero never made any money from his movie, though, so he served as executive producer of this color remake and let his frequent special-effects makeup expert direct. It's actually less gory than the original and is pretty good. Patricia Tallman (who was in Romero's Knight Riders) is the tough female lead with short red hair and glasses. She takes charge, dresses for action, and kills zombies. The other characters trapped in the remote house act the same and say many of the same lines as in the original, but the famous ending is changed (ruined). Tony Todd is Ben, and Tom Towles is the scowling, loud, bug-eyed dad. It's from 21st Century.

NOTLD: 25TH ANNIVERSARY

(Tempe, 1994) D: Thomas Brown

FIlm clips and interviews with director George A. Romero, writer John Russo, the original actors, and some "famous fans" (Sam Raimi, Wes Craven, Tobe Hooper, Fred Olen Ray, David DeCoteau, and others) make up this documentary. The original 1968 film has been colorized and released as a cheap, washed-out public-domain title, and footage has been lifted for use in other films. There were cash-in trading cards and books, and Varèse Sarabande even released the original soundtrack, consisting of "library music" stolen from 50s science-fiction films. A deluxe, special Elite Entertainment edition laserdisc version was released in 1994 with audio commentary and a supplementary disc. It was remastered by THX, a division of Lucasfilm, because George Lucas is a fan.

NIGHT OF THE SHARKS

(Edde, 1987) D: "Anthony Richmond"/ Tonio Ricci S: Tino Carpi P: Fulvio Lucisano Italy (La Notte degli Squali)

In Mexico, John Steiner hires Janet Agren to obtain some incriminating evidence from her ex-husband (Treat Williams). Cyclops, a one-eyed killer shark, attacks them. Antonio Fargas and Chris Connelly are also in this PG-13 movie. Agren had also been in The Shark's Cave (1978).

NIGHT OF THE STRANGLER

(1972) D: Joy N. Houck Jr. S: J. J. Milane P: Al Salzer

A New Orleans man has his sister and her black lover killed. The man's brother, a priest from NYC, seeks revenge. Micky Dolenz, the former Monkee (!), is the local priest. This movie, shot on location by the director of Night of Bloody Horror, has violence, nudity, and an awkward subplot about racism. With James Ralston and Susan McCullough.

NIGHT OF THE WARRIOR

(Vidmark, 1991) D: Rafal Zielinski
S/P: Thomas Ian Griffith P: Mike Erwin

Lorenzo Lamas stars as a kickboxer in East LA. His real-life wife (Kathleen Kinmont) and mother (Arlene Dahl, in her first film in 20 years) costar. Anthony Geary as a sleazy promoter and Ken Foree are the villains. With choreographed dance sequences, a big fight with a Korean martial artist (Daniel Kamekona), and Willie Dixon.

NIGHT OF THE ZOMBIES

(Vestron, 1980) D: "Vincent Dawn"/ Bruno Mattei S: Claudio Fragasso, José Mariá Cunilles P: Sergio Cortona Italy/Spain (Virus; L'Inferno dei Morti-Viventi; Apocalipsis Canibal; Zombie Creeping Flesh)

Toxic chemicals create cannibal zombies (with mediocre makeup) in New Guinea, and a SWAT team fights them. Margit Evelyn Newton stars as an Italian journalist who spends part of the movie topless and in native makeup. Lots of stock animal and mondo footage is used, and the Goblin soundtrack from Dawn of the Dead is reused. With maggots, vomiting, and a rat emerging from a stomach. Victor Israel costars. It was released in America unrated.

NIGHT OF THE ZOMBIES II

(Prism, 1981) D/S/A: Joel M. Reed P: Lorin E. Price (Gamma 693; Night of the Zombies)

The II was added to the title of this video to make renters think that maybe it was a sequel to the Italian Night of the Zombies. At least that movie had some action and blood. This one is talky, too dark, and much too long. In fact, it's terrible in every way. It starts with a Hitler speech, then introduces campers in the Bavarian Alps looking for the remains of WWII American soldiers. Nazi zombies shoot them. Porno star Jamie Gillis shows up as a spy smoking a pipe and looking for WWII deserters (?!). He goes to Munich (actually NYC most of the time) and talks to people about a youth drug. A telling quote is "Why do I have to sit and listen to this insipid repartee?" Director Joel M. Reed, known to some for his Bloodsucking Freaks, costars as the man behind the "plot."

NIGHT ON EARTH

(New Line, 1992) D/S/P: Jim Jarmusch

In five cities cabdrivers pick up passengers at the same time. Winona Ryder drives Gena Rowlands in LA, Armin Mueller-Stahl picks up Giancarlo Esposito and Rosie Perez in NYC, an immigrant from the Ivory Coast (Isaach de Bankolé) drives a blind woman (Beatrice Dalle) who talks about her sex life in Paris, Roberto Benigni (Paolo Bonacelli) confesses his outrageous sex life to a priest in Rome, and a Helsinki driver (Matti Pellonpaa) picks up drunks. It's 128 minutes long.

NIGHT OWL

(E. I. Video, 1990–93) D/S/P/E: Jeffrey Arsenault

A guy (James Rafferty) squatting in an East Village apartment picks up women in bars, drinks their blood during sex, and cuts up the bodies (offscreen). Meanwhile, Angel (John Leguizamo before he was well known) looks for his missing sister. The story stops cold for some rapping (by Screamin' Rachel), performance art at the Mudd Club, and a long (and very good) interview on TV with Caroline Munro talking about the vampire movies she was in. With Karen Wexler (The Refrigerator) as the sister, Lisa Napoli, Holly Woodlawn in a bar scene, and Michael Musto as an MC. Work on this b/w movie (which has very good music) took three years.

NIGHT OWL

(1993) D: Matthew Patrick
S: Rose Schacht P: Julian Marks

A speach therapist (Jennifer Beals) and a musician (James Wilder) are a couple with marital problems. Meanwhile, the voice of a mysterious late-night DJ drives men crazy and lures them to their death. Jackie Burroughs is an occult specialist. Gil Melle wrote the score. This 120-minute Lifetime TV movie was filmed in Toronto.

NIGHT PATROL

(Starmaker, 1985) D/S/P/E: Jackie Kong
S: Murray Langston, William Levey
S/P: William Osco

This is a very stupid Police Academy ripoff with lots of fart jokes. Murray Langston, a cop who wants to be a comic with a bag on his head ("the Unknown Comic") is accused of murder. With Linda Blair, Pat Paulsen, Jaye P. Morgan, Billy Barty as the police captain, Pat Morita, Jack Riley, Lori Sutton, and Kitten Natividad. It's from New World.

NIGHT RHYTHMS

(Imperial, 1992) D: Gregory Hippolyte
S/P: Andrew Garoni

Martin Hewitt is the host of a late-night radio talk show who is framed for murdering Tracy Tweed (after having sex with her on the console). This "erotic thriller" features women masturbating while on the phone and some major lesbian scenes with the station engineer (Delia Sheppard). With Deborah Driggs, Julie Strain, Kristine Rose, Erika Nann, Sam Jones as a detective, and David Carradine as a strip-club owner. R and unrated videos are available.

Micky Dolenz stars in Night of the Strangler.

THE NIGHT RUNNER

(1957) D: Abner Biberman S: Gene Leavitt P: Albert J. Cohen

Ray Danton is a psycho killer who's paroled from a mental hospital and seems normal. When his girlfriend's father calls him crazy he kills him. With Colleen Miller and Merry Anders. From Universal.

NIGHT SCENES: PROJECT SHADOWCHASER II

(New Line, 1995) D/P: John Eyres
S: Nick Davis P: Gregory Vanger

Frank Zangarino returns from Project Shadowchaser as a blond terrorist android who takes over a nuke plant during Christmas with a team of killers and threatens to nuke Washington, D. C. Bryan Genesse (from Street Justice) is a kickboxer janitor who teams up with a scientist (Beth Toussaint) and her son.

NIGHT SCREAMS

(Prism, 1987) D: Allen Plone
S/P: Dillis L. Hart II S: Mitch Brian

High-school grads are killed off by escaped cons at a party in a remote house. This movie from Wichita includes soft-core sex footage with porno stars Seka, John Holmes, and Honey Wilder. Herbert L. Strock (director of The Crawling Hand) was the editor, and Courtney Joyner was a script consultant. A band called the Dogs does a Prince song.

NIGHT SHIFT

(Warner, 1982) D: Ron Howard S: Lowell Ganz, Babaloo Mandel P: Brian Grazer

Michael Keaton (real name Michael Douglas), in his film debut, is a fast-talking morgue attendant. He convinces mild-mannered coworker Henry Winkler (the star) that they should become "love brokers," so they set up a nighttime whorehouse at the morgue. Shelley Long is the hooker neighbor who helps Winkler. With Bobby DiCicco, Nita Talbot, Joe Spinell, Ashley Cox, Ola Ray, Dawn Dunlap, Monique Gabrielle, K. C. Winkler, and Kevin Costner as a frat boy. This surprising comedy was Ron Howard's second theatrical feature as a director (after Grand Theft Auto in 1977).

NIGHT SLASHER: See HE KILLS NIGHT AFTER NIGHT

THE NIGHT STALKER: TWO TALES OF TERROR

(MCA, 1974) D: Rudolph Borchert, David Chase

This video consists of two episodes from the TV series Kolchak: The Night Stalker. Darren McGavin stars, with Simon Oakland. Mickey Gilbert and Roberta Collins are in "Jack the Ripper." "The Vampire" features Susanne Charney, Kathleen Nolan, Larry Storch, Milt Kamen, and Jan Murray. The series pilot is also available from CBS/Fox. The Night Strangler is a sequel.

NIGHT STALKER (1979): See DON'T GO NEAR THE PARK

NIGHT STALKER

(Lightning, 1985) D: Max Kleven S/A: John Goff S/P: Don Edmunds (Painted Dolls; Striker)

Prostitutes are being killed, and Chinese characters are painted on their bodies. Robert Z'Dar is the indestructible killer who steals their souls. Charles Napier stars as an alcoholic LA cop, Sergeant Striker. It's great to have Napier in a starring role, but the movie isn't very good. With Gary Crosby, Buck Flower, and Lydie Denier. Joan Chen (from the TV series Twin Peaks), Ola Ray (from the Thriller video), and Tally Chanel are hookers.

NIGHTSTICK

(1987) D: Joseph L. Scanlan S: James L. Docherty P: Martin Walters Canada

Bruce Fairbairn is a cop who tries to prevent extortionists from blowing up NYC with nitro. This Sandy Howard production features John Vernon, Robert Vaughn, Isaac Hayes, and Leslie Nielsen. It was made in Toronto.

THE NIGHT THEY KILLED RASPUTIN

(SW, 1960) D/S: Pierre Chenal S: André Tabet, Ugo Libertore P: Vincent Fotre France/Italy (L'Ultimo Czar)

Edmund Purdom is Rasputin, Gianna Maria Canale is Czarina Alexandra, and John Drew Barrymore (Drew Barrymore's dad) is Prince Yousoupoff. Christopher Lee played the role next in Rasputin, the Mad Monk (1966).

A NIGHT TO DISMEMBER

(VSOM, 1979) D/P: Doris Wishman S: Judith J. Kushner

This is Doris Wishman's last-known film to date and definitely the most incoherent. It was filmed mostly in 1979 and advertised in Variety in 1983. A detective who narrates tries in vain to explain what's going on with some cursed family. A typical newspaper headline screams, VICKI KENT RELEASED FROM STATE ASYLUM! A dubbed-in voice tries to help by saying, "So it was Billy who chased her through the woods!" The movie features stock footage, library music, Wishman's famous walking-feet closeups, nudity, an arty solarized sex scene, and a dream sequence in negative. It also features something new for the director: gore, lots of it. It's got decapitations, a blood-spurting torso, fingers cut off, guts pulled out, heads and bodies all over the place. It's a disastrous meeting of Wishman and H. G. Lewis. This very bad (but rare) video "stars" porno star Samantha Fox! It's 70 minutes long.

NIGHT TRAIN TO TERROR

(Prism, 1985) D/P: Jay Schlossberg-Cohen D: John Carr, Philip Marshak, Tom McGowan, Greg Tallas

Somebody got hold of three horror movies, edited them down, added new footage, and actually released this mind-boggling movie in theaters. In an attempt to copy Dr. Terror's House of Horrors (1964), where death foretold the future of doomed people on a train, "Mr. Satan" and God argue over the fates of three people while taking a ride on "the Devil's cannonball." God is played by Ferdy Mayne (The Fearless Vampire Killers). A new-wave band provides idiotic MTV-style filler before and after each story, and even breakdance. Their song goes "Everybody's got something to do, everybody but you!" (a mean message to viewers of this tape). Cataclysm and Death Wish Club are also available on tape complete, under various titles. Cataclysm, a pretty good serious horror movie, here becomes a partial comedy, with several crudely animated stop-motion monsters throwing dolls of cast members around! The third tale here is a badly edited-down (unfinished) film (Scream Your Head Off) by John Carr. It stars John Phillip Law as Harry Billings. He's given shock therapy in an asylum and forced to drug women and bring them to mad doctors who sell their body parts. Naked women are tied down, handcuffed, gagged, and tormented by Otto (Richard Moll, also in Cataclysm) before they're dismembered. There's plenty of blood and nudity, a gory decapitation, and some unintentional laughs. Jars of decapitated heads are labeled with the victims' names. After three nearly incomprehensible tales we get to see a model train crash. The band dies, but God (who earlier had defended rock music!) intervenes, and the train is seen ascending to Heaven! What other video gives you so much? Don't miss it!

NIGHT VISION

(Prism, 1987) D/S: Michael Krueger S: Nancy Gallanis P: Sarah Liles-Olson, Douglas Liles-Olson

A would-be writer (Ellie Martins) goes to the big city and works in a video store, where she's possessed by a Satanic video. This was made in Denver.

NIGHT VISIONS

(1990) D/S: Wes Craven S/P: Thomas Braun P: Nick Nathanson, Marianna Madelena

A cop (James Remar) is teamed with a psychic (Lori Locklin) to pursue a serial killer, in this NBC-TV series pilot. With Penny Johnson, Jon Tenney, Mitch Pileggi, and Timothy Leary as a New Age minister (Pileggi and Leary were also in Craven's Shocker).

NIGHT VISITOR

(MGM/UA, 1989) P: Rupert Hitzig S: Randall Viscovich P: Alain Silver (Never Cry Devil)

A boy (Derek Rydall) sees his teacher (Allen Garfield) slaughter a hooker (Teri Weigel), but nobody believes him. The plot (which borrows from Fright Night) concerns Devil worship and voyeurism. With Elliott Gould as a detective, Michael J. Pollard as a Satanist brother, Richard Roundtree, Henry Gibson, Shannon Tweed, and Brooke Bundy. Weigel was a Playboy centerfold who lived with Fred Lincoln and did many hard-core movies.

NIGHT WARS

(AIP, 1987) D/S: David A. Prior P: Fritz Matthews

Nam vets Brian O'Connor and Cameron Smith have the same nightmares. They wake with real wounds and arm themselves. Dan Haggerty is a shrink. Haggerty had been through a coke bust (1984), three months in jail (1985), income-tax charges, and a motorcycle accident before he started specializing in direct-to-video junk.

NIGHTWISH

(Vidmark, 1988) D/S: Bruce R. Cook P: Keith Walley

Jack Starrett stars as a crazed psychiatry professor who takes students to the old Valley of Fear ranch.

Vic Morrow in 1990: The Bronx Warriors.

He uses them as guinea pigs for deep-sleep experiments. They have a séance and see fake ghosts, then real ghosts. It's dream-vs.-reality stuff with gore and alien monsters. With Robert Tessier as a bald mutant, Clayton Rohner, Alisha Das, Elizabeth Kaitan, and Brian Thompson. Tessier and Starrett both died shortly after acting in this. Available in R and unrated versions.

9 AGES OF NAKEDNESS

(Media, 1969) D/S/P/A: Harrison Marks UK

British photographer Harrison Marks, in the tradition of Peter Sellers (and Jerry Lewis), made comedies in which he played many characters. In his first feature, The World of Harrison Marks (1967), he played seven famous characters, including James Bond and Count Dracula. His movies exist, though, to show naked women, so his corny burlesque characters get real tiresome. He's like a less talented Benny Hill with the women showing more skin. Marks, playing himself (a nudie photographer with beard, glasses, and long hair), tells an unseen shrink about his family history to illustrate his problems with women. There's plenty of nudity and simulated sex. A cave-man scene is influenced by The Flintstones and an Egyptian sequence features lesbians. We go to Greece, to China, and back to the UK, where The Great Marko shows his living statues. In the strangest sequence topless women with robot servants at a moonship control center in the future whip cave men: "Take them to the extermination center!" A pair of all-silver alien women visit and watch a couple have sex through a hole in a mirror. There's a Blowup-tennis-ball gag and narration by actor Charles Gray.

9 ½ WEEKS

(MGM, 1986) D: Adrian Lyne S: Patricia Knop P: Anthony Rufus, Zalman King

This is the nearly plotless movie that pretty much started the "erotic thriller" craze, which resulted in hundreds of R and unrated videos. Mickey Rourke stars as a Manhattan broker who pursues an art-gallery owner (Kim Basinger). They have sex in various places and use ice cubes, food, and masks. With Margaret Whitton, Karen Young, Christine Baranski, and David Margulies. A longer version played in Europe, where the film was very influential. It's from Mark Damon's Vision International. Lyne returned with the bigger hit Fatal Attraction (1987). Zalman King ran with the "erotic" concept and made Two-Moon Junction (1988), Wild Orchid (1989, also with Rourke), and The Red Shoe Diaries TV series (1992–).

NINE DEATHS OF THE NINJA

(Media, 1985) D/S: Emmett Alston P: Ashok Amritraj

Sho Kosugi and his kids Shane and Kane are in number four in a "series" that started with Enter the Ninja. This is the funniest. Sho and Brent Huff are anti-terrorists who free a bus full of American hostages in the Philippines from a clichéd Nazi type. There are also bad Arabs, a lesbian guerrilla, lady terrorists in shorts, drugs, and fighting dwarfs. Alston also made Demonwarp. Menahem Golan and Yoram Globus were the executive producers of this Cannon release.

THE NINE LIVES OF FRITZ THE CAT

(1974) D/S: Robert Taylor S: Fred Halliday, Eric Monte P: Steve Krantz M: Tom Scott

AIP released this R-rated sequel, made without the participation of R. Crumb, who had created the character, or Ralph Bakshi, who had made the original animated film, Fritz the Cat. It's filled with flashbacks to other times, including the Depression in the US and the Hitler era in Germany, and there's a flashforward to a separate black state in the future. The voices include those of Louisa Moritz and Pat Harrington Jr.

976-EVIL

(RCA/Columbia, 1988) D: Robert Englund S: Rhet Topham, Brian Helgland P: Lisa M. Hansen

A nerd named Hoax (the irritating Stephen Geoffreys) is jealous of his cool, motorcycle-riding cousin and lives with a religious nut aunt (Sandy Dennis). He calls a phone number and obtains supernatural revenge powers. It rains fish, Hell opens up, and the mutated teen makes Freddy Krueger–type wisecracks, no surprise since it was directed by Freddy himself. Parts were reshot by another director, and it's still too confusing. The cast also includes Jim Metzler and Patrick O'Bryan.

976-EVIL 2: THE ASTRAL FACTOR

(Vestron, 1992) D: Jim Wynorski S: Eric Anjou P: Paul Herzberg

This sequel has a good, mock-spaghetti-western theme and an inspired, out-of-left-field Night of the Living Dead crossed with It's a Wonderful Life (!) scene. Otherwise it's awful. Brigitte Nielsen, featured on the box, is in one scene. Patrick O'Bryan (from the original, which was pretty bad itself) arrives in a small college town on his motorcycle. The dean turns out to be a rotting killer ghost. With blond Debbie James, Rene Assa, Karen Mayo Chandler, Monique Gabrielle, and Buck Flower.

1984

(IVE, 1984) D/S: Michael Radford S: Jonathan Gems P: Simon Perry UK

John Hurt stars as Winston Smith, a government employee in a totalitarian state called Oceania. George Orwell's novel had been filmed in 1955, but this much more expensive, R-rated, color version is more grim and horrifying. Suzanna Hamilton is the women Smith loves, and Richard Burton (in his last role) is the party official who puts rats on the faces of nonconformists. With Phyllis Logan and Cyril Cusack. The Eurythmics music was released on an album but dropped from the US release. The director also made Van Morrison in Ireland (1981).

1941

(MCA, 1979) D: Steven Spielberg S: Robert Zemeckis, Bob Gale P: Buzz Feitshans

This big, long (118-minute), too expensive, PG-rated star-filled WWII comedy flop was made by Steven Spielberg after Close Encounters of the Third Kind. It does have its moments, of course, like Christopher Lee and Toshiro Mifune as Axis officers in a submarine off the coast of California with Slim Pickens as their prisoner. Eddie Deezen is more memorable than the Saturday Night Live stars, and Murray Hamilton and Lorraine Gary return from Jaws. Also with Ned Beatty, Tim Matheson, Warren Oates, Robert Stack, Treat Williams, Patti LuPone, Nancy Allen, and John Candy. Watch for Elisha Cook Jr., Lionel Stander, Samuel Fuller, Dick Miller, John Landis, Lucinda Dooling, Audrey Landers, and Mickey Rourke. John Milius was the executive producer and cowrote the story. An extra 26 minutes were put back into the TV version.

1991: THE YEAR PUNK BROKE

(Geffen, 1992) D/C/E: David Markey

American bands toured Europe in 1991 and appeared before the biggest crowds most of them had ever played for up until then. This16mm documentary spends the most time on Sonic Youth (they do eight songs), but Nirvana (with Kurt Cobain) will now be the main attraction. They do five songs (including "Smells Like Teen Spirit"), and Cobain smashes his equipment onstage. The camera follows members of Sonic Youth to a German carnival, where they act goofy and sarcastic. Also with Dinosaur Jr., Babes in Toyland, Gumball, and (briefly) the Ramones. If you don't already like these groups this movie won't make you a convert, since none of them are seen (or heard) to their best advantage. It's by the director of Desperate Teenage Lovedolls.

1990: THE BRONX WARRIORS

(Media, 1982) D/A: Enzo G. Castellari S: Dardano Sachetti P: Fabrizio De Angelis Italy (I Guerrieri del Bronx)

Hammer (Vic Morrow) is after the kidnapped daughter of a millionaire in the post-nuke Bronx. Mark Gregory as Trash and Fred Williamson as the Ogre join forces to fight Morrow and other gangs. This violent movie has hippie bikers, Indian punks, a roller-skating gang called the Zombies, and impaled people. With Christopher Connelly and George Eastman. Some parts were shot in Brooklyn. UFD released this after Morrow (who was from the Bronx) died. The sequel is Escape from the Bronx.

92 IN THE SHADE

(Key, 1975) D/S: Thomas McGuane P: George Pappas

Peter Fonda and Warren Oates are rival Florida Keys fishing-boat owners. Many bizarre and funny characters are in this odd movie featuring William Hickey, Margot Kidder, Burgess Meredith, Harry Dean Stanton, Sylvia Miles, Joe Spinnell, and William Roerick. The original (death) ending was changed when it was rereleased.

NINJA III: THE DOMINATION

(MGM/UA, 1984) D: Sam Firstenberg S: James R. Silke P: Menahem Golan, Yoram Globus

After Enter the Ninja and Revenge of the Ninja Cannon made this exorcism/martial arts movie. It's pretty wild and hilarious. Lucinda Dickey stars as an Arizona electrical worker who takes aerobics classes and is possessed by a fire-breathing ninja.

Her boyfriend is amazed. You will be too! Sho Kosugi is a good ninja who has to defeat her. With James Hong and Andy Bauman. Lots of cops are killed.

THE NINTH CONFIGURATION

(Starmaker, 1979) D/S/P: William Peter Blatty
(Twinkle, Twinkle, Killer Kane)

Blatty made this unique existential movie based on his novel. Stacy Keach is Marine Colonel Kane, the new head psychiatrist at a government "study center"/asylum in a castle full of Nam vets. The cast includes Scott Wilson, Jason Miller, Neville Brand, Moses Gunn, Robert Loggia, Joe Spinnell, Tom Atkins, Ed Flanders, Alejandro Rey, and George DiCenzo. You won't believe Richard Lynch and Steve Sandor as bikers in a violent bar-fight scene. The Warners release was 140 minutes, 118 minutes, or 99 minutes, depending on when and where you saw it.

THE NINTH GUEST

(1934) D: Roy William Neill S: Garnett Weston

During a party eight guests are killed off by a madman. Donald Cook stars in this 65-minute Columbia release. It received an H (horrific) certificate in the UK. With Genevieve Tobin and Hardie Albright.

NOCTURNA

(Media, 1978) D/S: "Harry Tampa"/
Harry Hurwitz P: Vernon Becker

Nai Bonet was the executive producer and star of Nocturna. A dancer in movies since 1964, she played her first major role in Devil's Angels. Here she's "the granddaughter of Dracula" (John Carradine), who's upset because she's in love with a blond hunk with a British accent. Carradine seems to be having a good time with the role, but his hands, badly disfigured from arthritis, are distracting (in his other later movies his hands are usually offscreen). It's worth it to see him at a disco with Yvonne De Carlo and joining her in a double coffin. They follow Nai to Manhattan, where a group of vampires has secret meetings, then all turn into cartoon bats (a fun special effect). Brother Theodore is Theodore, a desk clerk/werewolf (he never transforms) at the Transylvania Hotel. He declares, "As long as there is death there's hope!" Sy Richardson is a pimp/drug dealer vampire with vampire hookers. Hit-makers Gloria Gaynor and Vicki Sue Robinson are heard on the soundtrack, and the Moment of Truth, a disco group with wide, flaring pants, do two whole songs. The always smiling Bonet has lots of brightly lit closeups and a hard-to-place accent, and she dances a lot. She wears a see-through red gown, strips, then takes a long standing bath and oils herself while a hidden Theodore watches. It's like a much sexier version of George Hamilton's hit Love at First Bite. Bonet also starred in her production of Hoodlums.

NO ESCAPE

(HBO, 1994) D: Martin Campbell S: Michael Gaylin P: Gale Anne Hurd M: Graeme Revell

In 2022 a fearless loner and former Marine (Ray Liotta) is taken to an island prison, escapes, and stays at a fort with a group of peaceful colonists led by Lance Henriksen. The men barely survive attacks by a primitive jungle group led by the sarcastic Marek (Stuart Wilson). Everyone is monitored by the sadistic warden (Michael Lerner). An expensive box-office flop, this is pretty good for what's basically a Road Warrior retread without the chases. It does have some good acting, (offscreen) cannibalism, and decapitations. The all-male cast includes Kevin Dillon, Ernie Hudson, Kevin J. O'Connor, and a dwarf. Based on the novel The Penal Colony, by Richard Herley, it was filmed in New South Wales, Australia. The director is from New Zealand.

NO ESCAPE, NO RETURN

(PM, 1993) D/S: Charles T. Kanagis
P: Joseph Merhi, Richard Pepin

LA cops Maxwell Caulfield, Dustin Nguyen (from the TV series 21 Jump Steet) and Denise Loveday go underground to infiltrate a drug ring. Michael Nouri is a corrupt DEA agent, and John Saxon is the top cop.

NO HOLDS BARRED

(RCA, 1989) D: Thomas J. Wright
S: Dennis Hackin P: Michael Rachmil

Hulk Hogan is Rip, the World Wrestling Federation champ. An evil network-TV executive (Kurt Fuller) wants him to throw a fight. With Joan Severance, Tom "Tiny" Lister (formerly Eddie Murphy's bodyguard), Jesse "the Body" Ventura, and Mean Gene Okerlund. The executive producers of this PG-13 film were Hogan and Vince McMahon. The original No Holds Barred was a Bowery Boys wrestling movie. Hogan was in Suburban Commando next.

NO JUSTICE

(1989) D/S/P: Richard Wayne Martin D: Fred Dresch

The plot of this made-in-Tennessee movie is a lot like Dixie Dynamite or a lot of other 70s drive-in car-chase movies. Bob Orwig is a sadistic, dumb, small-town deputy sheriff appointed by his corrupt, alcoholic uncle, "the major" (Cameron Mitchell), who deals in "mari-wani" and bootleg liquor on the side. The bad guys want to take the land of some "half-breeds." Steve Murphy, another nephew and deputy, is the hero. With Camille Keaton (I Spit on Your Grave), Lisa Case, and Donald Farmer as a reporter. It was released in Europe on video.

NOMADS

(Paramount, 1986) D/S: John McTiernan
P: George Pappas, Cassian Elwes

Pierce Brosnan is a French anthropologist who battles mythic spirits disguised as LA punks in a van. When he dies he passes on his memories to an emergency-room doctor (Lesley-Ann Down) who tried to save him. All of a sudden weird punks, junkies, and whores go after her. Adam Ant is "Number One." With Mary Woronov and Nina Foch. The director went on to bigger things like Die Hard and The Hunt for Red October.

NOMADS OF THE NORTH

(Kino, 1920) D/S: David M. Hartford
S: James Oliver Curwood

Lon Chaney is a Canadian who returns home to his unfaithful wife. Betty Blythe and Lewis Stone are also in the cast of this 109-minute First National release, which has a musical score.

NON-STOP NEW YORK

(Sinister, 1937) D: Robert Stevenson
S: Roland Pertwee UK

A futuristic luxury airliner goes from London to NYC in this Hitchcock-type thriller with a murder plot. Anna Lee stars with John Loder, Francis L. Sullivan, Frank Cellier, and Desmond Tester.

NO PLACE TO HIDE

(Video Treasures, 1981) D: John Llewellyn Moxey
S: Jimmy Sangster P: Jay Daniel, S. Byron Hickox

Kathleen Beller is an art student being stalked by a masked killer. With Mariette Hartley as her stepmother, Keir Dullea as a shrink, and Arlen Dean Snyder. This CBS-TV movie copies Dressed to Kill.

NO PLACE TO HIDE

(Cannon, 1993) D/S: Richard Danus P: Alan Amiel

Drew Barrymore is good as a bratty, slang-talking 14-year-old whose life is in danger after her topless-dancer sister is killed during a rehearsal of Swan Lake. She's put under the protection of a depressed LA detective (Kris Kristofferson). Drew narrates from her diary. Kristofferson flashes back to when his family died and weeps. The murder turns out to be part of a far-reaching conspiracy. With Martin Landau as a police captain, O. J. Simpson as a wheelchair-bound former football star, Dey Young as Kristofferson's partner, Bruce Weitz as an asshole cop, Lydie Denier, and Kane Holder.

NO RETREAT, NO SURRENDER

(Starmaker, 1985) D: "Corey Yuen"/Yuen Kwei
S: Keith W. Strandberg P: Ng See Yuen

Kurt McKinney stars a kid who gets beaten up a lot until he's helped by the ghost of Bruce Lee (!). Jean-Claude Van Damme (in his first American film) is a bad Russian kickboxer. It was made in Seattle (where Lee lived).

NO RETREAT, NO SURRENDER II

(1987) D: "Corey Yuen"/Yuen Kwei
S/P: Roy Haran S: Keith W. Strandberg

In this Rambo-style Vietnam adventure that has nothing to do with the first movie, a young American kickboxer (Loren Avedon) fights Khmer Rouge guerrillas to rescue his fiancée. With Matthias Hues, Max Thayer, Dale Jacoby, and Cynthia Rothrock. From SGE.

NORMA

(American Video, 1970) D/A: William Rotsler
S: Norman Stevens P: William Christian

Norma (Maddy Maguire) bravely goes to Dr. Bradley, a shrink (Chris Warfield), and explains, "I suffer from an emotional disorder known as nymphomania." During frequent visits she tells him about her sex adventures ("Old, young, handsome, ugly, it didn't matter") and a disturbing vision of a mystery man that "appears every time I'm about to climax." She goes to an orgy (which includes Uschi Digart) with a guy in drag (who freaks out), goes home with a tough, abusive biker but leaves him sulking in the corner, and makes it with a female carhop in a bathtub. In the most erotic and imaginative scene she goes to a movie theater (playing Fanny Hill and Erotic Mushroom). After closing time she seduces the manager onstage while psychedelic sex scenes are projected on them and bongo music plays. The manager is played by director William Rostler, and the clips are from his earlier films. Finally the doc hypnotizes her, and she remembers how her childhood boyfriend was killed with a pitchfork while they were making out after riding horses. Just then her mother shows up at the doc's office. She's a man in drag, the killer! The mother is played by Buck Flower. This has better-than-usual acting, pretty realistic (simulated) sex, and lots of cheesy organ lounge music. Despite the ridiculous ending it's one of the better adults-only movies of the time. American Video Corporation has put out a whole series of rare, vintage 60s/early 70s adult movies in deceptive, ripoff boxes, making them look like recent porno videos.

NORMAN'S AWESOME EXPERIENCE

(Southgate, 1987) D/S/P: Paul Donovan
Canada (A Switch in Time)

A young lab assistant (Tom McCamus) goes back in time to ancient Rome with a model (Laurie Paton) and her Italian photographer. They fight barbarians. It was filmed in Argentina, and then parts were reshot by another director. Ray Sager was the supervising producer.

THE NORSEMAN

(1979) D/S/P: Charles B. Pierce

Lee Majors is an 11th-century Viking prince who sails to North America to find his father (Mel Ferrer), who has been captured by Indians (!). AIP released this PG adventure. It also features Cornel Wilde, Jack Elam, Chris Connelly, and Kathleen Freeman.

NORTH BY NORTHWEST

(MCA, 1959) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock
S: Ernest Lehman M: Bernard Herrmann

This was the last of four Hitchcock movies with Cary Grant and the last Hitchock movie before the shock of Psycho. It was expensive ($4 milion) and was a major hit. MGM wanted to cut it, but it remained 136 minutes long. Grant is Roger O. Thornhill, a NYC ad man mistaken for a double agent. Memorable scenes take place at the UN, on a train, in a desolate field, and on Mount Rushmore. Eva Marie Saint costars, with James Mason, Leo G. Carroll (in his fifth Hitchcock film), Jessie Royce Landis, Martin Landau, Edward Platt, and Les Tremayne. The director is seen running for a bus. The title comes from Hamlet. The complete soundtrack wasn't released until the 70s, on Varèse Sarabande.

NORTHSTAR

(1986) D: Peter Levin S/P: Howard Lakin
(The Einstein Man)

An astronuat (Greg Evigan) returns from space as a superman hero who's sensitive to sunlight. Mitchell Ryan is his boss. This ABC-TV series pilot also features Mason Adams, Sonny Landham, and Ken Foree.

NORTHVILLE CEMETERY MASSACRE

(Paragon, 1974) D/S/P: William Dear, Thomas L. Dyke M: Michael Nesmith (Harley's Angels)

This came out a little late for the biker-movie craze, but it's pretty good. If you're tired of psycho bikers in movies, this time the Spirits, bikers accused of a rape in a local town, are innocent. The local rednecks and police are the bad guys. There's a wild shootout in a cemetery that leads to a downbeat ending. David Hyry and Carson Jackson star. It was made in Detroit and features members of the real Scorpions motorcyle club. It was released by Cannon. William Dear also directed Nesmith's Elephant Parts.

NO SAFE HAVEN

(Virgin, 1987) D: Ronnie Rondell S/A: Wings Hauser, Nancy Locke P: Gary Paul

A Nam vet and former CIA agent (Wings Hauser) and big, bald, tattooed Robert Tessier are US spies after gangsters at home then go after more gangsters and drug lords in a fortress in Honduras. Hauser's football hero brother was murdered, so he wants revenge. With Marina Rice, Branscombe Richmond, and Hauser's (at the time) wife Nancy as a Peace Corps worker.

NOSFERATU

(Kino, Video Yesteryear, Republic, 1921)
D: F.W. Murnau S: Henrik Galeen Germany
(Nosferatu: Eine Symphonie des Grauens)

Max Schreck stars as Count Orloc in this amazing first film version of Bram Stoker's novel Dracula. Orloc looks scary just standing there and is very creepy when he floats. Nina (Greta Schröder), not Dr. Van Helsing, destroys the frightening, phantom-like vampire. Stoker's heirs won a lawsuit in England, and the negative was ordered destroyed there. By the time the 95-minute film was released in America in 1929 it had been cut and altered. The Kino version is 84 minutes and has new inter-titles. The Image laserdisc (also 84 minutes) uses the original tints and has an alternate soundtrack commentary by Lokke Heiss. The Video Yesteryear version is longer because it's at a slower speed. Other videos run only 63 minutes. Various versions have different musical scores too. The Last Laugh (1925) and Faust (1926) by Murnau are also on video. Werner Herzog's 1979 version copied many scenes exactly.

NOSTALGIA

(1983) D/S: Andrei Tarkovsky S: Tonino Guerra P: Francesco Casati Italy/USSR

Erland Josephson stars as a Soviet musicologist in Italy. A man who warns of a nuclear holocaust immolates himself on a statue. This color and b/w film runs 2 hours. The cast also includes Domiziana Giordano and Oleg Jankovskij.

NOSTRADAMUS

(Orion, 1994) D: Roger Christian S: Knut Boeser, Piers Ashworth P: Edward Simons, Harold Reichebner

Tcheky Karyo is the medieval scholar and prophet Michel de Nostradame (1503–66), who lived during the time of the Inquisition and plague. This historical epic is nearly two hours long. Directed by the art director of Alien, it includes flash-forwards showing wars and leaders (Hitler and JFK) he predicted. The cast includes Rutger Hauer as a crazed monk, F. Murray Abraham, Michael Gough, Amanda Plummer, and Julia Ormond. It was filmed in Romania, France, and England.

NOT FOR PUBLICATION

(HBO, 1984) D/S/A: Paul Bartel
S: John Meyer P: Anne Kimmel

Nancy Allen is a reporter for a National Enquirer type of paper who also works in the reelection campaign of a NYC mayor (Laurence Luckenbill). This old fashioned "screwball comedy" costars David Naughton and Alice Ghostley.

NOTHING BUT TROUBLE

(Warner, 1991) D/S/A: Dan Aykroyd
P: Robert K. Weiss

When are the ex–Saturday Night Live people going to leave us alone!? Chevy Chase and Demi Moore leave New York and drive through New Jersey. They're stopped for speeding and trapped in a bizarre fantasy town run by Dan Aykroyd (with tons of makeup) as an old judge. They try to escape. It's not funny, and the blobby monsters are stupid. With John Candy. Warner released the soundtrack.

NOTHING LASTS FOREVER

(1984) D/S: Tom Schiller P: Lorne Michaels

Zach Galligan is a NYC artist in the future. He takes a trip to the moon. This PG comedy by Saturday Night Live people, shot partially in b/w, features Apollonia Van Ravenstein, Dan Aykroyd, Buck Henry, Imogene Coca, Anita Ellis, Sam Jaffe, and Mort Sahl.

NOTHING PERSONAL

(1980) D: George Bloomfield S: Robert Kaufman
P: David M. Perlmutter US/Canada

Donald Sutherland is a lawyer trying to stop baby seals from being killed. This romantic comedy was released by AIP the year it became Filmways. Suzanne Somers costars, with Roscoe Lee Browne, Dabney Coleman, and Catherine O'Hara.

NOTHING UNDERNEATH

(Sony, 1985) D/S: Carlo Vanzina S: Enrico Vanzina, Franco Ferrini P: Achille Manzotti M: Pino Donaggio Italy (Sotto il Vestito Niente)

A Yellowstone Park forest ranger (Tom Schanley) with psychic powers is drawn to Italy to prevent his twin sister's murder. There's a psycho killer, lots of Euro models, and a surprise ending. A beautiful lesbian artist kills her short-haired blond model lover and keeps her body in the studio. Donald Pleasence is a cop. There's impressive Argento-look photography. The hit song "One Night in Bangkok" is heard. The sequel is Too Beautiful to Die (1988).

NO TIME TO KILL

(1958) D/S/P: Tom Younger UK/Sweden/W. Germany (Med Mord i Bagaget)

John Ireland is released from prison, where he served time for arson, and goes to Sweden to find the man who framed him. This b/w drama was a Jerry Warren presentation in 1963.

NOT OF THIS EARTH

(MGM/UA, 1988) D/S/P: Jim Wynorski S: R. J. Robinson P: Murray Miller

This cheap (of course) remake opens with lots of great but completely unrelated scenes from New World movies like Piranha, Humanoids from the Deep, and Galaxy of Terror, and even The Terror (from AIP) and goes on to incorporate cost-cutting scenes from other movies during the story, which is exactly the same as the 1956 version. Except for Corman fans, not many people would have cared about this video if it weren't for Traci Lords, from Steubenville, Ohio. Dozens of porno tapes she was in were recalled in 1986, the year when she (supposedly) turned 18. She then starred in Traci, I Love You (1987), her last, only legal (and of course best-selling), X-rated video, attended Actor's Studio classes, was a guest on Wiseguy, accepted an MTV award for Guns 'N' Roses, and starred in this. She's the nurse working for an alien vampire (Arthur Roberts) and has one major nude scene after a bath. But in every other (long) shot high heels appear on her feet. The director substituted hookers for bums to put into the matter transformer, made the alien in a closet a hippie, and added a female alien in punk clothes. Otherwise it's the same characters and story. With Ava Cadell, Monique Gabrielle, Roxanne Kernohan, Becky LeBeau, Taaffe O'Connell, Rebecca Perle, Kelly Marooney, and Cynthia Ann Thompson. A third version debuted on Showtime in 1996.

NOT OF THIS WORLD

(1991) D: Jon Daniel Hess S: Robert Glass P: Jonathan Brauer

A seldom-seen shape-shifting creature (designed by Carlo Rambaldi) feeds on energy. This CBS-TV movie features Lisa Hartman, Pat Hingle, Tracey Walter, Cary Hiroyuki-Tagawa, Tim Choate, and A Martinez. Hess also directed Watchers and Alligator II.

NOTORIOUS

(Fox, 1946) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock S: Ben Hecht

Devlin (Cary Grant) is an American agent. Alicia Huberman (Ingrid Bergman) is the sexy daughter of a convicted spy who marries a rich Nazi (Claude Rains) to help the Americans. This romantic spy thriller is set in post-WWII Rio de Janeiro. Leopoldine Konstantin is Rains' mother, and Louis Calhern is Grant's boss, and Ivan Triesault and Reinhold Schünzel are Nazis. The FBI was concerned at the time about the uranium 235 in wine bottles (the film was made a year before the A bomb was announced). The score, by Roy Webb, was conducted by Constantin Bakaleinikoff.

NOTORIOUS

(1992) D: Colin Bucksey S: Douglas Lloyd McIntosh P: Ilene Amy Berg

John Shea stars as a CIA agent in France. Jenny Robertson, as the daughter of a Soviet spy, marries an arms dealer. With Marisa Berenson and Jean-Pierre Cassel. This remake debuted on Lifetime.

THE NOTORIOUS CLEOPATRA

(SW, 1970) D/P: Peter Stootsberry S: Jim Macher

This Boxoffice International release has one notable (and rare) difference, a black star (Sondra) as a sexy and usually naked Cleopatra. Most of this nudie movie is a series of soft-core orgies, and there's a "virgin sacrifice." The soundtrack includes comical sound FX and some psychedelic rock. With blond Dixie Donovan (who has sex with Cleopatra and later with a giant in a prison), Johnny Rocco as Marc Antony, and Christopher Stone (all were also in The Joys of Jezebel). I wonder whether Sondra was in anything else.

NOTORIOUS CONCUBINES

(SW, 1969) D: Koji Wakamatsu Japan

If you want to see ancient Chinese history, a Japanese exploitation movie isn't the place to look. The confused story (supposedly based on The Golden Lotus) is told with flashbacks inside of flashbacks. It's about a woman who seduces and poisons her way to the top, and it shows nudity, women being tied up and whipped, and an ear being cut off. Some scenes are optically censored. It was released (dubbed) by Boxoffice International. The video is letterboxed. The director made The Love Robots (1965), also released in America.

THE NOTORIOUS DAUGHTER OF FANNY HILL

(SW, 1966) D/P: Peter Stootsberry P: Bradford Hallworthy C: Laszlo Kovacs

Stacy Walker stars in this nudie period film. Characters include "the orgy master" and the marquis de Sade. Sonney Amusements released it, and David F. Friedman was a producer. The star (real name Barbra Jean Moore) was a college dropout from Texas making her film debut. She returned in A Smell of Honey, a Taste of Brine. The first issue of Adam Film Quarterly was entirely devoted to this movie. The issue cost $1.

NOT TONIGHT, HENRY

(SW, 1958) D/C: Merle Connell S/P: Ted Paramour, Bob Heidrich

This color comedy was made right after the success of Russ Meyer's The Immoral Mr. Teas. Hank Henry, a burlesque comic (who resembles Rodney Dangerfield), is a henpecked husband who dreams that he's in a series of historical situations. He meets Cleopatra, Lucrezia Borgia, and Pocahontas. It's very much like sketches from the Benny Hill show. There's even a short comic sidekick (Little Jack Little). The only scene with skin features topless Indian women. A strange dinosaur is lifted from a Jungle Jim movie. The makeup is by Harry Thomas, known for creating monsters in many low-budget horror movies.

NO WAY BACK

(Unicorn, 1976) D/S/P/A: Fred Williamson

Fred Williamson is LA detective Jesse Crowder. He goes to San Francisco, where he's hired to find a missing man and some money. With Charles Woolf, Tracy Reed, Virginia Gregg, Mike Henry, and Don Cornelius. It was the first of Williamson's many Po Boy productions and was accused of being violent and sexist. He returned as the same character in Death Journey.

NO WAY TO TREAT A LADY

(Paramount, 1968) D: Jack Smight S: John Gay P: Sol C. Siegel

You've got to like Rod Steiger to enjoy this psycho "lipstick murderer" movie. He's the owner of a NYC theater who uses various disguises and accents as he strangles women and calls to taunt the police. George Segal is a detective on the case, and his new girlfriend (Lee Remick) is an intended victim. With Eileen Heckart, Murray Hamilton, and Michael Dunn as Mr. Kupperman, who claims he's the killer. It's based on a novel by William Goldman. The American Breed is heard on the soundtrack of this Paramount release.

NOWHERE TO RUN

(MGM/UA, 1989) D: Carl Franklin, Jack Canson P: Julie Corman (Temptation Blues; Caddo Lake; A Hero Stands Alone)

In 1960 in Caddo, Texas, Kieran Mulroney (who narrates) works at a bait house owned by a local crime boss (David Carradine). Carradine is also an escaped killer, and the kid sees things he shouldn't and goes on the run. With Jillian McWhirter and Henry Jones as a judge. This Corman/Concorde release is based on real events.

NOWHERE TO RUN

(Columbia, 1992) D: Robert Harmon S: Joe Eszterhas, Leslie Boehm, Randy Feldman P: Craig Baumgarten

Jean-Claude Van Damme (in a "serious" career move) stars as an escaped convict (from Quebec) who helps a poor farm widow (Rosanna Arquette, who has nude scenes) and her kids (Kieran Culkin and Tiffany Taubman) battle evil land developers led by Joss Ackland. With Ted Levine. It copies Shane and features horse and motorcycle chases. The director made The Hitcher. The story was by Joe Eszterhas and the late Richard Marquand.

NUCLEAR RUN

(Sen Sei, 1980) D/S: Ian Barry D: George Miller P: David Elfick Australia (Chain Reaction)

Ross Thompson is exposed to a lethal dose of radiation during an accident at the nuke plant he works at. With Steve Bisley and Mel Gibson (he is not the star, despite what a video box might claim), who were both in Mad Max. George Miller was also an associate producer.

NUDE IN HIS POCKET

(1957) D: Pierre Gast S: France Roche France (Amour de Poche)

Jean Marais is a professor experimenting with suspended animation. He accidentally shrinks a dog. His assistant (Agnes Laurent) drinks some of the liquid and becomes a 3" statue, which Marais keeps in his pocket. Salt water restores her to normal. Laurent is sometimes naked in this fantasy/comedy, so it was an adults-only art-house release in America. It was based on a story in Astounding Science Fiction.

NUDE ON THE MOON

(VCI, Sleaziest, 1960) D/S/P: "Anthony Brooks"/ Doris Wishman

This full-color science-fiction/nudist-colony oddity is one of Wishman's earliest features. The credits are all fake, but Doris pretty much did it all, at the Coral Castles in Homestead, Florida. Ralph Young (of Sandler and Young) sings "I'm Mooning Over You," backed by Doc Severinsen and his band. Then we find out how handsome young rocket scientist Jeff (who has inherited $3 million) and the older Dr. Huntley manage to secretly blast off to the moon. The rocket is a toy in closeups, and stock footage shows it taking off. The men talk into hand mikes to communicate even though they're sitting next to each other, and they sleep through the landing. On the moon they wear funny-colored tights, boots with silver stars, and helmets. The moon people wear only low-slung bathing-suit bottoms (and have antennae). It should have been called Topless on the Moon. The playful moon women dance, toss a plastic ball, and lounge around like the Eloi in The Time Machine (1960). The muscular men have slicked-back hair, and even the little kids have to wear bathing suits. The telepathic queen (Marietta) likes Jeff, but the doc says, "You're acting like a schoolboy. Don't forget we're rocket scientists!" Another memorable song is "Moon Doll." Watch for the theater marquee with Wishman's Hideout in the Sun.

NUDES ON TIGER REEF

(SW, 1965) D/P/C: Barry Mahon S: Clelle Mahon

Sande, a "Broadway director" (Sande Johnsen), goes to a Florida nudist camp on an island. He's "both shocked and amused" to find that his star, Nadja (Nadja Swensen in a blond wig), is there too and decides to make an (8mm) movie. The main models on display are young and cute, and both of them smoke. There's topless scuba diving, nude card playing, baseball, showering, exercising, and running. For variation they leave their bathing suits on for volleyball. It's in color and 64 minutes long.

NUDIST COLONY OF THE DEAD

(Artistic License, 1991) D/S: Mark Pirro P: Mark Headley

Nudists commit suicide and vow revenge against the religious group who closed down their camp. They return five years later as zombies and attack people at a church summer camp. This Super-8 musical comedy has choreographed numbers and exaggerated gore FX. The zombies are not completely naked, though. With Deborah Lynn and Rachel Latt. Forry Ackerman guest-stars as a judge.

NUDITY REQUIRED

(Raedon, 1988) D: John Bowen S: Danny King P: Ted Sirota, Frank Rubin, J.T. Bown, Ron Lavery

Surfers pose as film producers in Julie Newmar's Beverly Hills mansion. This sex comedy features Troy Donahue, Edy Williams, Becky LeBeau, Heidi Payne, Windsor Taylor Randolph, and porno stars Misty Regan and Debbie Diamond. Newmar (58 at the time) plays a Russian and has a nude shower scene. The director of this unrated feature is aka porno director "John T. Bone."

NUMBERED DAYS: See SAVAGE ABDUCTION

NUMBER ONE WITH A BULLET

(MGM, 1987) D: Jack Smight S: Gail Morgan Hickman P: Golan/Globus

In a movie much like the same year's Lethal Weapon, Robert Carradine and Billy Dee Williams are cops who go after drug boss Barry Sattels. With Valerie Bertinelli, Peter Graves, and Bobby Di Cicco.

NUMBER 17

(Republic, 1932) D/S: Alfred Hitchcock P: John Maxwell UK

A detective story starts in a spooky old house and ends with a cross-country bus-and-train chase. Leon M. Lion stars as a tramp who discovers the hideout of some jewel thieves. Ann Grey, John Stuart, Barry Jones, and Donald Calthrop costar in this 63-minute film based on a novel and play by Jefferson Farjeon.

NURSES FOR SALE

(1971) D: Al Adamson D/S: Rolf Olson W. Germany (Kapitän Rauhbein aus St. Pauli; Captain Typhoon)

Curt Jurgens stars as a German sea captain who saves some nurses from bandits and fights drug smugglers. It was filmed in Puerto Rico. Independent International added 20 minutes of new (more exploitative) footage for the American release.

NUTTY, NAUGHTY CHATEAU

(1963) D/S: Roger Vadim S: Claude Choulbier France/Italy (Château en Suède)

In an isolated Swedish castle, Hugo (Curt Jurgens) lives with his young wife (Monica Vitti), her brother (Jean-Claude Brialy), and his older sister. They dress up in 18th-century costumes. Hugo's crazy first wife, Ophelie (Françoise Hardy), shows up as a "ghost." Everybody has affairs, and characters are killed. With Sylvie as the senile grandmother, Jean-Claude Trintignant, and Daniel Emilfork as the weird butler. It's based on a play by Françoise Sagan and was filmed in northern Sweden.

A NYMPHOID BARBARIAN IN DINOSAUR HELL

(1990) D/S/P: Brett Piper P: Alex Pirnie, Lloyd Kaufman, Michael Hertz (Dark Fortress)

Linda Corwin (in an animal-skin loincloth) is the last woman on Earth after a nuclear war. Green lizard men, a sea serpent, and mutants all want to mate with her. She's held captive in a castle by a skull-headed medicine man. This was made in New Hampshire for a reported $5000. Piper, who also did the FX (including some animation), directed They Bite next. Nymphoid debuted on the USA Network.

NYOKA AND THE TIGERMEN

(Republic, 1942) D: William Witney S: Ronald Davidson, Norman S. Hall, William Lively (The Perils of Nyoka)

This 15-chapter Republic serial is a sequel to Jungle Girl (1940). Kay Aldridge (taking over the role of Nyoka) is hunting for her father and living with a tribe of North African Bedouins. Clayton Moore shows up looking for "the lost tablet of Hippocrates" (which can cure cancer) in "the tomb of the moon god." With William Benedict (from the Bowery Boys), Lorna Gray as Vultura, leader of a group of Arab killers, Charles Middleton as Cassib, Tristram Coffin, and Satan the gorilla. Nyoka and the Tigermen, the name of the feature version, is now being used for the entire serial on video.

OASIS OF THE ZOMBIES

(Wizard, 1981) D: "A. M. Frank"/Marius Le Soeur S: A. L. Mariaux P: Daniel Le Soeur France (Tombs of the Living Dead; Bloodsucking Nazi Freaks)

Some German teens search for gold hidden by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in North Africa. They're killed by Nazi zombies (with mediocre makeup). Manuel Gelin stars, and Jesús Franco plays a zombie. There's a time-wasting WWII battle sequence. This is not to be confused with the similar Zombie Lake, made around the same time.

OBLIVION

(Paramount, 1994) D: Sam Irvin S: Peter David P: Vlad Paunescu, Ileana Paunescu (Welcome to Oblivion)

Richard Joseph Paul stars as the pacifist son of a murdered sheriff. This science-fiction/comedy/western has slo-mo battles, bad gags, bad acting, and Gunsmoke and Star Trek references. The high points are a scorpion monster (animated by David Allen) and Carel Struycken as an undertaker. Andrew Divoff is a lizard-faced alien outlaw bad guy paired with a woman with a whip (Musetta Vander). With Jackie Swanson (from the TV series Cheers) as the hero's girlfriend, Meg Foster as a cyborg deputy, George Takei as a drunken doctor, Julie Newmar acting like Catwoman, Irwin Keyes, Jimmie Skaggs, and dwarfs. The score is by Pino Donaggio. This PG-13 Full Moon film was shot in Romania. The video includes scenes from Oblivion 2.

OBSESSION: A TASTE FOR FEAR

(Imperial, 1988) D/S: Piccio Raffanini S: Lidia Ravera P: Jacques L. Goyard Italy (Pathos)

In the near future a bisexual erotic photographer (Virginia Hey, from Road Warrior) and a macho detective track down a psycho who has been killing models. Most of the models (including a bald black woman) have nude scenes. So does Hey, who is also tied up. This offbeat, stylish film also features Kid Creole (of the Coconuts), Eva Grimaldi, and bodybuilder Teagan.

O.C. AND STIGGS

(MGM, 1983) D/P: Robert Altman S: Donald Cantrell, Ted Mann P: Peter Newman

Daniel H. Jenkins and Neill Barry are O.C. and Stiggs, a couple of clever teens who think up funny ways to disrupt the lives of their neighbors and parents one summer. It's based on a National Lampoon story by Todd Carroll and Ted Mann. With Paul Dooley as the rich insurance man they target, Dennis Hopper as a drug-dealing Nam vet, Sterling Hayden in his last feature, Tina Louise, Melvin Van Peebles, Jane Curtin, Jon Cryer, Ray Walston, Louis Nye, Martin Mull, Nina Van Pallandt, Cynthia Nixon, Rebecca Ferratti, and King Sunny Ade and His African Beats. MGM shelved this for several years, but it has some very funny sequences.

THE OCCULT EXPERIENCE

(RCA, 1969) D/C: R. L. Frost D/E: Luigi Scattini Italy (Witchcraft '80; Angeli Bianchi; Angeli Neri)

It's hard for me to tell whether some of these scenes are real or not, but the Louisiana segments with snake handlers and a "mass hysteria" voodoo-dance ceremony are convincing and pretty incredible. The British nude black mass (with some scratched-out faces) and the naked American hippie cult in the woods are pretty suspect, and we're constantly being told that various scenes are secret "8mm home movies." Men in Bali stab themselves, a faith healer works in Stockholm, a woman in Italy contacts car-crash victims, Carnival witches are shown in Brazil, and Anton Levay is seen conducting a Church of Satan wedding. A nonstop-talking California cop really slows things down. Frost added more scenes for the AIP/TransAmerica release, which was rated X in 1970, then rerated R years later. It all ends at the Spahn ranch. British actor Edmund Purdom narrates. Frost had also produced Mondo Bizarro and Mondo Freudo. Other post-Manson occult/sex documentaries released in 1970 are Sex Rituals of the Occult (including sex in a coffin) and Sex and Astrology.

THE OCCULTIST

(Unicorn, 1987) D/S: Tim Kincaid P: Cynthia DePaula (Maximum Thrust; Waldo Warren, Private Dick Without a Brain)

Rick Gianasi stars as a cyborg private eye hired to protect a Caribbean president in NYC. The leader's daughter (Jennifer Kanter) supports the revolutionaries who are out to assassinate him. Voodoo is involved. With Matt Mitler. By the director of She's Back.

THE OCTAGON

(Media, 1980) D: Eric Karson S: Leigh Chapman P: Joel Freeman

Chuck Norris has to fight off evil ninjas when he's hired to be a bodyguard for a woman named Justice (Karen Carlson). A mercenary soldier (Lee Van Cleef) and a tough woman (Carol Bagdasarian) team up with Norris, who has a good fight scene in an arena with Kyo the ninja. With Tadashi Yamashita, Art Hindle, Kim Lankford, Tracey Walter, Jack Carter, Richard Norton, and Mike Norris as Chuck's father in a flashback.

OCTOPUSSY

(CBS/Fox, 1983) D: John Glen S: George MacDonald Fraser, Richard Maibaum, Michael G. Wilson P: Albert R. Broccoli M: John Barry

This was the official number 13 Bond film. Roger Moore starred in it the same year that Sean Connery returned in Never Say Never Again. Octopussy was one of the biggest-grossing Bond movies, so Moore won at the box office, but it's pretty bad. Anonymous stuntmen costar, with Steven Berkoff as an evil Russian, Louis Jourdan, Maud Adams (The Man with the Golden Gun) as Octopussy, Kabir Bedi, and series regulars Lois Maxwell and Desmond Llewelyn. The soundtrack (with a theme by Rita Coolidge) is on A&M. Liberty also released the 13 Original James Bond Themes compilation album in 1983.

ODE TO BILLY JOE

(Warner, 1976) D/P: Max Baer Jr. S: Herman Raucher P: Roger Camras

The second of three country movies directed by Jethro from The Beverly Hillbillies is this dramatic PG hit based on what might have happened in Bobby Gentry's 1967 hit song. Robby Benson is the suicidal Billy Joe McAllister, and Glynnis O'Connor is Bobby Lee. James Best plays a character who turns out to be a homosexual. It was filmed in Mississippi. The soundtrack is on Warner.

OFF BEAT

(Touchstone, 1986) D: Michael Dinner S: Mark Medoff P: Joe Roth, Harry Ufland

A librarian (Judge Reinhold) impersonates a NYC cop to impress a real cop (Meg Tilly). This PG comedy has a surprising supporting cast, including Harvey Keitel as a bank robber, Joe Mantegna, Amy Wright, Anthony Zerbe, James Tolkan, John Turturro, Fred Gwynne, Bill Sadler, and Penn Jillette.

OFFERINGS

(South Gate, 1988) D/S/P: Christopher Reynolds

I never thought I'd see horror movies from Oklahoma, but there were several in the 80s. My grandfather, who moved there not long after the territory became a state, would not be amused. This one is a Halloween copy. Johnny, a traumatized kid who won't talk, is badgered by his ugly, scary mom in curlers: "You're sick!" Then, taunted by other kids, he falls into a well. "Ten years later" he's sedated in a sanitarium, kills a nurse with a syringe, and escapes to become a cannibalistic serial killer, cutting up victims (offscreen) and leaving body parts for the one girl who was his childhood friend. Characters watching TV say, "This show is boring" and "It's stupid," dialogue that applies to this video. A dumb sheriff wondering about a bloody ear or a nose found inside a newspaper just doesn't have the same effect as Blue Velvet. I loved the authentic local version of Valley talk, though.

OFFICE LOVE-IN, WHITE-COLLAR STYLE

(Rhino, 1968) D/P: "A. C. Stevens"/Stephen Apostoloff S: T. J. Casey (Swinging Secretary)

People working at the Date-a-Mate computer service have after-hours affairs. Kathy Williams (one of the best-looking women in nudie movies) stars as a swinging secretary who unknowingly becomes involved with her boss, his wife (Marsha Jordan), and both of his sons. People try to duplicate what they see in an 8mm stag movie at a party, and a gay guy at the office tries on women's underwear. With Foreman Shane. It's on Saturday-Night Sleazies, Volume III.

OFFICIAL DENIAL

(Paramount, 1993) D: Brian Trenchard-Smith S: Bryce Zabel Australia

Parker Stevenson is kidnapped by aliens but befriends an alien named DOS. The US government has it all hushed up. Erin Gray is his wife, Chad Everett is a general, and Dirk Benedict is a security specialist. Michael Pate and his son Christopher play Indians. It debuted on The Sci-Fi Channel.

THE OFFSPRING

(IVE, 1986) D/S: Jeff Burr S/P: Darin Scott
S: C. Courtney Joiner P: William Burr
(From a Whisper to a Scream)

In a small Tennessee town a historian (Vincent Price) relates four horror stories to a reporter (Susan Tyrrell). All of them have southern settings and are more shocking than the stories in more childish horror anthologies. Clu Gulager stars in a creepy tale of necrophilia, Rosalind Cash and Angelo Rossitto are in a story about a carny glass eater and voodoo, Cameron Mitchell faces Confederate cannibals, and the fourth tale is about a 200-year-old Bayou man. Martine Beswick and Lawrence Tierney are in a connecting segment about an electrocution. The director was in his 20s.

OF MICE AND MEN

(1939) D: Lewis Milestone
S: Eugene Solow P: Hal Roach

Burgess Meredith is George, and Lon Chaney Jr. is the half-wit Lenny, who doesn't know his own strength, in this classic version of John Steinbeck's 1937 tale about depression-era migrant workers. The Hays code insisted that the murderer must be punished (unlike in the novel). With Leigh Whipper as a bitter black man, Charles Bickford, Bob Steele, Betty Field, and Noah Beery Jr. The music is by Aaron Copeland. Producer Hal Roach also cast Chaney in One Million BC (1940). Then Chaney became famous in Universal horror movies. He later spoofed the Lenny role many times: "Tell me about the rabbits, George!" From U. A. There was a TV remake in 1981 with Robert Blake and Randy Quaid (from Prism). John Malkovich starred in Gary Sinise's 1992 version (from MGM video).

OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN

(Warner, 1983) D: George Pan Cosmatos
S: Brian Taggert P: Claude Heroux Canada

A NYC yuppie (Peter Weller) battles a very large, seemingly indestructible, intelligent rat in his brownstone. He becomes obsessed with killing the creature to the point of tearing his home apart. It's based on a novel, The Visitor, by Chauncey G. Parker III, and is better than you'd expect. With Shannon Tweed as the wife, Jennifer Dale, and Maury Chaykin. It was filmed in Montreal by the director of several Stallone movies.

THE OGRE

(Videotec, 1987) D/S: Lamberto Bava Italy

A little girl in Portland, Oregon, who saw something growing in the basement, grows up to be a horror writer (Virginia Bryant). On vacation in an Italian castle with her husband and son, she finds her childhood teddy bear and the drooling monster of her dreams. It was called Demons III in England.

OH, GOD!

(Warner, 1977) D: Carl Reiner
S: Larry Gelbart P: Jerry Weintraub

George Burns stars as a cigar-smoking God in this light PG fantasy/comedy. It costars John Denver but was a hit anyway. With Teri Garr, Donald Pleasence, Ralph Bellamy, William Daniels, Barnard Hughes, Barry Sullivan, Jeff Corey, Paul Sorvino as an evangelist, and Dinah Shore as herself. Burns returned in two sequels by other directors, also from Warner, made in the 80s.

OILY MANIAC

(1977) D: Ho Meng-Hua P: Raymond Shaw, Run-Run Shaw Hong Kong

A cripple uses a magic talisman to become the title character and fight some evil brothers. Based on a late-50s TV series, it's by the inspired director of Goliathon and Inframan.

OLD IRONSIDES

(Paramount, 1926) D: James Cruze S: Walter Woods, Dorothy Arzner, Harry Carr P: B. P. Schulberg

Charles Farrell and Wallace Beery are 19th-century merchant seamen in the Mediterranean who fight Barbary pirates, including Boris Karloff. Esther Ralston and George Bancroft costar in this major Paramount production based on Oliver Wendell Holmes' 1830 poem. This 111-minute-long silent movie includes music. James Cruze later directed The Great Gabbo (1929).

OLD MOTHER RILEY'S GHOSTS

(Sinister, 1941) D/P: John Baxter S: Con West, Geoffrey Orme, Arthur Lucan UK

An Irish charwoman, Mother Riley (Arthur Lucan), helps the black-sheep son of the owner of an old castle. Fake ghosts are created in order to steal a new motor. With Kitty Shane (the star's real-life wife) and John Stuart. Lucan starred in a series of 14 Mother Riley comedies, always in drag. My Son, the Vampire (1952) was the last one (it costars Bela Lugosi).

OLGA'S HOUSE OF SHAME

(SW, 1964) D: Joseph P. Mawra P: George Weiss

Audrey Campbell (a beautiful model from Cincinnati) starred as Olga in a series of short (70-minute), b/w adults-only movies, the likely inspiration for the 70s Ilsa series. In this one (the third), she runs a "school of torture" in upstate New York and trains her female captives to be hookers and drug dealers. White Slaves of Chinatown (SW) was first and Olga's Girls (Audubon) was second. All three were released in 1964. Mme. Olga's Massage Parlor (1965) starred Alice Linville as Olga. Weiss is the same man who backed Ed Wood's Glen or Glenda and Mawra (aka José Priete) later made Shanty Tramp and Fireball Jungle.

OLIVER TWIST

(Kino, 1922) D/S: Frank Lloyd S: Harry Weil

Jackie Coogan (who had costarred in Charlie Chaplin's The Kid in 1921) was the main attraction when this silent version of Charles Dickens' novel was made. Lon Chaney (who devised his own makeup as usual) plays Fagin in this First National release. Other versions are available, including the first with sound (1933).

LOS OLIVIDADOS

(1950) D/S: Luis Buñuel S: Luis Alcoriza
P: Oscar Dancigers Mexico
(The Young and the Damned)

Although Luis Buñuel had directed three famous shorts in Europe this was only his third feature-length film. At a time when only a few American films had dealt seriously with juvenile delinquents this must have left audiences speechless. It still does. The Mexico City slum kids rob anyone (including a legless beggar) and kill. A blind beggar is also a rapist. The script is based on actual events, and many viewers thought that the nonprofessional actors were real street kids. Alfonso Mejia stars as Pedro, who has an incredible dream sequence. Buñuel made 20 films in Mexico (1947–61).

O LUCKY MAN!

(Warner, 1973) D/P/A: Lindsay Anderson S: David Sherwin P/A: Michael Medwin M: Alan Price

In a semi-sequel to Lindsay Anderson's If (1968) Malcolm McDowell (whose previous film was A Clockwork Orange) plays Mick, a coffee salesman who works his way to the top. This 186-minute-long film is a brilliant and bizarre satire of society. With Ralph Richardson, Rachel Roberts, Helen Mirren, Mona Washbourne, Arthur Lowe, and Edward Judd. Many of them play more than one role, and the director also appears. The excellent soundtrack is on Warner and Price (the original Animals keyboardist) also appears as himself, performing his songs. Anderson's Britannia Hospital (1982) also features McDowell in a small role.

OMAR KHAYYAM

(Paramount, 1957) D: William Dieterle
S: Barre Lyndon P: Y. Frank Freeman Jr.

Cornel Wilde stars as the poetic Persian astrologer, and Debra Paget is the fourth wife of the shah (Raymond Massey). This Technicolor and Vistavision film includes a drug scene, severed heads, and the phenomenal singing of Yma Sumac. With John Derek as a prince, Sebastian Cabot, Michael Rennie, Edward Platt, and Perry Lopez.

OMEGA COP

(Southgate, 1990) D: Paul Kyriazi S: Salli McQuaid P/A: Ron Marchini P: Garrick Huey

A post-nuke cop named John Travis (fighting champ Ron Marchini) protects three women while traveling across the wasteland. This Road Warrior copy features Adam West, Troy Donahue, and Stuart Whitman. Karate Cop was a sequel.

OMEGA SYNDROME

(Starmaker, 1987) D: Joseph Manduke S: John Sharkey P: Luigi G. Cingolani

Journalist Ken Wahl enlists some Nam-vet buddies to go after tattooed neo-Nazi kidnappers who have his daughter (Nicole Eggert). With George DiCenzo, and Doug McClure as a cop. It's from New World.

OMEN IV: THE AWAKENING

(Fox, 1991) D: Jorge Montesi, Dominique Othenin-Girard S: Brian Taggert P: Harvey Bernhard Canada

Faye Grant and Michael Woods adopt a devil girl (Asia Vieira) from an orphanage. She has a black dog as a companion and a deadly snake, burns some hippies and causes many deaths at her Catholic school and at a psychic fair. Michael Lerner is a detective. The European theatrical version is longer than what debuted on Fox-TV. The Varèse Sarabande soundtrack reuses the original Jerry Goldsmith score. Director Othenin-Girard quit halfway through and was replaced. The original The Omen (1976), a big-budget major-studio horror movie with big stars and gore FX, was followed by Damien: Omen II (1978) and The Final Conflict (1981), all produced by Harvey Bernhard and all on Fox video. This one was shot in Vancouver.

OMOO OMOO, THE SHARK GOD

(Sinister, 1949) D/S: Leo Leonard S: George D. Green P: George S. Picker

A captain returning some cursed black pearls stolen from an idol in the South Seas is murdered and his daughter (Devera Burton) becomes cursed. With Ron Randell, George Meeker, and Pedro De Cordova. Part of the title (but none of the plot) is from Herman Melville's 1847 novel Omoo. The Screen Guild (later Lippert) release is only 58 minutes long.

ON BORROWED TIME

(MGM, 1939) D: Harold S. Bucquet S: Alice Duer Miller, Frank O'Neill, Claudine West P: Sidney Franklin

An old man (Lionel Barrymore) doesn't want to die yet, so he and his grandson (Bobs Watson) trap Death (Cedric Hardwicke) in a tree. This fantasy/drama, based on a play, features Beulah Bondi, Una Merkel, and Ian Wolfe. Franz Waxman scored this MGM release. The director made some of the films in the Dr. Kildare series (also with Barrymore). This was given an H (horrific) certificate in England.

ONCE

(1973) D/S/P/C: Morton Helig P: Marianne Helig

Have you ever wandered what else Marta Kristen (Judy Robinson in the TV series Lost in Space) did? She costars with Chris Mitchum in this obscure, arty allegory about creation. There's no dialogue, and Marta spends the whole film topless! Mitchum is a man who just appears on a beach one day. Another man shows up in a loincloth, and he creates things (including Marta). Marta (from Norway) was also in Terminal Island (1973) and Gemini Affair (1974).

ONCE A THIEF

(VSOM, 1965) D: Ralph Nelson S/A: Zekial Marko US/France

An ex-thief (Alain Delon) and his wife (Ann-Margret) move to San Francisco. A cop (Van Heflin) harasses and arrests him. Delon's brother (Jack Palance!) talks him into helping with a million-dollar robbery. This b/w MGM release features Jeff Corey, Tony Musante, and John Davis Chandler.

ONCE A THIEF

(1991) D/S: John Woo S: Clifton Ko, Janet Chun P: Linda Kuk, Terence Chang Hong Kong (Zongheng Sihai)

Art thieves (Chow Young Fat, Leslie Cheung, and Cherie Chung) who were childhood friends are betrayed by their boss and seek revenge. It's more romantic and comic than the director's more violent hits and borrows from Hitchcock's To Catch a Thief, but it still has lots of stunt work and shooting. Nearly half the action takes place in France. A sequel, Once a Thief 2 (1991), also by Woo, included the same stars except for Chow.

ONCE BEFORE I DIE

(1964) D/P/A: John Derek S/A: Vance Skarstedt US/Philippines

Derek is a WWII major in the Philippines, and Ursula Andress (Derek's wife at the time) is his Swiss fiancée, Alex. He's killed during a Japanese attack, and she has sex with a virgin soldier before a massacre occurs. With Richard Jaeckel as a bloodthirsty lieutenant named Custer, Rod Lauren, and Ron Ely. It was filmed on location. Andress was in her husband's Nightmare in the Sun the same year.

ONCE BITTEN

(Vestron, 1985) D: Howard Storm S: David Hines, Jeffrey Hause P: Dimitri Villard, Robby Wald, Frank E. Hildebrand

Jim Carrey stars as a virgin student who becomes the victim of a modern-day vampire countess (Lauren Hutton). Cleavon Little is her gay vampire assistant. The soundtrack of this not-very-funny PG-13 comedy, featuring various artists, is on MCA . The Canadian-born Carrey became a major comedy-movie star nearly 10 years later.

ONCE UPON A FRIGHTMARE = FRIGHTMARE

ONCE UPON A KNIGHT

(SW, 1961) D/S/P: Bob Cresse

An insurance investigator (Frank James) searching for a stolen painting in Venice, California, is allergic to naked women. He sees lots of them in a steam bath. Virginia Gordon, Playboy's Miss January 1959, is the main attraction in this color nudie movie from Olympic International. It was the first of her many 60s film appearances.

ONCE UPON A TIME

(1943) D: Alexander Hall S: Lewis Meltzer, Oscar Saul P: Louis F. Edelman

Cary Grant stars as a Broadway producer who plans to exploit an (offscreen) dancing caterpillar that belongs to a little boy (Ted Donaldson). This flop comedy/fantasy is based on a story and a radio play. Janet Blair costars as the kid's older sister, with William Demarest, Kirk Alyn, and Lloyd Bridges. Alexander Hall had directed the hit Here Comes Mr. Jordan (1941). Donaldson also starred in the Rusty the Horse series, also from Columbia.

ONCE UPON A TIME IN CHINA

(Festival, 1991) D/S/P: Tsui Hark Hong Kong (Wong Fei Hong)

Jet Li stars as the acrobatic, kung-fu-fighting Cantonese folk hero Dr. Wong Fei Hong. This very popular (in Asia) widescreen, 140-minute, historical kung-fu epic set in the 1870s is superior in every way to most of the 70s Chinese period action movies. Foreigners with guns and a local gang are the villains. With Rosamund Kwan as the westernized Aunt Yee, Yuen Baio as the hero's comic sidekick Fu, and Jacky Cheung. The ladder-duel scene is a standout. Sequels followed. Raymond Chow was the executive producer of this Golden Harvest series.

ONCE UPON A TIME IN CHINA 2

(Long Shong, 1992) D/S/P: Tsui Hark S: Hanson Chan, Cheung Tan P: Ng See Yuen Hong Kong (Wong Fei Hong 2)

Jet Li and Rosamund Kwan return as Wong Fei Hong and Aunt Yee. They travel to Canton in 1895 for a medical convention. Many think that this sequel is even better than the first movie, although it has more comedy. It features bumbling British and the fanatical anti-foreigner White Lotus sect. The real-life revolutionary leader Sun Yat-sen is a character. With Mok Siu Chung as Fu and David Chiang.

ONCE UPON A TIME IN CHINA 3: DANCE OF THE LION KING

(Long Shong, 1993) D/S/P: Tsui Hark P: Ng See Yuen Hong Kong (Wong Fei Hong 3)

This sequel concerns a martial-arts tournament planned by the dowager empress and the first movie camera in China, which exposes a Russian conspiracy. Jet Li, Rosamund Kwan (now Wong Fei Hong's fiancée), and Mok Siu Chung all return. It was filmed in mainland China. Parts 4 (without Jet Li) and 5 followed immediately.

ONCE UPON A TIME IN THE WEST

(Paramount, 1967) D/S: Sergio Leone S: Bernardo Bertolucci, Dario Argento P: Fulvio Morsella M: Ennio Morricone US/Italy (C'era una Volta il West)

This remains the ultimate western of all time. Although the complex screenplay borrows from earlier movies, everything about this long, widescreen, very emotional and political epic has been copied and parodied, from the extreme closeups, to the Ennio Morricone score, to the dusters the gunmen wear. The equally important leads (all excellent) are Henry Fonda as the gunman-for-hire Frank, Charles Bronson as the mysterious Mexican Harmonica, Jason Robards as Cheyenne, and Claudia Cardinale as Jill. The supporting cast includes Lionel Stander, Keenan Wynn, Frank Wolff, and, in the famous opening, Woody Strode and Jack Elam. It was shot in Spain, Arizona, and Utah. A major hit around the world, it was almost ignored when first released (cut by Paramount) in America. A 4-hour version exists somewhere, but you can enjoy a panned and scanned or letterboxed widescreen 165-minute version on laserdisc. RCA released the soundtrack. Leone later made the equally fascinating historical epic Once upon a Time in America (1984) and planned to direct Once upon a Time in Russia, but he died in 1989.

ONCE YOU KISS A STRANGER

(1969) D: Robert Sparr S: Frank Tarloff, Norman Katkov P: Harold A. Goldstein

In this remake of Strangers on a Train Carol Lynley seduces a professional golfer (Paul Burke) and offers to kill his opponent (Phil Carey). He is supposed to kill her psychiatrist (Whit Bissell), who wants her committed. She clubs Carey to death and blackmails Burke. With Stephen McNally as a detective, Martha Hyer, Peter Lind Hayes, and George Fenneman (Groucho Marx's TV sidekick). The Warner release was rated M. Would-be Hitchcock Sparr also directed More Dead than Alive (1969).

ON DEADLY GROUND

(Warner, 1994) D/P/A: Steven Seagal S: Ed Horowitz, Robin U. Russin P: Julius R. Nasso, A. Kitman Ho

Seagal tries to be the Billy Jack of the 90s in this one. He's a nonviolent former CIA terminator in Alaska who (in a dream sequence) is convinced to stop being nonviolent and battle an evil oil-company head (Michael Caine). He even makes an ecology speech. The local natives consider him a spirit warrior, and an Inuit woman (Joan Chen) becomes his partner. The cast also includes John C. McGinley, R. Lee Ermey, Mike Starr, and Shari Shattuck. This was the Seagal's first box-office flop.

ON DRESS PARADE

(1939) D: William Clemens, Noel Smith S: Tom Reed, Charles Belden P: Bryan Foy

This was the last (and the least interesting and shortest, at 62 minutes) of the Warner Brothers Dead End Kids movies. Billy Halop, Leo Gorcey, Bobby Jordan, Huntz Hall, Gabriel Dell, and Bernard Punsley were all together for the seventh time but had to play military cadets. The next stop for most of the gang was Monogram, where some of them stayed (as the Bowery Boys) until 1958!

ONE DARK NIGHT

(HBO, 1983) D/S: Tom McLoughlin S: Michael Hawes P: Michael Schroeder (Rest in Peace)

Nice Meg Tilly is forced to spend the night in a mausoleum as her initiation into a club called the Sisters. This PG teen horror movie features the "psychic vampire" Raymar, a dead man with telekinetic powers who drains the energy of the girls. With Robin Evans, Adam West, Leo Gorcey Jr., and Kevin Peter Hall. The FX are by Tom Burman.

ONE DEADLY OWNER

(Thriller, 1973) D: Ian Fordyce S: Brian Clemens UK

Donna Mills is a model who buys a haunted Rolls-Royce. This made-for-TV movie costars Jeremy Brett and Robert Morris.

ONE DOWN, TWO TO GO

(Media, 1982) D/P/A: Fred Williamson S: Jeff Williamson

Richard Roundtree is the promoter of a New Jersey martial-arts tournament. His three tough-guy friends come to the rescue when he's cheated out of the receipts by a crooked fight promoter and gangster (Joe Spinell). Fred Williamson, Jim Brown ("I may not know kung fu, but I'm an expert in gun fu"), and Jim Kelly (who all had been in Three the Hard Way) are the fighting friends. Kelly, in his last-known film, spends much of the time in a coma, though. Lots of white guys are shot. With Paula Sills and Laura Loftus.

ONE FALSE MOVE

(Columbia, 1992) D: Carl Franklin S: Tom Epperson, Billy Bob Thornton P: Jesse Beaton, Ben Myron

After a bloody shootout over coke money in LA the ex-con killers head for Star City, Arkansas. An addicted, long-haired biker (cowriter Billy Bob Thornton), his girlfriend, Fantasia (Cynda Williams), and a psycho (Michael Beach) are the deadly trio. Bill Paxton has one of the best roles of his career as Hurricane Dixon, a local cop with secrets in his past. None of the characters are clichés (Williams, Beach, and the director are black), and this movie has a rare combination of action, humor, and serious issues. Jim Metzler and Earl Billings are LA detectives. Because of good reviews this violent thriller from IRS received a theatrical release. Carl Franklin was an actor (often in the TV series The A-Team) who had directed three movies for Roger Corman.

ONE FLEW OVER THE CUCKOO'S NEST

(Warner, 1975) D: Milos Forman S: Lawrence Hauben, Bo Goldman P: Michael Douglas, Saul Zaentz M: Jack Nitzsche

The adaptation of Ken Kesey's 1962 novel, the first movie since 1934 to win all five top Oscars, is one of the great anti-conformist features. Jack Nicholson is McMurphy, a patient in a 60s mental institution (it was shot in an actual Oregon state hospital). Most of the supporting cast went on to fame (mostly in exploitation movies reviewed in this book). Louise Fletcher got most of the attention (and an Oscar) at the time, but check out the performances of Brad Dourif as Billy Bibbitt, Will Sampson as Chief Bromden, William Redfield, Scatman Crothers, Danny DeVito, Sydney Lassick, Christopher Lloyd, Michael Berryman, Vincent Schiavelli, and Louisa Moritz. Many of them were making their film debuts. The soundtrack is on Fantasy. This United Artists release was the most successful Nicholson film (until Batman).

ONE FRIGHTENED NIGHT

(Sinister, 1935) D: Christie Cabanne S: Wellyn Totman P: Nat Levine

Charley Grapewin is an elderly millionaire who summons his relatives to his old house, in this 67-minute Mascot chiller. The identity of the masked killer is a mystery, and the thunderstorm never lets up. Wallace Ford costars as a wisecracking vaudeville magician, with Mary Carlisle, Regis Toomey, Hedda Hopper, Lucien Littlefield, and Rafaella Ottiani. It's available on Matinee at the Bijou, Volume III.

100 RIFLES

(Fox, 1969) D/S: Tom Gries S: Clair Huffaker P: Marvin Schwartz

This western (shot in Spain) stars Jim Brown as an American sheriff, Raquel Welch as Sarita, an Indian revolutionary, and Burt Reynolds as Yaqui Joe, a half-breed Indian bank robber. Brown falls for Welch, and they all battle Fernando Lamas, Dan O'Herlihy, and Eric Braeden in Mexico. With Soledad Miranda. It was released by 20th Century–Fox.

ONE MAGIC CHRISTMAS

(Disney, 1985) D: Philip Borsos S: Thomas Meehan P: Peter O'Brian US/Canada

Mary Steenburgen is a poor (and suicidal) mom in this G-rated Disney fantasy. A guardian angel (Harry Dean Stanton!) and Santa Claus (Jan Rubes) get together and help out. With Elisabeth Harnois, Gary Basaraba, Arthur Hill, and Elias Koteas.

ONE MAN FORCE

(Academy, 1989) D/S/P: Dale Trevillion

Former Oakland Raiders star John Matuszak is suspended LA detective Jake Swan. He's after the drug dealers who killed his partner (Sam Jones, from Flash Gordon), and a rock star called Blueberry is kidnapped. Richard Lynch and Robert Tessier are henchmen of Charles Napier. Also with Ronny Cox, Sharon Farrell, George "Buck" Flower, Maria Celedonio, and Stacey Q. It's from SGE.

ONE MAN JURY

(VCI, 1977) D/S: Charles Martin P: Theodore Bodnar, Steve Bond C: Gary Graver

Jack Palance stars as a Dirty Harry–style vigilante cop. Chris Mitchum costars, with Pamela Shoop, Angel Tompkins, Cara Williams, Joe Spinell, Royal Dano, and Mike Mazursky.

ONE MILLION AC/DC

(Even Steven, 1969) D/P: Ed DePriest
S: "Akdon Telmig"/Edward D. Wood Jr.

This is one of Ed Wood's lesser-known credits, a ridiculous soft-core sex fantasy. In what must be a tribute to Robot Monster a man in a gorilla suit kidnaps a woman and takes her to Bronson Canyon! All kinds of dinosaurs appear: a small lizard made to appear huge, men in horrible-looking suits, toys, and that old standby, tinted b/w footage from One Million Years BC. The ancient people speak modern English. There's a pig-out food scene, a girl fight, a lesbian scene leading to a "virgin sacrifice," and other sex scenes. The most worthwhile segment is a long, nude outdoor run worthy of Russ Meyer (Gary Graver shot it). One of the photographers was Michael Weldon. R. L. Frost and Bob Cresse were credited as "historical consultants." The (video) insert title is Attack of the Cave Babes.

ONE NIGHT STAND

(1984) D/S: John Duigan P: Dara Murphy Australia

Two teen couples are trapped in the empty Sydney Opera House on New Year's Eve when a nuclear war breaks out. The band Midnight Oil performs.

ONE ON TOP OF THE OTHER

(1969) D/S: Lucio Fulci S: Roberto Gianviti Italy (Una Sull'altra)

Jean Sorel is a doctor suspected of killing his wife (Marisa Mell). His mistress (Elsa Martinelli) tries to help prove his innocence. Also with Americans John Ireland as a detective and Faith Domergue. It was filmed in San Francisco and in the actual San Quentin gas chamber.

1+1 (EXPLORING THE KINSEY REPORT)

(Sinister, 1961) D/S/P: Arch Oboler Canada

A professor (Leo G. Carroll) introduces four talk-filled episodes, in this dated movie based on a radio play by Arch Oboler. Each time the camera zooms in on a person who remembers tales of affairs. One episode is humorous, and the last one (which would have been a selling point in the early 60s) deals with abortion and includes an onscreen debate. Also with Kate Reid. It was made in Toronto. Oboler's next film, The Bubble (1967), is more interesting.

ONE SHOCKING MOMENT

(SW, 1965) D/S/P/C/E: Ted V. Mikels

Cliff and his giggling wife, Mindy, move to a new apartment in LA. One of their female neighbors, Tanya (Verne Martine), is a bisexual belly-dancing club owner (and bouncer) who makes money on the side from S&M sessions. Cliff says, "This is my kind of a joint, a real hep place." Tanya ties up her slave and whips and kicks him while a loud clock ticks away. Mindy sings at a bongos-and-drinking party that almost becomes an orgy, but the couple "overcome those temptations," according to the narrator. This b/w adult feature runs 71 minutes. It has brief nudity and too much talking. Ted V. Mikels's next was The Black Klansman.

ONE STEP BEYOND

(Video Specials, 1959–61) D: John Newland
P: Collier Young

This half-hour ABC-TV series was once a rival to The Twilight Zone (which debuted the same year). But these stories are all (supposedly) based on real occurrences. Some are pretty chilling, and the casting was always great. Christopher Lee, Patrick Macnee, Patty McCormack, William Shatner, Donald Pleasence, Anton Diffring, Robert Lansing, and Warren Beatty are some of the many actors. Director Newland is the host. Harry Lubin's familiar, creepy music was released by Decca (later Varèse Sarabande). The Next Step Beyond was a short-lived syndicated color revival of the show.

ONE STEP TO HELL

(1968) D/S/P: Sandy Howard S: Jack De Witt, Robert L. Joseph US/Italy/Spain

In 1905 a South African cop (American Ty Hardin) chases three sadistic killers who have escaped from jail and are after gold. Pier Angeli costars, with Rossano Brazzi, Tab Hunter, George Sanders, Jorge Rigaud, Helga Line, and Alan Collins. It was filmed in Spain and South Africa. Sandy Howard produced A Man Called Horse (1970) next.

1000 CONVICTS AND A WOMAN!

(1971) D: Ray Austin S: Oscar Brodney P: Philip N. Krasne UK

Alexandra Hay is Angel, the nympho daughter of a British prison governor. She seduces guards and inmates, and Sandor Eles and Harry Baird decide to blackmail her. AIP released it. Austin later made TV movies.

ONE TOO MANY

(Sinister, 1950) D: Erle C. Kenton
S: Malcolm Stuart Boylan P: Kroger Babb (Mixed-Up Women)

Lots of familiar character actors are in this pro–Alcoholics Anonymous Hallmark road-show movie about an alcoholic former concert pianist who's now a housewife. Ruth Warrick (Citizen Kane and later the TV soap opera All My Children) stars. Richard Travis (Mesa of Lost Women) is her reporter husband. Sullivan (Rhys Williams), a friendly AA-member bartender, helps her recover, but first she has a "blur-o-vision" dream and goes to the "psycho ward" in a straitjacket. It all ends happily with a benefit show. Also with Onslow Stevens and Victor Kilian (later in the TV series Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman). When it was rereleased, the ads claimed that Lyle Talbot (who is in one scene!) was the star. Kroger Babb wrote the story. This is the last film by Erle C. Kenton, whose career ranged from the incomparable Island of Lost Souls (1933) to the birth-of-a-baby movie Bob and Sally (1948), also for Hallmark.

ONE TOUCH OF VENUS

(Republic, 1948) D: William A. Seiter S: Harry Kurnitz, Frank Tashlin P: Lester Cowan

Ava Gardner stars as a statue of the Greek goddess of love, Venus. Robert Walker is the window dresser who kisses her and brings her to life. With Dick Haymes, Eve Arden, Tom Conway, Olga San Juan, and Arthur O'Connell. This b/w Universal romantic fantasy is based on a Broadway musical and is similar to the previous year's Down to Earth with Rita Hayworth. The score by Kurt Weill, with lyrics by Ogden Nash, has been released several times. The same concept was later used for Mannequin and its sequel.

ONE-TRICK PONY

(Warner, 1980) D: Robert M. Young S/A/M: Paul Simon P: Michael Yannen, Michael Hausman

Singer Paul Simon, in his only starring role, is a troubled, washed-up pop star on the road with marriage and money problems. One place he plays is the Cleveland Agora, and the B-52's, Sam and Dave, and the Lovin' Spoonful also perform. With Blair Brown, Rip Torn, Joan Hackett, Allen Garfield, Mare Winningham, Harry Shearer, Lou Reed as a record producer, Daniel Stern, and Tiny Tim. Warner released the soundtrack, but Simon's theme song made it only to number 40.

ONE-WAY WAHINE

(1965) D/P: William O. Brown S: Rod Larsen

Anthony Eisley convinces some runaway teens (Joy Harmon and Adele Claire) in Hawaii to help him drug and rob a pair of bank robbers. With Alvy Moore, Harold Fong, and Edgar Bergen as a beach bum. Ray Peterson sings the songs, including "Wahine Does the Bird." This comedy was filmed on location and was from United Artists.

ONE WISH TOO MANY

(Sinister, 1954) D: John Durst S: John Eldridge P: Basil Wright UK

A marble grants wishes to a boy, until he asks for a giant steamroller and it overruns London. This fantasy stars Anthony Richmond and Rosalind Gourgey. It's only 56 minutes long.

ON HER BED OF ROSES

(SW, 1966) D/S: Albert Zugsmith P: Robert Caramico (Psychopathia Sexualis)

The start of this interesting psycho movie is a lot like Targets (1968). A troubled young guy named Stephen (Ronald Warren) kills himself after picking off passengers on a highway with a rifle. His blond fiancée, Lisa (Sandra Lynn), explains why she blames herself in flashbacks told to a psychiatrist. The parents are really to blame. One of her dream sequences is like one in Daughter of Horror (1953). There's too much talking, but we also get topless dancers and every psychological cliché in the book. Lynn looks great and is great in the part. She was also in Zugsmith's Movie Star American Style, or LSD, I Hate You! the same year. Caramico also produced Orgy of the Dead, and Pat Barringer, from that hit, appears here as a topless dancer. The cool experimental music by Joe Green (who made records with his Little Green Men) was released by Mira.

ONIBABA

(Conoisseur, 1964) D/S: Kaneto Shindo P: Kindai Eiga Kyokai, Tokyo Eiga Japan (The Demon)

A mother and her daughter-in-law survive during a medieval civil war by ambushing soldiers, killing them, and selling the armor. The devious and jealous older woman (Nobuko Otawa) tries to scare away a farmer by wearing a demon mask. The cursed mask tightens and disfigures her face. This b/w movie is very grim and scary. The video is letterboxed and subtitled. Shindo also made another excellent samurai/ghost movie, Kuroneko (1968). Masaki Kobayashi's Kwaidan is another Japanese horror movie from the same year that you should look for (from Sinister). William Friedkin says that he was inspired by the scary faces in Onibaba to do The Exorcist.

ONLY THE STRONG

(1993) D/S: Sheldon Lettich S: Luis Esteban P: Samuel Hadida

Mark Dacascos stars as a master of "capoeira," a (real) Brazilian martial arts style that looks like a combination of kung fu and lambada dancing (?!). A former teacher (Geoffrey Lewis) in Miami has him battle drug dealers. Stacy Travis costars. This PG-13 20th Century–Fox movie features Brazilian music and was made by a frequent director of movies starring Jean-Claude Van Damme.

ON THE AIR

(1992) P: David Lynch, Mark Frost

Ian Buchanan (from the TV series Twin Peaks) stars in this short-lived comedy series about a live TV program being produced in 1957 Manhattan. Each episode shows the rehearsal, then how the show really turns out, mistakes and all. Only three episodes of this half-hour series were aired by ABC-TV. The entire series (seven episodes, directed and written by various people) was issued on a Japanese laserdisc. The book Bad TV called this "the worst show in the history of television." It features Miguel Ferrer, Nancye Ferguson, David L. Lander, Tracey Walter, Sydney Lassick, Chuck McCann, and Kim McGuire (Cry-Baby).

ON THE EDGE

(Vestron, 1985) D/S/P: Rob Nilsson P: Jeffrey Hayes

Bruce Dern stars as a middle-aged runner determined to win a long-distance race in California. Pam Grier is an aerobics instructor, in a romantic subplot. About 10 minutes of footage with some Grier nudity and sex were cut from the R version, after some people at sneak previews objected, but were restored on the unrated video version.

ON THE LINE

(Nelson, 1984) D/S/P: José Luis Boaru S: Barbara P. Solomon P: Stephen Kovacs Spain

Scott Wilson is a border guard. David Carradine smuggles Mexicans over the border. With Victoria Abril (later in Tie Me Up! Tie Me Down!), Jesse Vint, and Sam Jaffe. It was shot on the Texas-Mexico border.

ON THE TRAIL OF ED WOOD

(Videosonic Arts, 1990) D: Michael Copner P: Buddy Barnett

Actor Conrad Brooks, who was in Glen or Glenda and Plan 9 from Outer Space, is the friendly star of this hour-long video, remembering Ed Wood and taking us on a tour of where Wood lived and worked in Hollywood. He shows some rare photos and says that Tor Johnson was a piano mover in NYC (!) and wrestled in Hong Kong. The video includes trailers for Plan 9 and Jail Bait.

OPEN HOUSE

(Prism, 1987) D: Jag Mundhra P: Sandy Cobe S: David Mickey Evans

Joseph Bottoms plays a radio psychologist whose girlfriend (Adrienne Barbeau) sells real estate. A serial killer who keeps slaughtering people in new, empty houses (and then calls the radio show) turns out to be a homeless maniac who kills because houses are too expensive (!). This movie covers all the exploitation bases. The killer (a big guy wearing a duster) slices women up with razorblades on a stick. Barbeau has another topless scene, a woman goes for a nude swim before being decapitated, and there's a dumb comic S&M scene. It's one of those movies where characters keep acting as if nothing has happened even after several coworkers have been killed. With Tiffany Bolling and Mary Stavin. The prolific director, Jag Mundhra, made many more soft-core sex movies with name stars.

OPERATION CAMEL

(1960) D: Sven Methling Jr. S: Bob Ramsing, Preben Kass P: Henrik Sandberg Denmark

Nora Hayden (Angry Red Planet) stars as a French dancer rescued by Danish UN soldiers in Gaza. This color comedy was released in b/w by AIP. It's part of a series of Danish soldier movies. The red-haired Hayden wrote the bestseller How to Satisfy a Woman Every Time in 1983.

OPERATION DELILAH

(1967) D/S: Luis de los Arcos
S/P: Sidney Pink US/Spain

Rory Calhoun and Gia Scala star in this comedy about a coup on a Caribbean island. They try to depose a bearded Castro-type leader. With Marvin Kaplan.

OPERATION GANYMEDE

(Marathon, 1977) D/S/P: Rainer Erler W. Germany

When five astronauts, led by Dieter Laser, crash-land near Mexico, they find a desolate Earth after five years in space. They try to survive, fight each other, and hallucinate, and one becomes a cannibal. This very serious, and dark 2-hour film was made for TV and features Horst Frank as the mission commander and Jurgen Prochnow. The video is a shortened version.

OPERATION GOLDEN PHOENIX

(MCA, 1994) D/P/A: Jalal Merhi

Merhi is a kickboxing security specialist protecting half of a valuable medallion. He has to battle Loren Avedon (King of the Kickboxers) and an evil warlord (James Hong). With Karen Shepard and Al Waxman.

OPERATION 'NAM

(On Line, 1985) D: "Larry Ludman"/ Fabrizio De Angelis S: Edwin C. Dietrich Italy/W. Germany (Cinque Uomini Contro Tutti; Operation Overthrow; Power Play; A State of Shock)

Here's another movie about Nam vets going back to rescue their leader from a POW camp. Donald Pleasence is top-billed, but you'll see more of John Ethan Wayne (one of the Duke's lesser-known sons), Christopher Connelly, John Steiner, Alan Collins, Oliver Tobias, and Gordon Mitchell.

OPERATION SNAFU

(1961) D: Cyril Frankel S: Harold Buchman P: S. Benjamin Fisz UK
(On the Fiddle; Operation Warhead)

AIP released this b/w WWII comedy starring Sean Connery in 1965 after he became famous as James Bond. Connery is Pedlar Pascoe, a Gypsy who teams up with a Royal Air Force conman (Alfred Lynch) for various swindles. They end up as war heroes in France. With Cecil Parker, Stanley Holloway, and Wilfrid Hyde-White. It opened in Cleveland.

OPERATION THUNDERBOLT

(MGM/UA, 1977) D/S: Menahem Golan
S: Clark Reynolds P: Yoram Globus Israel

This is the best of several raid-on-Entebbe movies about Israeli commandos rescuing hijacked plane passengers in Uganda. Yehoram Gaon and Klaus Kinski star, with Sybil Danning, Assaf Dayan, and a mostly Israeli cast. It's PG and runs more than 2 hours.

OPERATION WAR ZONE

(AIP, 1989) D/S: David A. Prior P/A: Fritz Matthews

An honest soldier (Matthews) battles a corrupt arms dealer. Joe Spinell costars. This is one of his last roles. The others are in Prior's Rapid Fire and The Undertaker (which was never released).

THE OPIUM CONNECTION

(Bingo, 1966) D: Terence Young S: Jo Eisinger
P: Euan Lloyd (The Poppy Is Also a Flower)

Nobody seemed to like this international drug deal movie when it debuted on NBC-TV. It's based on an Ian Fleming story, is by the director of three vintage Bond films, was backed by the United Nations (!), and has an incredible cast. It's confusing, but you won't regret watching it. Trevor Howard and E. G. Marshall travel around the world trying to break up a dope ring. Rita Hayworth is an addict married to a rich dealer (Gilbert Roland). With Angie Dickinson, Yul Brynner, Eli Wallach, Hugh Griffith, Marcello Mastroianni, Stephen Boyd, Omar Sharif, Barry Sullivan, Jack Hawkins, Senta Berger, Anthony Quayle, Howard Vernon, Harold Sakata, and Trini Lopez. The video is the full 100 minutes.

OPPOSING FORCE

(HBO, 1986) D: Eric Karson
S: Gil Cowan (Hell Camp)

Lisa Eichhorn and Tom Skerritt are part of a military-training mission on an isolated tropical island. The commander (Anthony Zerbe) goes nuts and uses psychological torture. With Richard Roundtree and John Considine. Eichhorn has nude scenes, and there's lots of sex and violence.

THE ORACLE

(USA, 1984) D: Roberta Findlay
S: R. Allen Leider P: Walter E. Sear

Spirits from the beyond (a glowing magic box) are in a NYC apartment. A murdered businessman possesses a woman. The killer turns out to be a fat woman in male drag. It's similar to Witchboard (made later).

THE ORBITRONS

(Ghost Limb Films, 1990) D/S/A: Christopher C. Frieri
C: Nathan Schiff

Who would have expected a good, dirty, low-down, and (very) low-budget, b/w science-fiction/horror spoof from Newark? It's not for everybody, of course, but it's a unique gross-out surprise that proudly borrows from Plan 9 from Outer Space, Frankenstein Meets the Space Monsters, Night of the Living Dead, and probably John Waters. Kubash (Christopher C. Frieri) is a greasy biker who rides around to newly recorded versions of "Cities on Flame with Rock and Roll" and "White Room." He's badly beaten by dumb, doughnut-eating cops, then encounters aliens and cannibal zombies in a graveyard where he's gone to jack off (for old times' sake). His big biker friend says, "That's one fucking be-zar story!" The alien queen wears Frederick's of Hollywood–type clothes and is good spouting lots of dialogue but stumbles on the word "erection." One zombie pukes on Kubash (for a long time), and the queen whips him and puts a needle in his dick. These and other effects are not exactly realistic. The original music is by I Love You and the Drills.

ORDER OF DEATH: See CORRUPT

ORDER OF THE BLACK EAGLE

(1985) D: Worth Keeter S: Phil Behrens
P: Betty J. Stephens, Robert P. Eaton

A secret agent (Ian Hunter) and Boon the baboon (in a tuxedo) save the world. There's a plot to revive Hitler. This sequel to Unmasking the Idol was filmed in Shelby, North Carolina, by a director who worked for Earl Owensby.

ORDER OF THE EAGLE

(AIP, 1989) D: Thomas Baldwin S/P/A: William Zipp

ORMONDS

The Ormond Organization was Ron Ormond, an Italian-American former stage magician, his wife June, a former vaudeville comedy dancer and, later on, their son Tim. Ormond had directed "a dozen" Lash LaRue westerns, some musicals, and several early 50s movies with Jackie Coogan (including Mesa of Lost Women). After a break, when the Ormonds, among other things, took The Three Stooges on tour, they turned to exploitation movies like Untamed Mistress, about a woman's relationship with a gorilla. They made three 60s country movies in Nashville—The Girl with Tobacco Road, Forty Acre Feud, and the musical White Lightning Road. Many of their movies include the same simple repetitive flamenco guitar music (also used in Ed Wood's Jail Bait) and disorienting harmonica duets. By the 70s, (after Ron had been born again) they made amazing Baptist religious movies like The Burning Hell and The Grim Reaper (featuring Dr. Jerry Falwell!). Ron died in 1981, but his grown-up son Tim made The Second Coming.

Frank Stallone and his industrial hitmen go after an Eagle Scout who has accidentally discovered the plans for the Star Wars defense system.

ORGY AT LIL'S PLACE

(1963) D/P: J. Nehemiah S: Allan Naidob

Kari Knudsen (Playboy's Miss February 1962) and June Ashley are sisters in Manhattan who become involved with nude modeling for artists. One of them is almost tricked into prostitution. This is a b/w nudie movie with color sequences. William Mishkin distributed it. Del Tenny was the assistant director.

ORGY OF THE DEAD

(Rhino, 1965) D/P: "A. C. Stevens"/Stephen C. Apostoloff S: Edward D. Wood Jr.

Orgy of the Dead is one of the greatest movies ever made. There's nothing like it (and it's in Astravision and Sexicolor). The undead Criswell rises from his coffin and rants about "monsters to be pitied, monsters to be despised," a line lifted from Ed Wood's earlier Night of the Ghouls. A horror novelist and his red-haired girlfriend (Pat Barrington) drive and have a typically awkward autobiographical Wood conversation. Outside it changes from day to night to day. After the car crashes they find themselves captives of Criswell, "the black ghoul" (Fawn Silver), a mummy, and a howling werewolf. They're forced to watch a series of eternally damned women (all pro strippers) dancing and stripping on the graveyard set. Each has her own bizarre musical theme. They are, in order: the Indian ("She died in flames"), the Streetwalker, Gold Girl (also Barrington, who dances to Martin Denny–type music until two men in skirts dip her in molten gold), Cat Woman (she dances in a leopard costume with holes cut out for her breasts and is whipped), the Slave (she rolls around on the ground in a G-string), the Mexican (she kisses a skull), the Hawaiian (does a bump and grind to bongo music), the Skeleton (a woman does the swim and the jerk to rock music in front of her husband's skeleton), and the Zombie (a very slow dance). Some say this is too long at 90 minutes, but I'm hoping for a longer director's cut. Ted V. Mikels was the assistant director. Cinematographer Robert Caramico later directed Sex Rituals of the Occult and shot the Falcon Crest TV series. Wood's photo novel (with an introduction by Forrest J. Ackerman) was published by Greenleaf (it sold for 75 cents). I got my copy at the late, great Kay's Books in Cleveland. It was one of many now collectible Wood books. Wood later wrote early-70s nudie movies for Stephen C. Apostoloff.

ORIGINAL INTENT

(Paramount, 1989) D/S/P: Robert Marcarelli S: Joyce Marcarelli

Candy Clark and Jay Richardson star as a professional couple. He's talked into doing legal work for the homeless. Vince Edwards is the industrialist villain. This PG attempt to copy Frank Capra's films has many guest stars, including Robert DoQui, Kris Kristofferson, Joseph Campanella, Cindy Pickett, Martin Sheen, and Bruce Jenner. It was released (on video) three years after it was produced.

ORLAK: THE HELL OF FRANKENSTEIN

(Sinister, 1960) D/P: Raphael Baledón S: Alfredo Ruanova, Carlos E. Taboada Mexico

A scientist goes to jail for stealing bodies but escapes. In his castle he brings a body back to life by putting a metal box over the head and creates a superstrong monster. This was originally made as four half-hour TV shows. It's in Spanish only.

ORLOFF AND THE INVISIBLE MAN: See THE INVISIBLE DEAD

ORPHAN = FRIDAY THE 13TH: THE ORPHAN

ORPHEUS

(Sinister, 1949) D/S: Jean Cocteau P: André Paulvé France (Orphée)

Jean Marais stars as Orpheus, a poet who meets his own death and travels to a phantom zone through a mirror. If anything in this cinema classic looks familiar it's because many of the brilliant effects have been copied in science-fiction and horror movies and in rock videos over the years. Jean Cocteau later made The Testament of Orpheus (1959). Black Orpheus (1959) is an excellent retelling of the same legend set during the carnival in Rio de Janeiro. Jacques Demy made a version called Parking.

ORSON WELLES' GHOST STORY

(MPI, 1953) D/S/P/A: Hilton Edwards P/A: Micheal MacLiammoir Ireland (Return to Glenascaul)

On the set of Orson Welles's Othello, the cast breaks for lunch, and he introduces and narrates a flashback story about a hitchhiker and a ghost, featuring Michael Lawrence. This 23-minute b/w film was nominated for an Oscar as best short. There's a new color intro with Peter Bogdanovich. It's presented by Richard Gordon and was first released on video in 1994.

OSA

(HBO, 1985) D/S: Oleg Egorov P: Constantin Alexandrov

This Road Warrior copy has female stars. It's another movie about post-nuke battles for radiation-free water. With Kelly Lynch and Daniel Grimm.

THE OSTERMAN WEEKEND

(HBO, 1983) D: Sam Peckinpah S: Alan Sharp, Ian Masters P: Peter S. Davis, William N. Panzer M: Lalo Schifrin

Peckinpah's last feature is a bizarre thriller based on a Robert Ludlum novel. CIA man John Hurt convinces a TV-news director (Rutger Hauer) that his friends are Soviet agents. Sex videos, lots of cocaine use, and guns and crossbows are involved. With Craig T. Nelson as Osterman, Meg Foster, Dennis Hopper, Chris Sarandon, Burt Lancaster, Helen Shaver, Merete Van Kamp, and Cassie Yates. Peckinpah, who had been using coke himself since 1973, directed two Julian Lennon videos before he died. Varèse Sarabande released the soundtrack.

THE OTHER HELL

(Vestron, 1980) D: "Stefan Oblowsky"/ Bruno Mattei S: Claudio Fragasso Italy (L'Altro Inferno; Guardian of Hell)

A priest investigates some convent murders. With mutilations, strange violence, crazed nuns, and an exorcism. A nun gives birth to a demon too. It copies Dario Argento's Inferno and Ken Russell's The Devils. The music is by Goblin.

THE OTHER WOMAN

(Imperial, 1992) D: Jag Mundhra S: Georges Des Esseintes P: Andrew Garroni

Lee Anne Beaman is an investigative newpaper reporter married to a famous writer/psychiatrist (Adrian Zmed). She's working to expose a corrupt, violent businessman (Sam Jones) and ends up falling in love with a black model/hooker (Penthouse Pet Jenna Persaud). With Melissa Moore. This "erotic thriller" is available in R and unrated versions.

OUR MAN FLINT: DEAD ON TARGET

(1976) D: Joseph Scanlon S: Norman Klenman P: R. H. Anderson

Unfortunately, James Coburn never did make a third Flint spy movie, but ABC-TV showed this pilot starring Ray Danton as the superspy. Sharon Acker costars. Of course it did not become a series, and Danton retired from acting to concentrate on directing.

OUR WINNING SEASON

(1978) D: Joseph Ruben S: Nick Niciphor P: Joe Roth

High-school student Scott Jacoby tries to win a race so that he can get a scholarship (and a draft deferment). This PG-rated AIP release was inspired by American Graffiti. With Deborah Benson, Dennis Quaid, P. J. Soles, Joe Penny, and Joanna Cassidy. The music is by Dave Loggins. Writer Nick Niciphor directed Death Sport.

OUTBACK

(1971) D: Ted Kotcheff S: Evan Jones P: George Willoughby US/Australia (Wake in Fright)

A sensitive young teacher (Gary Bond) can't deal with the rough, hard-drinking characters who hunt kangaroos in a remote outback village. With Donald Pleasence as a doctor, Sylvia Kay, Chips Rafferty, and Jack Thompson. The original version runs 114 minutes.

OUTBREAK

(Warner, 1995) D: Wolfgang Peterson S: Laurence Dworet, Robert Roy Pool P: Arnold Kopelson C: Michael Balhaus

Dustin Hoffman is an Army medical researcher who literally has to save the world (or at least one small California town) from a deadly virus, usually while wearing a yellow work suit. He's reunited with his estranged wife Rene Russo (just like in The Abyss). Yes, it's another expensive version of the kind of B sci-fi movies that were made in the 50s, but it's a very impressive one with good acting, suspense, action, and some gore FX and is very believable and scary. It even has a movie theater scene that should remind you of The Tingler (or The Blob). Donald Sutherland (in the same year he appeared in Robert A. Heinlein's The Puppet Masters) is the military bad guy who plans to nuke the town to cover his ass. Also with Cuba Gooding Jr. (who teams with Hoffman for surprising James Bond–style action scenes), Morgan Freeman, Kevin Spacey, Patrick Dempsey, and Zakes Mokae. The script was inspired by "Crisis in the Hot Zone," an article in The New Yorker. Major scenes were filmed in Hawaii (subbing for Africa) and Ferndale, California. The Warner release is not too long at 127 minutes.

OUTCASTS

(1982) D/S: Robert Wynne-Simmons
P: Tony Dollard UK

In 1810 in Ireland a widower's daughter is accused of witchcraft. She's saved by a magical fiddler. The cast includes Mary Ryan, Mick Lally, and Cyril Cusack.

OUT COLD

(HBO, 1988) D: Malcolm Mowbray S: Howard Glasser, George Malko P: George C. Braunstein (Stiffs)

A butcher (John Lithgow) and his wife (Teri Garr) try to hide a body. This black comedy also features Randy Quaid as a private eye, Lisa Blount, Bruce McGill, and Debra Lamb.

THE OUTER LIMITS

(MGM/UA series, 1963–65)

All 48 episodes of this amazing show are available on tape (or six-per-laserdisc boxed sets). One of the first episodes ("Architects of Fear") was censored in Cleveland because the local ABC affiliate thought that the mutant gelatine-look monster was too scary. The publicity made it a big deal, and every kid had to watch it to see the monster. I would have watched it anyway. The series was thought-provoking and scary, had good guest stars and a great b/w look, and was often pretty damned disturbing. Tapes are 52 minutes each. "The Inheritors" (with Robert Duvall) is a two-part episode. Joseph Stephano and Leslie Stevens were the producers. Frequent directors were Stevens, Byron Haskin, Gerd Oswald, and Laslo Benedek. The soundtrack album (on GNP Crescendo) is by Dominic Frontiere. A new Outer Limits series debuted on Showtime in 1995.

THE OUTER LIMITS: SAND KINGS

(MGM, 1995) D: Stuart Gillard
S: Melinda M. Snodgrass Canada

Beau Bridges stars as a scientist studying soil from Mars at home. Scorpionlike aliens hatch from eggs in the feature pilot for the Showtime revival of the 60s series. It's based on "Sandkings" by George R. R. Martin. With Helen Shaver as his wife and Dylan Bridges as their son, Lloyd Bridges as the grandfather, and Kim Coates. Craig Nicotero and Walter Klasen created the aliens.

THE OUTFIT

(1974) D/S: John Flynn P: Carter DeHaven

Robert Duvall stars as an ex-con who declares war on the mob after his brother is killed. Karen Black and Joe Don Baker help him rob the crooks. Robert Ryan is the bank owner and syndicate boss. The great cast includes Elisha Cook Jr., Marie Windsor, and Timothy Carey (all from The Killing), Sheree North, Richard Jaeckel, Jane Greer, Henry Jones, and Anita O'Day as herself. It's based on a novel by Donald E. Westlake.

THE OUTFIT

(MCA, 1993) D/S/P/A: J. Christian Ingvordsen
S: Whitney Ransick S/P/C: Steve Kaman

Lance Henriksen (also in the director's Comrades in Arms) stars as gangster Dutch Schultz, Billy Drago is Lucky Luciano, and John Mosby is Legs Diamond. John Christian (the director) is the FBI-man hero. Also with Martin Kove and Rick Washburne.

OUT FOR BLOOD

(PM. 1992) D: Richard W. Munchkin
S: David S. Green, Paul Muslak, Neva Friedenn P: Joseph Merhi, Richard Pepin

Don "the Dragon" Wilson is a lawyer whose family is killed by drug smugglers. He awakens from a coma with only a partial memory but trains with Aki Aleong and becomes a mysterious vigilante known as "the karate man." With Shari Shattuck, Ken McLeod as Blade, Todd Curtis, and many real martial-arts fighters. This is the seventh of many quickly made features starring Wilson.

OUT FOR JUSTICE

(Warner, 1991) D: John Flynn S/P: Steven Seagal
S: David Lee Henry P: Arnold Kopelson

Steven Seagal stars as Gino, an Italian-American cop in Brooklyn (complete with awkward accent) who's after a crazed Mafia killer and crack addict (William Forsythe). With Jerry Orbach, Jo Champa, Julie Strain, Shareen Mitchell, Gina Gershon, Shannon Whirry (in her feature debut), and John Leguizamo.

THE OUTING

(IVE, 1985) D: Tom Daley S/P: Warren Chaney (The Lamp)

Some teens spend the night in a museum run by one girl's father. A huge, green, Iraqi killer genie is released, and the daughter wishes her father were dead. With Deborah Winters (wife of the director) as a teacher. There's some gore and nudity.

OUTLAW BIKERS = THE HELLCATS

OUTLAW BLUES

(Warner, 1977) D: Richard T. Heffron
S: B. W. L. Norton P: Steve Tisch

Peter Fonda is an ex-con who becomes a country-singing star, in a movie that borrows ideas from Elvis' Loving You and Jailhouse Rock. Susan Saint James is a backup singer who promotes his career. James Callahan is a singer who steals the hit song he wrote in prison. The couple have to go on the run to get it back. With Michael Lerner, Matt Clark, and John Crawford. It was the last hit movie for Fonda. Capitol released the Hoyt Axton soundtrack, and a picture-sleeve 45 of Fonda singing was issued.

OUTLAW FORCE

(TWE, 1988) D/S/P/A: David Heavener
P: Ronnie Hadar

Racist rednecks rape and kill the Nam-vet country-singer hero's wife and kidnap and sell his daughter for porno-movie work. He becomes (surprise!) a vigilante. With Paul Smith and Frank Stallone as LA cops, Warren Berlinger, and Devin Dunsworth.

OUTLAW OF GOR

(Warner, 1987) D: John Bud Cardos
S: Richard Marx P: Avi Lerner, Harry Alan Towers S. Africa

Urbano Barberini stars as a Conan-like hero trying to defeat an evil queen. This sequel to Gor features Rebecca Ferratti (from Playboy) and Jack Palance as Xenos. It's been shown on Mystery Science Theater 3000.

OUTLAW WOMEN

(Monterey, 1951) D: Sam Newfield D/P: Ron Ormond S: Orville H. Hampton (Boot Hill Mamas)

A narrator says, "Men are men, but I bet you'd never guess that women are women too!" The action takes place in Los Mujeres, a western town run by women, specifically Iron Mae McCloud (Marie Windsor). Female card sharks and gamblers work in Mae's saloon, and (male) bandits work for her on the side. Jackie Coogan (!) plays a bearded gunslinger with bushy eyebrows called Peyote Bill. The future Uncle Fester experiments with a new "scientific" draw. A pair of sisters have a cat fight over a handsome doctor (Allan Nixon of Mesa of Lost Women). Comic Billy House is a snake-oil salesman and bartender, and Tom Tyler has a role. June Carr (later Mrs. Ormond) was the associate producer. She wrote the song "C-c-crazy Over You" ("I'm crazy as a daisy"). Other Ormond family touches include the use of comic sound effects, a big newspaper headline (BANDITS ON THE LOOSE!), and a barbershop quartet (the Four Dandies). At the end the judge (Lyle Talbot) announces the first federal election. Only male citizens can vote, so they take over. All the women get married except for one cigar-smoking holdout who smiles at the camera. This ridiculous comedy/western, shot in economical Cinecolor, looks pretty good considering the low budget it had. The script (by the same guy who wrote The Alligator People) predates Johnny Guitar by two years and Roger Corman's western-women movies by five. This is the last of 22 movies that Ormond produced and/or directed for the Lippert company (from 1948 to 1952). Codirector Sam Newfield directed more than 140 (!) features (most for PRC).

OUT OF BOUNDS

(RCA, 1986) D: Richard Tuggle S: Tony Kayden P: Charles Fries, Mike Rosenfeld

Anthony Michael Hall (who had been in John Hughes teen hits) stars as an Iowa farm boy in LA who ends up blamed for a murder and holding a bag of heroin. Killer dealers go after him. Jenny Wright costars, with Jeff Kober, Glynn Turman, Meat Loaf, and Raymond J. Barry. The IRS soundtrack features the Cult, Siouxsie and the Banshees, and others.

OUT OF CONTENTION

(Eagle Crest, 1972) D: Herschel Daugherty S: Merwin Gerard P: William Frye (The Victim)

Elizabeth Montgomery stars as a rich woman terrorized by a mystery killer in a remote house during a storm. This ABC-TV movie is a remake of an episode from the TV series Thriller (called "The Storm"). With George Maharis, Eileen Heckart, and Sue Ane Langdon.

OUT OF CONTROL

(Starmaker, 1984) D: Allan Holzman S: Sandra Weintraub Roland, Vicangelo Bullock P: Fred Weintraub, Daniel Grodnick

After the prom a rich high-school senior (Martin Hewitt) takes his girlfriend (Betsy Russell) and six other kids to his parents' island. The plane crashes, they all get drunk, and play sex games, and then drug smugglers attack. This action/sex "comedy" is narrated by Hewitt and features a theme song by the Brothers Johnson. Also with Claudia Udy and Sherilyn Fenn. It was shot in Yugoslavia and released by New World.

OUT OF SIGHT, OUT OF MIND

(Prism, 1989) D: Greydon Clark S: John Platt, Roy Langsdon P: Richard L. Albert (Sight Unseen)

A woman (Susan Blakely) is haunted by her dead daughter. There's also a serial killer on the loose and a religious cult. With Lynn-Holly Johnson, Edward Albert, Richard Masur, and Jessica Player. Wings Hauser is a guest star.

OUT OF THE BLUE

(Media, 1980) D/A: Dennis Hopper S/P: Leonard Yakir S: Gary Jules Jouvenat, Brenda Nielson Canada (No Looking Back)

Hopper's first feature as a director after The Last Movie is a disturbing look at people on the edge. At 15, CeBe (Linda Manz) considers herself a punk and idolizes Elvis and Johnny Rotten. Her father (Hopper), an ex-biker and ex-con, was responsible for plowing a truck into and killing a whole busful of school kids. Sharon Farrell is his junkie wife and Don Gordon is his hard-drinking friend. When they get wasted anything goes. Raymond Burr has a scene as a guidance counselor. "My My Hey Hey" by Neil Young is put to good use on the soundtrack. Hopper replaced the original director. It was shot in Vancouver.

OUT OF THE BODY

(SVS, 1988) D: Brian Trenchard-Smith S: Kenneth G. Ross P: David Hannay Australia

Mark Hembrow is a musician in Sydney. He dreams of a killer who gouges eyes out. With Tessa Humphries and Shane Briant.

OUT OF THE DARK

(RCA, 1988) D: Michael Schroeder S/P: Zane W. Levitt S: J. Greg De Felice

Cameron Dye is a photographer suspected of being a psycho killer who dresses as Bobo the clown. The victims all work for a phone-sex service run by Karen Black. Some good character actors, lots of pretty women, some humor, and interesting plot twists make this above average. Plus, it features Divine (in his last film) as a police detective! With Bud Cort, Tracey Walter as a detective, Starr Andreef, Karen Witter, and Karen Mayo-Chandler. Also with Paul Bartel (an executive producer), Geoffrey Lewis, Tab Hunter, and Lainie Kazan. All of them (and Divine) are also in Lust in the Dust. It's from New Line

OUT OF THE DARKNESS

(1985) D/S: John Krish P: Gordon L.T. Scott UK

Some Derbyshire children see the ghost of a 17th-century boy who was lynched during a plague because the townspeople thought he was contagious. With Gary Halliday and Michael Flower.

OUT OF TIME

(1988) D: Robert Butler S/P: Kerry Lenhart, John J. Sakmer S: Brian Alan Lane P: David Latt

A cop from the future (Bruce Abbott) travels back in time to LA and teams up with his grandfather to pursue a notorious criminal (Adam Ant). With Leo Rossi and Rebecca Schaeffer. A pilot that aired on NBC-TV, this is on tape in Europe.

OUT OF TIME

(1989) D/P: Anwar Kawadri S: Jesse Graham UK/Egypt

Jeff Fahey is an archaeologist competing with villains to find a treasure. Camilla More and Michael Gothard costar.

OUT ON A LIMB

(Prism, 1986) D: Robert Butler S/A: Shirley MacLaine S: Colin Higgins P: Stan Margulies

Shirley MacLaine turned her best-selling autobiographical book into an ABC-TV miniseries. She has an affair with a British politician (Charles Dance), but she also gets into her past lives and her "outer being" with John Heard (complete with special effects) in Peru. It's unusual to see these things treated (very) seriously on TV, but (if you don't believe it) this is good for some laughs. With Anne Jackson as Bella Abzug, Jerry Orbach, and several real psychics as themselves. A 160-minute tape and a 234-minute "collector's edition" (including two of MacLaine's books in paperback) are available.

OUT ON BAIL

(TWE, 1989) D: Gordon Hessler S: Michael D. Sonye, Jason Booth, Tom Badel P: Alam Amiel S. Africa

In a Tennessee town Robert Ginty is blackmailed by corrupt politicians who want him to assassinate a reform candidate for mayor. With Kathy Shower and Sydney Lassick. The South African supporting players are not convincing as Americans.

OUTRAGE!

(1985) D: Robert T. Heffron S: William Wood P: Irwin Allen (One Angry Man)

Robert Culp wages a one-man war against teen punks in a suburb. This CBS-TV movie features Marilyn Mason, Beah Richards, Scott Colomby, and Gary Clarke. Movies like this (from CBS) improve with age.

OUTSIDE CHANCE

(1978) D/S: Michael Miller S: Ralph Gaby Wilson P: Roger Corman

Jackson County Jail did so well that Corman had the same director do a remake/remodel for CBS-TV. Yvette Mimieux stars again as the businesswoman who is abused in a southern jail. She escapes with Royce D. Applegate (in the Tommy Lee Jones role). This time they become involved with hillbillies selling illegal bearskin rugs. Frederic Cook, Severn Darden, and Betty Thomas return from the original. Footage with Robert Carradine and Howard Hesseman is simply reused.

THE OUTSIDERS

(Warner, 1983) D: Francis Ford Coppola S: Kathleen Knutsen Rowell P: Fred Roos M: Carmine Coppola

Coppola made this romantic feature based on a novel by S. E. Hinton, then made the radically different Rumble Fish with many of the same actors. They're both set in Tulsa in the mid-60s. This nice-looking would-be epic benefits from Dean Tavoularis' production design. The story of rich-kid "socs" vs. poor greasers was a launching pad for many teen actors. C. Thomas Howell stars (as Ponyboy), and Patrick Swayze and Rob Lowe (as Sodapop) are his brothers. With Matt Dillon, Ralph Macchio, Emilio Estevez, Tom Cruise, Leif Garrett, Diane Lane as Cherry Valance, Michelle Meyrink, and William Smith as a store clerk. Hinton wrote The Outsiders when she was only 17.

OUTSIDE THE LAW

(Kino, 1921) D/S/P: Tod Browning S: Lucian Hubbard

Lon Chaney plays two roles, Black Mike Sylva and Ah Wang, in this early gangster movie. Top-billed Priscilla Dean is jewel thief Silky Moll and Wheeler

Oakman (her real-life husband) is her partner. Sylva is a gangster, and Wang is a disciple of Confucius who helps them go straight. This Universal silent film was remade in 1930 with Edward G. Robinson.

OUTSIDE THE LAW

(1956) D: Jack Arnold S: Danny Arnold P: Albert J. Cohen

Ray Danton is an ex-con who goes overseas to revenge the death of a GI friend and to infiltrate and bust up a gang of international criminals. Leigh Snowden and Grant Williams are counterfeiters in this Universal release. With Onslow Stevens and Jack Kruschen. Williams returned the next year in Jack Arnold's The Incredible Shrinking Man.

OUTTAKES

(1984) D/S/P/A/C/E: Jack M. Sell S/P: Adrienne Richmond S: Jim Fay

The late Forrest Tucker is the host in-between segments of this Tunnelvision-style sex spoof of TV shows. With a Donahue spoof, a slasher Santa, late night news reports, and more. It was started in 1983, and released in 1987.

OUTWARD BOUND

(1930) D: Robert Milton S: J. Grubb Alexander P: Jack L. Warner

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. and Helen Chandler (soon to be in Dracula) are lovers who committed suicide and find themselves on a ghostly ocean liner with no captain. Leslie Howard stars as the first passenger to catch on. An examiner judges them, sending them to Heaven or Hell. With Beryl Mercer, Alison Skipworth, Alec B. Francis, and Montague Love. This serious Warner Brothers release, based on a play by Sutton Vane, was remade as Between Two Worlds (1944).

OVERDRAWN AT THE MEMORY BANK

(Starmaker, 1983) D: Douglas Williams S: Corinne Jacker S: Robert Landis

In the future five corporations rule everything. Raul Julia stars (in two roles), with Linda Griffiths.

OVER-EXPOSED

(1956) D: Lewis Seiler S: James Gunn, Gil Orlovitz P: Lewis J. Rachmil

Blond Cleo Moore has "camera, curves, and no conscience!" This story about blackmail photos costars Richard Crenna. The Columbia release was one of the last films for Moore, who had been in Women's Prison (1955) by Lewis Seiler and seven (!) Hugo Haas features.

OVEREXPOSED

(MGM/UA, 1990) D/S/A: Larry Brand S: Rebecca Reynolds P: Roger Corman

A horror movie with a soap-opera setting isn't a bad idea, and this isn't a bad movie. Catherine Oxenberg is the daytime-soap star who starts having blackouts and dreams/flashbacks about a horrible birthday party. Is somebody trying to drive her crazy? David Naughton is her useless boyfriend, but the standout acting here is by Karen Black. She has a scary and inspired scene as a deranged suspect who rants in TV clichés ("The Devil's box! It spoke the truth!") and is punched in the face by a cop. An actor dies from acid cold cream, there's a strange Doors reference, and Jennifer Edwards (daughter of Julie Andrews and Blake Edwards) makes her horror debut. Oxenberg has a sex scene but used a double.

OVERKILL

(Vista, 1986) D/S/P: Ulli Lommel S: David Scott Kroes

An LA detective (Steve Rally) teams up with the brother of a yakuza (John Nishio) to battle Japanese mobsters. Michelle Bauer has a small role.

OVERKILL: THE AILEEN WUORNOS STORY

(1992) D: Peter Levin

Jean Smart stars as the real-life serial killer Aileen Wuornos, a lesbian prostitute in her late 20s who admitted to killing seven men she picked up on Florida highways. With Park Overall and Brion James. Aileen Wuornos: The Selling of a Serial Killer (Fox Lorber) is a documentary by Nick Broomfield.

OVERLAND MAIL

(Stokey, 1942) D: Ford Beebe, John Rawlins S: Paul Huston

Lon Chaney Jr. stars in this 15-chapter Universal western serial. It was the last serial by Ford Beebe, who had started at Mascot in 1931. Helen Parrish costars.

OVER THE EDGE

(Orion, 1979) D: Jonathan Kaplan S: Charlie Hass, Tim Hunter P: George Litto

Few saw this great look at modern, bored American teenagers when it was new. The kids exist in a "perfect," new, sterile community called New Granada. After a cop kills one of them they lock all of the parents in a gym during an emergency meeting to discuss what to do about the violence, and then they smash up cars. It's based on what actually happened in Foster City, California. Michael Kramer stars, with 14-year-old-Matt Dillon (his first film), Vincent Spano, and Pamela Ludwig. Andy Romano and Ellen Geer are parents. The Warner soundtrack features the Ramones ("Lobotomy"), the Cars, Cheap Trick, and others. Planned as the first feature by Orion, this was released (barely) by Warner. It was directed by a Corman protegé who had just been fired from Great Rock and Roll Swindle. Screenwriter Tim Hunter went on to direct another realistic teen classic, River's Edge.

OZONE

(Tempe, 1993) D/P/A/C/E: J. R. Bookwalter S: David Wagner

Eddie Bone (James Black, who they say played for the Cleveland Browns) is a cop who is stuck with a syringe by a drug dealer. It seems like nearly everyone is becoming some kind of zombie led by a pig-faced creature. Eddie and a woman mutate and produce a baby monster. The most ridiculous scene has the hero forced to battle another black man in gladiator style. Unlike most of the 27-year-old director's efforts this is imaginative (if not exactly coherent), and the FX are more science-fiction than gore. There's also some minimal morphing in a nightmare sequence. The creators of The Killer Nerd also appear as mutants. It was filmed around Akron.

OZONE ATTACK OF THE REDNECK MUTANTS

(Muther, 1988) D/P: "Max Devlen"/Bret McCormick S: Brad Redd P: Max Raven

We probably didn't need another low-budget, comic redneck/zombie movie, but this one's actually pretty good. Blue Thompson stars as a tough (part-Oriental), ecology-minded young woman, and Scott Davis is a rich jerk. They encounter green-slime-drooling, neck-biting, bloody-faced zombies out in the sticks. There are lots of good insults and corny accents, decapitations, a bizarre talent contest at the general store, and some John Waters touches along the way. If you can get past the guy puking and a loud comic "mom" interrupting the story you might like Ozone too. It was shot on Super 8.

PACIFIC HEIGHTS

(Fox, 1990) D: John Schlesinger S: Daniel Pyne P: Scott Rudlin, William Sackheim

One of the best of the many yuppie-couple almost-horror movies features Michael Keaton as a clever, psycho tenant who won't go away. Melanie Griffith and Matthew Modine buy a great Victorian apartment house in San Francisco and have to resort to drastic measures to stay together and safe. With Beverly D'Angelo, Mako, Nobu McCarthy, Laurie Metcalf, Luca Bercovici, Dan Hedaya, Nicholas Pryor, and Tippi Hedren (Griffith's real-life mother). When cockroaches invade, Tracey Walter is the exterminator. It's much scarier than Schlesinger's zombie movie The Believers.

PACIFIC INFERNO

(VCL, Virgin, 1977) D/S: Rolf Bayer S: Roland S. Jefferson P: Spencer Jourdain, Cassius V. Weathersby US/Philippines

Jim Brown, who costarred in The Dirty Dozen, was the executive producer and star of this Dirty Dozen copy. He leads a team of navy divers forced by the Japanese to recover a fortune in Filipino silver pesos dumped into the Manila Bay harbor by General Douglas MacArthur. With Richard Jaeckel (The Dirty Dozen), Tim Brown, Rik Van Nutter, and Vic Diaz. It wasn't released until 1985.

PACIFIC VIBRATIONS

(1970) D/S/P/C: John Severson

AIP released this 16mm surfing movie backed by Surfer magazine. It was filmed in Hawaii and California and includes a warning about pollution and industrial waste. Jock Sutherland stars. Some of the music is by Paul Beaver and Bernie Kraus, Ry Cooder, Leo Kottke, Little Walter, Steve Miller, and Cream.

THE PACK

(Warner, 1977) D/S: Robert Clouse P: Fred Weintraub, Paul Heller (The Long, Dark Night)

In one of the best of many 70s killer-dogs movies, two families on a resort island are threatened by abandoned canines. This PG feature stars Joe Don Baker as the hero, with Hope Alexander-Willis, Bibi Besch, R. G. Armstrong, and Richard B. Shull. It's based on a novel by David Fisher.

THE PACKAGE

(Orion, 1989) D: Andrew Davis S: John Bishop P: Beverly J. Camhe

Gene Hackman is a navy officer who has to transport a psycho assassin (Tommy Lee Jones) from East Berlin to America. With Joanna Cassidy, John Heard, Dennis Franz, Pam Grier, and Thalmus Rasulala. Grier had also been in Davis's Above the Law (1988).

PACTO DIABÓLICO: See JEKYLL AND HYDE: PACT WITH THE DEVIL

PAGANINI

(VSOM, 1989) D/S/A: Klaus Kinski S: Massimo Lentini P: Augusto Caminito Italy

The notorious Italian violinist and composer Niccolò Paganini (1782–1840) is called "a vampire with a violin" by a female narrator. Klaus Kinski's movie has great period detail and lots of frenzied violin-playing, but it's largely made up of back-and-forth memory fragments, too much slow motion, and very little dialogue. The long-haired Paganini/Kinski looks great as he literally plays himself to death after fucking just about any woman (no matter how young) in sight. With Debra (Kinski) Caprioglio as his neglected young wife, Dallia Di Lazzaro, Eva Grimaldi, Bernard Blier, Nicolai Kinski, and Marcel Marceau (!). The film's producers (Scenta) called it "close to porno" (the only graphic sex scene stars horses) and sued Kinski. The same year his scandalous autobiography, All I Need Is Love, was recalled by Random House. Kinski never acted again and died in 1992. This rare (subtitled) film is a must for Kinski fans. The first Paganini (1923) stars Conrad Veidt. Paganini Horror (1988) is a present-day rock/horror version.

PAGAN ISLAND

(SW, 1960) D/P: Barry Mahon S: Clelle Mahon

The survivor of a shipwreck relates his story to a sailing-ship captain with an eye patch and a scar. The queen of an all-female tropical island says, "White man no good" (in a European accent), but the only black natives are some men who are killed. The women wear leis and dance in front of a pretty funny-looking sea-god/monster statue. Our hero falls for and marries a princess (Nani Maka) who says, "He say I built like small brick house." Bunny Yeager cast the "30 beautiful girls." This early b/w Barry Mahon movie runs 67 minutes. The video is hosted by Johnny Legend.

THE PAGANS

(1952) D: Ferruccio Cerio S: Alessandro Ferrau, Giuseppe Mangione Italy (Il Sacco di Roma)

The walled city of Rome is invaded by the Spaniards in 1527. Pierre Cressoy stars, with Hélène Ramy and Anna Maria Bugliari (a former Miss Italy). Allied Artists released this b/w epic in 1957, and it was considered exploitable enough for Hemisphere to rerelease it in 1964 as The Barbarians.

THE PAGEMASATER

(Fox, 1994) D: Joe Johnston, Maurice Hunt S: David Casci, Ernie Contreras S/P: David Kirschner P: Paul Gertz, Michael R. Joyce

A librarian (Christopher Lloyd) sends an outcast kid (Macaulay Culkin) into a cartoon world of literary classics (including Frankenstein and Treasure Island). This G-rated pro-reading fantasy features the voices of Patrick Stewart, Leonard Nimoy, Whoopi Goldberg, and Phil Hartman. Ed Begley Jr. and Mel Harris play the parents. James Horner provided the score. The live footage was shot in 1992 when Culkin was 12. A Christmas release with lots of tie-ins and promotion, it was produced by 20th Century–Fox and Turner Pictures.

PAID

(1930) D: Sam Wood S: Lucien Hubbard, Charles MacArthur

Yes, even Joan Crawford starred in a women-in-prison movie. She's a shopgirl wrongly convicted of a crime. After three years of menial work in prison she's released and takes revenge by marrying the son of the employer who framed her. With Robert Armstrong and Marie Prevost. This MGM release was based on a play that had been filmed in 1917 and 1923 and was filmed again as Within the Law (1939).

PAID TO KILL

(1954) D: Montgomery Tully S: Paul Tabori P: Anthony Hinds UK (Five Days)

Lippert released this Hammer thriller. A failing businessman (Dane Clark) hires a hood (Paul Carpenter) to kill him so that his wife (Thea Gregory) can collect his life insurance. Then he changes his mind.

PAINT IT BLACK

(Vestron, 1989) D: Tim Hunter, Roger Holzberg S: Michael Drexler, Tim Harris, Herschel Weingrod P: Anne Kimmel, Mark Forstater

Rick Rossovich stars as a sculptor accused of murder. A psycho killer (Doug Savant) covers bodies with clay. With Sally Kirkland as an art dealer, Martin Landau, Julie Carmen, and Monique Van de Ven. Some of Bernard Herrmann's unused score for Alfred Hitchcock's Torn Curtain is used. The cliffhanger ending is pretty good. Tim Hunter (River's Edge) replaced the original director. It went directly to video in America.

PALE BLOOD

(Triumph, 1989) D/S: V. V. Dachin Hsu S: Takashi Matsuda P: Omar Raczinarczyk, Michael J. Leighter

George Chakiris is Michael Fury, a grim, quiet vampire in LA. Wealthy Wings Hauser is busy making a video documentary and we eventually discover that he's the real villain, a nut who kills to lure and capture a vampire. He even has a blood-draining machine. There's also a young woman (Pamela Ludwig) obsessed by vampires and a new innovation, a portable canvas coffin with a zipper. Too much time is spent on generic footage of the city and on Agent Orange, a band that plays on three occasions. The director is a woman from Hong Kong who previously made documentaries and commercials. There's a film clip from the silent version of Nosferatu.

PALE RIDER

(Warner, 1985) D/P/A: Clint Eastwood
S: Michael Butler, Dennis Shryack

Eastwood returns as Preacher, a stranger in a small California gold-rush town during a war between prospectors and a mining company. This mythical western features Michael Moriarty, Carrie Snodgress, Christopher Penn, Richard Dysart, Richard Kiel, and John Russell as a hired killer. Eastwood's next western was the hit Unforgiven (1992).

PALISADES HIGH

(MCM, 1976) D/S/P: Joseph Ruben (Pom Pom Girls)

Rival California high-school kids hang out, have sex, get in trouble, and have a deadly "chickie run." Robert Carradine and Bill Adler star, with Jennifer Ashley, Lisa Reeves, and Cheryl "Rainbeaux" Smith. This Crown International release was a big drive-in hit. Joseph Ruben went on to make Sleeping with the Enemy and The Stepfather.

PALM SPRINGS WEEKEND

(Warner, 1963) D: Norman Taurog
S: Earl Hamner Jr. P: Michael A. Hoey

Connie Stevens is a high-school girl who pretends to be a rich college student. Troy Donahue is a college basketball captain. They meet during spring vacation, and both of them sing. This was the third and final Troy-and-Connie movie (after Parrish and Susan Slade) and was by the director of eight Elvis movies. The rest of the cast members are better known for TV roles: Ty Hardin, Stefanie Powers, Robert Conrad as the rich-guy villain, Andrew Duggan as the police chief, Jack Weston, Jerry Van Dyke, and Billy Mumy. Warner released the soundtrack.

PANAMA RED

(1976) D/S: Robert C. Chinn

A man (Jim Wingert, who also provides the songs) with a pregnant wife begins dealing pot in shoe boxes. Everybody smokes a lot, black militants rip him off, and cops go after him. It's a comedy, made by a porno director known for making John Holmes movies.

PANDEMONIUM

(MGM, 1981) D: Alfred Sole S: Richard Whitley, Jamie Klein P: Doug Chapin (Thursday the 12th)

Tom Smothers stars as a Mountie, and Paul Reubens (later Pee-wee Herman) is his deputy. This PG-rated slasher spoof from United Artists features Carol Kane as a Carrie-like killer/psychic teen at a cheerleader school. The impressive cast also includes Tab Hunter as the killer, Eve Arden (in her last role), Donald O'Connor, Phil Hartman, Pat Ast, Miles Chapin, Marc McClure, Debralee Scott, Richard Romanus, Kaye Ballard, Sydney Lassick, Edie McClurg, Eileen Brennan, a blond Judge Reinhold, David L. Lander, and Godzilla. The director also gave us the classic, serious horror movie Alice, Sweet Alice and the sexy fantasy Tanya's Island.

PANDEMONIUM

(1987) D/S/P: Hayden Keenan S: Peter Gailey P: Alex Cutler Australia

This comic horror movie is set in a haunted film studio in Sydney. Ghosts, vampires, and an aboriginal Holy Ghost appear. David Argue and Amanda Dole play "dingos."

The Pom Pom Girls, aka Palisades High

PANDORA AND THE FLYING DUTCHMAN

(Kino, 1950) D/S/P: Albert Lewin
P: Joseph Kaufman UK

James Mason is the Dutch sailor who is cursed to sail forever but is saved by the love of a modern-day American woman (Ava Gardner). With Nigel Patrick, Sheila Sim, and Abraham Sofaer. MGM released the 122-minute color romantic fantasy. Jack Cardiff was the cinematographer. Other versions were made in 1923 and 1965 (an opera) in Germany.

PANDORA'S BOX

(Public Media, 1928) D/S: G. W. Pabst
S: Ladislaus Vadja P: George C. Hosetzky
Germany (Die Buchse der Pandora; Lulu)

Louise Brooks (from Kansas) is Lulu, one of the most fascinating female characters ever on the screen. Adapted from two plays by Frank Wedekind, this look at decadence and corruption in Berlin and London was criticized, cut, and censored over the years. Fritz Kortner costars, with Franz (later Francis) Lederer, Alice Roberts as a lesbian countess, and Gustav Diessl as Jack the Ripper. Originally 131 minutes long, it was restored, with new intertitles and a symphonic score, in 1983 and now runs 110 minutes. G.W. Pabst also made the great original version of The Threepenny Opera (1931). Walerian Borowczyk remade Pandora's Box as Lulu (1979), which is also the title of a 1962 Austrian version. Earlier silent versions were made in Germany in 1919 and 1923.

PANIC IN THE CITY

(1968) D/S: Eddie Davis
S: Charles E. Savage P: Earl Lyon

Howard Duff is a government agent who teams up with a radiologist (Linda Cristal) to find out how and why a scientist was killed. Nehemiah Persoff and Anne Jeffries plan to start WWIII by detonating an A bomb in Los Angeles! At the end radiation poisoning kills some people, and Duff sacrifices himself with the bomb over the ocean. The cast also includes Dennis Hopper as Goff, John Hoyt, Stephen McNally, Stanley Clements, and Mike Farrell. It was released by the short-lived Commonwealth United.

PANIC IN THE STREETS

(Fox, 1950) D: Elia Kazan S: Richard Murphy P: Sol C. Siegel

Richard Widmark stars as a New Orleans health inspector in this excellent documentary-style drama. He tries to find a gangster who killed an illegal alien and carries pneumonic plague. Everything was shot on location, on docks, in diners, and in slums, and includes many very real down-and-out local residents. Walter (later Jack) Palance, in his first role, is the man on the run, and Zero Mostel is his partner. With Barbara Bel Geddes, Paul Douglas as a cop, and Tommy Rettig. It's from 20th Century–Fox.

PANTHER GIRL OF THE CONGO

(Republic, 1955) D: Franklin Adreon
S: Ronald Davison

Phyllis Coates stars in one of the last (and cheapest) 12-chapter Republic serials. Most of the jungle-girl footage is from Jungle Girl (1941) and Myron Healey has to rescue her most of the time. With Arthur Space, Gene Roth, ridiculous-looking natives, a man in a gorilla suit, and a giant crayfish. The feature version is called The Claw Monsters. Republic's next (and last) serial, also by Adreon, was King of the Carnival (1955).

PANTHER SQUAD

(Vestron, 1984) D: Peter Knight S: George Freedland P: Daniel Lesoeur France/Belgium

Sybil Danning stars as a mercenary named Ilona, with a team of female commandos, in this Bond-type spy story. She was also an associate producer of this confused, spliced-together movie. With Karin Schubert (who was also in porno movies like The Devil in Mr. Holmes), Shirley Knight (an Oscar nominee in 1960 and 1962 whose career later took a terrible dive), Donald O'Brien, and Jack Taylor.

THE PAPERBOY

(Republic, 1994) D: Douglas Jackson S: David Peckinpah P: Tom Berry Canada

Johnny (Marc Marut) is a 12-year-old suburban-Ohio paperboy who wants a local divorcée (Alexandra Paul) to be his mother. He kills people who get too close to her. With Brigid Tierney as her little daughter, William Katt, Frances Bay, Krista Errickson, and Peaches the dog. It was shot outside Montreal. The screenwriter is Sam Peckinpah's nephew.

PAPERHOUSE

(Vestron, 1988) D: Bernard Rose S: Matthew Jacobs P: Sarah Radclyffe UK

An imaginative 11-year-old girl (Charlotte Burke) lies a lot. When she's bedridden her drawings become real during her fever dreams and affect the life of a dying boy her doctor has told her about. She adds new details to his barren house, but when she crumples up and throws away the drawing the house is in ruins. Ben Cross shows up in scary scenes as her alcoholic father, and Glenne Headly is her mother. The soundtrack (on RCA) is by Hans Zimmer and Stanley Myers. This fascinating PG-13 fantasy is based on the novel Marianne Dreams, by Catherine Storr. It was the feature-film debut of a rock-video director who later came to America and made Candy Man. The video opens with a Joyce Jillson astrology ad.

PAPER MASK

(Academy, 1991) D: Christopher Morahan S: John Collee P: Christopher Morohan, Sue Austin UK

A medical aide (Paul McGann) assumes the identity of a dead doctor. A nurse (Amanda Donohoe) becomes his lover, and he tries to cover up the death of one of his patients. With Barbara Leigh-Hunt, Frederick Treves, and Tom Wilkinson.

THE PARADINE CASE

(Fox, 1947) D: Alfred Hitchcock S: Alma Reville P: David O. Selznick M: Franz Waxman

David O. Selznick has been blamed more than Alfred Hitchcock for this expensive (more than $3 million), long (132-minute), talk-filled box-office flop. It's still worth seeing, though. A happily married lawyer (Gregory Peck) defends and falls for a woman accused of killing her wealthy, crippled husband. Alida Valli (making her US debut) co-stars. This courtroom drama, set in England, features Ann Todd, Charles Laughton, Ethel Barrymore, Charles Coburn, Louis Jourdan, and Leo G. Carroll. Alma Reville (Hitchcock's wife and frequent collaborator) wrote the screenplay, based on a novel by Robert Hichens. The score was later released on an LP with music from Spellbound. The director is seen carrying a cello case. The United Artists release was cut several times, eventually to 116 minutes. A TV remake was presented in 1962 with Richard Basehart, Viveca Lindfors, and Boris Karloff.

PARADISE

(Nelson, 1981) D/S: Stuart Gillard P: Robert Lantos, Stephan J. Roth

Young Phoebe Cates and Willie Aames are alone in the desert, in this ripoff of the previous year's The Blue Lagoon (Columbia sued). They have sex after they see a chimp masturbate. Underwater cameras show Cates swiming naked, but an obvious body double was used for the sex scenes. Cates sang the theme song, which was a hit in Europe. Her father, Joseph Cates, directed Who Killed Teddy Bear? (1965), starring Sal Mineo, and The Fat Spy (1966), with Jayne Mansfield.

PARADISIO

(Starmaker, 1961) S/P: Jacques Henrici S: Lawrence Zeitlin, Henri Haile UK

When Professor Sims (Arthur Howard, the less-famous older brother of Leslie Howard) puts on his special glasses that make clothes disappear we put on red-and-blue 3-D glasses (hope you have a pair; everybody should) and see color segments with naked ladies filmed all over Europe. A smiling, naked girl tends her sheep in a pasture. In a nightclub the professor is happy just to stare at the naked cigarette girl and photographer, but when he accidentally spots a male waiter he quickly looks away and goes, "Owww!" He also gets drunk and faints after seeing a woman with three breasts. Lots of women are viewed around a pool, on the Riviera, and, in my favorite scene, boarding a bus. Eventually Sims is chased all around some ruins in Berlin by spies. The sparse dialogue is dubbed in, but no expense was spared filming on location in Paris, Munich, Venice, and other cities. This is a real time-capsule item, the best of several similar films (including Russ Meyer's The Immoral Mr. Teas), and it seems more friendly and innocent than most of today's leering, cynical TV situation comedies. It was released by Joe Solomon and Fanfare.

PARALYZED

(MPI, 1972) D/S: Aldo Lado P: Dieter Geissler M: Ennio Morricone Italy/W. Germany/Yugoslavia (La Corte Notte delle Bambole di Vetro)

Jean Sorel is a comatose journalist in Prague trying to remember what happened to him. A mad scientist conducts brainwashing experiments, bodies are frozen, and there's a Devil cult of old people who sacrifice naked women. Ingrid Thulin, Barbara Bach, and Mario Adorf costar.

PARANOIA

(NTA, 1968) D/S: Umberto Lenzi S: Ugo Moretti Italy/France (Orgasmo)

Carroll Baker is Katherine West, an alcoholic, rich former NYC artist who arrives at her late Italian husband's villa. A sarcastic hustler (Lou Castel) worms his way into her life and home. They have sex in the shower, on the lawn, by the pool. He brings his sexy, short-haired "sister" (Colette Descombs) along. They both have sex with the confused widow and with each other, drive away the servants, drug her, tie her up, blackmail her with photos, and torture her by playing the same bad rock-and-roll song over and over. At that point she's suicidal: "When I think of myself I want to vomit!" Like most 60s Italian exploitation movies this one has jerky camera work, with lots of fast zooms, and funny music with female voices merrily going "da da dee dee." Director Umberto Lenzi throws in thunder and lightning, some psychedelic sequences, a discotheque scene, and Baker being served a toad by her captors. She starred in two back-to-back films by Lenzi. The other, A Quiet Place to Kill, was also known as Paranoia, causing a lot of filmography confusion. This was rated X in America when released by Fanfare.

PARENTS

(Vestron, 1988) D: Bob Balaban S: Christopher Hawthorne P: Bonnie Palef Canada

Terrified 6-year-old Michael (Bryan Madorsky) has nightmares and starts spying on his cheerful but odd 50s suburban parents. Randy Quaid and Mary Beth Hurt are the Laemmles, who turn out to be killer cannibals. Dad works at a nuke plant. Also in the cast are Sandy Dennis as a school shrink, Graham Jarvis, and Kathryn Grody. This black comedy doesn't really work all the way though, but parts of it are pretty disturbing and it all looks very colorful. It was shot in Toronto. The first-time director acted in Altered States, Close Encounters of the Third Kind, and 2010.

PARIS TROUT

(Media, 1991) S: Stephen Gyllenhaal S: Pete Dexter P: Frank Konigsberg, Larry Sanitsky

Dennis Hopper is Paris Trout, a racist storekeeper in 1949 Georgia who kills a black man. Barbara Hershey is his wife, and Ed Harris is his attorney. It's based on a novel by Pete Dexter. Made for theaters, this serious and violent film debuted on cable TV. A Killing in a Small Town is another superior movie by Stephen Gyllenhall that went straight to TV.

PARTY CAMP

(Vestron, 1986) D/C: Gary Graver S: Paul L. Brown P: Mark Borde

Andrew Ross becomes a camp counselor. This sex comedy features Kerry Brennan, Jewel Shepard, and April Wayne. Most of Graver's many films made around this time were porno.

PARTY INC.

(Starmaker, 1989) D/P: Chuck Vincent S: Craig Horall, Edd Rockis (Party Girls Incorporated)

Marilyn Chambers (playing Marilyn) invites a camera crew to her mansion to film a documentary about her porno-star life so that she can pay off her husband's tax debt. She sings several times in this boring, R-rated sex "comedy," which features a guy in a chicken suit, Ruth Collins, and Christina Veronica. Chambers returned in Breakfast in Bed (1990).

PARTY LINE

(SVS, 1988) D/P: William Webb S: Bernard Brandes P: Tom Byrnes, Kurt Anderson

Former teen idol Leif Garrett and Greta Blackburn star as a rich brother and sister who are psycho killers. She lures men into her bed, and he slashes their throats. In one scene he puts on his mother's wedding dress and masturbates. With Richard Hatch as a cop, Richard Roundtree, former Miss Universe Shawn Weatherly, and Karen Mayo-Chandler.

THE PARTY'S OVER

(1962) D: Guy Hamilton S: Marc Behm P: Anthony Perry

Oliver Reed stars in his first non-Hammer film as Moise, the leader of "the Pack," a group of "depraved beatniks." An American industrialist (Eddie Albert) is upset because his daughter has joined them. Allied Artists released this b/w film in America in 1966. The release was delayed (here and in England) because of censorship problems concerning a sex-with-a-corpse scene. Actor Jack Hawkins was an executive producer, and Annie Ross (later in the sequels to Basket Case) sings the title song. Hamilton directed Goldfinger next.

THE PASSAGE

(1978) D: J. Lee Thompson S: Bruce Nicholayson P: John Quested UK/France

A Basque (Anthony Quinn) helps a Jewish chemist (James Mason) and his family (Patricia Neal, Kay Lenz, and The Beast Within star Paul Clemens) escape over the Pyrenees. An out-of-control Malcolm McDowell as the evil Nazi Captain von Berkow makes you forget the other actors, though. He rants and glares, chops off a partisan's fingers, and sets a Gypsy (Christopher Lee) on fire. McDowell starred in Caligula the same intense year. Also with Michael Lonsdale.

THE PASSENGER

(Warner, 1975) D/S: Michelangelo Antonioni S: Mark Peloe, Pater Wollen P: Carlo Ponti Italy

Most Americans didn't bother with this vague, noncommercial movie set in North Africa. Jack Nicholson is a TV reporter who changes identities with a dead businessman who turns out to have been a gunrunner. With Maria Schneider (Last Tango in Paris), Jenny Runacre, Ian Hendry, Steven Berkoff, and James Campbell as a witch doctor. From MGM. It was the director's first film after Zabriskie Point. Nicholson's next appearance was in Tommy.

PASSENGER 57

(Warner, 1992) D: Kevin Hooks S: David Loughery, Dan Gordon P: Lee Rich

Wesley Snipes (New Jack City) is Cutter, an action-hero airline-security expert, in this violent, Die Hard–inspired hostage movie set on a hijacked jet (and later at a country fair). Bruce Payne is a psycho Euro-terrorist. With Tom Sizemore, Alex Datcher, Robert Hooks as an FBI agent, Ernie Lively, and Elizabeth Hurley. Director Kevin Hooks starred in Aaron Loves Angela (1975), and his father, Robert, was the hero of Trouble Man (1972). The score is by Stanley Clark.

THE PASSING OF EVIL

(Warner, 1970) D: Jerry Paris S/P: Jerry Belson, Garry Marshall (The Grasshopper)

A teen chorus dancer from Canada (Jacqueline Bisset) falls for a former football star (Jim Brown, playing a nice guy) in Las Vegas. He's murdered. She goes to work for an escort service and becomes a hooker and drug addict. After her life is ruined she's arrested for hiring a skywriter to write FUCK in the air. Also with Joseph Cotten and Corbett Monica. The soundtrack (on National General) features the Brooklyn Bridge and Vicki Lawrence. Paris usually directed comedies.

THE PASSING OF THE THIRD FLOOR BACK

(Sinister, 1935) D: Berthold Viertel S: Michael Hogan, Alma Reville UK

A Christ-like man (Conrad Veidt) suddenly appears and helps the miserable tenants of an evil slumlord (Frank Cellier). With Anna Lee, Cathleen Nesbitt, Jack Livesey, and Sara Allgood. This allegorical play by Jerome K. Jerome had also been filmed in 1918. Reville was Hitchcock's wife.

PASSION AND VALOR

(Magnum, 1983) D/S/P: Hall Bartlett (Love Is Forever; Comeback)

Here's a chance to see Little Joe Cartwright meet Emanuelle. Michael Landon (the executive producer) plays real-life Australian journalist John Everingham, who rescued his Laotian girlfriend in Communist Laos. She's played by "black Emanuelle" series star Laura Gemser (aka Moira Chen). Also with Priscilla Presley, Jurgen Prochnow, Edward Woodward, and Gemser's real-life husband, Gabrielle Tinti. Laura Branigan sings the title song. It had a brief theatrical release but debuted on NBC-TV later the same year (at 180 minutes) and was later cut.

PASSIONATE STRANGERS

(1968) D/S: Eddie Romero P: M. J. Parsons Philippines

An American (Michael Parsons) who runs a sugar mill accidentally kills a union organizer, and anti-American demonstrations result. With Valora Noland and Vic Diaz. Romero made this b/w drama the same year as his Brides of Blood.

PASSION IN PARADISE

(A-Pix, 1989) D: Harvey Hart S: Andrew Laskos P: Michael Custance Canada

Armand Assante becomes a murder suspect when the millionaire father of his lover (Catherine Mary Stewart) is killed. Voodoo and sexual rites are involved. With Mariette Hartley, Kevin McCarthy, Michael Sarrazin, Wayne Rogers, and Rod Steiger. It was released (on tape) in 1994.

PASSION IN THE SUN

(SW, 1964) D/P/A: Dale Berry (The Girl and the Geek)

A pleasantly plump stripper (Josette Valague) is kidnapped by two killers, escapes, stops for a nude swim, takes a nap, and dreams (about her own burlesque act!). Meanwhile a howling carny geek (!) complete with a fright wig shows up in the woods and chases her (she's still naked) for a long time. She finally stops to dress and is driven away by a truck, but the geek jumps on top. They end up at a carnival on the wild-mouse ride! The action is interrupted by strip acts at the club she was on her way to perform at and is explained by a narrator. In one scene a dead woman breathes. This recently discovered wonder was made in Texas. The Weird Ones (1962) was the first of many by director Dale Berry(stein).

THE PASSION OF BEATRICE

(Virgin Vision, 1987) D/S: Bertrand Tavernier France (Beatrice)

Medieval witch-burning and all types of debauchery occur in this nightmarish movie. Julie Delpy stars as an innocent girl tortured by a priest (Bernard Pierre Donnadieu). It's subtitled, runs 128 minutes, and features lots of nudity. The second-unit director was horror specialist Ricardo Freda.

PASSION PLAY: See LOVE LETTERS

A PASSION TO KILL

(A-Pix, 1994) D: Rick King S: William Delligan P: Bruce Cohn Curtis

Scott Bakula is another of those idiot movie shrinks. He falls for the obviously deranged wife (Chelsea Field) of his best friend (John Getz). Her former husband (Rex Smith) tries to warn people that she's a psycho using a fake identity. This soap-opera/slasher movie takes place in beach houses and features Field and Bakula in a car sex scene. Sheila Kelly is a jealous and foolish assistant DA, France Nuyen is a wise shrink, and Eddie Velez is a cop.

THE PASSOVER PLOT

(Warner, 1976) D: Michael Campus S: Millard Cohen, Patricia Knop P: Menahem Golan US/Israel

Forget about The Last Temptation of Christ. This movie was first. It shows Christ (Zalman King) as a false messiah. He fakes miracles, hallucinates, and plans his own crucifixion and resurrection. With Harry Andrews, Hugh Griffith, Donald Pleasence as Pontius Pilate, Scott Wilson as Judas, Robert Walker Jr., and Dan Hedaya. It's based on a book by Hugh J. Schonfeld.

PASSPORT TO CHINA

(1960) D/P: Michael Carreras S: Gordon Bentley UK (Visa to Canton)

Richard Basehart stars as a pilot who goes to China to rescue an American (Lisa Gastoni) and ends up helping refugees. This color Hammer film features Eric Pohlmann and Burt Kwouk. Parts were filmed in Hong Kong. Columbia released it in b/w in America.

PAST MIDNIGHT

(Columbia, 1991) D: Jan Eliasberg S: Frank Norwood P: Lisa M. Hansen

Rutger Hauer stars as a convicted killer on parole in Washington State after serving 15 years for killing his wife. Natasha Richardson, a social worker living in a remote house, believes he's innocent. She falls in love with him, but after she does some research she thinks that maybe he did do it. A b/w 8mm snuff film proves who the killer is. There's good acting, a bloody arm, and a reference to David Goodis novels. Clancy Brown and Guy Boyd costar. It was written by a former social worker, but Quentin Tarantino (an associate producer) probably wrote the screenplay using a pseudonym.

PAST TENSE

(Republic, 1994) D: Graeme Clifford S: Scott Frost, Miguel Tejada-Flores P: Stephen Brown

Scott Glenn stars as a craggy novelist and cop. Lara Flynn Boyle is a friendly neighbor who is killed. The authorities claim that she never existed. There are flashbacks. With Anthony LaPaglia.

PAT GARRETT AND BILLY THE KID

(MGM, 1973) D: Sam Peckinpah S/A: Rudy Wurlitzer P: Gordon Carroll

Sheriff Pat Garrett (James Coburn) tracks down and kills Billy the Kid (Kris Kristofferson). MGM drastically cut and reedited this unique, rambling western, adding an opening scene with Garrett as an old man. Another version was created for TV, with violence and nudity cut and new scenes added. The full 122-minute version was finally made available on video in the early 90s. Sam Peckinpah directed this after the success of The Wild Bunch and Straw Dogs, but it was developed by Rudy Wurlitzer and Monte Hellman (who was at one time supposed to direct). Bob Dylan plays Alias, wrote the instrumental music, and provided the famous song "Knockin' on Heaven's Door" (on the Columbia soundtrack LP). The cast also includes Jason Robards as the governor, Richard Jaeckel, Katy Jurado, and the ultimate collection of desert-scum character actors: Chill Wills, Slim Pickens, R.G. Armstrong, Matt Clark, Jack Elam, L.Q. Jones, Dub Taylor, Harry Dean Stanton, and Luke Askew. Also with Rita Coolidge, Charles Martin Smith, Rutanya Alda, Elisha Cook Jr., Gene Evans, John Beck, Paul Fix, and Barry Sullivan (TV version only).

PATRICK 2

(VSOM, 1980) D: Mario Landi S: Piero Regnoli P: Gabrielle Cristani Italy (Patrick Vive Ancora)

Patrick is a 1978 Australian movie about a comatose young telekinetic killer. This gorier "sequel" has Patrick (Gianni Dei) in a new clinic. People are decapitated, boiled alive, and torn apart by dogs. Carmen Russo costars.

THE PATRIOT

(Vestron, 1986) D/C: Frank Harris S: Andy Ruben, Katt Shea Ruben P: Michael Bennett

Gregg Henry is after terrorists who are intercepting government nuclear weapons. Most of the action takes place underwater. The cast also includes Simone Griffeth, Michael J. Pollard, Jeff Conaway, and Leslie Nielsen. It's from Crown International.

PATRIOT GAMES

(Paramount, 1992) D: Phillip Noyce S: Peter Iliff, Donald Stewart P: Mace Neufeld, Robert Rehme

A grim Harrison Ford takes over as former CIA agent Jack Ryan in this follow-up to The Hunt for Red October. Irish terrorists (Sean Bean and Patrick Bergin) are the problem, and there's a boat-chase climax. With Anne Archer as his wife, Thora Birch as his daughter, Richard Harris, Samuel L. Jackson, James Fox, and James Earl Jones. Clear and Present Danger (1994), also starring Ford and directed by Phillip Noyce, followed. All are based on Tom Clancy novels. Ford, who once had to give up his film-acting career and work as a carpenter, has so far starred in three incredibly popular series.

PATTY

(1975) D/S/P: Robert L. Roberts S: Joyce Richards

The director of Sweet Savior (about Charles Manson) returned with this X-rated exploitation movie about Patty Hearst. "Real" experts and doctors sit around and discuss what happened, and Sarah Nicholson (a porno actress) plays Hearst in the sex and conditioning scenes. Also with Renay Granville, Lenny Montana (The Godfather), and Jamie Gillis. The Stang records soundtrack features music by the Moments, the Rimshots, and Chuck Jackson. The Abduction (1975), Tanya (1976), and Patty Hearst (1988) are also "about" Hearst. The real Patty showed up in John Waters's Cry-Baby and Serial Mom.

PAYBACK

(Republic, 1990) D: Russell Solberg S/A: Corey Michael Eubanks P: Bob Eubanks

An escaped con (Corey Michael Eubanks) goes after a drug-dealer and killer (Don Swayze). The stunt-specialist star is the son of the host of The Newlywed Game (who produced this). With Michael Ironside, Teresa Blake as a sheriff's daughter, and Vince Van Patten. The same people made Forced to Kill.

PAYBACK

(Vidmark, 1994) D: Anthony Hickox S/P: Sam Bernard P: Nathan Zahavi

After 13 years in jail C. Thomas Howell (with a droopy mustache) stays with a couple at their remote oceanside café in order to kill the former owner, a sadistic prison guard (Marshall Bell), now blind, and locate a hidden treasure. Meanwhile he's seduced by the wife (Joan Severance). A deputy sheriff and a black ex-con cause problems as the ludicrous plot twists add up. The selling point, though, is sex scenes. One copies the remake of The Postman Always Rings Twice closely, but the good one features Severance and Howell naked on top of a car. The funniest scene has Howell as a cartoonish-look "punk" holdup man, and the most surprising scene has him totally naked and filthy in solitary confinement. This is the R version, but an unrated one is also available. R. G. Armstrong is an old convict. Howell and Severance were also paired in Dangerous Indiscretion the same year.

PAYMENT IN BLOOD

(1967) D/S: Enzo Girolami S: Tito Carpi Italy (7 Winchester per un Massacro; Renegade Riders)

Edd "Kookie" Byrnes stars as a bounty hunter who pretends to join a group of former Confederate soldiers who are after a fortune in gold. Guy Madison and Louise Barrett costar. Byrnes was also in Any Gun Can Play the same year.

PAYOFF

(Media, 1991) D: Stuart Cooper S: David Weisberg P: Andrew Sugarman, William Stuart

An ex-cop (Keith Carradine) seeks revenge for the death of his parents. There's also a casino robbery plot at Lake Tahoe. With Kim Griest, Harry Dean Stanton, John Saxon as a Mafia boss, and Jeff Corey. It debuted on Showtime.

PCU

(Fox, 1994) D: Hart Bochner S: Adam Leff, Zak Penn P: Paul Schiff

In what tries to be an Animal House for the 90s, Jeremy Piven leads a coed gang who live in a dorm called the Pit and clash with politically correct groups at Port Chester University. Chris Young and David Spade costar, with Sarah Trigger, Megan Ward, and Jessica Walter as the school president. George Clinton and Parliament play. This PG-13 feature was made by the original screenwriters of Last Action Hero.

THE PEACE KILLERS

(Starmaker, 1971) D/C/E: Douglas Schwartz S: Michael Berk

Violent bikers terrorize a peaceful commune. They tie the Christ-look leader to a giant peace symbol, and in one scene guys on motorcycles chase a woman on horseback. With Michael Ontkean, Clint Ritchie, and Albert Popwell. New World released it.

PEACEMAKER

(Fries, 1990) D/S: Kevin S. Tenney P: Andrew Lane

A humanoid alien cop (Robert Forster) fights a killer humanoid alien (Lance Edwards) on Earth. Both are violent and indestructible, and both claim to be the good guy, which keeps things interesting for a while. Also with Hilary Shepard as an LA-police medical examiner who is kidnapped, Robert Davi as a cop, and Bert Remsen.

THE PEANUT BUTTER SOLUTION

(Starmaker, 1985) D/S: Michael Rubbo P: Rock Demers, Nicole Robert Canada

When 11-year-old Mathew Mackay visits a haunted house he loses his hair. Then friendly ghosts put a concoction on his head that makes his hair grow back extremely fast. He's kidnapped, and his hair is used to make paint brushes. It's a Cineplex Odeon production.

LA PEAU DE TORPEDO

(1969) D/S: Jean Delannoy S: Jean Cau France/Italy/W. Germany

A Parisian woman (Stéphane Audran) shoots her art-dealer husband and blames a spy ring. Klaus Kinski and Lilli Palmer costar.

Paul Reubens in Pee-wee's Big Adventure.

PEEK-A-BOO

(SW, 1953) D: Lillian Hunt

Strippers alternate with three comedians in this filmed burlesque show, which opens with a carny barker who raps about the sideshow. The strippers go as far as pasties, G-strings, and high heels and always bow when done. The final name-value stripper is Venus. In a ball-toss comedy routine "I killed a colored boy yesterday" is a joke. William C. Thompson of Ed Wood movie fame was the cinematographer. The b/w print is excellent. A short (Bust-a-Rama) with three strippers is also on the video, presented by David F. Friedman.

PEEK-A-BOO

(1954) D: Jean Loubignac S/A: Robert Dhéry P: Edgar Bacquet France (Ah! Les Belles Bacchantes)

A small-town police inspector (Louis de Funès) checks out a variety show with strippers. This color nudie comedy includes several staged numbers with naked women. Fanfare released a cut version in 1961.

THE PEEK SNATCHERS

(SW, 1965) D: Joseph P. Mawra P: George Weiss

Watching a "tel-star machine" (a TV), two burlesque comics see various burlesque routines and more comics. Women dance and strip down to pasties and G-strings, and one puts snakes into her mouth. Princess Ming Chu is the headliner. This 50s-style b/w adult movie might get a PG-13 today.

PEER GYNT

(1941) D/S/P/C: David Bradley S: Thomas A Blair

As a student at Northwestern University, 18-year-old Charlton Heston starred in this silent, b/w, 16mm, amateur version of the Henrik Ibsen fantasy play. It was filmed in Illinois and Wisconsin, near where Heston grew up. The director later filmed other classics, including Shakespeare's Julius Caesar (1949), also with Heston. In 1964 he directed They Saved Hitler's Brain! In 1965 new footage was added to Peer Gynt, narration was added (by Francis X. Bushman), and it played in some theaters, opening at the same time as Heston was starring in The War Lord. I wonder how many viewers paid to see it, thinking it was a new (real) movie! And why isn't this on video?

PEE-WEE'S BIG ADVENTURE

(Warner, 1985) D: Tim Burton S: Phil Hartman, Michael Varhol S/A: Paul Reubens P: Robert Shapiro, Richard Gilbert Abramson M: Danny Elfman

Pee-wee Herman (Paul Reubens) searches for his bicycle. This PG comedy/fantasy hit was the first feature by 25-year-old former animator Tim Burton, and it's a riot. Pee-wee visits the Alamo, dances to "Tequila," and meets Large Marge (!). With Elizabeth Daily, Diane Salinger, Ed Herlihy, Cassandra Peterson, Josh Brolin, Morgan Fairchild, Milton Berle, Tony Bill, Twisted Sister, dinosaurs, and Ghidrah. The Pee-wee character was first seen in a 1982 TV special on HBO, then in the (toned-down) TV series (released on Media Video).

PEGGY SUE GOT MARRIED

(Fox, 1986) D/P: Francis Ford Coppola S: Jerry Leichtling, Arlene Sarner P: Paul R. Gurian M: John Barry

Coppola made this PG-13 Capra-style fantasy because he needed money, and the movie got him out of debt. It was supposed to be directed by Penny Marshall and star Debra Winger. Kathleen Turner passes out during her 25th class reunion, goes back in time, and relives high school. Some of the acting is excellent, it's a lot more thought-provoking than Back to the Future and its sequels, and John Carradine has his last role in a real feature. With Nicolas Cage, Barry Miller, Catherine Hicks, Kevin J. O'Connor, Barbara Harris, Don Murray, Maureen O'Sullivan, Marshall Crenshaw, Leon Ames, Jim Carrey, and Helen Hunt.

PEKING OPERA BLUES

(Rainbow, 1986) D/P: Tsui Hark S: To Kwok Wai Hong Kong

In the early 1900s three women from different backgrounds help expose a government conspiracy. This movie has great action, politics, and comedy. Sally Yeh is a singer and thief, Lin Ching Hsia is a revolutionary who is the daughter of a corrupt general, and Cherie Chung is an aspiring actress whose father runs the opera (which employs men in female roles).

THE PENALTY

(Fright, 1920) D: Wallace Woolsey S: Charles Kenyon, Philip Lonergan P: Samuel Goldwyn

You won't believe this incredible Lon Chaney movie. He's Blizzard, a scary, sadistic, sneering, manipulative, romantic, piano-playing "master of the underworld" on San Francisco's Barbary Coast. He's also a vengeance-seeking "cripple from Hell" because his legs were (needlessly) amputated when he was a child. The acrobatic, legless Chaney is simply amazing, using slides, ramps, trapdoors, and poles to get around, conveying every emotion in the book (often several at once), and posing for a bust of Satan! This 76-year-old movie has flashbacks, flashforwards, and mob riot scenes (shot on location). It also has a drug addict, a naked model, slave-girl hat makers, and an undercover female cop. It was reissued by MGM in 1926. The print is excellent. There is no soundtrack. Recommended!

PENITENTIARY

(Tempe, 1979) D/S/P: Jamaa Fanaka

Leon Isaac Kennedy (from Cleveland) is Martel "Too Sweet" Gordone, a boxer who's sent to prison for killing a biker. He's put into a cell with a boxing trainer and competes in fights, eventually winning his freedom. Nearly everybody in this pretty realistic prison movie has names like Seldom Seen, Hi-Fi, and Half Dead. With Floyd Chatham, Tommy Pollard, and Hazel Spears. It was released by Jerry Gross.

PENITENTIARY II

(MGM, 1982) D/S/P: Jamaa Fanaka

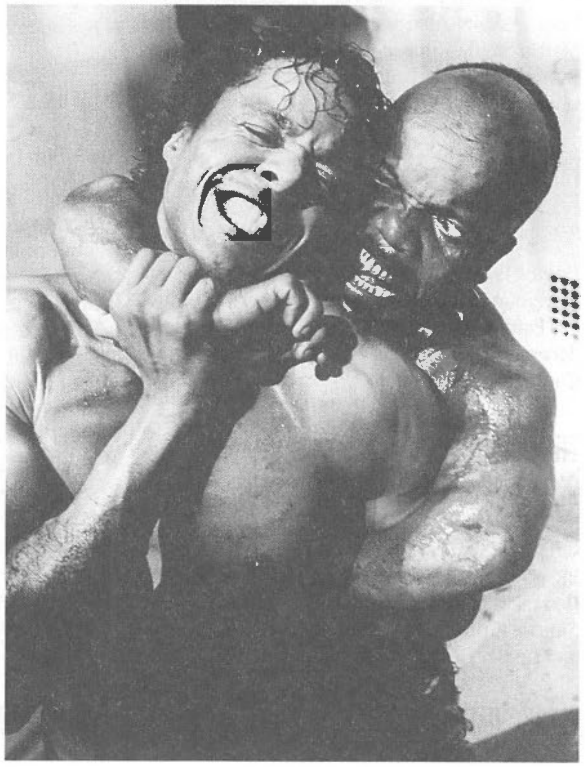
Leon Isaac Kennedy returns as Too Sweet, now on parole and working as a messenger on skates. Half Dead (Ernie Hudson) escapes from prison and kills his girlfriend, and Too Sweet ends up back in prison because of a big (fixed) fight. This sequel is more exploitative than the original, with more outrageous stuff about hookers, a midget, and Mr. T. as himself. Also with Rudy Ray Moore, Glynn Turman, and Peggy Blow. MGM released this one, so more people saw it.



Leon Isaac Kennedy and Kessler Raymond in Penitentiary III.

PENITENTIARY III

(Warner, 1987) D/S/P: Jamaa Fanaka
P/A: Leon Isaac Kennedy

Leon Isaac Kennedy (this time with a little ponytail) is back in jail for killing a man (it was another setup). General Hospital star Anthony Geary is Serengeti, a rich prisoner with spiky white hair and ear studs who never speaks above a whisper. He has a French chef and enjoys manicures from his companion in drag (Jim Bailey). Guards in protective suits and helmets are seen leading what sounds like a ferocious lion down the prison corridor. It's the Midnight Thud, who turns out to be a killer martial-arts-fighting midget! Raymond Kessler (aka the Haiti Kid) is the Thud. After howling and beating our hero with a lead pipe, he's returned to a rat-infested dungeon where he smokes crack and watches 16mm films! Then Too Sweet is given shock treatments and becomes incoherent. He's scheduled to fight Big Hugo but needs training. Suddenly the crazed Thud cleans up his act and dresses and acts normal. He gives a lecture (with his Jamaican accent) about the soul of man, trains the proud Too Sweet (in slow motion), and proves that "it's amazing what a little self-respect can do for a man!" It's amazing what Jamaa Fanaka can do with a sequel. Forget all those clichéd prison/horror movies. This is the one. It's from Cannon. RCA released the various artists soundtrack.

PENN AND TELLER GET KILLED

(Warner, 1989) D/P: Arthur Penn
S/A: Penn Jillette, Teller

The famous comic magicians play "themselves." On a TV show Penn suggests that a viewer try and kill him. The movie features magic, murder, blood, gore, tumor surgery, suicide jokes, and eyeball-plucking reality. It also has Trump Tower and Diet Coke plugs. With Caitlin Clarke, Jon Cryer, Christopher Durang, and Eddie Goredetsky. Some Velvet Underground music is heard, and Teller talks. Also look for Penn and Teller's Cruel Tricks for Dear Friends.

THE PENTHOUSE

(VSOM, 1967) D/S: Peter Collinson
P: Harry Fine UK

People who call themselves Tom, Dick, and Harry terrorize an adulterous couple (Suzy Kendall and Terence Morgan) in a penthouse apartment. This color movie, although not graphic, features sex, drugs, bondage, and rape that still shock viewers. Martine Beswicke, who plays Harry, is one of the main attractions. From Paramount. United Artists issued the soundtrack, with dialogue.

THE PENTHOUSE

(Turner, 1989) D: David Greene S: William Wood, Frank DeFelita P: Harold Tichenor Canada

Robin Givens is the star, but David Hewlett (Pin and Scanners II) is the reason to watch this. He's convincing as an obsessed, childish, suicidal killer psycho who escapes from a mental hospital and decides to hold the rich daughter (Givens) of a record exec (Robert Guillaume) hostage in her penthouse. He also booby-traps the building with dynamite. It was filmed in Vancouver. The video is "rated" M. Givens was better in A Rage in Harlem. A 1967 British film has the same title (see above), and there's a 1933 film called Penthouse.

PENTHOUSE LOVE STORIES

(Penthouse, 1986)

Scream-queen fans will want to check out this soft-core sex anthology with Michelle Bauer, Monique Gabrielle, Julie Parton, Barbara Peckinpah, Shauna Grant/Coleen Applegate, Raven, and Xaviera Hollander as herself. Penthouse on the Wild Side (1989) features most of same cast.

THE PEOPLE NEXT DOOR

(1970) D: David Greene S: J. P. Miller
P: Herbert Brodkin M: Don Sebesky

Maxie (Deborah Winters), a suburban teen, takes LSD, and her parents (Eli Wallach and Julie Harris) freak out. They blame their son (Stephen McHattie) and throw him out. Later on they find out that the supplier is their next-door neighbor (Don Scardino, from Squirm), whose parents are Hal Holbrook and Cloris Leachman. Also with Rue McClanahan, Nehemiah Persoff, and the Bead Game as themselves playing at a party (where Maxie tries STP). Avco Embassy released the movie and the soundtrack. It's based on a 1968 TV play.

THE PEOPLE UNDER THE STAIRS

(MCA, 1991) D/S: Wes Craven
P: Marianne Maddelena, Stuart M. Besser

This is a bizarre, cartoonish horror comedy with a social and political message. Brandon Adams stars as a bright little ghetto kid called Fool. He goes along with a man (Ving Rhames, from Pulp Fiction) to break into a big old house. The landlords are an insane, depraved, hyped-up brother and sister who keep pathetic, zombie-like, captive cannibals (whose tongues have been cut out) in the many secret passages of the house and abuse a captive teen girl (A. J. Langer). They also own the decaying ghetto apartment Fool lives in and have so much money that they just throw it all into the basement. Everett McGill and Wendy Robie (then known for playing a couple in the TV series Twin Peaks) have a killer Rottweiler, shotguns, and rubber suits. Too bad the set is so cramped and everything is so dark. The soundtrack was released by Bay Cities. After this Craven created Nightmare Café, a short-lived TV series with Robert Englund.

PERCY

(1971) D: Ralph Thomas S: Hugh Leonard P: Betty Box UK

A young man (the very dull Hywel Bennett) who has had a penis transplant wants to find out who the late, anonymous donor was, so he visits recent widows. Denholm Elliott is a professor who uses endless double entendres. With Janet Key as a cheating wife, Tracy Crisp (seen in bondage gear), and Sue Lloyd. Britt Ekland and Elke Sommer have topless scenes as girlfriends of the donor. There's footage of the Rolling Stones at Hyde Park and a man in a gorilla suit. Thomas had directed the Doctor in the House movies. The soundtrack (which features a couple of excellent Kinks ballads, including "The Way Love Used to Be") was released only in England. The sequel is called It's Not the Size That Counts in America.

THE PERFECT BRIDE

(Fox, 1990) D: Terrence O'Hara S: Claire Montgomery, Monte Montgomery P: Pierre David

Sammi Davis-Voss stars as Stephanie, a British "nurse," in this (very good) ripoff of The Stepfather. In America (probably Canada, actually) she kills her fiancé with a syringe, then moves on to another one and stays with his family. Anybody who suspects something is wrong dies, except for the unsuspecting guy's sister (Kelly Preston), who tries to save her family from the cute but devious psycho. Davis-Voss is pretty amazing when she loses her cool (which is pretty often), and John Agar has his best and largest role in years. He's a senile but cheerful grandfather who could have been comedy relief but isn't. The feature debuted on the USA Network.

PERFECT STRANGERS

(Nelson, 1984) D/S: Larry Cohen
P: Paul Kurta (Blind Alley)

Anne Carlisle (Liquid Sky) is a single mom whose 3-year-old son (Matthew Stockley) witnesses a mob hit in an alley. The kid can't really talk yet, but the killer (Brad Rijn, from Smithereens) thinks that he can identify him, so he starts a romance with the mom. With Steven Lack (Scanners) as a detective and Ann Magnuson. The scenes of the killer going after the kid are especially good. Witness (1985) used the same idea, and Dangerous Affection (1987), a TV movie, was a close copy. Cohen also filmed in Katz's deli years before When Harry Met Sally . . . did. Cohen made this and Special Effects quickly, back to back. He hired a cast of mostly NYC "underground" actors and shot on location in the Village.

PERFECT VICTIMS

(Academy, 1988) D/S: Shuki Levy S: Joe Hailey, Bob Barron P: Jonathan Braun (Hidden Rage)

In this tasteful exploitation movie an AIDS-infected killer rapes two models. Deborah Shelton stars as the head of a model agency. With Lyman Ward, Clarence Williams III, John Agar, and Jackie Swanson.

THE PERFECT WEAPON

(Paramount, 1990) D/P: Mark DiSalle
S: David Campbell Wilson P: Pierre David

Jeff Speakman (a real black belt) stars as a kenpo karate-fighting hero who battles the Korean Mafia in LA's Koreatown. James Hong is a mob lord with a superstrong yakuza bodyguard (Professor Tanaka). With Mako, Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa, and Mariska Hargitay. Some of the fight scenes are pretty good, but most of it is about as exciting as a Karate Kid movie. It's by the director of Kickboxer. The hit "The Power" is from this movie. Speakman returned in Street Knight.

THE PERFECT WOMAN

(1981) D/P: Robert Emenegger

An alien king sends two idiots to Earth to find him a queen, in this very stupid comedy made for Gold Key syndicated TV. Cameron Mitchell, who co-stars, did half a dozen films for the company. With Fred Willard, Rudy Vallee, Marie Windsor, Peter Kastner, and Barry Gordon.

THE PERILS OF GWENDOLINE (IN THE LAND OF YIK YAK)

(Vestron, 1983) D/S: Just Jaeckin P: Jean-Claude Fleury France (The Perils of Gwendoline in the Land of the Yik-Yak)

The director of the original Emmanuelle made this fantasy/adventure based on John Willie's 1940s erotic comic strip. Tawny Kitaen is Gwendoline, who's searching for her father in the Far East. Brent Huff is a soldier of fortune who helps her, and Bernadette Lafont is an evil queen. It copies Barbarella and the Raiders movies and features sexy costumes, some cartoonish violence and S&M, lots of topless Amazon women in a kingdom under the desert, and cannibals. The American Kitaen (later a regular in the TV series Hercules, and then briefly in the spotlight as a girlfriend of O. J. Simpson) has several nude scenes. With Zabou and Jean Rougerie.

THE PERILS OF NYOKA: See NYOKA AND THE TIGERMEN

THE PERILS OF PAULINE

(Stokey, 1934) D: Ray Taylor S: Ella O'Neill, Basil Dickey, George H. Plympton

This 12-chapter Universal serial is a remake of the famous 1914 Pathé serial. Blond Evelyn Knapp stars as the daughter of a scientist, with Robert Allen and James Durkin. The plot concerns an ancient civilization and an evil doctor who's after a formula for a deadly gas on an ivory disc. Some chapters are "The Mummy Walks" and "Pursued by Savages." The 1947 The Perils of Pauline is supposed to be about Pearl White (star of the original), and the 1967 film is the pilot for a TV series.

THE PERILS OF P.K.

(1986) D: Joseph Green S/A/M/E: Nora Hayden P/A: Sheila McCrea

Nora Hayden (The Angry Red Planet) stars as a has-been actress now doing strip shows. She goes to a shrink (Dick Shawn), and we see her fantasies and flashbacks. The oddball comic cast includes Kaye Ballard, Heather MacRae, Larry (and Norman) Storch, Sammy Davis Jr. (and his wife, Altovese), Louise Lasser, Professor Irwin Corey, Jackie Mason, Joey Heatherton, Anne Meara, and Virginia Graham! Hayden later became a health-book writer. It's by the director of The Brain That Wouldn't Die.

PERILS OF THE JUNGLE

(1953) D: George Blair S: Frank Art Taussig, Robert T. Smith P: Robert White Jr.

This 63-minute Lippert cheapie was the end of the jungle trail for 30s star Clyde Beatty. He searches for rare lions. Phyllis Coates, TV's first Lois Lane, costars, with John Doucette.

PERSONA

(MGM, 1966) D/S/P: Ingmar Bergman C: Sven Nykvist Sweden

Liv Ullmann stars as a famous stage actress who has a nervous breakdown. Bibi Andersson is a nurse assigned to care for her at a seaside cottage in this b/w film. The identity-switch idea was later copied in Performance, and other films borrowed the experimental cinematic techniques. It was a Lopert release. It was followed by Ingmar Bergman's Hour of the Wolf and Shame, completing a fantasy trilogy for patient viewers.

PERSONAL CHOICE

(1989) D/S: David Saperstein P: Joseph Perez

An ex-astronaut (Martin Sheen) suffers from fatal radiation poisoning due to his 70s moon walk. The barely released, talky film costars Christian Slater, Robert Foxworth, Sharon Stone, Olivia D'Abo, and F. Murray Abraham.

THE PERSONALS

(1981) D/S/C: Peter Markle P: Patrick Wells

A recently divorced man (Bill Schoppert) places a personal ad and falls for a married woman (Karen Landry). New World released this PG independent comedy made in Minneapolis.

THE PERVERSE COUNTESS

(VSOM, 1973) D/S: "Clifford Brown"/Jess Franco France (La Comtesse Perverse)

Howard Vernon and Alice Arno are the flesh-eating Count and Countess Zaroff in a movie that copies The Most Dangerous Game. Lina Romay is tricked by Robert Woods into spending time with him on their island. Eventually Arno (naked but with a bow and arrows) chases Romay (also naked) through the woods. This dubbed version contains some hard-core sex footage from an alternative European version.

PERVERSE PREACHERS, FASCIST FUNDAMENTALISTS, AND KRISTIAN KIDDIE KOOKS

(Zontar Home Video, 1991)

Zontar magazine editor Jan Johnson slaved over countless hours of cable and local TV religious broadcasting to compile this brilliant, two-hour compilation video. It's the ultimate mondo movie. See the worst of self-serving preachers, like Pat Robertson, Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker, Jerry Falwell, Oral Roberts, Jimmy Swaggart, and Dr. Jack Van Impe! Hear about how Communism, 666, and heavy-metal music will result in Armageddon! Any day now! See Captain Hook, "the Christian pirate" (with singing puppets and a ventriloquist's dummy who raps), make sinning children walk the plank! And if you think that's bad there's a segment on New Age shows and commercials that will leave you speechless.

PETER CUSHING: A ONE-WAY TICKET TO HOLLYWOOD

(Blood Times, 1988) D: Alan Bell P: Gillian Harrow UK

Peter Cushing proves to be very funny (and romantic) in this British TV documentary about his life and films. He talks about being directed by James Whale in Hollywood in 1939 and meeting his wife in Montreal. Cushing was known at one time as a TV star, so rare scenes from the BBC version of 1984, the Morecambe and Wise comedy show, and a Pils commercial are shown. Cushing sings, rides a bike, and imitates Christopher Lee's voice. The reason there is less about Hammer films than you'd expect is that this was produced by rival Tyburn, which also frequently hired Cushing (who died in 1994).

PETEY WHEATSTRAW

(Active, 1977) D/S: Cliff Roquette P: Theodore Tony (The Devil's Son-in-Law)

More people should see this outrageous fantasy/comedy. Petey Wheatstraw, or "Mr. Excitement" (Rudy Ray Moore), is a legendary comedian and club owner who makes a deal with the Devil in Hell after rival club owners Skillet and Leroy have his friends machine-gunned at a funeral. Petey has sex with a whole room full of women and fights caped, horned devils in tights. There are fast-motion chases, slow-motion deaths, a scene shown backwards, watermelon jokes, kung-fu fighting, and a guy scared shitless. Don't miss the incredible rhyming intro and the birth of Petey Wheatstraw. With Ebony Wright as the Devil's daughter and Sy Richardson. The soundtrack was released by Magic Disk. Moore, Skillet and Leroy, and costars Jimmy Lynch, Wildman Steve, and Lady Reed all recorded for Laff records. Record Rendezvous in Cleveland used to stock them all.

PETS

(Imperial, 1973) D/P: Raphael Nussbaum S: Richard Reich

Candice Rialson stars as Bonnie, a hitchhiker. She seduces an older man while another woman throws his poodle off a cliff. She encounters a lesbian artist played by Joan Blackman (who was in two Elvis movies). Then she becomes the captive of a rich art collector with a bullwhip (Ed Bishop, from the TV series UFO), who keeps women (one is black) in cages in his castle. The captives appear topless and in collars and chains and are whipped. With K. T. Stevens. It was released by Mardi Rustam.

PET SEMATARY

(Paramount, 1989) D: Mary Lambert S/A: Stephen King P: Richard R. Rubenstein M: Elliot Goldenthal

A magical Indian burial ground in rural Maine revives a cat, so a dense father whose kid walked into the path of a speeding truck thinks, "Why not my dead baby?" A killer zombie baby results. This very serious and grim horror movie was cut for an R rating. It still has some gory scenes, plus dream sequences and a helpful ghost. Dale Midkiff and Denise Crosby star. Fred Gwynne (with an overdone accent) costars. I hated it, but for some reason it was the most successful Stephen King adaptation (after Misery and The Shining) up to that time. King has a bit as a minister. The Ramones do the end theme. Varèse Sarabande released the soundtrack.

PET SEMATARY II

(Paramount, 1992) D: Mary Lambert
S: Richard Outten P: Ralph S. Singleton

Here's another sequel that's even worse than the first movie. It has false scares, nightmares, gore, rape, and topless scenes. Lots of animals (not real) are killed. A vet (a balding Anthony Edwards) and his son (Edward Furlong) move near the magical graveyard in Maine. Furlong and a new friend revive a dead dog. Then the asshole local sheriff (Clancy Brown) is revived (why??), followed by the dead actress mom (Darlanne Fluegel). Also with Jared Rushton and Sarah Trigger. Stephen King had nothing to do with this one, which was filmed in Georgia. Steve Johnson did the convincing FX. The rock soundtrack includes Traci Lords singing and the Ramones' "Poison Heart" as an end theme.

PETRIFIED BEAST FROM THE FROZEN ZONE

(Dark Dreams, 1990) D/S/A/M/E: Fred Hopkins

Many directors use stock footage, but Fred Hopkins has gone too far! Most of this movie consists of b/w abominable-snowman-movie footage from Half Human, The Snow Creature, and Man Beast, with the bizarre (color) nightclub sequence from Fireball Jungle thrown in, plus some more science-fiction-movie footage. The rest is Hopkins (as Fred Vortex) ranting (with his unsynced voice) in an office, a guy in a bear mask, and some (very good) local Seattle bands playing live.

PHANTASM II

(MCA, 1988) D/S: Don Coscarelli
P: Roberto A. Quezada

A better-known actor (James LeGros) stars as Mike this time. He and a girl share dreams. Angus Scrimm returns as the mysterious "tall man" at the mausoleum. The floating killer spheres are improved, and there's a big fight with flamethrowers and a chainsaw. It's more like a more morbid remake of the 1979 movie (a personal fave) than a sequel, but it has its moments (and some flashbacks to the original). With Reggie Bannister (returning from the original), Paula Irving, Samantha Phillips, and Stacy Travis. Silver Screen released a soundtrack recording with music from both films by Fred Myrow and Malcolm Seagrave.

PHANTASM 3

(MCA, 1994) D/S/P: Don Coscarelli

Reggie (star Reggie Bannister) and Mike (Michael Baldwin, returning from the first Phantasm) continue trying to find and destroy "the tall man" (Angus Scrimm). They're joined by a tough black female army vet with nunchucks named Rocky (Gloria Lynn Henry) and a kid (Kevin Connors) with a killer Frisbie. Rocky says, "This kickin' zombie ass just ain't my thing" but sticks around long enough for a cat fight in a mausoleum and a topless sex scene. This sequel has laughing zombies, various spheres, flashbacks, nightmares, and a very irritating nonending. A very impressive real, large, old mausoleum was used. The cast also includes Bill Thornbury (returning from the first movie) as the spirit of Mike's brother and John David Chandler (star of the 1961 movie Mad Dog Coll). This Universal release is padded with scenes from the first two movies.

THE PHANTOM

(Stokey, 1943) D: B. Reeves Eason S: Morgan B. Cox, Victor McLeod, Sherman Lowe P: Rudolph C. Flothow

Tom Tyler stars as the costumed jungle hero based on a comic strip by Lee Falk and Ray Moore. The "ageless" character (who also appears as Godfrey Prescott) lasts forever because whenever he dies a son always takes over. This 15-chapter Columbia serial features Jeanne Bates, Kenneth R. MacDonald, Frank Shannon, and Ace the dog.

THE PHANTOM CHARIOT

(Redemption, 1920) D/S/A: Victor Sjöström
Sweden (Körkarlen; The Stroke of Midnight; The Phantom Carriage; Thy Soul Shall Bear Witness)

A drunken failure (Victor Sjöström) dies, but his spirit is doomed to collect the spirits of the dead and take them to the land of the dead. This flashback-filled film is partially tinted. It's based on a novel by Selma Lagerlöf. It was remade in France as La Charrette Fantôme (1939) by Julian Duvivier and in Sweden as Körkarlen (1958) by Arne Mattson. Sjöström directed American movies in the 20s (including several with Lon Chaney) as Victor Seastrom. He made his last screen appearance as the star of Ingmar Bergman's Wild Strawberries (1957).

THE PHANTOM CREEPS

(Stokey, 1939) D: Ford Beebe, Saul A. Goodkind S: George Plympton, Basil Dickey, Mildred Barish

Bela Lugosi stars as Dr. Zorka in this fun 12-chapter Universal serial. Zorka has a giant, always snarling robot (!), an invisibility belt, a death ray, and a mechanical spider, and he can cause suspended animation. With all that he still resorts to dropping little bombs out of a biplane. Chapter 12 is "To Destroy the World." Robert Kent is the hero, Captain West, but Lugosi (with his robot) is the reason to watch. With Dorothy Arnold, Regis Toomey, Roy Barcroft, and Edward Van Sloan. Some chapters are also on the video series Saturday Night Serials (Rhino) with three other serials. There was also a short feature version.

PHANTOM EMPIRE

(Rhino, Sinister, 1935) D: Otto Brower, B. Reeves Eason S: John Rathmell S/P: Armand Schaefer

This 12-chapter Mascot serial is pretty great and has similarities to Flash Gordon (which wasn't released until the next year). It's easy to find and has been released by at least five video companies. Gene Autry stars as himself (the singing-cowboy star of the Radio Ranch radio show). He falls into a hole and discovers the futuristic, subterranean city of Murania underneath his ranch! (The funny-looking robots with flamethrower hands and metal top hats had first been used in the 1933 musical Dancing Lady, with Joan Crawford.) Dorothy Christy is the evil Queen Yika, and Wheeler Oakman is the high chancellor. With Frankie Darro as Frankie, Betsy King Ross as Betsy, and Smiley Burnette. Feature versions are called Men with Steel Faces and Radio Ranch. It's also on the video series Saturday Night Serials (Rhino) with three other serials.

THE PHANTOM EMPIRE

(Prism, 1986) D/S/P: Fred Olen Ray S: T. L. Lankford

A monster that looks like it escaped from a Larry Buchanan movie rips a guy's head off. Then Susan Stokey hires the hard-drinking, wisecracking team of Ross Hagen and Dawn Wildsmith to lead an expedition underground to find some jewels. First they visit a survivor of a previous party (Russ Tamblyn). Mineral experts Jeffrey Combs and Robert Quarry join them as they enter Bronson Canyon. Cast members chase each other, running endlessly through the cave (like in The Flintstones). Cannibals attempt to roast Stokey on a spit, and animated dinosaur footage (from Planet of the Dinosaurs) threatens. Sybil Danning shows up on a space tank leading a female tribe, and a mute Michelle Bauer runs around topless. With Fox Harris and Robby the Robot (with a new head). A few ideas from the old serial are used, but this effort, filmed in six days, is not a remake.

THE PHANTOM OF CRESTWOOD

(1932) D: J. Walter Ruben S: Bartlett Cormack

A scheming woman (Karen Morley) invites the men in her life to an old mansion and threatens to blackmail all of them. She's killed by someone in a glowing death mask. Ricardo Cortez stars as a gangster who tries to solve the mystery before the cops arrive. This RKO release (the executive producer was Merian C. Cooper) was a gimmick film in its day. NBC presented a six-week radio mystery of the same name. To find out the identity of the killer you had to see the movie. With Anita Louise, Pauline Frederick, Skeets Gallagher, H. B. Warner, and George E. Stone.

Bela Lugosi stars in The Phantom Creeps.

PHANTOM OF DEATH

(Vidmark, 1987) D: Ruggero Deodato
S: G. Clerici, V. Mannino, G Battaglini
Italy (La Casa di Viarubens; Off Balance)

A pianist (Michael York) has progeria, a rare disease that causes premature aging. He kills people but ages so fast that nobody recognizes him. Edwige Fenech is his girlfriend, and Donald Pleasence is the police detective who's determined to capture the killer. This unrated horror movie was shot in Venice and features Argento-style slow-motion bloody deaths. The music is by Pino Donnaggio.

THE PHANTOM OF 42ND STREET

(Sinister, 1944) D/P: Albert Herman
S: Milton Raison P: Martin Mooney

A theater critic (Dave O'Brien) tries to discover who murdered an actor during a play. Kay Aldridge, Frank Jenks, and Alan Mowbray are also in the cast of this 58-minute PRC mystery. Albert Herman made The Missing Corpse and Rogues' Gallery the same year, ending a career that went back to the silents.

THE PHANTOM OF LIBERTY

(Cinematheque, 1974) D/S: Luis Buñuel
S: Jean-Claude Carrière P: Serge Silberman
France (Le Fantôme de la Liberté)

There is no plot in this brilliant, fascinating, funny, and very disorienting film. It's the ultimate dream movie. After each incident or scene the camera follows a seemingly unimportant character to another one. It deals with death, religion, history, pornography, police, and politics. A sniper signs autographs, monks encourage people to whip each other, and people at a dinner party eat in the bathroom and sit on toilet seats around the table. With Jean-Claude Brialy, Monica Vitti, and Michael Lonsdale. 20th Century–Fox released it, subtitled. Luis Buñuel made only one more film, That Obscure Object of Desire.

THE PHANTOM OF PARIS

(1931) D: John S. Robertson
S: Bess Meredyth, John Meehan

A magician (John Gilbert) is accused of killing the father (C. Aubrey Smith) of his girlfriend (Leila Hyams, from Island of Lost Souls). The complex plot involves plastic surgery. With Ian Keith, Lewis Stone, Jean Hersholt, and Alfred Hickman. This MGM release was based on a novel by Gaston Leroux, author of The Phantom of the Opera.

PHANTOM OF THE AIR

(Stokey, 1933) D: Ray Taylor S: Ella O'Niell, Basil Dickey, George H. Plympton

Tom Tyler stars as ace flyer Bob Raymond, who has a remote-controlled "phantom" plane. In this 12-chapter Universal serial characters are after an anti-gravity device called a "Contragrav." The cast also includes Leroy Mason as Mort Crome, Walter Brennan as Skid, Gloria Shea, and William Desmond.

PHANTOM OF THE MALL: ERIC'S REVENGE

(Fries, 1988) D: Richard Friedman S: Scott J. Schneid, Tony Michelman, Robert King P: Tom Fries

Eric (Derek Rydall), a disfigured young phantom, hides in airshafts and catacombs beneath a shopping mall. Characters die by snake bite, flamethrower, crossbow, and escalator. Kari Whitman (Kennell) (from Playboy) is his former girlfriend, a waitress. Morgan Fairchild is the evil mayor (she's impaled). With Ken Foree (from another mall movie, Dawn of the Dead), Pauly Shore, and Brinke Stevens. Incredibly, a "making of" documentary was made about this.

THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA

(Video Yesteryear, Sinister, 1925)
D: Rupert Julian, Edward Sedgwick
D/A: Lon Chaney S: Elliot J. Clawson
P: Carl Laemmle

One of the most famous horror movies of all time was a troubled production. The original director, Rupert Julian, was replaced by Edward Sedgwick (who specialized in westerns and comedies), and Lon Chaney himself helped to direct some scenes. In 1929 Universal re-released it with more new sequences and added sound. This is the version that used to be shown on TV. Everybody knows the story, based on Gaston Leroux's novel. The phantom's makeup is scarier than any later movie monster's, and the great sets were created by Maurice Tourneur. The story is set in Paris and has many wonderful and ma-cabre moments. Some parts are just like an old serial. With Mary Philbin, Norman Kerry, Gibson Gowland, and Arthur Edmond Carewe. Another new version added dialogue (but not for the phantom). Video versions are various lengths. A restored version was released in 1991, with the original musical score and the hand-tinted color ballroom (bal masque) sequence. The Image laserdisc includes the 114-minute 1925 version and the tinted 77-minute 1929 version, complete with a 2-color Technicolor sequence and a new score by Gaylord Carter. The Lunavision laserdisc includes a new score by Korla Pandit. The next adaptations (both in color) were made in Hollywood in 1943 with Claude Rains (MCA Video), and in England by Hammer in 1962, with Herbert Lom (RCA Video).

Lon Chaney stars in the original version of The Phantom of the Opera.

THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA

(1983) D: Robert Markowitz S: Sherman Yellin P: Robert Halmi Sr.

Maximilian Schell stars as a phantom named Sándor in a version of the famous story set in Hungary and filmed in Budapest. Stan Winston created the phantom's makeup. With Jane Seymour, Michael York, Diana Quick, and Jeremy Kemp. It debuted on CBS-TV.

THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA: THE MOTION PICTURE

(RCA/Columbia, 1989) D: Dwight H. Little
S: Duke Sandefur P: Harry Alan Towers

This version, the goriest so far, was made to cash in on the popular and long-running Broadway musical. Jill Schoelen (The Stepfather) is hit on the head in NYC and transported back to 19th-century London for the familiar story. Robert Englund is better than you might expect as the phantom. He cuts the faces off his victims and stitches them onto himself. Characters are beheaded and impaled. Menahem Golan was the executive producer. It was shot in Budapest (like the 1983 version). The cast also includes Stephanie Lawrence and Alex Hyde-White. Danse Macabre was sort of a sequel.

THE PHANTOM OF THE OPERA

(1990) D: Tony Richardson S: Arthur Kopit P: Ross Miloy, Edgar J. Scherick

The second TV version (an NBC 2-part miniseries) stars Charles Dance as a romantic phantom. It was made in Europe and features a lot of opera. Arthur Kopit adapted his 1983 play. Burt Lancaster co-stars as the phantom's father, with Teri Polo, Ian Richardson, Andrea Ferreol, and Jean-Pierre Cassel. Another 1990 version is a filmed play starring David Staller.

THE PHANTOM OF THE RED HOUSE

(Sinister, 1954) D: Miguel M. Delgado
S: María Cristina Lesser Mexico
(El Fantasmo de la Casa Roja)

A masked killer knocks off some heirs who are fighting each other and looking for gold in an old mansion. Alma Rosa Aguirre inherits the house and a club called El Infierno (Hell). This horror film includes musical numbers and comedy relief. AIP released it to TV.

PHANTOM OF THE RITZ

(Prism, 1988) D: Allan Plone S: Tom Dempsey P: Carol Marcus Plone

Peter Bergman (from Firesign Theater) buys an old, boarded-up movie theater and puts on a 50s rock show. "Accidents" kill people. Deborah Van Valkenburgh costars. Joshua Sussman is the fat phantom. The Coasters (or what was left of them) perform at the show, and there's an Elvis impersonator. This horror comedy was made in Florida. Allan Plone also made Night Screams (1986).

THE PHANTOM SPEAKS

(1944) D: John English S: John K. Butler P: Armand Schaefer

Stanley Ridges (in Black Friday) is a scientist who wants to communicate with the dead. A recently electrocuted gangster (Tom Powers) takes over his body and seeks revenge. Richard Arlen is the reporter hero, and Lynn Roberts is the scientist's daughter. With Jonathan Hale. This 69-minute movie by the director of Republic's Dick Tracy serial was released on a double bill with The Vampire's Ghost.

THE PHANTOM TOLLBOOTH

(MGM, 1970) D: David Monahan, Abe Levitow D/S/P: Chuck Jones S: Sam Rosen

A bored kid named Milo (Butch Patrick, from The Munsters) receives a magic toolbooth and a car, and he heads for the "kingdom of Wisdom," where he and everything else become animated cartoons. This G-rated fantasy stresses learning and imagination. Mel Blanc, Daws Butler, Hans Conried, Cliff Norton, and Les Tremayne provide the voices.

THE PHARAOH'S WOMAN

(1960) D: Giorgio Rivalta, Wenceslav Tourjansky S: Ugo Liberatore, Remigio Del Grosso P: Giorgio Venturini Italy (La Donna del Faraone)

Sabaku (John Drew Barrymore) and Ramisis (Armando Francioli) are rival princes and cousins in ancient Egypt. They both want Alis (Linda Cristal), and Sabaku starts a civil war when Ramisis is made pharaoh.

THE PHENIX CITY STORY

(1955) D: Phil Karlson S: Crane Wilbur, Daniel Mainwaring P: Samuel Bischoff, David Diamond

Richard Kiley stars as a Korean War vet who returns to his corrupt hometown to practice law. This hard-hitting documentary-style film is based on real events that happened in an Alabama town. Kathryn Grant costars, with John McIntire and Edward Andrews, plus Meg Myles (Satan in High Heels) as a saloon singer. Karlson used the same idea nearly 20 years later for the hit Walking Tall. The 13-minute prologue is sometimes missing.

THE PHILADELPHIA EXPERIMENT

(Starmaker, 1985) D: Stewart Raffill S: William Gray, Michael Janover P: Douglas Curtis, Joel B. Michaels M: Ken Wannberd

An American battleship disappears in 1943, and a sailor goes through a time warp to 1984. The whole world is threatened by a "time tornado." Michael Paré and Nancy Allen (a couple at the time) star, with Bobby DiCicco. A clip from Humanoids from the Deep is seen on a TV. Executive producer John Carpenter wrote the story for this New World release and was once set to direct it. So were Joe Dante, Jonathan Kaplan, and Harley Cokliss. The plot is the reverse of The Final Countdown (1980). The score is on Rhino.

THE PHILADELPHIA EXPERIMENT II

(Trimark, 1993) D: Stephen Cornwell S: Kevin Rock, Nick Payne P: Mark Levinson, Douglas Curtis

If you can follow a story that goes from 1984 (the setting of the original movie) to 1993, then to a fascist USA in the alternate 1993 (if the Nazis had won WWII thanks to a Stealth bomber that went back in time) and back to Germany in 1943, then this PG-13 sequel is OK science fiction and has some merit. Brad Johnson stars as the time-traveling character (played before by Michael Paré). Gerrit Graham is good as both a Nazi scientist (and his grim son) and Marjean Holden is a futuristic freedom fighter. There are b/w 50s government film clips, hallucination scenes, and dull slow-motion battle scenes.

PHOENIX THE WARRIOR

(Sony, 1987) D/S: Robert Hayes S: Dan Rotblatt P: Peter Yuval

Kathleen Kinmont is the heroine who has to battle sexy post-nuke Amazon women with guns. Only one male (James Emery) is left, and they try to restart the population with a sperm bank. With Persis Khambatta as Cobalt, Peggy Sands, Roxanne Kernohan, and Sheila Howard.

PHOTOS OF JOY

(VSOM, 1987) D: Lamberto Bava S: Gianfranco Clerici M: Simon Boswell Italy (Le Foto di Gioia)

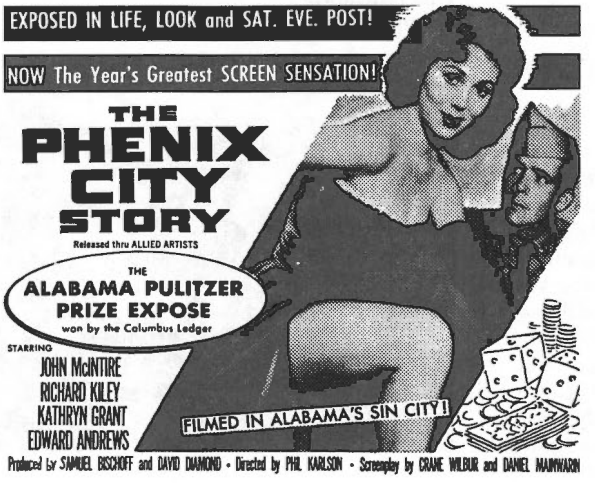
Serena Grandi (a very large-breasted woman) stars as Gioia, a model for Pussycat magazine. She inherits the men's magazine and becomes the publisher and editor, but models are being killed in various ways (death by bees, pitchfork, etc.). With Daria Nicolodi, George Eastman, and Capucine.



PICASSO TRIGGER

(Warner, 1988) D/S: Andy Sidaris P: Arlene Sidaris

Like most Sidaris movies, this is a slickly made, senseless spy adventure with lots of nice scenery in various countries and Hawaii, women with big breasts, and guys with big muscles. It's perfect for late-night cable TV. The centerfold cast includes Hope Marie Carlton and Dona Speir as federal agents, Cynthia Brimhall, Patty Duffek, Liv Lindeland, and Roberta Vasquez. Steve Bond is top-billed, and John Aprea (the title character) and Bruce Penhall are bad guys.

THE PICKLE

(Columbia, 1993) D/S/P/A: Paul Mazursky

Critics hated this box-office flop because it's pretentious, egotistical, and embarrassing (all true), but some parts are funny, and I liked it anyway. Danny Aiello stars as Harry Stone, a depressed famous director of serious films who's in NYC for the preview of his sellout teen science-fiction movie. The movie within the movie is about a flying pickle/spaceship from the planet Cleveland, where Little Richard is president. We see b/w flashbacks to the director's Coney Island childhood. With Clotilde Courau (his teen girlfriend), Dyan Cannon (his ex-wife), Shelley Winters (his mother), Barry Miller (a Psychotronic reader, as a studio exec), Jerry Stiller (his agent), and Chris Penn (his son). Ally Sheedy, Griffin Dunne, Isabella Rossellini, and Dudley Moore are in the sci-fi movie. Also with Donald Trump, Stephen Tobolowsky, and Spaulding Gray. Paul Mazursky also made the somewhat similar Alex in Wonderland (1970).

THE PICK-UP

(1968) D/S: R. L. Frost S/P/A: Wesdon Bishop

A pair of mob couriers pick up two women who seduce and rob them. This b/w adult drama (with nudity) received an X rating. The actors include John Alderman, David F. Friedman, and R. W. Cresse.

PICKUP ON SOUTH STREET

(Fox, 1953) D/S: Samuel Fuller P: Jules Schermer

Richard Widmark stars as Skip, a small-time pickpocket who lives in a riverfront shack. He accidentally steals microfilm with atomic secrets from a Soviet courier on a NYC subway. The Commies and the feds are after him. This film noir classic features Jean Peters as a former hooker, Richard Kiley, Milburn Stone, and Thelma Ritter as Moe, an informer. It's from Twentieth Century–Fox.

PICNIC AT HANGING ROCK

(Vestron, 1975) D: Peter Weir S: Cliff Green P: Hal McElroy, Jim McElroy Australia

A teacher (Rachel Roberts) and three schoolgirls mysteriously disappear during a picnic in turn-of-the-century Victoria. The cast also includes Helen Morse and Dominic Guard. It's based on the novel by Joan Lindsey. This soft-focus, misty film deals with sexual repression and fantasy. Nothing is explained. It's rated PG.

PIECES

(Edde, 1981) D: Juan Piquer Simón S/P: Dick Randall S: John Shadow, Jack Taylor P: Steve Minasian Italy/Spain (Mil Gridos Tiene la Noche)

A kid making a puzzle of a naked woman kills his mom. Years later on a Boston college campus a professor (Edmund Purdom) kills women and collects body parts to reassemble his human puzzle. This gory movie is a laugh riot, filled with continuity errors and ridiculous dialogue as cops find arms and legs. Also with Christopher George as a cop, Lynda Day George, Paul Smith, Gerard Tichy, and Jack Taylor.

THE PIED PIPER OF HAMELIN

(Media, 1957) D: Bretaigne Windust S: Irving Taylor S/P: Hal Stanley

This "Colorscope" musical version of the famous legend was made for TV, then was released to theaters in 1961 by K. Gordon Murray. Van Johnson stars as the piper who leads the rats, then the children from the town of Hamelin. All the characters speak in rhyme. With Claude Rains as the mayor, Lori Nelson, Jim Backus, Kay Starr, and Doodles Weaver. The "Peer Gynt Suite" is used on the soundtrack which was released by RCA. A darker version was made by Jacques Demy in 1972, and there's a Faerie Tale Theatre version (Fox) from the early 80s.

THE PIG KEEPER'S DAUGHTER

(SW, 1970) D/S: Bethel Buckalew P: Harry Novak

This traveling-salesman/hillbilly movie is filled with outdoor sex scenes featuring some pretty (and pretty young-looking) women. One, a virgin, masturbates on a rooftop while watching a couple go at it in many positions in a pigpen. Other scenes are in a hayloft and in a bathtub in the yard. There are brief hard-core segments (which probably were the talk of the drive-ins) and (offscreen) comic-relief gay sex. Terry Gibson and Patty Smith star.

PIGS: See DADDY'S DEADLY DARLINGS

PIN: A PLASTIC NIGHTMARE

(Starmaker, 1988) D/S: Sandor Stern P: René Malo Canada

This creepy psycho movie, based on a novel by Andrew Neiderman, is one of the best in years. Dr. Linden (Terry O'Quinn, from The Stepfather) is a brilliant small-town doctor and ventriloquist who is very strict with his two kids. He convinces them that Pin, an anatomically correct medical display, is real, and he uses it to teach them lessons about life and sex. David Hewlett (Scanners II) grows up to be a paranoid schizophrenic who still believes in Pin and thinks that his sister (Cyndy Preston) should too. Some of it sounds unlikely, but the acting is good enough to convince, and the movie is filled with nice, surprising touches and has a nasty edge to it. Bronwen Mantel is their neatness-freak mom.

PIN DOWN GIRL

(Sinister, 1950) D: Robert C. Dertano P: George Weiss (Blonde Pickup, Wrestling Racket Girls)

Timothy Farrell stars as Scali: drug dealer, pimp, bookie, and manager of wrestling women. The road show movie features real wrestlers, real fight footage (nine fights), and lots of training. Rival gangsters cause trouble and there's a court hearing. With the top-billed Peaches Page, Clara Mortensen, and Rita Martinez from Mexico. The cinematography is by William C. Thompson, who also filmed Ed Wood movies. Farrell returned as Scali in Dance Hall Racket (1954).

THE PINK ANGELS

(Prism, 1971) D/S: Lawrence Brown

Bikers called the Cupcakes wear typical biker-movie things (Nazi helmets, Confederate flags), but they drink champagne by candlelight at a picnic, ignore naked women, and go in drag to a transvestite ball. When "normal" bikers show up they put rouge and hair ribbons on them when they're asleep. This comedy has a surprise shock ending, as all the bikers are hung from trees!? With John Alderman, Tom Basham, Michael Pataki, Bruce Kemp, and Dan Haggerty. This Crown International release used to play on drive-in triple bills. The director also made Psychopath (1973), starring Basham.

THE PINK CHIQUITAS

(Starmaker, 1986) D/S: Anthony Currie S/P: Nicholas Stiliadas Canada

A pink meteor turns on small-town women. Frank Stallone (in his first starring role) is a private eye who tries to stop them. The voice of the meteor is Eartha Kitt's. Also with Elizabeth Edwards and Claudia Udy. Zombie Beach Party III is playing at a drive-in. Stallone (a Scientologist) wrote the music for this dumb comedy. He recorded four LPs (collect 'em all!).

PINK FLAMINGOS

(Lightning, 1972) D/S/P: John Waters

Bob Geldof stars in Pink Floyd: The Wall.

John Waters's first color feature cost "$12 thousand," ran for 10 years as a midnight cult hit, and made "over $12 million in worldwide rentals." It was billed as "an exercise in poor taste," and, in the tradition of old road-show hits, people were dared to see it. Babs Johnson (Divine) strives to be the filthiest person in the world. She lives in a trailer in Baltimore with Eddie the egg lady (the incredible Edith Massey, in a crib). The Marbles (Mink Stole and David Lochary) are Babs' rivals. With Mary Vivian Pearce, Danny Miles, and Cookie Mueller. The best possible screen use is made of a Link Wray instrumental. The cast all returned in Female Trouble (1974). Unfortunately, nearly every cast member listed here was dead by 1990. Mink Stole has continued to appear in Waters' films. Trash Trio (1988) is a book of Waters' original scripts, including this and the still unfilmed sequel Flamingos Forever.

PINK FLOYD: THE WALL

(MGM/UA, 1982) D: Alan Parker S: Roger Waters P: Alan Marshall UK

Bob Geldof stars as Pink, who grows up during WWII and becomes a confused, miserable, rich rock star. Based on Pink Floyd's double 1979 album, this is a depressing but incredible-looking movie with many fantasy and nightmare images (with monsters and blood). With Christine Hargreaves, Bob Hoskins as the manager, and Jenny Wright and Nell Campbell as groupies. "Another Brick in the Wall" had been a number 1 hit, and the album had been staged by the group. The animated sequences are by Gerald Scarfe. The Wall: Live in Berlin (Polygram, 1990) is Pink Floyd performing the album at the Potsdamerplatz in Berlin just after the Berlin Wall was opened in 1990.

David Hewlett and Cyndy Preston in Pin: A Plastic Nightmare.

PINK MOTEL

(Thorn EMI, 1982) D: Mike MacFarland S/P: James Kouf P: Ed Elbert

Phyllis Diller and Slim Pickens (in his last role) run a sleazy motel. Various couples show up for sex dramas. This strange, episodic, R-rated comedy/drama is more depressing than sexy or funny. It's similar to an earlier adults-only movie, Motel Confidential.

PIRANHA II: THE SPAWNING

(Nelson, 1981) D: James Cameron S: H. A. Hilton P: Chako Van Leuwen US/Italy (The Spawning)

In this "sequel" to Joe Dante's 1978 movie, flying piranhas attack a Caribbean resort. With Lance Henriksen as a cop, Leslie Graves (a former Sesame Street regular), Tricia O'Neil, and Steve Marachuk. One fish bursts from a chest. It was shot in Jamaica. Nobody could have predicted from this that James Cameron (who was fired before the film's completion) would make Terminator next and later become one of the highest-paid directors in the world. The executive producer was Ovidio G. Assonitis.

THE PIRATE AND THE SLAVE GIRL

(1960) D: Piero Pierotti S: Luciano Martino, Bruno Rasia France/Italy (La Scimitarra del Sareceno)

Lex Barker stars as Dragut, a 15th-century pirate who kidnaps women for an evil slave trader, Miriam (the gorgeous Chelo Alonso). A love triangle develops with Dragut, Miriam, and a sea captain.

THE PIRATE OF THE BLACK HAWK

(1959) D/S: Sergio Grieco S: Enzo Alfonsi P: Giorgio Pescino France/Italy (Il Pirata dello Sparviere Nero)

Minjanou Bardot (Brigitte's sister) stars as a 16th-century duke's daughter captured by Manfred, a usurper of the throne. This was a Filmgroup/AIP color release.

PIRATES

(Avid, 1986) D/S: Roman Polanski S: Gérard Brach P: Tarak Ben Ammar US/Tunisia

Walter Matthau is pretty good as Captain Red in this large-scale, widescreen pirate comedy. Cris Campion is the young protegé of the crusty, disgusting, back-stabbing pirate. With 15-year-old Charlotte Lewis, Ferdy Mayne, Roy Kinnear, Daniel Emilfork, Anthony Peck, Ian Dury, and Anthony Dawson. The movie cost $31 million and made $.07 million in North America. The full-scale replica of a Spanish galleon broke records for prop costs and was made in Malta by 2,000 shipbuilders. It's PG-13 and runs 124 minutes.

THE PIT

(Prism, 1980) D: Lew Lehman S: Ian A. Stuart P: Bennett Fode (Teddy)

Jamie (Sammy Snyder), a difficult, lonely, voyeuristic 12-year-old boy, talks to his teddy bear and visits furry cannibal "trolls" with shiny eyes that live in a hole in the ground. He feeds them raw meat until his bear tells him to feed them humans, including a blind old lady in a wheelchair. Soon everyone who was ever mean to him has disappeared. This New World release has a strange topless scene and some gore. It was shot in Beaver Dam, Wisconsin.

THE PIT AND THE PENDULUM

(Paramount, 1990) D: Stuart Gordon S: Dennis Paoli P: Albert Band M: Richard Band

Gordon shows us the horrors of the 15th-century Spanish Inquisition, in his best film since From Beyond. Star Lance Henriksen is perfect as the grand inquisitor. He kneels on broken glass and has himself flogged, but he still has fevered visions of the young Mariá (Rona De Ricci), whom he has accused of being a witch. An old woman eats gunpowder before they burn her. A little boy is whipped while his mother is strangled. Oliver Reed shows up as a sensible Italian cardinal, Jeffrey Combs is here, and Tom Towles (Henry) is pretty ridiculous as a soldier. There's some intentional humor along with all the suffering and torturing. A dried-up corpse gets 20 lashes, and then the bones are ground up. Peter O'Toole was originally supposed to star. The script has nothing to do with the Roger Corman film of the same name but does have the famous pit at the end. It was filmed in Italy. The soundtrack is on Moonstone.

Phyllis Diller and Slim Pickens in Pink Motel.

PIT STOP

(Johnny Legend, 1967) D/S/E: Jack Hill P: Lee Strosnider

Dick Davalos (East of Eden) stars as Rick, a cynical loner who becomes a driver in deadly figure-8 races (lots of real crashes are featured). His main rival is Hawk (Sid Haig), who says, "You gotta be dingy. I'm the dingiest there is!" Hawk also does the jerk and the swim and takes an axe to Rick's car (while Beverly Washburn is in it!). Brian Donlevy is fine as the man who sponsors the disposable drivers, and Ellen Burstyn seems like a potential star as the wife of a top driver. Also with George Barris as himself and Titus Moody. A nice bonus in this rare feature is the lead-guitar heavy psychedelic instrumental music by the Daily Flash, a group from Seattle that was based in California. Like Spider Baby, this was shelved for several years and was considered too dated (it's b/w) when finally released. Roger Corman was the executive producer. Johnny Legend interviews Jack Hill at the end of this welcome video release.

A PLACE CALLED GLORY

(VSOM, 1966) D: Sheldon Reynolds S: Edward Di Lorenzo P: Bruce Balaban Spain/W. Germany (Amati)

In a variation on their Old Shatterhand films, Lex Barker and Pierre Brice are western gunmen who become friends but are forced to stage a shootout in the town of Glory. With Marianne Koch and Jorge Rigaud.

A PLACE CALLED TODAY

(Monterey, 1972) D: Don Schain (City in Fear)

A black lawyer (J. Herbert Kerr Jr.) decides to run for mayor. A political activist (Lana Wood) helps him win with a scheme to encourage black militants to cause trouble, run an anti-violence campaign, and "scare" white people into voting for him (!?). Cheri Caffaro (not playing Ginger for a change) costars as the current mayor's daughter who is kidnapped. Both actresses are naked a lot. This Avco Embassy release originally received an X but was later rated R.

A PLACE OF ONE'S OWN

(1944) D/P: Bernard Knowles S: Brock Williams, Osbert Sitwell P: Maurice Ostrer UK

The young companion (Margaret Lockwood) of an older couple (James Mason and Helen Haye) is possessed by the ghost of a murdered woman. Also in the cast are Dennis Price and Ernest Thesiger. This Eagle Lion release is based on a novel by Osbert Sitwell. Mason (who was only 36 at the time he played this role) was later in Lady Possessed (1951), which has a similar theme. Producer Maurice Ostrer was the father of Mason's first wife, Pamela.

PLANET BURG

(Sinister, 1962) D/S: Pavel Klushantsev S: Alexander Kazantsev USSR

This is the movie that Roger Corman bought and used footage from for Voyage to the Prehistoric Planet (1965), Queen of Blood (1966) and Voyage to the Planet of Prehistoric Women (1968). Now that Russia is our friend we can see this entire science-fiction movie with English subtitles. It features a robot and lizard men.

PLANET OF INCREDIBLE CREATURES: See FANTASTIC PLANET

PLAN TEN FROM OUTER SPACE

(1994) D/S: Trent Harris P: Walter Hart

This musical sci-fi comedy spoofs Mormons and was filmed in Salt Lake City. It stars Karen Black as an alien queen (who sings). Lawsuits by the current owners of Plan 9 from Outer Space threatened to prevent its release.

PLATOON LEADER

(Media, 1988) D: Aaron Norris S/P: Harry Alan Towers S: Rick Marx, Andrew Deutsch S. Africa

Michael Dudikoff stars as a West Point Lieutenant fighting Commies in Vietnam. With Paul Smith, William Smith, and Robert F. Lyons. It's from Cannon. Aaron Norris usually directs his brother Chuck.

PLAY DEAD

(Academy, 1981) D: Peter Wittman S: Lothrop W. Jordan P: Francine C. Rudine

Rich Aunt Hester (Yvonne De Carlo) uses magic and a Rottweiler dog to kill her relatives off. It's all because her late sister married the love of her life. This was made the same year as Earl Owensby's Dogs of Hell by a Texas husband-and-wife team who also made Ellie. Troma released it in 1985.

THE PLAYER

(Columbia, 1992) D: Robert Altman S/P: Michael Tolkin P: David Brown, Nick Wechsler M: Thomas Newman

Tim Robbins kills a screenwriter (Vincent D'Onofrio) and gets away with it, in a Hollywood satire/murder mystery that was created to irritate. Greta Scacchi costars, with Peter Gallagher, Fred Ward, Whoopi Goldberg (as a Columbo-type detective teamed with Lyle Lovett), Dean Stockwell and Richard T. Grant as screenwriters, and screen slime Brion James. In a film within the film Julia Roberts is strapped into an electric chair by Steve James. Like many earlier Robert Altman movies this reportedly has 65 bit parts and walk-ons. Some are played by Karen Black, Gary Busey, Robert Carradine, James Coburn, Cher, Peter Falk, Louise Fletcher, Scott Glenn, Buck Henry, Sally Kirkland, Malcolm McDowell, Martin Mull, Jill St. John, Rod Steiger, and Ray Walston. It's from Fine Line (a division of New Line). The film was originally 123 minutes. The video includes scenes that were cut and an interview with the director. The Voyager laserdisc includes different interviews, more cut scenes, and a guide to the star cameos. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande.

PLAYGIRL

(1954) D: Joseph Pevney S: Robert Blee P: Albert J. Cohen

Colleen Miller arrives in New York from Nebraska and makes the mistake of rooming with a singer (Shelley Winters, in her last blond-bombshell role). Shelley kills her publisher boyfriend (Barry Sullivan), and Miller ends up involved with gangsters. With Gregg Palmer, Richard Long, and Kent Taylor. From Universal. The next year, Winters was in more serious films like I Am a Camera, The Night of the Hunter, and The Big Knife.

PLAYGIRLS INTERNATIONAL

(1963) D/P: Doris Wishman S: Cy Eichman

Someone narrates this international "documentary" showing sexy dancers in various countries. After visiting Europe, Japan, Hawaii, and Mexico, Louie Prima's twist show features Sam Butera and the Witnesses in Las Vegas. The end segments are the payoff, though, as nudists in Florida do the Twist, the Hula, and "an Apache war dance."

PLAY IT COOL

(1962) D: Michael Winner S: Jack Henry P: David Deutsch UK

Singer Billy Fury stars as singer Billy Universe, on tour in Europe with his group, the Satellites. There isn't much plot in this musical comedy, but Billy sings and so do Shane Fenton and the Fentones, Bobby Vee, Helen Shapiro, and others. Also with Dennis Price. Allied Artists released it in America, where Fury was (and still is) unknown.

PLAYMATES

(1973) D/S/P: "Pierre La France"/Stephen Gibson

Some good Deep Vision 3-D effects are used in this adult movie, which was released in three versions (with more or less sex). There are also scenes from other films. With Donna Michelle and Rene Bond.

PLAY MISTY FOR ME

(MCA, 1971) D/A: Clint Eastwood S: Jo Heims, Dean Reisner P: Robert Daly M: Roberta Flack

You can't accuse Clint Eastwood of not trying to change his image. His first film as a director was made after Paint Your Wagon (1969; Clint sings), Two Mules for Sister Sara (1970; he's fooled by a woman), and The Beguiled (1971; he's trapped and killed by women). He's a Monterey DJ menaced by a jealous, psychotic woman (Jessica Walter) who uses a butcher knife to attack. Fatal Attraction copied a few ideas from this one. With Donna Mills, Jack Ging, and Don Siegel as a bartender. The Cannonball Adderley Quintet plays, and the Johnny Otis show does "Hand Jive" too. It was rereleased on a good double bill with Alfred Hitchcock's Frenzy.

PLAYROOM

(Republic, 1989) D: Manny Coto S: Keaton Jones P: Luigi Cingolani (Schizo)

Archaeologist Christopher McDonald has nightmares about his family being killed in a Yugoslav monastery when he was a kid. He goes back and encounters the sadistic ghost of a boy prince and a Devil worshipper. A monster at the end makes stupid Freddy Krueger–type wisecracks in perfect English. With Jamie Rose as his girlfriend and Vincent Schiavelli. This laughable horror fantasy was made in Belgrade. Manny Coto, who was just out of the American Film Institute, also made Dr. Giggles.

PLEASE DON'T EAT MY MOTHER

(Video Dimensions, 1971) D/S/P: "Jack Beckett"/Carl Monson (Hungry Pets; Sexpot Swingers)

With all the attention paid to the musical remake of Roger Corman's film The Little Shop of Horrors nobody seemed to remember that it had already been remade as a nudie movie. Henry Fudd (Buck Kartalian) buys a talking plant (with a sexy female voice) from a gay florist. Henry lives with his nagging, nosy mother, who drinks Coors and gossips on the phone. The plant (and its pot) grows extremely fast and demands food (insects, frogs, dogs, and finally, of course, people). The major difference is that Henry is a Playboy-reading voyeur. He watches a couple having sex in a car, leaves, and returns home four times, and they're still at it! Another couple having sex in a park are forced at gunpoint to become plant food. Adult-movie star Rene Bond has sex with her boyfriend, argues with him, and kills him. Henry, watching at the window, offers to hide the body. Although this is a silly comedy, parts of some of the sex scenes are no-faking hard-core. As late as 1982 (!) this Boxoffice International release was playing at drive-ins. Buck Kartalian was in The Devil's Angels, Planet of the Apes, and Stay Away Joe (with Elvis) and was the wolf man in the late-70s Saturday-morning kids' show The Monster Squad (!).

PLEASE DON'T TOUCH ME!

(Ormond, 1959) D/S/P: "Vittorio Di Nardo"/ Ron Ormond S/A: Ormond McGill

The most outrageous Ormond-family movie (after The Exotic Ones, maybe) is this full-color, made-in-Hollywood exploitation classic. It was the only Ormond movie to play Times Square and was also known as Teenage Bride. You won't believe it! The plot is about why newlywed Vicki (gorgeous, redheaded Ruth Blair in plunging necklines) cannot have sex with her husband (Al "Lash" la Rue). Her concerned mom says, "Most men are brutes anyhow," and he has a Glen or Glenda–style dream with his mother-in-law holding back his seductive wife. A doctor tries to help with his "Electro-Cyclometer" (it has a pleasure-and-pain meter), and a hypnotist (played by stage hypnotist Ormond McGill) uses his spinning "Hypno-Box." This alone would be entertaining enough, but a long, narrated, "historical," part-mondo prologue features the director as a mesmerist, real open-heart surgery, real flagellant footage, a needle going through skin, a drawing of a giant scrotal tumor, a Borneo fakir, and a bit of nudity. You're also en-

Ron Ormond's Please Don't Touch Me!

THE PLEASURE GIRLS

(1965) D/S: Gerry O'Hara P: Harry Fine UK

Francesca Annis is a new model in London who falls for a photographer (Ian McShane). Her roommates also have relationships and problems, and one gets pregnant. With Klaus Kinski as Nikko and Suzanna Leigh. It's presented by Tony Tenser.

PLEASURE UNLIMITED

(Private Screenings, 1972) D/S/P: "A.C. Stevens"/ Stephen C. Apostoloff S: Edward D. Wood Jr. (Dropout Wife; Sensuous Wife)

"Women's lib or women's fib?" asked the original ads for this soft-core adult movie. Ed Wood wrote lines for characters to say like "If we put chastity belts on under our panties and we threw away the key, you can damn well be sure that every male in the world would be on their knees begging us to let him out of the toilet." With Angela Canon, Terry Johnson, Foreman Shane, Rene Bond, Ric Lutze, and Rick Cassidy.

PLEDGE NIGHT

(Imperial, 1990) D/E: Paul Ziller S/P: Joyce Snider (A Hazing in Hell)

Former porno filmmakers filmed this frat-house horror movie at Rutgers University. A student dumped in acid 20 years earlier becomes a monster and kills another student. It was cut for an R rating. It has a dumb ending and various ridiculous ways to die. Joey Belladonna (Anthrax) is in it.

PLUCKED

(1967) D/S: Giulio Questi S: Franco Arcalli P: Franco Marras France/Italy (La Morte ha Fatto l'Uovo; Death Laid an Egg)

In one of the stranger European movies to reach these shores a couple (Gina Lollobrigida and Jean-Louis Trintignant) run a modern, high-tech chicken-breeding ranch. The husband (who is a mass murderer) and sexy Ewa Aulin (Candy) plot to kill his wife. A group called "the Association" conducts genetic experiments on the chickens, resulting in mutant all-white-meat chickens without heads.

THE PLUMBER

(Media, 1978) D/S: Peter Weir P: Matt Carroll Australia (The Mad Plumber)

A crazed plumber (Ivar Kants) claims that he has to make repairs in the apartment of an academic couple (Judy Morris and Robert Coleby). He tears up the bathroom and engages in a battle of wits with the wife. Peter Weir made this black comedy in the best scene the son gulps down a whole fish. After a while you'll think the movie is over, but no such luck. The story picks up in NYC "10 years later" with a long (under-covers) sex scene followed by a long aerobics-workout scene, and just when you think you can't stand any more a government agent turned monster fights the now grown-up fish-eating boy in the ridiculous climax.

THE PLUTONIUM INCIDENT

(1980) D: Richard Michaels S: Dalene Young P: David Susskind

CBS-TV gave us this cut-rate Silkwood in our living rooms three years before that film. Janet Margolin stars as the nuclear-plant worker whose life is in danger after she dares to point out unsafe conditions. Also with Bo Hopkins, Joseph Campanella, Powers Boothe, Bibi Besch, and Nicholas Pryor.

POINT BLANK

(MGM, 1967) D: John Boorman S: Alexander Jacobs, David Newhouse P: Judd Bernard, Robert Chartoff

Lee Marvin stars as Walker, a man driven by revenge. This color, Panavision film noir classic is almost a psychedelic crime movie. Angie Dickinson and John Vernon (he's thrown out of a window) are the main targets. Some of the best scenes were filmed in the federal penitentiary at Alcatraz. The cast also includes Keenan Wynn, Carroll O'Connor, Lloyd Bochner, James B. Sikking, and Sid Haig. It's based on the novel The Hunter, by Richard Stark (Donald E. Westlake). It was John Boorman's second film (after Having a Wild Weekend, starring the Dave Clark Five). The letterboxed laserdisc includes interviews, the trailer, and "The Rock," a short about the making of the film.

POINT BREAK

(Fox, 1991) D: Kathryn Bigelow S: W. Peter Iliff P: Peter Abrams, Robert L. Levy

Keanu Reeves is a young FBI agent named Johnny Utah who goes undercover in Southern California to infiltrate a gang of bank robbers who wear masks of presidents' faces. Patrick Swayze is Bodhi, the cosmic leader of the gang, Gary Busey is Reeves's seasoned FBI partner, and Lori Petty is his girlfriend, who is kidnapped. Also with James LeGros,

S: David Zito, Les Weldon, George Fernandez S. Africa (Spanish Rose)

Michael Paré is a former customs agent in Miami who's hired by a sadistic, rich Cuban gun smuggler (Michael Ironsides) to protect Barbara Carrera. This is all (surprise!) a setup, and there are plenty of explosions, crashes, and chases, but if you want to check out how great Carrera still looks in her 40s, this is the place. She swims topless, and she and Paré fuck all over a large home. It was filmed in Natal. R and unrated versions are available.

POINT OF NO RETURN

(Warner, 1993) D: John Badham S: Robert Getchell, Alexandra Seros P: Art Linson

Bridget Fonda stars in an Americanized remake of La Femme Nikita. Gabriel Byrne is the guy who trains her, and Anne Bancroft is the woman who teaches her manners. After her black hair is dyed strawberry blond and she's gotten all that conditioning, she kills her first victims in a Washington, DC, restaurant. In Venice, California, she falls for a photographer (Dermot Mulroney). She also assassinates a woman during the Mardi Gras in New Orleans. A "cleaner" (Harvey Keitel) shows up after a killing, a part he later parodied in Pulp Fiction. Also with Miguel Ferrer, Olivia D'Abo, Richard Romanus, Calvin Levels, and Geoffrey Lewis. The Beatles' "Something" is on the soundtrack, along with songs by Nina Simone, L7, and Buckwheat Zydeco.

Bridget Fonda stars in Point of No Return.

POINT ZERO: See THE SKI BUM

POISON

(Fox Lorber, 1991) D/S: Todd Haynes
P: Christian Vachon

The maker of the Barbie Doll–cast short Superstar: The Karen Carpenter Story (1989) made this trilogy of stories inspired by the writings of Jean Genet. A suburban kid murders his father in the documentary-style "Hero." A 50s scientist isolates the sex drive but becomes a murdering mutant in the b/w "Horror." A 40s French prison is the setting of "Homo," the part that caused controversy because of some (post-production) funding by the National Endowment for the Arts. The video is available in NC-17, unrated, and R (no male nudity) versions.

POISON IVY

(New Line, 1992) D/S: Katt Shea Ruben
S/P: Andy Ruben

A seductive blond teen with a nose ring and a tattoo on her thigh (Drew Barrymore) moves in with a wealthy Hollywood family, disrupts their already fucked-up lives, and even becomes a killer. Sara Gilbert is the withdrawn daughter, who narrates (and hallucinates). Tom Skerritt is the horny, recovering-alky dad. Cheryl Ladd is the suicidal mom. The publicity stressed the hints of lesbianism, and Barrymore posed naked in Interview to help promote the film. Only Skerritt is seen naked in the movie, though (Barrymore used a body double). The director's first feature that wasn't for producer Roger Corman is pretty slow going.

POLICE ACADEMY: MISSION TO MOSCOW

(Warner, 1994) D: Alan Metter
S: Randolph Davis, Michele S. Chodos P: Paul Maslansky

Number 7 (!) in a stupid series went directly to video. This time the comic cops fight the Moscow Mafia, and Christopher Lee is a top Moscow cop. With series regulars George Gaynes, Michael Winslow (he's in all seven), Leslie Easterbrook, and David Graf. Ron Perlman is the main Russian gangster, who's plotting world domination through computers.

POLICE CONNECTION=THE MAD BOMBER

POLICE FORCE

(Rainbow, 1985) D/A: Jackie Chan S: Edward Tang P: Leonard Ho Hong Kong (Police Story; Jackie Chan's Police Force)

Jackie Chan stars as a cop assigned to protect a reluctant key witness (Li Hsing Chia) for a gangland trial. This action comedy features amazing stunts and slapstick and the complete destruction of a large squatters' camp. The most incredible scene of action and inventive destruction, though, takes place in a shopping mall. Maggie Cheung is the detective's girlfriend. This was screened at the 1987 NYC Film Festival and became one of the first Chan films to receive much mainstream attention in America. Police Story II is the first sequel.

POLICE SQUAD! HELP WANTED!

(Paramount, 1982) D/S: too numerous to list
P: Jim Abrahams, David Zucker, Jerry Zucker

The creators of Airplane! did this ABC-TV series instead of Airplane II. Leslie Nielsen is the bumbling Detective Frank Drebin. Directors like Joe Dante did episodes, and even the opening and end credits are hilarious. This anarchistic comedy series didn't catch on, but they later turned the concept into the hit Naked Gun and two sequels. This and More! Police Squad! have 3 episodes each on 75-minute videos.

POLICE STORY II

(1988) D/S/A: Jackie Chan P: Raymond Chow

This was a much bigger hit in Asia than the original. It has less humor (and plot) and even more amazing stunts. Jackie Chan is put on an extortion case involving dynamite smugglers. It starts with scenes from Police Force and ends with outtakes. Maggie Cheung returns from the original. She's also in Police Story III (1992), also called Super Cop. Police Story IV (1993) is also called Crime Story.

POLICEWOMAN

(VCI, 1974) D/S: Lee Frost P: Wes Bishop (The Insiders)

Jackie Chan in his Police Story III.

Heather O'Rourke and Julian Beck in Poltergeist II.

Sondra Currie (Class of '74) is a lady cop called Lucy Bond who goes undercover in an all-female gang. This Crown International drive-in release costars Jeanne Bell and Laurie Rose as prison escapees and William Smith in a small role as a karate instructor. It features lots of all-female fighting.

A POLISH VAMPIRE IN BURBANK

(Edde, 1983) D/S/P/A: Mark Pirro

Mark Pirro is a virgin vampire, Lori Sutton is his vampire sister, and Eddie Deezen is his dead brother in flashbacks. The original star, Deezen, quit, so Pirro dubbed his voice. A movie called Enema Vampires is being produced in this comedy. With Myra Grant and Conrad Brooks as a bartender. It was the first Super 8 feature aired on national cable TV (it was cut) and is said to have cost less than three thousand dollars. Pirro also made Deathrow Gameshow and Curse of the Queerwolf.

POLTERGEIST II: THE OTHER SIDE

(MGM/UA, 1986) D: Brian Gibson S/P: Mark Victor, Michael Grais M: Jerry Goldsmith

"They're back," in this bad PG-13 sequel to the 1982 hit. It takes place just months later. JoBeth Williams, Craig T. Nelson (who throws up a giant tequila worm), Heather O'Rourke as Carol Ann, and Zelda Rubinstein all return. The older sister is missing because actress Dominique Dunne was murdered after the first movie. The floating-family fantasy scenes are too dumb for words. With Will Sampson (who died in 1987) and Julian Beck (from the Living Theater) as Kane, making the frequent and unsettling statement "You're going to die!" He knew that he was going to die in real life (this was released after his death in 1985). Geraldine Fitzgerald is the grandma, who dies. Steve Johnson worked on the FX. The score is on Intrada.

POLTERGEIST III

(MGM/UA, 1988) D/S: Gary Sherman S: Brian Taggert P: Barry Bernardi M: Joe Renzetti

This senseless second sequel, even worse than the first, moves the action to a haunted Chicago high-rise. Tom Skerritt and Nancy Allen are the aunt and uncle whom the troubled Carol Ann (Heather O'Rourke) comes to live with. O'Rourke died (at 12) before the movie's release, and the ads featuring her seemed especially tasteless. Nathan Davis impersonates the late Julian Beck, and Zelda Rubinstein is back again. With Lara Flynn Boyle and Kip Wentz. Dick Smith did the makeup FX. The score is on Varèse Sarabande. It's PG-13.

POOR PRETTY EDDIE: See HEARTBREAK MOTEL

POOR WHITE TRASH

(Monterey, 1957) D: Harold Daniels S: Edward L. Femler P: M. A. Ripps (Bayou)

This was shot on location at about the same time as Roger Corman's Swamp Woman. Both feature Corman regulars Jonathan Haze and Ed Nelson. It was directed by Harold Daniels, who had co-directed the famous road show hit The Prince of Peace. In 1961 producer M. A. Ripps, based in Mobile, Alabama, bought back his film from United Artists, added some new sex and shock sequences and a great new pre-credits banjo theme-song/intro, and gave it the new title Poor White Trash. Often unconvincing doubles were used for the stars. When northerner Peter Graves and sexy Lita Milan finally start to make love in a cabin the scene continues with bare legs, caresses, closeups of eyes, and the storm outside. But what everybody remembered was the long scene, shocking at the time, when the Cajun bully Ulysses (Timothy Carey) attacks Milan. In the new footage Carey's shirtless double chases Milan's double though the woods, ripping away her clothes as they run. Eventually she's running naked, then crawling in the mud screaming. More new footage shows her praying in church. Even Carey's death scene was spiced up with a bloody axe-in-the-back insert. Carey's standout bit, though, is doing an incredible, uninhibited dance to accordion music. He hops into the air, does rubber-leg moves, caresses himself, and scratches like he has fleas while a storm brews. The dance is so good that it's edited in several times. Because of the new scenes and a brilliant exploitation advertising campaign (radio and newspaper teasers) this adults-only movie was still playing in theaters as late as 1971 (!) and grossed an estimated $10 million (!). Its success helped to spawn other country shockers, like Common-Law Wife (from Ripps), Girl on a Chain Gang, Shotgun Wedding, and several each from Russ Meyer and Herschell Gordon Lewis.

POOR WHITE TRASH, PART 2

(Magnum, 1974) D/P: S. F. Brownrigg S: Mary Davis (Scum of the Earth)

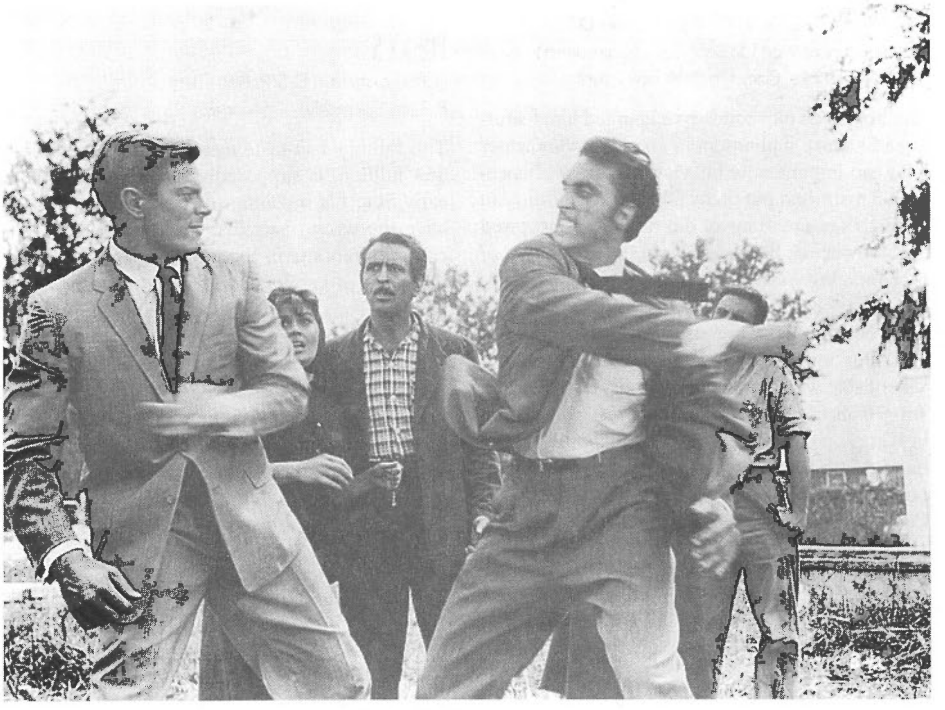
After her new husband is killed with an axe a woman (Nora Moore) flees and ends up trapped with an unbalanced backwoods family. Otis (Gene Ross), a gross drunk, has sex with his grown daughter Sara (Carmilla Carr), abuses his pregnant wife, Emmy (Ann Stafford), and berates his idiot son, Bo (Charlie Dell). This movie has several bloody mur-



Timothy Carey swings at Peter Graves in Poor White Trash.

PORNO

ACTRESS CROSSOVER TOP TEN

1. Traci Lords
2. Ginger Lynn (Allen)
3. Teri Weigel
   (this Playboy centerfold went from R-rated features to X)
4. Marilyn Chambers
5. Kristine DeBell
6. Abigail Clayton
8. Angelique Pettyjohn/ Heaven St. John
   After appearing with Elvis in various drive-in movies and on Star Trek, she was in X features. (She died in '92)
9. Michelle Bauer/Pia Snow
10. Jane Hamilton/Veronica Hart

ders and a rape but was filmed like a play and is more concerned with acting than action or shocks. Most of the actors (especially Carr) are excellent. An insane killer Nam vet shows up for the (surprise) ending. The ballad theme is "Death Is a Family Affair." S. F. Brownrigg made this drive-in movie in East Texas after his Don't Look in the Basement. Dimension released it. Then M. A. Ripps acquired and retitled it, advertised it as a sequel, and made lots of money.

POPCORN: AN AUDIO-VISUAL THING

(1969) D: Peter Clifton P: Peter Ryan US/Australia

There's some good rock footage in this thrown-together documentary, but you have to get through some awful filler footage to see it, and some of the advertised groups are just on the soundtrack. It was a ripoff when it was new, but it's an okay period piece now. Highlights are the Rolling Stones, Jimi Hendrix, Otis Redding, and Traffic. There's also Twiggy, surfing, and other teen-appeal stuff. A lot of this footage later showed up in other compilations too. It was released by Sherpix.

POPCORN

(RCA/Columbia, 1989) D: Mark Herrier D/S: Alan Ormsby (uncredited) S: Bob Clark (uncredited) P: Torben Johnke, Gary Goch, Ashok Amritraj

This contrived plot concerns a haunted film featuring a Satanist, a phantom in an old movie theater who can impersonate his victims, and a science-fiction marathon put on by film students. But Alan Ormsby's re-creations of old movies are inspired and convincing. Bruce Glover in the b/w Attack of the Amazing Electrified Man (with wired audience seats) is my favorite. Other William Castle–inspired gimmicks are used, and there's a fun giant-bug minimovie too. Jill Schoelen and Tom Villard star, with Dee Wallace Stone, Ray Walston, Tony Roberts, and Karen Witter. It was filmed in Kingston, Jamaica, which explains the reggae band. Mark Herrier (costar of Porky's and its sequels) replaced Ormsby after three weeks. Bob Clark (who had worked with Ormsby as far back as Children Shouldn't Play with Dead Things) also supervised the production but had his name removed from the credits.

THE POPE MUST DIE

(Fox, 1991) D/S/A: Peter Richardson S: Pete Richens P: Stephen Wooley UK

A priest (Robbie Coltrane, from Nuns on the Run) is mistakenly elected pope. He rids the Vatican of crooked cardinals and banking corruption (also a theme in The Godfather III). Herbert Lom is a mobster, Paul Bartel is a monsignor, Alex Rocco is an outrageous cardinal, and Beverly D'Angelo is the mother of Joe Don Dante (Balthazar Getty), a heavy-metal singer. This comedy was filmed in Yugoslavia. Miramax's ads were refused by many papers, so in some areas the title was changed to The Pope or The Pope Must Diet (!)

POPEYE

(Paramount, 1980) D: Robert Altman S: Jules Feiffer P: Robert Evans

Everybody was too familiar with the Max Fleischer cartoons for this PG musical fantasy based on E. C. Segar's characters to catch on, but the casting is inspired and kids seem to love it. Robin Williams is the mumbling sailor, Shelley Duvall is Olive Oyl, Ray Walston is Pappy, Paul L. Smith is Bluto, and Paul Dooley is Wimpy. Music by Van Dyke Parks and singing by Harry Nilsson are on the Boardwalk soundtrack. Paramount and Disney produced it.

PORKY'S

(CBS/Fox, 1982) D/S/P: Bob Clark P: Don Carmody US/Canada

This famous bad-taste teen comedy, which made $54 million, is supposedly set in Florida in the early 50s. It's a classic of its kind, but they all have the wrong haircuts. Porky's is a gambling club/whorehouse in the next county. Dan Monahan stars as Pee Wee, with Wyatt Knight, Mark Herrier, Tony Ganios, Scott Colomby, and Kaki Hunter. All of them appeared in the sequels too. With Nancy Parsons (Motel Hell) as Ballbreaker the gym teacher, Susan Clark as hooker Cherry Forever, Alex Karras as the sheriff, Kim Cattrall, Jill Whitlow, and Chuck Mitchell as Porky. It's a 20th Century–Fox release.

PORKY'S II: THE NEXT DAY

(Fox, 1983) D/S/P: Bob Clark S: Roger E. Swaybill, Alan Ormsby P: Don Carmody US/Canada

Most of the same cast returns in this very inferior sequel. There's no Porky, but a fundamentalist preacher tries to stop a school Shakespeare festival. Corrupt politicians have to be taught a lesson, and the KKK harasses Seminole Indians. The director shows his horror-movie roots in a graveyard scene with fake zombies. With Nancy Parsons, Kim Cattrall, Susan Clark and Alex Karras (married in real life and both from the TV series Webster), and Jill Whitlow.

PORKY'S REVENGE

(Fox, 1985) D: James Komack S: Ziggy Steinberg P: Robert L. Rosen

Porky returns, now running operations on a riverboat. The plot is about a basketball game. Most of the same cast members return, with Kim Evenson (from Playboy) and Nancy Valen. Some of the music (released by Columbia) is by Jeff Beck, Dave Edmonds, Robert Plant, and Phil Collins.

PORTRAIT IN TERROR

(SW, 1962) D: Rados Novakovic S: Vlastomir Radovanovic US/Yugoslavia (Operation Ticijan)

This movie has haunted me since I saw it on late-night TV in Cleveland as a kid. It was filmed on location in old, picturesque Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia, on the Adriatic Sea. Patrick Magee, one of the greatest, most intense film actors ever, stars as a cultured, sadistic playboy, hitman, and art thief who wears dark sunglasses and white suits and is part of an involved plot about a stolen Titian painting. In the surprising opening scene he cuts the bikini top off an exotic dancer at an outdoor club, then beats up a sailor who tries to help her. Later on she goes to bed with him, explaining, "An interesting man always makes a woman curious." After murdering a deaf old man (and the man's dog!) with a silencer he says in his rich, distinctive voice, "The old gentleman had to go to sleep." William Campbell is an alcoholic assistant art curator and heir to the Sordi estate. He's obsessed with his infamous ancestor, a wife killer. His fiancée is understandably worried. They attend a historical play in an old castle and climb up steep stairs in a scene that might remind you of 8½ (filmed the same year). When a boy's body is dumped into the ocean it floats slowly to the bottom, as in Francis Ford Coppola's great Dementia 13. Coppola was the dialogue coach for this film. Right after it was made, Campbell and Magee were in Dementia 13 (also with music by Ronald Stein), filmed in Ireland. In 1965 Blood Bath, directed by Jack Hill and Stephanie Rothman, starred Campbell and featured much of the best footage from Portrait in Terror, including the ending, with Magee dead and covered in wax, without any credit to the original filmmakers. Track of the Vampire (1966) is a different TV version. All of these films were AIP releases. Roger Corman is responsible for all of this confusion.

PORTRAIT OF A HITMAN

(Western World, 1977) D: Allan A. Buckhantz S: Yabo Yablonsky P: James Rokos, Andrej Krakowski (Jimbuck; Last Contract)

Jack Palance stars as J.B., or Jimbuck, an artist and hitman hired by a gangster (Rod Steiger) to kill a brain surgeon (Bo Svenson!). The trouble is that Svenson is an old friend, and they're both in love with Ann Turkel. Also with Richard Roundtree, Philip Ahn, and Herb Jeffries. Flashbacks are used to explain things. Screenwriter Yabo Yablonsky directed The Manipulator.

PORTRAIT OF A SINNER

(1959) D: Robert Siodmak S: Audrey Erskine Lindop P: George Minter UK (The Rough and the Smooth)

AIP released this "shockingly adult film!" about a blond German woman (Nadja Tiller) who seems to destroy everyone she becomes involved with. The cast also includes William Bendix, Tony Britton, Donald Wolfit, Joyce Carey, and Adrienne Corri.

PORTRAIT OF JENNIE

(Fox, 1948) D: William Dieterle S: Paul Osborn, Peter Berneis P: David O. Selznick M: Dimitri Tiomkin

Joseph Cotten is a poor NYC artist who meets the ghost of a little girl. As the ghost (played by Jennifer Jones) gets older he paints her. In the final (Technicolor) sequence, he dies so that he can be with her. This romantic (and very expensive) b/w United Artists release received an Oscar for special effects. It's based on a novel by Robert Nathan (as is the 1947 film The Bishop's Wife). With Ethel Barrymore, Lillian Gish, Cecil Kellaway, David Wayne, Henry Hull, and Anne Francis. Nancy Davis (Reagan) is an extra. William Dieterle also directed The Hunchback of Notre Dame (1939) and All That Money Can Buy/The Devil and Daniel Webster (1941).

POSED FOR MURDER

(Academy, 1988) D: Brian Thomas Jones S: John A. Gallagher, Chuck Dickerson P: Carl Fury, Jack Fox

Charlotte J. Helmkamp (from Playboy) poses naked for Thrill magazine and acts in Meat Cleavers from Mars. Her psycho bodybuilder boyfriend (Carl Fury) kills other men out of jealousy.

POSITIVE ID

(MCA, 1987) D/S/P/E: Andy Anderson

Stephanie Rascoe stars as a rape victim who assumes a new identity. Surprising plot twists occur in this clever, well-made independent film made in Dallas. Anderson, who teaches filmmaking at the University of Texas in Arlington, also made Interface (1984), about computer nerds causing campus killings.

POSSE

(Polygram, 1993) D/A: Mario Van Peebles S: Sy Richardson, Dario Scardapane P: Preston Holmes, Jim Steele US/UK

A group of infantrymen from the Spanish-American War return as outlaws with a cache of gold. Their sullen leader (Mario Van Peebles) is after the men who lynched his father. He and his band travel from Cuba to New Orleans, then to Indian teritory, before arriving at an all-black town to settle scores. This is a good western with too many flashbacks. Big Daddy Kane as Father Time, Stephen Baldwin, Tiny Lister Jr., Tone Loc, and Charles Lane are in the posse. Billy Zane and Richard Jordan are the racist white villains. The interesting supporting cast includes love interest Salli Richardson, Mario Van Peebles, Blair Underwood, Pam Grier, Isaac Hayes, Robert Hooks, Paul Bartel, and Nipsey Russell. The whole tale is related by an old cowboy (Woody Strode, a link to the westerns of John Ford and Sergio Leone). The A&M soundrack by Michel Columbier features Tone Loc, Melvin Van Peebles, the Neville Brothers, and others.

THE POSSESSED

(Video Gems, 1974) D/P: Charles Nizet S/A: William Greer S: Deedy Peters (Help Me, I'm Possessed!)

The dull Dr. Blackwood (William Greer), who claims, "Death is a fabrication of the mind," runs a sanitarium in his "castle" in the desert. His sadistic, hunchbacked servant whips women kept chained up in the basement and cuts the legs off bodies so that they'll fit in half-size caskets. A weird man named Zolak is decapitated by a guillotine, and a mutant monster is represented by a bunch of red hoses waved at the hand-held camera. More characters arrive for ridiculous plot complications, and they all have ugly haircuts and/or bushy sideburns. A dead character moves her leg, and the mind-numbing ending takes place in Bronson Canyon! It's pretty fascinating. This was released in 1984 and rated PG! Charles Nizet also directed the obscure Voodoo Heartbeat (1972) and Slaves of Love.

THE POSSESSED (1977) = DEMON WITCH CHILD

POSSESSED BY THE NIGHT

(Vision, 1994) D/S: Fred Olen Ray S: Mark Thomas McGee P: Alan Amiel

Shannon Tweed becomes a live-in typist for a horror novelist (Ted Prior) and his wife (Sandahl Bergman). A "cursed jar" from Chinatown possesses characters and causes nightmares, sex, and murder. In one scene Tweed forces the couple to fuck while she masturbates with a gun. This is followed by an (offscreen) threesome. A needless subplot involves Chad McQueen as a collector for Henry Silva ("I love bimbos!") and publishing espionage. The bizarre casting includes Frank Sivero (Goodfellas), who is pretty funny as Murray the agent, and the return of Turhan Bey (!). Kato Kaelin (of O. J. Simpson–trial fame) is a waiter working alongside the director.

POSSESSION

(Vestron, 1981) D/S: Andrzej Zulawski P: Marie-Laure Rayre France/W. Germany

Isabelle Adjani was in her really weird period when she starred in this bloody and shocking broken-relationship horror movie, after The Tenant (1976) and Nosferatu (1978). Sam Neill is her ex-husband, who has a nervous breakdown. They yell a lot in an apartment next to the Berlin Wall and slash themselves with electric knives. She has a very messy miscarriage in a subway station and later gives birth to a tentacled monster (created by Carlo Rambaldi). The creature becomes her new lover and kills men. This was filmed in Berlin by a Polish director. The uncut 127-minute version has been sold by mail order. The American-release video is only 80 minutes.

POSSESSION: UNTIL DEATH DO YOU PART

(Marathon, 1987) D: Michael Mazo D/P: Lloyd A. Simandl S: Lyne J. Grantham P: John A. Curtis Canada

A psycho named Frankie (John R. Johnston) kidnaps women, kills them, and keeps the bodies in his closet. Later he kills his mom, puts on camouflage gear, and terrorizes campers at a lodge. This has lots of shower nudity and some male strippers. It was made in Vancouver.

POTS, PARENTS, AND POLICE

(SW, 1971) D/S/P/A: Phillip Pine P: Clark Johnson (The Cat Ate the Parakeet)

TV watchers will recognize character actor Phillip Pine as the dad in this enjoyable, well-made movie aimed at kids but later marketed as an exploitation movie. Johnny (Robert Mantell), a loner kid, meets a friendly hippie couple who thoughtlessly get him high (and drunk), which leads to much confusion and trouble at home and police involvement. The hippie in a cocaine T-shirt with a pickup truck and a pretty blond girlfriend is a young Martin Margulies (aka Johnny Legend!). He eventually freaks out on mescaline ("I'm a bird! Free!") and falls down the stairs. This color film has split-screen camera work, flashbacks, and a nightmare sequence. The letterboxed video includes Legend interviewing Pine and talking about the film.

POWAQQATSI

(Imperial, 1988) D/S/P: Godfrey Reggio S: Ken Richards P: Mel Richards

After Koyaanisqatsi Godfrey Reggio made this, the second part of a planned trilogy. It's a beautifully made but horrifying look at how industrialization has nearly destroyed mostly Third World countries, including Brazil, Nepal, and Kenya. Haunting silent images show the faces of masses of hollow-eyed poor people working to strip their own lands. The Hopi Indian title means something like "bad witches who exploit others." The hypnotic music by Philip Glass was released by Nonesuch. Francis Ford Coppola and George Lucas presented this Cannon release.

P.O.W.: PRISONERS OF WAR:

See THE SECRET OF BLOOD ISLAND

P.O.W.: THE ESCAPE

(Media, 1986) D: Gideon Amir S: Jeremy Lipp, James Bruner, Malcolm Barbour, John Langley P: Golan/Globus (Behind Enemy Lines)

David Carradine is the highest-ranking prisoner of the Vietcong (led by Mako). He sings "Proud Mary" and helps many POWs escape, with sidekick Steve James, as Saigon falls. This was shot in the Philippines. From Cannon.

THE POWER

(Vestron, 1983) D/S/P: Jeff Obrow D/S: Stephen Carpenter M: Chris Young

After three students obtain a cursed 2-inch tall Aztec doll it possesses a guy, who becomes a monster with telekinetic powers. The score is on Cerberus.

POWER PLAY

(1978) D/S: Martyn Burke P: Christopher Dalton UK/Canada (Operation Overthrow)

Peter O'Toole stars, with David Hemmings, Donald Pleasence, Barry Morse, and even Dick Cavett, in this film about a European military coup. Hemmings was also an executive producer.

THE POWER WITHIN

(1979) D: John Llewellyn Moxey S: Edward J. Lasko P: Alan Godfrey

Art Hindle stars in this ABC-TV pilot as a daredevil flyer who is struck by lightning and becomes superstrong. Secret agents go after him. With Edward Binns, Eric Braeden, David Hedison, and Dick Sargent.

PRANCER

(Orion, 1989) D: John Hancock S: Greg Taylor P: Raffaella De Laurentiis

A troubled little farm girl (Rebecca Harrell) meets a wounded talking reindeer, in this mix of E.T. and Miracle on 34th Street. This G-rated Christmas movie features Sam Elliott, Cloris Leachman, Rutanya Alda, Michael Constantine, and Abe Vigoda.

PRAYER OF THE ROLLERBOYS

(Academy, 1990) D: Rick King S: W. Peter Iliff P: Robert Mickelson US/Japan

Corey Haim and Patricia Arquette go undercover to infiltrate a gang in the wasteland America of the future. The Rollerboys are LA drug-dealing fascist villains led by Christopher Collet. They sell a smoke-mist drug and look pretty ridiculous on their skates. With Devin Clark and Julius Harris.

PRAY FOR DEATH

(IVE, 1985) D: Gordon Hessler S/A: James Booth P: Don Van Atta

In a semi-remake of Revenge of the Ninja Sho Kosugi stars as a Japanese businessman in Houston. After he opens a new restaurant his family is attacked by gangsters, so he vows revenge. Throwing stars, arrows, samurai swords, axes, chains, and buzzsaws are used. It ends in a warehouse with naked mannequins. Typical dialogue is "I'm gonna rip your stinking guts out!" The main mobster is Michael Constantine (from the TV series Room 222). With Kosugi sons Kane and Shane Kosugi, Robert Ito, James Booth, and Donna Kei Benz. The violence was cut for an R rating for America.

PRAY FOR THE WILDCATS

(1974) D: Robert Michael Lewis S: Jack Turley P: Anthony Wilson

Andy Griffith, William Shatner, Marjoe Gortner, and Robert Reed (from the TV series The Brady Bunch) star as ad men who go on "a wild motorcycle trip into Hell!" Griffith is especially memorable as the drunken, lecherous, murderous boss. This ABC-TV movie costars Angie Dickinson, Janet Margolin, and Lorraine Gary.

PRAYING MANTIS

(1993) D: James Keach S: William Delligan, Duane Poole P: Robert Rolsky

Jane Seymour (an executive producer) stars as a psycho who has killed five husbands with cyanide. Wealthy new husband Barry Bostwick is her next victim. Frances Fisher is her suspicious sister-in-law, and Chad Allen is her new stepson. This Showtime movie was shot in Oregon.

PREACHERMAN

(Troma, 1971) D/S/P/A: Albert T. Viola S: Harvey Flaxman

Albert T. Viola, using the name Amos Huxley, stars (as "himself") in this southern comedy drive-in hit from North Carolina. Amos is a smooth-talking con-man and preacher who goes after blond hillbilly Mary Lou, who has "an unnatural hankerin' for menfolk." Preacherman's Angel Leroy con is very funny, and a guy named Farley (Pat Patterson) has sex with chickens (offscreen). The soundtrack is banjo music, the theme song is great, and there's a gospel-singing (one-armed) brother and sister who help sell moonshine ("God's nectar"). Patterson (Dr. Gore) was also the production manager. The video version seems to be cut, but it's still worth searching for. Viola went on to make movies for Roger Corman.

PREDATOR

(CBS/Fox, 1987) D: John McTiernan S: Jim Thomas, John Thomas P: Lawrence Gordon, Joel Silver, John Davis M: Alan Silvestri

Arnold Schwarzenegger and Carl Weathers star as Dutch and Dillon, part of an American S.W.A.T. team in South America. They're on a rescue mission but face a chameleon-like alien monster hunter (with "dreadlocks"). The sci-fi action movie actually copies the obscure film Without Warning (1980). With Jesse "the Body" Ventura, Bill Duke, Sonny Landham, R. G. Armstrong, and Kevin Peter Hall. Kevin Peter Hall is the predator. Stan Winston, Steve Wang, Steve Johnson, and others provided some great FX. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande.

PREDATOR 2

(CBS/Fox, 1990) D: Stephen Hopkins S: Jim Thomas, John Thomas P: Lawrence Gordon, Joel Silver, John Davis

This sequel has more action, more humor, and more blood. In the dismal LA of 1997 cops battle heavily armed South American drug dealers and deal with voodoo and hearts being cut out. Danny Glover as the hero cop also runs into the transparent alien hunter. Some action takes place on the LA subway (really the easy-to-recognize San Fransisco BART). With Ruben Blades, Maria Conchita Alonso, and Bill Paxton as cops, Gary Busey as a federal agent, Robert Davi, Adam Baldwin, Calvin Lockhart, Elpidia Carillo, Morton Downey Jr. as a reporter, and Teri Weigel. The 7-foot Kevin Peter Hall again plays the transparent monster. Glover even goes into the alien spaceship (full of skull trophies). The Stan Winston FX are excellent. The production design is by Lawrence G. Paull (Blade Runner). The Alan Silvestri soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande. Some ads in large cities were aimed at Hispanics.

PREHYSTERIA!

(Paramount, 1992) D/P: Albert Band, Charles Band, S: Greg Sudeth, Mark Goldstein

In this PG-rated Full Moon release, eggs from South America hatch into six small (animated) dinosaurs in the home of an archaeologist (Brett Cullen). His Elvis-fan kid (Austin O'Brien, from Last Action Hero) and his blond older daughter have to help fight off the dumb comic-relief bad guys. The David Allen FX make this an okay light movie for kids. With Samantha Mills and Colleen Morris. The Bands also made two sequels with different casts.

PRELUDE TO A KISS

(1992) D: Norman Rene S: Craig Lucas P: Michael Gruskoff

Here's another body-switch movie. Alec Baldwin marries Meg Ryan, who seems to be someone else all of a sudden because she now has the soul of an old man. This PG-13 fantasy, based on a play (which also starred Baldwin), features Sydney Walker, Kathy Bates, Ned Beatty, Patty Duke, and Annie Golden.

ELVIS PRESLEY

All of the King's movies are on tape including a colorized Jailhouse Rock (MGM). Besides the acting roles, you can see: Elvis '56 (Media 1987) narrated by Levon Helm, Elvis, The Great Performances Vol 1. and 2 (Disney), Elvis, One Night with You (Media, 1968), Elvis—Aloha from Hawaii via Satellite (1973), Elvis in the Movies (all trailers), The Elvis File (Media, 1990) about his death, Elvis Stories: The King Lives! (Rhino, 1988) (formerly Elvis Is Everywhere), Elvis—The Echo Will Never Die (MPI, 1983) The Story of Elvis Presley (Burbank), Mondo Elvis (Rhino), Why Elvis? (White Star), and of course, This Is Elvis and Elvis the Movie (Vestron, 1979).

PREMONITION

(1971) D/S: Alan Rudolph
P: Christopher R. Robertson

Red flowers cause three college students to have premonitions of death. With Carl Crow and Tim Ray. Alan Rudolph made Barn of the Naked Dead (1973), then went to work for Robert Altman.

THE PRESENCE

(Vidmark, 1992) D: Tommy Lee Wallace S: William Bleich P: Ted Swanson (Danger Island)

A plane with nine adults and three kids crash-lands on an island where there's an empty house with a large research lab. One guy mutates into what looks like The Monster from Piedras Blancas, and Gary Graham (from Alien Nation) becomes a friendly monster. The stellar cast includes Kathy Ireland as a model, former TV Tarzan Joe Lara, June Lockhart (she narrates), Richard Beymer, and Eddie Velez. The FX are by Fantasy 2 and Gene Warren. This NBC-TV production (filmed in Hawaii) seems to be a series pilot film since the cast is still on the island at the end.

THE PRESIDENT'S PLANE IS MISSING

(1971) D: Daryl Duke S/P: Mark Carliner S: Ernest Kinoy

It's only a TV movie about the president's plane crashing and China threatening a nuclear attack, but it was held up for nearly three years because Nixon went to China in 1971 and ABC-TV didn't want to show a movie with Chinese bad guys! The all-star disaster cast, which makes it one to look for, includes Buddy Ebsen as the inept vice president (in charge) named Kermit, Peter Graves, Arthur Kennedy, Raymond Massey, Mercedes McCambridge, Rip Torn, Dabney Coleman, Joseph Campanella, John Amos, and Todd Andrews (From Hell It Came) as the president. It's based on a novel by Rod Serling's brother Robert.

PRESIDENT'S TARGET

(Hemdale, 1989) D/S/P: Yvan Chiffre

Stalker (John Coleman) is a CIA man in S. America who has Nam flashbacks. He hides out and trains in the home of an old man and his daughter (Brigitte Audrey). Somebody (could it be Nam vet Martin Kove or mercenary Bo Hopkins?) is behind the killing of some US officials. They all talk a lot and experience flashbacks.

THE PRESIDENT'S WOMAN

(1975) D/E: John G. Avildsen S: David Odell, Jack Richardson, Don Greenberg P: Carl Gurevich (Fore-Play)

Zero Mostel is the president, and Estelle Parsons is the first lady. This barely released political/sex comedy features Pat Paulsen, Jerry Orbach, Paul Dooley, Professor Irwin Corey, and Louisa Moritz.

PRESSURE POINT

(MGM, 1962) D/S: Hubert Cornfield
P: Stanley Kramer

Sidney Poitier stars as a prison psychiatrist, in this serious and seriously strange movie about racism. Bobby Darin is a Nazi psycho with a troubled past who hallucinates that he's tiny and going down a drain. What he told Poitier during WWII is told in flashback to a young shrink (Peter Falk) in the present day. With Barry Gordon, Butch Patrick, Yvette Vickers as a drunk, and Richard Bakalyan as a juvenile delinquent. United Artists distributed this b/w film.

PRETTY BOY FLOYD

(1959) D/S: Herbert J. Leder P: Monroe Sachson

John Ericson is the young Pretty Boy Floyd, a real-life Depression-era outlaw, in one of several gangster bios that were probabably inspired by the success of the TV series The Untouchables. Joan Harvey costars, with Barry Newman, Herb Evers (The Brain That Wouldn't Die), Peter Falk (also in Murder, Inc., from the same year), and Al Lewis. It was shot in a studio in the Bronx and released by Continental. Audio Fidelity issued the jazz soundtrack. Fabian later played the same role in A Bullet for Pretty Boy (1971).

PRETTYKILL

(Lorimar, 1987) D: George Kaczender S: Sandra K. Bailey P: John R. Bowey, Martin Walters (Tomorrow's a Killer)

David Birney stars as an honest NYC cop, and Season Hubley (Vice Squad) is a high-class hooker. They search for a killer, and it turns out to be hooker Suzanne Snyder, a psycho who takes on her father's personality (and voice!). With Susannah York and Yaphet Kotto. It's a Sandy Howard presentation.

PRETTY MAIDS ALL IN A ROW

(1971) D: Roger Vadim S/P: Gene Roddenberry

Vadim's first American film was made after his hit Barbarella. It's a wonderfully dated black comedy with Rock Hudson as Tiger, a "hip" married high-school psychologist and football coach who advises a virginal kid (John David Carson, very good in a difficult role). Meanwhile, Tiger is fooling around with his female students, and some of them end up dead. Nobody expected this from the creator of Star Trek! Telly Savalas is a police captain, James "Scotty" Doohan is his partner, and Angie Dickinson is a substitute teacher who takes her clothes off. Also with Roddy McDowall, Keenan Wynn, William Campbell, and starlets Barbara Leigh, Joanna Cameron, Joy Bang, Brenda Sykes, Margaret Markov, June Fairchild, and Aimee Eccles. The lame title song is by the Osmonds. MGM released it.

THE PREY

(New World, 1980) D/S: Edwin Scott Brown S/P: Summer Brown

"It's not human. And it's got an axe!" Teen campers in the Colorado Rockies stop to tell the famous horror story "The Monkey's Paw" around a campfire. A tall Gypsy burn victim (Carel "Lurch" Struycken) kills them with his axe. Meanwhile we see lots of insects and reptiles. With Jackie Coogan and Steve Bond. It was released in 1984.

PREY OF THE CHAMELEON

(Prism, 1991) D/S: Fleming Fuller S: April Campbell Jones P: Pat Peach, Ron Rothstein

Daphne Zuniga is an escaped mental patient who's a serial killer. She befriends people in Texas, kills them, and assumes their identities. Then she falls for and kidnaps a cowboy hitchhiker (James Wilder). Alexandra Paul is his ex-fiancée, now a deputy sheriff. Also with Red West and Don Harvey. This debuted on Showtime.

PRICELESS BEAUTY

(Republic, 1989) D/S: Charles Finch
P: Nicole Sequin Italy

Christopher Lambert is a guilt-stricken former pop star who discovers a genie (Diane Lane, his then real-life wife) on a Mediterranean island. She grants wishes and reunites him with his dead brother. With Francesco Quinn and J.C. Quinn. It was made (in English) by the son of actor Peter Finch.

PRIMAL IMPULSE

(Vestron, 1974) D/S: Luigi Bazzoni
C: Vittorio Storaro Italy (Le Orme)

The moon and an abandoned astronaut somehow affect an interpreter (Florinda Bolkan) in Italy. She has dreams and identity problems. This arty science-fiction movie features Peter McEnery, Nicolette Elmi, Lila Kedrova, and Klaus Kinski in a small role as a scientist.

PRIMAL RAGE

(Warner, 1988) D: Vittorio Rambaldi S: Harry Kirkpatrick P: William J. Immerman US/Italy

An experimental baboon in Florida bites people and infects them, making them kill. It all ends up at a Halloween party where infected killers spewing slime mix with kids in costumes. With Patrick Lowe, Cheryl Arutt, and Bo Svenson as a university scientist (with a ponytail). Carlo Rambaldi provided the FX.

PRIMAL SCREAM

(Magnum, 1988) D/S: William Murray
P: Howard Foulkrod

Kenneth J. McGregor is a futuristic private eye who investigates murders where only ashes are left. An energy catalyst is behind the killings. With Sharon Mason and Mickey Shaughnessy.

PRIME CUT

(Fox, 1972) D: Michael Ritchie
S: Robert Dillon P: Joe Wizan

Lee Marvin is a Chicago hitman sent to Kansas City to eliminate a gangster called Mary Ann (Gene Hackman). This is one of the early-70s new-cinema-freedom movies you have to see to believe. The mob uses a slaughterhouse to keep kidnapped slave women penned up. They also grind up their enemies into sausages. Sissy Spacek makes her acting debut alongside other naked girls in this National General release, with Angel Tompkins, Gregory Walcott, Janit Baldwin, and Eddie Egan.

PRIME EVIL

(Starmaker, 1988) D/C: Roberta Findlay S: Ed Kelleher, Harriette Vidal P: Walter E. Sear

Satanists in Manhattan sacrifice victims. There's an evil uncle, a struggle for power, and confusing time switches. Christine Moore stars, with William Beckwith, Amy Bretano, and Ruth Collins. Ed French did the FX. Crown International released it. Kelleher used to review drive-in movies for Creem magazine.

PRIME RISK

(Vestron, 1984) D/S: Michael Farkas P: Herman Grigsby

Lee Montgomery and Sam Bottoms figure out how to rip off automatic teller machines and discover a foreign conspiracy to sabotage the government. With Keenan Wynn, Clu Gulager, and Toni Hudson.

PRIME TARGET

(Hemdale, 1991) D/S/P/A: David Heavener

Multitalented (he thinks) David Heavener stars as a suspended small-town cop who has to transfer a gangster (Tony Curtis) to prison, in this bad Clint Eastwood copy (mostly The Gauntlet) with Eastwood movie costars, dialogue, and references. With Jenilee Harrison, Andrew Robinson as a corrupt police commissioner, Isaac Hayes as a police captain, Robert Reed, Don Stroud, and Michael Gregory. It was filmed in Bakersfield, California, and has a country-music soundtrack. Heavener also wrote the songs.

THE PRIME TIME

(SW, 1958) D/P: Herschell Gordon Lewis S: Robert Abel (Hellkitten)

JoAnn LeCompte stars as Jean, a wild, tough 17-year-old who says, "I'm bored, bored, bored" and "I look at least 22!" She poses topless for an artist known as "the beard." He ties her up and drugs her, and her boyfriend, Tony, and the kids who hang out at Luigi's search for her. A sexy and bored-looking young Karen Black makes her film debut as a "live one" who poses for the artist on a bar stool. An impressive rockabilly band does "She's a Tiger" at the Golden Goose. There's a catfight flashback, an underwear swim scene, and some lame attempts at comic relief. This b/w movie was said to be the first feature filmed in Chicago "in 40 years." David F. Friedman was in charge of the "advertising, publicity, and exploitation" for Herschell Gordon Lewis' first effort. He later rereleased and renamed it.

PRIME TIME MURDERS

(Imperial, 1993) D: Michael DeLuise S/P: Gary Skeen Hall

Anthony Finetti stars as a freelance journalist with a video camera who teams up with an ex-cop (Tim Thomerson) to track "the downtown skid-row slasher." With Laura Reed and Sally Kirkland as a TV news director.

THE PRINCE AND THE NATURE GIRL

(1965) D/P: Doris Wishman S: Andrew J. Kuehn

Leave it to Doris Wishman to make a nudist-colony movie about the leader of a mythical kingdom falling for a twin from Ohio. One twin fools him by wearing a wig, so the other twin finds herself a king. All of them are naked most of the time. It was filmed in Florida and New Jersey.

PRINCE JACK

(Vestron, 1984) D/S/P: Bert Lovitt P: Jim Milo

Probably the cheapest and least known of the Kennedy epics, this one stars TV actor Robert Hogan as JFK during the Cuban missile crisis, Kenneth Mars as LBJ, and Robert Guillaume as Martin Luther King Jr. Other stars (as more generic figures) are Dana Andrews (in his last-known role), Jim Backus, Cameron Mitchell, Theodore Bikel, Lloyd Nolan, and William Windom. It sounds like a TV movie but wasn't.

PRINCE OF DARKNESS

(MCA, 1987) D/S/M: John Carpenter P: Larry Franco

Most of this botched science-fiction story takes place in an abandoned church. People worry, argue, and run around because of a big green lava lamp. It's a dumb movie. With Donald Pleasence as a priest, Jameson Parker, Victor Wong, Lisa Blount, Dennis Dun, and Alice Cooper as one of the killer street people. John Carpenter wrote the script as Martin Quatermass. The soundtrack by Carpenter and Alan Howarth is on Varèse Sarabande.

PRINCE OF FOXES

(1949) D: Henry King S: Milton Krims P: Sol C. Siegel

Orson Welles plays the famous Renaissance villain Cesare Borgia in this b/w costume movie filmed in Italy. Tyrone Power stars as Orsini, with Everett Sloane, Wanda Hendrix, Marina Berti, and Katina Paxinou. Welles showed up in the next 20th Century–Fox movie starring Power, The Black Rose, too.

THE PRINCE OF PEACE

(1949) D: William Beaudine, Harold Daniels (The Lawton Story)

"The Entire New Testament Story. Fifty-two New Testament Tableaux! 100 percent Nonsectarian!" The story concerns a little girl with a religious grandfather who convinces her mean, evil great-uncle to attend a Passion play (the last 20 minutes of the movie). A live Passion play presented annually in Lawton, Oklahoma, was filmed. The strong Oklahoma accents had to be redubbed. The star is little Ginger Price from Georgia. Kroger Babb made this into a long-running road-show hit and even opened it in NYC, at the Criterion. A pitchman delivered a sermon before each screening and sold 8x10 pictures of Jesus and miniature Bibles. Joe Solomon also distributed this show-biz phenomenon.

THE PRINCESS ACADEMY

(1987) D: Bruce Block S/P: Sandra Weintraub US/France/Yugoslavia

Eva Gabor is a countess running a Swiss finishing school for girls. This movie features hard-to-believe whore and shit humor. With Lar Park Lincoln and Lu Leonard.

THE PRINCESS BRIDE

(Nelson, 1987) D/P: Rob Reiner S: William Goldman P: Andrew Scheinman M: Mark Knopfler

A grandfather (Peter Falk) tells this PG-rated, comic, post-modern fairy tale to a little boy (Fred Savage). Cary Elwes is the hero who has to rescue a princess (Robin Wright). With good sword fights, some fantasy, and lots of funny characters, played by Mandy Patinkin, Chris Sarandon, Christopher Guest, Wallace Shawn, 7'4" wrestler André the Giant, Peter Cook, Carol Kane, Billy Crystal, and Mel Smith. The soundtrack is on Warner. An ad for Hershey's Kisses is on the video.

PRINCESS WARRIOR

(1990) D: Lindsay Norgard S: John Riley P: Philip Jones, James Holi

An alien women (Sharon Lee Jones) in LA is pursued by her evil sister and her female followers. This very low-budget effort features women in fist fights, a wet T-shirt contest, bad FX, joke names, and a pair of cops. It was shot on video.

THE PRINCIPAL

(RCA, 1987) D: Christopher Cain S: Frank Deese P: Thomas H. Brodek

James Belushi is a motorcycle-riding teacher ordered to become principal of the worst inner-city school around. Louis Gossett Jr. is a security officer and Rae Dawn Chong is a teacher helping him try to stop the drugs, violence, rape, arson, and murder. With Michael Wright, Esai Morales, and real members of an Oakland Chicano gang. Jellybean Benitez was the music producer. It's from TriStar.

PRISON

(Starmaker, 1988) D: Renny Harlin S: Courtney Joyner P: Irwin Yablans

A brutal guard (Lane Smith) is made warden of a reopened, rundown Wyoming prison closed for 20 years. The ghost of a wrongly executed man causes bizarre deaths. This smoky, dreary movie, which makes little sense, features Chelsea Field, Viggo Mortensen, Arlen Dean Snyder, Tom "Tiny" Lester, and Kane Hodder. It was directed at an actual (closed) Wyoming prison by the Finnish-born Renny Harlin, making his first movie in America. Charles Band was the executive producer. John Beuchler provided the FX. The soundtrack by Richard Band and Christopher L. Stone is on Varèse Sarabande.

THE PRISONER

(MPI, 1967)

17 tapes running 50 minutes each make up this entire English cult TV series, starring and created by executive producer (and occasional director) Patrick McGoohan. He played #6, a former British secret agent trapped on a bizarre holiday island (actually in North Wales). The only other regular cast member was the little butler (Angelo Muscat) of whoever was #1 in that episode. Ahead of its time, the series was a follow-up to McGoohan's earlier series Secret Agent and is a timeless masterpiece of paranoia and surrealism, one of the best TV shows ever produced. The "lost episode" is an alternative version of "Chimes of Big Ben" (the second episode). There's also a "best of" video (30 minutes) and The "Prisoner" Video Companion(1990).

PRISONERS OF THE LOST UNIVERSE

(Virgin, 1983) D/S: Terry Marcel S/P: Harry Roberson

A TV journalist and a martial-arts champ are transported to a primitive world. Richard Hatch (Battlestar: Galactica) stars, with Kay Lenz and John Saxon as Kleel. This early Showtime cable movie was shot in South Africa by the director of Hawk the Slayer.

PRISON FARM

(1938) D: Luis King S: Eddie Welch, Robert Yost

A young woman (Shirley Ross) falls for an armed robber (Lloyd Nolan). She's arrested by a guard (J. Carroll Naish) at the Sunny Grove prison and ends up there doing laundry under the watchful eyes of mean matrons (Marjorie Main and Anna Q. Nilsson). With Mae Busch, John Howard, and Porter Hall as the warden. It's 69 minutes.

PRISON GIRL

(1942) D: William Beaudine S: Arthur St. Claire P: Lester Cutler

Rose Hobart (Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde) stars as a doctor sent to prison on a mercy-killing charge, in this PRC movie with Sidney Blackmer and Claire Rochelle. She eventually escapes, is married, performs many heroic deeds, and is pardoned. William Beaudine made The Living Ghost and many more films the same year.

PRISON GIRLS

(1972) D: Thomas DeSimone S/P: Burton C. Gershfeld S: Lee Walters P: Nicholas J. Grippo

AIP released this women's-prison/sex movie in 3-D. Polaroid lenses were used. When six model prisoners are released for a weekend each has a separate segment involving sex, rape, a pimp, and, in one case, bikers. With Robert Whiting, Angie Monet, Uschi Digart, Candy Samples, Jason Williams (Flesh Gordon), and Rick Lutz. Ronnie Ashcroft was the editor. DeSimone later made The Concrete Jungle and Reform School Girls.

VINCENT PRICE

1911–1993

His career peaked in the 70s, but Price was the only horror star going back to the (late) 30s who was still around and working in the early 90s. Many later credits were voiceovers and bit parts. Tim Burton, his biggest fan, made a 1982 short (Vincent) which Price narrates, cast him in Edward Scissorhands, and wants to make a whole feature about him. Price was on many TV programs as a guest star and some of those are on tape. Some credits not reviewed here are: The Beginning of the End of the World (1971) Canada, narrates; An Evening with Edgar Allan Poe (1972), an AIP one-man show TV special; The Thief and the Cobbler (1974), voice for a British animated feature; Butterfly Ball (1976, narrates); in America Screams (Rhino, 1978), he narrates a 30-minute look at American amusement parks and roller coasters; Snow White and the Seven Dwarves (1984) voice; The Great Mouse Detective (1986), voice of rat villain; and The Whales of August (1987).

PRISON HEAT

(1993) D: Joel Silberg S: David Alexander

Some American college friends (Rebecca Chambers, Lori Jo Hendrix, Kena Land, and Gilya Stern) drive a rented van to Turkey from Greece, and drugs are planted at the border. Toni Naples is a tattooed lesbian gang leader, and Avi Cohen is the warden.

PRISON PLANET

(Columbia, 1992) D/S/P/E: Armand Gazarian

James Phillips stars as a futuristic rebel with a sword who goes to a barren planet for some obscure reason and rescues a virgin (Deborah Thompson-Carlin, who was a coproducer) from rapists. Michael M. Foley (The Divine Enforcer) is awful as the Attila-like villain, but I liked the comic-relief guy in a suit. Some parts are unintentionally funny, and the sets and spaceships in this Road Warrior–inspired nonsense are the cheapest I've seen in a long time. It's from 21st Century.

PRISON STORIES: WOMEN ON THE INSIDE

(Prism, 1990) D: Penelope Spheeris, Donna Deitch, Joan Micklin Silver S: Julie Seabo, Martin Jones, Marlane Meyer P: Gerald T. Olson

These three stories about women in prison are pretty serious. Rae Dawn Chong is pregnant and deals coke to pay for day care. Annabella Sciorra is her cellmate. Rachel Ticotin and Talisa Soto are in a story about a drug dealer. Lolita Davidovich is a battered wife who killed her husband. It was made for HBO.

PRIVATE DUTY NURSES

(Charter, 1971) D/S/P: George Armitage (Young L.A. Nurses 2)

Kathy Cannon (later in the TV series Father Murphy) stars, with Joyce Williams and Pegi Boucher, in a story about nurses and waterbeds. The ads said things like "Honestly, doctor, I was only giving him a massage!" It's a follow-up to The Student Nurses. The director wrote Roger Corman's Gas-s-s-s and made Miami Blues years later. Night Call Nurse was next in this New World drive-in series.

THE PRIVATE EYES

(New World, 1980) D/P: Lang Elliott S: Tim Conway, John Myers P: Wanda Dell

Tim Conway and Don Knotts star as detectives in a haunted house. This PG comedy made more than $8 million and was one of New World's biggest hits. With Trisha Noble, Grace Zabriskie, Stan Ross, Irwin Keyes, Suzy Mandell, and Fred Stuthman (who had been LA TV horror host Jeepers Creepers) in the last of his many character roles. The same comedy team starred in The Prize Fighter (1979).

PRIVATE INVESTIGATIONS

(Fox, 1987) D: Nigel Dick S: John Dahl, David Warfield P: Steven Golin, Sigurjon Sighvatsson

Clayton Rohmer is an LA architect in trouble because a newspaper reporter (Anthony Zerbe) and gangsters led by Ray Sharkey think he has some hidden information. Also with Paul LeMat, Talia Balsam, Phil Morris, and Robert Ito.

PRIVATE LESSONS

(MCA, 1981) D: Alan Myerson S: Dan Greenburg P: Ben Efraim

A 15-year-old rich kid (Eric Brown) is seduced by the family maid (Sylvia Kristel), but she and the chauffeur (Howard Hesseman) are criminals. With Ed Begley Jr., Pamela Jean Bryant, and Crispin Glover. This comedy was a hit and inspired several copies, a sequel called They're Playing with Fire (1984), and Private Lessons: Another Story (Paramount, 1994), a late "sequel." MCA released the soundtrack. The director also made Steelyard Blues (1973).

PRIVATE RESORT

(RCA, 1985) D: George Bower S: Gordon Mitchell P: Ben Efraim, Don Enright

Rob Morrow and Johnny Depp star as teens trying to score at a Miami resort. Hector Elizondo is a jewel thief. Also with Emily Longstreth, Karyn O'Bryan, and Dodie Goodman. George Bower also made My Tutor.

PRIVATE SCHOOL

(MCA, 1983) D: Noel Black S: Dan Greenburg, Suzanne O'Malley P: Ben Efraim, Don Enright

This teen-sex comedy, a "sequel" to Private Lessons, is set at a girls' school. Phoebe Cates is a nice girl. Betsy Russell is a bad girl who rides a horse topless. With Matthew Modine, Sylvia Kristel (in a small part as Mrs. Copuletta), Martin Mull, Ray Walston, Kathleen Wilhoite, Lynda Wiesmeier, and Brinke Stevens (in the shower). MCA released the various artists soundtrack.

PRIVATE WARS

(PM, 1992) D/S: John Weidner S: Ken Lamplugh P: Richard Pepin, Joseph Merhi

This resembles a live-action cartoon complete with comic segments and a dumb rap song. Steve Railsback is Jack Manny, an alcoholic former LA cop who was set up and served eight years. A corrupt businessman (Stuart Whitman) and the police captain (Michael Champion), who's on his payroll, pay thugs and martial artists (led by James Lew) to terrorize the barrio with robbery, murder, and grenade launchers so that they can have the neighborhood torn down and redeveloped. He's finally convinced to help a citizens' group fight back, and he falls for Holly Floria (Bikini Island). A big, all-out street battle stops for one-on-one kickboxing. Seeing Railsback fighting in a drunken stupor almost makes it worthwhile, but unfortunately the character straightens out before long. There are bikers, a guy in drag, and a midget.

PROBABLE CAUSE

(1994) D: Paul Ziller S: Hal Salwen P: Richard Davis, Bruce Harvey Canada

Michael Ironside is a police detective trying to catch a person who has been killing cops with steak knives. Kate Vernon is his sleepwalking new partner. With Craig T. Nelson, Michelle Miller, and James Downing. This flashback-filled feature was filmed in Edmonton, Alberta. It debuted on Showtime.

PROBLEM GIRLS

(1953) D: E. A. Dupont S/P: Aubrey Wisberg, Jack Pollexfen

Helen Walker, Susan Morrow, and Ross Elliott star in this women-in-prison movie. "Rich girls who go wrong," said the ads, which showed a red-haired woman hanging by her wrists and being hosed down by a prison matron. Columbia released it on a double bill with One Girl's Confession. The German-born director made Variety back in 1926. He left directing and worked as an agent between 1940 and 1950. The same director, writer, and producer made The Neanderthal Man (1953).

THE PROFESSIONAL

(Columbia, 1994) D/S: Luc Besson P: Claude Besson US/France (Leon)

Luc Besson followed his international hit Le Femme Nikita with this movie. Leon (Jean Reno), a tall, illiterate, milk-drinking, Sicilian loner who's a "cleaner" (hitman), is the hero. DEA cops in NYC, led by a manic Gary Oldman, are the villains. This is a very different, violent action movie. Leon reluctantly protects and trains Matilda (13-year-old Natalie Portman, from Long Island), the only survivor of a drug massacre, and she becomes a killer too. With Danny Aiello as an Italian gangster who never leaves his storefront social club, and Ellen Greene. This Columbia/Gaumont production was shot (in English) in the NYC neighborhoods of Spanish Harlem and Little Italy, but the interiors were done in France.

A PROFESSIONAL GUN

(Edde, 1968) D/S: Sergio Corbucci S: Luciano Vincenzoni, Sergio Spina P: Alberto Grimaldi M: Ennio Morricone Italy/Spain (Il Mercenario; The Mercenary)

Franco Nero stars as Kowalski, a mercenary with a machine gun fighting in the Mexican civil war. Jack Palance is a psychotic (and homosexual) mercenary named Curly working for the government, and Tony Musante is the revolutionary hero. This sometimes comic PG western ends in a The Good, the Bad, and the Ugly–inspired showdown in a bullfight arena. The United Artists ads said, "Life is cheap. Death isn't!"

THE PROFESSOR

(Sinister, 1958) D/S: Tom McCain

A local sheriff is killed with "maniacal fury," Commie spies meet in a library, and a missing scientist (Doug Hobart) turns out to be a howling werewolf. A balding professor who worked on a secret atomic project calls him "a soul crying in the miseries of Hell." Too many characters clutter the plot, and we don't see much of Hobart, but this fun, rare TV-pilot film was made by live-spook-show operators in Dayton, Ohio! The half-hour b/w film is on the same video as Tales of Frankenstein (intermission trailers are included).

PROGRAMMED TO KILL

(Media, 1986) D/P: Allan Holzman S: Robert Short P: Don Stern (Retaliator)

Robert Ginty is a mercenary hired to stop a PLO terrorist (Sandahl Bergman). He kills her, but the villains implant a microcircuit in her brain and turn her into a "Barbie/Rambo killing machine" in a leather jumpsuit with frizzed-out hair. Then she turns against her creators. With James Booth.

PROJECT A

(1984) D/S/A: Jackie Chan P: Leonard K.C. Ho Hong Kong

Jackie Chan is an early-1900s Coast Guard sailor, Yuen Biao is a cop, and Samo Hung is a gambler. They battle pirates with swords, chairs, bombs, and martial arts. This action comedy was a big hit in Asia, and Project A, Part 2 (1987) followed, co-starring Maggie Cheung, Carina Lau, and Rosamund Kwan.

PROJECT ALIEN

(Vidmark, 1989) D: Frank Shields S: Anthony Able UK/Australia/Yugoslavia (Fatal Sky)

This film is set in Norway and is about a UFO cover-up. Or is the military behind the animal mutilations and the deadly virus? It has American stars Michael Nouri as a newspaper reporter, Darlanne Fluegel as a pilot, Maxwell Caulfield as a TV reporter, and Charles Durning as a NATO chief, and it's very boring.

PROJECT ELIMINATOR

(Southgate, 1990) D/S: H. Kaye Dyal P: Morris Asgar

Frank Zagarino is John Slade, a quiet, muscular truckdriver with long blond hair. He stops a holdup by guys in Nixon and Reagan masks, is blamed by the local corrupt cops, and teams up with his old Nam buddy Ron (David Carradine), an ex-alcoholic restaurant owner who cooks, plays the piano, and sings. Ron's boss (Drew Snyder), who has created an "anti-personnel weapon" that looks like a small Buck Rogers spaceship, plans to get out of the weapons business to help the homeless (!) but is kidnapped by the bad guys before he can. Lots of gunfire, chases, and pointless explosions follow, all set to boring Tangerine Dream–type music. Also with Carradine's daughter Calista Carradine (but another actress plays his daughter), Hilary English, and Vivian Schilling (Soultaker). It was shot in New Mexico. Carradine and his wife, Gail, were the associate producers.

PROJECT GENESIS

(Prism, 1992) D/S/P: Philip Jackson P: Mark Terry Canada (Strange Horizons)

Various characters (and a computer with a cartoon face) on a cargo spaceship (cramped sets) talk and talk. David Ferry stars, with Olga Prokhorova as a mute alien woman, Ken Lamaire as an older admiral, and Kyra Harper. There's narration, a brief topless scene, and very cheap FX. It was made for TV.

THE PROJECTIONIST

(Vestron, 1971) D/S/P/E: Harry Hurwitz

Chuck McCann is a NYC projectionist who daydreams that he's Captain Flash, a superhero. This PG comedy has some very serious moments (about Nazis and the end of the world). With Ina Balin and Rodney Dangerfield as the stingy theater manager.

PROJECT: KILL

(Paragon, 1976) D: William Girdler S: Donald G. Thompson P: David Shelton (Total Control)

Leslie Nielsen stars as a defecting government agent pursued by drug-controlled assassins in the Philippines. Nielsen (before he became a comic actor) actually does some kung-fu fighting and falls for Nancy Kwan, who helps him through drug withdrawal. With Gary Lockwood. William Girdler went on to make Grizzly, Day of the Animals (also with Nielsen), and The Manitou before dying in a 1977 helicopter crash in the Philippines scouting locations for The Overlords (it was never made).

PROJECT: METALBEAST

(Prism, 1994) D/S: Alessandro De Gaetano S: Timothy E. Sabo P: Frank Hildebrand

Here's another silly monster-in-a-building movie. In Budapest in 1974 an American secret agent injects himself with the blood of a werewolf. The laughable result looks like a man in a gorilla suit with a wolf's head. His body is put into suspended animation, then brought back 20 years later by a bad-guy colonel (Barry Bostwick). Bloody, painful plastic surgery with synthetic skin turns the "wereman" into what looks like the monster in Predator, and it eventually stalks two women (Kim Delaney and Musetta Vander) with a bazooka in scenes that copy Alien. John Carl Buechler created the FX, and Kane Hodder plays the monster.

PROJECT: SHADOWCHASER

(Prism, 1992) D/P: John Eyres S: Stephen Lister P: George Griffiths

Martin Kove stars as a likable former football star kept frozen in a prison. He's thawed out and is forced to become a reluctant hero battling terrorists who have taken over a hospital. He also has to rescue the president's daughter (Meg Foster). This Die Hard copy has lots of stunts and one excellent flaming-man-falling-off-a-building scene. Frank Zagarino is a muscular blond android, Paul Koslo is an FBI agent, and Joss Ackland is the android's creator. It was filmed in British Columbia and at the Pinewood studios in England by the director of Goodnight, God Bless. Night Siege: Project Shadowchaser 2 (1995) followed.

PROJECT VAMPIRE

(AIP, 1992) D/S: Peter Flynn P: Darew Hicks, Simon Tams

An Austrian vampire leader and his blond partner have their cartoonish henchmen stick people in LA with syringes containing "superserum" as part of "Project Alpha." A Chinese computer-whiz doctor tries to help a runaway teen (Brian Knudson) and his new nurse-turned-vampire girlfriend (Mary-Louise Gemmick), and other vampires fight each other. This dull movie is padded with endless car and foot chases.

PROJECT X

(CBS/Fox, 1987) D: Jonathan Kaplan S: Stanley Weiser, Lawrence Lasker P: Walter F. Parkes

Matthew Broderick works at the top-secret Strategic Weapons Research Center, where chimps are tested in flight simulations. Soon he takes a strong animal-rights stance. This PG film features Helen Hunt, Bill Sadler, Dick Miller, and many talented chimps.

PROM NIGHT III: THE LAST KISS

(IVE, 1988) D/S: Ron Oliver D/P: Peter Simpson P: Ray Sager Canada

Prom Night (1980) is a disco Halloween copy, with Jamie Lee Curtis, filmed in Canada. In 1987 some producers got the rights to the name and made Hello, Mary Lou: Prom Night II. In an attempt to create a female Freddy Krueger they also made this totally useless second sequel, a stupid teen/horror comedy with no gore and no nudity (except for one guy). Worst of all, after the dumb trailers on the tape, you have to sit through an anti-drug spot! Mary Lou (Courtney Taylor), whose face is partially mutilated (sometimes) from the 1957 fire she died in, escapes from Hell (filled with dancing girls in chains) with a nail file and terrorizes Hamilton High again. She has (offscreen) sex with a surprised student named Adam (Tim Conlon), helps him make a touchdown, kills teachers and a janitor, and makes the principal cut his finger off. Adam buries all of the bodies under the football field and tries to explain things to his girlfriend (Cyndy Preston). It was filmed in Toronto. Prom Night IV followed.

PROM NIGHT IV: DELIVER US FROM EVIL

(IVE, 1991) D: Clay Boris S: Richard Beattie P/A: Ray Sager Canada

A killer monk is kept in a monastery cell starting in 1957. In 1991 he escapes, looking the same but with a beard and ponytail. For some reason he terrorizes four teens in a remote house. Characters walk on glass barefoot and are crucified, and there's a shower-sex scene. This terrible sequel is by the director of Quiet Cool. Producer Ray Sager was an actor in Herschell Gordon Lewis movies and starred in The Wizard of Gore!

THE PROPHECY

(1994) D/S: Gregory Widen P: Joel Soisson

Christopher Walken is Gabriel, an angel who creates an army of damned souls, and Eric Stoltz is a good angel. With Adam Goldberg (Dazed and Confused), Elias Koteas, Virginia Madsen, Viggo Mortensen, and Amanda Plummer. Most of this fantasy was shot in Arizona. It was directed by the writer of Backdraft and Highlander.

PROSPERO'S BOOKS

(Video Treasures, 1991) D/S: Peter Greenaway P: Kees Kanander UK/Netherlands

John Gielgud is Prospero, a deposed duke on a desert island with his daughter, Miranda (Isabelle Pasco). This 128-minute anarchist fantasy is a version of Shakespeare's The Tempest. The title refers to the fact that Prospero owns 24 magic books. With Michael Clark, Michel Blanc, Tom Bell, Mark Rylance, and Erland Josephson. It features lots of nudity and was filmed in studios in Amsterdam.

PROSTITUTES PROTECTIVE SOCIETY

(SW, 1965) D/S/P/C: Barry Mahon (P.P.S.)

Madame Sue narrates (with a strong European accent) and explains how many of her "Times Square" girls were stabbed, strangled, shot, and hanged by the Cosa Nostra just for being independent. She explains that "the local newspapers were having a tea party." When not being killed (offscreen) Sue's girls (one is black) take showers (alone or together), sunbathe naked, and play the piano topless. The main gangster goes on rides (alone) at the 1964 World's Fair and Girl Happy is on a marquee. The acting is awful, but the instrumental music by Vinnie Rogers and the Rockets is rockin' ("The Swim" is repeated over and over), the women look good, and the revenge ending is memorable. It's in b/w and only 62 minutes.

THE PROTECTOR

(Warner, 1985) D/S: James Glickenhaus P: David Chan US/Hong Kong

Jackie Chan, in his second US production, is a cop who battles punks in the South Bronx, then goes to Hong Kong on a case with Danny Aiello. There are some great action sequences and some funny parts. A villain falls down a neon sign (like in James Glickenhaus' Shakedown), there's a rotary-saw attack, and lots of naked women work in a drug factory. With Bill "Superfoot" Wallace. The soundtrack is on EAS.

PROTOTYPE

(King Bee, 1983) D: David Greene S: Richard Levinson, William Link P: Robert A. Papazian

Christopher Plummer is a Nobel Prize scientist who steals his own humanoid creation (David Morse) from the Pentagon. This CBS-TV movie also features Frances Sternhagen and Arthur Hill.

PROTOTYPE X29A

(Vidmark, 1992) D/S/P: Phillip J. Roth P: Gian-Carlo Scandiuzzi

Lots of this takes place on a computer screen (a gimmick that's getting way overused), but it's one of the better recent post-nuke movies. The setting is dreary, hopeless, and sweaty. A scientist (Brenda Swanson) convinces a guy in a wheelchair (Robert Tossberg) to be reborn as a very impressive (Robocop-copy) cyborg. A hooker (Lane Lenhart) who lives with her little "brother" (played by the producer's son) discovers that she's really "Omega." A tough guy with hair extensions and an Oriental sidekick snap people's necks. It doesn't make all that much sense, but it just looks impressive and has a nasty edge. Phillip J. Roth also made Red Snow (1991) and Apex.

PROVOKED

(Raedon, 1989) D/P: Rick Pamplin S: Steve Pake, Tara Untiedt P: Anthony Bozanich, Dennis Donovan

A multiracial group of three guys escape from a road gang with a black "big mama" as their leader. They pick up another killer (Joel Van Ornsteiner), botch a holdup, and keep hostages in a building. Cindy Maranne (Slash Dance) tries to help but is arrested herself. There's slow-motion shooting, flashbacks, daydreams, rape, nudity, and a girl fight. At least the music is good.

PSYCHEDELIC FEVER: See MANTIS IN LACE

THE PSYCHIC

(SW, 1968) D/S/P: James F. Hurley D: Herschell Gordon Lewis (Copenhagen's Psychic Loves)

Dan Thomas (Dick Genola), a suburban advertising executive, somehow acquires psychic powers (like in The Dead Zone). He starts a nightclub act with a blond dancer (Robin Guest) and is a guest on the Jerry Larsen TV talk show in NYC, where he "outs" people and eventually ruins his own life. Herschell Gordon Lewis was the cinematographer and added narrated sex flashbacks to liven up this talk-filled movie (it received an early X rating). Dan, with different sideburns, has sex with his sister-in-law while another woman sucks on a lollipop and a b/w lesbian couple are seen in action. There's a sappy theme song, a Mexican band, very bad-taste colors, and tacky 60s suburban-Chicago living rooms. It's by the guy who wrote Lewis' Something Weird.

THE PSYCHIC

(Vidmark, 1991) D: George Mihalka S: Miguel Tejada-Flores, Paul Korval P: Tom Berry Canada

Zach Galligan is a college student who has psychic premonitions of serial murders. The cops arrest him instead of the real killer, a police psychiatrist (Michael Nouri). Catherine Mary Stewart is involved with both men and doesn't know what to think. This better-than-average serial-killer movie has good flashforwards and a few effective jolts. It all takes place around Christmastime and ends at a lodge in the snow. George Mihalka also directed the interesting Eternal Evil. It debuted on the USA Network.

PSYCHO II

(MCA, 1983) D: Richard Franklin S: Tom Holland P: Hilton A. Green

Norman (Anthony Perkins) is rehabilitated and released from the asylum after 22 years. He goes back to the Bates Motel, but he receives notes and calls from his mother, and people start to die again. Vera Miles returns as the sister from Psycho, and a homeless girl (Meg Tilly) stays at the motel. The killer is a surprise (maybe), the ending is full of plot twists that subvert the original story, and they resort to using clips from Psycho. Still, it's better than expected. With Robert Loggia as Norman's parole officer, Dennis Franz, and Hugh Gillin. The Jerry Goldsmith score (which uses Bernard Herrmann's original theme) is on MCA.

Anthony Perkins in Psycho IV.

PSYCHO III

(MCA, 1986) D/A: Anthony Perkins S: Charles Edward Pogue P: Hilton A. Green

This time Norman is in love with a suicidal nun (Diana Scarwid) who sees visions. Anthony Perkins' movie is filled with in-jokes (and a Vertigo-influenced opening), and the studio added more blood. The cast also includes Jeff Fahey as a rock musician, future director Katt Shea as a victim, Juliette Cummins, and Hugh Gillin. Scarwid's body double was Brinke Stevens. There are flashbacks to the original. The Carter Burwell score is on MCA. In NYC the ceiling of the Murray Hill theater collapsed on the audience during a screening. After this sequel was released NBC-TV aired Bates Motel (1987), a feature-length pilot with Bud Cort as the new owner.

PSYCHO IV: THE BEGINNING

(MCA, 1990) D: Mick Garris S: Joseph Stephano P: George Zaloom, Les Mayfield

Norman (Anthony Perkins) is married, and his wife is expecting. He calls a radio talk show, and multiple flashbacks reveal his childhood days. Henry (E.T.) Thomas is the young Norman and Olivia Hussey is his sexy, demented mom. With Donna Mitchell, CCH Pounder, and John Landis in a cameo appearance. Joseph Stephano also scripted the Hitchcock original. Parts of the original Bernard Herrmann score are used. This debuted on Showtime.

PSYCHO COP

(Southgate, 1989) D/S: Wallace Potts P: Jessica Rains

After Maniac Cop came this obscurity about a wisecracking, devil-worshipping ex-cop called Officer Joe Vickers (Bobby Ray Shafer) who kills three teen couples at a mansion in the woods. With Jeff Quayle. It's presented by Cassian Elwes.

PSYCHO COP II

(Columbia, 1992) D/A: "Rif Coogan"/Adam Rifkin S: Dan Povenmire P: David M. Andriole

Bobby Ray Shafer returns, laughing and making jokes as he kills off a bunch of guys and the strippers they hired for an after-hours bachelor party at the office. It's pretty mindless, even with the scene that comments on the Rodney King beating. Barbara Lee Alexander costars as a beautiful blonde who is working late, with Miles David Dougal as a nervous guy and Julie Strain. It's by the director of The Invisible Maniac and (using his real name) The Dark Backwards. Cassian Elwes was the executive producer.

PSYCHO FROM TEXAS

(Paragon, 1974) D/S/P: Jim Feazall (The Butcher)

John King III is Wheeler, a psycho killer who was abused as a child by his mom. He's involved in a kidnap scheme, and there's a long chase scene.

PSYCHOTRONIC HALL OF FAME

These important actors all died during the first few years of Psychotronic Video magazine. I wanted to run interviews with all of them.

1. John Carradine
2. Klaus Kinski
3. Vincent Price
4. Anthony Perkins
5. Peter Cushing
6. Cameron Mitchell
7. Donald Pleasence
8. Aldo Ray
9. Joseph Cotten
10. José Ferrer

Linnea Quigley is a barmaid who is forced to strip and dance. The video box features Charles Manson's eyes.

PSYCHO GIRLS

(MGM/UA, 1984) D/S: Gerard Ciccoritti
S/P: Michael Bockner Canada

This is pretty warped. It's narrated by a would-be scriptwriter typing lines like "What is money anyway but paper with germs on it?" His story is about a woman who's been in an asylum since she was a child for killing her parents by putting rat poison in pancakes (!). She escapes to terrorize her sister, and in a shocking sequence she and two sadistic, laughing maniacs kill people during a dinner party. The sex and violence are off screen but still intense. The director shows up as a pizza-delivery boy. A character is shown reading The Gore Gazette. With Silvio Oliviero and Helen Papas. Cannon released the feature which was shot in Toronto. The director made Graveyard Shift next.

PSYCHOS IN LOVE

(Wizard, 1986) D/S/P: Gorman Bechard
S/A: Carmine Capobianco

A lot of people seem to hate this movie, probably because the stars talk to the camera, and it goes out of its way to remind you it's just a movie. Unlike some other features, revealing a microphone or the film crew is done on purpose. It was made in Waterbury, Connecticut, by a 27-year-old director for $75,000. It's about a bearded, balding strip-club owner (Carmine Capobianco) and a manicurist (Debi Thibeault, who sort of resembles Molly Ringwald). Both are likable serial killers who find happiness offing people and watching horror sequels together until a psychotic cannibal plumber shows up. Some ideas probably came from The Hollywood Strangler Meets the Skid Row Slasher (1979) and Eating Raoul (1982), but this is different. It's got flashbacks, b/w parts, narration, in-jokes, gore humor, a dumb comic love song, lots of blood, and lots of topless scenes (one features Ruth Collins). I liked it, but it's way too long. Bechard made Galactic Gigolo and Cemetery High after this.

PSYCHO SISTERS

(Prism, 1972) D: Reginald LeBorg S: Tony Crechales P: Sydney Chaplin, Robert J. Stone (The Sibling: So Evil My Sister)

Millie (Faith Domergue) is a former mental patient living in a Monterey beach house. Her visiting sister, Brenda (Susan Strasberg), has embezzled her money and taken her supposedly dead husband (Sydney "son of Charlie" Chaplin). Brenda drugs Millie so that she'll have 60s-style nightmares and hallucinations featuring her husband in a death mask, rats, snakes, voodoo, and a goat-headed demon. The last film by the Austrian-born director has some great grade-Z-movie touches (like a retarded, clubfooted, axe-murdering handyman). Charles Knox Robinson is a cop who surfs, Kathleen Freeman is a maid, and John Howard is a doctor. William Tuttle did the FX. It was released (rated PG) by Joseph Brenner.

PSYCHOTIC: See THE DRIVER'S SEAT

PUBLIC DOMAIN

Any film that is not currently copyrighted is considered public domain. Thousands of pre-60s features have lapsed into public domain over the years and can be released on video by anybody. Some features from as recently as the 70s are public domain and many features made by major studios and by major directors (like Hitchcock for instance) fall into this legal category. A whole cottage industry exists selling copies of these movies.

PUCKER UP AND BARK LIKE A DOG

(Fries, 1986) D: Paul S. Parco S: Gary Larrimore, Mel Green, Jude Jansen P: Jeff Geoffrey (Tips)

An LA artist (Jonathan Gries) falls for a waitress and aspiring actress (Lisa Zane), in this story about the film business. Many name actors have small roles. With Wendy O. Williams as a biker named Butch, Paul Bartel as a B-movie director making a women-in-prison movie, Nicholas Worth as a gay chef, Robert Culp as an art dealer, and Phyllis Diller.

PULP FICTION

(Buena Vista, 1994) D/S/A: Quentin Tarantino
P: Lawrence Bender

Tarantino's second film as a director is a prize-winning hit that amazes and impresses nearly everyone who sees it. It received even more attention when some audience members reportedly suffered heart attacks. It manages to mix some great acting, lots of drug use, violence (mostly off-screen), humor, rock and roll, surprise plot twists, and clever references to a number of classic older movies. Samuel L. Jackson and long-haired John Travolta star as hitmen who show up in several interwoven crime stories. Uma Thurman is the wife of their boss (Ving Rhames). Bruce Willis is a boxer with a French girlfriend (Maria De Medeiros). Tim Roth and Amanda Plummer hold up a coffee shop. Also with Harvey Keitel as Wolf, Eric Stoltz as a drug dealer, Rosanna Arquette, Steve Buscemi, Peter Greene, and Christopher Walken as a soldier in a flashback. The Jack Rabbit Slims restaurant is a set. The MCA soundtrack features great 60s surf instumentals, other choice oldies, and a hit remake of Neil Diamond's "Girl, You'll Be a Woman Soon" by Urge Overkill. It was nominated for seven Oscars but only won for screenwriting. From Miramax.

PULSE

(RCA/Columbia, 1988) D/S: Paul Golding
P: Patricia A. Stallone

Electricity in their house menaces a family. The son (Joey Lawrence) is the first to realize there's an alien force, and nobody believes him. Cliff De Young and Roxanne Hart are his parents. With Richard Romanus and Myron Healey.

THE PUMA MAN

(Parade, 1979) D: Alberto De Martino
S: Massimo De Rita, Luigi Angelo Italy

A South American Indian (a descendant of aliens) instructs the American hero how to use a magic mask. Soon he wears a cape, can go through walls, and has "the power of a man-god." Walter George Alton stars, with Donald Pleasence as Coberus, a mesmerizing monk, and Sydne Rome (from Akron). It was filmed in English and has some of the worst FX (and costumes) in memory.

PUMPING IRON

(Rhino, 1977) D/P: George Butler
D/C: Robert Fiore P: Jeremy Gary

Arnold Schwarzenegger and Lou Ferrigno are the main attractions in this documentary about body-building, which also features Franco Columbo. Arnold, who is seen training for his sixth Mr. Olympia title, started his acting career in Hercules in New York (1970) and was in The Long Goodbye (1973) and Stay Hungry (1976). The year this was released he posed in Cosmopolitan magazine. George Butler made a sequel, Pumping Iron II: The Women (1985), and In the Blood (1989), about hunting.

PUMPKINHEAD

(MGM/UA, 1987) D: Stan Winston S: Mark Patrick Carducci, Gary Cerani P: Richard C. Weinman, Howard Smith

A backwoods dad (Lance Henriksen) goes to a witch woman and uses a curse after his son is killed by vacationing teens on motorcycles. A tall creature shows up, kills them, and begins to resemble the dad. This movie is dark, smoky, and dreary, but the creature (Tom Woodruff Jr. inside the suit he designed) is pretty great and resembles Ray Harryhausen's Ymir in Twenty Million Miles to Earth. Stan Winston is the FX expert responsible for the wonders in The Thing, The Terminator, and Alien. With Jeff East, John DiAquino, and George "Buck" Flower. Pumpkinhead was made for DEG and released several years late. A series of comic books and a sequel followed.

PUMPKINHEAD 2

(Live, 1993) D: Jeff Burr S: Steve Mitchell, Craig Van Sickle P: Brad Krevoy, Steve Staber (Blood Wing)

In b/w flashback scenes a pathetic, deformed "feral boy" (the son of Pumpkinhead) is tortured and killed by Arkansas teens in 1958. Troublemaking modern-day teens bring back his spirit, and hateful older locals are killed (to country-music songs) in the Stephen King–like plot. Ami Dolenz stars as the daughter of the new sheriff (Andrew Robinson). With the return of Gloria Henry (Live and Let Die) as the coroner, Steve Kanaly as a corrupt judge, and Roger Clinton (Bill Clinton's brother) as Major Bubba: "This thing could put us on the map." Soleil Moon Frye is skewered, and Linnea Quigley has a major freak-out scene. KNB did the FX, including a gory decapitation. Kane Hodder (Jason) and R. A. Mihailoff (Leatherface) are the stuntmen. You know that our president had to watch this to check out his brother.

PUMP UP THE VOLUME

(RCA, 1990) D/S: Allan Moyle
P: Rupert Harvey, Sandy Stern

Christian Slater, a shy new student in Arizona, becomes a secret pirate DJ called Hard Harry. His out-of-it father is the new school superintendent. Harry plays music and takes calls from bored and suicidal kids. His uncensored basement broadcasts are the talk of the school, and the authorities try to shut him down. Samantha Mathis discovers who he is, they make out on the lawn, and a mild student revolution occurs. Ellen Greene is an understanding teacher, and Annie Ross is the horrible principal. With Scott Paulin, Cheryl Pollak, and Ahmet Zappa. The (old and current) music is good, but some of the songs are remakes. This and Heathers would make a good Slater double bill.

THE PUNISHER

(IVE, 1989) D: Mark Goldblatt S: Boaz Yakin P: Robert Kamen Australia

Dolph Lungren stars as ex-cop Frank Castle, in this Marvel-comics adaptation made in Sydney. Castle (thought to be dead) wages a nonstop one-man war against all gangsters and especially mob boss Jeroen Krabbe (The Fourth Man), who killed his family. The dark-haired, unshaven hero wears all black, rides a Harley, and meditates naked in his hidden sewer home. He kills by hanging, impalement, martial arts, shooting (with a giant machine gun), and general slaughter, but he has a soft spot for kids. Louis Gossett Jr. is pretty much wasted as his ex-partner. A yakuza gang led by the torturing dragon lady Lady Tanaka (Kim Miyori) kidnaps the kids of the Italian gangsters and sells them. The Australian locations don't really resemble America, and some of the local accents get in the way, but this relentless, violent action movie from New World deserved a theatrical release. The Japanese laserdisc is uncut.

THE PUNK ROCK MOVIE

(Rhino, 1978) D/C: Don Letts P: Peter Clifton UK

This film consists of 8mm footage (mostly from the Roxy, a club in London) blown up to 35mm. It was released to some theaters (it played Cleveland!). The best bands here are (of course) the Sex Pistols (they do four songs), Johnny Thunders and the Heartbreakers ("Born to Lose" and "Chinese Rocks"), and Siouxsie and the Banshees ("Carcass"). We also get to see the Clash, X-Ray Spex (it's hard to see Poly), and Generation X. The singer for Eater smashes a pig's head onstage while singing "You Got No Brains." I could have done without Slaughter and the Dogs and Jayne County. Some groups (Slits, Subway Sect) are just seen practicing. It's surprising how young and normal-looking most of the bands are. I wonder what Slaughter is doing these days. I found this for less than $3 at a Woolworth's going-out-of-business sale.

PUPPETMASTER

(Paramount, 1989) D/S: David Schmoeller
S: Joseph G. Collodi P: Hope Perello

André Toulan (William Hickey) kills himself in 1939 to keep his creations from the Nazis. Psychics at a Bodega Bay, California, hotel 50 years later are terrorized by five of his living puppets after Jimmie F. Scaggs brings them back to life. They're Pin Head, Tunneler, Jester, Blade (a skeleton with razor hands), and Leech Woman (a puppet with leeches that come out of her mouth). With Paul Le Mat, Irene Miracle, Kathryn O'Reilly, and Barbara Crampton. It's similar in some ways to Dolls (also from producer Charles Band). David Allen created the animated little killers for the entire series.

PUPPET MASTER II

(Paramount, 1990) D: David Allen S: David Fabian
P: David DeCoteau, John Schouweiler

When four more young psychic researchers arrive at the Bodega Bay hotel the same puppets attack, plus Torch, a new one. Steve Welles is Toulon (bandaged so that you can't tell it's a different actor), brought back by his creations, who need human brain fluid to live. The puppets are fun but are not really used well. With Elizabeth MacLellan, Collin Bernsen, Charlie Spradling, Nita Talbot, and George "Buck" Flower. At the end Charles Band promises more sequels, comic books, and merchandise tie-ins. The Moonstone soundtrack by Richard Band also features music from the first film in the series. David Allen did the FX.

PUPPET MASTER III: TOULON'S REVENGE

(Paramount, 1991) D/P: David DeCoteau
S: C. Courtney Joyner P: John Schouweiler

In this "prequel" Toulon (this time played by Guy Rolfe) is in Germany in the 30s. His wife is killed by the Gestapo, and Nazi scientists try to use his secret formula to reanimate corpses to use as soldiers. He disguises himself as a blind man, hides out in an abandoned building with a helpful kid (Sean Ryan), and sends his five killer puppets (the 6-armed cowboy puppet is the silliest one) after the Nazis, led by Richard Lynch as Major Kraus. Old Universal sets were used for the town. Also with Ian Abercrombie, Sarah Douglas, Conrad Brooks, and Michelle Bauer in a brief sex scene.

Prince in Purple Rain.

PUPPET MASTER IV

(Paramount, 1993) D: Jeff Burr S: Todd Henschell, Steven E. Carr, Jo Duffy, Doug Arniokoski, Keith Payson P: Charles Band

Once kind of fun, the killer puppets are good guys now, and it took five people to write this useless sequel. A young scientist (Gordon Currie) who tests small robots invites three teens to a mansion. Meanwhile a glowing-eyed, skull-faced creature watches from the underworld. A new robot with changeable heads was left over from an unproduced Charles Band film (Decapitron). With Chandra West, Jason Adams, Teresa Hill, and the voice (and head) of Guy Rolfe. This was filmed back to back with V.

PUPPET MASTER V: THE FINAL CHAPTER

(Paramount, 1994) D: Jeff Burr S: Todd Henschell,Steven E. Carr P: Charles Band

The scientist (Gordon Currie) who controls the now good puppets and his girlfriend (Chandra West) return. Ian Ogilvy hires three young punks to go to a hotel to capture the puppets. There's an evil puppet, a long flashback, and a dream sequence. With Duane Whitaker, Clu Gulager, Teresa Hill, Nicholas Guest, Diane McBain, Kaz Garas, and the head of Guy Rolfe. The director (from Aurora, Ohio) became king of the sequels.

THE PUPPET MASTERS: See ROBERT A. HEINLEIN'S THE PUPPETMASTERS

PURGATORY

(New Star, 1989) D/P: Ami Artz S: Felix Kroll, Paul Aratow South Africa

The ads said that this was about "the women's prison that's one step from hell!" Tanya Roberts stars as a Peace Corps worker in South America who's locked up on a phony drug charge. The female prisoners double as prostitutes. Her friend kills herself after being gang-raped. Tanya weeps, pukes, and finally leads a rebellion and escapes. Most of the sex and violence is offscreen.

THE PURPLE MONSTER STRIKES

(Republic, 1945) D: Spencer Gordon Bennet, Fred Brannon S: Royal Cole, Albert De Mond

Roy Barcroft as Mota and Mary Moore are medieval/futurist-look Martians who land their spaceship on Earth, in this 15-chapter Republic serial. Mota becomes invisible and can take over the bodies of the Earthlings he kills, but he follows orders given by the emperor of Mars (John Davidson). Dennis Moore and Linda Stirling save the day. The condensed feature version is called D-Day on Mars.

PURPLE PEOPLE EATER

(Media, 1988) D/S: Linda Shayne P: Brad Krevoy

A kid (Neil Patrick "Doogie Hauser" Harris) plays Sheb Wooley's 1958 hit record and releases a very cheap and silly-looking friendly creature. Old folks (Ned Beatty and Shelley Winters) are being evicted (an idea copied from Steven Spielberg's batteries not included*). With Peggy Lipton, Sheb Wooley, Chubby Checker as himself, and Little Richard as the mayor. This G-rated Concorde release was directed by the blonde actress from Humanoids from the Deep, Screwballs, and others. AJK released the mostly-oldies soundtrack.

PURPLE RAIN

(Warner, 1984) D/S: Albert Magnoli S: William Blinn P: Robert Cavaol, Joesph Ruffalo, Steven Fargnoli

The 24-year-old Prince (who had done the music for J.D.'s Revenge in 1976) is "the Kid." This semi-autobiographical hit movie, made in Minneapolis, has great songs and many stage-show segments. Apollonia (Patricia Kotero) costars, with Morris Day (who leads the rival band, the Time), Clarence Williams III as the alcoholic father, and Jerome Benton. Apollonia had posed for MPM ads for movies like Satan's Playthings, Classroom Teasers, and Tricks of the Trade.

THE PUSHER

(Shocktunes, 1958) D: Gene Milford S: Harold Robbins P: Gene Milford, Sidney Katz

This serious, b/w drug movie resembles the then-popular TV series The Naked City. It was shot in actual NYC locations, including Spanish Harlem and Central Park. A gum-chewing police detective (Robert Lansing) is investigating the hanging of a Puerto Rican junkie. He's engaged to the blond daughter (Kathy Caryse) of the lieutenant, and she turns out to be a junkie herself. She has a cold-turkey sequence: "Get me a fix!" The killer heroin pusher is named Gonzo. John Astin makes his film debut in one scene as a detective. United Artists released this in 1960.

PUSS BUCKET

(1991) D/C: Lisa Houle

Two long-haired brothers ("ignorant humanoids") are affected by a (toy) spaceship that hovers over their house. One brother dreams that he's Christ and goes out to kill "demons." A scientist dances and sings about UFOs. There's a cat fight (in the Scrap bar), a gorilla suit, and a Dianetics guy in drag. This fun but too-long science-fiction musical was shot in grainy b/w Super 8. The music is very good.

PUSS IN BOOTS

(Rhino, 1955) D: Herbert B. Fredersdorf P: Hubert Schonger W. Germany (Der Gestiefelter Kater)

In this color film based on the famous fairy tale, three brothers (with weird hair) live in a mill. One inherits the mill, one gets the donkey, and the other gets a female cat who talks and sings. Of course the cat (a person in a suit who runs upright) helps battle an evil magician, and his owner becomes a duke and gets the princess. AIP released this West German feature (and a 1961 Mexican version of the same tale). Paul Tripp narrates. Young kids may enjoy it. Christopher Walken stars in Puss in Boots (1989), from Faerie Tale Theatre, with Ben Vereen and Gregory Hines.

PUTNEY SWOPE

(RCA, 1969) D/S: Robert Downey P: Ron Sullivan

A black man (Arnold Johnson) becomes chairman of an advertising agency and renames it "Truth and Soul." This satire (in color) includes great TV-ad spoofs in b/w. Also with Allen Garfield, Antonio Fargas, and Mel Brooks. A song in one ad says, "Eat flaming death, facist media pigs!" Robert Downey said that he looped the stars' lines.

THE PUZZLE OF THE RED ORCHID

(1961) D: Helmut Ashley S: Trygve Larsen W. Germany (Das Rätsel der Roten Orchidee)

Marisa Mell and Adrian Hoven star with Christopher Lee as Captain Allerman and Klaus Kinski in this prime Edgar Wallace mystery. Also with Fritz Rasp, once a regular in Fritz Lang films. You may have caught this on American TV as The Secret of the Red Orchid. The same story was remade in England as The Verdict (1964).

PYTHON WOLF

(Vidmark, 1988) D: William Friedkin S: Robert Ward P: David Salvern (C.A.T. Squad: Python Wolf)

A private South African army makes an A-bomb. Joe Cortese stars as the leader of a government anti-terrorist unit. This NBC-TV series pilot is a sequel to a 1986 pilot, Stalking Danger. With Jack Youngblood, Steve James, Deborah Van Valkenburgh, and Miguel Ferrer.

QUADROPHENIA

(Rhino, 1979) D/S: Franc Roddam S: Dave Humphries, Martin Stellman P: Roy Baird UK

Back in 1973 the Who recorded Quadrophenia, a much better "rock opera" than Tommy and possibly their greatest achievement. They should have broken up then and stayed that way, but at least that double album inspired this excellent 2-hour film starring Phil Daniels as James Michael, or Jimmy, the tortured and ill-fated 1964 "mod." His scooter, his clothes (and his speed) are as important to him as the great music, which is partly rerecorded versions of the original Who album plus choice original oldies (including "Green Onions," "Night Train," and "Louie Louie"). After he loses his job, his scooter, his girlfriend, and his home he heads for the seacoast town of Brighton. With Leslie Ash, Sting as Ace, Mark Wingett, Philip Davis, and Toyah Wilcox. The soundtrack is on Polydor.

THE QUAKE

(Concorde, 1992) D: Mike Elliot S: Markevan Schwartz P: Louis Morneau (Aftershock)

The 1989 San Fransisco earthquake hits while Attack of the Crab Monsters is on TV. Erika Anderson is a defense attorney who is rescued by a photographer and surveillance expert (Steve Railsback) she knows from work. He turns out to be a scary, obsessed, voyeur and psycho killer who ties her up and keeps her captive. This is a pretty good, sick exploitation movie. Railsback makes a great psycho, and Anderson (Zanda Lee) has nude scenes. Roger Corman had some good footage of the actual quake, and that's mixed with some (very good) miniatures (from the Japanese Tidal Wave). With Eb Lottimer, Rick Dean, and Dick Miller as a store owner. It's by the director of Fatal Games.

QUANTUM LEAP

(MCA, 1989) D: David Hemmings S: Donald P. Bellisario P: Deborah Pratt, John Hill

Scott Bakula stars as Sam, a guy who enters the body of someone from a different era in each episode of this NBC-TV series, and sometimes alters (or fixes) history (shades of the early-80s TV series Voyagers). In this feature-length debut for the 1989–93 series he becomes a test pilot in 1956. With Jennifer Runyon and Bruce McGill. Series costar Dean Stockwell is Al, a helpful hologram. The series was sometimes humorous science-fiction with a positive message but was often pretty silly. Bakula was in drag several times and once appeared as Lee Harvey Oswald! There are 48-minute videos of later episodes.

QUARANTINE

(Republic, 1989) D/S/P: Charles Wilkinson Canada

In "the near future" a senator puts people with a deadly disease and those who have been caring for them into concentration camps. A supercomputer works to find a cure. With Beatrice Boepple and Garwin Sanford.

QUATERMASS AND THE PIT

(Sinister, 1958) D: Rudolph Carter S: Nigel Kneale UK

This 6-part BBC-TV series (running 3 hours on 2 tapes) is the second appearance of Nigel Kneale's Professor Quatermass (the first was a 1953 series). It was very popular in England and led to the filming of Hammer's first international hit, The Quatermass Experiment (called The Creeping Unknown in the US; from Sinister), the same year. It was followed by Quatermass II (called The Enemy Within in the US; from Corinth). Quatermass and the Pit was itself redone as an excellent film in 1967 (called Five Million Years to Earth in the US). It all came full circle and went back to the telly in 1980 with The Quatermass Conclusion (HBO; available in a condensed form). This serious science-fiction series is crude-looking compared with the films, of course, but is a fascinating artifact. André Morell stars, with Cec Linder and Anthony Bushell.

QUEEN KONG

(1976) D/S/P: Frank Agrama S: Ron Dobrin P: André Genovese UK/W. Germany/Italy/France

Yes, this is a real movie, made to cash in on the Dino De Laurentiis remake. He sued, though, and won. It's a comedy about a giant female gorilla who falls for an actor (Robin Askwith) and follows him back to London. With Rula Lenska and Valerie Leon.

THE QUEEN OF BLACK MAGIC

(Twilight Star, 1985) D: Lawrence Chen, L. Sudjio S: Iman Tamtowi P: Sabrin Kasdan Hong Kong/Indonesia (Black Magic Terror; Black Magic III)

A big, traditional wedding ceremony starts off this black-magic/revenge story. The bride freaks out when she sees snakes and zombies. The corrupt husband accuses his ex-girlfriend, Mouri (Suzanna), of being a witch, burns her house, and throws her off a cliff. A magician catches her (!) and trains her. She does slow-motion somersaults in front of a full moon and says, "All men are devils!" She uses voodoo dolls and fireballs, makes heads explode, and sends bees to kill one villager. He sinks into a rice paddy while veins expand and burst and worms come out of his mouth. Characters say, "It's black magic!" every few minutes. Mouri kidnaps the couple's baby. A young Muslim from the city arrives ("This village has a curious aura of mystery!") and soon has everybody praying again. During a fight he pulls his own head off. The head floats through the air and bites people! A flashback provides a surprise ending. It was filmed in Jakarta, Indonesia.

QUEEN OF EVIL = SEIZURE

THE QUEEN OF SPADES

(1948) D: Thorold Dickinson S: Rodney Ackland, Arthur Boys P: Anatole De Grunwald UK

Some people say that this movie, based on the story "Pique Dame" (or "The Queen of Spades"), by Alexander Pushkin, is the scariest they've ever seen. Too bad it's so hard to find. Anton Walbrook is a Russian officer in 1806 who's obsessed with winning at cards. The grandmother of the woman who loves him has sold her soul to the Devil for the secret of winning. The tale had been made into Russian silent films in 1911 and 1916, and Tchaikovsky's opera Pique Dame was filmed in the USSR in 1960. With Edith Evans, Ronald Howard, Mary Jerrold, Yvonne Mitchell, Miles Malleson, Anthony Dawson, and Valentine Dyall.

QUEEN OF THE AMAZONS

(Sinister, 1946) D/P: Edward Finney S: Roger Merton

Robert Lowery and Patricia Morison lead an expedition into the jungle and find another of those white jungle queens (Amira Moustafa). It's 61 minutes of nonsense from Screen Guild (later Lippert), released the same year as their mind-numbing Bela Lugosi movie Scared to Death and several all-black musicals.

QUEEN OF THE JUNGLE

(Sinister, 1935) D: Robert Hill S: J. Griffith Jay

Mary Kornman (Little Mary of the Little Rascals) stars as a jungle woman who can control leopards, in this 12-chapter serial from Screen Attractions. She starts out as a little girl accidentally cast off in a hot-air balloon. This very silly low-budget independent release uses lots of footage from the Selig serial Jungle Goddess (1922), including scenes of a giant stone idol with radium-beam eyes. With Reed Howes and Dickie Jones. There's a fish man and a strangling vine. A feature version is also available.

THE QUEST

(Nelson, 1986) D: Brian Trenchard-Smith S: Everett De Roche Australia

Henry Thomas discovers a friendly Loch Ness type of monster in a lake near an Aboriginal burial ground. Thomas was known for being the main kid in E.T. and plays a similar role here. The director also made Dead End Drive-In.

QUEST FOR FIRE

(Fox, 1981) D: Jean-Jacques Annaud S: Gérard Brach P: John Kemeny, Denis Heroux Canada/France

The prehistoric Ulam tribe is attacked by apes, cannibals, and wolves. They learn how to laugh and how to make fire, and also some new sexual positions. Novelist Anthony Burgess created the language for this ambitious film by the director of The Name of the Rose. It's based on a novel by J. H. Rosny. With Everett McGill, Rae Dawn Chong as a member of a more advanced tribe, Ron Perlman (later in the TV series Beauty and the Beast), and Joy Boushel. It was filmed in Canada, Scotland, Iceland, and Kenya. RCA released the soundtrack. The videodisc version is letterboxed. Caveman, released the same year, is a comedy on the same theme, with dinosaurs (and fiery farts).

QUEST FOR LOVE

(IVD, 1971) D: Ralph Thomas
S: Terence Feeney P: Peter Eton UK

A man (Tom Bell) finds love in another, slightly different dimension where JFK is still alive and nobody has walked on the moon. He has the same name but is a famous playwright. He drinks and everybody thinks he's going crazy. He tries to win back his unfaithful wife (Joan Collins). This parallel-world science fiction movie is based on the story "Random Quest," by John Wyndham. With Denholm Elliott as a one-armed man, Laurence Naismith, and Simon Ward.

QUEST FOR THE LOST CITY

(AIP, 1988) D/S: T. Jardus Greidanus S: Christian Malcolm, Bruce Mitchell Canada

A small-town kid (Bruce J. Mitchell) whose father had been killed finds a map to a lost civilization. Silly-looking bad guys with black hoods and machine guns go after him, and a huge UFO shows up at the end. This slow-moving nearly all-male movie is very serious. It's filled with chases and shootouts.

QUEST FOR THE MIGHTY SWORD

(RCA/Columbia, 1989) D/S: "David Hills"/ Aristide Massaccesi P: Carlo Mario Cardio Italy (Ator III:The Hobgoblin)

A big guy (Eric Allen Kramer) is the son of Ator. He's raised by Grindle, a devious dwarf (in a rubber mask) with magical powers who gives a potion to Ator's mother, making her wander aimlessly until somebody buys her. There's a Godzilla-like fire-breathing dragon, "frog men," lots of Star Wars–type alien faces, and a lovesick, wart-faced prince who makes sculptures like the ones by Walter Paisley in A Bucket of Blood. A pair of ineffective Siamese-twin robot warriors must have been inspired by The Three Stooges Meet Hercules. Laura Gemser, who was in the first Ator movie, shows up as an evil princess, and Melissa Mell turns into a crow. This PG-13 movie has some good music and costumes, but the "action" scenes are laughable, and most of the acting is horrible. The same director also made the previous Ator movies.

QUICK

(Academy, 1993) D: Rick King S: Frederick Bailey P: David Lancaster

Teri Polo stars as Quick, a blond hitwoman in LA. She kills for her corrupt DEA-agent boyfriend (Jeff Fahey), who works for a mobster (Robert Davi) with an office behind a beauty shop. The plot concerns murder and double-crosses. Quick kidnaps a mob accountant (Martin Donovan, from Hal Hartley movies), then goes on the run with him. Tia Carrere is a good federal agent who gets to shoot some bad guys. Polo has a topless scene. The movie contains Kentucky Fried Chicken–eating. It's by the director of Kickboxer III.

THE QUICK AND THE DEAD

(MCA, 1995) D: Sam Raimi S: Simon Moore P: Joshua Donen, Allen Shapiro

This goofy western copies Sergio Leone shamelessly (especially Once Upon a Time in the West) and adds typical cartoonish Raimi-style violence (like giant bullet holes in heads). It's also extremely gun-obsessed, with many loving closeups of several late 1870s models. Sharon Stone stars as the vengeance-seeking Ellen. Herod (Gene Hackman) owns the corrupt town of Redemption where deadly annual shooting turnaments are held. Some parts of the movie are awkward, but Stone looks great and is fine, playing it very seriously. Russell Crowe (Romper Stomper) as the chained-up former gunfighter and Leonard DiCaprio as Hackman's teenage son (and, briefly, Stone's lover) are the best actors. Also with Lance Henrikson as an outrageous gunfighter, Tobin Bell, Roberts Blossom, Keith David, Kevin Conway, Pat Hingle, Gary Sinise, and the last appearance of Woody Strode. The score is by Alan Silvestri.

Bruno Lawrence in The Quiet Earth.

QUIET COOL

(RCA/Columbia, 1986) D/S: Clay Borris
S: Susan Vercellino P: Robert Shaye

James Remar is a NYC cop who goes to the Northwest to stop killer pot growers. Adam Coleman Howard, Jared Martin, and Nick Cassavettes are also in this bloody New Line release. The music is by Jay Ferguson of Spirit.

THE QUIET EARTH

(CBS/Fox, 1985) D: Geoff Murphy
S/P: Sam Pillsbury S: Bill Baer, Bruno Lawrence New Zealand

The entire population of Earth has been transported to another world. Bruno Lawrence is a scientist who thinks that he's the last survivor on Earth but then meets a woman and a Maori man. It's based on a novel by Craig Harrison. In some ways it's like a better, R-rated version of The World, the Flesh, and the Devil (1959) or maybe Roger Corman's The Last Woman on Earth (1961).

A QUIET PLACE IN THE COUNTRY

(VSOM, 1968) D/S: Elio Petri
S: Luciano Vincenzoni P: Alberto Grimaldi France/Italy (Un Tranquillo Posto di Campagna)

Leonardo, a popular artist (Franco Nero), and his mistress, Flavia (Vanessa Redgrave), go to a rented villa. Strange things happen, some of his paintings are damaged, and he decides to hire a medium to contact the ghost of a young woman. Then Leonardo loses his mind and claims to have killed Flavia and put her body in the refrigerator. Ennio Morricone wrote the score. Elio Petri also directed The Tenth Victim (1965).

A QUIET PLACE TO KILL

(Unicorn, 1969) D: Umberto Lenzi S: Marcello Coscia, Bruono De Geronimo Italy/Spain (Paranoia)

Carroll Baker says that she was blacklisted by her studio (Paramount) from 1968 until the early 80s. She worked only in Europe, starring in some pretty sick movies, which she left out of her autobiography. In this one, which has a plot copied from Diabolique, she plays a woman who helps her ex-husband (Jean Sorel) cover up the murder of his rich new wife. Baker is a race-car driver who's in a coma at the beginning of the film. The US version of this giallo (the Italian word for "yellow," which also refers to a mystery or thriller) is typically cut. It should not be confused with Paranoia/Orgasmo, also starring Baker and by the same director, even though they both use the same song, "Just Tell Me."

RABID GRANNIES

(Media, 1988) D/S: Emmanuel Kervyn P: James Desert, Jonathan Rambert Belgium/France

A Satanist turns two wealthy old aunts into Evil Dead–type monsters during their birthday party in a mansion. The partygoers are all greedy relatives who want to be in the will. The English accents are dubbed in. Troma released a very cut version of this gory movie for an R rating.

RACE FOR LIFE

(1954) D: Terence Fisher S: Richard Landau P: Mickey Delamar UK (Mask of Dust)

Richard Conte stars as a stock-car racer trying to make a comeback in Europe. With George Coulouris and Mari Aldon. Lippert released a cut version of this Hammer studio drama.

RACQUET

(VCZ, 1979) D/P: David Winters S: Steve Michaels, Earl Doud P: Alan Roberts

Bert Convy stars as a tennis pro in this Shampoo-copy comedy with Edie Adams, Lynda Day George, Phil Silvers, Tanya Roberts, Susan Tyrrell, Bruce Kimmel, and Monte Rock III. Tennis pros Bobby Riggs and Bjorn Borg also appear. David Winters made this after he produced Linda Lovelace for President (1976).

RADAR MEN FROM THE MOON

(Republic, 1952) D: Fred C. Bannon S: Ronald Davidson P: Franklin Adreon

George Wallace stars as Commodore Cody, sky marshal of the universe, in this 12-chapter Republic serial. He has a cheap-looking rocket ship and a jet-propelled backpack to fly with. His enemy, Retik (Roy Barcroft), wants to take over Earth with his three-man army and atomic gun. The moon men rob Earth banks for funds. With Aline Towne, Clayton Moore, and the usual ace Republic stuntmen. The flying-man footage is from King of the Rocket Men (1949). The only thing that looked new at the time were some then modern spacesuits copied from Destination Moon (1951). A feature version is called Retik, the Moon Menace. A different actor played Cody in Zombies of the Stratosphere later the same year. Beware of the Goodtimes video version. It's at LP speed and is missing the last three chapters.

RADAR PATROL VS. SPY KING

(Stokey, 1949) D: Fred Brannon S: Royal K. Cole, William Lively, Sol Shor P: Franklin Adreon

Kirk Alyn (better known as Superman) stars as a federal agent trying to stop Baroda, the sinister "spy king" (John Merton). Baroda uses a mind-control serum and lots of nuclear gadgets. This 12-chapter Republic serial features Jean Dean, John Crawford, Eve Whitney, Eddie Parker, and Tristram Coffin.

RADIOACTIVE DREAMS

(Vestron, 1986) D/S: Albert Pyun P: Thomas Karnowski

Philip (John Stockwell) and Marlowe (Michael Dudikoff) spend 15 years in a post-nuke bomb shelter reading Raymond Chandler's novels. They emerge in 1996 and encounter disco-mutants, biker women, cannibals, midgets, and big rats. The land is divided into punk and video districts, and rival greaser and hippie groups fight over the keys to the last MX warhead. With Lisa Blount, George Kennedy, Don Murray, and Michelle Little.

RADIO FLYER

(RCA, 1992) D: Richard Donner S: David Mickey P: Lauren Shuler-Donner

Joseph Mazzello and Elijah Wood star as kids with an abusive stepfather. Mazzello flies away on a red wagon in the E.T.-type fantasy ending. Tom Hanks is one of the grown-up kids remembering his childhood. A clubhouse becomes a talking buffalo in a dream sequence. With John Heard, Lorraine Bracco, Adam Baldwin as the stepfather, and Ben Johnson. Michael Douglas, the executive producer of this Columbia box-office flop, fired and replaced the entire original cast and director.

RADIO ON

(1979) D/S: Chris Petit S: Heidi Adolph P: Keith Griffiths UK/W. Germany

A disc jockey (David Beames) returns to his home in Bristol, England, to investigate his brother's death. Lisa Kreuzer costars. Wim Wenders was the associate producer of this angst-ridden road movie. Sting plays "Just Like Eddie," an in-joke that Wenders fans will get. Devo, David Bowie, Kraftwerk, and others are heard on the soundtrack.

RADIO PATROL

(Stokey, 1937) D: Ford Beebee, Cliff Smith S: Wyndham Gittens, Norman S. Hall, Ray Trampe P: Barney Sarecky, Ben Koenig

Grant Withers stars as hero Pat O'Hara in this 12-chapter Universal serial based on a comic strip. International criminals who use hypnotism kill the inventor of a new flexible bulletproof material and take his son. With Frank Lackteen as Thata, Catherine Hughes, Monte Montague, and C. Montague Shaw. Some chapters are "Hypnotic Eye," "Claws of Steel," and "Flaming Death."

RAGE

(1984) D: Tonino Ricci S: Jaime Comas Gil, Eugenio Benito P: Paola Ferrara Italy/Spain

Musclebound Conrad Nichols returns as ex–Green Beret Rage, in this sequel to Rush. He battles an evil post-WWIII warlord named Slash.

RAGE AND HONOR

(Columbia, 1992) D/S: Terry S. Winkless P: Donald Paul Pemrick

Cynthia Rothrock is a high-school teacher and martial-arts instructor. She teams up with an Australian undercover cop (Richard Norton) to battle killer drug dealers (Terri Treas and musclebound Brian Thompson, with long blond hair). Alex Datcher is the black leader of a cartoonish all-female kung-fu gang, Catherine Bach (from the TV series The Dukes of Hazzard) is the police chief, and Stephen Davies is a comic-relief junkie. Rothrock and Norton were associate producers of this IRS production.

RAGE AND HONOR II: HOSTILE TAKEOVER

(Columbia, 1992) D: Guy Norris S: Louis Sun, Steven Reich P: Donald Paul Pemrick, Keven Reidy

Cynthia Rothrock and Richard Norton return. This time they're after some corrupt Americans in Jakarta, Indonesia. Patrick Muldoon costars.

A RAGE IN HARLEM

(HBO, 1991) D: Bill Duke S: John Toles-Bey, Bobby Crawford P: Stephen Wooley, Kerry Boyle UK/US

This crime movie set in 1954 is based on Chester Himes' (Cotton Comes to Harlem) novel. It wasn't a hit, but it's a pretty entertaining mixture of humor, sex, and violence. Forest Whitaker is a funeral home accountant involved with a sexy southern thief (Robin Givens) who's after some gold. Gregory Hines is a con man, Zakes Mokae (in drag) is the madam of a whorehouse, Danny Glover is a crime lord, Badja Djola is a crazed Mississippi gangster (he says "Pop goes the weasel" when he wants someone killed), and Screamin' Jay Hawkins shows up as himself, still looking the way he did in the 50s (!). Coffin Ed Johnson and Gravedigger Jones (stars of other Himes novels) are secondary characters. The Miramax release was filmed in Cincinnati. Elmer Bernstein wrote the score. Duke had directed The Killing Floor (1984) and Johnny Gibson: FBI (1988).

RAGE OF HONOR

(Media, 1987) D: Gordon Hessler S: Robert Short, Wallace Bennett P: Don Van Atta

Sho Kosugi is a US narcotics investigator stationed in Phoenix. He goes to Buenos Aires to avenge the death of his assistant and kills lots of villains, ninjas, and Indians in the jungle. Gordon Hessler also directed Kosugi in Pray for Death and other movies.

A RAGE TO KILL

(AIP, 1987) D/S/P: David Winters S: Ian Yule S. Africa

James Ryan is Stryker, an American race-car driver in the Caribbean who is taken hostage. Cameron Mitchell is a CIA man, and Oliver Reed is a villainous general who has taken over the island. It's based on the Grenada invasion and features torture and shower scenes.

RAGIN' CAJUN

(AIP, 1987) D/S/P: William Byron Hillman P: Michelle Marshall (Loner)

David Heavener stars as a kickboxer who has Nam flashbacks, in this martial-arts musical. Charlene

Tilton is his girlfriend, who is kidnapped. Both leads sing, and the multitalented Heavener wrote the songs. Also with Sam Bottoms, Samantha Eggar, Hector Elias, Tommy Roe, Rex Allen Jr., Billy Vera, and Benny "the Jet" Urquidez.

RAIDERS OF ATLANTIS

(Prism, 1983) D: "Roger Franklin"/Ruggero Deodato
S: Vincenzo Mannino, Dardano Sacchetti Italy
(I Predatori di Atlantide; Atlantis Interceptors)

An atomic chain reaction causes Atlantis to reappear in the ocean, and its inhabitants kill people. Christopher Connelly and Tony King are mercenaries, and Marie Field is a scientist. With Ivan Rassimov and George Hilton. This confusing Mad Max–style movie was filmed in the Philippines and features a decapitation and some other novel deaths.

RAIDERS OF LEYTE GULF

(1963) D/S/P: Eddie Romero
S: Karl Kuntze US/Philippines

Jennings Sturgeon stars as an American WWII intelligence officer captured and tortured by the Japanese in the Philippines. This b/w feature was released by Hemisphere, the company that later backed Romero's Blood Island horror movies.

RAIDERS OF THE LIVING DEAD

(1986) D/S: Brett Piper D/S: Sam Sherman P: Dan Q. Kennis

Robert Deveau stars as a newspaper reporter who goes to an island and discovers a mad doctor who creates zombies. With Donna Asali and Zita Johann (Boris Karloff's beloved in the original version of The Mummy) as a librarian. Scott Schwartz is the kid star. Brett Piper's movie Dying Day (he also did the F/X) was made in New Hampshire in 1983. Sherman bought it and later shot and added much new footage. This paste-up movie came out on video in Europe and made its American debut on Showtime. Tim Ferrante is credited with the music. John Donaldson was an editor.

RAINBOW BRIDGE

(Rhino, 1972) D: Chuck Wein P: Barry De Prendergast

Surfers, groupies, astrologers, and various New Age types talk about cosmic things at a Maui mansion owned by a man searching for the meaning of life. After 40 minutes Jimi Hendrix finally shows up for a July 30, 1970, concert played between two extinct volcanos. This PG film was made for Warner but released independently by its producers. Reprise released the soundtrack album.

THE RAINBOW THIEF

(Warner, 1990) D: Alexandro Jodorowsky
S/A: Berta Dominguez P: Vincent Winter UK

Peter O'Toole is an eccentric prince who walks away from his inheritance and lives in (Phantom of the Opera–style) sewers. Omar Sharif is his servant, a thief. Christopher Lee has some great scenes as his equally eccentric rich uncle Rudolph, who prefers his Dalmatians to people, dances, sings (in French), and dies in a bed full of hookers. This was an attempt by Jodorowsky to make a more conventional feature after the success of Santa Sangre. It does have many typical Jodorowsky touches, including beautiful circus pipe music, period (1920s) detail, a midget, a giant, and a Gypsy in drag. Some parts were shot in Gdansk, Poland. Two different versions reportedly exist.

THE RAIN KILLER

(RCA/Columbia, 1990) D: Ken Stein
S: Ray Cunneff P: Rodman Flender

A serial killer (Woody Brown) blacks out and doesn't remember what he's done. He goes after women from a substance-abuse support group but kills only during rainstorms. Ray Sharkey is an LA cop who's after him. Maria Ford is a stripper who becomes one of the victims. This Concorde/Corman release has nudity and sex.

RAISING ARIZONA

(CBS/Fox, 1987) D/S: Joel Coen
S/P: Ethan Coen

A small-time holdup man called H. I. (Nicolas Cage, who narrates) and a police mug-shot photographer (Holly Hunter) marry. They want a baby so badly that they steal one, Nathan Arizona Jr., a quintuplet who they figure won't be missed. John Goodman and William Forsythe as ex-cons Gale and Evelle show up to complicate matters. With Trey Wilson, Frances McDormand (from the Coens' Blood Simple), Randall "Tex" Cobb as a biker "of the apocalypse," and M. Emmet Walsh in a bit part. The great, all-over-the-place cinematography is by Barry Sonnenfeld. The screenplay of this unique 20th Century–Fox comedy was published. Holly Hunter started out in a horror movie, The Burning (1981).

Randall "Tex" Cobb in Raising Arizona.

RAISING CAIN

(MCA, 1992) D/S: Brian De Palma
P: Gale Ann Hurd

You've really got to like John Lithgow to watch this, because he plays most of the roles. There's also a flashback inside a dream inside a dream and more viewer manipulation than many can handle. A child psychologist and his evil ex-con twin kidnap kids for their sadistic Norwegian psychiatrist father's experiments. They also kill parents and babysitters who get in the way. Lithgow plays both brothers, he's the father, and he "becomes" his own alter egos, a woman, and a kid. After the major flop The Bonfire of the Vanities, for which he "apologized," De Palma married producer Gale Ann Hurd (James Cameron's ex-wife) and made this derivative, over-the-top, showoff psycho movie, his first since Body Double (1984). There are impressive tracking shots, nightmare sequences, and plenty of Peeping Tom, Psycho, and even Homicidal cops. Lolita Davidovich and Steven Bauer costar, with Frances Sternhagen as a psychiatrist, Gregg Henry, Mel Harris, Teri Austin, and Barton Heyman. The Pino Donaggio soundtrack is on RCA.

LE RAISONS DE LA MORTE

(VSOM, 1978) D/S/A: Jean Rollin
S/A: Jean-Pierre Bouyxou, Christian Meunier P: Claude Guedj France

A woman (Marie-George Pascal) takes a train ride. Her friend is killed by a crazed man, and she wanders into grape country, where people who drink wine become zombies and kill each other. A man kills his (topless) daughter with a pitchfork, and a (topless) woman is crucified and decapitated. I think some men die too. Zombies laugh, cry, and say, "Je t'aime" while killing. Brigitte Lahaie, who lives in the mayor's house and walks two big dogs, appears normal. A couple of guys who shoot zombies are all right because they drank beer! The bits of organ music sound pretty goofy.

RAMAR OF THE JUNGLE

(Video Resources, 1952)

Jon Hall stars as jungle doctor Ramar (or "white medicine man") in this syndicated, low-budget kids' TV series. Hollywood sets stood in for the Kenya jungle, and so much stock footage was used that the makers of Congorilla sued. The popular series was also criticized at the time for violence and racism. Three features were made up from episodes. Several of the (26 minute) episodes are on video. Hall, known for his 40s movies with Maria Montez at Universal, killed himself in 1979. His house later became Forrest J. Ackerman's "Ackermansion" museum.

aka Ramar of the Jungle

RAMBO: FIRST BLOOD II

(IVE, 1985) D: George Pan Cosmatos S/A: Sylvester Stallone S: James Cameron P: Buzz Feitshans M: Jerry Goldsmith

After the failures of Staying Alive and Rhinestone Sylvester Stallone made this action "prequel" to First Blood. It was released on the 10th anniversary of the end of the Vietnam War. President Reagan quoted it, and it made lots of money (much more than the original). It soon became one of the most copied movies of all time. Heavily armed John Rambo rescues America MIAs in Cambodia who have been ignored by their own government. This anti-Communist and anti "do nothing" America movie features lots of explosions and the popular leech torture by evil Russians. With Julia Nickson as a helpful Vietnamese woman, Richard Crenna (returning from First Blood), Steven Berkoff, Charles Napier, and Martin Kove. It was filmed in Mexico (where a special-effects man died working on it). This was the high point for Stallone, who was the second-highest-paid person in show business (after Bill Cosby) in 1987. The soundtrack (on Varèse Sarabande) includes Stallone's brother Frank.

RAMBO III

(IVE, 1988) D: Peter MacDonald S/A: Sylvester Stallone P: Buzz Feitshans M: Jerry Goldsmith

After the failure of Cobra and Over the Top Sylvester Stallone returned to what seemed like a sure thing. This time, after retiring to a Buddhist monastery Rambo goes to Afghanistan to rescue (on horseback) his mentor (Richard Crenna) from the evil Soviets. It cost a record $63 million, surpassing even Superman (1978). Rescuing American Nam vets was one thing, but most Americans didn't really give a shit about Afghanistan (or Crenna), and the Soviet Union was about to disband. With Marc De Jonge and Kurtwood Smith. There are lots of explosions and even-dumber-than-usual Stallone dialogue. It was filmed in Israel, Thailand, and Arizona. The soundtrack (on Scotti Brothers) includes Bill Medley.

RAMPAGE

(Paramount, 1987) D/S/P: William Friedkin P: David Salven M: Ennio Morricone

Michael Biehn stars as a liberal district attorney who wants capital punishment for a suburban gas-station attendant and serial killer named Charlie Reece (Alex McArthur). Reece (who listens to "the Devil's station") killed an entire family (at Christmastime), drank their blood, and played with their guts. He later escapes and does more killing. There are flashbacks, flashforwards, fantasy scenes, and a long, dramatic courtroom silence to think about how long it took a victim to die. DEG produced this serious film, which argues against the insanity defense. When they went out of business it was unreleased for years. It came out on video in Europe first, and then Miramax released a revised version in America in 1992. Some horror-movie fans were disappointed after the big buildup. Deborah Van Valkenburgh is the district attorney's wife, Billy Green Bush is the judge, and Grace Zabriskie is the killer's psycho mom. Also with Nicholas Campbell, Art LaFleur, Whitby Hertford (the kid from Nightmare on Elm Street V), and Bert Convy (seen on TV). The score was released by Virgin. The film was originally 118 minutes, but the video is 97.

RAMPAGE AT APACHE WELLS

(VSOM, 1965) D/S: Harold Philipps S: Fred Denger P: Horst Wendlandt W. Germany/Yugoslavia (Der Ölprinz)

Stewart Granger is Old Surehand, and Pierre Brice is Winnetou. This western, part of a series based on Karl May's novels, is about a wagon train and bad guys who trick the Navajos into attacking. With Macha Meril, Harold Leipnitz, and Terence Hill. The English-born Granger made more than a dozen European adventure movies during the 60s. From Columbia.

RAMRODDER

(SW, 1969) D/S: Ed Forsythe, Van Guilder P: David F. Friedman (Savage Passion)

Jim Gentry stars as a man who has an Indian-princess girlfriend (Kathy Williams) and is friendly with her tribe until he's framed for a rape/murder. The minimal plot of this adults-only movie has lots of naked "Indian" women swimming, a hot sex-in-the-water scene, a topless fight, some bondage, and an (offscreen) castration. Williams' "Dance of the Virgin" is a visual highlight. Marsha Jordan is an Indian, and Charles Manson follower Bobby Beausolie is a killer. Ed Forsythe (who later made Chesty Anderson) directed it, but Friedman had Van Guilder finish it.

RANA: THE LEGEND OF SHADOW LAKE

(Active, 1981) D/P: Bill Rebane

Rana is a (pathetic-looking) frog-man/monster. This movie (from Wisconsin) is told in flashback and has some gore. Troma picked it up and released it. Bill Rebane later made Blood Harvest (1986).

RANCHO NOTORIOUS

(Republic, 1952) D: Fritz Lang S: Daniel Taradash P: Howard Welsh

Marlene Dietrich runs the Chuckaluck ranch, a hideout for outlaws. She falls for a man (Arthur Kennedy) who is after the men who raped and killed his fiancée. This tale of "hate, murder, and revenge" (in the words of the theme song, "Chuckaluck") is a classic color western from Howard Hughes' RKO. It was the last western by Fritz Lang and the last starring role for Dietrich. With Mel Ferrer, William Frawley, Jack Elam, Gloria Henry, and George Reeves (TV's Superman). An old folk song in the film, "Auralee," was later turned into the theme song of Elvis Presley's first movie, Love Me Tender (1956).

RAPID FIRE

(AIP, 1989) D/S/P: David A. Prior S: William Zipp

Joe Spinnell (in one of his last features) is a government man who hires a hero agent (star Ron Waldron) to hunt down an escaped terrorist. Michael Wayne is the main villain with a futuristic machine gun. It was filmed around Mobile, Alabama.

RAPID FIRE

(Fox, 1992) D: Dwight H. Little S: Alan McElroy P: Robert Lawrence

Brandon Lee is a college student and sketch artist who teams with a single minded cop (Powers Boothe) who works out of a bowling alley. They break up a Chinese drug ring in Chicago. Lee's character is a "pacifist" who nonetheless turns to martial arts and violence pretty early in the feature. Kate Hodge is the hero's fighting girlfriend, and Nick Mancuso is a Mafia heroin dealer. The Tienanmen Square massacre is used as a plot point. An action highlight is a stick fight on an El track with Tzi Ma. This 20th Century–Fox release was Lee's first major starring role, nearly 20 years after his famous father's death.

RAPPIN'

(MGM, 1985) D: Joel Silberg S: Robert Litz, Adam Friedman P: Golan/Globus

Mario Van Peebles is an ex-con and breakdancer, in this action musical. His former girlfriend is now with a street-gang leader (Charles Flohe). He helps save a neighborhood from an evil developer (Harry Goz) and wins a rap contest (and a recording contract). With Kadeem Hardison, Tasia Valenza, Rutanya Alda, and Ice T. It was made by Cannon in Pittsburgh (a popular location after Flashdance). Atlantic released the soundtrack. Joel Silberg made this after Breakin' (1984).

THE RAPTURE

(New Line, 1991) D/S: Michael Tolkin
P: Nick Wechsler, Nancy Tenenbaum

Mimi Rogers is a bored LA telephone operator who is a swinger with a male partner (Patrick Bauchau). Eventually she's born again and joins a fundamentalist Christian group that believes in "the rapture" (the end of the world). Six years later, after her husband is shot, she goes to the desert to sacrifice her little girl. She ends up in jail having visions. New Line thought they might get publicity over the film being banned in the South, but a major theater chain explained that they had cancelled screenings because it was too boring. It is different, though, and Rogers has a nude shower scene and sex in a department store. With Will Patten, David Duchovny, and James LeGros. There are some Steve Johnson FX. It's by the screenwriter of The Player (1991), based on his novel. The Polydor soundtrack by Thomas Newman features some vintage tracks by Little Richard and the Velvet Underground.

RAQUEL!

(View, 1970)

This time-warp "silent majority" TV special (about 48 minutes) was executive-produced and staged by David Winters (later head of AIP video). It was shot on exotic locations all over the world. Raquel Welch can't sing but looks great doing "Aquarius" near some Mexican pyramids. The guests are Tom Jones (they do a Little Richard medley), Bob Hope (they do "Rocky Raccoon"!), and John Wayne (they visit an orphanage). View also offers time-warp TV shows like Kenny Rogers and the First Edition: Rollin' on the River (1971) and The 5th Dimension Traveling Sunshine Show (1971).

A RARE BREED

(MCA, 1981) D: David Nelson
S: Gardner Simmons P: Jack Cox

Tracy Vaccaro and her racehorse are kidnapped in Italy on the way to a race. This PG film was the third for David Nelson (Ricky's brother). Vaccaro later became a Playboy centerfold. With George Kennedy, Forrest Tucker, Tom Halick, and Don DeFore. From New World.

RASPUTIN

(1930) D: Adolf Trotz S: Ossip Dymov, Adolf Lantz, Conrad Linzi Germany
(Rasputin, Dämon der Frauen)

Conrad Veidt stars as the famous bearded Russian monk who used hypnotism and sex to gain influence in the court of Czar Nicholas II (Paul Otto). Earlier movies about Rasputin had been made in various countries. The next one was MGM's Rasputin and the Empress (1932), in America.

RASPUTIN AND THE EMPRESS

(MGM, 1932) D: Richard Boleslavsky
S: Charles MacArthur P: Irving Thalberg

This lavish MGM release was a major event in its day. It stars all three Barrymores, who are together for the only time on film. John Barrymore is (the fictional) Prince Chegodieff who kills Rasputin (Lionel Barrymore), and Ethel Barrymore is the czarina. For legal reasons a disclaimer was added saying that all the events shown were fictional, and for censorship reasons a rape scene was cut. With Ralph Morgan, Edward Arnold, Gustav von Seyffertitz, Mischa Auer, Lucien Littlefield, Diana Wynyard, Jean Parker, Charlotte Henry, Frank Shannon, and Frank Reicher. John Barrymore Jr. played the same role as his father in The Night They Killed Rasputin (1962). Many other Rasputin films have been made over the years, but Hammer's Rasputin, the Mad Monk (1965), with Christopher Lee, is probably the best known today. Other Rasputin movies were from the U.S.S.R. (1977), West Germany (1983), and an excellent cable TV version starring Alan Rickman (1996).

RATBOY

(Warner, 1986) D/A: Sondra Locke
S: Rob Thompson P: Fritz Manes

Locke, an Oscar nominee back in 1968, hadn't been in a theatrical feature without Clint Eastwood for over a decade when she directed for the first time. Backed by Eastwood's Malpaso Productions, this is an attempt at crossing a cynical, 30s-style screwball comedy with The Elephant Man. Locke plays an ambitious, harebrained Hollywood loser and schemer who tracks down and exploits a reclusive, pathetic, even suicidal "ratboy" (S. L. Baird, a female in convincing makeup designed by Rick Baker). Robert Townsend has the kind of clichéd role he ridiculed in his directorial debut, Hollywood Shuffle, as an irresponsible, jive-talking hustler. Also with Gerrit Graham, Christopher Hewitt (star of the TV series Mr. Belvedere), comedian Louie Anderson, Sydney Lassick, and Nina Blackwood. Put this one on the "hard to believe it got past the script stage" list. After her 1989 palimony suit against Eastwood Locke directed Impulse.

RATMAN

(ABC, 1987) D: "Anthony Ascot"/Giuliano Ascot
S: David Parker Jr. P: Maurice Matthew
Italy (Quella Villa in Fondo al Parco)

A genetic experiment results in a killer rat man that squeaks. The star is 27-inch-tall Nelson de la Rosa, from the Dominican Republic, who's in The Guinness Book of World Records as "the world's smallest man." He plays the unfortunate rat man with a hairy costume and fake teeth. The whole movie is too dark and of course very exploitative. With Italian-horror regulars Eva Grimaldi and Janet Agren as sisters and David Warbeck.

RATS

(Lightning, 1983) D: "Vincent Dawn"/Bruno Mattei
D/S: "Clyde Anderson"/Claudio Fragasso
S: Herve Piccini Italy (Ratti: Notte di Terrore)

In a plot much like Chosen Survivors (a 1974 movie about bats) post-nuke survivors in 225 AB (after bomb) battle flesh-eating mutant rats. The rats eat their way out of bodies. With Richard Raymond as a biker-gang leader and Joanna Ryan.

RATTLERS

(VGB, 1976) D/P: John McCauley S: Jerry Golding

After two kids on vacation are killed by cobras after falling into a pit in the desert, a young LA college professor is called in to investigate. US Army germ warfare experiments buried in a mine shaft are to blame. Boxoffice International made this PG feature. I've tried three times and still haven't gotten to the end of it. With Sam Chew and Elizabeth Chauvet.

THE RAVAGER

(1970) D/S: Charles Nizet P: Dave Ackerman

Pierre Gastin stars as a demolition expert who is hospitalized for trauma and released back in America as a voyeur, rapist, and killer. He dynamites couples making love. Other Charles Nizet obscurities are Slaves of Love (1969), Three-Way Split (1970), The Possessed! and Voodoo Heartbeat (both 1974), and Rescue Force (1980).

THE RAVEN

(Sinister, 1915) D/S: Charles J. Brabin

Harry B. Walthall (the same year that he was in The Birth of a Nation) stars in this rare Essanay silent film based on a play about the life of Edgar Allan Poe. He has dreams, and there are fantasy segments. Charles J. Brabin directed The Mask of Fu Manchu (1932). Later movies using the same title all had completely different plots.

RAVEN

(1992) D: Craig R. Baxley S: Frank Lupo

Jeffrey Meek stars as Jonathan Raven, a kickboxer and former Green Beret who's searching for his lost son and seeking vengeance for the death of his Interpol-agent father. Lee Majors is his comic-relief friend, an irritating, alcoholic private eye. Meanwhile, the yakuza are after the daughter of the owner of the nightclub where Raven works as a bartender. With Clyde Kusatsu and Tamlyn Tomita. John Ashley was an executive producer of this CBS-TV pilot and the silly series that followed.

RAW COURAGE

(1984) S/P: Robert R. Rosen S: Mary Cox
P/A: Ronny Cox (Courage)

In the New Mexico desert three marathon runners are captured by survivalists. Producer Ronny Cox stars, with Lois Chiles, Art Hindle, and M. Emmet Walsh.

RAW DEAL

(HBO, 1986) D: John Irvin S: Gary M. De Vore, Norman Wexler P: Martha Schumacher

Arnold Schwarzenegger was really reaching in the acting department playing a small-town American sheriff (named Kaminski) who's thrown out of the FBI. He goes undercover and infiltrates the Chicago mob. Lots of guns go off, there's lots of destruction, Arnold busts a drag bar, and he begins to throw out one-liners like "Who do I look like, Dirty Harry?" With Kathryn Harrold, Sam Wanamaker, Darren McGavin, Paul Shenar, Robert Davi, Steven Hill, Ed Lauter, and Robey. It's from DEG. Varèse Sarabande released the soundtrack.

RAW FORCE

(Media, 1981) D/S: Edward Murphy P: Frank Johnson Philippines (Shogun Island)

Three karate-club members from Burbank, (led by Geoff Binney), become stranded on a mysterious island and fight kung-fu cannibal (!) monks who create zombies. Cameron Mitchell is the cruiseship captain. This movie throws in a piranha attack, a Hitler lookalike, sex, drugs, nudity, decapitation, and gore. With Camille Keaton, Jillian Kesner as a SWAT-team member, Vic Diaz as a monk, Jennifer Holmes (also in The Demon with Mitchell), and Jewel Shepard. Lawrence Woolner (who had started New World with Roger Corman) was an executive producer.

RAWHEAD REX

(Vestron, 1986) D: George Pavlou
S: Clive Barker P: Kevin Attew UK

A 9-foot pagan cannibal (Heinrich von Schellendorf) living in the Irish woods decapitates people. In one scene the scary-looking Rex pisses on his willing and evil assistant, a vicar (Ronan Wilmot). With David Dukes as an American historian and Kelly Piper. Barker adapted his story from his Books of Blood. The movie was filmed in Ireland and released by Empire. George Pavlou also directed Transmutations (1985), based on another Barker story.

RAW NERVE

(AIP, 1991) D/S: David A. Prior
S: Lawrence L. Simone P: Ruta K. Aras

Imagine a movie about a serial killer in which Traci Lords and big Randall "Tex" Cobb are the best actors. It's not too hard when Ted Prior (the director's brother) stars as a race-car driver who "sees" murders. Traci is his 18-year-old sister. Glenn Ford and Jan-Michael Vincent look and act weary and worn out as cops, and Sandahl Bergman is okay, I guess, in a throwaway role. Try to figure out the plot and the (surprise) suicide and incest angle. Traci wears red high heels and a striped tank top that vibrates for the camera. When a newspaper headline says, TWO GIRLS KILLED IN ROOM OF MIRRORS, you know you're in for quality entertainment. It was filmed in Mobile, Alabama.

THE RAY BRADBURY CHRONICLES: THE MARTIAN EPISODES

(Worldvision, 1985–86) D: John Lang, Eleanor Lindo, Anne Wheeler S: Ray Bradbury P: Jonathan Goodwill, Pamela Meekings-Stewart Canada/New Zealand

This video consists of 5 episodes from the syndicated half-hour Ray Bradbury Theater series, first shown on the USA Network. The most interesting has Paul Clemens claiming to be the dead son of John Vernon and his wife. When rejected he becomes somebody else's missing daughter. Some of the FX are pretty cheap-looking. Guest stars include Hal Linden, Ben Cross, David Carradine, and David Birney.

RAZORBACK

(Warner, 1984) D: Russell Mulcahy S: Everett De Roche P: Hal McElroy Australia

American Gregory Harrison (from the TV series Trapper John, MD) stars as a man whose wife has been eaten by a giant wild boar in the outback. The boar kills many people and rips up cars and a house. Various crazed backwoods characters are after it. This was partially inspired by the same "Dingo baby case" as A Cry in the Dark (1988), with Meryl Streep, with a strong dose of Jaws thrown in. The director had done rock videos for Duran Duran and other groups. Dean Selmer, the cinematographer, also shot Mad Max.

REAL GENIUS

(RCA, 1985) D: Martha Coolidge
S: Neal Israel, Pat Proft, Peter Torokvei
P: Brian Grazer C: Vilmos Zsigmond

A college professor (William Atherton) secretly uses his brilliant young students to make a laser weapon for the CIA. Student Val Kilmer and his friends devise a plan to stop him. This comedy also features Michelle Meyrink, Jonathan Gries, Patti D'Arbanville, Severn Darden, Ed Lauter, Gabe Jarret, and Lynda Wiesmeier.

REALLY WEIRD TALES

(HBO, 1986) D: Paul Lynch, Don McBreaty, John Blanchard S: Joe Flaherty, David Flaherty, Catherine O'Hara, John McAndrew
P: Seaton McClean, Pat Whitley Canada

Host Joe Flaherty introduces 3 Twilight Zone–type tales in this spoof with a Second City cast. Martin Short is a lounge singer, John Candy is an albino alien, and Catherine O'Hara is a woman who loves people to death. With Olivia D'Abo.

REAL MEN

(CBS/Fox, 1987) D/S: Dennis Feldman
P: Martin Bregman

Jim Belushi is a renegade government agent who enlists John Ritter to help him contact aliens so that he can obtain the ultimate weapon. This barely released PG-13 spy spoof features Barbara Barrie and Iva Anderson.

RE-ANIMATOR

(Vestron, 1985) D/S: Stuart Gordon S: Dennis Paoli, William J. Norris P: Brian Yuzna

Seeing Re-Animator (released unrated) in a theater was one of the biggest shocks of the 80s. It's one of the most successful horror movies of the period (along with The Evil Dead). Stuart Gordon had been the director of Chicago's Organic Theater. This was his first feature, and he didn't play by the rules. Nobody going to see an H. P. Lovecraft adaptation expected this strong mixture of over-the-top carnage, nudity, and humor. Jeffrey Combs stars as the egotistical young Herbert West, who knows how to revive the dead. With Bruce Abbott, Barbara Crampton as the dean's daughter, David Gale as Dr. Hill, and Tom Towles. The R-rated video version uses different scenes and runs 8 minutes longer but is missing the outrageous sex and gore scenes. Look for the unrated video to get the full impact. The Richard Band soundtrack (on Varèse Sarabande) is very good, but it copies Bernard Herrmann's score for Psycho. Robert A. Burns (The Texas Chainsaw Massacre) was the art director. Brian Yuzna directed the sequel, Bride of Re-Animator.

REAR WINDOW

(MCA, 1954) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock
S: John Michael Hayes

The ultimate voyeur movie. It's brilliant, fascinating, and one of Hitchcock's best. The script is based on the novella "It Had to Be Murder" by Cornell Woolrich. James Stewart is L. B. Jeffries, called Jeff, a much-traveled news photographer restricted by a broken leg to a wheelchair in his apartment on West 9th Street in Greenwich Village. Every window tells a story, and we see everything he does. Lars Thorwald (Raymond Burr!) has buried his wife's head in the garden and is about to discover Jeff's girlfriend, fashion model Lisa Fremont (Grace Kelly), snooping in his apartment. All we can do is watch along with Jeff. Thelma Ritter is a nurse, Wendell Corey is a cop, and Ross Bagdasarian is a composer whose piano music is heard throughout the film (he later created the Chipmunks). Franz Waxman wrote the score. The director is seen winding a clock. It was released the same year as Dial M for Murder and was nominated for four Oscars. Paramount rereleased it to theaters in 1968 and (after it had been unseen for years) again in 1984.

REASON TO DIE

(Vidmark, 1989) D: Tim Spring S: Aubrey Rettan, Terry Ashbury P: Helena Spring S. Africa

Wings Hauser stars as a bounty hunter in Africa who goes after a slasher killer. With Arnold Vosloo and Anneline Kriel.

REBECCA

(Fox, 1940) D: Alfred Hitchcock S: Robert E. Sherwood, Joan Harrison P: David O. Selznick

The first American film by Alfred Hitchcock was a big hit. It's based on Daphne Du Maurier's 1938 gothic novel. Laurence Olivier (a year after he was in Wuthering Heights) stars as a wealthy Englishman, Maxim De Winter. Joan Fontaine is his (nameless) second wife, and Judith Anderson is the sinister housekeeper, Mrs. Danvers, who's loyal to his dead first wife, Rebecca. With George Sanders, Nigel Bruce, Reginald Denny, Florence Bates, C. Aubrey Smith, Gladys Cooper, and Leo G. Carroll. At 130 minutes it was the longest feature by Hitchcock. (He's seen near a photo booth.) It was nominated for 11 Oscars and received them for best picture and best b/w cinematography. Franz Waxman wrote the score. The film was produced by Selznick International and released by United Artists. Fontaine returned the next year as another new wife in danger, in Hitchcock's Suspicion.

REBEL

(American, 1969) D/S/P: Robert Allen Schnitzer
S: Larry Beinhart P: David B. Appleton
(No Place to Hide)

Sylvester Stallone stars as Jerry Savage, a student and urban terrorist in a colorful poncho. This PG movie was filmed in NYC and upstate New York. It's also available (with new dialogue) as A Man Called Rainbo. This and A Party at Kitty and Studs' (later called The Italian Stallion) were the star's only featured roles until The Lords of Flatbush in 1974.

REBEL DREAMS: See VALLEY GIRL

REBEL LOVE

(1985) D/S: Milton Bagby Jr. P: John Quenelle

Jamie Rose stars as a Yankee widow from Indiana who finds a Confederate spy lover (Terence Knox). Troma released it.

REBEL VIXENS

(Luna, 1969) D/A: R. L. Frost
S/P/A: Bob Cresse (The Scavangers)

Southerners still fight after the Civil War. Freed slaves battle the Confederates, and in the end the rebel leader is left for the vultures. This S&M sex western was released to black theaters because of the slave theme and to adult theaters in a more explicit version (The Grabbers). Incredibly, it played on 42nd Street as late as 1985. With Uschi Digart and Maria Lease, who later directed Dolly Dearest.

REBORN

(Ace, 1982) D/S/P: Bigas Luna S: R. Dunn Spain

Director Bigas Luna is an original, and this movie starring Dennis Hopper as Reverend Tom Harley, a fake American healer, will be a surprise if you can find a copy. The reverend has a major televised moneymaking scam going. In one scene Michael Moriarty, who works for him, has sex with Maria (Antonella Murgia), a real healer from Italy. She goes into a trance, and he becomes stuck inside her. She later has a baby, and the Jesus parallels add up. With Francesco Rabal. Luna later made Anguish.

RECKLESS KELLY

(Warners, 1994) D/S/P/A: Yahoo Serious
P: Warwick Ross Australia

Yahoo Serious plays a descendant of the famous outlaw (as seen in Ned Kelly) who's living on a happy private island (filled with every possible animal and symbol of Australia). Evil British bankers plot to take the island away, so he follows in the family tradition and robs banks. He goes to America to rob one and somehow becomes the star of a movie called A Christian Cowboy in Las Vegas. With Melora Hardin and Kathleen Freeman. This goofy PG comedy features several remakes of classic 60s rock songs.

RECON GAME

(1974) D: Peter Collinson S: David Osborn P: José S. Vicuña US/Spain/Switzerland (Open Season)

Peter Fonda, John Phillip Law, and Richard Lynch are Nam vets who kidnap and hunt humans. Cornelia Sharpe and Albert Mendoza are the victims, and William Holden has a cameo role. This Columbia release was filmed in Spain and around Detroit. The retitled tape is a cheap "sell through" item. Peter Collinson's next film was the third version of Ten Little Indians.

RECORD CITY

(1979) D: Dennis Steinmetz S: Ron Friedman P: James T. Aubrey

AIP released this plotless comedy set in a record store with Blondie and Cheap Trick posters on the wall. It was shot on video and copies the hit Car Wash. Leonard Barr stars with an amazing oddball cast, including Michael Callan, Ed Begley Jr., Sorrell Brooke, Jack Carter, Frank Gorshin, Larry Storch, Ruth Buzzi, Harold Sakata, Ted Lange, Alice Ghostley, Kinky Friedman, and Rick Dees. The soundtrack was released.

RED

(Film Threat, 1991) D: Christian Gore

The Red audiotapes have been sold on LP, cassette, and even CD (!), have been visualized by Drew Friedman, and have been copied in the TV series The Simpsons (without the swearing and the necrophilia references). In the 70s the owner of a New Jersey bar answers the phone and reacts angrily to the many comic crank calls. The anonymous, unseen caller repeatedly tricks him into calling out for "Al Koholic," "Pepe Roni," "Mike Hunt," and others, leading to incredible, raspy-voiced tirades from Red, then in his 80s. If you've never heard the audiotapes you'll be amazed by the creative swearing and insults. Christian Gore shot b/w stills of big, bald Lawrence Tierney as Red and used highlights from the original tape for this 35-minute short. To fill out the video a (live-action) section shows what might have happened to Red after he retired in Florida, and there's some unnecessary violence outside the bar. The audiotapes also inspired the later Jerky Boys records and movie (1995).

RED ALERT

(1977) D: William Hale S: Sandor Stern P: Barry Goldberg

An apparent accident in a nuke plant causes a computer to shut down and seal off the whole building. William Devane, Michael Brandon, Adrienne Barbeau, and M. Emmet Walsh are trapped inside. It turns out to be the work of saboteurs. A CBS-TV movie with Warren Berlinger, Ralph Waite, David Hayward, and Wendell Burton.

RED BARRY

(1938) D: Ford Beebe, Alan James
S: Norman Hall, Ray Trampe

Buster Crabbe stars as another hero from the daily comics (just before playing Buck Rogers, then Flash Gordon again). He's a private detective in Chinatown searching for missing bonds. Frances Robinson costars in this 13-chapter Universal serial, with Edna Sedgwick as Natasha, Frank Lackteen as Quong Lee, Philip Ahn, Cyril Delevanti, and Wheeler Oakman.

RED BLOODED AMERICAN GIRL

(Prism, 1988) D: David Blyth S/P: Nicolas Stiliadis S: Allan Moyle Canada

Dr. Alcor (Christopher Plummer) works at one of those modern research institutes (so common in post-Cronenberg Canadian films) developing an addictive vampire virus. He hires Andrew Stevens, who has created a "designer ecstasy" adrenaline spray and used it on himself. Blond Heather Thomas (from the TV series The Fall Guy) becomes infected after a bite and starts sucking her own blood. She ends up in a padded cell acting like Renfield in Dracula, then escapes and gets manic and trashy in stiletto heels and black leather clothes looking for nourishment. After Stevens shows up decked out like a ghost-buster and cures her with a blood transplant she reverts to normal (even her hair and makeup change!). With Kim Coates as a vampire assistant (in the scenes with the most sex and blood) and Lydie Denier. Director Blyth is from New Zealand. Scriptwriter Moyle directed Pump Up the Volume.

THE RED CIRCLE

(1959) D: Jürgen Roland S: Trygve Larsen, Wolfgang Menge W. Germany (Der Röte Kreis)

Murder victims have circle marks on their necks, and Scotland Yard investigates. Karl Saebisch, Renate Ewert, and Fritz Rasp star. This Edgar Wallace story had already been filmed four times in England and Germany between 1922 and 1936.

RED DAWN

(MGM/UA, 1984) D/S: John Milius S: Kevin Reynolds P: Buzz Feitshans, Barry Beckerman M: Basil Polidouris

This pro-NRA, anti-Communist movie is even more fun now that it's so dated, but unfortunately has become a top rental title for right-wing terrorists. It's like an expensive "prequel" to Jack Webb's Red Nightmare. Cuban and Soviet forces invade the US after major American cities are destroyed by "surgical" nuclear strikes. The invaders put people into camps and rape, pillage, and kill. Small- town teens become heroic guerrillas. Patrick Swayze stars, with C. Thomas Howell, Lea Thompson, Charlie Sheen, and Jennifer Grey. Ron O'Neal is a Cuban leader, and William Smith is a Russian. With grownups Powers Boothe, Ben Johnson, Lane Smith, and Harry Dean Stanton. The soundtrack is on Intrada.

C. Thomas Howell and Patrick Swayze discover that the Commies have taken over McDonald's, in Red Dawn.

RED DESERT PENITENTIARY

(Fox, 1986) D/S: George Sluizer Netherlands

A Polish director (Giovanni Korporaal) is making a B movie in Texas based on the case of a man who was sent to prison for a crime he didn't commit. The convict (Will Rose) shows up on the set to complicate matters. James Michael Taylor is a Clint Eastwood type of star. Parts of this spoof were improvised, and long surreal flashbacks intrude. It's by the director of The Vanishing.

RED DRAGON

(Sinister, 1965) D: Ernst Hofbauer S: Hans-Karl Kubiak P: Gerö Wecker Italy/W. Germany (A-009: Missione Hong Kong)

Stewart Granger is an FBI agent sent to Hong Kong to investigate murders and drug smuggling. Rosanna Schiaffino helps him. Harold Juhnke and Horst Frank are also in the cast. They use wrist watch radios. Woolner Brothers released it.

RED DWARF

(CBS/Fox, 1989–95) D: Andy De Emmony S: Rob Grant, Doug Naylor P: Justin Judd UK

Episodes of this half-hour BBC science-fiction/comedy series about the mining spaceship Red Dwarf are available on 8 tapes. Chris Barrie and Craig Charles star. Aliens are featured.

RED HEAT

(Vestron, 1984) D/S: Robert Collector S: Gary Drucker P: Ernst R. Theumer US/Germany (Röte Hitze)

Linda Blair goes to prison (again). She visits her soldier fiancé (William Ostrander) in West Berlin and is kidnapped by Commies and put into an East German prison camp. Sylvia Kristel is a sadistic lesbian prisoner with orange hair and red underwear who does things for the warden. She claims that she killed her father because "he ate my pet snake!" There's a Kristel/Blair sex scene, and Blair leads a prison riot. The music is by Tangerine Dream (!). English-language and German-language versions were shot. It was released in 1988 in America. Despite its title Chained Heat 2 is a remake.

RED HEAT

(IVE, 1988) D/P: Walter Hill S: Harry Kleiner P: Gordon Carroll

Walter Hill reworked his own hit, 48 Hours, this time with Jim Belushi in the comic Eddie Murphy role. Arnold Schwarzenegger is a Soviet police officer, and Belushi is a Chicago cop. They have to team up to capture a Russian drug lord and psycho rapist. With Ed O'Ross, Peter Boyle, Laurence (Larry) Fishburne, and Gina Gershon. Some scenes of this violent, humorous action movie were shot in Moscow's Red Square (a first), but most of it was shot in Chicago. Virgin released the soundtrack. In 1988, Arnold was also in the comedy Twins and campaigned for George Bush.

THE RED HOUSE

(Sinister, 1947) D/S: Delmer Daves P: Sol Lesser

Edward G. Robinson stars as a kindly but deranged one-legged farmer living with his sister (Judith Anderson). His adopted daughter (Allene Roberts) realizes that she's in danger. A mysterious old red house in the forest holds the key to the past. This "film noir horror" from United Artists is based on a novel by George Agnew Chamberlain. Julie London is Tibby, a very seductive high-school student. With Rory Calhoun, Lon McCallister, Arthur Space, and Ona Munson. The Miklos Rozsa score, featuring a theremin, was released as a 10" LP with music from Spellbound on the other side.

RED LIGHT IN THE WHITE HOUSE

(VSOM, 197?) D/S/P: Paul Leder

Sushan Andrews (Karin Mary Shea) is running for the Senate, and a journalist (who narrates) is hired for the easy job of digging into her past. Various characters relate flashbacks (all featuring topless and brief sex scenes). It seems that she was raised in China and sold into marriage at 15. In America she had a lesbian affair with a teacher, became a hooker to help pay the debts of her black boxer boyfriend, and married a gay French actor who liked to watch her with other men. There's more, concerning suicide and even the president. Sushan is presented as a selfless, honest, strong, admirable, and capable person, as opposed to most politicians. The tape has Spanish subtitles. Video Search also has The Education of Allison Tate and The Eleventh Commandment, from the prolific Paul Leder.

THE RED MENACE

(Republic, 1949) D: R. G. Springsteen P: Herbert J. Yates

A WWII vet (Robert Rockwell) is duped by an American Commie group. This is low-key compared to some better-known anti-Communist movies of the period (there are no bombs or invasions) but touches all the bases. See how the Commies easily convert dissatisfied blacks, artists, and other minorities. With Hanne Axman and Barbara Fuller. R. G. Springsteen usually made B westerns.

REDNECK ZOMBIES

(TWE, 1987) D/S/P: Pericles Lewnes P: Ed Bishop, George Scott

Troma released this made-in-Maryland, shot-on-video gore video, yet another story of mutation caused by nuclear waste. Its humor is in the Troma tradition: piss, fart, fat-guy, and gay jokes. Some stupid redneck bootleggers use toxic waste for their new brew. There's an LSD sequence, some Three Stooges gags, and (the only thing this tape has going for it) lots of extreme gore, 6 minutes of which were cut for an R rating.

RED NIGHTMARE: See THE COMMIES ARE COMING!

RED NIGHTS

(TWE, 1988) D: Izhak Hanooka S: Phillip Ridley P: Domenic Anciano, Ray Burdis

Christoper Parker star as an East Coast kid who goes to Hollywood to try and make it. With William Smith and Jack Carter. The score is by the German synth group Tangerine Dream who did music for many increasingly cheap and obscure movies.

THE RED QUEEN KILLS SEVEN TIMES

(VSOM, 1972) D/S: Emilio P. Miraglia S: Fabio Pittorru Italy/W. Germany (La Dama Rossa Uccide Sette Volte)

Because of a curse in an old castle a little girl's sister is killed. The survivor grows up to become a successful fashion model, and other models start dying. Barbara Bouchet stars, with Marina Malfatti, Ugo Pagliai, and Sybil Danning as a prostitute. It's by the director of The Night Evelyn Came out of Her Grave.

RED RIDING HOOD

(1987) D: Adam Brooks S: Carole Lucia Satrina P: Golan/Globus

Craig T. Nelson is the evil ruler of a kingdom who turns his servant into a wolf and wants the wife (Isabella Rossellini) of his good twin. The characters all sing. This is part of Cannon's ill-fated fairy-tale series.

RED ROCK WEST

(Columbia, 1992) D/S: John Dahl S: Rick Dahl P: Sigunjon Sighvatsson, Steve Colin

Michael, a painfully honest ex-Marine (Nicolas Cage), is mistaken for a hired killer in a small Wyoming town. This leads to murder and many surprising (and sometimes funny) complications in a film so good that it opened in theaters after debuting on HBO and being released on video. Dennis Hopper as Lyle from Dallas and J. T. Walsh as the sheriff take the acting honors, and Cage is good too. Also with Lara Flynn Boyle, Dan Shor, and Dwight Yoakam (who also does the end theme). The Mercury soundtrack includes some Johnny Cash songs. The brothers from Montana who made this also did Kill Me Again and The Last Seduction.

Toshiro Mifune in Red Sun.

RED SCORPION

(SGE, 1989) D: Joseph Zito S: Arne Olsen
P: Jack Abramoff M: Jay Chattaway

A Soviet KGB agent (Dolph Lundgren) is sent to Africa to kill a black revolutionary. He turns against the Soviet and Cuban forces to help the oppressed locals. A witch doctor tattoos a red scorpion on his chest. Warner backed out of releasing this after negative publicity (it was shot in Swaziland by a South African producer), so SGE released it. It was unfair to single this movie out, since dozens of (usually mediocre action) movies released in America before the sanctions were lifted were filmed in South Africa. With M. Emmet Walsh and Brion James. Tom Savini provided the FX for the scene when Lundgren is tortured by Cubans.

RED SCORPION II

(MCA, 1994) D: Michael Kennedy S: Troy Bolotnik, Barry Victor P: Robert Malcolm Canada

John Savage is a fascist businessman who uses skinheads to attack minorities. Michael Ironside is a government agent who assembles a Dirty Dozen–style team for battle. Matt McColm and Jennifer Rubin star in this unrelated "sequel" shot in Vancouver.

RED SHOE DIARIES

(Republic, 1992) D: David Saunders, Rafael Eisenman D/P: Zalman King S: Patricia Knop

A woman (Brigitte Bako) has affairs with a construction worker (Billy Wirth) and a shoe salesman, then kills herself. Her boyfriend (series regular David Duchnovy) reads her diaries after she dies. With Anna Karina and Brenda Vaccaro. This 100-minute series pilot feature made for Showtime is available in R and unrated versions. A half-hour anthology series followed, and compilation tapes (each containing 3 episodes) and more features were released.

RED SONJA

(Fox, 1988) D: Richard Fleischer S: Clive Exton, George MacDonald P: Christian Ferry

After two Conan movies Arnold Schwarzenegger plays the very similar Kalidor. Brigitte Nielsen is Red Sonja, who survives a massacre. Sandahl Bergman (also in Conan the Barbarian) is the evil queen. Big Paul Smith and little Ernie Reyes Jr. provide welcome intentional comic relief. Janet Agren (in a red wig) is Sonja's sister. This PG-13 film was based on Robert E. Howard's characters and was backed by Dino De Laurentiis. Varèse Sarabande released the Ennio Morricone score. Nielsen, from Copenhagen, had been in Playboy, was married to Sylvester Stallone (briefly), and was in Rocky IV.

RED SUN

(UAV, 1971) D: Terence Young S: Laird Koenig, Denne Bart Petitclerc, William Roberts, Lawrence Roman P: Robert Dorfman M: Maurice Jarre France/Italy/Spain (Soleil Rouge)

Charles Bronson (in a leather jacket with fringes) is a gunfighter reluctantly teamed with a samurai (Toshiro Mifune) in this interesting international western based on a true incident involving a stolen samurai sword in 1860s Arizona. It was a big hit in Europe and just about everywhere but in America, and it's a lot better than the reviews would lead you to believe. With Alain Delon as the villain, Ursula Andress, and Capucine. It was filmed in Spain.

RED SURF

(Academy, 1990)
D: H. Gordon Boos S: Vincent Robert P: Richard C. Weinman

The drug dealers are heroes this time. They want to get out of the business, but a former partner turns on them. Dedee Pfeiffer is the pregnant girlfriend of a former surfing champ who's a drug runner (George Clooney). Doug Savant is his friend Attila, a biker. They deal with various LA crazies. One keeps wolves in the basement. Gene Simmons shows up as a Nam vet.

RED, WHITE, AND BLUE

(1970) D/S/P/E/C: Ferd and Beverly Sebastian

Sold as a serious documentary about President Nixon's Commission on Obscenity and Pornography, this movie is also about David F. Friedman (his Entertainment Ventures released it). He's seen testifying before the commission, and there's a behind-the-scenes segment about the making of his (soft-core) Trader Hornee and even a trailer for it. The rest features lots of naked women and interviews with sex-movie makers and actors. It's all narrated by attorney Robert Fitzpatrick.

RED WIND

(MCA, 1991) D: Alan Metzger S/P: Tom Noonan

Lisa Hartman stars as a psychotherapist interested in abusive relationships. A female patient acts out a fantasy by killing her husband. With Philip Casnoff as a detective, Christopher McDonald, and Deanna Lund. This cable-TV movie copies Whispers in the Dark and features death by tree shredder.

RED ZONE CUBA

(SW, 1966) D/S/A: Coleman Francis P/A: Tony Cardoza (Night Train to Mundo Fine)

Yes, the determined people who made Tor Johnson's last movie, The Beast of Yucca Flats (1961), didn't stop there. The Skydivers (1963) and this marvel followed. John Carradine sings the theme song in his great bass voice, then appears as Mr. Wilson the train engineer and remembers how "he ran all the way to Hell" while setting up the feature-length flashback (filmed in 1961). A pair of escaped convicts and some migrant workers sign up to fight in the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba. They're captured, escape execution, steal a plane, and head for Arizona to claim somebody else's treasure. Big Coleman Francis stars as the brutal, silent Griffin, who dumps an old man down a well and rapes a blind widow (offscreen) and ends up just like Tor in The Beast of Yucca Flats. The sound is bad, some of the music is comical-goofy, the dialogue was all (obviously) dubbed in later, and the image goes from light to very dark too often. It was originally from Hollywood Star Pictures, which also released Free Grass and early Ray Dennis Steckler movies.

REEFER MADNESS

(Media, Admit One, 1936) D: Louis Gasnier S: Arthur Hoerl P: George A. Hirlman (The Burning Question; Tell Your Children; Dope Addict)

One of the classic road-show anti-drug movies, this played for years (under various titles), had a second life as a "camp" midnight-movie hit (an early New Line acquisition), then found a new audience on video. Dave O'Brien (The Devil Bat and Spooks Run Wild) stars, with Dorothy Short and Lillian Miles. Jack Perry is the pusher. The scenes of wild-eyed characters frantically puffing on pot are unforgettable. Most of them end up dead, imprisoned, or ruined for life. The French-born Louis Gasnier had codirected the famous silent serial The Perils of Pauline (1914) and later made Spanish-language versions of Paramount films and worked at Monogram. Reefer Madness is a rerelease title. It's only 67 minutes but has been listed as running from 63 (Admit One) to 71 minutes.

REEFER MADNESS II: THE TRUE STORY

(1985) D: Kent Skov S: The LA Connection P: L. Randall Nogg

This is just the (public-domain) original with new comic dialogue (mostly sex jokes). It opens with a pair of reviewers arguing about the merits of the original, now told from the pusher's point of view. The high-school principal, Dr. Carroll, is now the head of the dope ring, and the dealer is an undercover cop.

THE REFLECTING SKIN

(Live, 1990) D/S: Philip Ridley UK

To say that this disturbing, visually stunning, complex movie resembles Terence Malick's Days of Heaven if it had been directed by David Lynch doesn't really do it justice. A destructive young boy (Jeremy Cooper) living on the midwestern American prairie witnesses the world around him. His family is disintegrating, everybody is mean or crazy, and a pack of jd kidnappers seem to be killing his friends. His brother (Viggo Mortensen) returns from WWII with a photo of an A-bomb victim (this is where the title comes from), and the weird sheriff claims that a turtle got his hand. With all the real horrors and sickness around him he begins to think that a mummified baby is an angel and that an Englishwoman (Lindsay Duncan) who lives in an isolated house is a vampire. This British production was filmed in western Canada. The music is by the London Chamber Orchestra. It was made by the screenwriter of The Krays and was released by Miramax.

REFLECTIONS OF A CRIME

(1994) D/S: Jon Purdy P: Gwen Field

Sybil Danning and Pat Ast in Reform School Girls.

Mimi Rogers, convicted of killing her rich husband (John Terry), talks to a guard (Billy Zane) before her execution. Her various flashbacks tell the story. With Kurt Fuller. It's from Concorde.

REFORMATORY

(1938) D: Lewis D. Collins S: Gordon Rigby P: Larry Darmour

Frankie Darro is sent to the Garfield Reform School and tries to organize a breakout. Jack Holt, the new warden, has been improving conditions and trying to be fair. Inmate Bobby Jordan (from the Dead End Kids) likes the reforms and tries to stop the breakout. With Charlotte Wynters and Ward Bond. This Columbia release runs 59 minutes.

REFORM SCHOOL

(1939) D: Leo C. Popkin S: Zelda Young P: Harry M. Popkin (Prison Bait)

This all-black-cast production features Harlem's Tough Kids, a black version of the Dead End Kids (who had just been in Crime School). Louise Beavers (who in Hollywood movies played a maid working for white people) stars as a new warden who brings needed reforms to a state reform school. This Million Dollar Pictures release runs 58 minutes. Harlem's Tough Kids (led by Monty Hawley) returned in Take My Life (1941), in which the young troublemakers join the (segregated) US Army.

REFORM SCHOOL GIRL

(1995) D: Jonathan Kaplan S: Bruce Meade P: Lou Arkoff, Walter Hill, Willie Kutner, David Giler

This movie, part of the Showtime series Rebel Highway, takes its name from a 1957 AIP release. Aimee Graham stars, with Elisa Pensler and Gabrielli and Leo Rossi. Kaplan, whose directing career had started at Roger Corman's New World in the 70s, made the theatrical-release-western Bad Girls (1994) before this.

REFORM SCHOOL GIRLS

(Starmaker, 1986) D/S: Tom De Simone P: Jack Cummins

The director of The Concrete Jungle made this misfire spoof of women-in-prison movies. Linda Carol is an innocent inmate. Wendy O. Williams (from the Plasmatics) rides on the top of a bus and is heard on the soundtrack. Pat Ast (from Andy Warhol movies) is the evil matron, and Sybil Danning is the Bible-quoting warden. The stars remain dressed, but Michelle Bauer, Linda Carol, Leslie Bremmer, and Sheri Stoner are in a shower scene. Stoner was later the model for the main characters in Disney's The Little Mermaid and Beauty and the Beast! It's from New World.

THE REFRIGERATOR

(Monarch, 1991) D/S: Nicholas Jacobs P: Chris Oldcorn

A happy young couple (David Simonds and Julia McNeal) move from Chagrin Falls, Ohio, to a suspiciously cheap Manhattan apartment on Avenue D, in the East Village. The 60s Norge fridge is some kind of portal to Hell. She has childhood flashbacks and nightmares, and he dreams of little people in the fridge. The acting is fine, the dreams are great, and there's some gore and nice, unexpected humor. This 16mm production took four years to complete, and it was worth the wait. It's by Brown University grads from Cleveland. Kay Schuckhart (who designed the first Psychotronic calendars) was the set designer.

The Refrigerator

THE REGENERATED MAN

(Arrow, 1994) D/S/P: Ted Bohus S: Jack Smith

A scientist named Dr. Robert Clarke (Arthur Lundquist) is forced by thieves to drink his own potion. He occasionally becomes a monster-faced killer with a throbbing skull. His body opens up, and bone fragments impale victims. Gregory Sullivan costars as a detective, and George Stover appears. It was filmed in New Jersey by the producer of Deadly Spawn and Metamorphosis. There's some computer animation. Vampire Vixens from Venus was the next movie by Ted Bohus.

THE REJUVENATOR

(SVS, 1985) D/S: Brian Thomas Jones
S: Simon Nuchtern P: Steven Mackler
(The Rejuvenatrix)

It's the old plot of the The Wasp Woman again, with some ideas from Sunset Boulevard. A rich, aging, once-popular actress (Vivian Lanko) in a blond wig doesn't want to "rot away in this ugly carcass." A doctor, whose experiments she funds, uses serum from human brains to make her young, and she pretends she's her own actress niece. Her one-time love, Wilhelm, is the jealous butler. The problem is that sex makes her mutate. Ed French created several versions of her monster look. At first she loses hair, has a monster voice, and has balloon-like skin (like in the old Mexican movie Braniac). Later on her face gets worse, her head gets bigger, she grows big claws, her brain is exposed, and she decapitates people and eats their throbbing brains! It's good to see a movie like this that's pretty well done and not a spoof, although it gets pretty silly when coke-sniffing clubgoers in the ladies' room don't think that the monster/woman is anything special. There's also an all-girl heavy-metal group, a dancer in a see-through body stocking, and a rat puppet. It was made in NYC, but for a while I thought it was British because of its serious tone and some accents. Screenwriter Simon Nuchtern directed New York Nights.

RELATIVE FEAR

(1994) D: George Mihalka S: Kurt Wimmer P: Tom Berry Canada

Darlanne Fluegel's new baby is somehow switched with the child of a psycho (Denise Crosby). Later the autistic 4-year-old boy (Matthew DuPris) seems to become a killer. This movie copies parts of The Good Son. Martin Neufeld is the father, M. Emmet Walsh is the grandfather, and James Brolin is a detective. Also with Linda Sorensen.

RELENTLESS

(RCA/Columbia, 1989) D: William Lustig S: "Jack T. D. Robinson"/Phil Alden Robinson P: Howard Smith

Judd Nelson must have gotten sick of reviewers making fun of him in teen movies. Here he's convincing and disturbing as the psycho sunset killer, who picks his victims from the phone book. Flashbacks reveal that he's the son of an abusive LA hero cop. Leo Rossi is a NYC cop teamed with LA cop Robert Loggia. Meg Foster is Rossi's ex-wife. With Angel Tompkins and George "Buck" Flower. Nelson and Rossi are very good. Like most William Lustig movies this is violent and has some good chase scenes. The screenwriter directed Field of Dreams. The music is by Jay Chattaway. Nelson got even farther out in The Dark Backwards.

RELENTLESS II: DEAD ON

(RCA, 1991) D: Michael Schroeder
S: Mark Levi P: Lisa M. Hansen

Leo Rossi returns as the NYC cop in LA. Miles O'Keeffe is the silent, busy serial killer who uses disguises (including appearing in drag), bathes naked in ice cubes, and smears symbols on walls in blood. Ray Sharkey is an irritating FBI agent, Meg Foster returns as the ex-wife, and Judd Nelson is seen in flashbacks as the psycho from the superior original movie. The cinematography is excellent, but this is not much of a sequel. Also with Perry Lang and Shelby Chong. It's by the director of Cyborg II. More sequels followed.

RELENTLESS 3

(New Line, 1993) D/S: James Lemmo
P: Paul Hertzberg, Lisa M. Hansen

Leo Rossi (looking more like Regis Philbin all the time) is after yet another serial killer. This time it's creepy William Forsythe ("I am the fucking star!") as a necromaniac who somehow charms waitresses, then kills and mutilates them. The cheapness shows in the minimal cast and script, but it's a lot sicker than the second movie. Forsythe mails tattooed pieces of skin, shows up in drag, and scalps several cops. It had to be cut for an R rating. A girlfriend (Signy Coleman) is put into peril, then simply forgotten. The ending is awful. It's by the director of Tripwire.

RELENTLESS 4: ASHES TO ASHES

(New Line, 1994) D: Joel Soisson
S: Mark Sevi P: Russell D. Markowitz

Leo Rossi is Sam Dietz, and Colleen Coffey (from Lawnmower Man) is his partner. A deformed psycho who uses religious death rituals is on the loose, Famke Janssen (before her Bond-girl fame) is a shrink whose patients are being killed, and Christopher Pettiet is the cop's teen son.

THE REMARKABLE ANDREW

(1942) D: Stuart Heisler S: Dalton Trumbo P: Richard Blumenthal

William Holden stars as a young small-town bookkeeper framed for embezzlement but helped by the ghosts of famous Americans from the past. This WWII-era fantasy/comedy features Brian Donlevy as Andrew Jackson, Rod Cameron as Jesse James, and Montague Love as George Washington. Also with Ellen Drew (also in the director's The Monster and the Girl, from the same year) as the fiancée, Richard Webb, Porter Hall, and Frances Gifford. It's from Paramount. Dalton Trumbo's other WWII ghost movie was A Guy Named Joe (1943).

REMEMBER MY NAME

(1978) D/S: Alan Rudolph P: Robert Altman

Geraldine Chaplin, just released from prison, is after married construction worker Anthony Perkins. She disrupts his life and terrorizes his (real-life) wife Berry Berenson. With Moses Gunn, Tim Thomerson, Alfre Woodward, and Jeff Goldblum as a nerd. Columbia released the Alberta Hunter blues soundtrack.

REMOTE CONTROL

(IVE, 1987) D/S/P: Jeff Lieberman P: Scott Rosenfelt

A b/w video tape called Remote Control features strange-looking, 50s-type, futuristic aliens. Watching the video makes viewers kill. Kevin Dillon stars as a guy working in a video store. He and Deborah Goodrich realize what's going on and try to stop the killing. Nobody noticed this when it was released (directly to video), but it's pretty fun and worth watching just for the video segments with the bizarre aliens. With Jennifer Tilly and Bert Remsen.

REMO WILLIAMS: THE ADVENTURE BEGINS

(HBO, 1985) D: Guy Hamilton
S: Christopher Wood P: Larry Spiegel

A James Bond director and writer made this movie, based on the Destroyer novels. It was planned as the first of a series. Fred Ward stars as a NYC cop recruited and trained by a mystical Korean martial-arts master (Joel Grey in some amazing makeup). A fight on the Statue of Liberty and a killer-dog attack are some action highlights. With Kate Mulgrew, Wilford Brimley, Michael Pataki, and William Hickey. Dick Clark was one of the producers of this PG-13 feature. There was no sequel.

RENALDO AND CLARA

(1978) D/S/A/E: Bob Dylan S/A: Sam Shepard P: Mel Howard, Jack Baron

Parts of Dylan's ambitious all-star 1975–76 Rolling Thunder Review tour were filmed. The footage was edited down, and interviews and fantasy segments were added to make this uncommercial autobiographical epic. Dylan is Renaldo, and his wife at the time, Sara, is Clara. Actors sing and singers act. Ronnie Hawkins plays Dylan, and Ronee Blakley is his wife. Also with Sam Shepard (in his film debut), Joan Baez, Ramblin' Jack Elliott, Harry Dean Stanton, Allen Ginsberg, Arlo Guthrie, Joni Mitchell, Roger McGuinn, Mick Ronson, and David Blue (who died while jogging). It played some theaters at 292 minutes and was later reedited (by Dylan) to 112. Few have seen it at any length.

RENEGADE RIDERS: See PAYMENT IN BLOOD

RENEGADES

(MCA, 1989) D: Jack Sholder
S: David Rich P: David Madden

How about a teen version of Red Sun? This time modern-day teens out West are after a sacred Indian spear, and they have chases in cars instead of on horseback. Lou Diamond Phillips is a Lakota Sioux who teams up with East Coast cop Kiefer Sutherland. Jami Gertz and Rob Knepper costar.

RENTED LIPS

(IVE, 1988) D: Robert Downey S/A: Martin Mull P: Mort Engelberg M: Van Dyke Parks

A naive industrial-film director (Martin Mull) and his cameraman (Dick Shawn) are hired to finish a porno movie (with a Nazi theme) after the original director dies. Mull, who lives with his mother, falls for actress Jennifer Tilly. Robert Downey Jr. and Edy Williams star in the movie that's being shot. It's not very funny, but a lot of name guests show up, including Kenneth Mars as an evangelist, Eileen Brennan, James Coco, Shelley Berman, June Lockhart, Mel Welles, Pat McCormick, and Jack Reilly. There's also a dwarf. Shawn died (onstage) after making this.

Repo Man

REPO MAN

(MCA, 1984) D/S: Alex Cox P: Jonathan Wacks

Repo Man received horrible reviews when released (on video before its theatrical run), but it's excellent. It's the only good movie starring Emilio Estevez. He's Bud, a novice car-repo man in L.A., learning the trade from Otto (Harry Dean Stanton). The incredible comic science-fiction plot concerns UFOs, aliens, and punks, and features a great nod to Kiss Me Deadly. Fox Harris is a nuclear physicist with an alien corpse in his '64 Chevy Malibu. With Tracey Walter, Sy Richardson, Olivia Barash, Vonetta McGee, Angelique Pettyjohn, and the Circle Jerks. The cinematography is by Wim Wenders regular Robby Muller. The MCA soundtrack features a good Iggy Pop theme and some great songs by Black Flag, Suicidal Tendencies, the Plugz, and others. The screenplay was published. Alex Cox also prepared the cut TV version. The executive producer of this Universal release was ex-Monkee Michael Nesmith!

REPOSSESSED

(Live, 1990) D/S: Bob Logan P: Steven Wizan

This silly spoof beat Exorcist III to theaters (or at least to video stores). Linda Blair stars, and Leslie Nielsen is the exorcist, so there's lots of sub–Airplane/Naked Gun humor. Ned Beatty plays a Jim Bakker type who broadcasts grown-up Linda's repossession. Besides the obvious gags, jokes are made about Oliver North, Ted Kennedy, and Sean Penn, and the pope shows up in his "popemobile." I guess the highlight is Nielsen singing "Devil with a Blue Dress On" while imitating Billy Idol, Michael Jackson, and Elton John. For the record, some guest bits are by Wally George, Jack LaLanne, Jesse "the Body" Ventura, and Mean Gene Okerlund. Melissa Moore has a topless scene. Bob Logan also directed Blair in Up Your Alley (1988).

THE RESCUE

(Touchstone, 1988) D: Ferdinand Fairfax S: Jim Thomas, John Thomas P: Laura Ziskin

Kevin Dillon and his teen friends take matters into their own hands after their navy dads are captured by North Koreans. This anti-Communist PG-rated Disney movie features Charles Haid and Edward Albert.

RESCUE ME

(Warner, 1993) D: Arthur Alan Seidelman S: Mike Snyder P: Richard Alfieri

Stephen Dorff stars as a naive Nebraska high-school photographer in love with class queen Ami Dolenz. When she's kidnapped he teams up with a grizzled Nam vet (Michael Dudikoff) on a motorcycle for a cross-country rescue. With Peter DeLuise as a stupid kidnapper and Dee Wallace Stone. This Cannon movie is rated PG.

RESERVOIR DOGS

(Live, 1992) D/S/A: Quentin Tarantino P: Lawrence Bender

This intricate, flashback-filled movie about a botched LA heist started the much-publicized directing career of Quentin Tarentino, then still in his 20s. Lawrence Tierney and his son (Chris Penn) recruit six pros, give them color names, and have them rob a jewelry store. Harvey Keitel (who was a coproducer) stars as Mr. White, and Tim Roth is Mr. Orange. Steve Buscemi, Michael Madsen, Kirk Baltz, and Tarantino are the others. It was controversial because of the violence, but not that much is actually shown. There are nods to Kubrick, Scorsese, Leone westerns, and various French and Hong Kong crime movies. The all-70s soundtrack starts with the great "Little Green Bag" by the George Baker Selection but includes many irritating hits. During production Tierney was arrested for shooting holes in an apartment. Monte Hellman, who had wanted to direct it, was an executive producer. The Pioneer laserdisc has interviews and behind-the-scenes footage.

THE RESIDENTS: TWENTY TWISTED QUESTIONS

(Voyager, 1992)

Along with Devo, the San Francisco–based cult band the Residents pioneered modern rock videos in the late 70s. Some of their bizarre and surreal videos are b/w and use stop motion. A cover of "Land of a Thousand Dances" is one of my faves. All of the Residents' videos plus brief concert sequences are on this hour-long laserdisc. Penn Gillette narrates one segment.

REST IN PIECES

(IVE, 1987) D: "Joseph Braunstein"/José Larraz S: Santiago Moncada P: José Frade US/Spain/UK

A woman (Lorin Jean Vail) inherits a haunted suburban house from her aunt (Dorothy Malone), who killed herself (her death is preserved on video). This very confused movie features Nazis, killer priests, topless scenes, and psycho ghosts who slaughter a string quartet. With Scott Thompson Baker, Jack Taylor, Patty Shepard, and Fernando Bilbao.

THE RESTLESS YEARS

(1958) D: Helmut Kautner S: Edward Anhalt P: Ross Hunter

Universal's ads called this a story about "two decent youngsters in love and a town with a dirty mind!" John Saxon and Sandra Dee star, with James Whitmore, Teresa Wright, Luana Patton, Virginia Grey, Jody McCrea, and Margaret Lindsay. Teen star Saxon had already been in Running Wild, The Unguarded Moment, Rock, Pretty Baby, and Summer Love and was about to graduate from teen roles. He was still very active in the 90s.

THE RESURRECTED

(Live, 1992) D: Dan O'Bannon S: Brent Friedman P: Ken Raich, Mark Borde M: Richard Band Canada

H. P. Lovecraft's "The Case of Charles Dexter Ward" is the basis for this (as well as for 1963's The Haunted Palace). It's a slow-moving version, narrated by a private eye (John Terry) in Providence, Rhode Island, with a record number of flashbacks (and flashbacks inside of flashbacks). But if you're patient you'll see some pretty great shocking mutants and a surprising ending. A living, mutilated half-body is a disgusting highlight. Chris Sarandon stars both as a modern cosmetics-firm engineer who acts real strange and as his 18th-century sorceror ancestor. Jane Sibbett is his wife, who hires the detective. With Jewel Shepard. It was filmed near Vancouver by the director of Return of the Living Dead and the producers of Hollywood Hot Tubs and its sequel.

Steve Buscemi and Harvey Keitel in Reservoir Dogs.

RETRIBUTION

(Virgin, 1987) D/S/P/A/E: Guy Magar
S: Lee Wasserman

A misfit LA artist (Dennis Lipscomb) commits suicide on Halloween. His body is possessed by a killer gangster with the same birthday who died at the same time. The formerly meek man commits vengeance murders. This looks more like a drug-effects movie (the photography is excellent) than a horror movie, and the artist's poor, eccentric hotel neighbors are all treated sympathetically. Leslie Wing costars as a shrink, with Suzanne Snyder, Jeff Pomeranz, and Hoyt Axton. Alan Howarth composed the score. It had to be cut for an R rating, and a longer version was released overseas.

RETURN

(Academy, 1984) D/S: Andrew Silver P: Philip Spinelli

A girl (Karlene Crockett) tries to locate the spirit of her grandfather using hypnosis. With John Walcutt, Anne Lloyd Francis, Lisa Richards, and Frederic Forrest. It's based on a Donald Harrington novel.

THE RETURNING

(Imperial, 1983) D: Joel Bender
S: Patrick Nash (Witch Doctor)

Susan Strasberg and Gabriel Walsh star in this slow-moving tale of reincarnation and possession. A cursed stone causes it all. It's by the director of Gas Pump Girls.

THE RETURNING

(1991) D/S: John Day S: Arthur Baysting P: Trishia Downie NZ

Philip Gordon stars in this "erotic fantasy" as a young lawyer who hides out in an old mansion and is seduced by a 100-year-old female ghost. Alison Routledge costars.

THE RETURN OF A MAN CALLED HORSE

(1976) D: Irvin Kershner S: Jack De Witt
P: Terry Morse Jr. M: Laurence Rosenthal

Richard Harris (from the original 1970 hit) is an honorary member of the Yellow Hand tribe. He returns from England to help fight off some evil fur trappers. There's a 17-minute pre-title sequence and a 20-minute "sun vow ritual," this time with a dozen Indian braves hanging from their flesh. One Indian slashes his own eyes. Somehow this was rated PG. With Gale Sondergaard, Geoffrey Lewis, and Claudio Brook. It was filmed in Mexico. The soundtrack is on UA. The Triumphs of a Man Called Horse is another sequel.

THE RETURN OF CAPTAIN INVINCIBLE

(Magnum, 1982) D: Philippe Mora
S: Steven E. De Souza P: Andrew Gaza
Australia (Legend in Leotards)

Alan Arkin is a retired, drunken, costumed superhero called back to battle the evil Mr. Midnight (Christopher Lee). Michael Pate is the US president. There's a US spy base in Australia, and characters sing. This comedy/fantasy/musical uses footage from The Day the Earth Stood Still.

THE RETURN OF CHANDU

(Rhino, Sinister, 1934) D: Ray Taylor
S: Barry Barringer P: Sol Lesser

Bela Lugosi was in the feature Chandu the Magician (1932) as the villain. In this 12-chapter Principal serial he's the magician hero! The Egyptian Ubasto cult wants Princess Nadji (Maria Alba) as a human sacrifice. The giant-wall set from King Kong was reused. With silent-film star Clara Kimball Young. This was originally released as a serial, as a feature plus 8 episodes, and also as 2 features. The second feature was called Chandu on Magic Island. A 61-minute condensed version is also on video.

THE RETURN OF DR. FU MANCHU

(Startime, 1930) D: Rowland V. Lee
S: Florence Ryerson, Lloyd Corrigan

Fu (Warner Oland) escapes from a coffin at the start of the immediate sequel to The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu (1929). He intends to kill off the British family of the fiancé of his adopted daughter (Jean Arthur). With Neil Hamilton, O. P. Heggie (the blind hermit in Bride of Frankenstein) as Sir Nayland Smith, William Austin, and Tetsu Komai. This Paramount release was also filmed in a German-language version. Oland returned in Daughter of the Dragon (1931).

THE RETURN OF MICKEY SPILLANE'S MIKE HAMMER

(1986) D: Ray Danton S: Larry Brody, Janis Hendler, James M. Miller P: Gary Frederickson

Stacy Keach returned to his CBS-TV series after his 1985 British drug bust. In the feature-length first show Hammer goes to Hollywood to find the kidnapped daughter of a movie star (Lauren Hutton). Lindsay Bloom and Don Stroud return too. With Vince Edwards, Mickey Rooney, John Karlen, Dabney Coleman, and Dionne Warwick. The revived series lasted only a few months.

THE RETURN OF SABATA

(VSOM, 1971) D/S: "Frank Kramer"/Gianfranco Parolini S: Renato Izzo P: Alberto Grimaldi
Italy/Spain (Il Ritorno di Sabata)

Lee Van Cleef stars in a sequel to Sabata (1969), with Reiner Schone and Annabelle Incontrera. He works in a Wild West show and is after some crooks who stole his loot. United Artists released it with a PG rating.

THE RETURN OF SPINAL TAP

(MPI, 1992) D: "Jim DiBergi" S: Christopher Guest, Michael McKean, Harry Shearer

Christopher Guest, Michael McKean, and Harry Shearer return as Spinal Tap (and their acoustic opening group, the Folksmen) in this direct-to-video sequel. A concert at the Royal Albert Hall is featured, plus interview segments and cameos by This Is Spinal Tap director Rob Reiner (as Marty DiBergi), Paul Shaffer, Fred Willard, June Chadwick, Bob Geldof, Graham Nash, Jamie Lee Curtis, Richard Lewis, Martha Quinn, Jeff Beck, Martin Short, Paul Anka, Mel Torme (who sings "Big Bottom Girls"!), and others.

THE RETURN OF SUPERFLY

(Vidmark, 1990) D/P: Sig Shore S/P: Anthony Wisdom

Nathan Purdee stars as Priest (played by Ron O'Neal in Superfly and Superfly TNT). He infiltrates his old gang. This anti-drug, pro-cop sequel features a reworked Curtis Mayfield score with rap music. It was released near the time Mayfield was struck by lightning and paralyzed. With Margaret Avery (The Color Purple) and Tone Loc.

RETURN OF THE ALIEN'S DEADLY SPAWN

(Arrow, 1982) D/S: Doug McKeown, Tim Sullivan P: Ted Bohus (Deadly Spawn)

This marvel of imaginative, low-budget (16mm) filmmaking features some teens in a house with alien tadpole monsters in the basement. The creatures (with rows of sharp teeth) multiply and grow until some of them are bigger than the house. A kid who's a horror-movie fan becomes the hero. Watching this movie (made in New Jersey) at a theater on 42nd Street was a high point of my Manhattan moviegoing days. Charles George Hildebrandt stars with Tom De Franco and Jean Tafler. A soundtrack was issued on Deadly records. Metamorphosis was a later "sequel."

RETURN OF THE DRAGON

(CBS/Fox, 1973) D/S/A: Bruce Lee

Bruce Lee's third starring feature and the only one he had control of, was made after Fists of Fury and The Chinese Connection. It was promoted in America as being a "sequel" to Enter the Dragon but was actually made before it. Lee plays Tang Lung, a country boy who goes to Italy to help out in a Chinese restaurant and has to fight gangsters. In one of Lee's great fight scenes (he did the choreography) he goes up against Chuck Norris at the Colosseum in Rome. It was all shot in Hong Kong, though. Norris and Lee had also appeared in the Matt Helm movie The Wrecking Crew (1969).

RETURN OF THE EVIL DEAD = RETURN OF THE BLIND DEAD

RETURN OF THE FAMILY MAN

(Raedon, 1989) D/S: John Murlowski S: John Fox
P: Johann Van Rooyen, Karl Johnson S. Africa

An escaped mass murderer (Ron Smerczak) in the American Pacific Southwest is called the "family man" by the press. The man, who has a mansion with the bodies of his first victims (his family) in the basement, had devised the Star Wars Defense system (!). With Liam Cundill and Terence Reis.

RETURN OF THE INCREDIBLE HULK

(1977) D: Alan J. Levi S/P: Kenneth Johnson

This was the second pilot film for the TV series (1978–82) starring Bill Bixby turning into the Hulk (Lou Ferrigno). With Laurie Prange, William Daniels, and Gerald McRaney. It's not to be confused with The Incredible Hulk Returns (1988).

RETURN OF THE JEDI

(CBS/Fox, 1983) D: Richard Marquand
S: Lawrence Kasdan, George Lucas
P: Howard Kazanjian M: John Williams

This is now one of the highest-grossing films of all time, so you've probably seen it, cute teddy bears and all. Mark Hamill, Harrison Ford, Carrie Fisher, and Billy Dee Williams all return from The Empire Strikes Back, and Frank Oz is Yoda. Also featured are Alec Guinness, the voice of James Earl Jones, Anthony Davis, Kenny Baker, David Prowse, and the usual crew. Another bestselling soundtrack was released (on RSO) as well as two behind-the-scenes videos (Playhouse). The Star Wars concept went to TV next with Ewok movies and became a Disneyland tour. The four main series stars went into extreme career (and real-life) dives after this, with only Ford surviving as a major actor. The entire trilogy is available on laserdisc as a deluxe boxed set from Fox. A Star Wars Trilogy box CD set (20th Century) is also available.

RETURN OF THE KILLER TOMATOES: THE SEQUEL

(New World, 1988) D/S/A: John DeBello
S: Stephen F. Andrich, Constantine Dillon
P: J. Stephen Peace, Lowell D. Blank

This includes flashbacks from the 1977 cult comedy, but otherwise it has little to do with the original. Somebody noticed how many video units had been sold, so a "sequel" was ordered. John Astin is Professor Gangrene, who plans to take over the world with tomato warriors. Steve Lundquist is his assistant, Igor. This PG comedy, which led to more sequels and a TV cartoon series, also features Anthony Starke, George Clooney, and future porno star Teri Weigel.

John Astin in Return of the Killer Tomatoes.

RETURN OF THE LIVING DEAD

(HBO, 1985) D/S: Dan O'Bannon
P: Tom Fox, Graham Henderson

This horror comedy was released the same year as George Romero's Day of the Dead. The original script was by John Russo, who cowrote Night of the Living Dead. There was a legal battle with George Romero over the title, but many fans liked this movie better than the official sequel. I like them both a lot. Clu Gulager and James Karen (both great in their roles) run Uneeda Medical Supplies in Louisville. Talking cannibal zombies are released, yelling "Brains!" and "More brains!" and a group of punk kids show up to party. A living half-dog and a half-human corpse are visual highlights in a movie that manages to be scary, surprising, and funny. The whole state of Kentucky is nuked by the military at the end! With Thom Mathews, Linnea Quigley, Jewel Shepard, Don Calfa, and Brian Peck. The good various artist rock soundtrack (on Enigma) features the Cramps, the Damned, and Roky Erikson. Tobe Hooper was once slated to direct it (in 3-D).

Return of the Living Dead.

RETURN OF THE LIVING DEAD, PART II

(Lorimar, 1987) D/S: Ken Wiederhorn P: Tom Fox

James Karen and Thom Mathews return in a terrible sequel that plays like a teen-comedy remake of what was already an unofficial comedy sequel. With Michael Kenworthy, Dana Ashbrook, and Forry Ackerman as a zombie. A various artists soundtrack (Julian Cope, Anthrax, Zodiac Mindwarp) is on IRS. The video contains a merchandising ad. The director did Meatballs II.

RETURN OF THE LIVING DEAD 3

(Vidmark, 1993) D/P: Brian Yuzna
S: John Penny P: Gary Schmoeller
M: Barry Goldberg

This unrelenting, serious horror movie would have done better without the sequel title. It has more in common with Re-Animator and the original Hellraiser than with the other Return of the Living Dead movies. A teen army brat (J. Trevor Edmond) uses Trioxen to bring his dead girlfriend (Mindy Clarke) back to life after a motorcycle accident. She becomes a sympathetic cannibal zombie with an incredible punk S&M look with self-pierced body parts, but he still loves her. Multi-racial gang members become zombies in the LA sewer system, and Basil Wallace is a homeless hero. It mixes extreme horror and shooting FX with the tragic true-love theme. With Kent McCord (from Adam-12) as Edmond's military father, Sarah Douglas as a Pentagon colonel working on turning the dead into soldiers, Fabio Urena, Pia Reyes, and Anthony Hickox. Tom Raimone was the second-unit director and was in charge of the FX, created by a record five shops. It had to be cut for an R.

RETURN OF THE MAN FROM U.N.C.L.E.

(TWE, 1983) D: Ray Austin
S: Michael Sloane P: Nigel Watts

Robert Vaughn and David McCallum returned as Napoleon Solo and Ilya Kuryakin in this CBS-TV series pilot film, this time working for new U.N.C.L.E. boss Patrick Macnee. They're called out of retirement to stop Anthony Zerbe as a T.H.R.U.S.H. villain who has stolen a nuclear bomb. With Gayle Hunnicutt, Geoffrey Lewis, Keenan Wynn, and George Lazenby as "JB." Ray Austin was a stunt director, then director of The Avengers series. The original The Man from U.N.C.L.E. series ran from 1964 to 1968. A revived series never happened. Just as well.

RETURN OF THE MUSKETEERS

(MCA, 1989) D: Richard Lester S: George MacDonald Fraser P: Michelle De Broca, Pierre Spangler UK/France/Spain

This sequel, set 20 years later than the hits The Three Musketeers (1974) and The Four Musket- eers (1975), is based on the Alexandre Dumas novel Twenty Years After. Richard Lester directed again, and many of the original stars returned, but nobody cared, so this PG film went directly to cable TV in the USA. With Michael York, Oliver Reed, Frank Finlay, Geraldine Chaplin, Christopher Lee, Richard Chamberlain, and Billy Connolly. Roy Kinnear died in a horseback-riding accident during production, and a double had to be used for some scenes. New characters are played by Philippe Noiret as Cardinal Mazarin, C. Thomas Howell as the adopted son of Athos, and Kim Cattrall as the evil daughter of Milady De Winter. It was filmed in Spain.

THE RETURN OF THE SIX MILLION DOLLAR MAN AND THE BIONIC WOMAN

(1987) D: Ray Austin S/P: Michael Sloane

People everywhere were greatly relieved that this attempt to create a new series about the bionic son (Lee Majors II) of Steve Austin (Lee Majors) failed. Lindsay Wagner and Richard Anderson return from those lame 70s science-fiction/action shows, and Martin Landau plays the villain. With Gary Lockwood. Another NBC-TV pilot attempt was called Bionic Showdown (1989).

RETURN OF THE SWAMP THING

(RCA/Columbia, 1989) D: Jim Wynorski S: Derek Spencer, Grant Morris P: Ben Melniker

This PG-13 sequel to Wes Craven's 1982 film was followed by a syndicated TV series. Dick Durock (also in the series) is "the swamp thing," and Louis Jourdan returns as Dr. Arcane, who's busy creating bizarre mutants. Heather Locklear is a relative who comes to stay, and Sarah Douglas is the doctor's assistant, but the real stars are a pair of little kids. Monique Gabrielle and Ace Mask are also featured. CCR's "Born on the Bayou" is on the soundtrack.

RETURN OF THE TEXAS CHAINSAW MASSACRE

(1994) D/S: Kim Henkel P: Robert Kuhn

This indy movie (made after sequels from Cannon and New Line) was filmed near Austin. Director Kim Henkel (who cowrote the original 1974 classic The Texas Chainsaw Massacre) claimed that this was the real sequel although it didn't feature any of the original cast; it's actually a remake with added subplots and characters. Renee Zellenger stars, with Toni Perensky, Matthew McConaghey (Dazed and Confused), and Robert Jacks as Leatherface.

RETURN OF THE ZOMBIES: See THE HANGING WOMAN

RETURN TO FANTASY ISLAND

(1978) D: George McGowan
S: Marc Brandel P: Michael Fisher

This is the second ABC-TV pilot film for the mind-rotting series that ran from 1978 all the way to 1984. Ricardo Montalban and Hervé Villechaize star, and the guest cast is superb, as usual: Joseph Cotten, Cameron Mitchell, two Georges (Chakiris and Maharis), France Nuyen, Adrienne Barbeau, Horst Buchholz, Joseph Campanella, and perky Karen Valentine. Who wasn't in this show? It was a Spelling/Goldberg production.

RETURN TO HORROR HIGH

(Starmaker, 1987) D/S: Bill Froelich
S/P: Mark Lisson S: Dana Escalante

A surviving screenwriter (Philip McKeon) relates this horror-movie spoof about filming at a haunted school. Nightmare sequences mixed with flashbacks add to the confusion. A white-masked killer hides in the basement. Alex Rocco plays the producer, and Scott Jacoby is the director. With Andy Romano, Maureen McCormick (from the TV series The Brady Bunch) as a cop, Lori Lethin and Brendan Hughes as the top-billed actors in the film within a film, and Darcy Demoss. In one scene Vince Edwards is nailed to the floor. From New World.

RETURN TO MACON COUNTY

(Vestron, 1975) D/S: Richard Compton P: Elliot Schick

AIP released the sequel to Macon County Line (1974), by the same director but with none of the same characters. Don Johnson (the same year as A Boy and His Dog) stars with a young Nick Nolte (in his movie debut) as two late-50s Georgia guys who want to go to California to enter a drag race. Robin Mattson, as an on-the-edge waitress who wants to be an actress, joins them and causes problems. The plot concerns sex and murder. With Robert Viharo and Eugene Daniels. The very good vintage-oldies soundtrack is on United Artists.

RETURN TO OZ

(Disney, 1985) D/S: Walter Murch
S: Gil Dennis P: Paul Maslansky

I guess too many people have the original 1939 The Wizard of Oz permanently imbedded in their minds to appreciate this PG sequel based on a different L. Frank Baum novel. I caught it on late-night TV and thought it was great. Fairuza Balk stars as Dorothy. She's put into a sanitarium and given electroshock treatments (!) after she tells Auntie Em (Piper Laurie) and Uncle Henry (Matt Clark) about her adventures in Oz. Dorothy ends up back in Oz, now in ruins, and faces the evil Nome King (Nicol Williamson) and Princess Mombi (Jean Marsh). Her companions this time are a talking chicken, Pumpkinhead, and Tik-Tok the robot. George Lucas and Steven Spielberg both helped with this darker commercial flop PG version from Disney and Will Vinton's Claymation is used for the rock faces. Sonic Atmospheres released the soundtrack.

A RETURN TO 'SALEM'S LOT

(Warner, 1987) D/S: Larry Cohen
S: James Dixon P: Paul Kurta

Michael Moriarty (from Q) stars as a tough anthropologist (and mondo filmmaker) who is hired by the residents of a small Maine town to write their local history and discovers that everyone there is a vampire. The locals are also old-fashioned, drug-free, flag-waving small-town Americans who are afraid of AIDS. He takes along his estranged preteen son (Ricky Addison Reed), and they're joined by a clever old cigar-chomping Dr. Van Helsing type (wonderfully played by director Samuel Fuller). There are sights like little-kid vampires getting married and killing, and old ladies lapping up a victim's blood. It's not really a sequel to the 1979 Stephen King TV movie and is obviously a rushed production (with some mediocre FX) but is still one of Larry Cohen's best. With Andrew Duggan as the judge, 40s stars June Havoc and Evelyn Keyes, Katya Crosby, Jill Gatsby, Brad Rijn, and Ronee Blakley. It was shot in Vermont.

RETURN TO TWO MOON JUNCTION

(Vidmark, 1993) D: Farhad Mann P: Zalman King

Melinda Clarke (Return of the Living Dead 3) is a model who returns to her Georgia home and has an affair with a sculptor (John Clayton Schafer). With Yorgo Constantine, Louise Fletcher (from the original), and Matt Frewer in drag.

REVENGE

(United, 1986) D/S: Christopher Lewis P: Linda Lewis

Patrick Wayne, who would do only PG-rated films when his father was alive, stars in this shot-on-video sequel to Blood Cult. John Carradine is the head of a small-town cult that worships the dog god Caninus. "They wag their tales and tear out our hearts!" said the ads, which claimed that this was Carradine's "500th" movie (nonsense). The video includes bad takes. The Oklahoma filmmakers also gave us The Ripper.

REVENGE IN THE HOUSE OF USHER

(Wizard, 1979) D/S/P/C: "J. P. Johnson"/ Jesús Franco Spain (El Hundimiento de la Casa Usher; The Sinister Dr. Orloff; Nervosus)

Dr. Usher, "the son of Dr. Orloff" (Howard Vernon), uses his ugly brother Morpho to kidnap naked women so that he can restore his daughter's beauty. Blood transfusions help keep Usher alive. The many b/w flashbacks are from Jesús Franco's 1962 movie The Awful Dr. Orloff (also with Vernon), of which this is basically another remake. With Lina Romay and Robert Forster.

THE REVENGE OF BILLY THE KID

(VSOM, 1991) D/S: Jim Groom S/P: Tim Denison S: Richard Mathews UK

This crude horror comedy is set on a remote island farm. After farmer McDonald (Michael Balfour) fucks a goat, a goat man is born (a dwarf with a goat's head), and he kills it. It doesn't really die but grows to giant size and kills off the cast, which includes Jackie D. Broad as Ma and Hammer regular Michael Ripper.

REVENGE OF DRACULA = DRACULA VS. FRANKENSTEIN

REVENGE OF DR. X

(Regal, 1970) D: ????? S: Ed Wood Jr.
Japan (The Double Garden)

Wood wrote a script called Venus Fly Trap, which ended up being filmed in Japan by Toei. The video box lists the wrong cast and credits (they're for the 1969 Filipino movie The Mad Doctor of Blood Island). The star is American James Craig, MGM's "replacement" for Clark Gable during WWII. He also was in Bigfoot (1969), so you can see how well his career was going. The full-color action starts at Cape Kennedy (NASA stock footage is used). Dr. Bragan (Craig with his usual pencil-thin mustache) yells a lot during a delayed launch and collapses. A Japanese colleague suggests a rest in his homeland, but first Bragan has car trouble in Wilmington, North Carolina, on the way to the airport (!?). The local garage mechanic is also a snake handler. When he disembarks from his plane in Tokyo all he carries is a box containing his precious, hungry venus fly-trap plant. The hunchbacked servant at a run-down old hotel near a volcano plays clichéd Western horror-movie music at the organ (and has his own theme music). Bragan is alternately mean and grouchy or cheerful to Noriko, his able new female assistant. Obsessed with the plant ("You will become the most powerful thing in the universe!"), he hopes to combine it with another plant ("I refuse the word impossible!"). He and Noriko travel to the seaside and hire a group of topless diving girls to find a rare, giant underwater plant, which they place in a clear glass box. Back at the hotel the movie becomes Frankenplant 1970. On a typical mad-lab set the plants are raised on an operating table so that lightning can bring life. The resulting monster is incredible!! It's a 50s-style creature with a long tail, fly-trap hands, and fly-trap feet. It gets stronger by eating a puppy. Bragan yells, "Your mother was the earth! The rain your blood! The lightning your power! Ah ha ha ha!!!" He feeds it mice and promises a human heart. At a local hospital he takes the blood from a pregnant woman. The creature emits a sleeping gas. It escapes, walking through the nearby village. The screen turns red when it kills. The angry villagers gather with torches. Bragan brings it a baby goat to eat, but he and his creation fall into an active volcano (just like the end of The Manster)!! Amazing!

REVENGE OF JOHNNY FIRECLOUD: See JOHNNY FIRECLOUD

REVENGE OF THE CHEERLEADERS

(VGB, 1976) D/P: Richard Lerner S: Ted Greenwald, Ace Bandage, Nathaniel Dorsky P: Nathaniel Dorsky

This forgotten drive-in movie stars Patrice Rohmer, Jeri Woods (Switchblade Sisters), who has the most nude scenes, and Cheryl "Rainbeaux" Smith. Watch it if you want to see David Hasselhoff naked (as Boner) and magician and actor Carl Ballantine (from the TV series McHale's Navy), who keeps his clothes on.

REVENGE OF THE DEAD

(Lightning, 1983) D/S: Pupi Avanti
S/P: Antonio Avanti S: Maurizio Costanzo
Italy (Zeder; Voice from the Darkness)

A novelist (Gabriele Lava) in Bologna travels to investigate messages on his wife's typewriter ribbon. He visits graveyards and crypts, going through layers of history, and discovers a French research group (in a former nudist colony) tring to revive a dead priest who shows up laughing on TV screens. People are stabbed and decapitated, and it all involves a magical "K zone" and a pet cemetery. MPM released this in America.

REVENGE OF THE LIVING ZOMBIES

(Magnum, 1989) D/S/P/A/E: Bill Hinzman
S: Bill Randolph (Flesh Eater)

Even zombie actors made uncredited remakes of Night of the Living Dead! The very first onscreen zombie in NOTLD (he appears when Johnny says "They're coming to get you, Barbara!") was Bill Hinzman. This is a teen-zombie movie but copies a lot from the original and is very non-Hollywood (people drink Iron City Beer). College students on a Halloween hayride 20 years later spend the night in the woods smoking pot, drinking, and making out. The famous Hinzman zombie kills a farmer, and more people become walking dead as the kids try to warn the unbelieving local authorities. A cop says, "These kids are not human!" It's gory (axe in head, pitchfork in chest, bitten-off nose) and has nudity (naked, bloody zombies and a long shower scene). An angelic-looking little-girl zombie kills her mother. They wait until dad comes home and have him for dinner. Hinzman even gets to thrust his arm right through a naked girl. There's the boarded-up house surrounded by zombies, local TV reports, and a twist on the original surprise ending. Some of the effects are good, but there's at least one obvious dummy head, and the acting is pretty horrible. All in all it's pretty entertaining.

REVENGE OF THE NERDS

(Fox, 1984) D: Jeff Kanew S: Steve Zacharias
P: Ted Field, Peter Samuelson

Robert Carradine is Lewis and Anthony Edwards is Gilbert, new college "nerds." They start their own fraternity with various other social misfits and fight back against macho jocks and bitchy coeds. This surprise comedy hit is better than average for a teen comedy. With Julia Montgomery, Curtis Armstrong (funny as Booger), Timothy Busfield, Michelle Meyrink, Courtney Thorne-Smith, Matt Salinger, Ted McGinley, Bernie Casey, and John Goodman as a coach. This 20th Century–Fox release is rated R. Scotti Brothers released the various artists soundtrack.

REVENGE OF THE NERDS II: NERDS IN PARADISE

(Fox, 1987) D: Joe Roth S: Dan Guntzelman, Steve Marshall P: Ted Field, Robert Gort, Peter Bart

This time the nerds go to Fort Lauderdale, the music is by Devo, and the rating is PG-13. Robert Carradine returns with Curtis Armstrong and Timothy Busfield, and Anthony Edwards makes a token appearance. Ed Lauter and James Hong are also in the cast.

REVENGE OF THE NERDS III: THE NEXT GENERATION

(Fox, 1992) D: Roland Mesa S: Steve Zacharias

Robert Carradine returns to help younger college nerds when Morton Downey Jr. and Ted McGinley conspire to bring the jocks back to power at Adams College. Curtis Armstrong, Julia Montgomery, Bernie Casey, and other cast members return from the first movie. It debuted on cable TV.

REVENGE OF THE NERDS IV: NERDS IN LOVE

(Fox, 1994) D/S: Steve Zacharias
S: Jeff Buhai P: Ooty Moorehead

Booger (Curtis Armstrong) plans to marry the daughter (Corinne Bohrer) of wealthy Joseph Bologna. Nerds arrive from all over for the wedding. Robert Carradine (one of the executive producers) and Julia Montgomery are now married. Christina Pickles and Jessica Tuck are featured, and there are bit roles for Bernie Casey, Ted McGinley, and Marvin Kaplan. It debuted on Fox-TV with some pretty bogus gimmicks: a scratch-and-sniff segment and a 3-D segment. Cards were available from 7-Eleven.

REVENGE OF THE NINJA

(MGM/UA, 1983) D: Sam Firstenberg
S: James R. Silke P: Golan/Globus

Sho Kosugi's family is slaughtered, so he runs a doll shop with his surviving son (his real-life son Kane). This "sequel" to Enter the Ninja (1981) features heroin in dolls and lots of action. It was remade in 1985 as Pray for Death (also with Kosugi). Arthur Roberts, Virgil Frye, Ashley Ferrare, and John Lamotta are featured. The same title was used for a Malaysian horror movie in 1988. Ninja III was next for Kosugi.

REVENGE OF THE RADIOACTIVE REPORTER

(Magnum, 1988) D/S/P: Craig Pryce
S: David Wiechorek Canada

In this really stupid Troma-inspired comedy a reporter named Mike (Dave Scammell) is pushed into nuclear waste and becomes a phantom killer with a bandaged face and the touch of death. He rips some heads off, kills a woman by pissing in her bathtub, and has a b/w dream of a mutant baby. A cop says, "Sounds like you've been watching too many bad horror movies."

REVENGE OF THE RED BARON

(New Horizons, 1994) D: Robert Gordon
S: Michael J. McDonald P: Mike Elliot

This "sequel" to Roger Corman's Von Richthofen and Brown (1971) stars a kid (Toby Maguire). Baron Ferdinand von Richthofen magically comes to life in a toy plane (?!) and starts killing with tiny bullets from a toy machine gun while making wisecracks. Mickey Rooney is the kid's grandfather, who shot down the baron during WWI. Laraine Newman and Cliff De Young are the parents.

REVENGE OF THE SHOGUN WOMEN

(1977) D: Mei Chung Chang S: Lorenz Soma P: Frank Wong Hong Kong (13 Nuns; Shogun Women; Revenge of the 13)

Women in 18th-century China are raped by bandits. Years later they're ready for revenge, with their short hair and martial-arts skills. With lots of impressive 3-D effects, bloody sword and axe fights, and nudity. Shisuen Leong, Han Tsiang-Chin, and Pai Ying star. This was released in America in 1981 in 3-D by 21st Century and is fondly remembered by those who saw it.

REVENGE OF THE VIRGINS

(Video Dimensions, 1959) D/P: Peter Perry Jr. S: Peter La Roche

A narrator (Ed Wood regular Kenne Duncan) informs us about a Stone Age tribe of California Indians, "amazons of the West." These female warriors lurk in the background shooting arrows, and, oh yeah, they're all topless. This boring, talk-filled movie is full of clichéd gold prospectors and bad guys, and the 53-minute print is too dark. It's for topless-western completists only. It was re-released in 1966.

REVENGE OF THE WILD BUNCH

(CNH, 1970) D/S: Paul Hunt S/P/C/E: Ronald V. Garcia P: Harry Novak, Phil Yankowitz (Machismo; 40 Graves for 40 Guns)

This violent western (obviously inspired by the previous year's The Wild Bunch) is pro-Hispanic and anti-Gringo, making it unique. Robert Padilla stars as a Mexican bandit promised a pardon if he and his men bring back some killer American gold thieves who have crossed the border. Mexicans are called greaseballs and worse by small-town drunks and cowards. The climactic battle/massacre is very bloody and gory. The slow-motion love scenes and out-of-focus sex scenes are ridiculous. With Leslie York, Stanley Adams, Sue Bernard, Bruce Gordon, Nancy Caroline, and Royal Dano as a grizzled racist. Boxoffice International released it.

REVENGE OF THE ZOMBIE:
See KISS DADDY GOODNIGHT

REVENGER

(AIP, 1989) D: Cedric Sundstrom S: John Cianetti P: Jonathan Vanger, Gregory Vanger S. Africa

Michael (Frank Zagarino), a young sax player "in LA", is set up and sent to prison for three years. He moves in with his girlfriend after being paroled, but the bad guys think he knows where some loot is, so they kidnap her. The hero teams up with his one-eyed, one-legged Nam-vet buddy for the big rescue. Jack (big Oliver Reed with a gray mustache) snorts coke, smokes crack, and makes a woman watch porno (and snuff) movies (which he financed) before raping her. When his addicted, bisexual girlfriend is killed he yells, "I'm going to cut his balls off!" It all ends in a shootout copied from Who'll Stop the Rain (1978). There's an amusement-park fight, the hero in a shower, a kung-fu cop, and a (fairly graphic for an R video) look at Jack's porno production.

REVOLT OF THE SLAVES

(VSOM, 1961) D: Nunzio Malasomma P: Paola Moffa Italy/Spain, W. Germany (La Rivolta degli Schiavi)

Rhonda Fleming falls for slave Lang Jeffries. They become Christians and are sent into the arena. Fleming and Jeffries were married for a while in real life. It was one of the last leading roles for the red-haired 50s star, who had been in four movies opposite Ronald Reagan. She later campaigned for him (and George Bush).

REVOLT OF THE ZOMBIES

(Hal Roach, 1936) D/S: Victor Halperin S: Howard Higgin, Rollo Lloyd P: Edward Halperin

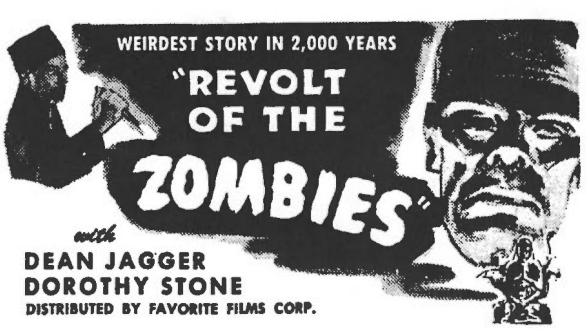
This one (from Academy Pictures) is pretty bad but very entertaining. It opens with a lineup of indestructible Cambodian zombie soldiers helping the French fight Nazis in Europe. The story moves to Cambodia, where an international expedition tries to find the ancient zombie formula and destroy it. Characters act in front of rear-projection photos of the Angkor Wat ruins. A woman does a very awkward "exotic" dance, and a troublemaking blonde creates a love triangle. The jilted, lovesick man (Dean Jagger) turns his servant into a zombie by heating the secret potion (like crack) and blowing the smoke into his face. Jagger broods, laughs, cries, and says things like "Bunha, we're learning to be ruthless!" The Halperins didn't have Bela Lugosi again, so they used his superimposed glowing eyes from their hit White Zombie (1932) all through this movie, and a bad guy is dressed to resemble Lugosi. Jagger turns the whole cast into zombies, and yes, they do revolt.

RHINO'S GUIDE TO SAFE SEX

(Rhino, 1987)

Johnny Legend put together this 60-minute compilation of clips dealing with sex, dating, and diseases from movies going back to the 20s. Choice scenes are from Tomorrow's Children, Ship of Shame, and other government films warning servicemen about VD. One features TV Superman George Reeves. Dating Dos and Don'ts (directed by Ed Wood Jr!) is the best-known short. Trailers from some Ed Wood and H. G. Lewis movies are here. Some silent shorts feature nudity. A 50s teen actor, Kenny Miller, sued Rhino for putting his picture on the cover of the video box.



THE RIBALD TALES OF ROBIN HOOD

(Impact, 1969) D/S: Richard Kanter P: Edward Paramore, John Harvey

All the usual Sherwood Forest characters appear, but the women have heavy eye makeup and take their clothes off. Blond-haired Robin Hood has a lot of sex but usually keeps his tights on. It's all pretty dull except for a scene that could have been in a Jesús Franco movie: the naked evil princess has the naked Maid Marian chained up and hung over a bed of nails, then forces her to lick her body. David F. Friedman did the original publicity, and Bambi Allen is in it. When rereleased in 1991 it was rerated NC-17.

RICH AND STRANGE

(Republic, 1932) D: Alfred Hitchcock S: Alma Reville, Val Valentine P: John Maxwell UK (East of Shanghai)

Freddy and Emily Hill (Henry Kendall and Joan Barry) are a couple with inherited money who travel around the world on a ship. They each have affairs and are shipwrecked. They're rescued by a Chinese junk and get back together. It was a sound film without much dialogue.

RICH GIRL

(HBO, 1991) D: Joel Bender S: Robert Elliot P: Michael B. London M: Jay Chattaway

Jill Schoelen (The Stepfather) stars as a Beverly Hills girl who's working as a waitress and falls for a rock singer (Don Michael Paul). With Cherie Currie, Bentley Mitchum, and blues great Willie Dixon as himself.

RICOCHET

(Columbia, 1991) D: Russell Mulcahy S: Steven E. de Souza P: Joel Silver

Denzel Washington stars as Nick Styles, a cop who becomes an assistant DA after he catches Earl Blake (John Lithgow), a violent, sadistic, devious, foul-mouthed killer. When Blake escapes from prison he ruins Styles' life by cleverly convincing people that the honest, crusading public servant is really a womanizing drug addict whose corruption led his best friend, a transvestite and child molester, to commit suicide. This often shocking movie deals with media manipulation at its worst and shows how homemade videotapes can make or break a career. It all ends in a one-on-one fight atop the Los Angeles Tower. The stars are both excellent in their roles, but it's hard to accept Lithgow as a killer so tough that he can easily make all the other prisoners (including white supremacists) cower. Ice-T is the major crack dealer brother who actually comes to the rescue, and Josh Evans is Blake's jailhouse-punk assistant. Also with Kevin Pollak, Mary Ellen Trainor, Lindsay Wagner, John Amos, Sarah Suzanne Brown, Jesse Ventura in a gladiator-fight scene, and the voice of Ernie Anderson. Fred Dekker cowrote the story. A clip of James Cagney in White Heat is used.

RIDE HARD, RIDE WILD

(SW, 1970) D: Elou Peterssens
S: Lennart Nielsen P: B.T. Kobenhaven

Karl, a sadistic voyeur who's a professional bike racer, has nightmares of the crash that scarred his face. He gets revenge on Leif, a guy on vacation in a van, by taking his blond girlfriend, Anneltise (Brigit Kroter). Much of this movie is made up of long dirt-race sequences and straight, lesbian, group, and forced sex accompanied by slow jazz (and pot and amyl nitrate). Said to be Danish, this was apparently made in Hollywood with fake credits and a 50s Danish pop song added. The (awful) "dubbing" was supervised by Lee Frost, and the color is faded.

RIDE IN THE WHIRLWIND

(VidAmerica, 1965) D/P: Monte Hellman
S/P/A: Jack Nicholson

Roger Corman received no credit but backed this effective "existential" western shot in Utah. Cameron Mitchell and Jack Nicholson are cowboys who are mistaken for outlaws and pursued by vigilantes. Millie Perkins and Harry Dean Stanton are featured. Nicholson did four movies with Monte Hellman. This was made back to back with The Shooting (also with Nicholson and Perkins). Few Americans saw either until they were released on video.

RIDER ON THE RAIN

(1970) D: René Clement S: Sebastian Japrisot, Lorenzo Ventavoli P: Serge Silberman
France/Italy (Le Passager de la Pluie)

Charles Bronson stars in a Hitchcock-type murder mystery as an American in the South of France who's after an escaped sex maniac. It was a big hit in France and was released here by Avco Embassy. With Marlene Jobert, Jill Ireland, and Gabriele Tinti. Capitol released the Francis Lai soundtrack.

RIDERS OF THE STORM

(Nelson, 1985) D: Maurice Phillips S: Scott Roberts P: Laurie Keller, Paul Cowan UK (The American Way)

Some pot-smoking Nam vets in an old B-29 that never leaves the sky jam right-wing TV broadcasts. Dennis Hopper is the captain, and Michael J. Pollard is on board. This misfire political satire includes a religious-TV parody, clips from old movies (including The Devil's Bride and Captain Blood), and clips of Jimi Hendrix and the Kinks. The new rock songs are mediocre. The right-wing female presidential candidate is played by a man (Nigel Pegram). The American version is 15 minutes shorter than the British, which is probably a good thing.

RINGO AND HIS GOLDEN PISTOL

(VSOM, 1966) D: Sergio Corbucci S: Adriano Bolzoni, Franco Rozzetti P: Joseph Fryd Italy (Johnny Oro)

Mark Damon (The House of Usher) stars as a bounty hunter with lots of dynamite, in this western featuring Valeria Fabrizi and Franco De Rosa. Damon was in many European movies directed by Mario Bava, Jesús Franco, Umberto Lenzi, Riccardo Freda, and others before becoming a successful producer.

RING OF FEAR

(1954) D: James Edward Grant
S: Paul Fix P: Robert M. Fellows

In this odd Warner Cinemascope feature, famous lion tamer Clyde Beatty (playing himself) hires famous writer Mickey Spillane (playing himself) to solve a murder mystery. Sean McClory is the Irish psycho killer. Also featured are Pat O'Brien, Marian Carr, Kenneth Tobey, and John Bromfield. The Clyde Beatty Circus footage is all real. It was produced by John Wayne's company, Batjac Productions, and directed by a screenwriter of several Wayne hits. Spillane also starred (as Mike Hammer) in The Girl Hunters (1963).

RING OF FIRE

(Imperial, 1991) D: Richard W. Munchkin
S: Steve Tymon P: Joseph Merhi, Richard Pepin

Don "the Dragon" Wilson stars as mild-mannered Dr. Johnny Wu in Venice. He falls for Maria Ford and is forced to seek revenge using martial arts. With Gary Daniels, Ian Jacklin, Vince Murdocco, and Lisa Saxton. Wilson was also in Out for Blood, by the same producers.

RING OF FIRE II: BLOOD AND STEEL

(PM, 1992) D: Richard W. Munchkin
S: Steve Tymon P: Joseph Merhi, Richard Pepin

Don "the Dragon" Wilson returns as Dr. Johnny Wu, who is forced to fight after his fiancée (Maria Ford) is kidnapped and taken to a secret tunnel city underneath LA. The plot copies Escape from New York and various post-nuke-look movies. With Sy Richardson as a Nam vet, Ian Jacklin, Dale Jacoby, and Evan Lurie.

RING OF FIRE III: LION STRIKE

(PM, 1995) D: Rick Jacobson
P: Joseph Merhi, Richard Pepin

Dr. Johnny Wu (Don "the Dragon" Wilson again) is on vacation with his son (his real-life son Jonathan Wilson). He meets a forest ranger (Bobbie Philips, from TC2000) and has to battle Mafia assassins who work for Robert Costanza and are after a computer disk.

RING OF STEEL

(MCA, 1994) D: David Frost S/A: Robert Chapin P: David Speaker, Alan M. Solomon

Richard Chapin stars as a fencing champ with long blond hair. Joe Don Baker (in all-black clothes) runs an illegal underground nightclub. Gary Kasper and Carol Alt are featured.

RIOT

(Paramount, 1969) D: Buzz Kulik
S: James Poe P: William Castle

Jim Brown and Gene Hackman are prisoners who take some guards hostage. Hackman convinces everybody that he wants to improve prison conditions, but he's just trying to escape, alone. Brown enjoys a dream sequence, and the prison has a transvestite "queens' row." It was filmed at the Arizona State Penitentiary with the real governor, warden, and inmates. With Ben Carruthers and Mike Kellin. Alan Rudolph was the assistant director. William Castle also produced Rosemary's Baby at Paramount. Brown returned to prison in The Slams (1973).

RIOT IN CELL BLOCK 11

(Republic, 1953) D: Don Siegel
S: Richard Collins P: Walter Wanger

One of the great prison movies stars Neville Brand and a psychotic Leo Gordon (an ex-con in real life) as leaders of the riot. Producer Walter Wanger had served a short sentence for shooting the agent of his wife, actress Joan Bennett, not long before he backed this movie. The all-male cast includes Emile Meyer as the warden, Robert Osterloh, Frank Faylen, Alvy Moore, and Jonathan Hale. Paul Frees and Whit Bissell are guards held hostage. Allied Artists announced that it would be shot in 3-D, but it wasn't. It was filmed at the real Folsom Prison, though.

RIOT ON 42ND ST.

(1987) D/S: Tim Kincaide P: Cynthia De Paula

Jeff Fahey (soon to go on to bigger projects), Frances Raines, Kate Collins, and Ron Van Cleef are all in this barely released exploitation movie by the director of Breeders and Bad Girls Dormitory. Raines was in all of them.

RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT

(1982–86)

Jack Palance was a good choice to host this TV series. While introducing strange but real stories he often acted out scenes in such an out-of-control, hysterical way that he seemed just a few steps from the loony bin. He got to travel around the world for location shoots, and for two years his own daughter Holly was the cohost. For the last season the cohost was Marie Osmond! There are 6 volumes running 23 minutes each. Ripley himself had hosted a 1949 version but died during production. Ripley's Believe It or Not (Turner, 1994) is a very interesting feature-length documentary on Ripley with an actor (Richard Portnow) playing the eccentric, rich, and very famous Ripley looking back on his own unusual life. It includes many vintage clips.

THE RIP-OFF

(Worldvision, 1975) D: "Anthony M. Dawson"/ Antonio Margheretti S: Giovanni Simonelli, Mark Princi, Paul Costello US/ Italy (The Big Rip-Off; The Squeeze)

Lee Van Cleef stars in this crime movie about a diamond heist partially shot in NYC. He plans one last job. Edward Albert, Lionel Stander, Robert Alda, and Karen Black costar.

THE RIPPER

(United, 1985) D: Christopher Lewis
S: Bill Groves P: Linda Lewis

It was shot on video in Tulsa, it's gory, and Tom Savini acts for several minutes. A film professor teaching a course on famous criminals is possessed by Jack the Ripper. There's a plug for Blood Cult, from the same Oklahoma filmmakers.

THE RISE AND FALL OF LEGS DIAMOND

(1960) D: Budd Boetticher S: Joseph Landon P: Milton Sperling

Ray Danton stars as Depression-era gangster Jack "Legs" Diamond, in one of many early-60s b/w gangster movies inspired by the TV series The Untouchables. With Karen Steele, Elaine Stewart, Jesse White, Simon Oakland, and Robert Lowery as Arnold Rothstein, and look for Warren Oates and Dyan Cannon. Danton played the role again in Portrait of a Mobster (1961). This was released by Warner.

RISING STORM

(1988) D: Francis Schaeffer S: Gary Rosen, William Fray P: Jay Davidson, James Buchfuehrer (Rebel Waves)

In 2009 the US is run by a fascist, anti-rock-and-roll TV evangelist. Zach Galligan and Wayne Crawford join freedom fighters June Chadwick and Elizabeth Keifer on the run from sadistic John Rhys-Davies. William Katt is also featured. This post-nuke spoof was filmed in South Africa.

RISING SUN

(Fox, 1993) D/S: Philip Kaufman S: Michael Crichton, Michael Backes P: Peter Kaufman

A police detective (Wesley Snipes) and a zen master (Sean Connery) investigate the death of a hooker in a Japanese-owned skyscraper in LA. This controversial hit based on Michael Crichton's bestseller shows the dirty business tactics and customs of Japanese businessmen in America but condemns Americans a lot more. Both stars are in kung-fu fight scenes, and there's some good high-tech stuff about altering reality with video, a crowd-pleasing barrio-attack scene, and some nudity. Tia Carrere is a half-Japanese computer technician, Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa is a playboy suspect, Harvey Keitel is a corrupt LA cop, and Ray Wise is a corrupt senator. Mako, Steve Buscemi, and Clyde Kusatsu are also featured. The production design is by Dean Tavoularis. It's from 20th Century–Fox.

THE RISK

(1959) D: John Boulting, Roy Boulting S: Nigel Balchin UK (Suspect)

Spies are after Professor Sewell (Peter Cushing), who has developed a germ that can end bubonic plague. The government is afraid that the discovery will be used for germ warfare. Tony Britton stars in this b/w movie, with Virginia Maskell, Ian Bannen as a one-armed traitor, Thorley Walters, Donald Pleasence, and Spike Milligan. Cushing was in The Mummy and Mania (with Pleasence) the same year.

THE RITES OF DRACULA:

See THE SATANIC RITES OF DRACULA

RITUAL OF DEATH

(Complete, 1990) D: Fauzi Mansur S: Filipe Grecco, Anthony Roark P: J. Davila Brazil

It's loaded with sex, gore, goo, flashbacks, flash-forwards, and hallucinations. It would get an X here if rated and shows the influence of Dario Argento and Brazilian horror director and star Marins. There's even a Satanic character (he resembles Marins) who writes a horror play and has bloody sex in a bathtub with a woman and a goat's head. The stage-actor hero becomes possessed because of some hairy book. He eats raw meat, and frogs appear (!?). He acquires a giant zit, mutates, and kills the other actors, while a black cop investigates. The soundtrack is filled with loud screams, and it all ends with a basement full of screaming, moaning bodies. It's very strange and was mostly filmed in some very interesting locations.

RITUALS

(Embassy, 1978) D: Peter Carter S: Ian Sutherland P/A: Lawrence Dane Canada (The Creeper)

On a wilderness vacation five doctors face death by bear trap, fire, hornets, and decapitation. Some disfigured killers are to blame. Hal Holbrook and Lawrence Dane star in this Deliverance copy.

RIVER OF DEATH

(Warner, 1989) D: Steve Carver S: Andrew Deutsch, Edward Sampson P: Harry Alan Towers, Avi Lerner S. Africa

Michael Dudikoff is an American tour guide searching for a captured girl in the Amazon jungle. The plot of this movie, based on an Alistair MacLean novel, concerns Nazis developing a deadly virus. The victims have boils and lots of pus. The filmmakers also throw in mercenaries, Israeli Nazi hunters, cannibals, boxing dwarfs, and a lost city. Robert Vaughn, Donald Pleasence, Herbert Lom, and L.Q. Jones all costar with Sarah Maur-Thorp.

RIVER OF DIAMONDS

(Turner, 1989) D: Robert J. Shawley S/P: Hans Kuhle S: Ian Yule Germany/S. Africa

This ripoff of the Indiana Jones movies is about a search for diamonds in the 60s. Dack Rambo and Ferdy Mayne star with Angela O'Neill.

RIVER'S EDGE

(Embassy, 1986) D: Tim Hunter S: Neal Jimenez P: Sarah Pillsbury, Midge Sanford

Some bored and alienated kids live in a small town in Oregon. One of them kills a girl. Based on a real incident, this is one of the great 80s teen movies. Crispin Glover is the main scene-stealer as Layne, and Dennis Hopper is Feck, a one-legged ex-biker with a plastic sex doll. Keanu Reeves and Ione Skye Leitch (who was 14) are the only ones who think something should be done. Daniel Roebuck is the killer, who says it doesn't matter that he killed somebody. Joshua Miller (who was 11), Roxana Zal, and Leo Rossi are also featured. Sarah Pillsbury produced Desperately Seeking Susan. Tim Hunter went on to direct some Twin Peaks episodes and Paint It Black. This is an Island production. The Enigma soundtrack includes tracks by Slayer, Agent Orange, and Burning Spear.

Crispin Glover and Dennis Hopper in River's Edge.

THE RIVER WILD

(MCA, 1994) D: Curtis Hanson S: Denis O'Neill P: David Foster, Lawrence Turman

A family is taken hostage by killer thieves (Kevin Bacon and John C. Reilly) during a rafting vacation in the Pacific Northwest. Meryl Streep (then 45 years old) stars as the Boston history teacher who used to be a river guide. David Straithairn is her architect husband, Joseph Mazzello (Jurassic Park) is their son, and Buffy is their dog. This expensive ($45 million) PG-13 Deliverance-type Universal release was shot in Montana and Oregon (subbing for Idaho). Jerry Goldsmith wrote the score.

ROAD HOUSE

(CBS, 1948) D: Jean Negulesco S/P: Edward Chodorov

Richard Widmark is the psychotic Jefty, owner of a backwoods road house managed by Cornel Wilde. Ida Lupino is hired to sing there, and Jefty decides that he owns her. This 20th Century–Fox release also features Celeste Holm, O.Z. Whitehead, and Robert Karnes. It's Widmark's third movie, after Kiss of Death (1947) and The Street with No Name (1948).

ROAD HOUSE

(MGM, 1989) D: Rowdy Harrington S: David Lee Henry, Hilary Henkin P: Joel Silver

Patrick Swayze stars as a college-educated bouncer who uses martial arts to keep the peace in a honky-tonk Kansas City bar. Kelly Lynch becomes his girlfriend, and grizzled Sam Elliott shows up to help. Ben Gazzara is a sadistic local gangster who sends his goons around to cause more trouble. The movie has violent brawls and lots of Playboy centerfold models as waitresses and topless dancers. The Jeff Healey Band has to play behind chicken wire.

With John Doe (from the rock group X), Kathleen Wilhoite, Kim Herrin, Terri Lynn Doss, Kym Malin, Laura Albert, Christina Veronica, Heidi Payne, Julie Michaels, and Jasae. Arista released the soundtrack. It's by the director of Jack's Back.

ROADHOUSE 66

(Key, 1984) D: John Mark Robinson S: Galen Lee, George Simpson P: Scott M. Rosenfelt, Mark Levinson

Willem Dafoe hitchhikes and is picked up by Judge Reinhold in a '55 T-Bird. The car breaks down in an Arizona town, and they stay for the racing and the girls (Kate Vernon and Kaaren Lee).

ROAD HUSTLERS

(1968) D: Larry E. Jackson S: Robert Baron P: Robert M. Newson

A man (Jim Davis) and his three sons run an illegal liquor business and have to battle the sheriff (Andy Devine) and local gangsters led by Scott Brady. Robert Dix is one of the sons, and Victoria Carroll is Nadine, a "playgirl." Also featured are Sue Rainey and John Cardos. All of the main actors (except for Devine) were also in Al Adamson movies around the same time. This AIP release was filmed in the Carolinas.

ROADIE

(Woos Knapp, 1980) D: Alan Rudolph S: Big Boy Medlin P: Carolyn Pfeiffer

Meat Loaf stars as a Texas mechanic who becomes a roadie. He and Kaki Hunter (from Porky's and its sequels) want to meet Alice Cooper. This comedy with rock music costars Art Carney, and the cast also includes Sonny Carl Davis, Don Cornelius as a rock-show producer, Joe Spano, Debbie Harry and Blondie, Roy Orbison, and Hank Williams Jr. A double soundtrack was issued by Warner. Zalman King was the executive producer of this United Artists release.

ROADKILL

(1989) D/P/A: Bruce McDonald S/A: Don McKellar P: Colin Brunton Canada

This is a good b/w cosmic road/journey movie in the Jim Jarmusch vein. The naive Ramona (Valerie Buhagiar, who narrates) is sent by her boss in Toronto to "terminate" the tour of the Children of Paradise, a rock band. Her journey involves a pot-smoking cabdriver, a would-be serial killer, a drive-in theater, an underage boy, a hot-dog vendor who has taken a vow of silence, and a van full of documentary filmmakers who want her to star in their film and who make her drive despite the dead muskrats on the road: "If you wanna drive, you gotta kill." She goes all the way north to Thunder Bay, where everything comes together. The Ramones, Cowboy Junkies, and the Paupers are heard, Nash the Slash plays and burns his violin, and Joey Ramone appears as himself. The video and soundtrack are available in Canada.

THE ROAD KILLERS

(Live, 1993) D: Deren Serafian S: Tedi Serafian

Roadshows

Back in the 20s and up through the 50s, any movie that did not have the U.S. government's censor approval was not allowed in regular respectable theaters. The rules and the themes changed over the years, but a whole industry existed that showed Americans what they weren't supposed to see and/or ripped them off with misleading ad campaigns. Kroger Babb from Ohio was the king of these features. The distributors drove from town to town with prints (often ripped off from their competitors) and used carny advertising techniques to pack the house. Some shows were segregated by sex. Birth-of-baby movies were big draws for years, as were many features about drugs, alcohol abuse, and sex, the biggest draw of them all. Freaks, made by MGM, was a roadshow hit for years. Many of these wonders of another age are now on tape.

In what's practically a remake of Hot Rods to Hell (1967), Craig Sheffer leads a group of young Southwestern psychos who terrorize motorists in the desert and kidnap a teen girl. Christopher Lambert has the Dana Andrews avenging-dad role and Adrienne Shelly has the Mimsy Farmer role. With David Arquette, Michelle Forbes, Christopher McDonald (also in Kalifornia), plus the director's father, Richard Serafian (who directed Vanishing Point back in '71). Miramax declined to release this theatrically, but when it came out on tape in 1995 it fit right in with countless other serial killer/road movies. Serafian followed with Gunmen (1994) and Terminal Velocity (1995).

ROAD-KILL U.S.A.

(AIP, 1993) D/S/P: Tony Ellwood S: Mark Kimray P: Tony Locklear

For a change the hitchhiker character, Josh (Sean Bridges), is a nice, fairly naive college student, and Clint and Marla (Andrew Porter and Deanna Perry), the couple who pick him up, turn out to be psycho killers. Everybody talks a lot, lots of people die (including a clown), and a cheap-motel owner and rapist has his mouth and nose sealed with Crazy Glue. There's some good, disturbing instrumental music, and some of the songs are by Hillbilly Frankenstein. It's by the North Carolina makers of The Killer.

"ROAD LAWYERS" AND OTHER BRIEFS

(AIP, 1990) D/S/P: David Lipmann, Robert Rhine D/S/A: Tim Doyle

This video has three comic student shorts. "Road Lawyers" (1987), which features some stop/motion animation, is about lawyers. In "Escape from Heaven" (1989), made at USC, a nun goes to Purgatory for a venial sin. "Hairline" (1982) has bald men in a freak show. Also included is Radar Men from the Moon (1952), edited down and with new comic dialogue. A prologue was added in 1990.

ROAD RACERS

(1958) D: Arthur Swerdloff
S/P: Stanley Kallis S: Ed Lasko

The gung-ho father of Rob, a Monterey race-car driver (Joel Lawrence), blames him for a death and sponsors a rival racer. Rob drinks, and a love triangle develops, in the soap-opera-style plot. Sally Fraser (The Spider and War of the Colossal Beast) is Rob's sister, and Marian Collier is a singer in a bar. Skip Ward is also featured. The best parts of this b/w AIP teen-appeal movie are the excellent pre-psychedelic race scenes using stills, negative images, and repeated dialogue. The director made documentaries. The theme song is "Leadfoot." RCA planned to release this on video but didn't.

ROADRACERS

(1994) D/S/E: Robert Rodriguez
S: Tommy Nix P: Debra Hill, Lou Arkoff

David Arquette, who wants to play the guitar like Link Wray, dates Salma Hayek. He's in trouble with a gang led by Jason Wiles and a sadistic sheriff (William Sadler). Lance LeGault and Helen Shaver are her parents. Also featured are Kevin McCarthy, John Hawkes, and Johnny Reno (who scored the rock music) as the bandleader. There's a skating-rink action scene, the original Invasion of the Body Snatchers is showing at a theater, and vintage Wray instrumentals are heard. This first aired as part of a series (Rebel Highway) of 10 Showtime movies using the names and some plot elements of AIP 50s jd movies. It's by the accomplished young director of El Mariachi. The A&M series soundtrack is new cover versions of 50s hits by people like Hasil Atkins and Charlie Sexton.

ROADSIDE PROPHETS

(New Line, 1992) D/S: Abbe Wool P: Peter McCarthy

John Doe (from the rock group X) takes his motorcycle from LA to the El Dorado casino in Nevada carrying the ashes of a guy who was zapped by a video machine. Adam Horovitz (from the Beastie Boys) keeps showing up and tries to imitate him. Doe is low-key, and Horovitz almost does Jerry Lewis. They run into various (60s-based) characters, and Easy Rider references abound. David Carradine singing, smoking a bong, and telling a story is the acting highlight. With Ellie Raab as an exotic dancer, Barton Heyman, Stephen Tobolowsky, Timothy Leary, Arlo Guthrie, and John Cusack eating a lot. The soundtrack includes cuts by the Beastie Boys, Harry Dean Stanton, and others. The director wrote Alex Cox's best movies, but this is no Repo Man, and the "straight" characters are too cartoonish.

ROAD TO HONG KONG

(MCA, 1962) D/S: Norman Panama
S/P: Melvin Frank UK

In the last movie in the popular comedy series a mad scientist tries to rule the world from the moon. Bob Hope and Bing Crosby, plus guest star Dorothy Lamour as herself, end up on the planet Plutonium, where they meet Frank Sinatra and Dean Martin at the end. With Joan Collins as a spy, Robert Morley, and bits by Peter Sellers, David Niven, and Jerry Colonna. Lippert issued the soundtrack of this United Artists release. Hope, Crosby, and Lamour's first had been Road to Singapore, 22 years earlier. It and three others in the series are also on video (MCA).

THE ROAD TO MANDALAY

(Fright, 1926) D: Tod Browning S: Eliot Clawson

Lon Chaney (with great dead-eyes makeup) is the ugly Singapore Joe, a tough criminal ("I ought to slit your tongue!") in Southeast Asia with a dwarf assistant. Rosemary (17-year-old Lois Moran) is a shop owner who doesn't know that she's his daughter. He tries to prevent her from marrying a smuggler (Owen Moore) by having him shanghaied and sent "back where he belongs, with the yellows, blacks, and browns." Sojin is the smiling, knife-throwing Charlie Wing, and Henry B. Walthall is a reverend. The story that was the basis of the script of this MGM release was written by Tod Browning and Herman Mankiewicz. The video has a musical score, but the visual quality is poor. You can't see the next Browning/Chaney movie (London After Midnight) at all, so this video release is welcome.

THE ROAD TO RUIN

(Sinister, 1933) D/S/P: Mrs. Wallace Reid
D: Melville Shyer

Girls smoke pot, drink, play strip crap games, and swim naked. "Sex delinquent" Ann (Helen Foster) gets pregnant, has an abortion, and dies. Grant Withers is also featured. This is a 57-minute remake of a 45-minute silent movie from 1928. Actor Wallace Reid's wife, actress Dorothy Davenport, made this adults-only warning because of his death from a drug overdose in 1923. She had also been in the similar Human Wreckage (1923). The daughter of silent-film comedienne Alice Davenport and character actor Harry Davenport, she acted from 1909 to 1926, then went on to produce, direct, and write until the 50s, using the name Dorothy Reid.

David Carradine, John Doe, and Adam Horovitz in Roadside Prophets.

ROAD TO SALINA

(Charter, 1971) D/S: Georges Lautner S: Pascal Jardin, Jack Miller P: Joseph E. Levine France/Italy
(Sur le Route de Salina)

Rita Hayworth runs a roadside gas station and café. She thinks that a drifter (Robert Walker Jr.) is her lost son. Her blond daughter (Mimsy Farmer) has an affair with him. This movie has drugs, sex, and nudity. Even the cut version on local TV is one of the most surprising things I've ever seen. Unlike The Naked Zoo (also with Hayworth), which is sleazy exploitation, this is actually a good, very underrated movie. Also with Ed Begley (in his last role), who does the frug with Hayworth, and Sophie Hardy. It was a widescreen Avco Embassy release.

ROAR!

(1981) D/S/P/A: Noel Marshall

This family home movie reportedly took 11 years and $17 million to finish! The production was stopped by floods, fires, and injuries. Tippi Hedren's husband directs, and they both star. She plays a woman who takes her kids (her real-life sons John and Jerry Marshall and daughter Melanie Griffith) to Africa (really the couple's Soledad, California, animal preserve) to visit their father, an eccentric scientist they haven't seen in years. This comedy/adventure is very pro-wildlife. Griffith was mauled by a lion during filming in 1977 and had to have plastic surgery.

ROBBERS OF THE SACRED MOUNTAIN

(Prism, 1982) D: Bob Schulz S: Olaf Pooley
P: Keith Rothman Canada (Falcon's Gold)

John Marley stars as an archaeologist who goes to Mexico to investigate a statue of a fertility goddess. This Raiders of the Lost Ark copy features Simon MacCorkindale and debuted on Showtime.

THE ROBE

(Fox, 1953) D: Henry Kostner
S: Philip Dunne P: Frank Ross

Richard Burton is a Roman tribune who wins Christ's Crucifixion garment in a dice game, then begins to think that it's cursed. This 20th Century–Fox hit was the first Cinemascope feature. Jean Simmons costars, with Victor Mature as Demetrius, Michael Rennie as Peter, and Jay Robinson, memorable as the crazed Caligula. Also featured are Jeff Morrow, Dean Jagger, Torin Thatcher, Richard Boone, Betta St. John, Ernest Thesiger, Dawn Addams, Michael Ansara, and Frank De Kova. It's based on the best-selling novel by Lloyd C. Douglas and received five Oscar nominations. Mature returned in Demetrius and the Gladiators, a sequel.

ROBERT A. HEINLEIN'S THE PUPPETMASTERS

(Buena Vista, 1994) D: Stuart Orme S: Ted Elliot, Terry Rossio, David S. Goyer P: Ralph Winter (The Puppet Masters)

Alien parasites take over humans in an adaptation of Robert Heinlein's 1951 novel serialized in Galaxy magazine. It's much better than the somewhat similar Body Snatchers remake (also 1994) and uses simple, old-fashioned FX. Eric Thal stars as the son of Donald Sutherland, both with the Office of Scientific Intelligence. Everything takes place in Iowa (Des Moines locations were used) and Washington D.C. With Julie Warner as a scientist, Keith David, Will Patton, Richard Belzer, Yaphet Kotto, Marshall Bell, and Andy Robinson. It was the first feature by a British director of rock videos and TV movies. A Buena Vista Hollywood release. The Brain Eaters (1958) was based on the same novel.

ROBIN HOOD

(Fox, 1991) D: John Irvin S: Mark Allan Smith, John McGrath P: Sarah Radclyffe

Patrick Bergin stars as Robin Hood, with Uma Thurman as Maid Marian, Edward Fox as Prince John, Jurgen Prochnow, and Jeroen Krabbe. This version of the familiar tale debuted on TV before the Kevin Costner movie Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves (1991) and originally ran 150 minutes. It played theatrically in Europe. Bergin also starred in Frankenstein (1992), which debuted on TV before Mary Shelley's "Frankenstein" was released.

ROBIN HOOD: MEN IN TIGHTS

(Fox, 1993) D/S/P/A: Mel Brooks S: J. David Shapiro, Evan Chandler

Cary Elwes stars in this PG-13 spoof of Robin Hood: Prince of Thieves (and various older movies), which also copies Mel Brooks' own short-lived TV series When Things Were Rotten (1975). Brooks was a lot funnier in the 70s. Richard Lewis is the evil Prince John, Roger Rees is the sheriff of Nottingham, and Amy Yasbeck is Maid Marian. With Isaac Hayes, Tracey Ullman, Mark Blankfield, Dom DeLuise, Chuck McCann, Clive Revill, Dick Van Patten, Patrick Stewart as King Richard, and Brooks as Rabbi Tuchman.

ROBIN HOOD: PRINCE OF THIEVES

(Warner, 1991) D: Kevin Reynolds S/P: John Watson, Pen Densham

Kevin Costner stars in the biggest and (at 141 minutes) the longest Robin Hood movie of all time. Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio is Maid Marian, Morgan Freeman is the Moor Azeem, and Alan Rickman stands out as the evil sheriff of Nottingham. Also featured are Christian Slater, guest star Sean Connery as King Richard, Geraldine McEwan, and Brian Blessed. From Warner. Earlier versions star Douglas Fairbanks (1922), Errol Flynn (1938), Russell Hicks (1946), Jon Hall (1948), Robert Clarke (1951), Richard Todd (1952), Richard Greene (1960), Sean Connery (1976), and many others.

ROBINSON CRUSOE OF CLIPPER ISLAND

(VY, Sinister, 1936) D: Mack J. Wright, Ray Taylor S: Morgan Cox, Barry Shipman, Maurice Geraghty

Mala, a real native of the South Seas, stars as Mala, in this 13-chapter Republic serial. A machine makes a volcano erupt and various bad guys and spies disrupt an island paradise. With Rex and Buck as Rex and Buck, Mamo Clark as Princess Melani, Herbert Rawlinson, and Selmer Jackson. A condensed version is called Manhunt on Mystery Island. Mala is also in the serial Hawk of the Wilderness (1938) as an Indian.

ROBO C.H.I.C.: See CYBER C.H.I.C.

ROBOCOP

(Orion, 1987) D: Paul Verhoeven S: Edward Neumeier, Michael Miner P: Arne Schmidt M: Basil Poledouris

The first Hollywood film by the biggest director in Holland is a classic. Few movies have so successfully combined all-out action, science fiction, and very pointed political satire. Seeing it in a large, packed Times Square theater was a special experience. The whole audience was excited all the way through. Peter Weller is Murphy, a Detroit cop in the near future who is brought back from near death as a crime-fighting robot (created by Rob Bottin). Ed 209, another fantastic (animated) robot, malfunctions violently during a board-room meeting. Daniel O'Herlihy and Ronnie Cox are corporate villains, and Kurtwood Smith is excellent as a gang leader. Some of the TV commercials that frequently interrupt the action are classics in themselves. With Nancy Allen, Miguel Ferrer, Robert DoQui, Ray Wise, and Leeza Gibbons. It was filmed in Dallas and had to be cut for an R rating. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande. The Making of Robocop (UAV) was also released. Sequels, a cartoon series, and a TV series followed. The director did Total Recall next.

Nancy Allen and Peter Weller in Robocop.

ROBOCOP 2

(Orion, 1990) D: Irvin Kershner S: Frank Miller, Walon Green P: Jon Davison M: Leonard Rosenman

It cost a reported $28 million (twice the original) and brought back the major stars, but this sequel totally missed the point. It's more violent and nasty, but the humor is gone. Peter Weller returns, with Nancy Allen and Daniel O'Herlihy. The animation during the end battle with two robots is excellent. With Tom Noonan (spreading a drug called Nuke), Gabriel Damon as a 12-year-old gangster, Belinda Bauer, Patricia Charbonneau, Fabiane Udewid, and John Glover (in a bit part). It was the first movie in many years by the director of The Empire Strikes Back. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande. A real-life psycho who killed six people claimed that he copied a slashing in this movie.

ROBOCOP 3

(Orion, 1991) D/S: Fred Dekker S: Frank Miller P: Patrick Crowley

Robocop (Robert Burke, from Dust Devil) eventually switches sides and fights for the rebel underground (just like in Demolition Man). He also teams with a computer-whiz orphan girl (Remy Ryan) and a scientist (Jill Hennessy). An evil Japanese corporation led by Mako (on a TV screen) joins with Omni Consumer Products (led by Rip Torn), and they use silly-looking "splatter punks" to drive out Detroit residents. This sequel has more comedy and (with a PG-13 rating) less violence. Robocop can fly with a jet pack and fights a cyborg samurai in one scene. With CCH Pounder as the leader of the freedom fighters, Nancy Allen, Felton Perry, and Robert DoQui from the previous movies, and James Lorinz in a small role. There are brief flashbacks from the previous movies. It played overseas first, then was finally released here in 1993.

ROBOCOP: THE SERIES—THE FUTURE OF LAW ENFORCEMENT

(Orion, 1994) D: Paul Lynch S: Edward Neumeier P: J. Miles Dale Canada

This expensive syndicated series pilot stars Richard Eden as Robocop and Yvette Nipar as his partner, Lisa. Cliff De Young is the recurring villain, Dr. Malardo, a scientist working for Omni Consumer Products. Andrea Roth and David Garber are also featured. The short-lived series returned to the fun TV commercials from the first movie, but was pretty toned down compared to any of the movies and had more cartoonish characters and laughs than action or violence. Other (one-hour) episodes are also on tape.

ROBOFORCE

(VSOM, 1988) D: Chung Chi Man D/S/P/A: Tsui Hark S: Yuen Kai Chi P/A: John Sham Hong Kong (I Love Maria)

In this nonstop comedy/action/science-fiction movie Sally Yeh plays the villainess, Maria, and her robot double, who joins the good guys. Tsui Hark is an alcoholic petty criminal working with a comic cop. A giant, clunky, noisy robot fights a sleek, pretty one. Tony Yeung costars in this Golden Harvest release. Another Hong Kong movie (with more sex) is called Robotrix (Star, 1991).

ROBO MAN = WHO?

ROBOT HOLOCAUST

(Lightning, 1986) D/S: Tim Kincaid P: Cynthia De Paula

This was the first then-recent movie deemed bad enough to be shown on Comedy Central's Mystery Science Theater 3000. In the future, after the robots have rebelled, hand-puppet worm monsters appear. Norris Culf stars, with Angelika Jager as the villainess, Jennifer Delora, Joel Von Ornsteiner, and Amy Bretano. It was made in NYC and uses Ed French FX.

ROBOT JOX

(RCA/Columbia, 1987) D: Stuart Gordon
S: Joe Haldeman P: Albert Band (Robojox)

In post-nuke Siberia televised "games" are played by heroes inside giant transformer-type robots. The losers are crushed. After 300 spectators are killed when the "good" robot falls on them Achilles (Gary Graham), the hero inside, quits. Athena, a determined synthetic black woman "tubie" (Anne-Marie Johnson), tries to replace him, but sabotage causes more problems. Paul Koslo is the Russian villain. This PG-rated adventure filmed in Italy has great David Allen robots but is not what anyone would expect from the director of Re-Animator. Also featured are Carolyn Purdy-Gordon, Robert Sampson, and Jeffrey Combs in a bit part. Characters say, "Crash and burn," the name of Albert Band's other then-recent robot movie, which uses leftover FX scenes from this one. Characters also say "Robojox," the original title, changed for legal reasons after the makers of Robocop movies objected. Robot Wars is sort of a sequel.

ROBOT NINJA

(Cinema Home, 1989) D/S/P/M: J. R. Bookwalter

A scientist (Michael Todd) helps a comic-book artist become his own creation to track down a killer-rapist gang in a small town. This cheap gore comedy with Batman gags has "special appearances" by Burt Ward and Linnea Quigley, and Scott Spiegel is in there too. It was made in Ohio by the director of The Dead Next Door. David DeCoteau was the executive producer.

ROBOT WARS

(Paramount, 1993) D: Albert Band
S: Jackson Barr P: Charles Band

In this forgettable sort of sequel to Robot Jox and Crash and Burn, Don Michael Paul is a smart-mouthed captain with a comic sidekick named Stumpy (James Staley). Barbara Crampton as a scientist is the love interest. A giant, scorpion-like passenger robot is attacked, and a conspiracy is discovered involving evil Japanese and toxic waste. Part of the "action" economically takes place in "a 1940s ghost town." David Allen did the FX.

ROCK AND ROLL MOBSTER GIRLS

(Phoenix, 1988) D/S/E: Rick Werner
P/A: Fred Hopkins

Up in Seattle, "back in the early 80s," the five-member Doll Squad, led by Linx Lapaz, can't find work and have to get food from restaurant dumpsters. They decide to sign with a notorious local promoter, psycho Bruno Multrock, played convincingly by producer Fred Hopkins. Filmed in "Perform-Vision," in semi-documentary style, local rock stars are interviewed and bands play in clubs in between plot segments. Scott McCaughey (from the Young Fresh Fellows) and Jeff Simmons (who did the Straight Label soundtrack for The Naked Angels) are interview highlights. One band plays The Arrows' "Blue's Theme." Cheesy MOR organ music is usually heard in the background. An effective dream sequence uses old home movies and crude animation, and long, narrated scenes of cars on a highway seem to be a nod to Glen or Glenda. Bruno has people butchered and talks to his brother's head, and at the end his decapitated body still makes the rounds of clubs. The Doll Squad does one entire song, "Psycho Girls." At one point some people are stuck listening to a mutant landlord rant for what seems like an hour. Then a title says "15 minutes later," and he continues. Funny idea, but what this tape desperately needed was an editor. Even if you were part of the Seattle scene yourself you'll wish it were half as long.

ROCK AND RULE

(MGM, 1983) D: Clive A. Smith S: Peter Sauder, John Halfpenny P: Patrick Loubert, Michael Hersch

This PG animated post-nuke movie is about mutants and a rock star's search for immortality. Heavy Metal is better. The main voices are by Don Franks, Susan Roman, Paul Le Mat, Sam Langevin, and Catherine O'Hara. The songs are by Iggy Pop, Debbie Harry, Lou Reed, Cheap Trick, and others.

ROCK 'N' ROLL HIGH SCHOOL FOREVER

(Live, 1990) D/S: Deborah Brock P: Jed Horovitz

In this pointless sequel to the Roger Corman–produced 1979 cult hit Rock 'n' Roll High School Corey Feldman (with a ponytail) has a band, sings, and dances. Mary Woronov (from the original) is Dr. Vadar, the dominatrix principal of Ronald Reagan High School, who has a metal hand with a whip attached. With Larry Linville (from the TV series *M*A*S*H*) as the principal, Mojo Nixon, food fights, and pranks with video cameras and cellular phones. The school blows up like in the original, and oldies are on the SBK soundtrack. Worth Keeter was the second-unit director.

ROCK 'N' ROLL NIGHTMARE

(Academy, 1987) D: John Fasano S/P/A: Jon-Mikl Thor Canada (The Edge of Hell)

Members of a heavy-metal band practicing in a barn studio are killed. Band singer Jon-Mikl Thor is really the archangel Triton, and he has to battle a skeleton Satan while wearing a jeweled loincloth, heavy eye makeup, and teased blond hair. This has lots of music and puppet monsters. It's rated PG-13. Thor also stars in Zombie Nightmare. You might want to experience a double bill.

ROCK AROUND THE WORLD

(1957) D: Gerard Bryant S: Norman Hinds P: Nat Cohen, Stuart Levy
UK (The Tommy Steele Story)

Nobody in America cared when AIP released this nearly plotless musical about the blond early British rocker Tommy Steele, but in his homeland he was a big deal before Cliff Richard came along, with hits from 1956 to 1961. The songs here include "Elevator Rock" and "Doomsday Rock." Nancy Whiskey costars. Steele returned in The Duke Wore Jeans (1958) and Tommy the Toreador (1959).

THE ROCKETEER

(Disney, 1991) D: Joe Johnston S: Danny Bilson, Paul De Meo P: Lawrence Golden, Charles Gordon, Lloyd Levin

It's too bad this did so badly, because it's a fun nod to science-fiction adventure movies of the past. It's based on Dave Stevens's 1981 graphic novel, which itself was largely based on Republic's King of the Rocket Men (and other serials). Bill Campbell stars as the young hero with a rocket backpack in LA of 1938. Alan Arkin costars. Timothy Dalton is an Errol Flynn type of character who's a Nazi. Jennifer Connelly's character was originally based on Betty Page but was changed for this PG movie. Tiny Ron as Lothar, a character made up by Rick Baker to resemble deformed 40s actor Rondo Hatton, fights on top of a zeppelin. With Paul Sorvino, Terry O'Quinn as Howard Hughes, Ed Lauter, and Clint Howard. This $40 million movie has ILM FX. A stuntman died during production. Joe Johnston was an ILM art director and also made the hit Honey, I Shrunk the Kids.

ROCK HUDSON'S HOME MOVIES

(Bear, 1992) D/S: Mark Rappaport

This is a 63-minute compilation film with the dead Rock Hudson (actually an actor who looks more like Christian Slater) commenting on scenes from his movies. The narration is ironic (and out of context). Lots of clips (of varying quality) are used, especially from movies directed by Douglas Sirk and other ones with Doris Day. Many scenes concern diseases and death (Seconds works well here). It was backed by Ohio State University.

ROCKIN' THE BLUES

(Norton, 1956) D: Arthur Rosenblum P: Fritz Pollard

DJ Hal Jackson is the all-rhyming onstage host of this all-black musical. He shows us "a rock 'n' roll revue, not on wax but in person!" Most of the many acts are priceless, but I like Connie Carroll, who sings "Everybody's Going Mad, Rock 'n' Roll Is the Latest Fad" and "I'm a Fast-Movin' Mama," and Pearl Woods, who does "He's Too Lazy" on a kitchen set with a slow-motion dancing husband. Meanwhile the comedy team of Mantan Moreland and F. E. Miller do vaudeville skits and try to sneak in and hang out with the sexy showgirls backstage. One of them calls Mantan (who also appears in drag) Birmingham. Others play, dance, and sing, and scenes of an all-white audience are edited in. Not too many adult whites were ready for songs like "My Love Comes Oozing Down" (the Wanderers) in 1956, though. I wonder what show they were really watching. Also featured are the Hurricanes and the Afro-Cuban Dancers.

ROCKTOBER BLOOD

(Vestron, 1984) D/S/P: Beverly Sebastian
S/P/C/E: Ferd Sebastian

A killer rock star from a Kiss-type band is executed, a female rock star (Donna Scoggins) is stalked, and the murdering continues. Kiss were in only one movie (Kiss Meets the Phantom), but the theatrical band inspired many (bad) low-budget horror movies like this.

ROCKULA

(Cannon, 1989) D: Luca Bercovici
S/P: Jeffrey Levy S: Christopher Verwiel

Dean Cameron is a teenage vampire and Tawny Fere is a reincarnated rock singer in this PG-13 misfire. It's almost worth it to see Bo Diddley and Susan Tyrrell in a band. Also featured are Toni Basil as an Elvira-type mom, Thomas Dolby, and Tamara DeTreaux (who played ET) as Bat Dork.

ROCKY

(MGM, 1976) D: John G. Avildsen
S/A: Sylvester Stallone P: Irwin Winkler, Robert Chartoff M: Bill Conti

Sylvester Stallone wrote this in four days. He had played supporting roles in Death Race 2000, Cannonball, and Capone (all Roger Corman productions) and wanted to be a star. This PG hit from United Artists was nominated for 10 Oscars (!) and received awards for best picture, direction, and editing. Stallone was the first person after Charlie Chaplin and Orson Welles (!) to be nominated for best screenwriter and actor in the same movie. Talia Shire costars, with Burt Young, Burgess Meredith as Mickey, Carl Weathers as champ Apollo Creed, Joe Spinell, Frank Stallone (who sings), Thayer David (from the TV series Dark Shadows), and Joe Frazier. The soundtrack (on UA) includes "Gonna Fly Now," a number 1 hit. Troma's Lloyd Kaufman was a production assistant and appears as a drunk. John G. Avildsen, who had done obscure adults-only movies, didn't have another hit until he reworked the same formula in The Karate Kid and its sequels.

ROCKY II

(MGM, 1979) D/S/A: Sylvester Stallone P: Irwin Winkler, Robert Chartoff M: Bill Conti

After the failure of FIST and Paradise Alley Sylvester Stallone directed himself as Rocky, back for "one last fight," a rematch. This sequel uses the same basic cast and the same theme song, and Rocky jogs up the Philadelphia Museum of Art steps again. The UA soundtrack features hit songs by brother Frank Stallone.

ROCKY III

(MGM, 1982) D/S/A: Sylvester Stallone P: Irwin Winkler, Robert Chartoff M: Bill Conti

After the box-office failure of Nighthawks and Victory (both 1981) this was announced as the last movie in a trilogy. It's the second-highest-grossing in the series, and it's pretty funny. Apollo Creed (Carl Weathers) becomes Rocky's trainer after Mickey (Burgess Meredith) leaves (then he dies). Rocky makes a comeback at 34, and a statue is dedicated to him. Talia Shire is his pregnant wife, and Burt Young is a racist. There's a good 3-round fight with the big-mouthed Clubber Lane (Mr. T) at the end. Also featured are huge wrestler Hulk Hogan (who went on to his own acting career), Thunderlips, and Dennis James. The soundtrack (on Liberty) includes the inescapable number 1 hit "Eye of the Tiger" by Survivor and more by Frank Stallone.

ROCKY IV

(MGM, 1985) D/S/A: Sylvester Stallone
P: Irwin Winkler, Robert Chartoff

Sylvester Stallone is by far the most successful actor and director of all time, with his five Rocky movies. This was the highest-grossing of the whole series and cost 40 (!) times what the first one did. It's also the most absurd of the series, and for that reason it's highly recommended! It was released the same year as Stallone's Rambo: First Blood II, and both are mid-Reagan-era anti-Communist movies. Sly literally wraps himself in the American flag. Dolph Lundgren is the steroid-filled Soviet fighter Ivan Drago. Brigitte Nielsen is his wife and trainer, Ludmilla. She and Sly were married for less than two years and were also in Cobra together. Michael Pataki is Nikolai Koloff, and series stars Carl Weathers (Apollo is killed!), Burt Young, and Talia Shire return. James Brown sings his last hit, "Livin' in America," which caused a brief career boost. The Scotti Brothers soundtrack features various artists.

Brigitte Nielsen, Dolph Lundgren, and Michael Pataki in Rocky IV.

ROCKY V

(MGM, 1990) D: John G. Avildsen S/A: Sylvester Stallone P: Irwin Winkler, Robert Chartoff

The original director returned, and Sylvester Stallone wrote himself a simpler story, but this was a flop. The brain-damaged Rocky returns to his Philly roots. Stallone received a record $27.5 million plus 34 percent of the gross. Sage Stallone costars as Rocky Jr., with Delia Sheppard, Tommy Morrison, Lloyd Kaufman, and the usual cast, plus the returning Burgess Meredith.

ROCKY JONES, SPACE RANGER

(Video Yesteryear, 1954–55) P: Roland Reed

This early syndicated kids' series stars Richard Crane as Rocky Jones, wearing a cap and T-shirt in his ship the Orbit Jet, with Sally Mansfield as Verna Ray, Scotty Becket (from the Our Gang shorts) as Winky, Maurice Cass as Professor Newton, and various villains. It's a nostalgic favorite for people who grew up watching it, but for anybody who didn't it's hysterical. If you think TV shows look cheap today wait till you see these. They were filmed at the Hal Roach studios. Video Yesteryear has 78-minute tapes with three shows per tape. Sinister offers 7 of the 14 Rocky Jones "features," made up of episodes that were shown theatrically overseas.

ROCK, YOU SINNERS

(Dark Dreams, 1957) D: Dennis Kavanaugh
P: B. C. Fancy UK

Joan Collins' sister, Jackie Collins, now a famous trash novelist, costars in this early rock-and-roll movie. All the songs have bad, clichéd lyrics about rock and roll, but the music (by Art Baxter and His Rockin' Sinners, Tony Crumbie and His Rockets, and others you never heard of) is pretty swingin', sax-driven, and Bill Haley–inspired. The plot is about a radio DJ and his hip writer friend planning a rock TV show. Jackie works at a record shop where the first Haley LP hangs on the wall. There's a sappy dream sequence, a calypso club called Brazil Expresso, and a great documentary-style look at what a giant old British dance hall was like.

ROGER & ME

(Warner, 1989) D/S/P/A: Michael Moore

The most successful non-music feature-length documentary of all time was made by an unemployed writer from Flint, Michigan. In 1991 General Motors announced massive layoffs and plant closings. This movie centers on Michael Moore's efforts to interview GM chairman Roger Smith. It includes lots of TV news footage featuring Ronald Reagan, GM spokesman Pat Boone, Anita Bryant, the Reverend Robert Schuller, Bob Eubanks (who tells dirty jokes), and Miss America. We see Auto World (!) and hear the Barking Dogs and the Beach Boys on the soundtrack. The makers of The Atomic Café helped Moore get started. Rick Prelinger provided archive footage. A 24-minute 1992 update is called Pets or Meat: The Return to Flint.

ROGER CORMAN: HOLLYWOOD'S WILD ANGEL

(MPI, 1978) D: Christian Blackwood

This excellent hour-long documentary concentrates on Roger Corman's New World (which he later sold). It includes choice clips from his New World

Ronald Reagan

Not enough of our former President's movies are available on tape. It's almost easier to find tapes about him than ones starring him. Some are Reagan's Way and Rockin' Ronnie (MPI), The Wit and Wisdom of Ronald Reagan (Rhino)—it's blank—Ronnie Dearest and Ronnie Dearest: The Lost Episodes (Congress) and The Reagan Years (MGM). Rhino also released many of his Death Valley Days TV shows.

(and AIP) productions and interviews with a typically on-the-edge Martin Scorsese, Paul Bartel, Jonathan Demme, Joe Dante, Allan Arkush, Jonathan Kaplan, Ron Howard, David Carradine, Peter Fonda, and other directors and actors whose careers got started (or restarted) by producer and director Corman. Corman himself proudly explains how he brought movies by Federico Fellini and Ingmar Bergman to their largest American audiences.

RO GO PAG

(Kino, 1962) D/S: Roberto Rossellini, Jean-Luc Godard, Pier Paolo Pasolini, Ugo Gregoretti
P: Alfredo Bini Italy/France

This 4-part anthology was banned in Italy because of Pier Paolo Pasolini's segment, starring Orson Welles as a director shooting a crucifixion scene in which the actor actually dies. Jean-Luc Godard's segment, shot in Paris, is about the day after an atomic explosion. The title is made up from the first letters of the directors' last names.

ROGUES' TAVERN

(Sinister, 1936) D: Bob Hill S: Al Martin

A detective (Wallace Ford) and his fiancée (Barbara Pepper) go to an old hotel to be married, but the guests there are being killed, apparently by a wolf dog. With Joan Woodbury and Clara Kimball Young. This 65-minutes independently produced mystery was directed by the man who wrote the screenplay for the original version of The Cat and the Canary (1927).

ROLLER BLADE

(New World, 1986) D/S/P/C: Donald Jackson
S: Randall Frakes

Futuristic roller-derby amazon nuns called the Bod Sisters use Shakespearean English, worship a glowing happy face, and fight fascists on wheels. Secret ceremonies are held, and there's some nude skating, but bikini babes on skates take up most of the time. Suzanne Solari stars as Sister Sharon Cross, with Shaun Michelle, Michelle Bauer, and Barbara Peckinpaugh. The director of Demon Lover shot footage using credit cards, and then New World put more money into it for a direct-to-video release. Incredibly, there were sequels.

THE ROLLERBLADE SEVEN

(York, 1992) D/S/P/C: Donald Jackson
S/P/A/M/E: Scott Shaw

The extremly pretentious, laughable, awkward, overlong, slow-moving fantasy might entertain you if you use enough powerful drugs first. Hawk (Scott Shaw, a guy with long blond hair who resembles Johnny Winter and can't act) roams the beach and the desert with a sword, fighting punk ninjas and samurai on rollerskates and meeting various out-of-control guest stars and topless lady skaters (including porno star Jade East). Don Stroud (wearing a tophat and swimsuit) sends him on a rescue mission. William Smith talks endlessly (and cries) in a wheelchair. Karen Black gives Hawk mushrooms, leading to an Easy Rider graveyard-trip scene. The non-famous Allison Chase costars, and Frank Stallone, Joe Estevez, and Rhonda Shear also appear. Supposedly this was two sequels (partially shot in Mexico) edited into a single movie by executive producer Tanya York. It's been on cable TV as Return of the Roller Blade Seven.

ROLLERBLADE WARRIORS: TAKEN BY FORCE

(Raedon, 1988) D: Donald Jackson
S: "Lloyd Strathern"/Randall Frakes
P: Jonathan S. Kaplan

Kathleen Kinmont stars as Sister Sharon Cross, a skater with samurai swords who tries to rescue a seer (Elizabeth Kaitan) from being sacrificed. With Rory Calhoun, Lisa Toothman, Suzanne Solari (returning from Roller Blade), and Abby Dalton (Kinmont's real-life mom). This unrated sequel went directly to cable in America.

ROLLER BOOGIE

(1979) D: Mark L. Lester S: Barry Schneider P: Bruce Cohn Curtis

The mob tries to close down the roller disco, but kids stop them. Linda Blair and Jim Bray star in this PG time-warp movie from United Artists, with Mark Goddard (from the TV series Lost in Space) as the main bad guy, Kimberly Beck, Beverly Garland, and Jimmy Van Patten. Casablanca released a various artists double soundtrack. This was the first non-Exorcist starring role in a theatrical release for Blair, who returned in Hell Night (1981).

ROLLING THUNDER

(Vestron, 1977) D: John Flynn
S: Paul Schrader, Heywood Gould
P: Norman T. Herman

A returning Nam-vet POW (William Devane) returns to his East Texas town and is given a thousand silver coins (one for each day he was a captive). He becomes extremely alienated, his wife and kids are killed, his valuable coin collection is stolen, and his arm is shoved into a garbage disposal by low-life thieves led by James Best. Devane spends the rest of this excellent revenge movie with a hook hand as he and a vet friend (Tommy Lee Jones) track the redneck killers to a Mexican whorehouse. This 123-minute AIP release also features Luke Askew, Dabney Coleman, Cassie Yates, and Linda Haynes (Human Experiments).

ROLLING VENGEANCE

(Charter, 1987) D/P: Steven S. Stern
S: Michael Montgomery Canada

A young Ohio truckdriver (Don Michael Paul) creates a monster, 8-ton, fire-spitting vehicle in his yard. Then he uses it for revenge against the hicks who killed his family and raped his girlfriend. Villain Ned Beatty owns a topless bar and has a gang of violent, dimwitted sons.

THE ROLY POLY MAN

(1994) D: Bill Young S: Kym Goldsworthy
P: Peter Green Australia

Paul Chub stars as a pudgy, bumbling private eye who narrates a tale of exploding heads and strange medical experiments. Susan Lyons and Les Foxcroft costar in this comic science-fiction/horror movie.

ROMEO IS BLEEDING

(Polygram, 1993) D: Peter Medak
S/P: Hilary Henkin P: Paul Webster

Gary Oldman stars as a corrupt NYC police sergeant (who narrates) on the take from the mob. He has to guard Mona Demarkov (Lena Olin), a sexy killer from a Russian crime family. She cuts her arm off and wears a robotic arm with an S&M-look black leather brace. This attempt to update film noir includes some funny dialogue and over-the-top violence and characters. With Annabelle Sciorra (wife), Juliette Lewis (blond mistress), Roy Scheider (gangster), Will Patton, and Ron Perlman.

Linda Blair and Jim Bray in Roller Boogie.

ROMPER STOMPER

(Academy, 1992) D/S: Geoffrey Wright
P: Daniel Scharf, Ian Pringle Australia

A neo-Nazi skinhead gang living in a Melbourne warehouse terrorizes Asian immigrants. This disturbing, downbeat movie borrows from A Clockwork Orange but has a teen love triangle. Things get worse when Vietnamese "gooks" (who are subtitled) buy the skinheads' favorite bar and everybody loses. Russell Crowe (a very good actor who started working in Hollywood after this) stars as the Mein Kampf–reading leader, with Daniel Pollock and Jacqueline McKenzie as the blond epileptic and drug addict who comes between them. With racist punk songs. Some sex scenes resulted in an NC-17 rating. Wright made Metal Skin (1994) next. One of the producers is now in jail for an art theft in America.

ROOFTOPS

(IVE, 1989) D: Robert Wise S: Terrence Brennan P: Howard Koch Jr.

Robert Wise returned to the themes of his West Side Story for this teen musical/drama set in NYC. Jason Gedrick stars as a martial-arts-fighting and dancing good guy, with Tisha Campbell as his Hispanic girlfriend, Troy Beyer, and Eddie Velez as a crack dealer. It was Wise's first movie since Star Trek (1979) and remains his last to date. Capitol released the soundtrack.

THE ROOKIE

(Warner, 1990) D/A: Clint Eastwood S: Boaz Yakin, Scott Spiegel P: Howard G. Kazenjian

Clint Eastwood is paired with a spoiled rich-kid cop (Charlie Sheen) as they investigate a car-theft ring. This box-office flop was a low point for Eastwood. Sonia Braga and Raul Julia play the German (?!) villains. There are lots of car chases. Also featured are Tom Skerritt, Lara Flynn Boyle, and Mara Corday (from Eastwood's early days at Universal).

ROOM 43

(Video Dimensions, 1958) D: Alvin Rakoff
S: Patrick Alexander P: John Klein UK

Here's a dream-cast B movie. Evil, vain gangster Nick (Herbert Lom) and his mistress trick and blackmail women into working at his large, profitable whorehouse. American-born Eddie Constantine (Alphaville) plays a Canadian taxi driver who marries Malou (Odile Versois), a French waitress, so that she can stay in the country. They fall in love, but she's sent to the dreaded Room 43, and hooker Diana Dors takes her out onto the streets. Dors wants revenge because her sister killed herself after having acid thrown in her face. All three female leads are bleached blondes. After Malou is given a drugged cigarette she has a wonderful, surreal hooker-Hell dream where she's thrown into a vat of men. Constantine, a great everyman hero, gets beaten up several times. It all ends in a big fire and a brawl with all the taxi drivers. In Germany, where Constantine was a big star (as he was in France), this was called Eddie, Tod, und Teufel. In England it was Passport to Shame. Alvin Rakoff also directed Hot Money Girl (1959), with Constantine and Christopher Lee.

Diana Dors in Room 43.

ROOM TO LET

(Sinister, 1949) D/S: Godfrey Grayson
S: John Gilling P: Anthony Hinds UK

This interesting early Hammer mystery (based on a BBC play) stars Valentine Dyall (The Queen of Spades, Horror Hotel, The Haunting) as Dr. Fell, a mysterious and nosy early-20th-century bearded lodger in a tophat and cape who might be Jack the Ripper. A reporter called Curley (Jimmy Hanley) relates the story in flashback. The doctor, who escaped an asylum fire, orders around the house's crippled owner, Mrs. Musgrove, and her daughter (Constance Smith, a beautiful actress who returned in another Jack the Ripper movie, Man in the Attic, in 1953). Curley solves the case. Or does he? Godfrey Grayson also directed the Dick Barton movies for Hammer. John Gilling directed many features, including The Gamma People (1955) and The Flesh and the Fiends/Mania (1960).

ROOTS OF EVIL

(Cannon, 1991) D: Gary Graver
S: Adam Berg P: Sidney Niekerk

Alex Cord and Jillian Kesner star as LA detectives who are after a serial killer who preys on strippers and hookers, in this "erotic thriller" with Deanna Lund as a lesbian who has her husband killed, Charles Dierkop as a killer, Delia Sheppard, Daphne Cheung, Jasae, and Brinke Stevens as a scream queen. R and unrated versions are available.

ROPE

(MCA, 1948) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock
S: Arthur Laurents P: Sidney Bernstein

Alfred Hitchock's first Technicolor film uses some innovative techniques. It was filmed entirely on a single set, a NYC apartment, in ten-minute takes. It's an adaptation of a 1929 play by Patrick Hamilton (who also wrote Gaslight), which was based on "the crime of the century," the Leopold/Loeb case (also the basis of the 1959 film Compulsion). James Stewart stars as Professor Rupert Cadell. Farley Granger and John Dall are rich (possibly homosexual) college students who have killed a friend and hidden his body in an antique chest just for the intellectual thrill of it. Cedric Hardwicke, Constance Cummings, and Joan Chandler are among the guests at a cocktail party in the same room as the chest. The phony skyline seen through the large windows is distracting, but the play/film is disturbing. It was produced by Transatlantic Pictures and distributed by Warner Brothers. The director is seen crossing a street. It was rereleased in 1984.

THE ROSE AND THE SWORD: See FLESH + BLOOD

THE ROSEBUD BEACH HOTEL

(1984) D/P: Harry Hurwitz S: Harry Narunsky, Thomas Randolph S/P: Irving Schwartz

Peter Scolari tries running an old hotel to impress his girlfriend, Colleen Camp. Christopher Lee tries to blow the hotel up. This comedy also features Eddie Deezen as an alien, Fran Drescher (of The Nanny), Cherie Currie and her twin sister, Marie Currie, Monique Gabrielle, Julie Parton, Chuck McCann, and Hamilton Camp. The female bellhops undress a lot. Lee was also in Safari 3000, by Hurwitz.

ROSELAND

(SW, 1970) D/S/P: Fredric Hobbs

A likable, bearded man called Adam (E. Kerrigan Prescott, probably the director himself) talks to his shrink about the art of Hieronymus Bosch in this unique hippie-era sex "fable." We see his b/w dream sequences: topless women in bondage gear tie him up, and lots of naked people are seen dancing, frolicking, and fondling outdoors around a giant penis. During a bizarre dance number (supposedly on the Ed Sullivan show!) Adam sings with a strong operatic voice. Meanwhile a funny fat man and Bosch himself (a black man) make comments. Adam is put into a mental hospital (where he has sex with two nurses) but is eventually seen in Bosch's painting The Garden of Earthly Delights. With members of the Magic Theater and the rock group Loading Zone. This is not a typical Boxoffice International "raincoat-crowd" movie but is a very ambitious (if dated) counterculture movie that was reviewed in underground papers when released. It has a free-form jazz soundtrack. Fredric Hobbs also made Troika (1969) and Alabama's Ghost (1972).

ROSEMARY'S DISCIPLES = NECROMANCY

ROSWELL: THE U.F.O. COVER-UP

(Republic, 1994) D/S/P: Jeremy Kagan
S: Arthur Kopit P: Ilene Kahn

UFO remains and alien bodies are found in New Mexico in 1947. Kyle MacLachlan is an army-intelligence major who investigated, then was ridiculed. In 1977 he interviews survivors and exposes the cover-up. Kim Greist as his wife, Doug Wert as his son, Dwight Yoakum as a rancher, Peter MacNichol, Charles Martin Smith, J. D. Daniels, and Martin Sheen are featured. This is based on a 1991 book about the claims of a real major. Steve Johnson created the alien FX. This PG-13 movie debuted on Showtime. UFO Secret: The Roswell Crash (Republic) is a documentary about the same events.

R.O.T.O.R.

(Imperial, 1987) D/P: Cullen Baline
S/P: Budd Lewis P/A: Richard Gesswein

Richard Gesswein stars in this low-budget Terminator and Robocop copy from Dallas.

ROUGE

(1987) D: Stanley Kwan S: Lee Berk Wahl P: Jackie Chan, Leonard K. C. Ho Hong Kong (The Legend of Flower)

Look for this excellent romantic ghost story, which takes place in two time periods. In the 1830s Leslie Cheung backs out of an opium-induced suicide pact, but his lover, a singer and high-class prostitute named Flower (Anita Mui), dies. She returns in modern times as a ghost and a young journalist and his girlfriend help her search for her lover. There are scenes of the making of a ghost movie. It's from Golden Harvest.

ROUGH RIDERS = ANGELS' WILD WOMEN

ROUND TRIP TO HEAVEN

(Prism, 1992) D: Alan Roberts S: Shuki Levy, Winston Richard P: Ronnie Hadar

Corey Feldman and Zach Galligan star as a couple of guys searching for a dream girl (Rowanne Brewer) in Palm Springs. Stoneface (Ray Sharkey) is after them for the money in their trunk. With Julie McCullough, Pat Harrington, Kristine Rose, Tara Buckman, and Cyndi Pass.

ROYCE

(Paramount, 1993) D: Rod Holcomb
S: Paul Bernbaum P: J. Boyce Harman Jr.

James Belushi stars as a CIA agent, with Chelsea Field as his ex-wife, Miguel Ferrer, and Peter Boyle. This action movie about stolen nuclear warheads was made for Showtime.

R.P.M.

(1970) D/P: Stanley Kramer S: Erich Segal

Anthony Quinn stars as "hip" professor Paco Perez, who's asked to be acting president during a student sit-in. Ann-Margret is his grad-student girlfriend. It ends with a riot and cops busting heads and has ridiculous dialogue and songs by Melanie. Gary Lockwood, Paul Winfield, Graham Jarvis, and Teda Bracci are featured. Bell released the soundtrack.

R.S.V.P.

(Vestron, 1984) D: Lem Amero
S: La Rue Watts P: John Amero

A dead body is found in the pool at a Hollywood party. Adam Mills stars, with Katt Shea, Lynda Weismeier (from Playboy), Jane Hamilton/Veronica Hart, and Deep Throat star Harry Reems as a writer. Chuck Vincent was the executive producer and it debuted on Playboy TV.

RUBIN AND ED

(Columbia, 1991) D/S: Trent Harris P: Paul Webster

Crispin Glover is long-haired recluse Rubin Farr. He wears exaggerated 70s clothes and keeps a dead, cross-eyed cat in his freezer. Real-estate agent Ed Tuttle (Howard Hesseman) drives him to the desert to bury the cat. This odd road movie from IRS was filmed in Utah. Karen Black also appears in it.

RUBY

(Columbia, 1991) D: John MacKenzie S: Stephen Davis P: Sigurjoh Sighvatsson, Steve Golin

Although ignored after the controversial JFK (which was released first), this what-if movie with Danny Aiello as Oswald killer Jack Ruby is pretty interesting. He's sent to Cuba to be a hitman for the mob, works for the FBI, and runs his Dallas Carousel club. Sherilyn Fenn is the (fictional) stripper Candy Cane. Another stripper has an affair with Kennedy, and this movie manages to place the president, Ruby, Oswald and a Sinatra character all in the same nightclub at the same time. Arliss Howard, Tobin Bell, David Duchovny, Joe Cortese, and Marc Lawrence are also featured.

RUCKUS

(Paragon, 1980) D/S: Max Kleven
P: Paul Maslansky (The Loner)

Dirk Benedict is a Nam vet who escapes from a military hospital's psychiatric ward in a southern town. This is basically a comedy version of First Blood. He sleeps in trees. Linda Blair costars, with Ben Johnson, Richard Farnsworth, and Matt Clark. The country music is by Willie Nelson, Janie Fricke, and others. It's a New World release.

RUDE AWAKENING

(Thriller, 1980) D: Peter Sasdy
S: Gerald Savory UK

Denholm Elliott stars as a henpecked real-estate agent who lives in a dream world. Pat Heywood costars. Elvira hosts this hour-long Hammer TV drama.

RUDE AWAKENING

(HBO, 1989) D/P/A: Aaron Russo
D: David Greenwalt S: Neil Levy, Richard La Gravenese

Cheech Marin and Eric Roberts star as hippies who return to NYC after 20 years in a commune. They know a secret CIA plan and tell their old friend (Julie Hagerty), now a neurotic designer, and Robert Carradine. Cliff De Young is a psycho government agent who's after them. With Buck Henry, Louise Lasser, Cindy Williams, Andrea Martin, Timothy Leary, Jerry Rubin, Bobby Seale, David Peel, and a talking fish. Scenes on St. Mark's Place were shot in a reconstructed 60s store. The original director was replaced. The Elektra soundtrack features some Jefferson Airplane and Grateful Dead but is mostly 80s rock.

RUDE BOY

(SMV, 1980) D/S/P: Jack Hazan, David Mingay S/A: Ray Gange UK

Ray Gange, a poor Clash fan who works in a sex shop, becomes a roadie for the Clash. His only friend is a little skinhead. The band practices ("Gar-age Land") and plays at clubs, rallies, and concerts. It's all mixed with National Front demonstrations, Margaret Thatcher's speeches, and political discussions. Jimmy Pursey helps sing "White Riot." In a subplot, a black kid is arrested. The band doesn't sound very good most of the time (the records were great, though), and this is a pretty dreary docudrama look at England. The one great musical moment is when they do "Complete Control." I saw this on opening night in NYC. It was also the only time I saw Andy Warhol in person. He walked out.

RUE MORGUE MASSACRE = HUNCHBACK OF THE MORGUE

THE RULING CLASS

(Nelson, 1972) D: Peter Medak S: Peter Barnes
P: Jules Buck, Jack Hawkins M: John Cameron UK

Peter O'Toole (who is excellent) stars as the fourteenth earl of Gurney, a relative of the royal family who at various times thinks he's Jack the Ripper, Jesus Christ, and God. His family wants him committed. He sees the House of Lords as a gallery of corpses and imagines other incredible sights. This hilarious satire/fantasy is based on a play by Peter Barnes. With Alastair Sim, Arthur Lowe, Harry Andrews, Coral Browne, and Nigel Green (who died in 1972 from sleeping pills). It's 154 minutes long. The soundtrack (on Avco Embassy) includes dialogue.

Peter O'Toole in The Ruling Class.

RUMBLE FISH

(MCA, 1983) D/S: Francis Ford Coppola S: S. E. Hinton P: Fred Roos, Doug Claybourne M: Stewart Copeland

The incredible, dreamlike look of this movie, one of the overlooked classics of the 80s, has been very influential. It's b/w with one part tinted, and the production design is by Dean Tavoularis. S. E. Hinton's teen novels set in Tulsa, Oklahoma, have been made into four films, three starring Matt Dillon. This time he's Rusty James, and Mickey Rourke is his idol and older brother, Motorcycle Boy. They drink, have West Side Story–inspired rumbles, and try to deal with their drunken father (Dennis Hopper). Diane Lane is Rusty's schoolgirl girlfriend, and Diana Scarwid is a junkie. With Vincent Spano, Nicolas Cage, Christopher Penn, Lawrence (Larry) Fishburne, J. P. Ryan, Tom Waits, Tracey Walter, and William Smith as the local heat. The excellent instrumental soundtrack (on A&M) features an end theme by Stan Ridgeway. There's a scene from Murder by Television.

William Smith, Matt Dillon, and Mickey Rourke in Rumble Fish.

RUMPELSTILTSKIN

(1955) D: Herbert B. Fredersdorf P: Hubert Schonger W. Germany (Rumpelstilzchen)

This color fairy tale (released here by K. Gordon Murray) is worth watching for the tiny little bearded dwarf who levitates things and helps the miller's pigtailed daughter when she has to spin gold for the king. If he's in other movies I want to see them. This one's narrated by a woman.

RUMPELSTILTSKIN

(Media, 1987) D/S: David Irving P: Golan/Globus

Billy Barty stars as the rhyming and singing dwarf who demands a baby in exchange for his help in spinning gold. Amy Irving (sister of the director) stars, with Priscilla Pointer (mom of the director), Clive Revill, and John Moulder-Brown. This Cannon production was shot in Israel. Also look for the early 80s Faerie Tale Theatre version (Fox).

RUNAWAY

(RCA/Columbia, 1984) D/S: Michael Crichton P: Michael Rachmil M: Jerry Goldsmith

Tom Selleck stars as a robotics expert. He and a policewoman (Cynthia Rhodes) are assigned to track down short-circuited killer robots in a big city. Televised mind control is used by bad guy Gene Simmons. Kirstie Alley and Cec Verrell are also in this PG movie. Like all of the movies starring the born-again TV star Selleck, this was a box-office flop. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande.

RUNAWAY DAUGHTERS

(1994) D: Joe Dante S: Charlie Haas P: Lou Arkoff, Debra Hill

Holly Fields, Julie Bowen, and Jenny Lewis are teens who steal a car and go cross-country after the guy who got one of them pregnant and joined the navy. Like Joe Dante's Matinee this is filled with Cold War references. With Roger Corman, Dick Miller, John Astin, Fabian, and a clip from I Was a Teenage Werewolf. Part of the Showtime Rebel Highway series, this uses the title of the 1956 Alex Gordon AIP movie but not the plot or characters.

RUNAWAY GIRL

(SW, 1962 and 1966) D/P: Hamill Petroff S: Stewart Cohn

Stripper Lili St. Cyr (then in her forties and looking great) stars in her last film as Louise, a sweet, friendly stripper (the "hottest personality in the whole word"). She hides out, working at a vineyard, to get away from it all, and falls for the owner (Jock Mahoney). The adopted son of Italians, he has a jealous girlfriend (Laurie Mitchell) and a troublemaking half brother (Ron Hagerty, acting like Elisha Cook Jr.). Nothing is revealed during the lone tame strip show flashback, so when this b/w feature was rereleased (at only 62 minutes), three new scenes were added to spice things up. Naked women spray shaving cream at each other during an outdoor shower and later swim underwater and there's another on-stage stripper scene. Robert Shayne plays Louise's manager. Mahoney was also in Petroff's California (1963).

RUNAWAY NIGHTMARE

(All Seasons, 1982) D/S/A: Michael Cartel P: Eldon Short

Female beauties kidnap worm ranchers in Death Valley and steal plutonium from the Mafia. There's a wolf man and a vampire woman in this very cheap effort.

RUNAWAY TRAIN

(MGM, 1985) D/S: Andrei Konchalovsky S: Djordje Milicevic, Paul Zindel P: Golan/Globus

Jon Voight is a convict in an Alaska prison who escapes through a sewer with Eric Roberts. They hop on a train, the engineer has a heart attack, and the out-of-control train continues to go full speed ahead. The screenplay of this exciting movie is a re-worked version of a screenplay by Japanese director Akira Kurosawa. Rebecca De Mornay works on the train, and John P. Ryan is the sadistic warden. T. K. Carter and John Bloom are also featured. Both stars received Oscar nominations, but Voight didn't work again until the awful Eternity (1990), and Roberts went on to commercial flops and direct-to-video movies.

THE RUNESTONE

(IVE, 1990) D/S: Willard Carroll P: Harry E. Gould Jr., Thomas L. Wilhoite M: David Newman

Peter Riegert is a sarcastic Italian-American NYC cop. He's after a vicious killer who turns out to be a 6th-century Norse demon from another dimension, freed from a mine in Pennsylvania. His ex-girlfriend (Joan Severance) is an artist. William Hickey is an expert on the Norse legend of "Ragnarokk" and Alexander Godunov is a mysterious clockmaker who aids the monster. It's just a man-in-a-suit monster, but this ambitious movie has a lot of atmosphere and builds a sense of dread. A police detective (Lawrence Tierney) says, "It's a big guy in a bulletproof dog suit." The plot is pretty involved, and there are a lot of characters. I liked the scene where the monster attacks a pretentious performance-art show and the nightmare within a nightmare. Although set mostly in Manhattan, it was filmed in LA. It's based on a novella by Mark E. Rogers.

RUN FOR THE SUN

(1956) D/S: Roy Boulting S: Dudley Nichols P: Harry Tatelman

Richard Widmark and Jane Greer are forced to land a plane in a jungle in a Technicolor and Superscope updated version of The Most Dangerous Game (1932), based on a short story by Richard Connell. Trevor Howard is a British traitor in the jungle with Nazis like Peter Van Eyck as an assistant. This United Artists release was shot in Mexico. The Game of Death (1946) is another version, and there have been countless other uncredited versions and rip-offs.

RUN IF YOU CAN!

(Today, 1987) D/P: Virginia Lively Stone
S/P: J. A. S. McCombie

Before his Oscar nomination for Tucker, Martin Landau was so desperate that he costarred in this movie (and in Death Blow) with Jerry Van Dyke (from the TV series My Mother the Car). They play cops in this nutty movie about snuff films. Van Dyke's eyeglass lens keeps falling out to make his character more lovable. A student (Yvette Nipar) house-sitting in Beverly Hills is watching an old Leslie Howard movie on TV. All of a sudden a color porno movie is on. The guy kills the woman and puts her into a plastic bag. The bright student thinks that she's still watching the same movie! More women are killed, and naked bodies in bags are found in garbage cans all over town. The cops hang around watching her TV for clues and try to protect her. It's all got something to do with a satellite company that sells snuff tapes. This dumb movie could win a contest for having the most false leads and false scares. It also has a very long and dark ending, and I still don't know what the hell was going on.

RUNNING AGAINST TIME

(MCA, 1990) D: Bruce Seth Green S: Stanley Shapiro, Robert Glass P: Pat Finnegan, Sheldon Pinchuk

Robert Hays uses a time machine invented by Sam Wanamaker to try to prevent the assassination of JFK. Catherine Hicks costars, and James DiStefano is Oswald. The cable TV movie, based on Stanley Shapiro's novel A Time to Remember, aired before Oliver Stone's JFK came out.

RUNNING COOL

(Paramount, 1993) D/S/P: Ferd Sebastian, Beverly Sebastian

Good-guy, tattooed, Harley-riding bikers try to save a swamp in South Carolina. Andrew Divoff stars as Bone, who falls for a crippled waitress (Dedee Pfeiffer). Paul Gleason is a greedy developer backed by violent rednecks. The bikers stage a wet-T-shirt contest and a greased-pig-chase show. Also featured are Tracy Sebastian, Arlen Dean Snyder, Bubba Baker as Bear, James Gammon as Ironbutt, and a reported 900 real bikers. It was filmed in Florida and features a country-music soundtrack.

RUNNING DELILAH

(Signet, 1992) D: Richard Franklin
S: Ron Koslow P: Mel Efros UK

Kim Cattrall is shot while undercover to catch arms dealers. Reconstructed (only her head and an arm are real), she trains and then uses her new powers. Billy Zane costars as her partner, with François Guetary and Yorgo Voyagis. Diana Rigg ("It's mind-boggling") hits a career low point as her boss, usually behind a desk. This boring PG-13 TV movie (another rip-off of La Femme Nikita) is set in France.

RUNNING HOT

(Vestron, 1984) D/S/P: Mark Griffiths P: David Calloway, Zachary Feur (Lucky 13; Highway to Hell)

Eric Stoltz is a 17-year-old wrongly convicted and sentenced to death for killing his father. He escapes and hides out with an older hooker (Monica Carrico, featured in topless scenes) in a vintage Cadillac convertible. This road movie with murders costars Stuart Margolin, Juliette Cummins, and Virgil Frye. New Line released it.

THE RUNNING MAN

(Vestron, 1987) D: Paul Michael Glaser
S: Stephen E. de Souza P: Tim Zimmerman

Arnold Schwarzenegger stars as a cop framed as "the butcher of Bakersfield" in 2019 and sent to prison, where he has to participate in death games. It's based on a Stephen King story (written under the name Richard Bachman) but is very similar to a 1983 French film, The Prize of Peril, and also copies Rollerball. Characters wear ugly jumpsuit costumes. Richard Dawson costars as the host of the games, with Maria Conchita Alonso, Yaphet Kotto, Jim Brown as Fireball, Jesse "the Body" Ventura, Erland Van Lidth, Professor Tanaka, Mick Fleetwood, and Dweezil Zappa. Paul Michael Glaser, who replaced director Andrew Davis, also directed Band of the Hand. Varèse Sarabande released the soundtrack.

RUNNING OUT OF LUCK

(Fox, 1986) D/S: Julian Temple UK

There's a very loose plot in this 88-minute release built around nine videos from Mick Jagger's "She's the Boss" solo LP. Jagger stars (of course) as himself, with Jerry Hall, Rae Dawn Chong as a slave girl, and Dennis Hopper as a video director. It's by the director of The Great Rock 'n' Roll Swindle.

RUSH

(USA, 1984) D: "Anthony Richmond"/ Tonino Ricci S: Tito Carpi Italy /Spain

Musclebound post-nuke hero Conrad Nichols is Rush, and Gordon Mitchell is "the Ruler." Laura Trotter is featured. Sybil Danning hosts the video. The sequel is called Rage.

RUSH

(MGM, 1991) D: Lili Fini Zanuck S: Peter Dexter
P: Richard D. Zanuck M: Eric Clapton

Jason Patric is a bearded narc in Beaumont, Texas, in the early 70s, and Jennifer Jason Leigh is a rookie cop. They buy from redneck dealers, and soon they become lovers, then addicts using needles and suffering from withdrawal. With William Sadler, Sam Elliott, Max Perlich (Drugstore Cowboy), and Gregg Allman as a club owner. It's based on a semi-autobiographical novel by Kim Wozencraft, a mystery writer who was once a narcotics cop.

RUSH WEEK

(RCA/Columbia, 1988) D: Bob Bravler
S/P: Michael V. Leighton S: Russell V. Manzatt

This is another stupid, boring teen/horror movie, but at least the Dickies show up and play two songs. Toni (Pamela Ludwig), a college reporter, investigates the disappearance of several coeds. Kathleen Kinmont, posing topless with a (fake) corpse (for $100), is killed by someone with a medieval axe. Some of the fun frat guys charge $10 a head to watch a couple have sex but substitute a (real) male corpse as a gag. The frightened girl runs away and becomes victim number two. Roy Thinnes is the college dean. Gregg Allman (!) has a bit part as Cosmo Kinkaid, seen showing off his tattoos and meditating with a topless woman. The movie is complete with an axe battle, decapitations, a tarantula, gay jokes, and a very stupid ending. A typical bad line is "Wake up! This is real life, not some stupid horror movie!" Allman returned in the unrelated Rush (1991). With Dean Hamilton and Laura Burkett.

RUSSKIES

(1987) D: Rick Rosenthal S: Alan Jay Glueckman
P: Mark Levinson, Scott Rosenfelt

Some American kids (Whip Hubley, Leaf Phoenix, and Peter Billingsley) think that WWIII has started after a Soviet sailor washes ashore in Florida, but he falls in love, and everybody likes him. This PG movie copies The Russians Are Coming! The Russians Are Coming! (1966).

RUST NEVER SLEEPS

(Vestron, 1979) D/A: "Bernard Shakey"/ Neil Young P: Elliot Rabinowitz

Neil Young performs 16 songs in concert, sometimes backed by Crazy Horse and going all the way back to his Buffalo Springfield days. The music is what you hear on the Live Rust LP. A bunch of space dwarfs appear, and there's a short 3-D sequence. It's a Warner release. "Bernard Shakey" also used Devo in his Human Highway (1982).

THE RUTHLESS FOUR

(Paragon, 1967) D: "George Holloway"/Giorgio Capitani S: Augusto Caminito, Fernando Di Leo
Italy/W. Germany (Ognuno per Se)

Van Heflin strikes gold, but his helpers plot to take it. This western costars Gilbert Roland, Klaus Kinski as "the Blond," and George Hilton.

SABATA

(VSOM, 1969) D/S: "Frank Kramer"/Gianfranco Parolini S: Renato Izzo P: Alberto Grimaldi Italy (Echi, Amico, c'e Sabata ... Hai Chiuso!)

Lee Van Cleef stars as a stranger who rides into town, kills some bank robbers, and blackmails the businessmen who had hired them. A Mexican, an Indian acrobat, and a guy with a gun in his banjo (William Berger) help him. With Franco Ressel, Linda Veras, and Pedro Sanchez. UA released the PG western and Return of Sabata (1972), also with Van Cleef. Adios Sabata (1970) with Yul Brynner was an unrelated, retitled movie.

SABOTAGE

(Budget, Sinister, 1936) D: Alfred Hitchcock S: Charles Bennett P: Michael Balcon, Ivor Montagu UK (A Woman Alone)

This early Hitchcock classic was based on The Secret Agent by Joseph Conrad. A woman (star Sylvia Sidney) lives with her immigrant husband, Verloc (Oscar Homolka), above his cinema. He's actually an anarchist who sends her young brother out with a bomb. The kid and a whole busload of people are killed. With John Loder as a detective posing as a vegetable salesman, Torin Thatcher, and a very clever use of Disney's "Who Killed Cock Robin" cartoon.

SABOTEUR

(MCA, 1942) D: Alfred Hitchcock S: Peter Viertel, Joan Harrison, Dorothy Parker P: Frank Lloyd, Jack H. Skirball

Robert Cummings is a WWII munitions factory mechanic falsely accused of espionage. He goes on the run across America handcuffed to Priscilla Lane. Parts are similar to The 39 Steps and the later North by Northwest. Watch for a scene in a circus with Siamese twins, a bearded lady, and Billy Curtis. There's also a Radio City Music Hall shootout and a great ending on the Statue of Liberty. With Otto Kruger, Ian Wolfe, Norman Lloyd as the saboteur, and the director, seen at a newsstand. From Universal.

THE SACRIFICE

(Pacific Arts, 1986) D/S/E: Andrei Tarkovsky Sweden/France

Erland Josephson stars as an intellectual actor celebrating his birthday with five other people at a remote estate. A newscast announces that a nuclear war has begun. Sven Nykvist was cinematographer for the very serious (and subtitled) 145 minute feature. The Swedish Film Institute backed the Russian director's seventh and last film. He died in Paris in 1986.

SADDLE TRAMPS

(High Desert, 1973) D: Maurizio Lucidi S: Rafael Azcona P: Alfonso Sansone Italy/Spain (Si Puo Fare ... Amigo; It Can Be Done Amigo)

Bud Spencer stars as a con artist/horse thief who helps a kid defend his ranch from bad guys. The comedy western costars Jack Palance as a bounty hunter and Dany Saval.

SADISMO

(1967) D/P: Salvatore Billitteri S: Philip Marx Italy

This mondo movie explores bizarre customs around the world and shows animal and human torture, various cults, body painting, and Japanese Devil masks. They even threw in a birth-of-a-baby scene and some Nazi concentration camp footage. Some of the stronger footage was cut shortly after the American release by Trans American (an AIP offshoot). Burt Topper narrates and the music is by Les Baxter.

SADISTEROTIC

(Redemption, 1967) D/S: Jesús Franco S: Louis Revenga P: Jose Lopez Moreno W. Ger./Spain (Rote Lippen—Sadisterotica)

Janine Reynauld and Rosanna Yanni star as the Red Lips, detectives trying to find missing models and dancers. Adrian Hoven is the killer pop artist Klaus Thriller who uses the werewolf-like Morpho (Michel Lemoine) to kidnap victims. The spy spoof has the same main cast as Franco's Kiss Me Monster from the same year.

SAFARI 3000

(MGM, 1980) D: Harry Hurwitz S: Michael Harreschou P: Arthur Gardner, Jules V. Levy S. Africa

David Carradine is a Hollywood stuntman race car driver in a trans-Africa race. He's forced to take along a Playboy photographer (Stockard Channing). The PG-rated comedy action movie includes Christopher Lee as Count Borgia and Hamilton Camp. Carradine had already been in Death Race 2000 and Cannonball, also both about cross-country races.

A SAFE PLACE

(1971) D/S: Henry Jaglom P: Bert Schneider

Tuesday Weld stars as a young hippie who relives her life in her mind, and becomes stuck in time. Orson Welles is a (real?) magician who wants to make animals in the Central Park Zoo disappear. Jack Nicholson costars in the seldom seen, largely improvised experimental New York City feature with Philip Proctor and Gwen Welles. Weld, Welles, and Nicholson smoke pot. Welles' last film (Someone to Love, 1987) was also by Jaglom. The GP-rated Columbia release was backed by BBS, who had also done Easy Rider and The Last Movie.

SAGA OF THE DRACULAS: See DRACULA—THE BLOODLINE CONTINUES

SAHARA

(MGM, 1983) D: Andrew V. McLaglen S: James R. Silke P: Golan/Globus

In 1927, Brooke Shields disguises herself as a boy in order to enter a cross-country car race in the Sahara desert. She falls for Sheik Jaffar (Lambert Wilson), who kidnaps her. With John Rhys-Davies as a bad Arab, Horst Buchholz, Perry Lang, Ronald Lacey, Sir John Mills, and Steve Forrest. Cannon made the PG flop, Brooke's last theatrical release as a star (unless you count Brenda Starr).

SAIGON COMMANDOS

(Media, 1988) D: Clark Henderson S: Thomas McKelvey Cleaver P: John Schouweiler, Isabel Sumayao

Richard Young stars as Sgt. Stryker, and P. J. Soles is a reporter who discovers corrupt politicians are behind drug-related murders in South Vietnam. From Concorde.

SAINT JACK

(Vestron, 1979) D/A: Peter Bogdanovich S: Howard Sackler, Paul Theroux P: Roger Corman

Ben Gazzara stars as Jack Flowers, an American pimp in early 70s Singapore. The New World release is based on a novel by Paul Theroux. Robby Muller shot it on location and Hugh Hefner was an

The Saint

The Saint was created by Leslie Charteris in 1928. He's Simon Templar, a very cool Londoner who steals only from criminals and is wanted by Scotland Yard. The Saint in New York was the first film (from RKO in 1938). Louis Hayward starred. RKO then made five more (1938–41) with George Sanders and The Saint's Vacation (1941) with Hugh Sinclair. The Saint Strikes Back (1938) is on tape from Turner. Republic made The Saint Meets the Tiger (1943) starring Hugh Sinclair and Hayward returned for The Saint's Girl Friday (1954) for RKO. The last three were filmed in England, where Roger Moore became the Saint on TV (1967–69). Vendetta for the Saint (1969) with Moore, is a feature-length episode and 7 volumes of the series (2 shows each) are available from IVE. Ian Ogilvy took the role on TV in 1978. Several attempts have been made since to revive the TV series. And a movie is in the works.

executive producer. With Denholm Elliot, Joss Ackland, George Lazenby, and a mostly Asian support cast. Bogdanovich started out as Corman's assistant director on The Wild Angels (1966).

THE SAINT'S GIRL FRIDAY

(1954) D: Seymour Friedman S: Allan Mackinnon P: Anthony Hinds UK (The Saint Returns)

Louis Hayward stars as the Saint in a mystery from Hammer films. He goes after the killers of his ex-girlfriend. With Naomi Chanes and Diana Dors. Hayward had been the first actor to play the Saint in The Saint in New York (back in 1938). RKO released his second go-round in America.

THE SALAMANDER

(Charter, 1980) D: Peter Zimmer S: Robert Katz P: Paul Maslansky US/Italy/UK

A colonel (Franco Nero) tries to stop a modern-day fascist plot to take over Italy. It's based on a novel by Morris L. West. With an all-star cast including Anthony Quinn, Martin Balsam, Eli Wallach, Christopher Lee, Sybil Danning, Paul Smith, and Claudia Cardinale.

SALO, OR THE 120 DAYS OF SODOM

(Water Bearer, 1975) D/S: Pier Paolo Pasolini Italy

Pasolini updated a novel by the Marquis de Sade and set it in a villa in the fascist Salo Republic in Italy during the end of WWII. Scenes of the torture of naked teenagers—including shit eating (it was really chocolate), piss drinking, and rape (all faked)—helped make it one of the most controversial features of all time. U.A., which had distributed Pasolini's previous features in America, passed on this one. John Waters has called it "beautiful" and praised the sets and sound. The director was bludgeoned to death by a teenage boy while this, his last feature, was being edited. Salo was originally nearly two hours long and is subtitled. Criterion offers it on laser disc (at about 112 minutes). It made news in 1994 when videos sold in a (gay) bookstore were seized by police in Cincinnati.

SALT IN THE WOUND

(Interglobal, 1969) D/S: Theodoro Ricci S: Piero Regnoli Italy (Il Dito Nella Piaga)

Klaus Kinski, George Hilton, and Ray Saunders are in a WWII battle movie set in Italy. The stars are American soldiers, one black, one white.

SALVATION! HAVE YOU SAID YOUR PRAYERS TODAY?

(Vista, 1987) D/S/P: Beth B. S: Tom Robinson P: Michael H. Shomberg

Beth B. codirected underground films in New York City (Vortex was the last), then made some rock videos. Her background shows in this professional satire. It has scary, believable lower-class unemployed Americans. Exene (from the group X) becomes a popular, rich, born-again, heavy metal Christian TV crusader after getting to know the famous Jimmy Swaggart–type Rev. Randall (played by Steven McHattie). Salvation has comedy, violence, erotic sex, a good modern rock soundtrack by groups I thought I didn't like (Cabaret Voltaire, New Order), and unpredictable plot moves. Also with the very sexy Dominique Davalos and Rockets Redglare.

SAMSON AND DELILAH

(Paramount, 1949) D/P: Cecil B. DeMille S: Jesse Lasky Jr., Frederick M. Frank

Victor Mature is Samson and Hedy Lamarr cuts his hair. The ending, where Samson, whose eyes have been burned out, brings down the Philistine temple, was a big crowd pleaser, and the 128-minute Technicolor Biblical epic from Paramount was a smash hit. Lines like "Your tongue will dig your grave" help too. George Sanders costars as the Saran of Gaza. With Angela (Murder, She Wrote) Lansbury, Henry Wilcoxon, Fritz Leiber, Frank Reicher, George Reeves, Mike Mazurki, Tom Tyler, and Rusty Tamblyn as the young King Saul. DeMille only made two more epics, The Greatest Show on Earth (1952) and a remake of his own The Ten Commandments (1956), two of the biggest-grossing features of the 50s. Mature was also in a 1984 Samson TV remake (available from Prism) as Samson's father.

SAMSON AND HIS MIGHTY CHALLENGE

(Sinister, 1964) D: Giorgio Capitani S: Sandro Continenza, Roberto Gianvitu Italy

Alan Steel (Sergio Ciani) stars as Samson in an adventure featuring Hercules, Maciste, and Ursus too.

SAMURAI

(SW, 1944) D/S: Raymond Cannon P: Ben Mindenberg

This has to be one of the most outrageous (and cheapest looking) American WWII propaganda movies. A Samurai priest in California grooms Ken, a young Japanese orphan, to serve "His Satanic Majesty." Eventually Ken (Paul Fung) smuggles secret plans in his paintings, kills his English school friend, helps doctor news photos in Shanghai, kills his own adoptive parents, prepares for the invasion of California, and becomes governor! The priest commits hari-kari and is decapitated at the end. Chinese actors play Japanese characters, and newsreel footage of wartime misery in China is used. It was released by Calvacade Pictures in 1945, too late to make much impact at the box office.

SAMURAI (1974): See SHOOT FIRST

SAMURAI

(1979) D: Lee H. Katzin S: Jerry Ludwig P: Allan Balter, Ronald Jacobs

Joe Penny stars as a "half Asian" San Francisco D.A. who becomes a hero Samurai at night and battles a villain with an earthquake machine. The ridiculous pilot film was aired by NBC. With James Shigeta, Geoffrey Lewis, and Michael Pataki. Danny Thomas was an executive producer.

SANDCASTLES

(1972) D: Ted Post S: Stephen & Elinor Karpf, James M. Miller P: Gerald I. Isenberg

Bonnie Bedelia falls in love with the ghost of a long-haired young man (Jan-Michael Vincent) who was killed in a car crash. With Herschel Bernardi, Mariette Hartley, and Gary Crosby. The CBS-TV movie was videotaped on the coast of Malibu.

SANDERS OF THE RIVER

(1963) D/S: Lawrence Huntington S/P: Harry Alan Towers S: Nicholas Roeg, Kevin Kavanaugh UK/W. Germany (Death Drums Along the River)

Richard Todd stars as a police inspector in Africa in a remake of Edgar Wallace's novel. It had been filmed as a Paul Robeson movie in 1935 (available from Nelson). With Albert Lieven, Walter Rilla, and Marianne Koch. Towers followed it with a sequel, Coast of Skeletons (1965).

SANDRA, THE MAKING OF A WOMAN

(SW, 1970) D/S/C/E: Gary Graver S: Robert Aiken (I Am Sandra)

Monica Gayle, a vet of many nudie movies, stars as an unhappy dyed blonde living with a drunken slob father in a small town. The cinematography is very arty and some of the editing is pretty amazing. During one confusing flashback (to when her father caught her mother with another man), he drives a car over a cliff—she climaxes—then the car blows up! When Sandra hitches to San Francisco, she rents an apartment from Uschi Digart, who mentions the "wacancy." She has encounters with a lingerie salesman and a biker before falling for her new boss, a shrink. The print is very jumpy and a lesbian scene with Uschi is missing, as is another scene with Eric Stern (The Love Butcher) in drag. Graver shoots most of Fred Olen Ray's movies, and he still directs, too.

SANDS OF BEERSHEBA

(1965) D/S/P: Alexander Ramati US/Israel (Mordei ha'or)

During the Palestinian War of 1948, an American (Diane Baker) falls in love with her late fiancé's friend, an Israeli gunrunner. AIP released the b/w movie in America.

SANDY THE RELUCTANT NATURE GIRL

(1963) D: Stanley Pelc S: S.M.C. Mitchell P: Michael Deeley (The Reluctant Nudist)

David, a nudist, lies to his girlfriend Sandy about where he goes on weekends. She (Annette Briand) hires a detective to follow him, then hides in the trunk of his car. Of course she joins the camp at the end of the Eastmancolor feature.

SANGAREE

(1953) D: Edward Ludwig S: David Duncan P: William H. Pine

Fernando Lamas is an indentured servant who rises to power in 1780s colonial Georgia. Arlene Dahl co-stars in the 3-D and Technicolor Paramount release, based on a novel by Frank Slaughter. With Patricia Medina and Tom Drake.

SANTA AND THE ICE CREAM BUNNY

(United, 1972) D: Barry Mahon, R. Winer

A narrator informs us that Santa Claus (he's skinny and too young) is "stuck in the sand, way down in Florida." Santa just sits there, sweating and thinking, then lip synchs a song. Some kids (one has a "Keep on Truckin'" T-shirt) try to help by bringing various real animals (and a gorilla) to try and pull the sleigh. Santa decides to tell them a story and we see Mahon's 1970 color feature Thumbelina, complete with original credits ("Pirates World Presents . . ."). It's really not bad for a kids' matinee movie. Shay Gardner is the appealing singing star. She encounters giant props, a scary forest with talking spiders and frogs, and an old mole man who wants to marry her. Shay also plays a teen girl in a miniskirt listening to the story (which is narrated by a lady mole). Then Santa is rescued by a man in a rabbit suit to justify the stupid title.

SANTA CLAUS

(Silver Screen, 1959) D/S: Rene Cardona, S: Adolfo Portillo P: William Calderon Mexico

A narrator tells us about the kids from all nations and races who visit Santa. Santa plays the organ in a long opening segment in which cute kids, dressed in their native costumes, sing in their own languages. The kids are from all over S. America, Asia, America, and "even Russia," and the kids from Africa wear loincloths and have bones on their heads. Devils (with tails and pitchforks) dance in a fiery cave and one (Pip) is sent to Earth, where he uses three bad little boys (in leather jackets) to help him sabotage Christmas. Some rich kids have everything but aren't loved and poor little Lupita just wants a doll. They all have dream sequences. Merlin helps save the day and all the kids are happy. This hard-to-believe color Mexican movie was a 60s Christmastime matinee staple for years in America thanks to K. Gordon Murray. Maybe you (or your parents) saw it and it made your holiday season bright. Some video versions cut out the African kids.

SANTA CLAUS DEFEATS THE ALIENS = SANTA CLAUS CONQUERS THE MARTIANS

Santa Claus—Mexican style.

SANTA CLAUS: THE MOVIE

(Media, 1985) D: Jeannot Szwarc S: David Newman P: Ilya Salkind, Pierre Spengler

David Huddleston is Santa, Dudley Moore is Patch the elf, and John Lithgow is B.Z. the evil toy manufacturer in a "heartwarming" PG fantasy with the "biggest budget of all time—$50 million." The surefire Christmas release was a box office disaster and that record amount was doubled a few years later by Terminator II. With Burgess Meredith as an ancient elf and Judy Cornwall. Szwarc had also directed the big-budget flop fantasy Supergirl. Bad Santa movie fans should also check out Santa Claus Conquers the Martians (1964). May your next Christmas season be really jolly.

SANTA SANGRE

(Rep., 1989) D/S: Alexander Jodorowsky S/P: Claudio Argento S: Roberto Leoni Italy

Santa Sangre is beautiful, moving, shocking, disgusting, and fascinating throughout. It's partially based on a real Mexican serial killer, partially based on the director's own life, and is packed with symbolism, tattoos, hookers, elephants, blood (lots of blood), and tributes to Luis Buñuel, James Whale, and Tod Browning (especially The Unknown). The director's son, Axel Jodorowsky, stars as a very traumatized young man who has grown up in the circus (as the director himself had). He becomes part of a bizarre mime act with his mother (Blanca Guerra), the leader of a religious cult. With Guy Stockwell and three other Jodorowsky kids. It was produced by Dario Argento's brother (he also backed Deep Red and Suspiria) and Rene Cardona Jr. in Mexico. Argento also brought along excellent music by Simon Boswell (of Goblin) which was released on a soundtrack (not in America, though). Santa Sangre was released in a shorter R version and the uncut (123 minute) NC-17 version, but there's no reason not to see it all. This was Jodorowsky's first released feature since The Holy Mountain (1974). He followed it with the more mainstream Rainbow Thief (1990).

Axel Jodorowsky stars in Santa Sangre.

SANTA VISITS THE LAND OF MOTHER GOOSE

(Sinister, 1967) D/C: Herschell Gordon Lewis P: J. Edwin Baker (The Magic Land of Mother Goose)

This whole (color) movie is a filmed amateur stage play with canned music added. If you've ever seen those great silent fantasy shorts by George Méliès, this looks like an incredibly long, very bad imitation of one of them. There's some (intentional) humor in the wrap-around segments, added for a timely Christmas release. A skinny Santa talks ("Heh Heh Heh!") until he falls asleep in the intro and becomes hysterical and loses it at the end ("Ho Ho! . . . He He! . . . Ha Ha! . . ."). Kinda scary. King Cole talks to everybody, he talks to us, and he talks to a balloon. A witch shows up and yells, "I Hate everybody! . . . None of you will be happy!" and freezes everyone. "Merlin the Magician's" long boring stage magic show uses some optical tricks to help it along. He (Roy Huston) levitates Sleeping Beauty and puts swords through a life-size Raggedy Ann doll (with a death's-head face!). A mention of the (copywritten character) Casper the Ghost was electronically altered to avoid lawsuits. This is the worst Lewis film I've seen (so far). I dare you to sit through it.

SARAH T.—PORTRAIT OF A TEENAGE ALCOHOLIC

(1975) D: Richard Donner S: Richard A. and Esther Shapiro P: David Levinson

Linda Blair is 15-year-old Sarah Travis, teenage alcoholic. Mark Hamill co-stars. It's one of those 70s movies you have to hope to catch on some local TV station. Various adults are played by Larry Hagman, Verna Bloom, William Daniels, Michael Lerner, and M. Emmet Walsh. The NBC-TV movie followed Linda's notorious and highly rated Born Innocent.

SARTANA

(Domovideo, 1968) D/S: "Frank Kramer"/ Gianfranco Parolini S: Renato Izzo W. Germany/Italy (Sartana, Bete Um Deinen Tod)

William Berger stars in a story about a battle for a trunk of gold. John Garko, Klaus Kinski, Sydney Chaplin, and Fernando Sancho costar. It's on tape in Italian only. Several Sartana westerns (with different stars) were made. Kinski was also in Sono Sartana, Il Vestro Becchino (1969).

SASSY SUE

(SW, 1972) D/S: Bethel Buchalew

Sharon Kelly (aka Colleen Brennan) is the main attraction in this outdoor sex comedy, especially when she runs through the woods naked. Some of the sex scenes are nearly hard-core. A woman moos, characters enjoy threesomes, and there's a whipping scene. It ends with a couple outside in an old bathtub. The overpowering hillbilly humor is pretty low. Ma gets stuck in the outhouse and Sassy Sue is a cow that Junior has sex with (no, it's not shown). Harvey Forman co-stars.

SATANIC ATTRACTION

(Complete, 1990) D/S: Fauzi Mansur
S: Filipe Grecco P: J. Davila Brazil

It starts with black people dancing by a waterfall, then shows blond kids (a brother and sister) participating in a blood ceremony. "Fourteen years later" at Sun Coast, a guy stabs a woman on the beach, cuts off her foot, and feeds her remains to a lion. He collects her blood in a bucket and pours it on his sister's grave. More killings occur (a hatchet to a head . . .) and Fernanda, a local DJ, has the whole town talking about her on-the-air horror stories which always seem to come true. During a nightmare scene involving a corpse, the film itself was scratched for a weird cheap effect. This didn't make all that much sense to me and the dubbing is sometimes awkward or laughable, but I liked the fact that people ate mangoes after a sex scene.

(THE SATANIC) RITES OF DRACULA

(Liberty/ABC, 1973) D: Alan Gibson
S: Don Houghton P: Roy Skeggs
UK (Count Dracula and His Vampire Bride)

A satanic cult made up of rich influential men gets hold of a deadly plague bacteria. The cult seems to be run by an Oriental woman (Barbara Yu-Ling) with a dragon jacket, who commands a group of biker thug snipers in fur vests! A nude blonde on a sacrificial altar becomes a vampire. More female vampires are kept chained in the basement. Dracula (Christopher Lee), the real villain, disguised as a Howard Hughes–type tycoon, wants the "supreme blasphemy"—armageddon! Unfortunately, most of the movie's deaths are by guns. Peter Cushing shows up as Van Helsing again and Joanna Lumley (later on the Absolutely Fabulous series) is his daughter. A government agent (Michael Coles) who didn't even believe in vampires instantly knows how to kill them with a stake. Lee's European accent comes and goes, and after the promise of a great conspiracy theme movie, his last on-screen vampire death is caused by a thorn bush! With Freddie Jones and William Franklin. In America, the last Hammer Dracula film starring Lee was shelved by Warner Brothers, announced to be released by AIP, then over five years later was badly released by the independent Dynamite company, cut for an R rating.

SATAN IN HIGH HEELS

(SW, 1962) D: Jerald Intrator S: John T. Chapman P: Leonard M. Burton

Stacey Kane (Meg Myles), a carny burlesque dancer, robs her junkie ex-husband, goes to NYC, and gets a job at a high-class club. She becomes the mistress of the wealthy owner, seduces his piano-playing son (assistant director Del Tenney), and causes a murder. In a stand-out scene, Stacey, with leather clothes and a riding crop, sings "More Deadly Than the Male." With Grayson Hall and Sabrina (as herself), who sings. It was filmed (in b/w) at La Martinique club. Myles's nude swim scene was cut to PG status in this U.S. version. A jazz soundtrack (from Parker Records) was released and a paperback novelization was published! Meg Myles went on to soap opera roles (All My Children), Hall was a regular on Dark Shadows, and Tenney made Horror of Party Beach!

THE SATAN KILLER

(AIP, 1993) D: Stephan Calamari
S: Edward Benton, James Brandauer
P: Joel Silverman, Ross Borden (Death Penalty)

A grizzled alcoholic widower detective (Steve Sayre) who kills anybody in his way goes after a tall, laughing, mass-killer biker (Billy Franklin) who rides a Harley. The cop joins a tough impressive old P.I., who grabs people by their eyeballs and says things like "Scum suckin', mother fuckin', ball bitin' death machine." The hero has a nightmare starring his dead wife and the biker has flashbacks of his sexy abusive mother. With a haunted house and sex with a TV reporter (Belinda Borden). The sound is bad and the soft rock is boring, but this is the kind of out-there local movie I can enjoy. Filmed in Virginia Beach and Norfolk, Virginia.

SATAN'S BED

(SW, 1965) D: Marshall Smith, Tamijian
P: Jerry Burke, Roger Wilson

It's Yoko Ono's film debut—in a sleazy adults-only S&M drug movie, partially made by Roberta and Michael Findlay (Snuff). Michael was the photographer and editor and Roberta acted and did the lighting. Satan's Bed is really an earlier "unfinished" feature called Judas City by "Tamijian" with new footage and characters edited in. Yoko (in a kimono) shows up in New York to marry Paulie, who wants out of the drug business. She can't speak English and he's preoccupied, so she's taken to a filthy cheap hotel room. A gangster (in the concrete business) rapes her on the floor (offscreen). He take her to his penthouse and rapes her again. Interwoven with this footage is the sick tale of Snake, Dip, and Angel, addicts in black clothes, who look like part of Andy Warhol's Exploding Plastic Inevitable show. The first line heard is "I'd like to take his needle and shove it in his greedy mouth." They roam around tying up women (Angel helps), and raping them. Finally a Long Island housewife with a gun escapes from the hopped-up trio and footage of Yoko escaping is intercut. Satan's Bed was released about the same time as Help!

SATAN'S BLACK WEDDING

(World, 1974) D/S: "Phillip Miller"/ Steve Millard P: Tamara Brown

This is bad. Everything about it is bad except maybe the enticing video box. Mark (Greg Braddock) comes to Monterey for his sister's funeral. He wants to know why she killed herself. She returns as a vampire (with big teeth) and bites some relatives. Shots of rats are badly edited in. Flashbacks show her working on a book with another woman. A drooling priest (Ray Miles) talks about Satan and a wedding but we never see either. The ending was either never shot or is missing and the tape only runs about an hour. A solo piano and/or synthesizer plays constantly. By the director of Criminally Insane (1973)!

SATAN'S BLADE

(Starmaker, 1984) D: L. Scott Castillo Jr. S: Thomas Cue

In a Friday the 13th copy, a local guy is possessed by the ghost of a mountain man. He kills at a ski lodge where lesbian bank robbers are hiding out.

SATAN'S BLOOD

(All American/Mogul, 1977) D: Carlos Puento
S: Eva Del Castillo P: Francisco Ariza Spain
(Escalofríos; Don't Panic)

This opens with a priest kissing and squeezing the breasts of a naked woman on a sacrificial altar. He has sex with her, then stabs her. What looks like a satanic (almost) porno movie is a good example of the liberalization in Spanish cinema after Franco died (in 1975). It's kind of like early 70s American movies made right after the old censorship system ended. All of a sudden movies packed in as much depravity and nudity as possible. After the credits (all in Spanish), a couple is lured to a castle by a mystery couple who claim to know them. There's a Ouija board séance, lots of thunder and lightning, and nightmare sequences. Their dog is killed and discovered hanging on a butcher hook. Cast members caress each other in the shower, enjoy three-somes and group gropes, and scream loud during orgasms. The host growls like a dog. The hostess (Angel Arand) talks in several voices. They both eat like dogs. A porcelain doll comes to life. People are killed or commit suicide, then return, and a twist ending borrows some ideas from Rosemary's Baby. Executive producer Juan Piquer Simon later directed Pieces and Slugs.

SATAN'S DAUGHTERS = VAMPYRES

SATAN'S PRINCESS

(Paramount, 1989) D/P: Bert I. Gordon
S: Stephan Katz

Gordon, remembered for his 50s giant monster science fiction movies, also made witch movies. This came after The Witching (1971) and The Coming (1980). In a prologue, set in 1654 Barcelona, comedian Jack Carter (!) plays a priest and a diseased monk paints "the Malediction" (also the shooting title). Robert Forster is Lou, the cliché tough, heavy-drinking, divorced ex–LA cop who walks with a cane and has a retarded son, Joey, and a nice girlfriend he treats badly. Nicole (Lydie Denier), the French-Canadian head of a model agency, owns the cursed painting and is really a demon. She takes nude swims and has a lesbian scene with one of her young girl model/victims. She even takes over Joey, who has demon eyes and stabs his surprised father with an ice pick. Lou simply pulls it out, no blood, no pain. He takes Joey to a psychic (Ellen Geer), who jumps out her window. Lou says, "This is worse than a fucking nightmare!" When Nicole transforms in the end she rips her own face off and looks like a woman in a wet suit with a dreadlocks wig. Lou says, "Burn, you fucker!" as he gets out his flamethrower. This movie features more suicides, dream sex sequences, pimps, a man being blown by another man in drag, a topless fire eater, a voyeur's head shoved in a toilet, a naked man slashed with fingernails in a gym, and a Popeye cartoon. With Debra Lamb, Marilyn Joi, Caren Kaye, and Leslie Huntly.

SATAN'S STORYBOOK

(Even Steven, 1989) D: Michael Rider
P/A: Steven K. Arthur

"Star" Ginger Lynn appears on the video box cover and in intro segments for two stories, shot on video. A serial killer picks victims from the phone book and a clown kills himself and goes to hell.

SATAN'S SUPPER: See CATACLYSM

SATISFACTION

(Fox, 1988) D: Joan Freeman
S: Charles Purpura P: Aaron Spelling, Alan Greisman (The Girls of Summer)

Justine Bateman leads a four-girl (and one-guy) band in a mindless PG-13 teen movie. They break into Liam Neeson's beach house because he owns a beach resort. Julia Roberts is the "slut" bassist. Also with Trini Alvarado and Debbie Harry. It's the worst movie (so far) to use a Rolling Stones song for its title. From 20th Century.

SATURDAY NIGHT FEVER

(Paramount, 1977) D: John Badham
S: Norman Wexler P: Robert Stigwood

One of the best-known movies of the 70s, this was responsible for making disco music a hundred times more popular than it already was, made John Travolta (who received an Oscar nomination) a major star, and revived the Bee Gees' singing career. Young modern-day audiences seem fascinated by it, and it even became a midnight hit in LA in 1993. Based on a story by Nik Cohn, it's about young working-class people in Bay Ridge whose lives center around a disco. "You know what I'm talkin'?" Karen Lynn Gorney and Barry Miller costar. With Donna Pescow, Denny Dillon, Fran Drescher, and Monti Rock III as the disco DJ. Screenwriter Wexler also wrote Joe and Mandingo. Lloyd Kaufman (from Troma) was location director. The double RSO soundtrack (now in Goodwills everywhere) was the best-selling movie soundtrack of all time. Staying Alive (1983) was a flop sequel. Available in R and PG-13 versions.

SATURDAY NIGHT SERIALS

(Rhino series)

This was a novel way to break up long serials (and hopefully sell a lot of video tapes). Each 60-minute tape includes one chapter from four different serials made in the 30s (The Phantom Creeps, Phantom Empire, Junior G-Men, and Undersea Kingdom). All four are also available complete and separately.

SATURDAY NIGHT SHOCKERS

(Rhino series)

These double bills also include great movie trailers, old cartoons, and refreshment stand commercials. #1 is The Creeping Terror (1964) and Chained for Life (1950). #2 is Man Beast (1955) and The Human Gorilla (1948). #3 is a Tod Slaughter double bill of Murder in the Red Barn (1935) and The Face at the Window (1939) and #4 is The Monster of Piedra Blancas (1958) and Mesa of Lost Women (1952).

SATURDAY NIGHT SLEAZIES

(Rhino series)

All of these 60s adults-only movies were made by A. C. Stevens (Stephen C. Apostoloff). #1 is College Girl Confidential and Suburban Confidential, #2 is Lady Godiva Meets Tom Jones and Bachelor's Dream, and #3 is Motel Confidential and Office Confidential. All are reviewed elsewhere in this book.

SATURDAY THE 14TH STRIKES BACK

(MGM, 1988) D/S: Howard R. Cohen P: Julie Corman

A house is built on an entrance to Hell and monsters (a female vampire, a werewolf . . .) attack a kid (Jason Presson) on his birthday. Footage from earlier Corman movies shows up in this cheap PG sequel from Concorde, and vampire women sing and dance. With Ray Walston as Gramps, Avery Schreiber and Patty McCormack as the parents, Leo Gordon, and Michael Berryman as a mummy. Cohen also directed Saturday the 14th (Embassy, 1981) from Corman's New World.

THE SAUCY AUSSIE

(1963) D/P: Walter Bowley (The Obscene Couch)

An Australian tourist in San Francisco is given some headache pills that make him hallucinate. All of a sudden, he can see through women's clothes. The 65-minute color nudie feature is in the tradition of The Immoral Mr. Teas and Paradisio.

SAVAGE!

(1973) D/P: Cirio H. Santiago
S: Ed Medard Philippines (Black Valor)

Ex–Pittsburgh Pirates player James Inglehart (also in Bamboo Gods . . .) stars as "the Savage" in South America. He's arrested by rebels and eventually joins them and fights the authorities with the help of a female task force. With Carol Speed (Abby) and Lada Edmund Jr. From New World.

SAVAGE ABDUCTION

(Genesis, 1973) D/S/P: John Lawrence
(Numbered Days, Cycle Psycho)

A lawyer (Stanley Kubrick regular Joseph Turkel) hires a necrophiliac psycho to kill his wife. The man then blackmails him and he seeks revenge. The cast includes Tom Drake and Stafford Repp (from the Batman TV series). With female bikers, machetes, hacksaws, and knives as weapons. Johnny Legend worked on the Cinemation release.

SAVAGE ATTRACTION

(1983) D/S: Frank Shields S: John Lind
W. Germany/Australia (Hostage: The Christine Maresch Story)

An Australian woman (Kerry Mack) is held captive and forced to help rob banks by her new husband, a psychotic German neo-Nazi (Ralph Schicha). It's based on an actual early 70s case.

SAVAGE BEACH

(RCA, 1989) D/S: Andy Sidaris P: Arlene Sidaris

A lone Japanese WWII soldier still guarding some gold on an island helps some stranded women. Dona Speir and Hope Marie Carlton star for the third (and last) time as government drug enforcers in Hawaii. The action-and-sex movie features Communists, four Playboy centerfolds, and one Playgirl centerfold. With John Aprea and Bruce Penhall as naval officers, Teri Weigel, Patty Duffek, Al Leong, Rodrigo Obregon, and Gary Hertz.

SAVAGE DAWN

(Bingo, 1984) D: Simon Nuchtern S: William P. Milling, Max Bloom P: Gregory Earls

Bikers led by William Forsythe terrorize a small western town in a Mad Max copy with comedic touches. Lance Henriksen is Stryker, the blond hero. Karen Black is kidnapped, yells, screams, and is in a cat fight. George Kennedy sits in a motororized wheelchair with a flamethrower and a rocket launcher. Also with Richard Lynch as a weak and horny preacher, Leo Gordon as the sheriff, Elizabeth Kaitan, Claudia Udy, and a dwarf. Henriksen and Forsythe were later in a better biker movie, Stone Cold.

SAVAGE DAWN (1983): See STRYKER

SAVAGE GRINGO

(1965) D: Mario Bava, Jesus Navarro D/S: Antonio Romano Italy/Spain (Ringo del Nebraska)

Ken Clark and Yvonne Bastien star in a western released in America by AIP TV. It was credited to Romano, but is said to be the work of Bava. On tape in Germany it's called Nebraska Jim.

THE SAVAGE GUNS

(1962) D: Michael Carreras S: Edmund Morris P: Jimmy Sangster UK

Richard Basehart is a wounded gunman hiding out in Mexico in a western filmed in Spain by Hammer studio regulars. With Don Taylor, Alex Nicol, Paquita Rico, and Fernando Rey. An MGM color release.

SAVAGE HARVEST

(1981) D: Robert Collins S: Robert Blees P: Ralph Helfer, Sandy Howard

Lions attack a family in Africa. Tom Skerritt and Michelle Phillips are the parents in the PG feature.

SAVAGE INMATES

(TZ, 1976) D: Hubert Frank S: Jean-Lacques Duval Germany/France (Island of 1000 Delights)

There's lots of nudity, S&M, and violence in this tale of slavery and casino gambling. Olivia Pascal co-stars. This has played (heavily cut) on Showtime.

THE SAVAGE INNOCENTS

(1959) D/S: Nicholas Ray P: Maleno Malenotti France/UK/Italy (Les Dents du Diable)

Anthony Quinn stars as Inuk the Eskimo in this underrated documentary-style feature. He marries Asiak (Toko Tani) and they travel to an outpost and witness how crazy white men have corrupted others with drink and music. "Sexy Rock" plays on the jukebox. Back at the igloo, Inuk accidentally kills a missionary who refuses to sleep with his wife and is arrested by Canadian troopers. With Peter O'Toole (who was dubbed) and Anna May Wong. Producer Malenotti co-directed Slave Trade in the World Today, and this movie has some very "mondo" moments. It inspired Dylan to write the hit "The Mighty Quinn."

SAVAGE INSTINCT

(AIP, 1989) D/S/P: Patrick G. Donahue (Edge of Fear; They Call Me Macho Woman)

Debra Sweaney is a young big-city widow who witnesses a backwoods drug smuggling operation. Mongo (Brian Oldfield, an Olympic winner) and his gang try to wipe her out with hatchets, ankle blades, and throwing nails. Mongo has a spike on his head for ramming people. She escapes, hides in the woods, and later attacks back with axes and spikes. Men are impaled, stabbed, and whipped. Ads said, "Born to Shop—I Learned to Kill!" Troma released it.

SAVAGE INTRUDER

(Unicorn, 1968) D/S/P: Donald Wolfe (The Comeback; Hollywood Horror House)

Thirties star Miriam Hopkins (in her last role) plays a Sunset Boulevard–type former star living in a mansion (actually the Norma Talmadge estate) managed by Gale Sondergaard. John David Garfield (the lookalike son of the late John Garfield) plays the pushy, sarcastic new live-in personal attendant—with an attaché case full of weapons. Garfield has frequent disturbing and grotesque psychedelic flashbacks, the Oriental female cook is decapitated, and a midget offers coke and acid at a hippie party. Hopkins imagines (?) herself "Queen of the Christmas parade" and (in her late 60s) has a nearly topless scene. Some effects are good for the time, like when a bloody hand is chopped off. Others are terrible, like when an obvious mannequin stands in for a "dismembered body." And former Stooge Joe Besser plays a tour bus driver. What more could you want?

SAVAGE ISLAND

(Force, 1984) D: Edward Muller D/S: Nicholas Beardsley S: Michelle Tomski P: Robert Amante, Mark Alabiso

Linda Blair "stars" in some footage (by Beardsley) added to the Italian movie Escape from Hell. The tropical women-in-prison movie stars the black American/Brazilian Ajita Wilson and Anthony Steffen. Wilson, who died in 1987, was a major sex star in Europe. This movie has lots of nudity and violence. Charles Band and his Empire company was responsible for the rip-off theatrical release. The original Blairless version is also available as Hellfire on Ice II.

THE SAVAGE IS LOOSE

(VCI, 1974) D/S/P/A: George C. Scott (Savage)

A shipwrecked family at the turn of the century are stuck on an island for many years. When the father (Scott) dies, an incestuous relationship develops between the mother (Scott's real-life wife Trish Van Devere) and their son (John David Carson). With Lee Montgomery. Scott, who had turned down his Oscar for playing Patton (1970), also distributed his movie himself. His other movie as director/star was Rage (1972).

SAVAGE JUSTICE

(1988) D: Joey Romero S: David Howard, Parker Bratel P: Lope V. Juban, Rod M. Confesor Philippines

An American ambassador's daughter gets involved in a revolution. The revenge story features Buddhist monk martial arts fighters and a midget landlord. The director is probably the son of director Eddie Romero.

SAVAGE LUST

(AIP, 1989) D/S: Joseph Laraz P: Brian Smedley-Aston, Angel Somolinos (Deadly Manor)

Six young people on vacation pick up a fugitive hitchhiker and go to an old abandoned house. A gloved mystery killer picks them off and a flashback eventually explains who and why. There are nude photos and a sex nightmare, but the visual highlight is a Big Boy statue. With William Russell and Jenifer DeLora. It was made (by people who used to make movies in England) in Suffern, N.Y., near Bear Mountain.

SAVAGE PASSION: See RAMRODDER

SAVAGES FROM HELL

(SW, 1968) D/S: Joseph Prieto S: Reuben Guberman (Big Enough and Old Enough)

This one concerns racism and revenge in Florida. The good guys are poor Hispanic migrant workers (called "beanheads" by the locals) and a black gas station owner (played by Cyril Poitier!). Bobbie Byers co-stars and Viola Lloyd is the naive teenage Teresa. The bad bikers are led by a guy named Hi Test (William P. Kelley). The R-rated color feature has instrumental rock music, a beach party, lots of wigs, body painting, a cat fight, and a kidnaping. It all ends in the swamp. The Naples, Florida, customized swamp buggy race on a flooded track is almost worth the price of the tape. The director (and most of the crew) were Cuban exiles.

SAVAGE SISTERS

(VSOM, 1974) D/P: Eddie Romero S: H. Franco Moon, Harry Corner P/A: John Ashley Philippines

Gloria Hendry is an interrogation officer at an island prison camp who saves two female thieves played by Rosanna Ortiz and Cheri Caffaro (from the Ginger movies). Soon, you've got a black, a white, and an Oriental woman, running around in cut-offs with machine guns—a perfect drive-in movie situation. John Ashley co-stars as a playboy. Villains Sid Haig and Vic Diaz are buried up to their necks in the sand at the end and drown. Ashley retired from acting after co-starring in this AIP release, Black Mamba (never released in America), and Black Mama, White Mama.

SAVAGES OF THE SEAS

(Video Specialists, 1925) D: Bruce Mitchell

Frank Merrill (who went on to play Tarzan twice) stars in this rediscovered indy silent adventure (from Hercules Films). Most of it takes place on a sailing ship and there's a fairly involved plot with a mutiny and the hero falling for his own sister (who turns out to have been adopted) and battling a corrupt rich man (who turns out to be his father). Merrill has a lot of fight scenes. The silliest part is the wide paved (LA) streets supposedly on a South Sea Island. With music and tinted scenes.

SAVAGE STREETS

(Vestron, 1984) D: Danny Steinmann
S: Norman Yonemoto P: John C. Strong III

Linda Blair stars in one of her most popular exploitation hits as a nice girl turned LA vigilante with a crossbow. She leads the all-female Satins in fights against the male Scars for revenge after her deaf-mute sister (Linnea Quigley) is raped in the high school. Blair has a nude bathtub scene. With John Vernon (Chained Heat) as the principal, Debra Blee, Suzanne Slater, and Kristi Somers. It was rated X, then rerated R.

SAVAGE VENGANCE

(Magnum, 1992) D/S/A: Donald Farmer
P: Barney Griner

Camille Keaton (billed as "Linda Lehl") more or less re-creates her famous I Spit on Your Grave revenge role, 14 years later. Director Farmer plays a goofy psycho and gives himself frequent freeze frame close-ups. His rapist buddy has Elvis hair. The rapists (and their victims) keep their pants on and there's lots of walking and running through the woods in this lowly Southern shot-on-tape exploitation release. Melissa Moore sings with a band in a club scene. The tape has some bad sound dubbing problems and the title is not our typo. It's part of a bogus "I Will Dance on Your Grave" series.

SAVAGE WEEKEND

(Paragon, 1976) D/S/P: David Paulson
P: John Mason Kirby (The Upstate Murders; The Killer Behind the Mask)

Two families on vacation in the woods are killed off by a masked killer who at one point uses a chainsaw. It's not good, but it was made before Friday the 13th and has a few name actors (Christopher Allport, David Gale, and William Sanderson) and nudity. Cannon released it in 1981. Paulson also directed Schizoid (1980), a Cannon film with Klaus Kinski.

SAVAGE WILD

(1970) D/S/P/A: Gordon Eastman

A cameraman below the Arctic Circle raises three timber wolves. Bounty hunters in a plane try to kill them. The G-rated AIP feature was filmed in the Yukon territory.

SAVE ME

(Columbia, 1993) D: Alan Roberts
S: Neil Ronco P: Alan Amiel

This unrated "erotic thriller" has a very minimal cliché plot and lots of sex scenes featuring Lysette Anthony from Dark Shadows (the 1991 version) and Harry Hamlin. The sex-by-a-fire and the sex-while-watching-a-naked-woman-through-a-two-way-mirror scenes are pretty good, but the rest is a bore. Also with a wasted support cast: Michael Ironside as her doctor who runs a clinic, Bill Nunn (with fake gray hair) as a cop, Steve Railsback, Olivia Hussey, and Joseph Campanella. By the director of The Happy Hooker Goes to Hollywood (with help from Fred Olen Ray). An R version is also available.

SCALPS

(Marquee, 1982) D/S: Fred Olen Ray P: T. L. Langford

Ray's first movie that got distribution was filmed in 16mm and was inspired by William Grefe's Death Curse of Tartu (1967). Students unleash an Indian spirit and die by decapitation, scalping, and an arrow in the eye. Scalps makes Tartu look good. With bit parts by Kirk (Superman) Alyn, Carroll Borland (Mark of the Vampire), and Forrest J. Ackerman. The final credits announce a sequel that never appeared. This was on a double tape with Slayer.

SCANNER COP

(Republic, 1993) D/P: Pierre David
S: George Saunders, John Bryant Canada

Daniel Quinn (also in Dead Bang) stars as a good guy scanner, the adopted son of a late LA cop. Richard Lynch is a cop-killer villain, whose injections cause hallucinations. Hilary Shepard is his sexy fortune-teller assistant and Darlanne Fluegel is a blond police shrink. Ephemerol is the drug that can control scanners. With some good hallucination scenes, nightmares, flashbacks, and one exploding head (John Carl Buechler did the FX). Luca Bercovici is in it and there are small roles by Brion James and Cydi Pass. Rene Malo was executive producer. Scanners—The Showdown was a sequel.

SCANNERS—THE SHOWDOWN

(Republic, 1994) D: Steve Barnett
S: Mark Sevi P: Pierre David
Canada (Scanner Cop II: Volkin's Revenge)

In what could have been called Scanners 5, Daniel Quinn returns as Sam, the LA scanner cop who wants to find out who his mother was. This time Patrick Kilpatrick is basically a serial killer scanner/vampire who saps the power from other scanners. A new kind of Ephemerol has been developed without side effects. Sam has a research center girlfriend (Khrystyne Haje), also a scanner, and he has many b/w flashbacks. With Stephen Mendel, Robert Forster, and Jewel Shepard in a bit part. John Carl Buechler handled the FX again. Bladder FX are used for death scenes, and one head explodes. The entire series is better than average.

SCANNERS II: THE NEW ORDER

(Media, 1990) D: Christian Duguay
S: B. J. Nelson P: Rene Malo Canada

The cinematography, special effects, and action sequences are excellent in this sequel to David Cronenberg's 1981 hit and yes, more heads blow up real good. David Hewlett plays David, a nice vet student who doesn't know he's the son of the character Cameron Vale (and is a scanner). Deborah Raffin is his sister. An evil police chief (Yvan Ponton) uses junkie-like scanners at the Neurological Institute for his "new order" law enforcement plans. A scary long-haired scanner (Raoul Trujillo) causes chaos at a video arcade and eventually has it out with the good scanners. Filmed in Montreal. Several versions were shot for different markets, and it was shot back to back with Scanners III.

SCANNERS III: THE TAKEOVER

(Republic, 1991) D: Christian Duguay S: B. J. Nelson, Julie Richard, David Preston P: Rene Malo

Liliana Komorowska (a Polish actress) stars as a bad ambitious scanner who takes over a pharmaceutical corporation. Her scanner brother (Steve Parrish) goes to Thailand to meditate and learn to control his powers. Scanners III has an awesome exploding head scene, guns, kung fu, kickboxing, some good stunts, and Komorowska makes a good villainess (and does nudity). There's more comedy this time, though, and the wisecracks, gags, and some real dumb parts bring it down a few notches. Also with Valerie Valois and Daniel Pilon. It was shot in Montreal by the director of Scanners II. Scanner Cop followed.

THE SCARECROW

(1981) D/S: Sam Pillsbury S: Michael Heath
P: Rob Whitehouse New Zealand
(Klynham Summer)

A small-town boy in the 1940s has problems with a bully, and a sleazy psycho killer (John Carradine!) shows up. The PG feature is based on a novel by Ronald Hugh Morrieson. Jonathan Smith and Daniel McLaren star.

Raoul Trujillo in Scanners II.

SCARECROWS

(Forum, 1988) D/S/P/E: William Wesley
S: Richard Jeffries P: Cami Winikoff

Some military guys steal $3 million, kidnap a pilot and his daughter, and hijack their plane. They all parachute into a graveyard near a southern California farm where three possessed scarecrows attack with pitchforks. The victims become zombies. Ted Vernon and Michael Sims star. It was filmed in Florida and is pretty slow, dark, and dreary. Available in R or bloodier unrated tapes.

SCARED STIFF

(1945) D: Frank McDonald S: Geoffrey Homes P: William Pine, William Thomas

Jack Haley (the Tin Woodsman from The Wizard of Oz) stars as the nervous chess editor at a newspaper who accidentally ends up in a tavern run by two weird brothers (both are Lucien Littlefield) where murders occur. Ann Savage (from Detour) co-stars with Barton MacLane as a gangster after gold chess pieces, Veda Ann Borg as a detective, and Roger Pryor. The forgotten Paramount comedy release was based on the play The Ghost Breakers, which had been filmed already in 1914, 1922, and the best known version in 1940 with Bob Hope. It was remade yet again (as Scared Stiff) in 1953 starring Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis. At least the other sound versions had zombies. Haley also starred in the horror comedy One Body Too Many (1939).

SCARED STIFF

(Republic, 1986) D/S: Richard Friedman
S: Mark Frost P: Daniel F. Bacaner

An ex–mental patient and her son move into a haunted Southern house that 19th-century slaves had cursed. It has gore, flashbacks, nightmare scenes, and time travel, and is pretty dumb. Screenwriter Frost went on to create Twin Peaks with David Lynch. With Andrew Stevens (who becomes possessed) and Mary Page Keller.

SCARED TO DEATH

(Video Treasures, 1980) D/S: William Malone
P: Rand Marlis, Gil Shelton

Genetic experiments result in a tall (Alien-type) monster called Syngenor in the sewers of LA. The monster sucks out human spinal fluid with its needle tongue, and an ex-cop and a black detective investigate the murders. Malone was the chief designer at the famous Don Post mask studios. This movie wasn't released until 1984. An unofficial sequel was called Syngenor (1990).

SCARE THEIR PANTS OFF!

(SW, 1968) D/S/E: John Maddox P: Ronald Sullin

This cheap-looking b/w adult sex comedy is like a bad, filmed play. A man with a mutant face covered by a metal mask narrates with a mechanical voice. Some women in a room with peepholes are drugged and briefly seen topless. Some guys attempt to torture them. The music is strange and characters talk a lot. The director was also a cameraman for Monterey Pop.

SCARFACE

(MCA, 1983) D: Brian DePalma S: Oliver Stone
P: Martin Bregman, Peter Saphier M: Georgio Moroder

Scarface is one of the ultimate trash classics. It lost money at the box office but is the best movie DePalma ever made, all 170 minutes of it. The advance publicity for a "shocking" chainsaw killing was nonsense (nothing is shown) but Scarface did break a swearing record (fuck is said "206" times) and shows more cocaine than any other feature in memory. It was based on Ben Hecht's script for the 1932 original (look for it on MCA), but having the gangsters be unwanted Cubans brought into America by a deal President Carter made and throwing in more vicious Colombians made it even better. Al Pacino stars as Tony Montana with Steven Bauer (a.k.a. Esteban Rocky Echevarría) making his film debut as his partner in crime. With Michelle Pfeiffer, Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio as Tony's sister, Robert Loggia, F. Murray Abraham, Paul Shenar, and Harris Yulin. Katt Shea, Angela Aames, and Lana Clarkson all show up at the Babylon. The score is on MCA.

SCARLET STREET

(Video Yesterday, 1945) D/P: Fritz Lang
S: Dudley Nichols

Edward G. Robinson is Criss Cross, the henpecked New York City bookkeeper and amateur artist whose life is ruined when he meets Kitty (Joan Bennett) and her pimp (Dan Duryea). She becomes a famous artist passing off his paintings as her own. He ends up sleeping on park benches. The ice pick stabbing scene was considered very shocking at the time. It's a remake of Renoir's La Chine (1931) and has been colorized. The three stars had also been in Lang's Woman in the Window (1944).

SCARY MOVIE

(Generic, 1991) D/S/P: Daniel Erickson S: David Lane Smith, Mark Voges P: Keith Brunson

Warren (John Hawkes) is a sweaty nervous nerd character who acts like a psychotic Don Knotts, but this is no comedy. He's so scared that he somehow gets lost in a spook house on Halloween, while an escaped maniac is rumored to be in the area. One attraction is a chainsaw room. The music, cinematography (and the spook house itself) are all impressive, and the ending is clever, but it's slow going and nothing much happens. Roky Erickson and the Butthole Surfers are on the soundtrack. It was made in Driftwood, Texas (near Austin), and an unrecognizable Butch Patrick is in it. Hawkes was also in Futurekill and From Dusk to Dawn.

SCAVENGER HUNT

(Fox, 1979) D: Michael Schultz
S/P: Stephen A. Vail S: Henry Harper

If you want to see a lot of name stars make fools of themselves, look for this comedy. In the opening scene Vincent Price is a millionaire who dies in bed while recording his will. Robert Morley reads the will, and various relatives have to collect "100 items" to qualify. Richard Benjamin stars with (among others) Richard Mulligan, Arnold Schwarzenegger, James Coco, Scatman Crothers, Ruth Gordon, Cloris Leachman, Cleavon Little, Tony Randall, Roddy McDowell, Dirk Benedict, Meat Loaf, and Carol Wayne. From 20th Century. Schultz had also directed the all-star Sgt. Pepper movie (1978).

SCENES FROM THE CLASS STRUGGLE IN BEVERLY HILLS

(Virgin, 1989) D/A: Paul Bartel
S: Bruce Wagner P: James C. Katz

The stars of Eating Raoul were reunited for this R-rated sex comedy about servants Ray Sharkey (playing a bisexual) and Robert Beltran making a bet about who can have sex with their female bosses first. A TV star (Jacqueline Bisset) and her neighbor (Mary Woronov) are the targets. With Ed Begley Jr., Wallace Shawn, Arnetia Walker (in the best sex scene), and Paul Mazursky (as a ghost of a husband). Rebecca Schaeffer was murdered in real life shortly after playing Bisset's daughter. Screenwriter Wagner later created the Wild Palms comic strip.

SCENES FROM A MURDER

(Lightning, 1972) D: Alberto de Martino
S: Vincenzo Mannino Italy (L'assassino ... E Al Telefono; The Final Curtain)

Anne Heywood is a famous theater actress whose lover has been murdered. She suspects a hitman named Ranko (Telly Savalas) and tries to convince others that's she's right. With Rossella Falk.

SCENES FROM THE GOLDMINE

(Charter, 1987) D/S: Marc Rocco
S: John Norvet P: Danny Eisenberg

Catherine Mary Stewart and Cameron Dye are in a rock group managed by Steve Railsback, but a record company exec (Joe Pantoliano) tries to break up the group and make her a star. With Jewel Shepard, Lee Ving, Alex Rocco, Pamela Springsteen, and Lesley-Anne Down. John Ford Coley and Timothy B. Schmit are also in the band. The director (in his early 20s at the time) is the son of actor Alex Rocco. He also made Where the Day Takes You (1992) and others.

SCHIZOID

(Nightmare, 1971) D/S: Lucio Fulci S: Roberto Gianviti, Jose Luis Martinez Molla M: Ennio Morricone Italy (Una Lucertola Con A Pelle Di Donna; Lizard in a Woman's Skin)

Florinda Bolkan stars as a woman who tells her psychiatrist about her dreams of murdering somebody. Carlo Rambaldi designed a disturbing dream sequence with a red-haired hippie, eyeless corpses, swarms of bats, and dogs with their stomachs cut open. The director had to go to court in Italy to prove that the dogs were mechanical. This movie demonstrates how LSD and lesbianism lead to death. With Stanley Baker as a detective, Jean Sorel, Anita Strinberg, and Leo Genn. AIP released it (cut) in America.

SCHOOL FOR UNCLAIMED GIRLS

(1969) D: Robert Hartford-Davis S: John Peacock P: Peter Newbrook UK (The Smashing Bird I Used to Know; The House of Unclaimed Women)

Madeline Hinde is sent to a woman's prison for murder. With Dennis Waterman, Maureen Lipman, and a teenage Lesley-Anne Down in one of her first roles. AIP released it.

SCHOOLGIRL KILLER

(AIP, 1967) D/S: "Anthony Dawson"/ Antonio Margheriti S: Franco Bottari P: Lawrence Woolner Italy (Sette Vergini Per Il Diavolo; The Young, the Evil, and the Savage)

AIP released this murder mystery set at St. Hilda's, a girl's finishing school. Michael Rennie stars as an inspector with Sally Smith, Mark Damon, Eleonora Brown, and Allan Collins (a.k.a. Luciano Pigozzi). The (cross-dressing) killer is a surprise (of course). Mario Bava wrote the story and was originally set to direct the Woolner Brothers production.

SCHOOLGIRLS IN CHAINS

(World Premiere, 1973) D/S/P: Don Jones C: Ron Garcia (Let's Play Dead)

Two brothers (the results of incest) live in a secluded house. One is a retarded voyeur in farmer clothes who kidnaps women in an old Packard and chains them in the root cellar. Sometimes he puts a leash on one of "the pets" and makes them play childish games. Some try to escape, but don't get far. His impotent brother Frankie (Gary Kent) sits and broods. Their mama (seen in character-building flashbacks) sits in a chair (Psycho style). With Tom Kelly (the star of Targets) and Merrie Lynn Ross. Kent acted frequently for Richard Rush, Al Adamson, and Ray Dennis Steckler. Jones also directed The Love Butcher (1975) and The Forest (1981).

SCHOOL SPIRIT

(Media, 1985) D: Alan Holleb S: Geoffrey Baere P: Jeff Begun

A rebellious college student named Billy Batson (Tom Nolan) dies in a car crash but his ghost uncle arranges for him to have an extra day on earth. The (invisible) guy spies on naked girls in an Animal House–influenced comedy. With Elizabeth Foxx, Roberta Collins as the drunken wife of the college president (Larry Linville from *M*A*S*H*), Beach Dickerson, Leslie Bremmer, Linda Carol, Julie Gray, Becky LeBeau, and Marlene Janssen (from Playboy). The Roger Corman release was shot at UCLA. It features music by the Gleaming Spires and others.

THE SCHOOL THAT COULDN'T SCREAM

(Sinister, 1971) D/S: Massimo Dallamano S: Bruno Di Geronimo P: Leonard Pescardo, Fulvio Lucisano C: Aristide Massaccesi M: Ennio Morricone Italy (Cosa Avete Fatto a Solange?)

Enrico (Fabio Testi), a married Italian professor in London, is accused of a series of brutal murders of St. Mary's school girls after having an affair with one of the victims (Karin Baal). This is a very good giallo mystery, based on an Edgar Wallace novel (which had also been filmed in 1929 and 1961 in England). It features nightmares, flashbacks, a lineup of priests, and full nudity in shower room scenes. With Joachim Fuchsberger as a Scotland Yard inspector, Christine Galbo as Enrico's blond German wife, and Camille Keaton in a small but very important role. The tape is letterboxed and dubbed.

SCIENCE CRAZED

(Interamerican, 1989) D/S: Ron Switzer P: Donna Switzer

In this amateur comedy, a mad scientist gives injections to a woman who gives birth to a full-grown man/monster.

SCISSORS

(Paramount, 1990) D/S: Frank De Felitta P: Mel Pearl

Sharon Stone is a lonely virgin obsessed with the antique dolls she collects and restores. While staying in a giant model loft, she talks to a pig puppet, hears a raven talk, and has nightmares, but it's all a plot to drive her crazy. Steve Railsback has two roles, as a soap opera actor neighbor and his crippled brother. With Michelle Phillips, Vicki Frederick, Albert Popwell, and Ronny Cox as the shrink. Directed by the writer of The Entity and Audrey Rose.

SCOOP

(1987) D: Gavin Millar S: William Boyd P: Sue Birtwistle UK

Michael Maloney stars as a nature column writer, accidentally assigned to cover the war in Ethiopia in 1935. It's a satire based on Evelyn Waugh with a support cast including Donald Pleasence, Herbert Lom, Denholm Elliott, Rene Soutendijk, and Michael Hordern. Filmed in England and Morocco.

SCORCHY

(Vestron, 1976) D/S/P: Hikmet Avedis

This was the last lead role for Connie Stevens (real name: Concetta Rosalie Ann Ingolia), and it was an outrageous, violent role for the 60s star. She's an undercover cop in Seattle after drug dealers (and has nude scenes). With William Smith, Cesare Danova, Marlene Schmidt, and Greg Evigan. The video release of the AIP movie was rescored.

SCORE

(Magnum, 1973) D: Radley Metzger S: Jerry Douglas P: Ava Leighton US/Yugoslavia

This atypical erotic movie, set in a coastal European town, is about a swinging couple (Clair Wilbur and Calvin Culver) initiating a visiting couple (Lynn Lowry and Gerald Grant) into lesbian and gay sex. They all use pot and amyl nitrate. Like other Metzger movies, it's very well made and is surprisingly light, with comical narration. Apparently a partial hard-core version played in NYC. Lowry, who plays the naive Catholic Betsy, went on to act for George Romero, David Cronenberg, and Jonathan Demme, and Culver became gay porn star Casey Donovan. Sylvester Stallone had been in the off-Broadway play version (not as a bisexual). Shot in Zagreb, it was Metzger's last feature before making successful hard X movies (as Harry Paris).

SCORNED

(Prism, 1993) D/A: Andrew Stevens S: Barry Avrich P: Damian Lee

A widow (Shannon Tweed) seeks vengeance after her husband (who had lent her out to other men to get a promotion) kills himself. Stevens is the one who got the corporate job, so she becomes a live-in tutor for his son (Michael D. Arenz). She seduces the son and drugs and seduces the wife (Kim Morgan Green). Tweed also commits murder and even kills their pet bird. In one scene she's punched and thrown out of a window but walks away fine. It's more R or unrated sex from the stars of the Night Eyes movies. Ashrok Amritraj was executive producer.

SCORPION

(RCA, 1986) D/S/P: William Reed

Tonny Tulleners stars as a martial arts expert who fights terrorists. With Don Murray, Robert Logan, and Ross Elliot. A Crown International release.

SCORPION WITH TWO TAILS

(Cinema Shares, 1982) D: "Christian Plummer"/ Sergio Martino S: Ernesto Gastaldi, Maria Chianetta Italy (Assassino Al Cimitero Etrusco)

John Saxon is an archeologist who intrudes upon an Etruscan tomb. He's killed off pretty soon in a drug smuggling mystery that was a TV miniseries in Italy. Van Johnson uses artifacts to smuggle heroin into America. Elvire Audray is a magical descendant of the Etruscan queen, who has visions of maggots.

SCOTT OF THE ANTARCTIC

(Sinister, 1948) D: Charles Frend S: Walter Meade, Ivor Montagu P: Sir Michael Balcon UK

John Mills stars as the Arctic explorer, and a young Christopher Lee has a small role as part of the expedition. With James Robertson Justice and Kenneth More.

SCRATCH HARRY

(1969) D: Alex Matter S: Stephen R. Winstein P: Christopher C. Dewey (The Erotic Three)

A man finds his wife and mistress in bed together so he kills his mistress. Later, he and his wife kill each other and both fall into an open grave. It's all a drug-induced hallucination, caused by the "Shadow," who appears as a 1950s jazz musician. Cannon released it.

SCREAM

(Vestron, 1981) D/S: Bryan Quisenberry P: Clara Huff, Hal Buchanan (The Outing)

A psycho kills campers (offscreen) near a western ghost town. John Wayne's son John Ethan Wayne stars, and Alvy Moore and Hank Worden are killed off very early on. With Greg Palmer and Woody Strode (the surprise hero). It's frequently too dark and is very slow going. The director was a stuntman.

SCREAM AND DIE

(Vestron, 1973) D: Joseph Laraz S: Derek Ford P: Diana Daubeney Spain (Psycho Sex Fiend)

A model witnesses a murder in this slow, dark, unpleasant movie. Her roommate is raped and killed. Her new neighbor who seems like he must be the killer (but of course isn't) wears black gloves and has a room full of pigeons. Another character is a young guy who has sex with his much older aunt. Laraz also made the ultimate erotic vampire movie, Vampyres (1974).

SCREAM AND DIE (1974) = THE HOUSE THAT VANISHED

SCREAM BABY SCREAM

(Regal, 1969) D/P: Joseph Adler S: Lawrence Robert Cohen (Nightmare House)

This hippie-era horror movie has a great chaotic structure—you know, flashbacks inside of flashbacks. You can tell it was barely finished by the mismatched film stock. Four art students leave class, take acid (in coffee), hop on motorbikes, and race off to "see what's shakin' in the outer limits!" One of them, Chris Martel (from The Gruesome Twosome!) is in a rock band (the Odyssey). The substandard trip sequence takes place at a zoo. The class's nude model had been kidnapped by funny-looking zombies and held by Charles Butler, "Master of the Macabre," an artist famous for painting mutated faces, who creates real-life mutant models. Their faces are like something from an underground comic. You won't believe them. I still can't. It was re-released by Troma and was directed by a guy whose only previous film was Sex and the College Girl (1964). Filmed in Miami.

SCREAM DREAM

(Lettuce, 1989) D/S: Donald Farmer P: Bob Allison, Barney Griner

A girl (really a witch) is fired from her rock band and possesses her replacement (Melissa Moore). The 69-minute tape was shot on video in Tennessee.

SCREAM FOR HELP

(Lorimar, 1984) D/P: Michael Winner S: Tom Holland

A killer stepfather is after a family fortune and nobody believes the teen daughter (Rachel Kelly). The plot is similar to the later (and better) The Stepfather. With David Brooks and Corey Parker. It's set in New York state but was filmed in England. The score, by John Paul Jones from Led Zeppelin, was on Atlantic.

SCREAM FREE: See FREE GRASS

Scream Queens Top 10

Most of these actresses are known primarily for taking their clothes off in direct-to-video releases. Some star in features, others are just decoration. Most make money signing autographs at fan conventions, and there are scream queen fanclubs, books, videos, and several magazines.

1. Monique Gabrielle
2. Brinke Stevens
3. Michelle Bauer
4. Kathleen Kinmont
5. Elizabeth Kaitan
6. Linnea Quigley
7. Ruth Collins
8. Delia Sheppard
9. Shannon Tweed
10. Julie Strain

SCREAM GREATS VOL. 1

(Paramount, 1986) D: Damon Santostephano

Starlog and Fangoria magazines released this one-hour look at Tom Savini and his gory special effects for movies like Friday the 13th and Dawn of the Dead. Scream Greats Vol. 2 (Paramount, 1986) is a documentary about satanism and witchcraft.

THE SCREAMING DEAD

(Wizard, 1972) D/S: Jesús Franco S: Paul d'Ales P: Robert de Nesle, Luis Lasala Spain/France/Portugal/Liechtenstein (Dracula, Contra Frankenstein)

Dr. Frankenstein (Dennis Price) sends out the Frankenstein monster to kidnap a red-haired cabaret singer and uses her blood to revive a green-faced Dracula (Howard Vernon). The doc has a hunchback servant called Morpho and a werewolf fights the monster. The camera zooms a lot, the makeup is terrible, the bats are rubbery, and the time period is extremely confused. The soundtrack is zither music and there's almost no dialogue. With Britt Nichols and Anne Libert. Some fans view this as an intentional comedy. This American video release is missing some sex scenes. Franco's more serious followup (with most of the same cast) was The Erotic Rites of Frankenstein.

SCREAM OF STONE

(VSOM, 1991) D: Werner Herzog S/P: Walter Saxer S: Robert Geoffrion P: Richard Sadler, Henry Lange France/Germany/Canada

Donald Sutherland co-stars as a TV announcer and narrates this story about high-stakes mountain-climbing in Patagonia, Argentina. A young upstart challenges a master climber (Ultorro Mezzo Giorno) and claims he made it to a snow-capped mountain peak (while his partner falls to his death). He upsets the world of climbing, becomes a media celebrity, and even takes away the man's girlfriend (Mathilda May). It's kinda slow going, but Brad Dourif is great as an eccentric "crazy" climber who gets the punchline. Also with Al Waxman as a crass TV producer and the director in a bit part. It's in English.

SCREAM OF THE BUTTERFLY

(SW, 1965) D: Eber Lobato S: Alan J. Smith P: Howard Veit C: Ray Dennis Steckler

Much of this b/w adult movie is flashbacks showing what led to the murder of blond Marla (Nelida Lobato). She marries an extremely dumb rich guy with a butch haircut, has an affair, and plots her husband's death. Her lover turns out to be a bisexual con man. Marla is seen in a bikini, dancing on a table, in a bubble bath (twice), and in long slow-motion topless scenes. Meanwhile the D.A. and his assistant have some great cynical dialogue. I don't think Eber and Nelida Lobato ever made another movie but they should be remembered for this one. It was shot in Las Vegas. The tape (a great print) is introduced by Johnny Legend.

SCREAMPLAY

(1983) D/S/A/E: Rufus Butler Seder S: Ed Greenberg P: Dennis M. Pianna

The director stars as Edgar Allen, a screenwriter in Hollywood. Murders in his new script occur in real life and a midget cop investigates. The experimental b/w psycho killer movie parody includes some gore and was made in Boston on sets painted like in a silent German expressionist feature. With Katy Bolger and George Kuchar as an apartment super. Troma released it.

SCREAM QUEEN HOT TUB PARTY

(Wyn Ray, 1992) D/P: Jim Wynorski, Fred Olen Ray

Actresses who usually took their clothes off in direct-to-video releases became major attractions at fan conventions by the late 80s. "Scream Queen" books, magazines, and trading cards were available, and more tapes were produced to cash in. This horror comedy (made up mostly of clips from earlier movies) features Brinke Stevens, Michelle Bauer, Monique Gabrielle, Kelli Maroney, and Rozanne Kernohan. Some others from the same period were Scream Queen Swimsuit Sensations (JTC), with Melissa Moore, Veronica Carothers, and Jasae, directed by John Russo, and Scream Queen Bloopers and Outtakes (with Linnea Quigley, Moore, Mary Woronov, and others).

SCREAM STREET

(CNH, 1971) D/P: Carl Monsoon S: Eric Norden P: Harry Novak (Scream in the Streets)

This softcore sex-and-violence Box Office International release concerns plainclothes LA cops (a married man and Stryker, the tough bachelor) after a rapist. The perpetrator is a guy in drag with a curly blond wig who laughs hysterically. A pot-smoking voyeur watches lesbian housewives (in a scene cut from some versions). A man goes to a masssage parlor, smashes the owner in the face with a beer bottle, then whips a woman with his belt. With slow-motion death scenes, wah-wah-pedal rock music, cops harassing innocent black men, a split-screen end, and future porn star Sharon Kelly in one of the better (near-porn) sex scenes. It was first released on tape with Axe.

SCREAMTIME

(Vestron, 1983) D/P: "Al Beresford" UK

Some guys steal horror videos from a Times Square store and watch them. The American framing scenes were added to three British shorts about killer puppets, a haunted house, and some ghouls. Michael Armstrong (Mark of the Devil) made one of them (called Scream House).

SCREEN SCARIES: See DRIVE-IN MADNESS!

SCREEN TEST

(RCA, 1985) D/S/P: Sam Auster S/P: Laura Auster

Four students pretend to be porno producers to meet girls. There's an original idea. Monique Gabrielle, Michelle Bauer, and Tracey Adams take their clothes off.

SCREWBALL ACADEMY

(TWE, 1983) D: "Reuben Rose"/John Blanchard S/P: David Mitchell S: Charles Dennis, Michael Pasedrvek P: Damien Lee Canada (Loose Ends)

A movie crew in a small beach town has problems with wacky locals. The comedy features Colleen Camp and Ken Welsh.

SCREWBALLS

(Warner, 1983) D: Rafael Zielinski S/A: Linda Shayne S: Jim Wynorski P: Maurice Smith Canada

A bowling ball gets stuck on a guy's dick in this stupid Porky's rip-off set in the 60s. The plot is about trying to seduce a virgin. Blond Shayne is Bootsy Goodhead. With Raven De La Croix as Anna Tomical and Jim Coburn. It was from Corman's Concorde. Loose Screws was a sequel.

SCROOGE

(Video Yesterday, 1935) D: Henry Edwards S: Seymour Hicks, H. Fowler Mear P: Julius Hicks, Hans Brahm UK

The first sound feature-length version of Dickens's famous short fantasy story A Christmas Carol stars Seymour Hicks (who had also written and starred in a 1913 version) as Scrooge. With Donald Calthrop, Robert Cochran, and Mary Glynne. Future director John Brahm was the editor. The next version, A Christmas Carol (1938), was American.

SCROOGE

(Fox, 1970) D: Ronald Neame S: Leslie Bricusse P: Robert H. Solo UK

Albert Finney stars in a lavish musical version of Dickens's familiar tale, meets the usual ghosts, and even goes to Hell. Alec Guinness, Edith Evans, and Kenneth More are ghosts and the cast includes Roy Kinnear, Kay Walsh, and Laurence Naismith. National General released it in America. Director Neame made The Poseidon Adventure (1972) next.

SCROOGED

(Paramount, 1988) D/P: Richard Donner S: Michael Glazer, Michael O'Donoghue P: Art Linson M: Danny Elfman

Donner made this modernized PG-13-rated Dickens adaptation in between Lethal Weapon movies. Bill Murray stars as a Scrooge-like network TV chief in New York, putting on yet another production of A Christmas Carol, while firing people. Carol Kane is the ghost of Christmas present, David Johansen is the cabdriver ghost of the past, and the future death figure was created by the Tom Burman studios. With Karen Allen, John Glover, John Forsythe, Bobcat Goldthwait, Robert Mitchum, Michael J. Pollard, Alfre Woodard, and Jamie Farr. Buddy Hackett, John Houseman, Robert Goulet, Mary Lou Retton, and Lee Majors appear as themselves, and other guest stars appear.

SCUM OF THE EARTH

(SW, 1963) D/S: Herschell Gordon Lewis P: David F. Friedman

Scum of the Earth is surprisingly similar to Ed Wood's The Sinister Urge (1961). Thomas Sweetwood/William Kerwin (with weird part-gray hair and a beard) stars as Harmon, a weary, guilt-ridden nudie photographer. He works for the horrible, cigar-chomping Mr. Lang, who likes to play with wind-up toys. Larry (Mal Arnold from Blood Feast!) is the sadistic "distributor," selling the dirty pictures to eager high school students. Harmon is forced to use Ajax, a goon rapist, as his assistant—"Keep that ape away from me!" All kinds of horrible unspeakable things are implied, but not shown. Sandra, an older model, is forced to "recruit new fresh talent." Kim (top-billed Vicki Miles) is the innocent new swimsuit model trying to make money for college, who finds herself blackmailed into doing topless shots (no nudity is shown) and worse. The incredible ending has death by baseball bat and a tiny gun and a ridiculously long chase scene on foot. The highlight is Lang's over-the-top lecture to Kim—"All you kids make me sick, you're damaged merchandise . . . dirty! Dirty! . . ." The camera closes in on his face, then his mouth, as he spits out the words. This b/w drama has pretty bad acting (no surprise) and was made in Florida the same year as the famous Blood Feast. Producer Friedman also did the sound. Before it opened, four-page Scum of the Earth comic books were given out in theaters to entice patrons to return and see it.

SEABO

(1977) D: Jimmy Huston S: Tom McIntyre P/A: Earl Owensby

Owensby stars in another of his North Carolina drive-in movies, with singer David Allan Coe plus Don Barry, Ed Parker, and Sunset Carson. Coe was also in Owensby's Lady Grey. Huston also made the horror movies Final Exam (1981) and My Best Friend Is a Vampire (1986).

THE SEA HOUND

(Stokey, 1944) D: Walter B. Eason, Mack Wright S: George Plympton, Lewis Clay, Arthur Hoerl P: Sam Katzman

Buster Crabbe stars as Captain Silver in a 15-chapter sea adventure Columbia serial. His character is based on a short-lived radio show and comic book. Pamela Blake, James Lloyd, and Ralph Hodges costar, and there's a man-eating plant on an island.

SÉANCE ON A WET AFTERNOON

(Public Media, 1964) D/P: Bryan Forbes P/A: Richard Attenborough UK

Kim Stanley is a professional medium who makes her husband (Attenborough) kidnap a child so she can gain fame and ransom money by finding it. She thinks she can contact beings in the other world through her (stillborn) son. With Nanette Newman and Patrick Magee. It's a very creepy b/w feature. The director is still a best-selling spy novelist.

SEAQUEST DSV

(1993–95) D: Irvin Kershner S: Rockne S. O'Bannon, Tommy Thompson P: Gregg D. Fienberg

Remember the Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea show? Well, nearly 30 years after it debuted, the concept returned to TV with a (much) bigger budget, a high-tech look, talking dolphins, and holograms. Roy Scheider stars as the 21st-century supersub captain. Guest star Shelley Hack is the vengeful renegade skipper who attacks with her own sub. With series regulars Stephanie Beacham, John D'Aquino, Jonathan Brandis (computer whiz kid), Stacy Haiduk, and Darwin the dolphin. Also with Ted Raimi and Eric Da Rae. The NBC feature pilot was executive produced by Steven Spielberg (and the screenwriters). The rating were low, so the series got sillier as it went along, and Scheider was eventually replaced by Michael Ironside and the show was retitled Seaquest 2032.

These Men Are—Scum of the Earth.

SEA RAIDERS

(UAV, 1941) D: Ford Beebe, John Rawlins
S: Clarence Upson Young, Paul Huston

It's the second of three WWII-themed 12-chapter Universal serials starring members of the Dead End Kids. They were Billy Halop (Billy), Huntz Hall (Toby), Gabriel Dell (Bilge), and Bernard Punsley (Butch). This time they were after the "Sea Raider" who had been sinking Allied ships.

SEARCH AND DESTROY

(1978) D: William Fruet S: Don Enright
P: James Margellos Canada (Striking Back)

A Nam vet (Don Stroud) fights a Vietnamese official (Park Jong Soo) who comes to America after the war to seek revenge for being left behind. Perry King is another ex-G.I. whose life is in danger. The PG-rated feature by the director of House by the Lake ends at Niagara Falls. With Tisa Farrow and George Kennedy.

SEARCH FOR DIANA

(1992) D/S/P: Milad Bessada
S: Maissa Bessada Patton Canada

Dancer Diana Calenti stars as a Toronto choreographer who believes she's the reincarnation of an Egyptian high priestess. In Egypt, an archeologist friend (Brett Halsey) plans to sacrifice her to the gods.

SEARCH FOR THE EVIL ONE: See HE LIVES

THE SEA SERPENT

(Lightning, 1984) D: "Gregory Greens"/ Amando Ossorio S: Gordona Osburn
P: Joseph Frada Spain (La Serpiente del Mar)

Timothy Bottoms is an (Ahab-inspired) sea captain searching for a sea monster awakened by A-bomb tests. The serpent is an obvious puppet, similar to the ones in The Giant Claw and Reptilicus. With Taryn Power, Jared Martin, Jack Taylor, Ray Milland (in his last role), Victor Israel as a drunken watchman, and Leon Klimovsky as a lawyer. It was shot in Spain and Portugal.

SEASIDE SWINGERS

(Nelson, 1965) D: James Hill S: Anthony Mariott
P: Ronald J. Kahn C: Nicolas Roeg
UK (Every Day's a Holiday)

After the Beatles, the Dave Clark Five, and Herman's Hermits had all starred in movies, someone had the bright idea to put Freddie and the Dreamers in one. They star with John Leyton (a singer unknown in America) in a teen movie about a televised talent contest at a seaside resort. With Michael Sarne, Liz Fraser, Ron Moody, Michael Ripper, and the Mojos. A soundtrack album was issued by Mercury. Freddie, the laughing king of silly rock at the time, was also in Out of Sight and Disk-O Tek Holiday.

SEASON OF FEAR

(Fox, 1989) D/S: Doug Campbell P: Ryan J. Carroll

In a Body Heat–type movie, Michael Bowen becomes involved with his inventor father's new wife (Clara Wren). With Ray Wise, Clancy Brown, and Michael J. Pollard. By the director of Zapped Again!

SEASONS IN THE SUN

(1973) D: Ian Soodor P/A/M: Terry Jacks Canada

Singer Terry Jacks (playing himself) collapses at a show at Madison Square Garden and has life-after-death experiences. He hallucinates, discovers he has a terminal disease, and quits showbiz to fish. John Ireland is a Communist spy, whose daughter Kathryn Witt is a CIA agent. It was filmed on the Mystic Isles of British Columbia. Jacks' theme song made it to #1 in America in 1974. He and his wife also had hits as The Poppy Family.

SECOND CHANCE

(1953) D: Rudolph Maté S: Oscar Millare, Sidney Boehme P: Sam Weisenthal

RKO's ads said: "For the First Time! 3-Dimension with IMPORTANT Stars!" Robert Mitchum is a has-been boxer and Linda Darnell is an ex–gun moll. Jack Palance is Cappy, the villain, and it all ends up in the air with a cable-car accident filmed in Mexico. With Milburn Stone and Dan Seymour. It was a Howard Hughes presentation.

SECOND COMING OF SUZANNE

(American, 1974) D/S: Michael Barry
P: Ralph Burris (Suzanne)

Sondra Locke is Suzanne, who portrays a female Christ figure who is crucified in a movie within this movie. The experimental feature was inspired by Leonard Cohen's song. Jared Martin is a Manson-type filmmaker in 1969 San Francisco, and Richard Dreyfuss and Paul Sand co-star. Gene Barry was executive producer for his young son's feature and appears as a TV commentator. Locke was in Death Game the same year.

SECOND SIGHT

(Warner, 1989) D: Joel Zwick S: Tom Schulman, Patricia Resnick P: Mark Tarlov

Bronson Pinchot becomes a psychic detective and is exploited by John Larroquette. This dumb PG comedy features Stuart Pankin, Bess Armstrong as a nun, William Prince, James Tolkan, and Cornelia Guest.

SECOND TIME LUCKY

(1984) D: Michael Anderson S: Ross Dimsey, David Sigmund P: Anthony I. Ginnane Australia/NZ

The Devil makes a bet with God (Robert Morley) that if Earth started over again Adam (Roger Wilson) and Eve (Diane Franklin) would make the same mistake. Franklin (Amityville II) also appears as Cleopatra and Mata Hari and has nude scenes.

SECRET AGENT

(MPI series, 1965–66) UK

Patrick McGoohan played secret agent John Drake on Danger Man (1960), then this (1965–66) serious b/w spy series, shown in America on CBS. Executive producer Ralph Smart also wrote many of the 45 episodes. It was considered pretty violent at the time and is a real contrast to the more comic spy shows (and movies) that were so popular at the time. The excellent hit theme song (American version only) is by Johnny Rivers, and Drake's clothes are pretty gear. The same character later showed up in McGoohan's classic cult series The Prisoner. Eight 50-minute tapes are available as well as a 1966 color double episode ("Koroshi") set in Japan, which has also been around on tape.

SECRET AGENT 00 = OPERATION KID BROTHER

SECRET AGENT FIREBALL

(1965) D: "Mario Donen"/Luciano Martino
S: Sergio Martino P: Mino Loy Italy (Killers Are Challenged; Lie Spie Uccidone A Beirut)

Richard Harrison stars as a CIA agent after some microfilm containing the formula for an H-bomb. Spies torture people and Dominique Boschero co-stars. AIP released the feature, which was filmed all over Europe.

THE SECRETARY

(Republic, 1995) D/S: Graham Flashner
S: Randy Kornfield P: Pierre David

Sheila Kelly is a psycho office worker who blackmails and murders. Mel Harris is her new boss. With Barry Bostwick, James Russo, Mimi Craven, and Sondra Curry. Not to be confused with The Temp. Andrew Lane was executive producer.

SECRET BEYOND THE DOOR

(NTA, 1948) D/P: Fritz Lang
S: Sylvia Richards M: Miklos Rozsa

Joan Bennett stars in her fourth, last, and least-known Lang feature. Her husband Walter Wanger was executive producer. She's an heiress on vacation in Mexico who meets and marries Michael Redgrave. They go to his mansion and, in a plot similar to Suspicion, she thinks he may have murdered his first wife. He has rooms that are exact recreations of rooms where famous murders were committed. The stylish Universal feature was based on a novel by Rufus King. It includes a dream sequence, was shot by Stanley Cortez, and a score with some music that was played and recorded backwards (!). With Anne Revere and Natalie Schafer.

THE SECRET CINEMA

(Rhino, 1966) D/S: Paul Bartel

A New York City woman (Amy Vane) is constantly being filmed secretly and episodes of her life are shown to crowds at a local theater. It's a very clever b/w "underground" classic. Bartel's remake of this short was on the Amazing Stories TV series. The tape also includes Bartel's color short Naughty Nurses, about a dominatrix, and is 37 minutes total. Bartel's first feature was Private Parts (1972), also recommended.

Joan Bennett in Secret Beyond the Door.

magazine. Nan, who looks good in heart-shaped sunglasses and a bikini, hires Max. Her mysterious faceless boss (who only communicates by tape recorder), turns out to be "the conscience of Hollywood," who editorializes against scandal magazines on TV. Clarke's character disappears for the whole middle of the film. Some movie execs go into a projection room and watch a very long scene from their new crime feature, and you can see the mike in the film-within-a-film too! They keep talking about rock star "Zippy Daniels," but they never show him! From Crown International.

THE SECRET FOUR

(Sinister, 1939) D: Walter Forde
S: Roland Pertree UK (Four Just Men)

This mystery, involving murder and the Suez canal, is a version of an Edgar Wallace novel that had also been filmed in 1921. With Hugh Sinclair, Anna Lee, and Alan Napier, who later gained fame as Alfred on the Batman TV show.

THE SECRET CODE

(Stokey, 1942) D: Spencer C. Bennet S: Basil Dickey, Leighton Brill, Robert Beche P: Larry Darmour

Paul Kelly stars as the Black Commando in a 15-chapter Columbia WWII serial. He battles German spies who use explosive gas and artificial lightning. With Anne Nagel.

THE SECRET DIARY OF SIGMUND FREUD

(Fox, 1984) D: Danford B. Greene S: Roberto Mitrotti, Linsa Howard P: Wendy Hyland, Peer J. Oppenheimer

Bud Cort stars as the young Freud. He learns about sex with his mother (Carroll Baker) and hypnotizes his assistant (Carol Kane) to make her fall in love with him. He also experiments with drugs. With Klaus Kinski as Uncle Max, Marisa Berenson, Ferdinand Mayne, and Dick Shawn as "the ultimate patient." The comedy is 129 minutes long.

SECRET FILE HOLLYWOOD

(Loonic, 1961) D: Ralph Cushman
S: Jack Lewis P: Rudolph Cusumano

This absurd b/w movie looks like it was made in the 40s at PRC. I don't remember ever seeing a movie with so many shots of painfully visible boom microphones (the cameraman was Ray Dennis Steckler!). Robert Clarke (The Hideous Sun Demon) stars as Maxwell Carter, private eye. During a fight in a beatnik joint, his gun goes off and kills an innocent bystander. The morning papers announce: HOLLYWOOD PRIVATE EYE IN BEATNIK SHOOTOUT! He loses his license, drinks, and piles up gambling debts. Francine York (Curse of the Swamp Creature) plays Nan Tor, the beautiful, corrupt blackmailing editor of Secret File Hollywood

SECRET GAMES 3

(Academy, 1994) D: Alexander Gregory Hippolyte
S: Don Simmons, Tucker Johnson P: Andrew Garroni

Diana (the large-breasted Rochelle Swanson) is a wealthy wife who is led astray by a new blond neighbor, Gwen (Mary Karasun), and becomes a high-class hooker in a mansion with closed-circuit TV cameras. Gwen has a sex scene, then Diana has five of them (taking up most of the tape). One rich John (Woody Brown) turns out to be a contract killer who blackmails her, and after all the soft-core sex, the tape becomes a psycho movie. Also with Branda Swanson. Secret Games (Imperial, 1991) had exactly the same plot with Michelle Brin being harassed by Martin Hewitt. Delia Sheppard and Catya Sassoon costarred. Hewitt returned in Secret Games 2 (1993) with Sara Suzanne Brown and Amy-Rochelle Weiss. All three are available in R or unrated versions.

THE SECRET LIFE—JEFFREY DAHMER

(Magnum, 1993) D/P/M: David R. Bowen
S/P/A: Carl Crew

Here's a suprisingly well done, serious look at one of America's worst and most horrifying serial killers. We see how the soft-spoken young Dahmer starts killing in Bath Township, Ohio, then later gets better at it in Milwaukee. He lures males to his apartment, offering money to pose for Polaroid pictures, drugs them, kills them, and dismembers the bodies. The victims are black, white, gay, and straight. Dahmer, who goes on probation for sex with a minor, conducts horrifying "zombie experiments," fondles skulls, and feeds human meatloaf to some victims. This all unfolds in a series of flashbacks. Dahmer is seen wearing a She Devils on Wheels T-shirt. It was made in California. Dahmer, convicted of killing 17 people, was murdered in jail in December of 1994. This is a strong indictment against the Milwaukee police department and would make a great double bill with Comrade X.

SECRET OF BLOOD ISLAND

(1965) D: Quentin Lawrence
S: John Gilling P: Anthony Nelson-Keyes
UK (P.O.W.: Prisoner of War)

The Hammer studio was making nearly all horror movies when they did this Eastmancolor WWII drama set in a Japanese prisoner-of-war camp in Malaya. It features torture sequences and was considered very gory when released. Barbara Shelley (who had also been in Camp on Blood Island) stars as Elaine, a secret agent, also with Jack Hedley, Patrick Wymark, Michael Ripper, and Bill Owen.

SECRET OF THE BLACK TRUNK

(Sinister, 1962) D: Werner Klinger
S: Percy Allan UK/W. Germany
(Das Geheimnes der Schwarzen Koffer)

People are killed in a famous hotel in this Edgar Wallace mystery filmed in England. Senta Berger and Horst Jansen star.

SECRET OF THE CHATEAU

(1934) D: Richard Thorpe
S: Albert Demond, Harry Behn

Universal released this mystery whodunit as if it were an outright horror movie. Characters in Paris kill for possession of a Gutenberg Bible. Claire Dodd stars with Clark Williams, Jack LaRue, and Osgood Perkins (the father of Tony) as the butler.

SECRET OF THE INCAS

(1954) D: Jerry Hopper S: Ronald McDougall, Sydney Boehm P: Mel Epstein

Charlton Heston stars as an adventurer with a treasure map, but Yma Sumac is the main reason to watch. VCR alert: the mysterious multi-range singer (who was recording for Capitol at the time) appears in the mountains for one incredible song. With Robert Young, Thomas Mitchell, and Glenda Farrell. It makes a good Heston double bill with The Naked Jungle from the same year. Also look for Yma Sumac: Hollywood's Inca Princess (1992), a feature-length German documentary.

THE SECRET OF THE LOCH

(Sinister, 1934) D: Milton Rosmer S: Billie Bristow, Charles Bennett P: Bray Wyndham UK

Seymour Hicks stars as a professor who believes in the Loch Ness Monster. After some comedy and drama, a reporter does finally locate the ancient monster hatched from an egg. Director Ken Russell later said the monster scene scared him as a kid, and claimed the monster was really a live plucked chicken! Others say it was an iguana. David Lean was the editor.

SECRET OF THE RED ORCHID

(1961) D: Helmut Ashley S: Trygve Larsen
W. Germany (Das Ratsel der Roten Orchidee)

Rival American gangster families show up in London and blackmail rich men. Adrian Hoven stars (as the inspector) with Marissa Mell, Christopher Lee (as Captain Allerman), Klaus Kinski, and Fritz Rasp. It went direct to TV in America. The Edgar Wallace mystery was remade in England as The Verdict (1964).

SECRET OF TREASURE ISLAND

(Stokey, 1938) D/S: Elmer Clifton S: George Resener, George M. Merrick P: Louis Weiss

Don Terry stars in a 15-chapter Columbia serial about the hunt for a pirate treasure on a Mexican island. Hobart Boswell is Dr. X, a skull-faced ghost. With Gwen Gaze, Grant Withers, and Yakima Canutt.

SECRETS BEYOND THE DOOR = THE FOLKS AT RED WOLF INN

SECRET SERVICE IN DARKEST AFRICA

(Stokey, 1943) D: Spencer Gordon Bennet
S: Royal Cole, Basil Dickey, Jesse Duffy

Rod Cameron is Rex Bennett, the hero in a 15-chapter Republic serial. The final chapter is "Nazi Treachery Unmasked," and there's a death ray and suspended animation drugs. With Lionel Royce in two roles, Joan Marsh, Duncan Renaldo, Kurt Katch, and Jack LaRue. The Baron's African War was a 60s condensed feature version.

SECRET SEX LIVES OF ROMEO AND JULIET

(SW, 1969) D/P: Peeter Stootsberry S: Jim Shumacher

Shakespeare's play is performed at the Globe Theatre to a drunken male audience. Forman Shane and Dicora Carse star in the Box Office International sex comedy. Stuart Lancaster is Capulet. It was rerated NC-17 in 1990.

SECRETS OF THE FRENCH POLICE

(1932) D: Edward Sutherland
S: Samuel Ornitz, Robert Tasker

Gregory Ratoff is a master spy and hypnotist who tortures victims and covers them in wax in his mad lab. Frank Morgan stars with Gwili Andre and Rochelle Hudson. RKO released the forgotten 55-minute feature that managed to copy Mystery of the Wax Museum before it was released. With a Max Steiner score.

SECRET YEARNINGS: See THE SHAMING

THE SEDUCERS

(SW, 1970) D: Ottavio Alessi Italy/W. Germany
(Top Sensation; Sklavin Ihrer Triebe)

An oil-rich woman hires a decadent couple and another woman on a Mediterranean cruise on a private yacht. She hopes one of the women (Euro beauties Rosalba Neri and Edwige Fenech) will seduce her pyromaniac teen son Tony. After opium smoking, sex, and dynamiting fish, the "jet setters" abuse a Greek shepherdess (Ewa Thulin).

THE SEDUCTION

(Video Treasures, 1982) D/S: David Schmoeller
P: Irwin Yablans, Bruce Cohn Curtis M: Lalo Schifrin

An LA TV reporter (Morgan Fairchild) is stalked by a crazed photographer fan (Andrew Stevens). TV star Fairchild has a nude scene and spends a lot of time in her pool, jacuzzi, and bath in her first theatrical feature since A Bullet for Pretty Boy (1970). With Michael Sarrazin, Vince Edwards, and Colleen Camp. This and The Fan (1981) wouldn't have existed without the Lennon and Reagan shootings. Schmoeller made it in between Tourist Trap and Crawlspace.

SEDUCTION: THREE TALES FROM THE INNER SANCTUM

(1992) D: Michael Ray Rhodes S: Barry Brown, Robert Glass, Steven Whitney P: Carroll Newman

Executive producer Victoria Principal and John Terry star in all three stories of this ABC-TV movie based on the old Inner Sanctum radio show. (Several 40s Lon Chaney Jr. movies were also based on it.) Two stories are period pieces, set in the 40s and 50s, and they all have surprise endings.

SEED PEOPLE

(Paramount, 1992) D: Peter Manoogian
S: Jackson Barr P: Anne Kelly

It's Critters meets Invasion of the Body Snatchers (they wish!) as a man in a hospital (Sam Hennings) narrates his boring flashback. A plant spews out lots of white goo on a man, and a monster (a half-man in a suit, walking on his hands) emerges. Comet Valley locals are brainwashed and more creatures roll like tumbleweeds. By the director of Arena and other Charles Band releases.

SELF DEFENSE

(Media, 1982) D: Paul Donovan,
Maura O'Connell Canada (Siege)

Right-wing fanatics in Halifax take over and kill most of the patrons in a gay bar during a police strike. One guy escapes and teams with tenants of an apartment building (some are gay, blind, or retarded) who fight with makeshift weapons. Donovan later made Defcon 4 and O'Connell also made Norman's Awesome Experience.

SELL OUT

(Edde, 1976) D: Peter Collinson S: Murray Smith, Judson Kinberg P: Josef Shaftel (The Set Up)

Oliver Reed stars as a double agent who the Americans and Soviets want to eliminate. With Richard Widmark as a retired CIA agent, Sam Wanamaker, and Gayle Hunnicut. The PG feature was made in Israel.

SENIOR PROM

(1958) D: David Lowell Rich
S: Hal Hackady P: Harry Romm

Columbia made this high school love musical starring Jill Corey and Paul Hampton. Watch it for singing guest stars Louis Prima and Keely Smith. Also with Tom Laughlin, Ed Sullivan, Bob Crosby, Freddy Martin, Frieda Inescort, and Selene Walters.

THE SENIORS

(Edde, 1978) D: Rod Amateau S/P: Stanley Shapiro

Some college guys open a sex clinic so they can meet girls, and it becomes a booming business. Dennis Quaid and Priscilla Barnes are in the cast of the comedy by the director of Drive-In (1976). With Edward Andrews and Robert Emhardt.

SENIOR WEEK

(Vestron, 1987) D: Stuart Goldman S: Jan Kubicki P: Ken Schwenker, Matt Ferro

The Palisades Park, N.J., Junior-Senior High School was rented for a week (for $1,500) as a location. When the movie was released, it made national news and caused the suspension of the principal. Michael St. Gerard (Hairspray) walks into a classroom filled with girls wearing only underwear. The teacher walks up to him and opens her blouse. Severals girls remove their bras. His failing report card is delivered and the girls chant "You're a failure, Everett!" and laugh at him. The sexy dream sequence was done after the rest of the film, against the director's wishes. Ironically, it's the most memorable part of the movie. The rest follows a typical teen comedy group of dumb unlikable guys on a drive to Daytona Beach, Florida, with a kidnapped brainy nerd forced to work on a term paper. Everett's girlfriend and his English teacher (inspired by Ferris Bueller's principal), a headache-inducing woman overacting in a neck brace, follow them all the way there. The soundtrack includes music by the Bongo Teens, Sam the Sham and the Pharaohs, Beat Rodeo, and others.

SENSATION

(Columbia, 1994) D: Briant Grant
S: Doug Wallace P: John Morrissey

Former MTV VJ Kari Wuhrer (who seems to have had breast implants) stars as a college art student with psychic senses who becomes a willing and paid paranormal experiment subject for a doctor (Eric Roberts). She moves into a murdered woman's apartment (Polanski's The Tenant is mentioned) in his building, falls for him, and has frequent sex scene flashes. Everyone in the cast is a murder suspect. It's a better-than-average "erotic thriller" with arty cinematography. Claire Stansfield is featured in sex scenes, Ron Perlman is a morbid cop, Tracy Needham is the student best friend, Paul Le Mat is a voyeur landlord, and Ed Begley Jr. shows up as a masher in a bar.

THE SENSUOUS NURSE

(Fox, 1975) D: Nella Rossati S: Paola Vidali, Claudia Floro Italy (L'Infirmiera)

Ursula Andress is a night nurse hired to help love a man to death so his nephews can inherit his fortune. Jack Palance as an American gangster and Lucianna Paluzzi are also in the unfunny sex comedy.

SENSUOUS TABOO

(Private Screenings, 1966) D: R. Lee Frost
P: R. W. Cresse (Mondo Freudo)

"Hidden cameras" record sexual practices around the world in an adult mondo movie. Various (mostly staged) sequences show strippers in Tijuana, a Mexican slave market, a black mass in New York City, body painting, and mud wrestling.

THE SENSUOUS WIFE

(Private Screenings, 1970) D/S/P: Joseph F. Robertson (Mrs. Stone's Thing)

The man who had produced The Crawling Hand and The Slime People (!) made this unique, hard-to-believe, equal-opportunity sex comedy featuring Ed Wood Jr. (!). Most of the movie is a plotless look at a Hollywood swingers party held at "the McMahons'." Some of the themes explored (as listed by the American Film Institute) are "sadomasochism, autoeroticism, homosexuality, lesbianism, tranvestism (this is where Wood comes in), bisexuality, flagellation, bestiality" and yes, even "body painting." Characters with sideburns and wigs smoke pot or drink, run around naked, and have sex indoors or out by the pool. One couple is so big that they need two pool tables to lie on. Wood, who acts shy about wearing women's clothes, is referred to as having "published 28 books." This tape can be found in video chain stores that don't carry X-rated videos. Wood also wrote Love Feast (1969) for Robertson and appeared in drag again in his own Take It Out in Trade (1970).

SEPARATE WAYS

(Vestron, 1979) D/P: Hikmet Avedis S: Leah Appet

An unhappy housewife (Karen Black) has an affair with art student David Naughton (in his feature debut). Her race car driver husband (Tony LoBianco) is having an affair too, and she leaves to become a waitress. This Crown International release also features Sybil Danning, Sharon Farrell, Jack Carter, William Windom, Robert Fuller, Arlene Golonka, and Pamela Jean Bryant. It's by the director of They're Playing with Fire.

SEPTEMBER STORM

(1960) D: Byron Haskin S: W. R. Burnett
P: Edward L. Alperson

Joanne Dru and Mark Stevens star in a 3-D story about sunken gold. With a 3-D hurricane, and shark and jellyfish attacks. This 20th Century release was filmed in Spain. 3-D movies were not common in 1960.

SEPTEMBER 30, 1955

(MCA, 1977) D/S: James Bridges P: Jerry Weintraub (9/30/55; 24 Hours of the Rebel)

Richard Thomas is a young James Dean fan named Jimmy in Arkansas who loses it when Dean dies. With Lisa Blount, Tom Hulce, and Susan Tyrrell as Jimmy's white trash mother. Dennis Quaid and Dennis Christopher also have small roles. It's rated PG. The MCA soundtrack is by Leonard Roseman (who had also scored East of Eden and Rebel Without a Cause).

SERIAL

(Paramount, 1980) D: Bill Persky S: Rich Eustis, Michael Elias P: Sidney Beckerman

Martin Mull stars in this satire about modern life in Marin County, California, based on the novel by Cyra McFadden. His wife (Tuesday Weld) has an affair with a poodle groomer, and his daughter joins a religious cult. Christopher Lee, as a business tycoon (patterned after Malcolm Forbes?), is also the leader of a gay biker gang ("Born to Be Wild" is heard again when they ride). Also with Sally Kellerman (who appears topless), Stacy Nelkin, Nita Talbot, Bill Macy, Pamela Bellwood, Peter Bonerz, and Tom Smothers.

SERIAL MOM

(HBO, 1993) D/S: John Waters
P: Pat Moran M: Basil Poledouris

Kathleen Turner is perfect as Beverly Sutphin, a cheerful Baltimore mom who becomes a famous celebrity serial killer. Suzanne Somers wants to play Beverly in the TV movie. She only kills when somebody crosses members of her family: Sam Waterston (dentist husband), Ricki Lake (after she lost 120 lbs. and became a TV talk-show hostess), and Matt Lillard (the gore-movie-fan son who works at a video store). Serial Mom has many good video store gags. Justin Whalin (Jimmy Olsen on the Lois and Clark TV series) masturbates to a video of Chesty Morgan in Double Agent 73. With Mink Stole, Mary Vivian Pearce, Traci Lords, and Patty Hearst, who had all acted for Waters before, plus Brigid Berlin, Joan Rivers, and the punk group L7. After two PG-rated features, this one (from Savoy) was rated R. It even features clips from H. G. Lewis's Blood Feast.

THE SERPENT AND THE RAINBOW

(MCA, 1988) D: Wes Craven S: Richard Maxwell, A.R. Simoun P: David Ladd, Doug Claybourne M: Brad Fiedel

A Harvard anthropologist (Bill Pullman) goes to Haiti to search for drugs that create zombies. The story mixes fantasy with horrible reality (Duvalier's Ton Ton Macoutes . . .). Cathy Tyson (daughter of Cicely) is a psychiatrist and love interest, and Zakes Mokae is pretty scary as a torturing secret police officer. With Paul Winfield, Michael Gough, Badja Djola, and Dey Young. Pullman is buried alive with a tarantula and finds zombies. It was "inspired by" Wade Davis's acclaimed nonfiction book and was filmed in Haiti. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande.

SERPENT OF THE NILE

(Budget, 1953) D: William Castle
S: Robert E. Kent P: Sam Katzman

Columbia let Castle and Katzman use the sets from the bigger-budgeted Salome to make this Technicolor costume drama. Rhonda Fleming is Cleopatra, Raymond Burr is Mark Antony, and William Lundigan is the romantic lead. With Michael Ansara and Julie Newmeyer (Newmar) as a "golden girl."

THE SERPENT'S EGG

(Vestron, 1976) D/S: Ingmar Bergman P: Dino De Laurentiis C: Sven Nyquist W. Germany/U.S.

David Carradine stars as a Jewish-American trapeze artist living in Germany just before WWII breaks out. The dark, nightmarish feature has strong horror-movie overtones and even has Gert Frobe as the police commissioner. With Liv Ullmann and James Whitmore. It was shot in Munich. After the box-office failure of this (and Bound for Glory), Carradine was usually found in less serious movies.

SERPENT WARRIORS

(1983) D: John Howard/Niels Rasmussen
S: Martin Wise US/UK (The Golden Viper)

Clint Walker and Chris Mitchum star in a fantasy adventure. With Eartha Kitt as the snake priestess and Anne Lockhart.

SERVANTS OF TWILIGHT

(Vidmark, 1991) D/S/P: Jeff Obrow
S: Stephen Carpenter P: Venetia Stevenson

Serials

Screen serials or chapter plays were first produced by the Edison Company (1912's What Happened to Mary). The most famous and successful silent serial, The Perils of Pauline, was released in 1914. Of over 270 silent serials produced in America, less than 20 (!) survive today. Many of the 162 American sound serials (made from 1929–56, when TV killed them off forever) are available on tape. For many years the only way to see an entire serial (unless you owned the reels and a projector) was to see one of the pathetic feature versions edited down for TV. Now you can see all 10 to 15 chapters of a serial whenever you want. See individual entries for Dick Tracy, Superman, Batman, Flash Gordon, Tarzan, and others. Many serials (not reviewed here) were westerns. John Wayne and Rin-Tin-Tin were major serial stars, and there were even series about Canadian Mounties and Boy Scouts.

A frazzled young private eye in an asylum (Bruce Greenwood) tells the story to his shrink. Belinda Bauer has a big-eyed 6-year-old son named Joey (Jarrett Lennon). "Mother Grace" (Grace Zabriskie) shows up and says, "He's got to die!" Grace and her widespread religious cult think Joey is the anti-Christ and will do anything to destroy him. Greenwood is hired to protect him. Carel (Lurch) Struycken is cult enforcer. It has good action, a bat attack, bleeding palms, and a decapitated dog. The acting (especially Greenwood and Bauer) is excellent and the ending is a stunner. It's based on a Dean R. Koontz book (Twilight). The producer was in Horror Hotel! William Sachs, Wayne Crawford, and Andrew Lane were also producers. With Kelli Maroney and Jillian McWhirter. It debuted on Showtime.

THE SET UP: See THE SELL OUT

SEVEN

(IVE, 1979) D/P: Andy Sidaris
S: William Driskill, Robert Baird

William Smith hires seven hitmen to kill seven mobsters in Hawaii. The funny and violent movie is better than anything Sidaris made later. With Elvis's bodyguard Ed Parker as himself, Reggie Nalder as an assassin, John Alderman, Martin Kove, Barbara Leigh, Art Metrano, Susan Lynn Kiger (from Playboy), and Lenny Montana. The AIP release was the director's first after Stacey. Sybil Danning provides an intro for the tape. Leigh, the sister of Tanya Roberts, was married to Timothy Leary.

SEVEN DEAD IN A CAT'S EYE

(Prism, 1972) D/S: Antonio Margheriti
S: Gioliano Simmonelli P: Luigi Nannerim
Italy/France/W. Germany
(La Morte Negli Occhi Del Gatto)

Jane Birkin arrives at her aunt's old house in Scotland and people start to die. Anton Diffring is a doctor and the late Serge Gainsbourg (Birkin's real-life husband) is a detective. It's too dark, dumb, and boring. It also has a killer cat and a guy in a gorilla suit. With Hiram Keller and Alan Collins. The music was recycled from the director's much better Castle of Blood (1964).

SEVEN DOORS OF DEATH

(Thriller, 1981) D: "Louis Fuller"/ Lucio Fulci
S: Giorgio Mariuzzo, Dardano Sacchetti
P: Fabrizio de Angelis Italy (L'aldila; The Beyond)

Katherine MacColl inherits a remote, old, and cursed New Orleans hotel with a door to Hell in the basement. The gory horror fave has zombies, tarantulas, and scenes of Hell. With David Warbeck as a doctor and Sarah Keller. It was partially filmed on location in Louisiana. 10 minutes were cut from the Aquarius release in 1983, and the credits were "Americanized."

SEVEN DWARVES TO THE RESCUE

(VSOM, 1950) D/S/P: Paolo W. Tamburella
Italy (Sette Nani Alla Riscossa)

The 70s

The 70s used to seem like a stupid, wasted decade to many. Now that we can look back on life in the 80s, the 70s look pretty fascinating and so do an awful lot of the movies. It was the decade of black action movies, kung fu, all-star disaster movies, and porno features. We got the last biker movies and spaghetti westerns and enjoyed the last flourishing days of drive-ins. A record number of horror and exploitation movies were produced around the world. Because American directors had just recently been given freedom from censorship, many 70s movies are about returning Nam vets, junkies, hookers, pimps, student radicals, and various dysfunctional psychos, and pushed the limits with nudity, swearing, gore, drugs, and politics.

Eventually, the modern "blockbuster" event movie appeared and after a while Lucas and Spielberg ruled at the boxoffice. The first features to break the hundred million mark were Star Wars, The Empire Strikes Back, and Jaws. Some others making over $40 million were The Exorcist, Superman, Close Encounters, National Lampoon's Animal House, Star Trek, American Graffiti, Jaws II, Heaven Can Wait, Towering Inferno, The Poseidon Adventure, Airplane, and Alien.

Rosanna Podesta (Hercules, Horror Castle . . .) stars as Snow White. The seven dwarves save Snow and her husband Prince Charming from the Prince Of Darkness. The laughable Childhood production was released in America in 1965, then AIP released it to TV.

SEVEN HOURS TO JUDGMENT

(Media, 1988) D/A: Beau Bridges S: Walter Davis, Elliot Stephens P: Mort Abrahams

Bridges stars as a judge who has to release the punks who killed the wife of Ron Leibman. A crazed Leibman gives him seven hours to produce evidence to convict them or he'll have his wife (ex–Mrs. Springsteen Julianne Phillips) killed. With Al Freeman Jr. and ex–UCLA basketball star "Tiny" Ron Taylor.

SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE

(1917) D: Hugh Ford S/A: George M. Cohan

Cohan had written a 1913 Broadway version of this rare old-dark-house mystery based on a novel by Earl Derr Biggers. He starred in this first film version with the Swedish Anna Q. Nilsson and Hedda Hopper. Paramount made this and a 1925 remake. The music was added in 1973. Three other versions (all from RKO) came out in the 30s. The most recent version was called House of the Long Shadows.

THE SEVEN MAGNIFICENT GLADIATORS

(MGM, 1984) D/E: Bruno Mattei S: Claudio Fragasso
P: Golan/Globus Italy (I Sette Magnifici Gladiatori)

The Seven Samurai plot was used again for this PG muscleman movie. Lou Ferrigno stars as Gan with Sybil Danning (both had also been in Hercules). With Brad Harris and Don Vadis from 60s muscleman movies and Mandy Rice-Davies.

SEVEN REVENGES

(1960) D/S: Primo Zeglio S: Sergio Leone, Sabatino Ciuffini Italy (Le Sette Sfide)

Rival Mongol chiefs have to prove themselves with challenges. Ed Fury stars with Elaine Stewart and Bella Cortez.

THE SEVENTH COMMANDMENT

(Dark Dreams, 1960) D/S/P: Irvin Berwick
S: Jack Kevan

Jonathan Kidd, an actor who seems like Don Knotts impersonating Humphrey Bogart, stars as a San Francisco man who develops amnesia after a car crash. A friendly tent preacher (with a truck called Noah's Ark) puts him on the right path, and seven years later, he's the Rev. Tad Morgan, busy curing people at revival meetings. "PRAISE THE LORD!" Meanwhile, the girlfriend he had left behind in the car crash (Lyn Statten) has become an ex-con blond floozy living with a lowlife crook in a crummy apartment. They see Morgan as their "meal ticket" and proceed to ruin his life with booze, sex, and blackmail. It all ends in a graveyard where the Lord's Prayer is evoked and a Bible stops a bullet. My favorite line is, "I want you to meet the epitome of pulchritude!" The sound mixer was future director S. F. Brownrigg. A crippled kid is played by Charles Herbert (The Fly and 13 Ghosts). At Universal during the 50s, Berwick was a dialogue director (he worked on 11 Jack Arnold movies) and Kevan was a major talent in the makeup department. They formed Van Wick (later Irvmar) productions together and made the incredible Monster of Piedras Blancas (1959), this one from Crown International, and The Street Is My Beat (1966). Berwick went on to produce and/or direct Hitchhike to Hell, Larry Buchanan's Loch Ness Monster, and others. His son Wayne (who acted in his films) directed Microwave Massacre (!).

THE SEVENTH CURSE

(VSOM, 1986) D: Lan Dei Tsa
P: Raymond Chow Hong Kong

Explorers in Thailand encounter worm tribe ceremonies and Alien-inspired creatures in the jungle. It's one of the more outrageous Asian horror movies, featuring gore, nudity, sex, kung fu, a walking skeleton, lots of worms, and slimy bugs. A spell uses the blood of children from a rival tribe and a mutating man is cured when a woman cuts off her nipple and feeds it to him. With Chow Yung-Fat (The Killer) as the rich hero, Chin Suit Ho, and Ti Wei. Based on a novel by Ni Kuang and from Golden Harvest.

THE SEVENTH SIGN

(RCA/Columbia, 1988) D: Carl Schultz
S: Clifford and Ellen Green P: Ted Field

The world will end if Demi Moore has a baby with no soul. God's messenger (Jurgen Prochnow) rents a room over the garage. The confusing movie shows Biblical disasters and has flashbacks to ancient Rome, but the only memorable image is a suicidal Demi Moore pregnant and naked in a bathtub (her stomach was a very convincing prosthetic device). Michael Biehn is her lawyer husband and John Heard has a standout bit as a minister. Also with Richard Devon. From Tristar. Moore was also in the 3-D horror movie Parasite (1982).

THE SEVENTH VEIL

(VidAmerica, 1945) D: Compton Bennett
S/P: Sidney Box S: Muriel Box UK

Ann Todd is a concert pianist who has a mental breakdown and becomes mute and suicidal. Her psychiatrist (Herbert Lom) hypnotizes her, revealing her romantic problems with three men in narrated flashbacks and dream sequences. James Mason is her relative guardian.

THE SEVERED ARM

(Video Gems, 1973) D/S: Thomas S. Alderman
S: Darryl Presnell, Larry Alexander, Marc B. Rand
P: Gary Adelman

Some people trapped in a cave draw lots, and the loser's arm is cut off and eaten. After being rescued, they're killed off one by one in their homes. Former AIP starlet Deborah Walley has her last known role in this bizarre low-budget exploitation movie. With Marvin Kaplan as "Mad Man Herman," John Crawford, and Paul Carr.

SEVERED TIES

(Columbia, 1991) D: Damon Santostefano
S: John Nystrom, Henry Dominic
P: Christopher Webster (Army)

Fangoria magazine backed this grotesque horror comedy that refuses to be funny or scary. A Nazi scientist (Oliver Reed) helps a horrible woman (Elke Sommer) force her son (Billy Morrissette) to continue with her late husband's genetic experiments. He creates a living arm that kills, then hides out with clichéd silent homeless people in a new secret lab assembled from junk. With narration and flashbacks inside of flashbacks. Garrett Morris costars, and Johnny Legend has a good role as a crazed preacher ("Testify!") who gets his face ripped off. It was shot in Wisconsin.

SEX AND BUTTERED POPCORN

(Central Park, 1989) D/S/P: Sam Harrison

Exploitation movies from the silent days through the early 50s are covered in this amazing feature-length historical documentary. The on-screen host is overworked actor Ned Beatty (in a bow tie), but the knowledgeable guest star experts, David F. Friedman and Dan Sonney, actually distributed these roadshow classics to the "skid row scratch houses" of America. This tape includes choice clips from dozens of the old (mostly) b/w adults-only drug/sex movies like Reefer Madness, Child Bride of the Ozarks, Wild Weed, and Maniac. Some highlights are a nude baseball game from Elysia (1933), naked women in chains from Forbidden Daughters (1927), and Lenny Bruce in Dance Hall Racket (1955). To illustrate how alternate versions were available, a scene with women talking is intercut with the same "hot" underwear version. Friedman tells how old nitrate prints were routinely dumped into the ocean, and what "square up reels" were. The 70-minute documentary was originally shown on cable TV as For Adults Only.

SEX AND THE ANIMALS

(Video City, 1969) D/S: "Hal Dwain"/
Harold Hoffman P/E: Larry Buchanan

It opens with turkeys mating to Ravi Shankar music. This "adult" documentary is nothing but footage of wild animals mating. In the early 90s, it and other similar features were being shown in European discos as background for dancers! Hoffman (The Black Cat, 1966) was the producer of several early Buchanan features and wrote others.

SEX AND THE COLLEGE GIRL

(Strand VCI, 1964) D/S: Joseph Adler
S: William A. Bairn, Warren Spector
P: Robert N. Langworthy, Ben Parker
(The Fun Lovers)

This mild drama was shot (in color) in Puerto Rico by Floyd Crosby and retitled and released in 1970. It concerns a no-good, rich, gambling, drinking, playboy piano player. Charles Grodin, in his first role, is the shy, glum, drag of a best friend. He acts just like Grodin does now only not as well. Richard Arlen and Luana Anders are better. There's a party scene copied from La Dolce Vita and some twist dancing, but mostly just relationship problems and talk. Director Adler later made the much more interesting Scream Baby Scream.

SEXBOMB

(1989) D: Jeff Broadstreet
S: Robert Benson P: Rick Eye

In another spoof about low-budget filmmaking, a producer (Robert Quarry) makes "I Rip Your Flesh With Pliers" and "Werewolves in Heat." Delia Sheppard stars as Candy, the wife who wants him murdered. With Linnea Quigley as a horror movie actress, Spice Williams, and lots of topless scenes. Fred Olen Ray was an executive producer. High on scream queen fan want lists, this movie has never been on tape.

SEXCALIBUR

(Essex, 1983) D: Dinin Dicimino

The Mask (1961), from Canada, was the inspiration for many later movies including this 3-D X-rated porno video. Maria Tortuga dreams of her previous life as a sorceress after she puts on a mask. She has sex with a knight and other characters. With Drea, Lee Carol, and Ken Starbuck. Tapes came with glasses.

SEX IS CRAZY

(VSOM, 1979) D/S: Jesse (Jesús) Franco
Spain (El Sexo Está Loco)

Lina Romay (in a blond wig) stars as a Brazilian hooker who is impregnated by Martians in a bizarre episodic horror sex comedy. She's also sacrificed by naked people in masks, and is the girlfriend of a gambler. Most of the movie seems to be in her imagination. Franco is seen filming and even enters the scene to correct the actors. With subtitles.

THE SEX KILLER

(SW, 1967) D/P: Barry Mahon (The Girl Killer)

Tony, a doomed, loner voyeur who works at a mannequin factory, buys a set of binoculars in Times Square. He watches topless sunbathers on rooftops. We see them through a lens-shaped cutout. He takes a mannequin head to a bar (where a man makes a face into the camera) and on the BMT. A blond hooker wants too much, so he pays her $10 to just strip. Soon, he's strangling women. Some of the nude scenes are top notch in every way, especially the nurse and the black sunbathers. The Manhattan locations are also great. Tony goes to the Cafe Bizarre on 9th St. and a marquee advertises Love Hunger (1965). The music is a repeated rock instrumental. Presented by Frank Henenlotter. The b/w adult movie runs 55 minutes.

SEX KITTENS GO TO COLLEGE

(1960) D/P: Albert Zugsmith S: Robert Hill

You may be familiar with this silly b/w all-star slapstick comedy with Mamie Van Doren as a sexy new college professor, but wait until you see the uncut version! Thinko, the large clunky robot, dreams that four strippers do routines for him. They get down to G-strings and one humps against him. The extraordinary sequence includes the chimp and the midget too. For the record, the cast also includes Marty Milner, Louis Nye, Maila "Vampira" Nurmi as his assistant, John Carradine (he jitterbugs with Mamie), Conway Twitty (he sings about Mamie), and Jackie Coogan. Tuesday Weld and Mijanou Bardot are in a love triangle with an idiot football star (Woo Woo Grabowski) and Mamie says, "I'm so far out already, I'm on another planet." This rare longer print played the Z Channel in LA in the 80s and was bootlegged, but is still hard to find. It may have played theatrically in Europe. Zugsmith later made adults-only movies like On Her Bed of Roses.

SEX, LIES AND RENAISSANCE: See FANNY HILL

70s faves

TOP 20 (ALPHABETICAL)

1. The Abominable Dr. Phibes (1971)
2. Alice Sweet Alice (1976)
3. Apocalypse Now (1979)
4. Deep Red (1976)
5. Eaten Alive (1977)
6. Eraserhead (1978)
7. God Told Me To (1976)
8. The Hills Have Eyes (1977)
9. Martin (1978)
10. Phantasm (1979)
11. Pink Flamingos (1972)
12. The Shining (1980)
13. Squirm (1976)
14. Suspiria (1978)
15. Switchblade Sisters (1976)
16. Taxi Driver (1976)
17. The Tenant (1976)
18. Texas Chainsaw Massacre (1975)
19. They Came from Within (1977)
20. UP! (1976)

SEX ON THE RUN

(Slightly Blue, 1976) D/P: Franz Antel S: Joshua Sinclair, Tom Priman Germany/France/Italy (Casanova and Co.; Some Like It Cool)

Tony Curtis stars as Casanova and as Giacomino, a guy who looks like him. A number of international beauties and lots of nudity help assure that this period sex comedy will stay in release for a long time (under various titles). With Marisa Berenson, Britt Ekland, Sylva Koscina, Marisa Mell, Olivia Pascal, Lillian Muller, and Jeanne Bell (as a slave girl). Also with Hugh Griffith and Victor Spinetti. It was filmed in Venice. Curtis returned in The Manitou and Sextette (the next year).

THE SEXORCIST

(Arrow, 197?) D: "Sven Hellstrom"/ Ray Dennis Steckler S: Arnold Blatt P: Hans Leek (Sexorcist Devil)

This is one of many bad hardcore porno movies by the man who directed The Incredibly Strange Creatures . . . and other 60s cult movies. A female reporter for an occult magazine narrates and a hooded man with an echo voice kills people. Meanwhile, a roommate talks about drug addict hookers, lots of amateur horror art is shown, there are several sex scenes (one in a pool) and lots of BJs. Lilly Lamara and Kelly Guthrie star and Steckler's former wife and one-time star Carolyn Brandt is seen sitting at a typewriter.

SEX PERILS OF PAULETTE

(1965) D/P: Doris Wishman

A woman from Ohio goes to New York City but can't pay her rent. She fails as a waitress, and tries to avoid becoming a hooker. She becomes one anyway, a man wants to marry her, but she says she's not fit. The "adult" drama features the debut of actor Tony LoBianco (The Honeymoon Killers). Wishman also narrates.

SEXPOT

(Academy, 1988) D/P: Chuck Vincent S: Craig Horrall

Ruth Collins stars as Mrs. Barrington, who marries wealthy men and arranges their "accidental" deaths. It's an R-rated remake of Vincent's porno movie Mrs. Barrington (1974), and characters speak into the camera. With Jane Hamilton, Jennifer DeLora, Christina Veronica, and name guest stars Troy Donahue and Jack Carter.

SEX RITUALS OF THE OCCULT

(SW, 1970) D: Robert Caramico

It's an adults-only "documentary" with lots of nudity and sex. The director was the cameraman for Orgy of the Dead (!) and later worked on Falcon Crest! Dogs and goats join in the orgy scenes. Vincent Stephens narrates.

THE SEX SYMBOL

(1976) D: David Lowell Rich S: Alvah Bessie P: Douglas S. Cramer

Connie Stevens stars as a thinly disguised Marilyn Monroe in an ABC-TV movie that was shown theatrically overseas with additional nude scenes. With Shelley Winters as a gossip columnist, Don Murray as a Kennedy character, and William Smith as the Joe DiMaggio character. Also with William Castle as a director, Jack Carter, James Olson, Nehemiah Persoff, and Joseph Turkel.

SEXTETTE

(Media, 1977) D: Ken Hughes S: Herb Baker P: Daniel Briggs, Robert Sullivan

Everyone figured that Myra Breckinridge would be the last feature for Mae West, but the 85-year-old (!) sex star returned for one last embarrassment. Her ex-husbands show up on her latest honeymoon and she remembers her past. It's all based on her play. With George Hamilton as a gangster, Timothy Dalton as her latest husband (who turns out to be a secret agent), Ringo Starr as a director, Tony Curtis, Dom DeLuise, Alice Cooper, Keith Moon, George Raft, Walter Pidgeon (it was his last film), Regis Philbin, Rona Barrett, and lots of bodybuilders. From Crown International.

SEX THROUGH A WINDOW

(Vestron, 1973) D: Jeannot Szwarc S: Michael Crichton P: Paul N. Lazarus (Extreme Closeup)

James McMullan stars as a voyeur Hollywood TV newscaster in a movie about surveillance equipment. Szwarc made this before Coppola's The Conversation. He made Bug next. The National General release features Kate Woodville and James A. Watson.

SEXTON BLAKE AND THE HOODED TERROR

(Sinister, 1938) D/P: George King UK (The Hooded Terror)

Tod Slaughter, who usually was the only star of his movies, shares billing this time with George Curzon as Baker St. detective Blake. It was the third in a series of Blake movies. Slaughter is an industrialist stamp collector, secretly the head of a secret society of hooded killers. He has a futuristic TV set and a torture chamber full of snakes.

SEXUAL MALICE

(A-Pix, 1993) D: Jag Mundhra S: Carl Austin P: Andrew Garroni

Diana Barton (also in Body of Influence) stars as a businesswoman with a sullen, smirking, uncaring husband (the sullen, smirking Edward Albert). She has an affair with a male stripper (Douglas Jeffrey). After sex in a dressing room and sex under a pier, she's photographed having sex with a black woman. Blackmail and murder result. With Jack Laughlin as an ex-boyfriend cop, Samantha Phillips as the girlfriend, Chad McQueen as the brother, Don Swayze as a cop, and Kathy Shower in a minor role. The best part is seeing Jerry "The Beaver" Mathers as a desk sergeant! The tape I saw is unrated but seems more like an R. Gregory Hippolyte is the executive producer.

SEXUAL OUTLAWS

(Monarch, 1994) D/S: Edwin Brown S: Summer Brown P: Gregory Hippolyte

The married publisher (Erika West) of a sex fantasy magazine answers letters from, and becomes involved with, a mute drifter ex-con (former Olympic star Mitch Gaylord). Much of the running time is taken up by sex (including several lesbian scenes) and a hooker is murdered. With Mike McCollow as the husband, Nicole Grey, Monique Parent, Kimberly Dawson, and X star Devon Shire. Available R or unrated.

SEXUAL RESPONSE

(Columbia, 1992) D: Yaky Yosha S: Brent Morris P: Ashok Amritraj

Michael Madsen and Shannon Tweed star in another "erotic thriller." It's available R or unrated and features Catherine Oxenberg and Vernon Wells.

SEX WITH A SMILE

(VSOM, 1975) D/S: Sergio Martino S: Tonio Guerra P: Luciano Martino Italy (Gradia All'Ombra Del Lenzuolo)

This comic anthology movie with Barbara Bouchet, Sydne Rome, Dayle Haddon, and Marty Feldman played America in drive-ins. I saw it at one, but oddly enough can only remember Feldman. Sex with a Smile 2 (1976) featured Bouchet and Ursula Andress.

SEXY MAGICO

(1963) D: Mino Loy, Luigi Scattini
P: Enrico C. Putatto Italy

Scenes showing sexual rites and dances around the world are contrasted with cabaret shows at places like the Crazy Horse Saloon. AIP released the mondo documentary in 1967.

SEXY PROBITISSIMO

(SW, 1963) D: Marcello Martinelli
P: Gino Mordini Italy

"18" strippers are featured in this comic, narrated b/w "documentary" showing women through the ages, cavewomen to space women. My fave sequences show a woman who strips for the executioner in France during the Revolution and a "spider woman" with a web. There's a vampire scene and a Frankenstein monster scene (the nurse strips). Topless is as far as they go. Some scenes seem to be lifted from other movies (or vice versa), like the lesbian nightclub act, also in The Wild, Wild World of Jayne Mansfield. One of Frank Henenlotter's Sexy Shockers, it's only 63 minutes long and is partially letterboxed.

S.F.W.

(Polygram, 1994) D: Dale Pollack D/S: Jefery Levy

Four terrorists hold Cliff Spab (Stephen Dorff), a guy from a trailer park, hostage in a convenience store for 36 days, along with an upper-class girl (Reese Witherspoon). It's all videotaped and broadcast on network TV and Cliff briefly becomes a teen hero. With Jake Busey, Joey Lauren Adams, Pamela Gidley, and Jack Noseworthy. The same actor (John Roarke) plays all the major TV news and talk show personalities. The title means "So Fucking What." Based on a book by Andrew Wellman. Levy was also director of Inside Monkey Zetterland. The A&M soundtrack includes songs by Gwar, Hole, Babes in Toyland, Soundgarden, and others.

SGT. KABUKIMAN N.Y.P.D.

(Troma, 1991) D/S/P: Lloyd Kaufman D/P: Michael Herz S: Andrew Osborne, Jeffrey W. Sass

New York Cop Rick Gianasi is possessed by a Japanese spirit. He becomes a costumed hero with a painted face, who has visible wires when flying. Susan Byun is the niece of the original Kabukiman and the villain (Bill Weeden) becomes a dragon at the end. The much publicized PG-13 Troma comedy was co-produced by two Japanese firms.

SGT. PEPPER'S LONELY HEARTS CLUB BAND

(MCA, 1978) D: Michael Schultz
S: Henry Edwards P: Robert Stigwood

Making an (American) rock musical out of the Beatles' most famous album was a stupid idea (at least Tommy had a storyline). Peter Frampton stars as Billy Shears (in Heartland, USA) in the PG-rated disaster. The double RSO soundtrack album of cover versions landed in many cut-out bins. The Bee Gees costar with comedian Frankie Howerd, Donald Pleasence, George Burns, and Steve Martin (making his film debut). Aerosmith play the bad guys. With Alice Cooper, Earth Wind and Fire, Billy Preston, Jim Dandy of Black Oak Arkansas, Leif Garrett, Mark Lindsay, Del Shannon, Tina Turner, Kim Miyori, and so many more. At the awful end, "All You Need Is Love" is sung by Donovan, Monti Rock III, Frankie Valli, Helen Reddy. . . . Jack Nicholson was once considered to direct this!

SHACK OUT ON 101

(Republic, 1955) D/S: Edward Dein
S: Mildred Dein P: Mort Millman

One of the oddest movies of the fifties takes place all on one set. Lee Marvin stars as "Slob," a short order cook at a greasy spoon diner owned by George (Keenan Wynn). Slob says things like "Life's 90 percent slop," and he is really a Communist agent, trying to get government secrets from scientist Frank Lovejoy, who has his eyes on the waitress (Terry Moore). It has amazing dialogue, sax music, and skin diver suits. With Whit Bissell and Frank DeKova. Lovejoy had been the hero in I Was a Communist for the FBI (1952). Dein ended his film career with The Leech Woman (1960). From Allied Artists.

SHADEY

(1987) D: Philip Saville S: Snoo Wilson
P: Otto Plaschkes UK

An auto mechanic (Anthony Sher) can transmit his visions to film. A secret agent (Billie Whitelaw) wants him to use his power to locate Soviet submarine plans. He wants to earn money so he can afford a sex change. The comedy fantasy also stars Patrick Macnee and Katherine Helmond.

THE SHADOW

(1940) D: James Horne S: Joseph Poland, Ned Dandy, Joseph O'Donnell
P: Larry Darmour

Victor Jory stars in a 14-chapter Columbia serial, and Veda Ann Borg is Margo Lane. It's been called one of "the best" serials and Jory looks like "a pulp cover come to life." As in the 90s version, the Shadow appears as Lamont Cranston and as Lin Chang. The Black Tiger is the villain, who can become invisible. The Shadow was created by Walter B. Gibson (as Maxwell Grant) in pulps, was a popular radio show from the late 20s until 1954, and was also in comics. The Shadow Strikes (Imperial, 1937) was the first film. The Shadow Returns was in 1946.

THE SHADOW

(MCA, 1994) D: Russell Mulcahy S: David Koepp
P: Martin Bregman, Will Baer

Alec Baldwin is a Chinese warlord in Tibet who becomes playboy Lamont Cranston in 1920s NYC. Cranston becomes the Shadow and can "cloud men's minds" (and laughs while doing it). Villain Shiwan Khan (John Lone) has the same powers and threatens the city with an atom bomb. With Penelope Ann Miller as the psychic Margo Lane, Sir Ian McKellen as her scientist father, Peter Boyle as a cab driver/secret agent, Tim Curry, and Jonathan Winters as the police commissioner. The script is by the writer of Jurassic Park. The "$45 million" movie has a great art Deco look, lotsa FX, and a nice invisible building on Houston Street, but it was a box-office flop. Jerry Goldsmith did the score and Jellybean Benitez was music supervisor. The PG-13 Universal release runs 119 minutes. Available as a letterboxed laser disc.

SHADOW HUNTER

(Republic, 1992) D/S: J. S. Cardone
P: Carol Kottenbrook, Scott Einbinder

A Navajo Indian named Two Bear (Benjamin Bratt) is a mystical "Skin Walker" who kills and eats his victims for power and can disappear at will. A depressed Phoenix cop (Scott Glenn), who had Two Bear in custody, teams up with (and eventually falls for) an Indian lady tracker (Angela Alvarado) during the dangerous manhunt on horseback. With Robert Beltran as a reservation cop. The above-average cable TV movie by the director of Shadowzone (1989) includes a flashback, a nightmare, and some violent visions. It was filmed in Arizona.

SHADOW OF A DOUBT

(MCA, 1942) D: Alfred Hitchcock S: Thorton Wilder, Alma Reville, Sally Benson P: Jack H. Skirball

Joseph Cotten is perfect as Uncle Charlie, a "lonely hearts" killer visiting unsupecting relatives in Santa Rosa. Theresa Wright is his adoring niece Charlie, who learns the truth. With Wallace Ford and Macdonald Carey as detectives and Hume Cronyn. The classic American psycho movie was filmed on location and was a personal favorite of the director (who is seen on a train). From Universal. Step Down to Terror (1959) was the first remake.

SHADOW OF A DOUBT

(1991) D: Karen Arthur S: John Gay

Mark Harmon takes the Uncle Charlie role in this TV remake by the director of Lady Beware. The time is changed to the early 50s and nods to other Hitchcock features are included. With Margaret Webb as the niece and Diane Ladd, Shirley Knight, and Tippi Hedren.

THE SHADOW OF CHIKARA

(Starmaker, 1977) D/S: Earl E. Smith (The Curse of Demon Mountain; Thunder Mountain; Demon Mountain; Wishbone Cutter; The Ballad of Virgil Cane)

Joe Don Baker stars in a post–Civil War movie with fantasy elements. Sondra Locke (in her last theatrical feature without Clint Eastwood until 1986) costars with Joy Houck Jr. and Slim Pickens. The made-in-Arkansas New World PG feature is on tape under many titles.

SHADOW OF CHINATOWN

(Stokey, 1936) D: Robert F. Hill S: W. Buchanan, Isadore Bernstein, Basil Dickey P: Sam Katzman

Bela Lugosi is Victor Poten, a mad scientist in a 15-chapter Victory studios serial. He plots to drive West Coast Chinese businessmen out of business and at one point disguises himself as a Chinese man. He also uses a long-distance hypnotism machine. It's the cheapest looking of Lugosi's five sound serials. Katzman later produced all of Lugosi's Monogram features. Herman Brix/Bruce Bennett is the hero and Luanna Walters is Lugosi's assistant. A feature version was called Yellow Phantom and is also on tape.

SHADOW OF THE EAGLE

(Rhino, 1932) D/S: Ford Beebee S: C. Clark, Wyndham Gittens

John Wayne stars as a carnival skywriter hero in a 12-chapter Mascot serial. A death ray is one of the problems he faces. Dorothy Gulliver co-stars with Roy D'Arcy and Yakima Canutt.

SHADOW PLAY

(Starmaker, 1986) D/S/P: Susan Shadburne P: Dan Biggs, Will Vinton

Dee Wallace Stone stars as a New York playwright on an island, haunted by a dead fiancé who had killed himself. Cloris Leachman and Ron Kuhlman are also in the New World supernatural release.

THE SHADOW RETURNS

(1946) D: Phil Rosen S: George Callahan P: Joe Kaufman

The Shadow (Kane Richmond) arrives at a mansion after jewels are stolen from a grave. Barbara Reed is Margo and George Chandler is Shrevie the taxi driver. With Tom Dugan. It's the first of three approx. 1-hour-long movies from Monogram, all from 1946 and all by Rosen. Behind the Mask and The Missing Lady followed with the same stars. Richmond also starred in serials as Spy Smasher and Brick Bradford. The next Shadow movie was The Invisible Avenger (Imperial, 1958).

SHADOWS

(Sinister, 1922) D: Tom Forman S: Eve Undsell, Hope Loring

Dying Chinese laundryman Yen Sin (Lon Chaney Sr.) converts to Christianity to prevent a friend from being blackmailed. Chaney's makeup was the main attraction. With the original Harrison Ford. The 70-minute drama is from Preferred Pictures.

SHADOWS AND FOG

(Orion, 1992) D/S/A: Woody Allen P: Jack Rollins, Charles H. Joffe

Allen plays Kleinman, a nervous clerk (and amateur magician), in a b/w tribute to German expressionism. Only the shadow of a killer is seen, and Allen becomes the Kafka-style prime suspect. It's fun to see Donald Pleasence as a scientist performing autopsies and Kenneth Mars is a drunken magician. Mia Farrow costars and the cast is filled with celeb bits. Lily Tomlin, Jodie Foster, and Kathy Bates are hookers. With John Cusack, John Malkovich, Madonna, Kate Nelligan, Fred Gwynne, Julie Kavner, Kurtwood Smith, and Wallace Shawn. Some of Kurt Weill and Bertolt Brecht's Threepenny Opera songs are heard in the PG-13 feature, which was filmed in Astoria, Queens, studios. It was Allen's last release before the Soon-yi scandal broke.

SHADOWS IN THE CITY

(1990) D/S: Ari Roussimoff P: Jim Grib

A suicidal former carnival barker (Craig Smith) returns to New York City. He hangs out with tattooed bikers but ends up in a netherworld populated by pasty faced (Carnival of Souls–inspired) zombies. The underground feature includes appearances by Nick Zedd, Brinke Stevens as a fortune teller, Taylor Mead, Joe Coleman, and Annie Sprinkle. Filmmakers Jack Smith (as the spirit of Death) and Emile De Antonio both died shortly after appearing in it. Roussimoff had wanted the late Joe Spinnell to star. Shadows . . . was shot over a five-year period using various b/w and color film stocks.

SHADOWS RUN BLACK

(Vestron, 1981) D: Howard Heard S: Craig Kusaba, Duke Howard P: Eric Louzil

Sixth-billed Kevin Costner is a suspect in this movie about a vigilante serial killer called "the Black Angel" who goes after coeds. With William Kulzer as the cop star and Barbara Peckinpaugh and Terry Congie for topless or nude scenes. It was released in 1986 by Troma. Sizzle Beach was another movie with Costner, rereleased to cash in on his later fame.

THE SHADOW STRIKES

(Sinister, 1937) D: Lynn Shores S: Al Martin P: Max and Arthur Alexander

Rod LaRocque stars as Lamont "Granston," The Shadow, who solves a murder in an old house. Lynn Anders and Norman Ainsley co-star in the 61-minute mystery based on the popular radio show. It and a sequel, International Crime (1938) were from the short-lived Grand National company. The next Shadow was Victor Jory in the 1940 serial.

SHADOWZONE

(Paramount, 1989) D/S: J. S. Cardone P: Charles Band

NASA dream research in an underground lab unleashes a shapeshifting monster from another dimension. David Beecroft stars as an investigator and James Hong is the European scientist who experiments on naked people in a glass sleep chamber. The creature becomes a monkey and a giant rat. With Louise Fletcher, Shawn Weatherly, Lu Leonard, and Robbie Reves. By the director of Slayer.

SHAFT

(MGM, 1971) D: Gordon Parks Sr. S: Ernest Tidyman, John D. F. Black P: Joel Freeman

This followed Sweet Sweetback and started off the 70s black action craze. Shaft, the first major Hollywood "blaxploitation" movie, made over $7 million. Richard Roundtree is a detective who has an office in Times Square and a bachelor pad in Greenwich Village. He's hired by a gangster named Bumpy (Moses Gunn) to help find his daughter, who has been kidnapped by the mob. It's based on Ernest Tidyman's novel. Roundtree had been a stage actor and model in Ebony magazine. With Gwenn Mitchell and Antonio Fargas. The famous bestselling double soundtrack (originally on Enterprise) is by Isaac Hayes ("Shut your mouth!") and started a long-lasting trend of using wah-wah guitar for soundtracks. Hayes received an Oscar.

Richard Roundtree is Shaft.

SHAFT IN AFRICA

(MGM, 1973) D: John Guillermin
S: Sterling Silliphant P: Roger Lewis

Shaft (Richard Roundtree for the third time) is hired by some African diplomats. He goes to Africa and eventually wipes out a Paris-based slavery ring run by Frank Finlay. This outrageous international sequel has lots about African customs, torture scenes in a former Nazi prison, and James Bond references. The parts about tricking Third World workers into slavery are actually very believable and fact-based. Vonetta McGee co-stars as the virgin daughter of an emir, but Neda Arneric has the major sex and nude scenes. Actually Roundtree is naked a lot himself. It was filmed in Ethiopia, Spain, and NYC. The Four Tops do the theme song (it was on the ABC soundtrack). Roundtree also starred in a short-lived (1973–74) and of course very watered-down Shaft CBS-TV series.

SHAFT'S BIG SCORE!

(MGM, 1972) D/M: Gordon Parks Sr.
S/P: Ernest Tidyman P: Roger Lewis

Richard Roundtree and Moses Gunn returned in the immediate sequel to the hit Shaft, based on another Tidyman novel. Shaft's a bit more like James Bond this time, instead of a 40s-style detective. He's hired to retrieve a quarter of a million dollars (for a Harlem child welfare fund) stolen by a gangster, and avenges a friend's murder. The action ends at a New York harbor. With Kathy Imrie and Julius W. Harris. O. C. Smith is on the MGM soundtrack.

THE SHAGGY DOG

(1994) D: Dennis Dugan S: Tim Doyle
P: George Zaloom, Les Mayfield

Ed Begley Jr. stars in the Fred MacMurray dad role in a remake of the 1959 fantasy comedy. Scott Weinger is the teen who becomes a sheepdog. With Sarah Lassez as the girlfriend and Natasha Gregson Wagner. It includes a scene from Curse of the Werewolf. It debuted on ABC-TV and was followed by more remakes of other old-style Disney movies. The original, which has been colorized (badly), was followed by The Shaggy D.A. (1976) and The Return of the Shaggy Dog, a 1987 TV movie.

SHAKA LULU: See MARK OF THE HAWK

SHAKA ZULU

(Starmaker, 1986) D: William C. Faure S. Africa

The story of Shaka, the early-19th-century king of the Zulus (Henry Cole), was a popular syndicated TV mini-series running 300 minutes. The video adds more violence and nudity. The British cast includes Christopher Lee, Edward Fox, Robert Powell, Gordon Jackson, and Fiona Fullerton.

SHAKEDOWN

(MCA, 1988) D/S: James Glickenhaus
P: J. Boyce Harman Jr.

A New York City public defense attorney (Peter Weller) teams with a worn-out undercover cop (Sam Elliott) to expose high-level corruption. The action sequences are excellent, especially when a Coney Island rollercoaster leaves the tracks. The famous 42nd St. New Amsterdam theater (which had closed in the early 80s) is used as a scary crack den. With Patricia Charbonneau, Antonio Fargas, Shawn Weatherly (a former Miss Universe), Paul Bartel, Shirley Stoller, and Tom Waits. Glickenhaus's The Soldier (1982) is seen playing in a theater.

SHAKE, RATTLE AND ROLL

(1994) D: Allan Arkush
P: Lou Arkoff, Debra Hill

Teens Renee Zellweger (Love and a .45) and Latanyia Baldwin start a band, open a nightclub, and encounter opposition from anti-rock community members. With Howie Mandel as a DJ. The Showtime Rebel Highway feature is not a remake of the 1957 AIP movie, available from RCA. Arkush had directed Rock 'n' Roll High School (1979).

SHAKER RUN

(1985) D: Bruce Morrison S: James Kauf Jr.
P: Larry Parr, Igo Kantor New Zealand

Cliff Robertson and Leif Garrett are out-of-work American stunt drivers hired to transport a stolen deadly viral culture from New Zealand to America. Terrorists are after them in the car chase movie. With Lisa Harrow and Shane Briant.

SHAKES THE CLOWN

(Columbia, 1992) D/S/A: Bobcat Goldthwait
P: Ann Luly, Paul Colichman

Shakes (Goldthwait) is an alcoholic (and acrobatic) party clown in "Palookaville, USA." Clowns are everywhere (especially drinking in the bar), but not everyone is a clown. Clowns hate mimes, tough rodeo clowns beat up other clowns, and clowns fight each other for better jobs. Shakes is blamed for the murder of his boss (Paul Dooley) and his friends try to get him to stop drinking. Julie Brown is Shakes's (non-clown) waitress girlfriend, Tom Kenny is his sadistic rival Binky, and Adam Sandler and Blake Clark are his best friends. Some reviewers thought this movie was in bad taste. What knuckleheads! And what a great way for Goldthwait to start (and most likely end) a directing career! With funny bits by Florence Henderson as a drunken clown groupie, LaWanda Page (!), Tom Villard, Sidney Lassick, and Robin Williams. From I.R.S.

Shakes the Clown (Bobcat Goldthwait) and Julie Brown.

SHAKMA

(Quest, 1990) D: Tom Logan
D/P: Hugh Parks S: Roger Engle

Shakma is a killer baboon (played by "Typhoon") trapped in a research building. Teens are killed while acting out a Dungeons and Dragons–type game. Roddy McDowall is the scientist who causes it all. With Christopher Atkins, Amanda Wyss, and Ari Meyers. It was filmed at the Universal Florida studios.

SHALLOW GRAVE

(Prism, 1987) D: Richard Styles S: George E. Fernandez P: Barry H. Waldman

Four Catholic co-eds on the way to Fort Lauderdale see a Georgia sheriff murder a woman. Two of them are killed and two others are arrested. The sheriff puts all three dead women in one grave.

SHALLOW GRAVE

(Polygram, 1995) D: Danny Boyle
S: John Hodges Scotland

Three young professionals rooming in an Edinburgh flat fight over drug money from a new fourth roomate after he ODs. The body is dismembered and gangsters want the stolen money. The violent black-humor script was written by a doctor. Ewan McGregor, Kerry Fox, and Christopher Eccleston star.

SHAME

(Republic, 1988) D: Steve Jodrell S: Beverly Blankenship P: Damien Parer, Paul D. Barron Australia

A lawyer (Deborra-Lee Furness) who rides a Suzuki on her vacation has to stay in an outback town for repairs. She discovers many local women have been gang raped. No one will bring charges, so she teaches them to fight back. The feminist action movie is very good. A huge Shame billboard was in Times Square for many months after the brief theatrical run. It was later remade for American TV.

SHAME

(Prism, 1992) D: Dan Lerner S: Rebecca Soladay
P: Michele Maxwell MacLaren Canada

This pretty good USA cable remake is set in Oregon. Amanda Donohoe (with short blond hair and in leather) stars as an L.A. attorney who just wanted to get away for a while on her motorcycle. She ends up fighting local jocks, the sheriff, and the town's main employers. With Dean Stockwell as the mechanic father of a scared rape victim (Fairuza Balk).

THE SHAMELESS

(1962) D/P: Jay Martin S: William L. Rose
(The Barest Heiress)

A detective visits nudist camps around the world looking for a woman's sister so she can inherit her father's legacy. Dori Davis and Sheila Gilliam star. It was filmed in America, Denmark, Germany, and France.

SHAMELESS SHORTS

(SW)

This color tape includes a dozen nudie "featurettes," often shown before adult movies in the 60s. Most feature dancing, modeling, and sunbathing. The one with "Instant Orgy" punch shows topless women dancing to a surf instrumental. Barry Mahon's Censored (this one is part of a feature) shows some pretty great "nudist" scenes. A scene with a black woman and a blonde helping each other look over, then under, a fence is pretty memorable. An incredible short (from Italy?) shows a wild-eyed blonde writhing in a bamboo cage to some great music. It ends with her shooting up (!). David Friedman's 1966 short stars Stacy Walker (A Taste of Honey . . .) and a wisecracking agent attending a nudist camp beauty contest. This one manages to be sexy and funny (on purpose), a major accomplishment.

THE SHAMING

(Roach, 1979) D: Marvin J. Chomsky S: Polly Platt
P: Raymond Stross (Good Luck, Miss Wyckoff; Secret Yearnings; The Sin)

Anne Heywood stars as a schoolteacher who has an affair with a (black) janitor (John LaFayette) after he rapes her. The drama, based on a William Inge novel, has been retitled many times and sold as an exploitation tape. With Donald Pleasence, Robert Vaughn, Carolyn Jones (it was her last theatrical feature), Dorothy Malone, Ronee Blakely, Earl Holliman, Joycelyn Brando, and R. G. Armstrong.

SHANGHAI BLUES

(VSOM, 1984) D/P: Tsui Hark Hong Kong

In an excellent romantic comedy, a nightclub dancer (Sylvia Chang from the Mad Mission movies) briefly meets a musician (Kenny Bee) in 1930s Shanghai, then under Japanese bombardment. They're separated by war and don't recognize each other ten years later, after the war, even when living in the same building. Comedian Sally Yeh co-stars. It was a remake of a Chinese feature called Street Angel (1930), itself a remake of the 1928 American film of the same name. Hark followed with Peking Opera Blues.

SHANGHAI JOE: See MANCHURIAN AVENGER

SHANGHAI SURPRISE

(Live, 1986) D: Jim Goddard
S/P: John Kohn S: Robert Bently

Madonna was in some flop movies, but this adventure co-starring her then-husband Sean Penn is probably the worst. She's a missionary in 1937 China who hires him to track a shipment of opium. It was backed by George Harrison's Handmade Films and helped sink the company. With Paul Freeman, Richard Griffiths, Kay Tong Lim, Clyde Kusatsu, and Victor Wong, and a cameo by Harrison. From MGM.

SHANGRI-LA

(SW, 1961) S: E. S. Seeley P: Dick Randall

If you've ever seen Bela Lugosi Meets a Brooklyn Gorilla (1951) you know that it starred Duke Mitchell and Sammy Petrillo, a team of Martin and Lewis imitators. Petrillo was sued by Jerry Lewis for copying him and the team broke up. Here Sammy is Sammy, a zookeeper who plays cards with Pinky the gorilla in a cage and tells his British friend about his unusual vacation. In flashbacks, he follows two beautiful women to the National Historical Wax Museum in D.C. (where he talks to wax figures), a snake farm in Florida (where he water skis and we see gator wrestling), and last and best of all, to a nudist camp. Sammy watches unseen, but finally joins in and gets to do a standup show and imitates Jerry Lewis and Dean Martin. The puns and jokes are awful, but I like when he refers to himself as "a stringless Howdy Doody." Weegee (later played by Joe Pesci) was the "trick photographer" and most scenes were shot on actual locations. Women swim naked, ride horses topless, and hold towels in front when walking. Jackie Miller (a well-known model) and Pamela Perry co-star. Exploitation producer George Weiss appears as a beauty contest judge. Shangri-La is 63 minutes long. It was reviewed as being in color but the tape is not.

SHANTY TRAMP

(Sinister, 1967) D: Joseph Prieto S: Reuben Guberman P: K. Gordon Murray

Lee Holland stars as Emily, a sexy, dangerous, trouble-making young white trash sharecropper's daughter in this b/w exploitation classic from Florida. She messes with bikers and causes the death of a black man by crying rape. The acting, editing, and sound are all good and the movie really delivers with action, blood, and surprising nudity (although they use "friggin'" for swearing). There's also a great theme song ("I'm gonna love love love you baby . . .") heard on a jukebox. Bill Rogers (star of A Taste of Blood) is a lecherous revival tent preacher. The assistant director was Bob (Porky's) Clark. Murray is the same guy known for his imported kiddie matinee releases. Kroger Babb also released this for a while, and Jerry Gross and his Cinemation rereleased it in the 70s. The underrated Prieto also made Fireball Jungle.

SHARK!

(Genesis, 1969) D: Raphael Portillo D/S: Sam Fuller
S: John Kingsbridge P: Skip Steloff US/Mexico
(Un Arma de los Filos; Man Eater)

Burt Reynolds stars as a wiseguy illegal arms dealer on the run in the Sudan. He escapes on the boat owned by Silvia Pinal and Barry Sullivan. Reynolds tries to cheat them out of some gold from a sunken ship and sharks attack and kill. Arthur Kennedy plays an alcoholic. A stunt diver was actually killed by a shark, and Fuller disowned the feature.

SHARK'S CAVE

(1978) D: "Anthony Richmond"/Tonino Ricci
S: Fernando Galiana, Manrico Melchiorre
P: Nino Segurini Italy/Spain/Venezuela
(La Fossa Naledetta)

Villain Arthur Kennedy hires a diver to locate an airplane which had crashed in the Bermuda triangle. Janet Angren (from Sweden) helps the diver. Killer sharks guard a lost undersea city (which we never see).

SHARKS' TREASURE

(MGM, 1974) D/S/P/A: Cornel Wilde

Wilde owns a small boat being used by a group of treaure hunters. They bring up a fortune in gold from a wreck but are held captive by an escaped con (Cliff Osmond, who whips his partner). In one sequence, real sharks attack. Sixty-year-old Wilde does one-handed push-ups. With Yaphet Kotto, John Neilson, David Canary, and Caesar Cordova. U.A. released the PG adventure after Jaws, but it was made first (as The Treasure). Wilde's last as director was filmed in the Dutch West Indies.

SHARKY'S MACHINE

(Warner, 1981) D/A: Burt Reynolds
S: Gerald Di Pego P: Hank Moonjean

Burt stars as an undercover vice squad leader who falls for an expensive hooker named Domino (Rachel Ward). She works for Atlanta drug king Vittorio Gassman. With Brian Keith, Henry Silva, Charles Durning, Bernie Casey, Daryl Hickman, and Earl Holliman. John Boorman was originally going to direct. The violent feature was filmed in Atlanta and uses ideas from Laura.

SHATTER DEAD

(Tempe, 1993) D/S: Scooter McCrea

A weary woman named Susan ("Stark Raven") passes through a small (upstate N.Y.) town populated by pitiful-seeming living dead. She goes to a house where one suicidal long-haired guy (Daniel Johnson) and a lot of females stay. There's a lot of talk (especially from the bald Preacherman) about the "new breed," but there are also blood-splattered deaths, bizarre dream sequences (sucking off a gun in a graveyard, naked angels . . .), some sex, and quite a bit of surprising matter-of-fact nudity. A scene where one of the two naked women standing in a shower turns out to be some kind of slowly rotting corpse is unique. The Betacam production seems to be inspired by The Last Man on Earth with a touch of Carnival of Souls added. The credits are mostly fake names but Pericles Lewnes (Redneck Zombies) did the FX.

SHATTERED

(Media, 1972) D/S: Alastair Reid P: Michael Klinger UK (Something to Hide)

Peter Finch is a businessman married to an overbearing Shelley Winters (who leaves after about ten minutes). He picks up a (pregnant) hitchhiker (Linda Hayden) who manipulates him, and violence and murder result. With Colin Blakeley. Winters was in The Poseidon Adventure the same year.

SHATTERED

(MGM, 1991) D/S/P: Wolfgang Petersen P: John Davis, David Korda

Wealthy San Francisco architect Tom Berenger has extensive plastic surgery after a car crash but loses his memory. He has violent and erotic flashbacks, though. Bob Hoskins is an eccentric private detective (and pet shop owner) trying to help him figure out his past. The first American film by the director of Das Boot was based on The Plastic Nightmare by Richard Neely. It was shot along the Pacific coast by Laszlo Kovacs. "Nights in White Satin" is heard on the soundtrack while waves are intercut with a sex scene. With Greta Scacchi as his wife, Joanne Whalley-Kilmer, Corbin Bernsen, and Theodore Bikel.

SHATTERED SILENCE = WHEN MICHAEL CALLS

THE SHAWSHANK REDEMPTION

(Columbia, 1994) D/S: Frank Darabont P: Nikki Marvin

Tim Robbins stars as a Maine banker falsely accused of killing his wife and her lover in the late 40s. How he deals with his brutal life in prison until the 60s is the basic story. Morgan Freeman (who narrates) is Red, the lifetime prisoner who helps him out. The Castle Rock production is based on a short story from Stephen King's Different Seasons collection (so was Stand by Me). It was not promoted as a King film, it's long (142 minutes), and people couldn't pronounce or remember the title. Still it received an incredible seven Oscar nominations. It was shot in a real 19th-century Mansfield, Ohio, prison. With William Sadler, James Whitmore, David Proval, Clancy Brown as the corrupt guard, and Bob Gunton as the warden. Darabont had directed a King short (available on Night Shift) and Buried Alive and scripted several features (including Mary Shelley's Frankenstein). Another non-horror King adaptation with an awkward name (Dolores Claiborne) followed in 1995.

SHE

(Sinister, 1925) D: Leander De Cordova S: Walter Summers P: George Berthold Samuelson UK

Betty Blythe stars as the ageless She (who must be obeyed) in the last of many silent versions of the famous H. Rider Haggard fantasy. Some versions of the 98-minute feature run only 57 minutes. With a music score. The next versions were in 1935, from RKO (the best), then the 1965 Ursula Andress version from Hammer. Sinister also offers an earlier Thanhouser studio version from 1911. The very first version was made by Thomas Edison in 1908.

Michael Shayne

A Miami private eye created by novelist and pulp writer Brett Halliday, Mike Shayne was the hero of a dozen features. Lloyd Nolan starred in a quality 20th Century series of seven (1941–42). The Man Who Wouldn't Die is an old dark house mystery with a magician murder victim. PRC made five more features (1946–47) starring a pre–Leave It to Beaver Hugh Beaumont. Four of them were directed by Samuel Newfeld and the last was by William Beaudine. In 1960 Richard Denning starred in a TV series version.

S*H*E*

(Prism, 1980) D: Robert Michael Lewis S: Richard Maibaum P: Martin Bregman

Cornelia Sharpe is Lavinia Kean, international spy, in this CBS-TV pilot made in Italy that was also released to some theaters. Omar Sharif is the playboy villain and the cast includes Robert Lansing, Anita Ekberg, and Fabio Testi. Maibaum was known for writing James Bond scripts.

SHE

(Lightning, 1982) D/S: Avi Nesher P: Renato Dandi M: Rick Wakeman Italy

Sandahl Bergman (who had just been in Conan) bathes nude in a spring to stay young. The comic book action story is set in the future and is loaded with in jokes, dumb gags, and TV and movie references. It has heroes in armor, vampires, mutants, and a robot. Characters are named Tom, Dick, and Harri, and a comedian who clones himself sings "Popeye, the Sailor Man." With Harrison Muller, Tom Goss and Gordon Mitchell as the ugly leader of the bad guys. Motörhead is on the soundtrack. With singing by Justin Hayward and Maggie Bell. The Sarlui production bears little resemblance to the H. Rider Haggard novel.

SHEBA BABY

(Orion, 1975) D/S: William Girdler P: David Sheldon

Pam Grier stars as Chicago private investigator Sheba Shayne. She returns home to Louisville, Kentucky, to help her father battle black mobsters. There's a wild party on a yacht and a chase through a fun house. The PG-rated AIP release was a letdown after Grier's more outrageous R-rated Jack Hill features. With Austin Stoker as her new boyfriend, D'Urville Martin, and Charles Kissinger. The Buddah soundtrack features Barbara Mason.

SHE CAME INTO THE VALLEY

(Media, 1979) D: "Albert Band"/Alfredo Antonini S: Frank Ray Perilli (Texas in Flames)

Singer Freddy Fender stars in a story about a poor family during the Mexican Revolution. The cast includes Scott Glenn, Ronee Blakley, and Dean Stockwell. It was made in Texas. Band's first western was The Young Guns (1956).

SHE CAME ON THE BUS

(SW, 1969) D: Harry Vincent P: Peter Jackson

A gang attacks a suburban woman, then takes over a bus and kills the driver. This low budget adults-only sex shocker was filmed silent in 16mm with voiceovers.

SHE DEVIL

(Sinister, 1940) D: Arthur Hoerl P/E: Louis Weiss (Drums O'Voodoo; Louisiana)

Sack Amusements made this very-low-budget all-black feature about Amos, an ex-con preacher who uses a voodoo woman known as Aunt Hagar (Laura Bowman) to get rid of "Tom Cat, spawn of the Devil." Tom, who owns a "Louisiana jook," is blackmailing him. Aunt Hagar says spells in rhyme and says things like: "Creepy, crawlin', lizard eatin' black cat," "You stinkin' skunk," and "I'm gwyna blind ya!" There's lots of high-energy preaching and singing ("Don't Let Nobody Turn You Round," "Good News," . . .) plus drumbeat voodoo ceremonies. Modern viewers might be surprised at characters calling each other "nigger." Director Hoerl usually worked for Monogram as a writer. The print is jumpy.

SHE DEVILS IN CHAINS: See EBONY, IVORY AND JADE

SHE DEVILS IN CHAINS: See SWEET SUGAR

SHE DEVILS OF THE SS: See THE CUTTHROATS

SHEENA

(RCA/Columbia, 1984) D: John Guillermin S: David Newman, Lorenzo Semple Jr. P: Paul Aratow

Blond Tanya Roberts rides a zebra (an obvious painted horse) and saves the day with animals. Sheena, based on the old jungle-woman comic books, has lots of nudity for a PG feature and some unintentional laughs, but it's pretty dull. The natives use better English than she does. With Ted Wass, Elizabeth Toro, and Donovan Scott. It was shot on location in Kenya by the director of Shaft in Africa. It lost millions for Columbia.

SHEENA IN WONDERLAND

(Three Hearts, 1987) D/P: "Edward Dinero"

Here's a tape with a very misleading box. It strongly implies that this is a "Roger Rabbit"–style sex movie, mixing blond part-Oriental porn star Sheena Horne with cartoon characters. She says, "Hi. I'm Little Miss Muppet, official hostess of this adult cartoon show," introducing the unidentified, already shown in American theaters, 1973 Italian/French cartoon feature King Dick. Some people might enjoy this harmless silly story about star "Little Dick," the impotent king "Master Limpcock," and the witch "Nymphomania," but you shouldn't have to be tricked into enduring it. Once in a while Sheena is cut in to make dumb Elvira-style comments, and in-between cartoon segments near the end, does typical hard-core porno things with two different guys on the cheap kid show set. The grass rug moves and you can hear the director's voice (not uncommon in today's direct-to-video porn tapes). If you wanted to see a Sheena Horne porno tape, there are plently to choose from. If you want to see a European sex cartoon, this one is also available in its original form.

SHEENA, QUEEN OF THE JUNGLE

(Moviecraft, 1955–56)

This silly Saturday morning kids' jungle show, based on a comic book, was pretty hot stuff at the time because of sexy star Irish McCalla, a men's magazine model. Sheena's friends are Chim the chimp and Trader Bob. 26 episodes were filmed in Mexico. McCalla was also in She Demons (1958) and several other features. She was still appearing at fan conventions in the 90s. Six video tapes are available containing 2 episodes each.

SHELF LIFE

(1992) D/A: Paul Bartel S/A: O-Lan Jones, Andrea Stein, Jim Turner P: Bradley Laven M: Andy Paley

A 60s suburban family in Anaheim retreats to their concrete-lined bomb shelter when Kennedy is shot and stay there. The parents die from botulism but their three kids grow up in the shelter. Thirty years later the still sheltered trio have a JFK shrine and keep their parents' skeletons around. The feature, based on a play by the stars, was filmed all on one set designed by Dean Tavoularis.

SHELL SHOCK

(1964) D/S: John Hayes S: Randy Fields P/A: Beech Dickerson

Roger Corman stock company regular Dickerson stars as a sergeant in Italy in a b/w WWII movie. He thinks that Carl Crow is faking shell shock and plots against him. With Pamela Grey and Frank Leo.

SHE MAN

(SW, 1967) D: Bob Clark S/A: Jeff Gillen

A "doctor" behind a desk who can't seem to get his lines right introduces the first feature by the then 24-year-old Clark. Albert Rose (Leslie Marlow), a wealthy Korean war vet, is blackmailed by Dominita (Dorian Wayne), a blonde with a riding crop. Rose has to become Rosey and be a personal maid for a year ("Yes, Dominita" . . .). So instead of the expected sex-change movie, you get two men in drag (Wayne is more convincing). Dominita has a house full of victims and a bald mute bodyguard. Her assistant (who has a flashback) falls for Rosey and they plot an escape and revenge. The music is all vibes. The executive producer of the b/w Miami Beach movie was David P. Puttnam (Cottonpickin' Chickenpickers).

SHE MOB

(SW, 1968) S: Diana Paschal P: Maurice Levy

This is one of the odder adults-only movies to come from Texas. With outrageous hair, makeup, costumes, heavy regional accents, and women who are not exactly beauty queens, it's very much in John Waters territory. The wealthy Brenda supports her gigolo lover Tony. Big Shim, "the bitchiest dyke in the world," who wears black leather and a very pointy leather bra, lives with four lesbian prison escapees. They tie up Tony and hold him for ransom so Brenda hires Sweetie East (Monique Duvall), a lady detective (patterned after TV spy Honey West) with a pet jaguar. Characters play poker and drink beer, Tony is strung up and whipped while in drag, and Sweetie and Shim have a big fight. For some reason, Marni Castle plays both Brenda and Shim! There is no director credited. The b/w feature is from Sack Amusements.

THE SHERIFF WAS A LADY

(1964) D: Sobey Martin S: Gustav Kampendonk W. Germany (Freddy Und Das Lied Der Prairie)

Freddie Quinn (born Manfred Petz in Vienna) is the singing Black Bill and Mamie Van Doren is the saloon girl who pretends to be the sheriff and helps him avenge the death of his parents. With Rik Battaglia and Beba Loncar. Quinn, the closest thing Germany had to Elvis, was also in the musical Heimweh Nach St. Pauli (1963) with Jayne Mansfield.

SHERLOCK HOLMES

(Foothill, 1954) UK (Adventures of Sherlock Holmes)

30 half-hour episodes were produced of this early TV series starring Ronald Howard as Holmes and H. Marion Crawford as Dr. Watson. The series was filmed in France and syndicated in America. Howard is a son of the more famous Leslie Howard. 17 volumes with 2 shows each are available.

SHERLOCK HOLMES

(Paramount, MPI, 1985) UK (Adventures of Sherlock Holmes; The Casebook of Sherlock Holmes)

These atmospheric, high quality, 50-minute English Granada TV shows were first aired in the U.S. on the PBS Mystery program (originally hosted by Vincent Price). Jeremy Brett became the definitive Holmes for many viewers and David Burke (later replaced by Edward Hardwicke) played Watson. Hardwicke is the son of the late Sir Cedric Hardwicke. At least 21 episodes are on tape.

SHERLOCK HOLMES AND THE CRUCIFER OF BLOOD

(Turner, 1991) D/S/P: Fraser C. Heston UK (The Crucifer of Blood)

Charlton Heston stars as Sherlock Holmes in a TNT cable TV movie based on the stage play of "The Sign of Four." With Richard Johnson as Watson, Susannah Harker, and Edward Fox. Heston's son Fraser also directed Treasure Island for TNT.

SHERLOCK HOLMES AND THE INCIDENT AT VICTORIA FALLS

(Vestron, 1991) D: Bill Corcoran S: Bob Shayne UK

Sherlock Holmes, the Golden Years, was a rival series to the Jeremy Brett Granada series. Christopher Lee seems totally bored as an older Holmes and Patrick Macnee is just wrong as Watson. This one is a mystery involving Thugees and Indians in South Africa. With Jenny Seagrove and Richard Todd. The Zimbabwe locations are nice and historical characters including Teddy Roosevelt show up, but it's pretty slow going. It was shown in 2 parts on TV.

Sherlock Holmes

Before the famous Basil Rathbone Holmes movies (1939–46), which are all easy to find on tape, there were many silent films from various countries based on Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's famous detective. The first sound Holmes feature was The Return of Sherlock Holmes, starring Clive Brook, who was also in Sherlock Holmes (1932). In England, there was The Speckled Band (1931) with Raymond Massey and The Hound of the Baskervilles (1931) with Robert Randel. Back in Hollywood, Reginald Owen starred in A Study in Scarlet (1933) and Arthur Wontner starred in the first sound Holmes series, five features (from 1937–39). Many of these rare 30s Holmes features are available on Foothill Video and several are from Sinister Video.

SHERLOCK HOLMES AND THE LEADING LADY

(Vestron, 1990) D: Peter Sasdy S: Bob Shayne, H.R.F. Keating P: Frank Agrama, Alessandro Tasca UK

The first feature from Sherlock Holmes, the Golden Years stars Christopher Lee and Patrick Macnee with Morgan Fairchild as an opera singer. Actors play Freud, Elliot Ness, and Emperor Franz Joseph. It's set in Vienna but was filmed in Luxumbourg and concerns Bosnian rebels in 1920. Harry Alan Towers was the executive producer of the four-hour mini series. With Engelbert Humperdinck.

SHERLOCK HOLMES AND THE PRINCE OF CRIME

(1990) D: Stuart Orme S: Charles Edward Pogue P: Norman Foster (Hands of a Murderer)

Edward Woodward is Holmes and John Hillerman is Watson in a TV movie with Anthony Andrews as Moriarty. Also with Kim Thompson and Peter Jeffrey.

SHE'S BACK

(Vestron, 1988) D: Tim Kincaid S: Buddy Giovinazzo P: Cynthia DePaula (Dead and Married)

In her book Postcards from the Edge, Carrie Fisher said that she had problems with cocaine, Percodan pills, and LSD. You have to wonder which ones she was on when she starred in this disaster. It was her first featured role in an American movie after Hollywood Vice Squad. Kincaid had just directed Breeders, Robot Holocaust, and Mutant Hunt, so she couldn't have expected much. The scriptwriter had directed (the incredible) Combat Shock. Anyway, she's a Queens wife, killed by a gang of overacting thugs, who returns to haunt her confused, nice-guy husband (Robert Joy). She shows up at all hours (sometimes on the TV) demanding revenge. She nags and whines in her forced accent, talks about being dead, and makes him kill. A comic sewage plant worker helps. With an It's a Wonderful Life clip, Sam Coppola, and Bobby DiCicco. Watch the walls of the house set move.

SHE'S DRESSED TO KILL

(USA, 1979) D: Gus Trikonis S: George Lefferts P: Barry Weitz, Merrill Grant (Someone's Killing The World's Greatest Models)

Eleanor Parker is an alcoholic fashion designer who gives a private showing at her mansion. The screenwriter must have seen Mario Bava's Blood and Black Lace, since a mystery psycho kills off the models. With Jessica Walter, Connie Sellecca, Joanna Cassidy, Corinne Calvet, John Rubenstein, Clive Revill, and Peter Horton. An NBC-TV movie.

SHE SHOULDA SAID NO: See WILD WEED

SHE WOLF = LEGEND OF THE WOLF WOMAN

SHINE

(Warner, 1977) D: Gus Trikonis S: Herbert Smith, Daniel Ansley P: Ed Carlin (Moonshine County Express)

Three daughters of a murdered moonshiner continue with his business. John Saxon is top-billed with William Conrad as the main bad guy. With Claudia Jennings, Candice Rialson, Jeff Corey, Dub Taylor, Morgan Woodward, and Maurine McCormick (from The Brady Bunch). New World released the PG feature.

THE SHINING BLOOD

(Thrill Entertainment, 1993) D/S/P/A: Stash Klossowski S: Patrick Longo

Machel Penn is a woman on the run in Arizona who teams up with a farm boy and a kung fu–fighting old Polish man (Klossowski). They visit the palace of an Oriental nobleman (also Klossowski) which is run by John Phillip Law. Also with Nina Huang, Lisa Compshaw (featured in a sex scene), and Jonathan Gill. The creator of this oddball low-budget letterboxed vanity video feature is Prince Stanislas Klossowski, a London socialite who was a best friend of Brian Jones and hung out with the Beatles and the Stones. As far as I know, he never acted or directed before this. With topless dancers, bar brawls, gila monsters, and Indian spirits.

SHIP OF THE MONSTERS

(SW, 1960) D: Rogelio A. Gonzales S: Fredo Varela Jr. P: Jesus Sotamajor Mexico (La Nave de los Monstruos)

One of the most entertaining Mexican science fiction comedy movies, this is very much like the later American Invasion of the Star Creatures (1962). Two very sexy space women with a robot land their spaceship on earth. They encounter bumbling earthlings and unleash lots of hard-to-believe monsters. Lalo Gonzales stars with Lorena Valeques and Ana Bertha Lupe. It's not dubbed into English. Gonzales made the even wilder Conquest of the Moon the same year.

SHOCK

(Sinister, 1923) D: Lambert Hillyer S: Charles Kenyon

A criminal gang sends a cripple (Lon Chaney Sr.) to San Francisco to expose a banker they've been extorting. He falls for the banker's daughter. The Universal release ends with a San Francisco earthquake. Hillyer later made Dracula's Daughter and The Invisible Ray.

SHOCK CINEMA VOL. 1

(Cinema Home, 1990) D/C: Bob Haynes P: Brinke Stevens

Actress Stevens (whose former husband Dave created the Rocketeer comics) introduces this hour-long series of interviews with 11 young low-budget filmmakers. It can be hard to tell who's who sometimes, and unless you're fascinated by what these guys have to say, some of them might put you to sleep. Most of them cite Corman, Sam Raimi, and Fangoria as influences and encourage would-be directors to just "do it." Director Jeff Burr says, "New Line has utter contempt for the genre," and Fred Olen Ray says, "I'm just a working schmo," mocks some of Corman's claims, and says, "Naked women are the cheapest special effects." With Charles Band, Scott Spiegel, C. Courtney Joyner, Ernest D. Farino, J. R. Bookwalter, Mark McGhee, and the tape's executive producer David DeCoteau.

SHOCK CINEMA VOL. 2

(Cinema Home, 1991) D/C: Bob Haynes P: Brinke Stevens

More behind-the-scenes people (and some actors) are interviewed, including Forry Ackerman, Robert Quarry, Deanna Lund, Melissa Moore, Gary Graver, Steve Neill, and Ted Newsom. Stevens hosted still more one-hour tapes in the series. Vol. 3 (Cinema Home, 1991) features bloopers and trailers from direct to video movies, mostly by David DeCoteau. With Linnea Quigley. Vol. 4 covers the makeup used in the same low-budget movies covered in Vol. 3.

SHOCKED: See MESMERIZED

SHOCK 'EM DEAD

(Academy, 1990) D/S: Mark Freed S: Andrew Cross P: Eric Louzil

We didn't need another heavy metal horror movie, but this one got some attention because Traci Lords is top-billed. As the manager of the band she doesn't have a whole lot to do. Stephan Quadros is the real star, playing an embarrassing nerd guitarist who sells his soul to a black voodoo woman to become Angel, superstar. He obtains instant teased hair, a closet full of leather clothes, a hot tub with live-in groupies/zombies led by Karen Russell, and takes over a Spinal Tap–like band with a junkie singer. Angel and his girls have to kill to survive. During a concert he plays a silly double-neck guitar and makes points by puking on the audience. Troy Donahue shows up as A&R head of Casualty Records and Aldo Ray (in his last role) runs the pizza stand that Angel used to sweat for. The FX (especially a dream sequence) are pretty mediocre. With Suzanne Ager.

SHOCKER

(MCA, 1989) D/S: Wes Craven P: Marianne Maddalena, Barin Kumar M: William Goldsmith

After Craven's involvement with the Nightmare on Elm Street series ended, he tried to develop another supernatural killer who could star in a series. A TV repairman and mass killer named Horace Pinker (Mitch Pileggi) is executed. His spirit lives in TV sets and he can change bodies. In a scene that had the Times Square audience howling with laughter, he possesses a little girl, who drives a bulldozer. Peter Berg (The Last Seduction) is the teen hero and Michael Murphy is his cop/father. With Cami Cooper and bits by Heather Langenkamp (as a victim), Theodore Raimi, Timothy Leary (as a TV evangelist), Eugene Chadbourne, John Tesh (the "new age" musician from Entertainment Tonight), and Craven himself. They even threw in a Leave It to Beaver scene. Despite all this, Shocker, which was cut for an R, just doesn't work. The score is on Varèse Sarabande and includes Megadeth's remake of Alice Cooper's "No More Mr. Nice Guy."

SHOCKING AFRICA

(Hurricane, 1982) D/P: Angelo and Alfredo Castiglioni S: Guglielmo Guariglia Italy (The Last Savage II; Faces of Pain)

This ripoff video "borrowed" scenes from Africa Blood and Guts and other mondo movies. It features animal mutilation and human circumcision scenes.

SHOCKING ASIA

(Magnum, 1974) D: Emerson Fox P: Wolfgang Von Schiber W. Germany/Hong Kong

A very graphic sex-change operation in Singapore is the most memorable part of this mondo movie, a hit on 42nd St. It also concentrates on Japanese sexual obsessions and shows a "sex museum." With midget and female wrestling and cremation in India. Different scenes were added for different markets because of local censorship.

SHOCKING ASIA II

(Magnum, 1974) D: Emerson Fox P: Wolfgang Von Schiber W. Germany/Hong Kong

This sequel features real (and faked) footage concentrating on prostitutes and strippers in various countries. Also with a real Thai leper colony and psychic surgery in the Philippines. The narration is partially read by a woman this time.

SHOCKING CANNIBALS

(1974) D/P: Alfredo, Angelo Castiglioni S: Alberto Moravia Italy (Naked Magic)

No cannibals are in this mondo documentary, but it does show various African tribes, psychosurgery, and animals being killed. Alberto Grimaldi was the executive producer. It played 42nd St. in 1985.

SHOCK! SHOCK! SHOCK!

(Rhino, 1987) D/S: Todd Rutt, Arn McConnell

Most horror or sci-fi spoofs are made by people with dollar signs in their eyes who should be selling used cars. This short b/w tape, made in Brooklyn, starts like a splatter movie and shifts to a superhero adventure somewhere along the way (sort of like some of Ray Dennis Steckler's 60s features). Some of you might notice similarities to scenes from Argento's Deep Red, and Japanese Starman movies. The evil Stigmatons are after the mystic Star of Bartos, and a parent killer (Brian Isaac) escapes from an asylum. There's a trip sequence ("Your mind will be ripped open!"), great death rays from an alien with Ping-Pong ball eyes, lots of flashbacks, nice animated titles, a crudely animated monster, blood, maggots, you name it. The cinematography and music (by Bruce Gordon and the Cyphers) are great, and these guys love the movies they parody and have a unique sense of humor. Alan Rickman (whose acting career later took off in a big way) is Zont-El. It was made with a budget that couldn't buy Spielberg's dinner. The talented director team is from Grand Junction, Colorado.

A SHOCK TO THE SYSTEM

(HBO, 1990) D: Jan Egleson S: Andrew Klavan P: Patrick Egleson

Michael Caine stars as an NYC ad executive who kills his way to the top with "magic" powers. Caine, who also narrates, uses electricity, gravity, etc. in the black comedy. With Elizabeth McGovern, Swoosie Kurtz, Peter Riegert, Will Patton, Jenny Wright, and Samuel L. Jackson. It's based on a novel by Simon Brett.

SHOCK TREATMENT

(CBS/Fox, 1981) D/S: Jim Sharman S/A: Richard O'Brien S: Brian Thompson P: John Goldstone

Jessica Harper and Cliff De Young are the singing Janet and Brad, trapped as contestants on the Marriage Maze TV show. The PG-rated Rocky Horror Picture Show followup was by the same director and includes some of the same cast members (like Richard O'Brien and Charles Gray). The original continued to play midnight shows for many years and was a big deal when finally released on tape, while this was a flop. Rhino released a soundtrack.

THE SHOES OF THE FISHERMAN

(MGM, 1968) D: Michael Anderson S: John Patrick, James Kennaway P: George Englund

Anthony Quinn stars as a Russian archbishop who had been a prisoner in Siberia. He's released and becomes a cardinal, then Pope Kiril I. He tries to prevent a nuclear war and mass starvation in China and gives away the church's wealth to the poor. The unlikely story was based on the novel by Morris L. West. With David Janssen as a reporter, Oskar Werner, Vittorio De Sica, Laurence Olivier, John Gielgud, Leo McKern, Frank Finlay, Burt Kwouk, and Clive Revill. It's 160 minutes long (152 on tape) and was shown in 70mm at some original screenings. By the maker of Orca.

SHOOTERS

(AIP, 1990) D/P: Peter Yuvall S: Jeff Mandel, Michael Bogart Yuvall

It's a war games comedy with Aldo Ray (in one of his last roles) as the commanding officer. Benjamin Schick stars, and his group fights against the Red Vipers and an all-female group.

SHOOTFIGHTER: FIGHT TO THE DEATH

(Columbia, 1992) D: Patrick Allen S: Larry Feliz Jr., Judd B. Lynn, Peter Shaner P: Alan Amiel

Bolo Yeung (usually a villain in Hong Kong movies) stars as Master Shingo, an LA-based martial arts teacher. Two of his students (Billy Zabka and US karate champ Michael Bernardo) are tricked into entering illegal shootfighting death matches in an arena in Tijuana. With Maryam D'Abo and James Pax, Edward Albert, and Martin Kove as bad guys. Available unrated (with gory fight scenes) or R.

SHOOT FIRST

(High Desert, 1974) D/S/P: Sergio Corbucci S: Mario Amendola, Santiago Moncada Italy/Spain/France (Il Bianco, Il Giallo, E Il Nero; Shoot First, Ask Questions Later; Samurai; Samurai Kid)

In Europe, this western with Eli Wallach, Giuliano Gemma, and Tomas Milian had a title that copied The Good, the Bad and the Ugly. It was one of several early-70s westerns that added martial arts and was the last western for Wallach.

THE SHOOTING

(Continental, 1965) D: Monte Hellman S: Carol Eastman P/A: Jack Nicholson

Millie Perkins hires bounty hunter Warren Oates for an unspecified job in this "existential" cult western. Nicholson as Spear, a psychotic killer, costars with Will Hutchins. The incredible ending made some think it was a reference to the JFK assassination. Roger Corman was a producer but received no credit. Nicholson took The Shooting (and Ride in the Whirlwind, which was made the same year) to Cannes in 1966. The company that bought them went bankrupt, and The Shooting finally opened in Paris in 1969, where it played for a year nonstop. Eastman (who used the name "Adrien Joyce") later wrote the screenplay for Five Easy Pieces.

SHOOT IT BLACK, SHOOT IT BLUE

(HBO, 1974) D/S: Dennis McGuire

A black student (Eric Laneuville, later a St. Elsewhere regular) films a corrupt and racist cop (Michael Moriarty) killing someone, then follows him around filming more of his escapades. The indy feature was made in Kansas City and also stars Paul Sorvino. Levitt Pickman released it when it was 10 years old.

SHOOT LOUD, LOUDER . . . I DON'T UNDERSTAND

(Nelson, 1966) D/S: Eduardo De Filippo S: Suso Cecchi D'Amico P: Pietro Notarianni M: Nino Rota Italy (Spara Forte, Più Forte, Non Capisco)

Marcello Mastroianni stars as an artist who doesn't know when he's dreaming. He sees a murder and his poet uncle Nico communicates only with fireworks. Raquel Welch is also in the odd comedy. Joesph E. Levine was executive producer of the Avco Embassy release.

SHOOT THE LIVING, PRAY FOR THE DEAD

(All Seasons, 1970) D: "Joseph Warren"/ Giuseppe Vari S: Mark Salter Italy (Prega Il Morto E Amazza Il Vivo)

Dean Stratford, Victoria Zuny, and Klaus Kinski star in a revenge western about a gang of bank robbers.

SHOOT TWICE: See AND GOD SAID TO CAIN

SHORT CIRCUIT

(Fox, 1986) D: John Badham S: S.S. Wilson, Brent Maddock P: David Foster, Lawrence Turman

The ultimate weapon becomes a peaceful comic talking robot called Number 5. Ally Sheedy thinks it's an alien in the PG-rated E.T. copy. Steve Guttenberg and a comic Indian scientist (Fisher Stevens) search for the clunky looking missing robot.

SHORT CIRCUIT 2

(RCA, 1988) D: Kenneth Johnson S: S. S. Wilson, Brent Maddock P: David Foster, Laurence Turman

Fisher Stevens returns in a sequel with the robot "Johnny 5" in the big city. Michael McKean and bad guy Jack Weston go into the toy business and try and exploit and merchandise the robot. With Cynthia Gibb. It was filmed in Toronto.

SHORT EYES

(Vestron, 1977) D: Robert M. Young S/A: Miguel Pinero P: Lewis Harris (Slammer)

The very grim prison story is based on Miguel Pinero's 1974 play (which was based on real incidents). The slang-filled movie was a 42nd St. hit. Bruce Davison is a child molester, hated by the black and Puerto Rican inmates in New York's "Tombs," where it was actually shot. With Jose Perez, Nathan George. Singers Curtis Mayfield and (real ex-con) Freddy Fender play inmates. Both sing in the movie and are on the Curtom soundtrack.

SHORT FUSE

(Vidmark, 1986) D/S: Blaine Novak P: Doug Dilge, Sean Ferrer (Good to Go)

Art Garfunkel (in his first role since Bad Timing) stars as a journalist framed for rape and murder. The Washington, DC, go-go music scene is the backdrop, so watch it for Trouble Funk, Chuck Brown and the Soul Searchers, and others. With Robert Doqui and Harris Yulin.

A SHOT IN THE DARK

(MGM, 1964) D/S/P: Blake Edwards S: William Peter Blatty

This is the best of the Pink Panther detective comedies. It's the sequel that introduced the Dreyfuss (Herbert Lom) and Kato (Burt Kwouk) characters who returned in the 70s sequels (and rip-offs). Peter Sellers stars as Inspector Jacques Clouseau with Elke Sommer. The nudist camp scene was inspired by the many nudist movies playing at the time. With George Sanders and Tracy Reed.

THE SHOUT

(Vid American, 1978) D/S: Jerzy Skolimowski S: Michael Austin UK

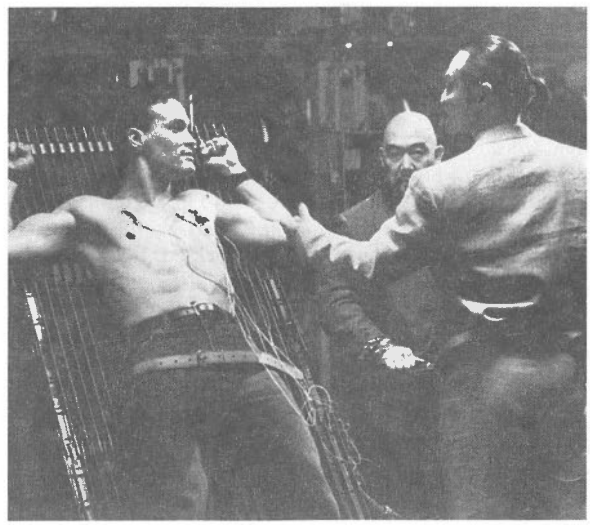
A mentally disturbed man (Alan Bates) tells a bizarre story to a musician (John Hurt) at an asylum during a cricket match. In the flashback (or hallucination), he wanders to his house and takes over his wife (Susannah York). He claims to be able to kill by shouting. It's based on a story by Robert Graves. With Tim Curry and a surprising York nude scene. The music is by Tony Banks and Mike Rutherford of Genesis.



Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa tortures Brandon Lee in Showdown in Little Tokyo.

SHOUT AT THE DEVIL

(Vestron, 1974) D: Peter Hunt S: Wilbur Smith P: Michael Klinger UK

AIP released a cut version of this WWII action movie set in Mozambique. Lee Marvin and Roger Moore star as men who try to blow up a German battleship. With Barbara Parkins and Ian Holm.

THE SHOW

(Fright, 1927) D: Tod Browning S: Waldemar Young

For years, this MGM release was considered a lost feature. The print is jumpy and a little blurry, but it was exciting to see after only seeing tantalizing photos in Famous Monsters for years. It's almost as strange as some of Browning's Lon Chaney Sr. movies and has obvious similarities to Freaks. John Gilbert stars as Cock Robin, a womanizing con man at the Palace of Illusions sideshow in Budapest. There's a melodramatic murder plot, but the background, filled with stage illusions and (fake) freaks, is more important. A living hand takes the tickets. There's a mermaid, a half woman, and a Salome show with a talking decapitated head. The most bizarre element is a poisonous iguana that leaps into the audience (!) and bites a man. A title reads: "God, but you're a real dame, right straight to the core!" Renee Adoree costars with Lionel Barrymore as "the Greek." It's based on the 1910 novel The Day of the Souls by Charles Tenny Jackson. Adoree died in 1933 from TB, and Gilbert died only three years later.

SHOWDOWN: See THE TRAMPLERS

SHOWDOWN

(AIP, 1991) D/S/P/A: Leo Fong

Parts of the print are faded and the camera goes out of focus once, but this homegrown kung fu movie is a riot. Richard Lynch is the "Commander" of a small town, owned by seemingly helpless retired opera-fan mobsters (!?). He calls on his martial arts instructor/special agent/Nam vet friend (Fong) to battle invading bikers (played by real long-haired bikers) led by a big ugly blond psycho (Werner Hoetzinger). This movie has loud kung fu sound FX, female martial arts fighters, sex, totally out-of-place strippers, a good hard rock soundtrack (by Riot House) and bazooka battles. With Michelle McCormick (Fatal Pulse) and Troy Donahue (also in the Fong movie Low Blow) in one scene. Made in Nevada.

SHOWDOWN

(Imperial, 1993) D: Robert Radler S: Stuart Gibbs P: Ash R. Shaw

Ken Scott is a school kid who is trained by the martial arts janitor (!) (Billy Blanks) so he can fight off a bully (Ken McCleod). With Christine Taylor, Patrick Kilpatrick, Nick Hill, and Brion James as the principal. R or PG-13 versions of the action feature by the director of the Best of the Best movies are available.

SHOWDOWN IN LITTLE TOKYO

(Warner, 1991) D/P: Mark L. Lester S: Stephen Glantz, Caliope Brattlestreet P: Martin E. Caan

Dolph Lundgren and Brandon Lee star as cop partners after Yakuza in LA. Dolph's character was raised in Japan, speaks Japanese, and is very serious. Lee is very American. Tia Carrere (from Wayne's World) is a singer in a gangster nightclub. She has sex with Dolph (but used a body double). It's a violent action-packed movie with some scenes designed to drive an audience wild. Too bad nobody saw it in theaters. Dolph jumps over cars and beats up five guys at once. It all ends with a sword fight during a street parade. The main bad guy (Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa) starts having sex with a topless blonde while she smokes ice and he decapitates her. A biker's hand is cut off. Dolph wears tiny shorts a lot and Lee at one point says, "You have the biggest dick I've ever seen on a man" (!?). With Simon Rhee.

SHRECK

(Tempe, 1990) D/A: Don Adams, James Picardi

Horror fan teens resurrect a Nazi killer (in a gas mask) during a séance. It was shot on video by 26-year-old directors from Wisconsin, who also made the horror anthology Red Eyes.

SHREDDER ORPHEUS

(AIP, 1990) D/S/A: Robert McGinley P: Lisanne Dutton

A futuristic skateboard hero named Orpheus (McGinley) goes to hell with some friends to stop TV signals that are brainwashing America and killing viewers. Don't expect Cocteau, but this is a clever and unique feature made in Seattle over four years' time. With Megan Murphy, Jesse Bernstein, Gian-Carlo Scandiuzzi, and Linda Severt. The rock music is by Roland Barker and the Shredders.

A SHRIEK IN THE NIGHT

(Video Yesteryear, Sinister, 1933) D: Albert Ray
S: Francis Hyland P: M. H. Hoffman

Ginger Rogers and Lyle Talbot star as rival reporters. She takes an undercover job for a rich man in a skyline penthouse and a mystery killer uses poison gas to eliminate cast members. The 66-minute feature includes comedy about stealing news stories. The stars had already been teamed in The Thirteenth Guest (1932).

THE SHRIEKING = HEX

SHRUNKEN HEADS

(Paramount, 1994) D: Richard Elfman
S: Matthew Bright P: Charles Band

It was announced as "Full Moon's first theatrical release." It's by the director of Forbidden Zone and the writer of Guncrazy (the Drew Barrymore one). I guess uniquely awful is the best description. Three kids on a vacant cliché–New York street set are killed by young hoodlums and are brought back as floating, spinning, glowing zombie-like heads by a former Haitian Ton Ton Macoute cop (Julius Harris). A scene with video store owners perishing in a bus crash is inspired, but the rest is nearly unwatchable. Aeryck Egan stars as Tommy, with Becky Herbst as the cute girl who falls for him, and Meg Foster as a dyke gangster with a bimbo girlfriend. With music by Richard Band and a theme by Danny Elfman.

SH! THE OCTOPUS

(1937) D: William H. McGann
S: George Brickner P: Bryan Foy

Two bumbling detectives (Allen Jenkins and Hugh Herbert) investigate a deserted lighthouse. A master criminal who lives there is after a death ray and has a giant mechanical octopus. The odd Warner comedy mystery (with the great name) was based on a play. With Marcia Ralston.

THE SIBLING: See PSYCHO SISTERS

SID AND NANCY

(Nelson, 1986) D/S: Alex Cox
S: Abbe Wool P: Eric Fellner

It opens with the body of Sex Pistols bassist Sid Vicious and flashbacks show his brief life as a "star" in London and New York. Gary Oldman stars and Chloe Webb is Nancy Spungen, the Long Island girlfriend he was accused of murdering in a drug haze. This is the best "punk rock" movie, and it has the best Thanksgiving dinner scene since Eraserhead. Actors play Malcolm McLaren (David Hayman) and Johnny Rotten (Drew Schofield) and the other members of the Pistols. Parts were shot at Manhattan's famous Chelsea Hotel. With Sy Richardson, Fox Harris, Sandy Barron, Iggy Pop, and future rock star Courtney Love as a groupie. The MCA soundtrack features the Pogues and Joe Strummer.

SIDEKICKS

(Columbia, 1993) D: Aaron Norris S: Don Thompson, Lou Illar P: Don Carmody M: Alan Silvestri

Jonathan Brandis (The NeverEnding Story II) stars as an asthmatic Texas kid tormented by bullies who has fantasies about Chuck Norris movies. His father (Beau Bridges) is a useless computer programmer, so he takes martial arts lessons from Mako. In the fantasy sequences (with Norris as himself), the kid takes on dozens of ninjas with ease. With Julia Nickson-Soul as a teacher, Joe Piscopo as a karate instructor, Danica McKellar, Richard Moll, and scenes from earlier Norris movies (Lone Wolf McQuaid, The Hitman, Missing in Action). The PG-rated Triumph release was shot in Houston and financed by Jim "Mattress Mack" McIngvale, known for his local TV commercials.

THE SIEGE OF FIREBASE GLORIA

(Fries, 1989) D: Brian Trenchard-Smith
S: William Nagle, Tony Johnston P: Howard Grigsby, Rudolpho S. M. Confessor Australia

Viet Cong slaughter Americans during the 1968 Christmas ceasefire. Wings Hauser stars as a sadistic Marine during the Tet offensive. With R. Lee Ermey (just after Full Metal Jacket) and Albert Popwell. Filmed in the Philippines.

SIEGE OF SYRACUSE

(VSOM, 1960) D/S: Pietro Francisci S: Giorgio Graziosi P: Enzo Merolle France/Italy (L'assedio di Siracusa)

Rossano Brazzi creates a giant reflecting glass that burns up the enemy ships at the end of this historical drama. Tina Louise, as Diana, loses her memory after being attacked by Roman soldiers. With Sylva Koscina.

SIEGFRIED

(Kino, 1923) D: Fritz Lang S: Thea Von Harbou P: Erich Pommer Germany
(Siegfrieds Tod, Kriemhilds Rasche)

After the popular 2-part Dr. Mabuse, Lang made Die Nibelungen, a 2-part fantasy epic. It was the biggest German film at the time and has been copied in many ways over the years (Flash Gordon serials, Star Wars . . .). The huge sets and costumes are incredible and the (mechanical) dragon was pretty advanced for the time. Siegfried uses an invisibility cloak, meets a troll king, and becomes invincible by slaying the dragon and bathing in its blood. Paul Richter stars as Siegfried. Margarete Schon is Kriemhild (star of the second part) and Rudolf Klein-Rogge is King of the Huns. The first sound on film score by Hugo Rioesenfeld was prepared for the New York debut in 1925. Both parts are available remastered on tape. The Kino tapes run the longest (186 minutes total) and have an organ score. Siegfried is tinted. Lang's next project was Metropolis. A 2-part W. German Siegfried remake appeared in 1966.

SIESTA

(Lorimar, 1987) D: Mary Lambert S: Patricia Louisianna Knop P: Gary Kurfirst US/UK

Ellen Barkin is a daredevil skydiver who awakes with partial amnesia in Spain. The arty feature uses flashbacks and time jumps and borrows some ideas from Carnival of Souls. Gabriel Byrne (who married Barkin in real life) costars as her trapeze-artist lover. With Julian Sands, Isabella Rossellini, Martin Sheen, Grace Jones (with a rat on her shoulder), and Jodie Foster. Barkin has a nude scene and the original rating was X. Miles Davis provided the score. It was filmed in Spain by the director of some Madonna videos and the Pet Sematary movies. Zalman King was executive producer.

THE SIGN OF FOUR

(Paramount, 1983) D: Desmond Davis
S: Charles Pogue P: Otto Plaschkes UK

Ian Richardson and David Healy star as Sherlock Holmes and Watson in a TV movie. An ex-con wants revenge on an Army major who took a treasure and left him in a penal colony. With Cherie Lunghi, Joe Melia, John Pedrick as a cannibal dwarf, and Thorley Walters. Richardson returned as Holmes in The Hound of the Baskervilles the same year. Only two of a planned series were produced.

SIGN OF THE CROSS

(MCA, 1932) D/P: Cecil B. DeMille
S: Waldemar Young, Sidney Buchman

It's another of those throw-the-Christians-to-the-lions epics, but DeMille, one of Hollywood's great showmen, added a gorilla, dwarves, and scenes of torture and horror. Fredric March stars as Marcus with Claudette Colbert as the evil Poppaea, who bathes in milk. An outrageous Charles Laughton is her emperor husband Nero. With Elissa Landi, Ian Keith, William V. Mong, Joe Bonomo, Charles Middleton, and John Carradine. It was a remake of a 1914 feature. Paramount reissued it in 1944 with a new WWII-themed prologue but minus nearly 20 minutes (!) of the best sex and violence. It was restored at UCLA in 1990. You have to see the original 124-minute version for the full impact.

SIGN OF THE GLADIATOR

(SW, 1959) D: Vittorio Musy Glori
S: G. Mangione, Sergio Leone P: Guido Brigone France/Italy/Yugoslavia (The Sign of Rome)

AIP released this to cash in on the then-current Hercules craze. There is no gladiator in the plot but there sure was in the posters. Romans are the heroes in the African desert. Anita Ekberg stars as Queen Zenoba, and the beautiful Cuban-born Chelo Alonso is the virgin Bathsheba. Georges Marchal is the hero. Riccardo Freda directed the battle scenes. Available prints (in color and Royalscore) are blurry.

SILENCE OF THE HAMS

(Cabin Fever, 1993) D/S/P/A: Ezio Greggio
P: Julie Corman

Despite the title, this is a very silly but sometimes funny take-off of Psycho, complete with Martin Balsam (reprising his detective role), and with Dom DeLuise added as the Hannibal Lecter character. Italian comic Ezio Greggio is the Norman Bates character, who narrates after his death. Shelley Winters is his mother and Joanna Pacula and Charlene Tilton are the sisters. Billy Zane has more screen time as an FBI agent, but you'll want to see it for the guest stars including Larry Storch and Stuart Pankin (FBI agents), Phyllis Diller and Bubba Smith (real estate workers), John Astin, Rip Taylor, Eddie Deezen, Erwin Keyes plus Mel Brooks, John Landis, Joe Dante, John Carpenter, and I think some I missed. Also with Cleveland jokes, George Bush and Hillary Clinton lookalikes, and a black dwarf.

THE SILENCE OF THE LAMBS

(Orion, 1991) D: Jonathan Demme S: Ted Tally
P: Edward Saxon, Kenneth Utt, Ron Bozman

This horror movie became the Psycho of the early 90s. It received lots of attention, money, and Oscars for best movie, director, and both stars (there were seven nominations). The fact that a movie where the main character is an intelligent cannibal who skins people achieved so much set the stage for more major-release serial killer and psycho killer features. Lambs is based on Thomas Harris's bestseller (and was partially based on the real-life killer Gary Heidnik). Jodie Foster stars as Clarice Starling, the FBI trainee, with Anthony Hopkins as Dr. Hannibal Lecter, locked in a very old maximum-security prison. With Scott Glenn as an FBI man and Ted Levine as serial killer "Buffalo Bill." Also with Charles Napier as the cop who gets gutted and hung up in a cage, Diane Baker (in her first theatrical feature in ten years) as the senator mother of kidnapped girl Tracey Walter, Chris Isaak, and Roger Corman. Although most of the horrible deeds aren't shown, there's a mangled dead body worthy of a Fangoria spread and graphic police photos. The 118-minute-long hit was filmed in Pittsburgh (note George Romero appearance). The Howard Shore soundtrack is on MCA. This was once set to be directed by Gene Hackman! Lecter was also a character in Manhunter. The widescreen Criterion laserdisc has seven extra scenes, commentary by Demme, Hopkins, Foster, actual FBI agents, and Pauline Kael, plus production stills and storyboards.

THE SILENCER

(Academy, 1992) D/S: Amy Goldstein
S: Scott Kraft P: Brian J. Smith

Lynette Walden stars as Angel, a female assassin who seduces men in a boring Crown International production set in L.A. She usually wears all black and shows off her silicone work in a sex-in-the-tub scene. In a safe-sex scene she says, "No glove, no love." Chris Mulkey (from Twin Peaks) watches it all on a video screen and provides the sleep-inducing voiceover narration. With Paul Ganus and Morton Downey Jr.

SILENT ASSASSINS

(Forum, 1987) D: Lee Doo-Yong, Scott Thomas
S: Will Gates, Ada Lin P/A: Jun Chong, Phillip Rhee

Sam Jones is an LA cop fighting against a former CIA man turned criminal. Linda Blair is his girlfriend. The villain kidnaps a research scientist to get a biological warfare formula. There's a gang fight with axes. With fighting producers Chong and Rhee, Mako, Rebecca Ferratti, Gustav Vintas, Bill Irwin, Bill "Superfoot" Wallace, Simon Rhee, and Karen Witter.

Hannibal Lecter (Anthony Hopkins) in The Silence of the Lambs.

SILENT HUNTER

(New Line, 1994) D/A: Fred Williamson
S: Errol Dasilva, Bud Fleisher, Richard Loncar P: Claudio Castravelli

Miles O'Keeffe stars as a burned-out Miami Beach cop who battles the gang of armed killers who murdered his family high in the snowy mountains with a crossbow. The psycho brothers (Peter Colvey and Jason Cavalier) have a lesbian sister (Lynne Adams). Williamson (not the star of his own movie for a change) is the sheriff.

SILENT MADNESS

(Media, 1983) D/P: Simon Nuchtern
S/P: William P. Milling S: Robert Zimmerman (!)

A psycho (Solly Marx) is accidentally released to kill again at a small-town sorority house. Belinda Montgomery stars as a New York City psychiatrist who poses as a sorority girl in this 3-D release. With Viveca Lindfors, Sydney Lassick as the sheriff, and Elizabeth Kaitan. People in the audience laughed when a cartoony hatchet was thrown at the camera. It had the same cinematographer as the 3-D Friday the 13th Part 3.

SILENT NIGHT, DEADLY NIGHT

(IVE, 1984) D: Charles Sellier Jr. S: Michael Hickey P: Ira Richard Barmak (Slayride)

This movie received a lot of publicity when released just before Christmas by Tristar. Some citizens protested (especially in Chicago) and Siskel and Ebert read the credits on TV, saying shame, shame on the filmmakers. It was pulled from release then dropped and picked up by an indy distributor. It wasn't the first, best, or last movie with a killer Santa. It's just the best known. Billy, a young psycho whose parents were beaten and killed by a man (Charles Dierkop) dressed as Santa, is mistreated at an orphanage. He (Robert Brian Wilson) grows up and at 18, plays Santa at a department store. He goes on a Christmas killing spree with an ax, bow and arrow, and even Christmas lights. With Tara Buckman, Toni Nero, and Linnea Quigley, who is impaled by moose antlers while topless.

SILENT NIGHT, DEADLY NIGHT PART II

(IVE, 1987) D/S/E: Lee Harry S: Joseph H. Earle P: Lawrence Applebaum

Watch this for a lesson in exploitation. Because enough people remembered the name of the original, this "sequel" got away with re-using 40 (!) minutes from the first feature. This time Billy's brother Ricky (muscular Eric Freeman) is in an orphanage remembering what happened. He loses it when he sees red and emerges to kill. He impales a mobster with an umbrella (which he then opens) and decapitates a nun. In one scene Ricky goes to a movie with Elizabeth Kaitan and more footage from Silent Night is shown! This pathetic movie includes Dierkop, Quigley, Buckman, and Nero (all in repeat footage).

SILENT NIGHT, DEADLY NIGHT III: BETTER WATCH OUT!

(IVE, 1989) D: Monte Hellman
S: Carlos Laslo P: Arthur H. Gorshon

Ricky (from part II) is grown up and in a coma. He escapes on Christmas Eve, kills an asshole playing Santa, and successfully hitchikes even though he's in a hospital gown and his brain is exposed (!). Ricky (played by Bill Moseley from Chainsaw II) then terrorizes a blind psychic (Samantha Scully) at a remote house, as an angry cop (Robert Culp) and a wacky doctor (Richard Beymer) try to find him. With Eric Da Re, Laura Herring, and Charles Dierkop (seen in flashbacks). This was the first American film directed by Monte Hellman since Cockfighter (1974). It's full of plot holes, but is pretty interesting and has some strange dialogue. It also includes a direct Carnival of Souls "tribute," two Twin Peaks stars, a scene from the first Silent Night, and several scenes of Boris Karloff and Jack Nicholson in The Terror (which Hellman co-directed).

SILENT NIGHT, DEADLY NIGHT IV: INITIATION

(IVE, 1990) D: Brian Yuzna
S: Woody Keith P: Richard N. Gladstein

Instead of bringing back Ricky again, this is a "sequel" in name only. It has enough sex, violence, and weird special effects to keep things interesting, though. The plot borrows from Rosemary's Baby and Invasion of the Bee Girls (1973). A bookstore owner named Fema (Maud Adams) leads a group of occult women and chooses an LA newspaper writer (Neith Hunter) to give birth to some kind of creature. Clint Howard (as a very strange guy named Ricky) eats bugs and does evil things for Fema. Lots of cockroaches of all sizes were created by Screaming Mad George. With Reggie Bannister from the Phantasm films, Jeanne Bates (star of Mom), and Allyce Beasley. The 2nd-unit director and special effects co-ordinator was Tom Rainone and there are several shots of an issue of Psychotronic magazine!

Silents

No longer only names in film-history books, many silent features are now available on tape. Watching silent movies is an acquired habit, but I suggest trying some classics. Many are reviewed in this volume. If you don't like the rinky piano or melodramatic organ soundtracks some of them use, just turn it off. So many early films have been lost forever that it's exciting to be able to see rediscovered features. Of the 14 top money makers of the silent era, two were biblical epics (Ben-Hur (1926) and The Ten Commandments (1923)), one was a fantasy (1924's Thief of Bagdad), and one was a documentary (Paul J. Rainey's African Hunt). D.W. Griffith's The Birth of a Nation (1915) was the highest-grossing feature of the era ($10 million in domestic grosses).

SILENT NIGHT, DEADLY NIGHT V: THE TOYMAKER

(IVE, 1991) D/S: Martin Kitrosser
S/P: Brian Yuzna P: Richard N. Gladstein

Several cast members return from IV, but this is no sequel. A sad-looking Mickey Rooney stars as "Joe Petto," the modern-day toymaker and shop owner. He makes a spaced-out-looking android robot named Pino (Brian Bremer) become his substitute son. Characters are killed in various ways and a bad android turns out to be responsible. In one scene, toys attack a couple in bed. With Jane Higginson and Neith Hunter. With more (but not better) Screaming Mad George FX. The 2nd unit director and special effects coordinator was Tom Rainone.

SILENT PARTNER

(1978) D: Daryl Duke S: Curtis Hanson
P: Joel B. Michaels Canada

Christopher Plummer is a psychotic bank robber and Elliott Gould is a meek bank teller who knows too much. The very good violent movie has some gruesome murders. Plummer first appears as a maniac Santa. With Susannah York and John Candy. Hanson's next filmed script was White Dog.

SILENT RAGE

(Columbia, 1982) D: Michael Miller
S: Joseph Fraley P: Anthony B. Unger

Chuck Norris is a karate expert Texas sheriff after an indestructible killer zombie, the results of a genetic breeding and a secret formula. It has more sex and violence than a typical Norris movie. With Toni Kalem, Ron Silver, Stephen Furst (as the comic deputy) and William Finley as a research scientist. Aaron Norris was associate producer of the Columbia picture.

SILENT SCREAM

(Thriller, 1980) D: Alan Gibson S: Francis Essex UK

Peter Cushing is a pet shop owner (and former Nazi) who conducts behavior-control experiments on his animals. A prison parolee and his wife become his new subjects. Elvira also appears during a break and at the end to tell you how bad she thinks it is. With Brian Cox. A one-hour Hammer TV presentation.

SILENT TONGUE

(Vidmark, 1992) D/S: Sam Shepard
P: Carolyn Pfeiffer, Ludi Boeken

An Irish man (Alan Bates) who runs a traveling Indian medicine show in the old West sells one of his half-Indian daughters to Richard Harris. She's given to Harris' son (River Phoenix, in his last completed role). She (Sheila Tousey) dies but returns as a ghost. Phoenix goes mad and Harris kidnaps the other man's daughter. Bates and his son (Dermot Mulroney) go after her. The French-produced feature was shot in New Mexico.

SILHOUETTE

(MCA, 1990) D: Carl Schenkel S: Jay Wolf, Victor Buell P: Chris Chesser, Alan Beattie

Faye Dunaway is an architect who witnesses a murder from her window at a New Mexico hotel. She has to stay in town as a witness in a mystery with Hitchcock movie references. With David Rasche, Talisa Soto, and Nancy Parsons. Dunaway was also an executive producer.

SILK

(MGM/UA, 1986) D/P: Cirio H. Santiago
S/A: Fred Bailey

Cec Verrell stars as the eponymous Honolulu cop whose parents were killed on a case in this Concorde release that was shot in Hawaii. It's very much like Santiago's earlier TNT Jackson or Firecracker movies.

SILK 2

(MGM/UA, 1989) D: Cirio H. Santiago
S: Robert King P: Christopher R. Santiago

Monique Gabrielle (from the pages of Penthouse) takes over the role of brunette Honolulu cop Silk in a plot about missing Japanese scrolls. She has a topless martial arts fight (just like in Santiago's TNT Jackson). With Jan Merlin as the leader of an art forgery scam, Ken Metcalf, and Peter Nelson. It was shot in the Philippines. From Concorde.

SILK DEGREES

(Imperial, 1994) D: Armand Garabidian S: Stuart Gibbs, Douglas J. Sloan P: Alan B. Burnsteen

Federal agents Marc Singer and Mark Hamill try to protect a sexy TV star (Deborah Shelton) who has witnessed a murder. They go to a remote country lodge run by Adrienne Barbeau. It's pretty boring and features tame R sex, a catfight, and a few ridiculous plot twists. With blonde Katherine Armstrong, Michael Des Barres as a terrorist killer who has a sex/murder scene with big-breasted India Allen, Charles Napier as a cop, and Gilbert Gottfried in a one-scene bit as a director. This movie's director went to UCLA.

SILVER BULLET

(Paramount, 1985) D: Dan Attias S: Stephen King
P: Martha Schumacher M: Jay Chattaway
(Stephen King's Silver Bullet)

At first, only a small town kid in a motorized wheelchair (Corey Haim) knows that there's a werewolf in town. Later on, his sister (Megan Follows, who narrates) and their often drunk uncle (Gary Busey) help track the reverend/werewolf (Everett McGill), who is being hunted by vigilantes. With Terry O'Quinn as the sheriff and Lawrence Tierney as the local bartender. It's based on the novelette "Cycle of the Werewolf" and was made in North Carolina. Dino De Laurentiis backed it and Carlo Rambaldi created the monster. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande.

THE SILVER CHALICE

(Warner, 1954) D/P: Victor Saville S: Lesser Samuels

A Greek silversmith named Basil (Paul Newman) makes the chalice for the last supper. Newman, who was making his screen debut, took out an ad apologizing for being in this movie. What more reason do you need to want to see it? With Virginia Mayo, Pier Angeli, Jack Palance, Joseph Wiseman, Michael Pate, Natalie Wood, E. G. Marshall, Robert Middleton, Ian Wolfe, Albert Dekker, and Lorne Greene, in his screen debut. The Warner release is in scope and color and runs 144 minutes (the tape is 135).

SILVER NEEDLE IN THE SKY: See ROCKY JONES

SIMON

(Orion, 1980) D/S: Marshall Brickman
P: Martin Bregman

A group of college geniuses convince a professor (Alan Arkin) that he's an alien, and he becomes a TV messiah. The satire features Austin Pendleton, William Finley, Wallace Shawn, Fred Gwynne, and Madeline Kahn.

SIMON OF THE DESERT

(Hens Tooth, 1965) D/S: Luis Buñuel P: Gustavo Alatriste Mexico (Simón del Desierto)

Simon/Christ (Claudio Brook) communes with God on top of a tall pillar. He restores the severed hands of a thief and talks with a dwarf shepherd who has sex with goats. Simon is tempted by the Devil (Silvia Pinal) who appears in different forms. In the brilliant ending, Simon ends up dancing the "Radioactive Flesh" in a New York disco while a very cool rock band plays. The (subtitled) b/w feature is only 42 minutes long and was the director's last feature in Mexico. Buñuel made Belle de Jour (1966) in France next and became one of the world's most honored directors.

SIMPLE JUSTICE

(1989) D: Deborah Del Prete
S: T. Jay O'Brien P: Gigi Pritzker

A multiracial group of robbers kill a newlywed woman during a robbery. They're arrested, released, and go after her husband and grandparents (Cesar Romero and Doris Roberts). It was made in Pittsburgh.

SINBAD OF THE SEVEN SEAS

(Warner, 1986) D/S: Enzo Castellari, Luigi Cozzi S: Tito Cari P: John Thompson Italy

Lou Ferrigno stars as a curly-haired Sinbad who has to find five magic gems. He fights Amazon women, ghost warriors, and eventually his own double. With Teagan Clive and John Steiner as an evil wizard. Daria Nicolodi tells the whole silly tale to her daughter. The story is said to be based on Poe. It was made by Cannon for TV, shelved, then reworked by Cozzi in 1989 with added FX scenes.

SINBAD THE SAILOR

(Turner, 1947) D: Richard Wallace
S: John Twist P: Stephen Ames

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. stars in a comic Technicolor adventure movie with Maureen O'Hara. It's all told in flashback by Sinbad. Anthony Quinn is the evil Emir. With Walter Slezak, Jane Greer, Sheldon Leonard, Alan Napier, Mike Mazurki, and Glenn Strange. From RKO.

SINDERELLA AND THE GOLDEN BRA

(SW, 1965) D: Loel Minardi
S: Frank Squires P: Paul Mart

This (faded) color nudie musical (!) version of the old story substitutes a bra for the slipper. Suzanne Sybele stars and sings with a French accent. Sidney Lassick (later a well-known character actor) is the drunken fairy godfather who sings, dances, cries, and appears in drag. With puppets, dream sequences, and topless dancers. Pretty bad.

THE SINFUL DWARF

(SW, 1973) D: Vidal Raski S: William Mayo
P: Nicolas Poole Denmark/US (Dvaergen)

This resembles The Gruesome Twosome (1968) or a John Waters movie without the humor. A leering, laughing, ugly, childish, piano-playing dwarf with a thick accent named Olaf (Torben) lures young women for his alcoholic, scarfaced, dancer mother Lila Lash's creepy former-nightclub boarding house. Naked women are kept drugged with heroin in a secret room where men come and pay for (pretty graphic) sex with them. Drugs smuggled in toys, rape, bondage, whipping, and voyeurism are offset slightly by Lila doing her Carmen Miranda routine and the Olaf dummy thrown off a roof. The adults-only feature was released by Box Office International.

SINGLES

(Warner, 1992) D/S/P/A: Cameron Crowe
P: Richard Hashimoto

It's the lives of young people in a Seattle apartment building as told by one of them (Kyra Sedgwick). The PG-13 teen movie is by the author of Fast Times at Ridgemont High, but it comes off more like a modern version of Love, American Style. It's hard to believe a movie about Seattle rock bands where drugs are never even mentioned. Bridget Fonda stars with Campbell Scott (son of George C.), Sheila Kelley, long-haired Matt Dillon (who sings with a band called Citizen Dick, played by members of not-yet-famous Pearl Jam), and Bill Pullman. Actors in bit parts include Tom Skerritt as the mayor, Eric Stoltz as a mime, James Le Gros, Tim Burton, Gus Van Sant, and many locals. Singles benefited by the then-newsworthy Seattle rock scene and has an Epic soundtrack by Paul Westerberg (Replacements) with cuts by Pearl Jam, Mudhoney, Alice in Chains, Screaming Trees, and others. The tape has additional scenes.

SINGLE WHITE FEMALE

(Columbia, 1992) D/P: Barbet Schroeder S: Don Roos

Red-haired Bridget Fonda advertises for a roommate for her large Upper West Side rent-controlled NYC apartment (in the old Ansonia building). Jennifer Jason Leigh moves in, befriends her, imitates her hair and clothes, and later snaps and starts killing off her friends. There's death by high heels and a catfight in an elevator. The two stars and the director are all more talented than the plot might suggest, and this is one of the best of the many early-90s big-budget psycho movies. With Steven Weber, Stephen Tobolowsky, Peter Friedman, Kenneth Tobey, Rene Estevez, and Gloria Grahame (seen on TV). It's based on a novel by John Lutz. The Columbia release was Schroeder's third American feature (after Barfly and Reversal of Fortune).

Bridget Fonda and Jennifer Jason Leigh in Single White Female.

SIN IN THE SUBURBS

(SW, 1964) D/S: Joe Sarno P: Burton Bradley

Some bored suburbanites organize a swinging club where members wear exotic masks. The b/w adult movie plays like a serious soap opera with lots of close-ups of faces and some nudity. The jazzy music is similar to the original Little Shop of Horrors score. Husbands are seen commuting to work and everybody does the twist. Audrey Campbell (from the Olga series) stars with Alice Linville (from Olga's Massage Parlor) as her daughter. Future Ilsa series star Dyanne Thorne is also in the cast. It was based on an article Sarno wrote for Coronet magazine. Something Weird offers a dozen of Sarno's many 60s nudie movies.

SINISTER INVASION: See ALIEN TERROR

SINNER'S BLOOD

(Saturn, 1970) D: Neil Douglas S: Lee Stone

In this low-budget obscurity, two sisters whose parents have died move in with their white trash uncle who has a voyeur son and a lesbian daughter. One of the girls has an affair with a local biker, but when she catches him having sex with someone else, she spikes his drink with LSD, which leads to death and a revenge plot.

SINNERS IN PARADISE

(Sinister, 1938) D: James Whale S: Lester Cole, Harold Buckly P: Ken Goldsmith (Secrets of a Sinner)

Survivors of a plane crash are stranded on a jungle island where a mysterious man (John Boles) lives. With Bruce Cabot, Dwight Frye, Madge Evans, and Gene Lockhart. Boles and Frye had both been in the director's Frankenstein. From Universal.

SINS OF DESIRE

(Columbia, 1992) D: Jim Wynorski
S: Mark Thomas McGhee P: Linda Borgeson

Tanya Roberts, in another "erotic thriller," tries to find out who killed her sister by going undercover at a sex therapy clinic. Nick Cassavettes is an insurance investigator and Delia Sheppard and Jay Richardson run the clinic. Also with Jan-Michael Vincent, Roberta Vasquez, Becky LeBeau, Monique Parent, Gayle Robyn Harris, and a nightmare sequence. Tanya and Delia have a lesbian scene. R or unrated tapes are available.

THE SINS OF DORIAN GRAY

(Playhouse, 1983) D: Tony Maylam S: Ken Auhust, Peter Lawrence P: Jules Bass

Belinda Bauer is Dorian Gray, an ageless New York model working with an evil fashion world starmaker (Anthony Perkins). She only ages in her Hollywood screen-test footage. It was made for theaters but debuted on ABC-TV. Also with Joseph Bottoms and Michael Ironside. Producer Bass usually made cartoons, and coproduced the Christmas kiddie classics Frosty the Snowman and Rudolph, the Red-nosed Reindeer.

SINS OF JEZEBEL

(1953) D: Reginald LeBorg S: Richard Landau P: Sigmund Neufeld

Paulette Goddard is Jezebel and George Nader is her man. The low-budget color costume drama features John Hoyt as the prophet Elijah (who creates a rainstorm), Eduard Franz, and Joe Besser! From Lippert, the studio that LeBorg made Bad Blonde for the same year.

SINS OF ROME

(Sinister, 1954) D: Riccardo Freda S: Mari Bori, Jean Ferry Italy (Spartaco)

Massimo Girotti and ballet star Ludmilla Tcherina star in an epic version of the Spartacus story, made six years before Kubrick's version. With Gianna Maria Canale. From RKO. Freda soon started the Italian horror movie business with his Devil's Commandment (1956).

SINS OF THE FLESHAPOIDS

(1965) D/P/C/M: Mike Kuchar

This 16mm 50-minute color underground parody was inspired by Creation of the Humanoids. Bob Cowan stars as Mister Robot with Donna Kernes as the "voluptuous Princess" and George Kuchar as the evil Prince. It was filmed in the Bronx, with sets by director Kuchar.

SINS OF THE NIGHT

(Academy, 1992) D: "Gregory Hippolyte" S: Russell Lavelle P: Andrew Garoni

Nick Cassavettes stars as Jack Nietzsche (really), an ex-con insurance scam investigator who narrates a series of sex flashbacks, flashbacks inside of flashbacks, and dream sequences inside of flashbacks. He's always either secretly photographing sex or enjoying it himself. The women are usually on top. Deborah Shelton (once a regular on Dallas) plays Roxie, the woman with the biggest breasts. She has the two main fuck scenes and says, "I like a man with scotch on his breath." Michelle Moffett (Wild Cactus) is the visual highlight, in my opinion. She, Laura Brin, and Miles O'Keeffe (as a gangster with a ponytail) are also in sex scenes. With Lee Anne Beaman and Richard Roundtree as a bartender.

SIN SYNDICATE

(SW, 1965) D/C: Michael Findlay P: Joseph Brenner (Zero Girls; Jazz Me Baby)

This is the story (in b/w) of what happened to four very bitter young women who became "Zero girls" in New York. Their stories are being told during Senate crime hearings. It's a pretty crudely made feature with bad sound and a lot of jumps, but has some priceless dialogue. Yolanda Moreno stars as the "Chinese/Spanish" Dolores. Strip acts take up a lot of the time, there are flashbacks inside of flashbacks, and news footage about Castro and WWII battle footage is used to stretch the running time even more.

SINTHIA: THE DEVIL'S DOLL

(SW, 1968) D/C: "Sven Christian"/ Ray Dennis Steckler S/A: Herb Robbins

Sinthia is a plotless sex "trip" movie about a woman (Shula Roan) in analysis because she killed her parents while they were doing it. Endless cries of "Mommy," then "Daddy," and repeated sex scenes with psychedelic colors and editing are pretty hard to enjoy. A witches' coven is led by Lucifer (Herb Robbins). Other stars are Diane Webber, a famous nude model and Playboy Playmate, and Gary Kent. With lesbian scenes and strange seashore walks and chases, Steckler trademarks. Some of you might enjoy Sinthia more than I did. Drugs might help. Maybe not.

SIN, YOU SINNERS!

(Sinister, 1961) D/S: "Anthony Farrar"/ Joe Sarno

A suburban hypnotist fortune teller stripper uses a magical Haitian medallion to keep young. She makes a club owner kill, and characters plot to take her powers away. There's no nudity but lots of talking in the b/w adult feature, one of the first of many for Sarno.

SIR DRONE

(Provisional, 1989) D/S/P/A: Raymond Pettibon

Dwayne and Jinx are two guys in a crummy apartment who want to start a punk band in (I think) the late 70s. They tattoo each other, think up band names, and audition for a singer and drummer. Jinx reluctantly has his long hair cut. The minimal movie is short (57 minutes) and pretty funny if you were around the 70s punk scene at all. The Ramones are heard in the background.

SIREN OF BAGDAD

(1953) D: Richard Quine S: Robert E. Kent P: Sam Katzman

Paul Henreid and Patricia Medina star in a color comedy fantasy adventure. Hans Conried is a magician with a magic box who becomes a woman for a disguise. With Laurette Luez from Prehistoric Women (1950). Medina had similar roles in Aladdin and His Lamp and The Magic Carpet (both 1951).

SIRENS

(Miramax, 1994) D/S/A: John Duigan P: Sue Milliken

Sam Neill is an eccentric bohemian Australian painter in the 1930s on a mountain paradise with models who like to bathe in a river. Hugh Grant is an Anglican priest sent to convince him to remove an offensive (nude) painting from an exibit. His wife (Tara Fitzgerald) is tempted by a blind naked man. The couple can't seem to leave and they both renew their sex life. Elle Macpherson (prominently featured in the publicity), Kate Fischer, and Portia de Rossi are the main attractions. The upscale erotic movie (it played in theaters) is by the director of Wide Sargasso Sea.

SIR HENRY AT RAWLINSON END

(1980) D: Steve Roberts S/A/M: Vivian Stanshall P: Tony Stratton Smith UK

The drunken, crazy Sir Henry (Trevor Howard) lives in a mansion with ghosts. He tries to exorcise the ghost of his brother (Vivian Stanshall), some German WWII POW's, and his mother's body. Parts are in tinted b/w. It was based on a Bonzo Dog Band song that became a radio serial and an album by Stanshall. With Patrick Magee as the reverend. A soundtrack album was on Charisma.

THE SISTERHOOD

(Media, 1985) D/P: Cirio H. Santiago S: Thomas McKelvey Cleaver Philippines

Rebecca Holden and Barbara Hooper, leaders of the Sisterhood, have special powers in one of Santiago's many Mad Max copies. They discover modern weapons (guns) and go through mutant territory to rescue their (topless) sisters in the city. Lynn-Holly Johnson communicates with her hawk. With Chuck Wagner. A Concorde release.

SISTERS IN LEATHER

(SW, 1969) D/P: Zoltan G. Spencer

A man (who resembles Liam Neeson) is blackmailed by female bikers after he has sex in a convertible with a "teenage sexpot." Butch, Dolly, and Billie then take his wife Mary (Kathy Williams) on a picnic and enjoy some nude motorcycle riding and outdoor lovemaking. The husband finds some male bikers and they try and save Mary from "becoming a dyke." It's no Faster Pussycat! Kill! Kill!, but the b/w adults-only movie is pretty outrageous and delivers with the nudity. Pat Barrington costars. The music is a trio doing jazz and some psychedelic music.

SISTER, SISTER

(Starmaker, 1987) D/S: Bill Condon S: Joel Cohen, Ginny Cerrella P: Walter Coblenz

Sisters Jennifer Jason Leigh and Judith Ivey have turned the family mansion in the bayou into a guest house. Leigh is an artist who has been in a

The 60s

The decade with the most obvious chaos in America was also the time when monster mania peaked. It was largely nostalgia for the old horror movies mixed with new hits from Hammer, Toho, and AIP. The late 60s saw the end of censorship (and the end of b/w movies). The 28 features making over $20 million during the decade include Thunderball, 2001: A Space Odyssey, and Goldfinger. In the epoch of turmoil, change and rebellion, the top-grossing feature was The Sound of Music (it made nearly $80 million), followed by two Disney animated features and Love Story.

mental hospital. A "Congressional aide" (Eric Stoltz) arrives and disrupts their lives. The plot involves deep secrets, ghosts, nightmares, dog killing, murder, and sex. Some character names were borrowed from Hush, Hush, Sweet Charlotte (1965) and it was filmed in Louisiana. With Dennis Lipscomb as the sheriff. Condon also wrote Strange Behavior and Strange Invaders. From New World.

SISTERS OF DEATH

(VCI, 1972) D: Joseph Mazzuca S: Peter Arnold, Edwyn Richards (Death Trap)

During an all-girl secret society initiation, one new member is killed playing Russian roulette. Years later, the survivors are all invited to a reunion at a remote Spanish-style house with a pool and an electric fence. It's owned by the grumpy father (Arthur Franz) of the dead girl. He lurks in the walls watching them, makes bullets—and plays the flute (!). After the first girl dies, the rest still wait around. Claudia Jennings (with pigtails) is the only reason to watch this PG-rated obscurity which wasn't released until 1978. The credits are blurry and the boom mike shows several times. Also with Paul Carr.

SISTERS OF SATAN

(Academy, 1975) D/S: Juan López Moctezuma S: Yolanda L. Moctezuma, Alexis T. Arroyo P: Eduardo Moreno, Max Guefen Mexico (Alucarda; La Hija de las Tinieblas; Mark of the Devil, Part 3)

This is the strongest, most imaginative, and visual witch movie since Ken Russell's The Devils (1971), and shouldn't be confused with any of the many European 70s ripoff lesbian nun movies. It has more blood, loud screaming, and nudity (male and female) than just about any horror movie I can think of. Justine (Susana Kamini) is sent to live with nuns. She meets the strange Alucarda who wears all black. Soon the nuns' clothes disappear, a hunchback cuts their breasts, and they drink each other's blood while they cry and it rains blood outside. In another scene, Justine rises naked and screaming from a coffin of blood, attacking nuns and biting their necks, while blood spurts everywhere. A nun who levitates and sweats blood can kill witches. There's an exorcism and a crucifixion. The church seems more brutal than the devil worshipers when they whip their own bodies ("foul receptacles of sin!") to beat out the devil. Claudio Brook (The Exterminating Angel) plays a goat-headed demon who leads an orgy, the hunchback, and Dr. Oszek who protects the witches. Although it seems to be in English, the accents are very strange, and some of the actors are (obviously) from the stage. It's available on tape under several titles. Moctezuma produced El Topo (1971), and directed the surreal Dr. Tarr's Torture Dungeon (1972).

SIX AGAINST THE ROCK

(1987) D: Paul Wendkos S: John Gay P: Terry Carr

David Carradine plans to take hostages and break out of Alcatraz in 1946 with five others. Howard Hesseman costars in the NBC-TV movie with David Morse, Charles Haid, Jan-Michael Vincent, Richard Dysart, and Dennis Farina.

SIX FIVE SPECIAL

(SW, 1958) D: Alfred Shaughnessy S: Norman Hudis P: Herbert Smith

This musical is based on the BBC-TV show of the same name which was produced by Jack (Shindig) Good. An amateur singer (Diane Todd) and her girlfriend take a train to the taping of the program. Musicians playing on the train will make you think of A Hard Day's Night. Highlights are Jim Dale (later a Broadway star) doing "The Train Kept a Rollin'" (later done by the Yardbirds) and Lonnie Donnegan, who is incredible here doing a rocking climactic "Jack o' Diamonds" (later done by Fairport Convention). Also with the John Barry Seven (sounding like the Bonzo Dog Band), Petula Clark doing a dumb teen love song, and Cleo Laine. A lot of the other music here is jazz, pop, and a little R&B by relative unknowns, but it's all fun to watch. The music stops for a serious talk with the famous old actor Finlay Currie. After the movie, Johnny Legend interviews the very knowledgeable Ian Whitcomb, who says that Donnegan is the one who influenced the Beatles the most and that Jack Good is a monk these days. The print is excellent.

SIX HOURS TO LIVE

(1932) D: William Dieterle S: Bradley King

Warner Baxter is murdered but is brought back to life for six hours by a ray. It gives him just enough time to catch his killer. With Irene Ware and John Boles. From Fox. Dieterle soon graduated to major, expensive movies like A Midsummer Night's Dream (1935) and The Hunchback of Notre Dame (1939).

SIZZLE BEACH USA

(Startmaker, 1974) D: Richard Brander S: Craig Kusaba P: Erix Louzil (Malibu Hot Summer)

Troma re-released this in 1987 because a very young Kevin Costner plays a horse ranch owner. He's also featured on the misleading video cover. With a crippled midget, lots of nudity, and bad folk music. Star Terry Congie and Costner were also both in Shadows Run Black, made the same year.

SKATEBOARD

(Vista, 1978) D/P: George Gage S: Richard A. Wolf P: Harry N. Blum

Allen Garfield is Manny Bloom, a small-time agent who backs the LA Wheels skateboard team to get out of debt. The PG movie features Leif Garrett, Kathleen Lloyd, Anthony Carbone, and Sondra Theodore from Playboy. Dr. John and members of Jefferson Starship sing. A soundtrack was on RCA. Roller Boogie and Skatetown, U.S.A were also released around the same time to cash in on the roller disco fad.

SKATETOWN, U.S.A.

(1978) D/P: William A. Levey S: Nick Castle P: Lorin Dreyfuss

Flip Wilson in Skatetown U.S.A.

This PG comedy is set in a giant roller palace (owned by Flip Wilson). Patrick Swayze (making his debut) is the bad-guy skater. With Greg Bradford, Scott Baio, Ron Palillo, Ruth Buzzi, Maureen McCormick, Dorothy Stratten, Billy Barty, David Landsberg, Murray Langston, Gary Mule Deer, plus Dave Mason, who acts and sings. The Columbia soundtrack included the hit "Born to Be Alive" by Patrick Hernandez, plus tunes by the Jacksons, Earth Wind and Fire, Mason, and others. By the director of Blackenstein and The Happy Hooker Goes to Washington, so you know it's excellent entertainment.

SKEETER

(New Line, 1993) D/S: Clark Brandon
S: Lanny Horn P: James Glenn Dudelson

Toxic waste in a southwestern mine creates giant killer mosquitoes. Tracy Griffith stars with Jim Youngs as her deputy boyfriend. This movie has mosquito POV shots, Birds-style swarm attacks, some sex, and lots of plot and characters. With Michael J. Pollard as a local nut who talks in rhyme, Charles Napier as the corrupt sheriff, Jay Robinson as a creepy land developer, and William Sanderson as a geologist. George "Buck" Flower relates an out-of-place flashback. Also with Sarah Douglas, Richard Herd, and John Goff. Don (Ilsa) Edmunds was the executive in charge of production.

60s Faves

TOP 10 (ALPHABETICAL)

1. Carnival of Souls (1962)
   A restored "director's cut" is available.
2. Faster Pussycat! Kill! Kill! (1965)
3. Fearless Vampire Killers (1967)
   This had been cut for America, but has been restored to its original length on tape.
4. The Flesh Eaters (1964)
   This was cut for TV, but is now uncut on tape.
5. The Haunting (1963)
6. Homicidal (1961)
7. The Mask (1961)
   A good 3-D copy is available.
8. Masque of the Red Death (1964)
9. Night of the Living Dead (1968)
   (one of the most recent features to be colorized)
10. Spider Baby (1964)
    A restored copy was released in 1994.

SKELETON COAST

(Nelson, 1988) D: John (Bud) Cardos S: Nadia Calliou P: Harry Alan Towers South Africa

Ernest Borgnine hires seven mercenaries to rescue his CIA agent son in Angola. The bad guys, led by evil East German Robert Vaughn, include Cubans. With Oliver Reed as an evil diamond security chief, Nancy Mulford, Herbert Lom, and Leon Isaac Kennedy. It was shot in Namibia. Towers, an international con artist who likes to recycle ideas, also produced Coast of Skeletons (1965).

SKETCH ARTIST

(MGM, 1992) D: Phedon Papamichael
S: Michael Angeli P: Brad Krevoy

Jeff Fahey stars as an LA police sketch artist. A witness (Drew Barrymore, whose character doesn't last too long) describes a murder suspect that looks just like his interior designer wife (Sean Young). He tries to cover for his wife with disastrous results. With Tcheky Karyo, James Tolkan, Charlotte Lewis, and Stacy Haiduk. It debuted on Showtime. Fahey returned in a sequel.

SKETCH ARTIST II: HANDS THAT SEE

(MGM, 1995) D: Jack Sholder
S: Michael Angeli P: Brad Krevoy

A blind woman (Courteney Cox) decribes a rapist/murderer to a police sketch artist (Jeff Fahey) in a Showtime cable sequel. With Brion James as the captured criminal's defense attorney, Michael Beach, James Tolkan, and Jonathan Silverman.

SKETCHES OF A STRANGLER

(Fox Hill, 1978) D/S/P: Paul Leder P: Tom Spalding

Allen Garfield stars as a sweaty religious nut art student who kills hookers in Hollywood. Meredith MacRae is a sister of a victim, who goes undercover as a hooker to trap the killer. It was made by the prolific director of I Dismember Mama.

THE SKI BUM

(Nelson, 1971) D: Bruce Clark
P: David R. Dawdy (Point Zero)

Zalman King is a ski bum in Colorado who is used by a woman (Charlotte Rampling) and the Mafia. He's suspected of being a drug informer after cops raid a pot party. The long (136-minute) underground feature was made by a 26-year-old UCLA student and was based on a Romain Gary novel. The script is uncredited. Avco Embassy released it. The video release is cut.

SKIN ART

(Fox, 1994) D/S: W. Blake Herron
P: Ron Mcghee, Jonathan Jardine

Kirk Baltz (Reservoir Dogs) stars as an obsessed lower-Manhattan tattoo artist and former Nam POW (even though he's obviously too young) who works on Asian hookers. Ariane, Nora Ariffin, and Jake Weber co-star. The movie includes Peeping Tom references.

SKINHEADS: THE SECOND COMING OF HATE

(New Star, 1988) D/S/P: Greydon Clarke
S: David Reskin

A group of students (including Jason Culp and Liz Sagal) on the way to California are chased by vicious killer skinheads (led by Brian Brophy) in the mountains outside Reno. Chuck Connors (in a small role as a WWII vet) comes to the rescue with his rifle. It has bad dubbing, bad lighting, and a dumb script. With Barbara Bain plus some music by Elvis Hitler.

SKINNED ALIVE

(Cinema Home Video, 1990) D/S/E: Jon Killough
P/A/M: J. R. Bookwalter

This is a very low budget (around $20,000) 16mm first-time-director effort filmed in Mogadore, Ohio (a suburb of Akron). Three crazed killers in a van move in on a family and slaughter them. Crawdaddy, the big killer mom, has an eye patch and is in a wheelchair. Her daughter is a seductive blonde and her ponytailed son Phink (Scott Spiegel) wears a suit and granny glasses. A divorced, alcoholic, patriotic, ex-cop neighbor tries to be the hero. A lot of the humor is intentional (including comic sound effects), there's plenty of swearing (funny insults like "fuckwad," "dingleberry," and "shit-for-brains"), and some gore. The best effect is an ax going all the way through a fat man. Others are just dumb, and the whole movie moves too slowly and gets real boring after a while. The executive producer was David DeCoteau.

SKINNER

(A-Pix, 1993) D: Ivan Nagy S: Paul Hart-Wilden
P: Brad Wyman, Jeff Pollon

This is one of the most extreme, tasteless, and disturbing movies I've seen in many years. It's also very well done. Dennis, a smiling psycho (Ted Raimi), moves into a spare room in an old house owned by Carey (Ricki Lake) and her usually absent truck driver husband (David Warshofsky). Dennis, who works as a janitor, kills hookers and cuts off and wears their skin and hair. Traci Lords (in her most memorable non-porn role to date) is Heidi, a depressed, deformed morphine addict out to kill Dennis. She has a withered arm and leg and half her face is scarred. She spends time in a sleazy crumbling hotel room being watched by a voyeur neighbor while shooting up and sobbing. In one detailed FX scene, Dennis skins a naked woman's corpse. In the most over-the-top part, he skins a black man (offscreen) and then walks around in the bloody skin talking in exaggerated black slang. Skinner has very knowing visual references to Psycho, Eyes Without a Face, Circus of Horrors, The Naked Kiss, The Texas Chainsaw Massacre, and other horror classics. The music is by Contagion. The incredible, convincing FX are by the KNB group. The director (who was born in Hungary) had mostly done minor TV movies. He became newsworthy as a boyfriend of the notorious Hollywood madam Heidi Fleiss. Skinner was released in 1995. The publicity centered on Lake, now a TV talk-show hostess.

SKI SCHOOL

(HBO, 1990) S/P: Damian Lee S: David Mitchell

If you liked Hot Dog, here's another teen ski sex comedy. Dean Cameron stars with Mark Thomas Miller as the bad guy, Darlene Vogel, Charlie Spradling, and Ava Fabian. It even has lambada gags. Ski School 2 (Monarch, 1995) followed, also with Cameron.

SKULL: A NIGHT OF TERROR

(Academy, 1989) D/S/P: Robert Bergman S: Gerard Ciccoritti Canada (Don't Turn Out the Light)

Skull, a bald escaped con with an eye patch, and his buddies take a woman hostage in a farmhouse. The man of the house is a cop (Robert Bideman), troubled after having killed an innocent girl. They torment his wife and kill his mistress.

SKY BANDITS

(Sinister, 1940) D: Ralph Staub
S: Edward Halperin P: Phil Goldstone

Dwight Frye is the mad inventor of a death ray. Criminals use it to blast planes out of the sky. Hero Mounties save the day in an indy feature that was distributed by Monogram. With James Newill and Dave O'Brien. Frye, typecast as a maniac after his famous roles in Dracula and Frankenstein, died young in 1943.

SKYJACKED

(1972) D: John Guillerman S: Stanley R. Greenberg P: Walter Seltzer (Sky Terror)

Charlton Heston (later in Airport 1975) is the pilot in a PG-rated Airport copy. James Brolin is the deranged Nam vet bomber. The plane is taken to the USSR but they won't let it land. Mariette Hartley has a baby and Rosey Grier gets drunk and plays a cello like a guitar. With Susan Dey, Walter Pidgeon, Yvette Mimieux, Claude Akins, Jeanne Crain, Leslie Uggams, John Hillerman, Ross Elliot, Mike Henry, Nicholas Hammond, and Ken Swofford (from Common Law Cabin).

SLACKER

(Orion, 1991) D/S/P/A: Richard Linklater

This movie follows people doing nothing during 24 hours in Austin—talking about political conspiracies, selling Madonna's pap smear, or the usual "same old same old." Slacker has no structure at all but is filled with great and funny moments. It's an end-of-the-world movie that shows America as a big asylum. It was financed for $23,000 and shot in 8mm and 16 plus some pixelvision video. Orion Classics blew it up to 35mm, released it, and had a critical low-budget hit. With references to Charles Whitman, Uncle Fester, and the Smurfs. Linklater went on to make more commercial features starting with Dazed and Confused. A Slacker book was also published.

SLAMDANCE

(Fox, 1987) D: Wayne Wang S/P/A: Don Opper P: Rupert Harvey, Barry Opper

Tom Hulce is an LA cartoonist blamed for the murder of a hooker (Virginia Madsen). With Mary Elizabeth Mastrantonio, Harry Dean Stanton, Millie Perkins, Don Opper as a hitman, Adam Ant, Rosalind Chao, and Lisa Niemi. There is no slamdancing but there are some nude scenes. By the director of Chan Is Missing.

SLAMMER GIRLS

(Vestron, 1985) D/S/P: Chuck Vincent S: Craig Horrall

Devon Jenkin is the new innocent inmate in a dumb women's prison spoof. One man goes undercover as a woman (with mustache). The cast includes porn director Henri Pachard, Veronica Hart (not bad as a sadistic matron), Tally Chanel, Tally Brittany, Sharon Kane, Samantha Fox, Sharon Kelly/Colleen Brennan, Sherri St. Claire, and Captain Haggerty.

THE SLAMS

(1973) D: Jonathan Kaplan S: Richard L. Adams P: Gene Corman

Curtis Hook (Jim Brown) is put in prison after hiding some mob money. The mob wants him killed and the FBI wants him to talk. Girlfriend Judy Pace and Paul E. Harris help him plan an escape. The violent MGM release also features Frank de Kova, Ted Cassidy as a con, and Dick Miller as a cab driver. Brown was in I Escaped From Devil's Island the same year (1973). Kaplan had been directing at New World and did Truck Turner (1974) next.

SLAPSTICK (OF ANOTHER KIND)

(1984) D/S/P/A: Steven Paul

Jerry Lewis and Madeline Kahn star as ugly twin aliens and their parents in a comedy based on Kurt Vonnegut's novel. The twins are sent to earth and kidnapped by Chinese midgets. They're super intelligent only when they're together. With Marty Feldman, Jim Backus as the U.S. president, Sam Fuller as a military school colonel, Merv Griffin, Pat Morita, John Abbott as Dr. Frankenstein, Virginia Graham, and the voice of Orson Welles. It was the first effort by the teenage (!) director of Falling in Love Again. Slapstick never opened theatrically in America, but a different version debuted in West Germany.

SLASHDANCE

(Impulse, 1989) D/S: James Shyman
P: Andrew Maissner

A female Hollywood cop (played by "Americana") goes undercover as a dancer in an old theater to capture an unknown hooded maniac with a saw who has been killing women auditioning for a musical. Americana was a star of G.L.O.W. (Gorgeous Ladies of Wrestling, a hard-to-believe popular TV show). This ridiculous, boring, modern Phantom of the Opera rip-off features seemingly endless scenes of dancers practicing, repeated over and over with the same irritating repetitious music. There's a comic flasher, 6' 4" "Queen Kong" (another G.L.O.W. star), offscreen sex and violence, pointless Hollywood street scenes, and Jay Richardson as a comic police captain. Joel Von Ornsteiner, a veteran of David DeCoteau, Roberta Findlay, and Troma (!) films, plays the producer's brother, the main suspect, who proves how crazy he is by eating a goldfish. Shoe fans should know that this movie includes a death-by-high-heel scene.

SLASHED DREAMS

(Academy, 1974) D/S/P: James Polakoff (Sunburst)

James Keach is a psycho killer in the forest. Kathy Baumann (a Miss America finalist from Ohio) costars (and takes her clothes off). With Peter Brown, Anne Lockhart, Peter Hooten, Rudy Vallee (!), and Robert Englund as a hermit.

THE SLASHER

(1952) D/S: Lewis Gilbert S: Vernon Harris P: Daniel M. Angel UK (Cosh Boy)

In England it was advertised as being "Wild . . . Wayward . . . Hellbent!" It's all about a London juvenile delinquent with a razor. James Kenny stars with Joan Collins and Hermione Gingold. Lippert released it in America.

SLAUGHTER

(Fox, 1972) D: Jack Starrett S: Mark Hanna, Don Williams P: Monroe Sachson

Jim Brown had his first solo starring role as Slaughter, after being famous for playing for the Cleveland Browns and acting in films since 1964. He's a violent ex–Green Beret whose parents in Cleveland are killed by the mob. He ends up in Mexico seeking revenge—and he gets the girl (Stella Stevens, who appears topless). Rip Torn, after his "underground" period (Coming Apart, Tropic of Cancer, and two by Norman Mailer) costars as a racist gangster. With Don Gordon as Slaughter's helper, Cameron Mitchell, and Marlene Clark. Billy Preston is on the soundtrack. The AIP release was shot in Mexico City,

SLAUGHTER

(21st Genesis, 1976) D: Burt Brinkerhoff S: O'Brian Tomalin P: Allan F. Bodoh, Bruce Cohn (Dogs)

David McCallum is a college professor who helps to scientifically create killer dogs (all kinds from Dobermans to poodles). The dogs kill students but they are not scary. With Linda Gray, who has a Psycho shower scene. Years later, Man's Best Friend? used the same idea.

SLAUGHTERDAY

(Genesis, 1976) D/S: Peter Patzak S: Walter Kinder, Ossi Bronner P: Gunter Kopt Italy

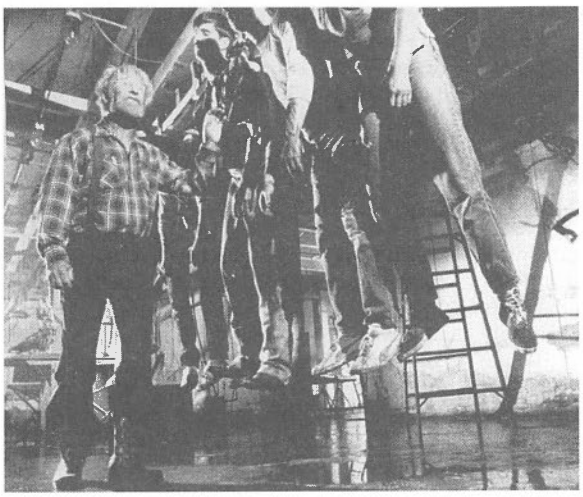
Rita Tushingham is a medical student and there's a violent bank robbery. William Berger and Gordon Mitchell are in the action drama.



Slaughterhouse

SLAUGHTER HIGH

(Vestron, 1986) D: George Dugdale, Mark Ezra, Peter Litten P: Steve Miniasian, Dick Randall
UK (April Fool's Day)

It was billed as "From the Makers of Friday the 13th." That was a lie, but the music is by Henry Manfredi who scored Friday movies. Students pull mean tricks on a nerd (Simon Scuddamore), who dies after nitric acid is thrown at him. Five years later a man in a clown outfit commits gore murders during a school reunion. Caroline Munro is the top-billed victim. R and unrated versions are available.

SLAUGHTERHOUSE

(Charter, 1987) D/S: Rick Roessler P: Ron Matonak

Backwoods Lester Bacon and his fat son Buddy (who snorts) kill to save the farm in a Texas Chainsaw Massacre copy. They also kill off some teens (led by Sherry Bendorf) making a horror video. It's pretty gory and opens with a montage of (real) hogs being slaughtered with funny music.

SLAUGHTERHOUSE ROCK

(Sony, 1987) D: Dimitri Logothetis
S: Ted Landon P: Louis George

Nicholas Celozzi (the son of the executive producer) visits Alcatraz prison after dreaming about the dead there. A cannibal demon possesses his brother (Tom Reilly), and the ghost of a heavy metal singer (Toni Basil) who was killed along with her band (called Bodybag) tries to help battle the supernatural killer. Hope Marie Carlton is raped by a monster. This one has dreams, flashbacks, zombies, lots of FX, and some music by Devo.

SLAUGHTER IN SAN FRANCISCO

(Rhino, 1973) D/S: William Lowe
P: Leonard K. C. Ho (Karate Cop)

Don Wong stars as a Chinese American cop out for revenge. With Sylvia Channing and a young Chuck Norris (before he shaved his back) as a drug-dealing villain. It was re-released many times to capitalize on Norris's later fame as a movie hero.

SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENTS

(MCA, 1993) D/S: James Glickenhaus
P: Frank K. Isaac

Scott Glenn is an FBI man stationed in Cleveland who goes to Utah to track a maniac who kills (and sodomizes) kids. Thankfully we don't see the bearded religious nut (Zitto Kazann) killer at work, but he does tie up a little girl. He thinks he's Noah and has a huge ark in a cave that's filled with rotting corpses and skeletons (kind of like in Texas Chainsaw Massacre). The agent's crime-solving computer expert kid is played by Jesse Cameron-Glickenhaus—the director's son. He's a little too smart to believe, but is the real star of the movie. With Sheila Tousey, Darlanne Fluegel, and Zake Moakes as a janitor. Gabe Bartalos provided gore FX for the above-average HBO movie, filmed in Utah (and downtown Clevo). The MCA laser disc includes deleted footage and commentary by the director.

SLAUGHTER'S BIG RIP-OFF

(Fox, 1973) D: Gordon Douglas
S: Charles Johnson P: Monroe Sachs

Jim Brown returns for more revenge after his friend is killed at the LA airport, and he fights martial arts experts. Ed McMahon plays a mob boss! With Brock Peters as a detective, Don Stroud as a hitman, and Gloria Hendry and Judy Brown as Slaughter's girlfriends. Also with Art Metrano, Scatman Crothers, and Valda Hansen. A new substitute score was done for the video release. You'll have to search out the old Polydor LP for the real music (James Brown and Lynn Collins!). From AIP.

SLAVE GIRL

(1947) D: Charles Lamont
S/P: Michael Fessier, Ernest Pagano

Yvonne De Carlo stars in a Universal color comedy desert drama narrated by a talking camel. With George Brent, Broderick Crawford, Albert Dekker, Andy Devine, Arthur Treacher, and Lois Collier. The Canadian De Carlo was in Song of Scheherezade the same year.

SLAVE GIRLS FROM BEYOND INFINITY

(Tempe, 1987) D/S/P: Ken Dixon
P: John Eng, Mark Wolf

This slow, talky science fiction adventure version of The Most Dangerous Game is about blond slaves in bikinis who escape in a rocket ship and wake up on an island. The villain, wearing all black, has a castle, a laser crossbow, and twin robots that decapitate people. John Buechler provided special effects. The women (Cindy Beal, Elizabeth Kaitan, and Brinke Stevens) go topless once in a while to try and relieve the boredom. "Fate sure weaves a curious tapestry!"

SLAVERS

(New Pacific, 1976) D/P/A: Jurgen Goslar
S: Henry Morrison W. Germany

Trevor Howard is top-billed in an exploitation movie about the slave trade in Africa. With former Tarzan Ron Ely, Britt Ekland, Ray Milland, Ken Gampu, and Cameron Mitchell. It was released in America the same year as the Roots miniseries. Akira Fitton did the US posters and ad mats. Goslar also made Albino.

SLAVES

(1969) D/S: Herbert J. Biberman
S: John O. Killens P: Philip Langer

Ossie Davis is the hero Kentucky slave who incites a rebellion at the end. Stephen Boyd co-stars as an evil Mississippi plantation owner and Dionne Warwick is Cassy his mistress. This is a much more serious attempt than the later Mandingo and it predated the Roots mini-series. With Shepperd Strudwick, Julius Harris, and David Huddleston. Also with Gale Sondergaard in her first role since 1949. She and her director husband Biberman (Salt of the Earth) had been blacklisted. Bobby Scott and Dionne Warwick songs are on the Skye soundtrack.

Ed McMahon as a pimp in Slaughter's Big Rip-Off.

SLAVES IN BONDAGE

(Sinister, 1937) D: Elmer Clifton
S: Robert A. Dilon P: J. Kendis

Donna Lee (Lona Andre) is the manicurist girlfriend of an unemployed reporter (Donald Reed). He says, "You're making me a sissy with all these manicures." Wheeler Oakman is the main sleazeball con man behind an illegal roadhouse and a nightclub. Donna is saved just in time from a life of sin. Much of this old roadshow hit is taken up by comic acrobats, a lady contortionist, an Oriental fan dancer, and large newspaper headlines. There's also a catfight. By the director of Gambling with Souls (1936) and Assassin of Youth (1937). Scenes from the Jay-Dee-Kay Production were later re-used in Teen Age.

SLAVES OF BABYLON

(1953) D: William Castle
S: DeVallon Scott P: Sam Katzman

Richard Conte is the Israelite hero in a Technicolor biblical tale. With Maurice Schwartz as Daniel, Linda Christian, Michael Ansara, and Julie Newmar as a dancer. The Columbia release was one of many period films by Castle. Ansara and Newmar were also in Castle's Serpent of the Nile from the same year.

SLAVES OF LOVE

(Media, 1969) D/S: Charles Nizet P: David Ackerman

Amazon women (led by Tina Brown) with machine guns wear minidresses and boots on an island. The women use a magnetic force to force down planes. They enslave two detectives and make the men have sex with them in their underground headquarters. They also dance and go swimming naked. Narrated flashbacks tells us what's going on. By the uniquely talented and unfairly obscure director of Possessed.

SLAVE TRADE IN THE WORLD TODAY

(Shockwave, 1964) D: Roberto Malenotti, Folco Quilici S: Baccio Bandini, Gianfranco Calderoni France/Italy (Le Schiave Esistono Ancora)

Lord Robert Maugham blames America and England for looking the other way while oil-rich Arabs continue to deal in human beings. "Hidden cameras" offer proof. With b/w footage of young captive British hookers. The exposé was filmed in Africa, the Middle East, and India. In one scene, giant crabs drag skeletons of escaped slaves across the sand. There was a London label soundtrack.

THE SLAYER

(Continental, 1981) D/P: J. S. Cardone
S/P: William R. Ewing (Nightmare Island)

A female artist on vacation dreams of a monster. Her friends and relatives die when she sleeps. It's a gory movie with decapitations and fishhooks in faces. Filmed on Tybee Island, Georgia, this was on a double tape with Scalps.

SLAYGROUND

(HBO, 1983) D: Terry Bedford S: Trevor Preston P: John Dark, Gower Frost UK

It was advertised in America as a horror movie, but is actually a crime movie set partially in upstate New York. Peter Coyote goes to a British amusement park to avenge the killing of his daughter. With Mel Smith and Billie Whitelaw. Based on the "Richard Stark"/Donald E. Westlake novel.

SLEAZEMANIA

(Rhino, 1984)

A lot of people got into weird and obscure movies by watching this 60-minute tape created and compiled by Johnny Legend. The first volume is the best and is packed with scenes and trailers from horror and exploitation wonders like The Pin Down Girls and The Smut Peddler. There's a promo reel for Star Slammer, plus some old color stripper shorts.

SLEAZEMANIA ON PARADE

(SW, 1994)

Johnny Legend comments on the smiling celebrities (Angie Dickinson, Gene Autry, Steve Allen, Mr. T, Doug McClure . . .) passing by in a Hollywood Christmas parade, interspersed with trailers or scenes from their movies. Then lots of rare trailers are shown (No Morals, I Passed for White, Swamp Girl . . .). The Naked Zoo, Incredible Sex Revolution, Curse of the Teenage Nazi, and Door to Door Maniac trailers are my faves. Next Hollywood stars represented on the sidewalk are shown with more appropriate trailers and the parade ends with an appearance by the Aztec Mummy. Tom Rainone shot the original Hollywood footage. Part of this tape were previously on a tape called Mondo Legend (1991).

SLEAZEMANIA STRIKES BACK

(Rhino, 1985)

This volume shows you why you need to know more about Ed Wood Jr., H. G. Lewis, A. C. Stevens, and others. When this compilation came out with scenes from Fred Olen Ray's Beach Blanket Bloodbath, few knew the (unfinished) movie had been written by Ed Wood Jr. This even features Johnny Legend's own Teenage Cruisers. Sleazemania III: The Good, the Bad and the Sleazy (Rhino, 1989) followed, featuring the notorious (and long) Smut Peddler trailer, then there was Sleazemania: The Special Edition (Rhino), a shorter (18-minute), "clean" best-of tape for viewers who couldn't take the sex and violence.

SLEDGEHAMMER

(World, 1983) D/S: David A. Prior P: Nicholas Imaz

A young boy kills his mom and her lover with a hammer. Ten years later (yeah it's another one of those), he kills teens spending a vacation weekend. It was shot on video for $40,000. With Ted Prior.

SLEEPAWAY CAMP

(Media, 1983) D/S: Robert Hiltzik
P: Michele Tatosian, Jerry Silva

In a nasty Friday the 13th rip-off that's better than most, campers are killed in upstate New York. Melissa Rose is the shy murderous Angela, and there's a Homicidal-style sex switch involved. Ed French created the grisly FX. With Mike Kellin and Robert Earl Jones.

SLEEPAWAY CAMP II: UNHAPPY CAMPERS

(Nelson, 1988) D/P: Michael A. Simpson
S: Fritz Gordon P: Jerry Silva

The original did well on video, so two sequels were made back to back. Bruce Springsteen's grinning sister (!) Pamela Springsteen plays the boy who became the psycho killer Angela. She returns to the summer camp, this time as a singing counselor, and kills "bad" people there. This sequel has more novel ways of dying, gore, and nudity, and Springsteen even sings. With Renee Estevez as the token virgin, Valerie Hartman, and Susan Marie Snyder. It was filmed in Georgia.

SLEEPAWAY CAMP III: TEENAGE WASTELAND

(Nelson, 1988) D/P: Michael A. Simpson
S: Fritz Gordon P: Jerry Silva

Pamela Springsteen is back killing off the entire unsuspecting cast of irritating multi-ethnic kids and their stupid counselors in this stupid, goreless, tasteless, horror comedy with flashbacks to Part II and the usual topless scenes. The overworked Michael J. Pollard acts even weirder than usual as a horny, goofy, always-mugging counselor. Springsteen kills by decapitation, an M-80 in a nose, a garbage truck, and a spike through a head. With Tracy Griffith (also in Fast Food, along with Springsteen and Pollard), Jill Terashita, and in-joke character names. Sleepaway Camp IV was also announced.

SLEEPING BEAUTY

(UAV, 1955) D/S/P/A: Fritz Genschow S/A: Renee Stotbrawa W. Germany (Dornroschen)

Sleeping Beauty movies were being made as early as 1902 (in France). This was the first feature-length live-action sound version and is in color. The director himself stars as Prince Charming. New songs and narration by Paul Tripp were added for the American release by AIP. The next version of the famous tale collected by the Brothers Grimm was the 1959 animated classic from Disney. Bernadette Peters stars in the 60-minute Faerie Tale Theatre version (Fox, 1983). An earlier TV version, hosted by Shirley Temple, is available from Wood Knap.

SLEEPING BEAUTY

(Warner, 1987) D: David Irving
S: Michael Berz P: Golan/Globus

Tahnee Welch (Raquel's daughter) stars with Morgan Fairchild as the queen. Also with Sylvia Miles as the red fairy, Kenny Baker as an elf, and Jane Weidlin (from the Go-Go's) as the white fairy. It was made in Israel.

THE SLEEPING CAR

(Vidmark, 1989) D/P: Douglas Curtis S: Greg O'Neil

David Naughton is Jason, a divorced, wisecracking student who rents half of a haunted train car, even after he sees a body in his bed! He plays heavy metal music on a reel-to-reel tape recorder and everybody makes jokes about how old he is. He acquires a very forward girlfriend (Judie Aronson from Friday the 13th IV). Her jealous ex breaks into the car and is killed by couch springs (!). More characters are crushed in the couch bed or killed by the springs. Kevin McCarthy, who lives in the other half of the car, believes in white magic and listens to sitar music. Jeff Conaway is a rebellious journalism teacher who tells a Dan Quayle joke. After sex and a lot of fast editing and strobe lights, Aronson becomes possessed. It's all because of the landlady's transparent ghost husband. Also with Nicole Hansen. John Carl Buechler provided the FX credit and acts. The ending stinks.

SLEEPING DOGS

(1977) D/P: Roger Donaldson S: Ian Mune, Arthur Baysting New Zealand

This was the first New Zealand feature to open in America and was the debut for the director and star. In the near future, Sam Neill is a loner who joins a violent resistance movement to overthrow the fascist government. With Warren Oates and Ian Mune.

SLEEPING WITH THE ENEMY

(Fox, 1991) D: Joseph Ruben S: Ronald Bass P: Leonard Goldberg M: Jerry Goldsmith

Julia Roberts fakes her own drowning death to escape life with her rich neat-freak psycho husband (Patrick Bergin). She calls herself Sarah and settles in an old-fashioned small Iowa town. She eventually falls for an acting teacher (Kevin Anderson) but her husband kills her mother and tracks her down. Ruben's followup feature to The Stepfather got more attention simply because of Roberts, and it has similar psycho-husband themes. The score is on Varèse Sarabande. From 20th Century–Fox.

SLEEP OF DEATH

(Prism, 1978) D/S/P: Calvin Floyd S: Yvonne Floyd Sweden/Ireland (Ondskans Vardshus; Inn of the Flying Dragon)

A young inexperienced man (Per Oscarsson) goes to France in the early 1900s. His new traveling companion is a marquis (Patrick Magee) and he falls for a mysterious countess (Marilu Tolo). It's a vampire story based on a J. Sheridan Le Fanu novel. The period detail is excellent but the "vampires" are part of a conspiracy and are not real. With Curt Jurgens as the count. By the director of In Search of Dracula (1972).

SLEEPOVER MASSACRE

(W.A.V.E., 1989) D: Gary Whitson

This feature-length vampire tape is as obscure as you can get. It's from W.A.V.E. Productions, a Centerton, New Jersey, company that will videotape your script for money. Their productions resemble backwoods high school film student projects from Hell. This one features girl fights, long flashbacks, lots of talk, gore, shower scenes, cardboard walls that move, and a synth score that will drive you up a wall. I'm not really sure if it's an example of what some person actually paid them to tape or an enticement for people to send scripts and money.

SLEEPWALK

(Nelson, 1986) D/S/P: Sara Driver S: Kathleen Brennan

A woman (Suzanne Fletcher) who works as a computer operator translates an ancient Chinese manuscript. It magically affects her life. The underground movie features Ann Magnuson, Steve Buscemi, and Tony Todd, who all went on to bigger projects. Jim Jarmusch was a cinematographer.

SLEEPWALKERS

(Columbia, 1992) D: Mick Garris S: Stephen King P: Mark Victor, Mark Grais

It's another bad Stephen King adaptation, and he wrote it himself. In an Indiana town, new student Brian Krause and his sexy mom Alice Krige are vampire-like "sleepwalker" cat people with some confusing powers and absurd weaknesses (normal cats). Madchen Amick is the virgin girl in danger. Sleepwalkers is full of stupid comic relief, Freddy Krueger-type wisecracks, death by pencil and an ear of corn, and typical first victims (gay and black characters). The transformation FX are minimal, the street set is too obvious, and John Landis, Joe Dante, Tobe Hooper, King himself, and Clive Barker show up for useless guest bits. With Cindy Pickett, Glen Shadix, Ron Perlman, and Mark Hamill. The Columbia release was cut for an R. Milan issued a soundtrack (by Nicholas Pike) featuring Santo and Johnny's title instrumental from 1959. My favorite part was the excellent end theme.

SLIDERS

(1995) D: Andy Tennant S: Tracy Torme, Robert K. Weiss P: Steven Ecclestine

The X-Files TV series did so well that Fox started another sci-fi series with lots of FX. This was the pilot feature. Jerry O'Connell (the fat kid from Stand by Me) stars as a genius physics student who can visit other times and alternate reality worlds through the Gateway. Sabrina Lloyd and John Rhys-Davies are other members of the Sliders team. The series was shot in Vancouver. John Landis is an executive producer.

SLIME CITY

(Camp, 1987) D/S/P: Gregory Lamberson P: Peter Clark, Marc Makowski

A New York City art student moves into a tenement building. Green wine from some odd neighbors turns him into a slime killer with a bandaged face. The gory local first effort was made for "$50,000." With an early appearance by Alan Rickman.

SLIPPING INTO DARKNESS (1974) = CRAZE

SLIPPING INTO DARKNESS

(Virgin, 1988) D/S: Eleanor Gaver P: Jonathan D. Krane

Three co-eds in a small town Nebraska boarding house are blamed for a retarded kid's death. The older brother (John DiAquino) and his biker friends go after and kidnap them. One of the girls dies and a psycho tenant keeps her body. Parts are influenced by River's Edge, and there are black humor and bondage scenes. Michelle Johnson stars with Neill Barry and Adam Roarke. It was filmed in Fremont, Nebraska.

SLIPSTREAM

(Virgin, 1988) D: Steven Lisberger S: Tony Kayden P: Gary Kurtz M: Elmer Bernstein UK

In the bleak future, Mark Hamill is a mean, bearded airborne bounty hunter. Another bounty hunter (Bill Paxton) takes his captive away. Kitty Aldridge co-stars with Bob Peck as a robot. Ben Kingsley, F. Murray Abraham, and Robbie Coltrane all have small roles. The PG-13 ecological science fiction movie is by the director of Tron and the producer of Star Wars. It was shot in Turkey and on the British moors and went straight to tape in America.

SLIVER

(Paramount, 1993) D: Phillip Noyce S: Joe Eszterhas P: Robert Evans C: Vilmos Zsigmond M: Howard Shore

Sharon Stone (after the huge hit Basic Instinct) stars as a Manhattan book editor with an extremely expensive new apartment (in the real Morgan Court building). William Baldwin is Zeke, the rich, young computer whiz voyeur owner of the building where murders occur. The script, based on the Ira Levin novel, borrows from The Tenant, Rear Window, Peeping Tom, and others. With Tom Berenger as an alcoholic writer, Colleen Camp, Keene Curtis, Martin Landau, Polly Walker, Nina Foch, Nicholas Pryor, CCH Pounder, and Shannon Whirry. It was cut for an R, and an irritating alternate ending was used. Sliver, producer Evans's first project after The Cotton Club (1984), was a hit overseas (with additional sex footage) and on tape. The soundtrack (Virgin) includes UB40, Neneh Cherry, Heaven 17, and others.

SLOW BURN

(Xenon, 1989) D: John E. Eyres S: Steven Lister P: Geoff Griffiths Canada

Anthony James stars in a New York Chinese gang vs. Mafia movie. William Smith is a Mafia don. It was filmed in Vancouver.

SLUGS

(Starmaker, 1987) D/P: Juan Piquer Simon S: Ron Gantman P: José A. Escriva, Francesca De Laurentiis Spain

The plot is about toxic waste causing killer slugs and some of the scenes are copied from Squirm (1976). The sarcastic hero is a health inspector in a small town, with a schoolteacher wife. Big black slugs breed in the sewer and come out of sinks and toilets. Most deaths are offscreen, but the bloody standout scene here is when a naked teen couple in bed are surprised by slugs and the girl, trying to escape, is covered with them. Some parts were filmed in Lyons, NY, but most scenes were done in Madrid. The accents are real weird. Some actors speak Twilight Zone English, others are dubbed. They all seem obsessed with drinking, or talking about drinking. The music is by the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra. From New World.

SLUMBER PARTY '57

(MGM, 1977) D: William A. Levey S: Frank Farmer P: John Ireland Jr.

In 1957, six underage high school girls relate R-rated sex flashbacks at a mansion. The all–Mercury label soundtrack includes good real oldies, but many of them are from the 60s! A drive-in shows a trailer for Cauldron of Blood (the U.S. release was 1971!) and there are some very 70s haircuts. Debra Winger from Cleveland (who should have been about 21 at the time) eats a banana suggestively and appears topless for her film debut. The girls all are photographed underwater in (or out of) their underwear. Will Hutchins (TV's Sugarfoot) is a drunken older man in bed with a naked girl, but her father (Bill Thurman from Larry Buchanan movies) interrupts and spanks her over his knee. One segment concerns making a man-in-the-pot cannibal movie. With Janet Wood, Cheryl "Rainbeaux" Smith, Rafael Campos as a "dope fiend," astrologer Joyce Jillson as a car hop, and Joe E. Ross (driving Car 54). From Cannon.

SLUMBER PARTY MASSACRE II

(Nelson, 1987) D/S/P: Deborah Brock P: Don Daniel

The first sequel to Amy Jones's 1982 film (available on Embassy Video) takes place five years later and features an all-girl band in a condo on a gulf course. Crystal Bernard (later to star in the Wings series) is the now-grown-up little sister from the original. She has flashbacks and nightmares of a killer black leather rock guitarist with a drill guitar. With music segments, a hand in a hamburger bun, a zit spurting green pus, and in-joke names. The cast includes Playboy centerfold Kimberly McArthur, Patrick Lowe, Juliette Cummins, Heidi Kozak, and Maria Ford. The Roger Corman Concorde release also has a Rock 'n' Roll High School clip on TV.

SLUMBER PARTY MASSACRE III

(New Horizons, 1990) D: Sally Mattison
S/P: Catherine Cyran

Roger Corman has assigned females to make all of these slumber movies. They keep getting worse, but that's the sequel business. This one has less gore and skin but is filled with ridiculous suspects (a "weirdo" with dark glasses and a goatee, a tall voyeuristic hippie, horny guys in monster masks . . .) and lots of palm trees. Other exploitation clichés include bathtub death by electric (?!) vibrator (it's usually a radio or heater, so I guess they tried to be different), idiotic victims who can't even figure out how to leave a house, and a lone black guy (the first to die) who is not missed by the rest of the cast. And the killer is impotent. Keely Christian stars, but the only familiar cast members are Maria Ford and Hope Marie Carlton.

SMALL KILL

(VCI, 1992) D: Rob Fresco, Gary Burghoff S/P/A: Fred Carpenter
S: James McTernan P: Tom Poster

Gary Burghoff (Radar from *M*A*S*H*) finally gets to show his real dramatic talents as Fleck, a psychotic drug dealer and kidnapper in Nassau County, Long Island. He also appears in a (very unconvincing) drag disguise as an old lady fortune-teller (!) and—he directed all his own scenes! Small Kill starts with some surprising extreme gore FX as hands and heads are blown off. Burghoff slashes people with a straight razor, shoots people in the face, is in bed with a naked boy, and has sex in a chair with a woman with huge breasts before killing her. There's a naked suicidal man and topless dancers to relieve the boredom while you wait for Radar to reappear. Jason Miller is very convincing as a pathetic drunken informer and Rebecca Ferratti (from Playboy) is the wife of the bearded hero cop (Carpenter). With Donnie Kerr. The producer was an editor at the New York Daily News.

A SMALL TOWN IN TEXAS

(Vestron, 1976) D: Jack Starrett
S: William Norton P: Joe Soloman

Crooked sheriff Bo Hopkins frames ex-con Timothy Bottoms in a drug bust and takes his woman (Susan George). The PG-rated AIP revenge movie features Morgan Woodward, Art Hindle, and John Karlen. Norton also wrote Big Bad Mama and I Dismember Mama.

SMART ALEC

(1986) D/S/P: Jim Wilson S: Rob Sullivan
(The Movie Maker; Hollywood Dreaming)

Ben Glass stars as a would-be filmmaker who tries to finance his first movie. The comedy features Orson Bean, David Hedison, Antony Alda, Lucinda Crosby, and Zsa Zsa Gabor. The name is from a famous old porno reel.

A SMELL OF HONEY, A TASTE OF BRINE!

(SW, 1966) D: B."Ron Elliot"/ Byron Mabe S/P/A: David F. Freidman
C: "Art Radford"/Laszlo Kovacs

Stacy Walker stars as a sexy office worker who teases men and sends one to jail on false date-rape charges. She takes a lot of baths and also teases her lesbian roommate, then laughs, "I may be a bitch, but I'll never be butch!" One guy dreams about tying her up but the dream goes wrong when she castrates him! The great-sounding, simple garage band music was by "et cetera," a real Beatle-hair group (they appear in a bar scene) that got to split $100 for their efforts. Walker (real name: Barbara Jean Moore), who also starred in The Notorious Daughter of Fanny Hill, really carries the movie, doing nude scenes and really acting. She was a Texas dropout who returned to Houston after her two features. Friedman is fun to spot in two roles. The 71-minute b/w adult release was the last release from Sonney Amusements.

THE SMILING GHOST

(1941) D: Lewis Seiler S: Kenneth Gamet P: Bryan Foy

Wayne Morris is a chemist who pretends to be engaged to Elinor Bentley Fairchild (Alexis Smith) because her grandmother promises him money. It turns out that Elinor is known as "The Kiss of Death Girl" because her previous men have died violent deaths. Relatives gather at a spooky old mansion where the ghost of a suicide victim is supposed to be. The 71-minute Warner comedy mystery includes Brenda Marshall as a reporter, Willie Best from Ghost Breakers (1940) as the scared servant, Alan Hale as the butler, Lee Patrick, and David Bruce.

SMITHEREENS

(First Run, 1982) D/P: Susan Seidelman
S: Ron Nyswaner, Peter Askin

Susan Berman is Wren, a girl who wants badly to make it in the Manhattan downtown scene. She starts a "Who is this?" self-promotion and tries to become a band manager, with pathetic results. It's a good period piece and was the first American indy feature to compete at Cannes. With Brad Rijn, Richard Hell, and music by the Feelies. Seidelman made Desperately Seeking Susan next.

SMOKE AND FLESH

(SW, 1968) D/S/C: Joe Mangine

A woman narrates this arty soft-core b/w drug movie made in NYC. An impotent bald voyeur (who has bulging head veins) and his wife hold a party to "research" his sex book. Young people smoke "dynamite grass" in paper-towel-roll bongs. Characters get the munchies and eat ice cream, which leads to a black woman being covered with whipped cream. Others talk about the fish in a tank or have sex (seen through the fish tank). The fun is disrupted when some bikers crash the party and their drinks are spiked with LSD. The freak-out scenes include on/off negative visions and bikers crying. The music is raga rock jams. Mangine was also a cinematographer for others.

SMOKE IN THE WIND

(1971) D: Joseph Kane, Andy Brennan
P: Billy, Whitey Hughes

John Ashley stars with John Russell, and Walter Brennan (whose son co-directed) narrates and appears in one of his last roles. This Southern appeal drama was backed by money from Arkansas turkey ranchers and probably played in the Oklahoma drive-ins owned by Ashley. It was the final credit for Kane, who had directed Gene Autry and Roy Rogers westerns.

SMOKEY BITES THE DUST

(Charter, 1981) D: Charles B. Griffith S: Max Apple P: Roger Corman, Gale Ann Hurd

Jimmy McNichol stars as a small-town delinquent who steals cars and smashes them with the homecoming queen at his side. It's a super-low-budget follow-up to Eat My Dust! (1976) and Grand Theft Auto (1977) and uses the car chase and crash scenes from those and other Corman-produced movies. With William Forsythe and Janet Julian. McNichol, the brother of Kristy, was also in the bizarre psycho movie Night Warning (1982).

SMOOTH TALKER

(Academy, 1990) D: Tom E. Milo S: Darrah Whitaker P: Eduardo Montes, Craig Shapiro

A divorced cop (Joe Guzaldo) tracks a serial killer who goes after phone-sex women. With a cast including Susan Ager, Stuart Whitman, Burt Ward, and Sydney Lassick and such an original plot, how could you lose?

THE SMUT PEDDLER

(1965) D: Warner Rose P: Herbert Lannard

It can't possibly live up to what's promised in the incredible (and long) coming attraction trailer (included on Sleazemania), but this b/w title is one of the most sought-after nudie movies. D. G. (Degenerate) Rawlins, the publisher of Dream Girl magazine, seduces the models and so does his lesbian feature editor. A Broadway columnist writes about him and the magazine is closed down. Rose and Lannard returned the next year with Professor Lust.

SNAKE EATER

(Media, 1989) D: George Erschbamer S/P: John Dunning S: Michael Paseornek Canada

"Soldier," a tattooed Nam vet and ex-cop (Lorenzo Lamas), gets on his Harley and goes after the psycho hillbillies in the swamp who killed his parents and kidnapped his sister. The action movie with gore and humor has a scene where a woman swallows a whole snake. Lamas' character is sort of like Mel Gibson in Lethal Weapon. Also with a killer in bear suit and an aqua cycle. With Josie Bell, Robert Scott, Ron Palillo, and rockabilly legend Ronnie Hawkins as a friendly biker. The title is the name of the hero's Marine squad. A sequel was filmed at the same time.

SNAKE EATER II: THE DRUG BUSTER

(Paramount, 1990) D: George Erschbamer S/P: John Dunning S: Don Carmody, Michael Paseornek Canada

Vigilante ex-cop Soldier (Lorenzo Lamas) is sent to a mental hospital by the authorities. He escapes to fight some drug dealer bikers who sell real bad stuff. Michelle Scarabelli costars and Lamas's then-wife Kathleen Kinmont plays another cop. It was filmed in Montreal.

SNAKE EATER III: HIS LAW

(Paramount, 1992) D: George Erschbamer S/P: John Dunning P: Irene Litinsky

All of these violent, cartoonish action movies (by the same director and producer) have lots of fights and killing, a little sex, and some bad taste scenes. Soldier (Lorenzo Lamas) is hired to find members of The Hell's Fury, a real scummy biker gang who kidnapped a girl and made her a nympho zombie. Wrestler Scott "Bam Bam" Bigelow gives a standout performance as a big dumb biker with a tattooed head. With Minor Mustain as Soldier's cowboy P.I. sidekick, Tracy Cook as his girlfriend, and Holly Chester as a stripper. Like the others, it was filmed around Montreal (note accents).

THE SNAKE PIT

(Fox, 1948) D/P: Anatole Litvak S: Frank Partos, Millen Brand P: Robert Bassler M: Alfren Newman

Olivia De Havilland stars in this famous women's mental hospital movie, based on the novel by Mary Jane Ward. She's a new bride who is committed, goes through shock therapy, and is given truth serum (triggering flashbacks). It was considered pretty shocking in its day and is still pretty interesting. Watch for one surreal shot looking down into the "pit" of Ward 33, later copied in Nightmare on Elm Street III. With Mark Stevens, Leo Genn, Celeste Holm, Glenn Langan, Leif Erickson, Lee Patrick, and Natalie Schafer. A 20th Century release.

SNAKES: See FANGS

THE SNAKE WOMAN

(Cinemacabre, 1960) D: Sidney J. Furie S: Orville H. Hampton P: George Fowler UK

In 1890, in Northern England, a doctor shoots up his wife with snake venom to "cure her sick mind." She gives birth to "the Devil's baby" and villagers burn the house down. The baby girl is raised by a flute-playing shepherd and twenty years later a Scotland Yard agent arrives to investigate deaths by snakebite. It's one of the cheapest-looking British horror movies from the period, and the sound dubbing is pretty bad, but a few scenes are good. Susan Travers (also in Peeping Tom) stars. Furie was from Toronto. This and Dr. Blood's Coffin were his first features made in England and played on a double bill. This 66-minute version has some bad jumps, and new credits were added.

SNAPDRAGON

(Prism, 1993) D: Worth Keeter S: Gene Church P: Ashrok Amritraj

Pamela Anderson (Lee) is Felicity, a blonde with amnesia who may have the clue to a series of murders. An LA police shrink (Steven Bauer) dreams he has sex with her, almost has sex with her (his undercover cop girlfriend Chelsea Field interrupts), then—finally—has sex with her. Plotwise, it seems that Felicity had been raised by white slavers in the evil Orient where she learned to slit men's throats during sex with a razor in her mouth and is a schizo (or something much more ridiculous). Anderson, from Baywatch, obviously had some silicone body improvement to prepare for tapes like this. With Matt McCoy and Rance Howard. Terri Treas co-wrote the convoluted story. By the director of Rottweiler/Dogs of Hell.

THE SNIPER

(1952) D: Edward Dmytryk S: Harry Brown P: Stanley Kramer M: George Antheil

Susan Travers is The Snake Woman.

Arthur Franz stars as an ex-con in San Francisco who is driven to kill brunettes with a high-powered rifle. Adolphe Menjou is Lieutenent Kafka in the excellent documentary-style thriller. With Marie Windsor as a victim, Gerald Mohr, and Frank Faylen. The Columbia release was the first American feature in five years for Dmytryk, a director who had been blacklisted. The Sniper on tape (Arena, 1975) is really The Deadly Tower, with Kurt Russell as 1966 Austin sniper Charles Whitman.

SNIPER

(Columbia, 1993) D: Luis Llosa S: Michael Frost Beckner, Crash Leyland P: Mark Johson, Walon Green, Patrick Wachsberger

Tom Berenger stars as a Marine assassin on assignment in Panama with a young Washington bureaucrat marksman (Billy Zane). They argue, act macho, and fight during action scenes, and bullets are seen in closeup going through the air. With J. T. Walsh and Aden Young. The Tristar release was shot in Queensland, Australia, by a frequent Roger Corman director who was born in Peru.

SNO-LINE

(American, 1985) D: Douglas F. O'Neons S: Robert Hilliard P: Robert Burge

Vince Edwards is a New York City DA with a Texas-based cocaine and gambling ring on the side. The mob tries to muscle in. With June Wilkinson as his girlfriend, Paul Smith, and Phil Foster.

SNOW BUNNIES

(Nite Flight, 1970) D/P: "A. C. Stevens"/ Stephen Apostoloff S: Ed Wood Jr.

It's a "Blizzard of Fun, an Avalanche of Action!" It's also another unbelievable softcore sex movie written by Ed Wood Jr. With the once-popular sex team of René Bond and Rick Lutz, Marsha Jordan, Sandi Carey, and Terri Johnson. It was made back to back with Cocktail Hostess.

SNOW KILL

(1990) D: Thomas J. Wright S/P: Raymond Hartung S: Harv Zimmel

Escaped cons (led by David Dukes) go after a coke stash and terrorize office workers staying in a cabin. The USA cable movie features some bloody killings. With Terence Knox, Patti D'Arbanville, Jon Cypher, and Joey Travolta.

SNOW WHITE

(UAV, 1955) D: Erich Kobler S: Konrad Lustig, Walter Oehmichen W. Germany (Schneewitten und die Sieben Zwerge)

This was the first live-action sound version of the Grimm Brothers' fairy tale. Childhood productions released it in 1965 with new songs and narration by Paul Tripp, then it was an AIP TV package title. The same treatment was given to the sequel,

Snow White and Rose Red (Schneeweisschen und Rosenrot), which starred two little girls, a dancing bear (actually a cursed prince), and an evil bearded dwarf. Both titles are on tape.

SNOW WHITE

(1987) D/S: Michael Berz P: Golan/Globus

This was a low point for Avengers star Diana Rigg, who is the best part as the evil Queen. Billy Barty (also in Rumpelstiltskin, also from Cannon) is Iddy. It's a musical version. The Faerie Tale Theatre TV version (Fox, 1983) features Vincent Price in the mirror of the witch (Vanessa Redgrave).

SOCIETY

(Republic, 1989) D: Brian Yuzna S: Woody Keith, Rick Fry P: Keith Walley

Yuzna made this before his Bride of the Reanimator. It's very anti-establishment, deals with conspiracies, and has some plot similarities to the same year's Parents. Billy Warlock (from Baywatch and Days of Our Lives) stars as Beverly Hills teen William Whitney. A friend has a tape of his rich parents talking about orgies with his sister at her coming out party. He becomes paranoid (with good reason) and gives the tape to his shrink. Screaming Mad George created the FX for the surreal and disturbing (also silly and awkward) cannibal orgy scenes in which a person is pulled inside out. Society doesn't really work that well (neither did Parents), but they'll be revived some day as examples of attempts to warn Reagan-era viewers. With Devin De Vasquez (from Playboy) as girlfriend Clarissa, Patrice Jennings as the sister, Evan Richards, Ben Meyerson, Heidi Kozak, Jason Williams, and Tom Rainone. Five minutes were cut out for America. The Japanese laser disc is 100 minutes long and uncut.

SODOM AND GOMORRAH

(Fox, 1961) D: Robert Aldrich, Sergio Leone S: Hugo Butler, Giorgio Prosperi M: Miklos Rozsa US/France/Italy (Sodome et Gomorra)

At the end of this Book of Genesis biblical spectacle, Lot (Stewart Granger) is freed by angels and his wife Ildith (Pier Angeli) is struck by lightning and turned into a pillar of salt. Then the earth splits apart and both cities burn. It's 154 minutes long and from 20th Century. A 171-minute version exists somewhere. Leone directed the battle sequences. With Anouk Aimee, Stanley Baker, Rossana Podesta, Giacomo Rossi-Stuart, and Gabriele Tinti. The score was issued by RCA. A silent version (1922) was directed by Michael Curtiz. Leone, who certainly deserved more credit, also shot the massive "cast of thousands" action scenes for Quo Vadis, Helen of Troy, and Ben-Hur. Aldrich's next project was What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?

SO I MARRIED AN AXE MURDERER

(Columbia, 1993) D: Thomas Schlamme S: Neil Mullarkey P: Robert N. Fried, Cary Woods

This is the movie that Mike Myers got to star in after the success of Wayne's World. He's a nice San Francisco part-time beat poet who marries a butcher (Nancy Travis), then suspects that she's a husband-killer. Myers also plays his own Scottish father. The PG-13 comedy partially copies Hitchcock's Suspicion and has a number of guest stars. With Anthony LaPaglia as a cop, Amanda Plummer, Alan Arkin, Michael Richards, Brenda Fricker, Phil Hartman, Steven Wright, Charles Grodin, and Debi Mazar. It was shot in San Francisco.

SOLARBABIES

(MGM, 1986) D: Alan Johnson S: Walon Green P: Irene Walzer, Jack Frost Sanders

A magical sphere appears in a superstrict futuristic orphanage and helps kid roller skaters gain control of the world's water supply. The PG-13 box office flop (Mel) Brooksfilm is teen sci-fi, set in the year 2025. Jami Gertz stars with Jason Patric, Lukas Haas, Peter DeLuise, James Le Gros, and Adrian Pasdar. Richard Jordan is the mean cop Grock. The other adults are Sarah Douglas and Charles Durning. With an octopus robot and FX by Steve Johnson. Green also wrote The Wild Bunch.

SOLAR CRISIS

(Vidmark, 1990) D: "Alan Smithee"/Richard C. Sarafian S: Joe Gannon, Ted Sarafian P: Tsuneyuki Morishima M: Maurice Jarre (Star Fire)

A mission to prevent the sun from frying Earth in 2050 is the theme of this episodic, slow-moving, clichéd, all-star science fiction adventure. Tim Matheson stars as the ship captain with a bearded Charlton Heston as his Navy admiral father. There's a subplot (which is never resolved) about Heston searching for his grandson (The Stand's Corin Nemec) in the Nevada desert. Annabel Schofield is a British cyborg who is reprogrammed by a bad guy (and has a nude scene and a flashback). Peter Boyle is a corporate villain and Jack Palance rides a motorcycle in the desert and sings. Also with Tetssuya Bessho, Paul Koslo, Dan Shor, Brenda Bakke, Michael Berryman, and Paul Williams as the voice of "Freddie the bomb." It was based on a Japanese novel and was made (in English) in America. The "$35 million" production was a moderate hit in Japan.

THE SOLDIER

(Neslon, 1982) D/S/P: James Glickenhaus M: Tangerine Dream

Soviet terrorists hold the world ransom with a stolen plutonium bomb in a Saudi Arabian oil field. Ken Wahl is the mercenary hero. With William Prince as the US president, Klaus Kinski as Dracha, Steve James, Alberta Watson, and Peter Hooten.

SOLDIER BLUE

(Nelson, 1970) D/A: Ralph Nelson S: John Gay P: Gabriel Katzka, Harold Loeb

Candice Bergen and Peter Stauss are survivors of a Cheyenne Indian massacre. At the end of this "just like Nam" movie, the cavalry fights back with a large-scale bloody massacre. They were "Stained with the Blood of the Innocent!" as the ads claimed. With Donald Pleasence, Jorge Rivero, and John Anderson. Buffy Ste. Marie sings. The Avco Embassy release was shot mostly in Mexico. Bergen was in another violent box-office flop next, The Hunting Party.

SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE

(Edde, 1970) D: Peter Collinson S/A: Leo V. Gordon P: Gene Corman (You Can't Win 'Em All)

Charles Bronson and Tony Curtis star as soldiers of fortune in the Turkish civil war of 1922. Considered an all-around international flop, the comic PG adventure was originally planned to be directed by Howard Hawks. Screenwriter Gordon (who also acts) is a character actor who was often in Roger Corman features. With Michele Mercier, Patrick Magee, and Horst Jansen. A Columbia release.

SOLDIERS OF FORTUNE

(Republic, 1990) D: Arthur N. Mele S/P: Jeffrey C. Hogue S: Charles Douglas Lemay P: Michael Biber

A rich California high school cheerleader is kidnapped by masked terrorists, so soldier of fortune Gil Gerard, her mom's ex, goes to the rescue. His all-vet team includes a knife-throwing ex-con (Dan Haggerty), a tough woman who has to prove herself (Janus Blythe), a bar owner (George "Buck" Flower), and a blind black blues musician. With flashbacks of evil revolutionaries in Central America. Also with P. J. Soles, Charles Napier as a kidnapper, and a Chucky doll. It's based on a story by Hogue and Fred Olen Ray and is an OK timewaster.

SOLE SURVIVOR

(Vestron, 1982) D/S: Thom Eberhardt P: Don Barkemeyer

Ad executive Anita Skinner is the only survivor from a plane crash. Her friends at home become walking corpses. Brinke Stevens is a teenager at a party. Yes, it's another Carnival of Souls copy. The director made Night of the Comet next.

SOL MADRID

(1968) D: Brian G. Hutton S: David Karp P: Hall Bartlett

David McCallum stars as an undercover narc after heroin dealers in Mexico led by Telly Savalas. Stella Stevens is kidnapped, shot up, and has a psychedelic trip sequence. With Ricardo Montalban, Rip Torn, Pat Hingle, Michael Ansara, Paul Lukas, Perry Lopez, and Michael Conrad. The MGM release, filmed in Acapulco, was McCallum's first post–Man from U.N.C.L.E. feature.

SOME LIKE IT COOL

(1961) D/S: Michael Winner P: Adrienne Fancey UK

Star Julie Wilson convinces her new husband to join her at a nudist colony by honeymooning near a camp. The color adult movie was backed by producer Edwin J. Fancey, as were all of Winner's early features.

SOME LIKE IT COOL (1976): See SEX ON THE RUN

SOME LIKE IT VIOLENT

(Alpha Blue, 1968) D/P: Kemal Horulu

This adults-only movie is pretty hilarious, and the acting is some of the worst I've seen. Johnny Skaro is a New York gangster with a James Cagney voice who takes over a computerized dating service to use for hookers. Meanwhile his men talk a lot, women wearing panties talk, and a blonde who goes undercover for a cop lies around naked for a while. The only memorable scene is when Skaro cuts up some mannequins with a machete! Frankie, a guy with a very fake mustache, says, "The sight of fuzz bugs me to no end." Barry Mahon was executive producer.

SOME OF MY BEST FRIENDS ARE

(1971) D/S: Mervyn Nelson
P: Marty Richards, John Lauricella

The year after The Boys in the Band, AIP released this forgotten R-rated gay-themed feature. The cast includes future Buck Rogers series star Gil Gerard, Gary Sandy (from WKRP), and Dick O'Neill (who was in Gammera). Also with comedienne/author Fannie Flagg, Sylvia Syms, Candy Darling (from Warhol movies), and Rue McClanahan (The Golden Girls).

SOMEONE BEHIND THE DOOR

(UAV, 1971) D/S: Nicholas Gessner S: Jacques Robert, Marc Behm P: Raymond Danon
France (Quelqu'un Derrier la Porte)

Charles Bronson is a stranger with amnesia under the care of a neuro-psychiatrist (Anthony Perkins) in France. Since he's Anthony Perkins, he discovers that Bronson is a killer and uses mind control and plots to use him to kill the lover of his wife (Jill Ireland).

SOME PEOPLE

(1962) D: Clive Donner S: John Eldridge P: James Archibald UK

Ray Brooks, David Andrews, and David Hemmings (as Bert) are factory workers with motorcycles. They're thrown out of a youth club when the vicar catches them playing rock and roll in the church. They're good lads though, so their rock band plays at the church hall to raise money for motorcycle licenses. Proceeds from this color movie went to a charity set up by the Duke of Edinburgh. AIP released it (a bit late) in America in 1964. With Kenneth More and Annika Wills. Hemmings was also in movies like Live It Up/Sing and Swing (about another band) and Be My Guest.

SOMETHING IS OUT THERE

(1988) D: Richard Colla S/P: Frank Lupo

This four-hour NBC-TV miniseries was a pilot for a very short-lived (9 episodes) series. An LA undercover cop (Joe Cortese) is teamed with Ta'ra (Maryam D'Abo), an alien woman in a jumpsuit who can get drunk from coffee. They find an alien shapeshifter beetle. It's a lot like The Hidden (1987) and features makeup by Rick Baker and FX by John Dykstra. With George Dzundza, Gregory Sierra, Kim Delaney, and Robert Webber. John Ashley was the executive producer. The pilot was released on tape in Europe.

SOMETHING OF MINE

(Terran, 1991) D/S: Keith Randall Duncan S/P: Todd Camp S: Kevin Schmidt M/A: Michael Price

Satanists conjure up a demon that shows up at a campus Halloween "Castle of Fear" spook show. The rotted ghoul cuts ears, eyes, a nose . . . off its victims and puts them on himself and makes Freddy Krueger–type wisecracks. The best gore effect is cutting off lips with scissors. Tom Rainone plays a cigar-chomping detective in what seems to be a tribute to Orson Welles in Touch of Evil. A police switchboard operator is a guy in drag and the students, busy with hazing pranks, piss a lot. Flashbacks to 1882 show how it all started. It's only 50 minutes long and from the Dallas/Fort Worth area.

SOMETHING'S HAPPENING

(SW, 1967) D: Edgar Beatty P: Art Lieberman (The Hippie Revolt)

Many voice-overs are heard and some people are shown talking in this look at what was going on in LA and Haight-Ashbury at the time. See actual love-ins, an acid test, body painting, pot smoking, dancing to strobe lights, and a nude beach plus footage of the "Moonfire Funeral" and a huge anti-war rally (with Muhammad Ali). The #1 topic, though, is drugs. The music is by the Love Generation. From Headliner (The Sinister Urge, The Naked Flame . . .).

SOMETHING SPECIAL

(Magnum, 1986) D: Paul Schneider S: Walter Carbone, Carla Rueben P: M. David Chilewich, Fred Berner (Willy/Milly; I Was a Teenage Boy)

A young teen girl (Pamela Segall) becomes a boy during a solar eclipse. With Patty Duke and John Glover. The PG-13 Concorde comedy was shot in Atlanta. It predated the onslaught of late-80s body-switch movies if nothing else.

SOMETHING WICKED THIS WAY COMES

(Disney, 1983) D: Jack Clayton S: Ray Bradbury P: Peter Vincent Douglas

Bradbury's excellent fantasy novel was announced to be filmed many times over the years, to be directed by Gene Kelly (1958), Sam Peckinpah (!) (1971), and Steven Spielberg (1972). It ended up at Disney, and despite some good scenes (and Stan Winston FX), is a big disappointment. In the early 1900s, two smalltown Illinois boys have to face Mr. Dark (Jonathan Pryce) when his sinister traveling Pandemonium carnival comes to town. Everything is seen from the kids' point of view. With Jason Robards as the hero librarian dad, Diane Ladd, Pam Grier as the Dust Witch, Royal Dano, and Angelo Rossitto.

SOMETHING WILD

(HBO, 1986) D/P: Jonathan Demme
S: E. Max Frye P: Kenneth Utt

Jeff Daniels, in an After Hours–type Manhattan yuppie role, is a sorry guy whose wife and family have left him. He meets Lulu/Audrey (Melanie Griffith in black wig) and the adventure of his life begins. It starts out funny, becomes a violent, scary road movie, then gets happy at the end. Ray Liotta takes acting honors as the hyped-up psycho ex-con husband of Audrey. With Margaret Colin, Tracy Walter, Charles Napier, John Sayles, and John Waters as a used car salesman. The Feelies play at a high school reunion. John Cale, David Byrne, Laurie Anderson, and others are on the hip 80s soundtrack. From Orion.

SOMETIMES AUNT MARTHA DOES DREADFUL THINGS

(Active, 1971) D/S/P: Thomas Casey

Look for a copy of this Miami psycho movie obscurity. It's surefire cult movie material! Scott Lawrence (aka Wayne Crawford) is Stanley, a coke-snorting young guy with a painted hippie van who is wanted for murder back home in Baltimore (was Casey a John Waters fan!?). Stanley is overprotected by his jealous aunt Martha who is really his friend Paul (Abe Zwick). Stanley and Paul (seen in various stages of drag throughout the movie) stay in a suburban house and argue a lot but sleep together ("Come on, Aunt Martha, let's ball!"). If you can picture a drugged Jonathan Richmond as Stanley and Andy Kaufman as Martha you'll have an idea of how these guys look. An older junkie from Baltimore moves in ("Destiny and the Zodiac brought me") and blackmails them and, oh yeah, somebody kills women (who all seem attracted to Stanley). With flashbacks in negative, a good jazzy score, and a visible microphone. A Who's Who of Florida exploitation worked on this sick but very funny bizarro movie. Harry Kerwin was production manager, the assistant director was Chris Martel (Flesh Feast), and Thomas Wood aka William Kerwin (Blood Feast) and Brad Grinter (Blood Freak) play cops. Recommended!

SOMETIMES THEY COME BACK

(Vidmark, 1991) D: Tom McLoughlin
S: Lawrence Konner, Mark Rosenthal
P: Michael S. Murphy

Tim Matheson (who narrates) is a high school teacher who returns to his home town. Students are killed off and are "replaced" by the same guys who had killed his brother, then were hit by a train 27 years earlier. His brother's ghost helps him fight the juvenile delinquents from Hell. The CBS-TV movie is sentimental horror based on a Stephen King Night Shift short story. With Brooke Adams as his wife, Robert Rusler, William Sanderson, and Bentley Mitchum. With flashbacks, nightmares, clips of Soupy Sales and Dino De Laurentiis's King Kong. Dino presented it and it was co-produced by Milton Subotsky in Missouri, Kansas, and LA. More scenes were added to the tape so it could qualify for an R rating.

SONG OF INDIA

(1949) D/P: Albert S. Rogell
S: Art Arthur, Kenneth Perkins

Sabu can control wild animals in India (just like he had done in Elephant Boy, a dozen years earlier). The Columbia release was filmed in sepia tones. With Gail Russell, Turhan Bey, Anthony Caruso, Fritz Leiber, and Jay Silverheels.

THE SONG REMAINS THE SAME

(Warner, 1976) D/S: Peter Clifton
S: Joe Massot P: Peter Grant

Led Zeppelin had recorded five hit albums when their 1973 Madison Square Garden concert was filmed for this, the last great drug/concert movie. Besides the live footage, Robert Plant, Jimmy Page, and John Paul Jones each has his own fantasy segment, and the late drummer John Bonham is seen racing cars and enjoying his home life. One segment shows gangsters (including manager Peter Grant) at a table being decapitated and colored blood spurting out of their necks. The 136-minute movie was a hit and made nearly six million dollars in North American rentals alone. The double Swan Song soundtrack made it to #2 on the charts.

SONNY BOY

(Media, 1987) D: Robert Martin Carroll
S: Graeme Whifler P: Olividio G. Assonitis

If you're looking for something really different, rent Sonny Boy. It's a warped tale about a baby kidnapped by a criminal "family" in New Mexico. As he grows up, the boy's tongue is cut out and he's treated like an undesirable dog in a wire cage. He devolves into a pathetic innocent teenage "animal man" killer (Michael Griffin) who narrates his life story. The casting director deserves credit for putting together big Paul L. Smith as "Papa," the leader, David Carradine in drag (always) as his wife (!) Pearl, Brad Dourif as the manic long-haired Weasel, sniveling Sidney Lassick, and Conrad Janis (as a discredited doctor who sews a monkey tongue in Sonny Boy's mouth). Also with Savina Gersak. All of the actors are excellent. Not just a sick exploitation movie, Sonny Boy has many inspired, funny, and surprising moments. Even the simple desert set is great and could have been inspired by old Krazy Kat comics. There's a trailer in a junkyard with a guard tower and a pyramid filled with stolen goods. Papa is also a surreal artist and enjoys blowing up cops with a cannon. Carradine also sings the title song. Screenwriter Whifler also made Residents videos.

SON OF ALI BABA

(MCA, 1952) D: Kurt Neumann S: Gerald Drayson Adams P: Leonard Goldstein

Tony Curtis is Ali Baba's son Kashma, and Piper Laurie is the Princess Azura. The adventures concern the Forty Thieves, the treasure, and of course, characters say "Open Sesame." With Susan Cabot, Hugh O'Brian as the evil Hussein, Victor Jory, Gerald Mohr, and Morris Ankrum. It was a color followup to The Prince Who Was a Thief, also with Curtis and Laurie, who were just doing what Universal ordered.

SON OF DARKNESS: TO DIE FOR II

(Vidmark, 1991) D: David F. Price
S: Leslie King P: Richard Weinman

The same good/bad vampire brothers from To Die For return, this time in a northern California resort town. Michael Praed stars as a romantic, long-haired Romanian emergency room doctor (with a British accent) who calls himself "Max Schreck." He falls for a single mother (Rosalind Allen) with a baby (usually a very obvious doll) that cries a lot. Amanda Wyss and Steve Bond (the evil brother) return as vampires and Vince Edwards is a grim police lieutenant. It's a pretty boring sequel, but a NY Post article in 1992 claimed that a man in Milwaukee watched this movie on New Year's Eve and cut his girlfriend and tried to suck her blood. One World issued a soundtrack (by Mark McKenzie). Part 3 has been announced.

SON OF DRACULA

(VSOM, 1974) D: Freddie Francis S: Jay Fairbanks P/A: Ringo Starr (Count Downe)

The late Harry Nilsson proved that he was no actor by starring in this horror musical comedy as Dracula in modern times. He sings in a club, fights a wolfman, becomes a (cartoon) bat, falls in love (with Suzanna Leigh), and wants to become human. Freddie Jones is Dr. Frankenstein and Dennis Price is Van Helsing. Ringo (looking like he did in Magical Mystery Tour) is Merlin and he has a horror museum. Rock fans will want to see the band consisting of Peter Frampton, Keith Moon, John Bonham, and Klaus Voorman. Also with Shakira Baksh, Jenny Runacre, the dwarf (Skip Martin) from Masque of the Red Death, and a Nosferatu-look vampire. The Apple production was (barely) released in America by Jerry Gross's Cinemation. Apple released the soundtrack, featuring "Jump Into the Fire" and "Without You."

SON OF THE PINK PANTHER

(MGM, 1993) D/S: Blake Edwards S: Madeline and Steve Sunshine P: Tony Adams

Italian comedian Roberto Benigni stars as the illegitimate gendarme son of Inspector Clouseau in the eighth in the "series." With Debrah Farentino as a missing princess, Jennifer Edwards, and Robert Davi. Herbert Lom, Burt Kwouk, and Claudia Cardinale also return in the PG-rated MGM misfire slapstick movie.

SONS OF SATAN

(1968) D/S: Duccio Tessari S: Ennio Di Concini, Mario De Nardo P: Turi Vasile W. Germany/Italy/France (I Bastardi)

Rita Hayworth is the alcoholic mother of two criminal brothers (Klaus Kinski and Giuliani Gemma) who plan a jewelry store robbery in Arizona. They double-cross each other and it all ends in an earthquake. With Margaret Lee and Claudine Auger. Filmed in Madrid, Rome, and in America. Hayworth's next was The Naked Zoo.

SONS OF STEEL

(1988) D/S: Gary L. Keady
P: James Michael Vernon Australia

A rock singer called Black Alice (Bob Hartley) is the main character in the futuristic story of a race to stop a nuclear accident. It takes place in tunnels under "Oceana." With intentional humor and heavy metal music.

SORCERER

(MCA, 1977) D/P: William Friedkin
S: Walon Green M: Tangerine Dream

Few people went to see this expensive and long (122 minutes) 70mm remake of Clouzot's 1952 The Wages of Fear. It's not what they expected from The Exorcist's director, but it's a great-looking movie. The misleading title is the name of the truck, and the audience gets to see lots of in-your-face close-ups of its working parts. Roy Scheider stars with Bruno Cremer and Francisco Rabal. It was filmed in Mexico, Paris, Israel, and America and was released by Universal and Paramount together. The score on MCA also features some Charlie Parker.

SORCERESS

(Thorn EMI, 1982) D/S/P: "Brian Stewart"/Jack Hill

Twins Lynette and Leigh Anne Harris, disguised as men, go after the evil wizard who killed their parents. A muscleman, a Viking, and a satyr with horns help them. The twins bathe naked and experience each other's orgasms. This movie, which was made in Mexico, has silly-looking fighting gorillas, zombies, a winged lion, and other cheap wonders. The story was written by Jim Wynorski. The music is from Battle Beyond the Stars. It was one of Corman's last New World releases. He had it recut and Hill's name was removed and replaced by the first names of Corman's kids! The Harris twins (also in I, the Jury) were later indicted for income tax evasion involving the estate of their 87-year-old "sugar daddy." They were acquitted in 1991.

SORCERESS

(Triboro, 1994) D: Jim Wynorski S: Mark Thomas McGhee P: Fred Olen Ray

In this senseless erotic horror movie, a lawyer (Larry Poindexter) accidentally kills his wife (Julie Strain, who overdid it with the silicone), a witch.

Lynette and Leigh Anne Harris in Sorceress.

Meanwhile, Linda Blair (also a witch) helps her crippled lawyer husband (a zombie-like Edward Albert) and seeks revenge. She makes a woman named Carol (Rochelle Swanson) imagine herself in a lesbian three-way. Swanson is the real star and the main attraction in several hot sex scenes. This is typically filled with flashbacks, nightmares, dreams inside of dreams, and a shower scene. Also with Tony Naples, Kristina DuCati, Michael Parks (gardener), and William Marshall (runs law firm). R or unrated. Wynorski also wrote the unrelated 1982 movie of the same name.

SORORITY BABES IN THE SLIMEBALL BOWL-O-RAMA

(Tempe, 1987) D/P: David DeCoteau S: Sergei Hasenecz P: John Schouweiler (The Imp)

The "Imp," an awful rubbery puppet (with a clichéd soul voice inspired by the Little Shop of Horrors remake) escapes from a bowling trophy during a sorority initiation rite in a shopping mall. Day of the Dead–inspired events occur as three girls become killers (a dominatrix, a zombie, and a Bride of Frankenstein–like monster). A tough biker girl named Spider (Linnea Quigley) saves the day. The horror comedy with nude scenes also features Andras Jones, Michelle Bauer, Brinke Stevens, and George (Buck) Flower. The much cheaper Sorority Babes in the Dance-A-Thon of Death (Video Outlaw, 1992) claims to be a sequel.

SORORITY GIRLS AND THE CREATURE FROM HELL

(Complete, 1990) D/S/P: John McBrearty

Topless women and a 50s-look monster are featured in this 8mm horror comedy with Deborah Dutch, Len Lesser, Dori Courtney, and Vicki Darnell.

SORORITY HOUSE MASSACRE

(Warner, 1986) D/S: Carol Frank P: Ron Diamond

After Corman's Slumber Party Massacre, his Concorde presented more girls (and their boyfriends) being killed, this time copied directly from Halloween. Angela O'Neill stars as the co-ed with bad dreams and John C. Russell is her escaped psycho killer brother. With topless scenes, and lots of flashbacks and hallucinations to keep things interesting.

SORORITY HOUSE MASSACRE II

(New Horizons, 1990) D/P: "Arch Stanton"/Jim Wynorski S: J. B. Rogers, Bob Sheridan P: "Shelly Stoker"/Julie Corman (Nightie Nightmare)

A black-hooded killer with a hook stalks five girls trapped in a house. They (tall blonde Melissa Moore, the British Robin Harris, Bridget Carney, Stacia Zhivago, and Dana Bentley) take showers, dance topless, and scream. Moore becomes possessed. Cops who hang out at a strip club eventually show up, and Peter Spellos plays big menacing Orville Ketchum. Also with the late porn star Savannah dancing. The ridiculous Roger Corman/Concorde release features a long flashback from Slumber Party Massacre. The music is imitation Morricone ("Stanton" was the name on the tombstone in The Good, the Bad, and the Ugly). This was filmed back-to-back with Hard to Die. They both have the same basic plot, some of the same girls, the same flashbacks, the same cops, and Orville.

THE SORROWS OF SATAN

(Fright, 1926) D/P: D. W. Griffith S: Forrest Halsey

A writer in a boarding house (Ricardo Cortez) says, "I'd sell my soul for money," so Prince Lucio/Lucifer (Adolphe Menjou, in formal wear and top hat) arrives (while lightning flashes) to oblige. The slow-going silent has several worthwhile scenes. It opens with winged angels cast down to become black demons. The shadow of Lucio becoming a giant winged demon is very impressive. There's also an elaborate stage show with frolicking maidens and horned men. With Carol Dempster (in her last role) as the woman who loves the writer and Lya de Putti as the sexy Russian exile temptress Olga. The Paramount release (originally planned for Cecil B. DeMille) was filmed at studios in Astoria, Long Island. It's based on a novel by Marie Corelli that had already been filmed twice, in England and Denmark (by Carl Dreyer). Sorrows was not a hit and was considered "too gruesome" by critics of the day. The print is excellent and has a musical score.

SORRY, WRONG NUMBER

(Paramount, 1948) D/P: Anatole Litvak S: Lucille Fletcher P: Hal Wallis M: Frank Waxman

Barbara Stanwyck stars as a frantic (and unlikable) rich bedridden lady in her mansion, who accidentally overhears plans to kill her on the phone. Stanwyck was nominated for an Oscar in the suspense classic. Burt Lancaster is the husband who wants her money. With Wendell Corey, Ann Richards, Ed Begley, Leif Erickson, and William Conrad. The Paramount release is based on a radio drama by Fletcher that had starred Agnes Moorehead. The director's next was The Snake Pit. A USA cable TV remake (Paramount, 1989) starred Loni Anderson (who is no Barbara Stanwyck).

S.O.S. COAST GUARD

(Sinister, 1937) D: William Whitney, Alan James S: Morgan Cox, Ronald Davidson

Ralph Byrd is the hero in this 12-chapter Republic serial and Bela Lugosi is Boroff, a crazed munitions inventor. Boroff develops a disintegration gas and plans to sell it to a foreign power. With Richard Alexander and Maxine Doyle. It was also released as a feature (also available from Sinister).

SOUL HUSTLER

(Monterey, 1973) D/S/P: Burt Topper (The Day the Lord Got Busted)

Fabian stars as a guy with sideburns living in a van who smokes pot, takes reds, uses hookers, and shoots up. A tent preacher helps turn him into Matthew, "Son of Jesus," a singing evangelist who appeals to kids and soon has a hit record. After his Nam vet helper ODs, he hides out with Nai Bonet (from Nocturna). Also with a curly-haired Casey Kasem, Tony Russell, and Larry Bishop. Fabian sings at a large "Matthew" concert at the LA Forum. Collectors' warning: The Harley Hatcher soundtrack was released on MGM. Topper also directed the former teen idol in Fireball 500 (1966) and The Devil's Eight (1967), both for AIP.

SOUL MAN

(Starmaker, 1986) D: Steve Miner S: Carol Black P: Steve Tisch

C. Thomas Howell passes for black to earn a Harvard Law School scholarship in a comedy. He falls for Rae Dawn Chong (they later were married in real life for a while). James Earl Jones, Leslie Nielsen, Jeff Altman, James B. Sikking. and Julia Louis-Dreyfus are also in the silly comedy along with the president's son Ron Reagan Jr. A PG-13 New World release by the director of House and Warlock.

THE SOUL OF A MONSTER

(Sinister, 1944) D: Will Jason S: Edward Dein P: Ted Richmond

A woman prays for her dying doctor husband (George Macready). A mysterious devil worshiper hypnotist (Rose Hobart) saves him, then controls his life and uses him to kill. It's a great title for a mediocre Columbia release that copies Val Lewton's productions and runs about an hour.

THE SOUL OF NIGGER CHARLEY

(1973) D/S/P: Larry Spangler S: Harold Stone

In a sequel to The Legend of Nigger Charley, some ex-Confederates in Mexico hold former slaves captive. Fred Williamson returns with D'Urville Martin as Toby. They team with a Mexican bandit (Pedro Armendariz) to free them. With Denise Nicholas (Room 222), Nai Bonet, and Richard Farnsworth. By the director of The Life and Times of Xaviera Hollander. Lou Rawls is featured on the MGM soundtrack.

SOUL OF THE DEMON

(Far West, 1992) D/S/P: Charles Lang

Two teens dig up a gargoyle statue and unleash a demon during a séance just before a Halloween party. It has some good FX and gore and was made by a Las Vegas TV commercial director.

SOUL PATROL

(1980) D: Christopher Rowley P: Martin Wraggle S. Africa (Black Trash)

Nigel Davenport is a cop who teams with a black newspaper reporter (Ken Gampu) to investigate the deaths of several drug dealers. Peter Dyneley is also in the badly edited action movie.

SOUL SOLDIER

(New Pacific, 1970) D: John "Bud" Cardos S: Marlene Weed P: James M. Northern (Red, White and Black)

10th Calvary soldiers Robert DoQui and Rafer Johnson fight off Indians in Texas. They also fight over Janee Michelle. It was called the "first" black western but there were others in the 30s and 40s. With Cesar Romero and Barbara Hale as a couple at the fort and Robert Dix. It's a PG feature from Joe Solomon's Fanfare.

SOULTAKER

(AIP, 1990) D: Michael Rissi S/A: Vivian Schilling P: Eric Parkinson, Connie Kingrey

Martin Sheen's brother Joe Estevez plays the lovesick mystical title character in a long black coat. He can vanish at will and works for "the angel of death" (Robert Z'Dar with long hair). The sight of the cartoonish pair, both with heavy eye shadow, was too much for me. They resemble a moody rat man hanging out with Rondo Hatton's professional wrestler son. Anyway, the movie is about two teens, the mayor's daughter Natalie (writer Schilling), and her ex-boyfriend (Gregg Thomsen) who hangs out with a coke dealer. They die in a car crash, but continue to exist in a sort of half life. They have to get back to their bodies in time and the Soultaker wants to spend eternity with Natalie. Some interesting things happen, but this is a tame sort of romantic movie (when someone swears they say "frickin' "). Bullets can't kill Estevez, but he can be knocked out. One character exclaims: "Led Zeppelin was wrong, man! There is no stairway to Heaven!" Filmed in Mobile, Alabama.

SOULTANGLER

(1987) D/S/C: Pat Bishow S: Lance Laurie, John Bishow P: Paula Vlodkowsky

A long-haired mad doctor (Pierre Devaux) at "Whitewood Institute" narrates, then a lady reporter (Jane Kinser) narrates, then somebody else narrates. Yes, it's a very confusing movie, but it does have ambitious and effective FX. There's a living brain with eyes, a convincing bloody decapitation, a talking dummy, hallucinations, and running zombies. A hooded killer with a hammer kidnaps women for bloody experiments. The title song is by the Hypnolovewheel and the film clip is from Witchcraft Through the Ages. This was made in Commack, New York.

SOUL TO SOUL

(Videotakes, 1971) D: Dennis Sanders P: Richard Bock, Tom Mosk

American groups and singers travel to Africa and play at an all-night concert honoring the 14th anniversary of the independence of Ghana. With Wilson Pickett doing "Land of 1,000 Dances," Ike and Tina Turner, Santana, The Staple Singers, Les McCann, The Voices of East Harlem, and others. From Cinerama. Sanders made Invasion of the Bee Girls next.

SOUL VENGEANCE

(Xenon, 1975) D/S/P/M/E: Jamaa Fanaka (Welcome Home Brother Charles)

Some people don't think this movie really exists. Here's proof. It starts with bizarre industrial music over the credits. Charles (Marlo Monte), a former drug dealer/pimp, is spending three years in the "slams." The plot is very confusing, but flashbacks, nightmares, and flashbacks inside of flashbacks try to explain things. One nightmare features hysterical laughter, banging pianos, and lots of photos of men in prison. A hateful corrupt white LA cop (who had caught his wife with a black man) sets up Charles, beats him in the police car, and attempts to castrate him with a razor. After he's released, a black woman works as a waitress to support him while he seduces, then kills, the wives of the people who had put him away. This sick, crazy time piece has platform shoes, afros, red jump suits, the Watts Tower, people shooting up, and topless dancers, all typical 70s elements, but there's more. Thanks to a mystical cellmate, Charles can mesmerize women with his magic growing dick. A doctor explains, "His penis had grown to frightening limits!" In the scene that will make viewers doubt their sanity, you see it grow and strangle somebody. Crown International, a name to remember, was the original releasing company. Fanaka (the black Ed Wood Jr.?) went on to make the only slightly less warped Penitentiary films.

SOUTH BEACH

(Prism, 1992) D/P/A: Fred Williamson S: Michael Montgomery

Williamson assembled his most impressive cast for this one. He's Mac Derringer, a Miami P.I. (and ex-football star) who is teamed with either Gary Busey (partner) or a ponytailed Peter Fonda (bar owner friend). It's almost comical the way the action shifts from Busey to Fonda and how they almost, but never quite appear in the same scene together. It was strange to see Busey in this the same week as The Firm and nice to see Fonda doing something. The rambling plot concerns a masked killer and black-mail with porno pictures. Vanity has little to do as Mac's ex, a phone sex worker. All the women want the cigar-smoking star (of course), but his one breast-kissing sex scene is with an unknown (white) woman. Also with Robert Forster as a cop friend, Henry Silva (one scene) as a gangster, Stella Stevens, and Isabel Sanford (The Jeffersons) as Fred's mom! The ending is awful and there's a rapper informant.

SOUTH BRONX HEROES

(Dura Vision, 1985) D/S/P: William Szarka S: Don Schiffrin (The Runaways)

Mario Van Peebles is released from a Mexican jail and moves in with his teacher sister (Megan Van Peebles) in the Bronx. They help some white kids, victims of child abuse and porno. With Brendan Ward.

SOUTHERN COMFORT

(Goldwyn, 1981) D/S: Walter Hill S/P: David Giler S: Michael Kane

In the early 70s, National guard troops on maneuvers become stranded in Louisiana Cajun territory swamps. Some Cajun trappers that they had made fun of kill off the disorganized and unprepared men in a violent and horrifying Vietnam allegory. Keith Carradine and Powers Boothe stars with Fred Ward, Peter Coyote, T. K. Carter, and Lewis Smith. Brion James is memorable as a one-armed trapper and the Ry Cooder music is excellent.

THE SOUTHERN STAR

(1968) D: Sidney Hayers S: David Purcell, John Seddon P: Roger Duchet France/UK (L'Etoile du Sud)

This comic adventure about a diamond is set in 1912. It's based on a Jules Verne story and was filmed in Senegal. George Segal stars with Johnny Seka, Orson Welles as an alcoholic trader villain, and Ursula Andress as the daughter of a local dictator (Harry Andrews) with a pet ostrich. Also with Ian Hendry and Michel Constantin. French and English versions were filmed.

SOUTHWEST PASSAGE

(1954) D: Ray Nazarro S: Harry Essex, Geoffrey Homes P: Edward Small

Joanne Dru and Rod Cameron star in a 3-D Pathecolor story of bank robbers and when the U.S. Calvary used camels in the desert. The Indians think the camels are Gods. With whips and a 3-D decapitation scene! The cast includes John Dehner, Daryl Hickman, and Morris Ankrum. From United Artists. Essex also wrote the 3-D hits Creature from the Black Lagoon and It Came From Outer Space.

SO YOUNG, SO BAD

(1950) D/S: Bernard Vorhaus S: Jean Rouverol P: Edward and Harry Danziger

Paul Henreid is the new understanding psychiatrist at a girls' school with sadistic matrons. One

a.k.a. Soul Vengeance

girl is driven to suicide and the corrupt authorities try to have him discredited. It's a good early jd movie, complete with cat fights, and three of the four young female stars went on to greater fame. Anne Jackson, Anne Francis (as a young mother), Rita Moreno, and Enid Pulver are the main female jds. UA released it the same year as Warner's Caged.

SPACEBALLS

(MGM, 1987) D/S/P/A: Mel Brooks
S: Thomas Meehan, Ronny Graham

Brooks's movie parody is an obvious Star Wars spoof about the "power of the Schwartz." Daphne Zuniga stars as Princess Vespa and Bill Pullman is Lone Star. Brooks himself plays the President and Yugurt. With John Candy as a dog/man, Rick Moranis as Dark Helmet, Dick Van Patten, Michael Winslow, John Hurt (as himself), Deanna Booher, and the voice of Joan Rivers (as a robot). This PG feature and History of the World—Part I (1981) were the only movies Brooks directed in the 80s, but he executive produced others.

SPACECAMP

(Vestron, 1986) D: Harry Winer S: W.W. Wicket, Casey T. Mitchell P: Patrick Bailey

In an "uplifting" PG-rated teen science fiction movie, astronaut Kate Capshaw is showing a spaceship to some kids. It accidentally blasts off and they end up in outer space. With Lea Thompson (the same year as Howard the Duck), Kelly Preston, Leaf Phoenix, Tate Donovan, Tom Skerritt, Barry Primus, and Terry O'Quinn. From 20th Century.

SPACED INVADERS

(Touchstone, 1990) D/S: Patrick Read Johnson S: Scott Lawrence Alexander P: Luigi Cingolani (Martians!)

Five short comic aliens land on Halloween in a midwest town after hearing a rebroadcast of Orson Welles's War of the Worlds radio show on its 50th anniversary. One alien has a Jack Nicholson voice. The PG-rated Disney movie also features Douglas Barr and Royal Dano.

SPACED OUT

(Thorn EMI, 1979) D: Norman J. Warren S: Andrew Payne P: David Speechley UK (Outer Touch)

Alien women discover sex in a science fiction parody. With Glory Annen and Barry Stokes (both also in the director's Alien Prey) and Ava Cadell. Comic New York City voices were dubbed for the computer and jukebox for the Miramax US release. They also added some extra nudity.

SPACEFLIGHT

(1965) D: Bernard Knowles S: Harry Spalding P: Robert L. Lippert UK

In 2015, a spaceship with a full crew travels through space on the way to a colony. A woman kills herself and there's a mutiny. With Bill Williams as the maniacal captain and Kathleen Breck. The forgotten b/w feature from Lippert/20th Century is by the director of Frozen Alive (1964).

SPACEHUNTER: ADVENTURES IN THE FORBIDDEN ZONE

(Goodtimes, 1983) D: Lamont Johnson S: David Preston, Edith Rey, Dan Goldberg, Len Blum P: Don Carmody, Andre Link, John Dunning Canada

Captain Wolff (Peter Strauss) is stuck with a bratty tomboy named Nikki (Molly Ringwald) on a plague-ridden planet. He's searching for three women kidnapped by Overdog (Michael Ironside), a mutant cyborg. The PG Columbia movie was one of several early 80s 3-D science fiction releases. With Ernie Hudson and Andrea Marcovicci. Elmer Bernstein wrote the scrore. Ivan Reitman was the executive producer. The original director, Jean LaFleur (Ilsa, the Tigress of Siberia), was replaced. Partially filmed in Canada and Utah.

SPACE IS THE PLACE

(Rhapsody, 1974) D: John Coney S: Joshua Smith P: Jim Newman

Sun Ra (in his ancient-Egyptian-look clothes) lands in a spaceship in Oakland to "plan for the salvation of the black race." The "black youth of planet Earth" laugh at him, but soon realize that "the dude's got a tight rap." This high quality 63-minute movie is serious, surreal, funny (on purpose), and partially autobiographical. Ra/Sonny Ray is seen in 1943 at a club in Chicago, where he causes a riot (!) by playing discordant notes on the piano. Singer June Tyson is featured chanting in musical segments. It was made at a time when Ra was on the cover of Rolling Stone and had a new LP out on Blue Thumb (both are shown) and has excellent editing and color. Repeat: "It's the end of the world. Don't you know that?"

SPACEMAN IN KING ARTHUR'S COURT

(1979) D: Russ Mayberry S: Don Tait P: Ron Miller (Unidentified Flying Oddball)

A scientist astronaut (Dennis Dugan) and his look-alike robot go through a time warp and end up in sixth-century England. With Jim Dale, Ron Moody, and Kenneth More. The Mark Twain Connecticut Yankee . . . update is from Disney.

SPACE MUTINY

(AIP, 1987) D/P: David Winters S: Maria Dante

A musclebound hero called Ryder (Reb Brown) helps spaceship commander Cameron Mitchell (in a bushy white beard!) and his blond miniskirted daughter (Cissy Cameron). A mutiny is led by the security force (John Phillip Law and James Ryan). Law laughs hysterically and rides around in vehicles that resemble modified golf carts. Ryan is a crippled killer. If the disco scene (with hula hoops) or the telepathic alien women dancing in bathing suits don't have you laughing, just concentrate on Cissy, Mitchell's real-life daughter. She's not only too old for the role, her acting makes everyone else in the cast seem like surefire Oscar material! The familiar-looking space footage is all from Battlestar Galactica and the interiors look just like a warehouse. It was shot in South Africa.

SPACE: 1999

(J2 series, 1975–77)
S/P: Gerry and Sylvia Anderson UK

This was the second live-action series (after UFO) by the creators of Super Marionation. Martin Landau and (his then wife) Barbara Bain star on Moonbase Alpha. It was the most expensive sci-fi series ever produced at the time and Rudi Gernreich designed the unisex uniforms. Four one hour-episodes of the 48-episode series are available. Guests on the tapes include Richard Johnson and Christopher Lee. Barry Morse and Catherine Schell as an alien woman are other regulars. A feature-length episode Space: 1999—Journey Through the Black Sun (IVE) is hosted by Sybil Danning. Gerry Anderson later created the Space Precinct show (1994).

SPACE PATROL

(Rhino series, 1951–55)

This crude early kids' science fiction show (originally on ABC) is set in the 30th century. Ed Kemmer stars as Commander Buzz Corey, Lyn Osborn is Cadet Happy, and Virginia Hewitt is Carol. Also with Bela Kovacs as Prince Baccarratti and Marvin Miller as the evil Proteus. Rhino has three 90-minute volumes of 3 episodes each and Sinister offers 15 volumes, each with 2 episodes and original commercials. One live episode was reportedly shot in 3-D.

SPACE RAGE

(Vestron, 1985) D: Conrad E. Palmisano S: Jim Lenahan P: Morton Reed

John Laughlin is a bounty hunter and Michael Paré is the villain Grange in a futuristic sci-fi western prison planet movie. With Richard Farnworth as an ex-LA cop hero on another planet, Lee Purcell, and William Windom. It has a rock soundtrack.

SPACE RAIDERS

(Warner, 1983) D/S: Howard R. Cohen P: Roger Corman (Star Child)

A 10-year-old child is a stowaway and there's an alien on a space ship. Vince Edwards is the name star. Also with Luca Bercovici and Dick Miller as Crazy Mel. Concorde released the PG feature that uses footage and music from Battle Beyond the Stars.

SPACE RANGERS

(Cabin Fever, 1993)

There are 3 100-minute tapes available of this CBS series, which tried to compete with several Star Trek series. Jeff Kaake stars as the leader of futuristic space troubleshooters. With an alien sidekick (Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa), Linda Hunt, Marjorie Monaghan, Jack McGhee, and Clint Howard.

SPACE PARTS

(Vidmark, 1983) D/S/P: Rainer Erler
W. Germany (Flesh)

A woman (Jutta Speidel) investigates when her husband is kidnapped by an ambulance. The Coma-type black market organ plot is set in New York and New Mexico. It's based on a novel by the director and sounds similar to the later movie The Ambulance.

SPACE THING

(SW, 1968) D/P: "B. Ron Elliott"/Byron Mabe
S: "Cosmo Politan" P: David F. Friedman

A guy who ignores his wife and reads science fiction magazines in bed dreams he's a space hero (with a goatee) in the future. He takes invisibility pills and narrates ("The male Terranean was kissing and licking . . ."). After several sex scenes (one with lesbians and whips), the ship lands and he keeps his gold lamé pants on during sex in the desert (outside Bronson Canyon). He blows up the ship at the end. The cheapest possible effects are used (toy spaceship, bar stools for seats), microphone shadows are visible, and the makeup is incredible. The lady captain of the Terraneans looks great. The (fake) credits are on nude body parts. Elliott also directed The Acid Eaters and other David F. Friedman productions.

SPACE VAMPIRES = ASTRO ZOMBIES

SPARROWS

(Sinister, 1926) D: William Beaudine
S: C. Gardner Sullivan

Gustav Von Seyffertitz is the evil farmer Grimes who uses orphan kids for slave labor. Ten of them, led by the oldest (Mary Pickford), escape through the quicksand and an alligator-filled Louisiana swamp. The tape runs 84 minutes and has a music score. It's considered the classic in the long career of Beaudine, who directed so many B movies (all the way up until the mid 60s). From UA.

SPASMO

(VSOM, 1974) D/S: Umberto Lenzi
S: Massimo Franciosa, Luisa Montagnana
P: Ugo Tucci M: Ennio Morricone Italy

This confusing mystery set in a deserted chateau concerns an assassin in a drive-a-brother-insane scheme. Suzy Kendall, Robert Hoffman, and Ivan Rassimov star. It's rumored that George Romero shot ten minutes of additional (violence) footage for the US release.

SPASMS

(HBO, 1981) D: William Fruet S: Don Enright P: John G. Pozhke, Maurice Smith M: Tangerine Dream Canada (Death Bite)

Oliver Reed is a big game hunter who has a telepathic link to a snake. The devil snake grows to giant size and its bite causes victims in a college town to puff up and die. Peter Fonda is a parapsychologist and Al Waxman is the villain. It has some good death scenes, thanks to makeup by Dick Smith, and a mechanical snake. Based on a novel by Michael Maryk and Brent Monahan.

SPEAK OF THE DEVIL

(AIP, 1991) D/S/P: Raphael Nussbaum S: Bob Craft

A corrupt southern evangelist couple (Robert Elarton and Jean Miller) are run out of town. They flee to Hollywood, move into a haunted house with a devil inside, and become satanists. The exorcist is a rabbi. With George "Buck" Flower.

SPECIAL BULLETIN

(Lorimar, 1983) D/P: Edward Zwick
S/P: Marshall Herskovitz

Protesters threaten to destroy Charleston, SC unless the nuclear warheads stored there are deactivated. It's all presented as if being reported on a real newscast. When first shown on NBC, this taped feature was accompanied by disclaimers so viewers wouldn't think it was really happening (like when Orson Welles broadcast his War of the Worlds). With Ed Flanders, Kathryn Walker, Roxanne Hart, Christopher Allport, and Rosalind Cash.

SPECIAL DELIVERY

(Vestron, 1976) D: Paul Wendkos
S: Don Gazzaniga P: Richard Berg

Bo Svenson is a Nam vet and Cybill Shepherd is an artist in a comic bank robbery movie. With Tom Atkins, Gerrit Graham, Jeff Goldblum, Sorrell Brooke, Robert Ito, and Vic Tayback. The PG-rated AIP release was a Bing Crosby production.

SPECIAL EFFECTS

(Nelson, 1984) D/S: Larry Cohen P: Paul Kurta

Eric Bogosian (Talk Radio), in his first major role, is a famous New York director whose last feature was a flop. He films himself actually killing a would-be actress (Zoe Tamerlis) and arranges to have her husband (Brad Rijn) from Oklahoma blamed for the killing, and acts in his docudrama about the case. His new feature will center on the real "snuff" footage. Special Effects borrows from Peeping Tom, Paris, Texas, and Vertigo (Tamerlis, from Ms. 45, plays two roles). The director, a conspiracy fanatic (as is Cohen) is seen watching the Zapruder footage over and over. Also with Kevin O'Connor and Bill Oland. Rijn was also in Cohen's Perfect Strangers. Both low-budget features are among Cohen's best.

THE SPECIALIST

(Vid America, 1975) D: Hikmet Avedis
S/P/A: Marlene Schmidt

Ahna Capri (from Enter the Dragon) stars as a killer for hire. She also has topless scenes in the R-rated Crown International release. With John Anderson, Adam West as a lawyer, and Alvy Moore. The director and producer were married. They made Dr. Minx the same year.

THE SPECIALIST

(Warners, 1994) D: Luis Llosa S: Alexander Seros P: Jerry Weintraub M: John Barry

After Speed and Blown Away, we got more bombs in this adaptation of novels by John Shirley. Sylvester Stallone is mumbling ex-CIA assassin and explosives expert Ray Quick. Sharon Stone wants to hire him to kill gangsters who killed her family (seen in flashbacks). James Woods is the former CIA partner gone bad. Scenes were cut and some were reshot so Stallone's role would be more important. With overacting Rod Steiger and Eric Roberts as father and son Cuban drug runners in Miami.

THE SPECKLED BAND

(Foothill, 1931) D: Jack Raymond
S: W. P. Lipscomb P: Herbert Wilcox UK

Raymond Massey (making his screen debut) stars as a modern-day Sherlock Holmes in a version of a story that had been a popular London play concerning poisonous snake bites. Holmes uses intercoms and an automated filing system. With Athole Stewart as Watson. It was the second sound Holmes movie, after The Return of Sherlock Holmes (1929). The Canadian Massey was in The Old Dark House the next year.

SPECTERS

(Lightning, 1987) D/S: Marcello Avallone
S/P: Maurizio Tedesco, Andrea Purgatori, Dardano Sarchetti Italy (Spettri)

With a plot inspired by the excellent Quatermass and the Pit, archeologists (led by Donald Pleasence) dig in an ancient vault in Rome. Work on a subway interferes and a monster (shown for about two seconds) is unleashed. There's a Nightmare on Elm Street bed scene rip-off, and one good part in an otherwise boring movie (that was made for TV). Filmmakers are shown making a remake of Creature from the Black Lagoon.

SPEED

(Fox, 1994) D: Jan DeBont
S: Graham Yost P: Mark Gordon

In a very exciting nonstop 115-minute-long summer action hit, three disasters occur: in a highrise on an elevator, on a Santa Monica bus wired to explode, and on the then-new LA subway. Keanu Reeves stars as LA SWAT team hero cop Jack Traven, and Dennis Hopper is a crazed ex-cop terrorist (who gets decapitated). Sandra Bullock drives the speeding bus, and Jeff Daniels is the cop partner. Also with Joe Morton. The Dutch director was the cinematographer of Paul Verhoeven movies, Die Hard, and Lethal Weapon 3. The Fox soundtrack features songs about vehicles including Gary Numan's "Cars." I'm not one to blame any real-life events on movies, but within a year of this, Blown Away, and The Specialist, all major 1994 releases about terrorist bombings, Oklahoma City happened. A sequel is planned.

THE SPEED LOVERS

(SW, 1968) D/S/P/A: William McGaha
S: Elaine Wilkerson, Fred Tuch

This stock-car-racing drama, filmed at various real tracks around the country, includes dream sequences and split-screen scenes. Racing champ Fred Lorenzen plays himself and the title theme is by rockabilly singer Billy Lee Riley. Johnny Legend presents the video release. McGaha also made a nudie comedy, Bad Girls for the Boys (1966).

SPEED ZONE!

(Media, 1989) D: Jim Drake S: Michael Short P: Murray Shostak US/Canada

It's actually Cannonball Run III, but the name was changed. It's a sad thing to see former SCTV stars in a dumb illegal race comedy that spoofs dumb illegal race comedies. John Candy stars with Joe Flaherty and Eugene Levy, and Peter Boyle is the sheriff. Also with Donna Dixon, Brooke Shields, Melody Anderson, Shari Belafonte, Tim Matheson, the Smothers Brothers, Jamie Farr (from the other Cannonball movies), Lee Van Cleef (wasted in his last role), Art Hindle, Carl Lewis, Matt Frewer, and Michael Spinks. The Raymond Chow presentation was one of the most expensive movies ever made in Canada.

SPELLBINDER

(Fox, 1988) D: Janet Greek S: Trace Torme P: Joe Wizan, Brian Russell

Timothy Daly stars as an LA lawyer whose new girlfriend (Kelly Preston) is a witch. She's trying to escape from an occult group led by Anthony Crivello that wants to use her for a sacrifice. The MGM release reuses some Fatal Attraction ideas. With Rick Rossovich and Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa.

SPELLBOUND

(Sinister, 1940) D: John Harlow
S: Miles Matheson P: R. Murray-Leslie
UK (Spell of Amy Nugent; Passing Clouds)

A spiritualist materializes a man's dead fiancé (Diana King). Apparitions are seen, and a woman is possessed. Derek Farr stars with Vera Lindsay and Hay Petrie. PRC released the 63-minute feature in America in 1945.

SPELLBOUND

(Key, 1945) D: Alfred Hitchcock S: Ben Hecht, Angus MacPhail P: David O. Selznick M: Miklos Rozsa

Gregory Peck is an amnesiac doctor who has spells whenever he sees dark lines against a white background. Ingrid Bergman is his psychiatrist in the Freudian murder mystery, based on a novel by Francis Beeding. It was nominated for many Oscars. This has the famous Salvador Dalí dream sequence, and a gunblast is seen in red Technicolor for two frames, a startling near-subliminal effect. The soundtrack (originally released on a 10-inch record) includes a theremin, another innovation. With Rhonda Fleming, John Emery, Leo G. Carroll, Michael Chekhov, Wallace Ford, and Regis Toomey. Hitchcock gets off an elevator in a hotel.

SPELLCASTER

(Columbia, 1986) D: Rafal Zielinski S: Dennis Paoli, Charles Bogel P: Roberto Besi

When it was released (in 1993), the box said "the Rocky Horror of the 90s!" There really should be a law. Some kids win a contest and get to go on a treasure hunt in a castle outside Rome. It's hosted by an obnoxious, alcoholic singing star. Adam Ant shows up as Diablo and Tracy Lin is in the cast. There's a killer chair, a zombie attack, and for humor, a guy called "Fatso" turns into a pizza and there's an anti-Cleveland joke. From a story by Ed Naha and with more mediocre John Buechler FX. Made in Italy by the director of Screwballs and Valet Girls.

THE SPHINX

(Sinister, 1933) D: Phil Rosen S: Robert E. DeMond

Lionel Atwill stars as a killer who is put on trial, but is acquitted because he proves he's a deaf-mute (a witness had heard the killer speak). The trick is, he's really two twin brothers. With Sheila Terry, Theodore Newton as a New York City newspaper man, plus comic relief from a dumb detective and a janitor. Monogram also remade the just over one-hour-long feature as The Phantom Killer (1942).

THE SPIDERS

(Kino Int., 1919) D/S: Fritz Lang P: Erich Pommer Germany (Die Spinnen)

This is the earliest surviving Lang feature and was once thought to be lost. A serial with 4 feature-length parts was planned, but only 2 were filmed ("The Golden Sea" and "The Diamond Ship"). Carl de Vogt stars as Kay Hoog, an American sportsman in the Andes. Ressel Orla is Lio Sha, leader of the Spiders gang, after an Inca treasure, and Lil Dagover is a priestess. It features Chinese villains on the Falkland Islands, pre-Mabuse gangsters, lost civilizations, and human sacrifices. A restored (but not complete) 137-minute version with an organ score and color tinting was shown in America in 1979 and is on tape.

SPIDERS VENOM = THE LEGEND OF BLOOD FOREST

SPIES

(Kino, 1928) D: Fritz Lang S: Thea Von Harbou P: Erich Pommer Germany (Spione)

Lang's first feature after the epic Metropolis stars Rudolf Klein-Rogge as the wheelchair-bound international spymaster Haghai. His plot against England includes Japanese and Russian agents. Sonja (Gerda Maurus) and government agent #326 (Willy Fritsch) are teamed to defeat him. Haghai ends his life on stage as Nemo the clown. MGM released it in America with a music score. The 88-minute Kino version has an organ score by Gaylord Carter. This historical feature once ran as long as 130 minutes. The same stars (minus Klein-Rogge) returned in Woman in the Moon (1929). Both films were produced by Lang's own company.

SPIES LIKE US

(Warner, 1985) D: John Landis
S: Dan Aykroyd, Lowell Ganz, Babaloo Mandel P: Brian Grazer, George Folsey

Chevy Chase and Dan Aykroyd are comic CIA recruits in a flop comedy patterned after Bob Hope (who appears here) and Bing Crosby road movies. With Steve Forrest, Donna Dixon, Bruce Davison, Bernie Casey, William Prince, and Vanessa Angel. Lots of directors and behind-the-scenes talents show up for bit parts, including Terry Gilliam, Sam Raimi, Ray Harryhausen, Joel Coen, Frank Oz, and Michael Apted.

SPIKE OF BENSONHURST

(Virgin, 1987) D/S: Paul Morrissey S: Alan Bowne P: David Weisman, Nelson Lyon

Sasha Mitchell (later a martial arts movie regular) is a Brooklyn mobster's son who wants to be a boxer in this Mafia comedy. With Ernest Borgnine as a mobster who sells drugs and runs bootleg video stores, Rick Aviles, Talisa Soto, and Sylvia Miles. The music is by Coati Mundi of Kid Creole and the Coconuts.

SPIRITISM

(Sinister, 1961) D: Benito Alazraki S: Raphael Garcia Travesi P: Guillermo Calderon Mexico (Espiritismo)

A mother (Carmen Gonzalez) gets three wishes in a Monkey's Paw–derived horror movie. Satan helps with her mortgage but she also wishes her son were still alive. K. Gordon Murray imported it. AIP released it to TV.

SPIRIT OF '76

(RCA, 1990) D/S: Lucas Reiner P: Susie Landau

David Cassidy, Olivia D'Abo, and Geoff Hoyle enter a time machine in 2176 planning to return to 1776 and find out what the American Constitution was. They end up in 1976 instead. This simple but great idea lets the director throw in every lame 70s fad and cliché, and the results are often hilarious. Jeff and Steve McDonald (of the group Red Kross and Desperate Teenage Love Dolls) become the guides for the confused visitors from the future. Eight-track tapes, Grand Funk, disco, gas lines, smile buttons, and Constitution shirts all have to be explained. With Leif Garrett as "Eddie Trojan, the Bone Master," the Kipper Kids as comic CIA men, Iron Eyes Cody, Tommy Chong, Julie Brown, and Moon Zappa. Spirit was a real family affair. Director Lucas Reiner is the son of Rob (who plays a self-help seminar leader) and the grandson of Carl (who plays a sick old man visited by members of Devo in the prologue). Producer Landau is the daughter of Barbara Bain, who is also in Spirit of '76. Roman Coppola was the executive producer. Lots of 70s music is on the soundtrack along with some new music by Red Kross and the Dickies.

SPIRIT OF THE BEEHIVE

(C.D., 1973) D/S: Victor Erice P: Elias Querejeta
Spain (El Espíritu de la Colmena)

A lonely little girl (Teresa Gimpera) sees the 1931 Frankenstein in a Spanish village in 1943. She and her sister decide the character is real and search for the monster (actually a police fugitive). With subtitles.

SPIRITS

(Vidmark, 1990) D: Fred Olen Ray
S: Jeff Falls, R.V. King P: Lee Lankford

A team of investigators (led by Robert Quarry) go to a house once owned by a French occultist. A psychic (Brinke Stevens) hears distorted groans, and cartoonish-sounding voices of kids having sex. Eventually she becomes possessed, her eyes go white, and she pounds a nail into her hand. Meanwhile in a church, a priest (Erik Estrada) talks to an understanding nun (Carol Lynley) and worries about his lack of faith. Michelle Bauer (with a demon voice) seduces him in a dream and a guy in the house has succubus sex. A ghoul says, "Fuck you, father," but Estrada saves the day. Here are some other signs of a haunted house: a plywood door breaks, a hole in the basement changes dimensions, and a microphone shadow "mysteriously" appears.

SPIRITS OF THE DEAD = THE ASPHYX

SPLASH

(Touchstone, 1984) D: Ron Howard S: Lowell Ganz, Babaloo Mandel, Bruce Jay Friedman P: Brian Grazer

A mermaid (Daryl Hannah) surfaces at the Statue of Liberty one day. A flashback shows how she had saved a kid (played by Tom Hanks as a grownup) from drowning. The likable fantasy comedy was the first big (PG) hit for Disney's Touchstone Pictures. With John Candy as Hanks's brother, Eugene Levy as a scientist, Dody Goodman, Howard Morris, Shecky Greene, and Bobby DiCicco. Splash, Too (1988) was a Disney TV movie with only Goodman returning.

SPLATTER: ARCHITECTS OF FEAR

(North America, 1986) D: Peter Rowe
S: Janet Schacter Canada

It's a documentary behind-the-scenes look at the filming of an unreleased zombie wrestling-woman movie called Amazon Queens Versus the Mutants. It was shot on video and includes some sex and gore.

SPLATTER FARM

(Donna Michelle, 1987) D: P.Alan P: J. K. Farlew

You won't believe this regional shot-on-video obscurity. Teen twins (John and Mark Polonia) are sent to stay with their weird aunt (Marion Costly). Her young handyman Jeremy (Todd Rimatti) chops up people and keeps their body parts in the barn. There's lots of extreme amateur gore FX (using obvious dummies), but this has some male nudity, pissing, a sick nightmare toilet scene, and incest. The music is harpsichords and pianos. The twins resemble two young Robby Bensons and the aunt reminded me of Edith Massey (her acting is that good too). Mark Polonia (of Wellsboro, PA) also made Saurians, a super-8 feature with claymation dinosaurs in the mid-90s. Brother John stars.

SPLATTER UNIVERSITY

(Vestron, 1982) D/S/P/E: Richard Haines
S/P: John Michaels S: Michael Cunningham

This awful Troma release, set at a Catholic college, was filmed in 16mm by an NYU film school grad. R and unrated videos are available. Haines also made Class of Nuke 'Em High, which at least had a few dumb laughs.

THE SPLIT

(1968) D: Gordon Flemyng S: Robert Sabaroff
P: Irwin Winkler, Robert Chartoff

Jim Brown stars as McCain, a thief who plans to rob the LA Coliseum during a Rams football game. Julie Harris helps plan the job and Diahann Carroll is his ex-wife. It's similar to Kubrick's classic The Killing but is based on Donald E. (Point Blank) Westlake's novel. With Gene Hackman as a corrupt cop, Ernest Borgnine (the muscles), Jack Klugman (the driver), Warren Oates (the safecracker), and Donald Sutherland (the killer). Also with James Whitmore as the psycho killer landlord, who takes the loot, and Jackie Joseph.

SPLIT

(AIP, 1987) D/S/A/C/M/E: Chris Shaw
P/A: Barbara Horscraft

This odd science fiction movie is not a typical AIP video release. It has arty cinematography, computer graphics, and some excellent FX. A "stalker" (Timothy Dwight) who appears in various disguises is being monitored by evil men who believe he could become a Christ figure. It doesn't make a whole lot of sense and parts are downright irritating, but it has acid flashes, hallucination scenes, nightmares, some nudity, some Keystone Kops footage, and burning Pop Tarts. The title sequence is especially good.

SPLIT IMAGE

(Embassy, 1982) D/P: Ted Kotcheff
S: Scott Spencer Canada (Captured)

Michael O'Keefe is lured into a Moonie-like cult by a "home lander" (Karen Allen). James Woods is incredible as an obnoxious, manic deprogrammer, and Peter Fonda is the blissful cult leader. Elizabeth Ashley and Brian Dennehy are the concerned parents. Also with Lee Harcourt Montgomery and Michael Sacks. The Filmways/Orion release was filmed around Dallas. The director made First Blood next. Ticket to Heaven told a similar tale.

SPLIT SECOND

(RKO, 1953) D: Dick Powell S: William Bowers, Irving Wallace P: Edmund Garinger

Gangsters who have broken out of prison hold hostages in a Nevada atomic test area ghost town. At the end, people are trying to flee while the countdown occurs, an A-bomb blast literally tears the town apart, then they all walk away OK!!! Alexis Smith stars with Jan Sterling, Keith Andes, Arthur Hunnicut, and Richard Egan. The escaped cons are Stephen McNally, Frank DeKova, and Paul Kelly. Powell directed The Conqueror next, a movie with real-life atomic problems.

SPLIT SECOND

(HBO, 1991) D: Tony Maylam, Ian Sharpe
S: Gary Scott Thompson P: Laura Gregory UK

This boring, dull, misty science fiction movie is set in a flooded London in 2008. Rutger Hauer is Harley Stone, a disgusted cop who says fuck a lot, drinks coffee, smokes cigars, and is attuned to a serial killer creature. Neil Duncan is his new Oxford grad partner. The briefly-seen Chris Walas–created reptile monster rips out hearts and writes messages in blood. With Kim Cattrall in a nothing role, Michael J. Pollard as a rat catcher, and Ian Dury as a doorman. Sharpe directed the tube station climax. Cab Calloway and the Moody Blues ("Nights in White Satin") are on the soundtrack (which was issued by Milan). Maylam also made The Burning (1981).

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION

(Media, 1989) D/S: Tobe Hooper S: Howard Goldberg P: Jim Rogers, Jerrold W. Lambert

A nice couple is used in a 1955 H-bomb experiment. A baby is conceived after the blast. Years later, the troubled, grown up, and divorced son is Brad Dourif. On his 35th birthday, people start to die because of his out-of-control mental powers. A German lady scientist tries to help. This movie has an intriguing start and some great fire FX, but the conspiracy plot makes very little sense. Fire comes over a phone, from mouths, and from a hole in an arm. With Jon Cypher, Cynthia Bain, William Prince, Melinda Dillon, Dey Young, Dick Butkus, John Landis as a burn victim at a radio station, and the voice of George "Buck" Flower.

SPOOKIES

(Sony, 1986) D/S/P: Eugenie Joseph D/S: Thomas Doran, Brendan Faulkner P: Frank M. Farel

Twisted Souls (1984) was an unreleased horror comedy filmed in upstate New York by Doran and Faulkner. Others added new framing scenes to make this confusing but fun feature. It has lots of FX, some very impressive and some pretty mediocre. A German sorcerer in an old mansion wants to revive his bride and his geek assistant thinks he's a cat. There's a possessed kid, an Ouija board, monsters, zombies, and the Grim Reaper. Jimmy Muro operated the steadicam.

SPOOKS A-POPPIN

(Cinemanure, 1992) D/S/P: Jim Ridenouer

This unique historical tape features many rare vintage spook show trailers and film clips, interviews with Don Davison, Dr. Houston, Phillip Morris (later owner of a very successful mask/costume business), and (a very old) Raymond showing his collection in his trailer. The brother of spook show king Jack Baker is seen on stage doing a show, and the A-Bones provide the instrumental theme. The editing and the interview camerawork are amateur at best, and the many wonderful rare posters are hard to see, but this is a labor-of-love project and is a must for fans of live Spook Shows, which flourished in this country from the depression through the 50s and lingered on until the early 70s. The Vampire's Coffin/Robot vs. the Aztec Mummy trailer in "Hypnoscope" is a personal fave.

THE SPOOK WHO SAT BY THE DOOR

(Video City, 1973) D/P: Ivan Dixon S/P: Sam Greenlee S: Marvin Clay M: Herbie Hancock

The only black CIA agent (Lawrence Cook) has enough of being treated badly, so he organizes teens and leads a full-scale revolution against the government! Riots occur around the country and the president declares a state of emergency. Paula Kelly costars. The United Artists release is based on a novel by Greenlee. Dixon, formerly of Hogan's Heroes and one of the few black directors of 70s black action movies, also made Trouble Man (1972).

THE SPORTING CLUB

(Nelson, 1971) D: Larry Peerce
S: Lorenzo Semple Jr. P: Lee M. Rich

This much hated (by critics) movie has young members of a hunting club in Michigan going on a violent rampage. They use drugs and go after rich women. It's based on a novel by Thomas McGuane. Robert Fields stars with Nicholas Coster, Jack Warden, William Roerick, Logan Ramsey and his wife Anne Ramsey, and a young pre-Exorcist Linda Blair. Avco Embassy cut out an orgy scene. The Buddah soundtrack featured cuts by Jerry Lee Lewis and others.

SPRING BREAK

(RCA, 1983) D/P: Sean S. Cunningham
S: David Smilow

Teens go to Fort Lauderdale again. With Perry Lang, Corinne Alphen (Wahl), the 1982 Penthouse Pet of the Year, who leads an all female band, Richard B. Shull, Sheila Kennedy (also from Penthouse), and David Knell. With lots of wet T-shirts and Miller beer plugs. It was Cunningham's first after A Stranger Is Watching. From Columbia.

SPY MAKER: THE SECRET LIFE OF IAN FLEMING

(Turner, 1990) D: Ferdinand Fairfax S: Robert Aurech
P: Aida Young UK (The Secret Life of Ian Fleming)

Sean Connery's son Jason Connery stars as James Bond creator Ian Fleming. He's seen as a reporter and a WWII spy. Most of it isn't based on fact, and it's filled with Bond in-jokes. With Kristin Scott Thomas, David Warner, Joss Ackland, Fiona Fullerton, and Richard Johnson. The tape is longer than the TNT cable TV version.

SPY SMASHER

(Stokey, 1942) D: William Witney S: Ronald Davidson, Norman S. Hall, William Lively

Kane Richmond stars as a costumed WWII hero in a 12-chapter Republic serial. It's based on the character in Whiz Comics. He has a bat plane and a TV for spying. With Hans Schumm as "The Mask," Marguerite Chapman, Sam Flint, and Tristram Coffin. Spy Smasher Returns was an edited 60s feature version.

THE SQUEAKER

(Sinister, 1937) D: William K. Howard
S: Bryan Edgar Wallace, Edward O. Berkman
UK (Murder on Diamond Row)

Edmund Lowe stars as a disgraced inspector, out to catch a jewel thief called the Squeaker. With Ann Todd, Alastair Sim, and Robert Newton. It's a high-class Korda production with music by Miklos Rozsa. Edgar Wallace's novel The Squeaker had already been filmed twice—in England (1930) and Germany (1931). A fourth version was made in 1963.

THE SQUEAKER

(Sinister, 1963) D: Alfred Vohrer
S: H. B. Peterson W. Germany (Der Zinker)

Heinz Drache stars as Inspector Elford in a mystery about diamond robberies. With Barbara Rutting and Klaus Kinski as Tierpfleger Krischna. It's one of the many sixties Edgar Wallace/Scotland Yard mysteries that used to show up late nights on American TV.

THE SQUEEZE: See THE RIP OFF

SQUEEZE PLAY!

(1979) D/P: Michael Herz,
"Samuel Weil"/Lloyd Kaufman

The first Troma hit is a suburban sex and baseball comedy with low humor. With Jennifer Hetrick, Al Corley (later on Dynasty), and Jim Metzger. Elizabeth Kaitan is the model on the poster. The small New York company made Waitress! next.

S.S. EXPERIMENT (LOVE CAMP)

(Wizard, 1976) D/S: Sergio Garrone
S: Vinicio Marinucci P: Mario Caporali
Italy (Lager SSadis Kastrat Kommandantur; Captive Women II)

A number of sleazy Italian movies like this were released to cash in on the success of the first Ilsa movie. Garone made several. This one is a flashback-filled feature with the castration of a Nazi prison officer, who then has a penis transplant. Sex and torture scenes make up much of the time. An uncut version has Spanish subtitles.

S.S. EXPERIMENTS, PART II: See S.S. HELL CAMP

S.S. GIRLS

(Media, 1976) D/S: "Jordan B. Mathews"/Bruno Mattei
S: Giacinto Bonacquisti Italy (Casa Privata Per Le SS)

More of the dregs of the exploitation business. It's about a Nazi whorehouse at the end of the war and has the usual nudity and violence. With Alan Collins. Mattei also made S.S. Extermination Camp (1977).

S.S. HELL CAMP

(Video City, 1976) D: "Ivan Katansky"/
Paolo Solvay Italy (The Beast in Heat; Nazi Holocaust; S.S. Experiments II)

Scientists create a Neanderthal man/rapist (played by Ook from Frankenstein's Castle of Freaks). This one has lots of nudity, torture, sickness, and an Ilsa-type torturer. It's all mixed with war footage about the Italian underground. With Brad Harris as an Italian partisan and Brigette Skay (Bay of Blood). By the director of Devil's Wedding Night and Desert Tigers.

STACEY!

(Video Gems, 1971) D/S: Andy Sidaris
S: Leon Mirell (Stacey and Her Gangbusters)

Sidaris was a director for ABC sports who made The Racing Scene (1970), a documentary, then this, his first fictional feature. Playboy centerfold Anne Randall stars as a sexy private eye investigating a Moonie-type cult. With Anitra Ford, Christina Raines (aka Tina Herazo), James Westmoreland, Miki Garcia (also from Playboy), and John Alderman. New World released the sex and violence movie in 1973. Sidaris made Seven next. Malibu Express was his remake of Stacey!

STAGE FRIGHT

(Warner, 1949) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock
S: Whitfield Cook UK

A Royal Academy drama student (Jane Wyman) helps a man (Richard Todd) who has been accused of murdering the husband of a musical stage star (Marlene Dietrich). Michael Wilding is a Scotland Yard detective. It was filmed in England with a cast including Alastair Sim, Dame Sybil Thorndike, Kay Walsh, and Patricia Hitchcock. The Warner release is based on characters created by Selwyn

Anne Randall is Stacey!

Jepson. The director is seen staring at Wyman on the street. It was released the year she divorced Ronald Reagan.

STAGE FRIGHT

(Vid America, 1982) D/P: John Lamond
S/P: Colin Eggleston Australia (Nightmares)

A stage actress (Jenny Neumann from Mistress of the Apes) had caused the death of her mother 20 years earlier. The killing resumes during production of an arty play as actors are slashed with glass. With nudity and blood.

STAGEFRIGHT

(Imperial, 1987) D: Michele Soavi S: Luigi Montefiore P: Aristede Massaccesi M: Simon Boswell Italy (Deliria; Bloody Bird)

An owl-masked actor from an asylum kills off the cast members of an arty murder musical. The cast is locked in for the night. The killer uses a drill, a chainsaw, an ax, and knives, and most of the characters are very mean. With David Brandon, Barbara Cupisti, and John Morghen. The screenwriter is actor "George Eastman." Aquarius released it in America. This movie seems to be a rival to Dario Argento's very similar (but much better) Terror at the Opera from the same year.

STAGE TO THUNDER ROCK

(1964) D: William F. Claxton
S: Charles A. Wallace P: A. C. Lyles

Barry Sullivan stars as a sheriff who has to fight another officer for the reward money for a robber prisoner. With Marilyn Maxwell, Scott Brady, Keenan Wynn, John Agar, Lon Chaney Jr., Wanda Hendrix, and Robert Lowry. All of the westerns from producer Lyles had great B movie casts and cliché plots. From Paramount.

STAKEOUT!

(1962) D/S: James Landis P: Robert and William Hughes, Joe R. Gentile

An ex-con (Bing Russell) and his son (Billy Hughes) can't find work, so they kidnap a boy for ransom money. The b/w drama was filmed in Texas. Landis made his classic, The Sadist, next. From Crown International.

STALKER

(Fox Lorber, 1979) D/S: Andrei Tarkovsky
USSR/W. Germany

A man (Alexander Kaidanovsky) guides two others through "the zone." The long (140-minute) very serious science fiction feature is part b/w and part color. Tarkovsky made it after Solaris. Afterwards, he defected and made Nostalghia in Italy (1983).

STALKING DANGER

(Starmaker, 1986) D: William Friedkin
P: David Salvern M: Ennio Morricone

Joe Cortese, Jack Youngblood, and Steve W. James are a government counter-terrorist squad with futuristic weapons. It was a TV pilot for a projected series called C.A.T. Squad. With Patricia Charbonneau and Barry Corbin. The second pilot is on tape as Python Wolf.

THE STAND

(Republic, 1994) D: Mick Garris S: Stephen King P: Marshall Galin M: "Snuffy" Waldon (Stephen King's The Stand)

After a devastating virus escapes from a military installation, survivors either follow good (Ruby Dee as old Mother Abigail, who lives in a mystical cornfield) or evil (Jamey Sheridan as Flagg, who morphs into the devil). Eventually, the hand of God (!) appears in Las Vegas. Gary Sinise (as a Texan) and Adam Storke (as an NYC rock singer) are the hero stars. Miguel Ferrer, Matt Frewer, Laura San Giacomo, Corin Nemec, and Shawnee Smith are the main bad humans. Other good ones include Rob Lowe as a mute, Bill Fagerbakke as a retarded man, Ray Walston, Molly Ringwald, and Ossie Davis. Also with Ed Harris, Diane Ladd, Moses Gunn, and Joe Bob Briggs, plus cameos by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Kathy Bates, Tom Savini, and directors Sam Raimi and John Landis. King (also the executive producer) appears as a trucker. Most of it was shot in Salt Lake City. The incredible opening sequence is set to Blue Öyster Cult's "Don't Fear the Reaper." Waldon wrote the theme music to Roseanne. The Steve Johnson team handled the FX. Originally lasting 8(!) hours (with ads), the $25 million 4-part ABC ratings winner miniseries is based on King's 1978 novel. The double tape (6 hours) includes The Making of The Stand short. The Stand was once to be a theatrical feature directed by George Romero, then by John Boorman.

STAND ALONE

(Starmaker, 1984) D: Alan Beattie
S: Roy Carlson P: Leon Williams

A hero WWII vet (Charles Durning) does a Rambo in LA and fights bad Mexicans and drug dealers. With Pam Grier as a lawyer, James Keach as a cop, and Bert Remsen. A New World release by the director of The House Where Death Lives.

STAND BY ME

(RCA, 1986) D: Rob Reiner S/P: Bruce A. Evans, Raynold Gideon P: Andrew Scheinman

Some kids in Castle Rock, Oregon, in 1959 find a dead body. This was a big hit and it deserved to be. It's one of the best movies about being an innocent kid and the real and imagined horrors of growing up. And the tall-tale pie-eating scene is a gross-out classic. Wil Wheaton stars as the Stephen King substitute character and Richard Dreyfuss (as the grown-up writer) narrates. With River Phoenix, Corey Feldman, Jerry O'Connell, Kiefer Sutherland, Casey Siemaszko, Bradley Gregg, and Marshall Bell. It's based on and would have been known as "The Body," but because of a brilliant last-minute title change it's named after an unrelated song. Ben E. King's (1961) title song (only two years off) became a hit again and was used to sell many products. Stand by Me (from Columbia) started an irritating trend of naming movies after name-value old hits. Reiner went on to direct another superior King adaptation, Misery.

STAR CRYSTAL

(Starmaker, 1985) D/S: Lance Lindsay P: Eric Woster

In this dull Alien copy, a tentacled alien on board a space shuttle in the year 2032 kills crew members (ugly woman, black guy, blond bimbo—in that order). Characters spend a lot of time crawling on their hands and knees through tunnels. Eventually a sad-eyed E.T.-like alien befriends the surviving couple. It was a New World release.

STARDUST

(1974) D: Michael Apted S: Ray Connolly
P: David Puttnam, Sandy Lieberson UK

David Essex returns as Jim MacLaine in the hit sequel to That'll Be the Day. He and his (Beatle-type) sixties group, The Stray Cats, become hitmakers. Later, he becomes a solo star, has drug problems, and dies. With Adam Faith, Larry Hagman, Keith Moon, Dave Edmunds, and Edd Byrnes. In America, 16 minutes were cut out. The double Arista soundtrack contains 40 "original hits."

STAR 80

(Warner, 1983) D/S: Bob Fosse
P: Wolfgang Glattes, Kenneth Utt

Mariel Hemingway is the Canadian Playboy Playmate turned actress Dorothy Stratten (née Hoogstratten) and Eric Roberts (in a classic irritating psycho role) is Paul Snider, the small-time hustler who married, then murdered her in 1980. With Cliff Robertson as Hugh Hefner, Carroll Baker as her mom, Josh Mostel, Jordan Christopher, and Keenan Ivory Wayans. Hemingway actually had her breasts enlarged for the role. Sven Nykvist was the cinematographer. Death of a Centerfold was an earlier TV movie based on the same events.

STARFIGHTERS

(1964) D/S/P: Will Zens

This low-budget color adventure about Air Force pilots stars Robert Dornan (a conservative US Congressman in the 90s) as Lt. Witkowski. In the plot he becomes lost in a storm and tries to live up to the reputation of his father, a WWII fighter pilot, now a Congressman. Zens also made the Vietnam war movie To the Shores of Hell (1966) and Hell on Wheels (1967), both also with Dornan; country music movies; and the minimalist anti-Communist Capture That Capsule! (1961). Somebody should release these movies. Maybe someday we'll have a Dornan–Sonny Bono presidential ticket.

STARFLIGHT ONE

(Vestron, 1983) D: Jerry Jameson
S: Robert Malcom Young P: Arnold Orgolini, Peter Nelson (Starflight)

The world's fastest (hydrogen-powered) plane accidentally ends up in outer space. Lee Majors is the captain. With a typical all-star disaster movie cast including Lauren Hutton, Ray Milland, Tess Harper, Robert Webber, Jocelyn Brando, Robert Englund, and Kirk Cameron. When first shown on ABC it was called Starflight: The Plane That Couldn't Land, and it was shown theatrically overseas as Starflight One. John Dykstra created the special effects and Henry "The Fonz" Winkler was the executive producer of the Airport copy.

STARGATE

(Live, 1994) D/S: Roland Emmerich S/P: Dean Devlin, Oliver Eberle P: Joel B. Michaels

In this epic sci-fi movie, a gate to another world is discovered in Egypt. It seems that aliens were behind the building of the pyramids and they still live on a parallel desert planet with a large slave population living in a village and building more pyramids. James Spader is the Egyptologist who figures out how the huge circular stargate portal works and Kurt Russell is the quiet, suicidal military-man expedition leader. With Jaye Davidson (from The Crying Game) as the stony-faced alien leader Ra, Alexis Cruz, John Diehl, Viveca Lindfors as the scientist in opening segments, and Leon Rippy. The aliens are subtitled. The PG-13 hit cost as much as $70 million and was shot in Arizona. It was backed by French Canal Plus and distributed by MGM. The soundtrack is from Milan Records.

STAR IN THE DUST

(1956) D: Charles Haas S: Oscar Brodny P: Albert Zugsmith

Richard Boone stars as a hired gun about to be hanged in a Universal Technicolor western. Watch it for the great team of John Agar as the sheriff and Mamie Van Doren as his fiancée. Also with Leif Erickson, Coleen Gray, James Gleason, Paul Fix, Henry Morgan, Kermit Maynard, and an unbilled Clint Eastwood. Clint had also been in Revenge of the Creature and Tarantula, which both starred Agar.

STARK

(Fox, 1985) D: Rod Holcolmb S: Ernest Tidyman P: David B. Balkan

Nicolas Surovy stars as a Wichita cop who takes on the mob while searching for his chorus girl sister in Las Vegas. The CBS-TV pilot film features Marilu Henner and Dennis Hopper, in his first American project in years, as Stark's partner. Also with Pat Corley and Denise Crosby. Stark: Mirror Image (1986) was a second pilot, also with Surovy, Hopper, and Corley.

STARK FEAR

(Sinister, 1961) D/P: Ned Hockman S/P: Dwight V. Swain P: Joe E. Burke

Beverly Garland stars as a woman in Oklahoma City who discovers that her sneering, abusive husband (Skip Homeier) is also a mother-obsessed liar from a horrible small Oklahoma town. This b/w movie (shot in Norman and Lexington, OK) is filled with hateful, neurotic, scary, lecherous, drunken men. In one shocking scene, the husband watches while she's raped on his mother's grave. Meanwhile oblivious, poverty-stricken Indians dance nearby. She eventually triumphs and falls for her widower oilman boss (Kenneth Tobey), the only really decent male character. The stars of this dreary soap opera with horror movie touches are all good and probably enjoyed playing more serious roles than they usually were offered.

STARK MAD

(1929) D: Lloyd Bacon S: Harvey Gates

Some people on a Central American yachting expedition search for a missing son. The captain turns out to be a madman and there's a killer gorilla. H. B. Warner stars with comedienne Louise Frazenda, Irene Rich, and Lionel Belmore. The Warner movie was released in silent and sound versions.

STAR KNIGHT

(Vidmark, 1985) D/S/P: Fernando Colomo S: Andeu Martin, Miguel Angel Nieto Spain (El Caballero del Dragón)

Klaus Kinski (with his Aguirre hair) is a good guy necromancer and alchemist. He befriends an alien in a medieval village. The sad, silent, telepathic alien has hair like Vanilla Ice's and wears all black. Harvey Keitel is a foolish clumsy knight with wings on his helmet, out to slay the dragon (actually a spaceship) and rescue the princess (Marie Lamour), who falls for the alien. Fernando Rey is the priest who encourages Keitel and plots against the Count. In one in-joke scene, Keitel asks "Are you talking to me?" in his familiar accent (!). The odd feature uses an impressive real castle and has some funny moments, but the effects are mediocre and the stars are wasted. Kinski's voice was dubbed by another.

STARK RAVING MAD

(1976) D: George F. Hood P: Tiger Warren, Don Gronquist (Execution)

Several movies have been based on Charles Starkweather (including The Sadist and Badlands), but this is the least known and the closest to the facts. Russell Fast stars as "Richard Stark," a short former Nebraska garbage man who smokes Luckies. He relates his famous 1958 multi-state murder spree story to a prison guard after his head is shaved. Marcie Severson plays his 14-year-old girlfriend.

STARLET!

(Private Screenings, 1969) D: Richard Kanter S/P/A: David F. Friedman P: William A. Castleman

Starlet! is a softcore behind-the-scenes look at the making of a nudie movie called "Youth in Babylon." Stuart Lancaster (best known for Russ Meyer movies) and John Alderman are the filmmakers. Shari Mann stars as Carol, who sleeps her way to the top and becomes "Starliss Knight." One funny scene shows the making of a biker movie, "Heaven's Devils," on a set, and a nudie actress considers a role in an Italian western a step down. There's blackmail with a stag reel, the obligatory lesbian, spanking, and rape scenes, and an actress is electrocuted. Kanter also directed The Ribald Tales of Robin Hood. Friedman remade this in 1984 as Matinee Idol, a hardcore version and Friedman's last feature.

David F. Friedman's Starlet.

THE STARLETS

(1976) D: Daniel L. Symmes, Joseph Tebber

This obscure X-rated 3-D movie was advertised as being a Marilyn Monroe bio in "4-D." It isn't. With Dorothy Newkirk, John Leslie, and Candida Royalle, later a talk show regular, promoting her "Femme" line of porn for women.

STARMAN

(RCA/Columbia, 1984) D: John Carpenter S: Bruce A. Evans, Raynold Gideon P: Michael Douglas, Larry J. Franco

An alien (Jeff Bridges) lands in Wisconsin and takes the form of the late husband of Karen Allen in this romantic science fiction road movie. Richard Jaeckel (a government agent) and Charles Martin Smith (a scientist) are after him. It was executive produced by Michael Douglas and was once planned to be directed by Adrian Lyne, John Badham, or Tony Scott (among others). Starman features FX by ILM, Stan Winston, Rick Baker, and Dick Smith (a very impressive lineup). The PG Columbia release also became a short-lived 1986 ABC-TV series starring Robert Hays.

STARSHIP

(Cinema Group, 1985) D/S: Roger Christian S: Mathew Jacobs UK (Lorca and the Outlaws)

This Star Wars–derived movie was filmed in Australia. It features 21st-century robots and human slaves owned by android bosses on the mining planet Odessa. John Tarrant stars with a cute robot. Christian had worked on Alien, Star Wars, and other blockbuster hits.

STAR SLAMMER

(Vidmark, 1984) D/P: Fred Olen Ray
S: Michael D. Sonye P: Jack H. Harris
(Prison Ship; The Adventures of Tara Part I)

Sandy Brooke (who has one topless scene) is Taura, sent to prison for destroying the hand of Ross Hagen. The silly comic adventure is a mixture of Alien, a little Star Wars, and women's prison movies. The torture and bondage scenes seem to be inspired by the Flash Gordon remake. Aldo Ray (with a half-mutated face) seems to have a good time torturing an Oriental woman wearing a Vampirella uniform. John Carradine appears for about three seconds in what looks like an outtake from Frankenstein's Island. Johnny Legend is a wandering priest who gets zapped, and Mayra Gant wears an eyepatch as a warden. I liked the hologram of a kid in a Mexican wrestling mask, but they didn't do a very good job re-using the monster from Deadly Spawn, Return of the Aliens and that rat puppet was pretty pathetic. The time is padded out with endless running through passageways in Roger Corman's familiar, rented spaceship set. With Bobbi Bresee, Susan Stokey, Dawn Wildsmith, Eric Caidin, and some Dark Star footage. It sat on a shelf for a while, then was presented by Jack Harris.

STAR TIME

(Monarch, 1992) D/S/P: Alexander Cassini

Michael St. Gerard stars as a nervous, confused misfit who becomes suicidal when his favorite TV show is canceled. An agent named Sam Bones (John P. Ryan) promises to make him a TV star if he kills people, so he becomes the "Baby Mask Killer." Maureen Teefy (Fame) is a social worker. It was a first effort by an AFI grad and includes an It's a Wonderful Life clip. There are a few good visual images, but I found it irritating, vague, and boring.

STAR TREK

(Paramount series, 1966–69)

The NBC-TV show that won't go away only lasted three seasons, but Gene Roddenberry's ideas and characters created an industry that will probably outlive this century. So far there have been seven features, four TV series, and enough fans and merchandise to ensure endless conventions and revenue. All 79 tapes of the original NBC series are available, running 51 minutes each. As dated and often cheap-looking as they are, they're still more fun to watch than any of the big-budget movies. Menagerie (#16), from 1966, is the only two-part feature length tape. A series of soundtracks are on GNP. Paramount also released the book William Shatner's Star Trek Memories (1995).

STAR TREK III: THE SEARCH FOR SPOCK

(Paramount, 1984) D/A: Leonard Nimoy
S/P: Harve Bennett M: James Horner

In a direct sequel to Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan (1982), Kirk (William Shatner) and his crew shanghai the Enterprise to save Spock (Leonard Nimoy), and the Klingons (led by Christopher Lloyd) attack. The usual crew (DeForest Kelley, James Doohan, George Takei, Walter Koenig, and Nichelle Nichols) return, plus the late Merritt Butrick (he died from AIDS in 1989) as Kirk's son and Dame Judith Anderson as a Vulcan priestess. The ILM FX are impressive. Also with Robin Curtis, John Larroquette, Miguel Ferrer, and Robert Hooks. Spock is reborn at the end. It's based on Nimoy's story. The soundtrack is on GNP.

STAR TREK IV: THE VOYAGE HOME

(Paramount, 1986) D/A: Leonard Nimoy
S: Steve Meerson, Peter Krikes, Nicholas Meyer P: Harve Bennett

Nimoy's second feature as director was the highest-grossing of the whole series. With the usual crew plus Jane Wyatt, Catherine Hicks, Mark Lenard, Brock Peters, Michael Berryman, and Jane Weidlin. They time-travel to 20th century San Francisco in a junker ship to attend a trial. The crew saves two humpback whales (real footage of whales being killed is used) and there's lots of comedy and joking around and ILM FX. Spock, still not himself, is considered an "acid casualty." The real U.S.S. Enterprise ship was used. The Paramount director's series edition is widescreen with outtakes, a Nimoy interview, and a making-of segment. After Sylvester Stallone, Nimoy is the most successful director/actor ever with his two Trek movies.

STAR TREK V: THE FINAL FRONTIER

(Paramount, 1989) D/A: William Shatner S: David Loughery P/A: Harve Bennett M: Jerry Goldsmith

After Nimoy directed two Trek movies, the producers let Shatner cowrite the story and direct this one. The results are often laughable and attendance dropped drastically. The usual crew goes on a mission to rescue ambassadors being held hostage on a distant planet. With David Warner, Laurence Luckinbill (as Spock's Vulcan half-brother), bodybuilder Spice Williams as a Klingon, and the director's daughter, Melanie Shatner. The cast sings "Row row row your boat" and the ending copies The Wizard of Oz. The first five Trek movies were offered in a boxed set for the 25th anniversary in 1991.

STAR TREK VI: THE UNDISCOVERED COUNTRY

(Paramount, 1991) D/S: Nicholas Meyer
S: Denny Martin Flinn P: Ralph Winter

The director of Star Trek II: The Wrath of Khan (1982) returned to guide the usual crew. It's an end-of-the-cold-war parallel story. A Chernobyl-type disaster leads to the Klingons offering peace, but their leader (David Warner) is assassinated. George Takei is now a Federation captain with his own ship. Shatner and Nimoy were 60, and Kelley (who has an important role this time) and the very large Doohan were 71 at the time. Also with Christopher Plummer as a Shakespeare-quoting bald Klingon, Brock Peters, Kim Cattrall, Kurtwood Smith, Somali model Iman as a shapeshifter, Rene Auberjonois, and Christian Slater in a bit part. Actors from various Trek TV shows are there too (Michael Dorn, Mark Lenard, and even Grace Lee Whitney). The story is by executive producer Nimoy. ILM FX were used as usual. Series creator Gene Roddenberry died during production. It was the lowest-grossing of the series. The Starfleet Collection (Paramount) was a limited package of six features in widescreen. A Star Trek 25th Anniversary Special (Paramount) with members of both TV series (and Vice President Dan Quayle) is also on tape.

STAR TREK: DEEP SPACE NINE

(Paramount, 1992) D: David Carson
S: Michael Piller M: Dennis McCarthy

The pilot (Emissary) for the third, darker (syndicated) Trek series borrows from Slaughterhouse Five and is set in the 24th century. Avery Brooks is the bitter Sisko, with a run-down space station. Nana Visitor is an alien first officer, Rene Auberjonois is a shape-shifting security officer, and Armin Shimerman is a scheming Ferengi (called anti-Semitic by some critics). Also with Terry Farrell (from Hellraiser III). Patrick Stewart showed up in the premiere, as well as various characters from other Trek series later. The soundtrack is on GNP. A rival TV series debuting the same year was Babylon 5.

STAR TREK: GENERATIONS

(Paramount, 1994) D: David Carson
S: Ronald D. Moore, Brandon Braga
P: Rick Berman M: Dennis McCarthy

Star Trek feature #7 was the first Next Generation movie and most likely the last with any of the originals. Patrick Stewart stars with the entire main Star Trek: The Next Generation TV cast (including Whoopi Goldberg) plus (thanks to a time warp) William Shatner and (briefly) Walter Koenig and James Doohan. Malcolm McDowell is the alien villain Dr. Soran and Alan Ruck is the current Enterprise commander. Data getting an emotion chip implant is part of the plot. It's rated PG. The British Carson also directed episodes of The Next Generation and the Deep Space Nine pilot. With cinematography by John Alonzo. The soundtrack is on GNP. Paramount (surprise!) plans more Trek features.

STAR TREK: THE CAGE

(Paramount, 1965) D: Marc Daniels

This once-rare, part-color, 73-minute episode is a real oddity and worth seeing. It's the original pilot that was later re-edited and used as flashbacks for the two-part "Menagerie" episode. Jeffrey Hunter stars as Captain Pike, Leonard Nimoy is Spock (with different makeup), and Majel Barrett is the first officer. The other crew members are all different. Pike is held captive by big-brain telepathic aliens (played by slender women in elaborate makeup). Also with Susan Oliver, John Hoyt as Dr. Boyce, and Julie Parrish. Also available on Star Trek: The Beginnings, along with Where No Man Has Gone Before and the pilots of The Next Generation and Deep Space Nine.

STAR TREK: THE NEXT GENERATION

(Paramount series, 1987–94)

The second Trek series has much higher production values, better acting, and lasted longer than the original. Episodes cost a record $1.2 to $1.4 million each. The British Patrick Stewart is excellent as Picard, but he did too many TV commercial voiceovers after his newfound fame. Series regulars Denise Crosby and Wil Wheaton dropped out and Whoopi Goldberg later joined. Leonard Nimoy, Mark Lenard, and James Doohan even made appearances on the series. Episodes were available on tape in Europe first, then Paramount released episodes in America. There were 178 episodes total plus a 2-hour 1994 wrap-up finale followed by the theatrical feature, Star Trek: Generations and the documentary tape Journey's End: The Saga of Star Trek: The Next Generation. A series of GNP soundtrack albums is available.

STAR TREK: THE NEXT GENERATION: ENCOUNTER AT FARPOINT

(1987) D: Corey Allen S: D. C. Fontana P: Robert H. Justman

The pilot feature for the second Trek series is set 80 years further in the future and uses ILM FX. Patrick Stewart stars with series regulars Jonathan Frakes, LeVar Burton, Denise Crosby, Michael Dorn, Marina Sirtis, and Wil Wheaton. With John de Lancie as Q, the main recurring villain, DeForest Kelley from the old series in a bit role, and Cary-Hiroyuki Tagawa. Available as part of Star Trek: Beginnings (Paramount).

STAR TREK: VOYAGER

(Paramount, 1995) D: Winrich Kolbe S/P: Michael Piller, Jeri Taylor P: Rick Berman M: Jay Chattaway

By the time of this 4th (!) Trek series the word "overkill" wasn't enough. It was the first series on the new United Paramount Network. This $23 million pilot feature (The Caretaker) does have impressive FX. A Federation Starfleet crew is lost in space and time. Kate Mulgrew stars as the first female captain and Robert (Eating Raoul) Beltran is leader of the enemy Maquis. The two groups join forces. With Roxann Biggs-Dawson as a half-Klingon chief engineer, Tim Russ as the Vulcan security oficer, Robert Picardo as a holographic doctor, Robert Duncan McNeill, Jennifer Lien, Garrett Wang, and Ethan Phillips as a comic alien cook.

STATELINE MOTEL

(1973) D: Maurizio Lucidi S: Franco Enna P: Nicholas Demetroules M: Ennio Morricone Italy (L'Ultima Chance; Last Chance for a Born Loser)

Fabio Testi steals Ursula Andress from her husband (Massimo Girotti) in a crime thriller with a motel settting. With Eli Wallach and Barbara Bach. It was shot in Canada.

THE STATE OF THINGS

(Pacific Arts, 1982) D/S: Wim Wenders S: Robert Kramer P: Chris Sievernich W. Germany (Der Stand der Dinge)

Wenders was making Hammett in America when production was put on hold. In the meantime, he made this more typical Wenders feature. In it, characters are making "The Most Dangerous Man on Earth" (a remake of Roger Corman's The Day the World Ended!) in Portugal. The company is stranded by the Hollywood backers without funds. It's two b/w hours with subtitles. With Patrick Bauchau, Rebecca Pauley, Isabelle Weingarten, Sam Fuller as a cameraman, Paul Getty III as a writer, Allen Garfield as the broke producer (who sings), Viva, and Roger Corman himself as a lawyer.

STATIC

(IEI, 1985) D/S: Mark Romanek S/A: Keith Gordon P: Amy Ness

Gordon stars as an orphan electronics whiz who works at a crucifix factory. He invents a TV that receives pictures from Heaven. Bob Gunton is the evangelist cousin waiting for the "big one." Amanda Plummer and Barton Heyman are also in the comedy drama. The soundtrack features Elvis, Eno, and others. Gordon also directed The Chocolate War.

THE STAY AWAKE

(Nelson, 1987) D/S: John Bernard P: Thys Reyns, Paul Raleigh S. Africa

This stupid, irritating teen horror movie starts in America in 1968 as a ponytailed mass murderer goes to the gas chamber ("I'm the angel of darkness!"). Twenty years later at the St. Mary's School for Girls in "Europe" students have an all night "stay awake" to raise money. They're put through a strenuous aerobics class, watch horror videos on the gym floor, all pretend to be dead (as a joke), fool around with boys who sneak in, and are killed off by a mystery monster. This movie is filled with false scares and we see lots of it through the growling unseen monster POV camera shots. The 50s-style green monster with tentacles makes baby noises, burps, is afraid of crosses, and possesses a girl ("You dirty stinking slut! I'll see you back in the hell where you belong!"). Maybe it's supposed to be funny. With Macdonald Carey's daughter Michelle.

STAY TUNED

(Warner, 1992) D/C: Peter Hyams S: Tom S. Parker, Jim Jennewein P: James C. Robertson

A Seattle couple is trapped inside their TV for 24 hours in a PG fantasy comedy full of TV-show spoofs. John Ritter is the TV-addict husband and Pam Dawber is his wife. Jeffrey Jones is the Satan figure who offers them a new satellite dish system. They show up in commercials, in a cat and mouse cartoon (directed by Chuck Jones), and shows like "Meet the Mansons" and "Three Men and Rosemary's Baby." With Eugene Levy, Bob Dishy, Fred Blassie, and the voice of Ernie Anderson.

STEALTH HUNTERS

(VCII, 1991) D/P: Matt Trotter S: Tom Anthony

Super zombie-like warriors created by a businessman kill off a platoon of soldiers in a low-budget Texas horror movie. The one survivor and a group of teen campers try and fight off the killers.

STEEL

(Vestron, 1980) D: Steve Carver S: Leigh Chapman P: Peter S. Davis (Men of Steel; Look Down and Die)

Lee Majors stars in a movie about the dangers of putting up a skyscraper in record time. Jennifer O'Neill is the daughter of contruction boss George Kennedy. With Richard Lynch, R. G. Armstrong, Robert Tessier, Albert Salmi, Art Carney, Harris Yulin, and Carol Malory. It was filmed in Lexington, Kentucky.

STEEL AND LACE

(Fries, 1990) D: Ernest Farino S: Joseph Dougherty P: David DeCoteau

Bruce Davison (nominated for an Oscar the year this was made) is the moody, gray-haired scientist brother of a pianist (Clare Wren) who has killed herself after being raped. For revenge, he reconstructs her as a cyborg and sends her off to destroy the guilty, now wealthy young gangster businessmen. Disguised as different women, she seduces, then kills, them in incredible ways. Big drills emerge from her chest and go right through one, she pulls the head off another, and castrates a third during sex. That last death isn't exactly shown, but the ones that are use excellent and shocking FX. Stacy Haiduk (Luthor the Geek) is a courtroom artist who investigates with the reluctant help of her former boyfriend, cop David Naughton. With William Prince and David ("Squiggy") Lander as the coroner. Farino (from Texas) has done effects work for many films and used to animate the Pillsbury Doughboy!

STEEL ARENA

(Vestron, 1973) D/S/P: Mark L. Lester P: Peter S. Traynor

Demolition derby champ and daredevil driver Dusty Russell plays himself in this partial documentary about his "Circus of Death" show. It was made years before the Evel Knievel movies. With lots of crashes, real stuntmen, and a man who blows himself up in a coffin. Lester, from Cleveland, made Truck Stop Women next.

STEEL BAYONET

(1957) D/P: Michael Carreras S: Howard Clewes UK

Soldiers defend a deserted farmhouse in Africa during WWII. United Artists released the Hammer film in America. Leo Genn stars with Kieron Moore, Michael Medwin, and Michael Ripper, and Michael Caine as a German soldier.

THE STEEL CAGE

(1954) D/P: Walter Doniger P: Berman Swartz

UA had released Duffy of San Quentin in 1954. They decided to produce a TV series based on the film, but when it didn't sell, they packaged three episodes as this trilogy feature. Three stories about San Quentin prisoners feature Walter Slezak, John Ireland, Lawrence Tierney, Kenneth Tobey, Lyle Talbot, and Arthur Franz. Paul Kelly is the warden and Maureen O'Sullivan is his wife, repeating their characters from Duffy.

STEEL DAWN

(Vestron, 1987) D/P: Lance Hool
S: Doug Lefler P: Conrad Hool

Patrick Swayze stars in a post-nuke battle-for-scarce-water movie that copies Shane, High Noon, and (of course) Road Warrior. It has some good sword fight scenes. With Swayze's real-life wife Lisa Niemi, Christopher Neane, Brion James, and Anthony Zerbe as the main bad guy. It was filmed in the Namibian desert in Africa. By the director of Missing in Action II.

STEELE JUSTICE

(Paramount, 1987) D/S: Robert Boris P: John Strong

Martin Kove stars as a Nam vet in LA out for revenge. A former South Vietnam general (Soon-Tech Oh), now running drugs, is responsible for the slaughter of his best friend and his whole family. With Sela Ward, Ronny Cox, Bernie Casey, Joseph Campanella, Sarah Douglas, Shannon Tweed, and Mark Dacascos. Chris Hillman and the Desert Band play, and the choreography is by Jeff Kutash.

STEELE'S LAW

(Academy, 1992) D/S/P: Fred Williamson
S: Charles Eric Johnson P: Marvin Towns

Chicago detective John Steele (Williamson) is sent to Dallas to stop Keno (Doran Inghram) a psycho assassin with a long gray ponytail. Keno uses a sword and likes rough sex. Steele is paired with a pathetic tubby partner, but when things get tough, the police captain (Bo Svenson) helps kick ass. Some of the martial arts fights are pretty good. Typically, Steele's new girlfriend (Phyllis Cicero) is raped (offscreen) and dies, shortly after the lone sex scene. A head arrives in a box. There's talk about "the war" and lines like "I'd nuke the towelhead bastards!" Keno is speared by an American flag (!) at the end. Notice the poster on the Chicago police headquarters wall for Tabloid, a movie by Brett McCormick, the assistant to the producer. It was filmed in the "Deep Ellum" area of Dallas (the same time as JFK).

THE STEPFATHER

(Columbia, 1987) D: Joseph Ruben
S: Donald E. Westlake P: Jay Benson

It wasn't a big theatrical hit or anything, but The Stepfather is one of the great horror movies of the 80s. Terry O'Quinn is excellent as Jerry Blake, a pleasant-seeming man whom most people take to right away. All he wants is an ideal American family. When his wife and kids don't measure up to his expectations, he simply kills them and tries again. He moves to a new town, becomes a real-estate agent, and marries Shelley Hack. Jill Schoelen (his new stepdaughter) realizes that something is very wrong, and meanwhile his previous brother-in-law is after him. Jerry also whistles "Camptown Races." The Stepfather has some scenes that really hit home for many viewers. It also has some Hitchcock references, if you look for them.

STEPFATHER II: MAKE ROOM FOR DADDY

(HBO, 1989) D: Jeff Burr S: John Auerbach
P: William Burr, Darin Scott

It starts with scenes from #1, then the serial killer dad (Terry O'Quinn) wakes in a Washington state mental institution. He kills a therapist and assumes the man's identity. Soon he's running suburban neighborhood group therapy lessons! Meg Foster is his new choice for a wife. The highlight is a chaotic marriage ceremony (with gore FX by Michelle Burke). O'Quinn is good (again) but this doesn't come close to the original, and the jokey dialogue ("Make room for daddy!") ruins it. With Caroline Williams and Jonathan Brandis. Miramax cut the film, then added gore scenes without consulting the director.

STEPFATHER III: FATHER'S DAY

(Vidmark, 1991) D/S/P: Guy Magar
S: Marc Ray P: Paul Moen

In a b/w opening, the psycho stepfather goes to a sleazy surgeon for (gory) plastic surgery. He (Robert Wightman this time) emerges not only with a new face, but younger (!?) and with more hair. He goes to a California town where he becomes a gardener and plans to marry Priscilla Barnes. When he decides things aren't perfect enough, he starts an affair with another single mom (Escape from New York's Season Hubley). The hero is Barnes's computer whiz kid in a wheelchair (David Tom). The stepfather character is no longer calculating and is reduced to making Freddy Krueger-style remarks when he kills. The sequel (from ITC) isn't bad for TV horror (it debuted on HBO) but is full of plot holes. By the director of Retribution.

THE STEPFORD CHILDREN

(1987) D: Alan J. Levi P: Edgar J. Scherick

After The Stepford Wives (1975), there was a TV sequel, Revenge of the Stepford Wives (1980). Bankable concepts die hard, so this third one was another TV movie. Two NYC teens move to the "perfect" suburb with their family. With Barbara Eden, Don Murray, James Coco, Richard Anderson, Ken Swofford, Pat Corley, and Dick Butkus. It was released on tape in Europe. The director also made sequel TV movies featuring The Incredible Hulk and The Six Million Dollar Man. There was also The Stepford Husbands (1996)!

STEPHEN KING'S NIGHT SHIFT COLLECTION

(Karl, 1983–7) D: John Woodward, Jack Garrett

"Disciple of the Crow" is an early short version of Children of the Corn, set in Oklahoma in 1971. It manages to tell the story much more effectively than the 1984 feature. "The Night Waiter" concerns ghosts in an old hotel. The two stories together run 40 minutes. Stephen King's Night Shift Collection 2 (Simitar) followed with "The Bogeyman" by Jeff Shiro and "The Woman in the Room" by Frank Darabont. To look up other features that are sometimes titled Stephen King's . . . whatever, see the real titles!

Terry O'Quinn is The Stepfather.

STEPMONSTER

(New Horizon, 1993) D: Jeremy Stanford S: Mark Thomas McGhee, Craig J. Nevius P: Steve Rabiner

A comic book fan kid (Bill Corben) realizes that his stepmom (Robin Riker) is really a shapeshifting lizard monster with a bat puppet sidekick. It's a PG-13 horror comedy from executive producer Roger Corman that copies the bigger budget box office flop My Stepmother Is an Alien. Fred Olen Ray is credited with the story. With Ami Dolenz as the babysitter, Alan Thicke as the father, Eddie McClurg, John Astin as a priest, and Corey Feldman as Phlegm.

THE STEPMOTHER

(Academy, 1973) D: "Howard"/Hikmet Avedis S/P/A: Marlene Schmidt

Alejandro Rey stars with John Garfield Jr. in a murder mystery. A woman forced to seduce her husband's son is part of the plot. With John Anderson, Katherine Justice, Larry Linville, and Claudia Jennings in a small role (naked). The Crown International release was the first by Avedis, who returned with The Teacher and The Specialist.

STEPPENWOLF

(Vidmark, 1974) D/S: Fred Haines P: Melvin Fishman, Richard Herland US/Switzerland

It's an inner "trip" movie based on Hermann Hesse's novel, which was very popular with students at the time. Max von Sydow stars as Harry Haller, a man who plans to kill himself at 50. He smokes pot, goes crazy, and experiences a lot of things that are shown with video images and animation. Dominique Sanda and Pierre Clementi co-star. The PG feature was shot in Switzerland.

STEPSISTERS

(Regal, 1974) D/S: Perry Tong (Texas Hill Killing)

There's a backwoods Diabolique plot, as a man and his sister-in-law plot to kill his wife. The cinematography is arty and it was made in Texas by the director of the Scuba World cable TV program.

STEREO

(Nightmare, 1969) D/S/P/C/E: David Cronenberg Canada

The now-famous director made this 63-minute b/w film for "$3500" when he was 26 years old. It's an Alphaville-like look at the future and concerns telepathic surgery at the "Canadian Academy for Erotic Inquiry." A voiceover explains what's going on. It's on tape with Cronenberg's Crimes of the Future.

STEWARDESS SCHOOL

(RCA, 1986) D/S: Ken Blancato P: Phil Feldman

Two guys enroll in an all-female training school in this bad Police Academy copy. Donny (Happy Days) Most stars. With Vicki Frederick, Sandahl Bergman, Judy Landers, Corinne Bohrer, Lillian Muller, Sherman Hemsley, and Brooke Bundy. From Columbia.

THE STEWARDESSES

(Video Dimensions, 1968) D/S/P: "Allan Silliphant"/ Alf Silliman Jr.

This Stereovision 3-D softcore sex hit made nearly $7 million after Sherpix released it in 1970. It was considered hot stuff at the time and played for years. A blonde says, "I've got the whole place to myself . . . I'll take some acid!" She takes it (with low-fat milk) and during her trip sequence has sex with a stone head with a lamp attached. An ad exec beats a would-be actress during sex so she kills him then jumps out her window. The best 3-D part is a carnival ride in the dark with a devil, skulls, and a decapitated head. There's a Nam vet, Indian music, a rock band with Beatle hair, strobe light dancing, sex in a nightclub, a drunken lesbian scene, and pool cues, feet, and a coat rack jabbing into the camera. Christina Hart stars. Adult film regular Monica Gayle and Donna Stanley were both also in Ed Wood Jr.'s Take It Out in Trade (1970). It was rated X, then cut for an R. A much shorter version with hardcore inserts (added years later) also exists with an onscreen disclaimer ("Without original cast"). There were many ripoffs, copies, and "sequels" including Swinging Stewardesses (1971) from Germany.

THE STEWARDESSES II: See INTERNATIONAL STEWARDESSES

STICK IT IN YOUR EAR

(SW, 1970) D: Charles Morgan (Vortex)

This very obscure, arty, and mostly silent b/w hippie movie with fancy editing and in-jokes seems to be influenced by Carnival of Souls and was filmed in Boston. An unshaven guy wakes in the ruins of a church with amnesia and wanders around trying to find anybody who knows him. Characters say "groovy" and "heavy" at a pot party and some pretty wild guitar feedback is heard. With some sex and nudity, flashbacks, drug sequences, and important Vietnam war references. Whan a man on the street asks, "Want to buy some dirty pictures?" our confused hero says, "No thanks, I'm in one." A Hare Krishna chant becomes "Kurosawa, Kurosawa." Pretty cool actually and full of surprises. H. G. Lewis picked this up and double-billed it with with his own very different The Gore Gore Girls.

STIGMA

(Vista, 1972) D/S: David E. Durston P: Charles B. Moss Jr.

Philip Michael Thomas, later famous as Tubbs on Miami Vice, claimed to have made "11 major movies" before hitting TV stardom. Some of them remain mysteries, but this well-made oddity was apparently his first. Director Durston is known to exploitation fans for I Drink Your Blood (1971), a strong, upsetting rabid-hippie movie. This equally queasy follow-up stars Thomas (with mustache) as a doctor who goes to a fishing village on a remote island where he encounters racism, murder, and, eventually, a VD epidemic. A grim, real 16mm film-within-the-movie features New York disc jockey "Cousin Brucie" Morrow showing slides of advanced syphilis victims with collapsed noses and horrible chancre sores. Thomas is actually quite good in a difficult role and the script poses some challenging moral questions about sex, the law, and covering up the truth, but Stigma is exploitation in the tradition of Sex Madness. It was released by Jerry Gross.

STILL LIFE

(Prism, 1990) D: Graeme Campell P: Nicolas Stiliadis Canada (A. K. Art Killer)

A psycho artist in NYC (really Toronto) kills homeless people, makes sculptures out of them, and sells them as art. Suspect Jason Gedrick is in a performance art group. With Jessica Steen and Stephen Shellan. The PG-13 feature is another one inspired by Roger Corman's Bucket of Blood.

STILL OF THE NIGHT

(MGM, 1982) D/S: Robert Benton P: Arlene Donovan

Meryl Streep and Roy Scheider star in a murder mystery that was filmed as Stab (too bad they didn't keep the title). He's a psychiatrist who wanted to be a baseball star and she might have killed one of his patients. With Jessica Tandy and Sara Botsford. The MGM release borrows from Hitchcock's Spellbound, complete with a dream sequence.

STILL SMOKIN'

(Paramount, 1983) D/S/A: Thomas Chong S/A: Cheech Marin P: Peter MacGregor-Scott

Cheech and Chong go to Amsterdam and hold a "dope-a-thon" to raise money for a film festival. The box-office flop comedy features a Dutch cast and ends with 20 minutes of comedy concert footage. With Carla Van Amstel as Queen Beatrix, and Linnea Quigley.

STINGRAY

(Nelson, 1978) D/S: Richard Taylor P: Donald Ham, Bill Bruce

Christopher Mitchum and Les Lannom buy a cool '62 Chevy Stingray but don't know about a stash of heroin in the trunk. Gangsters want it back. Sherry Jackson is the violent leader of the drug ring. With chases, crashes, and motorcycles, and Sondra Theodore from Playboy. The music is by Byron Berline, John Hartford, and others. It was filmed in St. Louis.

STONE AGE WARRIORS

(VSOM, 1991) D/P: Stanley Tong Hong Kong

In the jungles of New Guinea, two kung-fu fighting women face natives, mercenaries, lizards, scorpions, and a komodo dragon and discover a secret drug factory. With lots of action and gore. Elaine Lui from the Angel movies and Li Chi star.

STONE COLD

(RCA, 1991) D: Craig R. Baxley S: Walter Doninger P: Ben Ami

Ex-football linebacker Brian "Boz" Bosworth stars as a big sneering blond cop with an earring working for the FBI. He infiltrates a Mississippi motorcycle gang that has been killing local politicians. Lance Henriksen is the ambitious and psychotic biker leader Chains and William Forsythe plays Ice. There's a wild biker funeral, a violent, major action shootout at the end, and a great motorcycle and helicopter stunt. With Arabella Holzbog, Paulo Tocha, and Laura Albert. By the director of I Come in Peace and Action Jackson. It was filmed in Arkansas and had to be cut from an NC-17. From Columbia.

STONED AGE

(Vidmark, 1993) D/S: James Melkonian S: Rich Wilkes P: Neal Moriz, David Heyman

This is like a cruder, ruder Dazed and Confused with more about trying to get high and laid than alienation and character development. It's pretty damned funny, though. Joe (Michael Kopelow), a guy with long red hair, hangs out with his violent, asshole friend Hubs (Bradford Tatum) as they cruise, cop, and crash a party at a California beach home. China Kantner (daughter of Grace Slick) and Renee Allman are the female stars. All four leads are good and the all–70s soundtrack is great. Black Sabbath's "Paranoid" is the theme song and Blue Öyster Cult's "Don't Fear the Reaper" is important to the plot. BOC even appears in a concert flashback and an after-the-credits gag scene. With a 2001 parody, some Screaming Mad George FX, and Frankie Avalon.

STONER

(VSOM, 1976) D: Huang Feng S: No Kuan
P: Raymond Chow Hong Kong/Australia

One-time James Bond actor George Lazenby is an Australian cop who is teamed with a Chinese policewoman (kung fu movie goddess Angela Mao) in a spy and martial arts movie. A religious cult in Australia develops a killer aphrodisiac heroin mixture and their "Happy Pills" are discovered in Hong Kong. With Samo Hung and blond Romanolee Rose in sex scenes (cut for US TV).

STONES OF DEATH

(Sony, 1988) D: James Bogle S: Ian Coughlan
P: David Hannay Australia

A new housing developement built on sacred Aborigine burial grounds is the setting for a Poltergeist-inspired horror movie with teen stars. Characters die in various bloody ways. Zoe Carides stars as the girl who has nightmares. With Tom Jennings and Eric Oldfield.

STOOGEMANIA

(Paramount, 1985) D/S/P: Chuck Workman
S: Jim Geoghan P: James Ruxin

Back in 1960, when the Three Stooges became popular again, somebody threw together Stop! Look! and Laugh!, a mixture of new non-Stooge footage and old Stooges film clips. 25 years later the Stooges reached new heights of popularity. "The Curly Shuffle" was on the radio and this Stoogesploitation comedy was released. Josh Mostel stars as a guy obsessed with the long-dead comedians. Stooge clips (some are colorized) mostly feature Shemp. With Melanie Chartoff, Sid Caesar, hopeless real Three Stooges fanatics, Stooge imitators, and "sons."

STOP

(1970) D/S: Bill Gunn P: Paul M. Heller

A writer (Edward Bell) and his wife (Linda Marsh), in the midst of breaking up, go to Puerto Rico to stay at an inherited mansion where a suicide/murder had taken place. He has nightmare visions of what happened. A friend shows up with his (black) wife (Marlene Clark) and they swap wives. It received an X and was shelved by Warner Brothers and was first reviewed 20 years later. The cinematography is by Owen Roizman, who later filmed The Exorcist. Ry Cooder is on the soundtrack. Gunn (who died in 1989) also made the unique vampire movie Ganja and Hess (1973), available under many titles on tape.

STOP ME BEFORE I KILL!

(1961) D/S/P: Val Guest UK (The Full Treatment)

A race car driver (Claude Dauphin) marries Diane Cilento. He finds himself strangling her on their honeymoon and soon believes he's killed her. It's all because his psychiatrist wants her, and has been messing with his patient's mind, using drugs and hypnotism. It takes place in France and London. Columbia released it in America. Guest made The Day the Earth Caught Fire next.

STORMQUEST

(Media, 1987) D: Alax Sessa S: Charles Saunders P: Hector Olivera

Women rule the kingdom of Kimba and hero Brent Huff is a male liberationist. With Kai Baker, Christina Whitaker, and huge Linda Lutz as the evil "Stormqueen." It was filmed in Argentina.

STORM RIDER: See THE GRAND DUEL

STORM SWEPT

(Marsh Entertainment, 1994) D/S/E: David Marsh
S/P: Svetlana Marsh

An actress (Julie Hughes) invites filmmaker friends over to her new haunted mansion. They're trapped during a storm and experience sex fantasies. With Kathleen Kinmont living in the basement, Melissa Anne Moore, and Justin Carroll.

STORY OF A JUNKIE

(Media, 1985) D/P: Lech Kowalski (Gringo)

The director of the punk documentary D.O.A. made this grim documentary look at a young, real-life New York City junkie with dyed blond hair and an eye patch, called John Spacely. The camera follows him everywhere. He died sometime after the movie was done. Troma rereleased it with the new "Junkie" title. A mural of Spacely, painted when this was new, was still on St. Marks Place a decade later. Maybe it's still there.

THE STORY OF O

(C.D., 1975) D: Just Jaeckin S: Sebastian Japisot France (Histoire d'O)

Jaeckin made this glossy S&M sex hit set in the 1930s after his Emmanuelle. Allied Artists released it and it made $700,000 in North American rentals alone. Ken Russell almost directed it and probably wished he had. O (Corinne Clery) is whipped, pierced, and passed around by wealthy jaded men. Udo Kier is René and Anthony Steele is Sir Stephen his stepbrother. The Story of Joanna, an American porno copy, made a reported $4 million itself. The Journey of O was another X-rated copy, and there was a 10-chapter early-90s Euro remake. Kier was in Spermula next.

THE STORY OF O PART II

(Republic, 1980) D/S: Shuji Terayama
P: Anatole Bauman, Hiroku Govaers France/Japan
(Fruits of Passion; The Story of O Continues)

Klaus Kinski stars as Sir Stephen, a kinky Brit in early 1900s Hong Kong. His lovers are O (Isabelle Illiers) and Arielle Dombasle. It's an impressive-looking but slow-moving adaptation of Pauline Réage's O sequel, Return to the Chateau.

STRAIGHT TO HELL

(Key, 1987) D/S: Alex Cox
S/A: Dick Rude P: Eric Fellner

After Sid and Nancy, Cox took a bunch of friends and scenemakers to Spain and made this aimless, boring spaghetti western spoof. Characters drink coffee and talk about how boring things are. With Sy Richardson, Joe Strummer, and Dick Rude as outlaws. Also with Dennis Hopper, Grace Jones, Elvis Costello, Jim Jarmusch, and Ellen Barkin in a bit part. The music is by the Pogues, who also appear.

STRAIT JACKET: See DARK SANITY

STRANDED

(RCA, 1987) D: Tex Fuller S: Alan Castle
P: Scott Rosenfelt, Mark Levinson

Long-haired, pale aliens take Ione Skye and her grandmother (Maureen O'Sullivan) hostage from a farmhouse. Joe Morton (star of The Brother from Another Planet) is the sheriff, who has problems with local rednecks. With Cameron Dye, Brendan Hughes, Spice Williams, and Flea from the Red Hot Chili Peppers. There's a lizard woman too. New Line released the PG-13 movie.

STRANGE ADVENTURE

(Sinister, 1932) D: Phil Whitman S: Lee Chadwick
P: I. E. Chadwick (Wayne Murder Case)

Regis Toomey stars as a police lieutenant and June Clyde is a reporter in a one-hour Monogram mystery. There's a hooded killer in an old dark house. With Dwight Frye, William V. Mong, Jason Robards Sr., and Eddie "Snowflake" Toones for typical black comic relief.

STRANGE BREW

(MGM, 1983) D/S/A: Dave Thomas, Rick Moranis S: Steve DeJarnatt Canada

The Bob and Doug McKenzie "Great White North" show was a popular segment on SCTV. Thomas and Moranis play the same dimwit beer drinkers in this comedy, based on Hamlet. It starts with an angry audience chasing them after sitting through their first movie. Max von Sydow is a mad brewmeister who plots to take over the world. He gives drugged beers to hockey-player mental patients in his remote castle. With Paul Dooley and the voice of Mel Blanc. Shot in "Hoserama."

THE STRANGE CASE OF DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE

(Cannon, 1989) D: Michael Lindsay-Hogg
S: J. Michael Straczynski P: Bridget Terry

Anthony Andrews stars as the famous doctor in one of the most filmed stories of all time. With Laura Dern, Nicholas Guest, Rue McClanahan, Lisa Langois, and Elizabeth Gracen. The 60-minute Nightmare Classics presentation debuted on USA cable.

STRANGE COMPULSION

(1964) D/P: Irv Berwick S: Jason Johnson

Preston Sturges Jr. stars as a young medical student who goes to a shrink to cure his compulsive voyeurism. The b/w obscurity is by the makers of Monster of Piedras Blancas.

THE STRANGE COUNTESS

(Sinister, 1961) D: Josef von Baky S: Robert A. Stemmle, Curt Hanno Gutbrod W. Germany

Lil Dagover (from The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari) is the countess in an Edgar Wallace mystery about killers after money. Joachim Fuchsberger stars with Brigitte Grothum, Klaus Kinski (as Stuart Bresset), and Fritz Rasp. It went direct to TV in America.

STRANGE FETISHES

(1967) D/P: Enrico Blancocoello

Sammy Arena stars as a missing TV horror host. The station manager had killed him (with acid) in a fight, but the body disappears. A scarfaced phantom begins killing people (including some go-go dancers) around the station. It's another obscure b/w movie that would be interesting to see released on tape.

STRANGE HOLIDAY

(1940) D/S: Arch Oboler
P: A. W. Hackel, Edward Finney

Claude Rains is a businessman who returns to America from a vacation and discovers that the Constitution has been suspended and a new fascist dictatorship is in control. It's all a dream at the end. It was based on Oboler's radio play and was made for employees of General Motors! The corporation backed off from showing it and MGM bought it. They shelved it too. PRC finally released the 61-minute feature but not until 1946, after the war had ended. With Martin Kosleck, Helen Mack, Barbara Bates, Milton Kibbee, and Gloria Holden. Oboler was usually ahead of his time. He also made the first 3-D feature (Bwana Devil) in 1952.

STRANGE HORIZON

(1992) D/S/P: Philip Jackson Canada

David Ferry is a 23rd-century spaceship pilot who crashes on a remote planet. Olga Prokhorova is an alien woman who uses illegal drugs. The talky sci-fi movie was shot in Toronto.

STRANGE ILLUSION

(Sinister, 1945) D: Edgar G. Ulmer
S: Adele Commandini P: Leon Fromkess

A boy (James Lydon) dreams that his father is killed and his mother is a victim of con men. It all comes true and he pretends to be insane to catch the killer, his mother's suitor (Warren William). The PRC release was loosely based on Hamlet. With Sally Eilers and Regis Toomey.

STRANGE INVADERS

(Vestron, 1983) D/S: Michael Laughlin
S: William Condon P: Walter Coblenz

After Strange Behavior (RCA, 1981), Laughlin scored again with this science fiction spoof. Aliens in human form who took over a small midwestern town in the 50s plan to leave after 25 years. They need the help of the daughter of Paul Le Mat, a divorced college profesor. A tabloid reporter (Nancy Allen) helps him investigate. Part of the joke is that the aliens still live like Norman Rockwell–picture Americans. With Diana Scarwid as his alien ex-wife, Michael Lerner, Caroline Munro, Louise Fletcher, Wallace Shawn, Fiona Lewis, Kenneth Tobey, and June Lockhart. From Orion.

THE STRANGENESS

(TWE, 1980) D/P/M: David Michael Hillman
P/A: Mark Sawicki, Chris Huntley

An expedition for gold uncovers an animated, tentacled Indian-lore monster in a mine. The amateur feature has Ernest Farino stop-motion FX.

THE STRANGER

(RCA, 1986) D: Adolpho Aristarain S: Dan Gurskis P: Hugo Lamonica US/Argentina

Bonnie Bedelia sees three murders, then ends up in a hospital with amnesia. The killers go after her. With Peter Riegert as a doctor and Barry Primus. It was filmed in Buenos Aires but is set in a California town. With b/w flashbacks.

THE STRANGER

(Ghost Limb, 1994) D/S/C: Christopher Frieri

A cynical tattooed loser (Mark Fucille, also in I Was a Teenage Mummy and the Toxic Avenger sequels) narrates with his heavy New Jersey accent. He gets a job as a janitor in a bar run by a cigar-smoking dwarf and in one scene, gets up and sobs the Bee Gees' "I Started a Joke" dressed like Elvis while a blonde fondles her breasts. He also rides subway cars, has nightmares, takes a lot of LSD, yells at his pregnant girlfriend, and kills people. The image that sticks in my mind is the chimp wandering through a graveyard. The mostly b/w feature uses some found footage and very disorienting music (plus some rock by the A-Bones). The end credits are spoken. This was Frieri's third feature.

STRANGE RAMPAGE

(SW, 1967) D: Ignatz Volpe S: Mel Carto P: Harry "Niwreck"/Kerwin

A narrator talks a lot, then a "sex doctor" discusses three of his cases. We see a schoolteacher and a secretary dancing topless to a Bo Diddley instrumental followed by a drugged orgy (in shadows). Ann (Ann Howe—love that name!) is an exhibitionist who becomes a stripper and Sally (Bunny Ware from Mundo Depravados) strips and takes a mannequin to bed. This light, just-over-an-hour-long b/w nudie movie was made in Florida. With Linda Miller, who later went to Japan and acted in King Kong Escapes and The Green Slime!

THE STRANGER AND THE GUNFIGHTER

(RCA, 1974) D/S: "Anthony Dawson"/Antonio Margheriti S: Giovani Simonelli P: Carlo Ponti Italy/Spain/Hong Kong (La Dove non Batte il Sole; Blood Money)

Dakota (Lee Van Cleef), a hard-drinking gunfighter, teams up with a martial arts expert (Lo Lieh), in a comedy kung fu western set in China. They're after a treasure, and parts of the map are tattooed on ladies' asses. With Patty Shepard, Erica Blanc, Femi Benussi, and Karen Yeh. Lieh had already been in "50" features including Five Fingers of Death and the Italian Three Supermen Against the Orient (1973). Run Run Shaw was executive producer.

STRANGER BY NIGHT

(A-Pix, 1994) D: Gregory H. Brown S: Daryl Haney, Richard Filon P: Andrew Garroni

Steven Bauer stars as a tough LA police detective after a serial killer. He has alcoholic blackouts and b/w nightmares and becomes a suspect in the deaths of several hookers. With Jennifer Rubin as his shrink, William Katt as his obnoxious partner, Michael Parks, Michelle Greene, J. J. Johnson, and Luca Bercovici. Director Brown is a.k.a. Gregory Hippolyte.

STRANGER IN TOWN

(1966) D: Luigi Vanza S: Giuseppi Mangione
P: Carlo Infascelli Italy/US (Un Dollar Tra i Denti)

Tony Anthony stars as a bounty killer known as the Stranger, who makes wisecracks as he kills. He's in Mexico after a bandit leader (Frank Wolf) who cheated him. Anthony returned in The Stranger Returns (1967) and The Stranger in Japan (1969) which was held up for legal reasons and not released until 1977. All three were backed by New York lawyer Allen Klein, who worked for the Beatles and the Rolling Stones. The first two movies were major releases in America from MGM. Series star Anthony, an American whose western career mirrored Clint Eastwood's, also played the stranger role in Get Mean (1975). Other Italian westerns with "stranger" titles were unrelated.

STRANGERS

(1990) D/P: Craig Lahill S: John Emery
P: Wayne Gross Australia

A man (James Healy) going through a divorce has a one-night stand with a possessive woman (Anne Looby), who decides to kill off his family.

STRANGERS IN PARADISE

(1983) D/S/P/A: Ulli Lommel S: Susanna Love

The German Lommel made some strange movies, but this was his ultimate vanity production. He plays a stage mentalist who is frozen in 1940. He's revived in modern-day California and starts a right-wing group against rock and roll. With lots of music and repeated scenes. Lommel also plays Hitler (in the prologue). The music is by a Cleveland-area Doors copy band called Moonlight Drive!

STRANGERS ON A TRAIN

(Warner, 1951) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock
S: Raymond Chandler, Czenzi Ormonde

This broke Hitchcock's box-office losing streak (Notorious in 1946 had been his last hit). The famous story is based on a Patricia Highsmith novel.

Robert Walker is a deranged playboy killer who devises a murder exchange with tennis champ Farley Granger. With Ruth Roman, Leo G. Carroll, and Patricia Hitchcock. The famous end takes place on a merry-go-round. The director carries a bass on the train. Walker died the year of the Warner release. The "director's cut" is actually the British version, running two more minutes, with some alternate dialogue and a different ending. Once You Kiss a Stranger (1969) was a remake, Throw Mama from the Train (1987) was a comedy copy, and other features have borrowed from the plot.

THE STRANGER WITHIN

(1990) D: Tom Holland S: John Pielmeier P: Paulette Breen

Teen psycho Rick(y) Schroder shows up on Halloween claiming to be Kate Jackson's long-lost son. Chris Sarandon is her boyfriend. Former child star Schroder is pretty creepy. New World made it for CBS.

THE STRANGER WORE A GUN

(1953) D: Andre de Toth S: Kenneth Gamer P: Harry Joe Brown

Randolph Scott stars as a spy with Quantrill's Raiders in a 3-D western from Columbia. It has more dangerous objects hurled at the audience than most and one character spits tobacco juice at you! With Joan Weldon (from Them), Claire Trevor, George Macready, Lee Marvin, Ernest Borgnine (as Bull), and Roscoe Ates. De Toth also directed House of Wax in 3-D.

STRANGE SHADOWS IN AN EMPTY ROOM

(Vestron, 1977) D: "Martin Herbert"/Alberto De Martino S: Vincent Mann, Frank Clark P: Almondo Amati Italy/Canada (Una Magnum Speciale Per Tony Saitta; Blazing Magnums)

A sadistic police detective searches for his sister's killer in Montreal. The all-star cast includes Stuart Whitman, John Saxon, Tisa Farrow, Gayle Hunnicut, Martin Landau, and Carole Laure. The violent AIP release has a great car chase.

STRANGE TALES: RAY BRADBURY THEATRE VOL. 1

(HBO, 1986) D: Don McGrearty, Bruce Pittman, Douglas Jackson S: Ray Bradbury P: Seaton McLean

Three Poe-influenced tales from the HBO anthology series make up this tape, hosted by Bradbury. Jeff Goldblum stars in "The Town Where No One Got Off," Drew Barrymore is in "The Screaming Woman," and Peter O'Toole plays a director in Ireland (based on John Huston) in "Banshee." Also with Charles Martin Smith. Ray Bradbury Theatre Vol. 2 and Ray Bradbury Chronicles: The Martian Episodes are also available.

THE STRANGE WOMAN

(Hens Tooth, 1945) D: Edgar G. Ulmer S: Herb Meadows P: Jack Chertock

Hedy Lamarr stars as an early-19th-century woman in a Maine lumber town. She marries a rich man (Gene Lockhart), seduces his son (George Sanders), and works her way to the top by arranging murders. Louis Hayward is the man she really wants and it all ends tragically. With Hillary Brooke and Alan Napier.

THE STRANGE WORLD OF COFFIN JOE

(SW, 1968) D/P/A/M: Jose Mojica Marins S: Rubens F. Luccetti P: George Michel Serkeis (O Estranho Mundo De Ze De Caixo)

Marins introduces his b/w horror trilogy, asking questions about life and death and saying "Horror is you!" "The Dollmaker" is a revenge tale with decapitation, eyes removed, rape, and characters twisting. The sick (and silent) "Obsession" has a necro hunchback balloon seller stalking a new bride, lightning, rats, and spiders. The last, best, and by far the most shocking and outrageous ("Theory"), stars Marins as a professor who appears on a TV program, then puts the TV host and his wife in cages at his home. It features snakes, frogs, blood drinking, torture, whipping, acid in a face, a burlesque show, orgies, a crucifixion, cannibalism, and gore. Filmed in São Paulo, Brazil. Subtitled, but I wonder about translations like "major league babes."

THE STRANGLER

(Key, 1964) D: Burt Topper S: Bill S. Ballinger P: Samuel Bischoff

Victor Buono, an underrated 300-lb. character actor who went on to play King Tut on Batman, only starred in two movies, this and the Italian The Mad Butcher (1972). He's pretty disturbing as Leo Kroll, a mama's-boy hospital lab technician who murders women after winning dolls at a ring toss game at the Fun Palace. He keeps a drawer full of dolls at home, and sweats and shakes as he undresses them. A doctor tries to explain his fetish. His nagging mother (Ellen Corby) dies, and he violently smashes up his room. There isn't much more plotwise—the cops interrogate him, stupidly let him leave to commit even more murders, then finally catch him. The cinematography in this low-budget b/w psycho film is often excellent. The opening shot of a nurse undressing, seen from inside a large eyeball, is great. Otherwise it looks like an old TV show shot on sterile Hollywood sets. Director Topper went on to narrate Mondo Teeno and Sadismo.

STRANGLER OF BLACKMOOR CASTLE

(Sinister, 1963) D: Harold Reinl S: Gustav Kampendank, Ladislas Fodor W. Germany (Der Wurger Von Schloss Blackmoor)

A hooded nine-fingered strangler carves the letter M in his victims' foreheads and a decapitated head arrives in the mail. It's based on a novel by Bryan Edgar Wallace. With Karin Dor and Ingmar Zeisberg. Reinl directed many interesting features including The Return of Dr. Mabuse (1961), and Blood Demon (1967).

STRANGLER OF THE SWAMP

(Sony, 1945) D/S: Frank Wisbar (Franz Wysbar) S: Harold Erickson P: Raoul Pagel

Director Wisbar fled Germany in the 30s and came to America, where he made six impossibly cheap movies at PRC and Screen Guild. This is a remake of his Fahrmann Maria (1936). Rosemary La Planche (Miss America 1941), who was also in Wisbar's Devil Bat's Daughter (1946), stars as Maria in this spooky, atmospheric ghost story set in a lonely swamp. After her grandfather, the ferryman, is killed, she takes his job, pulling a small wooden platform with passengers across the swamp. The blurry, floating ghost of an innocent man who was hanged for murder is played by Charles Middleton, best known as Ming in Flash Gordon serials. The locals are terrified of the cursed noose, still hanging from a tree. "Run 'til your heart bursts!" Future director Blake Edwards plays the love interest. Shot mostly on one simple set (which must have inspired Tobe Hooper for his Eaten Alive), Strangler is only one hour long and is a must for anybody interested in good early horror.

STRAWBERRIES NEED RAIN

(1970) D/S/P/E: Larry Buchanan

Death (Les Tremayne) sits on a grave with a scythe on his shoulder and narrates this overlong flashback-filled color adult drama. It's supposed to take place somewhere in Europe, but nearly everyone has Southern accents! Monica Gayle stars as Erica, a poor girl who has various sexual encounters before Les finally takes her away. A farm boy can't do it, a playboy biker beats her, and she falls for a poetry-reading teacher. Parts are very tedious, parts are unintentionally funny, and parts are pretty sexy (Gayle is naked in a river, in a field, climbing a ladder . . .). Buchanan claims his Bergman copy played in Texas theaters—as a Bergman film—and nobody knew the difference! Gayle went on to many Hollywood nudie movies.

THE STRAWBERRY STATEMENT

(MGM, 1970) D: Stuart Hagmann S/A: Israel Horovitz P: Irwin Winkler

Bruce Davison stars as a guy who only cares about girls and boat races. Kim Darby and the arrival of National Guardsmen who crack some skulls make him become political. The Columbia University student riot comedy was made the same year as Kent State. With Bud Cort, Bob Balaban, Michael Margotta, James Coco, and Erica Gavin. The double Reprise soundtrack includes cuts by CSNY, Thunderclap Newman's "Something in the Air" (also in The Magic Christian the same year), Buffy Ste. Marie, and Neil Young.

STRAW DOGS

(Fox, 1971) D/S: Sam Peckinpah S: David Zelag Goodman P: Daniel Melnik

It's the revenge movie that others try to be. Dustin Hoffman stars as the pacifist mathematician in an English country home who finally fights back. With Susan George as his British wife, Peter Vaughan, David Warner, and Chloe Franks. When Cinerama went backrupt, AIP (then Filmways) took over distribution of the controversial R-rated hit. It made over $9 million. The running time was 118 minutes when first released.

STRAYS

(MCA, 1991) D: John McPherson
S: Shaun Cassidy P: Nikki Marvin

Kathleen Quinlan, Timothy Busfield, and their little girl are in their new remote country house. Killer cats with glowing eyes attack them. The cats are mechanical and the script copies Eye of the Cat. The USA-TV movie has too many routine cat-POV shots. With Claudia Christian as a visiting sister and William Boyett. Check out who wrote it.

STREET ASYLUM

(Magnum, 1988) D: Gregory Brown
S: John Powers P: Walter Gernet

An out-of-control LA cop (Wings Hauser) discovers that he has a control device on his back. Other cops, including his partners, become psychotic. G. Gordon Liddy, a right-wing candidate for mayor, is behind the confused plot. He hires a dominatrix, then kills her because she doesn't cause enough pain. With Sy Richardson as Hauser's new partner, Brion James as a TV preacher, Alex Cord, and Roberta Vasquez (from Playboy). R or unrated tapes are available. Hauser was also in Dead Man Walking, also made by Brown of the "Dark Brothers," of porno fame.

STREET DRUGS

(Majestic, 1969) D: Bill Brame S/P: John Lawrence
S: James Gordon White, Gerald Wilson
C: Austin McKinny (Free Grass)

Some idiots ruined this 60s drug movie (in 1989) by adding lots of solarization and senseless nude shots, slowing down scenes, and dubbing in irritating disco-synth music. They also changed the title and claim that Casey Kasem is the star, but that's OK. Russ Tamblyn, with wild curly hair and the same hat he wore in Satan's Sadists, does a great job as Link, a hippie speed freak (he injects) working for a gangster (Kasem). Richard Beymer falls in love with Lana Wood at a nightclub (where the Boston Tea Party play). Her first line is "I'm Snow White, would you like to trip with me?" Link says, "She looks juicy!" Nice guy Beymer wants to take her to Dayton, Ohio, but accepts a Mexican border drug-running job first. Things go seriously wrong after Kasem and his partner execute two agents (Jody McCrea and Lindsay Crosby) by shooting them in the head. Russ does lots of crazy and sick things (his stand-out manic scene is ruined in this altered version), Lana is tied up (twice), and Richard has a lengthy (very well done) LSD freakout scene. Cinematographer McKinny also shot The Thrill Killers, Spider Baby, and other 60s faves.

STREETFIGHT

(1975) D/S: Ralph Bakshi
P: Albert S. Ruddy (Coonskin)

Bakshi's third feature is an R-rated mixture of live action and animation that parodies Disney's Song of the South. Scatman Crothers tells the tale of a southern rabbit, a bear, and a fox who go to Harlem and have adventures. With Barry White, Charles Grodone, and Philip Michael Thomas. William A. Fraker was the cinematographer, and music is by Chico Hamilton. Bryanston distributed after some critics called it racist and Paramount backed off. Bakshi's animated Hey Good Lookin' (Warner, 1975) which is set in the 50s, wasn't released until 1980.

THE STREETFIGHTER

(New Line, 1974) D: Shighiro Ozawa
S: Koji Takoda, Steve Autres Japan

Sonny Chiba stars as Terry Tsuguri, a vicious, bitter (flashbacks reveal why) half-breed killer-for-hire in this notorious action feature which was the first movie rated X for violence when released (cut) by New Line (with a new title sequence by Jack Sholder). Tsuguri beats a man and throws him out a window, then sells his sister. We see blood spurting, vomit, a dagger in an eye, skulls smashed, and a throat being ripped out during a big battle in the rain. With Doris Nakajima as the oil heiress Tsuguri is hired to kidnap and Gerard Yamada as the comic relief trainer and cook Ratnose. The music is Ennio Morricone–style with 70s "wacka wacka" guitar. Scenes from this movie were later used in True Romance. Quentin Tarantino, a major fan, arranged the uncut video release of this, Streetfighter II: Return of the Streetfighter (1975), Sister Streetfighter (1976), starring Etsuko Shiomi, and Streetfighter's Last Revenge (1979). There was also a Streetfighter 4. Chiba (aka Chiba Shinichi) is a cult star. He starred in Toho features as early as 1961 (Invasion of the Neptune Men) and was also in The Executioner (1976), The Bodyguard (1976), Karate Killer (1981), and many others.

STREET FIGHTER

(MCA, 1995) D/S: Steven de Souza
P: Edward Pressman

Jean-Claude Van Damme stars as Guile, a red-haired career colonel in SE Asia in an action movie based on a video game. Raul Julia (who died in 1994) is the psychotic Nazi-look dictator who has kidnapped 63 relief workers and who feuds with an arms-dealing warlord (Wes Studi from Last of the Mohicans). With Ming-Na Wen (The Joy Luck Club) as a fighting TV reporter, Kylie Minogue, Damien Chapa, Roshan Seth, giant spiders, and dragons. The DJ heard throughtout the movie is the guy that Good Morning, Vietnam was based on. The PG-13 Universal release was the directorial debut of the writer of the Die Hard movies. It was shot (by William A. Fraker) in Australia and Bangkok. The Priority soundtrack has rap music.

STREET HITZ

(AIP, 1988) D/S/P/C/E: Joseph P. Vasquez

Junior (Angelo Lopez), a son of a barber, is unhappy living with his new wife on East 138th St. in the Bronx. He's a hothead with black best friends who likes to fight. His smarter brother goes to college and seems to have a future. Gangsters and the realities of ghetto life result in many senseless deaths and a depressing end. There's too much talking (or yelling) and soul-searching but it's a well-made first-effort low-budget 16mm feature, and the salsa music helps things along. Vasquez, who was black/Puerto Rican, was in his mid-20s when he made it (he died in 1996).

STREET HUNTER

(RCA, 1990) D/S: John A. Gallagher
S/A: Steve James P: David Gil

After co-starring in lots of ninja movies, the late New Yorker Steve James stepped out for his only starring role. As Logan Blade, bounty hunter and ex-cop, James lives in a van with a Doberman, eats beef jerky, has a singer girlfriend, and dresses like a character from a Leone western. Big blond Reb Brown plays a Nam vet mercenary fighter who quotes Nietzsche. A drug-dealing Hispanic gang led by a young scene-stealing John Leguizamo hires him to wipe out Italian mobsters, and he ends up in an impressive martial arts battle with Blade in an abandoned church. Street Hunter has lots of shooting, death, and action scenes. The Manhattan locations include a coffin store, 42nd Street, and the Variety Photoplays theater. Singer Richie Havens (!) plays a nightclub owner. With Sam Coppola and Susan Napoli (from Penthouse). From 21st Century.

STREET KNIGHT

(Warner, 1993) D: Albert Magnoli
S: Richard Friedman P: Mark DiSalle

Jeff Speakman (Perfect Weapon) plays an ex-cop running a garage in LA, who becomes involved in a violent black vs. Latino gang war. Christopher Neame is the racist Shakespeare-quoting villain behind all the trouble. With Jennifer Gatti, Bernie Casey, Richard Allen, and Ramon Franco. Magnoli also made Purple Rain. From Cannon.

STREET OF A THOUSAND PLEASURES

(SW, 1970) D/S/P: William Rotsler
S: Sam Dakota P: Merrill Dakota

A long-haired LA geologist goes to North Africa. He foils an assassin, so as a reward is taken to a secret slave market. He checks out all the ("71") naked women (some chained or tied up) while the camera shows closeups of their nipples. They laugh, smile, and dance and he says things like "Nice buttocks." Eventually he has sex with one white one, then one black one. The End. Rotsler said some of the (16mm) footage had been shot in his own yard years earlier, including the first nude footage of Uschi Digart.

STREET OF NO RETURN

(VSOM, 1989) D/S/A: Sam Fuller
S/P: Jacques Bral France/Portugal

Keith Carradine stars as a pop star named Michael, who fools around with the wrong woman in Europe and has his throat slashed. He becomes a long-haired alcoholic bum with a falsetto voice, is arrested for the murder of a cop, and escapes during a riot. It's based on a David Goodis novel. With Valentina Vargas, Bill Duke, and Andrea Ferreol.

STREET PEOPLE

(Vestron, 1974) D: Maurizio Lucidi
S: Ernest Tidyman, Randall Kleiser
P: Manolo Bolognini, Luigi Borghese Italy

The nephew (Roger Moore) of a San Francisco Mafia don searches for a fortune in stolen heroin with his race car-driving friend Stacy Keach. AIP released the action drama.

STREETS

(MGM, 1990) D/S: Katt Shea Ruben S/P: Andy Ruben

Christina Applegate (from the long-running Married . . . with Children show) stars as Dawn, a Venice, California, teen junkie prostitute. She leads a grim unglamorous life, living with other homeless kids. If things weren't bad enough, a psycho killer cop (Eb Lottimer) goes after her. With Starr Andreef and Kay Lenz in a bit part. Roger Corman was the exective producer for his Concorde.

STREET SISTERS

(New Pacific, 1972) D/S: Arthur Roberson
P/C/E: Joseph Holsen

Here's a depressing black cast movie based on the director's play. It's set in the rural 30s (but looks like the 70s) and shows how a little girl raised by her grandmother grows up to be a young woman (Durey Masen) and faces racism, hate, and savage pimps. There's a lot of talk about God and sin, and gospel and blues music is heard.

STREET SMART

(Media, 1987) D: Jerry Schatzberg S: David Friedman P: Golan/Globus M: Miles Davis

Christopher Reeve stars as a New York magazine reporter assigned to do a story about a pimp. He makes it all up, but the D.A. thinks it's based on a pimp called Fass Black, played by Morgan Freeman, who steals the movie. With Kathy Baker as a hooker, Mimi Rogers as Reeve's girlfriend, and Andre Gregory. Reeve got the role in the surprisingly good movie because he agreed to star in Superman IV. It was shot in Montreal.

STREETS OF DEATH

(Argosy, 1987) D/S: Jeff Hathcock P: John Tom Linson

R. L. Ryan and Jane Arakawa in Street Trash.

Two psychos, disguised as student filmmakers in a van, "start a whole new trend in snuff video," torture and kill hookers (off screen) and sell the tapes. They also eat Froot Loops. The quality of this shot-on-video obscurity is extremely low, although the cameraman tries to make things interesting. For all the hookers around, the only nudity is an old man. CELEBRITY ALERT: A heavy-set, balding Tommy Kirk (who also worked for Larry Buchanan and Al Adamson) plays an alcoholic ex-cop who gives a long serious speech about getting his dignity back and breaks down and cries before attempting to track down the killers on his own. Filmed in Los Alamitos.

STREETS OF FIRE

(MCA, 1984) D/S: Walter Hill S: Larry Gross P: Lawrence Gordon, Joel Silver

This "rock and roll fable" is an attempt to do a live-action Heavy Metal comics–type movie. It has a set-bound look and takes place during some past/future time period. Michael Paré stars, and rock singer Ellen Aim (Diane Lane, whose singing is dubbed) is kidnapped by the Bombers gang. The sledgehammer fight is a highlight. With Rick Moranis for comic relief, Amy Madigan as a tough dyke, Willem Dafoe, Lee Ving, Deborah Van Valkenburgh (The Warriors), Bill Paxton, Robert Townsend, and Ed Begley Jr. Also with Lee Allen and the Blasters playing in a club while an erotic dancer (Marine Jahan, who did the dancing in Flashdance) shakes it up. The MCA Ry Cooder soundtrack features "I Can Dream About You" by Dan Hartman.

STREETS OF RAGE

(Monarch, 1994) D: "Aristide Sumatra"/ Richard Elfman S/P/A: Mimi Lesseos

Martial arts champ Mimi Lesseos stars as a special forces commando turned LA reporter with romantic and crime complications. With Oliver Page as the leader of a child prostitution ring, and Christopher Cass.

STREET TRASH

(Lightning, 1986) D: Jim Muro
S/P: Roy Frunkes

This basically plotless feature about winos drinking contaminated Tenafly Viper booze goes out of its way to be offensive and was released unrated. If the production values and special effects weren't so good, it would resemble a Troma release (Troma regular big guy R. L. Ryan is even in it), but it has effective sick humor. The Nam flashbacks were some of the most disturbing I've seen, and the comic doorman character (James Lorinz) working for the mob is hilarious. Vic Noto, who plays the Nam vet, really was one, and the cop is an ex-cop. The real Brooklyn Wrecking Company (owned by the then-20-year-old director's father) makes an excellent set. It's hard to make necrophilia, castration, and (offscreen) gang rape funny, and these guys haven't always succeeded, but Street Trash is an unforgettable experience. If you're looking for something shocking, grim, and surprising, with some extreme gore (FX by Jennifer Aspinal), this is it. The complete version runs 100 minutes (the tape is 90). Muro's original Street Trash (1984) was a 10-minute, 16mm short. He went on to operate his steadicam for Terminator II and JFK.

STREETWALKIN'

(Vestron, 1985) D/S: Joan Freeman S/P: Robert Alden

Concorde's first release stars Melissa Leo (from All My Children) as a runaway hooker called Cookie. Dale Midkiff is the relentless, sadistic pimp Duke, and Julie Newmar is Queen Bee. With Antonio Fargas, Annie Golden, and Samantha Fox as a topless dancer. It was made by a husband/wife team who had made documentaries. R and unrated tapes are available. Corman had it remade as Uncaged (1991).

STREET WARRIORS

(All Seasons, 1971) D/S: José Antonio De La Loma Spain

JDs get away with everything in a violent movie featuring a castration scene. Christa Leem and Nadia Windell star. Street Warriors II (All Seasons, 1974), also by De La Loma, is said to be more violent.

STREET WARS

(Triboro, 1992) D/S/P: James Fanaka
P: Bryan O'Dell, Ben Caldwell

Allan Joseph (who narrates) stars as "Sugarpop," a motorcycle-riding aviation cadet whose older brother Frank (Bryan O'Dell) is a suburban LA crack-dealing "gangster" with a Muslim-style "roundtable" of followers. Frank is assassinated and after a joyful gospel music and dance funeral, Sugarpop takes over. He trains gang members to fly glider planes with machine guns, gets revenge, and eventually closes the "rock house." In his stand-out scene, controversial Nation of Islam spokesman Khalid Muhammad talks about "behavior learned from the devil" (white people). With a dance called the Rooster, a sex-change character, and a rap end theme.

STREETWISE

(New World, 1985) D: Martin Bell
S/P: Cheryl McCall S: Mary Ellen Mark

Two homeless kids in Seattle are the main "stars" of this acclaimed documentary. It shows how runaways barely stay alive by begging and by selling drugs or their bodies and is a stark contrast to the many fictional movies about the same topic.

STRIKE COMMANDO

(IVE, 1986) D/E: "Vincent Dawn"/Bruno Mattei
S: Claudio Fragaso P: Franco Gaudenzi Italy

Reb Brown, Christopher Connelly (who died in 1988), and Alan Collins star in a Rambo rip-off with Russian villains and lots of big guns. Collins returned in Strike Commando II (1987) by the same director.

STRIKE ME DEADLY

(SW, 1963) D/S/P: Ted V. Mikels S/A: Stephan Ihnat

This clever b/w drama has a good script (by Ihnat, who acted in In Like Flint) and excellent cinematography by Basil C. Bradbury, also the associate producer. Gary Clarke (Dragstrip Riot) is Jimmy, a forest ranger who witnesses a murder. He and his pretty wife (Jeannine Riley, later on Petticoat Junction and Hee Haw) end up being held captive by the killer in a remote cabin. Jimmy has a long (but useful) flashback to when they were playful newlyweds and encountered the same man in a nightclub. One visual highlight is a long chase scene through the woods, filmed without any cuts. Mikels made Dr. Sex next.

STRIKER

(AIP, 1987) D: "Stephen M. Andrews"/ Enzo G. Castarelli S: Tito Carpi, Umberto Lenzi P: George Salvioni Italy (Combat Force)

Frank Zagarino stars as Jack Slade, forced to rescue a war hero journalist (John Phillip Law) in Nicaragua. The plot concerns evil Sandinistas and lots of machine guns. Both sides are revealed to consist of corrupt drug dealers. Zagarino is tortured with electricity and Law watches a cockfight. The female lead, Melanie Rogers, is black, and John Steiner is in this feature, which was made around Miami.

STRIKING DISTANCE

(Columbia, 1993) D/S: Rowdy Herrington S: Martin Kaplan P: Aron Michan, Tony Thomopoulos

Bruce Willis stars in another action movie, this time as an alcoholic former Pittsburgh cop working for the River Rescue squad. He's after a serial killer, who he insists is a cop. With boat action on the Ohio River and flashbacks to try and explain the plot. Sarah Jessica Parker costars as his partner, with Dennis Farina (cop uncle), Brion James (detective), Robert Pastorelli (ex-partner), John Mahoney (his chief of detectives father), and Tom Sizemore. Brad Fiedel did the soundtrack and "Little Red Riding Hood" by Sam the Sham and the Pharaohs is heard several times.

STRIPORAMA

(Video Dimensions, 1953) D: anonymous P: Martin Lewis

Lili St. Cyr is top-billed in the plotless, color, famous-stripper revue movie from Venus Films. With Virginia ("Ding Dong") Bell, Scarlet Knight, and Rosita and her trained pigeons. Betty Page takes a "Most Daring" bubble bath and appears in a scene with burlesque comics. Lili and Betty both returned in Varietease (1954).

STRIPPED TO KILL

(MGM, 1986) D/S: Katt Shea Ruben S/P/A: Andy Ruben P: Mark Byers, Matt Leipzig

Katt Shea started out acting in cheap movies for Chuck Vincent (Preppies) and Roger Corman (The Devastator). Corman, in his typical fashion, gave her the first chance to direct. Kay Lenz stars as an undercover LA cop working at a topless dance club owned by Norman Fell. She's there to catch a serial killer, but she likes her work. With Greg Evigan (B.J. and the Bear) as her partner, Debra Lamb, and Karen Mayo Chandler. It made money on video (especially in France), so she got to direct a sequel too. Corman later had it remade as Dance with Death (1992) and made many other movies set in strip clubs.

STRIPPED TO KILL II

(MGM, 1989) D/S: Katt Shea Ruben P: Andy Ruben

A stripper (Maria Ford) with ESP has dreams of razor slasher murders, and other dancers at the Paragon club die. Like in the first movie, a lot of time is spent showing the strippers doing their acts. With Eb Lottimer, Karen Mayo Chandler, Virginia Peters, and Debra Lamb. From Corman's Concorde.

STRIP TEASE BABY DOLLS FROM CLEVELAND MEET THE UNKILLABLES

(197?) D/A: Raymund L. Gunn

A Walter Winchell imitator narrates this silly gangster comedy, which features scenes on W. 25th St., in the billiard hall beneath the old Hippodrome threater on Euclid, and a shootout at a rapid transit station. The "plot" is frequently interrupted by commercial spoofs and a doctored TV interview with Richard Widmark (with a Kiss of Death clip). Choice sound FX were borrowed from the Little Rascals and some music is from Psycho and disco records. It ends with strippers at a club.

STRIPTEASE COLLEGE GIRLS

(Channel 13, 194?) D/S: Lawrence Rainmond

In this silly old adult comedy, women at Striptease College wear bikinis, play leapfrog, take fencing lessons, and exercise. They sleep in stripper costumes and one dreams of being on stage in her pasties. One goes for a walk in the woods in high heels and a bikini. "Risqué" dialogue includes jokes about bananas and pussies. Cheyenne stars as Dora Dare and Charlie Craft is a comic European-accented professor.

THE STRIPTEASE MURDER CASE

(SW, 1950) D/S: Hugh Prince P: Arthur Jarwood, Chauncey Olman

An offsceeen narrator tells us all about 42nd St., "Sin Street" in NYC, then we see a series of strippers in a cabaret-type club with couples at tables and a jazzy band. The show includes a comedian, a crooner, and a belly dancer. Every once in a while we see bits of a minimal plot about Johnny the club owner being accused of killing a pencil-thin-mustached blackmailer over the star singer. The narrator says, "Johnny is what ya might call your leading man in this drama." Tall stripper Denise Darnell is the main attraction. The tame strip scenes could be PG today and the print is worn.

STRYKER

(Starmaker, 1983) D/P: Cirio H. Santiago S: Howard R. Cohen Philippines (Savage Dawn)

A gang of bald guys battle women with crossbows on motorcycles over a water supply in the future. The Road Warrior copy stars Steve Sandor with a cowboy hat as Stryker, William Ostrander, Julie Gray, Ken Metcalf, and Monique St. Pierre (who is gang raped). A man is buried up to his neck in the sand, and a midget army is a visual high point. From New World.

STUCK ON YOU

(Troma, 1982) D/S/P: Michael Herz, "Samuel Weil"/ Lloyd Kaufman S: nine of them!

Troma made this divorce-theme comedy with Prof. Irwin Corey as an angel sent to earth to bring a couple back together.

THE STUD

(Thorn EMI, 1978) D: Quentin Masters S: Jackie Collins UK

Rich and married Joan Collins becomes the lover of a young disco manager (Oliver Tobias), who sleeps his way to the top. With Sue Lloyd and Chris Jagger. This sex- and disco-music-filled followup to The Bitch was also based on a trashy novel by Joan's sister Jackie. Joan's third husband produced them both. Soon she was to make record money on Dynasty in America. The soundtrack includes tracks by Roxy Music, 10cc, Hot Chocolate, plus many disco hits. Released in America by Trans America/AIP.

STUDENT AFFAIRS

(Vestron, 1987) D/S/P: Chuck Vincent S: Craig Horall

There's a (50s teen movie) film-within-a-film in this sex comedy. Louie Bonanno stars with porn stars like Traci Adams and Veronica Hart using other names.

THE STUDENT BODY

(Continental, 1975) D: Gus Trikonis S: Hubert Smith P: Ed Carlin

It's the story of three coeds. With Warren Stevens, June Fairchild, Peter Hooten, and the acting debut of Jillian Kessner. This is the movie showing in a drive-in in the documentary The Thin Blue Line. It was on tape with Jailbait Babysitter.

STUDENT CONFIDENTIAL

(Media, 1987) D/S/P/A/M/E: Richard Horian

Doing it all guarantees obsessive, off-the-wall filmmaking. To introduce the characters, the camera swoops all over the place showing us the home lives of four Midvale high school students. Johnny (Kirk Douglas's youngest son Eric, also in Tomboy) is the working-class kid whose slob father yells, "You're gonna be a CPA!" Joseph (Michael Jackson's brother Marlon) is a computer whiz living with his mother. Elaine is a seductive would-be actress, and Susan (Playboy centerfold Susan Scott) is a gorgeous but shy blonde with a bad facial scar. Director Horian plays Mr. Drake, a serious, bearded workaholic millionaire who drops out of the business world to become the school's new guidance counselor. His ungrateful wife is having an affair and he has nightmares with an old lady strangling him. Horian/Drake, in what has to be an at least partly autobiographical role, talks endlessly, giving himself lots of stilted dialogue. When things get slow, he adds nude scenes of his wife and Susan. Ronee Blakley is his admiring secretary. I would guess that Horian is a fan of the old Naked City series and maybe caught a few choice Afterschool Specials before making Student Confidential. The kids' problems inspire him—he encourages them, shocks them, yells at them, forces them to face their faults, and manages to put all the troubled students on the right path. He pays for the shy, friendless blonde to have a new hair style, which awkwardly covers her scar, and all of a sudden everybody wants to know her. Elaine and Susan flee some phony producers who try to start an orgy. A severely depressed Mr. Drake is attacked by a street gang. "I want to go out fighting! I want you to kill me!!" All four kids miraculously converge in the same bad neighborhood, help their benefactor home, then stop him from commiting suicide! You've never seen a movie quite like this. It took a company like Troma to release it to theaters, but now it can be used to enrich your life at home.

THE STUDENT OF PRAGUE

(1912) D: Stellan Rye S: Hanns Heinz Ewers
P/A: Paul Wegener Germany (A Bargain with Satan)

A student (Wegener) receives a fortune in exchange for his reflection, which takes on an evil life of its own. The video runs 45 minutes. With German titles. The same Doppelgänger story was told by Poe as "William Wilson," filmed by Louis Malle as a segment of Spirits of the Dead (1967).

THE STUDENT OF PRAGUE

(LSVideo, 1926) D/S: Henrik Galeen
S: Hanns Heinz Ewers Germany
(Der Student Von Prague; The Man Who Cheated Life)

Conrad Veidt stars as Balduin, the 1820s student who sells his reflection to Scapinelli the Devil (Werner Krauss). The director had also written Nosferatu. This is considered the classic version of Poe's "William Wilson." A 1935 version starred Anton Walbrook.

STUDENT TEACHERS

(1973) D: Jonathan Kaplan S: Danny Opatoshu P: Julie Corman

An alternative learning center at Valley High School is the setting for this drive-in sex drama with a clown-masked killer. Susan Damante stars with Brooke Mills. With Charles Dierkop, Don Steele, Dick Miller, and Chuck Norris (!). Kaplan had also directed Night Call Nurses (1972). This was followed by Summer School Teachers. All were from New World.

STUDS LONIGAN

(MGM, 1961) D: Irving Lerner S/P: Philip Yordan

Christopher Knight (not the one from The Brady Bunch) stars as Studs in a pretty downbeat film based on James T. Farrell's 30s trilogy about directionless overaged juvenile delinquents in 1920s Chicago. Frank Gorshin, Jack Nicholson, and Robert Caspar co-star. They mostly hang out at a pool room and drink. There's a tacked-on happy ending. Nicholson was in The Wild Ride and Little Shop of Horrors around the same time. With Venetia Stevenson, Dick Foran, Jay C. Flippen, and Titus Moody. From UA. There was also a 1979 TV miniseries based on the same books.

A STUDY IN SCARLET

(Foothill, 1933) D: Edward L. Marin S: Robert Florey

This Sherlock Holmes movie has little to do with the novel it's named after. The plot is close to Ten Little Indians (which hadn't been written yet). Reginald Owen isn't the greatest Holmes, but it's worth seeing for costar Anna May Wong. With Warburton Gamble as Watson, Alan Mowbray, and Tetsu Komali. It was a one-shot indy production distributed by Fox.

THE STUFF

(Starmaker, 1985) D/S: Larry Cohen P: Paul Kurta

Americans are eating an addictive junk food that comes out of the earth. The stuff turns people into consumer zombies and eventually eats them from the inside. Michael Moriarty stars as an industrial spy who goes to upstate New York and discovers the conspiracy. It's not one of Cohen's most coherent movies. With Andrea Marcovicci, Garrett Morris as a Famous Amos cookie maker clone, and Paul Sorvino as an anti-Communist survivalist. Also in small roles or walk-ons: Danny Aiello, Brooke Adams, Abe Vigoda, Patrick O'Neal, Tammy Grimes, and Clara Peller. FX are by David Allen, Jim Danforth, and Ed French. It was filmed in Kingston, New York. New World released the science fiction comedy.

STUFF STEPHANIE IN THE INCINERATOR

(Media, 1989) D/S/P: Don Nardo S: Peter Jones

Troma released this PG-13 movie with a misleading title. Bored rich people act out murders and kidnappings. With M. R. Murphy and Catherine Dee as Stephanie.

THE STUNT MAN

(Fox, 1978) D/P: Richard Rush S: Lawrence B. Marcus

Nam vet Steve Railsback, on the run from police, is blackmailed by crazed director Eli Cross (Peter O'Toole) into becoming the replacement for a stuntman who was killed. He drifts in and out of reality on the hectic outdoor anti-war movie set. The excellent black comedy was shelved for several years, then 20th Century barely released it, but O'Toole was nominated for an Oscar. The script, based on Paul Brodeur's existential novel, was first written (by Rush) in 1970. With Barbara Hershey, Allen Garfield, Alec Rocco, Sharon Farrell, and Adam Roarke. It's 129 minutes long and has a score by Dominic Frontiere. Rush didn't direct again until Color of Night (1994).

Dick Miller in The Student Teachers.

STUNTS

(Edde, 1977) D: Mark L. Lester S: Dennis Johnson, Barney Cohen P: Raymond Lofaro, William Panzer
(Who Is Killing the Stuntmen?)

Robert Forster takes the place of his late stuntman brother on a film set and investigates his accidental death. A maniac is killing people busy working on a cop movie by the ocean. With Fiona Lewis as a journalist, Joanna Cassidy, Richard Lynch (and his actual chest scars), Bruce Glover, Ray Sharkey, and Candice Rialson as the movie star. The PG New Line release has an early Michael Kamen score.

SUBSPECIES

(Paramount, 1991) D: Ted Nicolau
S: Jackson Burr P: Ion Ioneson

Two beautiful coeds (Laura Tate and Michelle McBride) visit a former classmate in Romania. They stay at an ancient castle and become vampires. Anders Hove is the main long-haired teen vampire. Michael Watson is the hero good vampire brother. With Angus Scrimm in a silly wig as King Vladislav (in one scene) and a waste of good David Allen stop-motion FX. He provided the little demon monsters. Some Nosferatu scenes are copied. The Full Moon, Charles Band production was shot on location in Transylvania, Romania. The Moonstone soundtrack is by Stuart Brotman (from Kaleidoscope) and the Aman Folk Orchestra. Nicolau shot two sequels back to back. The first was Bloodstone.

SUBSTITUTE

(Paramount, 1993) D: Martin Donovan
S: David S. Goyer

Amanda Donohoe stars as a midwest teacher who discovers that her husband has been having an affair with a student. She kills them, fakes her death, and reappears in another state as a substitute who kills blackmailers. With Dalton James as a student she has an affair with, Natasha Gregson Wagner (the daughter of Natalie Wood), and rapper Marky Mark (Wahlberg). The USA Network movie was filmed in Vancouver. The director also made Apartment Zero.

SUBURBAN COMMANDO

(New Line, 1991) D: Burt Kennedy
S: Frank Cappello P: Howard Gottfried

Hulk Hogan (also the executive producer) stars in a PG science fiction comedy as an alien warrior stranded on earth with a magic power suit. He stays with a suburban couple (architect Christopher Lloyd and wife Shelley Duvall) and fights an alien. The script was written for Arnold Schwarzenegger. Larry Miller, Jack Elam, and Christopher Neame are also in it. With comic nods to Star Wars and other hits. Steve Johnson worked on the FX. Hogan was accused of using steroids about the time it was released. He was also in No Holds Barred, also from New Line.

SUBURBAN CONFIDENTIAL!

(Rhino, 1966) D/P: "A. C. Stevens"/ Stephen C. Apostoloff S: Jason Underwood (Suburban Roulette)

Stevens's first project after Orgy of the Dead opens with a "Dr. Legrand" discussing the private lives of various female patients. Housewives have sex with a TV repairman, a salesman, a bellboy, and a milkman. There's a lesbian scene, a little bondage, and a transvestite scene. The episodic black and white video is missing the segment about a Korean war bride. Motel Confidential followed.

SUBURBAN ROULETTE

(Sleaziest, VCI, 1967) D: Herschell Gordon Lewis S: James Thomas P: David Chudnow

A couple move into a new suburban house and become involved in wife swapping with the neighbors. They have parties by the pool and in living rooms and at one point use a roulette wheel to choose partners. Arguments and fistfights result and they go back to good family values at the end. Elizabeth Wilkinson and Ben Morre star with Vicki Miles and William Kerwin. Joe Bob Briggs introduces one version of the color tape (which has no nudity).

SUBURBIA

(Vestron, 1984) D/S: Penelope Spheeris P: Bert Dragin (The Wild Side)

No-future punk kids live in an abandoned, rundown communal house. Outraged locals try and have them thrown out. Some of the music is by T.S.O.L. and the Vandals. With Flea from the Red Hot Chili Peppers. Spheeris made this after her The Decline of Western Civilization (1981). She followed it with more modern American teens-in-trouble movies: The Boys Next Door (1985) and Dudes (1987). From Roger Corman's New Horizons.

SUBWAY

(Fox, 1985) D/S/P: Luc Besson S: Pierre Jolivet P: Francois Ruggieri France

Christopher Lambert (with blond hair) is a thief who lives (along with many others) in the Paris Métro system. Isabelle Adjani costars in the silly but very stylish movie which was dubbed in America. Besson, who had already directed Le Dernier Combat, is better known (in America) for his La Femme Nikita.

SUBWAY RIDERS

(1981) D/S/P/A: Amos Poe P: Johanna Heer

Robbie Coltrane stars as a cop in this New York city "underground" feature. With John Lurie as a street saxophonist who kills a listener, Cookie Mueller, Susan Tyrrell, and Bill Rice. Poe also made Alphabet City.

SUCCABARE

(VCR, 1981) Hong Kong

The Mayo tribe in Northwest China is ruled by four princesses with colorful costumes and braids, who can never leave their land. They practice snake-poison magic. An offscreen narrator tells us this fictional film was made with "the reluctant participation of the people. The producers have endeavored to replace their native language with English wording(!)." A playboy outsider gets one of the princesses pregnant and leaves, so he's cursed. He becomes a white-faced "vampire." During an exorcism attempt his stomach is opened and bloody snakes wriggle out. Somebody else pukes green worms. Although it's presented as a horror/fantasy, Succabare has some unsettling real mondo moments. Every once in a while, a man is shown eating a live snake, toad, lizard, mouse, . . . and real bulls are skinned. With some martial arts fighting, a moondance, and a partial synthesizer score. One actor, Carter Wong, later showed up in John Carpenter's Big Trouble in Little China.

SUCCUBUS

(VGB, 1967) D: Jesús Franco S: Pier A. Caminneci P: Adrian Hoven W. Germany (Necronomicon—Getraumte Sunden)

Succubus has a dream-vs.-reality plot, so anything goes. Michel Lemoine, a French actor with glowing eyes, narrates: "She had done well . . . a disciple . . . a devil on earth." She (Janine Reynaud) is part of an S&M nightclub act, teasing a tied-up couple, then stabbing the man. She lives in a castle, dreams about sex and killing men, and wanders around Lisbon in a red robe. Franco regular Howard Vernon plays a word association game with her: "Justine." "Love." "Religion." "Gomorrah." "Goethe." "Kafka. . ." There's a lot of pretentious Godard-inspired dialogue. In a discussion about what's antiquated, the Rolling Stones are deemed "not bad, but antiquated." Sugar cubes are passed out at a party (complete with a dwarf and a guy in drag) and people bark on their hands and knees. She tells her shrink that horror films are her weakness and the camera scans over all the old Aurora monster models (!). There's also a long sex scene shot through a fish tank (the tank is in focus), a lesbian scene, mannequins that come to life, an eyeball stabbing, a jazz soundtrack, and a scenic drive through West Berlin. What more could you ask for? This was a 1969 X-rated Trans-American release, one of the few Franco movies to receive a theatrical release in America. Unfortunately this print is worn and has pretty bad sound.

SUCCUBUS = THE DEVIL'S NIGHTMARE

SUCKER MONEY

(Sinister, 1933) D: Dorothy Reid, Melville Shyer S/P: Willis Kent

Mischa Auer is a phony swami who tricks people out of money with fake spiritualists. Mae Busch (The Unholy Three) costars in the rare indy drama, distributed by Hollywood Films.

THE SUCKLING

(J.D.R., 1989) D/S/P/E: Francis Teri P: Michael Helman

In 1973, a tentacled, mutant monster (Michael Gingold, later a Fangoria editor) terrorizes and kills off everybody trapped in a rickety old Brooklyn whorehouse run by "Big Mama," a part-time illegal abortion doctor. The monster was a baby, exposed to toxic waste after being flushed down the toilet. The monster's mother has a flashback of what happened while drugged in a hospital. The various pimps, hookers, and johns argue, bitch, and fight while they die one by one. Frank Reeves stands out as Axel, a crazed, wired human killer (sort of like Harvey Keitel would have been in Night of the Living Dead). This very tasteless low-budget horror movie by film students has some good camera work, a dream within a dream, a crawling hand, decapitations, animation, sex, blood, gore, humor, violence, Halloween-type music, and one of the strangest comic S&M scenes ever filmed. It's not boring.

SUDDEN DEATH

(Media, 1975) D: Eddie Romero P/A: John Ashley Philippines

Robert Conrad (in between TV series) and Felton Perry go to the Philippines to capture the killer of the president of a corporation. Don Stroud is the assassin sent to kill Conrad. With some martial arts, John Ashley, Larry Manetti, and Vic Diaz. Bryanston released it. Ashley also starred in Romero's Black Mamba, about a snake woman, around the same time.

SUDDEN DEATH

(Vestron, 1985) D/S: Sig Shore P: Steven Shore, David Greene

A New York City executive (Denise Coward James) becomes a rape victim then turns into a Ms. 45–type avenger and guns down men. The star was Miss Australia 1978. Shore backed the Superfly movies.

SUDDEN IMPACT

(Warner, 1983) D/P/A: Clint Eastwood S: Joseph C. Stinson

Clint Eastwood is Dirty Harry for the fourth time. It was the worst of the bunch, but President Reagan got a lot of use out of "Go ahead, make my day." Sondra Locke (in the last of six movies with Clint) is the man-killer who has been raped. Cocks are blown off, a farting bulldog provides comic relief, and Clint beats up a lesbian. With Pat Hingle, Bradford Dillman, Albert Popwell, Nancy Parsons, and Lisa London (The Naked Cage). It was shot in Carmel, the California town that made the star its mayor. Charles B. Pierce (Boggy Creek) co-wrote the story.

SUDDENLY

(Hal Roach, Sinister, 1954) D: Lewis Allen
S: Richard Sale P: Robert Bassler

Frank Sinatra stars as a cold-blooded war vet killer waiting in a small California town (called Suddenly) to assassinate the president (who is never seen). He and two others take over a home and keep a woman, her kid, and her father-in-law hostage. With Sterling Hayden as the sheriff, James Gleason, and Nancy Gates. Paul Frees and Christopher Dark are Sinatra's associates. Rumors later claimed that Oswald saw this before the JFK assassination. Sinatra (who also starred in The Manchurian Candidate) later tried to have all prints destroyed. Now it's common on tape; the United Artists release has even been colorized. Even without the bizarre real-life parallels, it's a good movie.

SUDDEN TERROR

(1971) D: John Hough S: Ronald Hardwood
P: Paul Maslansky UK (Eyewitness)

Mark Lester stars in a pretty tense PG "Boy Who Cried Wolf" story set on scenic Malta. He sees the assassination of a visiting black statesman during a public celebration. Nobody believes him, but the killers show up at the lighthouse where he lives with Lionel Jeffries and Susan George. Peter Vaughn is the main assassin.

SUDDEN THUNDER

(AIP, 1990) D/P: David Hunt S: Steve Rogers

Andrea Lamatsch (who has a heavy Zsa Zsa accent) stars as an undercover Miami cop. Armed men set her small-Southern-town sheriff father on fire. Four of her big city cop friends join her there for revenge. Most of the time is taken up by chases and shooting but she takes the time for a nude swim. With another corrupt sheriff, a helpful black moonshiner, and South American drug dealers.

SUGAR COOKIES

(Troma, 1972) D/S: Theodore Gershuny S/A: Lloyd Kaufman
P: Ami Artzi

Mary Woronov and Lynn Lowry (in two roles) star in this rare NYC feature about sex, mind games, murder, and making movies. It's similar in some ways to Performance and is a lot more interesting than most of today's "erotic thrillers." Woronov and Lowry have nude scenes together and the haunting "Sally Go Round the Roses" by the Jaynettes, always rumored to be a lesbian theme, is on the soundtrack. Also with Warhol stars Ondine and Monique Van Vooren and porn star Jennifer Welles. A 42nd St. marquee announces See No Evil and Die, Die My Darling. Troma president Kaufman (also the executive producer) plays a lawyer. Cookies was given an X, but was later recut for an R. Gershuny made Silent Night, Bloody Night next (also with Woronov). Then they were divorced and Woronov was in Seizure by Oliver Stone—who was also the associate producer of Sugar Cookies!

Lynn Lowry stars in Sugar Cookies.

SUGAR HILL

(Fox, 1993) D: Leon Ichaso S: Barry Michael Cooper P: Rudy Langois, Gregory Brown

Wesley Snipes and Michael Wright star as Harlem brothers who have become rich drug dealers after white mobsters (led by Abe Vigoda) kill their junkie father (Clarence Williams III) and their mother ODs. Snipes wants out and he wants nice girl Theresa Randle. The moody, flashback-filled movie includes Ernie Hudson as a rival dealer and Joe Dallesandro. By the director of Crossover Dreams and written by the scripter of New Jack City. The 123-minute-long, indy feature has a jazz score. The laser version has extra scenes. Not to be confused with Sugar Hill (1974), the black voodoo and gangster movie or the late 80s Sugar Hill video series (from Active Video) with Ashley Eastwood as detective Yolanda Hill.

THE SUICIDE CLUB

(Academy, 1987) D/P: James Bruce
S: Matthew Gaddis P: Steve Crisman

Bored rich kids play a card game where the winner has to drink poison in this slow adaptation of a Robert Louis Stevenson story. Mariel Hemingway stars with Robert Joy, Madeleine Potter, Michael O'Donoghue, and Anne Carlisle. The director was an assistant to Louis Malle. The story had been filmed twice in England and as a 1973 TV movie.

SUICIDE CULT

(Continental, 1977) D: Jim Glickenhaus
P/A: Mark Buntzman (Astrologer)

There's too much talk in this obscure horror story about the virgin birth of a demigod. It was the first by Glickenhaus, who later made better movies (like Shakedown) and formed SGE.

SUMMER CAMP

(1979) D: Chuck Vincent
S: Avrumie Schnitzer P: Mark Borde

Teens return for a ten-year camp reunion in a stupid sex comedy. Linnea Quigley has a small role.

SUMMER CAMP NIGHTMARE

(Nelson, 1985) D/S: Bert Dragin S: Penelope Spheeris
P: Robert T. Crow, Emilia Lesniak-Crow

A camp counselor (Charles Stratton) leads a rebellion. He locks up all the adults and takes over. It leads to violence and death. This starts like a typical dumb teen comedy but a Lord of the Flies plot takes over. Chuck Connors is the new overstrict, religious butterfly-collecting camp counselor. The PG-13 Concorde release is based on The Butterfly Revolution by William Butler. Dragin (from Cleveland) also produced Suburbia.

SUMMER DREAMS

(A-Pix, 1990) D: Michael Switzer S: Charles Rosin
P: Joel Fields (The Story of the Beach Boys)

This is one of the better rock bio films. Bruce Greenwood is excellent, starring in what should have been called "The Story of Dennis Wilson." The drummer and only surfing Beach Boy drowned in 1983 after marriage, drinking, and drug problems. Many of the facts here are questionable, but it's pretty interesting to see actors playing the various band members, their father, Murray, and, yes, even Charles Manson. With Greg Kean as Brian Wilson and Casey Sander as Mike Love, Arlen Dean Snyder, and Bo Foxworth. The familiar hits were rerecorded by others. The ABC-TV movie was based on Heroes and Villains by Steven Gaines. The R-rated tape had some additional topless scenes.

SUMMER HOLIDAY

(1963) D: Peter Yates S: Peter Myers, Ronald Cass P: Kenneth Harper

Cliff Richard and three other young mechanics use a double-decker bus for a travel service in France and Greece. They take along some girl singers and an American girl singer (Lauri Peters) disguised as a boy. The Shadows do "Stranger in Town" and other instumental greats. With Ron Moody. AIP opened the Cinemascope feature in Oklahoma City. Richard had also been in Expresso Bongo (1959).

SUMMER OF FEAR = STRANGER IN OUR HOUSE

SUMMER OF SECRETS

(VidAmerica, 1976) D: Jim Sharman S: John Aitken P: Michael Thornhill Australia

A mad doctor on an island tries to revive his dead wife. Others watch home movies. With Arthur Dignam, Kate Fitzpatrick, and Nell Campbell. It's by the director of The Rocky Horror Picture Show.

SUMMER SCHOOL

(Paramount, 1987) D/A: Carl Reiner S: Jeff Franklin P: George Shapiro, Howard West

This is a PG-13 teen comedy starring Mark Harmon as a teacher, but some of the kids are pretty outrageous and parts of it become a gore comedy (with superior FX by Rick Baker). With Kirstie Alley, Robin Thomas, Patrick Laborteaux, Fabiana Udenio, and Dean Cameron as "Chainsaw."

SUMMER SCHOOL TEACHERS

(GWN, 1977) D: Barbara Peeters P: Julie Corman

In a followup to Student Teachers, some teachers upset the school administration by making students think for themselves. Candice Rialson stars with Pat Anderson and Rhonda Leigh Hopkins. Dick Miller is a macho coach. The music is by J. J. Jackson, later an original MTV VJ. From New World. Peeters had already directed Bury Me an Angel.

THE SUN BUNNIES

(Night Flite, 1976) D/S/P: "A. C. Stevens"/Stephen Apostoloff S: Ed Wood Jr. (The Beach Bunnies)

A scandal magazine writer stays at a beach hotel with her girlfriends. She tries to get the facts about movie star Rock Sanders, rumored to have had a sex change. Rock's gay agent tries to keep her away and everybody has sex on boats or on the beach. The filmmakers show their sensitive side by having a woman raped on the beach at night by three men, then telling her friends how much she enjoyed it. Wendy Cavanaugh stars with Brenda Fogerty, Foreman Shane, and Rick Cassidy. It was one of several features Ed Wood wrote for Stevens before Wood died, an alcoholic, in 1978.

SUNDOWN: THE VAMPIRE IN RETREAT

(Vestron, 1989) D/S: Anthony Hickox S: John Burgess P: Jef Richard M: Richard Stone

A family arrives in Purgatory, a town of vampires with a plasma plant. The good in-control vampires face off against the old-fashioned bloodthirsty vampires in a fun comedy horror movie. Bruce Campbell is the comic Van Helsing character and David Carradine is good as Count Mardulak, owner of the town. One scene features a demonic animated bat/ man. John Ireland leads the renegade vampires. M. Emmet Walsh is part of a funny ZZ Top–inspired trio of old vampires. With Jim Metzler, Morgan Brittany, Maxwell Caulfield, Deborah Foreman, Dana Ashbrook, and Buck Flower. It was shot in Utah and was dedicated to director Douglas Hickox (Theatre of Blood), who died in 1988. Silva issued a soundtrack.

SUNNYSIDE

(1979) D/S: Timothy Galfas P: Robert L. Schaffel

Joey (not John) Travolta stars in this AIP movie as a street kid who wants to stop all the fighting. With John Lansing, Talia Balsam, and Joan Darling.

SUNSET BOULEVARD

(Paramount, 1950) D/S: Billy Wilder S/P: Charles Brackett S: D. M. Marshall Jr.

One of the greatest movies about Hollywood and fame is told in flashback by Joe Gillis (William Holden), a dead man floating in a pool. The brilliant black comedy received three Oscars. Gloria Swanson is silent star Norma Desmond, writer Holden is her new gigolo, and Erich von Stroheim is Max the butler, who holds a funeral for a monkey. With Jack Webb, Fred Clark, Cecil B. DeMille, Hedda Hopper, Buster Keaton, H. B. Warner, and Yvette Vickers. The music is by Franz Waxman. A 1993 London then 1994 Broadway musical was based on this Paramount classic.

SUNSET GRILL

(New Line, 1993) D: Kevin Connor S: Marcus Wright, Faruque Ahmed

Peter Weller stars as a drunken, old-fashioned LA private eye whose wife (Alexandra Paul) has been killed. He and Lori Singer discover that Mexicans are being killed and sold for their body parts. With Stacy Keach as a sadistic gangland killer, Sandra Wild, and John Rhys-Davies. The R or unrated tape is set in LA and Mexico.

SUNSET HEAT

(New Line, 1992) D: John Nicolella S: Max Strom, John Allen Nelson

Michael Paré stars as a reformed drug dealer (now a photojournalist) in Malibu accused of ripping off another dealer (Dennis Hopper trying to copy his own Blue Velvet role). With Daphne Ashbrook as his ex, Tracy Tweed, Julie Strain, and Traci Dali (most are featured in the many sex scenes), Adam Ant as a crook, and Little Richard. The "erotic thriller" is available in R or unrated versions.

SUNSET STRIP

(Vestron, 1985) D/S/P: William Webb S: Brad Munson

Tom Eplin is hunted by the LA police while looking for the killers of his friend, a strip club owner played by British blues legend John Mayall (!).

SUNSET STRIP

(PM, 1992) D: Paul G. Volk S: Nick Stone P: Nancee Borgnine

Michelle Foreman is a topless stripper in a Flashdance copy. Old (Helen Costa) and young (Cameron) strippers help train her and other strippers are murdered in the "erotic thriller." Protective Jeff Conaway owns the bar. With Lori Jo Hendrix and Shelley Michelle (the Pretty Woman body double).

SUPERCHICK

(Prism, 1973) D: Ed Forsyth S/P: John Burrows

Future astrologer Joyce Jillson stars as Tara B. True, a pot-smoking blond stewardess and kung fu fighter with lovers in many major US cities. Jillson used a body double for nude scenes. With John Carradine as an ex-actor surgeon who likes S&M, Uschi Digart, Candy Samples, and Dan Haggerty as a biker. From Crown International.

Visitors at the "Art of Hollywood" exhibit in London (1980) stare at the "corpse of William Holden" from Sunset Boulevard.

SUPER COP: POLICE STORY III

(VSOM, 1992) D: Tong Kwei Lai S/P: Tang King-Sung
S: Ma Mei-Ping, Lee Wei-Yee P: Willie Chan

In his most expensive feature (at the time), Jackie Chan plays a Hong Kong cop who goes to the mainland (then Malaysia and Thailand) while undercover to help bust a drug ring. With action scenes involving a train, helicopters, and motorcycles, and comedy scenes. Michelle Yeoh/Kahn is his Cantonese partner posing as his sister and Lo Lieh is an arms dealer. The director was a stunt coordinator. Funny and/or dangerous outtakes are shown at the end. A sequel, Supercop II or Project S (1993) starred Yeoh, with Chan in a cameo.

SUPERFLY

(Warner, 1973) D: Gordon Parks Jr.
S: Phillip Fenty P/A: Sig Shore

Shaft was the only black cast movie that outgrossed this landmark action hit in the 70s. Ron O'Neal is Youngblood Priest, a cool-looking, long-haired Harlem coke pusher trying to make that one last big deal. The NAACP asked Warner Brothers to have him die at the end. With Sheila Frazier, Carl Lee, Julius Harris, and Curtis Mayfield. The great Mayfield score was on Curtom. Parks Jr. is the son of the director of Shaft. He also directed Three the Hard Way and The Education of Sonny Carson (both 1974).

SUPERFLY T.N.T.

(Western, 1973) D/A: Ron O'Neal
S: Alex Haley P: Sig Shore

Ron O'Neal returns, directing himself in this sequel made in Europe, Rome, and Africa (the same year as Shaft in Africa). The ex-drug dealer helps an African official on a gun-running mission. With Roscoe Lee Browne, Sheila Frazier, and Robert Guillaume. The Buddah soundtrack is by Osibissa. Shore later presented Return of Superfly, a flop 1990 rehash.

SUPER FORCE

(MCA, 1990) D: Richard Compton S: Janis Hendler, Larry Brody P: Michael Attanasio

This is two episodes of a syndicated TV kid show (running a long 92 minutes). Ken Olandt stars as a 21st-century NASA astronaut turned martial-arts-fighting LA cop, with a super cycle and a Robocop suit developed by his black scientist friend (Larry B. Scott). The slo-mo gun battles, cheap FX, and barren sets make for maximum boredom. With regulars Lisa Niemi and Patrick Macnee's voice and scrambled face as the late Mr. H, plus guest villains G. Gordon Liddy and Marshall Teague.

SUPER FUZZ

(Embassy, 1981) D/S: Sergio Corbucci
S: Sabatino Ciuffini P: Maximilian Wolkoff
Italy (Miami Supercop, Trinity, Good Guys, Bad Guys; Supersnooper)

Terence Hill stars as Dave Speed, a Miami cop exposed to radiation from an atom bomb test. He becomes an awkward comic hero with superpowers and goes after mobsters led by Marc Lawrence. His cop partner Ernest Borgnine looks surprised a lot. With Joanne Dru and Julie Gordon. It was filmed in Miami. I saw it in San Francisco on a triple bill at the Standard.

SUPERGIRL

(Avid, 1984) D: Jeannot Szwarc
S: David Odell P: Timothy Burrill

Helen Slater (in her film debut) stars as Kara, Superman's blond cousin. Faye Dunaway is the evil—but comic—Selena who hides out at a small-town carnival spook house. The plot is mostly about which woman gets Hart Bochner. It's pretty stupid, but at least Slater is more fun to watch flying than Christopher Reeve. Peter O'Toole is Supergirl's friend and mentor, Peter Cook and Brenda Vaccaro are the other villains, and Mia Farrow (in her only non–Woody Allen movie for many years) and Simon Ward are Supergirl's parents. Also with Marc McClure (returning from the Superman movies as Jimmy Olsen) and Matt Frewer. The video was released in Japan (with an extra 20 minutes) before the PG feature opened in America. USA video also released The Making of Supergirl, but nobody cared.

THE SUPERGRASS

(Nelson, 1987) D/S: Peter Richardson
S: Pete Richens P: Elaine Taylor UK

It's a comedy thriller from the Comic Strip Group, about waiting for a drug shipment by the sea. Adrian Edmondson stars as a police informer with Jennifer Saunders and Robbie Coltrane. Richardson went on to Eat the Rich and The Pope Must Die.

SUPERMAN III

(Warner, 1983) D: Richard Lester
S: David Newman P: Pierre Spangler

After two enjoyable Superman movies, this bad comedy came out. Superman (Christopher Reeve again) returns to a Smallville reunion where he sees Lana Lang (Annette O'Toole). Meanwhile Robert Vaughn and Annie Ross hire a comic computer wizard (Richard Pryor) to make synthetic kryptonite. With Pamela Stephenson (Lee) as Lorelei. Jackie Cooper, Margot Kidder, and Marc McClure all return in smaller roles than before. It's a very long 123 minutes and the network TV version is 19 minutes longer! The Salkinds sold the film rights to Cannon after making this (and Supergirl). And see The Adventures of Superman, Atom Man vs. Superman, and TV's Greatest Adventures of Superman for earlier versions of the comic book legend.

SUPERMAN IV: THE QUEST FOR PEACE

(Warner, 1987) D: Sidney J. Furie S: Lawrence Konner, Mark Rosenthal P: Golan/Globus

Christopher Reeve himself co-wrote the anti-nuke story that helped kill off the once-promising series. He rescues a Russian astronaut, addresses the U.N., and intercepts missiles. Lex Luthor (Gene Hackman, back from Superman II) creates an evil

a.k.a. Super Soul Brother

Superman double called Nuclear Man and the super-opponents fight at the Great Wall of China. With Jon Cryer, Sam Wanamaker, and Mariel Hemingway, who wants Clark Kent. Jackie Cooper, Marc McClure, and Margot Kidder (in a very small role) all return again. The voice of Susannah York is also heard, and there's a score by Alexander Courage that was credited to John Williams. Each feature made much less than the previous one. This was followed by the Superboy syndicated TV series (1988–92), then the Lois and Clark network series (beginning in 1993). The Salkinds bought back the rights and promised a Superman V (with a new star).

SUPERMAN: THE SERIAL: See THE ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN

SUPER MARIO BROS.

(Hollywood, 1993) D: Rocky Morton, Annabel Jankel S: Parker Bennett, Terry Runte, Ed Solomon P: Jake Eberts, Roland Joffe

Buena Vista figured this would be a sure thing for the many kids who know the Nintendo video game. They were wrong. Bob Hoskins and John Leguizamo star as Brooklyn Italian plummers who go to Dinohattan, a cheap-looking Blade Runner copy (sets by David L. Snyder) parallel universe. Dennis Hopper is the lizard king Koopa (look for the Koopa dolls!) who devolves people that get in his way. Fiona Shaw is his evil partner and Samantha Mathis (Pump Up the Volume) is the princess in peril. With Fisher Stevens and Richard Edson (who become stupid, comic-relief, lizard-head henchmen), Mojo Nixon, Lance Henriksen, and some small dinosaurs. The creators of Max Headroom directed the $50 million PG flop, partially in an old factory in North Carolina. It didn't stop more movies based on video games. The Capitol soundtrack includes George Clinton, Megadeth, and the Divinyls.

THE SUPERNATURALS

(Embassy, 1985) D: Armand Mastroianni
S/P: Michael S. Murphy, Joel Soisson

Confederate zombies seeking revenge attack young National Guard trainees in the Alabama woods. The Mark Shostrom–made-up zombies are good, but the movie is kind of dull, and sad ghosts show up. Nichelle Nichols (in her only non–Star Trek film since Truck Turner) is the sergeant. With Maxwell Caulfield, Talia Balsam (daughter of Martin), LeVar Burton, Scott Jacoby, and Bobby DiCicco. Some will want to see it for the past and present Star Trek actors.

SUPERSONIC MAN

(United, 1978) D/S: Juan Piquer
S: Sebastian Moi Spain/Italy

Michael Coby is the super hero from another galaxy. Dr. Gluck (Cameron Mitchell) has a robot-controlled army. See some of the worst flying scenes in history. It was made the same year as Superman.

SUPERSONIC SAUCER

(Sinister, 1956) D: S. G. Ferguson S/P: Frank Wells UK

A baby alien from Venus (a puppet) can turn into an (animated) flying saucer. Some crooks kidnap it, but kids come to the rescue. It's only 50 minutes long.

SUPER SOUL BROTHER

(Xenon, 1978) D/S/E: Rene Martinez
S: Laura S. Diaz (Six Thousand Dollar Nigger)

Wildman Steve was a "party album" comedian (who worked on stage with Rudy Ray Moore). He starred in this grainy-looking comedy as a wino who is made bulletproof by some gangsters so he can commit robberies for them. In his new luxury surroundings, he eats beans and rice, gets high, and seduces a pretty nurse. He also tells lots of jokes, gives a pro-marijuana speech, and goes back to the ghetto and beats up the bums who used to harass him. The serum was discovered by Dr. Zippy, a white dwarf with a bad Euro accent who can't remember his lines and dances with a topless blonde in one scene. A sequel (!) is announced at the end.

SUPER SPOOK

(1975) D/S: Anthony Major S/P: Ed Dessisso
S/A: Leonard Jackson, Bill Jay, Tony King

This very-low-budget Shaft parody was made in New York City. It's real. I've seen the trailer.

SUPERSTAR: THE LIFE OF ANDY WARHOL

(Vestron, 1990) D/S/P/E: Chuck Workman

Many interviews, both new and old, fill up most of the time in this interesting documentary about one of the least-known and most-famous people of the postwar art (and movie) world. Some of the most revealing scenes are in (Warhol's) Pennsylvania hometown. It also covers the 1968 assassination attempt and his suspicious death in a hospital in 1987. With Lou Reed, Viva, Ultra Violet, Holly Woodlawn, Candy Darling, Dennis Hopper, Taylor Mead, Sally Kirkland, Shelley Winters, Sylvia Miles, Grace Jones, and many more.

SUPERSTITION

(Lightning, 1981) D: James W. Roberson
S: Donald G. Thompson P: Ed Carlin (The Witch)

Andy Warhol as seen in Superstar.

A centuries-old haunted house in Vermont is the scene of gory murders. An alcoholic reverend (James Houghton) and his family move in and people are drowned, decapitated, cut in half, and cooked in the microwave. The reverend eventually kills the witch responsible. With Albert Salmi as an inspector, Jacqueline Hyde, Larry Pennell, Stacy Keach Sr., Lynn Carlin, and John Alderman.

SUPER STOOGES VS. THE WONDER WOMEN

(1973) D/S: "Al Bradley"/Alfonso Brescia
S: Aldo Crudo P: Ovidio Assonitis
Italy/Hong Kong (Three Fantastic Supermen)

This wacky period fantasy comedy adventure stars three heroes with fighting specialties. The multi-racial stars are Nick Jordan as the Darma, Yueh Hua as a kung fu master, and Mark Hannibal as the black strongman. They fight (and fall in love with) Amazon women, and there's a magician. With Karen Yeh and Melissa Longo. Did anybody out there catch this on an AIP PG-rated double bill with the Vincent Price movie Madhouse?

SUPERVAN

(Cinema Home, 1977) D: Lamar Card
S: Neva Friedenn, Robert Easter
P: Sal A. Capra, Sandy Cohen

A customized van contest is the topic of this PG teen movie from New World and the director of The Clones. With Morgan Woodward.

SUPERVIXENS

(RM, 1975) D/S/P/A/C: Russ Meyer

This was Meyer's first 70s hit (after several career setbacks). It's his most violent and cartoon-like movie and was rated X. Many actors and characters from previous Meyer movies show up. Shari Eubank is SuperAngel/SuperVixen, Charles Napier is the sneering impotent psycho cop Harry Sledge, and Uschi Digart is SuperSoul. Also with Charles Pitts, Henry Howland (as Martin Bormann), Sharon Kelly, John LaZar, Stuart Lancaster, Richard Pryor's one-time wife Deborah McQuire (as Super-Eula), Ann Marie, and Haji. Supervixens was shot in Arizona and New Mexico. It made $4 million in North American rentals and "over $17 million" worldwide. Up! was next.

The Super Stooges vs. the Wonder Women

SURF II

(Media, 1982) D/S: Randall Badat
P: George G. Braunstein, Ron Hamady

A mad geek teen scientist (Eddie Deezen) turns surfers into zombies with his "Buzz Cola," and teens eat garbage, in a spoof of teen drive-in movies. It's full of sub-Porky's-type humor. There was no Surf I. The cast includes Eric Stoltz (who probably leaves it off his résumé), Morgan Paul, Cleavon Little, Lyle Waggoner, Ruth Buzzi, Carol Wayne (who drowned in 1984), Ron Palillo, Corinne Bohrer, Linda Kerridge, Britt Helfer, and Brinke Stevens (an extra). The music is oldies and New Wave.

SURFER GIRLS

(1978) D/S/P: "Allan Silliphant"/Alf Silliman Jr.
P: Chris J. Condon (Kahuna)

It's more 3-D sex from the makers of The Stewardesses. Filmed in Hawaii and California.

SURF NAZIS MUST DIE

(Media, 1987) D: Peter George
S: Jon Ayre P: Robert Tinnell

Some people wanted to see this Troma movie because of its name, but don't be fooled. "Samurai Surfers" and "Surf Nazis" fight for control of a post-earthquake California beach in a comedy with lots of surfing scenes. With Dawn Wildsmith, Bobbi Bresee as a mom, and a black lady heroine on a motorcycle.

SURF NINJAS

(IEI, 1993) D/A: Neal Israel
S/P: Don Gordon S: Sara Risher

Surf kids (Ernie Reyes Jr. and Nicolas Cowan) discover that they're the lost princes of an island nation. With Leslie Nielsen as the evil dictator with a half mask, Tone Loc as a helpful cop, and Kelly Hu. Ernie Reyes Sr. was martial arts choreographer and also acts. New Line released the PG comedy.

THE SURROGATE

(1984) D/S/P: Don Carmody
S: Robert Geoffrion P: John Dunning Canada

Art Hindle and Shannon Tweed seek help from sex therapist Carol Laure. Soon their friends start to die. The murder mystery with erotic scenes features Michael Ironside, female impersonator Jim Bailey as Eric, and Jackie Burroughs. Tweed was busy making similar movies more than 10 years later.

SURVIVAL GAME

(Media, 1987) D/S: Herb Freed
S: Susannah de Nimes P: Gideon Amir

Gangsters are after a manufacturer of LSD, recently released from jail. Mike Norris falls for the man's daughter (Deborah Goodman) who is kidnapped. He uses martial arts, and psychedelic 60s songs (including "Psychotic Reaction") are heard. With Seymour Cassel and Arlene Golonka. Freed, also the director of Haunts and Graduation Day, is from Youngstown, Ohio.

THE SURVIVALIST

(TWE, 1987) D/P: Sig Shore S: John V. Kraft P: Steven Shore, David Greene

The USSR blames the USA for a nuke explosion in Siberia. Martial law is declared in America and bikers and rapists take over in Texas. Steve Railsback is the hero and Marjoe Gortner is an evil National Guardsman. With Jason Healy, Cliff DeYoung, Susan Blakely, and David Wayne. It was filmed in the Moab desert.

SURVIVAL QUEST

(Fox, 1986) D/S: Don Coscarelli P: Roberto Quezada

Good guy and bad guy leaders run survival courses in the Rockies and the groups eventually clash. It's from the maker of the Phantasm movies. With Lance Henriksen, Mark Rolston, Traci Lin, Dermot Mulroney, Reggie Bannister, and Brooke Bundy. Long on the shelf, it was the 30,000th film rated by the MPAA when released in 1989. It received an R.

SURVIVAL RESEARCH LABORATORIES: VIRTUES OF NEGATIVE FASCINATION

(SRL, 1986) D/P/E: Jonathan Reiss, Joe Rees

This 80-minute tape contains highlights of five controversial performances by the obsessive Survival Research Laboratories (SRL) in San Francisco, LA, Seattle, and New York. The Frisco-based group (Mark Pauline, Matt Heckert, and Eric Werner) create amazing, frightening remote control-operated destruction (and self-destruction) machines and robots. During a live performance, which is something like a demolition derby presented as a "happening," ear-piercing sirens go off, a cannon fires, and various machines attack each other, smoke, burn, and explode. What might appear as chaos is actually very well planned. What most viewers find most upsetting is the mixture of metal and meat. Real (dead) animals are sometimes ripped in half (a pig) or reanimated (a rabbit). Most of the shows use huge metal machines and were presented to large audiences watching from bleachers, but the smaller-scale New York show was in a corner of a club, where the audience itself was (harmlessly) assaulted by a machine squirting water. Pauline also talks between segments ("I'm a parasite . . ."). Most of the music heard is "pre-Muzak Muzak" (Les Baxter, The Harmonicats . . .). There's also an excellent b/w dream sequence featuring a doomed crawling machine with a human head being attacked, which tops most anything in commercial horror movies. Reiss later made disturbing videos for Nine Inch Nails.

SURVIVAL ZONE

(Prism, 1983) D/S/P: Percival Rubens S: Eric Brown

A post-nuke rancher family is doing OK until a cannibal motorcycle gang that has killed off a group of nuns shows up. Gary Lockwood stars with Morgan Stevens and Camilla Sparv.

SURVIVAL ZONE

(AIP, 1992) D: Chris Jones S: Mark Talbot-Butler (The Runner)

TV war correspondents (Raymond Johnson, Paris Jefferson, and Terence Ford) take a WWIII preparation course. Meanwhile, an insane Marine (Ivan Rogers) kills.

SURVIVING THE GAME

(New Line, 1994) D: Ernest Dickerson
S: Eric Bernt P: David Permut

It's The Most Dangerous Game plot yet again with Ice-T as a homeless derelict with dreadlocks hired by hunters to help with an expedition in the Northwest woods who discovers that he is their prey. Former CIA member killers with high-powered rifles, cycles, and tanks include Rutger Hauer (with a goatee), Gary Busey as a shrink, Charles S. Dutton, John C. McGinley, and F. Murray Abraham. Also with Jeff Corey. Stewart Copeland provided the score. By Spike Lee's cinematographer, who also directed Juice.

SURVIVOR

(Vestron, 1987) D: Michael Shackleton
S: Bima Stagg P: Martin Wragge S. Africa

Chip Mayer stars as a post-nuke NASA astronaut who returns to Earth and wanders through the wastelands. Villain Richard Moll runs an underground Russian power station containing all the best-looking women left for repopulation. With Sue Kiel as "the woman."

SUSANA

(Media, 1951) D: Luis Buñuel S: Jamie Salvador
P: Oscar Dancigers Mexico (Demonia y Carne)

A seductive girl (Rosita Quintana) escapes from prison after praying and hides out with a family on a plantation. She brings bad weather and tragedy to the family that helps her.

SUSPICION

(Turner, RKO, 1941) D: Alfred Hitchcock
S: Samson Raphaelson, Alma Reville

Cary Grant is great in a different role (for him) as Johnny, a charming liar and possible killer. Joan Fontaine received an Oscar for playing his new wife and probable victim. It's set in England and has an excellent support cast including Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Nigel Bruce as Beaky, Dame May Whitty, and Leo G. Carroll. The original ending (she's pregnant, he poisons her, and she dies) was changed by RKO under orders of the Production Code. Now it's all in her mind. It's loosely based on Before the Fact by Anthony Berkeley. A colorized version is available from Turner.

SUSPICION

(Fox Hills, 1987) D: Andrew Greieve
S/P: Barry Levinson S/A: Jonathan Lynn UK

Anthony Andrews and Jane Curtin star in a remake of Hitchcock's 40s hit. With Betsy Blair and Michael Hordern. Masquerade (1988) with Rob Lowe and Meg Tilly from the same year was also a Suspicion remake.

SVENGALI

(IVE, 1983) D: Anthony Harvey
S: Frank Cucci P: Robert Halmi Sr.

Peter O'Toole is Anton Bosnyak, a modern-day Svengali singing teacher in New York City. His rock-singer Trilby is Jodie Foster. With Elizabeth Ashley and Holly Hunter. The CBS-TV movie has music by John Barry. Other versions of George du Maurier's tale were in 1927 (starring Paul Wegener), 1931 (John Barrymore), and 1954 (Donald Wolfit). The last two are available from Sinister.

SWAMP COUNTRY

(Paragon, 1966) D/P: Robert Patrick
S/A: David DaLie P: Jerome Sandy

When a blonde in a red dress staying at a motel is killed, a big guy from California (DaLie) is blamed and escapes into the Okefenokee Swamp. Since he happens to be a survivalist/hunter, he survives attacks by gators, bears, snakes, and a mountain lion and rescues a little girl. The wildlife footage is excellent, and so are some of the songs sung by Baker Knight, featured in love triangle and bootlegger subplots. He does the great title theme ("land of the tremblin' earth . . .") and some talking blues numbers with his Johnny Cash–type voice. Former singing cowboy Rex Allen is the sheriff and Lyle Waggoner is the deputy. The color Southern drive-in hit also features Carol Gilbert (Bigfoot), Vincent Barbi (Astro-Zombies) as a gangster, and some stereotypical wide-eyed blacks. It was filmed on location in the Okefenokee Swamp in Georgia. Patrick also produced Road to Nashville the same year.

SWAMP DIAMONDS: See SWAMP WOMEN

SWAMP GIRL

(SW, 1971) D/P: Don Davis
S/P: Jay Kulp P: Jack Vaughn

Simone Griffith (Death Race 2000) stars as an innocent young "ghost girl" with long blond hair who was raised in the Bayou. Country singer Ferlin Husky is a friendly Okefenokee Swamp ranger with an air boat who helps her after her "pa" (who turns out to be a black man) is killed by an escaped female con and her boyfriend. The PG-rated feature has flashbacks about a drunken abortion doctor who sold babies and includes a girl/girl mud fight and death by quicksand, axe, and snakes. The music score (not country) is excellent. Filmed in Waycross, Georgia, and Orlando, Florida. The print is very good. The same director made several Marsha Jordan sex movies.

SWAMP OF THE LOST MONSTERS

(Genesis, 1958) D: Raphael Baledon
S: Ramon Obon P: Alfred Ripstein Jr.
Mexico (El Pantano de las Animas)

In this musical western comedy horror movie, a big human rodent that looks like "Swamp Man" turns out to be fake. Gaston Santos stars with his horse Moonlight, a comic sidekick, and Manola Saavera. K. Gordon Murray released a dubbed version in America and AIP released it to TV.

SWAMP OF THE RAVENS

(VSOM, 1973) D/P: "Michael Cannon"/Manuel Cano
S: Santiago Moncada Spain/US

A mad scientist called Dr. Frosta experiments on humans in the swamp. The dismembered limbs he throws away come to life, and hands kill people. With Raymond Oliver and Fernando Sancho. The R-rated feature includes some actual autopsy footage. It was filmed in Miami by the director of Voodoo Black Exorcist and King of the Jungle. The video has Greek subtitles.

SWAMP VIRGIN

(SW, 1947) D/P: Ewing Scott S: Taylor Caven, Paul Gerard Smith (Untamed Fury)

An old man (Leigh Whipper) tells a story to a writer in flashback. Mikel Conrad (star of The Flying Saucer) is the bitter backwoods Gator, working as a guide for a city woman. Jeff (Gaylord Pendleton), now a big city engineer, returns home to the bayou and a love triangle/battle develops. Lots of underwater photography fills the one-hour running time, and a young E. G. Marshall does the calls at a barn dance. The plot of the PRC movie, based on the story Gator Bait, is very much like Poor White Trash/Bayou (1957). The tape is jumpy.

SWAMP WOMAN

(1941) D: Elmer Clifton S: Arthur G. Durlam
P: George M. Merrick, Max Alexander

Burlesque star Ann Corio made her film debut as a honkytonk dancer who returns to her Florida swamp home. She discovers that her ex-lover (Jack LaRue) is engaged to her niece and solves a murder. From PRC.

SWAMP WOMEN

(Sinister, 1956) D: Roger Corman S: David Stern
P: Bernard Woolner (Swamp Diamonds)

Marie Windsor is Josie, a policewoman who goes undercover in prison to infiltrate the all-female Nardo gang run by the sadistic red-haired Vera (Beverly Garland). The film opens with typical Corman arty titles and jazz music. Silent Mardi Gras footage with dubbed-in crowd noises fills up time and establishes that we're in New Orleans. Jonathan Haze plays a pickpocket and Ed Nelson is a cop. The women escape by jumping out the window. They steal a boat and take rich oilman Mike "Touch" Connors and his whimpering blond girlfriend hostage in the swamp while they search for stolen diamonds. The women (including Carole Mathews as Lee) drink booze, turn their prison jeans into sexy cutoffs, argue, fight, kill people, and tie Touch to a tree. He says, "Red, you talk too much!" Vera doesn't trust Josie ("That dame gripes me! I'll kill that dame!"). Vera has a big punch-out fight with Lee, then double-crosses everybody and hides in a tree using Touch as bait. Most of this movie was shot on location in the Louisiana bayou. It's not one of Corman's best, but is a worthwhile 50s bad-girl movie. An important scene with a snake is missing in the Sinister version. This was Corman's only film for the Woolner Brothers (The Human Duplicators, Hillbillys in a Haunted House . . .), but Bernard Woolner later helped him form New World.

THE SWAP

(Vestron, 1969/83) D/S: "Jordan Leondopoulos"/ John C. Broderick, John Shade
P: Christopher C. Dewey (Line of Fire)

Cannon took Sam's Song, an obscure, slow-moving, and arty 1969 movie starring Robert De Niro, and released the two-hour-long feature in 1980 to cash in on De Niro's fame. De Niro plays a film editor spending a weekend on Long Island. This version was a theatrical flop but played on local TV stations. The (1983) video is a 90-minute-long, totally reworked version with added (R-rated) scenes with Anthony Charnotta as Sam's ex-con brother Vito, and De Niro footage used for complex flashbacks. The (new) plot about Vito looking for Sam's killer involves a political cover-up, murders, drugs, blackmail, and porno movies. Also with Sybil Danning, James Brown (the actor), and Lisa Blount in new footage and Jennifer Warren (a Smothers Brothers Show regular) and Viva in the old footage. Danning and Warren play the same character.

SWEDEN HEAVEN AND HELL

(1968) D/S: Lyigi Scattini P: Mario Bregi
Italy (Svenzia, Inferno e Paradiso)

Edmund Purdom narrates a mondo documentary about Sweden. It shows contraceptives for teen girls, lesbian nightclubs, wife swapping, porno movies, biker gangs, and Walpurgis Night celebrations. It also examines Swedish drug, drinking, and suicide problems. Avco Embassy released it. The soundtrack (on Ariel) featured the classic nonsense song "Ma-Na-Ma-Na," later used on the Sesame Street show.

SWEDISH FLY GIRLS

(1971) D/S/P: Jack O'Connell Denmark (Christa)

Birte Toove stars as a stewardess who has sex in various cities, but the father of her son threatens to kill himself. In English and with Daniel Gelin. AIP released it. The music is by the British group Manfred Mann (also in Venus in Furs). By the maker of Revolution (1969).

SWEET AND SAVAGE

(1981) D: Antonio Climati, Mario Morra P: Alessandro Fracassi Italy

This mondo movie was a hit in Tokyo. The producer was sued by the government of Iran in 1987 over a "phony" sequence showing Iranian soldiers tearing arms off of Iraqi POWs. Also with religious sects, animal sex, and animals (including dolphins) being killed.

SWEET BEAT

(SW, 1958) D: Ronnie Albert
S: Ron Ahran P: Jeffrey S. Kruger UK

Julie Amber is Bonnie Martin, a "holiday princess" (beauty contest winner) from Exeter. After one contest, she says, "I feel like a joint of meat in a butcher shop window!" Bonnie sings "Thanks" and wins a recording session at Miracle Records. In just a few hours, her test pressing is on the radio, and she hangs out at Al Burnette's Stork Room in London, an instant star. Soon, a sleazy, slick (and married) American promoter takes her to New York, where he puts the moves on her at the Hotel Astor: "Come on, this is New York, not old fashioned Boston or London!" After a kiss and a hard slap, he says, "Alright, I'm a heel! You dumb broad!" This movie looks even cheaper than its American counterparts. The frequently mismatched reaction shots, bad acting, camerawork, and editing add to the overall hilarity. Most viewers will watch this just for the musical segments. Highlights are Billy Myles singing his 1957 hit "The Joker" and the Five Satins doing their great "In the Still of the Night" ("I remember, I remember, I remember . . . "). Most of the others acts are British and do tunes like "Your Careless Caresses." The Amorous Sex (also on tape from SW) was an "adult" version presented by William Mishkin with added scenes of strippers with pasties and a brief topless scene.

SWEET BIRD OF AQUARIUS

(SW, 1970) D: Harry Kerwin S: "Edmund Niwrek" P/C: Earl Wainwright

This scratchy color nudist colony/swinger movie uses some (stolen) music from Tommy by the Who and Dr. John's Gris Gris album! William Kerwin stars as a Florida TV news studio cameraman with a new, frigid blond wife (Suzanne Robinson). They go to a party where swingers try to "corrupt them," but find happiness by visiting a nudist colony. Unlike more modest nudist movies of the earlier 60s, this one shows everything, women and men—but they still play volleyball. Director Harry is the brother of William, who was also assistant director.

SWEET CANDY: See CANDY STRIPE NURSES

SWEET GEORGIA

(Video Dimensions, 1972) D/P: Edward Boles

Marsha Jordan stars as the new wife of a fat, violent, dumb, drunken hillbilly in this minimal one-hour-long nudie movie, but Barbara Caron (later in The Stewardesses and Sinthia), who plays her stepdaughter, has the most memorable scene. Caron rides a horse naked and it's so memorable, it's shown twice. With a lesbian scene in a cave, a character stomped by a horse, a pitchfork through a chest, and incest. The print is jumpy.

That's Troy Donahue as a Manson-type killer in Sweet Savior.

SWEET HOSTAGE

(1975) D: Lee Philips S: Edward Hume
P: Richard E. Lyons, Sidney D. Balkin

Linda Blair is Doris Mae, an illiterate farm girl who is kidnapped by an escaped mental patient (Martin Sheen). He takes her to a remote cabin and they develop a love relationship. It's based on Welcome to Xanadu by Nathaniel Benchley. With Bert Remsen and Jeanne Cooper. The ABC-TV movie was filmed in Taos, New Mexico. Linda's next was Exorcist II and Martin's was The Little Girl Who Lives Down the Lane.

SWEET JAMES, PREACHER MAN

(1973) D: John Hayes S: John Cerullo
P: Daniel B. Cady (Sweet Jesus, Preacher Man)

Roger E. Mosley stars as a hit man who works for white mobsters (including William Smith). He goes undercover in an LA ghetto church as a Baptist preacher and tries to take over the local action while seducing women. With Michael Pataki as a senator. The MGM release is by the director of Black Bunch, Black Alley Cats, and other bottom-of-the-barrel black action movies.

SWEET JUSTICE

(Triboro, 1991) D/S: Allen Plone
S: Jim Tabilio P: Carol Marcus Plone

Finn Carter (also in Tremors) stars as Sunny Justice, a short-haired lady boxer who reunites her all-female "special forces" team to battle a small-town gangster played by Frank Gorshin (who cries in one scene). The fighters (all tall beauties except for Carter) include Catherine Hickland, Kathleen Kinmont, and red-haired Patricia Talman from Night of the Living Dead (take 2). The black one (Marjean Holden) has the lone notable nude scene. They train, ride motorcyles, and use kung fu and machine guns to waste a lot of men. The main battle takes place in what looks like a western ghost town set. Marc Singer is the sheriff and Mickey Rooney shows up briefly as a grizzly fat store owner who gets punched out. By the director of Phantom of the Ritz.

SWEET KILLING

(Paramount, 1992) D/S: Eddy Matalon
P: Suzanne Girard France/UK/Canada

Adam (Anthony Higgins), a bank officer, kills his comically irritating wife (Andrea Ferreol) and uses Eva (Leslie Hope) for an alibi. A cop (Michael Ironside) is determined to prove that Adam is guilty while F. Murray Abraham, who claims to be a fictional character, blackmails him. The pretty dull mystery has some odd b/w fantasy segments and a non-ending. It's based on a novel by Angus Hall. Too many American flags tip you off that it wasn't made here. By the director of Cathy's Curse.

SWEET MOVIE

(VSOM, 1973) D/S: Dusan Makavejev
France/Canada/W. Germany

This bizarre satire is guaranteed to shock and confuse just about everyone. Set in the future (1984), little boys are seduced and killed, there's sex in sugar, death in chocolate, WWII footage of corpses, images of Stalin, nudity, puke, piss, and shit. Carole Laure is a virginal beauty contest winner who is shipped to Europe in a suitcase and is seen sucking on nipples. Laure (later a top singer in Quebec) walked off the set, then sued in a French court to stop screenings. John Vernon plays a clichéd Texan billionaire with a solid gold penis. Also with Pierre Clementi. The director, from Belgrade, Yugoslavia, went on to make the more conventional Monte-negro (1980) and The Coca Cola Kid (1984).

SWEET MURDER

(Vidmark, 1990) D/S: Percival Rubens
P: Paul Raleigh S. Africa

What seems to be a copy of Single White Female was actually made first. That doesn't make it good, though. A mousy, unemployed, shy American girl from Kentucky (Canadian actress Helene Udy) discovers that her new tall, pretty roommate (Embeth Davidtz, later in Schindler's List) has become an heiress, so she decides to make herself look sexy and starts seducing and/or killing off people. There's some nudity (both stars), but everything happens off screen and the stupid ending will make you want to smash the tape. Rubens also made The Demon (1981) and Survival Zone (1983).

SWEET POISON

(MCA, 1991) D: Brian Grant S: Wally Klenhard

Steven Bauer stars as an escaped con who kidnaps a couple on the way to a funeral. Edward Herrmann is the wimpy husband who eventually gets tough, and Patricia Healy is his trashy young wife Charlene. The made-for-cable movie borrows from several Peckinpah features. Grant had directed innovative videos for Peter Gabriel, Donna Summer, and others.

SWEET REVENGE

(Media, 1986) D: Mark Sobel S: Steve Krauzer, Tim McCoy P: Steve Stabler

Nancy Allen stars as an LA TV reporter investigating a Far East slavery ring led by Martin Landau. She and three models are kidnapped, but she goes "Rambo" and saves them. With Ted Shackleford, Stacey Adams, Gina Gershon, and Michelle Little. From Corman's Concorde.

SWEET SAVIOR: See THE LOVE THRILL MURDER

THE SWEET SCENT OF DEATH

(1984) D: Peter Sasdy S: Brian Clemens UK

Sweet Sugar

Dean Stockwell stars as an American diplomat in London. While staying at a secluded country house, someone tries to drive his attorney wife (Shirley Knight) insane and their new guard dog is killed. Michael Gotthard is also in the Hammer Studios TV movie.

SWEET 16

(Vestron, 1982) D/P: Jim Sotos/
Dimitri Sotirakis S: Erwin Goldman

Friends of a Texas girl (Aleisa Shirley) who just turned 16 are killed. Local Indians are blamed by sheriff Bo Hopkins. It's a pretty dull movie, but it does have a very interesting cast (and Shirley has nude scenes). With Susan Strasberg as the mom, Patrick Macnee, Don Stroud, Sharon Farrell, Michael Pataki, Henry Wilcoxon, and Larry Storch. There was actually a soundtrack too, by Ray Ellis, on Regency.

SWEET SUGAR

(Continental, 1972) D: Michel Levesque
S: Stephanie Rothman, Don Spencer
P: Charles S. Swartz (Hellfire on Ice; She Devils in Chains; Captive Women III; Chaingang Girls)

Phyllis Davis (from Terminal Island) is Sugar, a hooker framed in Costa Rica for marijuana possession. She's arrested and put in a jail where inmates cut sugar cane and are used for sex and experimented on by a sadistic doctor. Voodoo rituals are held and there's rape, torture, cannibalism, and even a burning at the stake. Sugar eventually leads a revolt and escapes. Obviously this is one of the best women-in-a-tropical-prison movies. With Ella Edwards, Timothy Brown, Pamela Collins, James Whitworth, and Cliff Osmond. The director of the Dimension release (made in Costa Rica) had been an editor for Russ Meyer. This was first on tape with Escape from Women's Prison, but has been reissued under several titles.

SWEET SWEETBACK'S BAADASSSSS SONG

(Magnum, 1971) D/S/P/A/M/E: Melvin Van Peebles

It was "Rated X by an all-white jury," stars "the black community," made over $4 million, and started the black action movie trend (along with Shaft). It starts with the 12-year-old Sweetback enjoying sex with a hooker. Later, he does live sex shows in a California whorehouse and is arrested for a crime he didn't commit. He kills a cop after seeing him beat a black revolutionary. Biker John Amos (later on the Good Times show) helps out. Most of this overlong movie is Sweetback (played by the director) running towards the border while funky instumentals by Earth Wind and Fire are heard. Van Peebles uses "underground" techniques (freeze frames, solarization, split screen . . .) and the nudity and violence probably would have resulted in an R rating if it was a white-cast movie. Cinemation opened it (in Detroit) and Roger Corman's New World re-released it in 1974. With Van Peebles' kids Mario and Megan. Stax released the soundtrack. The director had already made Story of a Three Day Pass (1967) and Watermelon Man (1970). He became a trader on the stock exchange in the 80s. In 1995, his son Mario directed his screenplay Panther, returning to the themes of Sweetback.

THE SWINGER

(1966) D/P: George Sidney S: Lawrence Roman

Ann-Margret wants to be a writer, so she fakes a biographical story, "The Swinger," for "Girl Lure" magazine. To prove that she didn't make it up, she pretends to be an alcoholic nympho and becomes a human paintbrush at a party/orgy. She rides a motorcycle, sings, and dances, but this dated comedy is a lot like a TV sitcom. Her dance scenes make it worthwhile, though. With Tony Franciosa as the editor, Yvonne Romain as his jealous girlfriend, Robert Coote, Horace McMahon, Barbara Nichols, and Bert Freed. Some of the many bikini extras were Phyllis Davis and China Lee. The costumes are by Edith Head, and Andre Previn wrote songs. The Paramount release is by the director of Viva Las Vegas.

SWINGER'S MASSACRE

(Even Steven, 1975) D/P: Ronald V. Garcia
S: Helen Arthur

Charlie (Eastman Price from Suburban Confidential), a lawyer in "the Valley," tells his wife Amy (Jan Mitchell) that he wants them to join a swing club. She replies, "No! They're sick. You're sick. I'm sick!" After he demonstrates his premature ejaculation problem, she says "OK." First they go to a club where a long-haired band do "Filthy McNasty's," also the name of the place. They meet some people and go to a private party where everybody talks: "Did you get to ball Supercock!?" . . . Charlie goes to a room with a woman but can't "do it." Then he lies in bed next to his wife and another guy who can. Charlie gets mean and drinks, other guys make fun of him, and we hear a song, "Inside Amy" (the original title). Now the "massacre" starts. The crazed would-be swinger gases two guys from the party in a car, shoots one, drugs somebody's drink, strangles one man and hangs his wife, then kills his own wife. The End. The video version is too dark, and despite the plot (and sex star cast) has no nudity. With Renee Bond, Marsha Jordan, Uschi Digart, Gary Kent, and Ann Perry, who later directed Sweet Savage (1979), a porno western with Aldo Ray.

SWINGERS' PARADISE

(1964) D: Sidney J. Furie S: Peter Myers, Ronald Cass
P: Kenneth Harper UK (Wonderful Life)

Cliff Richard stars as Johnnie, with his group, the Shadows. They play on an ocean liner, but are thrown off and end up on the Canary Islands. Johnnie becomes a stuntman for a movie being shot there, finds love, and manages to become the leading man and director. With Walter Slezak and Susan Hampshire. AIP released it in America. Cliff and the Shadows returned in Finders Keepers.

THE SWINGING BARMAIDS

(1975) D: Gus Trikonis S: Charles B. Griffith
P: Ed Carlin (Eager Beavers)

William Smith is a cop after a psycho who kills cocktail waitresses (including Dyanne Thorne) and uses disguises. With Bruce Watson. The busy Trikonis made Super Cock and Nashville Girl around the same time.

THE SWINGING CHEERLEADERS

(Monterey, 1974) D/P: Jack Hill
S: Jane Witherspoon, Betty Conkey (H.O.T.S. 2)

Before making the incredible Switchblade Sisters, Hill made this one for the same producer and company (Centaur). It has a lot of politics and feminism to go along with the action. A reporter for a student underground newspaper (Jo Johnson) infiltrates the school's cheerleaders for an article. She leaves the radical editor (with a Nixon dartboard), who turns out to be an egotistical, misogynistic jerk, and falls for a football jock. The school establishment is totally corrupt. The football coach, a black teacher (who used to run numbers), and a sporting goods store owner rig the games. Rosanne Katon, who plays the cheerleader who has an affair with the teacher, was later one of the few black Playboy centerfolds (September 1978). The stuck-up rich blond cheerleader is Colleen Camp. She's the only one of the three leads without a nude scene. If you can overlook the silly slapstick end fight, this is definitely one of the best of the countless 70s movies about three sexy women who are nurses, teachers, inmates, stewardesses, track runners. . . . Scenes later showed up in The Thin Blue Line (1987).

SWITCH

(Warner, 1991) D/S: Blake Edwards P: Tony Adams

Ellen Barkin stars in a copy of Goodbye Charlie (1964). Perry King is murdered by three old girlfriends (JoBeth Williams, Lysette Anthony, and Victoria Mahoney), goes to purgatory, and has to return in a woman's body (Barkin). A baby saves a soul in the pro-life ending. ILM FX were used for the comic changes. With Lorraine Bracco as a lesbian, Tony Roberts, and Jimmy Smits.

SWITCHBLADE SISTERS

(Monterey, 1975) D/S: Jack Hill
P: John Prizier (Playgirl Gang)

A lot of 70s drive-in movies were predictable formula time-wasters, nothing but tease and filler. This gem is a wild, amazing, anything-goes tale of how the Dagger Debs—tough female followers of The Silver Daggers gang—wise up, break away, and become the Jezebels. I don't know where Hill found his young actresses, but they're all good, and star Robbie Lee (Big Bad Mama) gives her all as the confused, vicious, but tender Lace (wearing all black leather), often hysterical, and cursing through clenched teeth. The plot contains lots of jealousy, revenge, mixed allegiances, manipulation, and cartoon politics. The Silver Daggers sell drugs (and women) at the high school. A rival gang (who dress like members of Slade) sell drugs through a phony rehabilitation clinic. You get to see women prison scenes (complete with a big lesbian guard), a massacre at a roller rink, and after the Jezebels join up with a black female revolutionary group, a street battle with machine guns and tanks! Joanne Nail is Maggie, the new gang member. Monica Gayle is Patch, a devious behind-the-scenes troublemaker wearing an eye patch, and Marlene Clark, star of several good black horror movies, is the leader of militant new comrades. Lenny Bruce's daughter Kitty plays Donut, the gang member who has to squeal like a pig. This is one of the best female jd movies ever, and, unfortunately was the last (credited) film work that Hill did.

Jean-Luc Godard greets Bill Wyman while filming Sympathy for the Devil.

SWORDKILL

(1984) D: J. Larry Carroll S: Tim Curnan
P: Charles Band (Ghost Warrior)

Hiroshi Fujioka is a samurai warrior frozen in ice for 300 years who is thawed out in the modern-day USA. With Janet Julian.

SWORD OF HEAVEN

(TWE, 1984) D: Byron Meyers
P/A: Joseph P. Randazzo

Tadashi Yamashita is a Japanese cop in LA who uses a magic 400-year-old sword to battle killers with an extortion ring. The star barely speaks English and does a stake-out scene in drag. Randazzo pushes a nun in a wheelchair over a cliff. With Gerry Gibson and Bill "Superfoot" Wallace.

SWORD OF THE BARBARIANS

(1983) D: "Michael E. Lemick" S: Pietro Regnoli
P: Pino Buricchi Italy (Barbarian Master)

Peter MacCoy (real name: Pietro Torisi) stars as Sangral, the "son of Ator." With Sabrina Siani as the Golden goddess, and hunchback priests who sacrifice women.

SWORD OF THE CONQUEROR

(1961) D: Carlo Campogalliani S: Paola Barbara, Primo Zeglio Italy (Rosmunda e Alboino)

Jack Palance is Alboino, the Lombard king in 566 A.D. He wants Eleanora Rossi-Drago but she's in love with a warrior (Guy Madison). United Artists released the Cinemascope feature.

SWORD OF THE VALIANT

(MGM, 1982) D: Stephen Weeks
S: Philip M. Breen P: Golan/Globus

Miles O'Keeffe (who is dubbed) stars as Gawain, a knight on a quest for the court of King Arthur (Trevor Howard). He decapitates the magical Green Knight (guest star Sean Connery), who then replaces his head. Peter Cushing, Ronald Lacey, and Douglas Wilmer are the villains, and Emma Sutton is an evil sorceress. With Cyrielle Claire, Lila Kedrova, John Rhys-Davies, and Wilfrid Brambell (in his last role). The music is by Ron Geesin. The PG Cannon feature was filmed in Ireland. It's a remake of Gawain and the Green Knight (1972) by the same director. The original starred Murray Head and Nigel Green.

SWORDSMAN

(1990) D: King Hu S: Louis Cha
P: Tsui Hark Hong Kong

Characters are after a sacred scroll in a Ming Dynasty black magic movie. With lots of bloody decapitations, gravity-defying sword battles, and fantasy. Sam Hui and Jacky Cheung star, and Brigitte Lin is the villain, Asia the Invincible. Six directors worked on this very expensive (for Hong Kong) movie. Swordsman II (1992) and Swordsman III: The East Is Red (1993) followed, also produced by Hark but both with different casts.

THE SWORDSMAN

(Republic, 1992) D/S: Michael Kennedy
P: Nicolas Stiliadis Canada

A dull Lorenzo Lamas stars as a psychic detective with long hair and tattoos who is troubled by frequent violent b/w flashbacks and visions. A white-haired warrior (Michael Champion) from a fencing club is after the sword of Alexander the Great. They're both reincarnations and eventually have battles in misty blue light. The talk-filled, often senseless Highlander copy from Toronto also features Claire Stansfield as an archeologist and Raoul Trujillo as Jo Jo. With music by one-time James Gang guitarist Domenic Troiano.

SWORDS OF THE SPACE ARK

(Celebrity, 1978) D/S/P: Bunker Stevens
D: Minoru Yamada Japan

After the Star Wars–inspired Japanese/American movie Message from Space, a TV series of the same name ran in Japan, using footage from the feature. This is an edited, Americanized version of the series.

SYMPATHY FOR THE DEVIL

(Abkco, 1970) D/S: Jean-Luc Godard P: Michael Pearson, Ian Quarrier UK (One Plus One)

Black revolutionaries in a junkyard execute some white women. Eve Democracy (Anne Wiazemsky) is interviewed and creates political graffiti messages. All this is edited in with the Rolling Stones creating and rehearsing their song "Sympathy for the Devil" in 1968. The producer changed the name (against the director's wishes, of course), shortened it, and added the finished version of the song at the end. New Line released it. With the late Brian Jones (looking pretty out of it most of the time) and the late Nicky Hopkins.

SYMPTOMS

(1974) D/S: Jose Larraz S: Stanley Miller
P: Jean Dupuis UK (Blood Virgin)

Angela Pleasence (Donald's daughter) stars as a repressed lesbian in an old haunted British country house. She kills her girlfriend, the gardener, and others. The Repulsion copy is by the director of the bloodier Vampyres (1974).

SYNANON

(1965) D/P: Richard Quine S: Ian Bernard

Alex Cord is Zankie Albo, a junkie who hides out at a Santa Monica beachfront rehabilitation center. Stella Stevens falls for him. Edmond O'Brien is the reformed alcoholic who runs the house. With Chuck Connors, Richard Conte, Eartha Kitt, Alejandro Rey, Bernie Hamilton (later in Walk the Walk), and many real junkies. Columbia released the grim b/w movie. The Neal Hefti soundtrack is on Liberty.

SYNDICATE SADISTS

(Super, 1975) D: Umberto Lenzi S: Vincenzo Mannino Italy (Rambo Sfida la Città)

This is a crime thriller with Tomas Milian as Rambo, the hero biker, and Joseph Cotten as a blind mobster. Femi Benussi is also in the Independent International release.

SYNGENOR

(South Gate, 1990) D: George Elanjian Jr.
S: Brent V. Friedman P: Jack F. Murphy

The creature from Scared to Death (1980) returns in this unofficial sequel. This time there are "at least 20" monsters in an office building. David Gale has another over-the-top role as a crazed cartoonish drug-addicted corporate head who plans to unleash robot warriors to fight for America in the Middle East (!). Starr Andreeff tries to expose the plan and stop her late uncle's (nearly) indestructible creations with help from a reporter. The scaly man-in-a-suit monsters are pretty good, but the lack of security is ridiculous, and the monster attacks should have had more action and scares. Also with William Shatner's daughter Melanie as a comic receptionist, and Lewis Arquette.

TABLOID

(Tapeworm, 1985) D/S: Bret McCormick, Matt Shafton, Glen Coburn

Aliens invade an aerobics class before the credits roll in this three-story spoof illustrating outrageous stories that might be found in a tabloid newspaper. A backwoods guy in a pickup truck buys some bad pot and decides to kill the dealer. There's a lot of hillbilly humor and shootin', then a baby is born with a beard. An old man emerges from a graveyard and goes to his son's house. He invites other (dead) couples over for a barbecue. In the last (overly long) segment, a weatherman predicts tornadoes and a killer vacuum cleaner destroys a town. The highlight is a whoopee cushion scene. Filmed in Fort Worth.

TABOOS AROUND THE WORLD

(GWN, 1963) D/S: Romolo Marcellini S: Ugo Guerra Italy (I Tabu; Taboos of the World)

Mondo scenes in this feature include public bathing, tattoos, blood drinking, childbirth, drug addiction, prostitution, child selling, and atom bomb victims. Also with a look at the customs of Buddhists and Muslims. When AIP released the documentary in 1965, narration by Vincent Price was added. The video release has a different narration, though.

TAG: THE ASSASSINATION GAME

(Embassy, 1982) D/S: Nick Castle P: Peter Rosten, Dan Rosenthal

Robert Carradine stars as a college newspaper reporter looking into the assassination-game phenomenon. Rubber bullets are used in dart guns, but one contestant (Bruce Abbott) cracks under the pressure after losing for the first time and starts really killing students. Carradine becomes involved with a determined player (Linda Hamilton). It's probably the best of several features with the same theme. With Kristine De Bell, Perry Lang, Forest Whitaker, and Michael Winslow. New World released the PG feature.

T&A ACADEMY: See H.O.T.S.

T&A ACADEMY 2: See GIMME AN F

TAINTED

(Southgate, 1984) D/S/P: Orestes Matacena P: Phyllis Redden (Body Passion)

Blonde Shari Shattuck (The Naked Cage) stars as a small-town elementary school teacher. Her mortician husband (who has a necro assistant) kills a young thief, then dies of a heart attack. She buries the thief in the yard and makes it seem like the husband died while driving. Later she starts losing her mind and has nightmares. Tainted borrows from Diabolique, Repulsion, and Blood Simple and has some logic problems, but it's pretty good—and Shattuck has a sex scene, a shower scene, and a bath scene. It was filmed in Hendersonville, North Carolina, and has music by the Symphony Orchestra of London. With Park Overall and singer Joe Ely. It was released by Cannon in 1988.

TAINTED BLOOD

(Paramount, 1993) D: Matthew Patrick S: Kathleen Rowell P: Jonathan Furie

Raquel Welch stars as a well-known writer and investigative reporter looking for the twin of a teen psycho killer. Joan Van Ark, Kerri Green, and Natasha Wagner are also in the cable TV movie.

THE TAKE

(1974) D: Robert Hartford-Davis S: Del Reisman P: Howard Brandy

Billy Dee Williams and Albert Salmi are crooked cops taking bribe money from a gangland leader (Vic Morrow). Eddie Albert is the police chief. With Frankie Avalon (!) as a stool pigeon, Sorrell Brooke, and Tracy Reed. The Columbia release was shot in New Mexico.

TAKE A GIANT STEP

(1959) D: Philip Leacock S/P: Julius J. Epstein S: Louis S. Peterson

Johnny Nash stars in a serious juvenile delinquent feature set in a middle-class white community. With Estelle Hemsley, Ruby Dee, Frederick O'Neal, and Ellen Holly. Burt Lancaster was the executive producer of the United Artists release, which was based on a play. He also backed The Young Savages (1961). Nash returned in Key Witness (1960), but had more success as a singer. His biggest hit was "I Can See Clearly Now."

TAKE A HARD RIDE

(Fox, 1975) D: "Anthony Dawson"/Antonio Margheriti S: Eric Bercovici P: Harry Bernen, Leon Chooluck M: Jerry Goldsmith Italy/US (La Parola Di Un Fuorilegge ... E Legge!)

In a western (filmed in the Canary Islands), a cowboy (Jim Brown) is teamed with a cool card shark (Fred Williamson) and a silent Indian (Jim Kelly). The black action trio had been in Three the Hard Way the year before. A dying cattleman (Dana Andrews) hires Brown to transport some money to Mexico. With Lee Van Cleef as a bounty hunter, Catherine Spaak, Barry Sullivan, and Harry Carey Jr. A PG Twentieth Century release.

TAKE IT OUT IN TRADE—THE OUTTAKES

(SW, 1970) D/S/A/E: Ed Wood Jr. P: Richard Gonzalez, Edward Ashdown

The demand for Ed Wood product is so great that people actually pay to see this one-hour tape of silent scenes! The whole movie (with sound) will be released eventually. A private eye searches for a wealthy man's daughter. He finds her working at "Madame Penny's Thrill Establishment." The soft-core sex feature has slapstick humor and psychedelic and horror touches. Lots of red items are everywhere, and naked women appear on a red staircase. Wood plays Alecia in a blonde wig. With Donna Stanley, Michael Donovan O'Donnell, and Monica Gayle. After this Wood directed and wrote Necromania (1971). He also wrote scripts for soft-core Stephen Apostoloff movies.

THE TAKING OF BEVERLY HILLS

(Nelson, 1991) D: Sidney J. Furie S: Rick Natkin, David Fuller P: Graham Henderson

Ken Wahl is a playboy ex-football star who teams with a corrupt cop (Matt Frewer) to battle an evil billionaire (Robert Davi). Harley Jane Kozak costars with Lee Ving James and Tony Ganois. Lots of things explode. It was filmed in a Mexico City stadium made to resemble Beverly Hills streets. From Columbia.

TAKIN' IT ALL OFF

(Vestron, 1987) D/S: Ed Hansen P: Robert T. Gervasoni

Candie Evans and Becky LeBeau star in a sex-tease comedy sequel to Takin' It Off with George (Buck) Flower as a preacher. It features flashbacks from the first movie including Kitten Natividad. Party Favors (Vestron, 1989) was another sequel with Evans, Flower, and Blondie Bee. Hansen later made Takin' It Off Out West! (1995).

TAKIN' IT OFF

(Vestron, 1984) D/S: Ed Hansen P: Robert T. Gervasoni

Kitten Natividad stars as "Betty Bigones" in a sex comedy that resembles a nudie from the 60s. If you want to see Kitten naked, this is a good tape. With Angelique Pettyjohn, Becky LeBeau, and Ashley St. John. Hansen also made Natividad's "exercise" tape, Eroticise, and Takin' It Off sequels.

TALE OF A VAMPIRE

(Vidmark, 1992) D/S: Shimako Sato S: Jane Corbett P: Simon Johnson UK

Jim Brown and Fred Williamson in Take a Hard Ride.

Alex (Julian Sands), a modern-day junkie-like vampire in London, thinks a librarian (Suzanna Hamilton) is the reincarnation of his 18th-century lover. Her lover has been killed by a bomb. Everything has a Victorian look in a minimal-cast feature that's romantic, very bloody, and has too much talking. Alex has flashbacks and visions and the Van Helsing figure (Kenneth Cranham) seems to be Edgar Allan Poe. The director is a Japanese woman who lives in London.

A TALE OF TWO CITIES

(1980) D: Jim Goddard S: John Gay
P: Norman Rosemont UK

Chris Sarandon stars in a double role in this version of Dickens's novel. Peter Cushing is second-billed as Dr. Manette. With Flora Robson (in her last role), Barry Morse, Billie Whitelaw, Kenneth More, and Alice Krige. It played theaters in Europe but debuted on CBS in America. Some earlier versions available on tape are the first sound version (MGM, 1935), including Basil Rathbone, and another British one (Vestron, 1958) with a cast including Christopher Lee and Donald Pleasence.

TALE OF TWO SISTERS

(Raedon, 1989) D: Adam Rifkin
P: Lawrence Bender, Randolph Turrow

Claudia Christian and Valerie Breiman are sisters who have a reunion after five years and remember their childhood and mutual resentments. It's an experimental feature with an improvised script and b/w flashbacks. By the director of The Dark Backward. With Sidney Lassick, Jeff Conaway, and Dee Coppola. Charlie Sheen narrates.

TALES FROM THE CRYPT

(HBO, 1988) D: Richard Donner, Robert Zemeckis, Walter Hill P: Joel Silver, David Giler, William Teiter

The three directors of this pilot trilogy were also the executive producers of the HBO cable series (1988–95). The stories were all based on "material published by William M. Gaines," from his various early-50s E.C. horror comics. Some of the stories had already been filmed in British Amicus studio 70s horror anthologies, but this time violence and gore and sometimes nudity was added. The grinning skull-face host the Crypt Keeper is a special effects creation with a high-pitched laugh. Danny Elfman wrote the theme music. Hill also wrote his "The Man Who Was Death," the best episode, starring Bill Sadler as an executioner, with effective Ry Cooder music. Fred Dekker wrote the killer-Santa story "And All Through the House" by Zemeckis. Mary Ellen Trainor stars. Terry Black wrote "Dig That Cat, He's Real Gone" directed by Zemeckis. With Joe Panoliano as a circus performer with nine lives, and Robert Wuhl. Each new season opened with a feature-length trilogy. More compilation volumes were released by HBO. In England Tales from the Crypt tape compilations were called Vault of Horror. Directors included William Friedkin, John Frankenheimer, Jodie Foster, Mary Lambert, Tobe Hooper, Tom Savini, Ted Gershuny, Tom Hanks, Michael J. Fox, and Arnold Schwarzenegger. The 6th season (1994–95) ended with the 80th episode. The entire series was then syndicated in alternate (tamer) versions and the producers started making Tales from the Crypt movies. ABC also ran a Tales from the Crypt-keeper Saturday morning cartoon show.

TALES FROM THE CRYPT PRESENTS DEMON KNIGHT

(MCA, 1995) D: Ernest Dickerson
S: Ethan Reiff, Cyrus Voris, Mark Bishop P: Gilbert Adler

After a too long and involved comedy intro with the Crypt Keeper, Billy Zane stars as the supernatural Collector in a horror story, set on an unrealistic boarding house set, that features invading demons. It's pretty senseless, dumb, irritating, and has gratuitous silicone topless scenes. William Sadler is the war vet with the magical key filled with the blood of Christ that can keep the demons out. They look like the one on the airplane wing in Twilight Zone—The Movie and are on screen too long. With Jada Pinkett as a tough excon, Brenda Bakke as a hooker, CCH Pounder (who is slowed down when her arm is ripped off), Dick Miller (in one of his biggest roles since the 50s) as a drunk, and John Larroquette. The ending was reshot and the release was delayed. Dickerson also directed Juice and Surviving the Game. The FX are by Todd Masters. The heavy metal Atlantic soundtrack includes loud tunes by Ministry, Henry Rollins, Biohazard, and Machine Head. More Tales features followed.

The Cryptkeeper presents Demon Knight.

TALES FROM THE CRYPT PART II = VAULT OF HORROR

TALES FROM THE DARKSIDE

(IVE series, 1984–88)

George Romero created this syndicated series after making the feature Creepshow (1982). The quickly made, low-budget half-hour episodes were shot on both coasts. 7 volumes, running 78 minutes, include 3 episodes each. Some of the directors were Bob Balaban, Frank DePalma, Armand Mastroianni, Jodie Foster, Tom Savini, Ted Gershuny, and Michael Gornick. There was also Tales from the Darkside: The Movie, and a companion show, Monsters was made by the same production team. Both shows had some good ones, but many tales were very silly and/or had weak scripts. The show's success inspired the production of the Tales from the Crypt show, which had the advantage of existing stories, lots more money, and bigger name directors and stars to work with, although many directors and actors worked on both programs. At least 6 volumes (each with 5 tales) were released by Worldvision, and more will likely follow.

TALES FROM THE DARKSIDE: THE MOVIE

(Paramount, 1990) D: John Harrison
S: Michael McDowell, George Romero
P: Richard Rubenstein, Mitchell Galin

Although this feature looks a lot better than the series, most people thought twice about paying to see what they could get for free on TV. Harrison, the director, had done eight episodes of the TV show. Two of the scripts are by Beetlejuice writer McDowell. The tales are told by a kid to a witch (Deborah Harry) so she won't put him in an oven. Christian Slater and Steve Buscemi are in "Lot 249," about a mummy (based on a story by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle). David Johansen and William Hickey star in "Cat From Hell" (based on a Stephen King story). The final tale ("Lover's Vow") has the most impressive FX but the story was ripped off from part of the Japanese movie Kwaidan. With James Remar, Rae Dawn Chong, and Robert Klein.

TALES FROM THE GIMLI HOSPITAL

(Kino, 1987) D/S/C/E: Guy Maddin Canada

Two rival doctors named Einar and Gunnar work in a hospital in 1920s Manitoba during a smallpox epidemic. The surreal, dark comic feature is told in flashbacks, stories ("based on ancient Icelandic myths") and nightmares. Part of the 72-minute b/w, 16mm feature are tinted. The director was 31 and the cost was "$22,000." It's been compared to Eraserhead for lack of anything else to compare it to. The tape includes Maddin's 1986 short The Dead Father. He also made Archangel (1990) and Careful (1993).

TALES FROM THE QUADEAD ZONE

(BC, 1987) D/S/P/M/E: Chester N. Turner

Tales from the Hood (1995) wasn't the first black cast horror anthology after all. The mother (Shirley L. Jones) of an invisible ghost kid reads three bizarre stories to him. It's another homemade obscurity from the director of Black Devil Doll. Unlike that all-black feature, this has an integrated cast and leaves out the sex and nudity.

TALES OF FRANKENSTEIN

(Sinister, 1958) D: Curt Siodmak S: Catherine and Henry Kuttner P: Michael Carreras

It was great to see this Hammer Studios pilot after hearing about it for so long. Too bad it never became a series. I guess the determined Baron (Anton Diffring) would have returned each week to steal more brains, break more laws, and make more creatures. Don Megowan is the Karloff-look monster, but Helen Wescott has a more important role. This impressive short opens with scenes lifted from Universal's Inner Sanctum series and Dracula.

TALES OF HOFFMAN

(Criterion, 1951) D/S/P: Michael Powell, Emeric Pressburger UK

Unhappy German composer Ernest Amadeus Hoffman (Robert Rounseville) drinks heavily while telling three tales in which he is featured. One features a robot ballerina (Moira Shearer), and one features an evil woman (Ludmilla Tcherina) after his reflection. The last has a singer (Ann Ayars) under the care of a vampiric doctor. Pamela Brown and several other actors appear in all three tales, based on the 1881 opera. Lippert released the Technicolor 138-minute-long feature in America. The Voyager laser version features commentary by Martin Scorsese, who also arranged the re-release of Powell's Peeping Tom (1959).

TALES OF ORDINARY MADNESS

(Vestron, 1983) D/S: Marco Ferreri S: Sergei Amidei P: Jacqueline Ferreri Italy (Storie di Ordinaria Follia)

Charles Bukowski said he hated it, but this was based on his stories years before Barfly. Ben Gazzara stars as "Charles Sirking," an alcoholic LA writer/poet searching for the essence of love through drinking, sex, and self-destruction. He rapes Susan Tyrrell, and a hooker (Ornella Muti) puts a big safety pin through her cheek. With Katya Berger. Tyrrell was also in The Killer, an underground feature with Bukowski.

TALES OF THE DEAN'S WIFE

(VCR, 1970) D: Benjamin Onivas S/P: L. K. Farbella (The Dean's Wife)

Some swinger students invade the country house of the college dean and his nympho wife (Christine Murray). This results in lots of sex, nudity, LSD taking, whippings, and tragedy. Jim Gentry, who plays the dean, was later the star of The Love Butcher! Murray was in many nudies including The Joys of Jezebel, Miss Nymphets Zap In, and Trader Hornee. The Twin Peaks Production was shot by Henning Schellerup. The video box shows porn stars not in this movie.

TALES OF THE THIRD DIMENSION

(1985) D/S: Tom McIntyre, Worth Keeter, Todd Durham D/P: Earl Owensby

Three 3-D comedy horror tales are introduced by a mechanical "Igor," similar to the host of the later Tales from the Crypt series. The first tale features a vampire couple who have a werewolf kid. The others concern grave robbers and a killer grandmother. Made in North Carolina.

TALES OF TOMORROW

(Rhino, Fox Hills, 1951–53)

Various 30-minute episodes of the early-50s ABC anthology series are on tape from several video companies. "Frankenstein" stars Lon Chaney Jr. as the monster with John Newland as the doctor. James Dean and Rod Steiger are in "The Evil Within," Henry Jones stars in "The Spider's Web," and Boris Karloff and Paul Newman are in one episode.

TALES OF THE UNEXPECTED

(Prism, 1981) D: Gordon Hessler, Norman Lloyd, Paul Annett, Ray Danton UK

This tape includes four episodes from the syndicated Roald Dahl's Tales of the Unexpected TV series. Don Johnson, Samantha Eggar, and Arthur Hill are in the first tale and Tom Smothers and Sharon Gless are in the second. Frank Converse and Sondra Locke are in the last, about a winged monster. Two are based on stories by John Collier.

TALES OF THE UNKNOWN

(AIP, 1990) D: John Kim, Greg Beeman, Todd Marks, Roger Nygard

Three USC shorts are followed by a strange out-of-place one from Minnesota. They were made from 1983–1989. The first (by Kim) is about a corporate cheat who meets death in an elevator and has to kill a female co-worker. The second (by Beeman) is the best. It's about a huge nightmarish garage in the desert where customers are trapped for eternity. The everyman hero tries to escape and is attacked by German mechanics. The third, nearly silent, short (by Marks) is about a guy whose every move is being watched on TV screens (Paul Bartel did it better with his The Secret Cinema). The last short (by Nygard) is called Warped and it is. A crazy old farm lady (who had been raped as a young girl) chases her female cousin with a pitchfork and ties her up in bed. A sheriff, so big he can barely fit through the door, takes a long time to die, even after a big chunk of him has been hacked out.

TALKING WALLS

(Starmaker, 1983) D/S: Stephen Verona (Motel Vacancy)

Stephen Shellen stars as a student who secretly videotapes people in a Hollywood sex fantasy hotel. It's a comedy and features Sally Kirkland, Sybil Danning, Barry Primus, Judy Baldwin, and June Wilkinson (still doing topless scenes after all these years). By the director of The Lords of Flatbush and Pipe Dreams.

TALL, DARK AND DEADLY

(1995) D: Kenneth Fink S: Mary Anne Kasica, Michael Scheff P: Bob Roe

Kim Delaney stars in this USA TV movie as a woman who falls for a guy (Jack Scalia) she meets in a bar. He's a devious killer who eventually chains her to a sink. With Todd Allen, Gina Mastrogiacomo, and Ely Pouget. It was shot in Houston.

TALL, TAN AND TERRIFIC

(Hollywood Select, 1946) D/P: Bud Pollard S: John E. Gordon

Dancers, singers and comedians perform at the Harlem Golden Slipper club. Top-billed Mantan Moreland plays himself, a Hollywood star, throws out some hilarious lines, does a comic dance, and talk/sings a number. In the mimimal plot, Handsome Harry, the debt-ridden gambling club owner (Monte Hawley, once called the black Clark Gable) is arrested for murder. Tall, Tan and Terrific is a singing act. With The Two Fat Men, The Gorgeous Astor Debutantes, and an all-female orchestra. Only 40 minutes The same year Pollard also directed Beware starring Louis Jordan. Mantan was also in The Dreamer (1948). All of them were Astor Pictures.

THE TALL WOMEN

(1966) D/P: Sidney Pink S: Mino Roli, Jim Henaghen Austria/Italy/Spain (Las Siete Magníficas)

Apaches attack a wagon train in the 1870s. The only survivors are seven women—led by Anne Baxter—who have to cross the desert on foot. With Gutav Rojo, Maria Perschy, Christa Linder, and European extras as savage American Indians. From Allied Artists.

TALONS OF THE EAGLE

(MCA, 1992) D: Michael Kennedy S: J. Stephen Maunder P/A: Jalal Merhi Canada

Producer Merhi (with a ponytail) and muscular Billy Blanks (a former US karate champion) are martial arts expert cops in Toronto after a major drug king (James Hong). With Priscilla Barnes as an undercover agent posing as the villain's woman, Matthias Hues, Pan Quing Fu, and plenty of skin and fighting. From SGE.

TAMING SUTTON'S GAL

(1957) D: Lesley Selander S: Thames Williamson, Frederic Louis Fox P: William O'Sullivan

Gloria Talbott is "Seventeen and lonesome," and she falls for John Lupton. The teen drama co-stars Jack Kelly and May Wynn. It played on a Republic double bill with Wayward Girl by the same director. The teen appeal movies were advertised as being in "Naturama."

TAMMY AND THE T REX

(Image, 1994) D/S: Stewart Raffill S: Gary Brockette P: Diane Raffill

A mad scientist (Terry Kiser) puts the brain of a dying teen (John Franklin) into a mechanical dinosaur that goes out for revenge. Tammy, the girlfriend (Denise Richards), rides the dinosaur. With Ellen Dubin as the doctor's assistant, Paul Walker as the homosexual son of the sheriff, and George "Buck" Flower. By the director of Ice Pirates and The Philadelphia Experiment. The PG-13 movie was aimed at young Jurassic Park fans.

TAMPOPO

(Republic, 1986) D/S: Juzo Itami Japan

A truck driver (Tsutomu Yamazaki) and a friend (Koji Yakusho) help a widow named Tampopo (Nobuko Miyamoto), who runs a noodle shop. This odd cult movie is filed with strange things about food (and food and sex) and clever spoofs of gangster movies and spaghetti westerns.

TANGO AND CASH

(Warner, 1989) D: Andrei Konchalovsky
S: Randy Feldman P: Jon Peters, Peter Guber

Sylvester Stallone and Kurt Russell are rival cops forced to team up as LA narcotics officers in a cartoonish action movie. At least there's a good cast of villains (Jack Palance, Brion James, and James Hong). The stars run into Robert Z'Dar and Clint Howard in a scary prison. They also both show their butts, and Russell appears in drag. Teri Hatcher is Stallone's sister, and Michael J. Pollard makes a super van for them. With Roxanne Kernohan, Billy Blanks, and Shabba-Doo. After years of increasingly mediocre American features, Konchalovsky returned to Russia after this.

TANK GIRL

(MGM/UA, 1995) D: Rachel Talalay
S: Ted Sarafian P: Richard B. Lewis

Lori Petty stars as the futuristic (but late-70s punk look) Rachel Buck (a.k.a Tank Girl), heroine of a comic book that was created by Alan Martin and Jamie Hewlett. Naomi Watts is Jet Girl, Malcolm McDowell is the evil industrialist ruler of a desert planet, and Jeff Kober is a Ripper (kangaroo man). The cast includes Ice-T, Don Harvey, and Scott Coffey. By the time this came out it seemed like every other theatrical release was based on a comic book, a video game, some virtual reality nonsense, or an old TV show, and this one was lost in the shuffle. With lots of FX and a song and dance production number. The soundtrack by Graeme Revell includes tracks by female rock groups and singers: Belly, Bush, Bjork, Hole, L7, Veruca Salt, and Joan Jett, plus Ice-T and Devo. From MGM.

TANYA

(SW, 1976) D/P: Nate Rodgers S: Charles Townsend (Sex Queen of the SLA)

Several 70s movies were based on the famous Patty Hearst kidnapping, but this one is probably the funniest (and has the most sex). "Charlotte Kane" (Marie Andrews) is kidnapped by the "Symphonic Liberation Army." During one of her many enthusiastic (soft-core) sex scenes (in an abandoned church) she thinks "I feel capable of maintaining my cool." A female SLA member tells one of the men, "You're no different than the insect swine of the ruling class." A black woman with large breasts and a big afro is featured in several of the lesbian scenes. A picture of Marx hangs on the wall and there's an unlikely long-haired TV news reporter in b/w segments. The print of the Box Office International release is scratchy.

TAPEHEADS

(Pacific Arts, 1987) D/S: Bill Fishman
S/P: Peter McCarthy

John Cusack and Tim Robbins, years before both of them graduated to bigger things, are security guard friends who lose their jobs. They enter the independent music video production business and acquire a tape that could damage the career of a politician (Clu Gulager). It's full of conflicts about selling out, music biz gags, and celeb cameos, and it became dated real fast. With Katy Boyer, Doug McClure, Connie Stevens, Mary Crosby, Lyle Alzado, Susan Tyrrell, Jessica Walter, Sy Richardson, and Ted Nugent. Junior Walker and Sam Moore do a great song together, and Soul Train's Don Cornelius is good in a serious role. With music by Fishbone. Executive producer Michael Nesmith also backed Repo Man and has a cameo role.

Jack Palance and James Hong in Tango and Cash.

TARGET... EARTH?

(VCI, 1980) D/P: Joost Van Rees

Victor Buono (in his last role) is "Homer the Archivist." He and some lady aliens (wearing see-through plastic suits) watch disaster footage and interviews about the end of the world. Homer introduces an old Universal newsreel about a 1908 Siberian meteorite explosion and shows interviews with Russian scientists. Various theories are explored, and Isaac Asimov and Carl Sagan are interviewed. Film research was done by Pierce Rafferty (Atomic Cafe). This ill-conceived documentary has been known to confuse and bewilder unprepared late-night TV viewers.

TARGET: EMBASSY

(Ace, 1972) D: Gordon Hessler S: William Fairchild P: Mel Ferrer UK (Embassy)

Richard Roundtree is an American spy who has to go to the Mideast and bring back a defector (Max von Sydow). Chuck Connors is a KGB agent. Also with Ray Milland and Broderick Crawford. The Shaft star also made Charley One Eye in England.

THE TARTARS

(1960) D: Richard Thorpe S: Sabatino Ciuffini, Gaiao Fratini P: Richard Gualino Italy (I Tartari)

Victor Mature is Oleg the Viking chieftain and Orson Welles is Tartar leader Burundai in a Technicolor epic shot in Yugoslavia. With Folco Lulli, Bela Cortez, and Liana Orfei. An MGM release.

TARZANA, THE WILD GIRL

(Sinister, 1969) D: "James Reed"/Guido Malatesta S: Philip Shaw P: Glen Hart Italy (Tarzana; Sesso Selvaggio)

Femi Benussi (from Yugoslavia) rides elephants and has a chimp buddy as the jungle woman (actually an heiress) in Nairobi. The female Tarzan movie is in the tradition of Liane. Glen, the blonde hero (Ken Clark), leads the expedition to find her. Benussi spends the whole movie topless, natives (including the black British sex movie star Beryl Cunningham) dance topless, and a blonde (Franca Polerello) on the safari takes it all off several times to bathe or shower. It was a followup to the same director's Samoa, Queen of the Jungle, which starred Edwich Fenich and had Benussi in a smaller role. The tape is letterboxed, but is from a very worn print.

TARZAN IN MANHATTAN

(1989) D: Michael Schultz S: Anna Sandor, William Gough P: Charles Hairstone

Using some ideas from Tarzan's New York Adventure (1942), this CBS pilot feature has Tarzan (Joe Lara) saving Cheetah from vivisectionists in the city. Kim Crosby is Jane, a cab driver. With Tony Curtis and Jan-Michael Vincent. A short-lived series followed (1991–92) and Lara went on to other minor musclebound action roles.

TARZAN OF THE APES

(Video Yesterday, 1918) D: Scott Sidney
S: Fred Miller, Lois Weber P: Bill Parsons

Elmo Lincoln (real name: Otto Elmo Linkenhelt) stars in the basic story of how Tarzan grew up in the jungle and met Jane (Enid Markey). Lincoln looks like a big-chested wrestler and wears an over-the-shoulder fur and a headband. It was the very first Tarzan movie and it was made in Louisiana by the National Film Corporation. In one scene the actor actually killed a lion that had attacked him. Actors play the bizarre-looking apes and monkeys. 61 minutes long and with music. It was a hit, so Lincoln returned in an immediate sequel, The Romance of Tarzan, and later starred in a serial, The Adventures of Tarzan (1928). In later years he appeared at circuses as "the original Tarzan."

TARZAN'S GREATEST CHALLENGE

(VSOM, 1969) D/P: Manuel Cano S: Santiago Mioncada, J. R. Hernandez Spain/Italy
(Tarzan en la Gruta del Oro; King of the Jungle)

Steve Hawkes (from Blood Freak!) stars as "Zan" in this illegal Tarzan movie which was shot in Surinam and Miami by the maker of Voodoo Black Exorcist. The Elvis-look Zan (who swims a lot) saves the (white) daughter of a queen and at one point is trapped in an underwater cave by a man in a gorilla suit! A prospector with a talking parakeet searches for gold. Kitty Swan co-stars, and Fernando Sanchez plays three comic roles. This dubbed version played American theaters. It's pretty entertaining. Apparently there was another Zan movie with Hawkes too.

TARZAN THE TIGER

(Stokey, 1929) D: Henry McRae
S: Ian McClosky Heath

Silent and part-sound versions were released of this rare Universal serial. Only 10 of the 15 chapters are available on tape, though. Tarzan (Frank Merrill) has amnesia during most chapters. He wears a leopard skin and a fur headband, swings from vines, and was the first Tarzan you could hear yell. The lost city of Opar is ruled by the spellcasting Queen La. Natalie Kingston is Jane, and the serial includes ugly beastmen, slavers, jewel thieves, and men in gorilla suits. It's based on ERB's novel Tarzan and the Jewels of Opar and was a sequel to Tarzan the Mighty (1928). The next and most famous Tarzan was Johnny Weissmuller.

A TASTE FOR KILLING

(MCA, 1992) D: Lou Antonio S: Dan Bronson P: Michael S. Murphy

Jason Bateman and Justin Henry star as college grads working on an offshore Texas oil rig during the summer. A con man coworker (Michael Biehn) offers to help them kill their crew boss in a minimal-cast Strangers on a Train–derived plot. Helen Cates is also in the cable-TV movie.

A TASTE OF BLOOD

(SW, 1967) D/P: Herschell Gordon Lewis
S: Donald Stanford

Lewis's 2-hour, filmed-in-Miami, Eastmancolor, modern-day vampire movie was released the same year as Roman Polanski's nearly 2-hour The Fearless Vampire Killers. Polanski's is now considered a classic. This is considered an H. G. Lewis movie. A box marked "gravest urgency" arrives from London at the office of John Stone (Bill Rogers from Shanty Tramp). Stone has a corny deep voice, a maid, and a chatty wiseass secretary. He practices his putting in his luxurious living room and spends time on the course with his best friend Dr. Hank Tyson (William Kerwin), a nice guy who happens to be in love with Stone's blond wife. The box contains brandy that makes him an irritable insomniac. He takes a ship to a very foggy London, where the papers announce a murder.

Back home, he uses a big ugly ring to hypnotize his wife, then goes to Strip City, where he picks up Vivacious Vivian (!). After he bites her neck, he leaves the blood smeared all over his face. He sneaks off to Houston, where he stabs a woman in a bathing suit with a huge knife. When he becomes a vampire, a blue light shines on his face and wolves are heard howling. A bald Dr. Howard Helsing (with no accent) arrives from Hamburg University. Dr. Tyson says, "Vampirism? Voodoo? It's all mumbo jumbo! This is the space age!" but the two doctors follow Stone. "If you're trying to scare me to death, Helsing, you just did!" Last-minute intentional comedy relief is provided by a weird guy and his dog, before the expected stake-in-the-heart climax. Lewis himself appears as a British seaman. You've got to appreciate the dialogue (there's a lot of it) to enjoy this movie. The music (partly jazz) is very good. The video is letterboxed.

A TASTE OF FLESH

(SW, 1967) D/S/P: "Louis Silverman"/Doris Wishman

In this typically mind-boggling Wishman nudie movie, two assassins who claim to be plumbers arrive at the home of three female roommates and plan to kill the prime minister of "Netia." Characters look out of windows a lot, strip, takes showers, and enjoy lesbian lovemaking. Some are also whipped, beaten, raped, and even killed. One woman has a long bizarre drag dream sequence that's worth the price of admision. In b/w and with voiceover narration. Wishman returned with Love Toy (1968) and Passion Fever (1969).

A TASTE OF HELL

(Starmaker, 1973) D/S: Neil Yarema
P/A: John Garwood Philippines

Garwood stars as a WWII American soldier in the Philippines. Japanese soldiers kill his men and leave him horribly disfigured. William Smith, a soldier behind enemy lines, joins the Filipino guerrillas and falls in love with a local girl. At the end Garwood decapitates the Japanese officer. With Vic Diaz. The PG-rated feature is from Box Office International.

TASTE OF SIN

(VC2, 1981) D/S/P/A: Ulli Lommel
S: John P. Marsh, Ron Norman (Olivia)

Suzanna Love stars as Olivia, a woman who has witnessed the murder of her hooker mom as a child. Her mother's voice tells her to kill and she dresses as a hooker and goes to the London Bridge (now in Arizona). With Robert Walker, Jeff Winchester, and Lommel as a detective. Walker was also in Lommel's Devonsville Terror.

THE TATTOO CONNECTION

(Embassy, 1978) D: Lee Tso-Nam
S: Luk Pak Sang P: H. Wong Hong Kong

Jim Kelly stars as an American kung fu insurance agent in Hong Kong. He fights a gangster played by big Bolo Yung. Both were cast because they had been in Enter the Dragon with Bruce Lee. With Chen Sing and Tan Tao Liang.

TAXI DANCERS

(AIP, 1993) D/S/P: Norman Thaddeus Vane

Brittany McCrena stars as the new blonde ("Don't call me a bimbo!") who goes to work at the LA Shark dance club. Diamond Jim (Sonny Landham), a "high roller from Texas," wants her, but so does a long-haired biker musician. Meanwhile, the Yellow Dragon gang extorts money and weary, doomed characters emote. Robert Miano is the Nam vet club owner who uses cameras to spy on everybody. With Mirage Micheaux as Mercedes, Josie Byrd as a crack addict, Michelle Hess, and (porn star) Raven as Svetlana. It was backed by German producers. Vane also made the similar Club Life (1985), which had name stars.

TAXI DRIVER

(RCA/Columbia, 1976) D/A: Martin Scorsese
S: Paul Schrader P: Michael and Julia Phillips
C: Michael Chapman M: Bernard Herrmann

It took years of living in Manhattan for this controversial, one-of-a-kind shocker to really make sense. Robert De Niro stars as Nam vet Travis Bickle. Joe Spinell hires him to drive a cab. Young hooker Iris (Jodie Foster) works for Sport (Harvey Keitel). With Peter Boyle, Cybill Shepherd, Albert Brooks, Diahnne Abbott, and Scorsese himself. De Niro, Foster, and the film were nominated for Oscars. The Columbia release was drastically cut for network TV showings, which is where many first saw it. The cinematography is excellent, and the still-shocking FX are by Dick Smith. The classic soundtrack on Arista includes some choice De Niro dialogue. The screenplay was published in 1990. A widescreen Voyager laser disc is available.

TAZA, SON OF COCHISE

(1954) D: Douglas Sirk S: George Zuckerman P: Ross Hunter

See Rock Hudson in 3-D playing Indian Chief Taza and Barbara Rush as Oona. With Gregg Palmer, Joe Sawyer, Rex Reason, Morris Ankrum, and Jeff Chandler as Cochise, repeating his role from Broken Arrow and Battle at Apache Pass. The Universal release was filmed in Arches National Park.

TC 2000

(MCA, 1992) D/S: T. J. Scott P/A: Jalal Merhi Canada

Billy Blanks, with his square-top hair and shaved sides, stars and narrates as a futuristic tracker. His beautiful blond female partner Zoe (Bobbie Phillips) is killed, so the "controller" turns her into an impressive cyber killer machine. Bolo Yeung helps Blanks (who says things like "Don't screw with me, you sack of shit!") train. The "Surfaceworld" bad guys have terrible makeup, but the fighting stars are good as they kick, punch, and shoot each other in a factory. Matthias Hues is the main villain, and Merhi plays Micky Picasso. Shot in Toronto. Most of the cast were also in Talons of the Eagle.

THE TEACHER

(Vid America, 1974) D/S/P: Hikmet Avedis

A student (Jay North, formerly Dennis the Menace!) learns about sex from a sexy teacher (Angel Tompkins) who lives next door. Angel is topless a lot while sunbathing. Meanwhile, a voyeur psycho Nam vet killer (Anthony James) watches and threatens. With Marlene Schmidt (the associate producer) and Sivi Aberg. Avedis made several R drive-in features for Crown International.

TEASERAMA

(SW, 1955) D/P: Irving Klaw

Redhaired stripper Tempest Storm stars in a color feature that imitates a live burlesque show. It features Klaw's cult discovery Betty Page dancing and introducing other dance sequences. Comedians (including Joe E. Ross of Car 54, Where Are You?) and various strippers (who usually leave pasties on) do their acts and it's all "SPICY! TORRID!" Also with Trudy Wayne, Honey Baer, Cherry Knight, and female impersonator Vickie Lynn. Klaw also made the similar Varietease (1954).

Peter Boyle, Joe Spinell, and Robert De Niro in Taxi Driver.

TED AND VENUS

(Columbia, 1991) D/S/A: Bud Cort S: Paul Ciotti P: Randolph Turrow, William Talmadge

Nearly 20 years after Harold and Maude, grown-up Cort stars as Ted, an overaged hippie/poet on disability on Venice Beach in 1974. He thinks a beautiful community service worker (Kim Adams) has emerged from the sea. He falls for her and becomes an irritating pest, then a deranged threat. With Carol Kane as twins and Jim Brolin. Many name actors have bit parts including Woody Harrelson, Timothy Leary, Andrea Martin, Martin Mull, Tracy Reiner, Vincent Schiavelli, Gena Rowlands, Rhea Perlman, Cassandra Peterson, and Pat Ast.

TEEN AGE

(Sinister, 1943) D: "Dick L'Estrange"/ Gunther Von Strensch S: Elmer Clifton P: J. D. Kendis (Teenage Jungle)

Although it bears a 1959 copyright, most of this less-than-one-hour-long WWII-era release (from Continental Pictures) was filmed in the 30s (!), and has nothing at all to do with teenagers! The D.A. (top-billed Herbert Heyes) gets us started with a series of ridiculous comic flashbacks of acrobatic sisters, jalopies, and jitterbugging. In flashback #3, some guys and gals steal cars—then all of a sudden we see a blonde in a (30s) gambling club, gangsters, and an Oriental fan dancer show. Actor Wheeler Oakman is in the 30s footage (bad guy) and the 40s footage (now a reformed ex-con telling a flashback to his wayward son). He says that he "pulled a boner." More flashbacks appear in flashbacks. Teen Age was billed as "A Dramatic Thunderbolt of Modern Youth." Try and imagine going to a theater in 1959 to see what you thought was a new jd movie and seeing this. INCREDIBLE! The older footage is from Slaves in Bondage and Gambling in Souls, earlier Kendis roadshow hits.

TEENAGE BONNIE AND KLEPTO CLYDE

(Vidmark, 1993) D/S: John Shepphird S: Steve Janowski P: Menahem Golan

Maureen Flannigan (from the Out of This World TV series) stars as the police chief's very cute blond daughter. She and her boyfriend (Scott Richard Wolf) are small-town Catholic high school students who go on a (sometimes comic) crime spree. They even die in slow motion at the end in a movie that copies the Beatty movie a lot. With Bentley Mitchum, Don Novello as a cop, and Tom Bower. The 21st Century release was shot in Utah.

TEENAGE CATGIRLS IN HEAT

(1995) D/S: Scott Perry S: Grace Smith

A Sphinx statue causes cats to kill themselves, and they return as meowing and purring women who have sex with men, then kill them. The catgirls also run around topless a lot. The silly low-budget movie from Austin was picked up by Troma. With Esmereldas Huffhines, Carrie Vanston, and Helen Griffiths.

TEENAGE CONFIDENTIAL

(Rhino)

This tape of shorts and scenes going back to the 40s was compiled by Johnny Legend. Trailers for Teenage Crime Wave, Curfew Breakers, Ed Wood's The Violent Years, and others are shown, along with rare scenes from government shorts (with psychiatrists or the church providing direction) and rare features. In "Satan Was a Teenager," the parents blame themselves for teen trouble, Tab Hunter does a mental illness spot, and some of the best scenes are included from Rock Baby Rock It, Carnival Rock, Teenage Devil Dolls and others (all Rhino tapes, of course). Actually it makes a good commercial for the rest of Rhino's Teenage Theatre series, hosted by Mamie Van Doren. If you've seen the 7 features in the series (you should!) you will have seen about half of this hour-long tape already. The box shows Jack Elam from the movie Girl in Lovers Lane (1960).

TEENAGE CRUISERS

(PVX, 1977) D: Tom Denucci D/S/P/A/M/E: Martin Margulies (Young, Hot 'n' Nasty Teenage Cruisers)

This American Graffiti–inspired, plotless sex/rock comedy was mostly shot in 1975 (judging from the Dog Day Afternoon marquee). Margulies (a.k.a. Johnny Legend) is radio D.J. Mambo Remus who smokes pot and does fast raps over the air, intercut with unrelated segments. The "nuthouse nympho" escapes and has (hardcore) sex scenes with a bound and gagged guy and some animated dildos. "Guest star" John Holmes (the late Ohio-born porn legend) does it with two girls in and out of a pool. Enthusiastic star Serena drives around with her girlfriend, masturbates, and ends up in a van with a bored hippie who comes so much he floods the street. Some parts are actually funny. The sex scenes are a mixture of porn loops and more comical softcore segments. The music's great, but you have to wonder who the audience was for this off-the-wall concoction. The soundtrack album (originally on Rollin' Rock) is also on Rhino. It features the Blasters, Billy Zoom of X, Ray Campi, Charlie Feathers, and rockabilly singer/wrestling manager Legend.

TEENAGE DEVIL DOLLS

(Rhino, 1952) D: Bramlett L. Price, Barbara Marks, Robert A. Sherry ... (One Way Ticket to Hell)

Cassandra joins a gang and becomes a drug addict in a 58-minute anti-drug pseudo-documentary that was made by UCLA students. It's narrated. Mamie Van Doren is the hostess of the tape (one of a series of 8).

TEENAGE EXORCIST

(AIP, 1990) D/P: Grant Austin Waldman
S/A: Brinke Stevens

Brinke Stevens buys a house (the usual Fred Olen Ray movie house) and becomes possessed. For a while she's a "queen of Hell" in a dog collar and a leather bikini and boots. A comic pizza-delivery boy (Eddie Deezen) shows up, and corny jokes and dumb situations abound. In one odd scene, rats are played by minks. Elena Sahagun takes a shower, Jay Richardson walks around in a dress, Robert Quarry is a priest, and zombies and a horned demon show up. Michael Berryman was around long enough to have his picture taken for the video box. Ray was a producer and wrote the original story.

TEENAGE GANG DEBS

(SW, 1966) D: Sande S. Johnsen
S: Hy Cahl P: Jerry Denby

"Cool it." "Don't bug me, man." "It's a drag." "I'm hip." These are just a few of phrases used in this great b/w gang movie. Terry (Diane Conti) from Manhattan's Golden Falcons gang takes over Johnny and his Brooklyn Rebels. One long hand-held camera sequence with no dialogue shows the Aliens (bikers from Queens with WWII helmets) in a violent deadly rumble. With a cat fight, a switchblade fight, an offscreen gang bang ("line up"), dancing, and lots of mindless violence and senseless deaths. The female Rebels get revenge at the end. The music is mostly jazz or light instrumental rock and Lee Dowell sings "Black Belt," a karate dance number! New York movies from the mid-60s are almost always much more realistic and interesting than anything from Hollywood. Some of you might think the 50s elements are out of place in a mid-60s movie, but a lot of people still looked and talked like that then. Many still do. Johnsen also made The Beautiful, the Bloody and the Bare. The tape includes a wraparound with Johnny Legend and trailers. Dig it?

TEENAGE MOTHER

(Sinister, 1966) D/S/P: Jerry Gross

Arlene Farber stars as Arlene, a school girl with serious piled-up hair plus leather skirts and boots designed by Betsey Johnson (!). Miss Erika Peterson (Julie Ange) from Sweden is the new high school health teacher. Erika is nearly raped by pot-selling students ("$10 a load"), a dealer tries to blackmail her, and she's blamed when Arlene says she's pregnant. Everything is cleared up at an emergency town meeting where a birth-of-a-baby short is screened. Comedian Fred Willard makes his film debut as a coach, Arlene's boyfriend races cars and there's some great go-go dancing with music by the Young Set. The actual East Rockaway High School on Long Island was used. Ange and Farber were also both in Gross's Girl on a Chain Gang, advertised here on a drive-in marquee. Both classic exploitation movies played for years.

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES

(IVE, 1990) D: Steve Barron S: Todd W. Langen, Bobby Herbeck P: Kim Dawson, Simon Fields, David Chan, R. Chow

Every kid in America must have lined up to see this PG-rated adaptation of Kevin Eastman and Peter Laird's comic books (created in 1984). It was a huge hit for New Line and broke the record (previously held by Avco Embassy's The Graduate, then AIP's The Amityville Horror) as the most successful indy feature of all time. A TV cartoon show, Turtle toys, cereal, and video games all came first. A live stage presentation and feature sequels followed, and kids picked up turtle slang. There was a lawsuit over the phrase "Cowabunga!" (first used on the Howdy Doody TV show). The same fight choreographer (Pat Johnson) as the Karate Kid movies was used, and the turtles are from the Jim Henson workshop. Elias Koteas and Judith Hoag star, and Corey Feldman provided one of the voices (as he did for the sequels). The movie is filed with fast-food plugs directed at all the young consumers. Hong Kong's Golden Harvest backed the New Line release (and the sequels).

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES II: SECRET OF THE OOZE

(RCA, 1991) D: Michael Pressman
S: Todd W. Langen P: Thomas K. Gray

The more expensive immediate sequel suffered from turtle overkill and was a flop in comparison with the original. Paige Turco returns as a NYC newscaster, Ernie Reyes Jr. is a martial arts expert pizza delivery boy, and David Warner plays a professor. New monsters are introduced, and Vanilla Ice is featured in a rap/dance sequence. The movie is dedicated to Jim Henson, whose Creature Shop provided the "animatronics."

TEENAGE MUTANT NINJA TURTLES III

(Columbia, 1993) D/S: Stuart Gillard
P: Thomas K. Gray, Kim Sawson, David Chan

The four turtles time-travel to 17th-century Japan to rescue a modern-day NYC reporter (Paige Turco) while two warlords battle each other and British villains who want to sell arms interfere. With Elias Koteas, Vivian Wu as a resistance fighter, and Sab Shimono. It was shot in Oregon. Soon the lucrative turtles craze died out and kids turned to the Mighty Morphin Power Rangers on TV and then in the movies.

TEENAGER

(New World, 1974) D: Gerald Seth Sindell
S: Reginald Thumb, Earl Jay P: Allan Zinn
Hodshire (The Real Thing)

Somebody must have seen Dennis Hopper's The Last Movie and decided to make a simpler variation on the same theme. Billy, an egotistical low-budget director (he looks a bit like Roger Corman), convinces the young stars of his new biker movie to invade a small town for real while he films the realistic action. The locals get real riled up and death results ("This isn't a movie anymore!"). A scene in a church copies The Wild Angels. Meanwhile, a local girl (the teenager of the misleading title) and the lead actor fall in love. With Sue Bernard from Faster, Pussycat! Kill! Kill!, and John Holmes as a cop! It was presented by Jack Harris, who always picked up interesting features (The Blob, Equinox . . .). Sindell later made H.O.T.S. (1979).

TEENAGE REBEL

(1956) D: Edmund Goulding S/P: Charles Brackett S: Walter Reisch

Betty Lou Keim is a daughter in trouble. Ginger Rogers is her divorced mom. The 20th Century Cinemascope release was based on a play called "A Roomful of Roses." With Michael Rennie as the new stepfather, Mildred Natwick, Louise Beavers, Warren Berlinger, and Diane Jergens. Goulding, who had directed classics like Grand Hotel (1932) and Nightmare Alley (1947), ended his career with Mardi Gras (1958), a Pat Boone movie.

TEENAGE REBELLION

(SW, 1967) D/S/P: Norman J. Herman (Mondo Mod)

I had the Sidewalk label soundtrack (produced by Mike Curb) for this b/w AIP/TransAmerica documentary for years (it set me back 50¢) and it was great to see the movie finally. It deals with teenagers around the world, but the tone of Burt Topper's narration seems aimed at parents and has a major moral message at the end to reassure them. There's some great mid-60s footage here of the Sunset Strip, Carnaby St., and of protests and riots in Paris, Rome, and Vienna. Many scenes are from Sweden and Japan. With bikers (and Davie Allan music), a demolition derby, mud wrestling, tattooing, some excellent surfing scenes, and lots of dancing. The segments on LSD, unwed mothers (with their faces blocked out), and homosexuals in Rome are pretty memorable. Parts are obviously staged and some real scenes are made dubious by faked voiceovers.

TEENAGE U.F.O. ROCK 'N' ROLL MONSTER SHOW

(SW, 1994)

This two-hour comp features around 40 trailers for teen and rock movies plus two shorts. Some of my faves are The T.A.M.I. Show (featuring rare Beach Boys footage cut from the actual feature), Disc O Tek Holiday (great Freddy Cannon scene), The Proper Time (Tom McLaughlin), Key Witness (Dennis Hopper), The Thrill Killers and Psychout. Hallucination Generation and Sting of Death are just two of the many trailers from Florida movies. Teenage Crusade is a promo film for a series of religious family films. Twist Craze (produced by Bill Rebane) is a great/hilarious 1961 short from Chicago that originally played with the Louis Prima movie Twist All Night. Enthusiastic dancers twist to a surf instrumental group in a high-class club, then everybody joins in! Johnny Legend is the host.

TEENAGE SCHLOCK CLASSICS

(Sinister)

This entertaining grab bag of more than two dozen trailers covers all types of teen movies . . . from juvenile delinquents and controversial themes (Too Soon to Love is about abortion) to Gidget and all six AIP beach party movies. Some highlights include Vic Morrow in Blackboard Jungle, Jack Nicholson in Cry Baby Killer, Corman's Sorority Girl, and great trailers for The Beatniks and Teenage Tramp.

Sally Kellerman gets stabbed in Reform School Girl, Mamie Van Doren sings in Born Reckless, and you won't believe the singers in Senior Prom! Also with celebs like Louis Prima and Keely Smith, Zohra Lampert, Molly Bee, Dick Clark, James Brown, Edd "Kookie" Byrnes and Robert Vaughn.

TEENAGE STRANGLER

(SW, 1964) D: "Bill Posner"/ Ben Parker S/P: Clark Davis

I love obscure early-60s regional movies like this! A mystery "lipstick" killer is strangling schoolgirls with stockings in the Huntington, West Virginia, area (where this marvel was filmed). Some of the characters are straight out of Rebel Without a Cause, but with Southern accents. Jimmy—a member of the Fastbacks, a pretty harmless "gang" (they wear black jackets with bulldogs on the backs)—is a suspect. He stands up for a guy everybody calls Runt, and has a girlfriend named Betty Jean. His family had to relocate because of his police record. Jimmy even has a drag race with Curley, the gang's tough guy. Kids do the twist and drink pop at Marty's where Betty Gay (not Betty Jean) announces, "Fellow citizens and lovers of good music—for those of you that pledge allegiance to Peter, Paul and Mary . . . the Beatles . . . the Teen Queens . . . Paul Anka, and the Chad Mitchell Trio . . ." and a guy (from the Huntington Astronauts) sings "Yipes Stripes." Despite Betty Gay's horrifying list, the instrumental rock on the soundtrack (by Danny Dean and the Daredevils) is fine. Meanwhile more girls are strangled. One is killed in a shower while we see a shadow of somebody with a ducktail haircut. This is a classic cheat scene, since we later discover that Mr. Wilson, the demented school janitor ("I hate every one of you!!") is the killer. In 1967, the color Teenage Strangler played around the country with A Taste of Blood. Try and imagine being at the drive-in for that double bill! The b/w release in 1990 and the write-up in Psychotronic resulted in local screenings, newspaper articles, and cast reunions!

TEENAGE WOLFPACK

(Sinister, 1956) D/S: Georg Tressler S: Will Tremper P: Wenzel Ludecke W. Germany (Halbstarken)

"Nothing like him has hit the screen since James Dean!" He is "Henry Bookholt" (Horst Buchholz) who stars as Freddie. He works at an Esso station, wears black leather pants, and has a 15-year-old girlfriend named Sissy (Karin Baal). He also buys a gun, steals a car, and leads his small gang on a botched mail truck robbery with tragic results. Based on a "true story." The dubbing is pretty good and the theme is jazz. D.C.A. released it here on a bill with the British Teenage Bad Girl. Also look for Buchholz in Tiger Bay (1959) and Billy Wilder's One, Two, Three (1961).

TEEN ALIEN

(Prism, 1988) D/S/P: Peter Semelka S: James Crofts

A killer alien disguised as a student kills at a Halloween spook show at an abandoned mill. It's rated PG.

TEEN VAMP

(Starmaker, 1988) D/S: Samuel Bradford P: Jim McCullough

A nerd (Beau Bishop) is bitten by a hooker at a roadhouse. He becomes a cool 50s jd-look vampire. With Clu Gulager as a minister, Karen Carlson, and Mike Lane. The New World horror comedy was shot in Shreveport, LA. A good rule is to avoid 80s movies with "Teen" in the title.

TEEN WITCH

(Media, 1989) D: Dorian Walker S: Vernon Zimmerman P: Alana Lambros

Robin Lively stars as an uncool schoolgirl. Fortune-teller Zelda Rubinstein tells her she'll become a witch before she turns 16, and she does. It's a comedy fantasy with music and dancing. With Joshua Miller, Dick Sargent (from Bewitched), and Shelley Berman. Notice all the product placements (for Coke, Ford . . .). TWE released the PG-13 feature.

TEEN WOLF

(Paramount, 1985) D: Rod Daniel S: Joseph Loeb III, Matthew Weissman P: Mark Levinson, Scott Rosenberg

The only reason this was a hit was because star Michael J. Fox was starring on the popular Family Ties show and was in Back to the Future the same year. The PG teen horror comedy is like a terrible version of one of those Disney movies like Son of Flubber, and like that movie, Teen Wolf is about school sports. With Susan Ursitti. A various artists soundtrack is on Southern Cross. Teen Wolf became an animated cartoon series, and there was a sequel.

TEEN WOLF TOO

(Paramount, 1987) D: Christopher Leitch S: R. Thomas Kring P: Kent Bateman

Jason Bateman, a college freshman who becomes a comic werewolf, is a cousin of the original. With Kim Darby as a professor, John Astin as the college dean, Paul Sand as a coach, Kathleen Freeman, and Michael Worth. The PG feature has bad makeup. This wolf lip-synchs "Twist and Shout" and wins a school boxing match. A various artists soundtrack, put together by Mike Curb, is on CBS. A third Teen Wolf movie was announced.

TEKWAR: THE ORIGINAL MOVIE

(MCA, 1994) D/A: William Shatner S: Alfonse Ruggiero Jr., Westbrook Claridge P: Jamie Paul Rock, Stephan Roloff (William Shatner's Tekwar)

Greg Evigan (B.J. and the Bear) stars as a futuristic cop taken out of his cryogenic freeze in 2044 to stop the flow of a dangerous virtual-reality drug (called Tek). It's based on executive producer Shatner's novels, and Shatner plays the boss of the Cosmos detective agency. With Eugene Clark, Torri Higginson, Barry Morse, and Sheena Easton. This rather dull syndicated TV feature led to a USA cable series in 1995. The hour shows are much better and have some fun FX. All were shot in Toronto.

TELEFON

(MGM/UA, 1977) D: Don Siegel S: Peter Hyams, Sterling Silliphant P: James B. Harris M: Lalo Schifrin

Charles Bronson fans didn't know what to think about this one, but it's good. He plays a Russian KGB agent who is also the hero. He's sent to try to stop human time bombs that were programmed in the 50s to destroy America. It was based on Walter Wager's novel. With Lee Remick, Donald Pleasence as the Stalinist villain, Patrick Magee, Tyne Daly, Sheree North, John Mitchum, and newscaster John Hambrick. Director Hyams was replaced by Siegel. The score includes a repeated loud player-piano tune. It was partially filmed in Finland. Bronson was in the ridiculous De Laurentiis production The White Buffalo the same year.

THE TELL-TALE HEART

(SW, 1963) D: Ernest Morris S: Brian Clemens, Elden Howard P: Edward J. and Harry Lee Danzinger UK

A good gimmick intro warns the audience to close your eyes when you hear heartbeats. Lawrence Payne stars as Edgar, a shy man ("a decent sort") who goes home to look at "French postcards" after being intimidated by bar girls. He watches a new neighbor (Adrienne Cori) across the street (the Rue Morgue) undress, then meets and awkwardly courts her. When his friend becomes her lover, Edgar flips. Although it looks more like a 40s film, Heart features some pretty modern blood, nightmares, and flashbacks and very effective freakout scenes when the killer (and we) hear a loud beating heart (which he had cut out and buried). The print is jumpy and scratchy, though. It was re-released in America as Hidden Room of 1,000 Horrors.

THE TEMP

(Paramount, 1993) D: Tom Holland S: Kevin Falls P: Tom Engleman

Timothy Hutton stars as a troubled and divorced marketing manager for a successful baking goods company in Portland run by Mrs. Appleby (Faye Dunaway). Lara Flynn Boyle is the temporary secretary who seduces him and seems to be behind a series of murders. Office workers die by bee sting, hanging, cookies with ground glass, and one guy's hand goes into a paper shredder (Steve Johnson FX are used). The Paramount release is by the director of Child's Play. Several endings were filmed but few viewers liked the double surprise one that was used. With Dwight Schultz and Oliver Platt.

TENAFLY

(1973) D: Richard Colla S/P: Richard Levinson, William Link

Shaft became a short-lived CBS series in 1973, so NBC countered with this pilot film developed by the people behind Columbo. It starred James McEachin as Tenafly, a married suburban LA detective. With Ed Nelson (who is murdered), Mel Ferrer as a lawyer, John Ericson, Anne Seymour, and series regulars David Huddleston and Lillian Lehman. It lasted one season as a series.

TEN DAYS' WONDER

(Connoisseur, 1972) D: Claude Chabrol S: Paul Gegauff, Paul Gardner, Eugene Archer P: Andre Genovese France (La Decade Prodigieuse)

Charles Van Horn (Anthony Perkins) is the adopted son of rich and powerful Orson Welles and his young red-haired wife (Marlene Jobert). He falls for his stepmother, wakes with blood on his hands, and develops amnesia. The stepfather wants everything to be as it was in 1925. The confusing mystery, based on an Ellery Queen novel, features a fever dream with an octopus, nightmares, and flashbacks. Also with Michel Piccoli. Welles had directed Perkins in The Trial.

TENDER DRACULA

(Blood Times, 1974) D/S: Pierre Grunstein S: Justin Lenoir P: Jerome Kanapa France (La Grande Trouile)

Peter Cushing is excellent in this atmospheric romantic horror/sex comedy musical. He plays MacGregor, an eccentric horror star who lives at a great-looking remote old castle on an island with his loving witchlike wife Heloise (Valli). The usually restrained Cushing (sometimes made up as a scary vampire) yells and laughs a lot and is very funny. His producer sends two scriptwriters and two sexy starlets to try to bring him out of retirement. One writer is Bernard Menez (also in the Christopher Lee French vampire comedy Dracula and Son). Boris, the Russian one, is also a makeup artist. Statues cry, people are killed or cut in half, the servant accidentally cuts off his own body parts with an ax, and the whole movie is filled with is-it-real-or-is-it-a-dream? sequences. One of the starlets is Miou-Miou (a well-known star in France) in a curly wig. She and her friend both run around naked a lot and sing silly songs ("I'm scared, I swear . . ."). Cushing even gets to waltz, spank Miou-Miou (in an electric chair), and play his own gravedigger father in a flashback. This could never have been made anywhere but France.

TENDER LOVING CARE

(1973) D/S/P: Don Edmunds P: Chako Van Leeuween

Donna Desmond stars in a New World nurse movie. She investigates the death of a boxer (John Daniels) and her roommate is blackmailed by a male nurse for stealing drugs for an addicted doctor.

TENDERNESS OF WOLVES

(VSOM, 1973) D: Ulli Lommel S/A: Kurt Raab P/A: Rainer Werner Fassbinder W. Germany (Zaerlichkeit Der Wolfe)

A bald vampire-like homosexual killer preys on young boys in post-WWI Hanover. This is based on the crimes of the real-life Fritz Haarman (as was Lang's M). The feature is bloody (for the time) and includes nudity and nods to Nosferatu. Jeff Roden co-stars as the police inspector with Raab, Ingrid Caven, and others from the Fassbinder acting community. Lommel moved to America in the late 70s.

TENEMENT

(IVE, 1985) D/C: Roberta Findlay S: Joel Bender, Rick Marx P: Walter E. Sear (Game of Survival)

A gang of crack smokers hang out in the basement of an isolated South Bronx apartment building. When a gang member is arrested, the others seek revenge and battle the tenants. Already sad and tragic characters are raped, murdered, and impaled, and one black man reluctantly becomes a hero. Frequent titles tell us what time it is and what floor the action is occurring on. It's well made but pretty grim. With Karen Russell and a rap theme song. Findlay made it after Shauna, Every Man's Fantasy (1985).

TEN LITTLE INDIANS

(Warner, 1989) D: Alan Birkinshaw S: Jackson Hunsicker, Gerry O'Hara P: Harry Alan Towers South Africa (Death on Safari)

This third version of Agatha Christie's murder mystery made by Towers is set in Africa in the 30s. Characters staying in tents are killed off, and there's a ridiculous triple surprise ending. With Herbert Lom (also in the 1975 version), Donald Pleasence, Paul L. Smith, Sarah Maur (from Edge of Sanity), Brenda Vaccaro, Frank Stallone, and Warren Berlinger (looking a lot like Orson Welles in the 1975 version). Gregory Dark was the assistant director. From Cannon. Part of the same cast was in Towers's stupid Masque of the Red Death remake too. His first Ten Little Indians was released in 1965.

THE TENNIS COURT

(1984) D: Cyril Frankel S: Andrew Sinclair UK

A woman is possessed on the grounds of a house she's inherited. The haunted-tennis-court movie features death by tennis net and WWII-era flashbacks. Peter Graves stars with Hannah Gordon and Isla Blair. A Hammer TV presentation.

10 RILLINGTON PLACE

(RCA, 1970) D: Richard Fleischer S: Clive Exton P: Martin Ransohoff, Leslie Linder UK

Richard Attenborough stars as John Reginald Christie, the real-life tea-drinking English landlord and killer who buried his eight female victims in his yard. He drugged, raped, and murdered women in the late 1940s. John Hurt plays Timothy Evans, the dim-witted boarder who was wrongly convicted and hanged for one of Christie's murders, an event that led to the banishment of capital punishment in England. With Judy Geeson, Bernard Lee, and Andre Morell. Fleischer also made Compulsion and The Boston Strangler.

TEN SECONDS TO MURDER

(CNH, 1970) D/S: Wayne Avery S: P.A. Hedberg P: Harry Novak (Booby Trap)

I can't think of another movie about a hysterical Nam vet in an RV, planning to blow up a rock music festival. He never makes it to the festival, but he does blow up some people with his stolen arsenal and talks a lot ("Too many people. The world is full of freaks!"). Scarfo (Buck Kartalian) runs a Hollywood strip club where the madman's ex-wife works. Scarfo is thrown off a rooftop, but walks away O.K. In a scene typical for an "adult" movie of the period, there's a gay character who gets beat up. The strangest thing about this sad little movie from Box Office International is that some of the music sounds a lot like the German group Can!

10 TO MIDNIGHT

(MGM/UA, 1983) D: J. Lee Thompson S: William Roberts P: Pancho Kohner, Lance Hool

Bronson stars as a tough LA cop ("I hate quiche") after a serial killer/rapist (Eugene Davis) who runs around naked. Bronson is thrown off the force, but stays on the case. Andrew Stevens is his by-the-book partner and Lisa Eilbacher is his daughter in peril. With Geoffrey Lewis, Wilfred Brimley, Kelly Preston, and Jeana Tomasino and Ola Ray (both from Playboy).

TEN VIOLENT WOMEN

(World, 1978) D/S/P/A/E: Ted V. Mikels S: James Gordon White

Some women work in a gold mine. It explodes, so they go to Vegas for a jewel heist and end up in jail. They take showers in their underwear and are victimized by the sadistic warden during the women's prison part, then escape. Leo the fence (director Mikels) is killed by a high heel through his heart, and the women use kung fu. Sherri Vernon and Dixie Lauren star with Georgia Morgan as the lesbian Miss Terry. It was released in 1982 and played 42nd St. Mikels' next was Warcat (1987).

TEOREMA

(Connoisseur, 1968) D/S: Pier Paolo Pasolini P: Franco Rossellini, Manolo Bolognini M: Ennio Morricone Italy

Terence Stamp stars as a mysterious stranger who arrives in Milan at the household of a very rich family. After he leaves, they all change (including the servants). The son becomes an artist but pisses on his paintings. The maid levitates and is considered a saint. The father gives his factory to the workers and wanders off naked. The religious allegory was banned in Italy when first released but has been copied by other filmmakers since. Silvana Mangano is the mother and Massimo Girotti is the father. Letterboxed with English subtitles.

TERESA'S TATTOO

(1994) D: Julie Cypher S: Georgie Huntington P: Lisa M. Hansen

A dumb girl (Adrienne Shelly) with a dragon tattoo is taken hostage by C. Thomas Howell because she has space secrets in her hologram earrings. She dies, so a college math whiz lookalike (also Shelly) is kidnapped, drugged, and tattooed for an extortion scheme. The comedy with chase scenes includes music by Melissa Etheridge. With Lou Diamond Phillips as an FBI agent, Jonathan Silverman, Nancy McKeon, Casey Siemaszko, and bits by Majel Barrett, Nanette Fabray, Tippi Hedren, k. d. lang, Mary Kay Place, Joe Pantoliano, Mare Winningham, and Kiefer Sutherland.

TERMINAL CHOICE

(Vestron, 1982) D: Sheldon Larry S: Neal Bell
P: Gary Magder Canada (Critical List; Deathbed)

Patients die at a computer-run clinic. Joe Spano is the hero and David McCallum and Robert Joy are doctors. With Nicholas Campbell, Diane Venora, Teri Austin, and Ellen Barkin as a coroner who throws up. It was shot in Montreal and includes some real autopsy footage.

TERMINAL CITY RICOCHET

(1990) D: Zale Dalen S/P: John Conti
S: Bill Mullen, Phil Savath Canada

Peter Breck runs for mayor in a futuristic city. Space junk is all around, and the police shoot looters. With Jello Biafra and the group D.O.A. Made in Vancouver.

TERMINAL ENTRY

(Celebrity, 1987) D: John Kincade S: David Mickey Evans, Mark Sobel P: Sharon Reis Cobe

Some computer hacker kids battle terrorists (led by Kabir Bedi) trying to destroy the USA and kill the president. With Eddie Albert as a military captain, Yaphet Kotto, and Paul Smith. Jill Terashita, Barbara Edwards (from Playboy), and Tracy Brooks Swope show up for some R-rated nudity in the War Games–inspired movie.

TERMINAL EXPOSURE

(Vestron, 1988) D/S/P: Nico Mastorakis
S: Kirk Ellis (Double Exposure)

Some Venice Beach guys busy taking pics of women's asses accidentally photograph a murder. John Vernon and Joe Phelan costar. The R-rated mystery comedy has many beauties, mostly from the pages of Playboy (Luann Lee, Hope Marie Carlton, Ava Fabian, and Tara Buckman).

TERMINAL FORCE

(Starmaker, 1987) D/P: Fred Olen Ray
S/A: Ernest D. Farino P: Grant Austin

Eurostar Richard Harrison is a suspended cop who has to protect a mob squealer, and a mobster's daughter is kidnapped by Jay Richardson. With Troy Donahue, Dawn Wildsmith, Fox Harris, Michelle Bauer, and Robin Shurtz. New World released it.

TERMINAL USA

(1994) D/S/A: Jon Moritsugu P: Andrea Sperling

Comic sex, gore, and drug-taking are featured in a 54-minute long 16mm film about a suburban San Francisco Japanese-American family. With the director as twin sons, Sharon Omi, Ken Narasaki, and Jenny Woo. Morotsugu followed with Mind Fuck Explosion.

TERMINAL VELOCITY

(Hollywood, 1994) D: Deran Sarafian S: David Twohy P: Scott Kroopf, Tom Engleman

Charlie Sheen stars as a reckless skydiving instructor named Ditch who is blamed for the death of a student (Nastassja Kinski). She's actually a former KGB spy who only pretended to die, and the ridiculous plot concerns Russian spies after a gold shipment. The most outrageous of the many action sequences has both stars trapped in a sports car while it free-falls from an airplane. James Gandolfini (acting like Gene Hackman) is the spy pretending to be working for the local D.A. With Christopher MacDonald as a blond killer and Melvin Van Peebles. It was a comeback for Kinski, who had divorced her Egyptian husband and moved to America with Quincy Jones. The PG-13 feature cost $50 million and was a big money loser until its video release. A soundtrack is from Varèse Sarabande.

THE TERMINATOR

(HBO, 1984) D/S: James Cameron
S/P: Gale Ann Hurd S: William Wisher

Although it copied episodes of The Outer Limits and/or Cyborg 2097 (1966), The Terminator did it all right and was the exciting hit that made Arnold Schwarzenegger a real star. Writer Harlan Ellison gets a superimposed credit at the end, as ordered by the court after he sued. The violent nonstop action science fiction hit from Hemdale has itself been copied many times since. Linda Hamilton costars as Sarah Connor, the woman that the Terminator from the future has been sent to kill. Arnold kills street punks, lots of cops at a police station, and several wrong women. With Michael Biehn, Paul Winfield, Lance Henriksen, Bill Paxton, Rick Rossovich, Brian Thompson, and Dick Miller as a gun shop owner. The FX are by Stan Winston and the robot animation is by Ernie Farino. The Brad Fiedel soundtrack is on Enigma. The laser disc is letterboxed and includes a making-of short. In Europe there was an Italian ripoff called Terminator II (1989) directed by Bruno Mattei, but the real Terminator 2 wasn't until 1991.

TERMINATOR 2: JUDGMENT DAY

(Live, 1991) D/S/P: James Cameron S: William Wisher P: Gale Ann Hurd, M. Kassar

Allthough this sequel cost "$100 million" (!!), it made lots of money and was the biggest (and at 135 minutes, the longest) hit of the year. The state-of-the-art FX by ILM and Stan Winston are excellent. The typical loud Times Square crowd was shocked into complete silence (a unique and rare experience) during the scene where LA is nuked. This will remain the ultimate apocalypse scene for years to come. Arnold Schwarzenegger returns as a different terminator, and he promises not to kill people. Linda Hamilton is a muscular and crazed Sarah Connor, and her kid (Edward Furlong) orders Arnold around. Robert Patrick is T-1000, a bad terminator, disguised as a cop. The liquid metal–look transformation scenes are also outstanding. With Joe Morton (also in The Brother from Another Planet, a movie that stole ideas from the same places as Terminator), Jenette Goldstein, and a record number of bullets, guns, and car crashes. Jim Muro was a steadicam operator. The Brad Fiedel soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande, and Guns N' Roses had a hit from it. The Pioneer "Special Edition" laserdisc contains about 16 minutes of extra footage, including a scene with Michael Biehn. It's available letterboxed or "pan and scanned." A Terminator Box contained both features, a making-of short, interviews, a booklet, and a 3-D cover. A deluxe illustrated screenplay book was also published. The even more expensive next Arnold movie (Last Action Hero) tried to top this and failed.

TERMINATOR WOMAN

(Vidmark, 1992) D/A: Michel Qissi
S: John S. Soet S/P: Jeanette Francesca Qissi

Karen Shepard and Jerry Trimble are cops protecting a government witness. The action movie costars Ashley Hayden and kickboxer Qissi (Bloodsport).

TERMINUS

(VSOM, 1986) D/S: Pierre William S: Patrice Duvic P: Anne François W. Germany/France

French singing star Johnny Hallyday, American Karen Allen, and German Jurgen Prochnow star in a computerized truck race movie that copies Road Warrior.

TERRA COTTA WARRIOR

(VSOM, 1988) D: Ching Siu-Yung S: Li Pik Wah
P: Chu Mu, Hon Pou Chu Hong Kong/China

The personal swordsman of the first emperor of China is encased in clay for having a love affair with a concubine (Gong Li). She's burned to death for sorcery. He's revived in the 20th century (thanks to an elixir) and she is reincarnated as an actress. A gang plans to rob the ancient tombs. Parts of the impressive romantic action fantasy (shot in mainland China) are pretty silly, and scenes are copied from the Raiders . . . films. Star Zhang Yimou has a stony Buster Keaton face and is very good, though. He also directed the quality serious features Red Sorghum (1987) and Ju Dou (1989), both with Gong Li. Terra is by the director of Chinese Ghost Story, and the FX are by Tsui Hark.

THE TERRIBLE PEOPLE

(Sinister, 1960) D: Harald Reinl S: J. Joachim Bartsch, Wolfgand Schnitzler W. Germany
(Hand of the Gallows; Die Bande Des Schreckens)

A condemned crook (Otto Colin) promises to return for revenge for death by hanging. The Edgar Wallace mystery had also been filmed as a Pathé serial in 1928. With Joachim Fuchsberger, Karin Dor (who was married to the director), Eddi Arent, and Fritz Rasp.

THE TERROR

(Sinister, 1938) D: Richard Bird
S: William Freshman UK

The old dark house mystery based on an Edgar Wallace novel (and play) had been filmed as The Terror (1928) and Return of the Terror (1934) in America. Wilfred Lawson stars in this version with Arthur Wontner, Bernard Lee, and Alastair Sim.

TERROR ABROAD

(1933) D: Paul Sloane S: Harvey Thew, Manuel Seff P: William Le Baron

Everyone is found dead on an ocean liner. Flashbacks introduce the passengers and show how they were killed. One is hung on a hook in the freezer and blood is seen. Critics considered the Paramount release in very bad taste at the time. John Halliday is the ship's captain and killer. Neil Hamilton (the hero) and Shirley Grey costar with Charlie Ruggles for comedy relief, Jack LaRue, and Verree Teasdale. Ruggles returned the same year in a similar role in Paramount's Murder in the Zoo.

TERROR AT LONDON BRIDGE

(Fries, 1985) D: E.W. Swackhamer S: William F. Nolan P: Jack Michon, Richard Maynard (Bridge Across Time; Arizona Ripper)

The spirit of Jack the Ripper follows the London Bridge to Arizona and kills again. With David Hasselhoff as a detective, Adrienne Barbeau, Lindsay Bloom, Lane Smith, Clu Gulager, and Rose Marie. The NBC-TV movie used the same idea as Ulli Lommel's earlier A Taste of Sin (1983).

TERROR AT ORGY CASTLE

(SW, 1971) D: Zoltan G. Spencer

Tourists Bill and Lisa arrive at a castle owned by the countess Dominova, who at one point turns into a count and has sex with two women. There's a dinner table orgy, a black mass featuring Lisa and men in goat heads, and two succubi who entertain Bill. Everyone is naked a lot and the frequent sex scenes are pretty explicit. Everything is narrated (some of the dialogue is missing). The music starts with spooky organ, gets bluesy for sex scenes, then becomes psychedelic. You'd swear this soft-core sex movie was European, but it's from California. The impressive sets are the same ones that were used in Blood of Dracula's Castle and Gallery of Horror (both featuring John Carradine)! Terror was made back-to-back with Spencer's The Hand of Pleasure. A Frank Henenlotter Sexy Shocker release.

TERROR AT TENKILLER

(United, 1986) D/P: Ken Meyer S: Claudia Meyer

Some girls at a lakeside resort are killed. It was shot on tape, by the Oklahoma-based makers of The Ripper and Copperhead.

TERROR AT THE OPERA

(Southgate, 1987) D/S: Dario Argento S: Franco Ferrini P: Mario and Vittorio Cecchi Gori (Opera)

Ian Charleson (from Chariots of Fire) is a horror movie director, presenting a staged avant-garde production of Verdi's opera Macbeth (Argento planned to do the same in real life). The play includes guns, crashed airplanes, and real ravens swooping into the audience. After the play's star is hit by a car, a crazed fan kills off friends of the Lady Macbeth understudy (Christina Marsillach). This is Argento at his stylish, horrifying best. He manages to make a cliché story seem brand new. The star is forced to watch killings, and her eyes are taped open while her lover is killed. Ravens peck a face apart. Her agent (Daria Nicolodi) is killed as the camera follows the bullet through the gun and into her brain. There's also an incredible ending in the mountains. Michelle Soavi was the second unit director. The music is by Claudio Simonetti with cuts by Brian and Roger Eno and Bill Wyman. R and unrated tapes are available, but the original end scene is missing from the US video. Charleson later died of AIDS.

TERROR BEACH = NIGHT OF THE SEAGULLS

TERROR CIRCUS: See BARN OF THE NAKED DEAD

TERROR EYES

(AIP, 1988) D: Steve Sommers, Michael Rissi D/S/P: Eric Parkinson S/P/A: Vivian Schilling

Parkinson and Schilling took two USC shorts, filmed one of their own, and added framing scenes. The odd and pretty senseless new scenes feature a white trash couple who receive a deadly "book of life." They wake (it was all her dream) and go camping, where the other tales are told. Sommers's interesting short is about a small-time crook in a time warp and Rissi's is about a female chess player who is thrown in a maze by an evil maker of violent games. With Dan Roebuck (in two roles) and Fox Harris. Parkinson and Schilling returned with Soultaker.

TERRORGRAM

(Monarch, 1988) D/P: Stephen M. Kienzle

Three people receive packages from a delivery man, leading to three horror tales. These shorts have a very strong moral attitude. The director is more concerned with getting across (often very confused) messages than being scary. The first has a mean (gay?) director of what looks like a Troma movie trapped in a (junk-induced) nightmare version of his own movie. Women take the abusive roles and female bikers keep men in chains. The second is about a TV anchorwoman who uses a hit-and-run death she was responsible for to further her career. She imagines a talking corpse and, of course, pays for her deeds. The last is about an abusive drinker and wife beater who had been responsible for a student being drafted back in 1968. He ends up trapped in a Nam battle, is tortured, and is practically talked to death by a walking corpse. The makeup is excellent and the first two stories feature some nudity. James Earl Jones reads an introduction that is so long and overly serious that it must be a joke.

TERROR HOSPITAL = NURSE SHERRI

TERROR IN BEVERLY HILLS

(AIP, 1988) D/S: John Myhers P: Ron Lavery, Pierre Mzadeh

Hero Hack Stone (Frank Stallone) runs a martial arts school and Palestinian terrorists kidnap the president's daughter. With Cameron Mitchell and William Smith (who is dubbed) as the president.

TERROR IN THE AISLES

(MCA, 1983) D/P: Andrew Kuehn S: Margaret Doppelt P: Stephen Netburn

This compilation of scenes from "75" (mostly horror) movies from the 40s to the early 80s actually played in theaters. Donald Pleasence and Nancy Allen sit in a theater and narrate. They try to sound serious and worried and wear out their welcome pretty fast. Watching all the scenes can be overwhelming even for a longtime horror fan, but some of them are pretty great. It had to be cut for an R rating even though none of the movies covered was rated anything stronger than an R. Some titles covered are The Exorcist, The Thing, Scanners, Alien, Nighthawks, The Seduction, and Vice Squad.

TERROR IN THE JUNGLE

(1968) D: Tom De Simone, Andy Janzack, Alexander Grattan S/P: Enrique Torres

A blond boy (Jimmy Angle) survives a plane crash in the Amazon and is treated as a god by Jivaro Indians. The chief plans to sacrifice him, though, and his parents arrive in Peru for a rescue mission. Crown International released the Pathecolor feature, filmed on location in Peru. With Robert Burns and Fawn Silver (from Orgy of the Dead). Music by Les Baxter and the Hypnotics.

TERROR IN THE SWAMP (1976) = CREATURE FROM BLACK LAKE

TERROR IN THE SWAMP

(Starmaker, 1983) D: Joseph L. Catalanotto S/A: Billy Holiday P: Martin Folse (Nutriaman: The Copasaw Creature)

Two scientists inject a nutria (a kind of rodent) and create a barely seen Sasquatch-type monster that escapes in the Louisiana Bayou. New World released the regional PG feature.

TERROR IN TOYLAND: See CHRISTMAS EVIL

TERROR OF DR. HITCHCOCK = THE HORRIBLE DR. HITCHCOCK

TERROR OF MECHA-GODZILLA = TERROR OF GODZILLA

TERROR OF THE BLOODHUNTERS

(Sinister, 1962) D/P: Jerry Warren S: Jacques LeCotier

Here's a mindless hour that only seems like it lasts four. Narrated flashbacks take us to Devil's Island where Duvaal, an artist prisoner (Robert Clarke) tries to escape with the commander's daughter (Dorothy Laney) and some other guy. They mostly stand around in the dark and talk while we see lots of badly edited stock footage of a leopard and natives dancing. Repeating one short loop of native dialogue over and over is pretty disorienting. So are the topless black women edited into scenes of white natives. This played with Warren's Invasion of the Animal People.

TERROR OF THE DOLL

(MPI, 1975) D/P: Dan Curtis S: Richard Matheson

This is the famous killer-doll segment (with Karen Black) of the Trilogy of Terror TV movie. It's 30 minutes long.

TERROR OF THE SHE WOLF = LEGEND OF THE WOLF MAN

THE TERROR OF TINY TOWN

(Video Yesteryear, Admit One, 1938) D: Sam Newfield S: Fred Myton, Clarence Marks P: Jan Buell

This all-little-people western comedy opens with two midgets arguing over who is the star. Little Billy is the villain and Billy Curtis is the hero. They both ride ponies. In one barroom scene "Diamond Dolly" sits on an old man's lap and sings "Hey, Look Out! (I Want to Make Love to You)." With a cast of 60 (average height 3' 8"). It's only 63 minutes long and was released (by Principle) shortly before The Wizard of Oz. Newfield also directed the black-cast western Harlem on the Prairie (1939). Also see Even Dwarfs Started Small, Little Cigars, Under the Rainbow, and Willow.

THE TERROR ON ALCATRAZ

(TWE, 1986) D: Phillip Marcus S: Donald Lewis P: Marvin G. Lipschultz

Some teenagers on a tour are locked in Alcatraz overnight. A former prisoner shows up looking for some money he hid and starts killing them off. With Aldo Ray, Sandy Brook, and Alisa Wilson.

TERROR ON TAPE

(Continental, 1985) D: Robert A. Worms III S: Philip L. Clarke

Cameron Mitchell runs the "Shoppe of Horrors" video store. He horrifies two customers by showing them gory scenes from "20" movies that used to be available from Continental Video like Scalps, Nightmare, and Return of the Aliens: Deadly Spawn. Others are Vampire Hookers, Madhouse Mansion, and City of the Walking Dead. He shows some H. G. Lewis clips to a third customer (Michelle Bauer) to try and shock her.

TERROR ON THE MENU = THE FOLKS AT RED WOLF INN

TERROR ON TOUR

(Media, 1980) D: Don Edmunds S: Dell Lekus P: Sandy Cobe

While a Kiss-type band called the Clowns play, groupies are being killed by a psycho dressed as a band member. With nudity and gore. By the director of Ilsa movies.

TERROR SQUAD

(Forum, 1987) D/P: Peter Maris S: Chuck Rose

Libyan terrorists invade Kokomo, Indiana, take over a nuclear plant, and take teen hostages. Chuck Connors is the police chief in a Brooklyn Dodgers jacket. The Red Dawn ripoff features lots of explosions. With Greer Brodie, Ken Foree, and actual citizens of Kokomo.

TERRORVISION

(Lightning, 1985) D/S: Ted Nicolaou P: Albert Band

In a dumb science fiction comedy, an alien enters a swinger's house through a satellite dish. Gerrit Graham and Mary Woronov are the parents, but they don't last very long. With Diane Franklin, Chad Allan, Alejandro Rey, Jennifer Richards as an Elvira-type TV hostess, and Bert Remsen (as grandpa). Clips from Earth vs. the Flying Saucers, Robot Monster, and The Giant Claw are thrown in, and there are lots of in jokes. The Richard Band soundtrack is on Enigma. The Empire release was filmed in a studio in Italy.

THE TERROR WITHIN

(MGM/UA, 1989) D: Thierry Notz S: Thomas M. Cleaver P: Roger Corman

Roger Corman made Alien copies in space, under water, and this one, under the desert. It's set on Earth in an underground lab after a worldwide plague. A woman the scientists rescue gives birth to a mutant creature that becomes a man-in-a-suit monster. There's a chest burster scene, and a dog whistle (!) stops the creature. With George Kennedy, Andrew Stevens, Starr Andreeff, and Terry Treas. Notz is from Switzerland.

THE TERROR WITHIN II

(Vestron, 1991) D/S/A: Andrew Stevens S: Lee Lankford P: Mike Elliot

Stevens roams the post-plague desert with his dog. He runs into a group of cave people (living in Bronson Canyon!) led by an evil black woman. Stevens cuts off his ZZ Top beard, his dog is killed, and his new girlfriend (Clare Hoak) is raped doggie-style by a mutant. Another monster attacks the underground lab sanctuary. Andrew and his real-life mom Stella Stevens deliver a killer mutant baby. R. Lee Ermey yells. The best part is a slimy red (man-in-a-suit) monster with a big lump on its head. With Chick Vennera. Roger Corman was the executive producer.

TESS

(RCA, 1979) D/S: Roman Polanski S: Gerard Brach P: Claude Berri France/England

After being arrested in Hollywood in 1977 and serving 42 days in prison, Polanski had to cancel several planned American features. Instead he made this lush and long (170-minute) period film based on Thomas Hardy's novel. Natassja Kinski stars as a peasant girl seduced and abandoned by nobleman Alec D'Urberville (Leigh Lawson). Her baby dies, and she has to work on a farm. Angel Clare (Peter Firth) marries her but leaves on their wedding night, ashamed of her past. It all ends with more tragedy. With Suzanna Hamilton and Arielle Dombasle. A 1924 American version is considered a lost film.

TESTAMENT

(Paramount, 1983) D/P: Lynne Littman S: John Sacret Young P: Jonathan Bernstein

The same year as The Day After, this smaller film covers similar territory in less time. The Wetherly family in Hamlin, CA, are nuke survivors. Jane Alexander (who was Oscar nominated) stars with William Devane, Lukas Haas, Philip Anglim, Rebecca De Mornay, Kevin Costner, and Mako. It was made for the PBS American Playhouse, then was released in theaters, prompting SAG to sue.

THE TESTAMENT OF DR. MABUSE

(Nelson, Sinister, 1932) D/P: Fritz Lang S: Thea von Harbou Germany (Das Testament des Dr. Mabuse; The Crimes of Dr. Mabuse)

Rudolf Klein-Rogge returned in the sound sequel to Lang's silent Dr. Mabuse (1922). He controls a criminal organization from his asylum cell and when he dies, is reincarnated in the body of the director of the asylum (Oskar Beregi). Inspector Lohmann (Otto Wernicke) uncovers the master criminal in the end. It was to premiere in Berlin in 1933 but was banned by the Nazi government, and Lang fled the country, saying that his film denounced fascism. His screenwriter wife von Harbou chose to stay. Testament . . . wasn't screened in Germany until after the war. A French-language version was shot at the same time with a partially different cast. Originally 122 minutes long. TV prints and the (subtitled) video are only 75 minutes. It was remade in West Germany in 1962.

THE TESTAMENT OF ORPHEUS

(Home Vision, 1959) D/S/A: Jean Cocteau P: Jean Thuillier France (Le testament d'Orphée)

Cocteau returned to the themes of his classic Orpheus (1950) and stars as an 18th-century poet who dies and rises from the dead. He enters the 20th century "age of reason" and meets characters from Orpheus (including Jean Marais). It's b/w with color sequences and the American version is narrated. With Yul Brynner, Jean-Pierre Leaud, Daniel Gelin, Claudine Auger, Pablo Picasso and his wife, Charles Aznavour, Roger Vadim, and Brigitte Bardot. Cocteau died in 1963.

TEST TUBE BABIES

(SW, 1948) D: W. Merle Connell P: George Weiss (Sins of Love)

Timothy Farrell (with glasses and no mustache, for a change) made his film debut as Dr. Wright, a friendly, patient gynecologist in a once-scandalous movie about artificial insemination. A married couple is happy but the husband is sterile, so they become a happy family with help from the doc. Stuff about their "wolf" friend and footage of a drunk at a party and a cat fight help fill up the time. The Screen Classics feature was re-released in 1967 (!) with new footage as The Pill. Farrell also played Dr. Weiss in Hometown Girl/Secret Scandal, made around the same time. With trailers for Pin Down Girls and Dance Hall Racket, which were also once available from (the now-defunct) Hollywood Confidential company.

TEST TUBE TEENS FROM THE YEAR 2000

(Paramount, 1993) D: "Ellen Cabot"/David DeCoteau S: Kenneth J. Hall P: Karen L. Spencer (Virgin Hunters)

Two guys from the future take a time machine to a present-day girls' school run by Morgan Fairchild (has she ever been in a good movie?). This shamelessly copies a good movie (Spirit of '76) plus all those awful teen comedies with guys in drag just to be around school babes. With shower and sex scenes and a comic Terminator clone. Sara Suzanne Brown (Mirror Images II) and Michele Matheson (Howling IV) are the main attractions. A "Torchlight" productions from Full Moon.

TETSUO: THE IRON MAN

(Fox Lorber, 1990) D/S/A/C/E: Shinya Tsukamoto Japan (Tetsuo)

This amazing 66-minute 16mm b/w film was an underground, midnight hit in Tokyo and could be described as a "cyberpunk Eraserhead." It's fast-paced, shocking, scary (and funny!) and features time-lapse action photography, surprising FX, monsters, a mutant cat, flashback sex, and lots of sweat, pain, spurting blood, maggots, mutating, and loud screams. It was done on an obvious low budget, but you can tell that the filmmakers spent a long time getting everything just right. I think it's a warning to "Salaryman." The "industrial" music (by Tadashi Ishikawa) is also excellent. The MPAA would probably give it an NC-17 for "general tone." The subtitled tape includes Drumstruck (1991), a very good 25-minute b/w short by Greg Nickson made in Chicago.

TETSUO II: THE BODY HAMMER

(1991) D/S/A/C/E: Shinya Tsukamoto Japan

The best part of the color sequel to the original cult film is a long hidden-camera b/w flashback of bizarre experiments to turn people into weapons. Otherwise, the more expensive feature makes less sense (to me anyway) and just doesn't have the same kind of impact. Tomoroh Taguchi (from Tetsuo) stars. Subtitled copies are around.

TEX

(Disney, 1982) D/S: Tim Hunter S: Charlie Haas P: Tim Zimmerman

Matt Dillon and Jim Metzler star as brothers living by themselves in rural Oklahoma. The PG Disney feature was the first to be based on a novel by S. E. Hinton (she appears as a teacher). With Meg Tilly, Ben Johnson, Emilio Estevez, and Zeljko Ivanek. Pino Donaggio wrote the score. Hunter also made River's Edge. Dillon went on to more Hinton adaptations: The Outsiders and Rumblefish.

TEXAS CHAINSAW MASSACRE PART 2

(HBO, 1986) D/M: Tobe Hooper S: L. M. Kit Carson P: Golan/Globus

The original 1974 classic made millions for somebody, but not Hooper, so Cannon made a deal with him. He made the Invaders from Mars remake and this sequel for them. It's a parody written by the same guy who had just written the Breathless "remake." The production was rushed. It was still shooting in July and was released in August! It tales place 14 years after the events in the original. Dennis Hopper is the grim Lt. Lefty Enright. He (and his obvious double) team up (sort of) with Caroline Williams (a great screamer) as a DJ called "Stretch." Hopper dresses like a modern cowboy and is armed with a chainsaw and two small ones in holsters. Bill Moseley is Chop Top ("Nam Flashback!") and Bill Johnson is Leatherface. They have trash culture references (an idea copied from Mother's Day) and there's a Dr. Strangelove in-joke. Jim Siedow (the only returning cast member) is Cook, now in the Dallas area running a catering business out of an enormous bone-filed complex underneath the abandoned Texas Battle amusement park. Tom Savini really delivers in the FX department (it was released unrated), but the main plot line is Leatherface in love. A various artists soundtrack is on IRS. Leatherface, an unrelated sequel, followed.

THE TEXAS CHAINSAW MASSACRE: A FAMILY PORTRAIT

(MTI, 1988) D/S/P: Brad Shellady

Chicago-based filmmakers traveled from Maine to Michigan to Texas and California to interview stars Gunnar Hansen, Edwin Neal, and Jim Siedow plus Forry Ackerman and Charles Balun. The 64-minute documentary about the original horror classic was from 32 hours of videotape.

THE TEXAS COMEDY MASSACRE

(1988) D/S/P/A/E: Marcus Van Bavel

Van Bavel filmed this over a period of five years and plays "46" roles. It's a series of TV parodies including "Star Dreck" and "The Mild Kingdom."

TEXAS DETOUR

(1978) D/S/P: Hikmet Avedis

Patrick Wayne stars as a stunt driver. With Priscilla Barnes (who appears topless), R. G. Armstrong, Cameron Mitchell, and Lindsay Bloom.

TEXAS IN FLAMES: See SHE CAME INTO THE VALLEY

TEXAS LAYOVER: See BLAZING STEWARDESSES

TEXAS LIGHTNING

(Media, 1980) D/S: Gary Graver P: Jim Sotos

Cameron Mitchell and his son Channing Mitchell star as father and son truck drivers who go on a hunting trip. They hang out at a honky tonk bar and the son gets involved with a waitress. With Maureen McCormick (from The Brady Bunch) and porn star Lisa Deleuw. The director was on a break from making nonstop X features.

T-FORCE

(PM, 1994) D/P: Richard Pepin S: Jaconson Hart P: Joseph Merhi

In a sci-fi action movie set in LA of 2007, Jack Scalia is a detective who has to work with violent cyborgs led by Evan Lurie. Bobby Johnson is the cyborg partner. With Erin Gray (from the Buck Rogers TV series) as the mayor and Vernon Wells as a terrorist.

THANK GOD IT'S FRIDAY

(RCA, 1978) D: Richard Klane S: Barry Armyan Bernstein P: Rob Cohen

It's one night at the Zoo, a Hollywood disco. Valerie Landsburg stars in the hit musical with Terri Nunn, Chick Vennera, and Donna Summer. Jeff Goldblum owns the disco and Debra Winger is there too. Like other disco movies, it will be rediscovered and reevaluated in the future. The Commodores are on the nonstop double Casablanca soundtrack which features Summer's "Last Dance." Neil Bogart was executive producer. From Columbia.

THAR SHE BLOWS!

(VCR, 1969) D/S: Richard Kantner S/P/A: David F. Friedman

John Alderman (as Phil Latio) and Stuart Lancaster charter a yacht and bring starlets along. A gruesome flashback shows how the impotent Captain Frigate (Vincent Stevens) was gouged in the groin with a hook. Shari Mann is his sister, who likes to walk around naked. The adults-only movie features sex, showers, spanking, lesbian scenes, masturbation, and suicide. Friedman shows up as the bartender.

THAT COLD DAY IN THE PARK

(Republic, 1969) D: Robert Altman S: Gillian Freeman P: Donald Factor C: Lazslo Kovacs US/Canada

Sandy Dennis is a wealthy spinster in Vancouver who invites a boy (Michael Burns) home for dinner. He returns and gives her marijuana brownies. She hires a hooker (Luana Anders) for him to try to keep him around, but he snaps and kills her and others. With Susanne Benton, John Garfield Jr., and Altman regular Michael Murphy.

THAT'LL BE THE DAY

(1973) D: Claude Whatham S: Ray Connolly P: David Puttnam, Sandy Lieberson UK

David Essex plays a lower-class working husband and father in 1958, who finally decides to leave it all behind and be a rock singer. His rise to stardom came in the sequel, Stardust. With an oldies soundtrack put together by Neil Aspinall and Keith Moon, who also acts. With Billy Fury and Ringo Starr. The hit "Rock On" by Essex is the end theme.

THAT MAN BOLT

(1973) D: Henry Levin, David Lowell Rich S: Quentin Werty, Charles Johnson P: Bernard Schwartz

Fred Williamson is Jefferson Bolt, a James Bond–type agent with a black belt who is hired to transport a fortune and battles Japanese villains. Teresa Graves (a former regular on Laugh-In) is his singer girlfriend. The action shifts from Hong Kong to LA to Vegas to Mexico City. With Miko Mayama, Ken Kazama as Spider, Jack Ging, and Paul Mantee. Original director Levin became ill after filming the Hong Kong sequences and was replaced. From Universal.

THAT MAN IN ISTANBUL

(1965) D/S/P: "Anthony Isasi"/Antonio Isasmendi S: George Simonelli, Nat Wachsberger Spain/France/Italy (L'Homme d'Istanbul)

A playboy spy (Horst Buchholz) and an FBI agent posing as a stripper (Sylva Koscina) search for a missing atomic scientist. Terrorists led by Klaus Kinski are making him build an H-bomb. Columbia released it and there was a Mainstream soundtrack.

THAT OBSCURE OBJECT OF DESIRE

(Nelson, 1977) D/S: Luis Buñuel P: Serge Silberman France/Spain

Buñuel was called a traitor, an anarchist, an atheist, a pervert, and worse. His last feature was a version of a novel by Pierre Louys. It had also been filmed by Joseph von Sternberg as The Devil Is a Woman in 1935. Fernando Rey is the rich old man who suffers for his young maid. The maid is played in various scenes by either Carole Bouquet or Angela Molina. Rey's voice was dubbed by Michel Piccoli. Available subtitled or dubbed. Look for Buñuel's autobiography, My Last Sigh. He died in 1983.

THAT'S ACTION

(AIP, 1990) D/S: David A. Prior P: Kimberley Casey

Robert Culp's career had fallen a long way when he hosted this 77-minute-long commercial for cheap films from Action International Pictures. Scenes are divided into categories like "high speed chases and crashes," "fight scenes," and "body burns."

THAT'S ADEQUATE

(Southgate, 1985) D/S/P: Harry Hurwitz P: Irving Schwartz

Tony Randall narrates the history of an old (fictional) B studio in this faked documentary spoof. James Coco is the studio head who started in the circus and is interviewed on The Joe Franklin Show. His studio copied everybody else and turned out features like Sluts in the South and Young Hitler (starring Robert Vaughn) and created imitation Ritz Brothers and Three Stooges. With Stiller and Meara, Ina Balin, Prof. Irwin Corey, Susan Dey, Robert Downey Jr., Richard Lewis, Chuck McCann, Peter Riegert, Brother Theodore, Robert Townsend, Renee Taylor, Martha Coolidge, Marshall Brickman, and even Bruce Willis. With dubbed Hoppity Goes to Town animated footage and dubbed Republic serial scenes.

THAT'S THE SPIRIT

(1945) D: Charles Lamont S/P: Michel Fessier, Ernest Pagano

A vaudeville dancer (Jack Oakie) wishes he could die instead of his newborn baby, so a silent lady grim reaper (Karen Randle) takes him instead. He's allowed to return to Earth 18 years later (in 1916) as a friendly ghost with a magic flute. He helps his daughter (Peggy Ryan), a singing dancer. He can walk through walls and cars pass through him. The flute makes people act childish. The Universal musical comedy fantasy featured FX by John Fulton. Also with June Vincent, Gene Lockhart, Andy Devine, Arthur Treacher as a butler, Irene (Granny Clampett) Ryan as a maid, and Buster Keaton as the head of the complaint department in Heaven.

THAT'S THE WAY OF THE WORLD

(Abackus, 1975) D/P: Sig Shore S: Robert Lipsyte (Shining Star)

Harvey Keitel is a record producer with mob problems. He's working with Earth Wind and Fire. The group appears and their leader Maurice White acts. With Bert Parks as a child molester (!), Ed Nelson, Murray the K, and Jimmy Boyd as a junkie. From U.A. and the producer/director of Superfly. The Columbia soundtrack went to #1, but not that many people saw the movie.

THAT TENDER TOUCH

(1969) D/S/P: Russell Vincent

Sue Bernard (from Faster, Pussycat! Kill! Kill!) stars as a traumatized orphan who has a brief lesbian affair. Later she marries, and the former lover, failing to win her back, kills herself. The flashback-filled movie that explores "The wall between two kinds of love!" was rated R and features an actress named Phae Dera.

THAT TENNESSEE BEAT

(1966) D/P: Richard Brill S: Paul Schneider

Jim Birdsell (Earl Richards from The Girl from Tobacco Row) is a country singer who steals to get ahead in Nashville. He gets in more trouble but is saved by Opal (Sharon De Bord) and a lady preacher (Minnie Pearl) who hires him as a handyman. With Dolores Faith, Merle Travis (who sings the title song), the Statler Brothers, Boots Randolph, Pete Drake, and the Stony Mountain Cloggers. When this color movie was released by 20th Century, "country music" still meant hillbilly music.

Earl "Snake" Richards sings to Sharon De Bord in That Tennessee Beat.

THAT WAS ROCK

(Media) S: Steve Binder, Larry Peerce

In the 80s somebody edited down the great all-live music features The T.A.M.I. Show (1964) and The Big T.N.T. Show (1966 but filmed in 1965) into one 90-minute video and added new color intros by Chuck Berry. The two movies (originally released by AIP) should both be available, but until they are, this (now out of print) video is all there is on tape and is well worth searching for. Highlights include great performances by Bo Diddley (with the Duchess), Ike and Tina Turner, and the Ronettes (all from TNT) and James Brown, the Rolling Stones, and Motown acts Marvin Gaye, the Miracles, and the Supremes (all from T.A.M.I.). You might not miss some of the British invasion, pop, and folk acts that were omitted, but the fact that James Brown's dynamite set was cut down is a terrible thing. Jack Nitzsche was musical director of T.A.M.I. and David Winters was the choreographer (the frantic dancers, some in bikinis, are an important part of the experience). Phil Spector was producer and musical director of TNT.

THAT WAS THEN . . . THIS IS NOW

(Paramount, 1985) D: Christopher Cain S/A: Emilio Estevez P: Gary R. Lindberg, John M. Ondov

Estevez (also in Tex) adapted another S. E. Hinton novel and stars as the drug-dealing, car-stealing half-brother of Craig Sheffer. With Kim Delaney, Jill Schoelen, Barbara Babcock, and Morgan Freeman. The music is by Keith Olson.

THELMA AND LOUISE

(MGM, 1991) D/P: Ridley Scott
S: Callie Khouri P: Mimi Polk

A Bakersfield waitress (Susan Sarandon) and her naive housewife friend (Geena Davis) go on a vacation together in a convertible, encounter drunks who won't take no for an answer, and end up as fugitives wanted for murder, headed for the Moab desert. Some compared it to Easy Rider, some thought it was a feminist classic (Khouri's screenplay received an Oscar), and a lot of us just thought it was cool road movie in the tradition of many drive-in classics from the 70s. The cosmic ending is even like the ending of Vanishing Point (1971). With Harvey Keitel as an understanding FBI man, Brad Pitt, Michael Madsen, Stephen Tobolowsky, and Christopher McDonald. It's 128 minutes long.

THEMROC

(1973) D/S: Claude Faraldo P: Hlena Vager France

Themroc (the always excellent Michel Piccoli) quits his job, has sex with his sister (Beatrice Romano), barricades himself in a cavelike room, and kills cops and cooks them on a spit for dinner. In this wild comic anarchist movie, Themroc talks with a made-up language and eventually just screams. With Marilu Tolo.

THEN CAME BRONSON

(1969) D: William A. Graham
S: D. B. Petticlerc P: Robert H. Justman

Michael Parks quits his newspaper writing job and takes off on a motorcycle to find himself. Bonnie Bedelia costars as a runaway bride. With Akim Tamiroff (in one of his last roles), Gary Merrill, Sheree North, and Martin Sheen. It was the pilot for a CBS TV series that only lasted one year. The Easy Rider influence reached suburban homes pretty fast.

THERE GOES MY BABY

(Orion, 1991) D/S: Floyd Mutrux P: Robert Shapiro (The Last Days of Paradise)

Eight California high school grads are seen during two nights in the summer of 1965 when anti-war protests and the Watts riots occurred. The American Graffiti–type movie includes the expected great oldies. With Dermot Mulroney, Rick Shroeder as a surfer, Kelli Williams, Jill Shoelen, Noah Wyle, Seymour Cassell, Andrew Robinson, and narration by Anne Archer. William Fraker was the cinematographer, as he had been for the director's American Hot Wax and Hollywood Knights. The feature was shelved when Orion went bankrupt and was finally released in 1994.

THERE GOES THE BRIDE

(1979) D: Terence Marcel S/P: Ray Cooney P: Martin Schute UK

Tom Smothers is the father of the bride-to-be at a wedding party. He romances the ghost of a 1920s model (Twiggy) that only he can see. The comedy, based on a play, features Martin Balsam, Jim Backus, Sylvia Syms, Broderick Crawford, and Phil Silvers. Marcel also made Jane and the Lost City. Smothers also starred in the equally obscure movies Get To Know Your Rabbit (1970) and Pandemonium (1981).

THERESE AND ISABEL

(1968) D/P: Radley Metzger S: Jesse Vogel

Therese (Essy Persson) remembers her boarding school days in flashback. The lonely girl had befriended Isabelle (Anna Gael) and they had a brief affair. It was filmed in France in b/w and released by Audubon Films. Persson was known for the hit I, a Woman, which Metzger had "Americanized." Metzger made Camille 2000 next.

THERE IS NO 13

(1973) D/S/P: William Sachs

Mark Damon is a Nam vet who speaks to the camera as flashbacks and flashforwards unfold. The title refers to the number of affairs he had. With Margaret Markov (from Naked Warriors and The Hot Box) and Harvey Lembeck from the Beach Party movies. By the director of The Incredible Melting Man.

THERE'S NOTHING OUT THERE

(Prism, 1990) D/S: Rolfe Kanefsky P: Wolf Kanefsky

After a good nightmare sequence in a video store, this becomes a very knowing takeoff of teens-in-a-cabin horror movies. The sarcastic odd-man-out horror film fan Mike (Craig Peck) keeps warning everyone what is bound to happen, but the others only care about sex. Nearly every female cast member has topless or nude scenes, and one wears an excellent swimsuit. One is possessed and there's a (briefly seen) slimy green monster and a decapitation. The New York area feature, made for "$300,000," played some midnight shows. It has very good cinematography, music, and acting, and some funny lines. The producer, the then-20-year-old director's father, owns an editing facility.

THEY: See INVASION FROM INNER EARTH

THEY BITE

(1989) D/S: Brett Piper P: William J. Links

A group of people staying at a Florida seaside hotel are trying to film "Invasion of the Fish Fuckers." A female fish specialist (Donna Frotscher) is staying in the next room. Ron Jeremy is one of the filmmakers and Christina Veronica is the porn movie star. Despite the porno connections, it's a fun science fiction spoof without much sex or nudity and features some pretty good (alien) fishmen who attack a bar during a wet T-shirt contest. A dream sequence is also a b/w movie trailer. A nightmare features Susie Owens (from Playboy), with a castrating vagina with teeth. Also with Blake Picket. Piper, who also did the FX, also made Raiders of the Living Dead, Nymphoid Barbarian Women, and several other features that were released only in Europe.

THEY CALL HER ONE EYE

(1974) D/S: Alex Fridolinski P: Bo A. Vibenius Sweden (Thriller-en Grym Film)

Christina Lindberg is sold, beaten, and raped by a slaver. He cuts her eye out when she tries to escape. Later, she wears different colored eye patches (and minis) while she seeks revenge. The villain ends up buried up to his neck in the ground. A rope around his neck is tied to a hungry horse trying to reach a bucket of food. AIP released it in America.

THEY CALL ME BRUCE?

(United, 1982) D/S/P: Elliot Hong S: David Randolph, Johnny Yune, Tim Clawson (A Fistful of Chopsticks)

Korean comedian Johnny Yune stars as a chef working for the Mafia. He's given cocaine disguised as flour to deliver and is mistaken for Bruce Lee. With Margaux Hemingway and K. C. Winkler. They Still Call Me Bruce was the sequel.

THEY CALL ME TRINITY

(MVD, 1970) D/S: Enzo Barboni P: Italo Zingarelli Italy (Lo Chiamavano Trinità)

Terence Hill and big Bud Spencer play half brothers who help some Mormons battle the henchmen of an evil cattle baron (Farley Granger) in a hit slapstick comedy western. Trinity is lazy and eats beans a lot. The spaghetti western made Hill and Spencer international stars and is filled with comic fight scenes (and even some karate). It was so popular that the stars returned in sequels, there were copies, and some unrelated movies that Hill and Spencer appeared in were given Trinity titles. Trinity Is Still My Name followed.

THEY CAME TO ROB LAS VEGAS

(1967) D/S: Antonio Isasmendi S: Luis Comeron, Jorge Illa France/Italy/Spain/W. Germany

Gary Lockwood is a Vegas casino dealer who plans an armored truck robbery. Elke Sommer helps. Lee J. Cobb is a mobster and Jack Palance is a federal agent. With Jean Servais and Gerard Tichy. Lockwood plays two roles. Warner released a shorter version of the 130-minute feature in America.

THEY DRIVE BY NIGHT

(Sinister, 1938) D: Arthur Woods
S: Derek Twist P: Jerome Jackson UK

A small-time crook called Shorty (Emlyn Williams) is released from prison, goes to see his old girlfriend, and discovers she's been strangled. He hitches rides from trucks then hides out in an old dark house. The killer (Ernest Thesiger) poses as a detective. Thesiger (who had already been so good in Bride of Frankenstein and The Old Dark House) uses silk stockings to kill, likes cats, and keeps a scrapbook of his murders. It's based on a novel by James Curtis. Warner used the title for a Bogart movie, and this was not released in America. The director died in the war.

THEY EAT SCUM

(Penetration, 198?) D/S/C/E: Nick Zedd

This anything-goes, no-budget 8mm underground comedy feature was filmed in Brooklyn and NYC. The image sometimes flickers and jumps or is out of focus, but all that sort of fits with the rambling plot about Susie Putrid, a junkie punk singer who tells pogoing fans at CBGB to "Kill! Kill! Kill your entire family!" Cannibal punks eat people, make a girl eat a rat, and dismember her with a chainsaw. A guy is castrated, Susie's brother has sex with a rabid poodle, and a band plays a whole song at Max's Kansas City. After Susie is killed on stage (by her father), her twin sister emerges from a mental hospital, kills the entire population of Manhattan, proclaims herself queen, and is killed by a lobster man during a mutant attack. There's even a bit of crude animation. The found music includes bits of the Beach Boys, the Village People, and Mr. Rogers.

THEY LIVE!

(MCA, 1988) D/S/M: John Carpenter P: Larry Franco

Carpenter's great anti–Republican/George Bush science fiction movie was released on the eve of the November 1988 presidential election. They Live didn't do very much business and we all know how the election turned out. Aliens secretly rule America as more people are forced to live on the streets. Characters put on special sunglasses that reveal subliminal messages (everywhere) like "Obey," "Stay Asleep," and "No Independent Thoughts." The glasses also reveal scary skeleton-like alien faces. The b/w glimpses of "reality" are great. Roddy Piper stars as Nada, an unemployed everyman with a flannel shirt in LA, who becomes the hero. With Keith David, Meg Foster, George "Buck" Flower, Sy Richardson, and Raymond St. Jacques. It was based on a short story by Ray Faraday Nelson. The score by Carpenter and Alan Howarth is on Enigma.

THEY MADE ME A CRIMINAL

(1939) D: Busby Berkeley S: Sig Herzig P: Hal B. Wallis

One of four Warner Brothers "Dead End Kids" movies released in 1939, this was a remake of The Life of Jimmy Dolan (1933) starring Douglas Fairbanks Jr., John Garfield, Claude Rains (as a detective), Ward Bond, Ann Sheridan, and Gloria Dickson are the adult stars. The real stars (Billy Halop, Bobby Jordan, Leo Gorcey, Huntz Hall, Gabriel Dell, and Bernard Punsley) all have the same character names they had in Dead End (1937).

THEY'RE COMING TO GET YOU

(Super, 1972) D: Sergio Martino S: Santiago Moncada, Ernesto Gastaldi Spain/Italy (Todos Los Colores de la Oscuridad; Day of the Maniac; Demons of the Dead)

A mentally unbalanced woman in London (Edwige Fenech) has nightmares and starts going to a psychiatrist. The Rosemary's Baby–inspired plot concerns a black magic cult. She drinks dogs' blood during a black mass ceremony where cult members resemble zombies. With George Hilton, Jorge Rigaud, and Ivan Rassimov. Independent International released it as being in "Chillo-Rama."

THEY'RE PLAYING WITH FIRE

(HBO, 1984) D/S/P: Hikmet Avedis
S/P: Marlene Schmidt

A sexy lady professor (Sybil Danning) seduces a student (Eric Brown, returning from Private Lessons). She wants him to help cheat an old lady out of her money and to kill her husband (Andrew Prine). Meanwhile, a masked psycho kills people. With Paul Clemens and Alvy Moore. Danning (who has three major nude scenes) was also in Separate Ways by Avedis. From New World.

THEY STILL CALL ME BRUCE

(Starmaker, 1987) D/S/P/A: Johnny Yune
D/S/P: James Orr

In this comedy sequel, Yune comes to America to find the G.I. who saved his life during the Korean War. Yune is an inept karate expert with a magic sock, and he fights villains. It doesn't have much to do with They Call Me Bruce, it's just dumber. With Robert Guillaume, Pat Paulsen, and Joey Travolta. From New World.

THEY WATCH

(Columbia, 1993) D: John Korty
S: Edith Swensen P: Bridget Terry

Patrick Bergin is an architect haunted by his daughter (Nancy Moore Atchinson) who died in a car crash. He searches for an old North Carolina mansion in his daughter's drawing where a blind mystic (Vanessa Redgrave) tells of "lost souls" in the woods. The PG-13 fantasy, based on a Kipling story, debuted on Showtime. With Valerie Mahaffey.

THEY WEAR NO CLOTHES

(Video Dimensions, 1941)

A very friendly-sounding man narrates a series of (b/w) scenes and tells corny jokes while light music plays. We see fan dancers, models posing outdoors, strippers, and sunbathers. Hula dancers are being watched by men in blackface with spears! So far it's what you'd expect for a 40s adult movie (nothing is really shown). The next sequences provide the payoff, though. "Modern day Eves" (one is black, very surprising for the time) are seen by a pool, then two naked women ride horses. These revealing sequences are topped by elaborate scenes of seven more smiling and laughing naked beauties posing outdoors and swimming. Then some people play croquet at a nudist camp. It's only 52 minutes long and seems to be made up of many short films or scenes, some probably from years earlier. Whoever released this probably retired comfortably from the profits.

THIEF OF BAGHDAD

(Republic, HBO, Budget, 1924) D: Raoul Walsh
S/P/A: Douglas Fairbanks S: Lotte Woods

A record big budget ($2 million) was spent on this classic fantasy hit and it made $3 million at the box office. Fairbanks stars as Ahmed the thief and Julanne Johnston is the princess. Sixteen-year-old Anna May Wong plays a Mongol slave and the cast includes Sojin, Noble Johnson, and Brandon Hurst. With a flying carpet, a winged horse, a giant spider, a cloak of invisibility, and various monsters. William Cameron Menzies was the set designer of the U.A. feature, and the sets are amazing. It ran 155 minutes when new, but videos run 140. The HBO version is tinted. Remakes were British (1940 and 1978) and Italian (1960).

THINGS

(IAE, 1989) D/S/P/A: "Barry J. Gillis"/ Andrew Jordan Canada

This senseless amateur Toronto gore movie opens with an H-bomb blast. A woman in a devil mask strips (a dream). Some guys with Great White North accents in a house somehow manage to conjure up monsters with a Satanic book they find in the fridge. Meanwhile they drink beer, talk, tell stories, and watch TV, laughing at a cheap b/w slasher film. One of them puts a bug in a sandwich for a joke. The wife of the owner of the house gives birth to a monster that kills them both. The two surviving brothers run out of beer, start drinking hard liquor, and wander around the house smashed while insect monsters breed in the basement. Every once in a while American porn star Amber Lynn and some guy awkwardly read cue cards and give comic in-joke newscasts on TV. They make jokes about George Romero and Traci Lords. They comment about the stranded brothers ("Don and Fred may still be alive after 14 days"). A doctor shows up near the end and says "This is ghastly, brutal, horrible—insane!" The special effects and sound dubbing are awful. There's some original synth and punk music on the soundtrack. Amber Lynn was in movies like Amber Pays the Rent and Friday the 13th: A Nude Beginning, but you couldn't tell what a bad actress she was in those.

Aliens disguised as American riot cops in They Live!

THINGS ARE TOUGH ALL OVER

(1982) D: Thomas K. Avildsen
S/A: Cheech Marin, Tommy Chong
P: Harold Brown

At one point, Cheech and Chong decided to stop doing drug humor (a bad idea). In this post-drug-humor flop, they play comic chauffeurs driving a limo packed with money to Las Vegas. They also play rich Arab brothers and appear in drag. With Evelyn Guerrero and both of the stars' real-life wives. From Columbia.

THINGS HAPPEN AT NIGHT

(Sinister, 1948) D: Francis Searle S: St. John L. Clowes P: A. R. Shipman, James Carter UK

A girl is possessed by a poltergeist and there's a psychic maid. With Gordon Harker, Alfred Drayton, and Gweneth Vaughn. Based on the play Poltergeist by Frank Harvey.

THINK BIG

(Media, 1990) D/S: Jon Turtletaub S: Edward Kovach, David Tausik P: Brad Krevoy, Steven Stabler

Peter and David Paul (a.k.a. the Barbarian Brothers) are dumb truckers hauling atomic waste. With Ari Meyers (from the Kate and Allie show), Martin Mull as the villain, and David Carradine as a repo man. Also with Claudia Christian, Richard Kiel, Richard Moll, Michael Winslow, Peter Lupus (from Mission: Impossible), Tiny Lester Jr., and other wrestlers. Jim Wynorski cowrote the story for the PG-13 comedy from Corman's Concorde. Note the Coca-Cola plugs.

THINKIN' BIG

(Starmaker, 1986) D/S: S. F. Browrigg S: Robert Joseph Sterling, Loretta Yearin P: Jim C. Harris

The teen sex comedy was filmed on the Texas shore by the maker of Don't Look in the Basement. Everybody thinks "Wong" (Randy Jandt) has a cock as big as Long Dong Silver so all the girls want him. Maybe they should have called it "Don't Look in the Pants."

THE THIRD SEX

(SW, 1957) D: Veit Harlan S: Dr. Felix Lutzkenorf P: Helmut Volmer W. Germany
(Anders Als Du und Ich)

This movie about the gay subculture of Berlin was directed by the same man who made Jud Süss (1940) and Kolberg (1945) for the Nazis. 16-year-old Klaus rides a scooter and paints. His banker dad doesn't understand him and wishes he'd stop hanging around with Manfred, his blond best friend. Dr. Winkler, an art dealer ("Just call me Boris") has the boys over to look at Asian art and listen to "musique concrète" that he plays on an "electron" keyboard. This spooky science fiction music is heard whenever something homosexual seems to be going on. One night at Boris's, two boys in underpants wrestle (while the camera tilts at odd angles) for entertainment. Klaus's angry dad ends up in a drag club, and his worried mom encourages Gerte, a beautiful young girl, to make it with her wayward son. After sex (on the lawn), Klaus is in love and can't get enough. Manfred gets jealous and mom goes to jail for procuring! Like Lianne, from the same producer, The Third Sex has some nudity and would have been strictly adults-only in the American 50s. With Paula Wesley, Paul Dahlke, and Christian Wolfe.

THE THIRTEENTH CHAIR

(1929) D: Tod Browning S: Elliot Clawson

Everything I ever read about this prepared me for the worst. The print I saw looked awful but it was well worth watching. It's a murder mystery set in a British mansion in Calcutta. Bela Lugosi has a good major role (and lots of dialogue) as the clever Inspector Del Sante who arrives, takes charge, and manipulates the characters into revealing the real killer. Margaret Wycherly (a later Oscar nominee) is the real star, however, as Madame LaGrange, a funny, sarcastic, complex Irish character brought in to conduct a spooky séance. Much is made of the price of the British class system. Nothing has much to do with India, but killer Thugee cults are discussed. Conrad Nagel (London After Midnight) and Leila Hyams (Island of Lost Souls) are the leads, and Holmes Herbert is Sir Crosby. The MGM feature was Browning's first non-Chaney film since 1925. A silent version was also released, and it was remade in 1937.

THE 13TH FLOOR

(Paramount, 1989) D/S: Chris Roach P: David Hannay, Charles Hannah Australia

A woman (Lisa Hensley) camps out on the abandoned haunted floor of an office building. The ghost is friendly though and protects her from killers. He had been electrocuted by her evil politician father twenty years earlier.

THE THIRTEENTH REUNION

(Thriller, 1980) D: Peter Sasdy S: Jeremy Burnham UK

Julia Foster is a reporter who discovers cannibals at a weight-loss clinic. Elvira hosts this one-hour Hammer TV movie. With Dinah Sheridan.

THIRTEEN WOMEN

(1932) D: George Archainbaud S: Bartlett Cormack, Samuel Ornitz

Myrna Loy is a Eurasian woman (wearing some wild clothes) who plots to kill a dozen of her former sorority sisters for revenge. A swami (C. Henry Gordon) helps. Ricardo Cortez is a detective who shows up after the movie is half over. Irene Dunne is top billed and the cast includes Jill Esmond, Mary

30s Faves Top 10
(ALPHABETICAL)

1. Bride of Frankenstein (MCA, 1935)
2. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde (MGM/UA, 1931)
   The tape is restored with 12 of the 17 minutes cut from the theatrical reissue.
3. Flash Gordon (1936)
4. Freaks (MGM/UA, 1932)
   The tape restores the happy end footage with the rich Hans reunited with Frieda.
5. Hunchback of Notre Dame (Turner, 1939)
6. Island of Lost Souls (MCA, 1932)
7. King Kong (Turner, 1932)
   Several violent scenes were restored in the 80s. A 60th anniversary (1992) package comes with It Was Beauty Killed the Beast, a 24-minute documentary. Kong has also been colorized.
8. M (Admit One, 1931)
9. Mad Love (MGM, 1935)
10. Things to Come (Sinister, 1936)

Johnny Eck and Angelo Rossitto in Freaks.

The 30s

More excellent quality features were made in the thirties then in any other decade. Any horror movie from the period is worth watching, and the best serials were made. The top-grossing features of the decade include The Wizard of Oz, King Kong, Lost Horizon, The Hurricane, and Hitchcock's Rebecca. Gone With the Wind was by far the biggest money-maker of the decade (nearly $89 million) and later became the highest-rated movie on TV. It was followed by three Disney cartoon features. A few notable restored 30s features are Tarzan and His Mate (1934) with Maureen O'Sullivan's nude swim scene and the restored Lost Horizon (1937).

Duncan, and Peg Entwhistle (who in real life jumped to her death from the Hollywood sign after acting in this). The RKO release is only one hour long and has a Max Steiner score.

THE 39 STEPS

(Media, Sinister, 1935) D: Alfred Hitchcock
S: Charles Bennett, Alma Reville P: Michael Balcon UK

Spies and killers are after a visiting Canadian (Robert Donat). He flees to Scotland and is handcuffed to Madeleine Carroll by fake police. Great entertainment, and it's still being copied. With Godfrey Tearle as Professor Jordan, Wifrid Brambell, and Helen Hayes. The best character is Mr. Memory (Wylie Watson). Based on John Buchan's 1915 novel. The director is seen on the street. It was Hitchcock's followup to his hit The Man Who Knew Too Much (1934). The first (and last) time I attended a film class, the teacher announced that we would see Hitchcock's The 39 Steps. He received a print of the 1959 remake with Kenneth More by mistake. Nobody else cared or even noticed, and he showed the remake anyway.

THE 39 STEPS

(1978) D: Don Sharp S: Michael Robson P: Greg Smith UK

Robert Powell stars in the second remake of Hitchcock's classic spy thriller. It adds a WWI plot and a climax at Big Ben. With David Warner, Karen Dotrice, Eric Porter, John Mills, Andrew Kier, and Robert Flemyng.

THIS IS A HIJACK

(1973) D: Barry Pollack P: Paul Lewis

Adam Roarke hijacks a plane filled with passengers owned by Jay Robinson for ransom. It was a rare lead role for Roarke, who had been a regular in 60s AIP movies. Neville Brand, Lynn Borden, Milt Kamen, John Alderman, and Dub Taylor are in the Fanfare release, executive produced by Joe Soloman.

THIS IS ELVIS

(Warner, 1981) D/S/P: Malcolm Leo, Andrew Solt

This bizarre mixture of real and faked footage, fantasy and fact should appeal to Elvis fans, Elvis haters, and mondo movie fans. I saw it with Sally Eckhoff and Lester Bangs in Times Square. Lester (who died not long afterward) took it very seriously. Great music clips from films, TV appearances, and interviews are used. Three different actors appear as Elvis, and Elvis (the voice of Ral Donner) narrates his life (from the grave!). It ends with the horrifying, bloated, out-of-it real Elvis on stage. With Larry Raspberry as Dewey Philips. Colonel Tom Parker had final say in what was in this post-death feature. A double RCA soundtrack was released. Solt also directed Imagine: John Lennon and codirected It Came from Hollywood and 25 x 5: The Rolling Stones.

THIS IS SPINAL TAP

(Columbia, 1983) D/S/A/M: Rob Reiner
S/A/M: Christopher Guest, Michael McKean, Harry Shearer P: Michael Murphy

Reiner's fake rock documentary is a brilliant, right-on-target, must-see comedy. The band is like Black Sabbath (or maybe Status Quo). David St. Hubbins (McKean), Nigel Tufnel (Guest), and Derek Smalls (Shearer) tell Reiner about the long history of Spinal Tap while on an American tour. Various drummers die, the group visits Elvis's grave, and at one point they are reduced to opening for a puppet show. With Tony Hendra, Fran Drescher, Paul Shaffer, June Chadwick, Joyce Hyser, Patrick Macnee, Billy Crystal, Fred Willard, Ed Begley Jr., Zane Busby, Howard Hesseman, Anjelica Huston, and Brinke Stevens. The group promoted their Smell the Glove LP on Joe Franklin after the movie came out. They "reunited" in 1992 and an updated "remastered" version of the tape was released along with Return of Spinal Tap (MPI). In 1994, a Criterion laser version was released with three audio tracks, a 20-minute demo reel, and an hour of outtakes. Also on CD ROM (from Voyager). More exciting was the discovery of (bootleg) copies of the uncut, uncensored original, running five hours and containing more drugs, groupies, music, and stupidity. Supposedly 50 hours of footage was shot!

THIS NIGHT, I'LL POSSESS YOUR CORPSE

(SW, 1966) D/S/A: Jose Mojica Marins Brazil
(Esta Noite Encarnarei No Teu Cadaver)

This sequel is Marins's ultimate movie. It begins with the end sequence of At Midnight I Will Take Your Soul. All the credits are animated, quivering and mutating over a quick-change collage of shocking and unbelievable scenes from the feature you're about to see (and a few scenes that must have been cut). Ze do Caixao (or Coffin Joe) searches in vain for "the perfect woman." His assistant is a badly scarred hunchback. In one scene a whole room full of kidnapped women sleep in see-through negligees. The hunchback lets dozens of huge (real) tarantulas in and they crawl all over the screaming captives. One woman somehow manages to stay calm and just brushes them off. While he's undressing her, a trapdoor next to the bed opens and she's forced to see more women in a pit being killed by big snakes. A man gets an axe in his head, a woman is killed by acid, and a (real) mouse is crushed by a rock. You never know what sick thing to expect next. Ze is tortured by vivid nightmares. One night an eerie phantom (that looks like a human skeleton from a sideshow in dance tights and a hood) literally drags him to hell. The hell sequence is in full color (!). Ze's hell has old-fashioned devils with pitchforks poking the damned, but it's freezing, not hot, with a steady snowfall. The ice cave walls have Cocteau-like body parts. Screaming heads hang down from above, and arms, legs, breasts, asses, etc., protrude from every angle. The damned all scream loudly, and constantly, while more disturbed experimental music plays on the soundtrack. Ze has to face the devil, played by (who else?) Jose Mojica Marins. Although the budget was low, Marins must have hired the best technical people available. Many of the effects are excellent and the cinematography is often stunning. I was lucky enough to see this in a movie theater in São Paulo, an unforgettable experience. Now it's subtitled in English and available on tape.

THIS NUDE WORLD

(1935) D: Mich Mindlin

One of the earliest nudist movies, this historical document features nonstop narration and classical music. First "we pass the new George Washington Bridge" and go to upstate New York where nudists are seen from the back. The French segment features topless nightclubs but people on an island wear bathing suits. To spice things up, a scene of a completely naked woman (probably shot in Hollywood) is spliced in. The last third of this movie is the impressive part, though. At the world's largest nudist camp (in Germany) crowds of naked people exercise, hundreds of naked people run through the woods, and some of them follow each other on their hands and knees. I imagine this incredible footage was shot earlier, during the days of the Weimar Republic. With the founder of the German (and French) nudist movement, Adolph Koch. I saw this thanks to Trashola magazine.

THIS STUFF'LL KILL YA!

(SW, 1970) D/S/P/M: Herschell Gordon Lewis

Jeffrey Allen (also memorable in 2,000 Maniacs) is always the center of attention as the Bible-quoting con man and moonshiner Rev. Boone. He's almost like Foghorn Leghorn come to life. He even sings "I Love That White Lightning." A new bride is raped (offscreen), a woman is stoned, and two others are crucified. The goriest scene is when a head is blown off. It doesn't make much sense, parts are real boring, actors flub lines, and the soundtrack is damaged, but "One More Swig Of Moonshine" is a good song, and how many extremely tasteless hillbilly gore comedies are there, anyway? With Ray Sager, Dr. Giggles star Larry Drake, and Tim Holt (from Treasure of the Sierra Madre) playing it straight, in his last role, as a revenuer.

THOMASINE AND BUSHROD

(1974) D: Gordon Parks Jr. S/P/A: Max Julian

Max Julian (from Psych-Out and The Mack) and his real-life girlfriend Vonetta McGee become bank robbers in black cowboy clothes in 1911 Texas. They're considered heroes by Indians and blacks. The black Bonnie and Clyde variation was shot in New Mexico. Also with Glynn Turman.

THOSE REDHEADS FROM SEATTLE

(1953) D/S: Lewis R. Foster S: Geoffrey Homes
P: William H. Pine, William C. Foster

The first 3-D musical stars Rhonda Fleming and Gene Barry. Agnes Moorehead and her four daughters journey to the Klondike during the gold rush. With Teresa Brewer, Guy Mitchell, and Roscoe Ates. From Paramount.

THOU SHALT NOT KILL... EXCEPT

(Starmaker, 1985) D/C/E: Josh Becker
S/P: Scott Spiegel (Stryker's War)

The fiancée (Cheryl Hansen) of Sgt. Stryker (Brian Schulz), a loner Nam vet with a bad leg, is kidnapped by a demented ("I am Christ!") cult leader (Sam Raimi) who has taken lots of hostages who are kept tied up in the woods. Three vet friends help Stryker in the harrowing rescue attempt. Not much of a plot, but it's a pretty great action movie with lots of impalements, Nam flashbacks, and grisly surprises. The year (1969) is represented by references to Rosemary's Baby, Manson, and the death of Karloff. The 16mm feature was made near (and shown theatrically only in) Detroit. Bruce Campbell also worked on the script. Becker later made Lunatics starring Ted Raimi (who also acts here).

A THOUSAND PLEASURES

(SW, 1968) D/P: "Julian Marsh"/Michael Findlay
P/A/C: "Anna Riva"/Roberta Findlay

Here's proof that the Manhattan-based Findlays made the most twisted softcore adult movies of them all. It's hard to believe this was released. Two guys with a body in the trunk of their station wagon pick up two women then go home with them. The women drug them, ridicule them, and have sex with them while a man with a goatee watches. One guy says, "I had the feeling that I was going to be smothered by all that flesh" and calls one woman "Boobarella." The women are part-time lesbians who want a child by artificial insemination but meanwhile they have "Baby," a naked (adult) blonde in a playpen who masturbates with a candle. One woman breast-feeds her while the other one whips her. The b/w movie with full nudity has ridiculous narration and classical music.

THRASHIN'

(AIP, 1986) D: David Winters
S: Paul Brown P: Alan Sachs

Skateboard gangs fight each other. It was one of the first releases from AIP Video, formed by Winters and David A. Prior. Winters had been a dancer in West Side Story (which is where this story was copied from). Josh Brolin stars with Sherilyn Fenn, Pamela Gidley, and Chuck McCann.

THREADS

(New World, 1984) D/P: Mick Jackson
S: Barry Hines UK/Australia

After The Day After, Testament, and Special Bulletin in the USA, the BBC backed this serious postnuke feature. Characters suffer slow, painful deaths in Sheffield. With Karen Meagher, Rita May, and David Brierly. It's 125 minutes long.

THREE BAD SISTERS

(1955) D: Gilbert L. Kay S: Gerald Dryson P: Howard Koch

Kathleen Hughes beats sister Marla English with a whip (!) in part of a plot to gain their father's estate. Sara Shane is the third sister and John Bromfield is the pilot who falls for and marries her. Madge Kennedy is their psycho aunt. From U.A. English returned as The She Creature.

THREE CASES OF MURDER

(1954) D: Wendy Toye, David Eady, George More O'Ferrall S/P: Ian Dalrymple S: Donald Wilson, Sidney Carroll P: Hugh Perceval UK

Welsh actor Alan Badel appears in three different murder stories. People enter a painting in a museum in one ghost story called "In the Picture" and a man with amnesia might be a killer in another. The third tale, based on a W. Somerset Maugham story, stars Orson Welles (who sings and dances) as a British Foreign Secretary who has nightmares about a rival (Badel) he has mocked. Andre Morell is a doctor.

THREE DAYS TO A KILL

(HBO, 1991) D/S/A: Fred Williamson
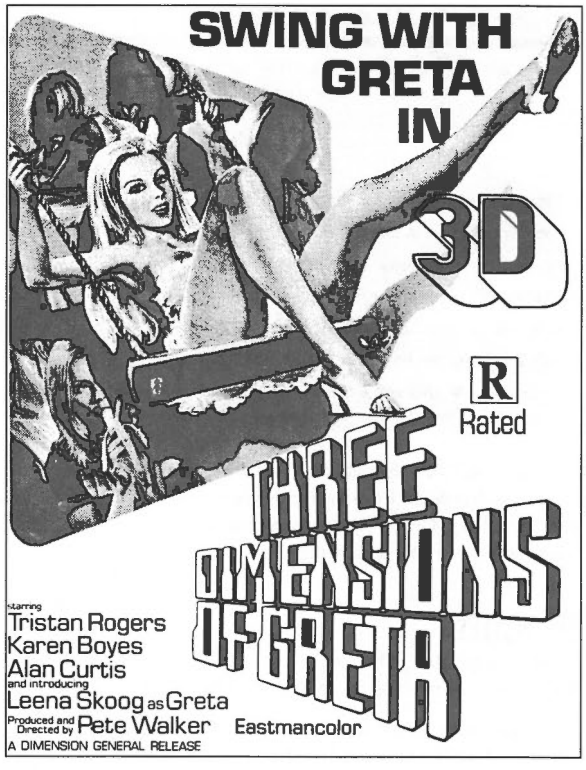
S: Charles Eric Johnson, Steven Iyama

Williamson and a robber out on parole (Bo Svenson) are paired (for the umpteenth time) in this dull feature. Kim Dakour as the ex of Colombian crime boss Henry Silva helps them rescue an ambassador who was kidnapped. Sonny Landham (with 70s Elvis hair) works for Silva. Chuck Connors and Van Johnson, playing Navy brass, sit in a car and talk, but I'll bet their scenes were shot at different times. With chases, exploding cars, strippers, and an obese black hooker for comic relief. From 21st Century.



THREE DIMENSIONS OF GRETA

(1972) D/P: Peter Walker S: Murray Smith
UK (The Four Dimensions of Greta)

Four 3-D segments make up this sex comedy. With Tristan Rogers, Karen Boyes, and Robert Askwith (also in the director's Cool It Carol). Dimension released it in America. Walker made the part-3-D Flesh and Blood Show next.

THREE FANTASTIC SUPERMEN

(VSOM, 1967) D/S: Frank Kramer S: Marcello Coscia
Italy/W. Germany (Die Drei Supermanner Raumen Auf)

Tony Kendall, Brad Harris, and Nick Jordan wear bulletproof suits as they battle a mad scientist, spies, and assassins. The adventure features martial arts fighting. It was followed by Three Supermen in the Jungle (also with Kendall and Harris) and Three Supermen Against the Orient (1973) with Lo Lieh and Shih Szu as two of the costumed superheroes.

3:15—THE MOMENT OF TRUTH

(1984) D: Larry Gross S: Sam Bernard, Michael Jacobs P: Dennis Brody, Robert Kenner

Teen school gangs fight each other. Adam Baldwin and Deborah Foreman star with Ed Lauter, Rene Auberjonois, and Mario Van Peebles. Wings Hauser and his wife play Foreman's parents.

THREE IN THE ATTIC

(1968) S/P: Richard Wilson S: Stephen Yafa

This R-rated comedy was one of AIP's top-grossing releases. Wild in the Streets star Christopher Jones is Paxton Quigley. After fooling around with and lying to three girls at once, they keep him captive in an attic then try to wear him out with sex for punishment. Yvette Mimieux, Judy Pace, and Maggie Thrett costar. With John Beck and Richard Derr. The rare soundtrack was on Sidewalk and features Chad Stuart and Jeremy Clyde. It was filmed in North Carolina. A "sequel," Three in the Cellar, followed.

THREE IN THE CELLAR

(HBO, 1970) D/S: Theodore J. Flicker P: Samuel Z. Arkoff, James H. Nicholson (Up in the Cellar)

A poet (Wes Stern) plans to kill himself after losing a scholarship. Instead, for revenge he seduces the wife, mistress, and secretary of the college president (Larry Hagman). With Joan Collins, Judy Pace (also in Three in the Attic) and folksinger Hamilton Camp. It was made by the director of The President's Analyst and was retitled by AIP. Two soundtracks were issued by AIP records, one under each title. Filmed in New Mexico.

THREE KINDS OF HEAT

(Warner, 1987) D/S: Leslie Stevens P: Michael J. Kagan (Fireworks)

Robert Ginty, Victoria Barrett, and Shakti star as Interpol kung fu fighters in New York City. They fight the evil Oriental Black Lion organization. The Cannon release was filmed in London and was directed by the producer of The Outer Limits.

THE THREE MUSKETEERS

(Disney, 1993) D: Stephen Herek S: David Loughery P: Joe Roth, Roger Birnbaum

In the tradition of the Young Guns movies and Mobsters, this is a teen-cast version of an overfamiliar story. Kiefer Sutherland, Charlie Sheen, Oliver Platt (as the comic Porthos), and Chris O'Donnell star. With Rebecca De Mornay as Milady, Tim Curry as Cardinal Richelieu, Michael Wincott as the evil count with an eye patch, Gabrielle Anwar as the queen, and Julie Delpy. It was filmed in Austria and was cut for a PG rating. The score is by Michael Kamen. By the director of Bill and Ted. Earlier versions are from 1916 (Video Yesteryear), 1921 (Grapevine) with Douglas Fairbanks, 1935 (RKO) with Walter Abel, 1939 (Fox) with Don Ameche and the Ritz Brothers, and 1948 (MGM) with Gene Kelly. See also Return of the Musketeers.

THREE O'CLOCK HIGH

(Lorimar, 1987) D: Phil Joanou S: Richard Christian Matheson, Thomas Szollosi P: David E. Vogel

Casey Siemaszko stars as a student journalist with many problems. He's challenged to fight a large and dangerous bully (Richard Tyson) at three in the schoolyard. With Anne Ryan, Jeffrey Tambor, and John P. Ryan. It features fancy camera work and a Tangerine Dream soundtrack.

THREE STOPS TO MURDER

(Sinister, 1953) D: Terence Fisher S: Jan Reed P: Michael Carraras UK (Blood Orange)

Tom Conway stars in a mystery with Mila Parely and Naomi Chance. Astor released the Hammer film in America.

THREE THE HARD WAY

(Xenon, 1974) D: Gordon Parks Jr. S: Eric Bercovici, Jerry Ludwig P: Harry Bersen

In one of the most outrageous black action movies, an LA record promoter (Jim Brown) teams with his Chicago friend (Fred Williamson) and a Manhattan karate expert called Mr. Keyes (Jim Kelly). They have to stop a neo-Nazi madman (Jay Robinson) from putting a serum in America's water systems that kills only black people. Three black beauties wearing only black leather pants help by torturing bad guys expecting a good time. The Allied Artists hit was by the director of Superfly. With Sheila Frazier (from the Superfly movies), Alex Rocco, Corbin Bernsen, Irene Tsu, Roberta Collins, and Jeanne Bell. The (post–Curtis Mayfield) Impressions were on the Curtom soundtrack (look for a copy) and appear in the film. The three leads were teamed again in Take a Hard Ride (1975) and One Down Two To Go (1982).

THREE TOUGH GUYS

(1974) D: Duccio Tessari S: Luciano Vincenzoni, Nicola Badalucco P: Dino De Laurentiis US/Italy

An ex-cop (Isaac Hayes) and an ex-con priest (Lino Ventura) are after killer Joe Snake (Fred Williamson) in Chicago. It was a rare bad guy role for Williamson. With Paula Kelly, William Berger, and Juliano Salce. Hayes, who was acting for the first time, also provided the soundtrack (released on Enterprise as just Tough Guys). From Paramount.

THRILLED TO DEATH

(Republic, 1988) D/P: Chuck Vincent S: Craig Horall

A mystery writer and his wife (Blake Bahner and Krista Lane) become victims of a swinger couple (Christine Moore and Rick Savage). Drugs, sex, and murder are involved. With Christina Veronica, Sheri St. Claire, and Jacqueline Lorians. The stars of the R-rated movie are mostly porn regulars, and Gloria Leonard and Al Goldstein play themselves.

THRILLER

(MCA series, 1960–62)

This is an underrated TV show that scared me a lot as a kid. 6 volumes of episodes were released in 1994, including 3 starring host Boris Karloff: "Incredible Dr. Markesan," directed by Robert Florey, "The Predication," directed by John Brahm, and "The Premature Burial," directed by Douglas Heyes. The others are "Grim Reaper" with William Shatner, "Terror in Teakwood" with Guy Rolph and Hazel Court, and "Masquerade," a comic tale with Tom Poston and John Carradine. Available as a 3-disc box set with all 6. 67 episodes of the NBC series were produced. The theme music is by Jerry Goldsmith.

THE THRILL KILLERS

(Sinister, 1965) D/S/A: Ray Dennis Steckler S: Gene Pollack P: George J. Morgan (Monsters Are Loose)

I love Steckler's Incredibly Strange Creatures . . . (1964), but in some ways this b/w followup is even better. It definitely exists in its own twisted reality but "the events are true." Mort Click ("Cash Flagg," a.k.a. director Steckler) is a serial killer who says "People ain't no good!" Meanwhile three psychos (Herb Robbins, Gary Kent, and Keith O'Brien) escape from the loony bin. Characters are shot and decapitated. Liz (Liz Renay, later a stripper, author, and cult star) is an actress turned artist whose husband ("Brick Bardo," a.k.a. rockabilly singer Ron Haydock) is a broke dreamer. With Carolyn Brandt, Atlas King, and Titus Moody. Morgan (the producer) and Arch Hall Sr. play themselves at a party. At least some of this was shot as early as 1963 (note the Cleopatra sign). The tape includes the amazing full-color introduction in which the Amazing Ormond hypnotizes us with a swirling disc ("You will actually seem to hallucinate!"). At some screenings ushers disguised as the killers would run through the theater with cardboard axes. Robbins, Kent, and Moody all went on to make their own movies.

THRONE OF BLOOD

(Voyager, 1957) D/S/P: Akira Kurosawa S: Hideo Oguni, Shinobu Hashimoto Japan

After Orson Welles and before Roman Polanski made their versions of Shakespeare's Macbeth, Kurosawa turned it into a classic samurai movie. An impressive full-size castle was created for the film. Toshiro Mifune stars. Available subtitled and on laserdisc.

THRONE OF FIRE

(1982) D: Franco Prosperi S: Nino Marino P: Ettore Spagnuolo Italy

Sabrina Siani, who was in a half-dozen similar ridiculous features made the same year, is a princess. Peter McCoy (real name: Pietro Torrisi) is the hero Siegfried, and Harrison Muller (2020 Texas Gladiators) is Belial (and his son).

THROUGH THE MAGIC PYRAMID

(1981) D/P: Ron Howard S: Rance Howard, Herbert J. Wright (Tut and Tuttle)

A magic toy pyramid transports a boy to ancient Egypt where he helps out young King Tut. Ron Howard's actor dad Rance helped out with this kid fantasy pilot film, originally aired on NBC in two parts. With Hans Conried, Vic Tayback, Jo Ann Worley, and Elaine Giftos (from Ron's New World days).

THUMB TRIPPING

(VSOM, 1970) D: Quentin Masters S: Don Mitchell P: Irwin Winkler, Robert Chartoff

Young Meg Foster and Michael Burns (That Cold Day in the Park) encounter various characters on their aimless way while hitchhiking together in California. It's one of those counterculture movies nobody went to see. A (brief) high point is when a laughing Bruce Dern with a switchblade threatens to turn the movie into Last House on the Left. Another is when Marianna Hill, as a wild and drunken sexy blond white-trash wife, runs into a bar in her bikini and dances on the the bar. Joyce Van Patten is an obnoxious mom, and a trucker (Mike Conrad) pays Meg for sex. Foster and Hill both have topless scenes. The music by the Friends of Distinction is pretty sappy. From Avco Embassy and the producers of the Rocky movies.

THUNDER ALLEY

(1985) D/S: J. S. Cardone P: William R. Ewing

Scott McGinnis leads a young rock band. They start to make it but he gets hooked on drugs. With Jill Schoelen, Leif Garrett as the singer, and Clancy Brown as Weasel. From Cannon.

THUNDER AND LIGHTNING

(Key, 1977) D: Corey Allen S: William Hjortsberg P: Roger Corman

David Carradine stars as a bootleg liquor hauler in this modern Thunder Road–type movie filled with car crashes. Kate Jackson (on Charlie's Angels at the time) costars. With Roger C. Carmel, Sterling Holloway, and Charles Napier as Jim Bob. Lewis Teague was second unit director of the PG Fox release.

THUNDERBIRDS ARE GO (1966) and THUNDERBIRD 6 (1968)

(MGM) D: Barry Lane S: Gerry Anderson S/P: Sylvia Anderson UK

Both of these Supermarionation theatrical features are available letterboxed on a double laserdisc. They were spinoffs from the TV series set in the 21st century. Peter Dyneley (star of The Manster) is the voice of International Rescue hero Jeff Tracy, whose sons are all named after American astronauts. Lady Penelope and Brains are the other main characters. In Thunderbirds Are Go, puppets of Cliff Richard and the Shadows play in a dream sequence. The tapes Thunderbirds in Outer Space and Thunderbirds: Countdown to Disaster are re-edited from the show. 32 of the 50-minute TV episodes are available in Japan on disc. Fox TV showed severely cut versions of the TV epsiodes in 1994.

THUNDER COUNTY

(Prism, 1974) D/A: Chris Robinson P: K. Gordon Murray (Women's Prison Escape; Convict Women; Swamp Fever; Cell Block Girls)

This starts out as a prison movie (complete with a lesbian warden), but four women escape and end up in the swamp with the filthy lecherous Beau and his pet gator. Meanwhile an undercover agent (Robinson, the star of Stanley) and a three-man heroin smuggling gang led by Ted "Lurch" Cassidy show up after spending a lot of time in an air boat. Cassidy is pretty cool in a serious role as Cambini, a killer always in shades. Carol Lawson and "Onya Mark" (the then-wife of Alan Ormsby) costar. Top billed Mickey Rooney shows up for a few minutes as a slob store owner. Joseph Brenner released the PG-rated feature from Florida. It's a lot like Corman's Swamp Women.

THUNDERCRACK!

(VSOM, 1975) D/C/E: Curt McDowell S/A: George Kuchar P: John Thomas, Charles Thomas

In this long (150-minute) b/w underground sex/horror comedy, characters talk to themselves and argue with each other in an old dark house during a storm. They also have sex (straight, gay, and solo) which is hardcore, making this a unique curiosity item if nothing else. Also with many flashbacks, a gorilla, overdone theatrical makeup, and enough thunder, lightning, and rain for five other movies. Marlon Eaton stars with Melinda McDowell and George Kuchar (from the Bronx), a well-known underground filmmaker himself. Thundercrack! had some limited success as a midnight movie.

THUNDER IN PARADISE

(Vidmark, 1993) D: Douglas Schwartz S: Michael Berk P: Paul Cajero, James Pergola

This PG-13 syndicated TV pilot feature stars Hulk Hogan as a daredevil with a special boat in Florida. He and Chris Lemmon are commandos for hire. With series regular Carol Alt plus Patrick Macnee, Felicity Waterman, Sam Jones, Charlotte Rae, and Robin Weisman. Hogan (real name: Terry Bollea) was in the PG Mr. Nanny the same year. Thunder in Paradise II and III followed (also from Vidmark, 1995) with the same main cast.

THUNDER ISLAND

(1963) D/P: Jack Leewood S: Jack Nicholson, Don Devlin

Nicholson wrote his first screenplay for this 65-minute b/w 20th Century Cinemascope release filmed in Puerto Rico the same year he was in the Roger Corman movies The Raven and The Terror. Gene Nelson stars as a sadistic mercenary (and health food nut) in South America. The feature got some good reviews which praised the complex and cynical political plot elements. With Fay Spain (also in Flight to Fury with Nicholson) and Brian Kelly.

THUNDER MOUNTAIN: See SHADOW OF THE CHIKIRA

THUNDER RUN

(Media, 1985) D: Gary Hudson S: Charles Davis, Carol Heyer P: Carol Lynch Australia

A US government representative (John Ireland) asks an old army buddy (Forrest Tucker) to drive plutonium through the Arizona desert in a heavily armed supertruck. Tucker takes his grandson along and Palestinian terrorists attack. With Cheryl Lynn, Jill Whitlow, and Elizabeth Kaitan. Rated PG-13.

THUNDER WARRIOR

(TWE, 1983) D/S/P: "Larry Ludman"/Fabrizio De Angelis S: David Parker Jr. Italy (Thunder)

Mark Gregory stars as an Indian who becomes a Rambo-type warrior fighting the white men who cheated his people. Bo Svenson is the sheriff. It was filmed in Arizona.

THUNDER WARRIOR II

(TWE, 1987) D: David Parker Jr. D/S/P: "Larry Ludman"/Fabrizio De Angelis

Mark Gregory returns, is pardoned from jail, and teams up with sheriff Svenson to battle drug traffickers in Monument Valley. A part III followed (also on TWE) also with Gregory but not Svenson.

THE TICKET OF LEAVE MAN

(Sinister, 1937) D/P: George King S: H. F. Matby, A. R. Rawlinson UK

British horror star Tod Slaughter is in this adaptation of a Victorian play that had introduced the first private eye (named Hawkshaw). Slaughter is "Tiger" Dalton, who helps reformed ex-cons but really heads a crime sydicate.

TICKET TO HEAVEN

(MGM/UA, 1981) D/S: Ralph L. Thomas S: Anne Cameron P: Vivienne Leesbosh Canada

Canadian Nick Mancuso loses his girlfriend, so he goes to San Francisco and is seduced by Meg Foster. Before he realizes what he's gotten into, he's a member of the Moonie-like "Heavenly Children" cult. They have to eat treated vegetarian food and chant a lot. His best friend (Saul Rubinek) arrives to try and deprogram him. Based on the book Moonwebs. With Kim Cattrall and Jennifer Dale. The effective and scary feature was made before the better known Split Image (1982).

TICKS

(Republic, 1993) D: Toney Randel S: Brent V. Friedman P: Jack F. Murphy (Infested)

Tyler (Seth Green) is sent to a camp for troubled kids. Fertilizers used by redneck marijuana farmers cause blood-sucking ticks. Their bite numbs the victim and causes hallucinations. They also enter bodies and cause mutations. With Rosalind Allen, Ami Dolenz as a rich bitch, Alfonso Ribeiro (from The Fresh Prince of Bel Air series), and Peter (Bosom Buddies) Scolari. Clint Howard is a pot grower who mutates, and his father Rance Howard plays the sheriff. Doug Beswick created the (mechanical and stop-motion) bug FX and Brian Yuzna was the executive producer. It was planned for a theatrical release, but was (wisely) sent direct to video. Not to be confused with similar movies (Skeeter and Mosquito) from around the same time.

TIDES OF WAR

(Arrow, 1994) D: Neil Rossati S/A: David Soul S: Andrej Karakowski

David Soul stars as a German naval officer on a remote British island who turns against the Nazis during WWII. With Yvette Heyden as the British love interest, Bo Svenson as an SS officer, and guest star Ernest Borgnine as a missionary doctor.

TIGER BAY

(Paramount, 1959) D: J. Lee Thompson S: John Hawkesworth, Shelly Smith UK

12-year-old Hayley Mills is excellent in her film debut as Gillie, a lonely orphan tomboy who sings in a church choir. She witnesses a murder of passion and lies to the police so she can keep the gun she found. She also likes the Polish seaman (Horst Buchholz) who has killed his girlfriend (Yvonne Mitchell). John Mills is the police chief.

TIGER CLAWS

(MCA, 1991) D: Kelly Makin S: J. Stephen Maunder P/A: Jalal Merhi Canada

High-kicking Cynthia Rothrock and Jalal Merhi star as martial-arts-fighing New York cops in Chinatown. They're after the "Death Dealer" (Bolo Yeung), who leaves claw marks on kung fu masters. The DEG release was shot in Toronto.

TIGER FANGS

(Sinister, 1943) D: Sam Newfield S: Arthur St. Claire P: Arthur Schwartz

Real-life big-game hunter Frank Buck goes to Brazil to fight Nazis involved in the rubber industry. The PRC WWII-theme feature runs 59 minutes and was one of 23 (!) 1943 features directed by Newfield.

TIGER MAN

(1978) D/S: "Matt Cimber"/Matteo Ottaviano P: George Roberts (Fist)

A Bruce Lee fan battles Tong gangsters. The 3-D feature was filmed in "the far East" and Hollywood. Terrence Young shot additional scenes. Cecil Peoples and Don Wong star. Gene Corman was an executive producer.

THE TIGERWOMAN: See NYOKA

TIGERS IN LIPSTICK

(Monterey, 1978) D: Luigi Zampa S: Tonino Guerra, Georgio Salvioni Italy (Letti Selvaggi; Wild Beds)

An impressive lineup of four sexy European stars (Ursula Andress, Laura Antonelli, Sylvia Kristel, and Monica Vitti) act in seven short comedy segments about aggressive women. With Roberto Benigni.

TIGHTROPE

(Warner, 1984) D/S: Richard Tuggle P/A: Clint Eastwood

Clint Eastwood stars as a New Orleans cop raising his two daughters alone. He searches for a psycho who kills prostitutes, the same ones he goes to. In this dark and very different Eastwood movie, he could be the killer himself (maybe it should have been billed with Angel Heart). Genevieve Bujold costars with Dan Hedaya, Jamie Rose, Randi Brooks, and Alison Eastwood. Local director Joy N. Houck Jr. plays a massage parlor owner.

THE TIGRESS: See ILSA, TIGRESS OF SIBERIA

THE TIGRESS

(Vidmark, 1992) D/S: Karin Howard P: Dieter Geissler Germany

Valentina Vargas stars as a dancer in 1920s Berlin who schemes with an American (James Remar) to cheat a Texas oilman (George Peppard). With Hannes Jaenicke as the gangster boyfriend, Ferdinand Mayne as an Austrian count, and Belinda Mayne. Vargas has nude scenes in the R or unrated release, based on a novel by Walter Serner.

TIJUANA STORY

(1957) D: Leslie Kardos S: Lou Morheim P: Sam Katzman

Rudolfo Acosta and James Darren star in a movie about gangs, drug dealing, and addiction in Tijuana. With Jean Willes, George E. Stone, and Robert Blake. The Columbia release was filmed on location.

TIL DAWN DO US PART = STRAIGHT ON TILL MORNING

TIL DEATH DO US PART

(Vestron, 1972) D/S: Timothy Bond S: Peter Jobin P: James Shavik, Lawrence Hertzog Canada

Dr. Sigmund Freed (director Claude Jutra) invites feuding couples to his booby trapped estate. The husbands die one by one. James Keach stars in the made-for-TV movie. Not to be confused with Till Death (1978), about resurrecting a dead woman.

TIL DEATH DO US PART (1974) = THE BLOOD SPATTERED BRIDE

TIL DEATH DO US PART

(Triboro, 1991) D: Yves Simoneau S: Philip Rosenberg

In 1966 a devious ex-cop (Treat Williams) marries then kills women to get their insurance money. Arliss Howard plays real-life LA D.A. Vincent Bugliosi (who later prosecuted Charles Manson). The topnotch TV movie is based on Bugliosi's book. With Jennifer Runyon, Embeth Davidtz, Rebecca Jenkins, and John Schuck. The video release adds a topless scene.

Genevieve Bujold in Tightrope.

TIL DEATH DO US SCARE

(1982) D: Lau Kar-Wing S: Raymond Wong, Ko Chi-Sum P: Mai Jia, Dean Shek Hong Kong (Xiaosheng Papa)

It's a horror comedy with three ghosts who play cupids for the woman they were all married to in life. Tom Savini was flown over to provide some gore FX. Alan Tam stars.

TILT

(Continental, 1979) D/S/P: Rudy Durand S: Donald Cammell

A country rock singer (Ken Marshall) cons a 14-year-old pinball wiz (Brooke Shields) and they travel cross country to challenge the pinball champion (Charles Durning). With Johnny Crawford, Geoffrey Lewis, Gregory Walcott, and Fred Ward. A soundtrack for the flop PG-rated Warner feature was issued on ABC. Shields starred in three movies released in 1979.

THE TIMBER TRAPS

(1975) D: Tay Garnett D/S: Chuck D. Keen (The Big Push)

A major oldtimers cast was assembled for this obscure Howco adventure filmed in Alaska. With Leon Ames, Joseph Cotten, Cesar Romero, Rosey Grier, Stanley Clemens, and Claude Akins.

TIM BURTON'S THE NIGHTMARE BEFORE CHRISTMAS

(Touchstone, 1993) D: Henry Selick S: Caroline Thompson P: Tim Burton

The idea of a feature-length stop-motion Christmas musical sounded like torture to me, but I ended up liking this a lot. The PG-rated hit resembles a $22 million version of George Pal's old Puppetoons and it's more of an Addams Family–influenced horror fantasy than a Christmas movie. Released in theaters in time for Halloween, it was still running during Christmas. Jack Skellington from Halloweentown visits Christmastown. Chris Sarandon provides the voice and Danny Elfman (who wrote the score) is the singing voice. Also with the voices of Catherine O'Hara, William Hickey (the evil scientist), Glen Shadix (the mayor), and Paul Reubens. It was based on a poem Burton wrote while working for Disney (Touchstone) in the early 80s. The running time is a sensible 75 minutes. A deluxe laser disc box set is available with commentary, a making-of documentary, deleted scenes, a book, plus shorts by Burton (Frankenweenie and Vincent) and director Selick.

TIME BOMB

(1984) D: Paul Krasny S: Westbrook Claridge P: Barry Weitz

A female terrorist (Morgan Fairchild) and a group of hijackers try to capture a cargo of plutonium for bomb making. Billy Dee Williams, Joseph Bottoms, and Merlin Olsen costar in the NBC feature.

TIMEBOMB

(MGM, 1990) D/S: Avi Nesher P: Raffaella De Laurentiis (Nameless)

Michael Biehn stars as Eddie, a watchmaker who is also a programmed killer. Richard Jordan, who was head of an experimental program during the war, tries to terminate him by sending a team of assassins. With Patsy Kensit as a psychiatrist on the run with Eddie, Raymond St. Jacques and Robert Culp as cops, Tracy Scoggins, Billy Blanks, and Ray Mancini. Eddie has nightmares and frequent (near-X) sex dreams featuring Kate Mitchell. There's also a shoot-out in an old LA porno theater. A huge, unused, dusty research lab in Arizona still works perfectly, and plot holes are common. The director is an Israeli army war vet, who also made She (1982).

TIME BURST—THE FINAL ALLIANCE

(AIP, 1989) D/S/P: Peter Yuval S: Michael Bogert

Characters are after ancient Japanese tablets that contain the secret of immortality. Samurai battles take place in a California forest and a 300-year-old man (Scott David King) has amnesia. With Michiko and Jay Richardson.

TIME COP

(MCA, 1994) D/C: Peter Hyams S: Mark Verheiden P: Moshe Damant, Robert Tapert, Sam Raimi

Criminals go through time to plunder the past (during the Civil War and the Depression). Max Walker (Jean-Claude Van Damme) is a special government agent who pursues the criminals. Van Damme gets to play his character in two time periods (2004 and 1994) and pursues corrupt senator Ron Silver (who also confronts himself). Mia Sara is the wife who is is killed in 1994, and Gloria Reuben is Max's partner. Also with Bruce McGill. Based on a Dark Horse comic, it was filmed in Vancouver. The end theme is a remake of the Outsiders' "Time Won't Let Me." It was Van Damme's biggest hit to date and better than you might expect.

A TIME FOR KILLING

(1967) D: Phil Karlson D/P: Roger Corman S: Halsted Welles P: Harry Brown (The Long Ride Home)

Roger Corman took over direction of this Civil War drama even though Karlson received the credit. Glenn Ford stars as a Union captain, and George Hamilton is a Confederate major who kidnaps his wife. Inger Stevens (just after the run of her Farmer's Daughter series) is the wife. With Paul Peterson (from The Donna Reed Show), Max Baer, Timothy Carey (as Billy Cat), Kenneth Tobey, Dick Miller, Harry Dean Stanton, and a young Harrison Ford. Monte Hellman was the editor and Daniel Haller was the art director. This was made the same year as Corman's The Trip and The St. Valentine's Day Massacre.

THE TIME GUARDIAN

(New Line, 1987) D/S: Brian Hannant S: John Baxter P: Norman Wilkinson Australia

Tom Burlinson stars as the 24th-century warrior Time Guardian in a movie that copies Star Wars and Road Warrior. He travels in a spaceship to the present-day Australian outback with Carrie Fisher. Also with Nikki Coghill, Dean Stockwell as the "boss," and some killer cyborgs.

TIME OF THE APES

(Celebrity, 1975) D: Atsuo Okunaka, Kiyo Sumi Fukazawa Japan (Saru No Gudan)

Many cable viewers saw this on Mystery Science Theater 3000. It's a hilarious feature version of a cheap-looking Japanese TV series that copied the Planet of the Apes movies. Some kids trapped in an earthquake wake up in the future where humans are run by apes. The masks and makeup are the worst.

TIMERIDER: THE ADVENTURES OF LYLE SWAN

(Pacific Arts, 1983) D/S/A: William Dear S/M: Michael Nesmith P: Harry Gittes

Mike Nesmith wrote the script and the music and was executive producer of this science fiction comedy biker western. A bike racer (Fred Ward) is accidentally zapped back to 1877. With Belinda Bauer, Peter Coyote, Tracy Walter, Ed Lauter, L. Q. Jones, Richard Masur, and the voice of Nick Nolte. Dear also directed Nesmith's Elephant Parts video tape and Northville Cemetery Massacre (which had Nesmith music).

TIME RUNNER

(New Line, 1992) D/S: Michael Mazo S/P: John A. Curtis S: Chris Hyde P: Lloyd Simandl

Mark Hamill (fire your agent!) goes back in time 30 years in a space pod and teams up with a scientist (Rae Dawn Chong) for car chases and shoot-outs in present-day Washington State as an evil guy with white hair tries to kill him. Brion James is the President of the future. The dull movie borrows several ideas from The Terminator. It was shot in Vancouver and took four screenwriters to create. The screener has an ad for The Player in the middle (!) of the tape.

TIME SLIP

(VSOM, 1981) D: Kosei Saito S: Toshida Kaneda P: Haruki Kadokawa Japan (Sengoku Jietai)

Sonny Chiba leads a defense force that's magically time warped back into feudal times. An ancient warrior shows up in modern times too. It's from the Toei company. Chiba was also in the sci-fi movies Message from Space (1978) and Virus (1980).

TIMES SQUARE

(HBO, 1980) D: Alan Moyle S: Jacob Brackman P: Robert Stigwood

A homeless punk fan (Robin Johnson) and a runaway rich girl (Trini Alvarado) run around a fantasy Times Square. One becomes a stripper and forms a band called the Sleaze Sisters. They play on top of the marquee of the Times Square theater on 42nd St., an unlikely but memorable sight. With Elizabeth Pena, Tim Curry, and David Johansen. RSO released a double new-wave hits soundtrack that features the Ramones, Patti Smith, Roxy Music, Lou Reed, and others.

TIMESTALKERS

(Fries, 1987) D: Michael Schultz S: Brian Clemens, Ray Brown

Scientists from the year 2586 travel back to the Old West. At least they did it before Back to the Future Part III. Klaus Kinski is Dr. Joseph Cole. With William Devane, Lauren Hutton, Forrest Tucker (in his last role), Tracey Walter, and John Considine. A CBS-TV movie.

A TIME TO DIE

(Media, 1979) D/S: "Matt Cimber"/Matteo Ottaviano S: John Goff, William Russell P: Charles Lee (Seven Graves for Rogan)

Associate producer/star Edward Albert Jr. is an American spy who goes after ex-Nazis. He wants to avenge the wartime death of his wife. It's based on a book by Mario Puzo and was filmed in Europe. With Rex Harrison (guest villain), Rod Taylor, and Raf Vallone. Ennio Morricone provided "additional" music. Cimber went on to make Pia Zadora movies.

A TIME TO DIE

(PM, 1992) D: Charles Kanganis P: Joseph Merhi, Richard Pepin, Charla Driver

Traci Lords stars as a divorced photographer mom. Her ex-husband got the kid and she's on probation after being set up by a cop. Now she has incriminating negatives of that same drug-snorting psycho cop killing somebody and he's after her and anybody else in the way. Jeff Conaway is another cop and Richard Roundtree is her parole officer. It has too many slow-motion scenes but some good plot twists and is one of Lords's best. She shows a lot of different emotions and is good in a serious role (unlike, say, Madonna).

A TIME TO LOVE AND A TIME TO DIE

(Kartes, 1958) S: Douglas Sirk S: Orin Jannings P: Robert Arthur

John Gavin stars in a romantic anti-war WWII story about a German soldier on furlough who marries Liselotte Pulver, then returns to the Russian front. With Jock Mahoney, Keenan Wynn, Thayer David, Jim Hutton (his debut), and Klaus Kinski. The long (133-minute) Universal Cinemascope and Eastmancolor release was based on a novel by Erich Maria Remarque.

TIME TROOPERS

(Prism, 1986) D: L. E. Neiman S: James Wagner, James Becket Australia

Androids control human breeding in the future. Albert Fortrell and Hannelore Eisner star. The flashback-filled story copies Logan's Run.

TIME TRACKERS

(MGM, 1989) D/S: Howard R. Cohen
P: Roger Corman

Scientists from the year 2033 come back to the present to stop an evil scientist named Zandor (Lee Bergere) from changing history. They also travel to medieval England. With Ned Beatty as a cop, Wil Shriner, Kathleen Beller, Robert Cornthwaite (from The Thing), and Alex Hyde-White. The PG-rated comedy is from Concorde.

TIME WALKER

(Charter, 1982) D: Tom Kennedy S: Karen Levitt, Tom Friedman P: Dimitri Villard, Jason Williams

An alien mummy with the touch of death appears in California after jewels are stolen from the sarcophagus. With Ben Murphy, Nina Axelrod, James Karen, Shari Belafonte-Harper, Melissa Prophet, Greta Blackburn, and Jason Williams. Rated PG and from New World.

TIME WARP = JOURNEY TO THE CENTER OF TIME

TIN MAN

(1983) D/P: John G. Thomas
S: Bishop Holiday

A deaf and dumb auto mechanic (Timothy Bottoms) invents a computer that speaks and hears for him. With John Phillip Law and Troy Donahue.

THE TITAN FIEND: See CREATURE

T.N.T. JACKSON

(Charter, 1974) D/P: Cirio H. Santiago
S/A: Dick Miller, Ken Metcalf Philippines

"She'll Put You in Traction" said the New World ads. Because her brother is missing, T.N.T. Jackson from Harlem (beautiful Jeanne Bell from Playboy) goes undercover as a hooker in Hong Kong, and battles the Chinese Mafia. With a topless kung fu fight. Pat Anderson and Stan Shaw costar. Metcalf, who cowrote the screenplay and was the martial arts fight coordinator, had been in The Beast of the Yellow Night, The Twilight People, and The Womanhunt. Santiago's Firecracker (1981) and Angel Fist (1992) reused the same story.

TO ALL A GOODNIGHT

(Media, 1980) D/A: David Hess
S: Alex Rebar P: Jay Rasumy

A slasher in a Santa suit kills at a female sorority house two years after a pledge was accidentally killed. Characters are decapitated and there's a Psycho shower scene. With Jennifer Runyon and Buck West. The writer starred in The Incredible Melting Man and the director was in Last House on the Left.

TO BE THE BEST

(PM, 1993) D/P: Joseph Merhi
S: Michael January P: Richard Pepin

Michael Worth stars as an American kickboxer being blackmailed in a movie that copies Best of the Best. Alex Cord is the Las Vegas gambler who rigs the world championship. With Martin Kove as the father, Brittney Powell, and Stephen Vincent Leigh.

TOBRUK

(1967) D: Arthur Hiller S/A: Leo V. Gordon
P: Gene Corman

Rock Hudson stars as a British officer in a WWII adventure set in North Africa (but filmed in Arizona). George Peppard leads a group of Palestinian Jews who pose as Nazi soldiers in part of a plan to defeat Rommel in Libya. With Nigel Green, Guy Stockwell, and Peter Coe. It's one of several movies written by Gordon, also an actor in Roger Corman movies.

TO CATCH A THIEF

(Paramount, 1955) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock
S: John Michael Hayes

Hitchcock made a more romantic feature after Dial M For Murder and Rear Window (both 1954). It was his third in a row with future Princess of Monaco Grace Kelly and the third with Cary Grant. He's "The Cat," an ex–jewel thief accused of crimes on the Riviera, and she's an American heiress. With John Williams and Jessie Royce Landis. Based on a novel by David Dodge. Hitchcock appears on a bus. Paramount released it the same year that Alfred Hitchcock Presents debuted on TV and the first issue of the (still published) Alfred Hitchcock's Mystery Magazine was printed. 1955 was the year the director became a star.

THE TODD KILLINGS

(Warner, 1971) D/P: Barry Shear S: Dennis Murphy, Joel Oliansky (A Dangerous Friend)

Robert F. Lyons is Skipper Todd, a young psycho killer who uses drugs and preys on teenage girls. It's based on a real case and is surprisingly sleazy. With Richard Thomas (just before The Waltons series) as a kid from the reformatory, Belinda Montgomery, Barbara Bel Geddes (in her last film) as Todd's mother, Edward Asner, James Broderick, Holly Near, Fay Spain, Gloria Grahame, and Michael Conrad. From National General. Shear also directed Wild in the Streets.

Jeanne Bell is T.N.T. Jackson.

DER TODSKING

(1989) D/S/A: Jörg Buttgereit
P: Manfred Jelinsky Germany

Five short vignettes are connected by a man who mails chain letters before he kills himself. Each person who receives a letter is involved in death or murder. Buttgereit appears as a concentration camp victim in a video rented by one of the characters. It was originally to be called Seven Suicides, but the producer had two of them cut out. This was made in between the notorious Nekromantik films.

TO DIE FOR

(Academy, 1989) D: Deran Sarafian
S: Leslie King P: Barin Kumar

Brendan Hughes is the immortal young-looking Vlad who buys a "castle" in LA complete with hot tub. He's the good romantic vampire. The bad one (who wears granny sunglasses and smokes little cigars) is jealous and out for revenge. In one scene he's a lumpy-faced monster who breaks the back of a coke snorter and drains his blood. Amanda Wyss becomes a vampire and almost has her head cut off. There's some slow-motion sex, and the two growling vampires fight while floating in the air. A few scenes are botched, but this is a very entertaining modern vampire movie with excellent cinematography. It was also a comic book. The late Duane Jones from Night of the Living Dead had a bit part in a real estate office. With Sydney Walsh, Steve Bond, Scott Jacoby, Ava Fabian, and John Buechler FX. The sequel was Son of Darkness: To Die For II.

TOGETHER BROTHERS

(1974) D: William A. Graham
S: Jack De Witt P: Robert L. Rosen

In a variation of "The Boy Who Cried Wolf," five black kids look for the psychotic killer of a popular cop in the ghetto of Galveston, Texas. Ahmad Nurradin stars as a gang leader, with Anthony Wilson as the little kid who saw the murder and was scared speechless. Their search takes them to pool halls and bars and leads to a drag queen protecting the killer. With Glynn Turman and Richard Yniguez. The 20th Century soundtrack by Barry White and his Love Unlimited Orchestra is more famous than the movie.

TO HEX WITH SEX

(1969) D/S/P: Simon Nuchtern
S: Arthur Littman

A shy man (Stefan Peters) makes a three-wish deal with a female devil (Paula Shaw) he meets in the boiler room of his apartment building. One of his wishes is to make sex movies. The sex comedy is by Nuchtern, who made other adults-only features and later made Silent Madness and Savage Dawn.

TO KILL A CLOWN

(Media, 1970) D/S: George Bloomfield P: Teddy B. Sills

Alan Alda stars as a deranged Nam vet who terrorizes a feuding couple with his killer Dobermans. It's set on a New England island. With Blythe Danner and Heath Lamberts. Alda played several psycho roles before *M*A*S*H* changed his image forever.

TO KILL A STRANGER

(Virgin, 1982) D: Juan Lopez Moctezuma S: Emerich Oross, Rafael Buñuel P: Raul Vale Mexico

In South America, a killer rapist military hero (Donald Pleasence) kills women in a house during a storm. Angela Maria eventually kills him, and she and her husband become victims of the military government. With Aldo Ray and Dean Stockwell.

TOKYO DECADENCE

(Triboro, 1993) D/S/P: Ryu Murakami
M: Ryuichi Sakamoto Japan

A 22-year-old hooker (Miho Nikaido) makes big money and does many strange and degrading things to earn it. She also works at an orphanage for deaf kids. She becomes obsessed with a married client, and an older woman introduces her to opium and heroin. The director of this serious NC-17 feature is a best-selling novelist in Japan.

TO LIVE AND DIE IN L.A.

(Vestron, 1985) D/S: William Friedkin
S: Gerald Petievich P: Irving H. Levin

William L. Petersen is a Secret Service man after a ruthless counterfeiter (Willem Dafoe). The movie is very violent and has nudity and a great car chase. It was shot by Robby Muller. With John Pankow, Debra Feuer, John Turturro, Darlanne Fluegel, Dean Stockwell, Steve James, and Robert Downey Jr. The music is by Wang Chung, who were popular for a few months.

TOLLBOOTH

(1994) D/S: Salome Brezinger P: Steven J. Wolfe

A tollbooth collector (Lenny Von Dohlen) in the Florida Keys thinks that a blonde (Fairuza Balk) who pumps gas would be the perfect woman for him, but she's with a bait salesman (Will Patton). The love triangle movie involves a dysfunctional family and murder. With Louise Fletcher and Seymour Cassell as her parents, James Wilder, and William Katt.

THE TOMB

(TWE, 1986) D/P: Fred Olen Ray S: Kenneth J. Hall, T. L. Langford P: Ronnie Hadar

The Egyptian princess Nefratis (Michelle Bauer) rips out hearts and tears off heads in modern-day LA. This was filmed very quickly, partially on leftover sets from a TV commercial, and was partially based on an H.P. Lovecraft story. With Cameron Mitchell, John Carradine, Sybil Danning, and Dawn Wildsmith as a lesbian. The scene with Kitten Natividad as a stripper was cut from the TV print, along with the blood and gore. Bauer was also in Café Flesh.

TOMBOY

(Vestron, 1985) D: Herb Freed S: Ben Zelig
P: Marilyn J. Tenser, Michael D. Castle

Betsy Russell (Avenging Angel) stars as a mechanic who becomes a stunt driver. With Kristi Somers, Eric Douglas (a son of Kirk), Cynthia Ann Thompson, and Michelle Bauer. The Crown International release features topless and S&M scenes. By the director of Haunts and Graduation Day.

TOMB OF THE UNDEAD = GARDEN OF THE DEAD

TOMCAT

(Republic, 1993) D/S: Paul Donovan P: William Vince, Robert Vince Canada (Dangerous Desires)

Scientists operate on the brain of long-haired Richard Grieco using cat genes. He becomes the first of a "new species," can jump from high buildings unharmed, kills people, and seems to be irresistible to the female cast members including Natalie Radford (with very short platinum blond hair) and Brit scientist Maryam D'Abo. The minimal plot feature has no sex scenes, but there's a disco Swan Lake rock video scene and a "Feline Sex Club" set. I think it's aimed at the teen-girl following the star once had. Some of the various locations are interesting. It was made in Vancouver by the director of Defcon 4.

TOM JONES MEETS LADY GODIVA

(Rhino, 1969) D/P/A: "A. C. Stevens"/ Stephen Apostoloff (Lady Godiva Rides)

In England, Lady Godiva (Marsha Jordan, not bothering with any accent) is accused of murder, sentenced to hang, and escapes to America on a ship. On board, women lounge around naked and take showers on deck. The nudie movie becomes a western when the exiles become dance hall girls in Tombstone. With mud wrestling, spanking, whipping, and Tootsie O'Hara, a large man in drag who dances and sings. The ship is a toy, the sound is bad, and mike shadows are visible. Forman Shane is Tom Jones and Liz Renay has a small role. Also available on the Saturday Night Sleazies Vol. II tape.

THE TOMMYKNOCKERS

(Vidmark, 1993) D: John Power S: Lawrence D. Cohen P: Jayne Bieber, Jane Scott

Stephen King's variation of Invasion of the Body Snatchers stars Marg Helgenberger as a writer who discovers a glowing buried monolith in the woods that transforms her and other locals into intelligent zombies with a mission. Her boyfriend, an alcoholic poet (Jimmy Smits), is the only unaffected person, because of a metal plate in his head. He eventually saves everyone from the aliens in an underground spaceship. The two-part ABC miniseries, based on King's 1987 novel, is too long and makes little sense. With Joanna Cassidy as a sheriff, E. G. Marshall, Traci Lords (!) as the local postmaster, Robert Carradine, Cliff DeYoung, and Allyce Beasley. The "Maine" village was really in New Zealand. The tape runs 125 minutes (it was originally 192).

TOMORROW NEVER COMES

(Unicorn, 1978) D: Peter Collinson S: David Pursall, Jack Seddon, Sidney Banks P: Julian Melzack, Michael Klinger UK/Canada

Stephen McHattie loses his girlfriend (Susan George) and goes on a shooting spree. Oliver Reed is a police lieutenant who returns to his small town and is put in control. With Raymond Burr, John Ireland, Donald Pleasence, and Paul Koslo.

TOMORROW'S CHILDREN

(Video Yesteryear, Sinister, 1934) D: Crane Wilbur
P: Bryan Foy

An exploitation hit about forced sterilization from the 1930s? Yes, and it's still a shocker. A judge orders a young woman to be sterilized because of her family history. A doctor calls the family "a house full of idiots and cripples." The judge eventually backs off because it turns out the woman was adopted! With Diana Sinclair and Sterling Holloway. It's only 55 minutes long. Producer Foy (of the "Seven Little Foys" vaudeville act) went on to produce hits like House of Wax and Women's Prison.

TONGS: AN AMERICAN NIGHTMARE

(Academy, 1988) D: Philip Chan
S: Stacy Asip P: Jimmy Yang

Simon Yam and Tan (just one name) star as refugee brothers in a Scarface-type gangster story set in NYC's Chinatown. One brother wants to go to school, the other sells drugs. The original script (which includes references to the Chinese Cultural Revolution and corrupt NYC cops) was by a former member of the Last Poets. Locations include Washington Square Park, where the story stops for a performance artist, and there's a gang fight outside the Essex theater. With subtitles.

TONIGHT FOR SURE

(Video Yesteryear, 1961) D/S/P: Francis Ford Coppola

Coppola, then a 22-year-old-UCLA film student, made a nudie short called The Peeper, inspired by Russ Meyer's The Immoral Mr. Teas. He then combined it with a nudie western (filmed by others) and added some more footage that Jack Hill photographed. The resulting 66-minute feature uses flashbacks and hallucinations to justify the mismatched footage. It was first known as Wide Open Spaces. Two prudes blow up a burlesque house at the end. With Virginia Gordon (from Playboy). The music is by Carmine Coppola. Coppola and Hill also shot new scenes for the nudie feature Playgirls and the Bellboy, then made the horror classic Dementia 13 for Roger Corman.

TONIGHT LET'S ALL MAKE LOVE IN LONDON

(1968) D/S/P/C/E: Peter Whitehead UK

Swinging London in 1967 is the topic of this documentary which contains seven "movements." Allen Ginsberg comments and Pink Floyd plays. The Animals, the Rolling Stones, and the Small Faces are heard. Other celebs in sight are Michael Caine, Vanessa Redgrave, Julie Christie, David Hockney, and Lee Marvin. The rare soundtrack was reissued in the 90s.

TOO HOT TO HANDLE

(GMI, 1959) D: Terence Young S: Herbert Kretzner P: Phil C. Samuel UK (Playgirl After Dark)

Jayne Mansfield got to play sexy but tough characters with brains in her English movies. This one has a great cast and is set in the Pink Flamingo strip club in Soho, where the motif is large cocktail glasses. Leo Genn is owner Johnny Solo with gangster problems, and Christopher Lee (with a pimp mustache) is Novak, his sleazy club manager (and emcee). Midnight Franklin (Jayne) is the star attraction and is in charge of all the other girls. Subplots involve German actor Karlheinz Boehm (just before Peeping Tom) as a French (!) writer, an intellectual Austrian stripper (Kai Fischer) and an underage stripper called Ponytail (Barbara Windsor). A lot of time is devoted to elaborate fantasy numbers (steam bath, a calypso number, and a staged monsoon, complete with rain) with almost naked women. Jayne sings and wears her then-scandalous sequined dress. The theme song (heard twice) is priceless. In America, this film was cut and released as Playgirl After Dark. Director Young's next feature was Dr. No.

TOO HOT TO HANDLE

(1975) D: Don Schain S: J. Michael Sherman P: Ralph T. Desiderio

Cheri Caffaro (who usually played Ginger) stars as Samantha Fox, a bounty hunter hired to stop black market merchants. Caffaro dresses as a dominatrix to seduce and kill a man and fantasizes during a cockfight. The New World release also features former football star Tim Brown and Corinne Calvet. The Samantha Fox character name was soon being used by an NYC-area porno star and later by a British pop singer.

TOO MUCH

(1987) D/S: Eric Rochat S: Joan Laine P: Golan/Globus

Bridgette Andersen is a little girl with a robot friend named "TM" for Too Much (Masato Fukazama) in Japan. An evil scientist threatens them. It's a PG movie for kids.

TOO MUCH FEAR

(VSOM, 1975) D/S: Paola Cavara S: Bernardino Zapponi Italy (E Tanta Paura)

People at a sex party are killed by a black-gloved psycho. A cop (Michele Placido) and a bisexual hooker (Corinne Clery) whose life is at stake team up and look for the killer. Eli Wallach, Tom Skerritt, and John Steiner costar, and there's nudity and gore.

TOO MUCH TOO OFTEN!

(SW, 1968) D/S/P: "Louis Silverman"/Doris Wishman

A man whips and abuses people, works as a pimp, and blackmails a masochistic NYC ad exec into giving him a job. Buck Star and Sharon Kent star in the b/w adults-only feature. Ads said "Whip Me! Whip Me!" It was probably filmed several years before its release date.

TOO SCARED TO SCREAM

(Vestron, 1982) D: Tony Lo Bianco S: Neal Barbera, Glenn Leopold P/A: Mike Connors (The Doorman)

An NYC police detective (Mike Connors) and an undercover cop (Anne Archer) investigate murders in a high rise. Ian McShane (later star of the British Lovejoy TV series) is the Shakespearean doorman suspect living with his invalid mother (Maureen O'Sullivan). With John Heard, Leon Isaac Kennedy, Murray Hamilton (in his last role), Victoria Bass, and Val Avery. The theme song is by Charles Aznavour. The first-time director is the star of The Honeymoon Killers.

TOO SOON TO LOVE

(1960) D/S/P: Richard Rush S: Lazlo Gorog P: Mark Lipsky

After starring in Cry Baby Killer (1958) and doing his bit in Little Shop of Horrors (1960), Jack Nicholson appeared in this juvenile delinquent movie, the first by Rush. Richard Evans and Jennifer West are top-billed as young lovers who "go too far." He turns to robbery to pay for her abortion, but they get married and have a kid at the end. The parents are to blame for the kids' problems in the Universal release. "Buddy" (Nicholson) is in a fight scene. Rush later directed him in the better-known Hell's Angels on Wheels and Psych-Out.

TOPAZ

(MCA, 1969) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock S: Samuel Taylor

Hitch's expensive at the time ($4 million) "M" rated political thriller, based on the novel by Leon Uris, was shot partially on location in Paris, Copenhagen, and New York. It lacked major (American) stars and did badly at the box office. Frederick Stafford stars as a French agent working for America, trying to find out what Russia is up to in Cuba in 1962. John Vernon is the Castro character visiting New York (based on the real visit). With Dany Robin, Karin Dor, Michel Piccoli, Philippe Noiret, Roscoe Lee Browne, and John Forsythe. The director is seen in a wheelchair at the airport. Several endings were filmed for the 125-minute Universal feature. In America, it ends in the suicide of Piccoli (an ending not shot by Hitchcock, who wanted to use a duel-in-a-stadium ending). A new "feel good" ending (also not by Hitchcock) was substituted for Europe. The laserdisc has both endings. After all those hits, even Hitchcock's films could be tampered with. He did the nastier Frenzy (1972) next, followed by his last feature, the light Family Plot (1976).

TOP BANANA

(1954) D: Alfred E. Green D/P: Albert Zugsmith S: Gene Towne

This vaudeville movie was filmed in color and 3-D but U.A. released it flat and now it's only available in b/w. Phil Silvers stars with Rose Marie, Jack Albertson, and Flash the singing dog. The movie didn't do much business, but Silvers became Sgt. Bilko on TV the next year.

EL TOPO

(1969) D/S/P/A/M/E: Alexandro Jodorowsky Mexico

In this indescribable but fascinating zen western, a man (Jodorowsky) must kill four master gunfighters. The highest-grossing film from Mexico in the U.S. at the time, it debuted at the Museum of Modern Art. Seeing this years later, it's incredible how bloody, uncompromising, and meaningful it all is. I'm sure viewers who saw it in theaters in the 70s (it was a midnight hit) will never forget it. The Mexican sets were left over from the Glenn Ford western Day of the Evil Gun (1968). Allen Klein and his Abkco company (using Beatles money) backed it, and it was said to be a favorite of John Lennon. Klein owns the rights and kept it (and Jodorowsky's The Holy Mountain) out of circulation for many years. Originally 135 minutes long, it was trimmed to 123 when released in 1971. The rare soundtrack is on Apple.

TOP OF THE HEAP

(Unicorn, 1972) D/S/P/A: Christopher St. John

One of the stars of Shaft made this Fanfare release and stars as a troubled Washington, D.C., family man and cop. He escapes reality by dreaming of going to the moon or having an affair with a blond nurse. With Paula Kelly as his mistress, Allen Garfield, Tiger Joe Marsh, and Richard M. Dixon as President Nixon.

TOP SECRET!

(Paramount, 1984) D/S: Jim Abrahams, David Zucker, Jerry Zucker S: Martyn Burke P: Jon Davidson, Hunt Lowry

Val Kilmer (in his feature debut) stars as Nick Rivers, an Elvis-type singer on tour in East Germany. The comedy from the Airplane team has a spy plot about trying to reunite Germany! Lucy Gutteridge costars with Jeremy Kemp, Omar Sharif, and Michael Gough. Peter Cushing is featured in a standout scene—speaking backwards. Kilmer, who later played Jim Morrison in The Doors (1991), also sings. The director team later split up and made less funny "anything goes" comedies.

TORCHLIGHT

(Embassy, 1985) D: Tom Wright S/A: Pamela Sue Martin S: Eliza Moorman P: Joel Douglas, Michael Schoeder

Pamela Sue Martin, who played Nancy Drew before she became a regular on Dynasty, stars as an artist who marries a wealthy man (Steve Railsback). An art dealer (Ian McShane) introduces them to free-basing cocaine. One of many 80s anti-coke movies, it was released by FilmVentures.

TORMENT

(Nelson, 1985) D/S/P: John Hopkins, Samson Aslanian

William Witt is a San Francisco detective after a maniac who kills women. The killer snaps after a woman rejects him, hides in a house, and terrorizes the detective's girlfriend (Taylor Gilbert) and her invalid mom. From New World.

THE TORMENTOR

(Wizard, 1973) D/A: "Robert Hoffman"/ Maurizio Pradeaux S: Arpad De Riso
Italy (Passi di Danza Su Una Lama di Rasoio)

Susan Scott witnesses a murder while on vacation with her fiancé (played by the director). The psycho killer wears all black and uses a cane and a razor. More people are killed (including artists and ballerinas) and many characters are suspects. With George Martin as a cop.

THE TORMENTORS

(TWE, 1971) D/P: "David B. Eagle"/ David L. Hewitt
S/P/A: James Gordon White (Terminators)

Bank-robbing, motorcycle-riding American Nazis in Monterey kill a woman. Her fiancé (William Dooley) goes undercover to get evidence but he falls for one of their women. The "Fourth Reich" plans to kill a hippie leader, known as "The Messiah," to gain the support of "the young people," which leads to a ridiculous hippie vs. Nazi brawl. There's a love-in (with live band) and a dream sequence. It's pretty awful and has way too many badly dubbed long conversations in small rooms. Some scenes were added years later and it was first released in 1986 (!). James Craig (Revenge of Dr. X) is a behind-the-scenes leader and Anthony Eisley is a cop. Also with Chris Noel and Bruce Kemp. The rock music is by Rudy and the Love Slaves.

TORN CURTAIN

(MCA, 1966) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock S: Brian Moore

Hitchcock's 50th feature is a Cold War espionage drama set in East Germany, Copenhagen, and Sweden (but was filmed in Hollywood). It seemed pretty mainstream after The Birds and Marnie and is remembered mostly for the long, difficult death scene in a farmhouse. Paul Newman stars as a nuclear scientist who fakes a defection to East Berlin; with Julie Andrews and Lila Kedrova. The director is seen in a lobby with a baby on his lap. The Universal release runs 128 minutes. The John Addison soundtrack is on Decca. The original soundtrack by Bernard Herrmann was rejected by the studio (but itself was later released).

THE TORTURE CHAMBER: See THE TORTURE ZONE

THE TORTURE CHAMBER OF BARON BLOOD: See BARON BLOOD

TORTURE SHIP

(1939) D: Victor Halperin
S: George Sayre P: Sig Neufeld

The Halperin brothers made 10 wacked-out features—from Party Girl (1930) to Girls' Town (1942). This obscure (and absurd) release (from Producers Pictures) was "based on" a Jack London story. A mad doctor (Irving Pichel) arranges for a group of headline-making killers to sail on a boat with him at midnight. The passengers include a bomber, a wife killer, a strangler, and "Poison Mary." A newspaper headline says HARRY THE CARVER—MACHINE GUN SLAYER IS MISSING! Pichel operates on their endocrine glands in a misguided rehabilitation attempt, but they die, so he chooses a "normal" victim, Bob, the ship's captain, who is his nephew. Bob, who becomes a violent zombie, is played by Lyle Talbot, looking like Curly Howard with hair and suspenders. He leads a revolt. With Jacqueline Wells (from The Black Cat), a comic Swedish servant and lines like, "Get more wine or I'll cut your ears off!"

THE TORTURE ZONE

(MPI, Unicorn, 1968) D: Juan Ibanez D/S: Jack Hill S/P: Louis Enrico Vergara US/Mexico
(La Cámara del Terror; The Fear Chamber)

This is undoubtedly the low point of Boris Karloff's long career and is badly put together, but still fascinating. Boris is the good Dr. Mantel. His daughter (Julissa) and her boyfriend (Carlos East) discover a living rock in a cave. Then—a woman goes to bed and a dwarf (Santanon) sneaks in her bedroom. The entire room turns around to reveal a big scary cavern full of snakes, bones, and spiders. Some bizarre, hard-to-see stop-motion changes occur. Men in hooded black robes grab the terrified woman and take her to a torture chamber. She sees them put another woman on hot coals who, after a thumbs down from Dr. Mantel, is stabbed to death. Mantel tells the first woman, "You must be punished for your sins!" and she gets the same treatment, but is suddenly wheeled into an operating room, where the torturers turn out to be doctors extracting something or other from terrified people. Dr. Mantel's daughter and her boyfriend go on vacation, and the weak doctor ends up in bed, leaving his sadistic, voyeuristic assistant Helga (Isela Vega) in charge. She plots with Roland, a lobotomized hunchback (Yerye Beirute), a cliché-sinister East Indian, and the dwarf. The living rock grows tentacles and kills women. Helga and Roland watch a stripper do a long topless dance. The rock watches too before grabbing her. Helga whips a bloody blonde in chains. Roland keeps saying "I'm gonna be king of the world!" Boris has a bad dream, but recovers and saves the world with his computer. Karloff's last line is "I can only pray we've stopped it before it could transmit the information it gathered to others like it!" and Roland runs around in a cave yelling "I'm the king of the world!" The Spanish-language video release doesn't even mention Boris's name on the box. You won't believe it.

TO SLEEP WITH A VAMPIRE

(New Horizons, 1992) D: Adam Friedman
S: Patricia Harrington P: Mike Elliot

Roger Corman ordered up this pointless remake of his Dance of the Damned (from way back in 1988), using much of the same dialogue. This time Scott Valentine is the vampire who wants to get to know a suicidal stripper (Charlie Spradling). It's filled with homeless people, arty touches, and lots of dialogue. They argue ("Stop staring at my neck!"), he cries, paints, and finally makes her a vampire, after sex on the strip club runway. Shadows in the Dark (1989), a porno tape, was an earlier "remake" of the same story.

TOTAL CONTROL: See PROJECT: KILL

TOTAL RECALL

(LIVE, 1990) D: Paul Verhoeven S/P: Ronald Schusett S: Dan O'Bannon, Gary Goldman
P: Buzz Feitshans M: Jerry Goldsmith

Arnold Schwarzenegger is a puzzled construction worker who pays Rekall Inc. so he can imagine (or does he?) that he's a hero on a colonized Mars in 2084. Based on Philip K. Dick's "We Can Remember It for You Wholesale," this was once to be produced by Dino De Laurentiis and directed by Cronenberg (in 1984), then by Bruce Beresford (in 1987). It ended up costing a then-record $70 million and wasn't really a box-office hit. It had to be cut for an R rating but still has some extreme, eye-popping ILM FX and "110 acts of violence an hour." Arnold rips an arm off and shoots his own wife (Sharon Stone). Also with a record 55 product placements. Rachel Ticotin costars, with Ronny Cox (also in Verhoeven's Robocop) and Michael Ironside as villains and Marshall Bell as the underground leader. An Oscar went to Rob Bottin for FX including the mutants at a futuristic whorehouse. It was filmed in the Mexico City Churubusco studios. A remastered letterboxed laser version is available. The score is on Varèse Sarabande. Terminator 2 topped Total Recall's budget and Hook equaled it. Verhoeven's next was Basic Instinct (also with Stone).

TO THE SHORES OF HELL

(1966) D/S/P: Will Zens S: Robert McFarland

Years before Rambo, a Marine major (Marshall Thompson) takes a group through the Vietnamese jungle to try to rescue his doctor brother (Robert Dornan) from the Viet Cong. Dornan later became a very conservative Republican Congressman and presidential candidate. He was also in The Starfighters (1964) and Hell On Wheels (1967), both also by Will Zens (Capture That Capsule!, 1961). Thompson also made and starred in A Yank in Viet-Nam (1964). Crown International released this color feature.

THE TOUCHABLES

(SW, 1961) D/S: Monte Mann D/P: Jay Sheridan

During Prohibition, a cowardly bookkeeper hides out from gangsters at the "Fat Chance Rejuvenation Center." The gangsters and the star all end up running around in drag in silent-comedy-style chase scenes. Boxoffice International kept this Some Like It Hot–inspired adult comedy in circulation for years, using different ad campaigns. At one time, it featured naked women, but in this version they all wear polka dot bikinis (popular in the 30s, I'm sure). Claire Brennan, who later starred in She Freak (!), is top billed. The AFI catalog says the short (about an hour) color feature was also called Nude Heatwave and may have had 3-D sequences at one time.

Tower of Screaming Virgins

THE TOUCHABLES

(1968) D: Robert Freeman
S: Ian La Fresnais P: John Bryan UK

This sex comedy was a rival to the somewhat similar Three in the Attic (also 1968). Judy Huxtable and three other mod London women dressed as nuns kidnap a pop singer (David Anthony) and keep him in their huge plastic "pleasure" dome (with a revolving bed) by the seaside. The singer's manager and a black gangster search for him. Ads called the 20th Century release "Love in the Fifth Dimension!" The British group Nirvana does the theme song. There was a soundtrack album.

TOUCH AND DIE

(Vestron, 1991) D/S: Pier Nico Solinas
S: John Howlett Italy

Martin Sheen stars as an alcoholic US journalist in Rome who investigates grisly murders concerning a nuke conspiracy where workers' hands are cut off. Renée Estevez (Sheen's daughter) plays his daughter. Also with Franco Nero and David Birney.

A TOUCH OF HER FLESH

(1967) D/P/E: "Julian Marsh"/Michael Findlay
P/C: "Anna Riva"/Roberta Findlay

Richard Jennings (Robert West) sees his wife with another man, runs away, and is hit by a car. He loses one eye and his legs are temporarily paralyzed. He drinks Old Crow and kills strippers (and his wife) in various ways using darts, a crossbow, a poison rose, and even a buzzsaw. Meanwhile we see various memorable strip acts at a go-go club and hear instrumental rock, some classical music, and a good soul song called "Right Kind of Lovin'." The outrageous b/w adult feature was shot in many real NYC locations and features a look at some long-gone theaters and restaurants in the Lower East Side, a black stripper, and an (offscreen) decapitation. It was part of a sick trilogy by the future makers of Snuff. Curse of Her Flesh and The Kiss of Her Flesh followed.

TOUCH OF THE SUN

(1978) D/S: Peter Curran S: George Fowler P: Elizabeth Curran

The local emperor Sumooba (Edwin Manda) holds an American space capsule for ransom after it lands in Central Africa. Peter Cushing is a comical commissioner who doesn't know that WWII ended, and Oliver Reed, Keenan Wynn, and Bruce Boa are officials sent after the capsule. Also with a Tarzan-type character. The first international feature filmed in Zambia, the adventure comedy was never released in Europe or America.

TOUGHER THAN LEATHER

(RCA, 1988) D/S/A: Rick Rubin
S: Ric Menello P: Vincent Giordano

The rap group Run-DMC (Joseph Simmons and Darryl McDaniels) star as themselves in a music business exploitation movie by record producer Rubin. The white record producers are also drug dealers. There's a revenge plot, Mafia killers, sleazy Jewish record executives, and rednecks. With the Beastie Boys, Slick Rick, Jenny Lumet, Richard Edson (Stranger Than Paradise) and porn star Lois Ayers in a dog collar. From New Line. Run-DMC were also in Krush Groove.

TOUGH GUNS

(Abacus, 1972) D: "Godfrey Daniels"/Stuart Segall
S: Don Edmunds (Two Rode with Death)

The director of Drive-In Massacre made this sex western. Flashbacks reveal a revenge plot concerning bounty hunters (one is black). With John Alderman as the main villain and Rene Bond.

TOUGH GUY

(1994) D/S: James Merendino S: Megan Heath
P: Rustam Branaman, Danny Kuchuck

A Los Angeles woman (Heather Graham) is terrorized by various men in her apartment after her husband kills her lover then kills himself. Her role is a lot like Deneuve's in Polanski's Repulsion. The director had previously made The Upstairs Neighbor, which was a lot like Polanski's The Tenant. Lisa Zane is her friend and Paul Herman is the guy of the title. Also with Max Perlich, Balthazar Getty, Don Calfa, and Richard Lynch.

TOUGH GUYS DON'T DANCE

(Media, 1987) D/S: Norman Mailer P: Golan/Globus

Mailer made one of those typical Cannon studios multipicture deals. He appeared in Jean-Luc Godard's King Lear and got to direct this surprising adaptation of his own twisted crime novel. Ryan O'Neal tells an incredible story to his helpful father (Lawrence Tierney, in one of his best roles). Flashbacks inside of flashbacks and flashforwards reveal how the son had bottomed out and might have killed an ex-porno star. He can't remember. Screw magazine ads are important to the plot, and two severed heads end up in garbage bags. Wings Hauser stands out as a crazed, pot-smoking Nam vet police chief. With Isabella Rossellini, Frances Fisher, Clarence Williams III, Debra Sandlund, and Penn Jillette. Filmed in Provincetown, Mass.

TOWER OF SCREAMING VIRGINS

(Video Dimensions, 1968) D: François Legrand
S: Kurt Nachmann P: Wolf C. Hartwig Germany, France, Italy (Der Turm Der Verbotenen Liebe)

The masked, red-haired "witch of the tower" has blindfolded men brought to her by a hunchback. She and her two companions enjoy sex with them, then she has them killed. Plot twists worthy of Alexandre Dumas (whose story it's based on) reveal that she is really the Queen, a one-time lover of the always smiling "rascal" swordsman hero, and unknowingly has had sex with their son. It's a pretty lavish-looking color adventure with some wild costumes, nudity, and very out-of-place jazz and bongo music! The tape is letterboxed. Terry Torday and Uschi Glas star.

TOWER OF TERROR

(Sinister, 1941) D: Lawrence Huntington
S/P: John Argyle S: John Reinhart UK

A mad lighthouse keeper (Wilfred Lawson) in Germany terrorizes people in a house. His wife is buried in the basement and he thinks a woman (Movita) who escaped from a concentration camp is her reincarnation. Michael Rennie stars as a British spy. The one-hour-long Monogram release is borderline horror and includes a killer with a hook hand.

A TOWN CALLED HELL

(1971) D: Robert Parrish S/P: Benjamin Fisz UK/Spain
(Una Ciudad Llamada Bastard; A Town Called Bastard)

Martin Landau is a bounty hunter after a priest (Robert Shaw) who is a Mexican revolutionary. The great cast of this Euro western includes Telly Savalas as a Mexican bandit who controls a town, Stella Stevens as a mystery woman with a coffin, and Fernando Rey. Parrish, from Georgia, was based in England, where he also directed Journey to the Far Side of the Sun (1969).

THE TOXIC AVENGER

(Troma, 1984) D/P: Michael Herz, Lloyd Kaufman S: Joe Ritter

This was the first bad-taste, gross-out horror comedy hit from New York's Troma after years of teen comedies. A nerd janitor, Marvin (Mitchell Cohen), falls into toxic waste and becomes a good guy monster who battles local corruption and has a blind girlfriend. With Pat Ryan Jr. as the mayor and Marisa Tomei (an extra). The "cult hit" was shot in Boonton, New Jersey. R or unrated versions are available. Sequels followed.

The Toxic Avenger doing publicity in Germany.

THE TOXIC AVENGER, PART II

(Warner, 1989) D/S/P: Lloyd Kaufman
D/P: Michael Herz S: Gay Partington Terry

Apocalypse Inc. plans to take over Tromaville and "Toxie" (played by Ron Fazio and John Altamura) battles Satan himself. Parts of this sequel were shot in Tokyo, and Japanese actors appear. With Phoebe Legere as the "beautiful blind buxom bimbo," Lisa Gaye, and lots of dumb jokes. This was shot back to back with Part III. The Japanese version is longer.

THE TOXIC AVENGER, PART III: THE LAST TEMPTATION OF TOXIE

(Vestron, 1989) D/P: Lloyd Kaufman, Michael Herz S: Gay Partington Terry

Toxie goes to work for a corporation run by the Devil (Rick Collins) so he can afford to cure his girlfriend's (Phoebe Legere) blindness. It has the same cast as Part II minus the Japanese actors. Available R or unrated. Marvel Comics started a short-lived syndicated Toxic Crusaders TV cartoon series (1991) and toys were offered, but few cared.

THE TOXIC MONSTER: See MONSTER

TOXIC SPAWN = ALIEN CONTAMINATION

TOXIC ZOMBIES = BLOOD EATERS

THE TOY BOX

(SW, 1970) D/S: Ron Garcia

Here's another weird one from Boxoffice International. Donna, a blonde (who narrates), remembers her "uncle's" parties. The fat, bearded, telepathic man with no eyes is from another planet (I think). He holds strange sex parties with women in togas in his mansion during thunderstorms while spooky music plays. Women dance naked, some are chained and whipped, others just talk endlessly. A decapitated head appears. Guests receive a "reward" from the "toy box" (one of those hand-grabs-a-coin things) for doing "tricks for uncle." In one outdoor scene, a guy in a mask scares a woman during sex, so she kills him with a pitchfork. Most of it's too dark to see well and it sure doesn't make much sense. Marsha Jordan is in it. Garcia was later cinematographer for the Twin Peaks movie.

TOYS

(Fox, 1992) D/S/P: Barry Levinson
S: Valerie Curtin P: Mark Johnson

Michael Gambon is a general who inherits a toy factory and starts manufacturing only war toys. Robin Williams and Joan Cusack (a robot) are his childlike nephew and niece. It's a long (over 2 hours) anti-war fantasy satire that resembles Willy Wonka and was a boxoffice flop. It does have some impressive (Oscar-nominated) sets and good FX by Rob Bottin. With Robin Wright, Jack Warden, Debi Mazar, LL Cool J, and Donald O'Connor. Not to be confused with the equally bad The Toy from ten years earlier. Rated PG-13.

TOY SOLDIERS

(Starmaker, 1983) D/S: David Fisher
S: Walter Fox P: Darrell Hallenbeck

Some Beverly Hills kids are taken captive during a Central American cruise. They escape, join up with a mercenary, and Jason Miller and Cleavon Little lead a hostage rescue mission. With Tracy Scoggins, Tim Robbins, and Terri Garber. From New World.

TOY SOLDIERS

(RCA, 1991) D/S: Daniel Petrie
S: David Koepp P: Jack E. Freedman

Some brutal, heavily armed South American terrorists take over a Virginia prep school and hold students hostage. The leader (Andrew Divoff) wants his father released from prison. Sean Astin and Keith Coogan are the main problem kids who fight back, and the FBI, Army, and Mafia become involved. It's all pretty entertaining, and there's a good cast and good music. Also with Wil Wheaton, Louis Gossett Jr. as the dean, Denholm Elliott as the headmaster, Mason Adams (FBI), R. Lee Ermey (Army), and Jerry Orbach (Mafia). Made in Virginia, it was based on a novel by William Kennedy.

TRACKS

(Paramount, 1976) D/S: Henry Jaglom
P: Howard Zucker, Irving Cohen, Ted Shapiro

In a very serious post-Nam movie, a soldier (Dennis Hopper) escorts the body of a friend home on a train. He hallucinates, imagines Taryn Power is gang raped, and at one point, runs through the train naked. With Dean Stockwell, Michael Emil, Zack Norman, Sally Kirkland, and Alfred Ryder.

TRACK 29

(Warner, 1988) D: Nicolas Roeg
S: Dennis Potter P: Rick McCallum UK

A bored Texas housewife (Theresa Russell) imagines that hitchhiker Gary Oldman is her lost baby, now grown up. Her crazed doctor husband (Christopher Lloyd) is obsessed by his entire floor of computerized toy trains. With Colleen Camp, Sandra Bernhard, and Seymour Cassel. George Harrison was an executive producer for his Handmade Films. It was filmed in North Carolina.

TRADER HORN

(1931) D: W. S. Van Dyke P: Irving Thalberg

Harry Carey is a jungle dealer and Edwina Booth is the white goddess in this jungle classic. It was shot on location during seven months in Africa in 1929. Booth got sick from the heat, sued MGM, retired from acting the next year, and went to work at a Mormon temple. Much of the footage was judged unusable, and the rest was reshot in Mexico. It was a hit though and influenced many poverty row and roadshow jungle movies featuring gorillas and white jungle queens. With Duncan Renaldo and C. Aubrey Smith. Van Dyke went on to direct Tarzan the Ape Man (1931), which used footage leftover from Trader Horn, and The Thin Man (1934), starting off two very popular MGM series.

TRADER HORN

(1973) D: Reza Badiyi S: William Norton, Edward Harper

This PG-rated MGM remake uses lots of stock footage and adds German and British soldiers to the plot. Rod Taylor stars with Anne Heywood, Jean Sorel, and Don Knight. It's interesting that this was produced after the original was spoofed in Trader Hornee (1970).

TRADER HORNEE

(SW, 1970) D: "Don Tsanusdi"/ Jonathan Lucas S/P: David F. Friedman

Deborah Stills stars as Algona "the white goddess" in this adults-only jungle-cliché comedy, filled with in-jokes, soft core sex, and nudity. Buddy Pantsati is private detective Hornee and Elisabeth Monica is Jane his assistant. The natives use jive talk and the white gorilla turns out to be an escaped Nazi. Also with John Alderman. An impressive production for a movie aimed at the adults-only market, it played drive-ins and also some midnight shows. Lucas also directed the Dean Martin TV show.

TRAIL OF THE PINK PANTHER

(1982) D/S/P: Blake Edwards S: Frank Waldman, Tom Waldman, Geoffrey Edwards

Peter Sellers, who played Inspector Clouseau in five Pink Panther movies (all directed by Edwards), died in 1980. This sequel, in the grand tradition of Plan 9 from Outer Space and The Game of Death, features old scenes and a double for the star. Joanna Lumley is a reporter who interviews David Niven, Capucine, Burt Kwouk, Robert Loggia and Richard Mulligan, who all "remember" scenes and outtakes from the previous films. The double for Sellers has his head covered in bandages. Also with Harvey Korman and footage of Herbert Lom (who was in all five original features). It was bad enough, but at the same time Edwards threw together The Curse of the Pink Panther (1983) too. Sellers's last wife, actress Lynn Frederick (Schizo), sued and won a $1,687,000 award from United Artists.

TRAIN RIDE TO HOLLYWOOD

(1973) D: Charles Rondeau
S: Dan Gordon P: Gordon Webb

The soul group Bloodstone star as a group called the Sinceres in a fantasy comedy. The singer dreams that the group is on a train going to heaven filled with famous cliché late-golden-era Hollywood stars (played by impressionists) plus Dracula, Brando, and a gorilla. With Jay Robinson and Roberta Collins. Incredibly, the G-rated Billy Jack Production was released by Tom Laughlin!

TRAITOR'S GATE

(1964) D: Freddie Francis S: "John Sansom"/ Jimmy Sangster W. Germany/England
(Der Verratertor)

Albert Lieven is a London businessman who plots to steal the crown jewels from the Tower of London. With Gary Raymond, Margot Trooger, Catherina von Schell, and Klaus Kinski as Kinski (!). The Edgar Wallace story had also been filmed as The Yellow Mask in England in 1930. Freddie Francis is a famous, award-winning British cinematographer (The Innocents, The Elephant Man) but he also directed lots of (mostly horror) movies. He made several in Germany including The Brain (1962), a Donovan's Brain remake, and The Vampire Happening. Two versions (German and English) were shot.

TRAMPLERS

(Nelson, 1966) D/S/P: Albert Band S: Ugo Liberatore P: Alvaro Mancori Italy
(Gli Uomini dal Passo Pesante; Showdown)

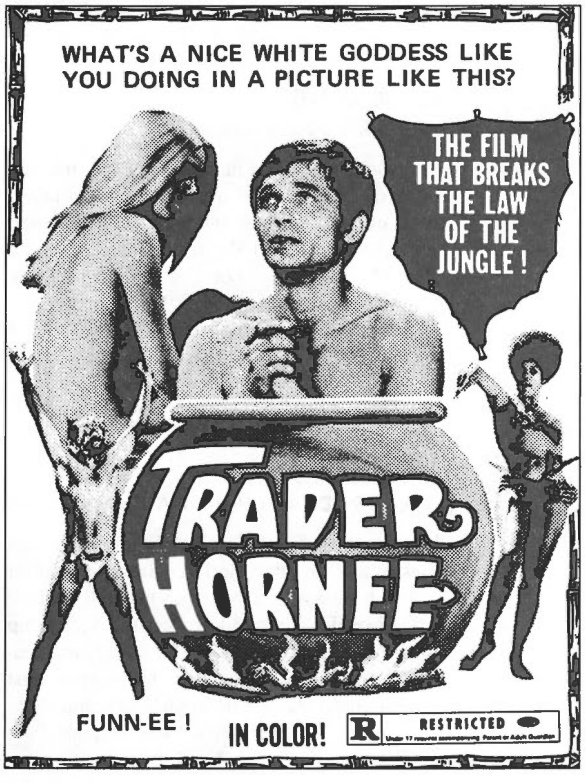
Joseph Cotten is an ex–Confederate general who organizes a private army to protect his Texas cattle empire from Yankees in a post–Civil War western. His sons (Gordon Scott and James Mitchum) set up a rival ranch. With Franco Nero. Joseph E. Levine and Embassy released it.



TRANCE

(N.P.Y., 1981) D/S: Eckhart Schmidt P: Barbra Moorse, Martin Moskowicz W. Germany (Der Fan)

Simone (Desiree Nosbusch) is a schoolgirl seriously obsessed with a Gary Numan–type pop singer (Bodo Staiger). She meets him (after fainting) at a Munich TV studio and they have sex. The surprise part (which I have to give away to get anybody interested) is what makes this well-made movie special. When he treats her like a cast-off groupie, she kills him, cuts him up with an electric knife, freezes the body parts, then cooks and eats him! Also with Joachim Fuchsberger. Nosbusch later became a TV star and was Boris Becker's girlfriend. Schmidt has directed many teen and drug movies since the 60s. In English and seen on a Canadian video.

TRANCERS

(Vestron, 1985) D/P: Charles Band S: Danny Bilson, Paul DeMeo (Future Cop)

Tim Thomerson (who was a stand-up comic) is Jack Deth, a future detective who goes back 300 years to mid-80s LA to stop a Manson-type villain with psychic powers who creates "trancer" slaves. With Helen Hunt, Art La Fleur, Anne Seymour, and Richard Erdman. Rated PG-13. Thomerson returned in Trancers II.

TRANCERS II: THE RETURN OF JACK DETH

(Paramount, 1991) D/P: Charles Band
S: Jackson Barr P: David DeCoteau

Thomerson returns from the future and becomes stuck in 1990, where he protects the life of an ex–baseball star. The evil Richard Lynch turns homeless people into zombies, and Helen Hunt and Megan Ward appear as Deth's past and present wives. With Martine Beswick, Jeffrey Combs, Barbara Crampton, Sonny Carl Davis, and Art La Fleur. This script was originally filmed as a segment of the unreleased anthology Pulse Pounders, then was remade as this feature.

TRANCERS III: DETH LIVES

(Paramount, 1992) D/S: C. Courtney Joyner P: Albert Band

A big alien called Shark takes detective Deth (Thomerson) to LA of the future and back again in this confusing sequel. "Col. Muther" (Andrew Robinson) is behind an out-of-control trancer soldier plot, and there are some fighting women to relieve the boredom. With Melanie Smith, Stephen Macht plus Megan Ward and a token "special appearance" by Helen Hunt (by then a major TV star). Trancers IV followed.

TRANCERS IV: JACK OF SWORDS

(Paramount, 1994) D: David Nutter S: Peter David P: Vlad Paunescu, Oana Paunescu

In this pretty awful sequel, Jack Deth (Thomerson yet again) ends up in medieval times where noblemen are vampires who consider commoners "meat." Characters talk a lot and there are a few (intentional) laughs. With Stacie Randall, Ty Miller, and Stephen Macht. It was filmed in Romania back-to-back with Trancers V: Sudden Deth, the "last" sequel.

TRANS EUROPE EXPRESS

(1967) D/S/A: Alain Robbe-Grillet
P: Samy Halfon France

Filmmakers on a train imagine a dope smuggling plot starring a fellow passenger (Jean-Louis Trintignant as himself). With Marie-France Pisier and Daniel Emilfork. Trans America, an AIP offshoot, released the b/w feature in America, making it the only one of Robbe-Grillet's movies as director to have much exposure in America. The cult author's first screen credit was as screenwriter of Last Year At Marienbad (1961).

TRANSFORMATIONS

(Starmaker, 1988) D: Jay Kamen
S: Mitch Brown P: Bob Wynn

Rex Smith (who had one hit single back in 1979), stars as Wolf, an astronaut, in this terrible man-in-a-monster-suit-on-a-spaceship movie. The prison-mining-colony setting predated Alien^{3} by several years, though. That, and some gore, nudity, and (near-X) sex might make it worth seeing. Lisa Langlois is the nurse who loves Rex, even though sex makes him mutate. With Patrick Macnee as a priest, Christopher Neame, Pamela Prati, and Cec Verrell. Made (in Italy) by Band's Empire company and not released until 1991.

TRANSGRESSION

(Chiaroscuro, 1993) D/S/P: Michael P. DiPaolo
P: Thomas Kalamar, Susan Skoog

A woman (Molly Jackson) on death row narrates on/off flashbacks. She had been a TV news reporter doing a story about a serial killer working in the meat packing district. He (Marc St. Camille) wears a bloody bondage mask and makes others watch as he ties up victims. He even has his own childhood trauma flashback. Despite the topic, this is slow moving, with soft music and characters who quote Baudelaire and Nietzsche. The director spent nine years videotaping confessions for the Brooklyn D.A. This was shot (16mm) in NYC and upstate New York in 12 days.

TRANSMUTATIONS

(Vestron, 1986) D: George Pavlou
S: Clive Barker, James Caplin P: Keven Attew, Don Hawkins (Underworld)

Motherskill (Steven Berkoff), a gangster, wants his mistress back from subterranean mutant junkies living in tunnels under London. A mad scientist (Denholm Elliott) has created the ultimate addictive drug, called "white man." It's a pretty slow movie, with a stylish whorehouse set and rock video segments. With Miranda Richardson and Ingrid Pitt. Pavlou made Barker's Rawhead Rex too.

TRANSYLVANIA 6-5000

(Starmaker, 1985) D/S: Rudy DeLuca P: Mace Neufield, Thomas H. Brodek M: Lee Holdridge

Jeff Goldblum and Ed Begley Jr. star as tabloid newspaper reporters in a horror comedy. Geena Davis looks real sexy dressed like Vampirella and Joseph Bologna is the mad doctor. With Jeffrey Jones as an innkeeper, Carol Kane and John Byner as servants, Michael Richards, Norman Fell, and the Frankenstein monster, a wolfman, and a mummy. The director had cowritten Mel Brooks movies. The PG-rated "New World/Dow Chemical Co. Picture" (!) was filmed in Yugoslavia. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande.

TRANSYLVANIA TWIST

(MGM/UA, 1989) D: Jim Wynorski S: R. J. Robertson P: Alida Camp

Any horror fan could find something to like in this in-joke–filled PG-13 horror spoof. Robert Vaughn stars as Byron Orlok, a vampire. Teri Copley (who had just been in Playboy and gets to sing two songs here) is his visiting niece. Boris Karloff is shown in outtakes from Roger Corman's The Terror (edited in with new footage), and Angus Scrimm has the Dick Miller role. Lots of old Corman-produced footage is used, along with plenty of wacky Airplane-style gags. There's a nice re-creation of a scene from Horror of Dracula, a Honeymooners spoof (Why? The only answer is, Why not?), and a surprising gag scene with Jason, Freddy, Leatherface, and Pinhead. There are also nods to The Exorcist, Phantasm, It Conquered the World, Elvis, and even "Papa-Oom-Mow-Mow." Also with Steve Franken, Howard Morris, Jay Robinson, Brinke Stevens, Deanna Lund, Monique Gabrielle, Toni Naples, Kelly Mulrooney, and Forrest J. Ackerman.

THE TRAP

(Sinister, 1922) D: Robert Thornby S: George C. Hull

Gaspar (Lon Chaney) steals the son of the man he had sent to prison on false charges. Chaney also cowrote the revenge story (with Irving Thalberg). With Alan Hale and Irene Rich. From Universal.

TRAPPED ALIVE

(AIP, 1988) D/S: Leszek Burzynski S: Julian Weaver P: Christopher Webster (Forever Mine)

Some prisoners who escape at Christmas, two female hostages, and a deputy somehow all fall down a mine shaft where a barely-shown cannibal with long white hair grabs victims with giant tongs. The deputy and a local woman have (PG-13) sex, the youngest escapee falls in love with top-billed Sullivan Hester (who swims in her underwear), and her friend has a topless scene in the cave. Meanwhile Cameron Mitchell plays the worried father of one of the women and has an emotional solo scene on the telephone. It was made in Eagle River, Wisconsin.

TRAPPER COUNTY WAR

(Republic, 1989) D: Worth Keeter S: Russel V. Manzatt P: Michael W. Leighton

Robert Estes and Noah Black star as New Jersey musicans in a small North Carolina town who meet a waitress (Betsy Russell). She wants to sing, but her demented backwoods relatives (Don Swayze and R. G. Armstrong) object. Violence results. With Bo Hopkins as the sheriff and Ernie Hudson.

TRAP THEM AND KILL THEM

(Twilight, 1977) D/S/C: "Joe Damato"/ Aristide Massacessi S: Romano Scandariato P: Gianfranco Couyoumdjian Italy (Emmanuelle e Gli Ultimi Cannibali)

Laura Gemser is Emanuelle, a reporter for the "New York Evening Post." While working undercover in an NYC hospital (and hiding a camera in a doll), a crazy female inmate who has been raised by cannibals eats a nurse's breast. After watching a graphic cannibal film together and having sex on an NYC dock, Emanuelle and an anthropologist (Gabrielle Tinti) are sent to the Amazon. She convinces the cannibals that she's a goddess in order to save Tinti. The softcore sex movie features lots of voyeurism and female masturbation, rape, decapitation, castration, and a man torn in half. It was made before the tamer but somewhat similar Slave of the Cannibal God (1978) with Ursula Andress.

TRASH

(Paramount, 1970) D/S/C: Paul Morrissey P: Andy Warhol (Andy Warhol's Trash)

Joe Dallesandro is an impotent junkie thief in this sympathetic, sad and funny look at outcasts. He lives in a lower East Side basement with a roommate (Holly Woodlawn, immortalized in "Walk on the Wild Side") who collects trash, goes to the Fillmore East, and wants to go on welfare. With Jane Forth as a wealthy acidhead wife (with a Pink Floyd LP visible in her apartment), Michael Sklar as the welfare inspector, and Geri Miller as the go-go dancer. This 16mm underground feature shocked people with its scenes of shooting up and of Holly masturbating. Morrissey was the editor of Interview magazine at the time. Sissy Spacek was an extra (and she did music for Lonesome Cowboys!). Heat was next.

TRAUMA

(Wizard, 1978) D/S: Alberto Negrin S: Marcello Coscia, Massimo Dallamano Italy (Virgin Terror; Enigma Rosso)

Wealthy schoolgirls involved in a sex party operation are being killed (with a dildo). Fabio Testi stars as a cop and there's nudity and blood. With Christine Kaufmann, Ivan Desny, Jack Taylor, and Helga Line.

TRAUMA

(Worldvision, 1993) D/S/P: Dario Argento S: T. E. D. Klein M: Pino Donaggio

Asia Argento is an anorexic teen who escapes from a clinic and is rescued from a suicide attempt by an ex–drug addict TV station worker (Christopher Rydell). They try to discover who is the "Head Hunter," a local killer who decapitates people with a specially built mechanical noose. With Frederic Forrest as Dr. Judd, Laura Johnson, James Russo as a cop, and Brad Dourif. Piper Laurie is the medium mother who runs the mysterious clinic. It was shot in Minneapolis/St. Paul and was Argento's first feature made entirely in America. Although it lacks some of the flourishes of some of his earlier films, Trauma manages to be scary and disturbing. With FX by Tom Savini (lots of decapitated heads). The laser version is unrated.

THE TRAVELING EXECUTIONER

(1970) D/P: Jack Smight S: Garrie Bateson

Stacy Keach is Jonas Candide, an executioner in 1918. He drives from prison to prison in a truck with his own electric chair and a mortician assisant (Bud Cort). He charges $100 per death. A warden (M. Emmet Walsh) hires him to execute a brother and sister. He falls for the sister (Marianna Hill—real name Schwarzkoff) and fakes her death, with tragic/comic results. With Graham Jarvis, Logan Ramsey, and Val Avery. Alan Rudolph was the assistant director. The MGM release was shot in a real Alabama prison.

TREASURE ISLAND

(Jet, 1971) D: John Hough S/A: "O. W. Jeeves"/ Orson Welles S: Antonio Margheriti, Wolf Mankowitz P: Harry Alan Towers UK/France/W. Germany/Spain

Orson Welles is the one-legged Long John Silver in a feature he had once planned to direct himself. His script was credited to a W. C. Fields–type pseudonym. With Kim Burfield as Jim Hawkins, Lionel Stander, and Walter Slezak. Some earlier adaptations of Robert Louis Stevenson's pirate tale were the famous MGM version (1934) and a Disney version (1950).

TREASURE ISLAND

(1986) D/S: Raul Ruiz France/US

A kid watches TV and imagines himself in a version of Treasure Island which features in-jokes, stories inside of stories, and characters who step out of character. With Vic Tayback as Long John Silver, Martin Landau, Lou Castell, Anna Karina, and Pedro Armendariz Jr. Jean-Pierre Leaud (who also acts) narrates and tries to make some sense of the (unfinished) scenes. The Cannon movie was shot in Portugal.

TREASURE ISLAND

(Turner, 1989) D: Fraser Heston P/A: Charlton Heston

Christian Bale (from Empire of the Sun) is Jim Hawkins and Charlton Heston is Long John Silver in a lavish version of Stevenson's tale that debuted on TNT cable. It was filmed on the same ship used for the 1962 Mutiny on the Bounty and features a score by the Chieftains. The support cast includes Oliver Reed, Christopher Lee, and Richard Johnson. The next remake was Muppet Treasure Island (1996), with Tim Curry.

TREASURE ISLAND IN SPACE

(VSOM, 1987) D: Antonio Margheriti
S: Renato Casteliani, Licia De Cara Italy
(Isola del Tesoro; Space Pirates)

This is a feature version of a TV miniseries. A kid in outer space encounters the usual pirate characters. With David Warbeck, Anthony Quinn, Ernest Borgnine, and John Morghen. The full version runs 8 hours.

TREASURE OF MAKUBA

(1966) D: Joe Lacy S: Manuel M. Remis P: Sidney Pink US/Spain (El Tesoro de Makuba)

Cameron Mitchell searches for stolen pearls in the jungle of a Polynesian island. He and a native girl (Mara Cruz) are sentenced to death by natives.

THE TREASURE OF THE AMAZON

(Vestron, 1983) D/S: Rene Cardona Jr.
Mexico (El Tesoro Del Amazonés)

It's "based on a true story" set in the 50s and concerns diamonds, headhunting cannibals, crocodiles, topless natives, a piranha attack, giant snakes, and leeches. The international cast includes Stuart Whitman, Donald Pleasence, Bradford Dillman, John Ireland, and Hugo Stiglitz. By the director of Guyana: Cult of the Damned (1980) with much of the same cast.

TREASURE OF THE FOUR CROWNS

(MGM/UA, 1982) D: Ferdinando Balbi
S/P/A: Tony Anthony S: Lloyd Battista, Jin Bryce, Jerry Lazarus Spain/US
(El Tesoro de las Cuatro Coronas)

In a PG-rated 3-D Raiders . . . copy made after Baldi's more successful Comin' at Ya! (1981), characters try to steal jewels from an evil cult. There's very little dialogue, but lots of FX thrust at the audience (skeletons, fireballs, a spinning head) and impressive sets including a haunted castle. Tony Anthony stars as J. T. Stryker, with Gene Quintano, Marshall Lupo, Roger Petitto, and Francisco Rabal. From Cannon.

TREASURE OF THE MOON GODDESS

(Vidmark, 1988) D: Joseph Louis Agraz S/A: Asher Brauner S: Eric Weston P: Gerald Green

In this Raiders . . . ripoff, Don Calfa dictates a story to his secretary. He had taken a singer named Lu De Belle (Linnea Quigley) to a town in South America where she was mistaken for the reincarnation of a goddess. The confused movie was shot over several years first in Manila in 1984, then in Mexico.

TREASURE OF THE YANKEE ZEPHYR

(Vestron, 1983) D/P: David Hemmings
S: Everett de Roche P: Anthony I. Ginnane, John Barnett NZ (Race for the Yankee Zephyr)

Ken Wahl, Donald Pleasence, and Lesley Ann Warren search in New Zealand for a downed plane that contains $50 million. With Bruno Lawrence.

Fred Ward and Finn Carter in Tremors.

THE TREASURE SEEKERS

(MGM, 1971) D: Henry Levin S/A: Rod Taylor
P: Sam Manners UK (Jamaica Gold)

Jeremy Kemp and Rod Taylor (soon to be in a Trader Horn remake) star in this adventure movie with Stuart Whitman, Elke Sommer, and Keenan Wynn. Levin had directed Matt Helm movies.

TREMORS

(MGM, 1989) D: Ron Underwood
S/P: S. S. Wilson, Brent Maddock

It's like an updated 50s sci-fi movie, like maybe, Attack of the Killer Shrew, set in the desert and with a light tone. Four giant worms (similar to the ones in Dune) attack characters in a diner. Kevin Bacon and Fred Ward star as handymen with singer Reba McEntire (in her acting debut) and Michael Gross as survivalists, Finn Carter, Victor Wong, Charlotte Stewart, Bobby Jacoby, and Bibi Besch. The San Francisco opening was canceled because of the title and the recent earthquake. Gale Anne Hurd was executive producer of the PG-13 feature. Tremors 2 (MCA, 1996) went direct to video.

TRESPASS

(MCA, 1992) D: Walter Hill S: Bob Gale, Robert Zemeckis P: Neil Canton

Bill Paxton and William Sadler are Arkansas firemen who go to an abandoned East St. Louis factory to search for a buried stash of gold. They witness a black gangland killing and become marked men, having to fight against ghetto crime lords played by rappers-turned-actors Ice-T and Ice Cube. The action hit copies parts of Treasure of the Sierra Madre. A character called Video constantly tapes the action. With Bruce A. Young, Tiny Lester, Art Evans, and Stoney Jackson. Sire released two soundtrack albums, one by Ry Cooder and one by various rap artists. It was filmed in Atlanta and Memphis. The Universal release was to be called Looters, but the name was changed (and the release delayed) because of the 1992 LA riots.

THE TRIAL

(Orion, 1992) D: David Jones
S: Harold Pinter P: Louis Marks UK

This BBC production, filmed in Prague, is based on Kafka's frightening 1913 novel set in the Austro-Hungarian Empire. It was produced after the movie Kafka. Kyle MacLachlan stars as Joseph K. with Jason Robards as the Lawyer, Alfred Molina, Jean Stapleton, Juliet Stevenson, Polly Walker, and Anthony Hopkins as the Priest. Anthony Perkins had starred in Orson Welles's 1961 version.

THE TRIAL OF BILLY JACK

(1974) D/S/A: Tom Laughlin P: Joe Cramer

Delores Taylor narrates this very 70s tale of the Freedom School massacre from her hospital bed. The Freedom School has its own TV station and helicopters, but a government conspiracy leads to occupation by the National Guard. Billy Jack (Tom Laughlin) has Nam flashbacks inside of his wife's flashbacks. Out of jail after five years, he has a spiritual drug trip with Indians in the desert and has important visions. Master Bong Soo Han helps Billy battle rednecks with Hapkido fighting. The movie includes references to Kent State and actual Indian land swindle cases. A kid plays guitar with his hook hand. With Teresa Laughlin, Teda Bracci (Centerfold Girls), Sacheen Littlefeather, William Wellman Jr., Diane Webber (from Playboy), and Cathy Cronkite (Walter's daughter). The Elmer Bernstein soundtrack was on ABC. Credited director Frank Laughlin was the star's 19-year-old son. The sequel (which started out as an AIP feature) was a hit during a saturation release by U.A. Billy Jack Goes to Washington was the fourth and last Billy Jack movie.

Ice Cube and Ice-T in Trespass.

TRICK BABY

(1973) D/S: Larry Yust P: Marshall Backlar (Double Con)

Kiel Martin (later on Hill Street Blues) stars as "White Folks," a con man in Philadelphia who has gangsters and cops after him in a story based on a novel by Iceberg Slim. Mel Stewart (another familiar TV actor) is his partner. With Love Boat regular Ted Lange as a pimp. Yust also directed Homebodies (1974).

TRICK OR TREAT

(Lorimar, 1986) D/A: Charles Martin Smith S/P: Michael S. Murphy, Joel Soisson S: Rhet Topham

Marc Price (Killer Tomatoes Eat France) is a nerd teen who uses satanic messages found on a record and conjures up the mangled ghost of a dead Kiss-type heavy metal rock star (Tony Fields) who kills with electricity. The comic teen horror movie from DEG features Lisa Orgolini, Gene Simmons as Nuke, Ozzy Osbourne as a reverend, and Smith, the first-time director, as a teacher. "Lunch of the Dead" is playing at a movie theater. The music by Fast Eddie Clarke and Fastway was released on Columbia.

TRICK OR TREATS

(Vestron, 1982) D/S/P/C/E: Gary Graver

On Halloween somebody (Peter Jason) is killing people in a house. Star Jackelyn Giroux is the babysitter whose husband had been committed. Chris Graver (the director's son) is the trick-playing son of Carrie Snodgress. Also with Paul Bartel as a wino, John Blythe Barrymore, Jillian Kessner, and surprise bits by David Carradine as a boyfriend and Steve Railsback. Orson Welles, for whom Graver had worked as a cinematographer, is listed as a consultant.

TRINITY IS STILL MY NAME!

(New Pacific, 1971) D/S: "E. B. Clucher"/ Enzo Barboni P: Italo Zingarelli Italy (Continuavano A Chiamarlo Trinità)

Terence Hill and Bud Spencer return in the sequel to They Call Me Trinity. The backwoods brothers become good guy bandits, fight gunrunners, and save a monastery's fortune. With Harry Carey Jr. and Jessica Dublin as Pa and Ma and Yanni Somer. The slapstick western was rated G when released by Embassy.

TRINITY: GOOD GUYS, BAD GUYS: See SUPERFUZZ

TRIPODS

(Sony, 1984–85) D: Graham Theakston, Christopher Barry P: Richard Bates UK

Aliens take over, people are controlled by metal caps, and a teen underground emerges. 25 half-hour episodes, based on books by John Christopher, were filmed by the BBC, but a planned third season never happened. Episodes were shown on PBS.

TRIPWIRE

(RCA, 1988) D: James Lemmo S: B. J. Goldman P: Lisa M. Hansen

When the son of a terrorist (David Warner) is killed, he kills the wife (Meg Foster) and kidnaps the son of an FBI man (star Terence Knox). Isabella Hoffmann helps Knox. With Charlotte Lewis, Sy Richardson, Yaphet Kotto, and Tommy Chong. The first-time director had been a cinematographer for movies by William Lustig and Abel Ferrara. From New Line.

TRIP WITH THE TEACHER

(1974) D/S/P: Earl Barton

Two psycho biker brothers (Zalman King and Robert Porter) discover a small group of female students and their teacher (Brenda Fogerty) in a broken-down bus in the desert, then terrorize them at an abandoned shack. King's acting is totally out of control as he rants, snickers, kills, whips, and rapes. The females are pretty slow about the escape possibilities and a nice guy who had been with the brothers eventually arrives for a (violent) rescue. King later gained fame and fortune producing and directing erotic movies and cable TV shows. The drive-in movie is from Crown International.

Zalman King stars in Trip with the Teacher.

TRISTANA

(Hens Tooth, 1970) D/S: Luis Buñuel S: Julio Alejandro France/Italy/Spain

Catherine Deneuve stars as a woman in 1929 who goes to live with her guardian Don Lupe (Fernando Rey). She falls for an artist (Franco Nero), loses her leg, and eventually returns to the aging Don, who has found religion. It was filmed in Toledo, Spain, and received a PG rating. Deneuve had also been in Buñuel's Belle du Jour (1967).

TRIUMPH OF SHERLOCK HOLMES

(Foothill, 1935) D: Leslie S. Hiscott S: H. Fowler Mear, Cyril Twyford P: Julius Hagan UK

Arthur Wontner stars in the fourth (and reportedly, the most faithful and best) of his five Sherlock Holmes films, based on the novel The Valley of Fear. Ian Fleming is Dr. Watson and Lyn Harding is Professor Moriarty. Harding also played Moriarty in the last of the series, Silver Blaze/Murder at the Baskervilles (1937).

TRIUMPHS OF A MAN CALLED HORSE

(1984) D: John Hough S: Ken Blackwell, Carlos Aured P: Derek Gibson US/Mexico

Michael Beck stars as the half-breed son of the Richard Harris character from A Man Called Horse and Return of a Man Called Horse. He has to save his people from prospectors. The too-late PG-rated sequel features Anne Seymour, Buck Taylor, and an appearance by Harris.

TROLL

(Vestron, 1986) D: John Carl Buechler S: Ed Naha P: Albert Band

Michael Moriarty and his wife (Shelley Hack) move into an old SF apartment building with doors to other dimensions, and their daughter is possessed by a troll (dwarf actor Phil Fondacaro). The ridiculous fantasy comedy also features Sonny Bono (he mutates into a tree), June Lockhart (a good witch), and her daughter Anne Lockhart, plus Gary Sandy, Brad Hall, and Julia Louis-Dreyfuss (from Saturday Night Live and Seinfeld). It was a low point for the career of Moriarty, but he gets to lip-synch to a Blue Cheer record. Buechler also did FX. The Empire feature was made in Italy. The Richard Band soundtrack is on Enigma.

TROLL 2

(Columbia, 1987) D/S: "Drago Floyd"/ Aristide Massaccesi Italy

Troll was terrible, but at least it had a fun cast. This "sequel" shot in Utah is stupid, laughable, and has some of the worst acting ever. With cannibal goblins (midgets in rubber masks), irritating teens, a dead grandfather, and an anti-meat sermon. It stars a kid, who at one point pisses on the dinner table to stop his family from eating green food. George Hardy, who plays the father, was a local dentist making his acting debut. The costumes are by Laura Gemser. Troll III was released as Crawlers.

TROMA'S WAR

(Troma, 1988) D/S/P: Lloyd Kaufman D/P: Michael Herz S: Mitchell Dana, Eric Hattler, Thomas Martinek (War)

Tourists on a Caribbean island stop a terrorist invasion of America. The terrorists plan to infect Americans with AIDS. This headache-inducing mess features exhausting action, bad taste gags, and some twisted political humor. Available in R or a ten-minute-longer unrated versions.

TRON

(Disney, 1982) D/S: Steven Lisberger P: Donald Kushner M: Wendy Carlos

Jeff Bridges is a video game designer who is transported into his own game. The ahead-of-its-time first feature-length computer-animated movie was a technical breakthrough at the time and was shot in 65 mm. The G-rated plot is your basic good vs. evil (David Warner). He, Bruce Boxleitner, Cindy Morgan, and Barnard Hughes all play two roles. Also with Dan Shor.

TROPICAL HEAT

(Prism, 1993) D: Jag Mundhra
S: Michael W. Potts P/E: Ashok Amritraj

Rick Rossovich, working for an American insurance company, goes to India to investigate the death of a millionaire maharajah who was stomped by an elephant. Three woman are featured in sex scenes with the "hero." I saw the unrated version, but there's also an R. Maryam D'Abo is the "American" widow (sex in a river) and Lee Anne Beaman is a fake blonde (sex in and around a pool). Asha Siewkumar, a dark-skinned young Indian woman, has the best sex scenes (and body) in the movie. This is a pretty subversive movie by the Indian-born filmmakers, who usually made their features (Night Eyes, Last Call . . .) in America. Parts are laughable (D'Abo's acting), but the Indian locations and buildings are beautiful and I don't mind revealing that the western women turn out to be lesbian killers and that elephants (!) save the day!

TROPICAL SNOW

(Paramount, 1986) D/S: Ciro Duran P: J. D. Leof

Madeleine Stowe (early in her acting career) and Nick Corri star as a Colombian couple who want to go to New York. Oskar the drug lord (David Carradine) offers them passage but forces them to swallow and transport cocaine packets. The fairly depressing movie features nudity. It was filmed in Colombia.

TROUBLE BOUND

(Fox, 1992) D: Jeff Reiner S: Darrell Fetty, Francis Delia P: Tom Kuhn, Fred Weintraub

In a comic Southern road-chase crime movie, Michael Madsen is an ex-con who doesn't know he has a body in his trunk of the Cadillac he won in a card game. He picks up Patricia Arquette, the lying granddaughter of a mobster. With Seymour Cassell as a mobster, Florence Stanley as an old lady gang leader, and Ginger Lynn Allen (on TV). Parts are like Detour. By the director of Blood and Concrete.

Keith Carradine in Trouble in Mind.

TROUBLE IN MIND

(Charter, 1985) D/S: Alan Rudolph
P: Carolyn Pfeiffer, David Blocker

In the near future an ex-detective (Kris Kristofferson) is released from prison after killing a mobster. Genevieve Bujold is his former lover running a diner. Keith Carradine is a crook living in a trailer with Lori Singer, and Divine (very good as a man for a change) is a gangster. Carradine's character gets stranger and stranger in this very strange movie filmed in Seattle. With Joe Morton, George Kirby, and John Considine. Marianne Faithfull sings the title song. Bujold was also in Choose Me (1984) and The Moderns (1988) by Rudolph.

TROUBLE IN THE SKY

(1960) D: Charles Frend S: Robert Westerly
P: Aubry Baring UK (Cone of Silence)

A military captain (Michael Craig) tries to help clear the name of a pilot (Bernard Lee) whose jet had gone down in India. With Peter Cushing as Captain Judd, George Sanders, Elizabeth Seal, Andre Morell, and Gordon Jackson. Universal released a cut version of the b/w British Lion feature here.

TROUBLE MAN

(1972) D: Ivan Dixon S: John D. F. Black P: Joel D. Freeman

The producer and screenwriter of Shaft did the same duties for this private eye movie, the first directed by actor Dixon, a former Hogan's Heroes regular. Many have called it the worst "blaxploitation" movie, but obviously those critics missed a lot of the others. Robert Hooks stars as "Mr. T." Gangster Chalky Price (Paul Winfield) frames him for a murder. With Ralph Waite as Chalky's white partner, Paula Kelly, William Smith as a police captain, Julius W. Harris, Tracy Reed, and real pool player James Earl "Texas Blood" Brown. It includes one of those Lady from Shanghai house of mirrors shootouts. The music by Marvin Gaye was on a Tamla LP. From 20th Century. Dixon directed The Spook Who Sat By The Door (1973) next.

THE TROUBLE WITH HARRY

(MCA, 1955) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock
S: John Michael Hayes

Various characters think they killed a man in beautiful rural Vermont and try to hide the body. The Technicolor Vistavision black comedy is one of Hitchcock's lesser-known gems. His unique dark sense of humor didn't appeal to many Americans in the 50s, but Harry is similar to some of Hitchcock's TV programs. It's based on a story by John Trevor. Shirley MacLaine made her film debut as the wife of Harry. John Forsythe costars with Edmund Gwenn, Mildred Natwick, and Royal Dano. Jerry Mathers finds the dead Harry in the woods.

The music is by Bernard Herrmann (his first score for the director). Hitchcock walks by an outdoor art exhibition. From Paramount. Hitch did his remake of The Man Who Knew Too Much (1956) next. Both were re-released to theaters in 1984.

TRUCK STOP WOMEN

(Bingo, 1974) D/S/P: Mark Lester S: Paul Deason

Anna (Lieux Dressler) runs a truck stop whorehouse in New Mexico. Her daughter Rose (Claudia Jennings) drives an 18-wheeler. When the Mafia tries to take over their racket they fight back and rob trucks. Plenty of violence and nudity plus a shocking ending helped make this a drive-in favorite. With Uschi Digart. Lester had previously directed the underground Tricia's Wedding (featuring the Cockettes) and Steel Arena (1973). Truckstop Women 2 (VGB) was a retitled unrelated movie.

TRUCK TURNER

(Orion, 1974) D: Jonathan Kaplan S: S: Leigh Chapman P: Fred Weintraub, Paul Heller (Black Bullet)

Isaac Hayes stars as a violent bounty hunter who goes after pimps and pushers in an AIP hit. He also provided the score, released on Enterprise as a double album. Truck Turner includes a pimp funeral and a big hospital shootout massacre. Alan Weeks is Truck's partner and Annazette Chase is his shoplifter girlfriend. Nichelle Nichols from Star Trek (in her only 70s feature) is a mean, foulmouthed whorehouse madam. With Yaphet Kotto as a gangster, Scatman Crothers, Dick Miller, Matthew "Stymie" Beard, Annik Borel, and Don Megowan.

TRUE BLOOD

(Fries, 1989) D/S: Frank Kerr P: Peter Maris

Jeff Fahey and Chad Lowe star as the Trueblood brothers in NYC. Fahey returns from years of Marine service to find his brother involved with a gang led by Spider (Billy Drago), a scarred, cop-killing gangster with a switchblade and spider earrings. With Sherilyn Fenn, and James Tolkan and Ken Foree as cops after Fahey, who had been falsely accused of killing a cop.

TRUE LIES

(Fox, 1994) D/S/P: James Cameron P: Stephanie Austin M: Brad Feidel

Arnold Schwarzenegger stars as Harry Tasker, a married computer salesman dad who moonlights as a spy chasing nuclear terrorists. Cameron and Schwarzenegger both had to try and top their previous features, so this action hit is bigger and dumber than any of them, and cost a record $120 million. It copies a lot from Bond movies but is a loose remake of French action comedy La Totale! (1991). In order to top Terminator 2, it features another Cameron nuke blast (in the Florida Keys), but this time it's treated as a harmless joke. Some of the FX are incredible. Jamie Lee Curtis costars as his unsuspecting wife, who eventually joins in the mayhem, and Tom Arnold is his (funny) spy partner. With Bill Paxton as a conman car salesman, Tia Carrere as a sexy villainess, Art Malik as the main Arab terrorist (with four nuclear weapons), Eliza Dushku as the daughter, and Charlton Heston. The 20th Fox release runs 141 minutes. Letterboxed laser discs are available (of course). I wonder how James and Arnold will top this one?

TRUE ROMANCE

(Warner, 1993) D: Tony Scott S: Quentin Tarantino P: Bill Unger

A call girl who calls herself Alabama (Patricia Arquette) marries Clarence (Christian Slater), a Detroit comic book store clerk. He becomes a heroic killer holding a stash of coke and they drive to LA in a purple Cadillac. It's based on Tarantino's first script and in many ways is the ultimate film/comic book nerd fantasy movie. It's filled with memorable characters, surprising violence, and some good laughs. One great scene stars Dennis Hopper as the ex-cop father and Christopher Walken as a mobster. Gary Oldman is a scary pimp with dreadlocks, Brad Pitt is a guy who is always happily stoned, and Val Kilmer (his face obscured) is the helpful ghost of Elvis. With Saul Rubinek, Michael Rapaport, Bronson Pinchot, Christopher Penn, Tom Sizemore, and Samuel L. Jackson. Sonny Chiba and John Woo movie scenes are also used. It was originally to be a small movie directed by William Lustig. The Warner release is available in 121 minute unrated versions, an R version (two minutes shorter) and on a widescreen disc. Jackson and Walken were also in Tarantino's Pulp Fiction and Penn was in his Reservoir Dogs.

TRULY, MADLY, DEEPLY

(Thorn EMI, 1991) D/S: Anthony Minghella P: Robert Cooper UK

Juliet Stevenson (Drowning by Numbers) is the grieving lover of Alan Rickman, whose ghost returns in the romantic ghost story. It was released by the Samuel Goldwyn Co.

TRUNK TO CAIRO

(1966) D/P: Menahem Golan S: Marc Behm, Alexander Ramati Israel/W. Germany

American WWII hero Audie Murphy stars as an Israeli agent in Cairo. He falls for the daughter (Marianne Koch) of a German scientist (George Sanders) who has developed a nuclear-powered moon rocket. It was filmed in Italy and Israel. The first Golan-directed feature to play in America was released by AIP.

TRUST

(Republic, 1990) D/S/P: Hal Hartley

In Hartley's second Long Island movie, Adrienne Shelly is Maria, a pregnant high school dropout who meets an anti-social mechanical genius (Martin Donovan) who carries hand grenades, insults and punches out people, and hates TV sets. Her mother (who blames Maria for her father's death) kicks her out, and there's a fight in an abortion clinic. Believe it or not, this movie, which is played very seriously, is funny. Hartley's Surviving Desire (1991), also with Donovan, Simple Men (1992), and Amateur (1995) followed.

THE TRUST

(1993) D: Neil Havers D/S: J. Douglas Killgore P: Gary Chasen

This turn-of-the-century mystery is about the murder of (the real) Texas philanthropist William Marsh Rice. Sam Bottoms is the man's attorney and Karen Black is a widow. The 2-hour-long indy feature is based on a play by Killgore (an industrial filmaker) and was filmed in Houston.

TRUST ME

(Virgin, 1989) D/S: Bobby Houston S: Gary Rigdon P: George Edwards

In an artworld satire by a star of The Hills Have Eyes, Adam Ant is a British gallery owner who has clients killed to raise prices ("Dead means bread"). He tries to kill off young artist David Packer. With Talia Balsam and her real-life mother, Joyce Van Patten, and Barbara Bain. Real art by Andy Warhol, Jean-Michel Basquiat, and Keith Haring (who all died shortly after this movie was released) is seen.

TRUTH OR DARE?

(Peerless, 1986) D/S/P: Tim Ritter

Here's one to make you think you've lost your mind. Who makes these senseless things, and who puts up the money!?! A guy finds his wife cheating on him and hides in the woods. A red-haired woman (the devil?) appears and dares him to cut his finger off, then rip his chest open. He does, she rips her eyes out, then disappears. He ends up in the nuthouse where he continues to play "truth or dare" with other inmates. One guy puts a hand grenade in his mouth and pulls the pin out. After more (imagined?) mutilation, he gets out, puts on a gold metal mask, runs over a baby, and kills a kid with a chainsaw. A seemingly retarded cop tries to catch him. At one point the tape becomes a comedy (at least that's what I think). With Mary Fanaro. Some of the fast editing is really good, but the theme song ballad ("Critical Madness") is the worst. It was shot (in 16mm) in Palm Beach. Madonna copied the title! Wicked Games (1993) was Ritter's mail-order-only sequel.

THE TRYGON FACTOR

(1966) D: Cyril Frankel S: Derry Quinn, Stanley Munro P: Brian Taylor UK/W. Germany

Cathleen Nesbitt and her daughter (Susan Hampshire) operate a crime syndicate from a mansion where (fake) nuns live. Star Stewart Granger is Inspector Smith. With Sophie Hardy, Eddi Arent, Robert Morley, James Robertson Justice, and Terry-Thomas. The Edgar Wallace mystery was filmed in two versions (English and German). Warner released it in America.

TRYST

(Suma, 1994) D/S: Peter Foldy
P: Lawrence Applebaum, Jackelyn Giroux

The formerly-lost son (star Johnny La Spada) of a maid (Louise Fletcher) shows up and ends up moving in with the rich dysfunctional couple she works for. He also has an affair with the lady of the house (Barbara Carrera) who plans to have her corrupt detective lover (Steve Bond) kill her cold husband (David Warner, who spends most of the movie in a coma). There's also a jealous girlfriend (Jamie Luner) staying at a motel run by a voyeur photographer Desert Storm vet. It's your basic direct-to-video erotic film noir attempt. The sex scenes all seem to be cut (it's rated R), and it's way too long at 101 minutes.

TRY THIS ON FOR SIZE

(1989) D/S: Guy Hamilton S/P: Sergio Gobbi S: Alec Medieff France

Michael Brandon stars as a James Bond–like insurance investigator, and David Carradine is the villain who steals a rare Russian icon. With Guy Marchand as a French cop and Arielle Dombasle. It was based on James Hadley Chase's novel and was part of a planned series.

TUFF TURF

(Starmaker, 1985) D: Fritz Kiersch
S: "Jette Rinck" P: Donald P. Borchers

James Spader is the new kid in a rough LA neighborhood and Paul Mones is the local gang leader. It's an awkward mix of violence and dancing. With Robert Downey Jr., Kim Richards, Matt Clark, Olivia Barash, Lene Lovich, and Catya Sassoon. Southside Johnny and Jim Carroll are on the soundtrack of the New World release.

TUNNELVISION

(MPI, 1976) D: Brad Swirnoff D/S: Neal Israel S: Michael Mislove P: Joe Roth

A Congressional hearing on television is the framing device for a series of TV show and commercial spoofs. This comedy features many familiar faces (and voices). With Phil Proctor, Howard Hesseman, Chevy Chase (also in The Groove Tube), Laraine Newman, Franken and Davis, Ernie Anderson and his wife Edwina, Betty Thomas, Gerrit Graham, Ron Silver, Joe Flaherty, and William Schallert. Israel made Americathon next.

THE TURN OF THE SCREW

(Cannon, 1989) D: Graeme Clifford S: Robert Hutchinson, James Miller P: Bridget Terry

Amy Irving stars and narrates another version of Henry James's ghost novel. David Hemmings costars with Bathazar Getty. It was one of the 60-minute Shelley Duvall Nightmare Classics. Lynn Redgrave starred in a 1974 TV version (released by Thriller Video). Forget both and search for the great version, The Innocents (1961).

THE TURN OF THE SCREW

(Live, 1992) D/S: Rusty Lemorande
P: Staffan Ahrenberg, Nicole Sequin
UK/France/Luxembourg

Patsy Kensit stars as Jenny the new governess in this version of the Henry James novel, set (for some reason) in the mid-60s. Stephane Audran costars, and Julian Sands (in a small role) is the guardian. Too much narration (by Kensit and Marianne Faithfull), too many false scares, dream sequences, and nightmares help ruin the story. Faithfull is seen in a b/w intro and a there's a nice (Road Warrior–inspired!) ending. It was filmed on a gorgeous estate in Surrey and has Simon Boswell music.

THE TURN ON

(New Horizons, 1985/93) D: Steve Barnett
D/S: Jean Louis Richard P: Milo Manera
France (Le Delic; Click)

A researcher in New Orleans discovers a remote device that controls sexual behavior. His chauffeur (Jean-Pierre Kalfon) steals the device and uses it on a young woman (Florence Guerin) who had rejected him. She strips in public places and offers herself to strangers. It's based on erotic French adult comics by Milo Manera that are very popular in Europe. Guerin looks great, but while the comics are clever erotic fantasies, the movie concentrates on awkward embarrassment. Roger Corman hired Steve Barnett to Americanize this and shoot new scenes of women stripping in public and some comedy (he did the same with Emmanuelle 5). A beach sex scene was also cut. The new scenes feature Maria Ford, Debra Lamb, Toni Naples, and George "Buck" Flower. Video Search of Miami offers the original with subtitles.

TURN ON TO LOVE

(1969) D/C/E: John Avildsen P: Leonard Kirkman

Sharon Kent (also in several Doris Wishman movies) is a bored housewife who goes to the East Village for pot orgies and has an affair with a married Italian filmmaker. Avildsen followed this b/w drama, from a porn producer, with Guess What We Learned in School Today? (1970).

TURN ON, TUNE IN, DROP OUT

(1967) D: Robin Clark P: Henry G. Saperstein

Timothy Leary is seen lecturing on stage in New York, Indian music is heard, and there's an animated LSD segment. The Mercury soundtrack album includes dialogue. Producer Saperstein also imported some Toho giant monster movies and backed Woody Allen's What's Up Tiger Lily? Leary's only other 60s film appearance was in Diaries, Notes and Sketches (1969) by Jonas Mekas.

TUSK

(VSOM, 1980) D/S: Alexandro Jodorowsky
S: Nick Niciphor, Jeffrey O'Kelly France

A little girl and an elephant are born at the same time in turn-of-the-century India. She (Cyrielle Clair) grows up, developes a psychic link with "Tusk," and is kidnapped by bad guys. With Anton Diffring as her father and Christopher Mitchum. The barely released 119-minute feature, based on a novel, was filmed in English. It was the last feature by Jodorowsky until Santa Sangre (1989), which also features elephants.

TUSKS

(Magnum, 1985) D/S: Tara Moore
S/A: John Rhys-Davies P: Keith C. Jones

Lucy Gutteridge stars as an artist in Africa. She and Julian Glover look into the illegal poaching of elephants. With John Rhys-Davies as the villain, Andrew Stevens, and James Coburn Jr. Simon Nuchtern was a film doctor for this feature, which took five years to release. It was filmed in Zimbabwe.

TV'S GREATEST ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN

(Warner series, 1951–57)

George Reeves (who either shot himself or was killed in 1959) is faster than a bullet in these all-time-favorite early TV episodes. Phyllis Kirk was Lois Lane (also in Superman and the Mole Men) for the first episodes (made in 1951) but was replaced by Noel Neill. The other regulars are Jack Larson as Jimmy Olson, John Hamilton as Perry White ("Great Caesar's Ghost!"), and Robert Shayne as Inspector Henderson. These shows have been and will continue to be repeated over and over on TV. The very-low-budget production values and fun guest villains make them irresistible even though they were aimed at young kids. Tapes each containing 2 episodes of the famous syndicated series run 52 minutes each. B/W episodes are sometimes paired with color ones (which were very unusual for the 50s). Many were directed by Thomas Carr, who had codirected The Adventures of Superman serial in 1948.

12:01

(New Line, 1993) D: Jack Sholder S: Philip Morton P: Robert J. Degus, Cindy Hoftnickle

I like movies where characters bounce back and forth in time. This was based on a student film (by Morton) which itself was copied by Groundhog Day. Jonathan Silverman stars as an office worker at the Utrel Corp. who is trapped repeating the same work day over and over and trying to save the life of a scientist (Helen Slater) and win her love. Anyone who has worked in an office will appreciate the funny scenes of the hero playing around with the fact that he knows exactly what everyone there is going to say and do. With Martin Landau and Jeremy Piven (from The Larry Sanders Show). The PG-13 release, based on a story by Richard A. Lupoff, debuted on cable.

12+1

(1970) D/S: Nicholas Gessner P: Claude Giroux Italy (Una Su Tredici; The Thirteen Chairs)

This is the same story as Mel Brooks's The Twelve Chairs from the same year (both are based on a Russian novel). Sharon Tate (in her last role) is top-billed with Orson Welles as a theater manager busy presenting Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Vittorio DeSica, and Terry-Thomas. Tate and Vittorio Gassman hunt for the 12 chairs, after discovering a fortune is in one of them.

24 HOUR LOVER

(1968) D/S: Marran Gosov P: Rob Houwer W. Germany (Crunch; Bengelchen Liebt Kreuz Und Quer)

A Munich wine salesman is a bachelor who fools around and upsets his family. Harold Leipnitz stars with Brigitte Skay. AIP released the R-rated comedy.

25×5: THE CONTINUING ADVENTURES OF THE ROLLING STONES

(GMV, 1990) D: Nigel Finch P: Andrew Solt

You're probably sick of hearing about the Rolling Stones. Maybe you wish they had broken up years ago. If you ever loved this band, though, don't miss this 2-hours-plus chronological documentary tape with interviews (new and old, with lots of choice quotes), news clips, and TV and concert footage. It covers the hits, the hype, the censorship, deaths and drugs, marriages and the Maharishi. There's enough great material here from the Brian Jones, London/Decca days to make it worthwhile. Don't expect many whole songs, but unless you're a fanatic collector, you've never seen many of these rare clips, going back to 1964. Early highlights are Brian playing slide guitar on "Little Red Rooster," a real rock riot in The Hague, and Brian introducing Howlin' Wolf on Shindig. There's part of the amazing "2000 Light Years from Home" video, but unfortunately, the music from their underappreciated "psychedelic" period gets passed over too quickly.

Things get spotty after Exile on Main St., but the arena years go by faster and are still fascinating to look back on. They do embarrassments like "Angie" and "Star Star" (a.k.a. "StarFucker") but also play "I'm a Man" with Muddy Waters, and Keith sings "Happy." The Stones doing the entire "You Can't Always Get What You Want" on the never-aired Rock and Roll Circus TV special, Jagger doing "Memo from Turner" from Performance, and gray-haired Charlie Watts talking are still more reasons to see this tape. By the way, "Stew and Brian formed the band," says Bill Wyman in an old interview. The Stones' theatrical releases were Gimme Shelter (1969), the never officially released Cocksucker Blues (1972), Ladies and Gentlemen, The Rolling Stones (1974), Let's Spend the Night Together (1982), and Rolling Stones at the Max (1992).

20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA

(1916) D/S: Stuart Paton P: Carl Laemmle

The plot of this Universal silent is partially based on Jules Verne's The Mysterious Island. Union Army men drift in a balloon to an island (just like in the well-known 1960 version). The dark Captain Nemo (Allen Holubar) has flashbacks of battles when he was an Indian rajah and there's a "Nature Girl" (June Gail) who wears a leopard skin and sleeps in a tree. Scenes were shot in the Bahamas. J. Ernest Williamson and his brother George, who handled the underwater FX, also worked on the 1929 Mysterious Island. Prints run 105 minutes. It's been shown on the Sci-Fi Channel with new titles and music.

2020 TEXAS GLADIATORS

(Media, 1982) D: "Kevin Mancusco"/Aristede Massaccessi S: Alex Carver P: Helen Handris Italy

Neo-nazis and bikers kill and rape in a Mad Max–style post-nuke western with nuns, cowboys, and Indians. The civilized Al Cliver is killed and his wife (Sabrina Siani) is saved from the bad guys by a trio of good guys (Harrison Muller, Peter Hooten, and Al Yamanouchi). A Sarlui production.

William Shatner and Pat Breslin on The Twilight Zone.

TWICE BITTEN = VAMPIRE HOOKERS

TWICE DEAD

(Nelson, 1988) D/S: Bert Dragin
S/P: Robert McDonnell P: Guy J. Louthan

A poor family moves into a run-down haunted LA mansion, the parents leave, and the kids fight off a punk gang. They try to scare them with homemade horror FX, then the real ghost of an actor (Jonathan Chapin) helps, causing deaths by various ways. Tom Breznahan and Jill Whitlow are the kid stars. With Brooke Bundy, Charlie Spradling, and Todd Bridges (the Diff'rent Strokes star who was arrested for attempted murder). From Concorde.

TWILIGHT OF THE COCKROACHES

(Streamline, 1987) D/S/P: Hiroki Yashida
P: Carl Macek (English version) Japan

Live action is mixed with cute animated insects. The action is seen from the roach POV. A very neat woman (Setsuko Karamsumarau) moves in with a man and the life of the roaches is threatened by cleaning and toxic sprays. There's also a talking turd and a post-nuke ending.

TWILIGHT'S LAST GLEAMING

(Fox, 1977) D: Robert Aldrich
S: Ronald M. Cohen P: Merv Adelseon

Burt Lancaster is an ex–Air Force general who with the help of a (largely black) renegade group takes over an ICBM silo and demands that America admit its secret Vietnam policies or the missiles will be launched. Richard Widmark costars with Melvyn Douglas, Gerald O'Loughlin, and Charles Durning (as the President). Also with Paul Winfield, Burt Young, Roscoe Lee Browne, Richard Jaeckel, Vera Miles, William Marshall, Leif Erickson, Charles McGraw, and William Smith. The Allied Artists/Lorimar release was too political and too long (146 minutes) for some, but is one of Aldrich's finest. It was partially shot in Bavaria. Jerry Goldsmith provided the score. I wonder if Robert McNamara saw this.

THE TWILIGHT ZONE

(CBS/Fox, 1959–64)

36 episodes of Rod Serling's classic series are available in 18 volumes running 50 minutes each. Titles were released four at a time. Some are thematic double bills. The double cassette Treasures from the Twilight Zone (Fox, 1992) includes "An Occurrence at Owl Creek Bridge," "The Encounter," "Where Is Everybody" (the premiere episode), plus three other episodes, a Rod Serling sales pitch short, and an interview. Twilight Zone: The Creative Vision (Vol. 1 and 2) are Fox 4 laser disc box sets with 15 episodes each plus an early 70s TV special with Serling talking about writing (on Vol. 1). The Best of the Twilight Zone CD (Varèse Sarabande) includes music by Bernard Herrmann and others. There was also a "new" Twilight Zone TV series (1985–89), but don't bother looking for those.

THE TWILIGHT ZONE: ROD SERLING'S LOST CLASSICS

(1994) D: Robert Markowitz S: Richard Matheson, Rod Serling P: S. Bryan Hickox

The title of this CBS TV feature is misleading. Two unfilmed scripts (not intended for The Twilight Zone) were discovered by Rod Serling's widow Carol and filmed. The half-hour short "The Theatre" with Amy Irving, Gary Cole, and Priscilla Pointer concerns hallucinations and real people replacing the actors on a movie screen. The 90-minute "Where Dead Is Dead" is more of a horror story set in the 19th century with Patrick Bergin as a surgeon visiting Jack Palance on an island. James Earl Jones hosts. It was made in North Carolina.

TWILIGHT ZONE—THE MOVIE

(Warner, 1983) D: Steven Spielberg, Joe Dante, George Miller D/S: John Landis S: George Clayton Johnson, Richard Matheson, Josh Ragan

Three old Twilight Zone episodes were remade plus a new story and wraparound segments. It's worth seeing for the Dante and Miller episodes, which are both great and improve on the originals. Spielberg did "Kick the Can," the "nice" one with Scatman Crothers. Dante did "It's a Good Life" with Jeremy Licht as Anthony, the kid who controls everthing around him, Kathleen Quinlan, Kevin McCarthy, William Schallert, Dick Miller, and Billy Mumy (who starred in the original episode). The fun FX are by Rob Bottin. Miller did "Nightmare at 20,000 Feet" starring John Lithgow, with Abbe Lane and Donna Dixon. Landis did the one not based on the TV show, a convoluted tale of racism partially set in Vietnam. Unfortunately, star Vic Morrow and two kid extras were killed in 1982 while acting in a scene with a helicopter. Landis was indicted for involuntary manslaughter on the day the movie was released. A trial started in 1986 and he was acquitted. The book Outrageous Conduct was about the case. The Jerry Goldsmith score is on Warner Bros. Dan Aykroyd and Albert Brooks are in the intro.

TWIN DRAGONS

(1991) D: Tsui Hark, Ringo Lam Hong Kong

Jackie Chan stars as twins in an action comedy that copies ideas from Double Impact. One grew up in America and is a wealthy concert pianist, the other is a street hoodlum. Both become involved in gangster trouble and end up fighting in a Mitsubishi plant. Maggie Chung costars with Nina Li and Teddy Robin Kwan. Since this was made to benefit the Hong Kong Directors Guild, directors Hark, Lam, John Woo, and others make cameo appearances.

TWIN PEAKS

(Warner, 1990) D/P: David Lynch S: Mark Frost P: David J. Latt C: Ron Garcia

When this unique ABC pilot spoof was aired, many viewers were mesmerized and looked forward to the series. Kyle MacLachlan stars as agent Dale Cooper investigating a brutal murder in the Pacific Northwest. The primetime soap opera murder mystery surprised viewers with the disturbing oppressive misery and corruption, the bizarre characters, plus comic and fantasy touches. Sheryl Lee is the murdered Laura Palmer (and later her own cousin) and Ray Wise is her father Leland. The cast includes Michael Ontkean, Joan Chen, Piper Laurie, Grace Zabriskie, Sherilyn Fenn, Lara Flynn Boyle, Dana Ashbrook, James Marshall, Madchen Amick, Richard Beymer, Everett McGill, Wendy Robie, Russ Tamblyn, Robert Davenport, Peggy Lipton, Kimmy Robertson, and Eric DaRe. Jack Nance and Catherine E. Coulson had both been in Lynch's Eraserhead. It was filmed in Snoqualmie, Washington, where tourists later visited. Warner Brothers released the soundtrack, with the voice of Julee Cruise and haunting music by Angelo Badalamenti. The video was released in Europe before it debuted on US TV and has 15 additional minutes at the end (featuring Bob). The American 1992 video release is a "director's cut."

TWIN PEAKS

(World Vision series 1990–92)

What started as probably the most extreme and surreal program ever on network TV eventually got too boring, meandering, silly, and confusing to care about. For a while obsessed viewers formed clubs and the show was the talk of the town, but several schedule changes and the fact that people wanted to know who the killer was caused the rating to drop. In addition to the many cast regulars from the pilot, the series featured a giant (Carel Struycken), a dwarf (Michael Anderson), Miguel Ferrer, Frank Silva, Michael Parks, Royal Dano, David Warner, Dan O'Herlihy, Billy Zane, and Lynch himself. Episode directors included Diane Keaton, Tina Rathbone, Tim Hunter, and Caleb Deschanel. The series was a hit in Japan in 1992. Twin Peaks: Special Collectors Edition is all 29 hour-long episodes on 6 tapes. Also on laser discs from Image.

TWIN PEAKS—FIRE WALK WITH ME

(New Line, 1992) D/S/A: David Lynch
S: Robert Engels P: Gregg Fienberg

It was a hit in Japan months before the US release, but the long (135 minutes) theatrical prequel to Lynch's TV series was a big flop here. It's very serious and weird with scenes that couldn't have been shown on network TV. In fact this is one of the strangest movies ever to receive a major release. Sheryl Lee stars as the depressed, coke-sniffing incest victim Laura Palmer during the last week of her life. She works in a sex club just over the Canadian border. Parts are related as flashbacks, nightmares, dreams, and visions, some characters need subtitles, and an angel appears. Moira Kelly (replacing TV series regular Lara Flynn Boyle) is her best friend Donna, and James Marshall is the good biker who loves her. Many of the TV regulars are missing but the cast includes Ray Wise as Leland, Laura's father, Grace Zabriskie as her mother, and Frank Silva as Bob. Kyle MacLachlan as agent Dale Cooper and Chris Isaak as another FBI agent show up, and Miguel Ferrer, Kiefer Sutherland, and David Bowie are other briefly seen agents. Also with Michael Anderson, Dana Ashbrook, Pamela Gidley, Jurgen Prochnow and cameos by Peggy Lipton, Madchen Amick, Julee Cruise, and Harry Dean Stanton. Cinematographer Ron Garcia is a veteran of exploitation and adults-only movies. The strange but excellent score is by Angelo Badalamenti.

TWINSANITY = GOODBYE GEMINI

TWIN SISTERS

(Vidmark, 1992) D/P: Tom Berry
S: David Preston P: Franco Battista

Stepfanie Kramer (from the Hunter series) stars as a Beverly Hills housewife who goes to Montreal to visit her twin sister, now a missing high-price hooker. She goes undercover as a hooker. With Frederic Forrest as a police detective, James Brolin, and Susan Almgren.

TWIST

(New Line, 1992) D/P: Ron Mann Canada

The Lindy Hop (1953), the Itch (1954), the Jitterbug (1955), the Bop (1956), the Stroll (1957), and the Madison (1959) are all seen as leading up to the "vulgar" international dance craze that Marshall McLuhan called "cool and unsexy." This entertaining historical documentary shows how the twist became big business and includes good interviews with Hank Ballard, Chubby Checker, and Joey Dee. It features excellent TV and movie clips of dancers on American Bandstand and The T.A.M.I. Show, The Flamingos (from Go, Johnny, Go) and Louis Prima and June Wilkinson (Twist All Night). Mann also made Comic Book Confidential.

TWISTED

(Hemdale, 1985) D: Adam Holender
S: Glenn Kershaw S/P: Bruce Graham

Christian Slater (who was on the Ryan's Hope soap opera at the time) stars as an evil kid in a feature made in Danbury, Connecticut. He kills kittens, burns a cat, dissects other animals, and has a secret sound system (like in Ferris Bueller's Day Off). He torments his babysitter (Lois Smith) with loud Nazi march music and Hitler speeches and even kills a local jock who had humiliated him. It's full of false scares and has a very stupid ending, but's it's interesting to see Slater as a psycho kid. It wasn't released until 1992. With Tandy Cronyn and Dina Merrill.

TWISTED FATE

(1994) D/S: Donald Jackson
S: Randall Frakes P: Eric Warren

Three women on vacation in a cabin are terrorized by a pair of psychos. It's seen through the lens of one of the women's video cameras. With Julie Nine, Nancy Jury, and Suzanne Solari (from Jackson's Rollerblade movies).

TWISTED ISSUES

(1988) D/S/A/C: Charles Pinion
S: Steve Antczak Hawk

Described as "a psycho-punk splatter comedy," this underground, self-distributed tape was made in Gainesville, Florida. The sort-of hero is a young nonviolent, short-haired skateboarder who doesn't smoke or drink. Violent drunk bad guys (and girls) start a fight with him, then run him over. A pot-smoking doctor brings him back to life as a mutant wearing a sieve on his mangled face. He drills through his foot and bolts on his skateboard. Meanwhile Charles watches TV. He sees the mutant skateboard monster killing people, scenes from movies (like Psych-Out), actual commercials and anti-drug spots, and some pretty funny new TV footage created for this tape. Other found footage edited in (like in Oliver Stone's Natural Born Killers) features H-bombs, Hitler, the Pope, Reagan, Thatcher, and a slaughterhouse. Lots of local bands (Doldrums, Hell Witch, Mutley Chix . . .) provide the soundtrack music, and one all-female band plays live at a crowded house party. My favorite song was "I'm Feelin' Very Ugly." Somebody gets an axe in the chest and a head is cut off with hedge clippers, but there was no effects budget so there's pretty cheap gore. I thought it was kind of slow and too long, but it's great to see an equal opportunity regional horror movie with punk sensibilities, and any readers who are into skateboards and punk groups would probably love it. Pinion later made Red Spirit Lake.

TWISTED JUSTICE

(Arena, 1990) D/S/P/A: David Heavener

Star David Heavener is renegade cop in LA 2020, where regular guns are outlawed and stinger tranquilizer guns are used. He battles a superpowerful "turbo-charged fruit loop" on drugs who kills women. The stellar support cast includes Erik Estrada, Tanya Roberts, Karen Black, Shannon Tweed, Jim Brown, Don Stroud as a psycho, James Van Patten, Julie Austin, and Bonnie Payne.

TWISTED NIGHTMARE

(TWE, 1982) D/S: Paul Hunt P: Sandy Horowitz

Teen couples who won a free camping trip are killed in the woods (built over an Indian burial ground) in this senseless and too dark Friday the 13th copy. A retarded guy who had been burned is the big growling creature. He slashes, decapitates, and mutilates in slow motion to rock music. Meanwhile four females have nude scenes, characters have dreams and flashbacks, and the guys all look like body builders. With Rhonda Gray and Robert Padilla. It was released in 1987.

TWISTER

(Vestron, 1989) D/S: Michael Almereyda
P: Wieland Schulz-Keil

The Cleveland family, led by a retired soda pop tycoon (Harry Dean Stanton), live in a mansion in Kansas. Suzy Amis and Crispin Glover are sister and brother and a tornado threatens. The strange comedy is based on the novel Oh! by Mary Robison. With Dylan McDermott, Jenny Wright, Lois Chiles, William Burroughs, and Tim Robbins. By the screenwriter of of Wim Wenders's Until the End of the World, who also made a Dennis Hopper short called A Hero in Our Time (1987) and Another Girl, Another Planet (1992) filmed with a Pixelvision camera. Not to be confused with the 1996 blockbuster starring Helen Hunt.

TWO EVIL EYES

(Fox, 1990) D/S/P: Dario Argento D/S: George A. Romero S: Franco Ferrini P: Achille Manzotti
Italy/US (Due Occhi Diabolici)

Originally planned to be four modernized Poe stories, this should have been either a trilogy or one complete Argento movie. It opens with Poe's actual house and tombstone. Adrienne Barbeau and E. G. Marshall are in The Facts in the Case of M. Valdemar directed by Romero. The story had previously been filmed by Roger Corman in his Tales of Terror trilogy. This version is pretty weak. Also with Tom Akins and Christina Romero. The second story is The Black Cat by Argento. It's one of Argento's best and benefits from having Harvey Keitel as Roderick Usher, a hard-drinking photographer who specializes in real-life horror photos. The Black Cat contains an effective nightmare sequence, some extreme gore, and lots of Poe in-jokes and references. With Madeleine Potter as his wife Annabel, John Amos as a cop, Martin Balsam, Kim Hunter, Sally Kirkland, and Tom Savini (who also did the FX). Luigi Cozzi was the second unit director of The Black Cat. The score is by Pino Donaggio. Both stories were filmed in Pittsburgh. The US theatrical version was cut to 95 minutes but the tape runs 115 minutes.

TWO FACES OF EVIL

(Thriller, 1980) D: Alan Gibson
S: Ronald Graham UK

Elvira hosts this hour-long Hammer TV episode with a plot about replacing a family on vacation with doubles. Anna Calder-Marshall and Gary Raymond star.

TWO GIRLS FOR A MADMAN

(SW, 1968) D/S: Stanley H. Brasloff S: Dustin Williams P/C: Victor Petrashevic

An aggressive young NYC ballet student named Toni goes on a date with a "producer." Frank (played by "Lucky Kargo") is a giggling, armed psycho killer/rapist who meets them at a folk music club and takes them to an orgy in the back room. Toni dances in her underwear, others smoke pot, strip, and wear creepy clear masks. Frank later attacks Toni (she likes it) in a car, then goes after her roomate Sonja (who has a shower scene). It all ends with a headline in the Daily News. With locker-room nudity and lines like "I've heard of all kinds of happenings in the past, but this is ridiculous." The b/w adult movie is from Distribpix.

TWO GUN LADY

(1956) D/P: Richard H. Bartlett S: Norman Jolley

Blonde Peggie Castle "had other weapons besides guns—and she used them!" She teams up with William Talman to fight Marie Windsor in this indy western. With Robert Lowry and Joe Besser (!). From Associated Film Releasing. Castle was also in Corman's Oklahoma Woman the same year.

200 MOTELS

(MGM/UA, 1971) D: Tony Palmer D/S/A: Frank Zappa P: Jerry Good, Herb Cohen UK

This was the first feature shot on video and transferred to film. I saw it when it was new and hated it, but it seems pretty interesting now. The Mothers of Invention are on the road in "Centerville, U.S.A.," which was created by Cal Schenkel. Concert footage is mixed with computer graphics, dental hygiene animation, and solarized footage. Mark Volman and Howard Kaylan appear with Theodore Bikel, Ringo Starr (as Zappa), Keith Moon (as a nun) and the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra. The U.A. album of the same name is not exactly the soundtrack to this U.A. release feature. The True Story of 200 Motels (MPI) is a Dutch TV program. Uncle Meat (MPI) is another Zappa tape not based on the album of the same name.

THE TWO JAKES

(Paramount, 1989) D/A: Jack Nicholson
S: Robert Towne P: Robert Evans, Harold Schneider

15 years after Chinatown, Nicholson finally got to make his sequel and like every other feature he directed it's pretty interesting but with a lot of problems. Years and (a reported $3.5 million!) were lost on developing the project before this was shot. Its release was held up by Paramount and it was a flop at the box office. The confusing plot takes place in postwar LA. Harvey Keitel is the other Jake and Meg Tilly is his wife. Some memorable parts take place in a gay bar, and there's an unlikly explosion scene that seems to have been copied in Die Hard II. With Madeleine Stowe, Eli Wallach, Ruben Blades, Frederic Forrest, David Keith, Richard Farnsworth, Tracey Walter, and Tom Waits. The only returning characters besides J. J. Gittes (Nicholson) are played by James Hong and Perry Lopez.

TWO LANE BLACKTOP

(VSOM, 1971) D/E: Monte Hellman S: Rudy Wurlitzer, Will Cory P: Michael S. Laughlin

"The Driver" (James Taylor) and "the Mechanic" (Beach Boys drummer Dennis Wilson) drive through the Southwest in their '55 Chevy and challenge GTO, an older drifter with a yellow Pontiac GTO, to a cross-country race. They also pick up "the Girl" (Laurie Bird). GTO (Warren Oates, the only real actor among the leads) says "If I'm not grounded pretty soon I'm gonna go into orbit." The existential road movie ends with the film getting stuck, breaking and burning. Also with Alan Vint, Rudy Wurlitzer, Jim Mitchum, and Harry Dean Stanton. Two Lane was backed by BBS (The Last Movie, Drive, He Said . . .) and Gary Kurtz was associate producer. Before Universal released it, the entire screenplay was published in Esquire, then it flopped badly at the box office and has been hard to see ever since. TV prints are censored. Wilson drowned and Bird died from a drug overdose (when she was engaged to Art Garfunkel).

TWO MINUTE WARNING

(MCA, 1976) D: Larry Peerce S: Edward Hume P: Edward S. Feldman

This is a great movie for football haters, and it would make a good double bill with Black Sunday (1977). A sniper is ready to start killing in the LA Memorial Coliseum during a game; meanwhile, a SWAT team is deployed and various characters (about to be killed) deal with their personal problems. Charlton Heston stars with John Cassavetes, Martin Balsam, Beau Bridges, David Janssen, Jack Klugman, Gena Rowlands, Walter Pidgeon, Brock Peters, Robert Ginty, Pamela Bellwood, Andy Sidaris as the TV director, and Merv Griffin singing the National Anthem. From Filmways. The network TV version has an additional 40 minutes of new footage that tried to explain/justify the assassin.

TWO MOON JUNCTION

(RCA/Columbia, 1988) D/S: Zalman King
P: Donald P. Borchers

Sherilyn Fenn is a wealthy engaged blonde Alabama girl who has an affair with a muscular carnival worker (Richard Tyson). Fenn has several major nude scenes and her character cries a lot. With Louise Fletcher as her grandma, Kristy McNichol as a bisexual, Burl Ives, Martin Hewitt, Millie Perkins, Milla Janovich, Screamin' Jay Hawkins, and Herve Villechaize. Fenn is the niece of Detroit rocker Suzi Quatro. Return to Two Moon Junction followed.

TWO OF A KIND

(Fox, 1983) D/S: John Herzfeld P: Roger M. Rothstein

The stars of Grease returned in this fantasy flop. John Travolta is Zack Mellon, a small-time bank robber, and Olivia Newton-John is the bank teller who ran off with the loot. They must perform great sacrifices for each other or God will flood the earth. Both sing (off camera). Four angels (Charles Durning, Beatrice Straight, Scatman Crothers, Castulo Guerra) picked them for the responsibility. With Ernie Hudson, Oliver Reed as Beazley (the devil), and Gene Hackman as the voice of God!

TWO ROSES AND A GOLDEN ROD

(SW, 1969) D/S: Albert Zugsmith
P: Hal Senter (Ménage à Trois)

A screenwriter (John Alderman) has a British actress wife (Lisa Grant) with short hair and an exhibitionist virgin stepdaughter. All three think out loud, he types, and some of his sex scenes are illustrated. We also see a comic story about an angel watching sin on earth. Meanwhile, the jealous wife invites her lesbian friend to move in for revenge. Most of the dialogue is pretty hateful, but lines like "For one so round, you're awful square" stand out. There's a lot of psychological agonizing plus nudity and sex. Zugsmith made more adult movies than most realize. The Outrageous Unbelievable Mechanical Love Machine and Violated! followed. Grant was also in Trader Hornee and Wilbur and the Baby Factory.

TWO SMALL BODIES

(1994) D/S: Beth B. S: Neal Bell

Fred Ward is a cop on a child abduction case and Suzy Amis is a divorced mother who works at a strip bar. Also with Viggo Mortensen. The feature, based on a play by Bell, was funded by German TV. B. also made Salvation.

2010

(MGM/UA, 1984) D/S/P/C: Peter Hyams

America and the USSR join together to recover a spaceship threatening to crash on Jupiter. The black monolith from 2001 is still a mystery and a global war threatens. Roy Scheider stars with John Lithgow, Helen Mirren, Madolyn Smith, and Bob Balaban. Keir Dullea (returning as Dave) claims "Something wonderful will happen," but most viewers diagreed when they saw this unwise PG sequel to Kubrick's 1968 classic, which was based on Arthur C. Clarke's novel.

2000 YEARS LATER

(1966) D/S/P: Bert Tenzer

Terry-Thomas and Edward Everett Horton host the "International Culture Hour" TV show. John Abbott is Gregorius, a mute ancient Roman sent to modern Hollywood. He's exploited by the comedy team on TV as they launch a Roman fad. With Pat Harrington, Monti Rock III, Casey Kasem, Rudi Gernreich, and Milton Parsons. The R-rated Warner fantasy comedy was shelved for three years.

TWO TICKETS TO PARIS

(1962) D: Greg Garrison S: Hal Hackady P: Harry Romm

On the way to Paris on a boat to sing, Joey Dee has problems when his fiancé (Kay Medford) flirts with another singer (Gary Crosby). All of them sing a lot in the forgotten Columbia musical twist comedy and Dee's Starlighters play. Some tunes are "Teenage Vamp," "The Lady Wants to Twist," and the unforgettable "Twistin' on a Liner."

TWO TO TANGO

(Virgin, 1988) D: Hector Olivera S: Yolande Finch, Jose Feinman P: Roger Corman US/Argentina

Don Stroud is a hitman who wants out of the business but falls for his next target, a dancer (Adrienne Sachs). There's a Nazi subplot. It's a remake of Last Days of the Victim (1982), which Olivera produced. A Concorde release.

UFO

(Today Home series, 1972–73) D: David Lane, Ken Turner P: Gerry and Sylvia Anderson UK

The Andersons had created great 60s science fiction puppet series like Thunderbirds and Captain Scarlet and the Mysterians. This was their first with live actors, but the actors are made to resemble and even act like marionettes! Bizarre to say the least. Ed Bishop stars as the alien fighting Commander Styker of SHADO. Jean Marsh guest-stars on one of the four episodes on two video volumes. The spaced-out couple's next project was Space: 1999.

UFO—EXCLUSIVE

(1978) D/P: Wheeler Dixon

A boring mixture of amateur home movies, NASA stock footage, stills, and narration. It's all designed to convince you that aliens are out there in spaceships. From Gold Key, a company that made countless 70s documentaries and features for TV syndication.

UFO JOURNALS

(1978) D/P: Richard Martin P: Herbert L. Strock

Here's more speculation in a documentary with NASA footage and stills. It was produced by the man who directed The Crawling Hand.

UFOria

(MCA, 1980) D/S: John Binder P: Gordon Wolf, Susan Spinks

Cindy Williams is a born-again Christian grocery store clerk waiting for her salvation in a flying saucer. Her truck driver boyfriend (Fred Ward) works for the phony tent preacher Brother Bud (Harry Dean Stanton). With Harry Carey Jr. Universal shelved it for several years, but the unique comic feature with Jesus freaks, con artists, New Agers, and just plain folk was worth waiting for.

UFOS ARE REAL

(1979) D: Ed Hunt P: Marianne Chase

A documentary with interviews and UFO footage. Betty Hill, whose UFO abduction was the basis for the TV movie The UFO Incident (1975), is interviewed. From Gold Key and the director of Starship Invasions (1977), which was about an alien suicide ray.

UFOS: IT HAS BEGUN

(1979) D: Ray Rivas S: Robert Emenegger P: Allan Sadler

Rod Serling, Jose Ferrer, and Burgess Meredith all provide narration for a documentary with lectures and the usual NASA footage. From Gold Key.

UFO SYNDROME

(1980) D/P: Richard Martin S/P: Herbert L. Strock

More from the makers of UFO Journals. Anthony Eisley (The Mighty Gorga) narrates the mixture of stock footage, stills, and artwork. A man "becomes" an alien when under a trance, and the mysteries of Stonehenge are explored. From Gold Key.

THE UGLY DUCKLING

(1959) D: Lance Comfort S: Sid Colin, Jack Davies UK

Bernard Bresslaw is a modern-day descendant of Dr. Jekyll (and Mr. Hyde) in a comic version of the famous story. This Hyde goes to dance halls and steals jewelry. With Jon Pertwee. Columbia released the Hammer film in America. The next year, Hammer made a serious version (called House of Fright in America).

Weird Al Yankovic meets the Kipper Kids in UHF.

UHF

(Orion, 1989) D/S: Jay Levey S/A: Al Yankovic P: Gene Kirkwood, John Hyde

Weird Al Yankovic (known for his rock video parodies) inherits the tiny failing TV channel 62. A janitor (scene-stealing Michael Richards) turned kiddie host becomes the star attraction. It's a Tunnelvision-type feature with spoofs of Spielberg hits, TV commercials, and music videos. Some programs are "Leave It to Bigfoot" and "Bestiality Today." With Victoria Jackson, Kevin McCarthy, Trinidad Silva, Gedde Watanabe, Billy Barty, Sue Ane Langdon, Fran Drescher, Emo Philips, the Kipper Kids, David Bowie, and Dr. Demento. Anthony Geary becomes a bug-eyed monster. Rated PG-13. Fans of Al can also look for The Compleat Weird Al Yankovic video collection.

ULTIMATE DEGENERATE

(SW, 1969) D/A: Michael Findlay

Maria answers an ad in a sex paper, goes to Coney Island, then hallucinates at an upstate New York country house with lesbians and go-go dancers. Michael Findlay plays a cripple who photographs and tortures women after shooting them up with aphrodisiacs. His wife, Roberta Findlay, is the cinematographer. It's b/w and only 70 minutes long. All Night Rider and Closer to the Bone were other adults-only Findlay movies from around the same time.

ULTIMATE DESIRES

(Prism, 1991) D/P: Lloyd A. Simandl S: Ted Hubert P: John A. Curtis Canada (Beyond the Silhouette)

Tracy Scoggins stars as a lawyer who goes undercover as a call girl after a prostitute she was representing is killed. Brion James is Wolf, a hit man with a blond ponytail and a German accent. He's a bad guy, but he helps a 13-year-old girl about to be sold by a coked-up nightclub owner. The "erotic thriller" takes place during "the new Cold War" and involves a secret brotherhood plotting to assassinate the President. Tracy has sex scenes with Marc Singer, whose character is not what he seems. He helps explain the plot when he says, "It's a bit of a long story that you don't really need to hear."

ULTRAFLESH

(VBM, 1980) D/P: Svetlana

In this porno science fiction movie, Seka is an alien who saves the Earth by curing earth men of impotence. With Jamie Gillis, Serena, Lisa De Leeuw, Candida Royale, Little Oral Annie, and dwarf Louis De Jesus. It's cheap-looking and pretty stupid with some "special" effects like lightning zaps, but there's plenty of sex.

ULTRA VIOLET

(New Horizons, 1992) D: Mark Griffiths S: Gordon Cassidy P: Catherine Cryan

Esai Morales is a psycho after a woman in a trailer home (Patricia Healy, who has topless scenes) in Death Valley. Stephen Meadows is her husband. By the director of the Hardbodies movies.

ULTRA WARRIOR

(New Horizons, 1993) D: Augustin Tamayo, Kevin Tent S: Len Jenkins, Dan Kleinman P: Luis Llosa

After an H-bomb opening, we learn that Kansas City in 2058 is called "Oblivion." Most of this flashback-filled post-nuke tape is footage from older Corman productions. Several characters narrate ("I remember it well . . ."). George Peppard can be seen in space battle scenes, and Corman himself shows up as the President. The doubles in the several R sex scenes have different color hair than the leads and their faces are obscured. Dack Rambo "stars" with Clare Beresford (who looks and sounds like a British model) and Meshach Taylor (from Designing Women) as a crazy black guy. Their parts are from the Corman release Welcome to Oblivion (1990), filmed in Peru. Pathetic for sure, but still entertaining if you don't feel too ripped off.

UNASHAMED

(Moore, 1937) D: Allen Stuart

Doctors recommend that a businessman go to a nudist camp. His secretary shows up there, too. This rare early nudist-colony movie (one of several from the 30s) played the roadshow circuit for years. The same "plot" was later used several times in the 60s. It's 67 minutes long.

THE UNBELIEVABLE TRUTH

(Vidmark, 1989) D/S/P/E: Hal Hartley

Robert Burke (later in Dust Devil) is an ex-con who might also be a serial killer. He's hired as a mechanic on Long Island and falls for the boss's daughter (Adrienne Shelly) who is working as a model. The unique first feature by the then 34-year-old Long Islander Hartley was made for $75,000. Shelly returned in his Trust.

THE UNBORN

(RCA, 1991) D/P: Rodman Flender S: Henry Dominic

Brooke Adams stars as a children's book author who want to have a baby in this monster-baby exploitation movie. She goes to a New Age doctor (James Karen) for artificial insemination, then a birthing class run by lesbians. It turns out that Karen is a mad doctor planning a new master race of super babies. After one genius baby kills her brother, and another pregnant woman stabs herself in the stomach, Adams has an illegal back-alley abortion, but the mutant baby (a Chucky doll–like model) crawls out of the garbage. The baby stabs Adams's husband (who was never around when she needed him) in the eye, and she decides to raise him after all. The most memorable scene shows the lesbians killing each other. Adams is good as usual. The music is by Gary Numan (!).

THE UNBORN II

(New Horizons, 1994) D: Rick Jacobson S: Mike Even Schwartz, Daniela Percell P: Mike Elliot

Michelle Greene is single mom in a suburban home who writes children's books. Her killer kid Joey (a moving doll like in the first movie) eats meat and bites necks. Meanwhile an assassin (Robin Curtis) goes around shooting babies who were the result of experiments in Unborn, and Scott Valentine is a neighbor who protects them. Brittny Powell is the sexy neighbor babysitter, whose nosy parents provide irritating comedy relief. Pretty bad.

UNCAGED

(RCA/Columbia, 1991) D: "William Duprey"/ Lisa Hunt S: Catherine Cyran P: Mike Elliot (Angels in Red)

Ideas must have been pretty scarce around Roger Corman's Concorde by the early 90s. This is a remake of an earlier Concorde release, Streetwalkin' (1985). The cast is less known, but the story is the same: Basically, a psycho pimp (Jeffrey Morgan) abuses and even kills prostitutes in LA. Some of the women fight back. It's well made and has enough nudity and action. Leslie Bega stars with Elena Sahagun, Daryl Haney, and Monique Gabrielle.

UNCLE SILAS

(1947) D: Charles Frank S: Ben Travers UK (The Inheritence)

An uncle (Derrick De Marney) and his governess (Katina Paxinou) plot to kill their heiress niece (Jean Simmons). It's based on a J. Sheridan Le Fanu novel and features thunder and lightning in an old dark house. With Esmond Knight and Guy Rolfe. Simmons had just been in Great Expectations and played Ophelia in Hamlet.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

(Xenon, 1965) D: Al Adamson D/S: Geza von Radvanyi S: Fred Denger P: Aldo Von Pinelli Germany/France/Italy/Yugoslavia (Onkel Tom's Hutte)

Master showman Kroger Babb bought the rights to a big-budget, 170-minute, 70mm Eastmancolor version of Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous pre–Civil War tale. He opened it (in Savannah, GA) in 1969. Somewhere along the line, Al Adamson shot some new scenes and Independent International rereleased it (in 1977) as White Trash Woman (!). The story was old-fashioned even when it was filmed (several times) in the silent days (a 1928 version from Universal had also been a roadshow hit). The music (issued by Philips) includes spirituals and is excellent (it sounds like Ennio Morricone). Herbert Lom is the evil Simon Legree with a big scar and a black mistress and John Kitzmiller (from Dr. No) is Uncle Tom. Out-of-place elements include a slapstick bar fight, monks, some modern jazz, and a western shootout ending. With O. W. Fischer as the good St. Claire, Mylene Demongeot, Juliette Greco, Eleonora Rossi-Drago, and Eartha Kitt, who sings. The scratchy tape is dubbed and runs 118 minutes.

Herbert Lom in Uncle Tom's Cabin.

THE UNDERACHIEVERS

(Lightning, 1987) D/S/P: Jackie Kong S: Tony Rosato, Gary Thompson (Night School)

A group of rejects attend night school in a comedy patterned after the Police Academy series. Some might want to see it for Jewel Shepard (who strips off her Star Trek uniform) or Becky LeBeau (naked in a pool with a plastic alligator). Or maybe you want to see the name stars including Barbara Carrera, Susan Tyrrell, Michael Pataki, Edward Albert Jr., Mark Blankfield, Garrett Morris, and Vic Tayback.

UNDER AGE

(1941) D: Edward Dmytryk S: Robert D. Andrews P: Ralph Cohn

Blonde Nan Grey and her friends are released from a detention home. Tom Neal asks them to help trap gangsters so they go undercover in a vice ring to find the killer of Nan's sister. With Alan Baxter, Mary Anderson, and Don Beddoe. The short (59 minutes) exploitation feature followed other similar titles from Columbia (Girls Under 21, Girls of the Road, and Glamour for Sale). The director was later one of the "Hollywood Ten."

UNDER AGE

(1963) D/S: Larry Buchanan S/P: Harold Hoffman

Here's more proof that Buchanan was a pretty good director before making those AIP remakes (like Zontar, the Thing From Venus) that's he's known for. Like Free, White and 21, this is a well-made Dallas-based federal district courtroom drama with dramatic flashbacks from all major characters, and we the audience are the jury. Anne MacAdams (Common Law Wife) plays the mother, accused of "aiding and encouraging" the "carnal knowledge" between her then-13-year-old daughter Linda (Judy Adler) and a boy (George Gomez) from "Little Mexico." The Alpine Trio do "Boil Them Cabbage Down" at a hootenanny. The copy I saw was (badly) shot off of a screen. Adler went on to Satan's Bed, Zero Girls, Mondo Freudo, and other adult movies.

UNDER CAPRICORN

(Vid America, 1949) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock
S: James Bridie P: Sidney Bernstein UK

Hitchcock returned to England to make this Technicolor 19th-century costume drama, which was a box-office flop. Ingrid Bergman stars as an Irish woman who elopes with her father's groom (Joseph Cotten). She kills her brother and ends up at an Australian penal colony where a maid (Margaret Leighton) terrorizes her with shrunken heads. With Michael Wilding. The Warner release is the only feature where Hitchcock himself appears twice. Part of the reason it did bad business in America probably had to do with Bergman's then-newsworthy and scandalous romance with director Roberto Rossellini. Hitchcock remained in England to make Stage Fright (1950).

UNDERGROUND ACES

(Vestron, 1981) D: Robert Butler
S: Jim Carabatsos P: Jay Weston

Parking lot attendants wreck cars on purpose and enjoy sex on the job. Dirk Benedict stars with Melanie Griffith, Jerry Orbach, Frank Gorshin, Sid Haig, T. K. Carter, and Audrey Landers. The Filmways release was by a former Disney director.

UNDERGROUND TERROR

(SVS, 1988) D: James McCalmont
S: Robert Zimmerman, Brian O'Hara
P: Steven Mackler (Underground)

A murdering gang led by "Boris" lives in the NYC subway. The director also made Escape from Safehaven.

UNDERGROUND U.S.A.

(1980) D/S/P/A: Eric Mitchell P: Erdner Rauschalle

Mitchell works his way into the life of a has-been movie star (Patti Astor). The New York City movie is full of one-time Andy Warhol (or John Waters) associates. With Jackie Curtis, Cookie Mueller, Taylor Mead, and Mudd Club owner Steve Mass. Many of the early 80s underground features (and shorts) from Manhattan seem to have disappeared.

UNDER HOT LEATHER: See THE JESUS TRIP

UNDER INVESTIGATION

(Columbia, 1994) D/S: Kevin Meyer
P: Bruce Cohn Curtis, Ronnie Hadar

Harry Hamlin is a down-and-out LA detective after a psycho killer, and Joanna Pacula is his lover and prime suspect. The "erotic thriller" also features Lydie Denier, Ed Lauter, and Richard Beymer.

THE UNDERSEA KINGDOM

(Republic, 1936) D: B. Reeves Eason, Joseph Kane
S: John Rathmell, Maurice Gerachty P: Nat Levine

Republic's answer to Mascot's The Phantom Empire and Universal's Flash Gordon is 12 entertaining chapters of characters running around in Roman gladiator costumes. They ride horses but have robots and spiked tanks. People from the Earth's surface take a rocket-powered submarine to the domed lost city of Atlantis. Ray "Crash" Corrigan plays Navy officer Crash Corrigan, whose friends are a newspaper reporter (Lois Wilde), a scientist (C. Montague Shaw), and his son. The bad guys are the evil Ming-like Khan (Monte Blue) and Hakur (Lon Chaney Jr.), captain of the guards. Also with William Farnum as Sharad and Smiley Burnette. A condensed TV version was Sharad of Atlantis. Also on Saturday Night Serials (Rhino) with three other serial chapters.

UNDER SIEGE

(Warner, 1992) D: Andrew Davis S: J. F. Lawton
S/P: Steven Seagal P: Arnon Michan, Steven Reuther

Seagal is a cook (actually a Navy Seal) who saves the USS Missouri, a nuclear battleship, when it's hijacked by psycho military experts. Tommy Lee Jones (in black leather) is an ex-CIA agent and Gary Busey (who has a drag scene) are the main bad guys. They plan to steal the Tomahawk missiles on board and attack Hawaii. The Die Hard–inspired action hit from Warner features Playboy Playmate Erika Eleniak popping out of a cake, Patrick O'Neal as the captain, Nick Mancuso, and Andy Romano. It was shot around Mobile, Alabama. Davis returned with The Fugitive (1993), an even bigger hit, also with Jones, and Under Siege II (Warner, 1995) followed.

THE UNDERSTUDY: GRAVEYARD SHIFT II

(Virgin, 1988) D/S: Gerald Ciccoritti
P: Stephen R. Flaks, Arnold H. Bruck Canada

In an arty sequel to Graveyard Shift, Silvio Oliviero is a vampire who replaces an actor starring in a vampire film called "Blood Lover" (being directed by a woman). Wendy Gazelle is the actress who becomes a real vampire too. He bites hands, not necks, and is a pool hustler in the movie-within-the-movie. The plot is confusing and it's hard to tell if scenes are from the movie being shot, dreams, or "reality."

THE UNDERTAKER

(AIP, 1988) D: Franco Steffanino
S: William James Kennedy
P: Steve Bono

Joe Spinell stars in his last movie as Uncle Roscoe, an undertaker in a religious cult. He kills people (usually women) to stay immortal and buries the bodies for profit. His nephew tries to stop him. Spinell, one of the busiest movie tough guys since appearing in The Godfather (1972), made this, Operation War Zone, and Rapid Fire before he died in 1989.

UNDER THE BOARDWALK

(Starwalk, 1988) D: Fritz Kiersch
S: Robert King P: Steven H. Chanin, Gregory S. Blackwell (Wipeout)

The plot of this teen romance surfing movie (narrated by a character 20 years in the future) is straight out of West Side Story. With Keith (grandson of Jackie) Coogan, Danielle Von Zerneck, Dick Miller, Sonny Bono, Tracey Walter, and Elizabeth Kaitan. From New World.

UNDER THE CHERRY MOON

(Warner, 1986) D/A: Prince
S: Becky Johnson P: Robert Cavallo

Prince unwisely fired original director Mary Lambert and directed himself in a forgettable PG-13 b/w romantic fairy tale. He's an American entertainer gigolo in France. With Kristin Scott-Thomas, Jerome Benton, Steve Berkoff, Alexandra Stewart, Victor Spinetti, and Francesca Annis. Prince also directed his concert feature, Sign "O" The Times (1987).

UNDER THE GUN

(Magnum, 1988) D: James Sbardellati
S: Almer John Davis P: Warren Stein

Dethroned Miss America Vanessa Williams had been in The Pickup Artist (1987) but made her starring acting debut as a lawyer who teams with an LA cop (Sam Jones) to catch a plutonium thief (John Russell) in this one. With Nick Cassavetes and Sharon Williams.

UNDER THE RAINBOW

(Warner, 1981) D: Steve Rash S: Pat McCormick, Harry Hurwitz, Martin Smith, Pat Bradley S/P: Fred Bauer

Many viewers still can't believe this one was made. It's based on the concept that the midget actors in The Wizard of Oz were out-of-control wild drunks off screen. They smash up a hotel while German spies lurk. Chevy Chase and Carrie Fisher star with Billy Barty, Eve Arden, Mako, Adam Arkin, Pat McCormick, and Zelda Rubinstein. The PG-rated comedy had the largest cast of little people since Even Dwarves Started Small (1968) or The Little Cigars (1973). Maybe if Chevy Chase wasn't the star it would have been a hit.

UNDERWATER!

(Turner, 1955) D: John Sturges
S: Walter Newman P: Harry Tatleman

Jane Russell stars in a tale of Caribbean sunken treasure with Richard Egan, Gilbert Roland, Lori Nelson, and some sharks. RKO announced it as a 3-D movie but shot it in "Superscope" instead. 200 journalists were flown to Florida to attend the underwater premiere, and Jayne Mansfield, who is not in the film, showed up and distracted photographers. The song "Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White" made the pop charts in two versions.

UNDERWORLD U.S.A.

(Columbia, 1961) D/S/P: Sam Fuller

Tolly Devlin (Cliff Robertson) has a lifetime obsession since seeing his father murdered in an alley as a child. He grows up and works for gangsters as part of a revenge scheme. This hard-hitting, brutal feature points out how easily businessmen, police, and government officials can be bought. It's essential viewing along with Fuller's other increasingly bizarre modern-day 60s features, Shock Corridor (1964) and The Naked Kiss (1966). With Dolores Hart as Cuddles, Beatrice Kay, Robert Emhardt, and Richard Rust. From Columbia.

THE UNDYING BRAIN = BRAIN OF BLOOD

THE UNEARTHLING

(Prism, 1993) D/S/P: Wyre Martin (Aswang)

This horror movie is about the Null family, wealthy vampires in a lakefront estate who spin webs around victims and have extremely long red tentacle/tongues. A pregnant girl (Tina Ona Paukstelis) is paid to impersonate Null's wife so her child will become the heir, but she's chained up in a decrepit shack. A crazed sister attacks with a chainsaw and an absurd highlight is the crippled mother hanging from her own tongue. Several of the actors aren't too great, but the music is good and the FX are shocking and original, even after being cut for the video release. Norman Moses is Null and Mildred Nierras is the Filipino maid. Made by former film students in Wisconsin.

UNEARTHLY STRANGER

(1963) D: John Krish S: Rex Carlton
P: Albert Fennell UK

A British scientist (John Neville) working on a secret project marries a woman (Gabrielle Licudi) who can't blink her eyes and has no pulse. When a coworker discovers that she's an alien, he's killed. More alien women arrive and kill her (only her clothes remain) because she had fallen in love with her intended victim. With Jean Marsh. It was made by some of the people behind The Avengers series. AIP released the cult favorite in America.

UNHINGED

(Lighthouse, 1982) D/S/P: Don Gronquist
S: Reagan Ramsey

Three college girls smash up their car then go to an old mansion run by a hateful woman in a wheelchair who lives with a handyman and her daughter (who turns out to be a boy). It's 70 minutes long with nudity, gory ax murders, and in-joke names. Available in R or unrated versions.

THE UNHOLY

(Vestron, 1988) D: Camilo Vila
S: Philip Yordan, Fernando Fonseca
P: Mathew Hayden

A red-haired demon (Nicole Fortier) seduces priests at Easter time in New Orleans. She becomes a slimy monster in a church and splits into two monster midgets at the end. The silly ending was reportedly added by the studio, but it's the only memorable part. Somebody actually says "Get thee behind me, Satan!" Ben Cross stars as a priest who survives falling off a building and has to save the world somehow. With Hal Holbrook, Trevor Howard (who died in 1988), Ned Beatty, and Jill Carroll. Some good New Orleans locations were used.

THE UNHOLY FOUR

(1954) D: Terence Fisher
S/P: Michael Carreras UK
(A Stranger Came Home)

Paulette Goddard stars in a Hammer Studios mystery. Her husband (William Sylvester) returns to their country home after three years. He can't remember anything, but is suspected of murder. With Patrick Holt. Lippert released it in America.

THE UNHOLY NIGHT

(1929) D: Lionel Barrymore
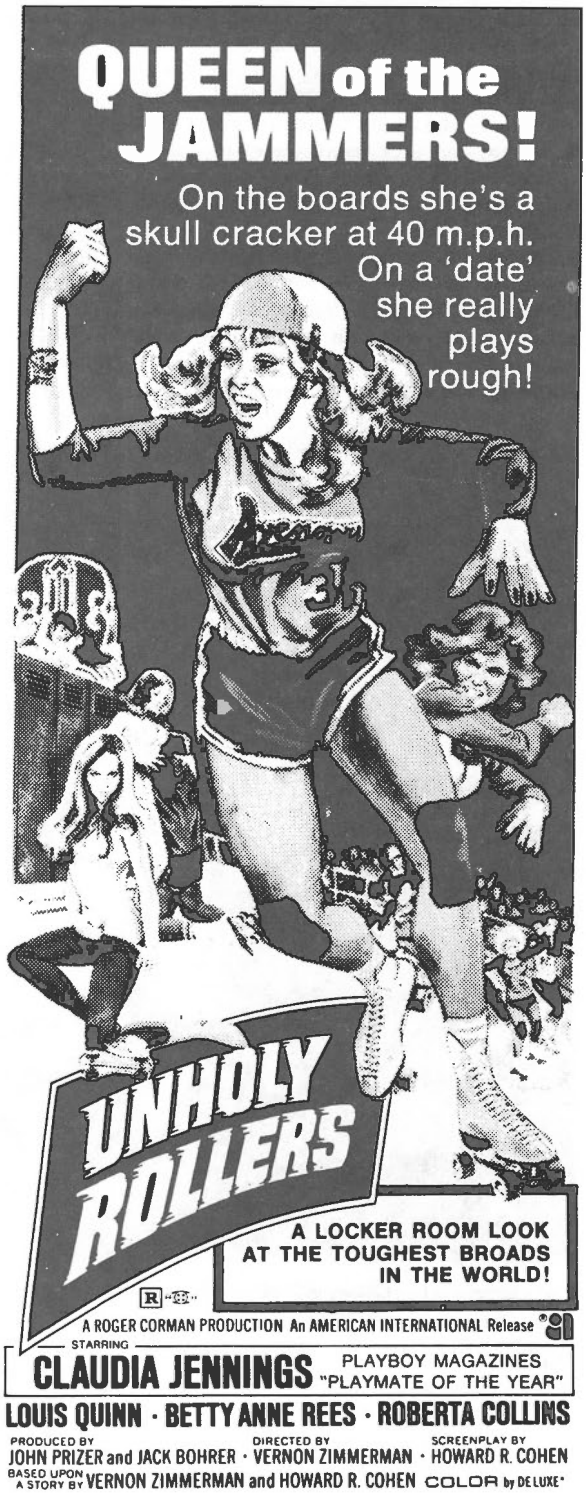
S: Edwin Justice Mayer

Roland Young, Ernest Torrence, and Dorothy Sebastian star in a old-dark-house movie based on a story by Ben Hecht. Veterans of a war in India are killed off in a London mansion. With Sojin (who holds a séance), Boris Karloff, Lionel Belmore, and John Loder. Barrymore directed several early talkies. The MGM release has been shown on TNT.



UNHOLY ROLLERS

(HBO, 1972) D: Vernon Zimmerman
S: Howard R. Cohen P: John Prizer

AIP made this copy of the Raquel Welch movie Kansas City Bomber from the same year. Claudia Jennings stars in one of her best roles as vicious roller derby queen Karen Walker. It covers the rise and fall of the LA Avengers team and features typical show biz corruption. Martin Scorsese was the supervising editor. With Roberta Collins, Betty Anne Rees, Candice Roman, and Charlene Jones as other skaters, Alan Vint, and Kathleen Freeman. By the director of Fade to Black. The video has a new music score.

THE UNHOLY THREE

(Cinemacabre, 1925) D/P: Tod Browning
S: Waldemar Young

Lon Chaney, "The Man of a Thousand Faces," is Professor Echo, a sideshow ventriloquist who dresses up like an old Granny O'Grady and commits jewel robberies with help from Tweedledee, a pretty hostile and scary midget (Harry Earles) who can pass as a baby, and Hercules the strong man (Victor McLaglen). Chaney runs a pet shop as a front and uses ventriloquism to provide voices for "talking" birds (with title cards of course). A pickpocket (Mae Busch) and a gorilla also help. The whole setup falls apart because of jealousies. It's based on a story by Tod Robbins, as was Browning's Freaks (also with Earles and also from MGM). The tale is introduced by a carny barker (as was Freaks). In 1925 Chaney, America's first horror star, was also in The Phantom of the Opera, The Monster, and Tower of Lies.

Harry Earles and Lon Chaney in The Unholy Three (1925).

THE UNHOLY THREE

(MGM, 1930) D: Jack Conway
S/A: Elliott Nugent S: J.C. Nugent

For his first (and as it turned out, last) talkie, the great Lon Chaney repeated his crook-in-drag ventriloquist role and Earles returned as Tweedledee the scary cigar-smoking midget disguised as a baby. Ivan Linow is the strong man and Lila Lee (from the original Blood and Sand) is the pickpocket. They left out the man in a gorilla suit, and the ending was changed so that Chaney slips up in court by using his regular voice while appearing as the kindly old lady. On August 26, about a month after The Unholy Three was released, Chaney was dead. Two years later, Lon Chaney Jr. made his film debut (in a bit part). For years, the silent version was easier to find. I didn't see Chaney's last movie until somebody showed it to me in Sweden. It was worth the trip. It also explaned the inspiration for an Our Gang short called Free Eats (1930) that I had seen many times on TV as a kid. It had jewel thieves disguised as a couple with "fidget" babies. The Unholy Three is on laser disc with West of Zanzibar.

THE UNHOLY WIFE

(1957) D/P: John Farrow S: Jonathan Latimer

British sex symbol Diana Dors was billed as "Half-Angel . . . Half-Devil" in her American debut. Posters also told us that "She Made Him Half-A-Man!" He is Rod Steiger as the grape-grower husband whose life in in danger, and Tom Tryon is the guy she has an affair with. With Marie Windsor and Arthur Franz. RKO released the Technicolor movie.

THE UNINVITED

(New Star, 1987)
D/S/P/A: Greydon Clark

A cat who escaped from a lab in Fort Lauderdale is taken on a yacht run by gangsters. Three vacationing guys and two cliché bikini bimbos end up on board and the fun (?) begins. The cute cat has a mutant devil cat that comes out of its mouth. Clu Gulager is an alcoholic hit man. George Kennedy has his ankle shredded. Alex Cord is the corrupt businessman/killer star. Except for Kennedy's ankle, the FX stink and nothing is delivered. The atomic cat story has a PG-13 rating. With Shari Shattuck.

UNION CITY

(Columbia, 1980) D/S: Mark Reichert
P: Graham Reichert

Dennis Lipscomb is obsessed with catching a milk-bottle thief while his wife (Deborah Harry) has murder in mind. It's based on the Cornell Woolrich story "The Corpse Next Door" and has music by Chris Stein from Blondie. Lipscomb (Eyes of Fire, Retribution . . .) is good, but it's a slow-going movie. With Pat Benatar and Taylor Mead in brief roles. It was filmed in Union City, New Jersey.

UNIVERSAL SOLDIER

(Live, 1992) D: Roland Emmerich S: Dean Devlin, Richard Rothstein, Christopher Leitch
P: Craig Baumgarten, Allen Shapiro

Two action stars for the price of one battle in an action science fiction zombie movie. Jean-Claude Van Damme and Dolph Lundgren are soldiers in a 1969 massacre in Vietnam. They kill each other, but 23 years later, they're revived by the defense department as super-strong emotionless warriors. They're supposed to fight terrorists, but Van Damme meets a wisecracking blonde reporter (Ally Walker) and starts to remember. Both become out of control and go after each other. Van Damme beats up everybody in a diner and Lundgren collects his victims' ears. Some action takes place at the Hoover Dam and the Grand Canyon. With Jerry Orbach as the scientist who revives them, Ed O'Ross, Simon Rhee, Ralph Moeller, and Leon Rippy. The TriStar release was the first American feature for the German director (who replaced Andrew Davis).

THE UNKNOWN

(Fright, 1927) D: Tod Browning S: Waldemar Young

The Unknown is one of the most fascinating collaborations between Browning and Lon Chaney. Chaney is Alonzo the armless wonder, star of a Gypsy circus based in Madrid. During his act, he shoots clothes off Estrelita, a young horse rider, with his feet while both are on a spinning platform. He falls for Estrelita (Joan Crawford!), who can't bear to be touched. It sounds like a perfect arrangement except that the strong man (Norman Kerry) wants her too and Chaney is really a fugitive thief and murderer with arms (and two giant thumbs on one hand). He decides to have his arms amputated for her! He plans for the strong man to be torn in half by horses on stage! He also has a cigar-smoking hunchback dwarf assistant named Cujo who wears a devil costume. Scenes of Alonzo smoking and playing guitar with his feet will remind you of Freaks. Scenes of Alonzo and little Cujo walking with similar hats and capes were later copied in movies with Lugosi and Angelo Rossitto. Joan Crawford (in her second year in films) yells, "Hands! Men's hands! How I hate them!" Alexandro Jodorowsky's great Santa Sangre is a tribute to this MGM movie. And there's more, all in 61 minutes. Waldemar Young, who wrote the brilliant tale, wrote many features for Browning and yes (it makes perfect sense), Island of Lost Souls! In 1927, Chaney was also in Browning's famous lost vampire feature, London After Midnight.

UNKNOWN POWERS

(Video Gems, 1978) D/S/P: Don Como
S: Richard Croy, Brad Steiger

This PG-rated New Age/mondo documentary from Gold Key has four on-screen celebrity hosts and covers a lot of territory. Most events seem real, some scenes are (admitted) reenactments. Jack Palance in a black suit and turtleneck is the first host. A few years later he became host of the syndicated Ripley's Believe It or Not series, but despite his familiar deep breathing and lengthy pauses, he's a little more subdued here. His segments concern Korean martial arts masters, Kirilian photographs, channeling, a couple who sleep under a pyramid, a Dutch man who puts needles through his arms without spilling blood, and a Russian woman who moves objects with willpower. Samantha Eggar shows the wartime use of astrologers by Hitler and the Allies, a woman who talks to animals, a psychic who solves an LA mutilation murder, and a man whose hands bleed near undiscovered oil wells. Will Geer, known to millions as Grandpa Walton, hosted the beyond-death segments, walking around in a cemetery, shortly before he died in real life. He shows some amazing ghost and ectoplasm photos. Roscoe Lee Browne hosts the longest segment, concerning psychic surgery (with real footage), the late Katherine Kuhlman, faith healer, and the Reverend Jim Jones (who made this movie topical). You get to see San Francisco People's Temple services with Jones practicing faith healing, watched by a hysterical crowd. A note informs us of the Guyana deaths.

UNLAWFUL ENTRY

(Fox, 1992) D: Jonathan Kaplan S: Lewis Colick
P: Charles Gordon M: James Horner

A robber breaks into the expensive home of an LA couple (Kurt Russell and Madeleine Stowe). Cops save the day, but one of them (Ray Liotta) is a relentless brutal psycho who wants the schoolteacher wife for himself. He destroys Russell's credit rating and arranges for him to go to jail. When not beating suspects or having sex with hookers, he gives a friendly traffic safety talk at a school assembly. This movie makes the strong point that America's drug laws can easily be used against anybody. Liotta is great as a scary killer (see Something Wild for more). With Roger E. Mosley, Andy Romano, Sherrie Rose, and Dick Miller. A 20th Century release.

UNMASKED: PART 25

(Academy, 1988) D: Anders Palm
S/P: Mark Curforth UK

Gregory Cox and Fiona Evans star in a Friday the 13th parody with a killer and a blind girl. Available R or unrated. By the director of Dead Certain (1990).

THE UNNAMABLE

(Starmaker, 1987) D/S/P: Jean-Paul Ouellette
P: Dean Ramsel

This H. P. Lovecraft adaptation was made after the success of Reanimator. Carter (Mark Kinsey Stephenson), a self-assured horror writer from Miskatonic University (he looks like Eddie Haskell from Leave It to Beaver), tells some other guys about an old house, sealed years ago by a priest. Howard is the always incredulous, worried, lovesick, nerd character. Eventually they end up trapped in the house along with two jocks and their beautiful dates (one is Laura Albert). Despite lots of irritating false scares, loud screams that nobody ever hears, unconvincing killer tree branches, and characters running endlessly through a small house (like in Flintstones cartoons when Fred runs past a dozen windows in a one-room stone home), this movie has enough good points to make it fun. It's got some interesting eccentric characters, blood, decapitations, a topless starlet, and flashbacks. A pretty amazing female monster with hooves, wings, horns, and long white hair shows up near the end. The love song at the end was a bad idea. The director also made Chinatown Connection (1988) and videos for Penthouse.

THE UNNAMEABLE II: THE STATEMENT OF RANDOLPH CARTER

(Prism, 1992) D/S/P: Jean-Paul Ouellette

Mark Kinsey Stephenson returns as Carter in a more expensive sequel that picks up the story the next day. Maria Ford is Alida, a 300-year-old possessed girl found in a tunnel. She's featured in Splash-inspired can't-relate-to-the-modern-world scenes and has a standout gratuitous nude scene on her hands and knees. Love conquers all and eventually a winged monster (Julie Strain) appears and turns into a chair (!?). The three surviving characters are the same actors from the first movie, but name stars are added. John Rhys-Davies is a professor, Peter Breck is a cop, and David Warner is a school chancellor who sits behind a desk.

UNNATURAL

(Sinister, 1952) D: Arthur Maria Rabenalt
S: Fritz Rotter W. Germany (Alraune)

Erich von Stroheim uses artificial insemination to create a "perfect" woman (Hildegarde Neff) who has no soul. With Karlheinz Bohm. DCA released it in America in 1957, the year von Stroheim died in Paris. It was based on a novel by Hans Heinz Ewars, and had been filmed five times previously. A silent Hungarian version was by Michael Curtiz and the first sound version (1934) was by Richard Oswald.

UNSANE

(Fox Hills, 1982) D/S: Dario Argento S: George Kemp P: Claudio Argento Italy (Tenebrae)

A horror writer (Tony Franciosa) in Rome becomes a suspect when murders based on his new novel (called "Tenebrae") are committed. Characters are killed by razor or an axe in broad daylight, and pages of the book are stuffed in the victims' mouths. It's pretty fascinating (and a bit confusing). When a woman's arm is cut off, her stump sprays blood all over a white wall, and there's a surprising and disturbing flashback scene. With John Saxon as the literary agent, Daria Nicolodi (who was dubbed by Theresa Russell), Giuliano Gemma, and John Steiner. Lamberto Bava and Michele Soavi were the assistant directors. The music is by Simonetti Pignatelli. After the popular Suspiria (1977), Argento's Inferno (1980) and this one were not released in America until years after the fact and then cut, on tape. The American tape release is missing 10 minutes (it was 100 minutes long), but it's complete on the Japanese laser disc.

UNTIL THE END OF THE WORLD

(Warner, 1991) D/S: Wim Wenders
S: Peter Carey P: Jonathan Taplin
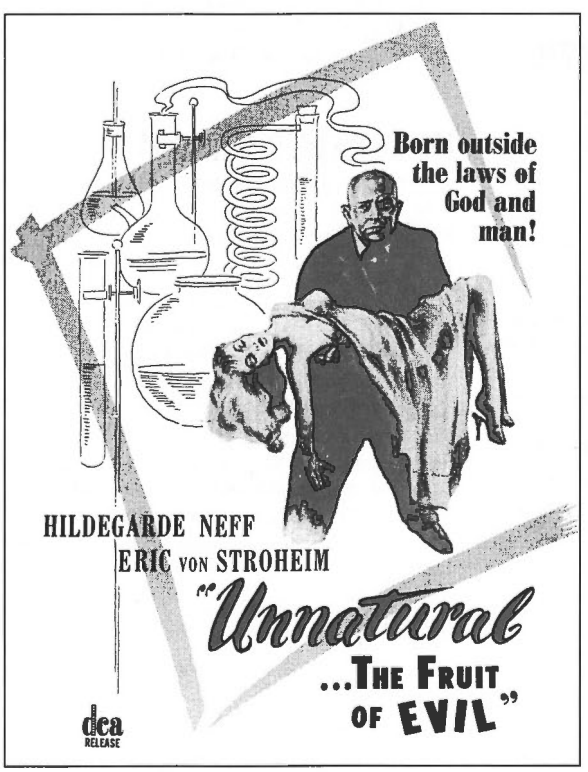
C: Robby Muller Germany/France/Australia

After the magnificent Wings of Desire, Wenders made this romantic science fiction road epic which was filmed in 15 cities in eight countries on four continents. Subtitles are used for various languages. He said it was inspired by Stanley Kramer's On the Beach (1959). A nuclear satellite is about to crash on Earth in 1999, a time when new technology (including video phones) is common. After a chase around the world, the main characters end up in Australia, where an invention allows the blind to see and can "suck our dreams and turn them into television." Solveig Dommartin (from Wings of Desire) and William Hurt star, and Sam Neill plays her boyfriend and narrates. With Max von Sydow and Jeanne Moreau as his parents, Rudiger Vogler as a detective, Allen Garfield, Lois Chiles, and David Gulpilil. Many new rock songs were written and performed for the film. The U2 theme song is especially good, and other tracks are by Can, Nick Cave, Peter Gabriel, R.E.M., and Elvis Costello (doing a Kinks song). The original feature ran 8 (!) hours, but America, typically, got a shorter version (157 minutes).



UP!

(RM, 1976) D/S/P/A/C/E: Russ Meyer
(Russ Meyer's Up!)

Meyer outdid himself with this outrageous, mind-boggling hyperdrive barrage of fast-edited sex, violence, and comedy with a self-imposed X. Raven De La Croix breaks a man's back after he rapes her and is arrested by the sheriff (Monte Bane). He gets her a job at Alice's Restaurant. This movie has the best outdoor sex scenes ever and a chainsaw battle. Too much goes on to describe, but naked Kitten Natividad runs around the woods and helps us understand as the "Greek Chorus" (with a dubbed-in voice). With Mary Gavin, Robert McLane, Edward Scaaf (as Adolph), Candy Samples, Elaine Collins, Su Ling, and Janet Wood. It has the look of a sign-off last feature. The last image is of Meyer, alone, trudging up the hills with his camera equipment. He completed one more film, though, Beneath the Valley of the Ultravixens.

UP AGAINST THE WALL

(1991) D/S/A: Ron O'Neal
P: Chuck Colbert, Zuindl Colbert

A teen track star is tempted by drug deals. The PG-13 feature with a Christian message was made by the star of Superfly. With Marla Gibbs and Stoney Jackson.

UPHILL ALL THE WAY

(Starmaker, 1984) D/S: Frank Q. Dobbs
P: Burr Smidt, David L. Ford

Singers Roy Clark and Mel Tillis star in a comedy about out-of-work good ol' boys mistaken for bank robbers. With Burl Ives as the sheriff, Glen Campbell, Sheb ("Purple People Eater") Wooley, Frank Gorshin, Trish Van Devere, and an appearance by the king of this kind of country-appeal action comedies, Burt Reynolds. From New World.

UP IN SMOKE

(MCA, 1978) D/P: Lou Adler S/A: Cheech Marin, Tommy Chong P: Lou Lombardo

The first and best of the Cheech and Chong dope comedies stole its name from a (1957) Bowery Boys movie, which is fitting. It was made by the president of Ode Records. Pedro and Man smoke a lot of pot, take LSD, and drive a van made of marijuana across the Mexican border. Stacy Keach is a cop who uses confiscated stash and who starts becoming a lizard with a long tongue (!). Tom Skerritt is a crazed Nam vet having flashbacks. The interesting support cast includes Edie Adams, Strother Martin, Zane Busby, Louisa Moritz, David Nelson, June Fairchild, Rainbeaux Smith, and Rodney Bingenheimer. The punk concert finale at the Roxy club includes the Dils and the Whores. The Warner soundtrack album (the team's seventh) includes dialogue.

UP LIKE A SHOT: See BLAZING STEWARDESSES

UPON A FRIGHTMARE: See FRIGHTMARE

UP THE ACADEMY

(Warner, 1980) D: Robert Downey S: Tom Patchett, Jay Tarses P: Marvin Worth, Danton Rissner

Mad magazine (possibly the most important publication of this century) backed, then disowned, this dumb military school comedy. Alfred E. Neuman appeared on the ads, though. Star Ron Leibman had his name removed, too. Watch it and you'll see why. With Ralph Macchio (making his film debut), Tom Poston, Ian Wolfe, Stacey Nelkin, and Barbara Bach. The "new wave" Capitol Soundtrack featured Blondie, Jonathan Richman ("Road Runner"), and others.

UP THE CREEK

(Vestron, 1984) D: Robert Butler S: Jim Kouf P: Michael L. Metzer, Fred Baum

It's "Animal House on vacation" with crude college losers in a raft race against military cadets and college jocks. With Tim Matheson, Jennifer Runyon, Stephen Furst, Dan Monahan (Porky's star), Tom Nolan, Jeff East, Romy Windsor, Lori Sutton, and Playboy centerfold Jeana Tomasino. John Hillerman is the Dean, and the theme song is by Cheap Trick. Samuel Arkoff and his son Louis were the executive producers of the Orion release, directed by a Disney vet.

UP THE DOWN STAIRCASE

(1967) D: Robert Mulligan
S: Tad Mosel P: Alan J. Pakula

In sort of an updated Blackboard Jungle, Sandy Dennis is an idealistic young New York public school teacher faced with juvenile delinquents and bureaucracy. With Patrick Bedford, Ellen O'Mara, Eileen Heckart, and Jean Stapleton. The lighter British To Sir with Love from the same year was more popular. This one's long (124 minutes). There was a UA Soundtrack.

UP YOUR ALLEY

(IVE, 1988) D/S: Bob Logan S/P/A: Murray Langston

Linda Blair stars as an LA undercover reporter in tale of homeless people writen by "the Unknown Comic." It's a comedy, but a psycho kills bums. Blair falls for Langston. With Ruth Buzzi, Johnny Dark, Bob Zany, and Jack Hanrahan. Mike Curb was an executive producer. Blair was also in Repossessed by the same director.

URGH! A MUSIC WAR

(Fox, 1981) D: Derek Burbidge P: Michael White UK

33 post-punk or "new wave" acts were filmed live in various cities for this sampler movie which, surprisingly, was released in theaters by Filmways/Orion. The Cramps ("Tear It Up"), Devo, Pere Ubu, Gang of Four, Wall of Voodoo, Gary Numan, Joan Jett, Klaus Nomi and others perform one cut each. Only the Police (then the best-selling rock artists on A&M) do more. The A&M soundtrack was a double set.

URSUS IN THE VALLEY OF THE LIONS

(Sinister, 1961) D: Carlo Ludovico Braglia
S: Alessandro Continenza P: Giuseppe Fatigati
Italy (Ursus Nella Valle dei Leoni)

Ed Fury (from The Wild Women of Wongo) is raised by lions and holds back a team of elephants in the arena climax. With Moira Orfei as the evil Diar and Alberto Lupo. The American Fury returned in The Mighty Ursus (1961) and Ursus in the Land of Fire (1963). Other Ursus movies were The Rebel Gladiators (1963), with Don Vadis, Tartar Invasion (1963), with Joe Robertson, The Invincible Three (1964) with Alan Steel, Hercules, Prisoner of Evil (1964), with Reg Park, and Samson and the Mighty Challenge (1964) with Yann Larvor.

USED CARS

(Columbia, 1980) D/S: Robert Zemeckis
S/P: Bob Gale

Kurt Russell is funny as a fast-talking used-car salesman working for Jack Warden. Warden also plays his own brother, the hated used-car-selling rival. The competitors stop at nothing to drum up more business. With Gerrit Graham, Andrew Duggan, and Betty Thomas, plus David L. Lander and Michael McKean (a.k.a. Lenny and Squiggy from the Laverne and Shirley show.) Al Lewis (Grandpa Munster) is in it too. Spielberg was the executive producer. 15 years later Zemeckis was on top with his Forrest Gump.

USS VD: SHIP OF SHAME

(Video Yesteryear, 1942)

The notorious 40-minute WWII documentary was made for and shown to servicemen. The scenes of what can result from fooling around when overseas are still pretty strong, but they weren't very effective, were they? The Budget video version also includes Red Nightmare.

U.S. VICE: See MURDER GANG

UTOPIA

(Video Yesterday, 1950) D/S: Leo Joannon P: R. Eger France/Italy (Atoll K, Robinson Crusoeland)

After an island appears in the ocean, people move there and attempt to create a perfect society. Things start to go wrong when uranium is discovered and everybody gets greedy. The island sinks back into the sea. It was a good idea for a political fable, but aging stars Stan Laurel and a huge Oliver Hardy (the team had retired from films in 1945) are misused and kind of hard to watch. It was released (partially dubbed) in America in 1955.

V

(1983) D/S: Kenneth Johnson P: Chuck Bowman

Marc Singer is a TV news reporter and Faye Grant is a scientist who lead a group of freedom fighters against evil invading lizard aliens. This once-popular NBC miniseries cost a record $14 million. The "Visitors," disguised as humans, have convinced most people that they're peaceful. It was supposed to be an allegory of how the Nazis took over Germany, but the selling point was good scary makeup. The 2-part presentation was 4½ hours long. With Jane Badler as the alien leader, Even C. Kim, Andrew Prine, Jennifer Cooke, Rafael Campos, Robert Englund, and Myron Healey.

THE VAGRANT

(MGM, 1992) D: Chris Walas S: Richard Jeffries P: Gillian Richardson

A low-key Bill Paxton stars as a junior executive who loses his mind in a new home. He has nightmares about the long-haired vagrant (Marshall Bell, from Total Recall) living in an abandoned lot across the street. After many irritating and strange things happen, he fortifies the house. The paranoia comedy includes some severed body parts, but is not really a horror movie. It costars Michael Ironside as a police detective, Mitzi Kapture, Mark McClure, and Colleen Camp as the real estate lady. The MGM release was made in Phoenix, Arizona by the director of The Fly II. Both are Brooksfilms (backed by Mel Brooks).

VALET GIRLS

(Vestron, 1986) D: Rafael Zielinski S: Clark Carlton P: Dennis Murray

Three Hollywood female parking attendants party a lot in a dumb comedy by the director of Spellcaster and Screwballs. With April Stewart, Richard Erdman, John Terlesky, and Ron Jeremy. From Empire.

VALLEY GIRL

(Vestron, 1983) D: Martha Coolidge S/P: Wayne Crawford, Andrew Lane (Rebel Dreams)

Deborah Foreman falls for the wrong guy (Nicolas Cage), a Hollywood punk. It's a fun movie that capitalized on the "Valspeak" fad, and it was good to see a "punk" character who wasn't a psycho gang member for a change. Colleen Camp and Frederic Forrest are Foreman's former hippie parents. With Cameron Dye, Lee Purcell, Michelle Meyrink, and Joyce Hyser. The limited-release soundtrack (featuring the Psychedelic Furs, Sparks, and others) was reissued by Rhino in 1994.

THE VALLEY (OBSCURED BY CLOUDS)

(Warner, 1971) D/S: Barbet Schroeder S: Paul Gegauff P: M. Chanderli, Stephane Tchalgadjieff C: Nestor Almendros France (La Vallée)

Jean-Pierre Kalfon (Weekend), Bulle Ogier (Maitresse), and Michael Gothard (The Devils) are Europeans in Papua New Guinea searching for a magic feather. They eventually go native, joining the primitive mud people. The feature was shot on location. Real natives and mondo touches help make it memorable. Because of Pink Floyd's soundtrack (on Harvest), The Valley played some midnight shows in America. The group also did the music for Schroeder's More (also shot by Almendros).

Grace Jones in Vamp.

THE VALS

(Vestron, 1982) D/S/P: James Polakof S: Deborah Amelon

Some girls try to con money from drug dealers to save an orphanage. Jill Carroll stars with Tiffany Bolling, Chuck Connors, Sue Ane Langdon, and guest stars John Carradine and Sonny Bono as a "spaced-out guest."

VAMP

(Starmaker, 1986) D/S: Richard Wenk P: Donald P. Borchers M: Jonathan Elias

Two college kids (Chris Makepeace and Robert Rusler) try to hire a stripper for a frat party. They take along "wild and crazy" Gedde Watanabe because he owns a car. Most of the movie takes place in the mysterious "After Dark" strip club. The silent vampire Katrina (Grace Jones) does an arty strip show. Her interesting set and white body paint were designed by the late Keith Haring. Everything is bathed in colored neon (it was the Miami Vice influence) and the vampires are inconsistent. Some are albinos, some have rotten teeth, and the makeup changes. With Dedee Pfeiffer, Billy Drago, and Sandy Baron as the Renfield-like manager. From New World. The soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande.

VAMPIRE AT MIDNIGHT

(Key, 1987) D: Gregory McClatchy S: Dulany Russ Clements P/A: Jason Williams P: Tom Friedman

Dr. Radcoff (Gustav Vintas) is a rich, balding, New Age hypno-therapist with a growing following, who makes people kill. His tall female assistant slashes a cop's throat with a razor and drinks his blood. Jason Williams (the star of Flesh Gordon) is a plainclothes hero LA cop. This one's a bit better than you'd expect, but when the hero's hand is bitten, his arm is bandaged in the next scene. With Esther Alise, Leslie Milne, and Christina Whitaker.

VAMPIRE COP

(Panorama, 1988) D/S/A: Donald Farmer P: Max and Faye Chesney

The only reason you might want to see this 16mm release is Blood Feast star Mal Arnold as a cop who gets killed by a chainsaw. This tape has more slow-motion scenes than most viewers will be able to handle, and other scenes are repeated in slow motion. It's also got too many fang closeups and the usual elements: hookers, pimps, and big breasts. Melissa Moore looks good as the TV reporter, though. With William Lucas as the big blond hunk vampire cop and Robin Schurtz. Filmed in Atlanta and Pensacola, Florida.

THE VAMPIRE HAPPENING

(United, 1970) D: Freddie Francis S: August Rieger P: Pier A. Caminneci W. Germany (Gebissen Wird Nur Rachts)

This vampire/sex comedy was inspired by Polanski's The Fearless Vampire Killers, complete with an all-vampire costume party and Ferdy Mayne as Dracula. Pia Dagermark (the producer's real-life wife) plays Betty Williams, the blond Hollywood movie star (also a baroness) who inherits a castle next to an all-girls school run by monks. Her great-grandmother is a revived witch. Dagermark plays both characters, so there's all the expected role-switching and confusion. A monk becomes a vampire and lives in an open grave. In dreams, a naked woman is put on the rack in the castle torture chamber and a topless woman runs through a forest of skeletons (not as good as it sounds). It's all pretty dated and silly. Dracula arrives in a "bat copter."

VAMPIRE IN VENICE

(Vestron International, 1987) D/P: Augostino Caminito S: Corto Alberto Alfieni, Leandro Lucchetti Italy (Nosferatu in Venice)

Klaus Kinski returns in a "sequel" to Herzog's Nosferatu remake. Kinski refused to wear the same makeup again, but looks impressive with big teeth and long hair. Too bad the movie is so . . . boring. Nosferatu is revived by Gypsies then pushes an old lady out of a window onto spikes. With Christopher Plummer as a professor who tries to kill him, Barbara De Rossi (nude in sex scenes) as a princess, and Donald Pleasence as an ineffectual priest. Kinski disagreed with Caminito and directed himself for a while, then "film doctor" Luigi Cozzi was called in to finish. The score is "based on" a Vangelis LP and the dialogue is in English. Caminito also produced King of New York.

VAMPIRES AND OTHER STEREOTYPES

(Brimstone, 1992) D/S/P/E: Kevin J. Lindenmuth

Three girls and a guy headed for a downtown Manhattan party, two cops and a crooked businessman all find themselves in a loft that's actually—HELL! Corpses hang upside down, monsters try to get in, a crawling hand talks, and there's a giant rat and a whole wall of laughing, taunting heads. One character says "Reanimated heads really piss me off!" Cast members are possessed or decapitated, and Elvis and Jim Morrison make an appearance (bad idea). This very silly, unrated, low-budget Manhattan feature borrows from The Evil Dead but resembles an episode of the Monsters TV show. The FX range from mediocre to pretty imaginative and it only uses vampires as a punchline, but it's pretty funny once you get into it. With blond Wendy Bednarz (also in There's Nothing Out There), Mick McCleery, William White, and Rick Poli. The music is by the Krypt. Lindenmuth also made Twisted Tales.

VAMPIRE'S EMBRACE

(1991) D/S/P: Glen Andreiev
P: Nicholas Furris, Michael Minock

Some kids are killed by a ghoul. Later on, a guy's wife fools around too much and he meets a blonde named Angela after leaving a horror movie. Eventually he leaves his wife and marries Angela, but when he goes to the Historical Society where she works, they claim they never heard of her. Seems like she's a vampire lured back into her old ways by her blond vampire "sister" Cassandra. A flashback to 200 years ago explains how she got that way, and her husband accepts her as she is. In one scene kids find a victim's hand during an Easter egg hunt in a cemetery (!?) and a vampire is killed in a way I've never seen before. This one's from Westport, Long Island. It has some decent FX.

VAMPIRE'S KISS

(HBO, 1989) D: Robert Bierman
S: Joseph Minion P: Barry Shils

A yuppie NYC literary editor (Nicolas Cage) takes Jennifer Beals to his apartment for a one-night stand. After sex, she flies out the window and he decides that he's become a vampire. He doesn't have any powers and nobody believes him. He makes a bloody mess biting victims with fake teeth and eats (a real) live cockroach. Cage has never been so over the top and out of control. You'd think the director was asleep during some of his scenes. With Maria Conchita Alonso as his abused secretary, Elizabeth Ashley as his shrink, and Kasi Lemmons. By the writer of Scorsese's After Hours. It was shot on locations in and around NYC.

VAMPIRE TRAILER PARK

(Cinemondo, 1991) D/P: Steve Latshaw
S/A: Patrick Moran

A drinking detective (Robert Shurtz) and a psychic (Cathy Moran) investigate a Florida trailer park slasher. The owner of the Twin Palms park hires a sexy girl (Blake Pickett) and her boyfriend, who stage holdups to kill off his elderly tenants. Meanwhile an 18th-century vampire (Patrick Moran) moves in with his lady assistant. He hypnotizes victims with a TV set and pukes up (lots of) blood every time he feeds. It's a clever comedy with funny bad taste ideas and good characters, but the puke sounds can get pretty irritating and the Magnum P.I. narration gets a little old after a while. Latshaw even put a copy of Psychotronic magazine in his movie. Moran looks perfect as the young-looking creepy aristocrat vampire, and I liked the big turtle.

VAMPIRE VIXENS FROM VENUS

(Shanachie, 1994) D/S/P: Ted A. Bohus

Three ugly alien drug smugglers become sexy Earth women (Theresa Lynn, J. J. North, and Penthouse Pet of the Year Leslie Glass) and drain the essence from men. The comic sci-fi movie borrows ideas from Lifeforce and stars Peter Grimes as a detective. With Michelle Bauer, Joseph Pallister (from Playgirl), Charlie Callas, and Fred Olen Ray. It was made in Ft. Lee, New Jersey.

VAMPYRE

(Raedon, 1990) D/S/P/A/E: Bruce Hallenbeck
P: Antonio Paneta

Vampyre was shot on video in Eastfield Village, New Jersey for only "$20,000" and was inspired by the famous avant garde 1932 feature of the almost same name (Vampyr). A character named David Gray narrates and is first seen as a kid with a huge cross around his neck. I'm impressed by the impossibly low budget, but I still didn't understand why a period film with horses and candlelight has characters wearing jeans and modern ties walking around to music with a rock beat. Slow-paced movies can be great, but except for one topless vampire woman and a scene where some legs are cut off, there wasn't much going on to keep my interest. Writer John McCarty plays a victim. The Vampyr (CBS, 1993) is a modernized version of an 1827 opera.

VAMPYROS LESBOS

(VSOM, 1970) D/S: Jesús Franco
S: Jaime Chavarri P: Artur Brauner
Spain/W. Germany

Franco's semi-sequel to his Count Dracula (1969) is loosely based on a Bram Stoker short story. Basically, it's a very strange and sexy lesbian vampire movie with Lucy (Eva Stromberg), an American in Istanbul, having dreams of a stripper, actually the vampire Countess Nadine (Soledad Miranda), who has her own island. Other characters are Dr. Seward (Dennis Price), with a mute assistant named Morpho, a shrink (Paul Muller), and a boyfriend (Viktor Feldman). The Spanish/Portuguese Miranda (also in Franco sex films as Susan Korda) died in a car accident before the movie was released. Different versions were made for various countries in Europe. The video is letterboxed and subtitled.

THE VANISHING

(Fox Lorber, 1986) D/S/E: George Sluizer
S: Tim Krabbe P: Anne Gordon
Holland/France (Spoorloos)

This unnerving Hitchcock-type psychological movie takes place over a three-year period. The wife (Johanna Ter Steege) disappears while a couple is on vacation in France. The husband (Gene Bervoets) and the family man (Bernard-Pierre Donnadieu) who kidnapped her are the main characters. The woman had been buried alive. Originally two hours long, it's based on "The Golden Egg" by screenwriter Krabbe. It was released in the US in 1991 at 101 minutes, then was remade.

THE VANISHING

(Fox, 1992) D: George Sluizer
S: Todd Graff M: Jerry Goldsmith

20th Century-Fox brought over the original director to make this Americanized remake, but softened the effect by changing the ending. The

PHILO VANCE

Vance, a detective created by S. S. Van Dine, is a young aristocrat and amateur detective (who reads Nietzsche). Dick Powell was the first-seen Vance in The Canary Murder Case from Paramount (1929). It was a silent with sound added, and Louise Brooks costarred. Powell returned in three more films. The last, The Kennel Murder Case (1933), directed by Michael Curtiz, was at Warners. Meanwhile Basil Rathbone was Vance in The Bishop Murder Case (1930) at MGM. There were 11 more Vance movies, with various actors at various studios. Some stars were Warren William, Paul Lukas, Wilfrid Hyde-White, and Grant Richards. The last three released by PRC in 1947 were the closest thing to a series. One of the radio Vances was José Ferrer.

characters are very different too. Jeff Bridges stars as the twisted family man (with a Dutch accent) and kidnapper. Kiefer Sutherland is the Seattle man whose girlfriend (Sandra Bullock) disappears near Mount St. Helens and Nancy Travis (in a larger role than in the original) is his new girlfriend. With Park Overall and Lisa Eichhorn.

THE VANISHING SHADOW

(1934) D/E: Lewis Friedlander S: Het Manheim, Basil Dickey, George Morgan

Onslow Stevens uses a destroying ray, a big robot, and an invisibility vest to get revenge for the death of his father. The 12-chapter Universal serial also stars Ada Ince, Walter Miller, William Desmond, and Monte Montague. The director (as Lew Landers) went on to make features like The Raven (1935) and The Return of the Vampire (1943), both with Bela Lugosi.

VAN NUYS BOULEVARD

(Starmaker, 1979) D/S: William Sachs P: Newton P. Jacobs

Bobby (Bill Adler) is a small town boy who drives to Van Nuys for drag racing and disco dancing. He also gets thrown in jail and encounters a biker party with topless dancing. A Crown International release with Susan Severeid, Cyndi Wood (from Playboy), and Melissa Prophet. The soundtrack was on Mercury. The director made Galaxina next.

VARIETEASE

(SW, 1954) D: Irving Klaw

The Manhattan-based Klaw, famous for making and marketing b/w mail order shorts featuring Betty Page and other models, also made two 35mm, color burlesque review features. This was his first and it stars Lili St. Cyr with Christine Rogers, Betty Page, who dances dressed as a harem girl, plus comics and a female impersonator. It's 70 minutes long. Klaw made Teaserama (1955) next.

VARIETY

(HBO, 1984) D: Bette Gordon S: Kathy Acker P: Renee Schafransky

Sandy McLeod is a ticket taker at the (real) X-rated Variety Photoplays theater in New York near Union Square. She becomes fascinated with the male patrons and follows one around. With Will Patton, music by John Lurie, and some good location work. Before being closed down by the health department during the AIDS scare, the Variety Photoplays theater, built during the silent days, was a porno theater that showed unusual exploitation and horror double bills on some days. Seeing this nonexploitive feature at its debut in the Variety surrounded by people who had probably never been there before was a strange experience. The theater was later renovated and plays were presented there.

VEGAS IN SPACE

(Troma, 1992) D/S: Philip R. Ford S/A: Miss X, Doris Fish

Male astronauts are disguised as Vegas showgirls on an all-female planet called Clitoris in the future. "Doris Fish" stars as Capt. Dan Tracy in the very low budget sci-fi musical drag comedy. The San Francisco production took several years to complete. Fish died in 1991. Troma picked up the rights to the movie.

VEGAS VICE

(1994) D/S/P: Joey Travolta S: Rich Dillon

Sam Jones and Shannon Tweed are Vegas cops after a serial killer in a movie directed by the actor brother of John Travolta. With James Gammon, Miguel Nunez, and Rebecca Ferratti.

VELVET

(1984) D/P: Richard Lang S: Ned Wynn

Four female secret agents posing as aerobics instructors rescue a laser scientist who can make nuclear weapons useless. The Charlie's Angels–type ABC-TV pilot film stars Shari Belafonte-Harper, Leah Ayres, Mary Margaret Humes, and Sheree J. Wilson. With Polly Bergen, Leigh McCloskey, Bruce Abbott, Andrea Marcovicci, William Windom, and Clyde Kusatsu. Lang also directed feature-length episodes of Vega$, Kung Fu, and Fantasy Island.

VELVET SMOOTH

(Paragon, 1976) D/P: Michael Fink S: Leonard Michaels, Jan Weber P: Marvin Schild, Joel Schild

Johnnie Hill plays Velvet Smooth, a karate-kicking black female private detective with an all-lady staff who is hired by a drug dealer. Most of the very-low-budget movie is three women kicking and karate-chopping men. Owen Wat-son plays the ghetto gang leader and also was the martial arts coordinator.

VENDETTA

(Vestron, 1985) D: Bruce Logan S: Emil Farkas, Simon Maskell P: Jeff Begun (Angels Behind Bars)

A Hollywood stuntwoman (Karen Chase) who uses Bushido fighting techniques goes undercover in prison to catch her sister's killer. The butch prison gang leader (Sandy Martin) deals in drugs and prostitution. A woman does a Prince imitation and a punk country band plays at a party. With Michelle Newkirk and Roberta Collins. From Concorde.

VENGEANCE

(1964) D: Dene Hilyard S: Alex Sharp P/A: William Thourlby

Crown released this b/w post–Civil War revenge western. With Melora Conway and Tiger Joe Marsh. Thourlby had been in the infamous The Creeping Terror.

VENGEANCE IS MINE

(Video Treasures, 1975) D/S: John Trent S: Robert Maxwell P: David Perlmutter Canada/UK (Sunday in the Country; Blood for Blood)

Ernest Borgnine is a farmer and grandfather who fights back when murdering crooks, led by Michael J. Pollard, attack. Borgnine shoots, hangs, or sics dogs on them. With Hollis McLaren and Al Waxman. AIP released the Straw Dogs–inspired feature.

VENGEANCE OF THE ZOMBIES

(All Seasons, 1972) D: Leon Klimovsky S/A: "Paul Naschy"/Jacinto Molina P: Jose Antonio Perez Giner Spain/Italy (La Rebellión de las Muertas)

A British woman in 19th-century India whose family has been cursed becomes involved with a Krishna cult and zombies. Naschy plays two roles in a feature similar to Hammer films like Plague of the Zombies (1966).

VENGEFUL DEAD: See KISS DADDY GOODBYE

VENUS

(1984) D: Peter Hollison S: Jean Jabely S/P: Pierre Benicheu France/US

Odele Michel stars as Venus in an erotic feature shot in 3-D.

VENUS FLYTRAP

(Legacy, 1988) D/S: T. Michael S/P: Marvin Jones P: Kevin M. Glover, Steve Malis

In a shot-on-video feature, punk rockers hold up a store, crash a party, play strip darts and Russian roulette, have sex, then end up victims of a man-eating plant.

VENUS IN FURS

(SW, 1967) D/S/A: Joe Marzano P: Lou Campa

This 65-minute b/w Box Office International release claims to be based on the 1870 novel by Sacher-Masoch and was released near the time of first Velvet Underground album (with a song of the same name). A NYC shoe salesman reads Venus. He goes home with a rich suburban woman and witnesses a party with various fantasy rooms. His drink is drugged and he ends up tied to a tree while two women make love. But it was all a dream, which starts up again after he wakes. The dialogue (there's a lot) is very stilted. The only nudity is when a woman takes a milk bath, then crawls around like a cat. Shep Wild stars with "Elinore," Pat Barnett, and Bhob Stewart. The music is by Vito and the Vikings. Two Euro movies with the same name (by Dallamano and Franco) were released shortly after this one, and a Dutch version was released in 1994.

VERMILION EYES

(1987) D/S/P/E . . . : Nathan Schiff

Schiff had made short films since 1979, but this is a long 98 minutes. A guy who reads and collects issues of True Detective keeps a radiation suit in his trunk for when he just happens to discover dead women (death by car crash, train runs over . . .). He also goes out and kills hookers (or dreams that he does) and eventually he starts killing children and chases his sister through a graveyard (thinking philosophical thoughts all the while). This disturbing feature has some imaginative camera shots and hallucination scenes, but is mostly one gory death after another with some decapitations and sex with a silicone blonde thrown in for variation.

James Stewart surrounded by Kim Novak in Vertigo.

VERTIGO

(MCA, 1958) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock S: Alec Coppel, Samuel Taylor M: Bernard Herrmann

James Stewart stars as Scottie the acrophobic San Francisco cop in Hitchcock's obsessive and disturbing necrophilia/"ghost" movie. It's the favorite of many of the director's fans and was based on Sueur Froid by Pierre Boileau and Thomas Narcejac (who also wrote the book Diabolique was based on). Kim Novak is Madeline and Judy. With Barbara Bel Geddes, Tom Helmore, Henry Jones, and Ellen Corby. It was the last of Stewart's four Hitchcock movies. The John Fulton FX and the soundtrack (released on Mercury) are top grade. The 128-minute Paramount feature was rereleased in theaters in 1984. You've seen every plot twist and idea copied in many inferior movies, but if you haven't seen Vertigo, what are you waiting for?

THE VERY FRIENDLY NEIGHBORS

(1969) D: Albert Zugsmith P: Donald E. Lion

This obscure sex film about Hollywood wife-swapping, group sex, and hypnotism was one of the last by the man who once produced Orson Welles and Douglas Sirk movies.

VIBES

(RCA, 1988) D: Ken Kwapis S: Lowell Ganz, Babaloo Mandel P: Deborah Blum, Tony Ganz

Psychics Cyndi Lauper (a beautician who specializes in astral projection) and Jeff Goldblum fall in love in Ecuador. They discover a lost civilization and encounter gangsters. With Julian Sands, Peter Falk, Elizabeth Pena, Michael Lerner, and Steve Buscemi. Ron Howard was executive producer of this PG flop from Columbia. It was the only starring vehicle for singer Lauper ("Girls Just Wanna Have Fun").

VICE ACADEMY

(Prism, 1988) D/S/P/E: Rick Sloane

If you thought the Police Academy series was stupid, wait till you suffer through the Vice Academy series. Shawnee (Karen Russell) and Didi (Linnea Quigley) are new vice cops who infiltrate a porno racket and bust a movie shoot. With Ginger Lynn Allen as Holly, the police chief's daughter, and Viper, a tattooed porn star.

VICE ACADEMY PART 2

(Prism, 1990) D/S/P/E: Rick Sloane

Ginger Lynn Allen and Linnea Quigley return with Jay Richardson as a cop, Melissa Moore, and bodybuilder Teagan Clive as "Bimbicop." This time some evil woman puts Spanish fly in the city water supply.

VICE ACADEMY PART 3

(Prism, 1991) D/S/P: Rick Sloane

Ginger Lynn Allen (in all entries in this lame comedy series) is Holly, an undercover cop in prison. Julia Parton becomes a green-haired mutant holdup woman after a toxic accident. She commits crimes with her punk boyfriend and her ex-con girlfriends. With Elizabeth Kaitan (who has a topless scene), Darcy DeMoss, and Jay Richardson playing a cop. There's also B-Movie Queens Revealed: The Making of Vice Academy (1993) with scenes from all three.

VICE SQUAD

(Nelson, 1982) D: Gary A. Sherman S: Sandy Howard, Kenneth Peters, Robert Vincent O'Neil P: Brian Frankish

An LA cop is after a sadistic pimp played by Gerald Dwight "Wings" Hauser (known at the time for The Young and the Restless soap opera). He's called Ramrod and sings the song "Neon Slime"! The violent feature helped launch Hauser's long exploitation movie career. He's after a hooker (Season Hubley) who gave evidence against him, and Nina Blackwood (an original MTV vj) is beaten with a coat hanger. A softer TV version was also filmed. With Jonathan Hayes and Cheryl "Rainbeaux" Smith. By the director of Raw Meat and Dead and Buried.

VICE VERSA

(RCA/Columbia, 1988) D: Brian Gilbert S/P: Dick Clements, Ian La Frenais

A Chicago executive (Judge Reinhold) changes places with his 12-year-old son (Fred Savage), thanks to a magic skull from Bangkok. With Swoosie Kurtz and William Prince. It was the best of many body-switch films released in the late 80s, probably because it's basically a remake of a 1948 British feature of the same name directed by Peter Ustinov.

VICE WARS: See COCAINE WARS

VICIOUS

(Sony, 1988) D/S: Karl Zwicky S: Paul J. Hogan P: David Hannay, Charles Hannah Australia

This unrated violent movie features a bored suburban Sydney teen (Tamblyn Lord) who joins a trio of poverty-stricken teen psycho burglars. They kill a couple, kidnap the daughter, and continue to rape, torture, and kill. With Craig Pearce. It was not written by the Crocodile Dundee star (with the same name).

VICIOUS VIRGINS

(Cinema 2000, 1973) D: Henning Schellerup (The Black Bunch)

In Africa, villagers are massacred by mercenaries. Four (usually topless) native women join a rescue team searching for the son of Michael Pataki and seek revenge. The director made Black Alleycats for the same company. The (Canadian) video release is cut.

The Video Dead

VICTORIAN FANTASIES: See THE GROOVE ROOM

THE VIDEO DEAD

(Embassy, 1986) D/S/P: Robert Scott

A teenage brother and sister are in the new family house before their parents arrive. They find a haunted TV set showing Zombie Blood Nightmare. The guy smokes pot and watches TV. A blonde comes out of the set and strips for him. "The garbage man" also shows up on the screen. Eventually, zombies emerge from the set and a guy from Texas arrives at the door to help defeat them. One scene is copied from Phantasm, the girl dreams she's being eaten alive, and the zombies (who laugh) eat each other at the end. This is a silly, low-budget first effort with some gore, but I liked the characters and seeing people hunt zombies with arrows. The oddest part features the brother hanging from a tree with a chainsaw waiting for the living dead to attack.

VIDEODROME

(MCA, 1983) D/S: David Cronenberg
P: Claude Heroux Canada

Cronenberg was at his outrageous, challenging, ahead-of-his-time best when he made this one. James Woods stars as Toronto cable Channel 83 TV pirate Max Renn. He discovers a snuff broadcast (from Pittsburgh) that causes (incredible) hallucinations. Scenes of a breathing videocassette and Woods extracting a gun from his stomach are not easily forgotten. Cronenberg was inspired by Toronto's real City TV, known for showing "baby blues" (Swedish sex movies). Deborah Harry is the hostess of the "Emotional Rescue" radio show and Jack Creley is Prof. Brian O'Blivion ("Television is reality. Reality is less than television"). With Sonja Smits and Bob Clark. The excellent FX are by Rick Baker and Steve Johnson. It was cut for the theatrical release and rated R, but the video release is uncut. An alternative version missing nudity and blood but with interesting previously unseen footage has been on A&E cable TV and also was sold through the mail on tape. The Howard Shore soundtrack is on Varèse Sarabande. "Long live the new flesh!"

VIDEO MURDERS

(TWE, 1987) D/S/P: Jim McCullough Jr.
P: Jim McCullough Sr.

A traveling psycho (Eric Brown from Private Lessons) kills Shreveport, Louisiana, hookers in his hotel room and makes snuff tapes. He keeps one woman chained up. With disco and cemetery scenes but little on-screen sex or violence. It's a 16mm effort by the father/son makers of Mountaintop Massacre.

VIDEO VIOLENCE: WHEN RENTING IS NOT ENOUGH!

(Camp, 1986) D/S/E: Gary Cohen P: Ray Clark

A couple open a video store. The customers are psycho killers who rent only horror tapes. It was shot on tape, is bad, and features bad FX, but Video Violence II: The Exploitation (Camp, 1988) followed with the same couple.

VIETNAM, TEXAS

(TWE, 1990) D/P/A: Robert Ginty
S: C. Courtney Joyner P: Mark Damon

Ginty stars as a kung-fu-fighting Nam-vet priest in Houston. He had fathered a Nam kid, whose mom is now married to a Vietnamese Mafia boss. Haing S. Ngor (The Killing Fields) also costars; he was shot down outside his home in 1996. Ginty also directed The Bounty Hunter.

A VIEW TO A KILL

(MGM/UA, 1985) D: John Glen S: Richard Maibaum
P: Albert Broccoli, Michael G. Watson

This was the last (finally!) of the Roger Moore Bond movies. At least the villains are interesting. Grace Jones is May Day, the killer mistress of global industrialist villain Max Zorn (Christopher Walken). May Day and Zorn are both results of an ex-Nazi's genetic experiments. With Tanya Roberts, Patric Macnee, Fiona Fullerton, and Dolph Lundgren in a small role (his first). The climax takes place at the Golden Gate bridge. The John Barry soundtrack was on Capitol and the hit theme was by Duran Duran. During its original release it made less than its $30 million cost. Moore and Sean Connery each played Bond seven times. Timothy Dalton took the role next, in The Living Daylights (1987).

VIGILANTE

(Vestron, 1983) D/P: William Lustig S: Richard Vetere P: Andrew Garroni (Street Gang)

Robert Forster is a good New York family man and factory worker who joins coworker Fred Williamson's vigilante group after his family is attacked and his kid is killed. He's put on trial and goes to jail for assaulting the judge, but gets out for more revenge in a gritty, violent movie. With Carol Lynley as the Queens D.A., Joe Spinell as an attorney, Willie Colon, Rutanya Alda, Woody Strode, and Steve James. Jay Chattaway wrote the score. By the director of Maniac (1980) and The Violation of Claudia (1977).

VIGILANTE FORCE

(1976) D/S: George Armitage P: Gene Corman

A Nam vet (Kris Kristofferson) is hired to fight off oilfield workers in a California town. With Jan-Michael Vincent, Victoria Principal (her last theatrical role), Bernadette Peters, Andrew Stevens, Brad Dexter, David Doyle, Anthony Carbone, Yvette Vickers, Richard Rust, and Dick Miller. The PG-rated U.A. release was a flop, and Armitage didn't direct again until Miami Blues (1990).

VIKING MASSACRE

(Mega, 1967) D/S: "John Hold"/Mario Bava
S: Alberto Liberati, George Simonelli P: P. Tagliaferri
Italy (I Coltelli del Vendicatore; Knives of the Avenger)

One of Cameron Mitchell's last movies before playing Buck on The High Chaparral (1967–71), this was his third for director Bava. An old lady fortune teller on a beach warns a woman and her young son to "Beware of Og!" A flashback reveals the time when the warrior Ogden interrupted a royal wedding by showing off decapitated heads and was cursed by the king. Rurik (Mitchell with blond hair) is the bitter mystery man who shows up to protect the fatherless family. His flashback, complete with narration, reveals more plot complications and shows him raping and pillaging in a black metal mask. Later, during a knife fight, Rurik proclaims, "I could split your liver, I could quarter you, but I want your heart!" At the end of this tale of vengeance, Rurik rides off alone, just like in an Italian western, which this could have been with just a few costume changes and some guns. Of course, Bava, known for his horror movies, also directed westerns, and Mitchell had acted in an early Italian western (Minnesota Clay, 1964).

James Woods and Deborah Harry in Videodrome.

THE VILLAIN

(Columbia, 1979) D: Hal Needham S: Robert G. Kane P: Paul Maslansky (Cactus Jack)

This PG slapstick comedy western was inspired by Road Runner cartoons with Kirk Douglas as Wile E. Coyote. He uses lots of explosives, is dragged by horses, and boulders fall on him. Sped up photography and old Warner Brothers cartoon music themes are added. Arnold Schwarzenegger (!) is "the handsome stranger," the bodyguard for Ann-Margret. With Paul Lynde as an Indian chief, Foster Brooks, Ruth Buzzi, Jack Elam, Strother Martin, R. G. Armstrong, Robert Tessier, and Mel Tillis. It was made during Douglas's most ridiculous acting period (Holocaust 2000, Saturn 3 . . .)

VINDICATOR

(Key, 1984) D: Jean Claude Lord S: Edith Rey, David Reston P: Don Carmody, John Dunning Canada (Frankenstein '88)

A scientist is killed and brought back to life as a robot/mummy monster (a Stan Winston FX creation). Pam Grier is the bounty hunter (named "Hunter") hired to kill it and Terri Austin is the wife. Some ideas are lifted from The Terminator, and there's some sex and violence.

THE VINEYARD

(Starmaker, 1988) D/S/A: James Hong D: William Rice S: Douglas Condo, James Marlowe P: Harry Mok

Hong (in old-age makeup) stars as Dr. Po, a scientist on an island in search of immortality. The evil Po says things like "Castrate him! Kill the eunuch!" and plants zombie men in the yard (like in Motel Hell). He also keeps semi-nude women chained up in the basement. He fertilizes his vineyard with human blood and markets rejuvenating wine. With Karen Witter (from One Life to Live) as an actress who shows up hoping for a film role and Cheryl Larson (who throws up spiders). The New World release tries to be like some of the wilder 80s Asian horror movies and includes martial arts.

VIOLATED

(Sinister, 1954) D/S/P: Kurt Neumann S: Felix Leutzkenforf W. Germany (Mannequins für Rio; Party Girls for Sale; They Were So Young)

A man relates a flashback about Madame Zenoba and her Rio model agency, actually a slavery operation with captive European women. Johanna Matz is Eva, a German girl who is eventually exiled to a riverboat hell patronized by drunken coffee workers, and Scott Brady is the American engineer hero. A Dutch girl who runs away is beaten and drugged. The man behind it all is a respectable tycoon named Hieme Colla (Raymond Burr!). With Ingrid Stenn, Kurt Meisel, and Gert Frobe as the captain. Lippert released the exploitable feature. This retitled rerelease print is jumpy. Neumann, from Nuremberg, made Carnival Story in Germany around the same time.

VIOLATED

(Vestron, 1984) D/S: Richard Cannistraro S: Bennet Sims

A New York City actress fights back against gangsters who use and abuse party girls. April Daisy White stars with J. C. Quinn as a cop. Viewers were surprised to see John Heard (giving another good performance in a brief role) in this lowly exploitation movie with rape and nude scenes. Also with Elizabeth Kaitan and Samantha Fox.

THE VIOLATERS

(1957) D: John Newland S: Ernest Pendrell P: Himan Brown

Nancy Malone stars as a teenager "On Parole! Too Young To Know Better . . . Too Hard To Care!" It's not as exploitive as it sounds. Arthur O'Connell plays her dad and Fred Beir is her boyfriend. The director later created and hosted the One Step Beyond series. From Universal.

THE VIOLATION OF CLAUDIA

(VSOM, 1972) D/S: Claudio Guerin Hill S: Giovanni Simonelli Spain/Italy (La Violación)

Ornella Muti stars as a 17-year-old having an affair with a man at a villa filled with pigeons. When he returns to her mother (Lucia Bose), the girl loses it. Hill made the bizarre A Bell From Hell (1973) next, before dying on location.

VIOLENT PLAYGROUND

(1957) D: Basil Dearden S: James Kennaway P: Michael Relph UK

David McCallum is incredible as Johnny, a dangerous psycho teen pyro who holds a classroom full of little kids hostage at gunpoint. It was one of the first roles for the blond actor, who later moved to America to costar on The Man From U.N.C.L.E. Stanley Baker is top-billed as a cop, Anne Heywood is Johnny's sister, and Peter Cushing, just before becoming a horror star, is an ineffectual priest. U.A. released the b/w Rank feature in America.

VIOLENT ROAD

(1958) D: Howard W. Koch S: Richard Landau P: Aubrey Schenck

The Wages of Fear plot was borrowed for this Universal release about some men driving a truckload of explosives over a bumpy road. Brian Keith stars with Dick Foran, Efrem Zimbalist Jr., Merry Anders, and Ann Doran. Koch made Frankenstein 1970 the same year.

VIOLENT SHIT

(Tempe, 1988) D/S/P: Andreas Schnaas W. Germany (Violent Trash)

Mass murderer Karl the Butcher escapes and kills. The cheap and gory movie from Hamburg is on video letterboxed and subtitled. It's 75 minutes long. Schnaas also made Zombie 90: Extreme Pestilence (1990) and Violent Shit II: Mother Hold My Hand (1992).

VIOLENT WOMEN

(1959) D/P: Barry Mahon

Here is minimal filmmaking at its finest. Five female prisoners kill a snitch and escape through a drainpipe. They emerge on the streets of New York. It's only an hour long in b/w from Exploit Films. With Jennifer Slater and Jo Ann Kelly. Mahon had already made Cuban Rebel Girls with Errol Flynn and went on to make many entertaining adults-only movies.

VIPER

(Fries, 1988) D/P: Peter Maris S: Frank Kerr

CIA agents kill university administration members and take over a university building in Indiana. They blame Mideast terrorists in order to start a war. Linda Purl, now a widow, investigates and becomes a female Rambo. With James Tolkan, Ken Foree, and Chris Robinson. By the director of Terror Squad.

VIPER

(1994) D/S/P: Danny Bilson S/P: Paul DeMeo

A real-souped-up Chrysler Viper sports car stars with James McCaffrey as the scientist hero in California of the near future. The car can shoot missiles and change colors. The NBC pilot features series regulars Dorian Harewood and Joe Nipote plus Sydney Walsh.

A VIRGIN AMONG THE LIVING DEAD: See ZOMBIE 4

VIRGIN HIGH

(RCA/Columbia, 1990) D/P/A: Richard Gabai S: Jeff Neill

Late-night cable was the place for this stupid Catholic girls' school comedy. Burt Ward is the dad of star Tracy Dali, and the director plays her boyfriend disguised as a priest. With Linnea Quigley, Michelle Bauer, and an Elvis impersonator.

THE VIRGIN OF NUREMBERG = HORROR CASTLE

THE VIRGIN PRESIDENT

(1968) D/S/C: Graeme Ferguson S/P/A: Severn Darden

In the near future, the President of the USA (Darden) is succeeded by his naive son Fillard Millmore (also Darden), and advisors to the new President plot to nuke Manhattan and blame the Chinese. With Richard Neuweiler, Peter Boyle, and Louis Waldron. Darden was in The President's Analyst and Fearless Frank around the same time. New Line released the underground satire.

THE VIRGIN QUEEN OF ST. FRANCIS HIGH

(1987) D/S: Francesco Lucente

A bet about if a guy can score with a virgin high school beauty is the plot of this PG-rated Crown International release. Stacy Christensen and Joseph R. Straface star.

Erica Gavin and Vincene Wallace in Vixen!

THE VIRGIN WITCH

(Prism, 1970) D: Ray Austin S: Klaus Vogel P: Ralph Solomans UK

Christine (Anne Michelle, also in The Haunted), a miniskirted model who has premonitions, goes to the country for a job and brings along her sister Betty (real-life sister Vicki Michelle from Psychomania). Sybill (Patricia Haines), who is in charge, turns out to be a (lesbian) high priestess who uses black magic and wants the virgin sister for a ceremony. Much of this "adult" movie is naked dancing (to bongo music) and hard-to-see orgies, but the Michelle sisters are worth a look. Joseph Brenner released the Tigon film in America in 1978 on a double bill with Devil's Rain. Austin later directed episodes of Space: 1999 and The New Avengers.

VIRIDIANA

(Hens Teeth, 1961) D/S: Luis Buñuel S: Julio Alejandro P: Ricardo Muñoz Suay Spain/Mexico

The wealthy Don Jaime (Fernando Rey) hangs himself after he drugs his niece Viridiana (Silvia Pinal), who is studying to become a nun. She and the man's son (Francisco Rabal) inherit the estate. She invites beggars into the house, but they have a drunken orgy and in one famous scene, re-create the last supper. Viridiana was an international hit, and Buñuel soon returned to Europe to direct. It was partially filmed in Spain but was banned there for years. Authorities tried to have all prints confiscated.

THE VISION

(SVS, 1987) D: Norman Sloane S: William Nicholson P: David M. Thompson UK

A "people's channel" subverts the viewing audience. Lee Remick and Dirk Bogarde star in the BBC TV movie. With Helena Bonham Carter and Eileen Atkins.

VISIONS OF EVIL = SO SAD ABOUT GLORIA

VISITANTS

(TWE, 1985) D/S/P: Rick Sloane

Viridiana

Some aliens chase a teen who stole one of their ray guns. Another bad one by the director of the Vice Academy series.

VISITING HOURS

(Fox, 1981) D: Jean Claude Lord S: Brian Taggert P: Claude Heroux Canada

Killer Michael Ironside (then known for Scanners) goes after a feminist TV newscaster (Lee Grant) in a hospital. William Shatner is her ex-boyfriend. Also with Linda Purl and Lenore Zann. The director also made The Vindicator.

THE VISITORS

(Vidmark, 1988) D/S: Joakim Ersgard S: Patrick Ersgard P: Hakan Ersgard Sweden

An American ad man and his family move into a remote house in Sweden. He loses his job, everybody fights, and they suspect something supernatural is going on. An expert arrives with heavy electrical equipment and the family sleeps while all kinds of loud yelling and noise goes on. Eventually we see a bloody spirit monster from the attic. It's all very slow-moving and would have made a good comedy. Keith Berkeley and Lena Endre star.

VISITOR FROM THE GRAVE

(Thriller, 1980) D: Peter Sasdy S: Anthony Hinds UK

An intruder is shot and buried but seems to return to life. Simon MacCorkindale and Kathryn Leigh Scott are the couple living in a country home. Elvira hosts this hour-long Hammer House of Horror TV program.

VIVA KNIEVEL!

(Warner, 1977) D: Gordon Douglas S: Antonio Santillan, Norman Katkov P: Stan Hough M: Charles Bernstein

Real-life stunt driver Evel Knievel plays himself in a ridiculous PG-rated fictional adventure movie. Some drug dealers in Mexico try to kill him for his truck and he inspires miracles at an orphanage. The hero also jumps over burning oil and lions. The support cast includes Marjoe Gortner, Lauren Hutton, Gene Kelly, Leslie Nielsen, Red Buttons, Cameron Mitchell, Albert Salmi, and Frank Gifford. Evel Knievel (1971) had starred George Hamilton as the self-promoting daredevil. Warner had high expectations for this movie. It was the last movie directed by Douglas, who had done everything from General Spanky (1936) to Them!

VIXEN!

(RM, 1968) D/P/A/C/E: Russ Meyer S: Robert Rudelson

Erica Gavin is married to a Canadian bush pilot (Garth Pillsbury) who flies up people for fishing and hunting. She enjoys sex with her brother (Jon Evans), and her black draft-dodger lover (Harrison Page) wants to go to Cuba, but rejects communism in the end. In one scene Gavin puts a big fish down her blouse and in her mouth. The 71-minute-long feature was a big hit for Meyer. Vic Perrin narrated and Peter Carpenter is in the cast. A soundtrack was issued by Beverly Hills Records. Rudelson also wrote the Jason Robards movie Fools (1970).

VOICES: See NIGHTMARE

VOICES FROM BEYOND

(Nightmare, 1991) D/S: Lucio Fulci
S: Piero Regnoli Italy

In a "gothic thriller," the spirit of a dead man (Duilio Del Prete) looks for his killer. His daughter helps.

VOODOO BLACK EXORCIST

(Dura Vision, 1974) D: M. Cano S: S. Monkada
Spain (Vudú Sangriento)

Here's a crazy mummy movie you might have missed, a Madrid/ Miami production with some scenes shot in Haiti, Jamaica, and the Dominican Republic. On a tropical island two natives (Spanish actors in blackface) fight over Kenya (Tanyeka Stadler). During a voodoo ceremony—complete with frenzied topless black dancers—Kenya is decapitated and her (very fake-looking) head is passed around. The titles show up over NASA stock footage. A Love Boat–type cruiser contains the casket of a mummy (Aldo Sambrel), who can change, wolfman-style, into a "normal" scary bald man with a magic ring. He makes a shipworker his servant and pursues Kenya's reincarnation. He decapitates a man and puts the head in bed with her. In Kingston he has a man run over by a steamroller, and is interviewed on TV: "Three centuries in museums. I've learned many things!" In Port-au-Prince somebody fights the mummy with a water hose. He kidnaps his lost love and takes her to a huge cave. His obvious double goes down in flames at the end. The music ranges from sitars to Davie Allan–style guitar soundtrack rock. This movie has lots of talk and flashbacks and a fire-eating belly dancer. In my favorite scene, the mummy man is seen in a mirror, slapping a dancer around. The cameraman is clearly seen in the mirror, too. Director Cano also made King of the Jungle.

VOODOO DAWN

(Academy, 1989) D: Steven Fierberg S: John Russo, Jeffrey Delman, Thomas Rendon P: Steven Mackler

Gina Gershon has the main role as Tina, a migrant worker whose lover is hacked to death. The boyfriend's NYU buddies show up and Madame Daslay (Theresa Merritt) instructs them in zombie protection. One of them stops to rollerskate around an empty mansion. Raymond St. Jacques gets to battle the tall zombie Makoute (Tony Todd from the Candyman movies) and explain that the killer was "head of the Haitian secret police" and is "looking for body parts," but doesn't explain what he's doing in America. This movie is slow and boring, the killing is offscreen or too dark to see, and the end is confusing. It was filmed around Charleston, South Carolina.

VOODOO DOLLS

(1989) D: Andre Pelletier S: Ed Kelleher, Harriette Vidal P: Roger Racine Canada

A drama professor at a private girls' college in Louisiana becomes possessed while putting on a play called White Darkness, written by a killer. It was made in Montreal along with the movie Madonna and is by the same American screenwriters.

VORTEX

(1982) D/S/M/E: Scott and Beth B.

Lydia Lunch is a detective exposing corrupt government defense policies. The New York City "underground" feature has a strange cast including James Russo, Richard France (from Romero's The Crazies), Bill Rice, Ann Magnuson, Haoui Montaug, and Bill Landis. With music by Lunch and Adele Bertei. The "B.'s" had also directed The Black Box (1978), The Offenders (1979) and The Trap Door (1980). Beth B. made features on her own after this one.

VOYAGE OF THE ROCK ALIENS

(Vestron, 1984) D: James Fargo, Bob Giraldi S: James Guidotti, Edward Gold P: Michaelle H. Keller, Brian Russell

Pia Zadora is Dee Dee in a frat comedy musical sci-fi Beach Party retread with lots of costumes and dance routines. With Tom Nolan as an alien with a rock band and a guitar-shaped spaceship, Ruth Gordon as the sheriff, Michael Berryman as Chainsaw, and Craig Sheffer. Pia and Jermaine Jackson sing a duet which somehow made it to #54 on the charts in 1985. This barely released feature was the fourth and last of Pia's star vehicles. Mike Curb was an executive producer. After this she had a kid with her millionaire husband and recorded her Pia and Phil LP.

V—THE FINAL BATTLE

(Warner, 1984) D: Richard T. Heffron
S: Brian Taggert, Peggy Goldman, Diane Frolov, Faustus Buck P: Dean O'Brien, Patrick Boyriven

Marc Singer, Faye Grant, Jane Badler, Andrew Prine and other cast members return in an even longer (6-hour) but not better followup miniseries about lizard aliens. Also with Richard Herd, Michael Ironside, Sarah Douglas, Greta Blackburn, and Dick Miller (as a drunk). A regular weekly series followed, but only lasted one year. Singer was one of the most overworked actors in direct-to-video releases by the early 90s.

VULTURES

(Prism, 1983) D/S/P: Paul Leder

Members of a Mexican-American family gather around a dying old man and are killed off. Stuart Whitman is the main suspect and Yvonne DeCarlo says "I can't fuck and think at the same time!" Everyone seems to have lovers half their age. Greg Mullavey is a cop and Meredith MacRae is a doctor. With Whitman's son Kipp (from Bummer!), Spanish horror star Maria Perschy (as a movie star), and Aldo Ray (killed in the first scene). Oh yeah, the real (surprise!) star is female impersonator Jim Bailey who plays six roles! In one scene he plays three people—but two are dead! He also does Streisand! Leder directed a whole series of brain-numbing movies featuring Mullavey (from Mary Hartman . . .) and his wife MacRae (from Petticoat Junction).

WACKO

(Vestron, 1981) D/P: Greydon Clark
S: Dana Olsen, Michael Spound

In a slasher parody with Airplane-type gags, a cop (Joe Don Baker making fun of Walking Tall) searches for the pumpkin-headed "Lawnmower Killer." Stella Stevens, George Kennedy, and Julia Duffy are the Grave family. With Charles Napier, Jeff Altman, Scott McGinnis, and Andrew Dice Clay. Baker was also in Joysticks and Final Justice by Clark around the same time.

THE WAGES OF FEAR

(Home Vision, 1952) D/S/P: Henri-Georges Clouzot S: Jerome Geronimi France/Italy

An international group of four men in a Central American oil town volunteer to drive two trucks full of nitro needed to put out an oil fire for reward money. The all-time suspense classic is by the director of the original Diabolique (also available from Home Vision) and is based on a novel by Georges Arnaud. At one time Hitchcock tried to obtain the rights and direct it. Yves Montand stars with Charles Vanel, Peter Van Eyck, Folco Lulli, and Vera Clouzot. The 156-minute feature was filmed in France. 34 minutes were cut out of the original American version because of politics (Third World countries being raped by US businesses) and some homosexual implications. The uncut version wasn't shown in American theaters until 1991 and is now available (subtitled) on tape. It was copied by The Violent Road (1958) and remade as Sorcerer (1977).

WAITRESS!

(Troma, 1981) D/P: Michael Herz, Lloyd Kaufman
S: Michael Stone, Charles Kaufman

Three women work as New York waitresses in a badly run restaurant. The early Troma comedy features Anthony Denison (Crime Story) and Larry "Bud" Melman.

WAIT UNTIL DARK

(Warner, 1967) D: Terence Young
S: Robert Carrington, Jane-Howard Carrington P: Mel Ferrer

Audrey Hepburn stars as Suzy Hendrix, a blind woman in a New York home who has to outsmart a psycho criminal (Alan Arkin) who uses disguises. He's after a doll with heroin inside. Richard Crenna and Jack Weston are Arkin's accomplices, and Efrem Zimbalist Jr. is the absent husband. Robby Benson was an extra. Based on a hit Broadway play by Frederick Knott (as was Dial M for Murder), it was copied many times in later years. Hepburn was nominated for an Oscar. Ferrer, her husband at the time, produced a number of features before returning to acting.

WALKABOUT

(1971) D/C: Nicholas Roeg S: Edward Bond
P: Si Litvinoff, Max L. Rabb UK/Australia

Two kids lost in the Australian outback are befriended by an aborigine (David Gulpilil). 16-year-old Jenny Agutter and Lucien John (the director's son) are the stars of the complex culture-clash feature. John Barry wrote the music. Roeg worked on Deadly Honeymoon (1972), but was replaced, then made Don't Look Now (1973). Agutter had been in films since she was a little girl, and Gulpilil went on to a long acting career. From 20th Century–Fox.

WALKER: A TRUE STORY

(MCA, 1987) D: Alex Cox S: Rudy Wurlitzer P: Lorenzo O'Brien

Ed Harris stars as the (real) William Walker, an American soldier of fortune who declared himself president of Nicaragua in 1855. Cornelius Vanderbilt (Peter Boyle) backs him. 20th-century anachronisms (tape recorders, cars . . .) were thrown in to remind viewers of America's then-topical role in the country. People die in slow motion. The total box-office failure of this very political movie and Cox's Straight to Hell ended the British director's American career. He moved to Mexico and made Highway Patrolman. With Richard Masur, René Auberjonois, Keith Szarabajka, John Diehl, Marlee Matlin, Sy Richardson, Pedro Armendariz Jr., and Gerrit Graham. The music is by Joe Strummer from the Clash.

WALKER: TEXAS RANGER

(1993) D: Virgil W. Vogel S: Louise McCarn P: Nancy Bond (One Riot, One Ranger)

The CBS pilot starring Chuck Norris as a half-Indian Texas Ranger who'd rather kick than shoot led to a series. With Sheree J. Wilson and Clarence Gilyard. Walker: Texas Ranger: Deadly Reunion (Warner) is another feature-length episode. They were shot in Texas.

Joe Don Baker as Buford Pusser in Walking Tall.

WALKING AFTER MIDNIGHT

(1988) D/P: Jonathan Kay Canada

The Dalai Lama of Tibet is in this star-studded documentary about reincarnation. Martin Sheen, James Coburn, Willie Nelson, k. d. lang, Helen Shaver, Donovan, Rae Dawn Chong, and Dennis Weaver all appear too. It was narrated by Ringo Starr (who checked into an alky clinic the year it was released) and was backed by the National Film Board of Canada.

WALKING TALL

(Vestron, 1973) D: Phil Karlson S/P: Mort Briskin

Bing Crosby, of all people, put the money behind this drive-in classic. Joe Don Baker stars as real-life Tennessee sheriff Buford Pusser, who uses a "pacifier" club to beat local gangsters and killers. Elizabeth Hartman costars with Gene Evans, Noah Beery Jr., Bruce Glover, Logan Ramsey, and Kenneth Tobey. Pusser himself was hired as an advisor. Johnny Mathis (!) sings the title song. Karlson had just directed the hit Ben. Cinerama made and released both, then went bankrupt. AIP took over distribution of Walking Tall, then made the sequels (with Bo Svenson).

WALKING TALL, PART 2

(Vestron, 1975) D: Earl Bellamy S: Howard B. Kreitsek P: Charles A. Pratt (Part 2—Walking Tall)

Bo Svenson replaced original star Joe Don Baker as the legendary Tennessee sheriff and he whups some more bad guys. Buford Pusser was going to play himself, but died in a car crash. With Luke Askew, John Chandler, Robert DoQui, Richard Jaeckel, Angel Tompkins, and Leif Garrett. Noah Beery Jr., Bruce Glover, Logan Ramsey, and Lurene Tuttle all return from the first film (although not all as the same characters). The Bing Crosby production was AIP's biggest hit of the year.

WALKING TALL: THE FINAL CHAPTER

(Vestron, 1977) D: Jack Starrett S: Howard B. Kreitsek P: Charles A. Pratt (Final Chapter—Walking Tall)

Bo Svenson returned in this "final" chapter about the Tennessee sheriff Buford Pusser. With Forrest Tucker, Margaret Blye, Morgan Woodward, and H. B. Haggerty. Bruce Glover, Lurene Tuttle, Leif Garrett, and Logan Ramsey also returned from Part 2. A Bing Crosby Production released by AIP, it was the company's biggest hit of 1977. A Real American Hero (1978), aka Hard Stick (on Mntex Video), starring Brian Dennehy, was a Pusser TV movie, and Svenson returned in a very short-lived NBC-TV series in 1981.

WALKING THE EDGE

(Vestron, 1983) D: Norbert Meisel S: Curt Allen
P: Sergei Goncharoff M: Jay Chattaway

Robert Forster stars as an LA cab driver who helps Nancy Kwan. She wants vengeance after her husband and son are killed. Joe Spinell is the main torturing gangster. From Empire.

WALK LIKE A MAN

(MGM, 1987) D: Melvin Frank
S: Robert Klane P: Leonard Kroll

Bobo (Howie Mandel) is raised by wolves, then reunited with his real family in a PG comedy. With Christopher Lloyd, Cloris Leachman, Colleen Camp, and George DiCenzo.

WALK OF THE DEAD=VENGEANCE OF THE ZOMBIES

WALK THE WALK

(1970) D/S/P: Jac Zacha

This R-rated anti-drug movie was the the last from the famous road-show king, Kroger Babb. Bernie Hamilton stars as a black theological student hooked on heroin and booze. He eventually manages to straighten out, but after an injury, a doctor gives him sedatives. He returns to drugs and hangs himself. The depressing tale was advertised with lines like: "Hear six new songs! See a hippy wedding!" With Honor Lawrence as a female pusher and Eric Weston. It opened in the summer, just after The Cross and the Switchblade. Hamilton had also been in Let No Man Write My Epitaph (1960) and Synanon (1965), both also about hard drug addiction.

WALLS IN THE CITY

(Provisional, 1994) D/S/P/C/E: Jim Sikora
S: Chris Sims P: Tamara Willis

One woman (Paula Killen) is featured in 3 interlocking stories of down-and-out, on-the-edge characters in Chicago. Most of them drink a lot, and the sex scene is the kind that features the guy's hairy butt. It's 70 minutes long, and includes scenes from Point Blank. The Castaways' "Liar Liar" and Johnny Cash's "Home of the Blues" are on the soundtrack (on Skin Graft Records). Tom Fitzpatrick and Bill Cusack costar. The middle part (based on Charles Bukowski) is also on the Small Gauge Shotgun compilation tape.

WANDA NEVADA

(Warner, 1979) D/A: Peter Fonda
S: Dennis Hackin P: Neal Dobrofsky

Peter Fonda (as a gambler in 1950) wins Brooke Shields in a poker game. They find gold in the Grand Canyon and meet a series of strange characters. With Fiona Lewis, Luke Askew, Severn Darden, and Henry Fonda in a fake-looking beard. The PG feature was Peter Fonda's last as director.

WANDA, THE SADISTIC HYPNOTIST

(SW, 1969) D/S/P: Greg Corarito E: Gary Graver

Walk the Walk from Kroger Babb.

A man is kidnapped by Wanda (Katharine Shubeck), a tall woman with a fashion-model body, heavy eye makeup, and a riding crop. Women swim naked in her LA pool; people are whipped (not realistically). She hypnotizes a saleslady and makes her dance, and a laughing escaped maniac breaks in. He and the first man smoke pot and pass around LSD pills, followed by a trip sequence. All the while, this silly (narrated) movie is being watched by one lone guy in a grindhouse theater (who started out by imagining nudes in a shop window then watching a nudist short). The garage rock music is by the Masochists, and there's a cosmic ending. The sound dubbing is as bad as possible. Richard Compton was the assistant director.

THE WANDERERS

(Warner, 1979) D/S: Philip Kaufman
S: Rose Kaufman P: Martin Ransohoff

In 1963, a Bronx gang fights the "Baldies" (who are tricked into joining the Marines) and the "Ducky Boys." Ken Wahl stars with Karen Allen, Linda Manz (as PeeWee), Erland Van Lidth de Jeude, Val Avery, and Olympia Dukakis. The Kennedy assassination is on TV, and at the end Wahl follows a girl into a folk club where "The Times They Are A-Changin'" is being performed by Bob Dylan (not shown). It was based on the novel by Richard Price. A good oldies soundtrack is on Warner Brothers. The Wanderers was released the same year as the more fantastic gang movie The Warriors, which got all the attention.

WANTED: DEAD OR ALIVE

(Starmaker, 1986) D/S: Gary Sherman
S: Michael Patrick Sherman, Brian Taggert
P: Robert C. Peters

Rutger Hauer is a former CIA agent turned bounty hunter in LA. He's supposed to be the "great-grandson" of the Steve McQueen character from the western TV show of the same name (1958–61). Of course most of the potential mid-80s audience members never heard of the series. Hauer becomes a victim of a government conspiracy. Gene Simmons is an Arab terrorist who blows up a theater showing Rambo. With Mel Harris and Robert Guillaume. From New World.

WAR AND REMEMBRANCE

(MPI, 1989) D/S: Dan Curtis
S: Earl W. Wallace, Herman Wouk P/A: Barbara Steele

Cult horror star Barbara Steele has a brief role in an early episode of this sequel to Curtis's The Winds of War (1983). The ABC miniseries was a very long 14 hours. The story covers 1941–45 (Pearl Harbor to Hiroshima). Robert Mitchum (looking too old) stars, with a cast of hundreds. Sharp-eyed viewers can spot many American and European character actors well known from exploitation movies. Sharon Stone has a role. It's all on 2 volumes of tapes (13 cassettes). When I visited Vienna, a beautiful old city with countless historical sights, I was shown War and Remembrance locations.

WARBIRDS

(Starmaker, 1989) D/S: Ulli Lommel S/P: Susanna Love S: Clifford B. Wellman P: Kurt Eggert

US flyers stop an Arab uprising in a very cheap Iron Eagle (or Top Gun) copy. With Cully Holland, Jim Eldert, and Timothy Hicks.

WAR BUS COMMANDO

(Trylon, 1989) D: Frank Valenti S: David Parker Jr. Italy

A soldier named Johnny Hondo (Mark Gregory) is sent by John Vernon to Afghanistan on a suicide mission. With Savina Gersak.

WARCAT

(TWE, 1987) D/M/E: Ted V. Mikels S: Gary Thompson
P/A: Jeffrey C. Hogue (Angel of Vengeance)

This was the first released movie directed by Mikels (Theodore Vincent Mikacevich) since 10 Violent Women back in 1978. An athletic female writer (Jannina Poynter) arrives in a small town. She catches fish with a sharp stick, runs a lot, and sings "Blowin' in the Wind" (!). A camouflaged military survivalist group in the desert, led by "the Major," easily wipes out a group of partying dirt-bikers but spares one female, whom they lock in a cage for sex. A stupid construction worker kidnaps the nature-loving writer and is whipped by the Major. She's tied up, raped (offscreen), and escapes. During an endless chase, she kills off the men by cutting throats, stabbing eyes, and using snakes, traps, and dynamite. (Mikels also did the FX.) Original director Ray Dennis Steckler's touch is evident during "meanwhile" scenes where two goons (like the ones in The Thrill Killers) rob and kill couples. They meet up with the victorious killer heroine at the end.

THE WAR GAME

(Nelson, Sinister, 1965) D/S/P: Peter Watkins UK

If you want to see what a city under nuclear attack might look like (without known actors to distract you), look for this extraordinary documentary-style 48-minute b/w film. It was made for, then banned by, the BBC. They finally aired it in 1985! I saw it in high school. It shows food riots, firestorms, and people with radiation sickness. The Nelson tape release also includes Watkin's Culloden. Watkins made Privilege next. He also made The Journey (1987), a 14½-hour anti-nuke documentary.

WAR GAMES

(MGM, 1983) D: John Badham S: Lawrence Lasker, Walter F. Parkes P: Harold Schneider

Matthew Broderick taps into a Pentagon computer and nearly starts a "global thermonuclear" WWIII. The hit PG adventure/comedy with a message ending costars Ally Sheedy, with Dabney Coleman as a computer defense specialist. With Barry Corbin, John Wood, Dennis Lipscomb, James Tolkan, Eddie Deezen, and Michael Madsen. Original director Martin Brest was fired. Badham made Blue Thunder the same year.

WAR GODDESS

(SW, 1972) D: Terence Young S: S. Richard Aubrey P: Nino Krisman Italy (Le Guerrière del Sno Nuda; The Amazons)

This outrageous R-rated period adventure (by the director of the first James Bond movies) had a high budget for this kind of thing. Stars Alean Johnston and Sabine Sun have a nude catfight, and topless Amazon warriors ride horses. Luciana Paluzzi and Malisso Longo are also in the AIP release. Young's next was The Klansman (1974).

WAR ITALIAN STYLE

(1967) D: Luigi Scattini S: Franco Castellano P: Fulvio Luciasano Italy (Due Marines e un Generale; The Amazons)

AIP backed this WWII comedy about a German lady spy, two American soldiers, and some missing plans. With the comedy team of Franco Franchi and Ciccio Ingrossia (from Dr. Goldfoot and the Girl Bombs), Buster Keaton (in his last released feature), Martha Hyer, and Fred Clark.

WARLOCK

(Vidmark, 1988) D/P: Steve Miner S: David Twohy M: Jerry Goldsmith

Julian Sands is the blond warlock dressed in black who escapes into the future after a nice beginning in 1691, in Massachusetts Bay Colony. Richard E. Grant (Withnail and I) follows him in an attempt to prevent the "uncreation," and the movie turns into a Terminator-in-reverse plot set in modern times. Sands flies on wires (like Peter Pan) and needs to boil virgin boys' fat (!) to achieve his goal. He also occasionally cuts off fingers and plucks out eyeballs, and he puts a fast-aging curse on Lori Singer. Warlock has some good fantasy ideas and a few shocking scenes, but parts are laughable. The final battle is on a very fake Boston graveyard set. With Mary Woronov as a medium. The New World production finally was released to American theaters by Trimark in 1991, and a sequel followed. The soundtrack is on Intrada. By the director of Friday the 13th Part 2 and Part 3.

WARLOCK: THE ARMAGEDDON

(Vidmark, 1993) D/A: Anthony Hickox S: Kevin Rock, Sam Bernard P: Peter Abrahm

There are some good FX (including morphing) and more gore than in the original, but the story is even sillier, and it's set in a boring western set town. Julian Sands (returning as the floating warlock) emerges full grown, bloody, and naked from a woman who had become instantly pregnant. Paula Marshall (Hellraiser III) and Chris Young are the teen stars who try to defeat him. With a zombie, voodoo, scalping, a crucifixion, and Micha the dwarf in drag. Also with R. G. Armstrong as one of the Druid guardians, Joanna Pacula (a victim in a bizarre fashion show scene), Bruce Glover, and in bit parts, Ferdinand Mayne, George "Buck" Flower, and Zach Galligan.

WARLORDS

(Vidmark, 1988) D: Fred Olen Ray S: Scott Ressler P: Harel Goldstein

David Carradine tries to rescue his wife (Brinke Stevens) in the post-nuke future desert. A female Rambo type (Dawn Wildsmith) and a ridiculous puppet head in a box help, and mutants threaten. With Sid Haig as a warlord villain, Ross Hagen, Fox Harris, and Robert Quarry. Stevens is seen topless and chained to a cross and Victoria Sellers (daughter of Peter), Michelle Bauer, and Debra Lamb also have topless scenes. For a while Stevens replaced Wildsmith in the director's life (and movies).

WARLORDS FROM HELL

(Warner, 1987) D: Clark Henderson S: James Mitchell Belkin, Tom Campbell

Two brothers on dirt bikes accidentally find a Mexican marijuana plantation run by sadistic bikers (led by Robert Patrick). With Brad Henson and Jeffrey Rice. It's a pretty bad one.

WARLORDS OF THE 21ST CENTURY

(Embassy, 1981) D/S: Harley Cokliss S: Irving Austin, John Beech P: Lloyd Phillips, Rob Whitehouse C: Chris Menges US/New Zealand (Battletruck)

In the future, during a fuel shortage, James Wainwright runs an outlaw army with a giant supertruck in this PG New World release. Hero Michael Beck (from Xanadu) is Hunter. With Annie McEnroe and Bruno Lawrence.

WARNING SHADOWS

(Video Yesterday, 1922) D/S: Arthur Robinson S: Rudolph Schneider C: Fritz Otto Wager Germany (Shatten)

This influential drama includes disorienting camera tricks with distorted faces, scary shadows, and odd lighting. A traveling magician hypnotizes characters in a house at night. Cinematographer Wager also shot Nosferatu and early Fritz Lang movies. American director Robinson also made The Student of Prague (1935) in Germany. Originally 93 minutes, the tape (with German and English titles) only runs 60.

WARNING SIGN

(Fox, 1985) D/S: Hal Barwood S: Matthew Robbins P: Jim Bloom M: Craig Safan (Biohazard)

Workers become violent toxic zombies during germ warfare research in Utah. The government tries to cover it up. An antitoxin is found in pregnant women. Sam Waterston stars with Kathleen Quinlan, Yaphet Kotto, Jeffrey DeMunn, Richard Dysart, and Rick Rossovich. The soundtrack is on Southern Cross.

WAR OF THE WIZARDS

(VSOM, 1978) D: Sadamasa Arikawa, Richard Caan S: F. Kenneth Lin P: Frank Wong Taiwan (The Phoenix)

Big Richard Kiel is the mute Grasshopper in this period fantasy adventure. The hero is a Thai fisherman who encounters an evil fox and a giant bird that battles a rock monster. Parts are similar to Toho giant monster movies, but not as good.

WARP SPEED

(1975) D/P: Allan Sandler P: Robert Emenegger

A spaceship takes a psychic to see what has happened to a missing crew. Adam West and Camille Mitchell are in the Gold Key direct-to-TV movie.

WARREN OATES: ACROSS THE BORDER

(1992) D/P: Tom Thurman

"For some of us, Warren Oates is the only human being in pictures." That's how this excellent look at the late Kentucky-born actor with "the meaningful squint" begins. Many choice film clips (The Shooting, Cockfighter, 92 in the Shade, Bring Me the Head of Alfredo Garcia, in which he "played" director Sam Peckinpah . . .) are shown, and some of the people interviewed are Monte Hellman, Peter Fonda, Stacy Keach, Robert Culp, and Harry Dean Stanton. Ned Beatty (also from Kentucky) narrates.

THE WARRIOR AND THE SORCERESS

(Vestron, 1984) D/S/P: John Broderick P: Frank K. Isaac Jr.

It's an outer space post-nuke Samurai western with David Carradine as Kain, "the Dark One." It's also an uncredited Yojimbo remake with tentacled monsters. Naja (Maria Socas) is topless throughout the entire movie, and one woman has four breasts. Luke Askew is Zeg. From Corman's New Horizons.

WARRIOR OF THE LOST WORLD

(HBO, 1983) D/S: David Worth P: Roberto Bessi, Frank E. Hildebrand

In another post-nuke adventure, the hero "Warrior" (Robert Ginty) and his talking computer motorcycle try to rescue Persis Khambatta and her father (Harrison Muller). Fred Williamson is "Henchman," who works for the evil leader Prosser (Donald Pleasence). The Sarlui production includes martial arts, trucks, and Amazons. It was later ridiculed on the Mystery Science Theater 3000 program.

WARRIOR QUEEN

(Vestron, 1985) D: Chuck Vincent
S: Rick Marx P: Harry Alan Towers, Aristede Masacessi US/Italy (Pompeii)

Towers and Vincent were a match made in hell, and this embarrassment features orgies and slave auctions. Sybil Danning is the mistress of the Roman emperor Claudius (Donald Pleasence, in probably his worst role ever). She travels to rescue a slave (Tally Chanel aka Britanny). With Josephine Jacqueline Jones, David Gaughton, Richard Hill, and porn star Samantha Fox (in two roles). The volcano eruption footage is from Last Days of Pompeii (1960). The unrated tape has more sex scenes and runs 79 minutes. The R version is ten minutes shorter.

THE WARRIORS

(Paramount, 1979) D/S: Walter Hill
S: David Shaber P: Lawrence Golden
C: Andrew Laszlo

A Clockwork Orange–inspired gang with makeup and baseball bats, among others, chase a more normal-looking gang from the Bronx all the way to their home turf (Coney Island) on the subway. This got (good) negative publicity because of real gangs fighting in theaters. It's a pretty good action movie and for me has improved with age. What happens in New York City isn't realistic (not quite yet), but lots of real locations were used. A major fight scene takes place in a subway restroom. With Michael Beck, James Remar (his debut), David Patrick Kelly, Deborah Van Valkenburgh, Mercedes Ruehl (her debut) as a cop, and Steve James. Based on a novel by Sol Yurick. The A&M soundtrack features "Nowhere To Run" and Joe Walsh's "In the City," the end theme.

WARRIORS

(Republic, 1994) D/P: Shimon Dotan
S: Alexander Epstein, Benjamin Gold
P: Shimon Arama Canada/Israel

Gary Busey and Michael Paré star as government-trained mercenaries who battle and chase each other. Wendi Fulford is a hooker.

WARRIORS 5

(1960) D/S: Leopoldo Savona S: Dino De Santis, Ugo Pirro P: Fulvio Lucisano
Italy/France (La Guera Continua)

An American paratrooper is helped by Italian guerrillas in 1943. Jack Palance and Giovanna Ralli star in the AIP release.

WARRIORS OF THE APOCALYPSE

(Vestron, 1985) D/P: Bobby A. Suarez
S/A: Ken Metcalf Philippines
(Searchers of the Voodoo Mountain)

In a post-nuke adventure, a hero named Trapper (Michael James) fights Indians in the jungle. He discovers the sexy queen (Deborah Moore) of Voodoo Mountain, who has mutant slaves in a nuke plant.

WARRIORS OF THE WASTELAND

(Thorn EMI, 1982) D/S/A: Enzo Castellari
S: Tito Carpi P: Fabrizio De Angelis Italy
(The New Barbarians; I Nuovi Barbari)

In another Road Warrior copy, Timothy Brent (as Skorpion) teams with Fred Williamson (as Nadir!). They battle a post-nuke gang of raping homosexual Templars led by George Eastman. Nadir has a crossbow and exploding arrows. With some silly-looking customized old cars and a decapitation vehicle. It was cut for an R when released by New Line.

WARRIORS OF THE WIND

(Starmaker, 1984) D/S: Hayao Miyazaki
P: Isao Takahata Japan
(Naussica in the Valley of the Wind)

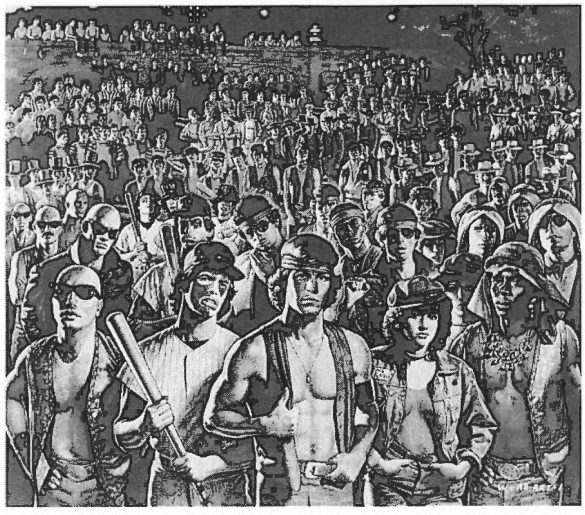
Princess Zandra and her flying wing encounter giant bugs and an army run by Queen Salena. The animated post-nuke fantasy was cut for America when released by New World.



The Warriors

WATCHERS

(IVE, 1988) D: Jon Hess S/P: Damien Lee S: Bill Freed Canada

Corey Haim and his mom (Barbara Williams) find a superintelligent golden retriever named Einstein. The government creates an "Oxcom" (a hairy orange monster) that bites heads off and wants to kill the dog, and a superhuman killer (Michael Ironside) is disguised as a government agent. It was based on (part of) Dean R. Koontz's novel. With Christopher Carey, Duncan Fraser, and Lala the dog. Roger Corman was executive producer of the Concorde feature.

WATCHERS 2

(IVE, 1990) D: Thierry Notz S: Henry Dominic
P: Roger Corman, Rodman Flender Canada

This is better than the first Dean R. Koontz Watchers adaptation, but it's not really a sequel. The super dog and "the Outsider" (a man in a lizard suit) both escape from the secret government lab. Marc Singer is the war-hero vet who teams with the dog to fight off the monster. With Irene Miracle, Tracy Scoggins, Mary Woronov, and Dakai the dog. Roger Corman was executive producer of the Concorde feature.

WATCHERS 3

(New Horizons, 1993) D: Jeremy Stanford
S: Michael Palmer P: Luis Llosa

Dean R. Koontz sued executive producer Corman over the use of his name on this sequel, which rips off Predator and the original Watchers. Wings Hauser leads a squad of ex-military convicts in South America to investigate mysterious deaths. They encounter the decapitating Outsider monster, and Einstein the dog helps. With Gregory Scott Cummins and Daryl Roach.

WATCH ME WHEN I KILL

(HBO, 1977) D/S: Antonio Bido
S: Vittorio Schiraldi Italy
(Il Gatto Dagli Occhi di Giada)

People are being murdered in Rome and a detective (Corrado Pani) is on the case. The victims turn out to have been Nazi collaborators during the war, being killed for revenge. It was distributed by Herman Cohen.

THE WATER ENGINE

(Turner, 1992) D: Steven Schacter
S/A: David Mamet P: Donald P. Borchers

In 1934 Chicago, a man (William H. Macy) invents an engine that runs on water. An attorney (Joe Mantegna) plans to kill him off for the valuable invention. With John Mahoney, Patti LuPone, Joanna Miles, Treat Williams, Andrea Marcovicci, Charles Durning, and the voice of Martin Sheen. Spielberg's Amblin Entertainment backed the serious TNT cable feature.

WATERFRONT

(Sinister, 1944) D: Steve Sekely
S: Martin Mooney P: Arthur Alexander

John Carradine is a Nazi spy in San Francisco, posing as an optometrist. He and J. Carrol Naish kill to obtain a stolen codebook. The 68-minute PRC feature costars Maris Wrixon and Terry Frost.

WATTSTAX

(1973) D/P: Mel Stuart P: Larry Shaw

Stax Records and Wolper Productions collaborated on this concert feature (from several 1972 shows at the LA Coliseum). The main acts are the Dramatics, the Staple Singers, Albert King, the Bar-Kays, Little Milton, Carla and Rufus Thomas, and Isaac Hayes. Richard Pryor (in top comic form) is the host, the Rev. Jesse Jackson appears, and Melvin Van Peebles staged the concerts, which were sponsored by Schlitz Beer. From Columbia. MGM sued over the use of songs from Shaft, so Hayes did some other songs that were edited in.

WAVELENGTH

(Nelson, 1983) D/S: Mike Gray P: James Rosenfield M: Tangerine Dream

Robert Carradine is a folk singer, and Cherie Currie (from the Runaways) can communicate with aliens. Three of the tiny bald-headed aliens (played by babies) are kept underground in Hollywood. Military scientists freeze them and plan to perform autopsies. With Keenan Wynn as a prospector. Gray also wrote The China Syndrome.

WAX, OR THE DISCOVERY OF TELEVISION AMONG THE BEES

(1991) D/S/P/A: David Blair

A deadpan voice narrates this mesmerizing, complex, unique, and well-made science fiction "documentary" video. It involves bees, spirit photography, the Trinity bomb, and the Tower of Babel. The 2001-influenced FX and editing are top-notch, and lots of computer graphics and old film clips are used. Blair also narrates. It was made on location at Carlsbad Caverns and the Trinity site, with a NYSCA grant and backing from the AFI. It took six years to complete. William S. Burroughs also appears.

WAXWORK

(Vestron, 1988) D/S/A: Anthony Hickox P: Staffan Ahrenberg

A group of obnoxious chain-smoking college students visit a wax museum that appears overnight on a suburban street. They become victims of wax scenes that temporarily come to life. The faithful-looking b/w Night of the Living Dead scene is very well done, and the cannibal vampire segment with Miles O'Keeffe (as Dracula) is extremely gory. The cinematography and FX are mostly top-notch, but the "wax" figures move when they shouldn't. While most scenes involve well-known old movie monsters, one features token virgin Deborah Foreman having her first orgasm while being whipped by the Marquis de Sade (the director). David Warner owns the museum, with famous circus midget Michu as his assistant. Patrick Macnee is the wheelchair-bound savior of the world, and John Rhys-Davies becomes a werewolf. Zach Galligan, Michelle Johnson, and Dana Ashbrook are the other main kids. Hickox is the son of the director of Theatre of Blood and the great-grandson of J. Arthur Rank. R and unrated tapes are available.

WAXWORK II: LOST IN TIME

(LIVE, 1991) D/S: Anthony Hickox P: Nancy Paloian

The original had its moments, but this dumb, dull, comic sequel is a senseless mess. Zach Galligan returns with a new girlfriend (model Monika Schnarre). They enter a time portal mirror and show up in uninspired misfire spoofs of old movies (or just characters) wearing bad wigs. Alexander Godunov and John Ireland are in the (too long) segment about medieval black magic. Bruce Campbell is in a gory b/w "tribute" to The Haunting. Other spoofs are of Frankenstein, Dawn of the Dead, Aliens, and Nosferatu. Also with Buck Flower and a living hand. You'll have to look hard for Marina Sirtis, Michael Des Barres, Sophie Ward, David Carradine, Juliet Mills, and even Drew Barrymore. Patrick Macnee shows up to give advice, and David Warner appears in a flashback. It ends with a rap song.

WAXWORKS

(Sinister, 1924) D: Paul Leni S: Henrik Galeen Germany (Das Wachsfigurenkabinett; Three Wax Men; Weird Tales)

Three strange tales involving historical figures star major actors of the day and feature expressionist sets. Emil Jannings is Haroun Al-Raschid in Asia. Conrad Veidt is Ivan the Terrible (with a torture chamber), and Werner Krauss is Jack the Ripper. The stories are told by a writer (future director William Dieterle) to the owner of the fairground waxworks and his daughter. The video runs 63 minutes, but the original running time was 84 minutes. Leni went to California and made The Cat and the Canary (1927). Some earlier German horror anthologies were Tales of Hoffmann (1915), also with Werner Krauss, and Tales of the Uncanny (1919), with Conrad Veidt as Death.

WAYNE'S WORLD

(Paramount, 1992) D: Penelope Spheeris S/A: Mike Myers P: Lorne Michaels

Another movie based on Saturday Night Live skits sounded like a bad idea, but this is pretty funny and was a hit. It was also the biggest hit ever directed by a woman, by the way. Heavy metal fans Wayne (Mike Myers) and Garth (Dana Carvey) host a public-access TV show in a basement in suburban Aurora, Illinois. The bare gag-filled plot has the likable Wayne falling for a "mega-babe" Oriental singer named Cassandra (Tia Carrere). A media sleazeball (Rob Lowe) convinces the guys to sell out. The music is strictly late 60s and early 70s. It doesn't even matter that the two stars are twice the age of the characters they play and wear obvious long-hair wigs. With Lara Flynn Boyle, Brian Doyle-Murray, Colleen Camp, Alice Cooper (as himself), Ed O'Neill, Robert Patrick, Ione Skye, Donna Dixon, and Meat Loaf. Tia sings "Ballroom Blitz," there's a Laverne and Shirley spoof, and several alternative endings. Rated PG-13. The soundtrack brought Queen back to the charts, just after singer Freddie Mercury had died.

WAYNE'S WORLD 2

(Paramount, 1993) D: Stephen Surjik S: Mike Myers, Bonnie and Terry Turner P: Lorne Michaels

Imagine a PG-13 sequel to a movie based on Saturday Night Live characters that's actually clever and funny. I know it's hard, but there are exceptions to every rule. Wayne and Garth have a new warehouse studio (and apartment) for their public-access show. Jim Morrison and an Indian (in dream sequences copied from The Doors) tell Wayne to put on Waynestock (this was just before the actual 25th anniversary Woodstock concert). Meanwhile Cassandra (Tia Carrere) records for an evil A and R man (Christopher Walken). Other gag scenes parody Thelma and Louise, The Graduate, and a martial arts movie. With James Hong (subtitled), Kim Basinger, Charlton Heston, Drew Barrymore, Harry Shearer, Jay Leno, Rip Taylor, Chris Farley, Kevin Pollak, Olivia D'Abo, and Ed O'Neill. The Reprise soundtrack features vintage (60s/70s) cuts by Golden Earring, the Village People, Joan Jett, and Robert Plant doing "Louie Louie," plus songs by newer artists. Despite her role, Carrere doesn't sing this time, but Aerosmith plays. The director was from the Canadian Kids in the Hall show.

WE ARE GOING TO EAT YOU

(VSOM, 1980) D: Tsui Hark P: Ng See Yuen Hong Kong (Diyu Wu Men)

A government agent goes to a village to search for a bandit. He encounters cannibals with skin masks, and men are sawed in half. Hark's second movie features sex humor, a female impersonator, and blood and gore. With Tsui Siu-Chang and Cheung Mu-Lian.

WEBB WILDER'S CORN FLICKS

(Praxis, 1992) D/S/P: Stephen Mims P: R. S. Field

Wilder is a Nashville rock singer who stars in two short films on this tape. The best (and longest one at 49 minutes) is "Horror Hayride" (1991). He's a laid-back detective who goes to Nashville to investigate the making of a driver's-ed film for the governor. He has a recurring dream with flying saucers and aliens, and after being slipped a drugged drink, does a killer version of "I Had Too Much to Dream (Last Night)" (the only part in color). The songs, instrumentals, and cinematography are all excellent, and the dialogue and situations are funny. It was filmed in Austin. In the earlier and cruder "Private Eye" (1984), he's a J. C. Penney security guard. "Aunt Halle" is a very clever non-Wilder short, also by Mims. They were filmed in Mississippi.

WEDDING IN WHITE

(1973) D/S: William Fruet P: John Vidette Canada

Carol Kane stars as a teenager who becomes pregnant by a drunken soldier friend of the family during WWII. Donald Pleasence is the outraged father. It was the first starring role for Kane and the first feature by Fruet, who later specialized in horror movies.

WEDDING NIGHT

(1969) D: Piers Haggard S: Robert I. Holt, Lee Dunne P: Phillip N. Krasne Ireland (I Can't, I Can't)

AIP released this drama about a new bride (Teresa Wyatt) in Dublin who won't let her husband (Denis Waterman) touch her. It deals with the Catholic church and its opposition to birth control. The director made Blood on Satan's Claw (1970) next.

THE WEDDING PARTY

(VidAmerica, 1963) D/S/P/E: Cynthia Munroe, Brian De Palma, Wilford Leach

This talk-filled comedy about fear of marriage was the first director credit for De Palma. Jill Clayburgh stars with Charles Pfluger. It's not very good, but it was also the film debut for Clayburgh and Robert De Niro (whose name is spelled DeNero, and who is not impressive here at all) and costars Jennifer

Bill Paxton and Ilan Mitchell-Smith in Weird Science.

Salt (also in later De Palma features). It was filmed on Shelter Island, New York, and was first released in 1969. It was later picked up by Troma.

WEDLOCK

(1991) D: Lewis Teague S: Broderick Miller
P: Frederick S. Pierce, Michael Jaffe

Joan Chen and James Remar betray star Rutger Hauer after a diamond heist. He goes to a special prison where inmates wear collars that explode if they try to escape. An exploding head scene (like in Scanners) is the FX highlight. Hauer and Mimi Rogers escape (with their collars) and are tracked by authorities. Hauer spends a lot of this movie being beaten and is punished in a sensory deprivation tank when he won't reveal where the diamonds are. It debuted on HBO.

WEEKEND

(New Yorker, 1967) D/S: Jean-Luc Godard
France/Italy

If you just see one Godard feature, this should be it. If you have the patience, it's a fascinating, apocalyptic vision with bloody accidents, mutilated cars, and bodies everywhere. An alienated couple (Jean Yanne and Mireille Darc) leave Paris by car and encounter the world's longest traffic jam (seen during an eight-minute tracking shot). With typical Godard word play, hippies and anarchists, and a cannibalism ending. My favorite image is the drummer playing in the woods. With Jean-Pierre Leaud. 105 minutes with subtitles. A version without subtitles is also on tape.

WEEKEND AT BERNIE'S II

(Columbia, 1993) D/S: Robert Klane
P: Victor Drai, Joseph Perez

Andrew McCarthy and Jonathan Silverman return as the young businessmen hustlers from Weekend at Bernie's (1989) and go to the Virgin Islands seeking the money embezzled by their late boss Bernie (Terry Kiser). Meanwhile Bernie is reanimated by two voodoo practitioners (Steve James and Tom Wright). The unlikely PG-rated corpse comedy also features Barry Bostwick.

WEEKEND PASS

(Vestron, 1984) D/S: Lawrence Bassoff
P: Marilyn J. Tenser, Michael D. Castle

Crown International released this sex comedy about four sailors on leave in Los Angeles who meet strippers. With D. W. Brown, Patrick Hauser, Hilary Shepard, and Ashley St. John.

WEEKEND WARRIORS

(Vestron, 1986) D: Bert Convy
S: Bruce Belland, Roy M. Rogosin
P: Hannah Hempstead

Some Hollywood actors and singers join the National Guard to avoid the draft. The comedy stars Chris Lemmon, Tom Villard, Vic Tayback as a sergeant, Lloyd Bridges as a colonel, and Graham Jarvis as a congressman. Also with Monique Gabrielle and Brenda Strong. The director was a member of the 50s group The Cheers and was later known as a TV game show host.

WEEKEND WITH LULU

(1961) D: John Paddy Carstairs S/P: Ted Lloyd UK

A guy (Bob Monkhouse) who wants to get away with his girlfriend (Shirley Eaton) somehow ends up in France driving an ice cream truck with her mother along for the ride. The Hammer Studios comedy was released by Columbia. With Sidney James and Kenneth Connor.

WEIRDO, THE BEGINNING

(Raedon, 1986) D/S/C: Andy Milligan
P: Kenneth Haker, Neva Friedenn

Milligan fans will enjoy his usual bickering miserable characters, but this talky West Coast movie tries to be artistic (lots of blackouts), sensitive, and sensational. Donny (Steve Burlington) lives in a shed behind an old lady's house, does errands for her, and collects junk. Long-haired locals torment him, beat him up, and make him crawl like a dog. Donny seems like a fairly normal, shy, young voyeur but people talk about him like he's a monster. He makes friends with a lonely, short, nice girl in a leg brace who has been raped. His horrible mother calls him stupid, beats him with a belt, and says his father was her brother. She cuts an angel food cake with a meat cleaver. There's a (very phony) decapitated head, a cross thrust through a woman's chest, electrocution by Xmas lights, a pitchfork through a neck, hands cut off, and puking, but nothing is really shown happening. One of the brief topless scenes features porno star Gina Carrera (I think). At the end Donny's girlfriend asks, "Why can't people be nice to one another?" Original Psychotronic contributor Charlie Beesley worked on this.

WEIRD SCIENCE

(MCA, 1985) D/S: John Hughes P: Joel Silver

Hughes wrote the script for this PG-13 fantasy comedy in "two days" after making the hits Sixteen Candles and The Breakfast Club. Two nerdy computer whiz kids (Anthony Michael Hall and Ilan Mitchell-Smith) somehow create the "ideal" woman (Kelly LeBrock). They also turn an obnoxious older brother (Bill Paxton) into a toad. A wild party taking place while the parents are away is invaded by bikers, including Michael Berryman (who is funny) and Vernon Wells reprising his Road Warrior role. With Robert Downey Jr., Steve James, Jill Whitlow, Kym Malin (from Playboy), and Judie Aronson. A colorized Bride of Frankenstein clip is used, and The Munsters are seen on TV. A USA cable TV series based on this movie debuted in 1994.

WEIRD TALES: See WAXWORKS

THE WEIRD WORLD OF LSD

(SW, 1967) D: Robert Ground P: George B. Roberts

A clip of a cartoon chicken hallucination from this bizarre—but extremely unhip—narrated b/w anti-drug "exposé" was on one of the Sleazemania tapes. Now you can experience it all and see how various middle-aged types react to LSD. A bored salesman in a strange town runs around crazed. A lonely "350-pound" art dealer eats an entire turkey. The best sequences feature FX. A hand is cut off and faces mutate (rubber monster masks are used). Strip-show scenes (without nudity) were probably lifted from another movie, and there's a catfight. The music is lite jazz. A newspaper headline says: LSD USER SUICIDE! Doug Hobart devised an outlandish advertising campaign and managed to get the feature booked on college campuses.

WELCOME TO 18

(IVE, 1986) D/S: Terry Carr S: Judith Sherman Wolin P: David C. Thomas

Mariska Hargitay (the daughter of Jayne Mansfield and Mickey Hargitay) stars in a PG-13 comedy about three girls working at a dude ranch. Hargitay (who has a shower scene) was in Jocks the same year.

WELCOME TO OBLIVION

(1990) D: Augusto Tamayo S: Len Jenkin P: Luis Llosa

Dack Rambo stars as a post-WWIII Mad Max–type hero. There's a mutant woman and gladiators to fight. The Concorde theatrical release (filmed in Peru) was later cut up for the tape Ultra Warrior (1993).

WELCOME TO SPRING BREAK

(IVE, 1988) D/S: "Harry Kirkpatrick"/Umberto Lenzi
P: William J. Immerman M: Claudio Simonetti Italy
(La Spiaggia Del Terrore; Nightmare Beach)

Chuck Connors in Werewolf.

Gory murders are committed at a Florida resort after Diablo, a biker from the Demons gang, is executed. Suspects include an alcoholic doctor (Michael Parks) and a kinky sheriff (John Saxon). The FX are by Alex Rambaldi (whose father did E.T.). It was filmed in Fort Lauderdale.

WEREWOLF

(1987) D: David Hemmings

A teen werewolf (makeup by Rick Baker) has to track down the guy who bit him. John S. York stars with Lance LeGault as a bounty hunter and Michelle Johnson. Captain Janos Skorzeny (Chuck Connors) is the "source of the bloodline." The executive producer was John Ashley. The Fox-TV pilot was released on tape in Europe. It became a short-lived series. Hemmings also directed pilot features for In the Heat of the Night (1988), Quantum Leap (1989), and others.

WEREWOLF OF WOODSTOCK

(1975) D: John Moffit

When I saw this ABC-TV movie (which debuted late at night), I couldn't belive that a major network would make and air such a ridiculous, shoddy, shot-on-tape project. An electric charge at the site of the Woodstock rock festival turns a farmer into a killer wolfman. Tige Andrews stars with Meredith MacRae and Michael Parks. Bad movie fans should demand a video release. Call executive producer Dick Clark.

WES CRAVEN'S NEW NIGHTMARE

(New Line, 1994) D/S/A: Wes Craven
P: Marianne Maddalena

New Line lied (see Freddy's Dead) and brought Freddy Krueger back again (it was #7 in the series). This is fantasy intruding into the real world during the making of a new Elm Street movie ten years after the original. Craven's concept was a good idea, but the results are pretty ponderous and boring. Heather Langenkamp stars as herself and she and her son, Dylan (Miko Hughes), find themselves in peril and her FX expert husband (David Newsom) is killed. It all takes place during California earthquakes. Robert Englund appears as himself and Freddy Krueger. John Saxon and Craven himself also play themselves, along with New Line head Robert Shaye and other behind-the-scenes people. Milan released the soundtrack. The next likely step for the horror character will be to meet Jason from the Friday the 13th movies.

WEST OF ZANZIBAR

(MGM, 1928) D: Tod Browning
S: Elliot Clawson P: Irving Thalberg

A skeleton in a coffin is the first thing you see in this MGM Lon Chaney movie, and director Browning never lets up. The convoluted plot is about Phroso the illusionist and magician and how he becomes the sadistic, vengeance-seeking "Dead Legs" in the African jungle. Chaney is incredible. He's very convincing as a pathetic cripple crawling like a baby in a church or dragging himself across a filthy floor, he's scary with his mean leer and bald head, and he acts up a storm, sometimes laughing and crying in the same scene. He eats fire and breathes smoke! Browning includes several mind-boggling sequences like the quick "evolution" scene showing insects and spiders, followed by alligators, then men. Most of the movie takes place in an atmospheric jungle and involves voodoo, cannibals, death ceremonies, dancing native women (giving Chaney a private show), prostitution, and a great "monster" with two heads and lots of skulls. The excellent cast includes Lionel Barrymore, Warner Baxter as alcohol-soaked "Doc," and Mary Nolan as the bitter, fallen woman. A lot happens in only 63 minutes (6 minutes were removed by some jerk decades ago). It's available on a high-quality double laserdisc with The Unholy Three (1930). Kongo was a 1932 remake with Walter Huston.

WEST SIDE STORY

(MGM, 1961) D: Robert Wise, Jerome Robbins S: Ernest Lehman

It's the Jets vs. the Sharks in one of the most enjoyable musicals ever made. UA released the Technicolor Super Panavision 70mm hit, based on the 1957 Broadway musical. Some call it a romantic Romeo and Juliet retread (true), but don't miss an opportunity to see it on a big screen. West Side Story won 10 Oscars and was a big influence on Coppola's Rumble Fish, Alice Cooper (check out the Easy Action and School's Out albums), and other movies and groups. In England, the Nice even made the charts with their version of "America." Marni Nixon (Daughter of Horror) is the singing voice of Natalie Wood. Richard Beymer costars with Rita Moreno, George Chakiris, Russ Tamblyn as Riff, Simon Oakland, and John Astin. Future schlock moviemakers Gus Trikonis and David Winters are in there too. The West 64th St. locations are now the site of Lincoln Center. With Leonard Bernstein music and Stephen Sondheim lyrics. The soundtrack is on Columbia.

Russ Tamblyn confronts Simon Oakland in West Side Story.

WET GOLD

(IVE, 1985) D: Dick Lowry S: David Sherman, Otis Jones P: Bill Cokel

Brooke Shields stars as a waitress in a sunken-treasure-hunt TV movie that's a reworking of The Treasure of the Sierra Madre plot. Burgess Meredith costars as an old drunk. With Brian Kerwin. It was a theatrical release in Europe. Lowry also made The Jayne Mansfield Story and The Hank Williams Jr. Story.

WHAM BAM THANK YOU SPACE MAN

(SW, 1972) D/P: William A. Levey S: Shomo D. Weinstein (Erotic Encounters of the Fourth Kind)

Two alien men go to a Hollywood whorehouse to "impregnate earth women." They watch some sex while in a semi-transparent state, then transport women back to their tinfoil ship. This awful, unfunny comedy includes nudity, a lesbian scene, rape, masturbation, a jive-talking black guy, gay jokes, and a penis with an eye. With Dyanne Thorne (with a very high voice), Valda Hansen (Night of the Ghouls) and "guest star" John Ireland Jr. Wham plugs other Boxoffice International features. Levey also made the unbelievable Blackenstein and Slumber Party '57.

WHAT!

(1963) D: Mario Bava S: "Julian Berry"/ Ernesto Gastaldi, Ugo Guerra, Luciano Martino P: Elio Scardamaglia Italy (La Frusta E il Corpo; Night Is the Phantom)

Considered a bit too strong for most viewers in the mid 60s, What! is excellent and should be as well known as Bava's Black Sunday. It's not only atmospheric as hell and scary, but yes—romantic, and those camera zooms can be pretty effective. Christopher Lee is in top form as the hateful, sadistic Kurt Menliff (always in a black cape) who returns to the family castle by the sea. His dying father says, "You're not my son, you're a serpent!" Kurt whips the newlywed Nevenka, is found dead, then returns from the crypt (or does he?). Daliah Lavi, a former Miss Israel, looking a lot like Barbara Steele in some scenes, is Nevenka. With Tony Kendall as her husband, and Harriet White Medin. It was filmed in France. Scriptwriter Gastaldi also wrote The Horrible Dr. Hitchcock and other prime Italian horror movies.

WHAT DO YOU SAY TO A NAKED LADY?

(Key, 1970) D/S/P: Allen Funt

Despite the X rating, this hidden-camera "comedy" was the highest-grossing non-performance documentary of its time. Funt's much-copied Candid Camera show (on and off TV since 1948) was a show I was fascinated and appalled by at the same time as a kid. Same goes for this movie—and then some. Funt and his candid camera cashed in on the new cinema freedom by making this series of scenes showing how everyday people react to (hired) naked people (usually women) in public. With a pre-Shaft Richard Roundtree. A soundtrack was on UA. It was later rerated R. Money Talks (1972), also from UA, was Funt's less successful follow-up feature about greed.

WHAT EVER HAPPENED TO BABY JANE

(Atlantic, 1991) D: David Greene
S: Brian Taggert P: Barry Bernardi

Vanessa Redgrave and her overacting sister Lynn play sisters Jane and Blanche Hudson. The novelty of seeing one actress known for her political causes and the other known for her diet food ads playing has-been actresses tormenting each other does have a certain appeal. William Aldrich, the son of Robert Aldrich (who directed the classic 1962 Joan Crawford and Bette Davis original), was an executive producer of this ABC-TV remake. With John Glover in the Victor Buono role and Amy Steel.

WHATEVER IT TAKES

(1993) D: Mike Quarles

All those old nudie movies unearthed by Something Weird had an effect on some indy filmmakers. This is exactly like a plotless 60s adult movie. A southern guy (Roger Moore, who narrates) seeks help finding models for his nudie movie and we see 10 dance and/or strip segments, all professionally shot with good-looking models. Highlights are a stripping hitchhiker, a woman sneaking into a whirlpool bath, and a "cowgirl" (Wynoka Prather) who smiles and laughs as she strips and gets into a tiny tub of water. The Georgia-based Quarles also wrote Down and Dirty: Hollywood's Exploitation Filmmakers (McFarland).

WHAT HAVE THEY DONE TO SOLANGE?

(Nightmare, 1971) D/S: Massimo Dallamano
S: Bruno Di Geronimo P: Leonardo Pescarolo
Italy/Germany (Das Geheimnis der Grunen Stecknadel; The School That Couldn't Scream; Terror in the Woods)

It's based on an Edgar Wallace novel previously filmed twice in England as The Clue of the New Pin (1929 and 1961). This version is a violent slasher movie more in the spirit of Dario Argento's movies of the period. A killer in black stabs women at a girls' school, a female teacher sees psychic images of the murders, and Scotland Yard investigates. Joachim Fuchsberger is Commissioner Barth, and the cast includes Fabio Testi, Christine Galbo, Karin Baal, and Camille Keaton (I Spit on Your Grave) as Solange. The music is by Ennio Morricone and the cinematographer later directed as "Joe D'Amato." AIP/Newport released it in America in 1976 (as Terror in the Woods). Dallamano returned with What Have They Done to Your Daughters? (1972).

Allen Funt's What Do You Say to a Naked Lady?

WHAT'S LOVE GOT TO DO WITH IT

(Touchstone, 1993) D: Brian Gibson
S: Kate Lanier P: Doug Chapin, Barry Krost

Angela Bassett and Laurence Fishburne star as Anna Mae Bullock/Tina Turner and Ike Turner in a movie based on Tina's autobiography (written with Kurt Loder). Both were nominated for Oscars. It starts in St. Louis in the late 50s and shows three decades of fashion and soul and rock music changes along with the celebrity wife-abuse story. With Jenifer Lewis as Tina's mother and Vanessa Bell Calloway. The real Turner is heard singing and is seen singing at the end. Other music is by Stanley Clarke. By the director of The Josephine Baker Story.

WHAT'S UP, HIDEOUS SUN DEMON

(1989) D/S: Craig Mitchell P: Greg Brown, Jeff Montgomery, Hadi Salem

New comic voices were added to Robert Clarke's 1959 feature. As a fan of the original, which was made for $50,000 during weekends, I don't really see the point. Clarke later regretted helping to trash his own movie, and few people saw the results. Jay Leno dubs Clarke's man-into-monster character and Susan Tyrrell does singer Patricia Manning. The comedy is mostly sex and drugs. Some new scenes were also added along with a color intro. It's a Wade Williams production.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE NEIGHBOR'S SON?

(AFT, 1986) D: Daniel Benjamin M.D. D/E: Trent Meeks P: Ron Cerasuolo (The Disturbance)

I guess this short (about an hour) low-budget "docudrama" made in Miami was intended as a serious look at schizophrenia to be shown to help people, but anybody who liked Repulsion or 60s drug movies could enjoy it as a good no-frills shocker. A (real?) doctor introduces the case ("over two million Americans suffer from hallucinations" . . .) and a different doctor (reading cue cards) summarizes what we've seen at the end. The synthesizer score (in Dolby stereo) is very spooky, and the cinematography is great. It looks like it was shot with Super 8 or 16mm film. 27-year-old Clay lives with his always-arguing parents in the suburbs and walks to his job as a dishwasher. He's on medication, but has lost his girlfriend, then loses his job after dropping a pile of dishes that were covered by (imagined) giant cockroaches. He hears kids mocking him, and at home alone he sees eyeballs in the bathtub. The mirror cracks when he looks at it, his hand disintegrates, he freaks out and kills the family cat, and ends up chained in a medieval jail.

WHAT THE SWEDISH BUTLER SAW: See THE GROOVE ROOM

WHAT WAITS BELOW

(Lightning, 1983) D: Don Sharp
P: Sandy Howard (The Secrets of the Phantom Cavern)

Scientists go under the earth in South America and discover mutant underwater albino aliens. The old-fashioned PG fantasy stars Robert Powell with Lisa Blount, Timothy Bottoms, Richard Johnson, and Anne Heywood. It was shot in Alabama and Tennessee.

WHEELS OF FIRE

(Vestron, 1984) D/P: Cirio H. Santiago
S: Frederick Bailey US/Philippines
(Desert Warrior; Vindicator)

Gary Watkins stars as a muscular bounty hunter with a nuclear car in another Road Warrior copy. With Laura Banks, Lynda Wiesmeier, Linda Grovenor, Dennis Cole, and Don Gordon as "Robot." From Concorde.

WHEELS OF TERROR

(USA, 1990) D: Christopher Cain
S: Alan B. McElroy P: Richard Lerrman

Don't bother with this senseless, slow, and boring rip-off of 70s movies like Dune, Crash, and The Car from the director of Young Guns. Joanna Cassidy stars as the bus driver mom whose daughter is kidnapped by a supernatural car responsible for killing (and raping) little girls. The part where she endangers a whole bus full of terrified kids during a chase is especially ridiculous. Filmed in Arizona for USA cable.

WHEELS ON MEALS

(1984) D/A: Samo Hung P: Raymund Chow

Jackie Chan and Yuen Baio run a fast-food business in Spain. They save the life of a hooker (Lola Firner) whose father (Herb Edelman) is an evil count. A detective (director Hung) joins the heroes in kung fu fights. The modern-day action comedy features lots of stunts, bikers, and skateboarding.

WHEN A STRANGER CALLS BACK

(MCA, 1992) D/S: Fred Walton P: Tom Rowe

Some kids disappear while staying with a babysitter. "Five years later," a babysitter (Jill Schoelen) who attends college is tormented by a mysterious psycho mime. Carol Kane, now the head of a women's crisis center, and Charles Durning as a retired cop return from the original When a Stranger Calls by the same director. The Showtime sequel to the 1979 feature (available from RCA) was shot in Vancouver.

WHEN NATURE CALLS

(IEI, 1982) D/S/P: Charles Kaufman S: Straw Weisman P: Frank Vitale (The Outdoorsman)

The director of Mother's Day made this Troma comedy release, a parody of outdoorsman movies. A family is on vacation in the woods, and many guest stars appear. With G. Gordon Liddy, Willie Mays, John Cameron Swayze, Myron Cohen, Fred Blassie, and Morey Amsterdam. The daughter rapes a bear in one scene. Watergate felon Liddy later acted in Street Asylum, Super Force, and Adventures in Spying, but was better known as the right-wing radio-talk-show host who told listeners to shoot Federal agents in the head.

WHEN THE BOUGH BREAKS

(Prism, 1994) D/S: Michael Cohn P: Barbara Javitz

A flash flood uncovers a bag of severed hands of children with numbers tattooed on them. The evidence is sent to the Houston police and a forensic expert (Ally Walker) goes to a mental hospital to try and communicate with a mute telepathic kid with mental links to the serial killer. With Ron Perlman and Martin Sheen as the chief of police.

WHEN THE WIND BLOWS

(IVE, 1988) D: Jimmy Murakami S: Raymond Briggs P: Joan Coates UK

A nice retired British couple living in the countryside keep their blind faith in everything the government says, even as a nuclear war rages around them. The animated feature is very effective and well done. The voices of Dame Peggy Ashcroft and Sir John Mills help immensly. David Bowie did the theme song. Murakami also made the live-action Battle Beyond the Stars (1980), a Corman production.

WHEN WOMEN LOST THEIR TAILS

(Simitar, 1971) D: Pasquale Festa Campanile S: Ottavio Jemma, Marcello Coscia, Jana Tiastri P: Silvio Clementelli Italy/W. Germany (Quando le Donne Persero)

Senta Berger returns in a sequel to When Women Had Tails (Sinister, 1970). The caveman comedy costars Frank Wolff and has an Ennio Morricone score. The prehistoric series was popular in Europe. When Women Played Ding Dong (1971) was yet another sequel.

WHERE ARE THE CHILDREN?

(RCA/Columbia, 1985) D: Bruce Malmuth S: Jack Sholder P: Zev Braun

The kids of Jill Clayburgh are kidnapped by her psycho ex-husband (Frederic Forrest). The script is based on a Mary Higgins Clark novel and was once to be directed by Brian De Palma. With Harley Cross, Max Gail, Barnard Hughes, and Clifton James.

WHERE ARE YOUR CHILDREN?

(1944) D: William Nigh S: Hilary Lynn, George Wallace Sayre P: Jeffrey Bernerd

Gale Storm (later a TV and recording star) is accused of murdering a gas station operator in a Monogram juvenile delinquent movie. Jackie Cooper costars with Patricia Morison and John Litel.

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

(1945) D: Gregory Ratoff S: Morrie Ryskind P: Sam Katzman

Fred MacMurray finds a magic lamp in a WWII-era fantasy from 20th Century–Fox. He asks the genie (Gene Sheldon) to get him into the army and he ends up serving General Washington in the Revolutionary War. With Joan Leslie, June Haver, and Anthony Quinn.

WHERE EAST IS EAST

(Cinemacabre, 1929) D: Tod Browning S: Richard Schayer

Lon Chaney stars as Tiger Haynes, an animal trapper whose face has been clawed by tigers. His wife (Estelle Taylor) tries to seduce the fiancé of their daughter Toyo (Lupe Velez), so Tiger lets his killer ape loose. It was the last of several bizarre Browning/Chaney features and was based on Browning's story. From MGM.

WHERE IS PARSIFAL?

(1983) D: Terence Young S: Berta Dominguez P: Daniel Carrilo

Tony Curtis stars in a flop movie about a miraculous skywriting machine (it writes with color 3-D letters). He wants to use it to get rich, but his wife wants to use it to help spread peace in the world. Orson Welles (in his second-to-last role, as the Gypsy king) and Erik Estrada (!) also bid for the contraption. With Donald Pleasence, Peter Lawford (in his last role), Ron Moody, and Anthony Dawson.

WHERE SLEEPING DOGS LIE

(Columbia, 1991) D: Charles Finch S: Yolande Turner P: Mario Sotela

Bruce (Dylan McDermott), an unsuccessful Hollywood writer working as a real estate agent, moves into an abandoned mansion (where a family had been murdered). While working on a script about a serial killer, he rents a room to a nervous tenant (Tom Sizemore) who actually is a serial killer. With Sharon Stone and Mary Woronov in small roles. Finch is the son of the late actor Peter Finch, and screenwriter Turner is his mother. From New Line.

WHERE THE BOYS ARE

(MGM, 1960) D: Henry Levin S: George Wells P: Joe Pasternak

Four midwestern college girls go to Ft. Lauderdale during Easter vacation in the hit comedy from MGM. It's better than most of the big studio "nice" teen movies from the period. Dolores Hart stars with Yvette Mimieux, Paula Prentiss (making her debut as the "kooky" one) and Connie Francis (who sings). With Jim Hutton as a toned-down beatnik character, George Hamilton, Frank Gorshin, Barbara Nichols, and Chill Wills. The theme song by Francis went to #4. MGM put Hutton and Prentiss together in three more features.

WHERE THE BOYS ARE '84

(Fox, 1984) D: Hy Averback S: Stu Krieger, Jeff Burkhart P: Allan Carr

After nobody wanted to see Carr's Grease sequel, he returned with this updated and R-rated remake from TriStar, and it was a big box-office flop too. Both feature Lorna Luft, Judy Garland's forgotten daughter. Lisa Hartman stars with Wendy Schaal, Lynn-Holly Johnson, and Alana Stewart.

WHERE THE BUFFALO ROAM

(MCA, 1980) D/P: Art Linson S: John Kaye

Bill Murray plays the partying "gonzo" journalist Hunter S. Thompson in a comedy partially based on Thompson's books Fear and Loathing in Las Vegas and Fear and Loathing on the Campaign Trail '72. With Peter Boyle, Bruno Kirby, René Auberjonois, R. G. Armstrong, Craig T. Nelson, and Rafael Campos. The music is by Neil Young and others. This and the 1984 remake of The Razor's Edge were both movies starring Murray in unusual roles for him. Audiences stayed away in droves.

WHERE THE DAY TAKES YOU

(New Line, 1992) D/S: Marc Rocco S: Michael Hitchcock, Kurt Voss P: Paul Hertzberg

Dermot Mulroney (with goatee and tattoos) and Lara Flynn Boyle star as transient teen runaways living on the streets of LA. Their story is related to a social worker (Laura San Giacomo). With Sean Astin as a speed freak and Balthazar Getty, James Le Gros, and Ricki Lake as various runaways, busy stealing and selling drugs and themselves. Also with Kyle MacLachlan as a dealer, Peter Dobson, Will Smith, Stephen Tobolowsky, Adam Baldwin, Nancy McKeon, Alyssa Milano, Rachel Ticotin, and Christian Slater in small roles. The soundtrack by Melissa Etheridge includes a remake of "For What It's Worth."

WHERE THE EAGLE FLIES

(1972) D: John Florea S: Anthony Blake P: Christian Whitaker (Pickup on 101)

Lesley Ann Warren is a coed who hitchhikes with a rock musician and a bum in a PG-rated drama from AIP. Martin Sheen costars with Michael Ontkean and Jack Albertson. Warren, formerly a Disney star, has a topless scene.

WHERE THE GREEN ANTS DREAM

(Cinematique, 1984) D/S/P: Werner Herzog S: Bob Ellis P: Lucki Stipetic W. Germany/Australia

A group of Aborigines oppose the bulldozing of their sacred land by a uranium mining company. Dreaming of the ants there prophesies the end of the world. Bruce Spence (from Road Warrior) stars with Wandjuk Marika and Roy Marika.

WHILE I LIVE

(Sinister, 1947) D/S: John Harlow S: Doreen Montgomery UK (Dream of Olwen)

A girl thinks her sister's reincarnated, and ghosts appear. With Tom Walls and Clifford Evans. Harlow also directed supernatural-themed The Spell of Amy Nugent (1940) and Dark Tower (1943).

WHIRLPOOL

(1949) D/P: Otto Preminger S: Ben Hecht, Andrew Solt M: Andrew Newman

Gene Tierney stars as a kleptomaniac married to a rich psychiatrist (Richard Conte). Young Jose Ferrer (in his second feature) is the real star, though. He's a hypnotist who rescues her from being prosecuted by a department store and proceeds to blackmail her and cleverly avoid a murder rap. Whirlpool is worth watching just for the hospital-room ending, which would have fit in a 30s horror movie. It's based on a novel by Guy Endore. With Charles Bickford and Eduard Franz. From 20th Century–Fox.

WHIRLPOOL

(1970) D/S: José R. Larraz P: Sam Lomerg Denmark (She Died with Her Boots On)

A London fashion model (Pia Anderson) and her "nephew" (Karl Lanchbury) lure a young Danish model (Vivian Neves—who was a model) home. She has sex with both of them, but discovers that they had killed the last model they brought home. Jerry Gross and Cinemation released this X-rated sex, drugs, and murder feature by a Spanish director known for his horror movies. It was advertised as being "More Shocking Than Psycho!, More Sensual Than Repulsion!, More Nerve-Ripping Than Baby Jane!"

WHISPERING SHADOW

(Stokey, 1933) D: Albert Herman, Colbert Clark S: George Morgan, Wydham Gittens

Mascot made this 12-chapter serial, the first with Bela Lugosi. He plays the mysterious Dr. Adam Strang, who runs a wax museum. The villain (not Bela as it finally turns out) can project his shadow. Bela gets to play with a lot of electric gadgets. This serial has no music. Viva Tattersall and Malcolm McGregor star with Henry B. Walthal and Roy D'Arcy. Bela was in The Return of Chandu the next year.

WHISPERS

(LIVE, 1989) D: Donald Jackson S: Anita Doohan P: Don Carmody Canada

Victoria Tennant is a novelist who kills a serial killer (Jean LeClerc), but the man keeps returning. It's based on the Dean R. Koontz novel and has a lot of interesting convoluted plot twists and a clever surprise ending. Chris Sarandon plays a cop. A necrophilia scene shows a morgue attendant having sex with a girl who puts on makeup and pretends to be dead. Whispers also includes cockroaches, Satanism, drugs, incest, nudity, and Joe Blasco FX.

WHISPERS IN THE DARK

(Paramount, 1992) D/S: Christopher Crowe P: Martin Bregman

Annabella Sciorra (The Hand That Rocks the Cradle) stars as a meek New York City psychiatrist who gets turned on by the confessions of a patient named Eve (Deborah Unger) and has out-of-focus sex dreams. She falls for a test pilot (Jamey Sheridan), the same guy Eve had described. Eve is found hanged and naked and many characters are suspects. Sciorra also treats a disturbed artist (John Leguizamo), and Alan Alda and Jill Clayburgh are her professional friends. The slick psycho thriller has dreams and flashbacks and despite the tired ideas is worth it for the surprise ending. With Anthony LaPaglia as a detective, and Anthony Heald.

A WHISPER TO A SCREAM

(Virgin, 1989) D/S/P: Robert Bergman S/P: Gerard Ciccoritti Canada

Nadia Capone stars as an actress working as a phone sex girl. Her psycho boss strangles strippers and records their dying voices. With Yaphet Kotto as a police detective and Silvio Oliviero.

WHISTLING IN THE DARK

(MGM, 1941) D: S. Sylvan Simon S: Albert Mannheimer, Robert MacGunigle P: George Haight

Wally Benton (Red Skelton) stars as The Fox, a radio detective who becomes involved in a real-life murder plot. Conrad Veidt is the lead villain, a smooth-talking leader of a phony religious sect. The cast includes Eve Arden, Ann Rutherford, Virginia Grey, Reed Hadley, and Rags Ragland. The popular mystery comedy was based on a Broadway play, which had also been filmed by MGM in 1932. Skelton returned as the same character in the sequels Whistling in Dixie (1942) and Whistling in Brooklyn (MGM, 1943) also with Rutherford.

WHITE ANGEL

(1993) D/S: Chris Jones S/P: Genevieve Jolliffe UK

A mild-mannered London dentist (Peter Firth) is also a psycho who kills blondes who wear white. He meets a pulp writer (Harriet Robinson) who has killed her husband. With Don Henderson as a cop.

WHITE CANNIBAL QUEEN

(Video City, 1980) D/A: Jesús Franco S: A. L. Mariaux P: Franco Prosperi Italy (Mondo Cannibale)

Al Cliver returns to an island ten years after his arm had been eaten by cannibals there and tries to rescue his blond daughter (Sabrina Siani). The tribe have adopted her and made her a goddess. The natives (badly made up Caucasians) enjoy slow-motion cannibal feasts. With Lina Romay, and Franco himself as an American "parasite" businessman. In some countries it was titled to make people think it was a sequel to earlier cannibal movies.

WHITE COMANCHE

(United, 1967) D: "Gilbert Kay"/Jose Briz S: Robert L. Holt, Frank Gruber P: Sam White Spain (Commanche Blanco; Rio Hondo)

For the William Shatner fan who has everything, here's a movie where that great space hero plays two Indians! He's Notah Moon, a wild, drug-crazed, bare-chested blond half-breed in war paint who kills white men and rapes white women. He's also Johnny Moon, the depressed, innocent brother who's always being mistaken for Notah and is almost lynched. Johnny tells Notah, "Eat the peyote, drug of the Devil! Dream your dream of hate! One of us must die!" After a lot of double-crosses, misunderstandings, and killings and a long Notah speech to his people, the Indians and the townspeople are all at funerals and the two opposing Shatners face each other in a battle to the death! This ultra-cheap spaghetti western filmed in Spain has some Leone-style face close-ups, jazz music, and Joseph Cotten as the sheriff. You might know costar Rossana Yanni from Paul Naschy horror movies. The print is so washed out that the sky (and Shatner's pants) are usually purple.

William Shatner is the White Comanche.

WHITE FIRE

(TWE, 1983) D/S/P: Jean-Marie Pallardy
P: Tony Edwards France/UK/Turkey

Robert Ginty is a jewel thief in Istanbul who misses his sister, and so he has another woman (Belinda Mayne) turned into an exact copy of her with plastic surgery. He falls for the sister clone and they try to break into a mine and have to fight Fred Williamson as a hitman villain. With Gordon Mitchell.

WHITEFORCE

(New Star, 1989) D: Eddie Romero S: Henry Tefay
P: Lope V. Juban, Marilyn G. Ong Philippines/Australia

Flash Gordon movie star Sam Jones is accused of killing his partner (Ken Metcalf), so he has to expose the real druglord villain. With Vic Diaz.

WHITE GHOST

(TWE, 1988) D: B. J. Davis
S: Gary Thompson P: Jay Davidson

William Katt is an American Green Beret still fighting in Vietnam (on the Cambodian border) in Kabuki makeup. A band of mercenaries is sent in to find him. With Rosalind Chao, Martin Hewitt, Wayne Crawford, and Reb Brown. Filmed in Zimbabwe.

WHITE HOT

(Academy, 1988) D/A: Robby Benson
S: Robert Madero P: Fred Berner, Jubran Jubran
M: Nile Rodgers (Crack in the Mirror)

If Clean and Sober and The Boost were two of your fave 80s features, here's Robby Benson as a yuppie who turns to coke and crack dealing. He and Tawny Kitaen become addicted and have a long slow-motion sex scene. Robby gives himself nude scenes. With Danny Aiello, Sally Kirkland, and Judy Tenuta. It was the second feature shot on HDTV.

WHITE HUNTER

(1965) D/S/P/A: George Michael

Herts Lion, the company that brought us Carnival of Souls and Dungeon of Harrow, released this Eastman Color "semi-documentary" filmed in Africa. It's about a big game hunter played by the director.

WHITE HUNTRESS

(Sinister, 1957) D: George Breakston S: Dermot Quin P: John Croydon, Peter Crane

In the 1890s, a blonde (Susan Stephen) encounters hostile natives, a giant python, and other perils. It played on an AIP double bill with Naked Africa. With John Bentley. Breakson also codirected The Manster.

WHITE LIGHT

(Academy, 1990) D: Al Waxman S: Ron Base P: Anthony Kramreither Canada

Martin Kove stars as a cop killed by gangsters. He's revived and a female doctor gives him experimental drugs to help him relive experiences. He searches for the woman he was with when he died. The director and the star were regulars on the Cagney and Lacey show.

WHITE LIGHTNING ROAD

(SW, 1965) D/S/P/A/E: Ron Ormond P: June Ormond

Snake (Earle "Snake" Richards) is a low-down cheating rural stock-car race driver who works for Slick (Ron Ormond) and makes life hell for his rival Joe. Arlene Hunter is Ruby, a beautiful blond hillbilly Marilyn Monroe type. In fact, Hunter, a Playboy centerfold back in 1954, had been passed off as Monroe in a famous stag film. Other characters are Tim (Tim Ormond), an orphan fan of Joe, Gimpy (seen putting on his wooden leg), and the bearded killer Ace. Also with a catfight (two blondes) and moonshining. The country-appeal color movie uses some jazzy music plus the familiar guitar sounds that Ormond had used in several other features. Actual race scenes were filmed in Atlanta. The Ormonds, the South's first family of exploitation movies, returned with The Exotic Ones.

WHITE LINE FEVER

(RCA, 1975) D/S: Jonathan Kaplan
S: Ken Friedman P: John Kemeny

Jan-Michael Vincent stars as an Air Force vet turned diesel truck driver who refuses to haul stolen goods for gangster bosses. With lots of car crashes and a good support cast. Kay Lenz costars with Slim Pickens, L. Q. Jones, R. G. Armstrong, Don Porter, Martin Kove, and Dick Miller. From Columbia. Kaplan's previous feature was Truck Turner.

WHITE OF THE EYE

(Paramount, 1987) D/S: Donald Cammell S: China Cammell P: Cassian Elwes, Brad Wyman UK

The camera is everywhere in this violent psychedelic psycho-killer movie set in a small Arizona town. We know right away who the killer is. It's David Keith, a car and stereo repairman who makes house calls. Cathy Moriarty is his wife from New York City. Lots of flashbacks, the mind-blowing camera work of Larry McConkey, and music by Nick Mason of Pink Floyd help make it a unique experience. Don't miss the explosive ending. With Alan Rosenberg and Art Evans as a cop. Cammell's other credits are Performance and Demon Seed. Too bad so few people bothered to see White of the Eye in theaters.

THE WHITE ORCHID

(Sinister, 1954) D/S/P: Reginald Le Borg
S: David Duncan

William Lundigan and Peggy Castle star in a color movie about a mysterious tribe of natives in Mexico. A guide (Armando Silvestre) takes them through the jungle, and the tribe sentences them to death.

WHITE PHANTOM: ENEMY OF DARKNESS

(Vidmark, 1987) D: Dusty Nelson S: David Hamilton, Chris Gallagher P: Roy McAree, K. L. Kim

Modern ninja wars erupt and a plutonium weapon is at stake. Jay Roberts Jr. stars with Page Leong and Bo Svenson as a colonel.

WHITE SHADOWS OF THE SOUTH SEAS

(1928) D: W. S. Van Dyke, Robert Flaherty
S: Jack Cunningham, John Colton

MGM's first sound film was a "docudrama" featuring topless native women. It was shot on location on the Marquesas Islands by Flaherty (who quit), and synchronized sound effects and music were added in New Jersey. Monte Blue plays a drunken doctor involved with a native girl (Raquel Torres). Van Dyke made more exotic MGM hits including Trader Horn and Tarzan.

WHITE SLAVE

(Force, 1984) D: "Roy Garrett"/Mario Gariazzo S: Franco Prosperi Italy
(Amazonia—The Catherine Mills Story)

The man who wrote Mondo Cane came up with this one too. A blond English housewife (Elvire Audray) becomes a member of a (friendly) Amazon tribe after her parents are decapitated and eaten. She falls in love with a tribesman, and is later tried for murder, relating her story in flashbacks. She uses blowguns to kill the real guilty parties in London. Partially shot in South America.

WHITE SLAVE SHIP

(1962) D: Silvio Amadio S: Sandro Contineza
P: Giorgio Agliani, Rodolphe Somsen
Italy/France (L'ammutinamentos)

Women prisoners take over a ship headed for the colonies in the 18th century. Pier Angeli stars with Edmund Purdom and Ivan Desny. AIP released it and added Les Baxter music. It's in color and "Totalscope."

WHODUNIT

(Vestron, 1981) D/S/P: Bill Naud P: Tom Spalding, Sally Todd (Island of Blood)

Kids go to a California island to be in a slasher movie. Gore killings happen as described in some rock songs.

WHO FRAMED ROGER RABBIT

(Disney, 1988) D: Robert Zemeckis
S: Jeffrey Price, Peter S. Seaman P: Robert Watts

Steven Spielberg was an executive producer of the most expensive movie made until Terminator 2 (1991). The combination of animation and live action cost "$70M," but it was a hit, and the FX and animation are pretty great. This is the only feature with appearances by Donald Duck (from Disney), Daffy Duck (from Warner), and Betty Boop (from a company engulfed by Disney). The 1940s big business conspiracy subplot is kind of hard to take, considering. Too bad the whimpering cartoon rabbit star isn't a better character. Bob Hoskins stars with Christopher Lloyd as Judge Doom, Joanna Cassidy, and Stubby Kaye. Kathleen Turner is the speaking voice of Jessica Rabbit, and Amy Irving (who divorced Spielberg in 1989) does her singing. Lots of other past cartoon characters make appearances too. Richard Williams was the director of animation. A record number of names were listed in the credits (743). When the laserdisc version was released in 1994 there was a "scandal" when some people realized you could freeze-frame to see what's under Jessica's skirt. "Roller Coaster Rabbit" (also with ILM FX) was a special opening short.

WHO'LL STOP THE RAIN

(MGM, 1978) D: Karel Reisz S: Judith Roscoe, Robert Stone P: Herb Jaffe, Gabriel Katzka (Dog Soldiers)

A box-office flop, this now looks like one of the best of the 1970s. Nick Nolte is Ray Hicks, a Nietzsche-reading Nam vet merchant seaman. When war correspondent Michael Moriarty has him deliver a package of heroin to his pill-popping wife (Tuesday Weld), corrupt CIA agents enter the picture. It all ends in a violent siege at a remote summer home. With Anthony Zerbe, Ray Sharkey, Richard Masur, Charles Haid, and Connie Strickland. It's based on Stone's novel Dog Soldiers. The Creedence Clearwater Revival title song is on the soundtrack. From UA.

WHOLLY MOSES

(RCA, 1980) D: Gary Weis
S: Guy Thomas P: Freddie Fields

Herschell (Dudley Moore) believes that he was chosen to lead the Israelites out of Egypt. It's a failed attempt at making a Mel Brooks–type comedy, with John Houseman as the Archangel, Madeline Kahn as a sorceress, Richard Pryor as Pharaoh, and John Ritter as the Devil. Also with Laraine Newman, Paul Sand, Jack Gilford, Dom DeLuise, James Coco, David L. Lander, and Tanya Boyd.

WHOOPS! APOCALYPSE

(Pacific Arts, 1981) D: John Readon
S: Andrew Marshall, David Renwick
P: Humphrey Barclay UK

An American nuclear bomb is stolen in a comedy centering on the news coverage leading up to WWIII. With John Barron, John Cleese, Rik Mayall, and Barry Morse as the president. It was a British TV series and the tape runs 137 minutes.

WHOOPS! APOCALYPSE

(MGM, 1986) D: Tom Bussman S: Andrew Marshall, David Renwick P: Brian Eastman UK

In the feature based on the TV series, a nuclear strike against a Soviet base in the Caribbean leads to the end of the world. Loretta Swit is the president. Some of the stars are Peter Cook, Rik Mayall (also in the original), Ian Richardson, Herbert Lom as General Mosquera, Murray Hamilton, and Clifton James.

WHORE

(Vestron, 1991) D/S/A: Ken Russell S: Deborah Dalton P: Dan Ireland, Ronaldo Vasconcellos (If You Can't Say It, Just See It)

Many papers wouldn't print the title of this downbeat look at the life of a hooker (Theresa Russell). She explains her life and talks to the camera. At the time it was considered a realistic alternative to the mega-popular Pretty Woman. The cast includes Benjamin Mouton as her pimp, Antonio Fargas, John Diehl, Jack Nance, Tom Villard, and Ginger Lynn Allen. Four (!) video versions were released: unrated, NC-17, and R (under both titles). Ken Russell himself appears as a waiter. Whore 2 (Vidmark, 1995) was, of course, completely unrelated.

WHOSE CHILD AM I?

(EVI, 1974) D: Lawrence Britten
S: James Stevens P: Basil Appelby UK

This arty test-tube-baby movie features lots of soft-core sex. A lesbian couple want a child. A criminal doctor gives a black man's sperm to a pothead woman. Kate O'Mara (from The Vampire Lovers), Paul Freeman, and Edward Judd star.

WHO'S GUILTY?

(Stockey, 1945) D: Howard Bretherton, Wallace Grissell S: Ande Lamb, George Plympton P: Sam Katzman

This 15-chapter Columbia serial takes place in an old dark house full of secret panels and passageways. Robert Kent stars with Amelita Ward, Tim Ryan, Charles Middleton, Wheeler Oakman, and Milton Kibbee. Kent was also in The Phantom Creeps (1939).

WHO'S THAT KNOCKING AT MY DOOR?

(Warner, 1968) D/S: Martin Scorsese (J.R.)

Harvey Keitel stars as J.R., a guy with religious hang-ups who doesn't have a clue how to keep his WASP girlfriend (Zina Bethune). It was shot on weekends in the winter, and started in 1965 as an NYU student film. The feature was done in 1967, then an additional nude scene (backed by the Doors' "The End") was shot in Amsterdam in 1968 at the request of Joseph Brenner, who first released it. The excellent soundtrack of old singles, including the doo-wop title song by the Genies, is similar to the soundtracks Scorsese put together for Mean Streets (also starring Keitel) and GoodFellas. Characters discuss John Wayne and Charlie Chan movies, and Catherine and Martin Scorsese also appear.

THE WICKED

(Hemdale, 1987) D/S: Colin Eggleston
S: David R. Young P: Jan Tyrell, James Michael Vernon Australia (Outback Vampire; Tomorrow's News)

This vampire movie with comedy has good parts but gets progressively sillier. Bizarre characters in a fort-like town provide victims for a vampire family in the "slaughterhoose" on a hill. Two guys and a girl become stranded there and try to escape. The sexy vampire daughter can float, others walk on walls, and one vampire becomes a giant. A rock band (Perfect Strangers) appears for no reason, and too many blue filters were used on the cameras. The accents are very thick.

THE WICKED CITY

(Long Shore, 1992) D: Mak Tai Kit
P: Tsui Hark, Raymond Lee Hong Kong

This FX-filled live-action fantasy adventure is based on an illustrated adult novel (anime) by Hideyuki Kikuchi. An animated version was also made in Japan. Leon Lai and Jacky Cheung star as special agents who hunt down "Rapturs" (alien criminals that can cross dimensions). With some nudity and a woman changing into a pinball machine during sex. Michele Li and Tatsuya Nakadai costar. The director was born in Vietnam.

WICKED STEPMOTHER

(MGM, 1989) D/S: Larry Cohen P: Robert Litman

Bette Davis, the very old and frail-looking star, left the set of this PG-13 comedy fantasy after two weeks of shooting, saying she needed dental work. Quick rewrites were done and Barbara Carrera was hired to play the Davis character, magically transformed into her witch "daughter." More (not very) special comic effects were added. Davis's scenes (her last film appearance) look like outtakes, and her slurred diatribes are painful to watch. She's Miranda, an insulting, chain-smoking, meat-eating new mother-in-law who terrorizes suburban vegetarian yuppies Colleen Camp and David Rasche. Lionel Stander is her new husband. With Tom Bosley, Richard Moll, Evelyn Keyes, Seymour Cassel, and Laurene Landon (in a bit role). A sequel, announced at the end, never happened.

WICKED WOMAN

(1954) D: Russell Rouse P: Clarence Greene

Blond Beverly Michaels, one of the great 50s "B" girls, is a waitress who lures a bar owner (Richard Egan) away from his alcoholic wife in a California town. "She's nothing but trouble . . . Every voluptuous inch of her!" With Percy Helton. Michaels had already been in two Hugo Haas movies (Pickup and The Girl on the Bridge). She married director Rouse (D.O.A.) in real life. From UA.

WILBUR AND THE BABY FACTORY

(SW, 1969) D/S: Tom Wolfe P: Alec McCombie (The Loving Machine)

Wilbur (Tom Shea, who looks kinda like Glen Campbell) is a quiet USC student and anti-war protest leader who lives in a tent. After he receives his draft notice he volunteers to be the subject for an experimental program in an isolated house. He has to run every day, his every move is monitored, and eventually a series of nameless women undress and join him in bed. It's more of an attempt at social and political comedy (there isn't much on-screen sex) than the usual adults-only Boxoffice

International release. Stuart Lancaster plays a cranky, crippled millionaire and Ronee Blakley sings. The music is rambling rock instrumentals.

THE WILD AND THE NAKED

(SW, 1962) D: Stan Roberts P/C: Carlos Martinez

Colette (the beautiful Tanya French) is a French model in America. After a trip to the zoo, some posing at a studio, and dancing in a bikini to a Latin band, she hitchhikes to a beach. The driver ("He was a fresh one") chases her (she's in her bikini bottom) on the beach, then she swims naked and sunbathes. A bearded madman shows up and chases her. She runs naked through the woods, through fields, crawls on her hands and knees in the mud, then is tied up. The two men fight but a handsome third man rescues her. Then a man in a monkey suit (!) chases both of them. If that wasn't enough, topless native women swim, then dance to a rock and roll instrumental. Eventually Colette wakes up. Brilliant! The b/w feature was "filmed in Latin America" (actually Texas). Martinez also produced Passion in the Sun, which had similar naked running scenes.

WILD AT HEART

(Media, 1990) D/S: David Lynch P: Monty Montgomery M: Angelo Badalamenti

Nicolas Cage stars as Sailor, a redneck Elvis fanatic. After two years in jail for smashing in a man's skull (the opening scene), he and Lula (Laura Dern, who is excellent) head for New Orleans in a convertible. The unique, violent comic road movie/love story (based on a novel by Barry Gifford) is packed with inspired performances, disturbing moments, flashbacks, voodoo, gangsters, and lots of Elvis and Wizard of Oz references. Dern's real-life mother, Diane Ladd, plays her horrible mom. Willem Dafoe is the very creepy Bobby Peru, Harry Dean Stanton is scary when watching extreme mondo movies, and Crispin Glover puts cockroaches down his pants. With blond Isabella Rossellini, Grace Zabriskie, Calvin Lockhart, Freddie Jones, Marvin Kaplin, John Lurie, Jack Nance (as "O O Spool"), Koko Taylor, Sherilyn Fenn in a car crash, and Sheryl Lee as the good witch. Also with Charlie Spradling, Mia M. Ruiz, Debra Lamb, and Lisa Ann Cabasa for various topless scenes. A (very well done) decapitation scene was cut, but I still wonder how this got an R rating. It was released while Lynch's Twin Peaks series was still running and features several stars from the series. It's 127 minutes long.

THE WILD BEASTS

(Lightning, 1983) D/S/P: Franco E. Prosperi Italy (Savage Beasts)

PCP accidentally put in the water supply of a German zoo makes animals attack and kill. In one scene, an elephant crushes a woman's head and lots of cars crash too. By the maker of Mondo Pazzo.

THE WILD BUNCH

(Warner, 1969) D/S: Sam Peckinpah S: Walon Green P: Phil Feldman C: Lucien Ballard

Laura Dern and Nicholas Cage in Wild At Heart.

The "Citizen Kane of the Vietnam generation" surpassed Bonnie and Clyde (1967) with its realistic violence. William Holden, Ernest Borgnine, Warren Oates, Ben Johnson, Edmond O'Brien, and Jaime Sanchez are doomed outlaws attempting one last train robbery on the Tex-Mex border in 1913. Robert Ryan is a bounty hunter after Holden, and Emilio Fernandez is the Mexican general who wants the stolen American weapons. The great cast also includes Strother Martin, L. Q. Jones, Albert Dekker, Bo Hopkins, Dub Taylor, and Alfonso Arau (later the director of Like Water for Chocolate). When a "director's cut" with ten minutes of additional footage (flashbacks) was released in 1994, the MPAA ordered that the feature (originally an R) be rated NC-17, then backed off. A 70mm version was a theatrical rerelease in 1995. Screenwriter Green was later executive producer of the NYPD Blue and Law and Order 90s TV shows.

WILD CACTUS

(IEI, 1992) D: Jag Mundhra S: Carl Austin P: Alan B. Burnstein

A young wife (India Allen) living in a desert home is held hostage by an escaped con (Gary Hudson) and his girlfriend (Michelle Mofett). As far as silly direct-to-video erotic thrillers go, this one isn't bad and Allen, a Playboy centerfold, has many nude scenes. David Naughton is the husband, Kathy Shower (also from Playboy) is killed in her trailer, and the cast includes Anna Karin, Robert Z'Dar, and Wendy McDonald. It's available R or unrated.

WILDCATS = THE DOLL SQUAD

WILDCAT WOMEN

(1976) D/P: Stephen Gibson

This 3-D sex movie was released in three versions, each having more sex than the last. Serena is in it, and the trailer is on the Mad Ron's Previews from Hell tape.

WILDER NAPALM

(Columbia, 1993) D: Glenn Gordon Caron S: Vince Gilligan P: Mark Johnson, Stuart Cornfeld

Two rival brothers can make objects burst into flame. Wallace (Dennis Quaid) works for the circus and wants to be famous as "Dr. Napalm." He also wants the wife (Debra Winger) of his strait-laced brother Wilder (Arliss Howard), a volunteer fireman. She's a pyromaniac arsonist under house arrest. There's a fiery duel, and in the cartoonish FX scenes things melt, boil, and blow up. With Jim Varney, M. Emmet Walsh, and the Mighty Echoes as doo-wop singing firemen. The music is by Michael Kamen. Barry Levinson was a coproducer of the odd TriStar PG-13 comedy, which spent time "on the shelf." Spontaneous Combustion (1989) and Pyrates (1991), also critical and commercial flops, were about the same topic.

WILDEST DREAMS

(Vestron, 1987) D/P: Chuck Vincent S: Craig Horall (Bikini Genie)

James Davies runs a Greenwich Village antique shop. A "bikini genie" (Heidi Payne) grants him three wishes. The sex comedy features Ruth Collins, Veronica Hart, and Tracey Adams.

WILD EYE

(1967) D/S: Paola Cavada S: Tonio Guerra P: Georges Marci Italy (L'Occhio Selvaggio)

Philippe Leroy stars as a very amoral mondo filmmaker faking scenes and abusing people in Third World countries. It was filmed on location in Africa, Asia, and North and South Vietnam. The same premise was later used for gory cannibal movies. With Delia Boccardo and Gabrielle Tinti. AIP released it. A soundtrack was on RCA.

WILDFIRE

(MCA, 1988) D/S: Zalman King S: Mathew Bright P: Jerry Tokofsky

Steven Bauer and Linda Fiorentino run away from an orpanage and rob a bank. After eight years in prison he gets out and she leaves her husband for him. With Marshall Bell and Will Patton. It was released in 1992.

WILD, FREE AND HUNGRY

(SW, 1970) D: "H. P. Edwards"/Paul Hunt P/A: Graver

Graver, also a cinematographer and director, stars as a motorboat racer who rides a motorcycle and faces opposition from gangsters. The adults-only plot also involves a carnival and love affairs. With Barbara Caron and Monica Gayle (both also in The Stewardesses) and Jane Tsentas (Wilbur and the Baby Factory). From Boxoffice International.

WILD GALS OF THE NAKED WEST!

(RM, 1961) D/S/P/C/E: Russ Meyer
(The Immoral West—and How It Was Lost; Naked Gals of the Golden West)

An old prospector tells the story of this gag-filled nudie western. Julie Williams stars with Sammy Gilbert, Jack Moran, Frank Bolger, and "the Topanga Gulch Players." The next year, Francis Ford Coppola's nudie western, Tonight for Sure, was released. The 65-minute early Meyer feature played drive-ins as late as 1976 on all-Meyer triple bills. It was released on tape in 1992.

WILD HORSE HANK

(Vestron, 1978) D: Eric Till S: James Lee Barrett
P: Bill Marshall, Henk Van Der Kolk Canada

Linda Blair, in one of her rare non-exploitation roles, is a horse lover trying to stop a family that stampedes wild horses. With Richard Crenna and Al Waxman. Blair competed in horse shows in real life.

WILDING: THE CHILDREN OF VIOLENCE

(AIP, 1990) D/S/P: Eric Louzil P: Lillian Balteanu (Night of the Wilding)

Some LA teens go on the rampage in a movie "inspired" by a (then) famous Central Park incident. Wings Hauser and Joey Travolta star as cop partners. With Catlyn Day and Karen Russell.

WILD LIFE

(MCA, 1984) D/S: Art Linson S/P: Cameron Crowe

Christopher Penn (acting like his brother Sean) stars in the less successful "sequel" to Fast Times at Ridgemont High, set in a singles apartment. The teen comedy costars Eric Stoltz as a high school grad new to the "swinging" scene. With Randy Quaid, Lea Thompson, Jenny Wright, Hart Bochner, Ilan Mitchell-Smith, Rick Moranis, Sherilyn Fenn, and director Leo Penn playing his real son's father. Also with Lee Ving, plus Kitten Natividad and Ashley St. John/Angelique Pettijohn as strippers. With music by Eddie Van Halen.

WILDMAN

(Celebrity, 1988) D/A: Fred Lincoln
S: Marc Jonathon P: Alan Nadohl

A Vegas casino owner (Don Scribner) works for the government. He uses a magic ring, becomes invulnerable and fights a drug lord. With Ginger Lynn and Michelle Bauer. Lincoln, a Last House on the Left star, is best known for directing porno movies.

THE WILD McCULLOCHS

(1975) D/S/P/A: Max Baer Jr. (The McCullochs)

After the success of Macon County Line, Baer did it all in this tale of a tough self-made Texas millionaire (Forrest Tucker) and his sons. AIP released the PG movie featuring two My Three Sons regulars. With Julie Adams, Don Grady, and William Demarest.

WILD ONES ON WHEELS

(Sinister, 1962) D/P: Rudolph Cusumano
S: Eugene Pollack C/A: Ray Dennis Steckler
(Drivers to Hell)

Duke is released from jail (old prison movie stock footage is used here) and heads for a remote diner and motel to reclaim his loot and girlfriend Hazel (Francine York). Hazel runs the place with her "gimpy" brother. Meanwhile a gang led by King Tut (Edmund Tontini) shows up in three jeeps and a convertible driven by Preacher (Steckler). This movie is pretty dull despite Steckler talking jive and York seen topless (from the back). Characters talk a lot, fight, have a deadly chickie run, and one is "tortured" with a small lizard. The b/w feature wasn't released until 1967. York also starred in the even cheaper Secret File Hollywood by the same producer.

WILD ORCHID

(RCA, 1990) D/S: Zalman King P: Tony Anthony

Revlon girl Carré Otis stars as a New York lawyer who goes to Rio during Carnival to work for Jacqueline Bisset. She encounters Mickey Rourke as a brooding Harley-riding millionaire voyeur. The pretentious lush sex fantasy was made after 9½ Weeks (also with Rourke). Typical publicity ("they really did it") surrounded the Otis/Rourke sex scenes. It was cut for an R in America and is available in R or uncut versions on tape. The cable TV hit was executive produced by Mark Damon. He, producer Anthony, and director King are all former movie actors. King later used footage from this for his Boca (1994).

WILD ORCHID 2: TWO SHADES OF BLUE

(Columbia, 1991) D/S: Zalman King P: David Saunders, Rafael Eisenman (Blue Movie Blue)

Nina Siemaszko stars as Blue, a California teen in the late 50s who becomes a wig-wearing hooker at a house run by a madam (Wendy Hughes) and appears in a porno movie. She leaves and attends school as a "normal" teen, falls in love with Brent Fraser, and is blackmailed. Tom Skerritt is her heroin-addict jazz musician father. With Robert Davi, Joe Dallesandro, and Lydie Denier. Mark Damon was executive producer of this (in name only) sequel. It was followed by King's Red Shoe Diaries series.

THE WILD PACK

(1971) D/S/P: Hall Barlett
(The Sandpit Generals; The Defiant)

Black and white orphans in Brazil survive by stealing. The AIP release won the Grand Prize at the Moscow Film Festival. With Kent Lane, Tisha Sterling, Butch Patrick, and Mark de Vries. Bartlett also made Jonathan Livingston Seagull.

THE WILD PAIR

(Media, 1987) D/A: Beau Bridges S: Joseph Gunn
P: Paul Mason, Randall Torno (Devil's Odds)

A cop (Beau) and an FBI man (Bubba Smith) team up and battle a private army led by a racist drug dealer (Lloyd Bridges). With Gary Lockwood, Raymond St. Jacques, and Ellen Geer.

WILD PALMS

(ABC, 1993) D: Keith Gordon, Phil Joanou, Kathryn Bigelow, Peter Hewitt
S: Bruce Wagner P: Michael Rauch

This limited-run TV series, based on Bruce Wagner's comic strip in Details magazine, is pretty bizarre for network TV. Unlike Twin Peaks, it's very political and didn't really get that much attention. Set in LA in 2007, it features corrupt politics, conspiracies, addictive virtual-reality drugs, hologram TV shows, a computer-graphic monster, and surreal dreams and nightmares. Wild Palms also has many clever references and in-jokes, and believable cultural-reference slang. James Belushi stars as a patent attorney who goes to work for Senator Kreutzer (Robert Loggia), the leader of the (Dianetics-style) Synthiotics religion. Kreutzer is also secretly leader of the fascist Fathers and he helps the attorney's son (Ben Savage) become a TV messiah. Many characters are involved, including Angie Dickinson as Kreutzer's evil sister (she pushes an artist's eyes out) and David Warner as the leader of the underground group Friends. Dana Delaney and Kim Cattrall are the female leads, and Brad Dourif has a memorable role. Also with Ernie Hudson, Nick Mancuso, Robert Morse, Robert Cornwaithe, sci-fi writer William Gibson, Bebe Neuwirth, and William Schallert. Executive producer Oliver Stone appears as himself on TV. The score by Ryuichi Sakamoto plus some choice 60s oldies (including "Gimme Shelter" . . .) is on Capitol. The two features plus the two hour episodes are all available on a two-tape set or a three-disc box set.

THE WILD PARTY

(Embassy, 1975) D: James Ivory
S: Walter Marks P: Ishmail Merchant

AIP released this Merchant/Ivory feature loosely based on the famous Fatty Arbuckle scandal. James Coco is the silent-era comedian who throws a big Hollywood party where a girl dies. Raquel Welch costars with Perry King, Tiffany Bolling, Royal Dano, and David Dukes. The 107-minute feature was cut to 95 minutes by AIP. Day of the Locust from the same year is better.

WILD RAPTURE

(Video Dimenesion, 1950)

This exploitation hit documentary (with jokey narration) was filmed in the Congo region of central Africa. It shows members of the "Ubangi" tribe with lips stretched with wooden disks and pygmies hunting a gorilla. The scenes of the gorilla hunt (and kill) were once sold as an 8mm short by Castle Films under the title Killer Gorilla. Native children eat huge caterpillars and the pygmies butcher an elephant carcass. The video box features ad art from another film, Mau Mau.

A WILD RIDE

(Applause, 1969) D: "Revilo Ekard"/Oliver Drake
S/P: William and Rachel Edwards (Ride a Wild Stud)

Quantrill and his men rape women and run a whorehouse in a sex western. Josie Kirk is kidnapped and Hale Williams is the cowboy hero. Drake had directed many B westerns at Monogram and PRC. He sure picked a hard-to-guess pseudonym.

WILD RIDERS

(Academy, 1971) D/S: Richard Kanter
P: John Burrows (Angels for Kicks)

Two slimy crazed bikers (Alex Rocco and Arell Blanton) grab two rich women. Stick (Rocco) wears plastic sunglasses, eats garbage, and freaks out. From Crown International. Rocco, who was really on an exploitation roll, went on immediately to Stanley, Detroit 900, and Three the Hard Way. Kanter made The Ribald Tales of Robin Hood.

WILD SCENE

(SW, 1970) D: William Rowland S: Michael Karike, William Keys P: Sam Jacobs

A psychiatrist (Alberta Nelson) relates real-life episodes from her planned book to her publisher. A rich girl with a horrible mother has sex with her father (offscreen). Three girls become hookers and are given (fake) birth control pills. A man (Barry Kroeger from Nightmare in Wax) has to beg his lesbian mistress for sex, and a girl dies at a drug party. Every once in a while the shrink tells about how her own rebellious daughter (Anita Eubank) fell for a campus radical. He says, "These demonstrations pay off like slot machines" and gives her VD. The cast of this grim, very anti-hippie adults-only movie includes Ida Lupino's sister Rita and Nancy Czar from Wild Guitar.

WILD SEED

(1965) D: Brian G. Hutton
S: Les Pine P: Albert S. Ruddy

Daffy (Celia Kaye) runs away from a foster home in New York, rides a train with a young bum (Michael Parks), and looks for her father in California. With Ross Elliott. It was the second feature for Parks, considered a James Dean type at the time. Marlon Brando Sr. was an executive producer for the Universal release.

WILD STYLE

(World, 1982) D/S/P: Charlie Ahearn

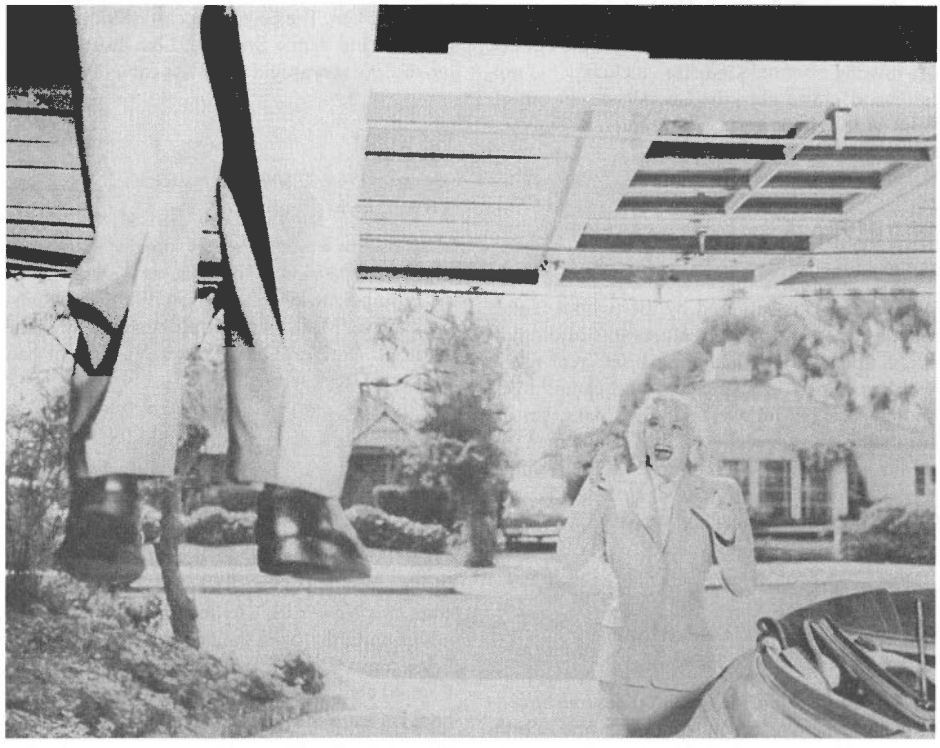
Few thought rap music would last as long as it has (when will it end?!). This was the first feature about rap (and the graffiti art scene) and is more realistic than the cash-in movies that followed. It was filmed semi-documentary style in New York City. Lee George Quinones stars as a graffiti artist from the ghetto trying to deal with the high-society art world. It all ends in a great rap show at a park bandshell. With Patti Astor, Fab 5 Freddy, and Busy Bee. Chris Stein from Blondie was in charge of the music.The soundtrack is on Animal Records.



Lila Leeds discovers the results of pot smoking—Wild Weed.

WILD THING

(Paramount, 1987) D: Max Reid
S: John Sayles US/Canada

Robert Knepper stars as a Tarzan-type orphan brought up in "The Zone" (tenements) of Quebec. He becomes the protector of some locals against drug dealers and bad cops. Kathleen Quinlan costars with Robert Davi, Betty Buckley, and Maury Chaykin. The theme song for the PG-13 feature is the Troggs' song of the same name.

WILD WEED

(Sinister, 1949) D: Sam Newfeld
S: Richard H. Landau P: Richard Kay
(The Devil's Weed; She Shoulda Said No!)

This is the story of "tea" or "tomatoes" and is the best-looking and most entertaining of the old drug-scare movies. Newsworthy star Lila Leeds (as blond dancer Ann Lester) was cast because she had been busted along with Robert Mitchum and served six months for possession. Alan Baxter (acting a lot like Robert Ryan) plays the ambitious, heartless pusher Markey. Whenever a joint (kept in Aztec Tomato cans) is present, spooky theremin music is heard. Weed includes a guy who can only play "Chopsticks" imagining himself performing a piano concerto at Hollywood Bowl, suicide, a scare tour of an asylum and morgue, and an excellent time-lapse freak-out scene where Ann sees herself aging in a mirror. Other notable stars are Lyle Talbot as a narcotics chief, young Jack Elam as a killer hood, and Leo Gorcey's brother David. Art director Eugene Lourie (Gorgo, The Giant Behemoth . . .) added greatly to the classy look of this "adults-only" drug horror classic. Director Newfeld had already directed over 180 features, including The Terror of Tiny Town, Beast of Berlin, and I Accuse My Parents. A Hallmark Roadshow attraction from Kroger Babb.

WILD WILD WORLD

(1965) D: Bob Sokoler P: Alessandro Jacovoni Italy

Forties star Eddie Bracken narrates the English-language version of this mondo movie. It shows opium smoking, prostitution, stag films, bullfighting, strippers, cock fights, and Vince Taylor and the Playboys. Taylor was a British rocker in black leather who became a big star in France. People eat monkey brains, dogs, insects, and live mice. It was presented by Dick Randall.

THE WILD, WILD WORLD OF JAYNE MANSFIELD

(Good Times, 1968) D: Arthur Knight S: Charles Ross

If you haven't seen this brilliant, fascinating fake documentary masterpiece yet, it's about time! Jayne conducts a mondo tour including strip clubs, a nudist colony, and a drag fashion show. The tour footage was filmed (from 1964–66) in Rome, Paris, Cannes, New York, and Hollywood. Since she was already dead by 1968, "Jayne's" breathy narration was done by a woman who dubbed countless Italian movies. Sometimes a Jayne stand-in is used for scenes. Sometimes Jayne "remembers" scenes from some of her movies. The editor deserved an Oscar. With Rocky Roberts and the Airdales (doing "The Bird Is the Word") while Jayne dances, and a topless rock band (the Ladybirds). It all ends with tasteless footage of Mansfield's body and her grieving husband Mickey Hargitay. With clips of Jayne in The Loves of Hercules (1960) (letterboxed!), Spree (1963), nude scenes from Promises Promises (1963), and Primitive Love (1964). Most video versions are cut and are missing essential segments (including the topless band!). You need the Good Times or out-of-print Video Home version. Presented by exploitation genius Dick Randall.

WILD WOMEN

(Sinister, 1951) D: Norman Dawn

A small safari is captured by the (white) female Ulama tribe. The movie features lots of old narrated stock footage including brief (real native women) nudity as flashbacks, and claims to be shot in Africa. With women in tiger skins dancing for their high priestess, wrestling, and a man in a gorilla suit. The just-over-an-hour feature is similar to Prehistoric Women (1950) or Untamed Women (1952) but even cheaper and worse.

WILLIE DYNAMITE

(1973) D: Gilbert Moses III S: Ron Cutler
P: Richard D. Zanuck, David Brown

Roscoe Orman (later a regular on Sesame Street!) is Willie Dynamite, a New York pimp who reforms at the end thanks to a social worker (Diana Sands, who died before the release). With Roger Robinson as an outrageous gay rival pimp, Thalmus Rasulala, Juanita Brown, and Marcia McBroom. Martha Reeves is on the MCA soundtrack. By the director of The Fish That Saved Pittsburgh.

THE WILLIES

(Prism, 1990) D/S: Brian Peck
P: Gary Depew, Brad Southwick

Scary stories are told around a campfire in a PG-13 horror anthology. Giant flies and a stop-motion monster appear. Sean Astin, Joshua Miller, and James Karen are in the framing segments. Also with Kathleen Freeman, Clu Gulager, Kirk Cameron, Dana Ashbrook, and Kimmy Robertson.

WILLOW

(RCA, 1988) D: Ron Howard
S: Bob Dolman P: Nigel Wooll

After Splash and Cocoon hit, Howard made this PG-rated fantasy adventure. Warwick Davis stars as the dwarf Willow, who has to rescue a baby from a magic queen (Jean Marsh). Val Kilmer is a mercenary fighter and Joanne Whalley is the nice daughter of the evil Queen. With Billy Barty and a whole village of little people, Gavin O'Herlihy, and David Steinberg. Some of the ILM FX are excellent (this was the first feature to use morphing, now used everywhere), and it's a good kid movie. The $30 million feature was not a hit, and the merchandising products didn't sell. It was based on a story by executive producer George Lucas.

WIMPS

(Lightning, 1984) D/S/P: Chuck Vincent S: Craig Horall

A college nerd (Louis Bonanno) is forced to help an awkward jock court Tracey Adams by writing love letters for him. The porno star cast includes Veronica Hart and Annie Sprinkle. Like most Vincent movies, it's very stupid and plays cable TV a lot.

THE WIND

(Lightning, 1986) D/S/P: Nico Mastorakis
S: Fred C. Perry

Meg Foster is a mystery writer stranded on a Greek island in a mansion. Wings Hauser is an unshaven alcoholic psycho killer handyman. With Steve Railsback, David McCallum, and Robert Morley as the landlord. The Next One, by the same director, had the same Greek setting.

THE WINDOW

(1949) D: Ted Tetzlaff S: Mel Dinelli P: Frederic Ullman Jr.

Cornell Woolrich wrote the story that this excellent thriller from RKO was based on. Bobby Driscoll stars as a New York City tenement kid who witnesses a murder from the fire escape. Nobody believes him and the killers (Paul Stewart and Ruth Roman) chase after him. Arthur Kennedy and Barbara Hale are the parents. Driscoll, who was also in Disney films, received a special Oscar. He died in 1968 after spending time as a drug addict. The Window has some similarities with Rear Window (1954), also based on Woolrich. It would make a great kids-in-peril double bill with Invaders from Mars (1953). It was remade as The Boy Cried Murder (1966) in England and also as Cloak and Dagger (1984).

WINDOWS

(Vid-America, 1979) D: Gordon Willis
S: Barry Siegel P: Michael Lobell

Elizabeth Ashley is a lesbian psycho killer after Talia Shire. She even hires a man to rape her to turn her against men. She also puts her cat in the freezer. The director is the famous cinematographer (The Godfather . . .). With Joe Cortese as a cop. It's pretty dreary. With an Ennio Morricone score. It was shot in Brooklyn Heights about the same time that Cruising was filming in Manhattan. From UA.

THE WINDS OF WAR

(Paramount, 1983) D/P: Dan Curtis S: Herman Wouk

If you want to learn about WWII and don't want to read about it, I recommend The World at War video series from HBO. If you want to see the war as brought to you by the creator of Dark Shadows, you should at least know who to look for because it's an international goldmine for spotting B actors. Let's try some alphabetically: Ralph Bellamy (as FDR again), Scott Brady, Anton Diffring, David Dukes, Lisa Eilbacher, Leo V. Gordon, Peter Graves, John Houseman, Ferdy Mayne, Ali McGraw, Robert Mitchum (the star), Barry Morse, Wolfgang Preiss, Edmund Purdom, Logan Ramsey, Barbara Steele (she was the associate producer and has a small role in an early segment), Victoria Tennant, Jan-Michael Vincent, Deborah Winters, and many, many more. Winds leads up to Pearl Harbor. It cost $40 million. Originally 18 hours long, it's available uncut on 7 cassettes. War and Remembrance was the even bigger sequel.

WINGS OF DANGER

(1952) D: Terence Fisher S: John Gilling P: Anthony Hinds UK

Zachary Scott stars as an airline pilot who discovers a smuggling ring. With Kay Kendall and Diane Cilento. Lippert released the Hammer film in America.

WINGS OF DESIRE

(Orion, 1987) D/S/P: Wim Wenders S: Peter Handke
P: Anatole Dauman (Der Himmel über Berlin)

Don't miss this pre-reunification Berlin fantasy with two angels (Bruno Ganz and Otto Sander) wandering effortlessly from the West to the East listening to people's thoughts. It's nothing like the countless angel movies you've probably seen. Damien (Ganz) falls for a circus acrobat (Solveig Dommartin) and eventually chooses to become human again. With Peter Falk as himself, Curt Bois (in films since 1909), and Nick Cave and the Bad Seeds. The subtitled PG-13 feature is part b/w (the way angels see things) and runs 130 minutes. Faraway, So Close was the sequel.

WINGS OF THE HAWK

(1953) D: Oscar "Budd" Boetticher
S: James E. Moser P: Aaron Rosenberg

Van Heflin and Julia Adams (just after The Creature from the Black Lagoon) star in a 3-D Universal movie about the Mexican revolution. With Abbe Lane, Noah Beery Jr., Pedro Gonzales-Gonzales, and George Dolenz (Micky's dad).

WIN, PLACE OR STEAL

(Vestron, 1975) D/S: Richard Bailey S: Anthony Monaco P: Thomas C. Cooney (The Big Payoff; Three for the Money; Just Another Day at the Races)

Dean Stockwell, Russ Tamblyn, and Alex Karras star in a racetrack comedy. With Harry Dean Stanton and McLean Stevenson. Before it was made, Tamblyn had been unemployed and living in a trailer.

WINTERBEAST

(Tempe, 1986) D/S: Christopher Thies
P/E: Mark Frizzell

Forest rangers deal with legendary creatures in a local movie filmed in Newbury, Mass. Most of the animation (tree monster, lizard creature . . .) is pathetic, but I like it anyway. A creepy character named Sheldon looks kinda like Malcolm McDowell. He prances around a room while an entire old record ("Oh, Dear, What Can the Matter Be") plays. I still can't get that damn song out of my head! A hooded demon (good makeup) makes an appearance, there's some gore, and one topless scene. The screams are from the old Disney "Chilling, Thrilling Sounds of the Haunted House" album (!).

WINTERHAWK

(1976) D/S/P: Charles B. Pierce

Michael Dante stars as a Blackfoot Indian who kidnaps two kids after white men attack him for no reason. The PG Howco movie features Leif Erickson, Woody Strode, Denver Pyle, L. Q. Jones, Elisha Cook Jr., Arthur Hunnicutt, Dawn Wells, and Sacheen Littlefeather.

WINTER KILLS

(Columbia, 1979) D/S: William Richert P: Fred Caruso C: Vilmos Zsigmond M: Maurice Jarre

This black comedy is all about the Kennedy assassination, with names and places changed. Jeff Bridges stars as the brother of the late president "Kegan," who learns of a second rifle that was used. With John Huston as the Joseph Kennedy figure, Anthony Perkins (WUSA) as a computer genius, Sterling Hayden (Suddenly), Dorothy Malone, Eli Wallach, Ralph Meeker, Toshiro Mifune, Richard Boone, Thomas Milan, Brad Dexter, Belinda Bauer, Tisa Farrow, Candice Rialson, and Elizabeth Taylor. The Avco Embassy release was reedited and rereleased in 1983.

WIRED

(IVE, 1989) D: Larry Peerce S: Earl Mac Rauch P: Edward S. Feldman

Nobody liked this anti-drug comedy based on Bob Woodward's book. Michael Chiklis stars as the late comedian John Belushi. He's dead at the start of the movie, and his guardian angel (Ray Sharkey) takes him on a time trip through his life. With J. T. Walsh, Patti D'Arbanville, Alex Rocco, Billy Preston (as himself), and an Elvis impersonator. It was backed by the Lion Breweries of New Zealand. Peerce also made Elvis and Me.

WIRED TO KILL

(Lightning, 1986) D/S: Franky Schaeffer P: Jim Buchfueher (Booby Trap)

This Mad Max copy is set in 1998 after the plague. People ride in garbage trucks and mutant gangs attack. Devin Hoelscher goes on a revenge spree in his wheelchair and a remote-control robot helps. The Shakespearean gang leader (Merritt Butrick) uses various bizarre ways to kill. The Yellowjackets provided the theme music. It was cut for an R.

WISE BLOOD

(MCA, 1979) D/A: John Huston S: Benedict Fitzgerald US/W. Germany

One of Huston's least known features is one of his best. It's based on a Flannery O'Connor story. Brad Dourif is religious fanatic Hazel Motes, who returns from the war and starts "The Church of Truth Without Christ" in a southern town. Daniel Shor steals a mummy and another preacher (Harry Dean Stanton) lives in a hotel room with Amy Wright. With Ned Beatty, William Hickey, and Huston as Hazel's hellfire-and-brimstone grandfather. New Line released it.

WISE GUYS

(MGM, 1986) D: Brian De Palma S: George Gallo P: Aaron Russo

Danny DeVito and Joe Piscopo hide out from their mobster bosses in a gangster comedy. Whoever decided to team these two actors deserves some kind of severe punishment. Harvey Keitel plays an Atlantic City mobster casino manager. With Ray Sharkey, Dan Hedaya, Patti Lupone, Captain Lou Albano as Frank "the Fixer," and Martin Scorsese's parents. It includes nods to Taxi Driver and other Scorsese features.

WISHFUL THINKING

(Hemdale, 1992) D/S/P/A: Murray Langston

A screenwriter (Langston) rescues a gnome (Billy Barty); his dreams are fulfilled and Michelle Johnson is his prize. With Ruth Buzzi and Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini. Director Langston, aka "The Unknown Comic," was also in Two Top Bananas (1982), Night Patrol (1985), and Up Your Alley (1988).

WISHMAN

(Monarch, 1991) D/S: Michael Marvin P: Lon D. Tinney

A bald Geoffrey Lewis (father of Juliette) is a genie (with an on-and-off Irish accent) whose magic bottle is missing. A nice Beverly Hills junk collector (Paul Le Mat) and a funny Nam vet from Texas (Brion James) try to help, and Le Mat falls for a childlike blond heiress (Quin Kessler) being held captive by Nancy (Porky's) Parsons and Paul Gleason. Lewis, Le Mat, and James make an interesting and fun team, but why does this tape, which seems aimed at kids, have subplots about impregnating the girl with an idiot's sperm, a Roman orgy, and porno star Gloria Leonard (!) as a fortune teller? Also with Liz Sheridan, Rance Howard, and Savage Steve Holland. The Mike Curb–backed tape is by the director of The Wraith.

THE WITCH

(Sinister, 1966) D/S: Damiano Damiani P: Alfredo Bini S: Ugo Liberatore Italy (La Strega in Amore)

An older Mexican woman living in a big old house hires no-good playboy Richard Johnson (The Haunting) to translate a library of erotic memoirs written by her husband (embalmed in a glass case). Gian Maria Volante (A Fistful of Dollars) is the unhinged previous librarian ("I'm in a living hell and I love it!"). They both have to be around the sexy young daughter, Auro (Rosanna Schiaffino), who keeps disappearing. Johnson says, "She's my ideal girl, a liar and corrupt!" Mind games, madness, murder, drugs, and other surprises should keep you interested. It's all based on a Mexican novel by Carlos Fuentes. Damiani returned to horror with Amityville II: The Possession.

WITCHBOARD

(Magnum, 1986) D/S: Kevin S. Tenney P: Gerald Geoffray

A Ouija board summons up a dead little boy during a teen party. Then the spirit of a mass murderer possesses star Tawny Kitaen. With Todd Allen, Kathleen Wilhoite as the medium, and Rose Marie in a bit part. With an exorcism, dream sequences, Tawny in the shower, and too many false scares. It was shot around San Francisco by a first-time director from USC.

WITCHBOARD 2: THE DEVIL'S DOORWAY

(Republic, 1993) D/S: Kevin S. Tenney P: Walter Josten

Blond Ami Dolenz stars as an artist/accountant who moves into a furnished loft building. She falls under the spell of a Ouija board and the spirit of "Susan" (Julie Michaels). With false scares, flying killer tools, a possessed car, and an automatic writer. John Gatins costars with Timothy Gibb, Laraine Newman as an ex-hippie landlady, and Marvin Kaplan as a "Jewish occultist." Witchboard: The Possession (Republic, 1995) followed.

WITCHCRAFT

(Academy, 1988) D: Robert Spera S: Jody Savan P: Megan Barnett, Yoran Barzilai

This one has some ideas from Rosemary's Baby and opens with scenes of a woman giving birth, intercut with a witch burning. A new "Polish" mother (Anat Topol Barzilai) reluctantly joins her husband and moves in with her mother-in-law after their house mysteriously burns down. The house includes a mute zombie-like butler, weird visiting old people and Dark Shadows–style lightning outside the windows. The grandmother keeps taking the baby away, and in a dream, eats a dog. A visiting Catholic father has a burning vision and pukes. This slow-moving movie filmed in California has a decapitation, suicide, and lots of ridiculous false scares.

WITCHCRAFT II: THE TEMPTRESS

(Academy, 1989) D: Mark Woods S: Sal Manna, Jim Hanson P: Megan Barnett, Reza Mizban

This one is a teen movie, complete with rock music, a rock video scene, and teenagers who look like they're in their late 30s. Delia Sheppard is Taurus, the big-breasted blond temptress with a British accent who paints a house while wearing a body stocking, high heels, and dark sunglasses. Will (Charles Solomon) is a boring adopted student. His (virgin) girlfriend (Mia Ruiz), the daughter of a preacher, is attacked by her pillow and has sex with Will's best friend in a dream. Will is really "the supreme warlock," or something, and he's destined to have a son who will rule the world. Meanwhile, his friends are being killed. With Jay Richardson. Flashbacks from Witchcraft are used.

WITCHCRAFT III: THE KISS OF DEATH

(Academy, 1991) D: R. L. Tillman S: Gerry Daly P: Holly MacConkey

Charles Solomon (Witchcraft II) returns as a young lawyer who doesn't realize he's the son of a warlock. He has to battle a devious stud vampire. This entry in the series has several cliché black characters and some very R-rated sex. The only memorable scenes involve Lena Hall and Lisa Toothman naked.

WITCHCRAFT IV: VIRGIN HEART

(Academy, 1991) D/S: James Merendino
S: Michael Paul Gerard P: Holly MacConkey

Charles Solomon returns again as an attorney with magical powers. Rock musicians are selling their souls to the Devil, an evil Brit named Santara. Belladonna, a stripper (six-foot Penthouse Pet of 1992 Julie Strain) is featured in some of the sex scenes.

WITCHCRAFT V: DANCE WITH THE DEVIL

(Academy, 1993) D: Talun Hsu S: Steve Tymon, James Merenoino P: Drew Peloso, Michael Feifer

All the featured women are fake blondes in this stupid, cheap-looking, and very confusing sex movie. An irritating, pretentious long-haired "Collector" (David Huffman) takes over a rock club and does a hypnotism act. He makes his new, big-breasted dumb-blond assistant (Nicole Sassaman) seduce "William" (Marklen Kennedy), the guy who doesn't know he's a white witch, to make him help capture souls. Sassaman has several sex scenes (usually on top), and a possessed preacher gets it on with his assistant. Carolyn Taye-Loren has the standout featured sex-in-many-positions-in-the-shower scene (in the unrated version anyway). There are also two girl/girl fights. None of this is suggested on the video cover, which sells it as a horror sequel.

WITCHCRAFT VI

(Academy, 1994) D/S: Julie Davis
S: Peter Fleming P: Michael Feifer

Some Hollywood cops are after a serial killer, and a ponytailed Satanist with a night club sends a temptress (Debra Beatty) after divorce lawyer and occult specialist Will Spanner (Jerry Spicer this time). Interviews with psychics provide out-of-place comedy, blond virgins are drugged, and Beatty is featured (on top) in the major bathtub fuck scene. One cops says, "This is a big fucking waste of time." My thoughts exactly. Still more pathetic sequels followed.

WITCHCRAFT 70: See THE OCCULT EXPERIENCE

WITCHCRAFT THROUGH THE AGES

(MPI, NY Film Annex, 1921) D/S/A: Benjamin Christiansen P: Ernest Mattson Sweden (Haxen)

Everyone should see this brilliant silent movie about witchcraft. It's a history lesson that at times looks like a Hieronymus Bosch painting come to life. It re-creates 15th- and 16th-century trials and shows how some of the fears persisted into the early 20th century. Scenes of people being tried and tortured are mixed with fantasy scenes (and some comedy). Witches kissing a devil's ass is one memorable vision. The religious themes and some nudity caused the film to be banned in various places over the years. The director (who appears as the big scary Devil) was Danish. He later worked in Germany, America (Seven Footprints to Satan), and Denmark. In 1969, Anthony Balch released a reedited version with Jean-Luc Ponty music and William Burroughs narrating. The narration is priceless, and this is the version people used to see at midnight movie shows. Versions range from a full 128 minutes to only 82 minutes long.

WITCH DOCTOR: See THE RETURNING

WITCHERY

(Vidmark, 1988) D: "Martin Newlin"/ Fabrizio Laurenti Italy (La Casa 4)

David Hasselhoff is a photographer staying in an abandoned hotel on an island with a writer (Catherine Hickland, Hasselhoff's then-wife) who is determined to stay a virgin. Pregnant Linda Blair has nightmares. Her whole family shows up with a real estate guy and a lady assessor to buy the island, and they all end up stranded there, victims of a German-speaking witch (Hildegarde Knef). Lots of bloody and disturbing deaths occur. Annie Ross plays Linda's mom. Her mouth is stitched up, she's hung upside down in a fireplace and burned, and nobody misses (or smells) her! The virgin is raped by a grotesque guy with a bloody mouth, but nobody hears her screams. Witches eat a dead baby and a man is crucified. Despite all that (and a Sesame Street tape recorder) this Italian production is still boring. It was filmed in Massachusetts and was called Ghosthouse II in England. Baywatch TV star Hasselhoff also became a singing star in Germany in the early 90s.

THE WITCHES

(1965) D: Luchino Visconti, Mauro Bolognini, Pier Paolo Pasolini, Franco Rossi, Vittorio De Sica
P: Dino De Laurentiis Italy/France (La Streghe)

In between starring in "man with no name" westerns, Clint Eastwood played Silvana Mangano's boring husband in one of the five episodes in this fantasy anthology. Mangano stars in all five. In the De Sica episode, she imagines Eastwood fighting comic book characters (Flash Gordon, Mandrake, Diabolik, and Batman)! Also with Annie Girardot, Alberto Sordi, and Toto. UA released it in America in 1967.

THE WITCHES

(Warner, 1989) D: Nicholas Roeg
S: Allan Scott P: Mark Shivas UK

A witch plans to give poisoned chocolate to British kids on holiday at a seaside resort and turn them all into mice. The PG-rated fantasy based on Roald Dahl's book is a great children's movie for adults. Anjelica Huston is the Grand High Witch. Two mice kids are the heroes and Mai Zetterling is the helpful grandmother. With Rowan Atkinson (star of the Black Adder series). It was shot in Norway. Executive producer Jim Henson and novelist Dahl (who didn't like it) both died just after completion. The US version has a tacked-on happy ending.

WITCHES' BREW

(Embassy, 1978) D/S: Richard Shorr
D/E: Herbert L. Strock P: Dana Ashbrook

This is an uncredited comedy remake of Weird Woman (1944) and the British Burn Witch Burn (1962), which were both based on the novel Conjure Wife by Fritz Leiber. Teri Garr stars as the wife of a college professor (Richard Benjamin). She and her friends use spells to help their husbands advance at work. With Lana Turner (in her last role) as a witch and a stop-motion Devil by David Allen. Strock directed additional scenes. The PG feature debuted on HBO after being shelved.

THE WITCHES OF EASTWICK

(Warner, 1987) D: George Miller S: Michael Cristofer
P: Neil Canton, Peter Guber, Jon Peters
C: William Zsigmond M: John Williams

Jack Nicholson is Daryl Van Horne, a sometimes charming Devil with a ponytail in a war-of-the-sexes fantasy comedy based on John Updike's novel. It's not what you'd expect from the director of Road Warrior. Cher, Susan Sarandon, and Michelle Pfeiffer are bored women in a New England town (it was shot outside of Boston) who somehow conjure up Van Horne as their ultimate lover. Nicholson becomes a giant, and Veronica Cartwright vomits cherry pits. With Carel Struycken as Omar, Richard Jenkins, and Harriet White Medin. The FX by Rob Bottin and the ILM group are top-notch. The score is on Warner Brothers.

WITCHFIRE

(Lightning, 1985) D/S: Vincent J. Privitera
S/P: James Orr

Shelley Winters (who was also the executive producer) is a mental patient who escapes with two friends from an asylum in Texas. She traps a hunter looking for his son and performs witchcraft ceremonies. An ad said: "Not since Cuckoo's Nest has insanity been so fun!" With Vanessa Blanchard.

WITCH HUNT

(HBO, 1994) D: Paul Schrader S: Joseph Dougherty
P: Michael Joyce, David Gale, Betsy Beers
M: Angelo Badalamenti

Dennis Hopper is detective Harry Lovecraft in a sequel to Cast a Deadly Spell. Both films are fantasy mystery comedies set in a fictional past where real magic is commonplace, but this one adds politics. This time Lovecraft (who doesn't use magic) is hired by an actress (Penelope Ann Miller) in 1953 Hollywood. Bizarre characters and FX (by Gene Warren) are mixed with a spoof of the McCarthy hearings. Eric Bogosian is an evil senator, Julian Sands is a warlock, and Sheryl Lee Ralph is the good witch landlady. With Alan Rosenberg, Debi Mazar, and drag queen Lypsinka. The HBO movie uses a real Frank Lloyd Wright house for a brothel, and scenes from The Big Combo. Gale Ann Hurd was the executive producer.

THE WITCHING

(AEI, 1971) D/S: Bert I. Gordon S/P: Gail March P: Sidney L. Caplan (Necromancy)

Pamela Franklin (whose British accent comes and goes) and her husband (Michael Ontkean) move to a small town that turns out to be full of witches (all under 30) led by Mr. Cato (Orson Welles). Cato plans to use her in an attempt to resurrect his dead son. Welles (with a fake nose) is good despite the half-assed script filled with flashbacks and nightmares. Lee Purcell, Sue Bernard (Faster Pussycat . . .), and Harvey Jason costar. Also with a naked man whipped by topless women, a naked woman burned at the stake, and a bizarre time-lapse skeleton scene. Franklin had been in The Innocents (1961), The Nanny (1965) and Night of the Following Day (1968) in England. This 1983 version includes added scenes of full-frontal nudity during a coven (the original was rated PG). The new scenes include Brinke Stevens.

THE WITCHING

(Tempe, 1993) D/S: Eric Black P: Todd Sheets

A refrigerator becomes a gateway to Hell and a family battles a (black) witch. The very-low-budget horror tape includes some morphing FX. It was made in Kansas City and Ohio.

WITCHING TIME

(Thriller, 1980) D: Don Leaver S: Anthony Read UK

Elvira hosts this (censored) one-hour Hammer TV drama starring Jon Finch as a composer and Patricia Quinn as a 17th-century witch in modern day London.

WITCH KILL = THE WITCHMAKER

WITCHMASTER = THE WITCHMAKER

WITCHTRAP

(Magnum, 1989) D/S/P/A: Kevin S. Tenney P: Dan Duncan

Members of a paranormal crew are killed off in a haunted house. A ghost uncle with a missing heart is responsible. Linnea Quigley is a victim, and there's a part-Chinese hero. This movie has terrible acting and some of the worst dialogue in years. By the director of Witchboard.

THE WITCH WHO CAME FROM THE SEA

(Unicorn, 1976) D/P: "Matt Cimber"/ Matteo Ottaviano S: Robert Thom

It's no wonder this didn't play around much. It's very bizarre, pretty graphic and shocking, but star Millie Perkins is so good it rises above most exploitation movies. She's Aunt Molly, a very troubled barmaid who has sex with various men, then castrates them with a razor. We discover why in disturbing flashbacks of her childhood. In one scene she has a mermaid tattooed on her chest by a completely tattooed man called Jack Dracula, played by Stan Ross (Beyond the Valley of the Dolls). It's a shock to see Perkins (Diary of Anne Frank) running around naked and bloody (years before Blue Velvet). In one scene she gets high, ties up two musclebound football stars in her bed, then uses her razor until their blood spurts all over. With Vanessa Brown, Lonny Chapman, George "Buck" Flower, Roberta Collins, and porno star Serena in a party scene. Perkins was in Wild in the Streets, also written by her scriptwriter-husband Thom (who died in 1979). She retired from the screen for many years after Witch was made.

WITHOUT A CLUE

(Orion, 1988) D: Thom Eberhardt S: Larry Strawther, Gary Murphy P: Marc Stirdivant UK (Sherlock and Me)

Michael Caine is an actor hired to impersonate Sherlock Holmes, and Ben Kingsley is a brilliant Watson. The comedy features Jeffrey Jones as Lestrade, Lysette Anthony (also in Jack the Ripper with Caine), Peter Cook, and Nigel Davenport.

THE WIZ

(MCA, 1978) D: Sidney Lumet S: Joel Schumacher P: Rob Cohen

Motown Records backed this big budget G-rated flop disco Oz musical based on the 1975 Broadway musical. Casting 34-year-old Diana Ross as Dorothy was a bad idea. With Michael Jackson as the Scarecrow, Nipsey Russell as the Tin Man, Ted Ross as the Lion, Lena Horne as the Glinda the Good, and Richard Pryor as the politician Wizard. The FX are by Stan Winston. MCA released the double soundtrack.

THE WIZARD OF BAGHDAD

(1960) D: George Sherman S: Jesse L. Lasky Jr., Pat Silver P: Sam Katzman

A genie (Dick Shawn) temporarily loses his magical powers. Diane Baker costars as the princess. The 20th Century–Fox release features a flying carpet and a magic horse. With Barry Coe. This was released the same year as MGM's Thief of Baghdad remake.

THE WIZARD OF OZ

(Video Yesterday, 1925) D/S/A: Larry Semon S: L. Frank Baum Jr., Leon Lee

Chadwick Pictures made this strange version with Oliver Hardy as the Tin Woodsman (and as an evil prince) and Semon as the hero Scarecrow. There isn't much of a story but the characters fight a lot. The Cowardly Lion is a scared black servant in a lion suit. Dorothy Dwan is Dorothy. The once popular comic Semon died bankrupt in 1928. The tape has a jazz score. There were many (now probably lost) silent Oz movies before this, but it was the last version until the famous 1939 one.

THE WIZARD OF SPEED AND TIME

(Southgate, 1988) D/S/A/E: Mike Jittlov P: Richard Kaye, Deven Chierighino

Somebody bets a young FX expert that he can't finish a feature. The PG comedy about making movies was expanded from a short film and includes slapstick gags and animation FX. With Paige Moore as his girlfriend, his real mother as his mother, and Arnetia Walker. Guest stars include Steve Brodie, Angelique Pettyjohn, Philip Michael Thomas, Forry Ackerman, Page Leong, Frank Laloggia, and Jim Danforth. Jittlov did the FX.

WIZARDS

(Fox, 1977) D/S/P: Ralph Bakshi

In the post-nuke future everyone is either dwarves and goblins or elves and fairies. Bob Holt is the voice of Avatar. It was Bakshi's fifth feature and was released by 20th Century–Fox. The animator returned with Lord of the Rings, another PG-rated fantasy.

WIZARDS OF THE DEMON SWORD

(Troma, 1990) D/P: Fred Olen Ray S: Dan Gordon, Ernest Farino P: Grant Austin Waldman (Demon Sword)

Heidi Payne and Blake Bahner are the stars in a comic fantasy adventure. Lyle Waggoner as the evil Lord Khoura says things like "My dear, I am eternal damnation" and captures the "keeper of the blade" (Russ Tamblyn). Lawrence Tierney is a slaver. With Dawn Wildsmith, Jay Richardson, Hoke Howell, and Michael Berryman. Also with stock footage, many lame jokes, and bad stop-motion dinosaurs. It was made in six days on castle sets borrowed from Roger Corman and took three years for someone to release it.

WIZARDS OF THE LOST KINGDOM

(Media, 1983) D: Hector Olivera S: Tom Edwards P: Frank Isaac

Bo Svenson stars as the warrior swordsman Kor who helps a boy magician battle monsters. Vidal Peterson and Maria Socas costar in the PG Concorde movie, filmed in Argentina. It also features mermaids. The magician returned in a sequel.

WIZARDS OF THE LOST KINGDOM II

(Media, 1988) D/S: Charles B. Griffith S: Lance Smith P: Reid Shane

That boy magician is back trying to save the three kingdoms. The PG sequel features David Carradine as "Dark One," Lana Clarkson, Sid Haig, Mel Welles as a wizard, and plenty of scenes lifted from executive producer Roger Corman's earlier Concorde productions.

WOLF

(Columbia, 1994) D: Mike Nichols S: Jim Harrison, Wesley Strick P: Douglas Wick M: Ennio Morricone

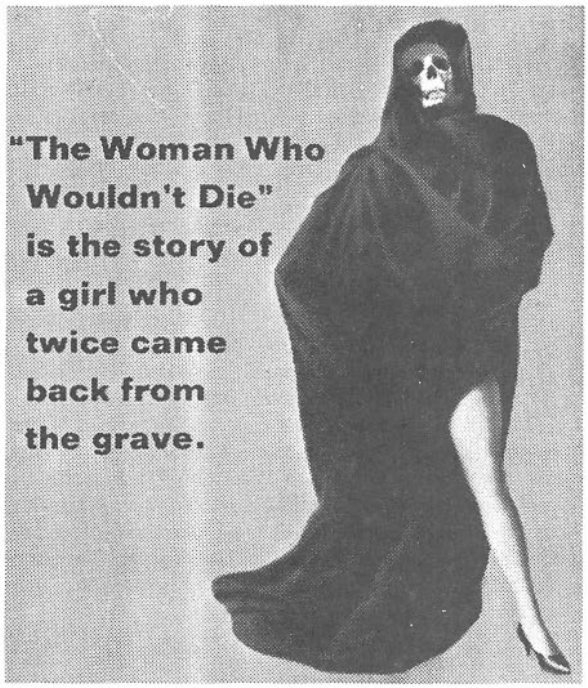
Nicholson was better as a wolf man than De Niro was as the Frankenstein monster, but this glossy major release is better as a publishing-world story than as horror and is more like Cronenberg's The Fly than other werewolf movies. The action scenes are all in slow motion, typical of a director who doesn't like action scenes. Jack Nicholson loses his job as an NYC book editor, seeks revenge, and finds love with Michelle Pfeiffer, daughter of the billionaire publishing tycoon (Christopher Plummer) who let him go. James Spader is the weasel assistant who gets the job and the wife (Kate Nelligan). Rick Baker (American Werewolf in London) did the FX, but there are no transformation scenes. Elaine May did script rewrites. The publishing house is (obviously) in the Bradbury Building in LA. The 125-minute Columbia release failed to make back its $70-million-plus budget at the box office. A widescreen laserdisc version is available.



WOLFMAN CHRONICLES

(Rhino, 1991) D/S: Ted Newsom

Wolfman, part of a Rhino series of narrated one-hour monster movie trailer compilations, is padded with background on both of the Chaneys and on Dr. Jekyll movies, but is pretty complete in compiling nearly every werewolf trailer up through the 50s. Long scenes are also used from the Mexican Face of the Screaming Werewolf and the Route 66 Halloween special (both featuring Chaney Jr.). Interesting 40s trailers I had never seen include She Wolf of London and The Undying Monster.

THE WOLVES OF WILLOUGHBY CHASE

(1988) D: Stuart Orme S: William M. Akers P: Mark Forstater UK

Some girls are in the care of an evil governess (Stephanie Beacham) who commands a pack of wolves and plans to take over an estate. Mel Smith is also in the Victorian fantasy.

WOMAN HUNT

(Charter, 1972) D/P: Eddie Romero P/A: John Ashley Philippines (The Highest Bidder)

A millionaire (Sid Haig) hunts and kills women in a Most Dangerous Game copy. John Ashley, in one of his many Philippines features, is the hero. With Pat Woodell, Charlene Jones, and Lisa Todd as a lesbian wearing all-black clothes. From New World.

A WOMAN IN LOVE

(SW, 1968) D/S: Albert T. Viola S/P/E: Mathias Sebald S: Jerold Brody, Joseph Sutherin

It's hard to figure who the target audience was for this talky, arty b/w drama about psychosexual problems made in New York State. It's pretty confusing and has no nudity to speak of. Some of the cinematography is excellent, though. A man (Phillip R. Allen) goes to a house in the woods and reads a letter, which leads to a narrated flashback with a fantasy sequence in it. More flashbacks show a little boy with a stick hitting a couple having sex, and it all has a cosmic ending. It features Audrey Campbell (star of the Olga movies). Viola later made The Hot Box and Angels Hard As They Come with Jonathan Demme.

THE WOMAN INSIDE

(Simitar, 1979) D/S: Joseph Van Winkle P: Sidney H. Levine Canada

Gloria Manon stars as Holly/Hollis, a transsexual Nam vet, who goes from male to female. The star had a sex change in real life too. The low-budget exploitation feature from 20th Century–Fox was the last for 30s star Joan Blondell (she died in 1979), who plays Manon's wisecracking aunt. Also with Dane Clark as the doctor, and comedians Jackie Vernon and Joe E. Ross. Doris Wishman's much sleazier and more graphic Let Me Die a Woman is from the same year.

WOMAN IN THE MOON

(Video Yesteryear, 1929) D/P: Fritz Lang S: Thea Von Harbou Germany (By Rocket to the Moon; Girl in the Moon)

Lang's last silent feature is historically important for several reasons, but not that great to watch really. International financiers back a trip to the moon. Five plus a young stowaway go, and they fight over gold on the moon. Lang consulted with Willy Ley and Prof. Hermann Oberth for then up-to-date rocket designs. It was made after Lang's Spies (1928) with most of the same cast. With Gerda Maurus, Willy Fritsch, and Fritz Rasp. The "complete" version runs 156 minutes. Lang made M next.

WOMAN IN THE WINDOW

(1944) D: Fritz Lang S/P: Nunnally Johnson

Edward G. Robinson is a New York psychology professor who meets Joan Bennett, a woman he saw in a painting. He ends up helping to investigate a murder that he committed himself, drives around with a corpse sitting in the back seat of his car, and is blackmailed by the victim's sleazy bodyguard (Dan Duryea). With Raymond Massey as the DA, and young Robert Blake. The ending might be a surprise in more ways than one. From RKO. The main cast (minus Massey) returned in Lang's Scarlet Street (1945).

A WOMAN OBSESSED: See BAD BLOOD

WOMAN OF DESIRE

(Vidmark, 1993) D/S: Robert Ginty P: Danny Learner

Jeff Fahey is arrested for murder on a Caribbean island (with lots of American flags). His on/off flashbacks reveal that he was captain of a yacht owned by the millionaire Asby twins (both played by Steven Bauer) and had an affair with the wife of one of them. She (Bo Derek) is "one of America's top models." Robert Mitchum (pretty good, considering) is his defense attorney. In court, Bo (who has one good sex scene on a Harley) has her own flashbacks. Her voice-over tries to explain it all at the end. With a ridiculous scene featuring clowns and mimes. The R or unrated tape was shot around Johannesburg.

THE WOMAN WHO CAME BACK

(SVS, 1945) D: Walter Colmes S: Dennis Cooper, Lee Willis

A woman (Nancy Kelly) in modern-day New England survives a bus accident and thinks she's a 300-year-old witch. John Loder and Otto Kruger costar in the Republic picture.

THE WOMAN WHO WOULDN'T DIE

(1964) D: Gordon Hessler S: Daniel Mainwaring P: Neil McCallum, Jack Parsons US/UK (Catacombs)

An American man (Gary Merrill) in England kills his rich crippled British wife (Georgina Cookson) and plans an easy life with his mistress (Jane Merrow). A woman is hired to impersonate the wife but the body disappears. The Warner release is based on a novel by Jay Bennett. Screenwriter and novelist Mainwaring also wrote Invasion of the Body Snatchers (1956), based on Jack Finney's novel. With Neil McCallum and Rachel Thomas.

EXPLOITATION

WOMEN IN CAGES

(Charter, 1971) D: Gerry De Leon P: Cirio H. Santiago Philippines (Women's Penitentiary III)

Judy Brown, Roberta Collins, and Jennifer Gan star in a New World women-in-prison movie. Pam Grier is memorable as Alabama, the whip-cracking, drug-smoking lesbian warden. The women do field work, take showers, are sent to the torture chamber, and eventually escape. It's more sadistic, but lacks the humor and politics in Jack Hill's Big Doll House and Big Bird Cage, which had some of the same stars.

WOMEN IN CELL BLOCK 7

(USA, 1977) D/S: Rino Di Silvestro Italy (Love and Death in a Women's Prison)

Anita Strindberg stars as a mobster's daughter who goes undercover in a prison to clear her father's name. Sybil Danning is the video host. Silvestro also made Legend of the Wolfwoman and SS Special Section Women.

WOMEN IN PRISON

(1938) D: Lambert Hillyer S: Saul Elkins

Wyn Cahoon is framed on a drunk-driving manslaughter charge and sent to prison. It happened because her mother, the prison superintendent, refused to pardon a gang member inmate (Mayo Methot). With Ann Doran, Margaret Armstrong, and Bess Flowers. The Columbia release is only 59 minutes long.

WOMEN OF SAN QUENTIN

(1983) D: William A. Graham S: Mark Rodgers P: Stephen Cragg, R. W. Goodwin

Stella Stevens stars in a movie about female guards at San Quentin. A riot takes place on Black History Day. With Debbie Allen, Amy Steel, Hector Elizondo, Yaphet Kotto, Rockne Tarkington, and William Sanderson. Stevens played a similar role in Chained Heat the same year. Larry Cohen co-wrote the story for the NBC-TV movie. Some of it was filmed on location.

WOMEN OF THE WORLD

(SW, 1963) D/S/E: Gualtiero Jacopetti S: Paolo Cavara, Franco Prosperi Italy (La Donna del Mondo)

The makers of Mondo Cane made this dated (and overlong) b/w documentary, partially with leftover footage from that international hit. It features the Reeperbahn in Hamburg, Hong Kong hookers, hired mourners in Sardinia, female Israeli soldiers, topless young Tahitian dancers, topless Japanese sea divers, nudists, lesbians (and gays), eye surgery, and breast injections. After all the lighter scenes (complete with comical music), the ending is a real downer. Thalidomide kids are shown, followed by a gory plastic surgery operation. Peter Ustinov provides the often sarcastic narration. It was released by Joseph E. Levine's Embassy and a soundtrack was issued by Decca.

WOMEN'S PENITENTIARY: See THE BIG DOLL HOUSE

WOMEN'S PENITENTIARY II: See THE BIG BIRD CAGE

WOMEN'S PENITENTIARY III: See WOMEN IN CAGES

WOMEN'S PENITENTIARY IV: See CAGED WOMEN

WOMEN'S PENITENTIARY VII: See ISLAND WOMEN

WOMEN'S PENITENTIARY VIII: See FUGITIVE GIRLS

WOMEN'S PENITENTIARY X: See WOMEN'S PRISON MASSACRE

WOMEN'S PRISON MASSACRE

(Vestron, 1983) D: "Gilbert Roussel"/Bruno Mattei S: Claudio Fragasso, Oliver Lefait P: Jan Lefait Italy/France (Blade Violent; Emmanuelle's Escape from Hell; Women's Penitentiary X)

Laura Gemser stars as a reporter who is framed and sent to prison in a companion feature to Caged Woman. Some escaped male convicts take female prisoners hostage. It's a pretty violent, sick movie. Gemser keeps her clothes on this time, though. With Lorraine De Selle and Gemser's husband Gabriele Tinti.

WOMEN WITHOUT NAMES

(1940) D: Robert Florey S: William R. Lipman P: Eugene Zucker

A recently married woman (Ellen Drew) is sent to jail and her new husband is put on death row for killing a cop. Both were innocent. With Robert Paige, Fay Helm, Mae Busch, Louise Beavers, and Kitty Kelly. The Paramount release is 62 minutes long. Florey returned with The Face Behind the Mask (1941).

THE WONDERFUL LAND OF OZ

(1969) D/S/P: Barry Mahon

Mahon, known for his many adults-only features, made this Oz kids movie starring his son Channy Mahon. It includes musical numbers and mini-skirted female soldiers. The characters are the same ones later seen in Return to Oz (1985). Both were based on L. Frank Baum's The Marvelous Land of Oz, a 1904 sequel book. Mahon made five more pictures for "Childhood Films."

WONDERGUY

(1992) D/S/P/A: Murad Gumen

Darnel (director Gumen), a short, often humiliated secretary, becomes a superstrong and superfast costumed hero after being given a serum. Thomas Groves is a nervous, inept, theatrical, vampire-like Warlock who leads a coven of red-robed witches, takes over the local mob, and conjures up a man-in-a-suit monster. This charming fantasy comedy has a cartoon opening (with a theme song), a funny b/w nightmare, a Tor Johnson–look wrestler, and an animated Devil. Ann Osmond costars as a witch. Todd Rutt was the art director, and Wonderguy has much of the same triumph-over-low-budget fun as his movie (Shock! Shock! Shock!)—and the same effective film stock scratch death rays. It was shot in Queens (and Brooklyn). There's a comic book version too.

WONDERWALL

(Studio, 1968) D: Joe Massot S: Guillermo Cabrera Infante P: Andrew Braunsberg UK

Jack MacGowran (best known as the Professor in Polanski's The Fearless Vampire Killers) stars as an absent-minded professor, disturbed by the music from the apartment next door. This very 60s movie is about literally breaking down the walls. The professor becomes obsessed with the wild things happening next door, calls in sick, and starts staring through a hole in the wall. Soon he's removing bricks, tearing a hole in the ceiling, and imagining that the wall is glass. He sees models posing, bubbles, people smoking bongs and having sex, then some negative results (unwanted pregnancy, an OD). He also sees The Fool, a fashion-conscious group sponsored by the Beatles, and Jane Birkin as a mermaid under a microscope. Mounted (cartoon) butterflies escape. The director tries to be surreal, but Wonderwall is a mixture of slapstick comedy and boredom. I guess it's good for the "swinging London" fashions and the music. Most Americans only know of this movie because of the George Harrison Apple-label soundtrack, the very first

Bruce Dern in World Gone Wild.

"solo" album by one of the Beatles. The music is piano and mellotron, droning sitar music, and some uncredited guitar from Eric Clapton.

WOODCHIPPER MASSACRE

(Donna Michelle, 1988) D/S/P/A: Jon McBride

This amateur Connecticut feature was shot with a VHS camcorder and was inspired by a real local murder. Kids kill an aunt and her son (the wood chipper).

THE WORKING GIRLS

(Charter, 1974) D/S: Stephanie Rothman P: Charles Swartz

Sarah Kennedy stars as Honey, the new dancer at a strip club. Cassandra (Elvira) Peterson is a friendly topless dancer called Katya who gives her advice. With Mary Beth Hughes, Laurie Rose, Solomon Sturges (son of director Preston Sturges), and Lynne Guthrie. The Dimension release was Rothman's first after Terminal Island.

WORK IS A FOUR LETTER WORD

(1968) D: Peter Hall S: Jeremy Brooks P: Thomas Clyde UK

David Warner stars in a science fiction counterculture comedy. In a fully automated future, all he wants to do is grow mushrooms. He obtains a job at a power station and grows giant psychedelic mushrooms there. The movie ends with all the characters eating them and destroying the plant. Cilla Black plays his wife and sings the title song. Universal released it.

WORLD APARTMENT HORROR

(VSOM, 1991) D/S: Katsuhiro Otomo S: Keiko Nobumoto P: Hiro Osaki Japan

Otomo, who had directed the popular animated Akira, made this live-action horror/gangster comedy with a strong message of racial tolerance. Hiro Tanaka stars as a young gangster working for the Yakuza. When he's ordered to evict an apartment of (foreign) Asian immigrants, he faces resistance, hallucinations, and even a monster. The tape is letterboxed and subtitled.

WORLD BY NIGHT

(1960) D: Luigi Vanzi P: Francesco Mazzei Italy (Il Mondo di Notte)

Gualtiero Jacopetti narrates a 2-hour-long documentary look at famous nightspots and amusement centers of the world. It was another good way to show some skin. The Crazy Horse Saloon (Paris), the Sands Hotel (Vegas), and the Queen Bee Cabaret (Tokyo) are all represented. Six additional directors are credited for various countries. With Wee Willie Harris, the Chinese Opera Co., Bob Williams and his dog "Louis," and, of course, strippers. It was released by Warner Brothers. Mondo di Notte Number 2 and Number 3 were purchased by David Friedman and Dan Sonney. Bob Cresse combined them into one American feature (Ecco) and AIP released it.

WORLD GONE WILD

(Media, 1988) D: Lee H. Katzin S: Jorge Zamacona P: Robert L. Rosen

In 2087, Bruce Dern is a hippie magician who recruits a group to defend a peaceful desert post-nuke community from a crazed religious cult leader, Derek (Adam Ant). Derek's killer followers wear white choir robes and use a Charles Manson book as their bible. The Seven Samurai–style fighters include a comic cannibal, a black muscleman, a biker, and an alcoholic gunslinger. People eat mushrooms and there's a trip sequence and nudity. With Catherine Mary Stewart as a teacher and Michael Paré. It was shot in Arizona.

THE WORLD OF ACID

(VCR, 1967) D: Edgar Beatty P: Art Lieberman (The Hippie Revolt; Something's Happening)

It's a documentary "written and told by the hippies themselves," and is all actual footage of California alternative lifestyles in 1967. People talking about what's going on and how they feel are heard over scenes of be-ins, love-ins, a "moonfire funeral," and life around Haight-Ashbury. Watching this might make you think the world ended over twenty years ago (see The Day the Earth Caught Fire (1961) for some similar scenes) and also points out what normal-looking (short-haired) kids most of these "hippies" were. Not really about drugs at all, this sometimes boring tape leads up to scenes of massive anti-war demonstrations in Los Angeles. Made by a former TV commercial director, it's an interesting artifact and a treasure trove of historical footage.

WORST OF HOLLYWOOD = MANIAC and PROTECT YOUR DAUGHTERS

WORST OF HOLLYWOOD VOL. 2 = CRIME OF DR. CRESPI and FUGITIVE ROAD

THE WORST WITCH

(Prism, 1986) D: Robert Young S: Mary Pleshette Willis P: Colin Shindler

Fairuza Balk (from Return to Oz and later in The Craft) stars in an adaptation of a children's fantasy book (by Jim Murphy) about a school for witches. With Diana Rigg, Tim Curry, and Charlotte Rae. The G-rated movie was made for cable.

WOYZECK

(New Yorker, 1978) D/S/P: Werner Herzog W. Germany

Klaus Kinski stars in the least commercial of his features by Herzog. It's based on the play by Georg Buchner. Woyzeck is a soldier who is abused and kicked around until he cracks and murders people. With Eva Mattes. Kinski mostly worked in France after this. He starred in Zoo Zero (1978), La Chanson de Roland (1978), Haine (1979) and La Femme-Enfant (1980), all hard to find in America.

THE WRAITH

(Vestron, 1986) D/S: Mike Marvin P: John Kemeny

Here's a dumb PG-13 teen/science-fiction/action movie, featuring actor relatives. Nick Cassavetes plays Packard, a sadistic psycho in a cartoonish punk/geek gang of Arizona car thieves, with names like Skank, Gutterboy, and Craterhead. Charlie Sheen is the mysterious hero, who gets to wear a black spacesuit and drive a black Dodge Turbo Interceptor that can disappear. Clint Howard has an Eraserhead haircut and explains the movie's title (it means a vengeful ghost). Griffin O'Neal gets to say lines like "I'll rip your head off and piss down your throat!," and Randy Quaid plays the local law officer. Quaid was probably cast because he's 6' 5" and is one of the only actors who could seem threatening to Cassavetes (who is 6' 6"). Also with Sherilyn Fenn. You know right away that this is strictly a teen-appeal project, because the characters call each other "dude" or "bro," and keep saying "no problem" and "far out." Every once in a while you also get to hear part of a rock song by Billy Idol, Ozzy Osbourne, Robert Palmer, and others. If we could hear the songs whole and as they were intended, instead of in the background, they might actually make the endless scenes of car races, car crashes, and explosions in the desert seem more exciting. A stuntman died making it. Marvin wrote Hot Dog and directed Hamburger. The various-artists soundtrack is on Scotti Brothers.

WRESTLING RACKET GIRLS: See PIN DOWN GIRL

WRITE TO KILL

(RCA, 1990) D/P: Ruben Preuss
S: Miguel Tejada-Flores P: Bonnie Sugar

Scott Valentine is framed for a murder and ends up teamed with a lying, swearing Joan Severance as they flee from a bald gangster and his men. There's one minor sex scene, chases, and Valentine, looking extremely ridiculous, "disguised" in leather and studs. With two Twin Peaks actors (Ray Wise and Chris Mulkey).

WRONG IS RIGHT

(RCA, 1982) D/S/P: Richard Brooks
(The Man with the Deadly Lens)

Few people wanted to see this apocalyptic comedy starring Sean Connery as a global TV commentator who discovers that the world is being run by the CIA. It's very anti-CIA, -FBI, and -USA and has a very entertaining cast. With Robert Conrad, Katharine Ross, John Saxon, Henry Silva, Leslie Nielsen, Robert Webber, Rosalind Cash, Hardy Kruger, G. D. Spradlin, Dean Stockwell, Jennifer Jason Leigh, Ron Moody, and George Grizzard. From Columbia.

THE WRONG MAN

(Warner, 1956) D/P: Alfred Hitchcock
S: Maxwell Anderson, Angus McPhail

This is Hitchcock at his darkest. It's a semi-documentary-style real-life nightmare that was shot on location. Henry Fonda stars as Manny, a New York jazz musician accused of an armed holdup in Queens. Vera Miles is his wife, who cracks under the pressure after he goes to jail. It was based on a real incident. With Anthony Quayle, Harold J. Stone, Nehemiah Persoff, and an unbilled Harry Dean Stanton. Hitch was obsessed with Vera Miles at the time, but dropped her as a star when she got pregnant. He also narrates. From Warner.

THE WRONG MAN

(Republic, 1993) D: Jim McBride S: Michael Thomas P: Chris Chesser, Alan Beatty

Rosanna Arquette is Missy and John Lithgow is her drunken husband. The dangerous and crazed white trash couple are in in Mexico when they meet up with a ship hand (Kevin Anderson) who is on the run and is wanted for murder. The excellent soundtrack is by Los Lobos. R or unrated videos are available. McBride made Blood Ties the same year.

WUSA

(1970) D: Stuart Rosenberg S: Robert Stone
P/A: Paul Newman P: John Foreman

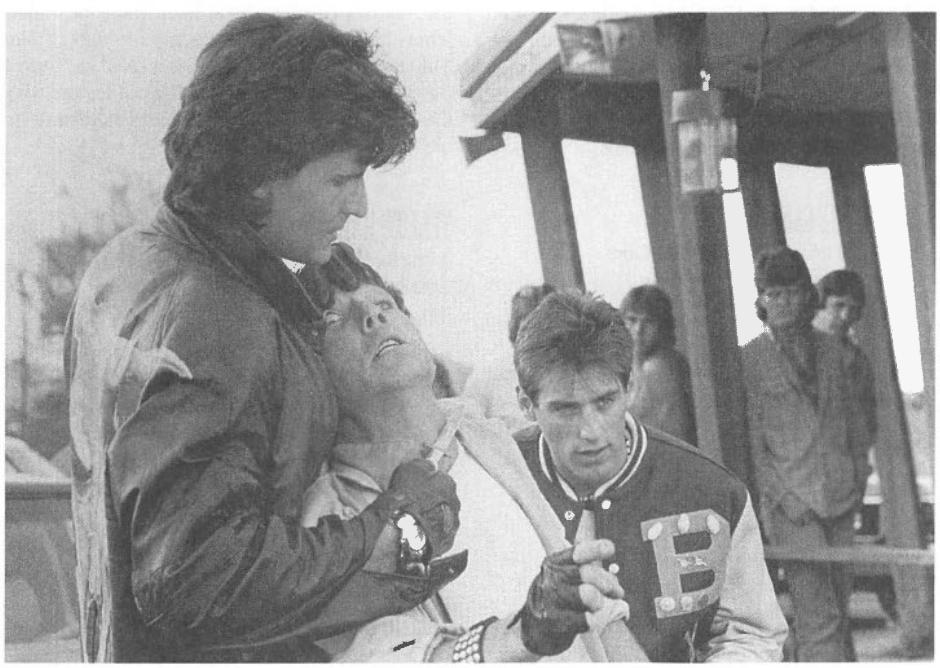
Paul Newman stars as a drunken drifter in New Orleans who obtains a job reading editorials on a right-wing radio station. The station sponsors a big political rally and Tony Perkins plans to assassinate a candidate there. The very political movie has a tragic ending. With Laurence Harvey (from The Manchurian Candidate), Joanne Woodward, Pat Hingle, Cloris Leachman, Don Gordon, Moses Gunn, Bruce Cabot, Lou Gossett Jr., Robert Quarry, Wayne Rogers, and Diane Ladd. Neil Diamond is on the soundtrack. From Paramount.



Nick Cassavetes threatens Griffin O'Neal in The Wraith.

WUTHERING HEIGHTS

(Nelson, 1939) D: William Wyler S: Ben Hecht, Charles MacArthur P: Samuel Goldwyn

It's the most famous, biggest, and most Hollywood version of Emily Brontë's gothic novel set on the Yorkshire moors. Laurence Olivier stars as Heathcliff and Merle Oberon is Cathy (and her ghost). With David Niven, Cecil Kellaway, Leo G. Carroll, Donald Crisp, Flora Robson, and Geraldine Fitzgerald (an Oscar nominee for her role). Greg Toland received an Oscar for the photography. Goldwyn had a new ending added with doubles for the actors. From UA.

WUTHERING HEIGHTS

(Cinematique, 1953) D/S: Luis Buñuel
S: Arduino Maiuri P: Oscar Dancigers
Mexico (Abismos de Pasión)

Buñuel's version of Emily Brontë's gothic novel is very different from the more familiar 1939 hit, but well worth seeing. Irasema Dilian stars as Katy the servant girl and Jorge Mistral is Alejandro. A subtitled version played America in 1983.

WUTHERING HEIGHTS

(HBO, 1970) D: Robert Fuest S: Patrick Tilley
P: Samuel Z. Arkoff, James H. Nicholson
M: Michael Legrand UK

AIP released this stylish version by the director of the Dr. Phibes movies. Timothy Dalton and Anna Calder-Marshall star with Harry Andrews, Hugh Griffith, Ian Ogilvy, and Judy Cornwell. The soundtrack was issued on AIP records.

WUTHERING HEIGHTS

(1992) D: Peter Kosminsky S: Anne Devlin
P: Mary Selway M: Ryuichi Sakamoto UK

This version covers the entire novel, told in flashback. It shows Heathcliff as an orphan brought into a wealthy family. French actress Juliette Binoche stars as Catherine/Cathy and Ralph Fiennes (before Schindler's List) is the long-haired Heathcliff. It was partially shot on location in Yorkshire. With Sophie Ward and Simon Ward. TNT aired it in America in 1994.

XANADU

(MCA, 1980) D: Robert Greenwald
S: Richard Christian Danus, Marc Reid
Rubel P: Lawrence Golden

This remake of the Rita Hayworth movie Down to Earth (1947) stars Olivia Newton-John as a goddess sent to help roller-skating Michael Beck. Gene Kelly costars in the unpopular misfire. With Sandahl Bergman, "Fee" Waybill of the Tubes, Matt Lattanzi, the voice of Wilfred Hyde-White, and some Don Bluth animation. More people bought the MCA soundtrack, which included three Olivia hits (one with ELO, one with Cliff Richard, and "Magic," which I used to enjoy on the radio), than paid to see the movie.

X–15

(1961) D: Richard Donner
S: Tony Lazzarino P: Henry Sanicola

Charles Bronson stars as an X–15 test pilot in a Technicolor and Panavision feature from UA. David McLean and Ralph Taeger are the other pilots. Only one of them ends up going to outer space at the end. Lizabeth Hush, Mary Tyler Moore (just before The Dick Van Dyke Show), and Patricia Owens are the worried wives and girlfriends. Also with Brad Dexter, James Gregory, Kenneth Tobey, and Stanley Livingston. The patriotic JFK-era feature is narrated by James Stewart. It debuted in Washington, DC. It also was the first of four movie roles for future Congressman Robert Dornan (Starfighters was his next).

THE X-FILES

(20th Century–Fox series, 1993–)
D/P: Bob Bowman S: Chris Carter

David Duchovny (also in Twin Peaks) and Gillian Anderson star as deadpan FBI special agents who track paranormal activity in a Fox-TV series. The series was created by executive producer and screenwriter Chris Carter and is shot in Vancouver. It borrowed ideas from Kolchak, the Night Stalker and added in conspiracy theories. The X-Files soon had fan clubs and even conventions. The success of this series led Fox to add the sci-fi shows VR.5 and Sliders to their schedule in 1995.

XTRO

(HBO, 1982) D: Harry Bromley Davenport
S: Iain Cassie, Robert Smith P: Mark Forstater UK

A father is abducted by aliens. An upside-down alien monster lands on earth and rapes a woman, who then gives birth to a full-grown man. The dad (Philip Sayer) is "reborn" and goes to retrieve his son. Some of the kids' toys come to life and attack people. The awkward "adult" science fiction movie is in pretty bad taste (which could be a plus), but most of it just doesn't make any sense. With Bernice Stegers and Maryam D'Abo. From New Line.

XTRO II: THE SECOND ENCOUNTER

(New Line, 1990) D: Harry Bromley Davenport
S/P: John A. Curtis, Lloyd A. Simandl Canada

Scientists send three humans to a parallel world in a dull Alien copy. Jan-Michael Vincent, a survivor from an earlier attempt, is the only one who can maybe save them. A lot of time is spent on a love triangle and characters arguing, and a lot of machine guns are fired. The stomping monster has a tail and screams, and there's a chest-burster scene. I don't know what it has to do with Xtro. With Paul Koslo and Tara Buckman. Filmed in Vancouver. Xtro 3 followed.

THE YAKUZA

(Warner, 1975) D/P: Sydney Pollack S: Paul Schrader, Robert Towne (Brotherhood of the Yakuza)

An army vet (Robert Mitchum) returns to Japan to try and rescue the kidnapped daughter of his businessman friend (Brian Keith). He ends up fighting Japanese organized crime members. With Takakura Ken, Richard Jordan, James Shigeta, and Herb Edelman. This was the first feature credit for Schrader, who followed by writing Taxi Driver and De Palma's Obsession. Towne started out by writing The Last Woman on Earth for Roger Corman.

YARDBIRDS

(Delilah, 1992) D: Martin Baker

I was happy to find this one-hour authorized documentary full of vintage clips and interviews with all surviving Yardbirds members. Some of the live and TV clips from various countries are unfortunately partial, but they go back to 1964 (with Eric Clapton) and you get to see the group with Jeff Beck and Jimmy Page together. "I'm a Man" and "Heart Full of Soul" are high-energy high points, and where else can you see them do "Still I'm Sad" on Belgian TV? Giorgio Gomelsky, Mickie Most, and Peter Grant are also interviewed. Jeff Beck says Antonioni was a "pompous oaf," and Clapton (seen in a brief interview separate from the others) seems like he's one too. Delilah released a similar tape on Eric Burdon and the Animals.

YEAR OF THE CANNIBALS

(1971) D/S: Liliana Cavani P: Enzo Doris
M: Ennio Morricone Italy (I Cannibali)

AIP released this controversial feature set in Milan after WWIII, when the fascist government slaughtered rebels. Britt Ekland and Pierre Clementi star with Thomas Milan. It was "suggested" by the play Antigone by Sophocles. Cavani went on to direct The Night Porter (1974).

YEAR OF THE DRAGON

(MGM, 1985) D/S: Michael Cimino
S: Oliver Stone P: Dino De Laurentiis

Mickey Rourke stars as a grim (and not too believable) Nam vet police detective in New York's Chinatown who won't play by the rules. He also has an affair with a rich Chinese-American TV newscaster (played by model Ariane). John Lone is the main international drug smuggler, and part of the story follows him to the Golden Triangle. You get a pretty insightful look at business as usual in New York City and how drugs end up here, along with some amazing action scenes. The impressive and convincing Chinatown scenes were all shot on sets in North Carolina. With Leonard Termo and James Pax. It was the first filmed Oliver Stone script after Scarface, and Cimino's first after Heaven's Gate. The 136-minute feature was remastered for the letterboxed laserdisc.

YEAR OF THE YAHOO!

(1972) D/P: H. G. Lewis S: Allen Kahn

Lewis' last hillbilly movie (after Moonshine Mountain and This Stuff'll Kill Ya!) was shot in and around San Antonio. Country singer Claude King stars as a southern country singer who is talked into running for senator by some sleazy media criminals from Washington. It was released in "Eye-Popping Color!" during a presidential election year. With Ronna Riddle, Wizard of Gore star Ray Sager (who later became a producer in Canada), and Dan Krogh (who wrote the first book about Lewis).

YELLOWBEARD

(Vestron, 1983) D: Mel Damski
S/A: Graham Chapman, Peter Cook
S: Bernard McKenna P: Carter De Haven

Chapman, from Monty Python, stars as a 17th-century pirate in an unpopular period comedy from Orion. Maybe they shouldn't have hired a director who had only done TV movie dramas. The cast is interesting, though: Peter Boyle, Cheech and Chong, Marty Feldman, Martin Hewitt, Michael Hordern, Eric Idle, Madeline Kahn, James Mason, John Cleese, Kenneth Mars, Spike Milligan, Susannah York, Stacy Nelkin, David Bowie, and Beryl Reid. It was the last feature with Chapman (who died in 1989) and Feldman (who died during production).

YELLOW HAIR AND THE FORTRESS OF GOLD

(Lightning, 1984) D: "Matt Cimber"/Matteo Ottaviano S: John Kershaw P: John Ghaffari, Diego Sempere US/Spain

Laurene Landon stars as a blond half-breed heroine with a whip who was raised by Apaches in a copy of Raiders of the Lost Ark in the style of old cliffhanger westerns. It begins with a b/w sequence of kids at a movie theater and includes bad Mexicans and Aztecs. The Crown release was filmed in Spain, back-to-back with Hundra (also with Landon).

YELLOW SUBMARINE

(MGM, 1968) D: George Dunning S/P: Al Brodax
S: Lee Minof, Erich Segal, Jack Mendolsohn

The Beatles themselves had very little to do with this feature-length cartoon (others provide their voices), but 12 of their songs are used (4 of them were new), and they appear at the end. The then fresh and colorful looking animation borrowed a lot from Peter Max and is based on a Ringo song from the 1966 Revolver LP. The movie was a popular hit but the Beatles as fun, G-rated cartoon characters seemed pretty out of date in late 1968 after they had released songs like "Helter Skelter" and "Revolution #9" and John and Yoko had just posed naked on an album cover. The unrelated Saturday morning Beatles TV cartoon show was still running at the time too. UA released the Apple production in America. The next Apple feature (Let It Be, 1970) showed the group breaking up.

THE YESTERDAY MACHINE

(Video City, 1963) D/S/P: Russ Marker

A guy fixes a car while the radio blares rock and roll and his girl practices her baton twirling in a short skirt. She gets bored ("This is like lostville"), they go for a walk in the woods, the credits roll, two men shoot guns, more credits, cut to the Daily Sentinel where star reporter/playboy/hero Jim Crandale is ready for his vacation. But he has to go to a hospital to see the guy who was fixing the car who relates (in flashback) how they were shot at by Civil War soldiers(!), and his girlfriend disappeared. The convoluted, but fascinating, science fiction plot turns out to be about Prof. Ernest Von Hauser (Jack Herman) and his time machine. Herman gives an amazing performance, providing a long scientific explanation of time travel and a ranting pro-Hitler speech (he started his experiments during the war).

His laboratory, connected to a trapdoor in a graveyard, is guarded by two Nazi goons. The reporter teams up with the missing cheerleader's sister, Sandra De Mar, who sings in a nightclub ("Everybody twist!"), and they find themselves in the 18th century. Von Hauser's beautiful black Egyptian slave helps save the day as he attempts to send the baton twirler into the future. The time machine is a chair with a Nazi flag behind it and some flashing lights. Tim Holt, once a famous cowboy star, is police lieutenant Partane, who relates a concentration-camp story. With Larry Buchanan regular Bill Thurman. Maybe this movie was kept out of circulation because people considered it in bad taste. I've never seen anything quite like it and would love to see Marker's other feature, The Demon from Devil's Lake (1964), about a space capsule full of animals that mutate into one creature.

YOR, THE HUNTER FROM THE FUTURE

(RCA/Columbia, 1982) D/S: "Anthony Dawson"/ Antonio Margheriti Italy/Turkey (Il Mondo de Yor)

Reb Brown stars in a loincloth as the hero Yor in this real silly futuristic action movie based on a comic book. It has spaceships, laser beams, ape men, dinosaurs, and a giant bat. With Corinne Clery (The Story of O), John Steiner, Alan Collins, and disco music on the soundtrack. It was filmed in Turkey and was originally a 4-part TV series in Italy.

YOU AND ME

(1938) D/P: Fritz Lang S: Virginia Van Upp

Lang's third American feature was also his third with Sylvia Sidney. George Raft and Sidney, both ex-cons, marry. Raft plans to rob the department store where he and other ex-cons are hired and trusted, but is discovered and let off. Sidney gives an anti-crime lecture to the gang. It's a unique comedy with Kurt Weill music and some rhyming dialogue. The Paramount cast includes Barton MacLane, Harry Carey, Roscoe Karns, Warren Hymer, and Robert Cummings.

Yor (Reb Brown) and Corinne Clery.

YOU ARE WHAT YOU EAT

(1968) D/P: Barry Feinstein P/A: Peter Yarrow

One third of Peter, Paul and Mary backed this plotless documentary about be-ins, protests, and groovy Sunset Strip things. It features Tiny Tim singing "I Got You Babe," Barry McGuire ("the prophet of doom"), disc jockey Rosko, and lots of LA scenemakers and hippies. There was a Columbia soundtrack put together by John Simon featuring the Electric Flag, Paul Butterfield, Harper's Bizarre, and David Crosby.

YOU BETTER WATCH OUT: See CHRISTMAS EVIL

YOU NEVER CAN TELL

(1951) D/S: Lou Breslow P: Leonard Goldstein

A German shepherd who inherits a fortune is poisoned and returns to Earth as a man (Dick Powell) to seek revenge. Powell eats raw hamburgers and is attracted to fire hydrants in the fantasy comedy from Universal. With Peggy Dow, Charles Drake, and Joyce Holden, who becomes a horse.

YOUNG AMERICANS

(Live, 1992) D/S: Danny Cannon S: David Hilton P: Alison Owen, Paul Trybits UK

Harvey Keitel stars as an LA DEA cop in London after some gangsters terrorizing nightclubs. The main one is an American drug dealer (Viggo Mortensen). Craig Kelly costars as the son of a murdered man who goes undercover.

YOUNG AND INNOCENT

(Budget, 1937) D: Alfred Hitchcock S: Charles Bennett, Alma Reville P: Edward Black UK (The Girl Was Young)

Derrick De Marney is accused of the murder of a woman and goes on the run in the Cornish countryside with Nova Pilbeam. She helps him and solves the mystery. This is similar in some ways to Hitchcock's earlier The 39 Steps and was based on a novel by Josephine Tey. The memorable ending features the real killer discovered in a ballroom. The director can be spotted as a photographer outside a courtroom. Ten minutes were cut from the 80-minute feature for its US release.

YOUNGBLOOD

(1978) D: Noel Nosseck S: Paul Carter Harrison P: Nick Grillo, Alan Richie

AIP released this anti-drug ghetto movie with Lawrence Hilton-Jacobs as a Nam vet back home in LA. Bryan O'Dell is Youngblood, a member of the Kingsmen gang. It's no relation to the 1986 Rob Lowe hockey film of the same name. The UA soundtrack was by War. Nosseck also directed Las Vegas Lady (1976).

YOUNG DILLINGER

(1964) D: Terry O. Morse S: Danolad Zimbalist, Arthur Hoerl P: Alfred Zimbalist

Nick Adams stars as John Dillinger, who goes to jail and meets Baby Face Nelson (John Ashley), Pretty Boy Floyd (Robert Conrad), and Homer

The Young Nurses

Van Meter (Dan Terranova). They escape and form a gang. The b/w Allied Artists feature also stars "the brilliant new star" Mary Ann Mobley, Victor Buono, John Hoyt, Reed Hadley, Anthony Caruso, Gene Roth, Ted Knight, and Beverly Hills. The music is by Shorty Rogers. Adams's next movie was Die, Monster, Die!

YOUNG EINSTEIN

(Warner, 1989) D/S/P/A: "Yahoo Serious"/ Greg Pead Australia

This wacky musical comedy was a big hit Down Under, where "Serious" is well known, but a bomb in the US when Warner released it. The spike-haired star plays Einstein, a Tasmanian farm boy. He develops carbonated beer while splitting the atom and invents rock and roll to impress Marie Curie (played by the real-life "Mrs. Serious", Odile Le Clezio). Other historical figures and events are mixed up in a nice-looking movie with a few laughs. It was first screened in 1986, then reedited with a whole hour of new footage. Serious was an editor and documentary filmmaker.

YOUNG GOODMAN BROWN

(1993) D/S: Peter George P: Robert Tinnell

Tom Shell is Goodman Brown in an adaptation of the Nathaniel Hawthorne story about 17th-century witchcraft. John P. Ryan is the Devil, and Mindy Clarke and Judy Geeson costar. By the makers of Surf Nazis Must Die.

THE YOUNG GUNS

(1956) D: "Albert Band"/Alfredo Antonini
S: Louis Garfinkle P: Richard Heermance

Russ Tamblyn stars as the peaceful son of a famous gunman who is forced to fight. Gloria Talbott co-stars with Perry Lopez and Scott Marlowe. Guy Mitchell sings the theme song. The teen-appeal western from AA was the first feature by Albert Band. He made I Bury the Living (1958) and Face of Fire (1959) next, and much later formed the Media, Empire, and Full Moon video companies with his son Charles.

YOUNG GUNS

(Vestron, 1988) D/P: Christopher Cain
S: John Fusco P: Joe Roth

Emilio Estevez stars as Billy the Kid in a popular teen-appeal western. Terence Stamp is a British rancher who hires a group of young men to battle an evil cattle baron (Jack Palance). Kiefer Sutherland, Lou Diamond Phillips, Charlie Sheen, Dermot Mulroney, and Casey Siemaszko costar. Also with Terry O'Quinn, Brian Keith, Patrick Wayne, Cody Palance, and Pat Lee. From 20th Century–Fox.

YOUNG GUNS II

(Fox, 1990) D: Geoff Murphy S: John Fusco P: Irby Smith, Paul Schiff

Emilio Estevez returns in this western sequel, along with Kiefer Sutherland and Lou Diamond Phillips. The sequel (this time rated PG-13) also stars Christian Slater, Balthazar Getty, and Alan Ruck as the other young gunfighters on the run in Mexico. With William L. Peterson as Pat Garrett, James Coburn, Jennifer Wright, Viggo Mortensen, Tracy Walter, Tom Dove, and Ginger Lynn Allen. By the director of Freejack (also starring Estevez).

YOUNG INDIANA JONES AND THE CURSE OF THE JACKAL

(1992) D: Carl Schultz, Jim O'Brien
S: Jonathan Hales P: Rick McCallum

After three blockbuster Raiders features, executive producer George Lucas took his concept to ABC-TV as Young Indiana Jones. A very old Jones (George Hall) remembers when he was a globe-trotting kid (Corey Carrier, then replaced by series regular Sean Patrick Flannery). The pilot feature concerns the Mexican Revolution and a jackal headpiece stolen from an Egyptian mummy. The very expensive show was shot on location. Actors play real historical figures and history lessons aimed at kids are included. Varèse Sarabande released a soundtrack LP. The low-rated series was canceled in 1993 by ABC after they aired 28 of the 32 hour episodes that had been shot, so Lucas moved to The Family Channel. Young Indiana Jones and the Hollywood Follies (1994) was the first of the cable TV movies. Sean Patrick Flannery starred.

YOUNG LADY CHATTERLEY

(Lightning, 1976) D/P: Alan Roberts
S: Steve Michaels, David Winters

Harlee MacBride stars as a descendant of the original Lady Chatterley. This originally had a self-applied X and is now available in R and unrated versions. With Ann Michelle and Brett Clark. The director also made Zodiac Couples (1970) and Panorama Blue (1974).

YOUNG LADY CHATTERLEY II

(Lightning, 1984) D/S: Alan Roberts S: Anthony Williams P: Stanton Korey (Private Property)

Harlee MacBride returns in a story about developers who want to build a nuke plant on the Chatterley estate. With Sybil Danning, Monique Gabrielle, Alexandra Day, and Adam West (for some ridiculous comic relief). There's lots of sex and nudity in the R and unrated versions. Playboy backed the Concorde release.

YOUNG L.A. NURSES = STUDENT NURSES

YOUNG L.A. NURSES II: See PRIVATE DUTY NURSES

THE YOUNG MASTER

(1980) D/A: Jackie Chan
P: Raymund Chow Hong Kong

In his second feature as director, Chan is an orphaned kung fu student who has to battle his bad brother (Wei Pei). It's a period action comedy with Yuen Biao, Shih Kieh (Enter the Dragon), and Wang Ing Sik (Return of the Dragon). The Golden Harvest feature was a major hit in Asia. The US TV version has Chan singing the theme song in English but removes the original soundtrack (Holst's Planets Suite).

THE YOUNG NURSES

(Charter, 1973) D: Clint Kimbrough P: Julie Corman

It's another New World drive-in nurse movie, this time concerning a drug ring. Sam Fuller (!) is a villain, though. The cast includes Jack LaRue Jr., Dick Miller, Sally Kirkland, Allan Arbus, and Mantan Moreland (in his last feature). The black nurse (Angela Gibbs) is involved in a drug orgy on a yacht. The other nurses are Jean Manson and Ashley Porter. Tim Kincaid was production designer.

YOUNG NURSES IN LOVE

(Vestron, 1986) D/S/P: Chuck Vincent S: Craig Horall

Russians raid the US sperm bank for the sperm of Edison and Einstein in a sex comedy. The all porno star cast includes "Jane Hamilton," Jamie Gillis, Jennifer DeLora, and Annie Sprinkle.

THE YOUNG ONE

(1960) D/S: Luis Buñuel S: Hugo Butler
P: George P. Werker Mexico
(La Joven; Island of Shame)

A black American jazz musician (Bernie Hamilton) flees a southern town after being accused of rape and goes to an island. A racist game warden (Zachary Scott) lives there with the innocent pre-teen daughter (Key Meersman) of his late handyman. With Claudio Brook as a preacher. Based on "Travelin' Man" by Peter Matthiessen, it was the director's only feature in English and one of his last before returning to Europe. In 1962, it played the southern exploitation circuit as White Trash (!). Ads claimed it was "filmed where it happened—in coastal Carolina."

YOUNG RUNAWAYS

(1968) D: Arthur Dreifuss
S: Orville H. Hampton P: Sam Katzman

Three teen runaways (Brooke Bundy, Kevin Coughlin, and Bad Seed star Patty McCormack) go to Chicago. The ads claimed it was "Torn from today's headlines!" Richard Dreyfuss plays a shifty draft dodger. It all ends with pregnancy, death, and tragedy and has a message that Jack Webb would have liked. With Lloyd Bochner, Lynn Bari, Norman Fell, Army Archerd as himself, and the Gordion Knott. From MGM. The next Katzman/Driefuss look at the counterculture was Angel, Angel, Down We Go (1969).

THE YOUNG SAVAGES

(Fang, 1961) D: John Frankenheimer S: Edward Anhalt P: Pat Duggan, Harold Hecht M: David Amram

Burt Lancaster is an honest, hard-working assistant DA who tries to find the facts about the killing of a blind boy. The pretty grim b/w movie about New York Italian and Puerto Rican teen gangs was based on Evan Hunter's novel A Matter of Conviction. It was released the same year as the romantic and colorful West Side Story. Dina Merrill costars with Shelley Winters, Telly Savalas (making his debut as a cop), Edward Andrews, Jody Fair, John Davis Chandler, and Chris Robinson. Lancaster returned in four more Frankenheimer feaures. Filmed on location in New York and released by UA. The soundtrack was on Columbia.

YOUNG SHERLOCK HOLMES

(Paramount, 1985) D: Barry Levinson S: Chris Columbus P: Mark Johnson (Pyramid of Fear)

Nicholas Rowe and Alan Cox are Holmes and Watson as kids in an English prep school. They investigate a series of deaths caused by a religious cult. The victims die from hallucinogenic drugs. The excellent FX include a computerized glass knight and animated food. Steven Spielberg was executive producer for the PG-13 Paramount release. With Sophie Ward, Anthony Higgins, Freddie Jones, Michael Horden, and Maurice Denham.

THE YOUNG STRANGER

(1957) D: John Frankenheimer S: Robert Dozier P: Stuart Miller

James MacArthur stars as a teenager who is neglected by his rich father and gets involved with crime. It had been done as a TV program by the same star and director in 1955 and was the first feature for both. With Kim Hunter, James Daly, James Gregory, and Whit Bissell. Frankenheimer returned with a look at inner city juvenile delinquents in The Young Savages (1961). From RKO.

YOUNG WARRIORS

(MGM/UA, 1983) D/S: Lawrence D. Foldes S: Russell W. Colgin P: Victoria Page Meyerink US/Canada (The Graduates of Malibu High)

What seems to be a sex comedy becomes a violent vigilante movie after Lynda Day George is gang-raped and four frat house guys seek revenge. Ernest Borgnine is her cop dad. With Richard Roundtree, James and Nels Van Patten, Anne Lockhart, Mike Norris (Chuck's son), Dick Shawn, Linnea Quigley, and an animation sequence. The director and producer of the Cannon sequel to Malibu High (1979) were both in their early 20s.

YOU ONLY LIVE ONCE

(1937) D: Fritz Lang S: Graham Baker, Gene Towne P: Walter Wanger

The first movie (partially) inspired by Bonnie and Clyde was Lang's second in America. Henry Fonda stars as an ex-con trying to go straight and Sylvia Sidney is his new wife. Both are victims of the Depression society. He's wrongly convicted of a murder, sentenced to die, and put in a scary cell in the middle of a dark room (like in The Silence of the Lambs). He kills the prison chaplain and escapes. The classic feature from UA looks great. It was shot by Oscar-winner Leon Shamroy. With Barton MacLane, Ward Bond, Margaret Hamilton, William Gargon, Jonathan Hale, Jerome Cowan, and Jack Carson.

YOU'RE A BIG BOY NOW

(Warner, 1966) D/S: Francis Ford Coppola P: Phil Feldman

For his first major studio feature as director (after several years working for Roger Corman), Coppola made a fun offbeat coming-of-age nightmare comedy. Peter Kastner is the very awkward Bernard working (on roller skates) at the New York Public Library. He tries to get away from his overbearing parents (Geraldine Page and Rip Torn). Bernard ignores the nice girl who loves him (Karen Black) and falls for a crazy man-hating go-go-dancer actress named Barbara Darling (Elizabeth Hartman) who lives with her "biographer" (Michael Dunn). With Julie Harris as Miss Thing, Tony Bill, and Dolph Sweet. Most of the film was shot on location, and there's a good look at what 42nd St. peepshows were like in the 60s. Doris Wishman's My Brother's Wife is on a marquee. The Lovin' Spoonful recorded the soundtrack (released by Kama Sutra) which includes "Darling Be Home Soon" and the title song.

YOUTH RUNS WILD

(1944) D: Mark Robson S: John Fante P: Val Lewton

Glen Vernon and Tessa Brind (later called Vanessa Brown) star as small-town teens who start to go bad while their parents are too busy with the war effort. With Bonita Granville, Kent Smith, Lawrence Tierney, Arthur Shields, Dickie Moore, and Elizabeth Russell. The 67-minute early jd feature was "inspired by" the even earlier RKO movie Are These Our Children? (1931). Lewton wanted his name removed after the studio made extensive cuts (including an important scene where a boy kills his sadistic father after too many beatings). It was controversial (and popular) at the time anyway. Some immediate and cheaper imitations were Where Are My Children? from Monogram and I Accuse My Parents from PRC. Lewton produced Curse of the Cat People the same year.

YOU'VE GOT TO WALK IT LIKE YOU TALK IT OR YOU'LL LOSE THAT BEAT

(1968) D/S/P: Peter Locke E: Wes Craven

Zalman King stars as a young New Yorker failing in marriage, in his Madison Ave. job, and in his search for sex, in a forgotten bad-taste counterculture comedy. With Richard Pryor, Allen Garfield, Robert Downey Sr., Liz Torres, and Roz Kelly. The soundtrack by Steely Dan was issued on an LP years later. The movie was released in 1971, but few people saw it.

Julie Harris, Karen Black, and Peter Kastner in You're a Big Boy Now.

ZABRISKIE POINT

(MGM/UA, 1970) D/S: Michelangelo Antonioni S: Fred Gardner, Sam Shepard, Tonino Guerra, Clare Peploe P: Carlo Ponti

Mark Frechette stars as a college radical on the run from the police who steals an airplane. He ends up with a secretary (Daria Halprin) in Death Valley where they (and many other imagined people) make love in the dunes. It's worth seeing just for the classic slow-motion explosion ending with Pink Floyd's "Careful with That Axe, Eugene" playing and symbols of commercialization floating through the air. The production design was by Dean Tavoularis. With Rod Taylor, G. D. Spradlin, Paul Fix, Severn Darden, and Harrison Ford. The American movie was a commercial flop and a big setback for the director's career. Pink Floyd scored the entire feature, but Antonioni decided to only use three tracks. They're on the MGM soundtrack along with the Grateful Dead and others. The young, non-actor stars lived in a Boston commune together for a while, then Halprin was briefly married to Dennis Hopper. Frechette went to prison for robbing a bank (for political reasons, he claimed) and died in a 1975 prison "accident." From MGM.

ZACHARIAH

(Fox, 1971) D/P: George Englund S: Joe Massot, The Firesign Theatre

John Rubenstein, Pat Quinn, and Don Johnson star in a GP-rated hippie rock western. The Firesign Theatre, who cowrote it, hated it and disowned it. With members of Country Joe and the Fish and the James Gang (with Joe Walsh), Doug Kershaw, and Elvin Jones. The New York Rock Ensemble (with Michael Kamen) do the closest they ever had to a hit, "Gravedigger." The soundtrack was on Dunhill. Also with Dick Van Patten.

ZADAR! COW FROM HELL

(1988) D/P: Robert C. Hughes S: Merle Kessler

A movie is being made about a radioactive cow in this comedy made in Iowa by the Duck's Breath Mystery Theater comedy troupe.

ZAMBA (THE GORILLA)

(1948) D: William Berke S: Barbra Worth P: Maurice H. Conn

Eagle Lion made this story of a six-year-old boy (Beau Bridges!) who parachutes out of a burning plane in Africa and is raised by a gorilla. He remembers his real mother in time to save her life in the end. With Jon Hall and June Vincent. It was tinted sepia. Berke was making around a half-dozen movies a year at the time, including many in the Jungle Jim series.

ZANDALEE

(IVE, 1990) D: Sam Pillsbury S: Mari Kornhauser P: William Baylock

Erika Anderson (who looks great and is naked a lot) is torn between a ridiculous, pretentious artist (Nicolas Cage) and her poet husband (Judge Reinhold). The erotic soap opera is even more pretentious than Zalman King movies and is set in New Orleans. With Viveca Lindfors, Marisa Tomei, Zach Galligan, Aaron Neville, and Joe Pantoliano. Available R or unrated.

ZAPPED!

(Nelson, 1982) D/S: Robert Rosenthal S: Bruce Joel Rubin P: Jeffrey D. Apple

Telekinetic teen Scott Baio uses his powers to humiliate his school enemies and see some girls naked in a lame Carrie spoof. With Corinne Bohrer, Heather Thomas, Willie Aames (Paradise), Scatman Crothers, Sue Ane Langdon, Rosanne Katon, and Jewel Shepard.

ZAPPED AGAIN!

(Nelson, 1989) D: Doug Campbell S: Bruce Joel Rubin P: Jeff D. Apple, Robert Rosenthal

A new kid (Todd Eric Andrews) has the zap powers in this comedy sequel with Linda Blair, Karen Black (in a small role), Sue Ane Langdon returning from the first one, and Lyle Alzado. Rubin (Ghost) had his name removed to try and avoid further embarrassment.

ZEBRA FORCE

(Media, 1976) D/S/P: Joe Tornatore

White Nam vets wearing masks, and thought to be black, rip off money and drugs from the Mafia. A racial gang war results. The leader of the vets is their one-armed, scar-faced platoon leader who talks with a voice box. Mike Lane, Richard X. Slattery, and Rockne Tarkington star. With some early Rick Baker FX and slo-mo shootouts. Code Name: Zebra was a 1987 sequel. The director later made ridiculous horror movies like Grotesque and Demon Keeper.

A ZED AND TWO NOUGHTS

(Pacific Arts, 1985) D/S: Peter Greenaway P: Kees Kasander UK/Netherlands (Zoo)

Twin brother zoo-curator doctors (Brian and Eric Deacon) are the main characters in a bizarre feature that's similar in some ways to David Cronenberg's later Dead Ringers. One brother becomes obsessed with using time-lapse photography to film (real) rotting animals. The other watches documentaries and chews glass. Both of their wives are killed in car accidents and the driver (Andrea Ferreol) loses her leg. They both have sex with her so she has twins. She has her other leg amputated, goes off with a double amputee, and the dads commit double suicide.

ZERAM

(Fox Lorber, 1991) D/S: Keita Amemiya S: Hajime Matsumoto P: Yoshinori Chiba, Kouichi Sugisawa Japan (Zeiram)

An alien woman bounty hunter (Yuko Moriyama) with a talking computer tries to recapture Zeram, a big faceless death figure (kind of like the one in Brazil). Zeram has a small red-eyed female face on its forehead that emerges like a snake (a great special effect). Meanwhile, two comical phone company workers (obviously patterned after the Super Mario Brothers) show up and get involved in the battle in a vacant town. With kickboxing, a small rubbery monster, and an animated skeleton and monster. It's letterboxed and dubbed. Zeram 2 (1994) followed.

ZERO BOYS

(Vestron, 1986) D/S/P: Nico Mastorakis S: Fred C. Perry

Teen survivalists holding war games go camping at an empty cabin. They find snuff videos and get killed off in the woods by psycho hunters. With Daniel Hirsch, Kelli Maroney, and Joe Phelan as the killer.

ZERO IN AND SCREAM

(SW, 1970) D/P/C: "Les Emerson"/ Lee Frost S: Howard Edding

A conservative loner (Michael Stearns) becomes a sniper and picks off rich Hollywood hills lovers. He also falls for a stripper at the Classic Cat club. He kills many at a pool orgy, and sex scenes are seen through his rifle sight.

ZETA ONE

(Sinister, 1969) D: Michael Cort S: Christopher Neame UK (The Love Factor)

A secret agent (who talks a lot) narrates a senseless story about Zeta (Dawn Addams), the alien queen having Earth women kidnapped. But first he plays strip poker with blond Yutte Stensgaard. A stripper is talked into infiltrating the alien women, who wear white knee boots, red clothes, and black hats. Tony Tenser was executive producer.

ZIPPERFACE

(AIP, 1991) D/P: "Mansour Pourmand"/ Vernon Becker S: Barbara Bishop

Someone in a serious studded leather outfit kills hookers. The first female detective in a California town (cute Dona Adams) eventually goes undercover. Everyone is a suspect in the who-is-the-killer plot. There's a little bit of sex, some whipping, lots of kicks to the killer's crotch, and one of the worst decapitation scenes in memory. Becker also made the 3-D sex comedy What the Swedish Butler Saw (1977), also available under many other titles.

THE ZODIAC KILLER

(Academy, 1971) D/P: Tom Hanson S: Manny Cordoza, Sam Cantrell

An intro claims this feature is "based on real facts" and takes place in San Francisco in 1969. A narrator warns us that "Somebody sitting next to you or behind you has killed!" We're introduced to a man who could be the famous Zodiac killer. Grover is a balding truck driver who brags about scoring, and sells dope on the side. At night he puts on an outrageous toupee and pretends to be a rich businessman at a bar. Jerry (Hal Reed) is a mailman who raises rabbits. He talks to them and when one dies he cries. He's a nice, handsome, friendly mass murderer. He shoots a couple and kills a waitress (she was serving rabbit stew). He puts on a black hood, ties up a sunbather, and stabs her repeatedly. He kills an old woman with a tire, shoots a cab driver, stabs a man and cuts off his ear, and shuts a car hood on a woman and jumps up and down on it. Jerry kills a lot of people (while jazz drums are heard), calls the police, and leaves obvious clues everywhere. Voices speak to him and he rants at home—"Atlantis shall rise again! I am the super zodiac!" In Australia this rare feature was shown as part of a "turkey" series. There are some bad reaction shots, a microphone shadow is visible, and there's a funny scene with a man in a wheelchair rolling down a hill, but The Zodiac Killer is actually pretty disturbing and effective. The anti-female dialogue is very hateful. Even comedian Doodles Weaver (!) delivers a woman-hating speech, ending with. "I like them plump and juicy and dumb!" The people behind this movie also made The Hellcats back in 1968.

ZOLTAN, HOUND OF DRACULA = DRACULA'S DOG

ZOMBIE 2: THE DEAD AMONG US = ZOMBIE

ZOMBIE 3

(Midnight, 1987) D: Bruno Mattei, Lucio Fulci
S: Claudio Fragasso, Rossella Drudi Italy (Zombi 3)

People (and animals) in a Philippines town are affected by an escaped virus and become zombies. Soldiers and tourists fight for their lives. With Deran Sarafian. This gory movie was started by Lucio Fulci, who had a stroke. He was replaced, but was credited, even though only about "15" minutes of the feature are his. Romero's Dawn of the Dead (1979) was called Zombie in Europe. The Italian Zombie 2 (1980) was called Zombie in American theaters, then Zombie 2 on tape. Got that?

ZOMBIE 4

(Edde, 1971) D/S/A: Jesús Franco P: Karl Heinz Mannchen France/Italy/Liechtenstein (Christina; Princess of Eroticism; A Virgin Among the Living Dead)

A woman (Christina Von Blanc) arrives for the reading of her uncle's will and discovers dead zombie relatives. A scene of the uncle (Howard Vernon) floating through a forest is memorable, but 37 minutes of sex and gore were cut for the American Wizard (then Edde) video release, making it senseless. With Anne Lipert, Britt Nichols as the aunt, Franco himself as the mute servant, and Paul Muller. An alternate softcore sex version was released in France. Video Search of Miami created an ultimate composite version, with scenes from the Spanish, Italian, and both (!) French video releases. The dream sequence with attacking ghouls was shot by Jean Rollin. Zombie 4: After Death (Midnight, 1988) is another unrelated Italian feature.

ZOMBIE ARMY

(Tempe, 1991) D/A: Betty Stapleford
S: Roger Scearce P: John Kalinowski

An "idiot savant" has flashbacks to 1989, when the Army took over a former asylum. Pot-smoking soldiers discover two people still in solitary confinement and become killer zombies. Shock therapy makes a head blow up. The female sergeant in command says, "This shit makes My Lai look like a salad bar!" The zombie makeup and guitar feedback music is good but all the guts and intestines look ridiculous. It was shot on video in Delaware and Pennsylvania.

ZOMBIE BLOODBATH

(Asylum, 1993) D/S/P: Todd Sheets

This gore video features girl-gang street fights, heavy metal music, a NOTLD-styled attack on a house, melting people, gut puking, gut munching in a video store, and "850" locals as slow-moving zombies shuffling through Kansas City. A WWII vet and three kids fight to survive in a closed nuke plant, and as one says, "This sounds like a trashy zombie flick to me, not reality!" Lots of local publicity was generated, and there was a theatrical (!) premiere in Independence, Missouri. The 25-year-old Sheets lived in a mobile home with his mother at the time. Zombie Bloodbath 2 followed.

ZOMBIE CHILD: See THE CHILD

ZOMBIE HIGH

(Cinema Group, 1987) D: Ron Link S: Tom Doyle, Elizabeth Passerelli P: Marc Toberoff

The first female students at a formerly all-male boarding school find all the boys very dull. It's because some mad professors have been lobotomizing students to prolong their own lives. The USC film school backed the mediocre horror movie with social satire. With Virginia Madsen, Sherilyn Fenn as her roommate, and singer Paul Williams.

ZOMBIE ISLAND MASSACRE

(Fox Hills, 1982) D: John N. Carter
S: Logan O'Neill, William Stoddard
P/A: David Broadnax (The Last Picnic)

Everybody picks on this movie because Abscam scandal celebrity Rita Jenrette takes too many showers (and sings). I liked it OK while watching it on 42nd St. Some Caribbean tourists in a bus are stranded, people are decapitated, and voodoo ceremonies take place. There are no real zombies, just drug dealer killers. The Troma release features reggae on the soundtrack.

ZOMBIE LAKE

(Wizard, 1980) D/A: Jean Rollin
S: Al Mariaux P: David Lasoeur
France (Le Lac des Mortes Vivants)

Nazis drowned during WWII rise from a lake and terrorize a lot of naked lady bathers. Locals blow up the green zombies in a barn. It was intended to be a Jesús Franco feature, and his regular star Howard Vernon plays the mayor. Director Rollin has a cameo. The American Shock Waves (1977) did a better job with the same underwater Nazi zombie theme.

ZOMBIE NIGHTMARE

(Starmaker, 1987) D: Jack Bravman S: David Wellington P: Pierre Grise Canada

This old-fashioned (minimal sex and blood) horror movie looks like it's from the early 70s. Muscular singer Jon-Mikl Thor stars as a good samaritan killed by hit-and-run would-be rapist teens. He returns from the grave as a green-faced instrument of revenge and kills one guy with a baseball bat through the stomach. Tia Carrere costars and Manuska Rigaud is pretty offbeat as a Haitian voodoo priestess. Adam "Batman" West is a police captain who figures in the bizarre (surprise!) ending. The soundtrack is heavy metal, and the filmmakers had the right idea using Motörhead's "Ace of Spades" for the opening theme. From New World. Thor also starred in Rock and Roll Nightmare.

ZOMBIE PARTY

(Plush Pup, 1989) D/P: Rodd Matsui, Scott Tanaga, Samuel Oldham

Zombie Party features blood and gore, rap, and blond bimbos who sing (for a long time). The zombies are eventually killed by Budweiser beer. The joke-filled shot-on-video California horror comedy was made for "a few thousand dollars" on weekends. Matsui did the makeup for Dark Romances and worked on Nightmare on Elm Street VI.

ZOMBIES = I EAT YOUR SKIN

ZOMBIES OF THE STRATOSPHERE

(Republic, 1952) D: Fred C. Bannon
S: Ronald Davidson

Judd Holdren (who also played Captain Video in serials) took over the role of Commando Cody in this sequel to Radar Men from the Moon (1951). Aline Towne costars, and an unimpressive Leonard Nimoy plays Nareb, one of the three Martians in funny costumes who hang around in caves with Earth gangsters. Nearly everything about this serial was old, leftover, and overly familiar when released. The jet-pack flying footage is from King of the Rocketmen (1949) and the spaceships and robots had been used and reused since the 30s. The 12-chapter serial is on two cassettes. Republic Video also released a colorized version of the condensed feature (Satan's Satellites) which shows on TV. Holdren and Towne returned again in a Commando Cody TV series (1953), which was also released in theaters.

ZOMBIE'S RAGE = THE GRIM REAPER

ZOMBIETHON

(Wizard, 1986) D/P: Ken Dixon

Some might see this tape as a rip-off, but if you're a zombie fan, it's a painless sampler. Ken Dixon, who later directed Slave Girls from Beyond Infinity, filmed the linking segments for this plotless compilation featuring scenes from four Jesús Franco movies, two other Euro zombie movies, and a token American feature. The new arty slow-motion scenes always end up in a movie theater with an all-zombie audience. They're not bad and sort of fun to watch. Most of the old scenes feature nudity, some are gory, and some are pretty funny. The most effective gore scenes are from Lucio Fulci's Zombie (1980). The oldest scenes are from Ted V. Mikels's The Astro-Zombies (1968). Fear (1980) by Ricardo Freda features Laura Gemser, but no zombies. Other scenes are from Zombie Lake (1980), Oasis of the Zombies (1981), and Franco's The Invisible Dead (1970) and Zombie 4 (1971). All seven titles are (or were) available on their own if you're a completist.

Commando Cody (Judd Holdren) in Zombies of the Stratosphere.

THE ZOMBIE WALKS

(1968) D: Alfred Vohrer S: Ladislav Fodor
W. Germany (Im Banne des Unheimlichen)

It's an Edgar Wallace adaptation with Inspector Higgens (Joachim Fuchsberger) returning to crack the case of "the Laughing Corpse" (a man with a skull and skeleton hands). He kills with a poison scorpion ring. With a theme song called "Feel My Heartbeat" and a gravedigger named Romero. With Pinkas Braun and Siv Mattson. Watch for it on syndicated TV.

ZONE TROOPERS

(Lightning, 1985) D/S: Danny Bilson
S/P: Paul De Meo M: Richard Band Italy

How's this for a plot? Some mutant aliens help a group of cliché WWII GIs in Italy fight the Nazis. Tim Thomerson stars with Timothy Van Patten and Art La Fleur. John Buechler provided the cheesy FX, and a lot of machine guns are fired. From Empire.

THE ZOO GANG

(Starmaker, 1985) D/S: John Watson S/P: Pen Densham

New World released this PG-13 rated movie about teenagers who want to open their own nightclub but have gangster problems. With Jason Gedrick and Ben Vereen.

ZUMA BEACH

(1978) D: Lee H. Katzin S: William A. Schwartz, John Carpenter P: Bruce Cohn Curtis, Brian Grazer

A fading rock star (Suzanne Somers) goes to the beach to get away from it all and becomes involved with a group of teens. With Kimberly Beck, Perry Lang, Michael Biehn, Rosanna Arquette, Steve Franken, P. J. Soles, Tanya Roberts, Timothy Hutton, and Janus Blythe. Carpenter's Halloween (also with Soles) was released the year this aired on NBC-TV.

ZU: WARRIORS OF THE MAGIC MOUNTAIN

(1981) D: Tsui Hark P: Raymund Chow Hong Kong

This amazing martial arts fantasy was ahead of its time and is recommended. It features non-stop fantasy FX (by American technicians who had worked on movies like Star Wars) and was mostly made in a gigantic studio. Yuen Biao stars as the warrior hero, with Cheng Siu Tsou, Lin Ching Hsia, Samo Hung, and Moon Lee. Hark, who had already directed The Butterfly Murders (1979) and We Are Going to Eat You (1980), gained notice in America a few years later with more realistic movies like Peking Opera Blues (1986).

Bibliography

I've referred to way too many books, magazines and fanzines over the years to list but I'd like to mention the many invaluable film reference books from McFarland (especially ones by Harris M. Lenz), Walt Lee's Reference Guide to Fantastic Films, The American Film Institute Catalog, Crown's books on major studios, the Citadel "films of" series, Screen World annuals, Jerry Osborne's Official Price Guide to Soundtracks, and The Bare Facts Video Guide by Craig Hosoda.

Publications (some defunct) include: Alternative Cinema, Asian Trash Cinema, Celebrity Sleuth, Cineraider, Confessions of a Trash Fiend, Critical Condition, Dreadful Pleasures, Ecco, Entertainment Weekly, European Trash Cinema, Exploitation Journal, Exploitation Retrospective, Famous Monsters of Filmland, Fangoria, Fatal Visions (Australia), Femme Fatales, Film Threat, The Gore Gazette, The Joe Bob Report, Killbaby (Canada), M.A.M.A., Monster, The Phantom of the Movies' Videoscope, She (Canada), Shock Express (U.K.), Sleazoid Express, Spaghetti Cinema, Subhuman, Sub-Terrenea (Canada), Trashola, Video Business, Video Confidential, Video Watchdog, Weekly Variety, Westerns All' Italiana, and many other monster movie magazines and fanzines of the past.

Video Sources

These are just a few of the mail order video companies that offer the widest variety of VHS titles. Write for ordering info and catalogs. See issues of Psychotronic® Video for many other reliable companies.

CAPE COPY CENTER 631 Main Street, Hyannis, MA 12601. A good source for rare, out of print, factory boxed horror, exploitation, and sex tapes. Lots of seventies rarities.

MOVIES UNLIMITED 6736 Castor Avenue, Philadelphia, PA 19149. Sells every possible tape of every kind currently in print in America. Their catalog is huge.

SCORCHED EARTH P.O. Box 101083, Denver, CO 80250. Specializes in horror, sci-fi, and exploitation from the thirties through the sixties.

SINISTER Box 4369. Medford, OR 97051. Specializes in horror, sci-fi, and mysteries from the thirties through the sixties.

SOMETHING WEIRD (SW) Box 33664, Seattle, WA 98133. Lots of horror and exploitation rarities but what makes SW unique are the countless soft-core sex and adults-only titles.

VIDEO SEARCH OF MIAMI (VSOM) Box 16-1917, Miami, FL 33116. This is the first place to look for rare and uncut foreign horror, explotation, sex, and music videos. VSOM has subtitled many tapes in English for the first time.

Photo Credits

This page constitutes an extension of the copyright page.

Permission to use photos and illustrations is gratefully acknowledged:

Cover: The Lost Empire © 1986. Courtesy of Jim Wynorski. Brazil © 1985 Universal City Studios. Night of Bloody Horror © 1968 Cinema IV Production. Frontispiece photo by Nigel Dickson. Abby © American International. The Adventures of Buckaroo Banzai © 1984 Sherwood Productions, Inc. After Hours © 1985 The Geffen Film Company. Aguirre: The Wrath of God © 1977 New Yorker Films. AIP © American-International Pictures. Akira Kurosawa's Dreams © 1990 Warner Bros., Inc. Alias the Champ © Republic Pictures Corp. Alice Cooper: Welcome to My Nightmare © 1975 Key Pictures, Inc. Aliens © 1986 Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp. Alone in the Dark © 1982 New Line Cinema Corp. Amazon Women on the Moon © 1987 Universal City Studios, Inc. American Graffiti © Universal City Studios, Inc. American Hot Wax © 1978 Paramount Pictures Corp. Amin: The Rise and Fall © 1981 Intermedia Productions. Android © 1982. Photo by M. J. Elliott. Angel Heart © 1987 TriStar Pictures, Inc. Photo by George Kontaxis. Angels © 1971 New World Pictures, Inc. Anguish © 1987 Spectrafilm. Another Day, Another Man © Juri Productions. Apocalypse Now © 1979 United Artists. Backbeat © 1994 Gramercy Pictures. Bad Girls Go to Hell © Sam Lake Enterprises, Inc. Bang, Bang, You're Dead © 1966 American International Pictures. Basket Case 2 © 1989 Shapiro Glickenhaus Entertainment Corp. The Bat Whispers © 1930 United Artists. Beetlejuice © 1988 The Geffen Film Co. Beyond and Back © 1977 Sun Classic Pictures, Inc. Big House, U.S.A. © 1955 United Artists Corp. Big Trouble in Little China © 1986 Twentieth Century Fox Corp. Photo by John Shannon. Bill & Ted's Excellent Adventure © 1989 by Orion Pictures Corp. Photo by Phil Caruso. Billy Jack © 1971 Warner Bros. Corp. Black Belt Jones © Warner Bros. Inc. Black Caesar © American International. Black Samson © Warner Bros. Inc. The Blob © 1988 TriStar Pictures, Inc. The Blood of Heroes © 1990 Kings Road Entertainment. Photo by Robert Macfarlane. Blue Velvet © 1986 De Laurentiis Entertainment Group. Boccaccio '70 © 1962 Embassy Picture Corp. Brazil © 1985 Universal City Studios. A Bullet for Pretty Boy © 1970 American International Pictures. Boxcar Bertha © 1972 American International Pictures. Candy Stripe Nurses © National Screen Service Corporation. Cape Fear © 1962 Universal Pictures Company, Inc. Cape Fear © 1992 Universal City Studios. Captain Gallant of the Foreign Legion © Television Programs of America, Inc. Carny © 1980 by Lorimar Productions, Inc. The Cars That Eat People © New Line Cinema. Cheech & Chong's Nice Dreams © 1981 Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. Cherry, Harry & Raquel © 1969 Eve Productions Inc. Chinatown © 1974 Long Road Productions. The Christine Jorgensen Story © 1970 United Artists, Transamerica Corp. Circuitry Man © 1989 I.R.S. Media, Inc. Cleopatra Jones © 1973 Warner Bros. Inc. Codename: Wildgeese © New World Pictures. Code of Silence © 1985 Orion Pictures Corp. Photo by James Zenk. Coffy © 1973 American International Pictures. Conan the Destroyer © 1984 Universal City Studios, Inc. The Cool Ones © 1967 Warner Bros. Pictures Inc. Crawlspace © 1986 Empire Pictures. Creepers © 1985 New Line Cinema Corp. Crimson Ghost © 1946 Republic Pictures Corp. Cry-Baby © 1989 Universal City Studios Inc. Photo by Henny Garfunkel. Cul-De-Sac © 1967 Filmways/Sigma III. Dark Intruder © 1965 Universal Pictures Co., Inc. Darkman © 1990 Universal City Studios Inc. Photo by Melinda Sue Gordon. Darktown Strutters © New World Pictures. Daughter of the Dragon © Paramount Pictures. Daughter of the Sun! © LPE Inc. Daughter of the Sun God © 1963 Hert-Lion International Corp. Day of the Dead © 1985 Dead Films, Inc. Day of Anger © 1969 National General Pictures Corp. Dead Ringers © The Rank Organisation. Deathstalker © Concorde Pictures. Def by Temptation © Orpheus Pictures. The Delta Force © 1985 Cannon Productions N.V. Demons © New World Video. Deranged © Platinum Pictures, Inc. De Sade © 1969 American International Pictures Export Corp. Desperate Living © New Line Cinema. Dick Tracy © Touchstone Pictures. Photo by Peter Sorel. Dick Tracy vs. Phantom Empire © Republic Pictures Corp. Dillinger © 1973 American International Pictures. Dirty Harry © Warner Bros. Inc. D.O.A. © United Artists. Do or Die © 1991 Andy Sidaris/Malibu Bay Films. Dracula © 1992 Universal City Studios Inc. Dragon © 1993 Universal City Studios Inc. Disaster © 1976 Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. Dune © 1984 Universal City Studios Inc. and Dino De Laurentiis. Ebony, Ivory & Jade © 1976 Dimension Pictures Inc. Edge of Sanity © 1988 Allied Vision Ltd. Edward Scissorhands © 1990 Twentieth Century Fox Film Corp. Photo by Zade Rosenthal. Elvira, Mistress of the Dark © New World Pictures Inc. Encounter at Raven's Gate © 1989 Helmdale Releasing Corp. Enter the Dragon © 1973 Warner Bros. Inc. Exorcist III © 1990 Morgan Creek Film Partners. Fast Times at Ridgemont High © 1982 Universal City Studios, Inc. The Female Bunch © Dalia Productions, Inc. Female Jungle © 1956 American Releasing Corp. La Femme Nikita © 1990 Gaumont-Gaumont Production-Cecchi Gori Group Tiger Cinemtagrafica. A Fistful of Dynamite © 1971 United Artists Corporation. Five Fingers of Death © Warner Bros. Flesh + Blood © 1985 Orion Pictures Corp. The Fly © 20th Century Fox. The Fool Killer © 1967 American International Television Inc. Force: Five © 1981 American Communications Industries Inc. The Fourth Man © 1984 International Spectrafilm Distribution Inc. Foxy Brown © 1974 American International Pictures Inc. Frankenhooker © 1989 Shapiro Glickenhaus Entertainment Corp. Freaky Friday © Walt Disney Productions. Friday Foster © 1975 American International Pictures. Fright Night © 1985 Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. Full Metal Jacket © 1987 Warner Bros., Inc. Get Crazy © 1983 Rosebud Films. Ginger © 1971 Derio Productions, Inc. The Girl in Black Stockings © Bel Air Productions. The Glove © 1979 Key Pictures Inc. Godzilla 1985 © 1985 New World Pictures. Grand Theft Auto © New World Pictures. The Greed of William Hart/Horror Maniacs and Gremlins 2: The New Batch © 1990 Warner Bros., Inc. Guilty as Charged © 1991 I.R.S. Media, Inc. Gun Crazy © United Artists. Half Human © Gross Krasne Productions. The Happy Hooker Goes to Washington © Cannon Releasing Corp. The Harder They Come © 1973 New World Pictures Inc. Hardware © 1990 Millimeter Films. Photo by Chris Clunn. Hello Mary Lou: Prom Night II © 1987 The Samuel Goldwyn Company. Highway to Hell © 1992 Hemdale Film Corp. The Hitcher © 1986 TriStar Pictures, Inc. The Hitchhikers © 1972 Entertainment Ventures, Inc. The H-Man © 1958 Columbia Pictures. The Hoodlum © 1951 United Artists Corp. The Hot Box © New World Pictures Inc. H.O.T.S. © Derio Productions, Inc. The House Where Death Lives © New American Films. The Human Tornado © 1976 U.T.A. Inga and Greta © Independent-International Pictures. Invasion U.S.A. © 1985 Cannon Films, Inc. I was a Communist for the F.B.I. © Warner Bros. Pictures. Jackson County Jail © TBC Productions-I. Jaws 3-D © 1983 Universal City Studios, Inc. Joe © The Cannon Releasing Corp. Jungle Holocaust/The Last Survivor © United Producers. Just for the Hell of It © Unusual Pictures International. Kickboxer 2 © 1991 Trimark Pictures. The Killer © 1990 Circle Releasing Corp. Kill Squad © Summa Vista Pictures. The Last Movie © Universal Pictures. Li'l Abner © 1959 Paramount Pictures Corp. and Triad Productions. Liquid Sky © 1982 Z-Films. Lolita © 1961 A. A. Productions Ltd. The Mack © 1986 Charter Entertainment. Mad Max Beyond Thunderdome © 1985 Warner Bros. Inc. Mahogany © 1975 Jobete Film Corp. A Man Called Horse © 1970 Cinema Center Films. To Trap a Spy © MGM Entertainment Co. Manson © 1973 American International Pictures Inc. Mardi Gras Massacre © Omni Capital Releasing. Master Gunfighter © 1975 Avondale Productions, Inc. Matinee © 1993 Universal City Studios, Inc. Mondo Cane/Mondo Cane 2 © Cinemation Industries. Mondo New York © 1988 4th and Broadway Films. Photo by Daniel Root. The Mongols © 1962 Colorama Features Inc. The Monster Squad © Taft Entertainment Pictures/Keith Barish Productions. Mudhoney © Delta Films, Inc. Murphy's Law © 1986 Cannon Films, Inc. My Brother's Wife © Jer Pictures Inc. My Science Project © 1985 Touchstone Films. The Naked Cage © 1985 The Cannon Group, Inc. Naked Lunch © 1991 Twentieth Century–Fox. Photo by Attila Dory. Naked under Leather © Claridge Pictures. The Naked Venus © Howco International. Neon City © 1992 Vidmark Entertainment. Night Angel © 1989 Night Angel Partners. A Nightmare on Elm Street 3: Dream Warriors © 1987 New Line Cinema Corp. Night of Bloody Horror © 1969 Taste of Blood Corp. Night of the Living Dead © 1990 Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. Night of the Strangler © 1973 Howco Pictures. 1990: The Bronx Warriors © United Film Distribution Co. 1,000 Convicts and a Woman © American International. Palisades High © Crown International Pictures. Pee-wee's Big Adventure © 1985 Warner Bros. Inc. Penitentiary 3 © 1987 Cannon Films, Inc. The Phantom of the Opera courtesy of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. The Phenix City Story © Allied Artists. Pink Floyd—The Wall © 1982 MGM/UA Entertainment Co. Pink Motel © 1982 New Image Releasing. Please Don't Touch Me! © Ron Ormond Enterprises. Point Blank © 1967 Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc. Point of No Return © 1993 Warner Bros. Poltergeist II © 1986 MGM Entertainment Co. Poor White Trash © 1957 United Artists Corp. Purple Rain © 1984 Warner Bros., Inc. The Quiet Earth © 1985 Mr. Yellowbeard Productions Ltd. Raising Arizona © 1987 Circle Films Inc. Photo by Melinda Sue Gordon. Ramar of the Jungle © Arrow Pictures Inc. Red Dawn © 1984 United Artists Corp. Red Sun © 1972 National General Pictures. Reefer Madness © 1972 New Line Cinema Corp. Reform School Girls © 1986 New World Pictures. Repo Man © 1984 Universal City Studios Inc. Reservoir Dogs © 1992 Miramax Films. Return of the Killer Tomatoes © New World Video. Return of the Living Dead © 1985 Orion Pictures Corp. Photo by Rory Flynn. River's Edge © 1987 Island Pictures. Street Corner © Wilshire Pictures. Roadside Prophets © Fine Line Features. Photo by Merrick Morton. Robocop © 1987 Orion Pictures Corp. Photo by S. Karin Epstein. Rocky IV © 1985 United Artists Corp. Roller Boogie © 1979 United Artists Corp. The Ruling Class © 1972 United Artists Corp. Santa Claus © 1970 K. Gordon Murray Productions. Satan's Bed © Prometheus Ventures. Scanners II © 1991 Triton Pictures. Scum of the Earth © Box Office Spectaculars, Inc. The Silence of the Lambs © 1990 Orion Pictures Corp. Single White Female © 1992 Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. Shaft © 1972 Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc. Shakes the Clown © 1991 I.R.S. Media Inc. Showdown In Little Tokyo © 1991 Warner Bros. Inc. Skatetown U.S.A. © 1978 Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. Slaughter © American International. Slaughter's Big Rip Off © 1973 American International. Slaughterhouse © 1988 Charter Entertainment. The Snake Woman © 1961 United Artists Corp. Soul Vengeance © Crown International Pictures. Starlet © 1969 Entertainment Ventures, Inc. Stacey! © 1973 New World Pictures. The Stepfather © 1986 ITC Productions. Street Trash © 1987 Lightning Pictures. Student Teachers © 1973 New World Pictures. Sugar Cookies © 1972 General Film Corp. Summer School Teachers © New World Pictures. Super Soul Brother © Mirror Releasing. The Super Stooges © 1976 21st Century Distribution. Superstar © 1990 Aries Film. Sweet Savior © Trans-World Attractions, Corp. Take A Hard Ride © 1975 20th Century–Fox Film Corp. Tales from the Crypt © Universal City Studios Inc. Tango and Cash © 1989 Warner Bros. Inc. A Taste of Hell © Boxoffice International. Taxi Driver © 1976 Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. That Tennessee Beat © 1966 20th Century–Fox Film Corp. They Live © 1988 Universal City Studios Inc. Three Dimensions of Greta © Dimension General. Freaks © 1932 MGM. Tightrope © 1984 Warner Bros. Inc. TNT Jackson © New World Pictures. Tower of the Screaming Virgins © Maron Films Ltd. Toxic Avenger © Troma Films. Trader Hornee courtesy of Central Park Media Tremors © MCA/Universal. Trespass © 1993 Universal City Studios. Photo by Sam Emerson. Trip with the Teacher © 1974 Crown International. Truck Turner © American International. UHF © 1989 Orion Pictures Corp. Uncle Tom's Cabin © 1969 KBA. Unearthly Stranger © 1964 American International Pictures. Unholy Rollers © American International. The Unholy Three © 1925 MGM. Unnatural © DCA. Vamp © 1986 New World Pictures. Photo by Douglas Kirkland. Vertigo © 1958 Paramount Pictures Corp. The Video Dead © 1987 Embassy Home Entertainment. Videodrome © 1983 Universal City Studios. Viridiana © Kingsley International. Vixen! © 1968 Eve Productions, Inc. Voodoo Black Exorcist Donald L. Velde Inc. Walking Tall © 1974 American International Pictures. Walk the Walk © 1970 Hallmark Attraction. The Warriors © 1979 Paramount Pictures Corp. Weird Science © 1984 Universal City Studios. Werewolf © 1987 Fox Broadcasting Company. West Side Story © 1961 United Artists. What Do You Say to a Naked Lady? © 1970 United Artists. Wild At Heart © 1990 PolyGram Filmproduktion GmbH. The Woman Who Wouldn't Die © Warner Bros. Women in Cages © New World Pictures. World Gone Wild © 1987 Apollo Pictures Inc. The Wraith © 1986 Turbo Productions, Inc. Yor © 1983 Columbia Pictures Industries, Inc. The Young Nurses © 1973 New World Pictures Inc. You're a Big Boy Now © 1966 Seven Artists Associated Corp. Zombies of the Stratosphere © 1952 Republic Pictures Corp.

Stills and illustrations are from the author's own collection, from Tom Rainone, or from Hollywood Book and Poster.

INDEX

Abbott, Bruce, 36, 79, 291, 417, 454, 552, 601
Ackerman, Forrest J. (F.J.A.), 7, 17, 30, 131, 163, 175, 191, 271, 289, 344–345, 383, 415, 451, 484, 582
Adams, Brooke, 94, 147, 227, 300, 324, 519, 540, 593
Adams, Julie, 35, 58, 236, 325, 620
Adamson, Al, 26, 59–60, 93, 107, 124, 148, 164, 166, 177, 202, 249, 266, 270, 275, 285, 296, 302, 321, 323, 380, 390, 407, 468, 486, 538, 593
Agar, John, 30, 70, 201, 259, 304, 328, 335, 368, 395, 425, 528–529
Aiello, Danny, 95, 149, 152, 205, 216, 278, 300, 321, 429, 442–443, 475, 540, 617
Albert, Edward, 2, 71, 80, 85, 154, 165, 182, 192, 207, 213, 229, 367, 417, 460, 466, 495, 503, 521, 574, 593
Alderman, John, 15, 59, 72, 110, 152, 156, 187, 252, 268, 320, 325, 370, 429–430, 493, 527, 529, 545, 564, 569, 579–580, 591
Allan, Davie, 302, 558
Allen, David, 66, 122, 168, 177, 220, 316, 408, 438, 446, 471, 540, 624
Allen, Ginger Lynn, 74, 84, 110, 166, 267, 328, 367, 436, 482, 585, 602, 618, 620, 632
Allen, Nancy, 2, 214, 235, 269, 298, 334, 362, 403, 405, 429, 435, 470, 535, 549, 562
Allen, Woody, 11, 203, 296, 316, 497, 587
Altman, Robert, 27, 39, 79, 115, 166, 284, 300, 339, 372, 389, 408, 432, 436, 439, 459, 565
Amick, Madchen, 74, 284, 341, 515, 589
Anders, Luana, 73, 171, 191, 241, 314, 334, 353, 494, 565
Anderson, Ernie, 465, 531, 587
Anderson, Pamela, 365, 517
Andress, Ursula, 7, 105, 196, 204, 231, 337, 364, 397, 410, 457, 491, 496, 500, 522, 531, 573, 582
Andrews, Dana, 9, 47, 77, 111, 239, 272, 304, 342, 440, 468, 552
Ankers, Evelyn, 212
Ankrum, Morris, 26, 112, 159, 248, 377, 520, 522, 557
Ann-Margret, 85, 97, 204, 319, 410, 475, 550, 604
Anspach, Susan, 34, 65, 69, 208, 265, 292
Ant, Adam, 2, 114, 305, 324, 364, 404, 417, 512, 525, 543, 586, 628
Apollonia, 34, 57, 368, 405, 447
Apostoloff, Stephen C. (A. C. Stevens), 4, 33, 109, 112, 114, 157, 165, 261, 273, 305, 378, 408, 415, 433, 482, 514, 517, 541, 543, 576
Argento, Dario, 41, 55, 107, 124, 135, 155, 159, 190, 208–209, 288–289, 296, 411, 415, 467, 480, 528, 562, 582, 590, 597, 614
Arkush, Alan, 205
Armitage, George, 138, 266, 325, 364, 395, 441, 603
Armstrong, R. G., 74, 83, 123, 162, 165, 199, 205, 227, 229, 249, 257, 303, 329, 360–361, 370, 383, 419, 423, 438, 499, 531, 564, 582, 604, 609, 615, 617
Arquette, David, 468–469
Arquette, Patricia, 180, 287, 290, 397, 438, 585–586
Arquette, Rosanna, 7, 17, 58, 157, 181, 201, 240, 291, 334, 377, 406, 445, 629, 636
Ashbrook, Dana, 72, 230, 233, 292, 462, 543, 589, 611, 622, 624
Ashley, John, 25, 50, 58, 305, 453, 483, 516, 519, 541, 613, 626, 631
Ashton, Ron, 259, 378
Assante, Armand, 189, 200, 300, 335, 339, 341, 422
Astin, John, 3, 5, 72, 83, 191, 220, 244, 313, 396, 447, 462, 476, 506, 532, 559, 613
Astin, Sean, 184, 239, 333, 580, 615, 622
Atkins, Christopher, 42, 68, 162, 172, 200, 377, 498
Atwill, Lionel, 44, 91, 99, 118, 307, 322, 340, 525
Avalon, Frankie, 10, 34, 66, 282, 534, 552

Backus, Jim, 22, 169, 221, 239, 253, 355, 430, 440, 512, 566
Bacon, Kevin, 51, 125, 154, 210, 216, 302, 389, 467, 583
Bakalyan, Dick, 25, 104, 273, 355
Baker, Rick, 55, 70, 244, 253, 277, 297, 310, 364, 369, 384, 453, 471, 519, 529, 543, 603, 613, 625, 634
Balaban, Bob, 16, 142, 382, 421, 536, 553, 591
Baldwin, Stephen, 393, 437
Baldwin, William, 34, 210, 515
Balk, Fairuza, 227, 381, 463, 499, 576, 628
Balsam, Martin, 10, 91, 119, 149–150, 153, 289, 371, 380, 479, 505, 566, 590–591
Band, Charles, 10, 27, 31, 85, 107, 122, 145, 168–169, 174–175, 177, 182, 196, 204, 231, 363, 438, 441, 446–447, 471, 483, 491, 497, 502, 505, 540, 551, 581
Banderas, Antonio, 291
Barker, Clive, 88, 258–260, 394, 454, 515, 581
Barker, Lex, 25, 156, 223, 233, 325, 369, 431
Barrington, Pat, 235, 354, 415, 509
Barrymore, Drew, 20, 33, 36, 97, 135, 171, 198, 206, 246, 290, 378, 402, 404, 429, 434, 505, 511, 536, 611
Barrymore, Ethel, 421, 437, 453
Barrymore, John, 17, 81, 167, 327, 371, 453, 547
Barrymore, John, Jr., 453
Barrymore, Lionel, 45, 247, 297, 384, 410, 453, 504, 595, 613
Bartel, Paul, 2, 16–17, 105, 156, 178, 198, 205, 219, 229, 240, 244, 265, 280, 292, 313, 335, 339, 345, 377, 380, 405, 417, 436–437, 445, 473, 485, 489, 498, 501, 554, 584
Barty, Billy, 72, 119, 141, 162, 251, 328, 337, 359, 401, 476, 510, 518, 592, 594, 622–623
Basil, Toni, 18, 21, 35, 120, 208, 241, 325, 472, 513
Basinger, Kim, 40, 61, 75, 120, 205, 228, 384, 392, 403, 611
Bassett, Angela, 76, 127, 225, 289, 299, 614
Bates, Kathy, 115, 162, 264, 303, 369, 439, 497, 528
Bauer, Michelle, 27, 29, 47, 86, 97, 132, 144, 155, 157, 163, 166, 191, 260, 268, 270, 288, 293, 303, 321, 335, 345, 354, 381, 387, 397, 418, 425, 427, 436, 447, 458, 473, 487–488, 521, 526, 561, 563, 576, 600, 604, 609, 620
Bava, Lamberto, 60, 71, 155, 223, 288, 307, 357, 376, 409, 429, 597
Bava, Mario, 39, 48, 55, 59, 130, 159, 208, 223, 261, 288, 296, 399, 466, 483, 486, 502, 603, 613
Baxley, Craig R., 3, 151, 281, 453, 533
Beals, Jennifer, 62, 79, 111, 146, 287, 401, 600
Beatty, Ned, 10, 49, 59, 61, 84, 91, 101, 153, 179, 241, 283, 324, 368, 389, 403, 439, 447, 460, 473, 494, 575, 595, 609, 623
Beatty, Warren, 161, 257, 365, 412
Begley, Ed, 17, 26, 68, 82, 101, 108, 112, 136, 178, 189, 229, 242, 250, 252, 419, 441, 455, 469, 485, 491, 498, 521, 538, 569, 582
Begley, Ed, Jr., 17, 26, 68, 82, 101, 108, 112, 136, 178, 189, 229, 242, 252, 419, 441, 455, 485, 491, 498, 538, 569, 582
Bell, Jeanne, 85, 362, 382, 435, 495, 571, 575
Bell, Marshall, 101, 328, 397, 423, 470, 528, 578, 599, 619
Bellamy, Ralph, 17, 165, 182, 242, 345, 362, 409, 622
Belushi, Jim, 1, 336, 454, 456
Belushi, John, 69, 230, 336, 389, 391, 623
Bennett, Joan, 138, 214–215, 352, 466, 485, 489–490, 626
Benson, Robby, 15, 46, 108, 144, 162, 190, 270, 293, 389, 408, 607, 617
Berenger, Tom, 101, 179, 201, 500, 515, 517
Berg, Peter, 95, 156, 206, 228, 326–327, 392, 502
Bergen, Candice, 229, 280, 349, 363, 518
Bergman, Sandahl, 9, 15, 71, 258, 281, 289, 309, 335, 437, 442, 454, 457, 500, 533, 630
Bernhard, Sandra, 258, 278, 290, 316, 580
Berryman, Michael, 8, 27, 31, 38, 43, 127, 131, 191, 240, 247, 254, 265, 294, 377, 384, 411, 482, 518, 530, 558, 606, 612, 625
Best, James, 76, 102, 408, 473
Beswick, Martine, 37, 83, 127, 132, 191, 251, 272, 293, 409, 581
Beymer, Richard, 55, 127, 228, 439, 506, 537, 589, 594, 613
Bisset, Jacqueline, 129, 196, 286, 422, 485, 620
Black, Karen, 30–31, 37, 74–75, 84, 90, 100, 103, 108, 111, 115, 124, 131, 141, 172, 175, 189, 191, 208, 211, 251, 254, 265, 267, 272–273, 292, 294, 297, 312–314, 325, 335, 357, 369–370, 389, 394, 416–418, 431–432, 440, 466, 473, 475, 482, 492, 563, 586, 590, 633–634
Blair, Linda, 35, 37, 44, 73, 84, 98, 101, 104, 147, 171, 192, 200, 245, 278, 376, 378, 395, 401, 456, 460, 473, 475, 480, 483–484, 506, 521, 527, 548, 598, 620, 624, 634
Blake, Robert, 181, 242, 271, 286, 395, 409, 573, 626
Blakley, Ronee, 380, 389, 397, 459, 463, 500, 540, 619
Blossom, Roberts, 15, 88, 106, 108, 155, 326, 381, 449
Bolling, Tiffany, 72, 88–89, 98, 343, 413, 599, 620
Bond, Rene, 4, 46, 109, 112, 120, 197, 224, 302, 327, 390, 432–433, 579
Bonet, Nai, 161, 196, 404, 521
Bono, Sonny, 9, 37, 101, 248, 584, 594, 599
Bookwalter, J. R., 146, 226, 279, 316, 365, 418, 471, 502, 511
Boone, Pat, 127, 242, 472, 558
Boone, Richard, 51, 85, 236, 320, 399, 470, 529, 623
Borgnine, Ernest, 9, 12, 38, 75, 83, 113, 127, 154, 171, 281, 302, 304, 323–324, 329, 352, 379, 511, 525–526, 536, 544, 572, 583, 601, 619, 633
Bottoms, Joseph, 61, 111, 124, 288, 317, 331, 413, 509, 574
Bowie, David, 1, 11, 103, 121, 238, 279, 292, 300, 308, 321, 326, 334, 344, 354, 450, 589, 592, 615, 630
Boyd, Stephen, 55, 311, 414, 513
Boyle, Lara Flynn, 19, 135, 186, 194, 371, 423, 435, 456, 474, 559, 589, 611, 615
Boyle, Peter, 83, 123, 161, 164, 193, 249, 251, 270, 303, 310, 361, 456, 475, 496, 518, 525, 556–557, 604, 607, 615, 630
Bracco, Lorraine, 189, 239, 450, 550
Brady, Scott, 17, 72, 104, 244, 262, 304, 338, 366, 468, 528, 604, 622
Brand, Neville, 22, 91, 100, 145, 150, 156, 165, 191, 246, 338, 351, 404, 466, 569
Brando, Marlon, 25, 215, 304, 378, 399, 621
Breck, Peter, 43, 123, 264, 296, 298, 561, 597
Bresee, Bobbie, 175, 191, 231, 271, 360, 383
Bridges, Jeff, 68, 113, 131, 181, 207, 324, 529, 585, 601, 623
Bridges, Lloyd, 9, 42, 50, 68, 204, 270, 273, 303, 410, 416, 612, 620
Brolin, James, 34, 74, 227, 397, 459, 512, 590
Bronson, Charles, 28, 51, 89, 101, 150, 191, 193, 259, 287, 307, 318, 337, 361, 363, 370, 381, 411, 457, 466, 518–519, 559, 630
Brooks, Albert, 152, 556, 589
Brooks, Mel, 166, 263, 281, 339, 380, 447, 470, 506, 523, 582, 588, 599
Brooks, Richard, 286, 629
Brosnan, Pierce, 151, 157, 327, 336, 404
Brothers, Dr. Joyce, 157, 316, 341, 387, 389
Brown, Gregory, 146, 537, 542

Brown, Jim, 3, 56, 122, 165, 181, 205, 281–282, 285, 311, 321, 323, 411, 419, 422, 466, 477, 512–513, 526, 552, 571, 590
Brown, Julie, 67, 178, 498, 525
Browning, Tod, 53, 163, 172, 284, 290, 319, 368, 417, 469, 480, 504, 568, 595–596, 613, 615
Brownrigg, S. F., 47, 116, 264, 309, 388, 435–436, 493
Buchanan, Larry, 48, 82–83, 212, 221, 235, 239, 259, 264, 278–279, 337, 378, 388, 390, 395, 427, 493–494, 516, 536, 538, 593, 631
Buechler, John Carl, 79, 97, 222, 231–232, 248, 443, 484, 514, 584
Bujold, Genevieve, 147, 316, 573, 585
Bullock, Sandra, 154, 343, 524, 601
Buñuel, Luis, 6, 45, 81, 102, 126, 161, 163–164, 181, 193, 196, 280, 339, 342, 367, 374, 390, 409, 428, 480, 508, 547, 565, 584, 605, 629, 632
Buono, Victor, 50, 79, 242, 355, 376, 378, 536, 555, 614, 632
Burr, Jeff, 180, 328, 409, 445, 447, 502, 532
Burr, Raymond, 9, 16, 57, 68, 153, 236–237, 417, 454, 492, 576, 604
Burstyn, Ellen, 10, 17, 431
Burton, LeVar, 366, 531, 545
Burton, Richard, 1, 54, 85, 403, 469
Burton, Tim, 10, 16, 40–41, 44, 52, 86, 180, 219, 273, 424, 441, 508, 573
Buscemi, Steve, 9, 39, 87, 179, 212, 256, 317–318, 367, 385, 445, 460, 467, 515, 553, 602
Busey, Gary, 3, 22, 52, 79, 82–83, 90, 93, 101, 107, 175, 194, 263, 265, 290, 324, 330, 378, 432–433, 438, 507, 522, 546, 594, 610
Byrne, Gabriel, 120, 137, 240, 306, 309, 334, 367, 433, 505

Caan, James, 12, 135, 162, 253, 270, 312, 369
Caffaro, Cheri, 232–233, 273, 431, 483, 577
Cage, Nicholas, 143, 619
Caine, Michael, 60, 157, 178, 266, 299, 301–302, 311, 349, 370, 380, 411, 503, 531, 577, 625
Campbell, Bill, 77, 471
Campbell, Bruce, 5, 27, 56, 125, 136, 146, 178, 190, 292, 345, 352–353, 368, 377, 543, 570, 611
Campbell, William, 56, 164, 398, 436, 439
Candy, John, 69, 73, 88, 111, 143, 152, 237, 239, 257, 274, 302, 336, 359, 403, 405, 454, 507, 523, 525–526
Cardos, John "Bud", 3, 26, 202, 220, 275, 382–383, 416, 468, 511, 521, 607
Carey, Timothy, 102, 141, 179, 199, 255, 281, 314, 416, 435, 574
Carradine, David, 17, 23, 27, 37, 53, 75, 84, 111, 123–125, 145, 172, 176–177, 191, 199–200, 203, 225, 241, 257, 263, 295, 309, 315, 320, 326, 339, 346, 353, 357, 360–361, 365, 369–370, 395, 401, 406, 413, 437, 442, 454, 469, 473, 478, 492, 510, 520, 543, 568, 572, 584–585, 587, 609, 611, 625
Carradine, John, 11, 26, 31, 46, 58, 73, 77, 84, 94, 111, 121, 130, 153, 166, 191, 195, 202–203, 208, 219, 248, 250, 268, 272, 275–276, 280–281, 296, 302, 304–305, 328, 339, 345, 352, 360, 367, 375–376, 379, 404, 424, 444, 457, 463, 469, 484, 494, 505, 530, 543, 562, 571, 576, 599, 610
Carradine, Keith, 34, 58, 91, 113, 282, 289, 389, 423, 522, 537, 585
Carradine, Robert, 14–15, 51, 58, 70, 85, 109, 171, 236, 283, 295, 299, 305, 339, 358, 361, 407, 417, 420, 432, 464, 475, 552, 576, 611
Carrey, Jim, 2, 146, 178, 184, 357, 410, 424
Carroll, Regina, 61, 93, 302
Cartwright, Veronica, 88, 266, 290, 369, 397, 624
Carver, Steve, 83, 123, 176, 194, 199, 303, 339, 467, 531
Carvey, Dana, 611
Casey, Bernie, 24, 34, 52, 55–56, 81, 99, 110, 121, 235, 255, 266, 285, 291, 392, 464, 499, 525, 532, 537
Cash, Johnny, 59, 178, 198, 304, 341, 456, 608
Cash, Rosalind, 5, 16, 109, 121, 148–149, 362, 374, 409, 524, 629
Cassavetes, John, 314, 591
Cassavetes, Nick, 29, 34, 58, 61, 71, 80, 109, 153, 449, 509, 594, 628–629
Cassel, Seymour, 58, 72, 87, 99, 101, 113, 115, 148, 162, 171, 194, 270, 314, 317, 371, 546, 580, 618
Cassidy, David, 290, 525
Cassidy, Joanna, 14, 103, 235, 294, 336, 338, 395, 415, 419, 502, 540, 576, 614, 618
Cassidy, Ted, 3, 237, 253, 255, 512
Castle, William, 46, 74, 96, 125, 141, 176, 216, 295, 297, 302, 322, 354, 359, 466, 492, 495, 514
Cates, Phoebe, 68, 139, 175, 199, 243, 421, 442
Cattrall, Kim, 52, 79, 108, 172, 238, 270, 353, 358, 436, 463, 477, 526, 530, 572, 620
Cave, Nick, 231, 304, 597, 622
Chakiris, George, 302, 419, 613
Chambers, Marilyn, 22, 144, 184, 356, 393, 421, 436
Chan, Jackie, 27, 46, 49, 90, 100, 104–105, 108, 125, 143, 174, 176, 178, 186, 198, 287, 434, 442–443, 475, 544, 589, 615, 632
Chaney, Lon, 2, 40, 44, 50–51, 53, 85, 152, 160, 195, 202, 206, 210, 241, 275, 279, 288, 304, 319, 324, 327–328, 333, 375, 383, 404, 409, 417–418, 424, 427–428, 469, 491, 497, 502, 504, 528, 554, 582, 594–596, 613, 615
Chaney, Lon, Jr., 2, 44, 50–51, 53, 85, 152, 160, 195, 202, 206, 241, 275, 288, 304, 324, 328, 409, 418, 491, 528, 554, 594, 596
Chase, Chevy, 147, 244, 324, 362, 372, 405, 525, 587, 594–595
Chen, Joan, 65, 143, 280, 402, 411, 589, 612
Cher, 101, 115, 245, 432, 624
Chin, Tsai, 68
Chong, Rae Dawn, 16, 36, 43, 70, 74, 102, 108, 116, 130, 198, 201, 263, 440–441, 448, 477, 521, 553, 574, 607
Chong, Tommy, 102, 198, 525, 567, 584, 598
Christian, Claudia, 27, 33, 87, 101, 110, 135, 236, 262, 331, 353, 372, 392, 537, 553, 568
Christopher, Dennis, 12, 87, 108, 147, 171, 211, 296, 300, 492
Cimber, Matt, 59, 85, 89, 192, 196, 279, 321, 350, 573–574, 625, 630
Clark, Bob, 16, 106, 155, 436, 501, 603
Clark, Candy, 18, 20, 29, 51, 61, 69, 82, 88, 97, 108, 120, 300, 377, 389, 415
Clark, Dick, 35, 54, 148, 154, 300, 459, 559, 613
Clark, Greydon, 22, 35, 59, 205, 213, 305, 313, 366, 417, 596, 607
Clark, Susan, 29, 143, 436
Clarke, Robert, 12, 30, 70, 81, 207, 219, 222, 235, 254, 366, 458, 470, 490, 562, 614
Clarkson, Lana, 17, 38, 61, 150, 199, 254, 485, 625
Clash, 6, 166, 274, 316, 321, 423, 446, 475, 546, 607
Clay, Andrew Dice, 5, 17, 77, 607
Clouse, Robert, 20, 49, 55, 104, 135, 144, 186, 214, 238, 247, 295, 419
Coburn, James, 81, 143, 162, 207–208, 251, 266, 278, 342, 357–358, 380, 415, 423, 432, 587, 607, 632
Coen, Joel, 39, 66, 190, 367, 451, 525
Coffin Joe. See Marins, Jose Mojica
Cohen, Larry, 13, 17, 46, 55, 72, 144, 181, 246, 260, 277, 292, 297, 352–354, 425, 463, 524, 540, 618, 627
Cokliss, Harvey, 58, 174
Coleman, Dabney, 26, 47, 59, 81, 110, 173, 274, 351, 362, 372, 405, 439, 461, 473, 609
Collins, Joan, 51, 54, 89, 138, 241, 251, 269, 449, 469, 472, 512, 539, 571
Collins, Phil, 171, 271, 436
Collins, Roberta, 28, 49–50, 150, 251, 359, 401, 486, 571, 581, 595, 601, 625, 627
Collins, Ruth, 66, 98, 110, 137, 142, 144, 148, 170, 193, 226, 248, 257, 260, 335, 345, 421, 440, 445, 487, 495, 619
Combs, Jeffrey, 97, 132, 168, 216, 222–223, 247, 341, 345, 355, 391, 427, 431, 454, 471, 581
Conaway, Jeff, 12, 38, 122, 160, 182, 194, 231, 241, 286, 288, 323, 369, 423, 514, 543, 553, 574
Condon, William, 535
Connelly, Jennifer, 124, 256, 274, 321, 471
Connery, Sean, 259, 263, 280, 287, 389, 392, 408, 414, 467, 470, 527, 551, 603, 629
Connors, Chuck, 9, 37, 98, 174, 263, 329, 511, 542, 551, 555, 563, 570, 599, 613
Connors, Mike, 149, 207, 577
Constantine, Eddie, 30, 157, 228, 246, 331, 474
Conway, Tim, 47, 86, 90, 132, 339, 441
Conway, Tom, 81, 196, 413, 571
Coogan, Jackie, 3, 188, 350, 356, 409, 414, 416, 439, 494, 594
Cook, Elisha, Jr., 9, 33, 44, 62, 74, 94, 163, 169, 181, 226, 249, 314, 338, 389, 395, 403, 416, 423, 476, 623
Cooper, Alice, 11, 141, 151, 161, 220–221, 235, 361, 375, 440, 468, 495–496, 502, 611, 613
Coppola, Francis Ford, 18, 25, 39, 77, 91, 173, 188, 249, 320, 357, 417, 424, 436–437, 476, 576, 620, 633
Corey, Jeff, 37, 53, 74, 109, 115, 117, 122–123, 226, 229, 286, 363, 365, 409–410, 423, 502, 546
Corey, Wendell, 454, 521
Corman, Julie, 76, 105, 164, 326, 379, 392, 395, 406, 482, 505, 521, 540, 543, 632
Corman, Roger, 7, 9, 17, 21–22, 28, 34, 42, 46, 49, 55, 63, 70, 80, 86, 89, 91, 93, 96, 101–102, 104–105, 112, 119, 121–122, 124–126, 133–134, 138, 144, 150, 154, 156, 164, 172, 175, 177–178, 181, 184, 194, 197, 199, 204–206, 213, 219–220, 224–225, 228, 230–231, 240, 242, 247, 252, 254–255, 269, 271–272, 276, 282, 285, 288, 295, 298–299, 308, 318, 329–330, 332, 336, 339, 343, 351, 357, 361, 374, 379–380, 388, 411, 417–418, 431–432, 434–436, 438, 441, 448–449, 454, 458, 464, 466, 472, 476, 478, 486, 501, 503, 506, 516–518, 521, 523, 530–533, 538–539, 541, 547, 550, 558, 563, 572, 574–576, 578, 582, 587, 590–591, 593, 610, 625, 630, 633
Cort, Bud, 40, 76, 79, 105, 162, 182, 253, 266, 280, 341, 343, 417, 444, 490, 536, 557, 582
Cosmatos, George P., 112
Costner, Kevin, 302, 401, 470, 497, 510, 563
Coulouris, George, 29, 315–316, 323, 450
Cox, Alex, 142, 212, 264, 460, 469, 505, 534, 607
Cox, Ronnie, 153, 470
Cozzi, Luigi, 6, 55, 135, 261, 376, 508, 590, 600
Crabbe, Buster, 52–53, 82, 92, 115, 139, 209–210, 307, 317, 455, 488
Craig, James, 464, 578
Cramps, 267, 390, 462, 598
Crampton, Barbara, 71, 105, 220, 223, 311, 446, 454, 471, 581
Craven, Wes, 63, 70, 93, 104, 118, 144, 212, 220, 240, 264, 272, 294, 310, 397, 400, 402, 425, 463, 492, 502, 613, 633
Crawford, Joan, 1, 202, 304, 370, 372, 419, 427, 596, 614
Crawford, Wayne, 39, 124, 190, 236, 255, 300, 377, 398, 467, 493, 519, 599, 617
Crenna, Richard, 71, 207, 273, 292, 296, 330, 418, 452, 607, 620
Cresse, Bob, 83, 187, 276, 358, 373, 410, 412, 455, 628
Cronenberg, David, 22, 71, 76, 125, 140, 146–147, 183, 199, 212, 292, 387, 394, 399, 484, 486, 533, 603, 634
Crosby, Denise, 27, 59, 156, 169, 182, 368, 427, 459, 529, 531
Crosby, Mary, 46, 70, 144, 281, 325, 555
Cross, Ben, 114, 138, 198, 336, 396, 421, 454, 595
Crothers, Scatman, 55, 102, 144, 158, 221, 253, 334, 361, 411, 485, 513, 537, 586, 589, 591, 634
Cruise, Tom, 185, 291, 328, 340, 417
Crystal, Billy, 289, 440, 569
Culkin, Macaulay, 239, 300, 419
Cummings, Robert, 10, 215, 257, 265, 478, 631
Cunningham, Sean S., 151, 262, 272, 274, 393, 527
Curry, Tim, 111, 280, 296, 328, 389, 496, 504, 571, 574, 582, 628
Curtin, Jane, 118, 370, 408, 547
Curtis, Dan, 138, 286, 292, 396, 563, 608, 622
Curtis, Jamie Lee, 16, 69, 115, 149, 159, 215, 248, 259, 343, 378, 443, 461, 586
Curtis, Tony, 37, 74, 77, 98, 111, 122, 152, 169, 198, 247, 290, 324, 329, 337, 365, 440, 495, 518, 520, 555, 615
Cusack, Joan, 4, 14, 86, 357, 580
Cusack, John, 46, 109, 183, 212, 244, 469, 497, 555
Cushing, Peter, 41, 50, 57, 67, 105, 159, 168, 247, 249, 266, 274, 276, 328, 354, 357, 386, 426, 444, 467, 481, 507, 551, 553, 560, 577, 579, 585, 604

D'Abo, Maryam, 171, 285, 336, 363, 396, 503, 519, 576, 585, 630
D'Abo, Olivia, 49, 72, 83, 117, 292, 365, 370, 426, 433, 454, 525, 611
D'Amato, Joe, 48, 55, 84, 170, 183, 187, 296, 614
Dafoe, Willem, 71, 110, 128, 198, 265, 279, 326, 343, 393, 468, 538, 576, 619
Dallesandro, Joe, 15, 58, 128, 172, 210, 216, 246, 256, 290, 313, 338, 542, 582, 620
Dalton, Timothy, 79, 100, 166, 300–301, 331, 336, 471, 495, 603, 629
Daltry, Roger, 335
Damon, Mark, 43, 65, 109, 264, 281, 288, 310, 340, 346, 392, 403, 466, 486, 566, 603, 620
Dano, Royal, 36, 112, 136, 176, 181, 231, 249, 274, 278, 289, 304, 313, 316, 353, 371, 411, 465, 519, 523, 585, 589, 620
Dante, Joe, 16–17, 83, 112, 180, 193, 198, 240, 243–244, 267, 277, 289, 359, 429, 431, 434, 473, 476, 506, 515, 589
Danton, Ray, 98, 401, 415, 418, 461, 467, 554
Davi, Robert, 3, 16, 98, 134, 162, 282, 328, 331, 353, 355, 423, 438, 449, 454, 520, 552, 620–621
David, Pierre, 61, 75, 142, 151, 156, 169, 357, 370, 391, 425, 484, 489
Davis, Andrew, 1, 21, 205, 329, 332, 361, 419, 477, 594, 596
Davis, Bette, 83, 249, 372, 614, 618
Davis, Geena, 44, 178, 212, 566, 582
Davis, Judy, 11, 39, 387
Davis, Phyllis, 46, 140, 196, 549–550
Davis, Sammy, Jr., 12, 90, 183, 300, 319, 329, 397, 426
De Carlo, Yvonne, 18, 61, 97, 153, 211, 239, 275, 328, 331, 355, 369, 404, 432, 513
De Mornay, Rebecca, 34, 43, 85, 246, 250, 381, 476, 563
De Niro, Robert, 22, 34, 74, 78, 91, 101, 236, 239, 243, 265, 316, 346, 357, 361, 547, 556, 611
De Palma, Brian, 37, 71, 207, 243, 265, 269, 380, 451, 611, 615, 623
Dean, James, 115, 213, 300, 308, 328–329, 492, 554, 559, 621
DeCoteau, David, 29, 42, 122, 144, 148, 164, 166, 174, 229, 232, 279, 293, 381, 387, 396–397, 400, 446, 471, 502, 511–512, 521, 531, 564, 581
Deezen, Eddie, 29, 47, 126, 241, 251, 267, 298, 366–367, 371, 379, 403, 435, 474, 506, 546, 558, 609
Dekker, Fred, 274, 282, 376, 398, 465, 470, 553
Denier, Lydie, 44, 65, 83, 245, 293, 355, 365, 402, 404, 455, 482, 594, 620
Dennehy, Brian, 46, 112, 207, 225, 235, 287, 314, 325, 381, 526, 607
Denning, Richard, 12, 500
Depp, Johnny, 128, 180, 220, 397, 442
Derek, Bo, 30, 72, 197, 231, 272, 626
Derek, John, 72, 75, 119, 197, 231, 319, 397, 409–410
Dern, Bruce, 7, 52, 56, 59, 83, 145, 175, 196, 250, 292, 308, 413, 571, 628
Dern, Laura, 69, 217, 254, 288, 308, 321, 534, 619

DeSimone, Tom, 21, 118
DeVito, Danny, 16, 41, 102, 302, 411, 623
Devo, 8, 35, 76, 121, 251, 257, 279, 450, 460, 464, 477, 513, 525, 555, 598
Dickinson, Angie, 49, 88, 161, 189, 414, 433, 438–439, 514, 620
Diddley, Bo, 51, 107, 179, 222, 260, 304, 330, 472, 535, 565
Diehl, John, 21, 108, 138, 141, 310, 367, 378, 529, 607, 618
Diffring, Anton, 2, 65, 146, 195, 266, 357, 412, 493, 554, 587, 622
Digart, Uschi, 15, 43, 45–46, 51, 54, 56, 64, 66, 102, 131, 164, 187, 196–197, 234, 246, 267, 310, 312, 327, 405, 441, 455, 479, 537, 543, 545, 550, 586
Diller, Phyllis, 72, 167, 430–431, 445, 506
Dillman, Bradford, 20, 81, 117, 153, 186, 262, 302, 334, 339, 362, 541, 583
Dillon, Kevin, 61, 170, 257, 404, 459–460
Dillon, Matt, 52, 176, 318, 331, 335, 417, 476, 508, 564
Divine, 132, 134, 157, 165, 203, 248, 309, 341, 345, 374, 379, 417, 430, 441, 585
Doe, John, 73, 145, 167, 242, 335, 359, 468–469
Doherty, Shannon, 61
Dolenz, Ami, 103, 446, 460, 532, 572, 623
Dolenz, Micky, 143, 255, 309, 334, 400–401, 622
Domergue, Faith, 87, 355, 412, 445
Donahue, Troy, 29, 35, 60, 84, 104, 112, 132, 145, 166, 172, 194, 268, 343–344, 407, 410, 420, 495, 502, 504, 548, 561, 575
Donlevy, Brian, 50, 134, 226, 250, 257, 396, 431, 459
Doohan, James, 172, 302, 389, 530–531
Dorff, Stephen, 33–34, 227, 306, 460, 496
Dorn, Michael, 530–531
Dors, Diana, 16, 103, 151, 170, 244, 249, 255, 350, 474, 479, 596
Douglas, Kirk, 167, 269, 332, 539, 604
Douglas, Michael, 39, 104, 107, 171, 199, 210, 302, 401, 411, 450, 529, 577
Douglas, Sarah, 28, 42, 117, 133, 361, 369, 395, 447, 462–463, 511, 518, 532, 606
Dourif, Brad, 69, 71, 103–104, 115–116, 127, 142, 148, 176, 192, 200, 241, 244, 257, 272, 282, 286, 338, 411, 487, 520, 526, 582, 620, 623
Downey, Robert, 17, 100, 113, 207, 241, 248, 255, 296, 389, 447, 459–460, 565, 576, 587, 598, 612, 633
Downey, Robert, Jr., 100, 207, 248, 255, 389, 460, 565, 576, 587, 612
Drago, Billy, 5, 38, 132, 149, 153, 163, 221, 246, 262, 280, 293, 322, 416, 586, 599
Drescher, Fran, 18, 93, 240, 268, 474, 482, 569, 592
Dreyfuss, Richard, 1, 15, 18, 163, 246, 290, 489, 528, 633
Duchovny, David, 309, 453, 475, 630
Duguay, Christian, 336, 371, 484
Duke, Patty, 20, 33, 241, 250, 439, 519
Dunaway, Faye, 39, 104, 193, 207, 249, 251, 372, 507, 544, 559
Dunne, Griffin, 7, 17, 273, 361, 429
Durning, Charles, 79, 96, 121, 137, 147, 162, 265, 380, 442, 499, 518, 528, 573, 589, 591, 610, 615
Duryea, Dan, 83, 242, 368, 485, 626
Duvall, Robert, 25, 115, 178, 249, 312, 330, 397, 416
Dylan, Bob, 35, 38, 53, 169, 178, 256, 270, 304, 326, 330, 423, 459, 608

Easton, Sheena, 70, 559
Eastwood, Clint, 16–17, 24, 44, 146, 164, 186, 188, 194, 206–207, 214, 239, 286, 291, 305, 323, 345, 348, 352–353, 420, 432, 440, 453, 456, 474, 497, 529, 535, 541, 573, 624
Edmonds, Don, 38
Edson, Richard, 30, 99, 341, 544, 579
Edwards, Vince, 21, 97, 122, 147, 150, 156, 249, 314, 362, 378, 380, 415, 461, 463, 491, 517, 520, 523
Eggar, Samantha, 15, 41, 114, 131, 136, 166, 190, 193, 230, 288, 322, 332, 388, 451, 554, 596
Eisley, Anthony, 151, 191, 332, 366, 375, 379, 413, 578, 592
Ekberg, Anita, 70, 112, 235, 313, 374, 500, 505
Ekland, Britt, 47, 103, 113, 220, 272, 318, 343, 377, 425, 495, 513, 630
Elliot, Denholm, 479
Elvira. See Peterson, Cassandra
Elwes, Cary, 77, 79, 101, 128, 135, 273, 328, 440, 470
Elwes, Cassian, 101, 113, 135, 328, 335, 404, 444, 617
Emilfork, Daniel, 312, 335, 407, 431, 581
Englund, Robert, 52, 107, 133, 145, 220, 242, 271, 352, 367, 385, 393, 397, 403, 425, 428, 512, 529, 599, 613
Estevez, Emilio, 220, 306, 360, 389, 392, 394, 397, 417, 460, 564–565, 632
Estevez, Joe, 27, 42, 65, 137, 139, 145, 171, 194, 200, 255, 286, 289, 323, 374, 473, 522
Estevez, Rene, 185, 257, 508
Estrada, Eric, 13
Evans, Gene, 160, 423, 607
Evans, Linda, 85, 119, 231, 371

Fabian, 31, 45, 82–83, 159, 163, 229, 282, 318, 334–335, 337, 342, 371, 439, 446, 476, 511, 521, 561, 575
Fahey, Jeff, 34, 71, 130, 220, 266, 285–286, 295, 327, 417, 444, 449, 466, 511, 586, 626
Fairchild, Morgan, 71, 144, 234, 254, 362, 365, 371, 424, 428, 491, 502, 514, 564, 574
Faithfull, Marianne, 117, 242, 283, 347, 387–388, 391, 585, 587
Falk, Peter, 15, 37, 67, 198, 277, 291, 297, 432, 439–440, 602, 622
Fanaka, Jamaa, 59, 424–425, 522
Fargas, Antonio, 2, 74, 94, 108, 110, 121, 217, 278, 285, 400, 447, 498, 538, 618
Farmer, Donald, 89, 154, 240, 293, 404, 484, 487, 599
Farmer, Mimsy, 31, 55, 71, 85, 113, 118, 377, 468–469
Farrell, Sharon, 26, 338, 343, 356, 398, 411, 417, 492, 540, 549
Farrell, Timothy, 119, 133, 160, 300, 430, 563
Farrow, Mia, 11, 280, 497, 544
Feldman, Corey, 68, 83, 171, 174, 180, 221, 239, 244, 335, 340, 361, 389, 471, 475, 528, 532, 558
Feldman, Marty, 495, 512, 630
Fenn, Sherilyn, 34, 75, 125, 156, 161, 200, 308, 363, 417, 475, 570, 586, 589, 591, 619–620, 629, 635
Ferrara, Abel, 37, 72, 96, 104, 134, 201, 235, 317, 584
Ferrer, José, 45, 49, 67, 176, 191, 204, 242, 265, 271, 370, 390, 444, 600
Ferrer, Mel, 74, 109, 184, 243, 249, 362, 392, 405, 452, 555, 559, 607
Ferrer, Miguel, 151, 245, 253, 354, 380, 413, 433, 447, 470, 475, 528, 530, 589
Ferrigno, Lou, 6, 14, 86, 156, 223, 250, 261, 286, 331, 445, 462, 493, 508
Field, Chelsea, 53, 116, 149, 177, 193, 253, 273, 324, 359, 422, 440, 475, 517
Field, Margaret, 215, 222, 297
Fierstein, Harvey, 25, 154, 249, 253
Findlay, Michael, 481, 509, 570, 579, 592
Findlay, Roberta, 4, 66, 71, 345, 414, 440, 512, 560, 570, 579, 592
Finney, Albert, 243, 367, 488
Fiorentino, Linda, 2, 7, 49, 99, 326, 619
Fisher, Carrie, 17, 69, 83, 175, 218, 269, 370, 462, 502, 574, 594
Flaherty, Joe, 35, 69, 237, 257, 289, 454, 525, 587
Fletcher, Louise, 46, 61, 69, 76–77, 206, 212, 254, 348, 390, 397, 411, 432, 463, 497, 535, 576, 587, 591
Flower, George "Buck", 15, 35–36, 37, 40, 46, 64, 70, 85, 92, 102, 108, 146, 152, 173, 196, 211, 231–232, 289–290, 321, 330, 359, 369, 379, 402–403, 405, 411, 445–446, 459, 511, 518, 521, 524, 526, 543, 552, 555, 567, 587, 609, 611, 625
Flynn, John, 46, 77, 152, 337, 386, 416, 473
Foldes, Lawrence D., 169, 242, 350, 395, 633
Fonda, Bridget, 27, 175, 180, 203, 219, 295, 328, 433–434, 508
Fonda, Henry, 41, 74, 164, 242, 383, 411, 608, 629, 633
Fonda, Jane, 104, 223, 329, 353
Fonda, Peter, 56, 90, 98, 143, 164, 200, 204, 253–255, 263, 265, 269, 272, 282, 306, 312, 325, 341, 363, 372, 386, 403, 416, 455, 473, 522, 524, 526, 608–609
Fong, Leo, 61, 186, 194, 315, 344, 504
Ford, Glenn, 50, 81, 95, 120, 257, 454, 574, 577
Ford, Harrison, 18, 25, 110, 173, 188, 214, 220, 229, 280, 287, 423, 462, 497, 574, 634
Ford, Maria, 22, 70, 134, 150, 254, 358, 368, 387, 391, 451, 466, 516, 539, 587, 597
Foree, Ken, 28, 149, 183, 200, 223, 250, 328, 400, 405, 428, 563, 586, 604
Foreman, Deborah, 26, 157, 337, 345, 383, 543, 570, 599, 611
Forrest, Frederic, 25, 96, 101, 163, 171, 240, 249, 461, 582, 590–591, 599, 615
Forster, Robert, 38, 71, 116, 122, 153, 163, 259, 268, 352–353, 361, 423, 463, 482, 522, 540, 603, 608
Forsythe, William, 142, 162–163, 193, 416, 451, 459, 482, 516, 533
Foster, Jodie, 35, 208, 217, 220, 269, 273, 309, 363, 497, 505–506, 547, 553, 556
Foster, Meg, 34, 46, 61, 94, 163, 225, 285, 300, 302, 329–330, 359, 408, 415, 443, 459, 505, 532, 567, 571–572, 584, 622
Fox, Edward, 51, 214, 283, 304, 392, 470, 498, 501
Franciosa, Anthony, 2, 34, 139, 148, 150, 172, 231
Francis, Anne, 77, 172, 360, 437, 523
Francis, Freddie, 79, 91, 138, 166, 176, 362, 520, 581, 599
Franciscus, James, 85, 118, 217, 239
Franco, Jesús, 22, 30, 32, 57, 67, 92, 95, 101, 104, 137, 139, 154–156, 164, 187–189, 195–196, 225, 259, 283, 295, 318, 339, 343–344, 352, 408, 463, 465–466, 478, 487, 494, 541, 600, 616, 635
Friedman, David F., 2–4, 6, 28–29, 36, 45, 72, 77, 79, 83, 93, 103, 139, 152, 166, 187, 197, 238, 246, 267, 283, 309, 341, 345, 349, 359, 372, 374, 380, 385, 390, 406, 424, 429, 440, 452, 457, 465, 488, 494, 524, 529, 564, 580
Frost, Lee, 4, 56, 73, 98, 106, 152, 156, 165, 169, 341, 434, 466, 492, 634
Fruet, William, 44, 69, 224, 313, 489, 524, 611
Fulci, Lucio, 7, 55, 82, 96, 119, 130, 134, 170–171, 227, 274, 296, 352, 381, 393, 412, 485, 493, 606, 635–636
Fuller, Sam, 18, 51, 85, 146, 394, 499, 512, 531, 537, 595, 632
Funicello, Annette, 34, 255

Gabor, Zsa Zsa, 47, 67, 219, 299, 373, 387, 397, 516
Gabrielle, Monique, 17, 22, 33, 49, 59, 70, 98, 150, 184, 191, 201, 268, 273, 293, 343, 379, 401, 403, 406, 425, 463, 474, 487–488, 507, 582, 593, 612, 632
Gale, David, 76, 79, 207, 247, 454, 484, 551, 624
Gallagher, Peter, 86, 174, 264, 282, 327, 350, 378, 432
Galligan, Zach, 94, 243, 281, 377, 405, 444, 467, 475, 609, 611, 634
Garcia, Andy, 141, 181, 302
Gardner, Ava, 413, 420
Garfield, Alan. See Goorvitz, Allan
Garfunkel, Art, 37, 75, 504, 591
Garland, Beverly, 165, 247, 473, 529, 547
Garr, Teri, 7, 167, 188, 207, 255, 370, 372, 409, 416, 624
Garrett, Leif, 38, 102, 160, 236, 311, 346, 417, 421, 496, 498, 510, 525, 572, 607
Garris, Mick, 16, 115, 126, 212, 267, 444, 515, 528
Gavin, Erica, 186, 536, 605
Gayle, Monica, 187, 252, 341, 389, 479, 533, 536, 551–552, 619
Gazzara, Ben, 91, 119–120, 286, 314, 467, 478, 554
Geary, Anthony, 122, 134, 165, 263, 304, 396, 400, 425, 592
Gemser, Laura, 30, 46, 48, 55–56, 85, 87, 123, 183–185, 187, 196, 341, 363, 375, 422, 449, 582, 584, 627, 636
Geoffreys, Stephen, 29, 99, 220, 222, 257, 377, 403
George, Christopher, 23, 97, 153, 159, 165, 186, 193, 227, 282, 377, 430
Gere, Richard, 122, 205
Gershuny, Theodore, 198, 310, 542
Gibson, Mel, 53, 215, 330, 347, 407, 517
Gidley, Pamela, 68, 102, 165, 176, 220, 325, 496, 570, 589
Gielgud, John, 29, 87, 90, 104, 198, 215, 218, 334, 342, 443, 503
Gillis, Jamie, 13, 155, 172–173, 204, 282, 396, 401, 423, 592, 632
Ginty, Robert, 2, 10, 75, 113, 193, 253, 338, 370, 417, 442, 571, 591, 603, 609, 617, 626
Glenn, Scott, 22, 25, 33–34, 100, 193, 204, 280, 309, 377, 389, 423, 432, 496, 500, 506, 513
Glickenhaus, James, 193, 360, 443, 498, 513, 518
Glover, Bruce, 49, 51, 56, 97, 104, 116, 231, 263, 280, 290, 312, 436, 540, 607, 609
Glover, Crispin, 29, 35, 101, 170, 189, 221, 273, 336, 385, 441, 467, 475, 590, 619
Glover, Danny, 23, 281, 330, 438, 450
Glover, John, 25, 105, 179, 191, 204, 244, 291, 324, 358, 362, 470, 488, 519, 614
Godard, Jean-Luc, 27, 120, 228, 316, 377, 473, 550–551, 579, 612
Goddard, Paulette, 509, 595
Gooding, Cuba, Jr., 76, 235, 267, 306, 416
Goorvitz, Allan (Alan Garfield), 162
Goldberg, Whoopi, 200, 229, 389, 419, 432, 530–531
Goldblum, Jeff, 5, 150–151, 178, 201, 212, 263, 292, 308, 329, 370, 389, 459, 524, 536, 564, 582, 602
Goodman, John, 15, 26, 39, 107, 212, 359, 451, 464
Gorcey, Leo, 23, 75, 125, 142, 260, 297, 411, 567, 621
Gordon, Bert I., 49, 97, 141, 213, 270, 293, 330, 482, 624
Gordon, Leo, 33, 72, 96, 119, 206, 246, 266, 270, 272, 282, 344, 354, 383, 466, 482–483
Gordon, Ruth, 24, 169, 253, 303, 360, 379, 485, 606
Gordon, Stuart, 28, 72, 139, 169, 216, 223, 240, 270, 287, 345, 431, 454, 471
Gorshin, Frank, 47, 147, 248, 269, 364–365, 376, 455, 540, 548, 594, 598, 615
Gortner, Marjoe, 19, 70, 259, 307, 356, 360, 438, 546, 605
Gottfried, Gilbert, 6, 47, 171, 264, 392, 507
Gough, Michael, 40–41, 271, 274, 362–363, 405, 492, 577
Graham, Gerrit, 24, 70, 104–105, 107, 243, 265, 269, 297, 326, 357, 389, 429, 453, 524, 563, 587, 598, 607
Grant, Hugh, 54, 323, 509
Grant, Lee, 37, 52, 60, 86, 152, 605
Grant, Richard E., 77, 278, 609
Graver, Gary, 22, 31, 36, 64, 127, 148, 163, 167, 186, 191, 203, 240, 252, 300, 363, 366, 368, 377, 380, 392, 411–412, 421, 474, 479, 502, 564, 584, 608
Graves, Peter, 4, 9, 50, 147, 209, 347, 362, 407, 435, 439, 560, 622
Green, Pamela, 386, 388
Greene, Lorne, 42, 119, 507
Greenwood, Bruce, 24, 349, 493, 542
Grefe, William, 97, 139, 285, 313, 358, 388, 484
Grier, Pam, 1, 14, 27, 36, 49–50, 53, 58, 82, 109, 113–114, 120, 176, 216–217, 221–222, 229, 241, 266, 334, 376, 413, 419, 437, 500, 519, 528, 604, 627
Griffith, Melanie, 10, 71, 102, 199, 201, 227, 253, 291, 305, 419, 469, 519, 594
Griffith, Charles B., 178, 213, 230, 336, 516, 550, 625
Gross, Jerry, 7, 160, 197, 202, 233, 288, 424, 499, 520, 533, 558, 616
Guest, Christopher, 30, 51, 150, 336, 440, 461, 569

Gulager, Clu, 214, 262, 266, 280, 288, 331, 397, 409, 440, 447, 462, 555, 559, 562, 596, 622

Hackman, Gene, 84, 108, 189, 280, 347, 419, 439, 449, 466, 506, 526, 544, 561, 591
Hagen, Ross, 3, 12, 21, 27, 32, 64, 116, 159, 163, 217, 235, 356, 362, 427, 530, 609
Haggerty, Dan, 100, 102, 104, 107, 182, 317, 346, 368, 402, 430, 518, 543
Haig, Sid, 7, 49–50, 58, 73, 97, 101, 113, 116, 147, 213, 217, 228, 236, 300, 317, 431, 433, 483, 594, 609, 625–626
Haim, Corey, 68, 111, 174, 199, 207, 340, 438, 507, 610
Haji, 187, 239, 283, 314, 378, 545
Hall, Anthony Michael, 180, 236, 248, 292, 417, 612
Hall, Arch, Jr., 105
Hall, Arch, Sr., 105, 571
Hall, Huntz, 23, 31, 75, 125, 132, 142, 188, 227, 260, 307, 350, 411, 489, 567
Halperin, Victor, 84, 389, 465, 578
Hamill, Mark, 41, 51, 57, 70, 80, 121, 178, 196, 247, 462, 480, 507, 515, 574
Hamilton, George, 124, 147, 171, 189, 223, 251, 299, 404, 495, 574, 605, 615
Hamilton, Jane (Veronica Hart), 35, 44, 67, 110, 149, 153, 155, 282, 297, 436, 475, 495, 512, 539, 619, 622
Hamilton, Linda, 43, 58, 103, 316, 370, 552, 561
Hamilton, Margaret, 23, 79, 633
Hanks, Tom, 33, 49, 83, 140, 173, 303, 360, 450, 526, 553
Hanson, Curtis, 28, 36, 44, 103, 250, 335, 340, 467, 507
Harlin, Renny, 5, 73, 110, 162, 397, 440–441
Harrington, Curtis, 31, 130, 271, 314, 359
Harris, Fox, 12, 27, 137, 151, 166, 249, 268, 382, 427, 460, 505, 561–562, 609
Harris, James B., 72, 106, 121, 199, 314, 337, 559
Harris, Julie, 136, 269, 425, 526, 633
Harris, Richard, 145, 263, 322, 350, 357, 423, 461, 507, 584
Harrison, George, 34, 208, 278, 330, 376, 388, 499, 580, 627
Harrison, Richard, 14, 100, 137, 265, 294, 331, 361, 363, 489, 561
Harry, Deborah, 70, 142, 215, 291, 370, 553, 596, 603
Hart, Veronica. See Hamilton, Jane
Hatcher, Teri, 51, 77, 337, 555
Hauer, Rutger, 48, 61, 65, 79, 82, 100, 143, 180, 189, 200, 210, 265, 322, 396, 405, 415, 422, 526, 546, 608, 612
Hauser, Ken "Wings", 28, 42, 44, 84, 94, 113, 144, 146, 192, 218, 255, 269, 272, 304, 313, 321, 337, 356, 367, 382, 396, 405, 417, 419, 454, 505, 537, 570, 579, 602, 610, 620, 622
Hawkes, Steve, 63, 556
Hawkins, Screamin' Jay, 9, 18–19, 385, 394, 450, 591
Hayes, Allison, 123, 247, 345
Hayes, Isaac, 2, 122, 144, 239, 245, 285, 402, 437, 440, 470, 498, 571, 586, 610
Hayworth, Rita, 62, 172, 322, 370, 388, 413–414, 469, 520, 630
Heard, John, 7, 49, 60, 107, 131, 235, 257, 417, 419, 450, 494, 577, 604
Heatherton, Joey, 128, 251, 426
Heavener, David, 323, 416, 440, 450, 590
Hedaya, Dan, 5, 66, 72, 116, 185, 279, 303, 419, 422, 573, 623
Heflin, Van, 242, 410, 477, 622
Hellman, Monte, 34, 51, 104, 106, 112, 204, 207, 211, 246, 255, 282, 312, 341, 423, 460, 466, 503, 506, 574, 591, 609
Hemingway, Margaux, 145, 171, 218, 288–289, 314, 335, 566
Hemingway, Mariel, 19, 123, 153, 292, 335, 528, 542, 544
Hemsley, Sherman, 12, 111, 230, 533
Hendry, Gloria, 2, 38, 55, 260, 483, 513
Henenlotter, Frank, 32, 40, 43, 68, 76, 130, 141, 182, 200, 218–219, 233, 270, 272, 276, 373, 375, 380, 390, 494, 496, 562
Henreid, Paul, 215, 353, 509, 522
Henriksen, Lance, 13, 74, 105, 115, 117, 144, 153, 192, 252, 266, 272, 302, 304, 319, 353, 390, 397, 404, 416, 431, 445, 482, 533, 544, 546, 561
Henry, Buck, 27, 140, 152, 178, 189, 257, 296, 334, 405, 432, 475
Herek, Stephen, 52, 126, 571
Herman, Pee-wee. See Reubens, Paul
Hershey, Barbara, 17, 33, 105, 147, 186, 257, 298, 314, 326, 421, 540
Herz, Michael, 109, 207, 216, 496, 527, 539, 579–580, 584, 607
Herzog, Werner, 8, 83, 112, 134, 189–190, 208, 405, 487, 616, 628
Hesseman, Howard, 17, 53, 111, 161, 211, 273, 299, 339, 383, 417, 441, 475, 510, 569, 587
Hickey, William, 74, 371, 389, 403, 446, 459, 476, 553, 573, 623
Hickox, Anthony, 224, 260, 337, 423, 462, 543, 609, 611
Hill, Jack, 13, 49–50, 86, 113, 129, 133, 217, 298, 373, 431, 436, 500, 520, 550, 576, 578, 627
Hill, Marianna, 181, 325, 356, 361, 572, 582
Hingle, Pat, 2, 40–41, 237, 244, 250, 302, 360, 406, 449, 518, 541, 629
Hippolyte, Gregory, 23, 71, 369, 401, 490, 495, 509, 535
Hitchcock, Alfred, 10, 46, 57, 163, 182, 214, 265, 281, 300, 322, 331, 337, 354, 360, 373, 405–407, 419, 421, 432, 454, 465, 474, 478, 497, 525, 527, 535, 547, 569, 575, 577–578, 585, 594, 602, 629, 631
Holland, Tom, 103, 110, 200, 222, 444, 487, 536, 559
Holm, Ian, 78, 174, 244, 274, 302, 309, 357, 387, 504
Holmes, John, 25, 173, 190, 197, 379, 401, 420, 557–558
Hong, James, 5, 52, 60, 62, 75, 86, 99, 104, 124, 173, 177, 203, 238, 303, 305, 323, 363, 369, 385, 404, 414, 425, 464, 497, 554–555, 591, 604, 611
Hooper, Tobe, 16, 70, 191, 220, 284, 292, 331, 352, 400, 462, 515, 526, 536, 553, 564
Hopkins, Anthony, 77, 156, 220, 279, 506, 583
Hopkins, Bo, 18, 49, 67, 75, 98, 102, 140–141, 205, 228, 290, 312, 329, 346, 356, 365, 377, 382, 396, 433, 439, 516, 549, 582, 619
Hopkins, Stephen, 68, 134, 263, 306, 397, 438
Hopper, Dennis, 18, 25–26, 35, 60, 62, 65, 69, 72, 101, 115, 130, 171, 194, 196, 209, 250, 255–256, 269, 273, 279, 287, 290, 300, 307, 310, 317, 325, 330–331, 384, 386, 391, 408, 415, 417, 420–421, 455–456, 466–467, 476–477, 524, 529, 534, 543–545, 558, 564, 580, 586, 590, 624, 634
Howard, Clint, 70, 73, 93, 102, 112, 122, 178, 221, 229, 240, 281, 330, 471, 507, 524, 555, 572, 629
Howard, Moe, 166, 170
Howard, Ron, 34, 83, 110, 112, 122, 128, 170, 178, 207, 240, 377, 401, 473, 526, 571, 602, 622
Howard, Shemp, 26, 342, 379
Howell, C. Thomas, 2, 130, 198, 265, 417, 423, 455–456, 463, 521, 560
Hoyt, John, 33, 50, 119, 214, 289, 340, 377, 420, 509, 530, 632
Hudson, Ernie, 9, 114, 127, 230, 237, 250, 279, 330, 404, 424, 523, 542, 582, 591, 620
Hudson, Rock, 17, 246, 281, 439, 471, 557, 575
Hung, Samo, 46, 174, 178, 184, 186, 371, 442, 534, 614, 636
Hunt, Helen, 157, 292, 394, 424, 443, 581, 590
Hunter, Tab, 28, 88, 136, 241, 245, 323, 342, 345, 412, 417, 420, 557
Hurt, William, 11, 71, 301, 597
Hussey, Olivia, 165, 188, 281, 296, 302, 324, 355, 444, 484
Huston, Angelica, 3, 91
Huston, John, 10, 41, 50, 104, 120, 156, 320, 371, 536, 623
Huston, Walter, 226, 319, 613
Hutton, Lauren, 201, 213, 245, 367, 410, 461, 529, 574, 605
Hutton, Timothy, 136, 281, 347, 559, 636

Ice Cube, 76, 97, 235, 583
Ice-T, 329, 465, 546, 555, 583
Ireland, Jill, 29, 101, 150, 235, 259, 307, 361, 381, 466, 519
Ireland, John, 85, 141, 153, 198, 226, 235, 247, 250, 284, 341, 363–364, 406, 412, 489, 515, 531, 543, 572, 576, 583, 611, 613
Ireland, Kathy, 12, 305, 370, 372, 389, 439
Irons, Jeremy, 146, 309
Ironside, Michael, 19, 57, 116, 127, 145, 157, 175, 193, 214, 235, 246, 259, 313, 355, 360, 367, 380, 391–392, 394, 423, 442, 457, 484, 488, 509, 523, 546, 548, 578, 599, 605–606, 610
Isaak, Chris, 357, 506, 589

Jackson, Donald G., 258
Jackson, Michael, 12, 91, 149, 182, 299, 364, 366, 460, 539, 625
Jackson, Peter, 37, 142, 201, 257, 500
Jackson, Samuel L., 152, 192, 239, 248, 304, 308, 389, 423, 445, 503, 586
Jagger, Dean, 46, 81, 111, 153, 191, 250, 296, 320, 465, 470
Jagger, Mick, 83, 220, 229, 269, 277, 391, 477
James, Brion, 24, 28, 57, 79, 86, 102, 121, 125, 135, 146, 166, 185, 210, 223, 225, 255, 272, 372, 382, 391, 396, 418, 432, 457, 484, 504, 511, 522, 532, 537, 539, 555, 574, 592, 623
James, Steve, 19, 32, 80, 153, 193, 262, 268, 285, 354, 360, 432, 437, 447, 518, 537, 576, 603, 610, 612
Jarmusch, Jim, 304, 308, 329, 385, 401, 468, 515, 534
Jennings, Claudia, 46, 67, 196, 199, 227–228, 242, 245, 305, 343, 502, 510, 532, 586, 595
Jeremy, Ron, 62, 86, 142, 204, 230, 277, 566, 599
Jett, Joan, 176, 333, 555, 598, 611
Johnson, Ben, 23, 34, 101–102, 163, 228, 241, 330, 450, 455, 475, 564, 619
Johnson, Don, 97, 122, 142, 183, 246, 253, 273, 348, 463, 554, 634
Johnson, Richard, 7, 81, 95, 261, 475, 501, 523, 527, 582, 589, 614, 623
Johnson, Tor, 10–11, 20, 78, 95, 138, 180, 255, 278, 305, 400, 413, 457
Jones, Amy, 121, 228, 343, 516
Jones, Carolyn, 3, 33, 50, 166, 257, 499
Jones, Grace, 117, 145, 240, 281, 505, 534, 545, 599, 603
Jones, James Earl, 14, 17, 46, 67, 85, 108, 110, 185, 192, 244, 280, 302, 364, 423, 462, 521, 562, 589
Jones, L. Q., 83, 199, 250, 280, 339, 360, 423, 467, 574, 617, 619, 623
Jones, Tommy Lee, 52, 58, 68, 240, 299, 302, 389, 417, 419, 473, 594
Jordan, Marsha, 109, 114, 165, 168, 262, 275, 326–327, 382, 408, 452, 517, 547–548, 550, 576, 580
Jovovich, Milla, 68, 141
Julia, Raul, 3, 188, 219, 418, 474, 537

Kahn, Madeline, 111, 263, 508, 512, 618, 630
Kaitan, Elizabeth, 8, 29, 45, 156, 166, 251, 260, 293, 390, 403, 473, 483, 487, 506, 513, 527, 572, 594, 602, 604
Kane, Carol, 4, 86, 189, 209, 303, 380, 420, 440, 488, 490, 557, 582, 611, 615
Kaplan, Jonathan, 36, 149, 242, 280, 370, 395, 418, 429, 443, 458, 473, 512, 540, 586, 597, 617
Kapture, Mitzi, 21, 274, 331, 599
Karen, James, 104, 130, 175, 225, 233, 251, 261, 462, 575, 593, 622
Karloff, Boris, 13, 27, 44–45, 97, 99, 114, 129, 133, 160, 176, 241, 249, 294, 317, 373, 384, 399, 409, 421, 451, 506, 554, 571, 578, 582, 595
Kartalian, Buck, 2, 247, 355, 432, 560
Kasem, Casey, 521, 537, 591
Katon, Rosanne, 70, 102, 111, 345, 382, 550, 634
Katt, William, 33, 52, 274, 324, 387, 420, 467, 535, 576, 617
Katzman, Sam, 5–6, 30, 40, 49, 79, 81, 92, 98, 176, 183, 195, 199, 216, 237, 302, 307, 317, 338, 340, 384, 488, 492, 497, 509, 514, 573, 615, 618, 625, 632
Kaufman, Andy, 382, 519
Kaufman, Lloyd, 41, 109, 129, 207, 216, 240, 303, 343, 407, 472, 482, 496, 527, 539, 542, 579–580, 584, 607
Keach, Stacy, 15, 41, 70, 79, 85, 102, 109, 163, 185, 190, 241, 300, 302, 339, 365, 404, 461, 538, 543, 545, 582, 598, 609
Keaton, Michael, 40–41, 44, 110, 401, 419
Keeter, Worth, 98, 182, 267, 273, 321–322, 414, 471, 517, 554, 582
Keitel, Harvey, 37, 68, 121, 134, 150, 193, 205, 256, 289, 326, 361, 377, 391, 408, 433, 445, 460, 467, 529, 541, 556, 565–566, 590–591, 618, 623, 631
Keith, David, 15, 39, 130, 205–206, 225, 256, 273, 291, 331, 339, 356, 386, 449, 470, 567, 591, 617
Kellerman, Sally, 14, 73–74, 79, 171, 175, 200, 217, 310, 334, 361, 369, 492, 559
Kelley, DeForest, 201, 530–531
Kelly, Jim, 54–55, 59, 104, 148, 186, 238, 273, 362, 411, 552, 556, 571
Kelly, Sharon, 73, 152, 211, 283, 289, 481, 488, 512
Kemp, Gary, 315, 320
Kennedy, Arthur, 29, 38, 78, 368, 439, 452, 499, 622
Kennedy, George, 26, 72, 74, 76, 84, 122, 124, 153, 155, 175, 189, 250, 265, 308, 360–361, 368–369, 387, 396, 450, 453, 482, 489, 531, 563, 596, 607
Kennedy, Jayne, 122, 204, 245, 382
Kennedy, Leon Isaac, 70, 204, 269, 319, 339, 361, 424–425, 511, 577
Kensit, Patsy, 1, 54, 224, 312, 330, 574, 587
Kerwin, William, 6, 39, 45, 72, 97, 238, 285, 337, 388, 488, 519, 541, 548, 556
Keys, Irwin, 5
Kidder, Margot, 163, 265, 370–371, 403, 544
Kier, Udo, 188–189, 316, 534
Kikoine, Gerard, 84, 218, 358
Kilmer, Val, 170, 315, 381, 454, 577, 586, 622
Kincaid, Tim, 36, 79, 185, 382, 391, 408, 471, 502, 632
King, Perry, 108, 128, 164, 335, 339, 351, 489, 550, 620
King, Stephen, 97, 103, 106, 124, 129, 136, 140, 147, 190, 206, 238, 284, 296, 302, 327, 352, 360, 369, 391, 426–427, 463, 477, 500, 507, 515, 519, 528, 532, 553, 576
King, Zalman, 70, 138, 185, 403, 422, 457, 463, 468, 505, 511, 584, 591, 619–620, 633–634
Kinmont, Kathleen, 28, 79, 107, 205, 220, 248, 251, 365, 395, 400, 429, 473, 477, 487, 517, 534, 548
Kinski, Klaus, 8, 21, 38, 43, 54, 82–83, 112–113, 116, 122–123, 131, 165, 167, 171, 193, 204, 207–209, 213, 216, 226, 228, 240, 251, 262, 265, 287, 289, 316, 325, 332, 335, 341, 371, 392, 414, 419, 423, 433, 439, 444, 447, 477, 479, 481, 484, 490–491, 503, 518, 520, 527, 529, 534–535, 565, 574, 581, 599, 628
Kirk, Tommy, 538
Kirkland, Sally, 46, 78, 89, 113, 171–172, 194, 200, 214, 228, 247, 254, 257, 264, 267, 269, 279, 291, 302, 343, 419, 432, 440, 545, 554, 580, 590, 617, 632
Kitaen, Tawny, 33, 128, 251, 290, 426, 617, 623
Kong, Jackie, 45, 63, 108, 287, 401, 442–443, 589, 593
Korman, Harvey, 12, 46, 131, 212, 263, 294, 337, 339, 380, 580
Kotto, Yaphet, 2, 36, 68, 107, 176, 193–194, 204, 220–221, 250, 277, 290, 303, 368, 374, 395, 439, 470, 477, 499, 561, 584, 586, 609, 616, 627
Krabbe, Jeroen, 217, 309, 336, 446, 470
Kristel, Sylvia, 28, 43, 49, 173, 184, 204, 238, 321, 359, 441–442, 456, 573
Kristofferson, Kris, 19, 52, 80, 108–109, 319, 325, 367, 391, 404, 415, 423, 585, 603

Kubrick, Stanley, 163, 224, 256, 313–314, 337, 346, 390, 482
Kwan, Nancy, 23, 121, 174, 217, 235, 325, 360, 395, 443, 608

La Rue, Al "Lash", 12, 98, 137, 252, 358, 432
Ladd, Cheryl, 107, 302, 335, 367, 434
Ladd, Diane, 60, 93, 104, 157, 214, 267, 318, 346, 497, 519, 528, 619, 629
Lahaie, Brigitte, 137, 195, 295, 398, 451
Lamas, Fernando, 72, 312, 411, 479
Lamas, Lorenzo, 72, 75, 107, 205, 241, 323, 400, 517, 551
Lambert, Christopher, 142, 216, 244, 246, 263, 280, 319, 439, 468, 541
Lambert, Mary, 174, 426–427, 505, 553, 594
Lancaster, Burt, 120, 192, 206, 415, 428, 521, 552, 589, 633
Lancaster, Stuart, 41, 45, 49, 180, 239, 337, 349, 354, 379, 491, 529, 545, 564, 619
Landau, Martin, 2, 15, 45, 56, 85, 132, 149, 180, 194, 206, 253, 320, 404–405, 419, 463, 477, 515, 523, 536, 549, 579, 582, 588
Landis, John, 17, 47, 69–70, 111, 115, 136, 289, 292, 310, 364, 389, 403, 444, 506, 515, 525–526, 528, 589
Landon, Laureen, 17, 27, 279, 297
Landon, Michael, 87, 236, 422
Lane, Andrew, 203, 236, 300, 338, 377, 398, 423, 489, 493, 599
Lane, Diane, 52, 319, 321, 383, 389, 417, 439, 476, 538
Lang, Fritz, 47, 50, 68, 86, 110–111, 120, 130, 157, 163, 166–167, 210, 225, 229, 250, 274, 334, 349, 352, 364, 368, 377, 447, 452, 485, 489, 505, 525, 563, 609, 626, 631, 633
Lange, Hope, 110, 150, 302, 397
Lange, Jessica, 15, 91
Langenkamp, Heather, 397, 502, 613
Lasser, Louise, 65, 97, 125, 218, 426, 475
Lassick, Sydney, 130, 151, 194, 225, 267, 374, 411, 413, 417, 420, 453, 506, 516
Laughlin, Tom, 53, 183, 323, 358, 491, 581, 583
Laughton, Charles, 90, 97, 279, 300, 400, 421, 505
Laurie, Piper, 165, 174, 463, 520, 582, 589
Law, John Phillip, 7, 12, 18, 22, 63, 113, 149, 321, 325, 343, 377, 402, 455, 502, 523, 539, 575
Le Mat, Paul, 15, 18, 94, 108, 178, 241, 303, 362, 377, 441, 446, 471, 491, 535, 623
Leary, Denis, 154, 246, 306, 390
Leary, Timothy, 44, 102, 200, 267, 276, 367, 402, 469, 475, 493, 502, 557, 587
Leder, Paul, 33, 71, 192, 209, 218, 278, 314, 372, 380, 383, 456, 511, 606
Lee, Brandon, 81, 127, 174, 320, 452, 504
Lee, Bronson, 19, 151
Lee, Bruce, 12, 20, 22, 46, 49, 81, 104–105, 123, 127, 135, 143, 148, 173–174, 186, 208, 243, 283, 320, 323, 356, 404, 461, 556, 566, 573
Lee, Christopher, 1–2, 10, 42, 48, 54, 92, 130, 132, 137, 157, 161, 172, 176, 191, 194, 196, 198, 221, 225, 233, 237, 244, 249, 261, 270, 276–277, 303, 305, 312, 323, 328, 347, 358, 363, 369, 381, 402–403, 412, 422, 426, 434, 447, 451, 453, 461, 463, 474, 478–479, 481, 486, 491–492, 498, 501–502, 523, 553, 560, 577, 582, 614
Lee, Sheryl, 34, 343, 589, 619, 624
Lee, Pamela Anderson. See Anderson, Pamela
Legend, Johnny, 41, 51–53, 79, 92, 116, 122, 130, 170, 197, 252, 260, 281, 300, 309, 356, 364, 373, 382, 419, 431, 437, 465, 482, 487, 494, 510, 514, 525, 530, 557–558
LeGros, James, 36, 41, 62, 176, 200, 212, 246, 328, 383, 427, 433, 453
Leguizamo, John, 162, 250, 401, 416, 537, 544, 616
Leigh, Barbara, 74, 106, 439, 493
Leigh, Jennifer Jason, 34, 51, 84, 194, 199, 210, 256, 265, 364, 477, 508–509, 629
Lemmon, Chris, 112, 206, 251, 308, 329, 572, 612
Lemmon, Jack, 45, 82, 104, 302
Lennon, John, 34, 91, 178, 197, 274, 277, 284, 303–304, 314, 335, 569, 577
Leno, Jay, 18, 114, 212, 611, 614
Lenz, Kay, 18, 151, 199, 201, 242, 255, 266, 274, 280, 361, 379, 422, 441, 538–539, 617
Lenzi, Umberto, 15, 29, 41, 80–81, 109, 155, 184, 194, 223, 230, 265, 295, 349, 351, 363, 421, 449, 466, 524, 539, 551, 612
Leone, Sergio, 115, 141, 207, 213, 228, 239, 383, 411, 437, 449, 493, 505, 518
Lester, Mark L., 70, 109, 116, 473, 504, 531, 540
Levey, William A., 251, 372, 510, 515, 613
Levy, Eugene, 237, 257, 525–526, 531
Lewis, Charlotte, 161, 192, 238, 335, 431, 511, 584
Lewis, Geoffrey, 24, 28, 163, 165, 171, 200, 327, 345–346, 383, 398, 413, 417, 433, 461–462, 479, 560, 573, 623
Lewis, Herschell Gordon (H. G. Lewis), 4, 6, 14, 57, 60, 63, 72, 80, 93, 121, 139, 167, 179, 200, 204, 227, 238, 258, 278, 287, 303, 308, 320, 337, 348, 370, 377, 386, 388, 390, 402, 435, 440, 443–444, 465, 480, 488, 492, 514, 533, 541, 556, 563, 569, 630
Lewis, Jerry, 2, 122, 152, 189, 226, 297, 310, 316, 333, 374, 403, 469, 485, 499, 512
Lewis, Juliette, 91, 309, 362, 389, 473
Lieberman, Jeff, 167, 308, 459
Lithgow, John, 5, 15, 110, 140, 147, 253, 341, 352, 363, 416, 451, 465, 480, 589, 591, 629
Lloyd, Christopher, 3, 5, 16, 23, 35, 289, 370, 389, 411, 419, 530, 541, 580, 608, 618
Loggia, Robert, 36, 45, 49, 101, 131, 235, 242, 289, 332, 404, 444, 459, 485, 580, 620
Lom, Herbert, 29, 38, 50, 58, 131, 147, 159, 259, 317, 323, 355, 357, 359, 362, 428, 436, 467, 474, 486, 494, 504, 511, 520, 560, 580, 593, 618
Lommell, Ulli, 51
Lords, Traci, 75, 108, 128, 156, 174, 199, 281, 290, 323, 380, 406, 427, 436, 454, 492, 502, 511, 567, 574, 576
Loring, Lisa, 3, 64, 148, 281
Lorre, Peter, 12, 95, 124, 201, 217, 318
Louise, Tina, 40, 191, 236, 260, 304, 333, 361, 408, 505
Lovitz, Jon, 49, 118, 326, 370, 372, 384, 389
Lowe, Chad, 26, 264, 586
Lowe, Rob, 36, 109, 135, 273, 358, 417, 528, 547, 611, 631
Lowry, Lynn, 41, 204, 486, 542
Lucas, George, 9, 18, 91, 159, 191, 232, 256, 277, 287, 321, 377, 400, 437, 462–463, 622, 632
Lugosi, Bela, 25, 75, 77, 180, 279, 344, 366, 381, 409, 427, 448, 461, 465, 497, 499, 521, 568, 601, 616
Luke, Keye, 6, 11, 99–100, 143, 243–244, 305, 320, 340
Lumley, Joanna, 32, 131, 481, 580
Lundgren, Dolph, 28, 122, 359, 457, 472, 504, 596, 603
Lupino, Ida, 47, 265, 321, 346, 467, 621
Lustig, William, 27, 266, 352–353, 459, 584, 586, 603
Lynch, David, 69, 75, 86, 135, 176, 233, 273–274, 278, 287, 386, 413, 458, 485, 589, 619
Lynch, Richard, 8, 14, 36, 38–39, 42, 131, 149, 153, 172, 213, 215, 238, 251, 264, 293, 325, 360, 363, 367, 391, 395, 404, 411, 447, 455, 483–484, 504, 531, 540, 579, 581
Lynn, Ginger. See Allen, Ginger Lynn

Macchio, Ralph, 127, 417, 598
MacDowell, Andie, 36, 244, 278
MacLachlan, Kyle, 170, 176, 212, 262, 475, 583, 589, 615
MacLaine, Shirley, 90, 152, 417, 585
Macnee, Patrick, 31–32, 67, 106, 130, 318, 337, 357, 412, 462, 496, 501–502, 544, 549, 569, 572, 581, 611
Madigan, Amy, 136, 140, 343, 538
Madonna, 13, 71, 75, 98, 134, 151, 157, 161, 165, 207, 215, 319, 348, 353, 497, 499, 505, 512, 574, 587, 606
Madsen, Michael, 49, 142, 170, 229, 275, 315, 460, 495, 566, 585, 609
Madsen, Virginia, 88, 94, 109, 123, 176, 240, 263, 274, 342, 443, 512, 635
Magee, Patrick, 55, 64, 76, 118, 251, 355, 436, 488, 509, 515, 518, 559
Mahon, Barry, 4, 43, 98, 123, 159, 197, 239, 343, 388, 407, 419, 443, 480, 494, 499, 519, 604, 627
Mahoney, Jock, 35, 87, 222, 476, 574
Mako, 27, 49, 66, 85, 97, 100, 117, 149, 194, 200, 263, 295, 305, 312, 320, 325, 419, 425, 437, 467, 470, 505–506, 563, 594
Malden, Karl, 12, 33, 64, 281, 381
Malkovich, John, 256, 291, 302, 349, 409, 497
Mansfield, Jayne, 23, 52, 68, 83, 114, 168, 202, 258, 269, 297, 309, 342, 350, 421, 496, 501, 577, 595, 612–613, 621
Marin, Cheech, 73, 101–102, 179, 198, 200, 230, 367, 475, 533, 567, 598
Marins, Jose Mojica, 29, 113, 249, 536, 569
Marks, Harrison, 386, 388, 403
Mars, Kenneth, 229, 237, 440, 460, 497, 630
Marshall, James, 235, 394, 589
Marshall, William, 1, 17, 74, 154, 242, 270, 521, 589
Martin, Andrea, 73, 289, 475, 557
Martin, D'Urville, 51, 55, 59, 61, 73–74, 148, 168, 205, 249, 260, 329, 500, 521
Martin, Dean, 75, 90, 152, 371, 373–374, 469, 485, 499, 580
Martin, Steve, 212, 311, 336, 355, 380, 496
Martin, Strother, 77, 242, 598, 604, 619
Marvin, Lee, 50–51, 85, 153, 207, 242, 246, 345, 372, 433, 439, 496, 504, 536, 577
Mason, James, 37, 50, 157, 203, 214, 257, 302, 311, 337, 351, 396, 405, 420, 422, 431, 494, 630
Mastorakis, Nico, 61, 66–67, 235, 240, 265, 291, 394, 396, 561, 622, 634
Mathis, Samantha, 213, 446, 544
Mature, Victor, 154, 255, 469, 479, 555
Mawra, Joseph P., 206, 234, 409, 424
McCalla, Irish, 208, 501
McCarthy, Kevin, 2, 138, 177, 189, 199, 201, 205, 232, 257, 272, 289, 294, 309, 359, 366, 369, 385, 422, 469, 514, 589, 592
McCartney, Paul, 33, 235
McClure, Doug, 90, 204, 206, 268, 336, 410, 514, 555
McDowall, Roddy, 12, 21, 93, 96, 117, 120, 129, 132, 144, 146, 164, 168, 172, 178, 222, 238, 242, 255, 311, 346, 352, 361–362, 369, 439, 498
McDowell, Malcolm, 69, 80, 85, 87, 99, 109, 117, 165, 193, 229, 282, 291, 302, 332, 363, 377, 409, 422, 432, 530, 555, 622
McGill, Everett, 176, 282, 302, 331, 425, 448, 507, 589
McIntire, John, 110, 429
McMillan, Kenneth, 94, 97, 176, 280
McNaughton, John, 23, 74, 234, 261, 346
McQueen, Chad, 149, 206, 357, 374, 395, 437, 495
Meat Loaf, 468, 485, 611
Meeker, Ralph, 15, 50, 159, 304, 368, 623
Meredith, Burgess, 109, 141, 238, 251, 274, 311, 316, 358, 400, 403, 409, 472, 480, 592, 613
Merrill, Gary, 286, 566, 626
Metzger, Radley, 4, 65, 88, 96, 175, 188, 296, 331, 486, 566
Meyer, Eve, 116, 239, 302
Meyer, Russ, 4, 6, 17, 45, 59, 102, 116, 130, 144, 168, 173, 187, 189, 205, 227, 239, 242, 250, 257, 283–285, 287, 302, 318, 339–340, 349, 354, 365, 372, 374, 378–379, 406, 412, 421, 435, 529, 545, 549, 576, 597, 605, 620
Mikels, Ted V., 7, 89, 141, 163, 168, 287, 378, 412, 415, 539, 560, 608, 636
Milano, Alyssa, 20, 116, 119, 171, 615
Milius, John, 25, 52, 110, 159, 163, 189, 193, 252, 348, 378, 403, 455
Milland, Ray, 31, 58, 81, 97, 161, 341, 357, 368, 489, 513, 529, 555
Miller, Barry, 326, 424, 429, 482
Miller, Dick, 7, 17, 20–21, 27, 41, 72, 83, 89, 92, 105, 121, 130, 138, 191–193, 198, 229, 231, 240, 244, 247, 251, 268, 289, 298, 331, 359, 370–371, 378–379, 389, 395, 398, 403, 443, 448, 476, 512, 523, 540, 543, 553, 559, 561, 574–575, 582, 586, 589, 594, 597, 603, 606, 617, 632
Miller, Jason, 192, 261, 333, 340, 404, 516, 580
Milligan, Andy, 93, 146, 152, 211, 376, 388, 612
Mimieux, Yvette, 77, 153, 203, 266, 299, 417, 512, 571, 615
Mitchell, Cameron, 3, 31, 38, 56, 64, 85–86, 95, 113, 127, 130–131, 145, 150, 153–154, 168, 186, 188, 219, 250, 265, 268, 297, 315, 344, 351, 362–363, 368, 370, 374, 395, 404, 409, 426, 440, 444, 450, 454, 463, 466, 512–513, 523, 545, 562–564, 576, 582–583, 603, 605
Mitchell, Duke, 192, 499
Mitchell, Gordon, 14, 27, 29, 49, 63, 185, 204, 207, 218–219, 286, 368, 414, 442, 477, 500, 512, 617
Mitchum, Christopher, 22, 137, 148, 192, 195, 533, 587
Mitchum, Jim, 58, 113, 200, 268, 356, 363, 375, 591
Mitchum, Robert, 8, 17, 20, 46, 51, 58, 68, 91, 198, 359, 488–489, 608, 621–622, 626, 630
Moody, Titus, 164, 325, 431, 540, 571
Moore, Demi, 229, 377, 405, 494
Moore, Melissa, 14, 22, 86, 252, 293, 315, 415, 460, 484, 487, 502, 521, 599, 602
Moore, Roger, 90, 131, 203, 300, 334, 336, 392, 408, 478, 504, 538, 603, 614
Moore, Rudy Ray, 32, 46, 160, 168, 279, 328, 374, 424, 426, 545
Moranis, Rick, 212, 230, 270, 336, 523, 534, 538, 620
Moreland, Mantan, 99, 125, 253, 328, 344, 471, 554, 632
Morgan, Chesty, 16, 145, 171, 285, 310, 492
Moriarty, Cathy, 85, 359, 391, 617
Morita, Pat, 12, 31, 33, 114, 170, 189, 191, 270, 303, 329, 394, 401, 512
Morris, Garrett, 94, 98, 103, 118, 120, 178, 294, 378, 494, 540, 593
Morrow, Jeff, 208, 212, 470
Morrow, Vic, 150, 164, 236, 350, 402–403, 552, 558, 589
Motorhead, 9, 124, 151, 179, 253, 260
Moyle, Alan, 574
Mull, Martin, 37, 111, 132, 134, 198, 211, 213, 408, 432, 442, 459, 492, 557, 568
Mullavey, Greg, 67, 71, 97–98, 106, 372, 383, 606
Mundhra, Jag, 194, 285, 303, 323–324, 328, 395, 413, 415, 495, 585, 619
Munro, Caroline, 55, 170, 195, 325, 401, 513, 535
Murphy, Eddie, 24, 46–47, 97, 238, 268, 404, 456
Murray, Bill, 118, 180, 230, 245, 336, 339, 347, 361, 370, 488, 615
Murray, Don, 119, 127, 185, 231, 269, 271, 347, 424, 450, 486, 495, 532
Myles, Meg, 429, 481

Nader, George, 93, 275, 509
Nalder, Reggie, 173, 331, 351, 354, 493
Namath, Joe, 97, 325
Nance, Jack, 39, 61, 69, 115, 176, 231, 249, 274, 341, 361, 378, 589, 618–619
Napier, Charles, 69–72, 98, 102, 108, 151, 173, 187, 194, 223, 225, 244, 250, 266, 270, 275, 286–287, 290, 311, 324, 338, 353, 357, 362, 364, 389, 402, 411, 452, 506–507, 511, 518–519, 545, 572, 607
Naschy, Paul, 43, 123, 126, 160, 173, 192, 250, 278, 289, 316, 356, 601, 617
Natividad, Kitten, 9, 24, 45, 180, 290, 385, 401, 552, 576, 597, 620
Naughton, David, 20, 70, 236, 273, 281–282, 311, 361, 366, 405, 418, 492, 514, 531, 619
Neeson, Liam, 136–137, 146, 264, 320, 363, 394, 482, 509
Neill, Sam, 19, 142, 221, 280, 291, 308, 362, 437, 509, 515, 597

Nelson, Ed, 72, 79, 145, 235, 272, 285, 435, 547, 559, 565
Nelson, Judd, 9, 61, 94, 135, 189, 198, 248, 392–393, 459
Nesmith, Michael, 255, 405, 460, 555, 574
Newman, Laraine, 18, 118, 292, 464, 587, 618, 623
Newmar, Julie, 151, 231, 280, 333, 343, 378, 407–408, 514, 538
Newton, Wayne, 5, 46, 135, 331
Nichols, Nichelle, 530, 544, 586
Nicholson, Jack, 34, 40, 80, 104–105, 111, 175, 208, 211, 233, 255, 288, 370, 411, 422, 466, 478, 496, 503, 506, 523, 540, 558, 572, 577, 591, 624–625
Nicolau, Ted, 29, 540
Nielsen, Brigitte, 47, 98, 112, 172, 370, 403, 457, 472
Nielsen, Leslie, 20, 97, 100, 136, 387, 402, 423, 434, 442, 460, 521, 546, 605, 629
Nimoy, Leonard, 37, 150, 303, 419, 530–531, 635
Nolte, Nick, 24, 91, 193, 463, 574, 618
Norris, Chuck, 23, 73, 76, 78, 81, 89, 113, 153, 194, 205, 207, 214, 239, 262, 266, 293, 339, 369, 408, 461, 505, 507, 513, 540, 607, 633
North, Sheree, 269, 353, 416, 559, 566
Nouri, Michael, 57, 91, 262, 288, 404, 442, 444

O'Bannon, Dan, 69, 292, 331, 460, 462, 578
O'Hara, Catherine, 7, 44, 162, 405, 454, 471, 573
O'Neal, Griffin, 26, 29, 103, 188, 232, 395, 629
O'Neal, Ron, 43, 81, 148, 214, 262, 266, 358, 363, 455, 461, 544, 598
O'Neal, Ryan, 100, 579
O'Quinn, Terry, 20, 60–61, 215, 335, 430, 471, 507, 523, 532, 632
O'Toole, Peter, 87, 123, 264, 352, 431, 438, 451, 475, 483, 536, 540, 544, 547
Oates, Warren, 37, 69, 80, 104, 112, 163, 165, 176, 246, 265, 403, 467, 503, 515, 526, 591, 609, 619
Oland, Warner, 44, 99, 139, 176, 384, 461
Oldman, Gary, 77, 101, 125, 191, 302, 442, 473, 505, 580, 586
Oliver, Susan, 55, 100, 243, 530
Ontkean, Michael, 14, 234, 423, 589, 616, 624
Orbach, Jerry, 147, 153, 225, 236, 347, 416–417, 439, 580, 594, 596
Ormond, Ron, 137, 192, 216, 233, 257, 300, 310, 414, 416, 432, 617
Oswald, Gerd, 83, 318, 416
Owensby, Earl, 1, 82, 98, 100, 140, 168, 267, 273, 283, 322, 352, 414, 432, 488, 554

Pacino, Al, 127, 161, 485
Pacula, Joanna, 57, 71, 147, 151, 189, 194, 318, 506, 594, 609
Page, Betty, 71, 193, 234, 386, 471, 539, 557, 601
Palance, Jack, 7, 12, 15, 17, 22, 38, 40–41, 55, 101, 112, 117, 120–121, 132, 156, 191, 212, 217, 236, 240–241, 260, 284, 298, 312, 337–338, 360, 374, 410–411, 416, 420, 436, 442, 466, 478, 489, 491, 507, 518, 551, 555, 566, 589, 596, 610
Pare, Michael, 134
Parker, Sarah Jessica, 180, 207, 211, 267, 270, 539
Pataki, Michael, 107, 148, 152, 164, 235, 248, 263, 268, 325, 430, 459, 472, 479, 548–549, 593, 602
Patinkin, Mandy, 12, 162, 324, 360, 440
Patrick, Robert, 44, 72, 162, 171, 186, 194, 206, 225, 268, 547, 561, 609, 611
Patton, Will, 7, 113, 291, 310, 470, 473, 503, 576, 601, 619
Paxton, Bill, 13, 34, 75–76, 116, 135, 211, 225, 285, 325, 375, 377, 390, 394, 411, 438, 515, 538, 561, 583, 586, 599, 612
Payne, John, 368
Peck, Gregory, 16, 91, 99, 302, 369, 371, 382, 421, 525
Penn & Teller, 240, 383, 425
Penn, Christopher, 29, 46, 225, 328, 371, 420, 476, 586, 620
Penn, Sean, 115, 199, 287, 460, 499
Perkins, Anthony, 125, 139, 143, 154, 157, 180, 203, 213, 243, 272, 284, 291, 338, 344, 349, 444, 459, 509, 519, 560, 583, 623
Perkins, Millie, 29, 112, 254, 321, 391, 466, 503, 512, 591, 625
Perlman, Ron, 43, 127, 171, 281, 389, 434, 448, 473, 491, 515, 615
Pesci, Joe, 35, 189, 239, 302, 330, 364, 389, 499
Peterson, Cassandra, 2, 9, 14, 37, 46, 77, 94, 101, 103, 179, 182, 204, 218, 245, 277, 400, 475, 507, 568, 590, 605, 625, 628
Peterson, Kristine, 70, 126, 144, 252, 344
Petrillo, Sammy, 77, 310, 499
Pettyjohn, Angelique, 53, 119, 130, 232, 257, 340, 378, 436, 460, 552, 625
Pfeiffer, Michelle, 17, 41, 241, 268, 292, 322, 357, 485, 624–625
Phillips, Mackenzie, 18, 236, 377
Phillips, Michelle, 28, 163, 294, 325, 355, 365, 483, 486
Phoenix, River, 193, 287, 291, 507, 528
Pickens, Slim, 73, 228–229, 255, 370, 403, 423, 430–431, 497, 617
Pierce, Charles B., 31, 72–73, 241, 254, 405, 541, 623
Pirro, Mark, 293, 383, 407, 435
Piscopo, Joe, 143, 505, 623
Pitt, Brad, 120, 132, 291, 304, 309, 566, 586
Place, Mary Kay, 309, 372, 377, 560
Pleasence, Donald, 15, 17, 19, 39, 54, 60, 65, 79, 84, 95, 105, 116, 122, 124, 129, 160, 162, 165–167, 172, 178, 219, 242, 245, 248, 250, 259, 274, 276, 302, 311, 367, 406, 409, 412, 414–415, 422, 428, 438, 440, 444–445, 467, 486, 496–497, 499, 518, 524, 551, 553, 559–560, 562, 576, 583, 600, 609–611, 615
Plummer, Amanda, 207, 220, 273, 303, 347, 391, 405, 443, 445, 518, 531
Plummer, Christopher, 16, 141, 161, 173, 175, 206, 230, 263, 291, 302, 331, 367, 443, 455, 507, 530, 600, 625
Polanski, Roman, 54, 104–105, 118, 129, 161, 207, 220, 250, 280, 431, 556, 563, 571
Pollak, Kevin, 88, 367, 465, 611
Pollard, Michael J., 17–18, 28, 162, 199, 250, 256, 281, 302, 329, 362, 378, 394, 402, 423, 466, 488–489, 511, 514, 526, 555, 601
Pop, Iggy, 128, 180, 253, 460, 471, 505
Post, Ted, 239, 250, 253, 279, 348, 479
Prentiss, Paula, 74, 82, 123, 615
Presley, Elvis, 329, 438, 452
Presley, Priscilla, 5, 387, 422
Price, Dennis, 37, 187, 283, 431–432, 487, 520, 600
Price, Vincent, 11, 35, 39, 42, 63, 75, 124, 141, 143, 174, 180–181, 188, 196, 219, 241, 256, 275–276, 299, 301, 328, 357, 364, 409, 441, 444, 485, 501, 518, 545, 552
Prince, 5, 10, 29, 40, 48, 77, 79, 82, 104, 108, 112, 127, 130, 158, 176, 181, 183, 209–210, 240, 314, 320, 324, 334, 336, 343, 348, 353, 369, 372, 401–402, 405, 409, 432, 435, 440, 446–447, 449, 451, 453, 470, 489, 493, 502, 509, 514, 518, 520–521, 523, 525–526, 531, 539, 572, 594, 601–602, 625
Prine, Andrew, 39, 98, 144–145, 182, 210, 367, 567, 599, 606
Prior, Ted A., 74, 251, 341
Prochnow, Jurgen, 71, 176, 206, 291, 309, 312, 314, 414, 422, 470, 494, 561, 589
Pryor, Richard, 3–4, 55, 68, 94, 177, 241, 243, 265, 304, 346, 380, 544–545, 610, 618, 625, 633
Pyun, Albert, 12, 26, 64, 77, 91, 132, 134, 151, 168, 310, 319, 391, 450

Quaid, Dennis, 27, 166, 175, 185, 240, 242, 288–289, 301, 339, 415, 491–492, 619
Quaid, Randy, 75, 217–218, 220, 357, 365, 381, 393, 409, 416, 421, 620, 629
Quarry, Robert, 12, 47, 116, 132, 191, 254, 289, 318, 321, 368, 371, 377, 427, 494, 502, 526, 558, 609, 629
Quigley, Linnea, 29, 31, 42, 47, 58, 102, 144, 162, 166, 169, 175, 196, 200, 240, 247, 268, 271, 289, 354, 381, 397, 399, 445–446, 462, 471, 484, 487, 494, 502, 506, 521, 533, 542, 583, 602, 604, 625, 633
Quinn, Anthony, 2, 7, 31, 38, 92, 126, 133–134, 139, 142, 147, 157, 224, 231, 251, 261, 279, 302, 324, 334, 349, 355, 371–372, 422, 475, 479, 483, 503, 508, 583, 615
Quinn, Francesco, 95, 267, 287, 439

Radner, Gilda, 254, 370
Railsback, Steve, 14, 69, 112, 144, 165, 187–188, 214, 260, 291, 331, 442, 448, 484–486, 540, 546, 577, 584, 622
Raimi, Sam, 27, 66, 70, 125, 136, 146, 180, 190, 252, 261, 287, 289, 305, 345, 353–354, 367, 378, 400, 449, 502, 525, 528, 570, 574
Raimi, Ted (Theodore), 65, 125, 136, 178, 180, 190, 205, 252, 292, 345, 488, 502, 511, 570
Rainone, Tom, 220, 247, 270, 391, 507, 514, 518–519
Rains, Claude, 22, 242, 261, 385, 406, 428, 430, 535, 567
Ramones, 9, 93, 221, 332, 403, 418, 427, 468, 509, 574
Ramsey, Anne, 24, 140, 144, 167, 239, 305, 313, 341, 389, 527
Randall, Dick, 122, 148, 170, 179, 188, 219, 336, 430, 499, 513, 621–622
Randel, Tony, 103, 258, 260, 290
Rasulala, Thalmus, 1, 4, 46, 73, 82–83, 120–121, 152, 221, 267, 323, 371–372, 393, 419, 622
Rathbone, Basil, 1, 31, 54, 274, 342, 380, 501, 553, 600
Ray, Aldo, 35, 51, 53, 65, 72, 98, 124, 138, 148, 169, 191–192, 211, 219, 235–236, 242–243, 254, 268, 312, 344, 370, 374, 395, 397, 444, 502–503, 530, 550, 563, 576, 606
Ray, Fred Olen, 12, 14, 22, 27, 36, 47, 53, 83, 94, 100, 115–116, 132, 139, 148, 151, 153–154, 163–164, 168, 180, 191, 200, 236, 254, 268, 287–288, 321, 335, 346, 368, 371, 377, 379, 387, 400, 427, 437, 479, 484, 487, 494, 502, 514, 518, 520, 526, 530, 532, 558, 561, 576, 600, 609, 625
Ray, Nicholas, 18, 50, 54, 74, 163, 166, 235, 247–248, 300, 304, 316, 319, 483
Reagan, Ronald, 23, 35, 71, 97, 116, 121, 201, 234, 255, 260, 269, 314, 316, 373, 465, 471–473, 528
Redd Kross, 157, 342
Redgrave, Michael, 119, 167, 322, 370, 489
Redgrave, Vanessa, 42, 68, 119, 378, 449, 518, 567, 577, 614
Reed, Lou, 19, 104, 198, 229, 253, 272, 300, 413, 471, 545, 574
Reed, Oliver, 5, 29, 51, 54, 64, 80, 92, 95, 109, 118, 127, 173, 197, 230, 233, 239, 242, 250, 265, 276, 280, 283, 304, 322, 334, 359, 369, 422, 431, 450, 463, 465, 491, 494, 511, 524, 576, 579, 582, 591
Reeves, Keanu, 33, 52–53, 77, 189, 220, 433, 467, 524
Reiner, Carl, 170, 200, 232, 297, 355, 409, 542
Reiser, Paul, 13, 47
Remar, James, 38, 61, 109, 118, 128, 143, 176, 193, 200, 287, 368, 402, 449, 553, 573, 610, 612
Reubens, Paul (Pee-wee Herman), 34, 41, 51–52, 69, 82, 101–102, 184, 211, 361, 420, 424, 573
Rey, Fernando, 22, 30–31, 54, 104, 117, 164, 189, 195, 238, 302, 332, 369, 390, 483, 529, 565, 579, 584, 605
Rhys-Davies, John, 60, 90, 132, 172, 207, 236, 287, 291, 305, 317, 336, 341, 467, 478, 515, 543, 551, 587, 597, 611
Rialson, Candice, 89, 101, 350, 426, 502, 540, 543, 623
Richardson, Jay, 12, 14, 36, 47, 100, 132, 200, 254, 268, 335, 356, 367, 371, 379, 393, 415, 509, 512, 558, 561, 574, 602, 623, 625
Richardson, Ralph, 12, 81, 104, 235, 244, 302, 409
Richardson, Sy, 35–36, 107, 114–115, 146, 160, 194, 196, 212, 235, 318, 385, 404, 426, 437, 460, 466, 505, 534, 537, 555, 567, 584, 607
Rickles, Don, 289
Riegert, Peter, 357, 389, 476, 503, 535, 565
Rifkin, Adam, 101, 135, 294, 392, 444, 553
Rigg, Diana, 29, 32, 366, 477, 518, 628
Robards, Jason, 58, 83, 133, 140, 174, 186, 280, 304, 362, 381, 411, 423, 519, 534, 583, 606
Robbins, Tim, 16, 186, 208, 220, 277, 300, 432, 500, 555, 580, 590
Roberts, Alan, 251, 309, 450, 475, 484, 632
Roberts, Eric, 17, 46, 65, 205, 210, 220, 253, 338, 341, 475–476, 491, 524, 528
Roberts, Julia, 210, 271, 432, 482, 515
Roberts, Tanya, 72, 87, 205, 214, 288–289, 328, 365, 395, 447, 450, 493, 500, 509, 590, 603, 636
Robinson, Andrew, 104, 112, 164, 200, 259, 440, 446, 566, 581
Roddenberry, Gene, 439, 530
Roebuck, Dan, 562
Rogers, Mimi, 83, 136, 143, 156, 170, 255, 263, 322, 453, 458, 538, 612
Rollin, Jean, 87, 140, 184, 198, 398–399, 451, 635
Rolph, Guy, 571
Romero, Cesar, 117, 211, 305, 340, 345, 347, 378, 508, 522, 573
Romero, George, 73, 141, 175, 211, 287, 339, 375–376, 399, 462, 486, 506, 524, 528, 553, 567
Rooney, Mickey, 33, 49, 174, 186, 191, 193, 297, 329, 336, 340, 353, 360, 366, 385, 461, 464, 507, 548, 572
Ross, Diana, 185, 299, 349, 625
Rossellini, Isabella, 69, 147, 331, 429, 456, 505, 579, 619
Rossi, Leo, 16, 60, 199, 266, 353, 370, 417, 458–459, 467
Rossitto, Angelo, 10–11, 16, 46, 75, 103, 196, 335, 347, 358, 409, 519, 568, 596
Roth, Tim, 120, 256, 381, 445, 460
Rothrock, Cynthia, 46, 104, 143, 194, 199, 271, 322, 357, 404, 450, 573
Rotsler, William, 235, 333, 354, 404, 537
Rotten, Johnny, 121, 242, 417, 505
Roundtree, Richard, 20–21, 38, 51, 63, 71, 101, 122, 145, 194, 203, 247, 286, 303, 315, 353, 368, 402, 411, 414, 421, 437, 497–498, 509, 555, 574, 614, 633
Rourke, Mickey, 22, 39, 71, 108, 134, 156, 189, 253, 304, 403, 476, 620, 630
Ruben, Joseph, 175, 239–240, 305, 415, 420, 515, 532
Ruben, Katt Shea, 38, 90, 133–134, 157–158, 268, 385, 423, 434, 444, 475, 485, 538–539
Rubinstein, Zelda, 245, 435, 559, 594
Russell, Betsy, 32, 102, 153, 330, 417, 442, 576, 582
Russell, Chuck, 61, 102, 175, 357, 397
Russell, John, 14, 133, 206, 420, 516, 594
Russell, Kurt, 34, 52, 101, 117, 517, 529, 555, 597–598
Russell, Theresa, 27, 37, 59, 113, 189, 286, 290, 309, 580, 597, 618
Russo, John, 175, 256, 349, 365, 400, 462, 487, 606
Russo, Rene, 220, 291, 330, 370, 416
Rustam, Mohammed "Mardi", 35, 148, 191, 202, 295, 323, 426
Ryan, James, 81, 113, 200, 312, 315, 450, 523
Ryan, Meg, 20, 166, 170, 289, 303, 438
Ryan, Robert, 47, 74, 164, 192, 236, 316, 343, 368, 416, 619, 621

Sadler, William, 53, 162, 220, 274, 469, 477, 500, 553, 583
Sagar, Ray, 83, 114, 331
Sanders, Colonel Harlan, 60, 138
Sanders, George, 124, 179, 196, 214, 225, 320, 352, 377, 412, 454, 478–479, 504, 536, 585–586
Santiago, Cirio H., 22, 27, 38, 44, 48, 55, 86, 154, 158, 164, 176, 179, 186, 194, 203–204, 206, 225, 311, 315, 336, 382, 388, 482, 507, 509, 539, 575, 614, 627
Sarandon, Chris, 103, 138, 222, 241, 335, 415, 440, 460, 536, 553, 573, 616

Sarandon, Susan, 114, 242, 279, 303, 566, 624
Satana, Tura, 14
Savini, Tom, 67, 124, 140, 155, 168, 175, 221, 256, 287, 289, 293, 315, 365, 375, 391, 400, 457, 467, 487, 528, 553, 564, 573, 582, 590
Saxon, John, 8, 23, 28, 33, 46–47, 50–51, 57, 66, 97, 125, 127–128, 143, 148, 186, 199, 205, 218, 235–236, 250, 259, 304, 314, 360, 371, 383, 397, 404, 423, 441, 460, 486, 502, 536, 597, 613, 629
Sayles, John, 80, 100, 109, 291, 359, 519, 621
Scarwid, Diana, 79, 157, 321, 372, 400, 444, 476, 535
Schallert, William, 17, 116–117, 140, 244, 247, 289, 293, 338, 353, 359, 587, 589, 620
Scheider, Roy, 14, 69, 113, 204, 324, 387, 395, 473, 488, 520, 533, 591
Schell, Maximilian, 95, 141, 316, 428
Schiavelli, Vincent, 5, 41, 46, 113, 199, 220, 229, 345, 370, 411, 432, 557
Schmoeller, David, 28, 123, 130, 231, 392, 446, 491
Schroeder, Barbet, 20, 39, 55, 349, 377, 508, 599
Schwarzenegger, Arnold, 45, 68, 87, 116–118, 179, 217, 261, 324, 339, 438, 445, 453, 456–457, 477, 485, 541, 553, 561, 578, 586, 604
Sciorra, Annabella, 250, 441, 616
Scorsese, Martin, 7, 9, 16, 18, 45, 91, 163, 183, 204, 239, 242, 244, 249, 269, 316, 326, 346, 361, 473, 554, 556, 595, 618, 623
Scott, George C., 106, 127, 140, 192, 206, 215, 251, 301, 350, 381, 483
Seagal, Steven, 1, 100, 113, 205, 252, 281, 356, 411, 416, 594
Sebastian, Ferd, 227, 341, 472, 477
Seberg, Jean, 121, 311, 346
Segal, George, 14, 28, 44, 74, 110, 163, 406, 522
Sellers, Peter, 12, 131, 337, 403, 469, 504, 580
Serena, 67, 173, 197, 211, 252, 270, 382, 429, 557, 592, 619, 625
Seyrig, Delphine, 60, 164, 367
Sharkey, Ray, 3, 72, 91, 107, 176, 259, 273, 282, 339, 341, 441, 451, 459, 475, 485, 540, 618, 623
Shatner, Melanie, 64, 66, 129, 207, 530
Shatner, William, 9, 33, 236, 282, 285, 323, 389, 412, 438, 530, 551, 559, 571, 588, 605, 616
Shaw, Robert, 59, 214, 579
Shawn, Wallace, 44, 88, 147, 172, 207, 257, 273, 372, 394, 440, 485, 497, 508, 535
Shea, Katt. See Ruben, Katt Shea
Shear, Rhonda, 29, 223, 473
Shearer, Harry, 62, 122, 207, 211, 384, 413, 461, 569, 611
Sheedy, Ally, 201, 254, 353, 429, 504, 609
Sheen, Martin, 25, 37, 45, 47, 49, 70, 84, 147, 200, 206, 255–256, 273, 286, 302, 356, 394, 415, 426, 475, 505, 522, 548, 566, 579, 607, 610, 615–616
Sheffer, Craig, 194, 206, 290, 394, 468, 566, 606
Shepard, Sam, 78, 459, 507, 634
Shepherd, Cybill, 11, 100, 323, 524, 556
Sherman, Gary, 335, 381, 385, 435, 608
Shields, Brooke, 34, 68, 79, 161, 185, 220, 478, 525, 573, 608, 613
Sholder, Jack, 15, 85, 262, 397, 459, 511, 537, 588, 615
Short, Martin, 51, 289, 454, 461
Shower, Kathy, 44, 116, 132, 171, 218, 225, 285, 323, 417, 495, 619
Sidaris, Andy, 64, 170, 208, 247, 252, 349, 359, 429, 482, 493, 527, 591
Siegel, Don, 33, 44, 60, 164, 292, 432, 466, 559
Silva, Henry, 1, 14–15, 17, 25, 82–83, 90, 98, 113, 162, 188, 208, 243, 253, 313, 345, 351–352, 437, 499, 522, 570, 629
Silverstone, Alicia, 120, 128, 263
Sinatra, Frank, 90, 113, 121, 164, 207, 298, 351, 355, 469, 542
Sinatra, Nancy, 373
Singer, Lori, 186, 543, 585, 609
Singer, Marc, 42, 46, 70, 144, 147, 263, 291, 507, 548, 592, 599, 606, 610
Sirtis, Marina, 61, 150, 531, 611
Skye, Ione, 93, 227, 234, 246, 467, 534, 611
Skerritt, Tom, 51–52, 87, 147, 204, 265, 319, 351, 414, 434–435, 474, 483, 508, 523, 577, 598, 620
Slater, Christian, 49, 180, 235, 256, 291, 371, 389, 426, 446, 470–471, 530, 553, 586, 590, 615, 632
Slater, Suzanne, 94, 105, 368, 484
Slaughter, Tod, 125, 170, 195, 243, 381, 393, 482, 495, 572
Smith, Charles Martin, 18, 73, 82, 88, 122, 151, 236, 274, 377, 423, 475, 529, 536, 584
Smith, Cheryl "Rainbeaux", 102, 107, 176, 189, 197–198, 358, 362, 420, 464, 516, 598, 602
Smith, Kurtwood, 75, 128, 144, 146, 216, 366, 452, 470, 497, 530
Smith, William, 3, 24, 29, 58–59, 62, 73–74, 83–84, 94, 97, 106, 116, 132, 143, 145, 168, 190, 194, 199, 205, 249, 258–259, 268, 290, 306, 324–327, 353, 362, 377, 417, 431, 435, 455–456, 461, 473, 476, 486, 493, 495, 515, 548, 550, 556, 562, 585, 589
Snipes, Wesley, 72, 154, 175, 317, 393, 422, 467, 542
Soles, P. J., 12, 73, 289, 415, 478, 518, 636
Sommer, Elke, 39, 121, 171, 175, 223, 268, 294, 392, 425, 494, 504, 566, 583
Sondergaard, Gale, 179, 182, 296, 461, 483, 513
Sonic Youth, 34, 306, 342, 403
Sorvino, Paul, 104, 127, 129, 140, 162, 239, 396, 409, 471, 503, 540
Spacek, Sissy, 37, 148, 302, 355, 440, 582
Spader, James, 36, 185, 299, 353, 393, 529, 587, 625
Spain, Fay, 10, 212, 236, 388, 572, 575
Spiegel, Scott, 146, 180, 190, 292, 471, 474, 502, 511, 570
Spielberg, Steven, 9, 15–16, 26, 35, 41, 69, 165, 212, 239, 244, 247, 271, 287, 289, 298, 303, 308, 403, 447, 463, 488, 519, 589, 617, 633
Spier, Donna, 252
Spinell, Joe, 51, 122, 127, 144, 268, 324–325, 335, 363, 396, 401, 411, 414, 472, 556–557, 594, 603, 608
St. Cyr, Lili, 285, 476, 539, 601
St. Jacques, Raymond, 39, 73, 100, 115, 120, 122, 137, 191, 205, 243, 312, 567, 574, 606, 620
Stallone, Frank, 39, 148, 201, 256, 278, 330, 357, 365, 415–416, 430, 472–473, 560, 562
Stallone, Sylvester, 47, 112, 154, 198, 296, 337, 339, 350, 396, 452, 455, 457, 472, 486, 524, 530, 555
Stamp, Terence, 1, 12, 114, 117, 228, 334, 560, 632
Stander, Lionel, 49, 60, 129, 250, 342, 359, 378, 403, 411, 466, 582, 618
Stang, Arnold, 10, 230, 261, 297, 355
Stanton, Harry Dean, 106, 108, 112, 150, 163, 174, 198, 207, 273, 326, 403, 411, 423, 455, 459–460, 466, 469, 512, 574, 590–592, 609, 619, 622–623, 629
Starr, Ringo, 12, 61, 74, 235, 311, 326, 335, 495, 520, 565, 591, 607
Starrett, Jack, 81, 110, 128, 148, 163, 207, 228, 268, 370, 373, 395, 402, 512, 516, 607
Steckler, Ray Dennis, 60, 66, 71, 157, 187, 211, 268, 287, 321, 326–327, 458, 486–487, 490, 495, 503, 509, 571, 608, 620
Steele, Barbara, 138, 237, 288, 339, 357, 375, 608, 614, 622
Steiger, Rod, 10, 18, 59, 91, 96, 208, 245, 261, 302, 316, 334, 342, 391, 406, 422, 432, 436, 524, 554, 596
Stern, Daniel, 69, 73, 107, 166, 219, 229, 330, 335, 413
Stevens, A. C. See Apostoloff, Stephen C.
Stevens, Andrew, 71, 122, 144–145, 172, 194, 326, 358, 360, 379, 395, 455, 485–486, 491, 560, 563, 587, 603
Stevens, Brinke, 2, 15, 30, 36, 46, 71, 137, 184, 200, 240, 254, 268, 293, 303, 330, 354, 371, 376, 379, 381, 387, 397, 428, 442, 444, 474, 487, 497, 502, 513, 518, 521, 526, 546, 558, 569, 582, 609, 625
Stevens, Stella, 17, 71, 98, 110, 192, 194, 321, 324, 326, 333, 339, 372, 376, 512, 518, 522, 551, 563, 579, 607, 627
Stewart, James, 10, 45, 51, 254, 265, 297, 354, 454, 474, 602, 630
Stewart, Patrick, 157, 176, 246, 289, 331, 419, 470, 530–531
Sting, 5, 79–80, 176, 196, 306, 330, 448, 450, 558–559
Stockwell, Dean, 35, 38, 47, 68–69, 93, 101, 117, 176, 221, 279, 325, 334, 338, 357, 432, 448, 499–500, 549, 574, 576, 580, 622, 629
Stockwell, Guy, 245, 480, 575
Stole, Mink, 128, 157, 203, 248, 335, 374, 379, 430, 492
Stolz, Eric, 315
Stone, Dee Wallace, 111, 126, 284, 303, 436, 460, 497
Stone, Oliver, 41, 48, 69, 170, 181, 192, 274, 295, 302, 365, 389, 477, 485, 542, 590, 620, 630
Stone, Sharon, 1, 3, 14, 39, 49, 62, 87, 114, 161, 317, 324, 426, 449, 486, 515, 524, 578, 608, 615
Storm, Tempest, 318, 380, 557
Stover, George, 5, 12, 64, 145, 157, 173, 203, 226, 292, 394, 458
Stowe, Madeleine, 17, 36, 61, 110, 585, 591, 597
Strain, Julie, 47, 160, 171, 185, 208, 225, 369, 374, 387, 401, 416, 444, 487, 520, 543, 597, 624
Strode, Woody, 23, 80, 101, 307, 310, 312, 325, 337, 345, 352, 411, 437, 449, 487, 603, 623
Stroud, Don, 82, 94, 165, 172, 193, 223, 268, 331, 336, 365, 371, 440, 461, 473, 489, 513, 541, 549, 590–591
Struycken, Carel, 3, 305, 408, 589, 624
Sullivan, Barry, 18, 92, 226, 409, 414, 423, 432, 499, 528, 552
Sutherland, Donald, 10, 26, 34, 42, 48, 65, 82, 85, 108, 141, 171, 178, 192, 223, 257, 302, 304, 310, 332, 337, 389, 405, 416, 470, 487, 526
Sutherland, Kiefer, 29, 209–210, 315, 340, 459, 528, 560, 571, 589, 601, 632
Svenson, Bo, 21, 48, 105, 130, 144, 151, 153, 172, 352, 436, 439, 524, 532, 570, 572, 607, 617, 625
Swanson, Kristy, 82, 101, 144, 212, 264, 273, 353
Swayze, Don, 42, 71, 80, 149, 175, 180, 194, 214, 374, 423, 495, 582
Swayze, Patrick, 16, 229, 394, 417, 433, 455–456, 467, 510, 532
Sweeney, D. B., 68, 206, 255, 328

Tagawa, Cary-Hiroyuki, 52, 134, 310, 331, 391, 425, 504, 524–525, 531
Takei, George, 18, 81, 336, 408, 530
Talalay, Rachel, 128, 220, 230, 248, 397, 555
Talbot, Lyle, 27, 30, 41, 116, 127, 300, 321, 413, 416, 505, 531, 578, 621
Tamblyn, Russ, 8, 66, 73, 86, 116, 132, 198, 202, 246, 279, 288, 296, 325, 380, 390, 427, 537, 589, 613, 622, 625, 632
Tambor, Jeffrey, 275, 335, 354, 571
Tangerine Dream, 109, 173, 206, 264, 309, 311, 328, 359, 368, 390, 456, 518, 520, 524, 571, 611
Tarantino, Quentin, 180, 315–316, 390, 423, 445, 460, 537, 586
Tayback, Vic, 47, 125, 189, 272, 329, 385, 524, 571, 582, 593, 612
Taylor, Elizabeth, 144, 175, 212, 301, 623
Taylor, Kent, 74, 80, 123, 171, 208, 226, 248, 296, 328, 366, 432
Teague, Lewis, 97, 114, 129, 143, 164, 204, 302, 572, 612
Tenney, Kevin, 97
Terry-Thomas, 38, 60, 297, 587–588, 591
Tessier, Robert, 33, 47, 90, 128, 171, 208, 225, 252, 302, 340, 356, 403, 405, 411, 531, 604
Theodore, Brother, 26, 59, 83, 175, 227, 246, 294, 404, 565
Thinnes, Roy, 101, 138, 292, 477
Thomas, Dave, 73, 114, 118, 341, 534
Thomas, Heather, 132, 262, 455, 634
Thomas, Henry, 110, 206, 381, 448
Thomerson, Tim, 77, 102, 162, 169, 180, 209, 211, 253, 286, 291, 295, 302, 319, 363, 390–391, 440, 459, 581, 636
Thompson, Marshall, 72, 112, 211, 215, 366, 578
Thurman, Uma, 5, 189, 205, 302, 318, 347, 445, 470
Tierney, Lawrence, 1, 20, 65, 74, 85, 149, 163, 180, 202–203, 231, 271–272, 315, 365, 381, 387, 392, 409, 455, 460, 476, 507, 531, 579, 625, 633
Tilly, Jennifer, 198, 229, 255, 264, 459–460
Tobolowsky, Stephen, 53, 143, 242, 244–245, 309, 362, 429, 469, 508, 566, 615
Torn, Rip, 9, 33, 42, 49, 85, 113, 123, 152, 169, 193, 266, 316, 413, 439, 470, 512, 518, 633
Tornatore, Joe, 105, 113, 131, 154, 634
Towers, Harry Alan, 14, 19–20, 38, 42, 54, 59–60, 84, 88, 92, 108, 111, 133, 153, 173, 180, 197, 218, 225, 239, 266, 275–277, 288, 313, 318, 341, 343, 352, 357–358, 379, 416, 428, 431, 467, 479, 502, 511, 560, 582, 610
Towles, Tom, 74, 216, 261, 347, 400, 431, 454
Townsend, Robert, 120, 209, 268, 364, 453, 538, 565
Travolta, John, 73, 99, 241, 445, 482, 543, 591, 601
Tremayne, Les, 30, 197, 296, 320, 405, 429, 536
Trump, Donald, 67, 231, 244, 429
Turner, Kathleen, 71, 79, 125, 302, 306, 355, 424, 492, 618
Turner, Tina, 15, 51, 112, 232, 297, 324, 347, 496, 522, 565, 614
Turturro, John, 35, 39, 76, 157, 193, 208, 367, 408, 576
Tweed, Shannon, 84, 90, 113–114, 273, 287, 291, 324–325, 330–331, 361, 371, 395, 402, 409, 437, 486–487, 495, 532, 546, 590, 601
Tyrrell, Susan, 21, 32, 52, 96, 128, 168, 198–199, 206, 210, 213, 288, 313, 331, 339, 378, 409, 450, 472, 492, 541, 554–555, 593, 614

Ulmer, Edgar G., 9, 97, 133, 158, 234, 238, 296, 303, 305, 535–536

Vadim, Roger, 43, 180, 265, 292, 395–396, 407, 439, 563
Valentine, Scott, 147, 171, 270, 383, 578, 593, 629
Van Cleef, Lee, 26–27, 37, 49–50, 91, 113, 116, 119, 141, 149, 181, 209, 213, 236, 239–240, 307, 311, 314, 338, 358, 361, 390, 408, 461, 466, 478, 525, 535, 552
Van Doren, Mamie, 27, 221, 233, 269, 494, 501, 529, 557, 559
Van Peebles, Mario, 153, 193, 224, 246, 263, 282, 301, 326, 393, 437, 452, 522, 550, 570
Van Peebles, Melvin, 187, 241, 282, 324, 408, 437, 550, 561, 610
Vanity, 3, 34, 46, 144, 147, 196, 204, 263, 324, 362, 391–393, 502, 522, 535
Varney, Jim, 47, 168, 184, 186–187, 199, 619
Varsi, Diane, 117, 288, 304
Vaughn, Robert, 58, 61, 81, 84, 92, 107–109, 153, 167, 265, 274, 312, 335, 344, 352, 402, 462, 467, 499, 511, 544, 559, 565, 582
Vega, Isela, 66, 80, 145, 176, 289, 302, 305, 578
Verhoeven, Paul, 39, 210, 217, 265, 470, 524, 578
Vernon, Howard, 22, 32, 64, 95, 139, 152, 155, 187, 195, 223, 278, 291, 294, 340, 414, 426, 463, 487, 541, 635
Vernon, John, 9, 37, 60, 69, 98, 131, 164, 186, 206, 220, 257, 285, 307, 313, 371, 389, 402, 433, 454, 484, 549, 561, 577, 608
Vernon, Kate, 15, 272, 371, 442, 468
Vicious, Sid, 166, 239, 242, 370, 505
Victor, Katherine, 91, 219, 275
Vincent, Chuck, 35, 44, 110, 112, 148, 155–156, 268, 282, 321, 421, 475, 495, 512, 539, 542, 571, 610, 619, 622, 632
Vincent, Jan-Michael, 9, 12, 23, 48, 52, 144, 152, 155, 164–165, 185, 250, 254, 263, 266, 281, 288, 325, 361, 454, 479, 509–510, 555, 603, 617, 622, 630
Ving, Lee, 10, 58, 111, 151, 176, 229, 241, 359, 485, 538, 552, 620

Vitti, Monica, 407, 428, 573
Von Stroheim, Erich, 124, 242, 543, 597
Von Sydow, Max, 108, 150, 175–176, 242, 274, 280, 318, 320, 391–392, 533–534, 555, 597

Waggoner, Lyle, 147, 247, 343, 368, 381, 546–547, 625
Waits, Tom, 37, 77, 88, 113, 207, 385, 476, 498, 591
Walas, Chris, 151, 185, 212, 318, 387, 599
Walken, Christopher, 14, 29, 41, 77, 117, 147, 210, 317, 324, 360, 367, 386, 443, 445, 447, 586, 603, 611
Wallace, Edgar, 25, 39, 44, 54, 57, 94, 111, 114, 131, 134, 168, 171, 195, 215, 229, 243, 287, 289, 347, 385, 447, 455, 479, 486, 490–491, 527, 535–536, 561, 581, 587, 614, 636
Walston, Ray, 65–66, 199, 251, 408, 432, 436, 442, 482, 528
Walter, Tracey, 29, 40, 117, 132, 153, 246, 263, 335, 357, 378, 406, 408, 413, 417, 419, 460, 476, 506, 574, 591, 594
Ward, Burt, 29, 42, 274, 312, 471, 516, 604
Ward, Fred, 35, 94–95, 186, 364, 387, 432, 459, 522, 573–574, 583, 591–592
Ward, Rachel, 7, 57, 171, 205, 216, 278, 499
Warden, Jack, 12, 246, 527, 580, 598
Warhol, Andy, 21, 60, 112, 124, 175, 180, 210, 256, 284, 338, 458, 475, 481, 545, 582, 587, 594
Warner, David, 70, 78, 95, 106, 117, 218, 241, 251, 272, 281, 289, 291, 341, 355, 366, 377, 382, 391, 527, 530, 536, 558, 569, 584–585, 587, 589, 597, 611, 620, 628
Warren, Jerry, 82, 91, 195, 219, 275, 285, 406, 562
Washington, Denzel, 256, 465
Waters, John, 5, 28, 33, 64, 96, 114, 121, 126, 128, 135, 157, 177, 179, 203, 220, 244, 248, 251, 287, 335, 342, 374, 379, 414, 418, 423, 430, 479, 492, 501, 508, 519, 594
Wayans, Damon, 60, 115, 178, 268, 285, 324
Wayne, John, 3, 52, 119, 131, 241–243, 270, 278, 453, 466, 487, 492, 497, 618
Wayne, Patrick, 463, 564, 632
Weaver, Sigourney, 13, 138, 147, 230, 330
Webb, Jack, 173, 201, 262, 455, 543, 633
Weigel, Teri, 31, 38, 102, 151, 198, 235, 289, 356, 402, 436, 438, 462, 482
Welch, Raquel, 127, 453
Welch, Tahnee, 112, 285, 514
Welles, Mel, 70, 105, 116, 149, 292, 351, 460, 625
Welles, Orson, 10, 25, 41, 57–58, 62, 83, 85, 104, 117, 119, 133, 142, 163, 169, 171, 180, 203, 256–257, 283, 300–301, 305, 316, 320, 322, 326, 346, 350, 353, 355, 359, 370–371, 375, 380–381, 415, 440, 472–473, 478, 512, 519, 522–524, 555, 560, 570–571, 582–584, 588, 602, 615, 624
Wells, Vernon, 107–108, 116, 127, 185, 216, 289, 388, 495, 564, 612
West, Adam, 168, 235, 251, 260, 360, 400, 410–411, 524, 609, 632
Wheaton, Wil, 130, 326, 331, 354, 528, 531, 580
Whitaker, Forest, 66, 68, 72, 161, 186, 199, 304, 450, 552
Whitman, Stuart, 5, 18, 83, 85, 91, 145, 153, 207, 233, 257, 285, 312, 317, 326, 361, 371, 379, 410, 442, 516, 536, 583, 606
Wiederhorn, Ken, 275, 361, 462
Wilder, Gene, 254, 336
Wildsmith, Dawn, 27, 47, 73, 116, 132, 137, 151, 162, 191, 225, 268, 297, 427, 530, 546, 561, 576, 609, 625
Wilkinson, June, 212, 219, 285, 517, 554, 590
Willard, Fred, 102, 122, 229, 379, 389, 426, 461, 558, 569
Williams, Billy Dee, 12, 40, 55, 144, 175, 201, 205, 265, 272, 299, 349, 396, 407, 462, 552, 574
Williams, Cindy, 18, 51, 106, 178, 207, 314, 371, 377, 475, 592
Williams, Clarence, III, 143, 151, 204, 285, 353, 425, 447, 542, 579
Williams, Edy, 19, 36–37, 46, 59, 98, 166, 168, 196, 259, 268, 353, 407, 460
Williams, Jason, 11, 102, 121, 134–135, 441, 518, 575, 599
Williams, Kathy, 33, 327, 341, 345, 382, 408, 452, 509
Williams, Robin, 5, 141, 207, 271, 289, 436, 498, 580
Williamson, Fred, 3–4, 51, 55–56, 61, 74, 82, 123, 144, 148, 153, 208, 217, 249, 260, 304, 324, 329, 334, 361, 363, 370, 393, 403, 406, 411, 506, 521–522, 532, 552, 565, 570–571, 603, 609–610, 617
Wilson, Don "the Dragon", 2, 55, 63, 132, 225, 348, 416, 466
Windsor, Marie, 75, 97, 116, 233, 314, 343, 416, 426, 517, 547, 590, 596
Winger, Debra, 59, 347, 424, 515, 564, 619
Winston, Stan, 12–13, 16, 41, 104, 180, 186, 193, 236, 291–292, 308, 331, 376, 428, 438, 445, 519, 529, 561, 604, 625
Winter, Alex, 52–53, 104, 150, 220, 240, 254, 285, 340
Wise, Ray, 43, 72, 101, 118, 185, 467, 470, 489, 589, 629
Wishman, Doris, 4, 16, 24, 36, 60, 145, 161, 171, 227–228, 233, 263, 285, 287, 310, 382, 402, 407, 432, 440, 495, 556, 577, 587, 626, 633
Wolfman Jack, 18, 119, 300, 365–366, 377–378
Wong, Anna May, 134, 139, 182, 384, 483, 540, 567
Woo, John, 46–47, 83, 251–252, 262, 312, 410, 586, 589
Wood, Ed, Jr., 1, 20, 36, 109, 112, 127, 131, 133, 180, 183, 215, 224, 235, 246, 273, 287, 290, 342, 344, 464–465, 492, 514, 517, 522, 533, 543, 552
Wood, Lana, 241, 431, 537
Wood, Natalie, 77, 174, 362, 368, 507, 540, 613
Woods, James, 36, 46, 73, 97, 121, 199, 229, 253, 393, 524, 526, 603
Woodward, Edward, 26, 67, 106, 363, 422, 502
Woronov, Mary, 2, 22, 36, 60, 85, 105, 111, 162, 178, 229, 244, 259–260, 268, 293, 299, 310, 376–378, 389, 398, 404, 471, 485, 487, 542, 563, 609–610, 615
Worth, Nicholas, 3, 62, 108, 135–137, 148, 235, 258, 265, 294, 393, 445
Wuhl, Robert, 40, 268, 553
Wynn, Keenan, 23, 25, 57–58, 91, 111–112, 169, 235, 266, 280, 318, 344, 353, 355, 361, 389–390, 397, 411, 433, 439–440, 462, 496, 528, 574, 579, 583, 611
Wyss, Amanda, 46, 57, 144, 199, 397, 498, 520, 575

Yeager, Bunny, 140, 234, 419
York, Michael, 137, 302, 365, 428, 463
Young, Bolo, 66
Young, Neil, 118, 127, 279, 281, 326, 347, 417, 477, 536, 615
Young, Robert, 28, 47, 90, 346, 369, 490, 626, 628
Young, Sean, 2, 33, 73, 176, 189, 200, 214, 267, 318, 342, 371, 511
Yuzna, Brian, 79, 169, 223, 247, 270, 391, 454, 462, 506–507, 518, 572

Z'Dar, Robert, 43, 51, 74, 102, 143, 165, 171, 173, 190, 205, 221, 223, 236, 245, 259, 283, 286, 313–314, 329, 352–353, 371, 402, 522, 555, 619
Zabriskie, Grace, 17, 67, 72, 291, 329, 362, 441, 452, 493, 589, 619
Zadora, Pia, 85, 196, 248, 279, 281, 321, 338, 350, 387, 574, 606
Zane, Billy, 35, 46, 62, 126, 142, 203, 362, 367, 437, 458, 477, 506, 517, 553, 589
Zappa, Frank, 11, 33, 158, 255, 373, 590
Zito, Joseph, 1, 65, 221, 293, 369, 392, 457
Zucco, George, 99, 125, 182
Zugsmith, Albert, 168, 202, 287, 293, 339, 353, 413, 494, 529, 577, 591, 602

$29.95/$39.00 Can.

"All the movies you couldn't see, and are glad you couldn't, or wish you had! Page after page after page of films you never knew your favorite actors made. A must!"
—KAREN BLACK

"An absolute must for those who lust after the slime and sleaze of B movies. Loose, lecherous, and totally offbeat."
—CINEFANTASTIQUE ON THE PSYCHOTRONIC ENCYCLOPEDIA OF FILM

"Finally, the long-awaited sequel to the greatest book of Psychotronic films. A must for every true film lover."
—JOHNNY RAMONE

HOW TO KNOW A PSYCHOTRONIC MOVIE:

These films can commonly be identified by their use of exploitation elements and their interest in humanity's lower common denominators.

They occur throughout the world, but are particularly common at midnight movie festivals and in video stores' cult sections; they are especially frequent at that beloved and dying institution, the drive-in.

Their packaging is commonly deceptive. They almost always appear on videocassette.

Among their kind are biker films, sci-fi serials, quickie biopics, gimmick films, teen sex comedies, blaxploitation films, stalkers, slashers, snoozers, shudderers, and anything starring Linda Blair, David Carradine, Shannon Tweed, or Drew Barrymore.

And they're all here in The Psychotronic Video Guide.

From Abby to Zontar, this book covers more than nine thousand amazing movies from the turn of the century right up to today's golden age of video, all described with Michael Weldon's dry wit. More than 450 rare and wonderful illustrations round out the book, making it a treasure trove of cinematic lore and essential for every fan of filmdom's finest offerings.

MICHAEL J. WELDON is the editor and founder of Psychotronic Video magazine. He grew up in Cleveland and now lives in Narrowsburg, New York.

ST. MARTIN'S GRIFFIN
175 FIFTH AVENUE, NEW YORK, N.Y. 10010
DISTRIBUTED BY MCCLELLAND & STEWART INC. IN CANADA
PRINTED IN THE U.S.A.

"The Psychotronic Encyclopedia is the most dogged, worn-out book in my library. Thank God Michael has come out with a new one."
—QUENTIN TARANTINO

ISBN 0-312-13149-6
52995
9 780312 131494

Cover design by MICHAEL P. GORMAN